

Blue Cross-Blue Shield To Hold Off Rate Boost Until Fall

The strengthening of reserves during 1963 will enable Group Hospital Service, Inc., to hold the line on Blue Cross-Blue Shield rates in Delaware until fall.

Several hospitals have recently put rate increases into effect. H. V. Maybee, managing director, Monday told the board of trustees, which means Group Hospital Service will have to dig into its reserves.

Maybe told the 28th annual meeting:

—Last year produced the most substantial membership gain since 1955.

—Members made slightly less use of the services for which Group Hospital paid in 1963—the first time in seven years an upward trend in utilization has been reversed.

—About 40 per cent of the membership has requested the new "Plan B" surgical-medical coverage soon to be offered to provide broader surgical benefits.

During 1963, Maybee said, income from premiums exceeded benefit payments and operating expenses, offering "assurance of being able to sustain anticipated losses until the fall before making an adjustment in rates."

Preliminary figures indicate that Group Hospital Service received $15,419,185 in dues from members last year, while paying out $13,810,828.70 for hospital and other care and $991,932.13 for operating expenses.

Maybe pointed out the operating expenses were only 6.43 per cent of the premium income.

Combining net operating income with some returns for investments, Group Hospital Service was able to add $886,731.33 to its reserves last year.

Total members in the Blue Cross (hospital) Plan increased during the year to 308,097, a gain of 20,045. The Blue Shield (surgical-medical) Plan ended the year with 283,907 members a gain of 5,782 for the year. And at the end of 1963, 200,784 members had the extended benefits endorsement, a gain of 22,138.

The trustees Monday re-elected their officers and the public members of the board.

The officers are: J. Sellers Bancroft, president; Harry W. Lynch, vice president; Henry M. Canby, secretary, and Alfred E. Bissell, treasurer.

F. A. Wardenburg was re-elected honorary chairman of the board.

The public members are: Bancroft, Lynch, Gordon O. Andrews, Gene Derrickson, Austin T. Gardner, Philip G. Rhoads, and State Sen. Walton H. Simpson. The other trustees are selected by the hospitals and the Medical Society of Delaware.

Ex-farm Official Dies at 80 in Kent

R. Harry Wilson, well-known Kent County agricultural and political figure, died Saturday at the Crescent Nursing Home, Dover, where he had been a patient several months.

He celebrated his 80th birthday Friday.

Mr. Wilson retired in 1955 as office manager of the Kent County Agricultural and Stabilization Committee. For 22 years he had been a leading figure in Kent conservation programs. In 1933 he was elected county committee chairman of the original Agricultural Adjustment Administration program.

He also was prominent in county Democratic circles, was a former Levy Court commissioner, recorder of deeds and a member of the Kent County Democratic Committee.

He was active in the work of Capitol Grange until forced to withdraw because of ill health.

Mr. Wilson was educated in the Dover public schools and graduated from the former Wilmington Conference Academy, now Wesley College.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Lewis M. Woodward, of Wilmington and Mrs. Donald Terhune, of Stillwater, N. J.; a son, William M. of Dewey Beach, a brother, Frank D. of Swarthmore, Pa.; two grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Services were held Tuesday at the Ferguson and Hayes Funeral Home, Dover.

St. Stephen's Observes Two Annual Events

Two of St. Stephen's annual events come within a week of each other in the very near future.

The first of these events is the annual fun night which will be held on Sat., Feb. 8, in the Parish House at 8 p.m. It is under the direction of Twin Mastin and in addition to skits and performances by individuals, there will be featured the St. Stephen's weight lifting team which has recently brought home trophies from competitive weight lifting meets. The public is cordially invited to attend this night of fun and pleasure. Refreshments will be served. A free-will offering will be taken during the evening.

The second of these events will be the annual Shrove Tuesday Pancake Supper which is put on by the men of St. Stephen's and which will be served from 5 to 7:30 p.m. on Shrove Tuesday, Feb. 11.

The Tuesday before Ash Wednesday is called Shrove Tuesday because on that day it was the ancient custom to go to the Priest and be shriven (that is to confess one's sins and receive absolution). In modern times it has become the custom to hold a celebration just before Lent begins. There will be a more lengthy story for the newspaper as the time approaches, but the men of St. Stephen's take this opportunity to invite the public to this supper. The proceeds are used for such purposes as providing summer camp scholarships for youth and equipping St. Stephen's softball team and other athletic ventures.

Mrs. Humes To Head Heart Fund Drive Here

Mrs. William Humes has been named chairman of the 1964 Heart Fund in Harrington.

She will direct the efforts of community volunteers on Sunday, Feb. 25, when a statewide appeal will be made to raise $150,000 for the program of the Delaware Heart Association.

The appointment of Mrs. Humes was announced by L. Gooden Callaway of Harrington, chairman of the 1964 Heart Fund in Kent County.

"We can't emphasize enough the importance of the Delaware Heart Association's program of research, education and service to the people of our state," Mr. Callaway said. "Diseases of the heart and blood vessels are the leading causes of death in Delaware, and support of the Heart Fund is one means by which this health hazard can be curbed."

He said that of 4,389 deaths in the state in 1962, 1,871 resulted from diseases of the heart and circulatory system.

In addition to the appointment of the Harrington chairman, Mr. Callaway also announced the appointment of the following community chairmen in Kent County: Mrs. Maynard Reed, Dover; Mrs. Marian Dean, Bowers Beach; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heritage, Camden; Mrs. Irwin Richter, Canterbury; Mrs. Stanley Scarborough, Cheswold; Mrs. Esther Orris, Clayton; Mrs. Lester Mitchell, Farmington; Mrs. Reynolds Sipple, Felton and Viola; Mrs. R. R. Johnston, Frederica; Mrs. William Humes, Harrington; Mrs. Alvin Brown, Houston; Dan Gooden, president of the Ruritan Club, Kenton; Mrs. Irvin Little, Little Creek; Mrs. Henry Lutton, Maryland; Mrs. John Masten, Rising Sun; Mrs. C. U.S. Fish, Wildlife Aid Totals $139,389 in State

Delaware has received $139,389 in federal aid for fish and wildlife restoration during the current fiscal year, the Fish and Wildlife Service announced last week.

Delaware received $61,250 for fish and $78,139 for wildlife projects.

Norman G. Wilder, director of the State Game and Fish Commission, said the state is allowed to use the money broadly, for such things as maintenance of public game areas, parking lots, access roads, launching ramps, research projects and, occasionally, land acquisition.

He said these funds go to the federal government through an excise tax on ammunition and fishing tackle and are apportioned back to the states by a formula. The states must add its own money equal to 25 per cent of the U.S. and Wilder said Delaware uses license fees to do so.

The federal service said this is the final distribution of funds under the restoration program this year with a total of $22.8 million allocated nationally.

Line-Item Pay Seen Eliminated

There is a growing belief among state agencies that the budget which Gov. Elbert N. Carvel will submit to the General Assembly next month will eliminate line-item salary appropriations.

Neither the governor nor Budget Director F. Earl McGinness will comment, but there have been "hints" from other officials that the long practice of specifying key executives' salaries in the budget will be eliminated from the administration's recommendations.

Dr. Floyd I. Hudson, executive director of the Board of Health, told the Water Pollution Commission last week he had "heard" such is the governor's intent, Monday State Treasurer Belle Everett said she had heard it was a possibility. Mrs. Everett is a member of the Budget Commission.

Of course, it does not follow that the Joint Legislative Finance Committee will eliminate line-item salaries even if the governor makes such a proposal.

Establishing executive salaries has long been a favored practice of Sen. Walter J. Hoey, D-Milford, influential chairman of the committee. Hoey has said in fact that the line-item salary of one official—Dr. Richard P. Gousha, superintendent of public instruction—will be the same next year as it is now, $17,500.

If the governor recommends eliminating line-item salaries it will be to permit agencies and commissions to establish salaries of executives as they see fit, in accordance with competition and worth.

The line-item salary appropriations have been responsible for the state losing the services of several officials including Dr. A. Joel Kaplovsky, director of the Water Pollution Commission, and Edgar Hare Jr., executive director of the Department of Public Welfare.

Others such as William J. Miller Jr., operations director of the highway department, and Chesley Looney, director of the Board of Corrections, have left the state's service for higher salaries. Whether they would have remained had the state been in a position to pay them more is not certain, but the agencies under existing law were hamstrung.

The General Assembly is returning to Dover next Tuesday for its seven-year 30-day session and the governor is expected to deliver his budget message a day or two later.

The governor's proposal, it is believed, would not eliminate line-item salaries for the state's statutory officers (those elected or appointed to executive positions by the governor) but would permit the agencies to establish salaries where they are not set by any other statute than the annual appropriation bill.

