

TAX BOOST WINS AT GREENWOOD FOR SCHOOL BUILDING PROGRAM

School officials in Greenwood apparently have found a way to get a tax referendum passed—convince the students who convince their parents.

Some Greenwood students — after having the schools' needs explained to them—may have told their parents they're tired of eating lunch in the classrooms or eating in the old cafeteria in shifts from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

In any event, with referendums being defeated by voters elsewhere in Delaware, Greenwood residents turned out 472 strong Saturday to solidly approve a higher tax rate for a $313,000 building program.

They voted to increase the district real estate tax from 52 to 69 cents per $100 assessed valuation and the capitation tax from $7 to $9.

The vote was 346 to 123, more than a 2 to 1 margin.

Greenwood's 40 per cent share of the construction program is $128,000, with the state paying the remainder. Planned are a new and bigger cafeteria and a library.

New classrooms will be built in the present library and cafeteria to meet rising enrollments, said Supt. Louis O. Mills.

"We're tickled to death about this," said Mills Sunday night. "It was just handled right," he commented in explaining why this tax increase passed while others in Laurel and Dover have failed.

Mills said the key may have been the efforts of Principal Sidney Collison who called a school assembly, explained the school's needs to the students and encouraged them to urge their parents to approve the construction program.

As for why the construction is needed, Mills notes that "the kids have been growing, the building hasn't."

He said some classes are being held in what was once a gym locker room. The cafeteria was inadequate for the school's enrollment and the library too small.

Mills figures that with the added classrooms in the old library and cafeteria, the district is set for "several years."

"This was a minimal program," he emphasized.

The superintendent said Collison also spoke for the program to parents at club meetings.

E. A. Rutledge Elected President 9th Dem. Club

At the February meeting of the 9th District Democratic Club of Harrington held at the American Legion Home, the following officers were elected:

President, E. A. Rutledge; 1st vice-pres., Geo. B. Vincent; 2nd vice-pres., Harold P. (Bailey) Minner; treasurer, Mrs. Will Ward; ass't treasurer, Mrs. Ruth Ann Messick; secretary, Clarence M. Collins; ass't secretary, Mrs. Harrison Melvin.

The following members were appointed by Pres. Rutledge as delegates to the 1964 Democratic Club Convention to be held in Dover: Geo. Exley, Carl Wright, Laura Belle Wilson, E. A. Rutledge, Webb Ivins.

Alternate delegates were as follows: Harrison Melvin, Webb Ivins, Mrs. Lindale Coverdale, Mrs. Kay Minner, Mrs. Will Ward.

President Rutledge also announced that the Democrat Club dues are now payable and at this meeting about 36 paid their dues. Also anyone wishing to pay these dues please do so now.

Mr. Rutledge also announced that at the March meeting, Governor Carvel will be the guest speaker.

Harrington Receives Bids

A Georgetown contractor was low bidder Tuesday for construction of an addition to the Harrington school fieldhouse.

John L. Biggs and Co. submitted a low bid of $33,500 for the construction of a stage in the fieldhouse.

Superintendent Albert Adams said Tuesday five contractors had submitted bids for the work. The figures for the work submitted by the other four were not immediately available.

The bids will be examined before a contract is awarded by the Board of Education.

P.T.A. To Meet Wed., Feb. 19

The Harrington P.T.A. will meet Wed., Feb. 19 at 7:30 p.m., in the school cafeteria. This meeting was re-scheduled due to the slim attendance at the Feb. 5 meeting.

All teachers are at school for half an hour after school dismissal each day. Any parent who wishes to see a teacher may visit the school or call and make an appointment.

Outstanding Biology Teacher Nominations Urged

Nominations for an outstanding biology teacher in the State of Delaware are currently being sought by a selection committee representing the National Association of Biology Teachers.

The state selection committee is headed by Dr. Robert W. Stegner, assistant professor of education at the University of Delaware, and includes Stewart Harrison, physics teacher, Mt. Pleasant High School; Arthur Shapiro, director of secondary education, Dover public schools; Dr. Arnold M. Clark, professor of biology, University of Delaware; and Dr. Norman Searle, research scientist, DuPont Experimental Station.

"Because of the need to retain superior teachers in our classrooms, it is important for civic and professional organizations and individual citizens to reward excellent teaching as generously as possible," Dr. Stegner said.

The National Association of Biology Teachers sponsors an annual program of awards for an outstanding biology teacher in each state. Since there are many excellent biology teachers, the NABT emphasizes that the award is made to an outstanding teacher rather than to "the" outstanding teacher. Nominees are eligible for the award in subsequent years until they are selected as the representative of an annual nominee group.

Nominations may be made by any group or individual. Forms for nominations and recommendations already have been sent to high school principals throughout the state and the due by March 15. The state selection will be made on April 25. State winners will be recognized nationally in the "American Biology Teacher" and also will be eligible for regional awards.

The NABT began its awards program on a national basis in 1962. Delaware is participating for the first time this year.

Work In Asia Will Be Told

The Rev. John Victor Samuel, Methodist minister and church executive from West Pakistan will speak in the Trinity Methodist Church this Sunday evening at 7 p.m. The Harrington Ministerium agreed to make the formal emphasis on World Prayer at this evening service since Mr. Samuel will be our special guest for the evening. Several churches and their pastors will be participating in this service.

Mr. Samuel is on a one year assignment in the United States as a staff member of the Methodist department of field cultivation to interpret the role and work of the Methodist Church in southern Asia. Mr. Samuel was graduated from Punjab University in 1953 and attended Leonard Theological College in Jabalpur and was appointed the first Pakistani secretary of the Student Christian movement in 1961. Combined Youth Choirs of Trinity and Asbury Churches under the direction of Melvin Brobst will present special music.

Francis W. Morris

Francis W. Morris, 41, of Felton suffered a heart attack at his home Sunday morning and was taken to Kent General Hospital, Dover, and died that afternoon. He was a weigh master for Ducat Poultry Company.

Surviving are his wife, Frances B. Morris; a son, Francis W. Morris Jr., and his mother, Mrs. Nora Tee Morris, all of Felton.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon from the Berry Funeral Home, Felton.

Rev. John E. Parker, former pastor of Felton Methodist Church officiated. Interment was at Barratt's Chapel Cemetery, Frederica.

Archie Feagan To Be Honored

Citizens of Harrington and the surrounding communities are planning to honor Archie Feagan at a testimonial dinner Sat., Feb. 22, at 6:30 p.m., in the Harrington School Cafeteria.

Mr. Feagan arrived in Delaware in 1927 and was a teacher at the Elendale School for 2 years.

He then transferred to Harrington on Sept. 1, 1929 and has been teaching math here for 35 years. During these years Mr. Feagan has gained many friends and has given valuable service to our community through his means of teaching.

Herman C. Brown, a well-known Dover attorney, and a graduate of the Class of 1942, will be the toastmaster. Speaker of the evening will be Dr. J. Edward Legates, an associate professor at N. Carolina State University and a former graduate of Harrington—Class of 1939.

General Chairman Ellwood Gruwell announces that the following organizations and committee chairmen are completing final plans for the dinner:

Dinner chairman, Mrs. Frances Winkler, Century Club; Decorations, Mrs. James Moore, P.T.A.; Tickets, Luther Hatfield, Lions Club; Special Guests, Miss Loretta Paskey, B. P. W. Club; Program, Mrs. Alfred Mann, Alumni Association; Publicity, Thomas H. Peck, Chamber of Commerce; Reception, Robert Taylor, Jaycees; Gift, William Kramedas, Teacher's Association.

C. T. Harrington will serve as finance officer for the affair.

The Rev. Quay Rice, Rector of St. Stephen's Church will give the invocation.

Tickets may be secured through all service organizations or by calling the ticket chairman, Luther Hatfield. Tickets are also available at Taylor's Hardware, Outten's Insurance, People's Bank and the First National Bank.

Episcopal Church To Aid Underprivileged

The Episcopal Church is going to take a hard look at its outreach to the underprivileged, less cultured people of Delaware. On four Monday nights, beginning Feb. 17, the Rev. Dr. H. Boone Porter, professor of Liturgics at General Theological Seminary in New York City, will assist some 50 leaders of the Diocese to survey the changing opportunities and needs facing the church as she attempts to minister in and to the world of our time.

Our changing culture calls for appropriate changes in our forms of ministry. The church seems to influence less and less the lives of inner city and rural dwellers. The number of unchurched people increases steadily, especially among the uneducated. This conference will be concerned with appropriate measures which the Diocese might take to broaden and improve its ministry (of clergy and of laity).

Participants will be members of the Executive Council of the Diocese and other diocesan leaders invited by the Right Rev. J. Brooke Mosley, Bishop of Delaware. Members of the Leadership Training Division of the Department of Education will be assisting as discussion leaders. Resource people for the groups will be members of the downtown clergy and laymen already engaged in the inner city ministry.

