

Cape May Ferry Service To Put Two Boats in Operation By July 1

Ferry service between Cape May, N. J., and Lewes, will begin July 1 with two boats in operation, it was announced recently.

Ferry Manager Nolan C. Chandler was authorized by the Delaware River and Bay Authority to select two crews, totaling 105 personnel to man the Delaware and New Jersey—formerly the Pocahontas and Princess Anne of the Little Creek-Kiptopeake run over Chesapeake. Should traffic indicate immediate use of a third ferry, Chandler says he can pull competent officers from his two crews, add seamen and promptly give service.

The Chesapeake Bay service will be replaced by the new bridge-tunnel complex scheduled to open in April. Delaware crews will be drafted from Virginia personnel.

Commissioners studied proposals to re-design the four-story fleet, including new exterior paint, new stacks, a stylized letter D trim and new color combinations for the fleet at an estimated cost of $150,000. They withheld approval of the designs, however until George G. Sharp Company, New York shipfitters, present estimates on interior decorations, improvements and probable machinery replacements. A cost study is to be presented at the next Authority meeting on February 25.

Director of Operations William J. Miller, Jr., also announced that bids for dredging at Cape May and Lewes and construction of a breakwater will not be opened until January 20. The original date set was January 13.

A test piling operation contract was awarded to the Arundel Company, Baltimore, for $49,900.00. Twelve test areas will be designated by consulting engineers in probing depths to ascertain foundations for tower and anchorage piers.

Approval was also given to proceed with work on the new administration building, which will be erected east of and connecting with the present structure. However, plans for a fall-out shelter to house some 220 people have been shelved. Only minimum fallout protection will be provided in a basement area, which will meet federal requirements. Estimated cost of the completed structure without furnishings was placed at $600,000 to $700,000. This work will be part of the first $15 million contracts for construction work.

A contract was also awarded to Penn Electric Company, Pennsylvania, N. J. for $249,000 for installation of electric heating systems in the ten existing toll booths of the present bridge.

Miller revealed that condemnation proceedings had been started on property adjoining the proposed site of the Lewes ferry terminal, leased by Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Sweigert. A check for $27,500.00 was ordered to be deposited to gain right of way to the property. Appraisers for the Sweigerts had their own valuation of $96,000 placed on the property.

Miller also stated that the way had been cleared for use of city-held land in Lewes on a 99-year rental lease at one dollar a year. Similar arrangements have been made with Coast Guard officials at Cape May to clear the way for construction work there.

Charles S. Garland, of Alex Brown and Sons, Baltimore investment banker, said that his organization hopes to offer revenue bonds to the public by March 15. He said it was imperative to determine to have estimates of capital expenditures for both the twin bridge and ferry operation at the earliest possible date.

In the absence of Chairman J. H. Tyler McConnell, Vice-Chairman Theodore C. Bright, Pennsylvania presided.

'63 Death Toll Hits 96 Mark

The traffic death toll for 1963 is still rising. Stanley Gurczenski, 47, of Wilmington, died recently at the Delaware Hospital from injuries received in an accident Oct. 19.

He was the 96th traffic death for 1963, two over the 1962 total. Delaware State Police said Gurczenski had been injured in a two-car accident on U. S. 113, about a mile north of Frederica.

He was treated at Kent General Hospital, Dover, and later transferred to the Delaware Hospital.

Type 2 Sabin Oral Vaccine Clinics Set For Jan. 19

The last in the series of three types of Sabin oral polio vaccine will be distributed at 50 clinics throughout the state Sun., Jan. 19.

The program, conducted by the Medical Society of Delaware, will make available Type 2 vaccine to all Delawareans.

The clinic procedure will be unchanged: teams of medical and lay personnel will distribute sugar cubes on which have been placed three drops of the tasteless vaccine. No needles will be used.

Dr. Henry H. Stroud, state immunization chairman, repeated his earlier statement urging all Delawareans to avail themselves of this opportunity to obtain immunity from polio—even if they have previously had Salk vaccine.

"For complete protection against paralytic polio, the complete series of three Sabin vaccines must be taken," Dr. Stroud said. "Thus, it is important for the more than 60,000 Delawareans who received Types 1 and 3 to obtain this final type also."

"In addition, the fact that a person may have missed either or both of the two preceding types does not mean that they should not come to the clinics on Jan. 19 and receive the Type 2 dose. They should. This can be followed up after an appropriate waiting period with doses of the missing types from their family physician or from some other source."

He stressed that there are three separate types of polio virus, and that protection against each requires the use of a separate vaccine.

The clinics will be operated by the Medical Society with the cooperation of the State Board of Health, Wilmington Department of American Red Cross, National Foundation and Delaware State Pharmaceutical Society.

Only one change is planned in the clinic locations: a clinic will be held at the Christiana Community Center in Wilmington instead of the Scott A.M.E. Zion Church.

Governor Would Back Bill To Give Track Days

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel will support bills to prevent the transfer of allotted harness racing days from one county to another and provide Brandywine Raceway 20 extra days, he announced recently.

The governor had recently vetoed House Bill 470, which would have increased the harness racing days allowed each county to 60—eliminating a tradition whereby Brandywine Raceway in New Castle County buys racing days from Sussex County's Del-Mar-Va Raceway Inc., which doesn't have any racing.

Gov. Carvel repeated that he opposed House Bill 120 to 180—something he said would "exceed the reasonable number of harness racing days which should be available in Delaware."

But he said recently he would have "no objection" to increasing Brandywine's allotment to 60 days and making each county's days non-transferable.

As things now stand, Brandywine is allotted 40 days, buys 20 more from Sussex County's Del-Mar-Va, and runs 60 days.

But each year, Brandywine must pay thousands of dollars to Del-Mar-Va for the days, which Del-Mar-Va would not use anyway.

This year, Del-Mar-Va stockholders got $22,000 from Brandywine for the twenty days and last year the sale was $30,000.

The practice was called "off center pork barrel" by House Minority Leader William T. Best (R-Rehoboth).

