HARTNETT ON REDISTRICTING; DEMOCRATIC VICTORY VITAL

Reapportionment (of voting districts) will have more effect on the Democratic party than anything else in 50 years, Maurice L. Hartnett, director of the Legislative Reference Bureau, Dover, said at a covered-dish supper of the Ninth District Democratic Women's Club at the fairgrounds restaurant.

Reapportionment is not new elsewhere, and until 1963 Delaware was the only state without it, he continued. With this change in voting districts, it would mean a change in the makeup of the General Assembly. Other states usually re-draw their district lines every ten years, according to population, the Dover attorney said.

He explained that, up to 1897, representatives and senators were elected at large from the county. From 1850 to 1897, Democrats had control. In 1897, under the present constitution, lines of the voting districts were redrawn, with candidates being elected from them. This gave the Republicans control until 1948, Hartnett pointed out. The Democrats came back.

The lines haven't been changed since 1897, he said, and upstate has complained. New Castle County was justified, Hartnett believes and he cites the Tennessee decision of the U. S. Supreme Court three years ago which mentioned "equal protection under the law."

Continuing, he stated Brandywine Hundred, in New Castle County, had 58,000 persons and one representative, with Blackbird Hundred, in the same county, having 1500 persons and one representative.

The Sixth District of Kent County, Hartnett said, has 2400 residents, with the Second District having 17,000. Each has one representative. The Ninth District, of which Harrington is a part, he said, has a population of about 5000, average for a district.

Hartnett said: "After the Supreme Court decision, some New Castle residents brought suit in federal court that Brandywine Hundred was not properly represented. Gov. Carvel then appointed a committee, of which I was a member, to study reapportionment."

A bill was then passed in the General Assembly giving New Castle County 10 additional representatives and adding two senators each to Kent and Sussex Counties.

"The federal district court didn't approve this bill," pointed out Hartnett. "It still wanted the districts drawn up on a population basis, with all having to be equal in population, about 10,000. The court was also against adding the extra senators."

"Under the court's ruling, majority of all senators and representatives would come from New Castle County. Downstate figured it would be steamrollered. Many in New Castle County did not favor it, either."

"We then took the case to the (Continued on Page 8)"

Fly Your Kite The Safe Way

"Fly your kite—but fly it right!" Delaware youngsters were urged this week.

That advice was offered by J. James Ashton, manager of the Delaware Safety Council. "The right way is the safe way," he said. Kite flying is one of the many activities that are fun if done safely, but can be dangerous and destructive if not done with sensible precautions, he added.

Ashton said the four precautions to remember in kite flying are these:

1. Keep kites away from electric wires and television antennas.
2. Use dry cotton string, or cord; never use wire or tinsel cord, and don't fly your kite when the cord is wet.
3. Use no metal on your kite or its tail.
4. Don't climb poles or trees to rescue a kite from an overhead wire or roof.

The point about avoiding wet cords and metal is of course the danger of getting an electric shock if the kite should accidentally touch an electric wire. There is a double hazard in that situation—the danger of injury to the kite flier and of damage to the electric wires, causing inconvenience to neighbors.

Another danger associated with kite flying, Ashton said, is the danger that a youngster concentrating on the kite will run into the path of a car or truck. That danger should be avoided by flying kites in safe open places away from traffic, he suggested.

Attorney General To Speak At Consumer Forums

Delaware Attorney General David P. Buckson will be one of the featured speakers at the fourth annual Consumer Forums April 8 and 9, sponsored by the Home Economics Extension Service of the University of Delaware.

Following a theme of "Delaware's Protections for Consumers," Consumer Forums will also feature speakers from other state agencies. Included will be Dr. Floyd I. Hudson, executive secretary of the State Board of Health; William Naudain, director of the State Department of Weights and Measures; David Krigein, secretary of the State Board of Pharmacy; and George Vapaa, Kent County agricultural agent, representing the State Department of Agriculture. The speakers will discuss services and legislation designed to aid or protect Delaware residents.

Each civic and service club throughout the state has been invited to send two representatives to the dinner and program. Consumer Forum for Wilmington and northern Delaware will be Thursday, April 8, in the Gold Ballroom of Hotel DuPont. Representatives from organizations in southern Delaware will attend the Consumer Forum on Friday, April 9, at Treadway Inn, Dover.

Consumer Forums are designed "to keep consumers well informed so they can make wise decisions and thus have an influence on what happens in the market place," according to Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing and textiles specialist and Consumer Forum chairman.

Organizations wishing to be represented at Consumer Forum must send the names of their representatives to Miss Reed at the University of Delaware by Monday, March 16.

2 Teenager Hurt In Auto Crash

Two teenagers were injured when their car ran off Route 62 about four miles north of Greenwood, Saturday, said police.

Marshall Andrews, 16, of Greenwood and Robert C. Hollingsworth, 17, of Farmington, were admitted to Nanticoke Memorial Hospital, Seaford. They were in good condition Sunday night with lacerations and abrasions.

According to police, Andrews was driving Hollingsworth's car when it ran off the road, turned over on its top and skidded several feet.

Insulated Broiler Houses Saved On Fuel Costs

Fuel savings ranging up to 60 per cent have been obtained in insulated broiler houses during a series of broiler housing studies that started 15 months ago under the auspices of the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., it was reported at a meeting of the association's Broiler Housing Committee recently.

In reviewing progress of the studies to date, Charles Fulton of Snow Hill, Md., a member of the committee, said that the fuel savings had been obtained in test houses where insulation had been properly installed and where management practices had been geared to the use of insulation.