Committee Studying JP Reform Via Constitutional Amendment

A Delaware Bar Association committee is studying the idea of a constitutional amendment as the first step toward accomplishing magistrate reform in Delaware.

Joseph T. Walsh, chairman of the committee which met Monday in the Wilmington Public Building, said the meeting produced general agreement that all efforts be concentrated on passage of a constitutional amendment by two consecutive sessions of the General Assembly.

Once that is accomplished, the assembly could then pass bills within the framework of that amendment to establish a new system, Walsh said.

A series of bills, including a proposed constitutional amendment, already have been cleared by the Delaware Bar Association and the State Council of Administration of Justice and are in committee in the General Assembly.

But, Walsh, explained, "these bills are five years old now, and this committee feels that in that time some changes may be advisable."

Instead of inserting these changes into Senate Bill 156, which contains the proposed amendment now before the General Assembly, Walsh said, the committee feels it would be advisable to introduce a new bill, incorporating the changes, to replace the present proposal.

"Until you change the constitution any changes made in the system would be window dressing," Walsh said.

Generally, the system proposed by the bills now in the legislature would set up a salary system for magistrates, put them on eight-hour shifts at central locations open 24 hours a day and give them statewide jurisdiction.

The committee discussion Monday produced the feeling there should be a "cutoff date" in the proposed constitutional amendment on which the magistrates under the present system would be replaced by those under the new.

It also discussed a "savings clause" giving the General Assembly greater latitude in drafting enabling legislation which would follow the passage of the amendment as well as giving the legislators more latitude in establishing qualifications for the office.

"We're not out to indict the present magistrates, to attack any individual," Walsh said. "But after all, the present system was put into effect before the automobile came into general use. Today the car contributes the major share of the volume of criminal practice, if not civil, before justices of the peace."

There was prolonged discussion at the meeting of qualifications of the magistrates. Under the so-called "Buckingham ruling" of 1942 by the late Judge Richard S. Rodney in Superior Court, the General Assembly cannot make any changes in the qualifications of a justice of the peace under the constitution.

Changes can be made for judges of the Court of Common Pleas in New Castle County, but not for justices of the peace.

Rehoboth to Plan For Promenade

Girls, it's time to begin thinking about your spring wardrobe! The Delaware State Development Department advises that inasmuch as Easter comes earlier this year the state's spring travel season will open March 29, or just about 60 days from now.

Traditionally, Delaware's spring travel season gets underway on Easter Sunday with the annual Fashion Promenade on the boardwalk at Rehoboth Beach—Delaware's No. 1 resort.

And, according to the state promotion agency, the Rehoboth Beach Chamber of Commerce is even now getting ready for this increasingly popular season-opening event.

In fact, Chamber President C. W. Marton announced at last week's installation meeting that planning for Rehoboth Beach's Easter Sunday Promenade would begin immediately.

Ralph B. Pierson, Rehoboth Beach pharmacist who has served as general chairman for several of the highly successful promenades of previous years, was named to head the committee charged with planning this year's promenade.

Mr. Martin also announced that Mrs. Mae Hall McCabe, prominent resort area realtor, who has arranged for the annual Easter Sunrise religious service ever since its inception thirteen years ago, will again be in charge of this early morning event.

So, if you plan to be in this year's "Easter Parade", better planning your Spring wardrobe now—advises the Development Department.

Keep Safe Distance Between Vehicles When Driving

A campaign to impress motorists with the wisdom of keeping a safe distance between vehicles has been undertaken by the Delaware Safety Council.

The fundamental message to be emphasized is: "Follow at a Safe Distance."

Richard M. McMullen, president of the Safety Council, said the council is stressing that message because following too closely has become an increasing cause of accidents. Those accidents he said, can readily be prevented by motorists who will remember the simple rule: "Follow at a safe distance."

McMullen recommended the "rule of 10" which suggests the driver drop back one car length for each 10 miles of speed. Thus, at 50 miles an hour, there should be 500 feet between cars.

The new General Foods plant west of Dover is expected to start producing something next week—but what is still uncertain.

It will be about a year before the plant has swung into total production, Schmidt said. During that time, the company is expected to gradually move equipment and personnel to Dover from the four plants in the east which are being replaced by the new facility.

Accountancy Program at U. of Del. Receives New York State Registration

The four-year curriculum in accounting offered at the University of Delaware has been registered in full by the State Education Department of the University of the State of New York.

Announcement of the registration, effective July 29, 1963 through July 29, 1968, was made by Arthur P. Jones, associate in professional education with the department, in a letter to President John A. Perkins.

"The registration of our curriculum by the New York State Education Department places our students and graduates on equal footing with those of California, Emory, Illinois, Columbia and other prestige institutions," Dr. Perkins said. "Registration in New York State approximates national accreditation for accounting curricula."

Written approval of the program offered by the university's school of business and economics followed a two-day campus inspection by Robert G. Allyn, executive secretary for the Board of Certified Public Account Examiners of the University of the State of New York. Allyn visited classes and conferred with faculty members, President Perkins, Dean Ruben V. Austin and Dr. John M. Dawson, director of libraries.

Two local businessmen share the credit for this latest recognition of Delaware's academic quality. In 1950 Charles I. Belfint, a certified public accountant in the Wilmington firm of Belfint, Lyons & Co., and Harry E. Deppert, treasurer of Atlantic Aviation, sought out university officials and urged them to apply for the registration of the accountancy curricula. Both men have maintained their interest and support to the present.

Professor E. Wakefield Smith, the man most responsible for the University's accounting programs, explained that each state has its own requirements for licensing the certified public accountant, but those in New York are the most stringent in terms of experience and education. Generally speaking, the northern, northeastern, central and western states are more demanding because these areas are highly industrialized. Recognition in New York therefore, is roughly equivalent to national acceptance.

Professor Smith said that Delaware's accountancy curriculum has always accentuated breadth of education rather than limited technical proficiency. On-the-job experience has proved that accountants must be able to cope with ideas as well as figures if they are to advance professionally. It is more important for today's accountancy major to be a precise and logical thinker than to have unusual mathematical ability, he added.

Present University of Delaware curricula in accounting call for 63 credit hours in professional subjects such as auditing, business law, finance, and investments, and 67 hours in the school of arts and science for courses in composition, history, psychology and other electives.

U. of Del. Lists, Drama, Speech Courses

The evening program for adults at the University of Delaware will offer a number of courses in dramatic arts and speech during the spring term 1964.

Courses of study listed in the university's spring extension bulletin include speech, introduction of children's theatre, playwriting, TV programming, voice and speech, oral interpretation, and introduction to speech correction.

In addition, parents may have their children enrolled in creative dramatic classes for groups aged six to eight and nine to 11. These classes, under the direction of Dr. C. R. Kase, are oversubscribed every year. Early enrollment is encouraged, as classes are limited to 20 children. Interested parents should contact the department of dramatic arts and speech at the university.

Speech and drama courses will be offered in Wilmington and Newark and will begin the week of Feb. 3. Registration for these subjects will be conducted Sat., Feb. 1, at the university.

For a bulletin describing the offerings of the department of dramatic arts and speech, write or call the division of university extension, University of Delaware, Newark, Del. Telephone 368-0611, extension 501.

All Ages Need Calcium; Milk Is Best Supplier

Radioactive material has been found in amounts three times greater in the bones of people who do not drink milk, says Katie Thomas, Kent County home economics extension agent. She explains that radioactive strontium-90 is deposited in bones when calcium is not available, and milk is our chief source of calcium.

In addition, she notes 30 per cent of American diets have shortages of calcium. Teenagers and children need at least a quart of milk each day to supply calcium for bones and teeth while they are forming and hardening. Brittle bones in older folks can be lessened if calcium is adequate. Adults too need two eight-ounce cups of milk every day to maintain strong bones and teeth.

When counting calories, don't cut down on milk, reminds Mrs. Thomas. Skim milk offers half the calories of whole milk while retaining all of the calcium.

There are many ways to supplement milk and milk products for your family. In sauces, puddings and beverages you can serve milk, hot or cold, with many pleasing variations. Cheese and ice cream are also high in calcium, Mrs. Thomas points out. One and one-third cups of cottage cheese, or one and three-quarter cups of ice cream, for example, provide about the same amount of calcium as one cup of milk.

All women of St. Stephen's who can, should plan to attend the annual Quiet Day, which will be held this year Feb. 6, from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at St. Thomas Church in Newark. Those going should plan to take a box luncheon. The leader of the day will be Dr. Thorne Sparkman, rector of the church of the Redeemer in Bryn Mawr, Pa., and instructor in homiletics at the Philadelphia Divinity School. The theme that Dr. Sparkman will follow will be centered on three of the parables of our Lord. Certainly every serious, spiritually minded churchwoman will want to attend this quiet day.