If the bills Carvel announced he would support pass the General Assembly, Del-Mar-Va will no longer be able to sell days to Brandywine, and Brandywine will have the 60 days it runs without having to pay another private corporation for them.

Del-Mar-Va receives the money from Brandywine each year, invests some of it, and divides the rest among its 125-plus stockholders.

Luther P. Hatfield

Hatfield Vies For City Council Seat

Luther P. Hatfield has announced his candidacy for City Councilman of the Second Ward in the election in Harrington on Tues., Jan. 14.

Mr. Hatfield has always resided in Harrington except for three years during World War II when he served in the armed forces in the Pacific. At present, he is City Councilman and Vice Mayor and has always worked for the betterment of Harrington by taking an active part in civic affairs. He is a past president of the Harrington Lions Club, Board of Education and Harrington High School Alumni Association, as well as being a member of the Asbury Methodist Church and American Legion. He has been employed by the Diamond State Telephone Company for the past 17 years in various vocational and management positions. As an Associate Engineer planning for growth in outside plant facilities, he is in daily contact with the Delaware State Highway Department, municipal officials of many towns, developers and varied industry.

In his statement, Mr. Hatfield pointed out that during his term of office as City Councilman, he has supported and worked for many improvements to combat the lack of organization in the city government. He says, "Our city government, of which I have been a part for the past three years, has accomplished many tasks. The City of Harrington was among the very first to file the City Charter with state officials in order to come under home rule provisions for any future charter changes. Under home rule, amendments to the City Charter are proposed by resolution of the City Council and submitted to the qualified voters of the City in a referendum election. This puts any charter change directly up to the people rather than going through the State Legislature. Several such amendments to bring the City Charter up-to-date were passed at the referendum at the time of the regular municipal election in 1963. City ordinances were reviewed and put in consolidated form, new bookkeeping systems for water accounts and taxes have been initiated to conform with better business practices and Addresserette and postal metering machines were added to improve efficiency in the city office. Personnel policy on working hours, vacation, and sick leave were put in written form as another help to run a better ad-

Miller's Leaving SHD Brought Many Changes

A number of changes took place on January 1st among officials of the State Highway Department as a result of William J. Miller Jr., Director of Operations for the Department, leaving that office.

Mr. Miller, who was the first Director of Operations of the Highway Department, became the first Director of Operations for the Delaware River and Bay Authority.

Joseph Fox, who has been bridge engineer for the Department for a number of years, became consultant for the Director of Operations and his duties will include the construction of the numerous structures along the Interstate Highway System.

Johnnie Pearson, previously a special assistant to the bridge engineer, succeeded Mr. Fox as bridge engineer, and Elmars Zembits became assistant bridge engineer.

2 Levy Courts Plan Holding Joint Meeting

The Kent County Levy Court decided at its last 1963 meeting recently, to meet with their New Castle County counterparts on Jan. 14 to learn how they handle the dump problem.

The New Castle County Engineer will also be present at the meeting.

Dumps have been a controversial subject for many years in Kent County and the state.

Levy Court member Edward Kelly, Rising Sun, recalls that when he was on the Levy Court previously, from 1951 to 1964, dumps were a problem even then.

The Court also announced that a planning commission will be appointed after the first of the year. These people will work toward preparing for county zoning.

In reminiscing about 1963, the Levy Court summarized their activities: "We may have stepped on some toes, and made some enemies, but at least we have done some things and initiated others."

During 1963, sales of property with unpaid taxes on them began, reassessment of Kent County was gotten underway, and the cleaning up and modernizing of the Courthouse started.

New bookkeeping machines were installed in the offices of the Receiver of Taxes and the Family Court. Correction of the acoustics in the Court Room with new drapes and rugs will begin soon after the New Year.

A bill, initiated by the Levy Court, passed the House, to appropriate money to renovate and expand the present Courthouse.

Directors Named For State Fair

The new directors are: John B. Holloway of Georgetown, Virgil Jarrell of Viola, James G. Smith Jr. of Dover and Dr. Walter H. Lee of Middletown.

They were named to replace four directors who died during 1963, and their election brings the total up to 80.

The directors will meet Friday night at the fairgrounds to reorganize. They are expected to rename J. Gordon Smith of Dover to the post of president for a seventh term.

Ex-Marydel Chief Dies at Wheel

Dewey Fortney, Sr., 65, former Marydel police chief, died Friday at the wheel of his car.

Police said Fortney apparently suffered a heart attack, causing his auto to smash into two parked vehicles on Rt. 451 three-fourths of a mile over the Maryland line, west of Maryland.

A retired employe of the International Latex Co. at Dover, he lived in Greensboro 35 years before moving to Marydel five years ago. He was a member of the Marydel Fire Company.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Florence Fortney; three sons, Marvin, Robert and Dewey Fortney, Jr., all of Marydel; five daughters, Mrs. Emma Price and Mrs. Shirley Towers, both of Harrington, Mrs. Florence Casper, of Denton; a brother, Harlan Fortney of Wyoming; three sisters, Mrs. Evelyn Leyana of Georgetown, Mrs. Guy Williams of Spokane, Wash., and Mrs. Edith Robertson, of Toledo, Ohio; and 19 grandchildren.

Services were held Monday at the Torbert Funeral Chapel in Dover.

Carvel to Say Around May

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel's announcement about whether he will run for the U. S. Senate seat now held by Sen. John J. Williams can be expected around May, the governor indicated this week.

"May is a pretty good month for such things," Gov. Carvel told his press conference recently.

Sen. Williams, a Republican, has not announced he will seek re-election. His wife frankly says she is urging him not to run again, but Sen. Williams has given no indication so far.

Gov. Carvel, a Democrat, is barred by law from running for another term as governor, and is expected to run for the Senate.

Counties File To Stay Eligible For Federal Aid

Kent and Sussex Counties both plan to file letters with the federal Area Redevelopment Administration to remain eligible for economic development aid from the federal government.

Ernest E. Killen, chairman of Kent County's Overall Economic Development Committee, said his committee will meet the ARA's Jan. 31 deadline for the letter.