The tests were made on nine different flocks in nine houses at four different locations on Delmarva. All tests were planned and supervised by engineers and poultry specialists from either the University of Maryland or the University of Delaware. The differing effects of insulation on house environment were studied under winter, spring, summer and fall conditions.

Insulating materials used were the equivalent of three inches of fiberglass with a vapor barrier, or 15/32" Homasote.

Fulton said that fuel savings of 30 per cent under costs in un-insulated houses could easily amount to $10 to $15 per thousand chickens in a winter flock during weather like the Peninsula has experienced in 1962-63 and 1963-64. But, he cautioned that insulation was no cure-all for high fuel costs.

"Our tests showed that insulation must be properly installed and that flock management practices ordinarily followed in un-

Milford Youth Killed in Crash

Early Saturday, John Parsons, 19, of Milford, was killed and his companion seriously injured when their car crashed at high speed two miles south of Milton on Delaware 5.

Parsons was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Parsons, of Milford. Charles Nelson Link, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel V. Link Jr., Felton, was admitted to the Beebe Hospital.

The hospital said he suffered internal bleeding, a fractured wrist, contusions of the chest and numerous cuts and bruises. He was in fair condition Sunday night.

State police said the car ran off a curve at high speed and rolled over three times. Both youths were thrown from the car which smashed into a power pole, police said.

Services for Parsons were held Tuesday morning in Christ Episcopal Church, Milford. Besides his parents, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Margaret Komorowski, Staytonville.

The victim, a senior at Milford High School, was employed on a part-time basis at the Milford A. and P. Store.

2 Felton Men Flip on Roads

Two Felton men overturned vehicles Saturday on rain-slick Kent County highways. One was injured.

State police said Salvatore Pizzadili, 59, suffered an abrasion of his ear and possible rib fractures in a one-car crash near Camden. He was treated and released at Kent General Hospital.

Duane Dawkins, 33, escaped injury when the tractor trailer he was driving overturned near Kenton. Damage to the trailer and its contents was estimated by police at $15,000.

Police said Pizzadili was injured when a car driven by his son, John, 24, skidded on a rain-slick highway and hit a ditch bank.

The trailer overturned, police said, when Dawkins attempted to make a turn off Route 300 about a half mile south of Kenton.

235 Million Broilers Grown On Peninsula

Last year 5,200 farmers grew 235 million broilers on Delmarva. This was a new record of production in this tri-state area, the birthplace of the nation's commercial broiler industry.

"The dollars generated by this chicken business totalled hundreds of millions and affected the economy daily of the Peninsula's entire population," said Paul Phillips, a broiler grower of Maryland, Md., and chairman of the Delmarva Poultry Industry Association.

"We are proud of an industry that buys so many extras for our families. The security and profits, unknown here a few years ago, have acquainted us with a life that we didn't realize existed," continued Phillips.

The "Shore business man expends his facilities while listening to the ring of chicken dollars on his cash register; the grain farmer buys large equipment to grow more premium priced grain; more workers turn toward poultry each year for their paycheck; and the growers build more modern equipped buildings.

The organization largely responsible for the growth and present development of the poultry business is the Delmarva Poultry Industry Association. (This is by far the world's leading poultry association.) No other poultry area has all the segments of production joined in one unit. The DPI organization gets its support from contributions. Last week was the beginning of the 1964 fund drive. The goal is $160,000. Last year it was $150,000 and went over the top to $157,174.23.

"Most of us as growers give $1 per thousand bird capacity. This figures a dollar for each $300 to $400 income. We support this function because we see the need for a combined effort and realize just how important this poultry business is to all of us."

"Most of us remember when we led the country in tomato production. We didn't have an organization similar to the DPI. Now California has the tomato business. Let's not forget, we didn't have a strawberry or holly organization either, so let's support our poultry industry association's program of activities to insure the continued progress of the backbone of the area's agriculture," concluded Mr. Phillips.

Downings Return From Two-Week Cruise In The Caribbean

Mr. and Mrs. Fulton J. Downing took a Caribbean Cruise on "The Empress of Canada," a Canadian Pacific Steamship, recently.

The ship sailed from New York, February 24th at 3 p. m., stopping at St. Thomas, Barbados, Trinidad, Curacao, and Kingston, Jamaica, and arrived back in New York at 10 a. m., March 9th.

"The Empress of Canada," is 650 feet in length, 86 feet in breadth with a gross tonnage of 27,300 tons. It is practically a new ship, this being its third cruise season. Ninety per cent of the people are from Liverpool, England, which is the ship's home port.

While in Kingston, Mr. Downing had an interview with the Governor-General of Jamaica, Sir Clifford Campbell, at which time he extended greetings as Mayor of Harrington to His Excellency the Governor, which were tape recorded. The Governor extended greetings to the people of Harrington, after which Mr. Downing visited the Rotary Club of Kingston, where greetings were also extended.

The following is a transcript of these recordings: Mayor Downing:—"Your Excellency, it certainly is a privilege for me, Mayor Downing, of the city of Harrington, Delaware, to extend a greeting from the city of Harrington. Should you ever come to the U.S.A., we certainly hope that you would visit our city in Harrington, and maybe bring us a message sometime when you are there."

Mayor Downing:—"Thank you, Governor, and we will be attending your club today at noon. Thank you."

DUKES EXPLAINS CONVENTION SYSTEM AT FARMINGTON

Secretary of State Elisha C. Dukes explained the organization and function of Democratic Conventions Tuesday night at a covered-dish supper of the Ninth District Democratic Club in the Farmington fire hall.

The supper was scheduled for the previous Tuesday but had been postponed because of the death of the wife of a prominent political figure. Gov. Carvel, scheduled to speak last week, will speak at a covered-dish supper here of the club at the American Legion Hall the first Tuesday in April.