It is hard to realize, but St. Stephen's annual fun night is on Sat., Feb. 8 at 8 p.m. The public is invited and there will be a free-will offering taken during the evening. Refreshments will be served. Mr. Mastin, who is directing this night of fun and pleasure, would like for all participants to stay after the Coffee Hour on Sunday, to practice for this event.

As the Convocation of Kent County Episcopal Young Churchmen meets this coming Sunday at 4:30 at St. Paul's in Camden, there will be no Evensong on that day at St. Stephen's. All youth who are planning to go to the convocation should be at St. Stephen's no later than 3:30 p.m. (Because of the practice period for the "Fun Night", which will be held immediately following the coffee hour, the EYC decided to bring sandwiches and thus be ready to leave for convocation at 3:30 p.m.)

Due to the Youth Convocation which was set up a week, and which will be held this Sunday at 4:30 p.m., the meeting of the Vestry scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Feb. 2nd, will be held at the same time on the next Sunday, Feb. 9.

The men of St. Stephen's would like to remind the congregation of St. Stephen's and the public as well, that their Shrove Tuesday Pancake Supper is almost on us. The Tuesday before Ash Wednesday is called Shrove Tuesday because on that day it was the ancient custom to go to the Priest and be shaven, (that is to confess one's sins and receive absolution). In modern times it has become the custom to hold a celebration just before Lent begins. Here, at St. Stephen's it has become the tradition for the men of the church to put on a delightful pancake supper, which is open not only to St. Stephen's members but to the public as well. This will take place on Feb. 11 at 5 p.m. The proceeds from the pancake supper will be used for such wholesome purposes as to make possible summer camp scholarships for the youth of St. Stephen's.

Tuesday, Feb. 4, there will be an executive meeting of the Women of St. Stephen's at the home of the president at 7:30 p.m. Those who are on the executive council are Mesdames Creadick, Clendenning, Thompson, Welch, Winkler, Raughley, Hill, McReynolds, Williams, Killen and Rice.

Notice has been received from the State of Delaware, Surplus Food Agency that effective Feb. 1, all persons applying for government surplus foods will apply at the food distribution point during the distribution. At this time, the Dept. of Public Welfare will have personnel to receive applications and determine eligibility of the applicants. New applicants, certified as eligible, will be issued food the same day, if possible. According to the schedule received in the Parish office, the place of distribution for this area will be Harrington Fair Grounds on Mon. Feb. 17. The truck arrival is scheduled for 8 a.m. and distribution time, 9 a.m. to 10:45 a.m.

The St. Stephen's Weight Lifting Team competed Sat., Jan. 25, at the Central Y.M.C.A. in Camden, N. J., bringing back a third place trophy this time. George Balderson, of Milford, a member of our team was the winner of the trophy. (It seems peculiar to the uninformed, but a weight lifting team which wants to remain in the amateur competition avoids first place trophies, as such a trophy disqualifies its members for future novice meets.)

Delaware Food Market Report

What February lacks in days, it makes up for in dazzle. The month has an array of special events to brighten winter meals and cause a dilemma for menu planners. For instance, the whole month has been named Picnic Indoors Month, which will bring an early touch of summer into each home. This means barbecued chicken, potato salad, charcoal steaks, and all the other delicious patio foods.

There are the Mardi gras days that begin on February 1. Kebabs made from sirloin steaks would be truly festive for your pre-Lenten partying.

Pancake Tuesday, Feb. 11, the day before Lent begins, calls for a celebration, and who could resist platters of ham slices, sausage links, and a tower of feathery pancakes.

Dust off your recipe for sweet-sour pork or pork chop suey and welcome in the Year of the Dragon on February 13, the Chinese New Year.

Pecan pie, fried chicken, pork roast or a tasty pork casserole, and corn pudding are all good choices to help celebrate Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12, and Washington's birthday, Feb. 22. Of course, we must not overlook the desserts often made especially to honor these two presidents.

Bachelor's Day and Leap Year Day on February 20, and Valentines Day, Feb. 14, certainly calls for something special. What about "His and Hers" steaks and candlelight—this might be a winning combination.

All of these foods will be plentiful during February according to the United States Department of Agriculture. Put these foods to good use during the days ahead.

Here's a word for those of you with freezers. Now is the time to clean out your freezer to make room for beef. You should buy now because prices are expected to advance on beef around late February or early March. While more beef will come to market during the first quarter of this year than in 1963, the number of cattle on feed Jan. 1, was less than a year earlier. Pork is also another current choice for home freezer storage. Good supplies will continue through April.

Freezing and sub-freezing temperatures in Florida on Jan. 14 and 15 has caused some vegetables to become scarce and more variable in quality. Some of the items affected by the severe cold include: snap beans, cucumbers, celery, yellow squash, and Boston and romaine lettuce. Tomatoes are readily available, but show quality damage.

Insurance dividends to some 5,000,000 veterans was completed last week in record time, according to a report made to President Johnson. The report was made by John S. Gleason, Jr., Administrator of Veterans Affairs, in a visit to the White House during which the President was given the dividend check due on his own G.I. policy taken out in the early days of World War II. President Johnson last month ordered Gleason to make payment of the dividend as early as possible in January as a stimulant to the national economy. Distribution of the dividend checks by the Veterans Administration began Jan. 2, and the last of the checks were placed in the mail January 9. The Veterans Administration estimates that 12,480 veterans in the State of Delaware received dividends amounting to $616,800. The fastest prior payment of dividends was made in January 1963, when the distribution of check was completed by January 31, according to Leon Fields, manager of the VA Regional Office, Wilmington. The first speed payment of dividends was directed by President Kennedy in 1961. Payments in that year were completed by March 17. In the years prior to 1961, payments were made throughout the entire year, on the anniversary date of individual policies. Of the total 1964 dividend distribution made this month, $214,000,000 was earmarked for 4,500,000 World War II veterans holding National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) policies. The remaining $15,000,000 went to about 225,000 World War I veterans holding U. S. Government Life Insurance (USGLI) policies. Mr. Fields said Korean Conflict veterans did not receive a dividend since they hold lower cost, non-participating policies that do not provide regular annual dividend payments. In making his report to the President, Mr. Gleason noted that maximum use of automation had reduced both the length of time and the administrative cost of paying dividends. The cost of paying the dividend three years ago was $1,460,000. The cost of paying the 1964 dividend was about $25,000. VA insurance dividend payments are primarily a return to the policyholders of part of their premium payments since the death rate among holders of GI insurance continues to be lower than the rate upon which the premium payments were established by law.

MDTA Changes To Benefit Many Unemployed

Amendments to the Manpower Development and Training Act (MDTA) of 1962 will benefit many of the hard-core previously ineligible for participation federal training programs.

A new U. S. Labor Department study, reviewing characteristics of 30,650 enrollees in MDTA programs during fiscal 1963, shows that most of the trainees are the better educated jobless in the prime working ages of 22-44.

"One practical problem in the selection of trainees," the study said, "has been to reconcile the training needs of the unemployed with the 'reasonable expectation of employment' requirement of the Act."

"Thus, the trainee group as a whole tends to be younger and better educated than the total jobless group."

This study, entitled "Manpower Evaluation Report No. 1," is the first of a series that will be issued by the Department's Office of Manpower, Automation and Training (OMAT), according to William K. Penn, Field Director for Pennsylvania and Delaware.

It pointed out that the most disadvantaged of the hard-core unemployed have been passed over in training selection procedures because "employer requirements—as intended by the Act—have taken precedence."

Hard-core unemployed singled out for study in the report were teenagers and youth under 22, older workers over 45, handicapped workers, the undereducated and Negroes. Nonwhite workers made up 23 per cent of all MDTA enrollees. They represent 21.9 per cent of total unemployed.

Individuals in these categories, according to the study, have greater difficulty in getting jobs than other unemployed persons. Penn stated that, "it also seems that these unemployed suffer many of the same disadvantages with respect to the training programs that they face in the labor market."

"This situation will be remedied to some extent through amendments to the Act recently passed by Congress," Penn went on to say.

Youths under 19, who represent 15.6 per cent of the total jobless and account for only 5.5 per cent of the trainee group, will be given greater help in preparing for the labor market.

New amendments lower the age of youth eligible for training allowances from 19 to 17 and permit up to 25 per cent of all persons receiving training allowances to be youth under 22. The previous ceiling was 5 per cent.