If the letters from each committee — Simply stating that the counties wish to remain eligible — were not delivered by Jan. 31, they would lose their eligibility for the funds, according to ARA Chief William L. Batt, Jr.

Harry E. Derrickson, chairman of Sussex County's Overall Economic Development Committee had already announced Sussex would file the letter.

Both counties will submit an "overall program" for development to the ARA, making them eligible for aid.

Effect of JFK Highway Shown In Gas Tax Receipts

A clear picture of the effect that the operation of the Delaware Turnpike, or John F. Kennedy Highway, will have on Route 40 traffic and gas tax receipts, will be presented in reports prepared for December.

Although this new toll road had been in operation only for the latter part of November, a Route 40 traffic count for November showed a decrease of 24.5 percent, or a reduction of 6,216 in the daily average of vehicles counted, which was listed at 19,116, just slightly above the traffic count on the Kirkwood Highway, which was 18,825 for a daily average.

For November Route 40 was the only highway with permanent traffic counter stations to show a decrease. Route 13, north of Smyrna, had a daily average count of 13,116, an increase over November of last year of 798. This same highway, south of Greenwood, had a daily vehicle count of 6,188, an increase of 542.

The Concord Pike, Route 202, had a daily traffic count of 14,404, an increase of 972, while Route 14, near Rehoboth, had a daily count of 5,124, an increase of 177, and Route 113, north of Milford, had a daily average of 6,467, an increase of 297.

The latest report on gas tax collections covers the sales made during October, with the taxes being received during November. The toll road was not in operation during the period reported in these collections.

However the receipts for October showed a decrease of $58,972.91 over the amount of taxes received for October of last year.

The receipts for October totaled $1,023,322.57 and represented the sale of 17,955,376 gallons of motor fuel.

Ceremonies Honor First State at Valley Forge

Additional recognition of Delaware's role as the "First State" of the Union, was provided by special ceremonies at Valley Forge and at Washington the past Sunday.

Lynn D. Sprankle, of Wilmington, chairman of the Delaware Day Commission, gave the principal address at traditional Delaware Sunday services in Valley Forge's Washington Memorial Chapel, while the Delaware Flag was given a position of honor in the morning procession at the National Cathedral in the Nation's Capital.

At Valley Forge, Mr. Sprankle reviewed the difficulties faced by George Washington and his army in 1776 and compared these with the problems that today face the American people.

After noting that the Continentals of 1776 were ill-clad and poorly equipped, as compared with the well-drilled, well-supplied British and Hessians who opposed them, he attributed the ultimate American victory to the courage and resourcefulness of a freedom-seeking and freedom-loving people and the patience and leadership of General Washington.

Mr. Sprankle predicted that "the common sense and common honesty as practiced by our founding fathers, with an awareness of the need to keep abreast of the times, would go a long way toward providing solutions for

State's Calendar Of Events Being Distributed

There will be much to see—and do—in the First State during 1964 advises the Delaware State Development Department.

Basing its observations upon information contained in the current edition of its Delaware Calendar of Events, the state information agency notes that Delawareans and visitors to the state may exercise a wide range of choice of activity during 1964. The 1964 winter-spring edition of the calendar, now being distributed, lists nearly 250 events for the first five months of the new year.

Twenty-seven "permanent attractions", open to the public all or most of the year, are also listed in this new edition.

Information for the current edition of the Events Calendar was compiled by State Information Officer David S. Hugg, who reports that he received splendid co-operation from organizations sponsoring events of public interest.

In addition to the Events Calendar, the Development Department is also currently distributing a revised edition of the popular "A Historical Guide to Delaware" folder; a fact-packed 1964 edition of "The Delaware Fact File", and the ever popular "Where To Stay—Where to Dine—in Delaware" brochure.

1964 editions of the department's vacation brochures, "Welcome to Delightful Delaware" and "Adventure Out-of-Doors in Delaware" are now being prepared and will be available in the near future.

Fire Official Harriett Dies at 75

Edward H. Harriett, 75, a veteran fire official and former state councilor of the Junior O.U.A.M., died Saturday in Milford Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Harriett was a native of Albany, N. Y. He had lived in Harrington 50 years. He was employed at the Harrington Milling Co. for 25 years, after which he operated an ice delivery service and, until his recent illness, was a salesman of advertising specialties.

He was a past president of the Harrington Volunteer Fire Co. and its secretary for 18 years. He was a member of Asbury Methodist Church and Booster Class and sang in the choir several years ago.

Mr. Harriett is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Graham, of Harrington and Mrs. Beatrice Thompson, of Newark; seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Services were held at the McCemetery, near Frederica. Burial was in Barratt's Chapel Knatt Funeral Home Tuesday.

Town Council fired a police officer last night but ran into opposition in its move to replace its police chief.

Acting on Chief David Peterson's recommendation Council by 4-2 secret vote, discharged Officer Robert Valdesere, but left him the privilege of requesting a hearing at a later date.

Council opened 15 applications for Peterson's job but deferred action on them after receiving a petition signed by 150 Harrington residents insisting Peterson be retained as chief.

Chief David Peterson gave his monthly report of the police department, and upon completion of same asked if he had authority to suspend or discharge a patrolman?

Mayor Downing answered stating that only Council has authority to hire, suspend, or discharge a member of the police department. However, the chief may recommend to Council any action he deems necessary for the orderly and proper operation of his department. It was later discovered in the city charter that the chief has the power to suspend any subordinate employe and notify the mayor and city manager of his action.

Chief Peterson then recommended to Council that Patrolman Robert Valdesere be discharged effective immediately.

Councilman Satterfield motioned that Chief Peterson's recommendation be accepted by Council, the motion being seconded by Councilman Lawrence Price. Considerable discussion followed, with many references to the City Charter.

A vote was then taken by secret ballot as follows: yes, 4; no, 2. The motion was declared carried by Mayor Downing.

Chief Peterson was instructed to notify Patrolman Valdesere of Council's action, and Councilman Hatfield requested that Chief Peterson inform the patrolman of his right to a hearing before Council of this action.