Getting back to political conventions, Dukes said every fourth year, in May, before the national convention, there would be a Little Convention. Delegates, elected by every election district, attend the convention to elect the State Democratic Committee, the national committee woman, and delegates to the national convention which will be held in Atlantic City in August.

Sometime in the same month, the Big Convention will be held in Dover. The statewide candidates and those for U. S. senator and U. S. representative are nominated at this time, Dukes pointed out. He added that delegates to this convention were elected from the election districts and were not necessarily the same as those elected to attend the Little Convention. Persons desiring to be delegates to either convention must file with their county chairman.

The chairman of the Democratic Committee in Kent County is Vernon B. Derrickson. Turning to electioneering, the witty Dukes, who was statewide campaign manager in the past two elections, said, "The campaign is the most interesting part of politics. I shall never run for office; it is more fun

C. of C. Looks at Civic Improvement

With warmer weather, the Chamber of Commerce began eyeing community improvement at its March meeting at The Wonder R.

When City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann believed it would be a good idea to have a speaker on planning, he was appointed a committee of one to secure one from the Department of Urban Affairs of the University of Delaware. However, one member mentioned that County Extension Agent George Vapaa was well prepared to speak on planning. Depending on the convenience of the speaker, the chamber may be addressed in April or May.

Chamber members believed that, while the City has a zoning commission, it also needs a planning commission.

In other business of a civic nature, William H. Outten suggested a cleanup campaign before the state convention of the firemen's associations is held here in September. This will, undoubtedly, get more attention.

President Thomas H. Peck appointed the following committee to nominate officers for election next month: J. Edward Taylor, chairman, Outten, and Arnold Gilstad.

Woman, 61, Found Dead at Dover

Police Friday entered a home at Dover and found a woman dead on the kitchen floor and a paralyzed man starving on a cot.

Kent County Coroner William Torbert said the woman, Mrs. Lottie Murphy, 61, died of a heart attack.

The man, William Smallwood, about 75, was taken to Kent General Hospital where his condition was listed as fair Friday night.

Police said Smallwood was found on a cot in the front of the building and Mrs. Murphy was found on the kitchen floor.

According to police the only thing they could learn from Smallwood was that he had not had food for about a week. He was almost completely paralyzed, police said.

Police became aware of the situation when a milkman who delivered to the house said his milk had not been taken in to the house since last Friday. Mail was also piled up at the door, he said.

Police went to the building, found the door locked and called the brother of the woman, William Ware, of Leipsic, who went to the scene and opened the door. In addition to her brother, Mrs. Murphy is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Anna Mae Reed, of Harrington; four sisters, Mrs. Pearl Wright, Leipsic, Mrs. Gertrude Dutton, Dover, Mrs. Edith Lafferty, Newport, and Mrs. Catherine Cassey, Hartly, and four grandchildren.

Services were held from the Torbert Funeral Chapel Tuesday afternoon.

Moldy Soybeans Can Be Controlled

"Moldy beans," a soybean disease that causes severe damage to non-resistant varieties, has been proclaimed one of the most damaging soybean diseases by a University of Delaware plant pathologist. Dr. H. W. Crittenden says this disease, which is officially listed as pod and stem blight, damages the seeds, causing heavy losses in value of the crop.

Moldy bean disease is prevalent in Delaware from late August through September and even into October. Some soybean varieties are highly susceptible to the fungus that causes the disease, while others seem to be relatively immune to the parasite.

Dr. William H. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University, lists three short season beans and one long season variety that are relatively resistant to moldy bean disease without sacrificing other desirable characteristics such as high yield potential and protein and oil content. For a short season he suggests Bethel, Delmar and Kent. Hood is the only long season bean that is resistant to this blight and still has enough of the other desirable traits to make it suitable for production in Delaware.

More and more farmers are shifting to one of the short season beans to take advantage of the ideal growing conditions of late May and early June. Dr. Richard Cole, another University agronomist working on soybean weed control problems, says that as soon as the weed problem is licked, farmers may shift to early planting of short season varieties. He feels that Delaware growers are fortunate to have three high

Heart Fund Supports Clinic

The special cardiac clinic at the Delaware Hospital, which treats about 357 patients a year, is one of ten clinics in Delaware supported by the Delaware Heart Association.

A heart specialist from the University of Pennsylvania Medical Center in Philadelphia staffs the clinic. It is held three times a month.

About 68 per cent of the patients treated are children, mostly victims of rheumatic fever or congenital heart defects. Patients are referred to the clinic by private physicians or health agencies.

One seven-year-old girl who had a congenital heart defect corrected following diagnosis in the Delaware Hospital special cardiac clinic is Mary Ann Dudley, of 1230 Scott St., in Wilmington. In her case, a hole the size of a nickel was closed in an open heart operation at the University of Pennsylvania.

In addition to its program of clinics, the Delaware Heart Association conducts an intensive educational program among physicians, nurses, teachers, patients and the general public. Through its community service program it supports the heart clinic and cooperates with local health, education and welfare departments, hospitals, medical societies and other groups to provide aid against heart disease throughout the state.

George M. Von Goerres Awarded DST Plaque

The Diamond State Telephone Company's Hundred Thousand Mile Club of safe drivers last Friday evening (March 6) enrolled eight telephone men from the downstate district (Kent and Sussex Counties) at the Club's annual award dinner held at the Maple Dale Country Club in Dover.

The Hundred Thousand Mile Club is composed of telephone company employees who have driven company vehicles at least that distance without being responsible for an accident. The club was founded in 1928.