School dropouts and older workers with limited education will be eligible for an additional 20 weeks of basic education to qualify them for vocational training.

The Labor Department study shows that while 20.2 per cent of the total unemployed had less than an eighth grade education, only 3 per cent of the trainees fell in this group. Only 7.6 per cent of the trainees had completed the eighth grade although 16 per cent of the total jobless fall into this category.

In contrast, high school graduates who make up 37 per cent of the total unemployed represent fully 59.6 per cent of MDTA trainees.

"The effect of school is not clear, probably because so few undereducated workers have been selected for training," the study noted in summarizing work experience of 10,500 trainees who completed their courses by July 1963.

"As might be expected, however, high school graduates appeared to have an advantage in the job market."

Employment experience of trainee graduates indicated that the 70 per cent who found readily generally were trained teenagers, short-term unemployed and the better educated workers.

Copies of the "Manpower Evaluation Report No. 1" can be obtained by writing to Penn's office at 1019 Park Building, 355 5th Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Poultry Fund Drive Chairman Named

Willis Hancock, of Snow Hill, Md., has been appointed active chairman of the 1964 Delmarva poultry industry fund drive, it was announced recently by Edward Covell, Jr., of Easton, Md., president of Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., the Shore's regional poultry association.

Hancock is agricultural representative of the Maryland National Bank and was previously with the Production Credit and Federal Land Bank Systems. He has been active for several years in promotion and industry-improvement activities in behalf of the Shore's $175-million-a-year poultry growing and poultry processing business.

A director of Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., he has played an important role before this in its fund drive efforts. Four years ago he was chosen to give the keynote address at the 1960 fund drive kick-off dinner in Salisbury.

In announcing Hancock's appointment, Covell stressed the importance of his committee and the annual fund drive to Delmarva's whole economy.

"This is not just a poultry industry matter alone," Covell said. "It affects the economic well-being of nearly everyone on the Peninsula. Each time we can get another one percent of the national broiler market, it can bring an additional ten to fifteen million dollars into Delmarva's economic bloodstream. Every dollar we raise in this fund drive is directly or indirectly put to use to enlarge our share of the national market or to improve our industry efficiency."

Diabetes Film Available

"Diabetes Unknown," a thirty minute film which is available at the Film Library, State Board of Health, Health Building, Dover, points out that although diabetes is not difficult to live with, it can make life uncomfortable and dangerous for the untreated and unknown diabetic.

It is estimated that over a million people in the United States who have diabetes do not receive medical treatment because they ignore the symptoms or because they have no symptoms until they become seriously ill. Regular examinations are advised.

Any age can have diabetes but most diabetics are over 40; more women have it than men; many are overweight; heredity is an important factor.

Some of the common symptoms are: fatigue, excessive urination, unusual hunger or thirst, slow healing infections, boils, itching, leg cramps and loss of weight.

Modern treatment allows diabetics to lead normal lives with the aid of medication and regular diet and exercise.

U. of Del. Library Given Rare Walpole Collection

The University of Delaware's Morris Library has been given custody of a collection of more than 230 volumes, representing 100 titles centered on the publishing activities of Horace Walpole's famed Strawberry Hill Press.

Assembled by the late Mrs. Christopher L. Ward, of Greenville, the collection of rare Strawberry Hill imprints and supplementary scholarly works has been placed in the Morris Library's Special Collections on indefinite loan by Mrs. Ward's daughter, Mrs. C. Lalor Burdick, of Wilmington. Included are 33 of the 42 limited editions known to have been printed at Strawberry Hill during the years 1757 and 1789. Each is a specimen of the fine typography and balanced format for which the Strawberry Hill imprints are justly famous.

Horace Walpole, fourth Earl of Oxford, was an English letter writer, novelist, historian, connoisseur, and amateur architect. He was a pioneer in the revival of Gothic architecture, and Strawberry Hill, near Twickenham, which he acquired in 1747, was remodeled by him into a miniature Gothic castle. Here he gathered the spoils of his collecting, filling the mansion with fine paintings, rare books, old armor, medals, coins and prints. In 1757, Walpole took the step from collecting rare books to making them. From his private printing press at Strawberry Hill, Walpole issued works by his friends, including two of the poet Gray's odes, books on antiquarian subjects, some by himself, and various poems, political articles, and small catalogs of art collections. Many of these are contained in the Ward collection.

Walpole's four-volume "Anecdotes of Painting in England," published between 1762 and 1771, was the first art history of England His "Catalogue of the Royal and Noble Authors of England," published in 1758, was a notable compilation, as were his historical memoirs of the reigns of George II and III. Walpole's 1785 "Essay on Modern Gardening" demonstrated yet another interest of a many-sided figure. These works and many more, together with Walpole's published correspondence, and various critical works make the Ward Walpole collection a rich and significant resource for scholarly investigation in the areas of social, literary, art and printing history of the mid-18th century.

Century Club News

A vivid word picture of a visit to the mysterious magical city of Marrakesh, Morocco in North Africa was the treat enjoyed by the Harrington New Century Club Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Thomas Mulcahy was the fascinating story teller, telling of her own life in the Arab section of the city, where she lived for five years with her family shortly after World War II. In addition to her descriptive narrative she showed the beautiful handwork from the native bazaars. Mrs. Mulcahy is a new member of the Century Club and her contribution to the program on international relations was greatly appreciated.

Mrs. O. T. Roberts Sr., was chairman for the afternoon. She and several committee members discussed briefly various countries in the world which have had friendly or unfriendly relations with the U.S. in the past months. She noted that our relations with some countries like Canada and Mexico have been most friendly for a number of years, while our relationship with other nations have changed drastically within the past week.

"To Strengthen the Arm of Freedom" has been the slogan for the administration of Mrs. Dexter Arnold, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. To this end emphasis on the CARE program has been made under the International Affairs topic. The club voted to make a donation of $10 to CARE.

Serving on Mrs. Roberts' committee were Mrs. Joseph L. Brinster, Mrs. Daniel McSweeney, Mrs. James M. Fair, Mrs. F. O. O'Neal, Sr., Mrs. L. B. Harrington, Mrs. C. Tharp Harrington, Mrs. R. Harry Quillen and Mrs. Mulcahy.

In other business discussed during the afternoon a donation of $5 was approved for the Arthritis Foundation and $10 or 10 cents per member for the "Dimes of Liberty" a special project of the Federation President, to help establish a museum at the foot of the Statue of Liberty.

Mrs. Francis Winkler, president, reminded all committee chairmen to send their annual reports to their state chairmen.

The next meeting will be held Tues., Feb. 11. Mrs. Arnold Gilstad will present a program on Religions of the World.

Feb. Is American History Month

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel this week called upon the state's schools and patriotic organizations to sponsor "special and appropriate programs during February that will serve to emphasize our priceless heritage" as part of Delaware's observance of American History Month.

In a statement issued at Dover, the chief executive called attention to the special significance of February, noting that during this month "Americans traditionally observe the birthdays of two great presidents and national heroes—George Washington, the 'Father of Our Country,' and Abraham Lincoln, who did so much to preserve our Union."

"Their lives and their accomplishments," continued Governor Carvel, "rightfully are a continuing source of inspiration for all Americans."

Delawarans were also urged by the chief executive to revisit the state's many museums and historic shrines during February. "Such visits," he said, "will create a greater appreciation of the history and traditions of 'The First State.'"

Gov. Carvel also commended the Daughters of the American Revolution, sponsors of American History Month, upon "their splendid efforts to stir greater public appreciation of the accomplishments of those who helped build and those who helped preserve this great nation of ours."

The full text of Gov. Carvel's American History Month statement follows:

"During the month of February, Americans traditionally observe the birthdays of two great presidents and national heroes—George Washington, the 'Father of Our Country,' and Abraham Lincoln, who did so much to preserve our Union. Because their lives and their accomplishments rightfully are a continuing source of inspiration for all Americans, it is fitting that February be annually observed as American History Month in tribute to their memory.

"Our schools and our patriotic organizations are urged to sponsor special and appropriate programs during February that will serve to emphasize our priceless heritage and afford proper recognition and appreciation of the contributions of those to whom we, as free people, owe so much.

"During February, I urge Delawarans to re-visit our state's many museums and historic shrines. Such visits will create a greater appreciation of the history and traditions of 'The First State.'

"I commend the Daughters of the American Revolution, sponsors of American History Month, upon their splendid efforts to stir greater public appreciation of the accomplishments of those who helped build and those who helped preserve this great Nation of ours. Elbert N. Carvel, Governor"

New Federal Aid To Education Programs Offer $1,477,850 To State

Recently enacted federal legislation will channel $1,477,850 for educational purposes in Delaware in the course of the next few years, according to the Delaware State Education Association.