CWO James E. Shultie Receives Citation

Chief Warrant Officer James E. Shultie, former cryptographic officer at U. S. Continental Army Command Communications Center, Ft. Monroe, was recently awarded a certificate of achievement for past duty performance upon his reassignment to the Canal Zone in Panama.

Col. Roy F. Zinser, Ft. Monroe Post Commander, presented the citation to the 31-year-old officer which lauded Shultie's "initiative, resourcefulness and professional competence" in furnishing headquarters communications to CONARC Headquarters.

Entering the Army as an enlisted man in 1948, Shultie was appointed to Warrant officer rank in April, 1962. Prior to his arrival at Ft. Monroe in August of that year, he was assigned to a Signal Company at Verdum, France.

Shultie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Shultie, 101 N.W. St., Harrington. He and his wife, Ellen, have three children, James Jr., 13; Catherine, 9, and Donna, 4.

Carvel Fills Election Posts; Four Republicans Appointed

Four Republicans were appointed Friday—two in each county—to Departments of Elections in Kent and Sussex.

The posts were filled by Gov. Elbert N. Carvel from a list supplied by William V. Roth Jr., GOP State chairman.

A House Bill passed last year required the appointment of Republican members to boost minority representation. It was tied to GOP support of the highway bond bill.

Those appointed were:

Kent—Edward West of Hartly and George P. Tatman of Harrington.

Sussex—George W. Mitchell, Clarksville, and Robert B. Hopkins, Bridgeville.

Carvel still has to name four Republicans to the New Castle County elections board. But the bill gives him 30 days from the time he receives the list from the state chairman and the time limit for New Castle County does not expire for two weeks.

Democratic State Chairman John M. Conway has not yet submitted his lists for Kent and Sussex. The Democrats get three appointments on each downstate board but none in New Castle County.

All nominees must be confirmed by the State Senate, which has 10 legislative days after it receives the names. They probably will be submitted on Tuesday.

Carvel had the option of disregarding the list but could only have done that once. He would have had to choose from a second list submitted. Three names are submitted for each appointment.

HB 481 provided for boards of five and three downstate, on a majority-minority-party basis, versus eight-and-one now, and nine and six in New Castle, versus nine and two currently.

Christmas Program Discussed by Local C. of C.

The Chamber of Commerce, at its February meeting at The Wonder R Tuesday, spent most of its time discussing the annual Christmas program.

Albert C. Price, chairman of the program, gave a report which was favorably received and which resulted in thanks from President Thomas Peck.

A problem, arising annually, is the cost of putting up and taking down the Christmas lighting, and replacing wires and bulbs. This matter accounts for most of the cost of the program.

It was felt that, since all citizens benefited from the Yule program, the City might consider paying for the lighting program. The president appointed J. Edward Taylor, Thomas E. Clendenning, and himself to a committee to appear before the City Council at its March meeting to look into the matter.

Continuing on the Christmas program, suggestions were made for improving the parade, unusually successful this past year. Fulton J. Downing also suggested winning homes in the lighting contest be identified.

Downing, a director of the State Chamber of Commerce, mentioned that under the leadership of the new president, Otis Smith, of Lewes, a drive would be made to increase downstate membership and the chamber would be represented in the State House.

4-H Program Stresses Youth Needs, Methods

Helping youth to productivity through 4-H was the general theme of two programs for 4-H leaders at Farm and Home Week on Wednesday (Feb. 5).

"Young people are working toward growing up," said Eleanor Wilson, program leader for the Federal Extension Service. "Each may at a different stage of development because of age and experience, and thus have different needs and interests. Set the stage for them, so they can emerge into adulthood on their own," she urged the leaders.

Flexibility in establishing programs for youth has been the key to reaching a larger number of young people, Ronald Aronson is Connecticut State 4-H leader.

In the morning program, Miss Wilson stressed the need for knowing basic facts about the age groups with which 4-H work deals, then tailoring projects to fit the individual needs.

LOCAL GUARDS TO HAVE OPEN HOUSE

There will be an open house at the Harrington Armory Sunday. The purpose is to allow the local citizens to see the local National Guard facilities and training area.

There will be personnel present to answer any questions which the public might ask.

Falls and Fires Leading Causes of Home Accidents

Falls and fires are the leading causes of the home accidents which took 48 lives in Delaware last year, Mrs. William N. Cann, of the Delaware Safety Council, reported this week.

Mrs. Cann, who is vice president for home safety, said 16 persons died from falls in Delaware home accidents in 1963, and 14 from fires. There were 11 deaths from suffocation. Other home accidents took seven lives.

"We should learn everything we can to make our homes safer places in which to live and teach our children all about safety at an early age," Mrs. Cann said. She said Delaware's death rates in home accidents and highway accidents are both among the lowest in the nation.

An effort to make them even lower will be made at the statewide workshop on family safety to be held at Mitchell Hall at the University of Delaware on Feb. 19 from 10 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. The workshop is sponsored by the Delaware Safety Council and the State Board of Health in an effort to help homemakers promote attitudes and habits of safety in the home, which Mrs. Cann declared is the basic place for safety education.

The only charge for the workshop is a $2 fee for lunch, Mrs. Cann added.

Speakers will deal with home equipment and appliances, dangers of poisons and fires in the home and also with the problem of water safety and what can be done about it in the home.

Safety chairmen of women's, civic and other organizations and all interested individuals are invited to attend. Reservations may be made through the offices of the safety council, OL 4-7786.

4-H, F.F.A. to Participate in Chicken Festival

The 4-H and the Future Farmers of America (F.F.A.) are to have a conspicuous part in the 1964 Delmarva Chicken Festival, to be held in Talbot County, Md. June 18, 19 and 20. John W. Noble, general chairman of this nationwide festival, has announced that these two youth organizations, from which will come many of the future poultry producers and processors, will stage a special exhibit to be entitled "The Evolution of the Broiler."

The display will tell the dramatic and exciting story of the broiler from the early days of its present vast enterprise which has made it one of the most important industries in America. They will show how it originated on the Delmarva Peninsula, and how, through research, planning and hard work, it today provides a livelihood for millions of persons across the nation, in addition to furnishing one of the most healthful and economic food staples.

Mr. Noble has appointed Douglas M. Parks, Jr., assistant county agent in Talbot County, as chairman of this festival enterprise. Mr. Parks is a native of Baltimore and a graduate of the University of Maryland. He has been with the University of Maryland's Agricultural Extension Service eight years, and for four years has worked with the 4-H program in Talbot County.

"The Evolution of the Broiler" expects to operate in a special booth and to have a continuous projector, showing slides and pictures in which will be incorporated the Junior Broiler program of the Peninsula. This will be a combined activity between the two organizations, the F.F.A. being related primarily to vocational agriculture as taught in the high schools, and the 4-H being with other children from agricultural homes. Five counties will be represented in the festival program, Kent, Queen Anne's, Caroline, Talbot and Dorchester, of Maryland.

Tremendous changes in the poultry industry have come during recent years, Mr. Parks states, and these will be brought to light in the display prepared and operated by the young people.

Mrs. Frederick C. Vincent

Mrs. Lucy Quillen Vincent, 72, died Tuesday at Milford Memorial Hospital.

She was a Greenwood resident and the widow of Frederick C. Vincent.

Mrs. Vincent is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Adeline Richey of Ft. Myers, Fla., and a grandson.

Services will be Friday at 11 a.m. at the Hardesty Funeral Home, Bridgeville.

HARRINGTON COUNCIL SHIFTS CITY CLERK HOURS

Who Will Be Delaware's Junior Miss for 1964?

The Harrington Jaycees report that final arrangements have been completed for the Delaware Junior Miss Pageant which will be held in the field house of the Harrington High School at 8 p.m. this Saturday, Feb. 15. The winners of other contests held throughout the state will compete for the title of Delaware's Junior Miss. They will be judged in three categories—talent, poise and appearance in sport attire, and poise and appearance in formal attire.

Mark Berryman, postmaster at Seaford, will be the master of ceremonies. Miss Carla Wilkins, 1963 Delaware Junior Miss, will be on hand to crown this year's winner.

A large pageant has been planned and the Jaycees urge public support in this fine program to give recognition to the outstanding high school senior girls in the state. Tickets are on sale by all members and will also be available at the door.

Under-Developed Nations Need Knowledge of Ag.

The best way the United States can help agriculturally underdeveloped countries is to show some interest in these countries by sharing its vast knowledge of agriculture, according to Dr. Ralph Hodgson, chief of animal research for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, speaking Wednesday afternoon at Farm and Home Week at the University of Delaware.

Dr. Hodgson commented that about half of the world is agriculturally underdeveloped. The problem of supplying food to these countries can only be accomplished by developing these countries' knowledge of agriculture. He pointed out that it would be a waste to send seed, livestock and machinery to these countries without also sending the properly trained personnel to show the people of these countries how to use them.

Animal protein is lacking most in the diets of these countries, said Hodgson. Dairy, poultry and beef cattle, he pointed out, can combat this deficiency. Although some of the underdeveloped countries are trying to increase their dairy products, the knowledge to maintain these advances is not there.