Admitted to membership this year at the downstate district meeting were LeRoy M. Achilles, Millville; Donald Craft, 501 Arbutus St., Seaford; Delams K. Failing, 206 S. Layton Ave., Wyoming; Robert B. Glasco, Johnson Ave., Lincoln; George W. Jones, Jr., 518 N. Sunset Rd., Dover; William K. Scott, Jr., Millville; George M. Von Goerres, E. Liberty Street, Harrington and James A. Wall, 16 Cedar Rd., Rehoboth.

Membership plaques were presented to the new members by M. H. Evans, general manager for the telephone company in Delaware.

Also honored at the meeting was a 25 year member, Clifton P. Anderson, 637 N. Bradford St., Dover; a 30 year member, Lewis T. Jenkins, 209 W. Laurel St., Georgetown; and a 35 year member, Arthur R. Robbins, Andrews Lake, Frederica.

U. S. N. Recruiting Office Open Evenings

Effective 1, March, 1964 the Dover office of the U. S. Navy Recruiting Service will be open the following evenings: Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, from 6 till 8 o'clock. The purpose of these evening hours are to give the high school seniors time to take their preliminary tests and to explain the high school graduates program to interested applicants. The Navy Recruiting Station is located in the Keith Bldg., State and Lockerman Sts., Dover, Del. Phone 734-7319 for an appointment or just drop in and get acquainted with your Navy Recruiter, Frank J. Markert, CSI, USN.

State Auditor Ernest E. Killen said Wednesday night he would seek the Democratic nomination for governor in the coming elections this year. He thus, became the first person to openly announce his intentions to campaign for the nomination.

In an impromptu announcement, at the tail-end of a covered-dish supper at the Delaware State Fair restaurant, sponsored by the Ninth District Democratic Women's Club, the Harrington grain dealer, declared:

"Tonight is the time to begin—it is not too early."

"We are living in a state of rapid industrial growth and progress. Government must keep pace."

The gubernatorial aspirant, serving his third consecutive term as state auditor, pointed out that youth needs to be motivated and encouraged toward public life and that it is "screaming for action."

Continuing, he emphasized: President Kennedy in 1960 turned his youth from a liability to an asset and left with us and all young people of the world a challenge to continue in that direction. Public life is the crown of a career, and to young men and women it is the worthiest ambition.

"Politics is still a great and honorable adventure. It has been fashionable, in many places, to look down on politics and those persons in government. President Kennedy and President Johnson, I think, changed that, and altered the public conception of government. They certainly did for those who participated. But, however we feel about politics, the arena of government is where the decisions will be made, affecting not only all our destinies, but those of generations to come."

Century Club Reciprocity Tea A Success

Like the flowers that bloom in the spring the lovely hats of guests and members bloomed with color at the Reciprocity Tea given on Tuesday by the Harrington New Century Club at the club house. Guests were members from the other clubs in Kent County.

Mrs. Francis Winkler began the festivities with a welcome. Mrs. Harry John Dill, Jr., gave a scripture reading followed by the pledge of allegiance and Collect. Mrs. William Draper, Kent County Vice President was introduced and said a few words. Mrs. Winkler then recognized the presidents and members who were present from each of the clubs. They were Avon Club, Felton, Mrs. Howard Henry, president; Round Table Club, Wyoming, Mrs. James Bennett; 20th Century Club, Smyrna, Mrs. J. Everett Lofland; Rising Sun Community Club, Mrs. Daniel Short; Dover New Century Club, Mrs. Melville Warren, and Milford New Century Club, Mrs. George Westfall.

Up until this point the program of the afternoon had been a deep dark secret to all except Mrs. Lester Smith and her committee. Then with the following poem, Mrs. Smith let the secret out.

"About our cares and woes, And take you on a pleasure trip, Where every woman goes. Of course she has no worry, Of a parking place to find. For all this treasured journey, Takes place within the mind. So let us travel with her To a spot beside the sea, And spend a mental fortune, On an Easter shopping spree.

Mrs. Leon Kukulka accompanied by Mrs. William Kramedes, set the scene musically with "On The Boardwalk at Atlantic City," and with Mrs. Robert Creadick serving as moderator, eight original creations, such as has been seen only rarely before, were displayed to the audience.

Modeling the Easter outfits were Mrs. Samuel Williams in a charming outfit by "Chickering," featuring white feather trim and wish bone closing complete with a pill box hat. Mrs. Fred Wilson was the "Toast of the Town" with a black dress amply decorated with real toast and appliques of red and green velvet bells that (Continued on Page 8)

Felton Fire Company To Hold Annual Supper

The Felton Community Fire Company is planning to hold their semi-annual fried oyster, chicken salad and dumpling dinner at the fire house, Saturday, March 14, starting at 2 p. m. The auxiliary of the Fire Company will have an apron and miscellaneous table.

Greenwood

The Greenwood Chapter of the National Honor Society held its induction ceremonies on Friday, Feb. 28, at an assembly in the school auditorium.

The candlelight ceremony was conducted by senior members of the organization, Carol Root, Sandra Belton, Katherine Moore, William Fleischauer, Vivian Ruggiero, Elizabeth Breeding and Carol DeFord.

The inductees, all of whom have maintained "B" average grades throughout their high school work, and have been selected by the faculty on the basis of their character, leadership, service, and scholarship, lighted their candles from the symbolic candle of truth and took a solemn oath to uphold these qualities in their personal life and in their school.

Those inducted into the Honor Society were Brenda Cain, Diana Drummond, June Willey, Tyson Wroten, Duane Anthony, Donna Beachy, Brenda Drummond, Drew Clendaniel, Peggy Closser, Betty Dean, Helen Faux, Phillip Gallo, Marietta Hofstetter, Helen Vincent, and Vicki Woodall.