Mayor Downing then made a few remarks praising the character of Chief Peterson and his personal like for him. He suggested that Council members give thoughtful and serious consideration to the police problem and hoped that this condition would be corrected before the next meeting.

Soft Pedal the Gas Pedal Key To Safe Driving

Soft pedal the gas pedal. That's the key to safe winter driving, according to the Delaware Safety Council.

Richard H. McMullen, president of the Council said: "When driving on ice and snow, it's important to soft pedal the gas pedal. Increase the engine speed only enough to handle the load. Too much gas will spin the wheels and lose traction."

A driver should keep aware of the condition of the road by trying the brakes occasionally, he continued.

The skillful driver, he advised, does not change speeds or direction abruptly, and takes it easy on slippery roads. Sudden spurts of speed or a heavy foot on the brake may send a car into a dangerous skid.

"If you should get caught in a skid, turn the front wheels of the car in the direction of the skid," Mr. McMullen said. "Stay off the brakes, and don't accelerate."

Winter driving also demands more following distance. It's important to drive well back of the car ahead in order to have plenty of room to come to an easy stop.

Mr. McMullen appealed to motorists to give other drivers a chance in traffic lines, and to make allowance for the added difficulties all drivers run into dark, rainy, snowy weather.

'64 Heart Fund Campaign Begins January 22

Delaware's 1964 Heart Fund campaign will be launched on Wednesday evening, Jan. 22, with a dinner at Milford's Shawnee Country Club.

Dr. Richard N. Taylor, president of the Delaware Heart Association, announced this week that community chairmen from Kent and Sussex Counties and area and phase chairmen from New Castle will meet for the kickoff event.

About 80 persons are expected to be present, including both prominent physicians and lay personnel.

At a brief business meeting following the dinner, final plans will be announced for the 1964 Heart Fund campaign, which officially begins on February 1 and extends through the entire month.

Dr. Taylor said that a highlight of the evening, of particular interest to physicians, will be an important address by a leading research scientist, pinpointing current strides being taken in an effort to curb heart and circulatory diseases. In addition, persons in attendance will see a Delaware premiere of a film issued by the Heart Association.

The program will begin with a social hour at 6:30 p.m. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m.

Buses have been engaged to transport volunteers from northern Delaware to the meeting. The buses will leave the Delaware Heart Association's new offices at 2108 Baynard Boulevard at 5 p.m. Jan. 22.

The meeting is open to the public. All individuals interested in attending are asked to make advance reservations with the Delaware Heart Association. Dinner tickets are $3 each.

"We are grateful to the many Delawareans who give of their time and money each year in an effort to aid in this vital effort against heart and circulatory diseases, and we hope that as many as possible of these individuals will be able to be with us on Jan. 22," Dr. Taylor said. "We feel that the meeting will serve as an inspiration to those who will be directly involved in the Heart Fund and will be of professional interest as well to individuals in the medical field."

State Job Backlog Now at 80

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel is running a bit behind on appointments to state offices.

Eighty positions, on agencies ranging from the State Highway Department to the State Department to the State Board of Chiropractic and Podiatry Examiners are either vacant or are being filled by persons whose terms have expired. And this doesn't include 18 appointments hanging fire in the Senate. Some, but by no means all, of the other 80 appointments require Senate confirmation.

All the members of two commissions are serving under expired terms.

The process of appointments is a time-consuming one because many of the commissions require persons with some technical training or understanding and the governor must seek recommendations, then hope the person will accept the appointment.

In other cases there may be political significance attached to a name or position, especially when confirmation is needed.

Many key agencies are involved in the vacancies, including the State Highway Department, Human Relations Commission, Game and Fish Commission, State Board of Health, State Department of Public Welfare, State Hospital, Delaware River and Bay Authority, Public Service Commission, county elections departments, the New Castle County Family Court and justices of the peace.

These appointments, some hanging fire many months, are awaiting confirmation by the Senate:

Walter J. Beadle, R. R. M. Carpenter Jr., Joseph E. Marshall, Warren C. Newton, and N. Maxson Terry as term trustees at the University of Delaware.

Harry Bonk and William J. Hopkins Jr. to the State Highway Department. There is some controversy over Hopkins' name, especially from Republicans who were displeased over the highway bond bill deadlock.

Joseph P. Hurley to replace Judge Francis A. Reardon on the New Castle County Family Court. There is controversy here, too, partly because some favor Reardon's reappointment.

Herbert L. Cobin to a new place on the same court. Some oppose the appointment.

Ralph D. Knotts, Sr. to another term as a magistrate in Dover. Knotts is a Republican and some Democrats balk at giving him another term.

Donald F. Stevenson of St. Georges to be a magistrate, succeeding Calvin Staats who died in 1961.

George J. Schultz to another term on the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission.

John G. Tarburton to another term on the State Board of Agriculture.

In July Carvel named five persons to the Sussex County Department of Elections. But a bill passed since then might make the nominations meaningless. The names are Everett Messick, Lewis Harrington, Hayward R. Hearn, Archie B. Hudson and Norman H. Jester.

Under Delaware law, officeholders stay in their positions until successors are named.

Among the jobs that have to be filled is that of state fire marshal. William R. Favinger's term expired last July 1. He could be reappointed or some one else named.

On the Delaware State Hospital Board there is one vacancy and the terms of two members and the terms of two members, Dr. Walter H. Lee and William R. Murray have expired. Another term that has expired is that of C. Parker Wheatley, president of the board of Game and Fish Commissioners.

Others whose terms have expired are: Dr. J. Leland Fox and Mrs. Edith Kendall of the State Board of Health; James G. Smith, Jr., of the Delaware River and Bay Authority; Vernon B. Derrickson, chairman of the Public Service Commission; Harold L. Jacobs and W. Leslie Wheatley on the Water Pollution Commission; Mrs. Camille W. Jacobs and Harry I. Lambert on the State Board of Welfare, and Mrs. Martin A. Klavner and William G. Bush III on the Youth Services Commission.

There is also a vacancy on the State Highway Department caused by the resignation of Anthony Carroll.