The U.S., said Dr. Hodgson, should introduce more exchange programs to have these countries benefit from our own knowledge of agriculture. The development of these countries should not depend entirely on the U. S., but on the half of the world that is agriculturally developed, Hodgson said.

With Dr. Hodgson on the dairy day program was Dr. George M. Worrlow, dean of the school of agriculture and vice president of the University of Delaware, speaking on the expansion of the state of Delaware in population and agriculture. He emphasized the fact that in the past ten years the State of Delaware has increased its agricultural production as much or greater than that of its surrounding states.

Dean Worrlow also said interest in agriculture has been increasing constantly in urban areas. This is evident, he said, from the enrollment in the School of Agriculture at the University. Approximately half of this year's freshman class enrolled in agriculture are from urban areas.

Closing the dairy sessions was Dr. William M. Crosswhite, agricultural economist at the University of Delaware, speaking on dairy production in Delaware.

State Chairman Named for DPI Fund Drive

Willis Hancock, of Worcester County, general chairman of the 1964 Delmarva Poultry Industry fund drive has announced appointment of state chairmen for the drive in Delaware, Maryland and Virginia.

Heading up the campaign in Delaware is Ralston Pettyjohn, of Townsends, Inc., at Millsboro.

Co-chairmen for Maryland are O. O. Stivers, of the Choptank Electric Cooperative at Denton, in charge of activities in the north.

City Council held not only a special meeting but an executive session Tuesday night regarding the length of time the city office is to remain open.

Called at the request of Councilman Albert C. Price, the meeting was to reconsider the action of council's reorganization meeting a week ago at which the hours of city clerk Kathryn Derrickson were established from 8:30 to 5 p.m. and her salary set at $70 a week.

Tuesday night council changed the hours back again to 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and left Mrs. Derrickson's salary at $65 weekly which it has been before.

Council reached the decision at an executive meeting lasting over an hour but voted in public to put the change into effect. The vote was 4-1 with Councilman Wilson Bradley dissenting.

Former Councilman Luther P. Hatfield, who was defeated by Price in January, was given permission to speak and said he understood the longer hours were to be established to enable the city clerk to collect taxes and water bills without hiring additional clerical help.

Hatfield asked if decisions were to be made by council or by the city clerk and "her political group." Mrs. Derrickson is Democratic committee woman in Harrington.

Price retorted it was "a matter of opinion" whether a political group controls the city.

Council Tuesday night also authorized the signing of a trespass agreement with the State Highway Department so it can clean out a ditch adjacent to the old city dump.

It instructed City Manager Al Mann to enforce the two-hour parking restrictions in the business district. The two-hour limitation was imposed when council removed the parking meters at the request of the Chamber of Commerce.

A businessman present Tuesday night said merchants are the biggest violators of the two-hour regulation which was put in to make it more convenient for shoppers.

Council authorized the city manager to determine snow routes to be plowed first and to enforce the ordinance requiring removal of snow from sidewalks.

Delaware Valley C. F. O. Retreat

On Valentine weekend, Feb. 14 through 16 there will be a C.F.O. Retreat at Wesley Methodist Church, Dover, with registration beginning at 3 p.m.

C.F.O. stands for Camps Farthest Out, an interdenominational prayer retreat movement, started in 1929 by Dr. Glenn Clark, for those who desire to deepen their spiritual lives, and go "farthest out" with God. These camps are held throughout the year in various parts of the United States, Canada, the British Isles, India, Japan, Liberia, Korea, and other parts of the world. The camps are an experience which changes lives, and communities. Here one finds God in every activity, in every phase of the camp program.

The leaders for this C.F.O. Retreat are the Rev. Dr. Roland Brown and his wife, Mrs. Marcia Brown. Dr. Brown is an internationally known minister. He is currently on a fifth world journey, where he and Mrs. Brown are leading spiritual-life retreats and C.F.O. camps in churches, colleges, universities, and seminaries of all denominations. His message pierces to the heart of our problems. Above all he perceives that Christians everywhere need to open their lives to a more dynamic inflow of God's power. "Prayer, and only prayer, can do that," says Pastor Brown, "and we must be willing to learn how to pray." A quote from Dr. Nels F. S. Ferre, one of the world's greatest theologians, says, "Roland Brown was here one night and you have no idea how much he thrilled my life. I had previously planned something else for that evening but I came for an hour. I am still thanking God for that hour." The Archbishop of Sydney and Primate of Australia says, "He is a man who not only knows what he is talking about and therefore speaks with conviction and authority, but he knows God! He is most truly a man of God, and a man of Prayer." Dr. Glenn Clark, author and religious leader says, "Wherever Roland Brown leads a mission God does something. People are changed, churches are changed,

St. Bernadette's Church Notes On this, the first Friday evening in Lent, services will be held at 8 o'clock. These services will consist in the Stations of the Cross and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. On Saturday morning Mass will be offered at 9. Sunday morning Mass will be offered at 9:30. Confessions will be heard before Mass. Confraternity classes of religion will be held on Sunday evening at 7 for all the students in the junior and senior high school classes. For all the younger children in the parish there will be classes on Thursday afternoon at 3:30. During Lent the Catholic Church imposes by law on its members the observance of fast and abstinence. This is done to foster the spirit of penance and reparation for sin and also to encourage self-denial and mortification so that all might walk in the footsteps of our Divine Savior. The law of abstinence obliges all who are seven years of age and older. On days of complete abstinence all such individuals are not permitted to eat meat, nor any meat product, such as soup or gravy made from meat. A day of complete abstinence is Ash Wednesday and any Friday. On days of partial abstinence meat and its products may be eaten only at the principal meal. Next Wednesday, Feb. 19, is such a day, an Ember day. Other days of Lent are days of neither complete nor partial abstinence. A child or any one held only to the law of abstinence may eat as much meat as they wish on the usual week-day of Lent. The law of fast is a bit different. This law obliges everyone who is over 21 and under 59 years of age. This law limits the amount of food such a person may eat on a particular day. Each week-day of Lent is a fast day for a person in this age bracket. On a fast day such a person may eat one full meal at which time the amount of food is not restricted. Two other meatless meals may also be taken but the combined quantity of food may not equal or constitute a second full meal. Eating between meals is not allowed on fast days for those obliged to fast but beverages are allowed. Our Hearts & Our Economic Welfare

"American industry has tackled and licked many tough problems, but the one we have not yet faced up to resolutely is the terrific waste of human talent exacted from us each year by the heart diseases."

These are the words of Clarence B. Randall, leading business executive. His statement is entirely correct.

We lose more than 69 million man-days of production each year because of the heart and blood vessel diseases. Expressed in dollars, this is more than a billion dollars a year. Equally significant to all of us is this fact: The heart and blood vessel diseases cause 50 percent of all deaths among Americans 45 to 64, destroying executives and craftsmen at the peak of their skills and in the most productive years of life.

What can be done to reduce these losses? How can we, in Mr. Randall's words, "face up" to this Number One American health problem, the heart diseases?

The Delaware Heart Association says that the answer is to expand research. More than 1300 medical scientists throughout the country are now seeking vital answers under grants made possible by the Heart Fund. But many other highly qualified research scientists, with projects approved by the American Heart Association's research committee, are being denied support because there are no funds to put them to work.

It is the responsibility of every citizen whose welfare depends upon the economic security of the community to provide these funds. The time to do it is now, during the Heart Fund drive. We can give to the Heart Fund volunteer who will visit our homes on Heart Sunday, Feb. 23. Or we can mail our gifts to HEART, care of the Postmaster.

How we give is not important. That we give, and give generously, is. For our gifts will provide the research we need to solve the heart problem. There is no doubt—more will live, the more we give to the Heart Fund.

4-H News

With Marion MacDonald

4-H'ers speak on vital issues on Saturday evening. Our annual Public Speaking Contest will be held February 15th at the Capitol Grange, Dover. Our Senior 4-H'ers will speak on such topics as School Dropouts, citizenship and elections. Come and join us at 8:00 p. m. to hear our youth and their ideas. Contestants will talk three to five minutes. Speakers will be: Ray Roland, Bobwhites Club; Janet Clendaniel, Chestnut Grove; Helen Vincent, Gail Johnson and Nancy Mumford, Farmington Fire Flies; Sandy Kirk, Med Davis, and Linda Opdyke, Fox Hall; Susan Greenhaugh, Harrington Sunshine; Clifford Hammond, Houston Cardinals; Linda French, Milford Millwood; Fred Stites, Oak Grove; Blake Powell, Rita Hall, Emily Tuthill and Suzanne Tuthill, Paradise; Pete Rusanowsky, Westville; and Thelma Thomas, Deores Tinley, and Chuck Link, Whiteoaks.