The amount will include $417,535 in grants for the construction of college academic facilities, $83,281 in grants for construction of public junior colleges, and $977,034 in federal assistance for expanded programs of vocational education. In addition colleges in Delaware will share in the $360 million of federal funds made available for long-term low-interest rate loans to colleges and universities.

In each state both public and private colleges may share in the higher education grants and loans according to state plans to be drawn up by a broadly representative state agency. These plans are to be submitted to the U. S. Office of Education for approval. Grant funds may not be used for construction of religious facilities. They are restricted to specified uses—to assist in construction of facilities for instruction or research in the sciences, mathematics, modern foreign languages, engineering and libraries.

The apportionment of federal funds among the states is based generally on student population, but in connection with grants to junior colleges there is a per capita income factor which gives somewhat more generous treatment to the poorer states.

The aid to vocational education legislation vastly expands the federal contribution for this sort of school. The prior program called for annual appropriations of $57 million a year. The new legislation would add to that sum a total of $730 million over the next four years, and would then level off at $235 million a year.</

H. E. Bullis Receives Josiah Marvel Cup

H. Edmund Bullis, retired mental health executive and active exponent of the free enterprise system, has been selected as the 1964 recipient of the Josiah Marvel Cup Award.

The presentation was made by the Delaware State Chamber of Commerce, Inc. at the Chamber's annual meeting in the DuPont Country Club.

Bullis is the fourteenth recipient of the honor, established in memory of Mr. Marvel to recognize Delawareans whose service to the state, the community, society or their fellow man has been outstanding.

The 1964 recipient was nominated for the award by the Wilmington Rotary Club, an organization of which he once served as president.

Bullis retired in 1952 as executive director of the Mental Health Association of Delaware, after having traveled extensively to introduce in schools throughout the nation the Delaware Plan of teaching positive mental health principles.

During this period, in which he was in close contact with high school students, he became distressed at the lack of enthusiasm which young Americans displayed for this nation's free enterprise system. He felt that too many of those about to graduate from Delaware high schools considered business profits too high and preferred federal government to private industry as career possibilities.

Because of his concern, Bullis was persuaded by Theodore Roosevelt III, national president of Americans for the Competitive Enterprise System, to organize a Delaware Chapter of ACES.

During the past year he has served full time on a volunteer basis as chairman of the board of the Delaware chapter, actively working to help high school seniors to understand and appreciate the free enterprise system and its superiority to communism and socialism.

In inaugurating the ACES program in Delaware, he secured the aid of 50 leading businessmen and educators as board members and as members of the chapter's advisory group. He persuaded 28 Delaware high schools, both public and parochial, to cooperate in the program. He arranged for tours of high school students to 43 business, industrial and public utility plants to see typical American business in operation.

Going further, Mr. Bullis obtained speakers from various areas of business community to meet with school students and discuss with them the economic facts of the capitalist system. And, equally important, he obtained the necessary finances to pay for the buses and other operating expenses of ACES.

During 1963, in addition to addressing the high school seniors in 28 high schools, Mr. Bullis spoke before 34 service club, fraternal, church, women's club, college and teacher groups on such free enterprise topics as "Profits Is Not A Dirty Word" and "What Private Enterprise Has Meant to Delaware."

From 1919 to 1923 Mr. Bullis lived in the Far East, serving in various capacities including that of emissary of Governor-General Leonard Wood of the Philippines to the rulers of all nations in the China Sea area. In 1924 and 1928 he was in charge of three foreign missions to the United States—Eduard Herriot, premier of France; the Chinese High Commission, and the Pulaski Sesqui-centennial Commission from Poland.

As a national figure in mental health activities, Mr. Bullis directed the First International Congress on Mental Hygiene in Washington in 1930. In 1954 he was invited by President Magsaysay to introduce the Delaware Plan for teaching positive mental health principles to the Philippine schools. He wrote a textbook on this subject which was published by UNESCO and distributed free to Philippine high schools. Three years ago, as consultant on mental health education to the World Federation for Mental Health, he conferred with leaders in education and mental health in 11 Asiatic and five European countries and conducted seminars in 17 overseas colleges and universities.

As executive director of the Delaware State Society for Mental Hygiene, now the Mental Health Association of Delaware, from 1938 to 1952, Mr. Bullis developed the Human Relations in the classroom program for teaching positive mental health principles in junior high schools. This program became known throughout the United States as the Delaware Plan.

Four textbooks which he wrote during this period have been widely used in 47 states and Canada. His pioneer work in introducing courses for teaching mental health principles was the subject of commendatory articles in Readers Digest, Time, Women's Home Companion, Parents Magazine and other publications. A retired U. S. Army Colonel, he has received three decorations from the United States and eight decorations from foreign countries. During World War I he commanded the Third Battalion, Anti Aircraft Artillery and later served as director of three AEP Anti Aircraft Schools—artillery machine gun and search light. Mr. Bullis, a past president of the Lincoln Club, of Delaware, has been listed in Who's Who in America continuously since the 1928-29 edition.

The silver Josiah Marvel Cup was originally presented to Josiah Marvel, president of the Delaware State Chamber of Commerce during 1913-14, in recognition of his services in reorganizing the Chamber. It was returned to the Chamber by Mr. Marvel's heirs for such use as the organization might decide. The organization decided to make it an annual presentation in recognition of an outstanding state figure.

Previous winners of the award are Dr. M. A. Tarumianz, G. Gorman Walsh, Margaret Irving Handy, M. D., Henry T. Claus, I. B. Finkelstein, James W. Williams, Mrs. Pearl Glenn Herlihy, William Reilly Brown, John G. Leach, Clarence A. Fulmer, Maurice duPont Lee, Lloyd R. Leslie, and Dr. Ward I. Miller.

Justice Dept. Gets Complaints On Medal Buying

The Department of Justice has recently received a number of complaints concerning unauthorized sales of decorations and medals authorized by Congress for the armed forces of the United States. None of these sales has taken place in Delaware. These complaints concerned sales of such medals for cash by one hobbyist collector to another collector. Such activity is expressly prohibited by a Federal statute which was enacted by Congress to prevent the degradation of high awards presented to United States servicemen for service and valor in the defense of their country.

The statute, 18 United States Code, Section 704, reads: "Whoever knowingly wears, manufactures, or sells any decoration or medal authorized by Congress for the armed forces of the United States or any of the service medals or badges awarded to the members of such forces, or the ribbon, button, or rosette of any such badge, decoration or medal, or any colorable imitation thereof, except when authorized under regulations made pursuant to law, shall be fined not more than $250 or imprisoned not more than six months, or both."

Since the Department of Defense is responsible for promulgating the appropriate regulations governing such transactions, under authority granted by 18 U. S. C. 704, the problem was brought to its attention through the Institute of Heraldry, U. S. Army. All collectors and individuals are reminded that a cash sale of military decorations of the United States is a violation of a Federal criminal statute. The statute does not preclude the pure barter type situation, that is the exchange of one medal for another. The United States Attorney, in issuing this information, hopes that any violation and subsequent prosecution can be avoided in Delaware.

Former Vietnam Ambassador To Speak at U. of Del.

The Hon. Tran Van Chuong, former Vietnamese Ambassador to the United States, will present a major address during the University of Delaware's International Week program, Feb. 4-9. Dr. Chuong, who resigned his diplomatic post in Washington and publicly broke with his daughter, Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu, in protest against the policies of the Diem regime, will speak at 8 p.m. in Mitchell Hall on Thursday, Feb. 6.

His speech is part of a coast-to-coast tour which he has undertaken to explain the background of the recent revolution and discuss the future of Vietnam in its struggle against Communism in Southeast Asia.