The terms of seven members of the Human Relations Commission have expired. They are: Mrs. William H. Draper, Grover V. Foster, Stanley James, Mrs. Ernest Killen, Hugh J. Murphy, Jr., Dr. Ralph Purcell and Mrs. Clay Weaver.

There are six appointments to be made for magistrates. They are: James S. Clark and Paul L. Faulk, whose terms have expired, the Rev. David F. Ray, Mrs. Nellie Jones Loder and Thomas L. Winterbottom, who have resigned, and Frank E. Holton, deceased.

Robert Meli of the New Castle County Department of Elections died last year and has not been replaced. Five Kent County Election Department positions have expired—Howard L. Rawley, L. Winfred Hughes, Roland Wilkinson, Sr., Charles L. Peck Jr. and J. Harry Latchum.

But under an election reform measure passed in December the alignment of the Departments is different. Under its terms Carvel would name four members to the New Castle County Board and five each to Kent and Sussex this year. They have not yet been named and will not be until lists are submitted by the party chairmen.

Other state commissions with vacancies or expired terms (the number listed in parenthesis) are:

Delaware Aeronautics Commission (3); Air Pollution Authority of the State of Delaware (1); State Apple Commission (1); Delaware Archaeological Board (2); State Board of Examiners and Registration of Architects (1); State Athletic Commission (1); Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission (1); Bank Advisory Board (3); Bingo Control Commission (1); Board of Boiler Rules (1); State Buildings and Grounds Commission (1); State Board of Chiropractic and Podiatry Examiners (all 4); State Board of Chiropractic Examiners (1); Delaware State Board of Cosmetology (1); Delaware Day Commission (1); State Board of Dental Examiners (1); Delaware Harness Racing Commission (1); State Board of Housing (1); Department of Labor and Industrial Relations (1); Lewes Memorial Commission (1); Library Commission for the State of Delaware (2); Committee on the Modernization of State Laws (1); State Board of Examiners of Optometry (1); State Examining Board of Physical Therapists (all 3); Delaware State Poultry Commission (4); Public Archives Commission (2); Delaware Racing Commission (1); Southern Regional Education Board (3). The state is ending this board and thus no more members may be named; State Board of Veterinary Examiners (1).

There are some other offices to be filled by persons other than the governor, in most cases by judges. The list also does not include the terms to expire in the next several months.

Veterans News QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—What is the present maximum amount of a GI home loan the Veterans Administration will guaranty?

A—The Veterans Administration will guaranty up to 60 per cent of the loan but not more than $7,500. The limit on the amount to be obtained in a direct loan, when no loans are available from private lenders, is $15,000.

Q—I understand my daughter although over 18 may continue to receive her non-service-connected pension up to age 21 if she is attending a VA-approved school. How can we tell what schools are VA-approved?

A—Most well-known and recognized schools and colleges are on the VA-approved list. However, if you are in doubt about a school, contact the Department of Education in the state in which you live or the nearest VA office.

Q—I am a veteran about to retire. Will my Social Security benefit and also 26 weeks of unemployment compensation be considered as income?

A—Your Social Security benefit will be considered income but not until you have been given full credit for your personal contributions from wages to the Social Security fund while you were working. All unemployment compensation benefits are considered income.

Four Year Sentence Given Woodside Man

Paul Williams, Jr., of near Woodside, who had been charged with associating with William Elda Warren in crimes in Delaware last summer, was sentenced to serve four years in jail in the Superior Court in Dover, Friday.

Judge William J. Storey, who several months ago gave Warren ten years imprisonment with an additional ten years probation, after he pleaded guilty to seven crimes, also imposed sentence on Williams.

While Williams had been charged with several crimes, he entered a plea of guilty to only one, that of breaking and entering at Wessel's Store, at Petersburg, May 19.

First State Expects Large Tourist Trade In the Spring

Judging by the amount of interest shown by visitors to the State of Delaware exhibit at the Mid-Atlantic States Sports, Travel and Vacation Show, being held this week at Baltimore's new multi-million dollar Civic Center, the "First State" can expect an unusually large influx of tourists and vacationists from Maryland and the District of Columbia this spring and summer, reports the Delaware State Development Department.

According to the state information and promotion agency, visitors to the Baltimore show are eagerly seeking and receiving information concerning Delaware's resorts, outdoor recreational facilities, special observances, and museums and historic sites.

The most popular items, according to the Development Department, are proving to be the department's "Welcome to Delightful Delaware," "Historical Guide to Delaware," and "Delaware Calendar of Events," and brochures describing the attractions of Rehoboth Beach and vicinity.

The Delaware exhibit occupies 90 square feet on the main floor of the spacious new Civic Center and features a large, multi-colored background that emphasizes Delaware's favorable location and accessibility.

The show, the first of its kind ever held in the Baltimore area, continues through Sunday.

Hay As a Cash Crop

by Jerry L. Webb

There is a large and profitable market for high quality hay in the Delaware area, according to research conducted at the University of Delaware.

The findings of a five-year study of production and marketing techniques involving the growth and sale of more than 2,000 tons of hay have been released in a University of Delaware Agriculture Extension Bulletin, "Horse Sense About Hay" (Bulletin 78). Authors are W. H. Mitchell, agronomist, E. N. Scarborough, agricultural engineer, and W. T. McAllister, economist, all agricultural extension specialists at the University.

They conclude that the number of race and pleasure horses in the area plus the many race meets that are held within reasonable trucking distances of most Delaware farms make the production of high quality hay for this special market a profitable business. They point out, however, that only those farmers who are willing to make certain necessary adjustments should consider such a venture. Growing hay for this market involves greater risks and larger investments, and there are more demands on the farmer's time and skills, according to the authors.

The study was established to determine if there was a demand for high quality hay, and if so, what prices could be expected. They also wanted to know what kinds of hay horsemen preferred and where they were getting it.

They quickly learned that most race horse men imported hay long distances because the kinds and quality standards they demanded were not available locally. Once this was established they were able to work out a long range program to determine if this kind of hay could be grown profitably under local conditions and the production and marketing techniques necessary for success.