Over eighty 4-H leaders and others interested in youth attended the Farm and Home Week program on Wednesday. Miss Eleanor Wilson, program leader, Federal Extension Service pointed out the needs of youth at their different age levels. Ron Aronson, Connecticut State Leader presented his state's approach for providing 4-H for new groups. By hearing of another state's methods, Mr. Aronson stimulated our thinking on our Delaware 4-H program. Basically here in Delaware our 4-H clubs are Community Clubs encompassing all ages of youth. We feel we are able to provide more opportunities in developing the individual. Mrs. Sam Walker, active in the local member. Was pleased that Camden-Wyoming Boy Scouts, attended the sessions. 4-H leaders from Kent were: Mr. and Mrs. Francis Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Lister Hall, Dan Hudson, Mrs. Sally Comeys, Mrs. Pauline Hufnal, Mrs. Raymond Burgess, Mrs. John Campbell, and Mrs. Grace Tinley. Saw several Kent County 4-H'ers who are attending the University of Delaware. Fred Wibel was serving coffee that John Benson was enjoying. Wayne Simpson buzzed by a time or two on his way to class.

Delaware Food Market Report

Another Lenten season is at hand and this makes shopping for food no easy job. It requires imagination to choose foods that add variety for the forty day menus. It requires a knowledge of the nutritive value of different foods to meet changes in dietary practices. Also, it requires a knowledge of the supplies and prices of food to receive the greatest return on the money spent.

Food customs during Lent vary greatly in different parts of the Christian world. For those who abstain from flesh meats during certain days of Lent including other protein-rich foods in the menu, will be a dietary concern.

Among food sources of protein suitable to main-dish use are fish, eggs, and cheese. All three offer menu variety. The same type of high quality protein available from the red meats is available from these three foods and in generous amounts. The protein from a 3-ounce serving of cooked beef is equaled roughly, by that of a 3-ounce serving of cooked fish, 3-ounces of Cheddar cheese, or from 2 to 3 eggs.

As far as fish is concerned, few people realize how many varieties are available on the market. Although only about seven species of fish are well known to the average person from coast to coast, there are actually about 200 varieties sold in the United States. This is in addition to the 40 varieties of shellfish available in our food markets. So you see, Lenten meals can be very appetizing if different kinds of fish and shellfish are purchased, new recipes are tried, and the way in which the dishes are served is varied.

Prices of fresh vegetables are still showing the effect of January's frigid weather, which damaged some Florida crops severely while other got off with minor injuries. The biggest price increase is on squash - carton tomatoes are also up. Eggplant is damaged and the quality bears watching. Cucumbers are for rich folks.

On the brighter side are the declining prices of cauliflower and broccoli. Other vegetables in sufficient supply to provide variety for the family table include cabbage, carrots, celery, green peppers, and potatoes.

Oranges are selling in a wide price range, depending largely on the size. Grapefruit now in peak supply continue to be reasonable. Lemons are coming down in price and avocados are still available with little change in price.

Large size Grade A or AA eggs are better buys this week, while prices on all eggs are down from last week.

Mrs. F. C. Wroten

Mrs. Emma C. Wroten, 68, a lifelong resident of near Todds Church, Greenwood, died Friday in Milford Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Wroten is survived by her husband, Frank C. Wroten, Greenwood; three daughters, Mrs. Hilda Massey, of Milton; Mrs. Jack Pendleton, of Milford, and Mrs. Addison Tatman, of Bridgeville; four grandchildren; one brother, Louis Edgell of Dover, and one sister, Mrs. George Ely, of Elkton, Md.

Antique Authority Speaks at Farm And Home Week

Twenty-five chairs and an authority on antiques and their history opened the homemakers' program at Farm and Home Week at the University of Delaware Tuesday morning, Feb. 4.

More than 250 women heard Robert Treat Hogg, cabinet maker from Cream, Pa., explain features of American-made furniture. Several of his examples dated back to the early 1700's. Represented were Queen Anne, Chippendale, Hepplewhite, Sheraton, Windsor, Hitchcock, American Empire and Victorian. The oldest chair was a Pennsylvania slat back, with wide horizontal bars.

Hogg's experience with furniture has been gained from over 35 years of reproducing antique furniture, restoring old pieces, hand carving and custom work. He has made chairs and settees for Independence Hall and the Old Courthouse in New Castle. His talk was highlighted by historical facts about the designs of the many chairs exhibited. Chinese Chippendale, for instance, was the outcome of a trip to the Orient by Mr. Chippendale. As a result, bamboo styling found a place in the decoration of chair legs.

Sheraton, maker of few chairs who left his designs in the pages of books, was represented, as was Hitchcock, whose factory turned out as many as 50 chairs a day during the 1830's. Two chairs for children, one a contemporary Amish work, the other a three-quarter copy of an adult chair, were well received. Three quarter chairs are often worth two to three times what full grown ones are, Hogg stated. Fewer of them were made, usually only for special orders, and they didn't get as much wear as children quickly out-grew them.

Historically, the Windsor chair has great significance for Wilmingtonians. Sampson Burnett, a craftsman working in Wilmington around 1776, made many of them. They could be bought for $2.50 per chair, then. Windsor chairs made in Philadelphia, by Francis Trumble graced the Continental Congress. Hogg worked from one of the original chairs when he made copies for Independence Hall.

In addition, he explained the uses of wood in chairs. Mahogany, maple, poplar, hickory, and cherry were used in different parts of older chairs, each wood serving purposes for which it was best suited. Cherry, for example, was used for curved backs because it could be bent easily; flexible hickory in spindles; mahogany, walnut and poplar for sturdy pieces.

Hogg explained that their construction has made much earlier furniture unable to withstand years of use. Older glues were not as lasting as those made today. When arm rest end pieces, as on Windsor chairs, were made in three pieces, many of them later came off and were lost.

However, through the experiments of these early designers with construction and styling, much has been accomplished to make today's furniture fashionable and functional, Hogg pointed out.

Dr. Stahl to Open U. of D. Philosophy of Science Series

The third series in the University of Delaware Philosophy of Science seminars will open Tuesday, Feb. 18, with a lecture by prominent biologist Dr. Franklin W. Stahl.

Professor Stahl, a staff member of the Institute of Molecular Biology, University of Oregon, will speak in Room 101, Sharp Laboratory on the Delaware campus at 8 p.m. He is the first of eight leading biologists scheduled to appear in the spring, 1964 seminar series, coordinated by Dr. Lucio Chiaravaglio of the department of philosophy at Delaware.

Dr. Stahl, like the other lecturers in the series, has seen his work lead to significant reorientation in the biological sciences, and is well qualified to explore the theoretical foundations of molecular biology. Dr. Stahl holds his undergraduate degree from Harvard College, and his Ph. D. from the University of Rochester. His professional undertakings have included work as a research fellow at California Institute of Technology in 1957-58; a year as associate professor of zoology, University of Missouri; and his present duties as professor of biology, University of Oregon. From 1959 to 1962, Dr. Stahl acted as associate editor of Virology.

The 34-year-old biologist has been invited to speak before numerous American and European biological societies. In 1958, Professor Stahl spoke at the Second International Colloquium on Bacteriophage, conducted at Royan, France. He returned to that country in 1961 to speak at the Physical Chemistry Society Conference on DNA.

Admission to Dr. Stahl's lecture will be $2, a fee which will be standard for all lectures in the current series.

Mother of Year Deadline Near

Mrs. William N. Cann, state chairman for the American Mother of the Year Contest, advised this week that the March 1 deadline for acceptance of nominations for the Delaware Mother of the Year is rapidly approaching and urged all those who desire to nominate an entry for the 1964 contest to contact her at 1508 Pennsylvania Avenue, Wilmington, for nomination blanks.

Mrs. Cann also advised that the entry blanks may be obtained from anyone of the following committee members: Mrs. Paul Mitchell, Hockessin; Mrs. Jesse Loven, Odessa; Mrs. Joseph Ennis, Smyrna; Mrs. E. W. Buchanan, Dover; Mrs. George Till, Rehoboth Beach and Mrs. J. Fred Miles, Seaford.

Mrs. Cann also pointed out that contest rules provide that nominees should have the following qualifications (which are to be verified by family members, friends, organization officials, church groups or other sources):

- 1.) That she be a successful mother as evidenced by the character and achievements of her individual children;
- 2.) that she be an active member of a religious body;
- 3.) that she embody those traits highly regarded in mothers—courage, cheerfulness, patience, affection, kindness and understanding and a home-making ability;
- 4.) that she exemplify in her life and conduct the precepts of the Golden Rule;
- 5.) that she have a sense of responsibility in civic affairs and that she be active in service for public benefit;
- 6.) that she be qualified to represent the mothers of America in all responsibilities attached to her role as the National Mother.