Long one of the most respected members of former President Diem's regime, Dr. Chuong resigned his embassy post on Aug. 22, following the intensification of the Diem government's harsh policies against the Buddhist minority. Born in Phyl Ly in what is now North Vietnam on June 2, 1898, Dr. Chuong is a member of a distinguished South Vietnamese family and has spent most of his life in Saigon. In 1922, he took his doctorate in the faculty of law at the University of Paris. For many years he was the senior Vietnamese lawyer, first in Saigon and then in Hanoi, now the capital of North Vietnam. He was president of the Grand Council for Economic and Financial Interests in Indochina in 1940, and in 1945 was made Minister of Foreign Affairs. Later he served as judge in the French-Vietnamese court, which approximates the U. S. Supreme Court. In 1954, he became minister of State in the nationalist government of Ngo Dinh Diem, and a year later he was appointed Ambassador to the United States. His wife, the daughter of another leading South Vietnamese family, who was educated at the French Lycee in Hanoi, served as her country's official observer at the United Nations from 1958. She resigned her position at the UN at the same time that her husband gave up his embassy post. Dr. and Mrs. Chuong still make their home in the Washington area near Chevy Chase, Md. William Edward Truitt, 49, died Saturday night at his home on New Road, Lewes, after a heart attack. A native of Georgetown, Mr. Truitt was a partner in Thomas Best and Sons, a feed and grain business in Nassau. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Alice Best Truitt; a son, William E. Jr., at home; two daughters, Mrs. Anthony Reynolds, of Milford, and Mrs. Albert C. Derickson, of Newark; three brothers, J. Martin, Rowland P. and Norman R., all of Lewes; a sister, Mrs. Leah A. Fluharty, of Lewes, and four grandchildren. Services were Tuesday afternoon in the Atkins Funeral Home, Lewes. Mrs. Anthony Reynolds was a correspondent for The Harrington Journal before moving to Milford last year.

Farm and Home Week Programs Scheduled For Feb. 4, 5, 6

Some proposed solutions to the farm price problem, suggestions for greater profits in dairy operations, reports on research in poultry diseases and a light horse show are some of the features planned for Farm and Home Week at the University of Delaware. The annual three-day event, sponsored by the School of Agriculture, will be Tuesday through Thursday, Feb. 4, 5 and 6.

Among the featured speakers will be Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) who will talk at the beef and sheep program on Thurs., Feb. 6, at 2:45 p.m.

Highlighting the discussion of the farm price problem will be Claude W. Gifford, associate editor of Farm Journal magazine, and Dr. W. E. McDaniel, chairman of the department of agricultural economics and director of resident instruction for the school of agriculture at the University. This program will begin at 9:45 a.m. Feb. 6.

Soybeans, a major Delaware crop, will be discussed, with topics including production techniques, research for new varieties, and chemical weed controls. Keith Bilbrey, North Mississippi County, Ark., county agent, will explain how his county attained its standing as the world's largest soybean producing county. H. W. Johnson, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and Dr. R. H. Cole, University of Delaware agronomist, will report on current research.

Dr. W. H. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University, has titled his talk, "200 Bushels of Corn per Acre—Possible in Delaware" Mitchell and his associates have grown these yields on experimental plots at the University's Georgetown Substation. New developments in corn hybrids will be presented by Elmer Monson of the De Kalb Agricultural Association. Along with Monson will be Ed Hickman, field manager of Townsends, Inc., relating the methods his company used to average 83 bushel of corn per acre on 3,000 acres in southern Delaware.

The corn and soybean sessions are also on Thursday's schedule. The poultry program, in two half-day sessions on Tuesday will cover Gumboro disease and leucosis, one of the oldest diseases striking poultry, was thought to affect only older birds, but in recent years it has affected broilers as well. The cost of the disease to poultrymen has been estimated at 60 million dollars annually.

Gumboro disease is relatively new, having first been described in 1957 by Dr. A. S. Cosgrove, from the L. and M. laboratories in Selbyville, who will be one of the speakers on the program. Gumboro disease is not currently widespread in the United States, although large poultry losses have been reported on the Delmarva peninsula and in other regions.

The dairy program on Wednesday will investigate profits, sire records and milk marketing and will conclude with the presentation of the National Dairy Products Corporation awards to Delaware dairymen.

Featured speakers for the dairy programs will include University of Delaware staff members W. T. McAllister, farm economist; Dr. G. F. Haenlein, dairy researcher, and Dr. Wilbur Hesselstine, extension dairy specialist.

Also scheduled on Wednesday are three afternoon sessions on African violets and other house plants, with a home gardener's clinic Wednesday evening.

Sessions on training the horse and rider, horse health and the functions of the U. S. Equestrian Team are planned for Wednesday afternoon, with a horse show on Wednesday evening in Carpenter Field House.

In addition, Farm and Home Week will include sessions on fruit, vegetables, Irish potatoes and 4-H Club work. Special features for women will be held on Tuesday and Thursday, featuring talks on antique chairs, glassware and color and design and home entertaining.

Dr. Samuel M. Gwinn, director of the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, is chairman for this year's Farm and Home Week. All programs are open to the public free of charge.

Mrs. John H. Clendaniel

Mrs. Mary E. Clendaniel, 93, widow of John H. Clendaniel, died Sunday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Nila Schulze, in Greenwood.

She was a member of Lincoln Methodist Church.

She also is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. Ruth Wilkins, Lincoln, and Mrs. Louise Hastings, Wilmington; a sister, Mrs. Charles Kalota, Stevensville, Md.; two brothers, Robert Ellingsworth, Lincoln, and George Ellingsworth, Clayton; three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Services were held Thursday from the Lofland Funeral Home, Milford.

Horse Program Planned For Farm And Home Week

Two former members of the U.S. Olympic Team and a noted University of Pennsylvania veterinarian will participate in a special light horse program at the University of Delaware in Newark, Feb. 5. Two sessions are being held as part of the University's annual Farm and Home Week which runs Feb. 4, 5, 6.

Burgard General F. F. Wing (U. S. Army, Ret.), a former cavalry officer and member of the 1948 U. S. Olympic team, will discuss the present U.S. equestrian team and how it functions. He is executive vice president of the United States team.

Colonel J. R. Burton of Ft. Rucker, Ala., also a former cavalry officer and member of the 1948 and 1956 Olympic teams, will talk about training horse and rider and will conduct a riding demonstration in Carpenter Field House.

Dr. L. V. Cushing is with the University of Pennsylvania's Ambulatory Clinic at the New Bolton Center in Kennett Square. His topic is Common Sense Horse Health. He has had a lifetime interest in horses including operation of a riding academy, training horses on a Texas ranch and specialization in horse care as a veterinarian.

The University's light horse sessions started in the classroom as part of the 1959 Farm and Home Week. In 1962 the program was switched to Carpenter Field House so live horses could be included. This year the program has been expanded to include classroom sessions and mounted exercises.

More than 700 people including skilled horsemen, riding students, pony club members and horse enthusiasts attended last year.

Colonel Burton will be assisted by members of the University of Delaware Equestrian Club. The group's faculty advisor, Prof. J. H. Shropshire, says several members of the club will be mounted and will go through various training exercises under the direction of Col. Burton. To emphasize advanced techniques and procedures for schooling both horse and rider.

After the demonstration the riders will go through a detailed course and will be judged by Col. Burton.

The afternoon session will be held in Agricultural Hall on the University campus starting at 1:30. The evening program in Carpenter Field House will start at 7:30. There will be no admission charge to either of the horse sessions.

4-H News

With Marion MacDonald

Farm and Home Week is just a few days off now—Feb. 4, 5, and 6. Anyone working with youth is invited to the 4-H sessions. The morning session topic is "Meeting the Needs of Today's Youth." In the afternoon the session will cover "Reaching New Youth Audiences through 4-H."

Gordon Collison, president of Fox Hall, opened their parents program at which 40 4-H'ers and parents attended. Two health demonstrations were presented—Nancy Collison who covered posture and Dana Gooden who spoke of nutrition. It was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Collison. The 4-H'ers also received their year pins for the past year.

Farmington 4-H club has grown from a small club to one with forty members. They will hold their first parents dinner this week according to Mrs. Louise Smith, Mrs. George Vincent and Mrs. Nancy Robinson, local leaders.

The Kent County Links held their January meeting at president Richard Simpson's home, in Houston. There were 18 members present. They will continue to support the public speaking and talent shows by providing the awards. Entry blanks for both of these contests are available in the present Kent 4-H'er. Members not receiving this issue should send their name and division to the 4-H office immediately. The public speaking contest is divided into boys and girls junior and senior divisions. Juniors may speak up to three minutes while Seniors should speak from 3 to 5 minutes. 4-H'ers may select any topic. The contest will be held on Feb. 15 at the Capitol Grange at 8 p.m. The public is welcome to attend.

Remember entries for the chicken cooking contest close Feb. 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Miller spent last week in Pittsburgh where they attended the funeral of Mr. Miller's aunt, Mrs. Mary Daniels.

FENCE TALK With George Vapaa

In the early forties, a member of the Delaware Legislature worked for legislation creating Conservation Districts in Delaware. He has been active supervisor of the Kent County District since its organization in 1943. He is Watershed Committee chairman of the Delaware State Association of SCD Supervisors and, for the past five years, has served as councilman to the National Association meeting.

Isaac Thomas operates a 1076 acre dairy farm in Kent County. Mr. Thomas has always practiced conservation and efficiency, which has enabled him to build from a shoestring up to his present day operation.