The following sophomores were accepted as provisional members into the society and will be inducted next year, if they can maintain the society's standards for admittance: Richard Davis, Joyce Dean, Nancy Mumford, Wilma Root, James Todd and Dewey Whitmore.

Wayne Andrews is a patient in the Nanticoke Memorial Hospital and also Mrs. Gary Davis is a patient there. Both patients were the victims of automobile accidents.

The "Children's Hour" group of Greenwood, which meets after school each Wednesday, along with the group from Hickman, which meet Thursday afternoon, will present a musical program Easter Sunday night at 7 p.m. at the Pilgrim Holiness Church in Greenwood. Parents and friends are cordially invited to attend this special service.

Don't forget the basketball games Friday, at 7 p.m. in the Greenwood School Field House. These are sponsored by the Greenwood Lions Club, the first game being a contest between the Lionesses and the ladies of the school faculty and the second game being a contest between the Lions Club members and the men of the school faculty. All proceeds will go to the heart fund.

The date for the annual beauty contest, sponsored by the Lions Club, will be April 17. Jacob Hatfield is program chairman. Call 349-4255 for your blanks and get signed up.

With George Vapaa

Farm credit needs in Kent County have drawn our sharpest attention in the last couple of weeks. And I'm afraid they will for the next few weeks.

I almost hesitate to write about them. For the subject seems to be highly controversial. And frankly, sound credit practices are absolutely essential for the growth of our area.

Robert Rider, of Bridgeville, is chairman of the Agricultural committee of the Delaware Bankers Association. Farm banking leaders will meet at the University of Delaware March 12. Bob promises a lively program keyed to our changing farm situation.

A country banker was heard to comment that if a new business with a $50,000 capital investment comes to Main Street, citizens are elated. But many, many farms in the area have such an investment, and it's taken for granted.

Further too, too many non-farmers tend to underestimate the ingenuity and managerial skill of farmers. They are tempted to tell farmers what to do in areas where they are not qualified. But in one respect—that of credit use—farmers need banker counseling. Too many of our farm resources are coasting along—or are tied up in land and capital improvements. The expanded use of credit can stimulate sound farm enterprises.

Kent County farmers must take several steps to participate in the 1964 Feed Grain Program.

If he hasn't already done so, the farmer first files a report with the county Agricultural Stabilization Committee office on the farm's acreage and crops in 1959 and 1960. The county ASC committee will then send the farmer his feed grain base made up of the barley, corn and grain sorghum bases for each farm.

Next step is to complete and file an intention-to-participate form at the county ASC office before March 27. At the same time, the farmer may request an advance payment for the number of acres to be diverted from feed grain to conservation uses.

After these forms are filed, the farmer diverts the designated corn, barley, or grain sorghum acreage to a conserving use. The conserving use of diverted acres is in addition to the farm's normal acreage (1959-60 average) in conserving uses or practices, including summer fallow and idle land.

Further details on provisions of the program are available from the county ASC and Extension offices, at Dover. Telephone numbers are 697-3294 or 736-1448.

Topdressing wheat in the spring with nitrogen can be profitable. However, use it sparingly on fertile ground to avoid lodging. Growth that is too rank also depresses new legume seedlings. Redcoat wheat has a very strong straw and can take up to 50 pounds of nitrogen per acre on moderately fertile soil.

It's best to apply nitrogen early. Late applications may burn new growth, and response will not be as good. Results of experimental work show that the best time to topdress is just after the wheat starts growing in the spring. But many farmers who apply nitrogen while the ground is still frozen have good results.

We recommend a quickly-soluble nitrogen fertilizer, such as ammonium nitrate, urea, or one of the nitrogen solutions. The lowest price per unit of available nitrogen, all other factors considered, is the key.

Amounts required vary with fertility of fields. On wheat that ordinarily would yield 20 to 25 bushels per acre, 30 to 40 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre are recommended. Add 10 more pounds of Redcoat variety. A grain drill may be used, or for pelleted or granular fertilizers, a cyclone seeder.

Quicker-acting commercial fertilizers are preferred to manure in topdressing, although farm manure, at least six loads per acre, helps increase yields.

Complete fertilizers, such as 10-10-10 or 15-10-10 provide nitrogen for wheat, and phosphorus and potash to help the new seedling.

A diet of nails and wire may seem odd. But lots of animals seem attracted to it—to the dismay of their owners.

"Hardware disease," more scientifically dubbed "traumatic gastritis," causes losses of more than a million dollars a year to livestock producers.

The problem is most common among cattle and sheep. The food is swallowed or gulped to be chewed later as cud. Small foreign objects may pass unnoticed into the stomach.

Sharp bits of metal may work their way through the stomach wall. This may cause only a temporary digestive upset if the metal becomes imbedded in the stomach wall and surrounded by scar tissue. But the trouble is more serious if the metal penetrates the wall into other organs. The result may be infection, or often the death of the animal.

Some symptoms of hardware disease are similar to those of other diseases. For this reason, a veterinarian should be called to diagnose and begin treatment as soon as possible.

One of the best preventive measures is to keep the pasture, feedlot, barn, and barnyard free of stray bits of metal. Pick them up whenever seen.

As a service to Americans who participate in the annual St. Patrick's Day "wearing of the green", USDA plant quarantine inspectors will again examine about a quarter million small packages of shamrocks shipped in from Ireland and Britain. Shamrocks must be inspected because they frequently arrive with bits of soil on the roots which require fumigation to kill foreign plant pests. Major threat is posed by the golden nematode, which is highly destructive to potato and tomato crops.