The Delaware Mother of the Year contest was inaugurated in 1950 when Mrs. Jonathan Willis, of near Milford was selected. Other state winners have been:

1951, Mrs. William Riley Brown, Wyoming; 1952, Mrs. Elizabeth S. Shallcross, Odessa; 1953, Mrs. Samuel J. Stein, Seaford; 1954, Mrs. Edgar J. Boggs, Cheswold; 1955, Mrs. Morris L. Zerkow, Dover; 1956, Mrs. George F. Seitz, Sr., Wilmington; 1957, Mrs. Edgar F. Isaacs, Sr., of near Milford; 1958, Mrs. George Ehinger, Dover; 1959, Mrs. E. Edward Thompson, Rehoboth Beach; 1960, Mrs. Bessie Ellegood Mayer, Dover; 1961, Mrs. Anna Mathews Aydelotte, Delmar; 1962, Mrs. Vera Gilbride Davis, Dover; 1963, Mrs. Robert F. Lewis, of near Seaford.

According to Mrs. Cann, each of the fifty states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico will designate an entry for the American Mother of the Year contest and announcement of identity of the winner of national honors will be made on the opening day of the annual mother's conference to be held in New York in May.

Bridge Traffic Report Shows Increase

January traffic over Delaware Memorial Bridge took a healthy 7.6 per cent increase over the same month in 1963, a report to the Delaware River and Bay Authority shows.

According to General Manager Frank J. Harty there were 799,911 crossings last month as compared to 743,622 in January 1963. This represents an increase of 56,289 vehicles.

Despite the several days of bad weather last month the bridge deck was always clear, Harty reported and traffic was not hampered at any time.

The January total boosted eight months of 1963-64 fiscal year traffic to 8,654,455 vehicles compared to 8,429,858 crossings from June 1, 1962 through May 31, 1963—a gain of 2.7 per cent.

Revenue for the month of January was up 62.5 per cent, due to the increased rates which became effective on July 1, 1963 to provide funds for a second memorial span and ferry service between Cape May, New Jersey and Lewes. Total revenue for January was $496,609.70 as against $305,636.45 a year earlier. For the eighth month period, total revenue has climbed to $4,883,068.50 as compared to $3,139,512.15 a year earlier. his is a 55 per cent increase for the period.

 7 p.m. Union service world day of prayer at Trinity.

MONDAY—
 3:30 p.m. Catechism.
 7:30 p.m. Inquirers' and Confirmation Class.

TUESDAY—
 All day Tuesday and Wednesday, clergy conference at Rehoboth.

7 p.m. Physical fitness and weight lifting at Armory.
WEDNESDAY—
 3:30 p.m. Girl Scouts.
 7:30 p.m. Healing service.
 8:15 p.m. Lenten Bible Study.

THURSDAY—
 7 p.m. Youth Choir.
 7:45 p.m. Youth and Adult Choirs combined.

8:30 p.m. Combined rehearsals of Asbury, Trinity and St. Stephen's adult choirs.

This coming Wednesday and each Wednesday until the end of Lent, there will be in the lounge, immediately after the healing service (about 8:15) a Lenten Bible Study. It will be led by the vicar and will be entitled "Paul Launches the New Testament" It is based on the letters of Paul to the Thessalonians, Galatians, Corinthians and Romans. Too many of us do not know our Bibles, nor do we know the chief doctrines of the Christian church. St. Paul was the first and greatest interpreter of the teachings of our Lord. It is certainly hoped that both men and women will come to these sessions and will participate. Every effort will be made to keep the sessions within a reasonable length of time, so that every one can be at home around ten o'clock.

Today, Friday, is World Day of Prayer. Christians around the world, beginning in the islands of the Pacific, and continuing around the world to the outer islands of Alaska, will join in a continuous flow of prayer. It is hoped that all Christians who read this announcement will join in this world cycle of prayer. Remembered particularly in prayer should be the twelve women's colleges in Africa, India, Pakistan, Japan, Korea, Hong Kong and Taiwan; as well as Christian churches in Asia, Africa and Latin America. Coming closer to home, the ministry to migratory laborers and to Indian reservations as well as the crowded slum areas of our cities should also be supported by our prayers.

Since on Sunday night the Protestant Churches of the community join in the observance of the World Day of Prayer, there will be no evensong or meeting of the Episcopal Young Churchmen.

However it is hoped that the Episcopal Young Churchmen will meet at St. Stephen's at 6:30 p.m. and will go in a body to Trinity. There will be transportation at the church for them.

This Saturday, Feb. 15, Roy Porter and Edward Yocum, of St. Stephen's will participate in the Mid-Atlantic weight lifting meet at the Main Y.M.C.A. in Baltimore. These two boys have been chosen to compete on the basis of the total poundage they can get up in three lifts: the snatch; the clean and jerk; the clean and press. Roy's total for the three lifts so far has been 425 lbs., while Eddie's total has been 575 lbs.

A recent letter from Franklin Fowler Jr. gives a change of address which his friends will want to know about, therefore we shall include it in this column. It is: Harry Franklin Fowler, Jr. 770-58-58 Co. 586, U. S. Naval Training Center, San Diego, California 92133.

This past Sunday St. Stephen's basketball team was 'home team' to that of All Saints' of Delmar at a close game in the high school gymnasium. The final score was 40 to 34 in favor of St. Stephen's. After the game the boys of both teams went out to St. Stephen's for a treat and while enthusiasm was running high, arranged a tentative game to be in Delmar the first Sunday after Lent, April 5.

At a meeting of the vestry this past Sunday evening Walter Winkler was elected warden of the vestry with Ezra Yocum as his assistant warden. George Von Goerres was elected by the vestry to fill the remainder of the term of office of vestry of J. Hartman Hynson, who has recently transferred to Christ's church, Dover. Mr. Hynson had been active in the vestry for two years and his term of office would have expired Dec. 31 this year.

FENCE TALK

With George Vapaa

Your county agent was privileged to entertain Keith Bilbrey of Blytheville, Ark., during Farm and Home Week at the University of Delaware. Keith was billed on our program as agricultural agent of the world's largest soybean producing county. He has 25 years of extension service experience under his belt, and we were happy to take a colored slide tour of his Mississippi county.

How does it differ from counties in Delaware? Well, he is located about 300 miles latitude south of us so their growing season average perhaps three weeks longer. They grow many of the same varieties that we do—Lees, Hoods, Hills as well as the short season beans. The whole county is Mississippi river bottom or delta land, so the soils tend to be heavier and more claylike. They grow beans for much the same reasons as we do—mainly because they can be handled with machines. Cotton is their other big crop. Land values average $500 to $800 per acre with rental at perhaps $20 per acre. This is high rental by our standards for soybeans, but the cotton allotments go with the land. Once the leading Duroc hog county in the country, they no longer have a single animal of this breed! For that matter, they have very few livestock now. This is counter to our own trends in Delaware.

How did Delaware look to Keith? First he was attracted by the enthusiasm of the farmers he met at the sessions. He was curious about our state history—the First State, the Blue Hen, Caesar Rodney's ride to Philadelphia, the early historic mills at the Hagley Museum, the horse and rider training demonstration in Carpenter fieldhouse at Newark, an Eastern Shore crab imperial dinner, and of all things your agent's three cylinder, two cycle, front wheel drive doodlebug.

Rural recreation enterprises for profit will be a feature of a TV show put together by your county agent for viewing out of Philadelphia Saturday, Feb. 29.

The show will include Gordon Nightingale of the Bombay Hook Wildlife Refuge near Leipsic and Fred Mott, our soil conservationist here at Dover. Gordon hopes to have a Canadian goose and perhaps a mallard duck or two on hand, while Fred will show how farmers can develop goose ponds and other conservation measures to increase the wildlife population on farms for hunting purposes.

A bulletin is available which explains cash earning recreation jobs from our office in the Dover postoffice.

Dr. George Webster is presenting the show as a part of his regular farm series.

Dr. R. L. Sawyer, of the Long Island Vegetable Research Farm, did a stellar job of reviewing potato research and extension projects to our Delaware potato growers at Farm and Home Week.

Of most interest to our farmers was the report on the 350 cwt. potato club that recognizes top Long Island growers. We were told that a good potato fertility program is based not only on a soil test as such, but rather a "flow sheet" on the fertility of any given field over a period of several years.

It is a fact that our vegetable, corn and hay growers are building soil fertility or soil conservation with a heavy cropping schedule. This is mainly because they assure adequate plant food for top yields. We're getting many days this winter when it is very easy to take soil samples. So to avoid the spring rush at the lab, get those soil samples in to our office as soon as possible.

Biological control of insects is on the increase, but it isn't likely to put chemical pesticides out of business for a long time.

Until biological controls are better developed, chemical controls will be needed. A combination of chemical, biological and cultural controls is most often used for best results.

The screw worm eradication program in the southwest United States using male sterile flies is one of the most spectacular of the non-chemical controls used in the fight against insects. It has opened the possibility of similar control of other pests including the common housefly and cotton boll weevil.

As long as pesticides are widely used, those who handle them should take every precaution. Home-owners and gardeners who use pesticides in small quantities need to be careful in the same ways as large commercial users.

However, workers mixing and applying pesticides should be especially careful, because they are likely to have frequent exposure to the pesticides. They are in danger of acute accidental poisoning by concentrates and from cumulative effects of exposure to low concentrations.

Kent County participants in the 1964 Feed Grain program may want to build a pond on their diverted acres. Under this voluntary program, farmers receive payments for diverting feed grain acre to conserving uses.