The research was conducted on a 180-acre farm near Middletown. The farm and funds to carry out the research were made available to the University by George T. Weymouth, Greenville.

Since it had been a dairy farm, several changes were necessary to make it suitable for hay production. Fences were removed, an irrigation pond was dug, and a soil renovation program was started. Storage facilities for about 300 tons of hay were built, and hay drying systems, including a mow dryer with unheated air, a platform dryer, wagon dryers with canvass hoods and wagon dryers utilizing drying sheds were provided.

Hay mixtures, including the commonly accepted varieties used by horsemen, were seeded in one-acre plots. These plots were harvested and used in feeding trials with thoroughbreds, and in marketing studies through race tracks, horse farms and dairy farms.

The amount of money that can be made producing high quality hay varies, the study showed. Such factors as land value, production level, distance from the markets and management ability of the farm operator influence the profit margin, Dr. Mitchell says.

The average price received for 890 tons of alfalfa and alfalfa-grass hay during one three-year period was $43.89, f.o.b. the farm. This was a net income over cost of $9.89 a ton. Income over cost on red clover was only $5.27 per ton and there was a sizeable loss on grass hay.

The largest amount of money can be made by growing alfalfa, according to Dr. Mitchell. "Contrary to what a lot of people think, well drained Delaware soil will grow excellent alfalfa."

Although alfalfa proved to be the most profitable hay to produce, it did not command the highest price nor the largest demand. In fact, a survey made at the start of the project indicated that alfalfa hay was considered generally unacceptable by the horsemen. Many of them changed their minds during the course of the project, and at the end of the five years some who had rejected it were actually feeding large quantities of alfalfa hay. But it still lacked the demand enjoyed by red clover or timothy.

This prompted a study to see what the horses themselves preferred.

Five thoroughbreds were fed combinations of seven different hay mixtures. In the first trial, red clover and timothy was the favorite, while an alfalfa-orchard grass mixture was least preferred. In the next trial, when red clover and timothy were not included, the same alfalfa-orchard grass mixture was the favorite. Total daily hay consumption per horse remained about the same in all trials.

The only conclusions that could be drawn from the feeding trials were that horses seemed to prefer legumes over grass and red clover over alfalfa. This substantiated the horsemen's willingness to pay an average of $52 per ton for red clover and only $43.89 for alfalfa.

Regardless of the price or kind of hay offered, the marketing research revealed two important considerations: (1) Horsemen will not buy hay at any price if it is dusty or smells of mold; (2) Not all horses have the same taste for hay; some thrive on red clover while others prefer something else.

Dr. Mitchell says horsemen are particular about the hay they buy. They will pay premium prices for hay that meets their standards. Often they must transport it great distances and pay excessive transportation costs. Herein lies the opportunity for local growers who are willing to follow certain production practices that will yield a truly superior product.

Dr. Mitchell lists these points that will help growers meet the demands of buyers, thus insuring a better market for their hay:

—Be prepared to deliver. Most buyers want hay delivered to the barn or race track, and hiring a trucker may be too costly. Being able to deliver on short notice will also help secure orders.

—Sell in large units. Most hay is purchased in small lots, but more and more buyers are willing to accept one ton or larger deliveries.

—Know your product. Buyers are interested in protein levels, digestibility and other factors that make your hay better than that offered by other sellers. Be prepared to explain these differences.

—Have a quality control program. Hay has no value to a horseman unless it meets certain standards. To meet them requires rigid production procedures and sound management practices. Hay must be cut at the right stage of maturity, raked and baled at the right time and dried properly before storing.

—Don't misrepresent quality. If your hay is second quality, price it as such and sell it as second quality hay. If it is top quality, demand top price.

Barn Fallout Shelter Plans Now Available

Family shelter and protection for up to 40 cows are combined in a newly designed dairy barn fallout shelter from the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The barn calls for windowless masonry walls that are one foot thick, as well as two feet of sand above the ceiling over the stall area.

Placing the family shelter and barn under one roof would permit the dairyman to care for his livestock during a fallout emergency without leaving the sheltered area says E. W. Walpole, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Delaware.

The barn has its own standby generator for dairy barn operations and family living. Additional fallout protection is provided by feed, hay and straw stored along one side of the barn. Fallout protection often requires construction features that may be more expensive than average construction, says Walpole. This barn, for example, has no windows, so additional lighting is needed. It gives greater protection, however, than underground dugouts or most other emergency structures. Only one part in 70 of outside radiation can penetrate the barn. The family shelter has protection almost four times greater.

Free copies of plan No. 5937, "Dairy Barn Fallout Shelter," may be obtained from the Mail Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware.

Since these benefits are paid only to those veterans, their widows or minor children whose incomes are below certain limits, the VA is required by law to receive an income report each year to support the payments.

FENCE TALK

With George Vapaa

The ASC Farmer-Committee stands alone as a means of handling government business. It is unique in the history of public affairs. The elected committees have responsibility for the local administration of Federal programs, including expenditure of Federal funds, but are not federal officials. Congress holds the Department of Agriculture responsible, and the Department in turn relies on the locally elected farmers and the county office employees of the committees.

Major ASC activities in Kent County include the Agricultural Conservation Program, price support loans on corn, wheat and soybean, and feed grain programs and the wool program.

The chairman, Russell Bowdler, cites these committee aims: (1) good service and fairness to farmers; (2) make programs succeed in improving farm income and strengthen the business of county; and (3) stop waste of soil and water resources which are needed for future survival.

Farming is a big business today. A farmer, who must be nameless, came into my office to talk about his will. He realizes that his farm is worth at least $200,000 on today's market. And he knows that it is merely a good two man operation with the machinery available today.

We are proposing that he consider incorporating as the best way of assigning interest in his estate. This way, one heir has the privilege of gradually buying out the interest of the others.

A corporate structure is also a way for a young man to work with a good sized unit and gradually buy into the business. The lack of capital is the main reason why so few young men of ability cannot move into farming.