Ike's broad experience in soil and water conservation includes serving his community in many capacities. He was an ASCS community committeeman and later state ASCS committeeman. For eight years he has been a director of the Delaware Production Credit Association. He is a member and past president of the Delaware Crop Improvement Association; member and past director of the D.H.L.A.; treasurer of Pomona Grange, a 4-H Club leader for 18 years, and a member of both the Farm Bureau and the board of the local Methodist Church.

A strong advocate of the Watershed approach to solving conservation problems, Ike's experience with group and community ditching goes back to his boyhood when he helped work out the family's ditch tax by hand cleaning ditches for 20 cents an hour. At 19 he was elected tax collector for this 15,000 acre Culbreth Tax Ditch Company of which he is presently chairman. He has just been elected chairman of the Kent Soil and Water Conservation District replacing C. Arthur Taylor, of Harrington.

From international agriculture to profits on your own dairy operation, Wed., Feb. 5, at the University of Delaware's Farm and Home Week is planned to inform dairy men of what is going on in their field.

World agriculture and its challenge to America will be the topic of Dr. Kenneth L. Turk, director, International Agricultural Development, at the New York State College of Agriculture at the Cornell University. Dr. Turk has traveled in Great Britain, Europe, Latin America, the Near and Far East in advisory and educational capacities.

Following Dr. Turk, George M. Worriow, dean of the University of Delaware, School of Agriculture, will speak on the role of the University in future agricultural developments.

The morning session will feature a look at expected dairy profits for the coming year, with W. T. McAllister, extension farm management specialist.

Sire proofs and sire selection will be reviewed by Dr. G. F. Haenlein and Dr. W. R. Hesselstine, of the University staff, and E. L. Corley, head of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Dairy Herd Improvement Association Division.

R. L. Strock, of the Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers' Association will explain how dairymen can achieve better milk marketing. The session will conclude with recognition of National Dairy Awards winners by W. H. Cook, Jr., president of the Delaware DHIA and Dr. Roy F. Davenport, National Dairy Products Corporation.

Farm and Home Week is sponsored by the University of Delaware School of Agriculture, Feb. 4, 5, and 6. All programs are open to the public free of charge. Complete programs are available by telephoning 736-1448.

New provisions in the 1964 Feed Grain program can help participating farmers in Kent County.

The maximum diversion of feed grain base acres to conserving use has been raised to a 50 percent ceiling (from 40 percent). Producers may now divert 20 to 50 percent of their feed grain base for payment.

The average payment rate per acre for diverting 40 per cent or more of the base will be higher than in 1963. Participants who divert 40 to 50 percent of their base (or 25 acres, whichever is larger) will earn higher payments for all acres diverted. The rate will be based on the farm's normal yield times one-half the total county price support rate. The latter consists of the price support loan rate plus the price support payment rate.

Farmers diverting the minimum 20 per cent will receive a payment based on the normal yield times one-fifth of the county support rate.

Farmers diverting more than 20 but less than 40 per cent will be paid at two rates. For the first 20 per cent, the rate will be the normal yield times one-fifth of the county support rate. The rate for acreage in excess of 20 per cent will be the normal yield times one-half the county support rate.

Payments may not exceed 20 per cent of the value of the land diverted.

More information about the feed grain program is available at the county ASC and at the Extension office.

The little things you may do often save you from paying more taxes. Here is a list of things to check before mailing in your income tax form.

The investment credit on machinery and equipment purchases since December, 1962, can save you seven per cent of the investment if the credit is taken during the first year.

If you took more than 30 per cent of the contract price on property sales, the transaction does not qualify as an installment sale, so you can't spread the income over the remaining payment years.

Costs which are directly associated with the farming operation are deductible expenses. A portion of the family car's depreciation can be charged against your tax.

If some livestock have died, their purchased cost should be listed as an expense.

Cost of boarding and keeping hired help should be claimed. New machinery should be worked into the depreciation schedule.

Up to $600 can be deducted for your child even though your child has been paid for working on the farm.

A copy of the "Farmer's Tax Guide" can help you understand recent changes in the tax law and help avoid making the same mistakes year after year. Copies are available from our Extension Service on the second floor of the Dover postoffice.

Beef cow herd owners may spend more money for winter feed than is necessary. Cows receiving a free choice full feed of good quality hay or corn silage are probably overfed.

Limiting feed to control cow weight, as well as saving on the feed bill, actually increase cow performance and improves profits. Limited fed cows have bigger calf crops, live longer, and have fewer milking problems.

Mature cows don't need to gain weight during the winter if they come off the pasture in good condition. Heifers, on the other hand, need to gain about 135 to 150 pounds during this winter period.

It takes about 7 1/2 to 10 pounds, depending on size, of total digestible nutrients daily to maintain the weight of a mature cow. This is equal to about 15 to 18 pounds of good quality hay or about 40 to 55 pounds of silage. Cows fed hay or silage free choice frequently will eat considerably more than this amount, making the feed bill higher than it should be.

While the forage supply is limited in many areas of the state this year, it may be cheaper to substitute part of the hay with some other feed.

For example, a pound of total digestible nutrients in $50-per-ton hay costs about 4 1/2 cents, while a pound of T.D.N. in $150-per-bushel corn will cost about 3 1/2 cents. Therefore it may be more economical to buy and feed corn rather than hay. The entire ration of a brood cow should not be made up of corn.

Farm and Home Week Offers Home Beauty Tips

Modern living often seems, on the surface, a care-free, luxurious existence. But anyone who has to keep the wheels greased and moving knows that elbow grease is usually the brand required. That's why each day at Farm and Home Week at the University of Delaware comes as a double treat for homemakers—a day away from home, plus new ideas for home beauty.

Gardening, entertaining, glassware, antiques and the use of color in clothing and furnishings will be featured during the 3-day program, Feb. 4, 5 and 6.

Robert Treat Hogg will speak on recognizing antique chairs and wood at the opening session on Tuesday morning, displaying over 45 chairs to illustrate his talk.

Hogg began working with wood over 35 years ago when he converted an old family mill into a workshop. Although he has never received formal training in furniture construction, Hogg is recognized as an expert at reproducing designs and in his knowledge of wood.

Hogg craftsmanship is found in places as distant as California and as near as many Delaware homes, and he has restored furniture for Independence Hall in Philadelphia and the Old Capitol in New Castle.

Wednesday, Mrs. Mary E. Zachary of the Corning Glass Works will show glassware in functional and decorative uses for the home. Mrs. Zachary feels that imagination plays an important part in finding the best ways to show off the beauty of glass.

Indoor green thumbers will gather on Wednesday afternoon for talks on African violets for home and show, relatives of the African violet, and using artificial lights to grow house plants. In the evening, a question-and-answer clinic will be offered, with members of the University faculty giving short talks on lawns, landscaping, flowers, insects and diseases of interest to the home gardener, followed by personal gardening advice for those who request it.

Elizabeth Langsdale and Lavonia Hilbert, specialists at the University of Maryland, will relate color and design to home furnishings and clothing in their program Thursday morning. Their talk will illustrate how color and design can be chosen correctly.

Carol Brock, hostess editor of Good Housekeeping magazine, will give tips and new ideas for home entertaining on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Brock has been with Good Housekeeping for 18 years and is responsible for planning luncheons when Good Housekeeping entertains visiting dignitaries such as Margaret Truman and the Duke of Windsor. She will also show how colorful articles on food are prepared for magazines.

All Farm and Home Week sessions are open to the public, free of charge.

Lions Win 5 Out of 9 Bouts At Millsboro

Frank Glazier's Harrington High wrestling Lions made a fine showing at Millsboro Monday night by winning 5 matches of the card of 9 contests.

The Lions have been hampered severely by a mass of resignations and as a result had to forfeit matches in the 145, 165, and unlimited classes. These forfeitures cost the Lions the meet as the Blue Devils triumphed 31-23. The 12-man Harrington squad that finished second in the 9-man Milford Invitational in December would have had smooth sailing at Millsboro.

We have always felt that if an athlete is successful in a sport, that he would like that sport. Yet several of the lads who have quit the team had both talent and winning records. This is hard to understand. Coach Glazier is new at coaching the mat sport, but if he had the support and turnout that Mike Mock had last winter we believe the locals could defeat any team except Georgetown, in Kent and Sussex Counties and Maryland's Eastern Shore. Harrington has turned out several outstanding matmen in the last three years and we think it is time for the fringe performers to "take a fresh hold", work hard the rest of this season and start with a bang next year. The ability is there, let's see it!

David Greenlee at 97 pounds, remained unbeaten by pinning Quillen of the host team in the first round. Newcomer Dan Adams scored his second straight pin win over Wooten (103 pounds) in the second round.