Ponds provide water for livestock, furnish food and recreation for fishermen and are good fire protection if located near buildings.

For every acre under water, there should be sufficient grassed acreage in the watershed area to protect the pond from sedimentation. This can be done with such other approved conserving uses as tree, shrub, wildlife food or habitat plantings; and permanent, temporary, or rotation covers of grasses and legumes.

Farmers can participate in the Feed Grain Program and still apply for cost-share assistance under the Agricultural Conservation Program or the Great Plains Conservation Program in establishing conservation uses on the diverted acres. Interested owners should check with the county ASC or our Extension office for more information.

Owners of timber acreage frequently pay more federal income tax on their wood sales than the law requires.

This happens because they don't realize that sales of timber and forest products can sometimes be reported as a capital gain rather than as an ordinary income. Anyone selling standing timber has owned more than six months prior to the beginning of the tax year can treat it as a capital gain.

Tax savings are also possible by deducting an allowance for depletion of the owner's investment in the harvested timber. A woodland owner can apply for allowance for depletion no matter what kind of timber sale he makes, or whether he reports his proceeds as ordinary income or capital gain, he adds.

Timber owners who did not make a sale of timber or timber products in 1963 can also save on their tax by deducting operating expenses from gross income. Labor costs, trucks, tractors, chain saws or other equipment hired by the owner are considered operating expenses. Any of this equipment purchased in 1963 can be depreciated as a capital expenditure. The costs of gasoline, oil, machine maintenance, materials and supplies, and fees paid to tax consultants or accountants also are wholly deductible.

Federal income tax schedule "D", gains and losses from sale or exchanges of property," be used when receipts are reported as a capital gain. A full discussion of forest tax reporting is given in Agricultural Handbook 52, "The Small Timber Owner and His Federal Income Tax," which can be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., for 20 cents per copy.

Functional Beauty Found in Housewares

"Beauty is a pleasurable response to what we see, hear, touch and even taste and smell," said Mrs. Mary Zachary, home economics representative for Corning Glass Works at Tuesday afternoon's Farm and Home Week program for homemakers.

"Any response may be a combination of more than one of these senses," she added. Responses to beauty are different for each person, but they are relative to the things not considered beautiful. Since one of the major functions of the homemaker centers around the kitchen while cooking and preparing food, Mrs. Zachary related, she should have her beauty at her finger tips, in the tools she uses—beautiful and purposeful.

One of the factors that make us aware of beauty, she related, are physical characteristics which allow some people to see fine discriminations, while others are more aware of things heard. Music and painting appeal to different people for such reasons. Personality, training, advertising and knowing what experts think, and why, are helpful in developing your own taste for beauty, the home economist stated.

Function is often unknowingly considered in making a judgment on beauty. Like an architect appraising a building, the homemaker likes to know that the articles found in her home have practical use as well as beauty.

Manufacturer's recognize the homemaker's search for beauty in the home. Shapes and colors of items they market often undergo rigorous sampling by homemakers who are asked if they would like to have them in their own home.

Researchers look for new ways to bring beauty into homes by means of everyday tools for easier homemaking. Pyroceramic materials, Mrs. Zachary said, are one of the most recent developments along this line. Used in missile cones because they will withstand extremely high temperatures, pyroceramic materials are used in the home in freezer-to-oven dishes and for tableware that resembles china, but are guaranteed not to break or chip.

Corn Growers Must Compete To Survive

Three years ago, Delaware corn growers produced a state average of 60 bushels per acre, and they seemed pleased with themselves. Finally yields were equal to or at least near those of the corn belt states. The competitive position of Delaware growers seemed secure.

By 1961 they were averaging 62 bushels to the acre. But Illinois had jumped its state average to 77 bushels—meaning Delaware producers were growing corn at a definite disadvantage.

Dr. William H. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware, says there are only two things farmers can do about this disadvantage—reduce costs per bushel or increase yields. "We must do both if we intend to stay in the corn business."

Reporting to a group of corn growers at the 1964 Farm and Home Week (Feb. 6) Mitchell warned not to be content with present achievements. "We must look beyond hundred bushel goals. Delaware growers know they can grow that amount if they follow certain well proven practices and get enough moisture. He said they must now begin thinking and working toward 150 or even 200 bushel yields.

Mitchell reported on tests conducted at the University's Georgetown Substation aimed at producing 200 bushel yields. Under the best conditions some of these plots went as high as 225 bushels. "Although our knowledge and experience is somewhat limited, it seems clear that growing 200 bushels is possible on some Delaware farms. So much depends on soil type, rainfall and the ability of the grower. It will also take large investments in fertilizer and lime, proper land preparation and the right hybrid, plant population combination to reach these high yields."

Mitchell wouldn't recommend a precise formula that would guarantee a 200 bushel yield. He did point to some production practices, however, that deserve special attention.

Soil type differences produces the most striking variations in yields at the Georgetown experiment. A casual look at the soil would not suggest the actual difference that exists.

As much as 250 pounds of nitrogen per year may be necessary for top yields of corn silage. Plant populations between 12 and 18 thousand are required. The choice of population will be determined by the hybrid to be used.

Large amounts of fertilizer and lime and plowing to a depth of 12 inches is also important.

The application of Atrazine or some other high effective weed killer is probably necessary and it seems likely that greater use will be made of nitrogen solution-herbicide mixtures.

Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner Chairman Named

Edwin W. Hutchinson, Secretary of the New Castle County Department of Elections, has been named chairman of the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner sponsored by the Democratic State Committee.

The banquet, preceded by a reception, will take place on Saturday, April 11, at the Wilmington Armory.

The appointment of Hutchinson was announced jointly by William S. Potter, Democratic National Committeeman, and John M. Conway, State Chairman. A committee on arrangements for the dinner will be named by Mr. Hutchinson in the near future.

The Jefferson-Jackson Day meeting is traditionally the largest single Democratic gathering in the state.

The name of the speaker—a nationally-known political personality in the Democratic Party—will be announced later.

In establishing the April 11 date for the meeting—which is somewhat earlier than the banquet has been held in recent years—Mr. Conway and Mr. Hutchinson emphasized that in the 1964 election, the Democrats will seek to elect a governor, a United States senator, a seat in the House of Representatives, plus other major state offices and important legislative and county posts as well. "It is therefore desirable that preparation be gotten underway early for the forthcoming campaign," they said.

Applications for dinner reservations are available from the city, county, hundred and ward chairman throughout the state. The combined cost for the dinner and reception will be $35 per person.

Mr. Hutchinson, who lives at 1009 Delaware Avenue, has been active in the Democratic Party of the Wilmington City Democratic Committee.

Potato Growers Urged to Cut Acreage

The U. S. Department of Agriculture recommends a 10 per cent acreage reduction in 1964 for both fall and late summer potato crops, and a 7 per cent reduction in acreage for early summer potatoes.

Acreage-marketing guides issued by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service call for the important fall crop to be cut to 869,120 acres, 10 per cent less than last year. Acreage of late summer potatoes was recommended at 147,950 acres, also down 10 per cent. For the early summer crop, where plantings were reduced to a record low last year, acreage of 81,150 acres was recommended, down seven per cent.

Individual state recommendations range from reductions of 15 per cent in acreage to acreages equal to 1963. In the major Northeast fall crop areas, the guides call for a 9 per cent cut-back in acreage in Maine and 13 per cent in upstate New York, but none in Long Island, N. Y. However, the guides recommend a 15 per cent reduction in Long Island's late summer potato acreage, and 6 per cent in New Jersey. Recommended acreage reductions for early summer potatoes in Delaware and Maryland are 9 and 10 per cent, respectively.

The acreage guides just issued, combined with guides previously released for the winter and spring crops, recommend that U. S. potato planting in 1964 total 1,248,800 acres, 9 per cent below the 1963 total of 1,375,900 acres. With average yields obtained on the guide acreages, U. S. production in 1964 would amount to 253 million hundredweight—a marketing guide which is 8 per cent smaller than last year's large crop of 275.5 million hundredweight.

generally has exceeded market need, which has been increasing slowly. Surpluses have been the rule, with potato farmers' income being depressed. An objective of the USDA potato guides is to aid farmers in crop planning to bring about a balance in supply, and to improve the market price structure.

A more detailed report on these acreage-marketing guides will be included in the report "1964 Acreage-Marketing Guides, Summer-Fall Potatoes." This publication will be available for distribution through the State Agricultural Extension Service at an early date.

Del. Dairymen Receive Awards

Several Delaware dairymen received awards from the National Dairy Products Corporation at Dairy Day activities Wednesday (Feb. 5) at Farm and Home Week at the University of Delaware.

Top awards went to Raymond E. Ballinger, Clayton dairyman, and supervisor Orville Wheatley of Milford. Second place recipients were David Robbins, Milford, and supervisor B. Lee Currey, Wilmont.