Inheritance taxes can be a tremendous problem today unless one plans his estate ahead of time. An older farmer, anxious to let up and give the reins to his son, can work out a program to use his social security. The farm can roll along with renewed vigor under more youthful operation. Call our office for specific answers to your questions.

Incorporating is not for everyone. More detailed records become necessary to reflect the cost and returns of all phases of the business. Incorporating of itself will not make you more money. But it is a good management tool if properly used to examine all phases of your farm business.

Your milking machine will be the focus of attention at the second winter dairy meetings at the Harrington Fairgrounds on Wed., Jan. 15. Here is a good chance to learn how they should be operated and cared for properly. We'll be looking for all dairymen at 1:15 p.m. next Wednesday at the fair restaurant.

Twin lamb production can raise the returns from sheep. The more lambs marketed, the greater the return.

Selection to improve the breeding capacity for multiple births is possible. Unfortunately, many sheep producers use only the appearance of the lamb in selecting breeding stock. Single lambs look better than twins because they get more milk. This method of selection overlooks the inherited capacity of a ewe to produce twins.

Multiple births are only about 10 percent heritable in sheep. But multiple births can be maximized by selecting twins from ewe lambs or yearling ewes, selecting twins from older ewes, selecting singles from younger ewes and selecting singles from old ewes. Selection of rams should be in the same order.

Other factors also influence multiple births.

Temperatures continuously above 80 degrees interfere with sheep fertility at breeding time, although pregnant ewes will carry lambs during hot weather. A 10 to 20 percent increase in lambs is possible if ewes are "fushed" two weeks before mating.

Early-lambing ewes tend to have more multiple births than those lambing later.

Control of parasites and diseases is necessary for top production. Internal parasites commonly cause one of the greatest losses in production.

Using creep rations for lambs and suitable lambing procedures will insure maximum utilization of the live lambs available.

Keep your Christmas plants blooming with proper care. The poinsettia will remain attractive for several weeks if the right temperature and moisture conditions are maintained. Keep the plant in an area free of drafts where the temperature stays between 60 and 75 degrees. Temperatures above or below this may cause the leaves and bracts to drop. Make sure that the plant receives plenty of sunlight. Check the soil daily to see that it is moist.

Potted chrysanthemums require moisture conditions similar to those needed by the poinsettia. For a long-lasting display of blooms, place the plants near a window with a southern exposure where the temperature is 60 degrees at night and 65 to 75 degrees during the day.

The cyclamen prefers cool temperatures, good lighting, and plenty of water. For continued flowering, place the cyclamen near a window where temperatures are cool but not below 50 degrees. Temperatures between 60 and 65 degrees are best for these plants. Check the plant often and keep the soil moisture at a constant level, neither too wet nor too dry.

The Christmas pepper, like the cyclamen, should be kept near a window where it can receive light and cool temperatures, with the soil being kept moist at all times.

One of the most popular and, too often, most frustrating holiday plants is a Christmas cactus. They are spectacular in full bloom, but too many people are unhappy because their cactus refuses to bloom.

It would be best to forget that the Christmas cactus is a cactus. Its soil mixture should be the same as regular house plants. It also requires normal watering, but can be over-watered unless proper drainage is provided.

Even with the best care, some Christmas cacti refuse to bloom. Temperature is often the cause of this. For the plant to bloom, it must be kept where the temperature is between 55 and 70 degrees.

If you keep your plant outside in the summer, it should not be brought in until the latest possible moment. This will ensure flower bud formation.

Once back indoors, the plant should be placed in a cool sunny window, and, with the proper care, it will produce large, colorful flowers.

With Marion MacDonald

As I sit in Newburyport, Mass., during the holidays, we're surrounded with snow. A beautiful white Christmas. Several snow storms but so far not snowed in. Wondering what you have in Delaware? Weather's cold enough here for ice skating but not any colder than at home.

Hope you 4-H'ers have been busy thinking about and starting to prepare your materials for the Public Speaking Contest. It will be here soon. With the large number of participants I hope you'll each work hard and be well prepared.

The Kent Light Horse Club's Parents Night and open dance was a big success. At dinner they had about 125. Year pins were awarded and county medals went to Wayne Artis, public speaking and Ann Street, horse project. Howard Clendaniel and Bob Burge are the two new Junior leaders. Santa Claus arrived at the dance too.

Lion Cagers Stun Rehoboth, 47-45

Bill Smith's Harrington High basketball Lions upset defending Henlopen Conference champion Rehoboth 47-45 at Rehoboth Friday night. It was the first Lion triumph over the Seahawks since the conference was formed several years ago.

Harrington was behind 5-0 in the early going but rallied to lead 28-18 at halftime. In the second half the locals had three players with three fouls apiece against them. This forced H.H.S. to play more carefully and enabled the Seahawks to tie the score with seconds left. Barry Fry scored the winning basket and the Lions were in possession of the ball at the final whistle.

Fry led all scorers with 18 points. Richard Black and Jose Torres added another 18 between them.

Coach Smith said that his charges turned in the best rebounding job off the defensive board that he has ever seen. Fry and Black captured 24 defensive rebounds as the locals raked in an estimated 90%.

The Harrington marksmanship from the floor was average as 20 field goals were sunk in 57 tries for 35%. From the foul line H.H.S. netted only 7 points for a low average of 41%. Rehoboth tallied 13 free throw points which enabled them to get close. In practice the Lions have made 6,507 free throws out of 10,650 but as yet they can't approach that percentage when the chips are down.

Fall Sports Banquet Set For Jan. 18

The Harrington High Fall Sports Banquet postponed from last month is to be held in the school cafeteria Saturday evening, Jan. 18 at 6:30 p.m.

Guests of honor are some 55 Harrington High School athletes representing the varsity football cross-country and hockey squads. These three teams rank among the finest ever turned out here in those three sports.

Coach Harold McDonald's cross-country team won all ten 1963 starts including the state championship meet and the nine-team Harrington Invitational meet.

Vi Testerman's hockey team was undefeated for the second straight year and this season won the first Henlopen Conference championship ever contested.