The '63 world corn crop is now estimated at a bit over 8.1 billion bushels, according to the USDA. That would put the crop at seven per cent above the previous record in 1960. The increase from earlier estimates results from larger forecasts for the U.S., Eastern Europe, and Argentina. The U.S. accounts for about half the world total. Production in Western Europe is the largest on record and the same is true in Asia. Production in the Soviet Union and Africa should be about the same as '62. Corn production in South America—where the seasons are reversed and harvest begins in March—promises to be the largest since 1947-48.

Kent Home Doings

Refrigerator odors can come from a variety of sources, says Katie Thomas, Kent County home economics extension agent. Usually they can be traced to uncovered foods, spilled food which has not been completely cleaned up, or a temperature setting which is too warm, and allows food to decay too quickly.

The best way to eliminate odor is to prevent it. Properly stored food and periodic thorough cleaning of the refrigerator will prevent most odors.

Activated charcoal or an ozone lamp can be used to eliminate particularly troublesome odors, Mrs. Thomas states. They can be bought commercially and used according to manufacturer's instructions.

Warm water and mild soap or detergent will do the job of cleaning your refrigerator interior, after you have first emptied it of all food and removable parts. Do not use harsh abrasives or strong liquid cleaners.

Then wash all surfaces with a solution of warm water and baking soda. Rinse and dry. From one to three tablespoons of baking soda per quart of warm water are recommended by refrigerator manufacturers, Mrs. Thomas relates.

When cleaning, give special attention to cracks, crevices, drawer slides and other places where food may be trapped. If strong odors are allowed to persist, there is always a chance that they may permeate the insulation, making replacement necessary. This is usually an expensive project, and waste to avoid.

Cold weather can help you do an easier job of defrosting and cleaning your home freezer.

Simply put the frozen foods in boxes and carry them out to the garage or stick them in a snowbank. If you think it's necessary, add a tray or two of ice cubes to help keep the foods frozen. If left out of doors, secure the boxes from neighborhood animals.

Use your vacuum cleaner to get rid of the accumulation of ice and frost in the freezer. Attach the vacuum's hose to the exhaust outlet and put the hose in the freezer. Push the door closed as far as possible and turn on the vacuum. In no time at all, the warm exhaust air will melt the frost and ice. It's much easier than using hot water and a cloth, Mrs. Thomas reports.

Delaware Food Market Report

How would you like to put a touch of the exotic into your menu tonight - then consider Belgian endive. True, it's expensive but delicious, and right now it is arriving in peak volume from Belgium. Anise, domestically grown, might well provide another new note.

Although you possibly weren't aware of it, many of the fresh vegetables you've been buying at the market this winter have been grown in Mexico. According to the United States Department of Agriculture, bad weather took a heavy toll of the United States winter vegetable crop - particularly of snap beans, cucumbers, tomatoes, and sweet corn. Luckily, shipments from Mexico are filling the gap. Rutabagas, are another "foreign" vegetable being shipped in mostly from Canada. This vegetable is quite reasonable since it is now plentiful. Other choices at the vegetable counter include: Beets, old and new cabbage, carrots, mushrooms, green and yellow globe onions, old crop potatoes, radishes, Brussels sprout, and broccoli.

This is not the domestic honeydew season, but melons imported from Chile are now in peak supply. Maturity of the melons has improved, but shop carefully - check for quality. The citrus picture is about the same as last week with good supplies of Florida grapefruit and California oranges. Apples, bananas, and avocados are also good buys. To round out the picture, Florida strawberries, Michigan rhubarb, Mexican watermelon, and cantaloupes are all available this week.

Among red meats, veal is currently reported of fine quality. When buying with the idea of economy in mind, consider cuts like flank and breast. These cuts often sell in the 19 to 40 cents per pound category. Both beef and pork continue as liberal features. In the next few weeks, watch for exceptional values among tender beef steaks. Some prices on lamb cuts have dropped recently; no substantial price rise is expected in the near future.

There continue to be bargains aplenty at the poultry counter. Broiler supplies have advanced to a point at least 5% above a year ago. Whole and cut-up fryers and fryer parts are specially priced. Large turkey supplies are also causing weaker prices on all sizes.

For those shopping for fish for Lent, the recent warm weather means good news. Boats from nearby fishing areas have been bringing in heavy catches of porgies. Among the many other fresh fish choices are cod, haddock, red snapper, flounders, whiting, and sea bass.

Kent County Links will meet on March 18 at Mrs. Hazel Lemon's home in Houston. Junior Broiler members should plan to attend the first training session on March 13, 7:30 p.m. at the Harrington High School, Agriculture room. Information will be presented on the necessary preparations before chicks are received.

New Castle County had the highest county average with 11,985 pounds of milk per cow on 1,597 cows. Kent County was second with a 10,994 average on 1,285 cows. Sussex County cows on test averaged 10,906 on 1,052 cows.

W. R. Hesselstine, extension dairyman at the University of Delaware, said this is the first time that the Delaware DHIA average has exceeded the national DHIA average. He said this indicates the quality of cows and the kind of management on dairy farms in the state. Hesselstine also noted that the number of cows per herd increased in the state for the 5th straight year.

"This is typical of the dairy business. Herds are getting larger, production is increasing and the number of dairymen is decreasing." Along with this he noted that costs of producing milk are increasing each year while prices received by farmers stays level, or, in many instances, drop.

Ninety-four Delaware herds were tested during 1963 by five official DHIA supervisors. They are employed cooperatively by the dairymen and visit each member every month recording production data on the herd. Production data are calculated electronically at a computing center of Cornell University in New York.