George Bonniwell, the Lions' other all-winning matman, pinned Hudson (127 pounds) in round two.

Louis Starkey spotted rough, tough Jim Bender 10 pounds or so in the 180 pound match and trapped him in a pinning hold in the third round.

Jim Cain has a string of victories after losing once in December. Cain outclassed Klotz, an experienced grappler, by 11-0.

Charles Tribbett at 154 pounds put up a good scrap and might have won the decision except for an injured wrist that hampered his effectiveness.

Bridgeville Cagers Nip Lions, 72-68

Harrington fell into the Western Division cellar as they dropped another close decision Tuesday night at Bridgeville, while Greenwood won their second game of the year as they downed Delmar.

The Lions trailed 40-27 at halftime but outpointed the Mustangs in the final two periods to bring about the close contest.

Harrington came within one bucket of having the entire starting five in double figures as Barry Fry had 17, Wayne Collison 16, Jose Torres 15, Bill Adams 10 and Richard Black 8.

Unbeaten Felton comes here Friday night.

Felton Thumps Dover Air, 91-78

Joe Kern's unbeaten Felton High Green Devils added victory No. 6 Tuesday night at Dover Air High School.

The game was not as close as the score might indicate. Felton outscored the Falcons in each of the first three periods to amass a comfortable 23 point lead going into the last quarter. The Falcons managed to slice 10 points off the margin with a 23-13 edge in the final stanza.

Dave Wood shook off the effects of a recent ankle injury to easily lead all scorers with 29 points. Jim Blades tallied 19 points and George Reible canned 14.

Felton plays at Harrington tonight.

Lion Jayvees Win From Bridgeville, 62-45

Jim Hawpe's unbeaten junior varsity basketball team toyed with Bridgeville after a close first period and won going away, by a score of 62-45.

The starting five of Dean Manges, Ellis Myer, John Greenhaugh, Sam Knox and Marshall Hatfield are a smooth working unit and Steve Motter, the sixth man, fits in so well that no let-down is noticeable even when he is in action.

Greenhaugh and Hatfield are strong under the boards. Knox and Manges are good floor men who can drive in on lay one up or hit with one handers from a little further out.

Speedy Ellis Myer was the lead man on break plays and led the Lions with 22 points. Myer had a flurry of layups in the second period that put the game out of Bridgeville's reach.

The locals at time used a press defense as the Mustangs attempted to bring the ball up court. This forced the Sussex Countians into errors and set up several Lion baskets.

Hawpe used his entire 15 man squad as his reserves played most of the last quarter. Other scorers were Knox and Hatfield 8, Greenhaugh 7, Manges 6, Don Minner 4, Nick Morris 3, Motter 2, and Dan Hicks 2.

The Harrington junior varsity cheerleaders are doing a fine job cheering the boys on.

Co-captains are Bonnie Matthews and Sharon Motter. Others are Debbie Swain, Carolyn Miller, Barlyn Cox and Susan Greenhaugh. Andy Walls is a substitute.

Foresters Win First Game

Greenwood won its first basketball game of the season and tied Harrington for fifth place in the Western Division of the Henlopen Conference by upsetting Millsboro, 56-48 at Greenwood on Friday night.

The Foresters outpointed the Blue Devils in three of the four periods and held the edge both from action and the foul line.

Dave Henry led the way with 20 points. Julian Woodall was runnerup with 14 as Duane Anthony and Drew Clendaniel added 10 each.

Greenwood High won its second game of the season beating Delmar 58-43 and moved into a tie for third place in the Henlopen Conference's Western Division.

Delmar had a one point lead at halftime but a 35-19 Forester edge in the second half put the contest in the Greenwood win column.

Julian Woodall showed the way with 20 points. Duane Anthony added 19 and Dave Henry 13.

Wood-Less Felton Still Too Strong

With Dave Wood sidelined for most of the game due to an ankle injury, Felton demonstrated it's class as it slowly but steadily drew away from a strong Lord Baltimore team that almost tripled the Green Devils (14-5) from the foul line.

Wood is the leading scorer for the unbeaten Devils, though Jim Blades is only a point back as he poured in a game-high total of 18 points. Bill Green, the only senior starter, was next with 16, followed by George Reible with 12 and Bill Barr with 11.

JACK (TICK) WILCUTTS, nationally known trainer-driver from Wyoming, was honored by the Philadelphia Sports Writers Association at its 50th annual Banquet, Monday night, Jan. 27, at the Sheraton Hotel in Philadelphia.

Selected as the man from the Delaware Valley and Eastern Shore area who has contributed most to the sulky sport, Wilcutts was honored along with many other outstanding stars in various athletic endeavors.

Last year, the Writers broke precedent and honored a trotting and pacing standout for the first time. He was Stanley Dancer of New Egypt, N. J., 1961-62 world money-winning driving champ.

This season they did it again, calling to the rostrum the popular 43-year-old Delaware driving demon who received the accolade before a sell-out crowd of sportsmen.

If there were any other area man with such a modest stable more deserving than the little 125-pounder the scribes couldn't find one, for Wilcutts' 1963 record and his performances of recent years speak strongly for themselves.

After flirting with disaster twice in wild spills in 1962, first in Maryland when he suffered an injured back, and later at Brandywine Raceway where he sustained a knee injury, Wilcutts opened last year's Spring campaign at Brandywine with a flourish and then ran away with the "most wins" championship, scoring 17 wins, 16 seconds, and 11 thirds.

At Brandywine's summer session the Delawarean did it again, even though it was a down to the wire last night victory—16 firsts, 19 seconds, and 17 thirds.

At Liberty Bell, Tick zoomed through the field to rack up 35 wins in 60 nights of the summer meet there to capture the driving crown. He was on his way to winning the fall title until Alan Myer, another Delawarean caught fire late in the season, and Wilcutts wound up in the runner-up spot.

All told, Wilcutts has won the Brandywine championship five times (including spring and summer meets of 1963). At Baltimore Raceway he took it six times, and he won at Rosecroft, Laurel and Ocean Downs, also in Maryland. Up in New England he was driving kingpin at Suffolk Downs, Mass., and Rockingham, N. H.

In 1961 Wilcutts had his biggest season. In 693 starts he had 139 wins, 134 seconds, 98 thirds, garnered $246,113, and wound up as the District Seven champion and third leading dash-winner to World's Champion Bob Farrington. It was the closest to which any Eastern Shoreman ever has attained.

In 1963 he tied for 19th in national competition with 98 dashes as against champion Don Busse's 200. He was 26th to Billy Haughton, the money champion ($789,846), with earnings of $198,012.

This season Wilcutts has shifted his training to Pinehurst, N. C., grooming a potential winning stable of 26 horses along with many other stars of the sport—Del Cameron, Frank Safford, Charlie Fitzpatrick, Morrie McDonald, Bill Fleming, and Earl Avery to mention a few. But before the big push starts Jack expects to see his stable bulge to some 36.

Hawpe used 15 players and 12 dented the scoring column with Greenhaugh getting 12, Hatfield 7 and Manges 6.

Lion Jaycees Win Over Lewes, 49 to 39

Jim Hawpe's H. H. S. junior varsity added Lewes to its string of victories in a game that saw Harrington hold the lead from start to finish with substitutes playing much of the time.

Marshall Hatfield opened the scoring with a jump shot from the side. Hatfield passed off to John Greenhaugh for another bucket on a picture play. The same two Lions added a jumper each for a 10-5 first quarter lead.

Greenhaugh rebounded well throughout the contest. He added three buckets in the second quarter as Harrington led at halftime, 25-11.

With the big men on the sidelines, Del Manges held the reserves together with his scrappy ball-hawking, driving and shooting. Lewes' height advantage helped them get closer as the third quarter ended with the score, Harrington 39, Lewes 27.

In the final period Lewes was unable to get going against a Lion quintet of Jerry Cagle, Bill Knox, Don Minner, Gail McReynolds and Lee Graef. Graef and Minner hit for 2 buckets apiece to hold the invaders at bay.

Hawpe used 15 players and 12 dented the scoring column with Greenhaugh getting 12, Hatfield 7 and Manges 6.

be five car lengths, roughly 100 feet, between cars.

"This gives the driver time to react if the car ahead does something unexpected. It makes sense. It prevents rear-end collisions," he said.

The council's campaign is designed as a direct attack on one aspect of the problem of highway safety.

Some motorists who do drop back to keep a safe distance complain that others pass them and use the space: "Let them pass and keep a safe distance from them," McMullen advised.

He said keeping a safe distance is one of the fundamentals of "defensive driving" which the council recommends.