Other dairymen honored for 1963 records were C. Delbert Cain, Harrington; Daniel E. Harris, Newark; Woodrow Haas, Wyoming; Philemon Sheats, Middletown; John P. Wiley, Bear; and Robert A. Mason, Harrington.

Supervisors Ronald Wenger, Wilmington, and Frank Searles, Harrington also received awards.

National Dairy awards are presented each year to Delaware Herd Improvement Association members and herd supervisors. Ratings are based on dairy practices, breeding, care of herd, feeding, milk production and quality.

Lower Production Costs For Greater Profits

While the individual farmer can't do much to raise the overall prices offered for farm products, he could often increase his own profits either by lowering his production costs or by producing a higher quality product that would bring a higher price on the market, according to a University of Delaware agricultural economist.

Dr. W. E. McDaniel, director of resident instruction and chairman of the department of agricultural economics, speaking at the University's Farm and Home Week Thursday morning, (Feb. 6), said that because an individual farmer can never maintain a monopoly on his products, the prices he receives depend to a large extent on the amount of the commodity being produced.

The availability of substitute products also helps determine his profits. "For instance," Dr. McDaniel said, "if the price of oleomargarine is low in relation to butter, consumers will tend to substitute oleomargarine for butter. And if the price of synthetic fibers is low in relation to cotton, consumers will substitute clothing made from synthetic fibers for cotton clothing."

"Because of the relative large number of farmers," Dr. McDaniel said, "each one seldom realizes that when he increases his production, the result of his action will have a slight tendency to force prices down. Even if a group of farmers decided to cut back production of a certain commodity in an effort to raise prices, farmers outside the group would probably increase production as soon as they saw the price increasing, and prices would be forced down again."

Dr. McDaniel noted that when an "artificially high price" is set by law, farmers are encouraged to raise more of the commodity than can be consumed, making it necessary for the government to purchase the excess to remove it from the market. "Such action has resulted in large surpluses being bought and stored by our government," he said.

An alternative is to have a maximum price set, but to place limits on the amount that will be produced by the farmers, Dr. McDaniel explained. "However, farmers in recent years have indicated through the result of the turkey referendum and the last wheat referendum that they do not want the government to control the amount they can produce." He said that if the government does maintain an artificially high price, some consumers will avoid paying that high price by purchasing less expensive substitutes. "This, of course, has happened in the wool and cotton market as well as in the butter market," Dr. McDaniel pointed out.

Farm marketing organizations can help the farmer increase his profits by lowering the costs of marketing farm products.

Dover Air Edges H.H.S. in J. V. Play

Dover Air Force High School jayvees edged their Harrington counterparts by a score of 51-43 in a game played here Friday afternoon.

The Falcons are probably the toughest opponent faced by the Lions this season. They feature a tall center and two swift, sharp-shooting guards. One of these, Taveau, scorched the cords for 9 field goals and 2 fouls to lead all scorers with 20 points.

The visitors started fast and soon owned a 14-4 lead. Several of their shots were the type that roll around the hoop a couple of times and then drop. This early cushion plus the inability of the locals to convert their foul tries were factors that helped the Falcons hand H.H.S. its second defeat in eight contests.

Sam Knox hit two jump shots late in the first quarter and John Greenhaugh added two baskets to enable the Lions to draw closer as the first quarter ended with a score of Dover Air 17, H.H.S. 12.

Marshall Hatfield shaved the lead to three points as he tossed in a jumper. The Falcons drew away to 21-14 before Steve Motter made Harrington's first successful foul try halfway through the second period. Dean Manges, Greenhaugh, Knox, tallied field goals as the half ended with the Lions trailing by four.

The Lions' third quarter play was their best of the contest. Greenhaugh converted a foul and sank a shot from the corner. Field goals by Knox and Greenhaugh and a foul by Manges left the Lions only two points in arrears, at 30-28. After a Base free throw, two Knox jumpers put H.H.S. ahead for the first time at 32-31. Manges stole the ball and dribbled in for two more points. Two jump shots by Hatfield and two points by Knox ended the third quarter with the tally H.H.S. 39-Dover Air 37.

The Lions' rally which had been sustained since the middle of the first quarter, finally ran out of momentum in the fourth period and the Base held on to eke out the win.

Harrington missed 15 out of 25 free throws, while the Base was shooting a fine 63% from the charity stripe. Hatfield canned three out of four for a record of seven out of eight in his last two games. He tallied 11 points, Greenhaugh and Knox scored 14 and 13, respectively. Hatfield has made 17 free throws in 25 attempts for a fine 68 per cent average. Many a ball game is won from the foul line.

Felton Crushes Greenwood 84-42

Felton High's basketball Green Devils steam-rolled Greenwood's Foresters by a score of 84-42 at Greenwood Friday night. The winners racked up their ninth win in the same number of starts.

The Green Devils are sitting atop the Western Division of the Henlopen Conference and it now appears that all they have to do to capture the Henlopen Championship, that narrowly eluded them last year, is to score a repeat victory over the Eastern Division titlist, John M. Clayton, Lord Baltimore and Selbyville, the chief contenders in the East, were defeated by Felton early in the season.

Greenwood started the game by using a deliberate, ball control type of offense. This allowed them to trail by only eight points after the first quarter. After that the Felton attack started to click and the contest was turned into a rout by halftime. Felton eventually doubled the Foresters in both field and foul goals.

Bill Green paced the Devil onslaught with 20 points. Dave Wood collected 18, Jim Blades, 17 and Bill Barr, 15.

Woodall and Schulze had 11 and 10 for Greenwood.

Felton Five Crushes Delmar

Felton High's basketball team crushed Delmar, 95-32, at Felton Wednesday night to remain unbeaten in the Western Division of the Henlopen Conference.

Off to a 32-4 lead in the first period, the division-leading Felton courtmen continued to outscore the opposition during the remainder of the game.

With a 56-16 lead after two periods, Felton's Coach Joe Kerns played his reserves half of the third period and all of the final.

Led by Jim Blades, who scored 15 points, Felton rolled to its 10th division triumph. Barr, 14; Green, 13; McClellan, 13, and G. Reible, 12, also hit double figures for the winners.

Gregg Maloney had 14 points for Delmar, which dropped its seventh game against three wins.

Lion Jayvees Win at Greenwood

Jim Hawpe's H.H.S. junior varsity five won their sixth game in seven starts when they defeated Greenwood by a score of 49-36 last Wednesday afternoon.

The Lions jumped out to a 12-9 lead in the first quarter as Marshall Hatfield hit for three buckets and John Greenhaugh caged a pair.

Greenhaugh tossed in six points and Sam Knox netted five in the second period as Harrington led 25-17 at the half.

Dean Manges had a pair of field goals in the third quarter as each team could score only seven points.

Greenhaugh had four field goals and Knox had five points as the Lions widened their lead to 13 points at the end of the game.

Leading scorers for the winners were Greenhaugh (18), Knox (13) and Hatfield (10). The latter had four-for-four at the foul line.

For Greenwood Hanz Retzlaff had nine and Gary Isaacs had eight.

Falcons Beat Lions 69-50

Harrington's first trip to the gym at the Dover Air Base High School ended on a sour note with the locals bowing to the Falcons 69-50. Harrington fans claim they have seen better officiating than they saw Friday night. The game was decided at the foul line, as the Base cagers had only a slim 24-22 edge in field goals.

Glen Smith and Jose Torres led Harrington with 10 points each. Smith and Richard Black are the only juniors to see extensive use this year on the senior-dominated squad.

Junior League Football Clinic To Be Held

The Junior League Football Association will sponsor a football clinic at the Harrington School gym Feb. 23, 1:30 p.m.

Coach Glazier is conducting the clinic for present and future coaches. Everyone interested in football is invited to attend.

More Ducks, Fewer Mosquitoes, Projects Underway

The Bombay Hook National Wildlife Refuge and the Explosives Ordnance Disposal Element of the 1607th Air Base Group from the Dover Air Force Base will combine efforts to improve waterfowl habitat and to combat potential mosquito breeding on the refuge's salt marshes.

The salt marsh mosquito does not lay eggs in water but only on the damp mud of the higher marshes above average tides. This same higher marsh is of limited waterfowl value due to a lack of water area.

Excavating these damp mud areas with explosives so that small permanent ponds are created increases wildlife use and at the same time greatly reduces mosquito production.

Preliminary experimental work is to be conducted this week. Demolition experts from the Air Force Base will place and detonate 50 explosive "cratering charges". Each explosive charge will create a small permanent pond thus improving the marsh's value to waterfowl and also destroying a mosquito egg laying area. If costs and results of this pilot project are favorable, further large scale work will be scheduled.

4-H PROGRAM

interests and abilities.

Needs of children are the same as those of adults, she related. They look for approval, friendship, status, belonging and security. They want to achieve worthwhile things and be independent. From the age of ten through adulthood, all people work to meet these needs.

A child of ten is not consciously building anything as abstract as values. But, little by little, he does just that. Growing up depends on succeeding at several jobs or tasks in progression. Miss Wilson compared this to a small child who must develop strong muscles and coordination before he can walk and learn to walk before he can run.