Tested Dairy Herds Top National Average

For the first time, Delaware dairy herds participating in the Dairy Herd Improvement Association testing program are above the national average in milk and butterfat production. The 3,934 cows on test produced a record 11,373 pounds of milk per cow, up 580 pounds from 1962. The national average in 1963 was 11,286 pounds per cow.

The top producing herd, according to records just released by the University of Delaware, which supervises the testing, was the W. L. Phipps and Son herd of Wilmington with an average of 16,562 pound of milk, and 662 pounds of butterfat. The 48-cow herd exceeded the national average by more than 5,000 pounds per cow and is the highest average yet recorded in Delaware.

The University of Delaware Holstein herd placed second in the testing with an average of 15,085 pounds per cow on the 33 cows. Others in the top five and their herd averages, are: David

Bill Green Leads Felton to Loop Diadem

The little guys in Kent County have a new hero as 5-foot-5 Billy Green, Felton's mighty mite basketball star, pumped in 34 points to spark his team to a lopsided 81-59 victory over Lord Baltimore in their Friday night battle for the Henlopen Conference Championship. Felton gave the Western Division its first title, as Milton and Rehoboth of the Eastern Division were the champs the first two years. The Green Devils had their first undefeated season in history, chalking up seventeen straight victories. A one point victory over Harrington and a two point decision over Selbyville were their only close calls during the season.

The John M. Clayton field house at Dagsboro-Frankford, was the scene of Felton's triumph. Nearly 2000 fans jammed every nook and cranny. Spectators were seated on the floor only inches outside the playing area. It appears that a larger arena should be obtained for this attraction in the future. Dover Air Base gym on the base proper can seat upwards of 3000 and might be the largest layout in Kent and Sussex Counties.

Against Lord Baltimore, the Green Devils were loose and relaxed as they kept the pressure on the Eagles from the start. The Eastern Division representatives couldn't stand the strain of watching Green, Wood, Blades and Reible all at the same time and buckled in the third period to allow the winners to shoot into an unsurmountable 62-39 lead after three periods. The Eagles' pre-game strategy called for a close guard to be kept on Jim Blades, the top scorer in the Henlopen Conference and Dave Wood. Blades and Wood scored only a total of seven points in the first half but Green upset the strategy by bombarding the net for 20 points on 10 goals in 14 shots. Three different Eagles guarded Green at different times and on occasion he was double-teamed but they couldn't stop him.

Jim Blades regained his scoring touch in the second half to end up with 20 points and game runner-up honors.

George Reible chalked up 11 points in his last game in Green and White livery. No. 6 man, Sam Ludlow and Green are seniors also. Green was described by another sportswriter as a kid with a lust for hustle. This is the best description we have heard for the little guy who took over the giants' game for an evening.

Eight H.H.S. Trackmen in U. of D. Meet

Coach Harold McDonald's Harrington High track team will prep for the upcoming outdoor season by engaging in an indoor track meet at the University of Delaware on Saturday. None of the eight lads scheduled to perform have competed indoors before so it will be a brand new experience for them.

The track will be much shorter and will consist of ten or twelve laps to the mile, instead of the four lap oval used in outdoor tests.

The Lions are tentatively scheduled to compete as follows: Mile run-Dennis Rogers, Wayne Carson, Bob Matthews, Marshall Hatfield.

1000 Yard run—Bob Smith. 600 Yard run—Richard Black. Pole vault—Frank Cain. High jump—Randy Knox.

Coach McDonald's Lions were state champions in Class II cross-country last fall and hope to make a good showing in the first Class II track championships to be held in May. It says here that Harrington does not have the enrollment to defeat schools like A. I. duPont and Claymont in track, but with the revised state setup which has all the big schools in Delaware competing in Class I, little schools like Harrington can have a good time trying. Harrington has sprung a few surprises in the past when competing upstate.

Jr. High Girls Basketball Team Goes Undefeated

The girls' junior high basketball team ended an undefeated season last week by defeating Milford, 29-5.

The game scores were: Harrington 17, Milton 1; Harrington 25, Greenwood 12; Harrington 11, Milton 4; Harrington 22, Milton 5; Harrington 40, Milford 0; Harrington 29, Milford 5.

Harrington, 144; opponents, 27.

Those playing were: Peggy O'Neal and Joan Smith, co-captains; Brenda Neeman, Judy Burgess, Patty Jopp, Donna Calaway, Sharon Swain, Pat Dudek, Tillie Kukulka, Susie Fair, Barbara Calloway, Cindy Kohel, Debbie Reid, Debbie Aiken.

The junior high team owes such a fine season to their faithful coach, Violet Testerman.

yielding, resistant varieties from which to choose. While indicating a shift to short season varieties, Cole does not think any variety can be seeded after the 15th of June without realizing a substantial reduction in yield.

Several practices are recommended by plant pathologists to further reduce the threat of moldy bean disease. Dr. Crittenden suggests that farmers plow under all soybean materials after harvest; use a small grain winter cover crop; plant healthy seed and follow a sound system of crop rotation to break any disease cycle that may have started.

By following these control measures and planting resistant varieties, Crittenden says a grower can eliminate the chance of outbreak of moldy bean disease. But, he says failure to take these steps can mean serious crop damage and financial losses.

Five Lion Wrestlers In State Title Test

Harrington High School's wrestling Lions have qualified a high total of five wrestlers for the state championships to be held March 13 and 14 at Carpenter Field House at the University of Delaware.