Frank Glazier's football team racked up four victories against Henlopen Conference foes and became the first Lion eleven to defeat Delmar and Rehoboth. The locals were treated to the unusual spectacle of seeing Henlopen scouts return for another look after their teams met the Lions.

The program for the banquet is not complete at present. Efforts are being made to secure the color movie of the 1963 Delaware All-Star Football game and speakers to talk briefly on hockey and cross-country. Turkey is the main course on the menu. It is hoped that the community will support this project and show our kids that their hard work and fine success did not go unnoticed and unappreciated.

Service organizations that answered the call for aid and have tickets for sale are the Loyal Order of the Moose, Business and Professional Women's Club, the Alumni Association and the Parents and Teacher's Association. Tickets may also be obtained from members of the H.H.S. Student Council and at Taylor's Hardware.

Pat Knight, veteran Dover sports writer, will be toastmaster of the affair.

Rehoboth Beats Greenwood, 60-49

Rehoboth bounced back from an opening game loss to Harrington as the Seahawks scored heavily from the field to beat Greenwood 60-49. The Foresters kept the score respectable by alternating 13-4 from the foul line.

The Seahawks crept steadily away from the Foresters during the first three periods but were held to a draw in the fourth quarter.

Dave Henry and Julian Wood, all led the losers with 14 and 19 points, respectively.

Felton Routs Millsboro, 99-53

A powerhouse Felton High five rolled to an easy 99-53 victory over Millsboro as Coach Joe Kerns used his entire 12-man squad. Judging from the results of the opening night's play around the circuit there may not be a team in the Henlopen Conference capable of extending the Green Devils.

Dave Wood, who has already been tabbed for All-State by a Wilmington sportswriter, poured in 33 points to lead the winners despite sitting out the entire last period. Jim Blades and George Reible added 18 and 13 points respectively.

Greenwood Nipped By Milton, 45-44

Milton High's Warriors equaled their 1962-63 victory total as they opened their season with a one point triumph over the Greenwood High Foresters. Milton jumped off to a 13-7 first quarter bulge. The Foresters drew within two points at halftime as the count stood at 25-23. At the end of three quarters only a point separated the two rivals. A 10-10 stalemate in the last period sealed the Milton win.

Bob Hitchens led Milton with 19 points. Julian Woodall led the losers with 15 followed by Milt Anthony and Dave Henry with 11 each.

Greenwood's 18 points from the charity stripe almost won the game for the Foresters as Milton could tally only half as many free throws.

Greenwood apparently is suffering from lack of depth as only the five starters saw action.

ministered city government and to protect the interests of all the citizens of Harrington.

"I have tried to exercise my best judgment in all matters with a careful balance in the ambitions of the young that would tend to increase municipal spending and the experience of our senior citizens who are retired and live on a set income. I firmly believe that Harrington must move ahead to provide the utilities that will attract good, clean industry to join us, to provide more jobs for our unemployed, more opportunities for our young and more security for the community at large.

"We are very fortunate that our sewer system will be paid off in 1964. At present, an engineering study is being made on a new water line to increase pressure in the area east of the railroad and be available for any industry. Our few remaining dirt streets are being surveyed for surfacing in the near future and a program of improving the street lighting each year has been adopted by City Council. New mercury vapor lighting was placed on Dorman Street from Commerce Street to the city limits and on Center Street near the high school. This year's plans call for improvements of the same type lighting on Clark Street, Commerce Street and Delaware Avenue.

"I have enjoyed meeting the challenges of the past three years on Council and seek the support of by fellow citizens at the polls on Tuesday, January 14th, that I may continue to serve and represent the interest of all."

Rebels Edge Lions 44-43

Selbyville's Rebels rallied in the last quarter to hand Harrington's Lions a heartbreaking one-point defeat in a game played at Harrington Tuesday night. The loss evens the Lions' record at 1-1 and puts the locals into a tie for second place in the Western Division of the Henlopen Conference.

Selbyville jumped out to an 18-6 advantage only to see Harrington outscore them by the identical margin in the second period to pull into a 24-24 tie at halftime.

After three quarters the Lions led by four points and padded this lead in the early stages of the fourth quarter. The Rebels fought back as Harrington began to have trouble hitting the basket. Jose Torres was hurt in a scramble under the Rebels' basket and had to leave the game. Holding a two point lead with less than a minute remaining Harrington was freezing the ball when Bill Adams was deliberately fouled to break up the stall. Adams sank the first shot but when he missed the second the visitors sped down the court and scored to draw within one point. Shortly after Tom Bunting converted two pressure-packed fouls to win the game.

The Rebels won the game from the foul line as Harrington had an 18-17 field goal edge. Barry Fry and Bill Adams led the locals with 14 and 13 points, respectively.

our 1964 problems".

In describing the role played by Delawareans in bringing the War for American Independence to a successful conclusion, Mr. Sprankle noted that "in battle after battle until the end of the war, the Delaware and Maryland troops formed the center of American strength and resistance. The Delaware regiment which received its baptism of fire at Long Island was still fighting at Camden in 1780 and after that its decimated ranks were combined with Maryland companies to form a regiment.

"Later still, its surviving veterans were organized into an elite light infantry outfit. Two of Delaware's most famous men in the war were Capt. Robert Kirkwood and Maj. Allen McLane, the greatest unsung hero of the Revolutionary War."

The Delaware Sunday services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. John Robbins Hart, rector of the Memorial Chapel. Dr. Hart was assisted by the Rev. Dr. John W. Haynes, rector of Calvary Episcopal church at Hillcrest, near Wilmington, and the Calvary Church Choir provided several vocal selections.

A large group of Delawareans, including officers and members of the Delaware Chapters, S.A.R. and D.A.R., attended the Valley Forge exercises.

Special prayers were offered for Delaware and its people during the service at the National Cathedral.

The National Cathedral and the Valley Forge Chapel set aside a Sunday of the year for each state in the union. Delaware is accorded the lead-off honor, at each location, in recognition of its having been the first state to ratify the Federal Constitution.