4-H programs must meet the needs of youth from ten to 21, she remarked. Three age groups are included—pre-teens, early adolescents and older adolescents approaching adulthood.

Along with the problem of different ages and interests, 4-H must reach to youth of different economic levels. To meet the needs of youth from the poorest to the wealthiest homes, many states have developed new programs. Connecticut, said Aronson, has thrown out many of the old "rules" and is experimenting with new methods. There are no strict rules and regulations for projects, no requirements for attendance at meetings, or even that persons who attend meetings must be 4-H members. The guide for leaders has been re-written to give added flexibility. One county 4-H camp has been opened to anyone age nine to 19.

Working with the standard that "anyone can fit into the circle of the community," Aronson stated that 4-H is reaching out to show young people how.

When most 4-Hers lived on farms, he said, "there were 101 jobs they could do that contributed to the family's welfare. These jobs gave 4-Hers a sense of well-being and added to the development of character."

Growing up in a city is difficult. Opportunities to learn to contribute in an adult-like way, adding to family betterment and welfare, are limited. But the need to grow up with character and ability is still with us. "Because we are a part of the total community, we are concerned with youth who need this opportunity," he said of 4-H workers.

Uniqueness of 4-H is that it teaches attitudes about work, skills for getting the job done, and creates a desire to be pro-

Contemporary Music to Be U. of D. Topic

J. Robert King, director of instrumental music at the University of Delaware, will give the fourth lecture in the Squire Hall-Student Center series Sun., Feb. 9, at 8 p.m. His topic will be "The Contemporary American Scene in Music." The public is invited.

Professor King, who established the instrumental program at the university in 1946, is a graduate of Oberlin College and received his master's degree from the Eastman School of Music. His interest in American music is a long standing one. The course, Music in American Culture, which he initiated ten years ago as a peripheral subject in the American Studies program, has since become one of the most popular courses at the university.

As director of the symphonic band program, he has concentrated largely on American repertoire. His lecture will present a general view of current American musical trends from serious jazz composition to avant garde experimentalism.

Engineering Open House Scheduled at U. of D.

The Student Engineering Council of the University of Delaware will hold an open house for high school juniors and seniors on Feb. 21 and 22 in the university's engineering facilities.

The purpose of the open house is to acquaint high school students with engineering education. Regular laboratory demonstrations will be performed and classroom problems will be explained at the blackboard. An added feature will be selected industrial exhibits to support the theme, "Progress Through Engineering."

According to Dean E. W. Comings, faculty adviser to the Engineering Council, a preliminary survey of interest among 38 Delaware high schools has met with enthusiastic response. Preparations are being made for the attendance of several hundred students. Parents of students, high school science teachers, guidance counselors, and other interested school personnel are invited to participate.

The program is being jointly planned by Earl E. Eiker, Allan R. Ferguson, James J. Grego, R. Donald Moore, Jr., James J. Rudolph and Charles G. Woods.

Supporting the committee are student chapters of the American Society of Civil Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers.

Janet Rae Baker State's Cherry Blossom Princess

When the nation's capital traditionally marks the blossoming of its cherry trees with its Cherry Blossom Festival, April 5-11, the State of Delaware will be officially represented by one of its fair daughters, Miss Janet Rae Baker, of Millsboro.

Recently chosen by the Delaware State Society of the District of Columbia as Delaware's 1964 Cherry Blossom Princess, the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Raymond Baker, Jr., will participate in all of the events comprising the six-day festival, including the parade of princesses, the traditional pageant and the crowning ceremony. Her many friends in the "First State" naturally hope that she will be the center figure when the last-named event occurs.

The 1964 Delaware princess has dark brown hair, blue eyes and what her friends refer to as a "winning smile." She is five feet, eight inches tall.

A native of Millsboro, Miss Baker attended Millsboro High School prior to enrolling at Linden Hall, Lititz, Pa. She was valedictorian of the Class of '63 at Linden Hall. She is presently a freshman at the University of Delaware where she is on the dean's list.

During her tenure as 1964 Delaware Cherry Blossom Princess, Miss Baker will participate in numerous luncheon, dinners, dances, fashion shows and other activities that precede the National Cherry Blossom Pageant. Climaxing feature of the pageant will, of course, be the crowning of the 1964 Cherry Blossom Queen.

In addition to her parents and other visitors from her home state, Delaware's 1964 Cherry Blossom Princess will number among her "subjects" and well-wishers her grandparents, Senator and Mrs. John J. Williams, and hundreds of transplanted Delawareans employed or stationed in the Washington area.

ern counties; and, Bounds Phillips of Bounds Phillips Feed Service, Hebron, Md., in charge of southern counties.

William R. Lewis Jr., of the Delmarva Feed Company at Parkers, is Virginia chairman.

Goal for the drive this year is $160,000, up two per cent from the $157,000 invested last year.

Kick-off date for the fund drive this year is February 27, Hancock noted but he reported that advance subscriptions already were coming in. He said that he expected that some 150 volunteers from all parts of the Peninsula would take part in the drive to raise a "war chest" for the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., to help it in its projects to improve industry efficiency and gain a larger share of markets for Delmarva chickens.

The fund drive will culminate in the industry's annual $100-a-plate fund dinner on May 19.

U. of D. Academic Failure Rate On Decline

A slight improvement in overall undergraduate performance and a significant decrease in failures among freshmen enrolled at the University of Delaware have been reported by Registrar Robert Gebhardt-Sbauer.

Statistics compiled by the University's records office show that 249 students were dropped for poor grades out of the 3,995 who registered for the first semester of the 1963-64 academic year. The failure rate of 6.2% was slightly better than the 6.7% dropped in February, 1963.

Most remarkable improvement was registered by the freshman class which lost only 76 of 1,330 students for a 5.7% attrition rate. Sophomores were the worst offenders, with 119 of 1,037 failing to make the required scholastic index. Forty-seven of 863 juniors, three seniors in a class of 695, and four of 70 special students also were dropped.

According to Norman C. Crawford, assistant to the provost, a factor in the improvement in the freshman class record, which is 2.6% better than last year, is attributed to the remedial course work which students of marginal preparation were required to take during the 1963 summer session. All of the students who received "B" grades or better in two summer courses have scholastic indexes of 2.0 or better and more than one-half of those students who received "C's" also are passing.

U. of D. Mechanical Engineers Schedule Seminar Series

Dr. Roelot Y. Steijn of the DuPont Experimental Station will speak today at the University of Delaware's weekly mechanical engineering seminar.

His address at 3:30 p.m. in Room 140, P. S. DuPont Hall, marks the opening of the department's second semester seminar series of 13 lectures by guest speakers and Delaware faculty members. He will discuss "Sliding Friction and Wear of Solids."

The meetings, preceded by a coffee hour in Room 110, Evans Hall, are open to the public without charge.

Remaining lecturers in the series and their topics are: Feb. 14, Professor Paul S. Symonds, Brown University, "Inelastic Impact on Structures—The Role of Rate Dependence of Material Properties"; Feb. 21, Professor Warren M. Rohsenow, M.I.T., "Thermal Contact Resistance"; Feb. 28, Professor Harold A. Simon, University of Delaware, "Investigations with Carbon Dioxide Near Its Critical Point"; March 6, Professor Friedrich O. Ringleb, University of Delaware and Naval Air Material Center, "Uniformization in Mechanics"; March 13, Professor Edward J. Pellicciolo, University of Delaware, "On a Method of Ascent";

Also, March 20, Professor Oscar W. Dillon, Princeton University, "Experimental Data on Aluminum as an Unstable Solid"; April 10, Professor Walter Noll, Carnegie Institute of Technology, "One - Dimensional Nonlinear Elastic and Plastic Waves"; April 17, Dr. Marshall P. Tulin, Hydro-nautics, Inc., "Supercavitating Flows"; April 24, Professor Bruno A. Boley, Columbia University,

No My Darling Daughter? at Reese Feb. 15 & 16

Another important all-family hit show is listed for presentation this Thursday and Friday, Feb. 13-14, two days only. Kirk Douglas and Burt Lancaster are the stars in the famous "Gunfight at the O. K. Corral" in technicolor. "Last Train from Gun Hill", featuring Anthony Quinn and Kirk Douglas with Rhonda Fleming is the second big time feature presentation. Combined, these two features represent the greatest double-barrelled bit of entertainment one could hope to see. Hayley Mills' sister Juliet, as "Tansy", kissin' cousin to "Tammy" is the featured star in the new World production "No My Darling Daughter," listed for showing this Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 15 and 16. Girls are different from boys And How! A teenage tomboy grows up and finds out! It's gay-It's Goofy — It's hilarious! "Armored Attack" with Anne Baxter and Dana Andrews is the second thrill attraction on this all-family program.

Everybody seems to have the 'heeby - jeebies' awaiting the coming of Paul Newman and Edward G. Robinson in "The Prize," Feb. 20, 21, 22, 23. It's great.