The grapplers and their weights are: David Greenly, 95 pounds; Dan Adams, 103 pounds; Jim Cain, 120 pounds; George Bonniwell, 127 pounds; and Louis Starkey, 180 pounds.

The five locals earned the right to compete in the state meet by finishing first, second or third in the recent Delaware Independent Wrestling Tournament held at St. Andrews School, Middletown.

It is very unusual for a school as small as Harrington and as comparatively new to the sport to come up with so many qualifiers. Only Bonniwell will not return in 1965 so it appears that the Lions are a team of the future. They can be expected to perform even better for the upcoming seasons since they have good prospects in every class starting with the eighth grade.

made it a real "bell ringer." Mrs. Robert Weaver chose a box pleated skirt complete with small cereal boxes in rows down the skirt, and a gorgeous cartwheel hat decorated with Easter eggs and bunnies. Mrs. Fred Bailey was also most original in a gown of the popular egg shell, in this case tiny egg shells filled with Easter eggs. Her accessories were of jelly beans. The pencil skirt of Mrs. Charles Peck, Jr., also featured a cap (baseball cap) sleeves. Mrs. Kenneth Aiken was ready for the golf links in a yellow check skirt and a boxy jacket of the cardboard box variety. Completing the parade was Mrs. Smith with a powder puff gown and Mrs. Creadick who explained that her tissue over-skirt was just the thing to dress up her office sheathe for an evening out. Mrs. Kukulka sang "Easter Parade" while the models walked among the guests and further displayed their outfits.

The audience was most appreciative of the program and applauded each model as she appeared on the stage. Miss Becky Moore painted a most interesting backdrop for the stage depicting the boardwalk shops at a seaside resort.

Following the program refreshments were served from the beautifully appointed tea table. Mrs. Dill and Mrs. Fair poured.

Those members who were responsible for a most enjoyable afternoon were those already mentioned on Mrs. Smith's American Homes Committee, the Hospital Committee with Mrs. William W. Shaw, chairman, Mrs. William A. Kohel, Mrs. Fred C. Powell, Mrs. Melville C. Taylor, Mrs. Charles Rapp, Mrs. Clyde Perry, Mrs. Ridgely W. Vane and the Decorating Committee with Mrs. Floyd Nasser, chairman, Mrs. John M. Curtis, Mrs. Vincent Lobo, Jr., Mrs. Gayle B. Smith and Mrs. Fulton J. Downing.

It was a lovely day for a lovely party and guests and members enjoyed it to the fullest.

Canterbury

On Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wilkins and family visited Rev. and Mrs. Bob F. Wilkerson and son of Camden.

On Sunday afternoon, the Wilkins were guests of his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Scott and children of Houston. Early Sunday afternoon guests of the Wilkins were Rev. and Mrs. R. F. Burris of Felton.

On Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Walters, Sr., of Canterbury, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wood of Felton were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Moore Jr., at their new home.

Get-well wishes are extended to little Scott Chambers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Chambers, of Canterbury. We hope that he will soon be over the mumps.

Bernard Darling and children, of near Frederica, accompanied by Miss Nancy Bradley of Harrington, were guests of his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wilkins of Canterbury, on Tuesday evening.

Guests of the Wilkins on Saturday evening were Miss Marie Baker of Dover, and A/Ci Richard Kiser of the DAFP.

Sunday dinner guests of the Clement Aikens were Rev. and Mrs. Robert Dill of Lebanon, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hudson and family of near Felton.

On Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Aiken and family visited the Norman Wilkins.

Insulated houses need to be revised somewhat to take care of the different conditions brought about by insulation and mechanical ventilation. Haphazard installation of insulation can be costly and give little return for the money invested," he said.

Fulton also noted that the tests had turned up questions about the use of mechanical ventilation in older houses which call for more study before any recommendations can be made. He said that studies on this problem were continuing in both old and new houses so that detailed recommendations on its use could be made.

Other studies underway by the DPI Broiler Housing Committee, with the cooperation of specialists from the Experiment stations of the universities of Delaware and Maryland, include development of engineering and management techniques in the use of fan-type ventilation. The committee, chaired by Alden E. Loberg of Preston, Md., outlined preliminary plans to start on a 5-year study of housing and management practices for efficient hatching egg production.

U. of D. Senior Wins Fellowship

The University of Delaware senior Richard W. Hall has been awarded a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship for first year graduate study next fall.

The fellowship includes full tuition and fees for the first year at the graduate school of his choice, along with a stipend of $1800.

Another senior, Miss Nancy McKaig, was on the honorable mention list announced recently by Sir Hugh Taylor, president of the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Foundation.

Hill is majoring in biology and plans to enter college teaching after the completion of his own studies. That's been his goal throughout his career at the university.

Theme for this year's foundation grants is developing "College Teachers for Tomorrow."

Miss McKaig's name will be sent to the deans of graduate schools in the U. S. and Canada for consideration for other awards.

Hill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Hill, Jr., of 180 Drexel Ave., Lansdowne, Pa. He is a member of Beta Beta Beta. He ranks academically in the senior class, with a cumulative grade average of 3.97 through seven semesters.

His university adviser, Dr. G. Fred Somers, said of the award winner: "Dick is a very remarkable young man in that he can take the most complex things and present them so anyone can understand them. We in the biology department have always thought he would be an excellent teacher."

Normally biology majors take two semesters of mathematics Somers said. Not Hill though. He took six semesters, including calculus and mathematical statistics. His grades? "A" in all six!

Miss McKaig, who attended Woodrow Wilson High School in Camden, N. J., is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKaig, of 2825 Carman St., Camden. She's majoring in psychology. Miss McKaig is a member of the Choral Union and works on the student newspaper, The Review.
