S.H.D. Has Trouble With Land Owners

Absentee land owners prove to be the most difficult in negotiations for needed land for highway improvements, according to the State Highway Department. This condition has served, at times, to delay the progress of needed improvements.

Iisted also as troublesome in the matter of needed right of way is the land owners who has an improved road on one side of the property and is little interested in the improvement of a road on the other side of the property. These are known as corner properties.

Herbert L. Keene, Chief of the Right of Way Division of the Highway Department, commented that the absentee owner, who does not daily travel over the road planned for improvement, usually displays little interest in the project.

Mr. Keene said these transactions normally require quite a volume of correspondence and lengthy negotiations before the transaction for the needed right of way can be completed.

Concerning the owner of the corner property, where an improved road already exists on one side of the property, and the owner is not compelled to use the unimproved road, Mr. Keene said the owner, at times, will hesitate for a long period before making a decision in the matter.

While these difficult right of way matters exist here it is planned to improve some existing paved roads, Mr. Keene said most of the difficulty is encountered in connection with dirt improvements.

The Highway Department records show numerous instances where all but one or two property owners along an existing dirt road planned for improvements have granted the needed right of way.

In order to provide for paved surface, and adjoining shoulders, some land is normally required on each side of the existing dirt road to be improved because of the narrow width of the road.

The property owners along a dirt road listed for improvement.

This new date, a departure from the normal third Saturday in May, will enable Dover AFB to present a more complete program with emphasis placed on dynamic rather than static displays.

Minor Accidents On Increase in '63

There were 928 more accidents, involving damage in excess of $100, on the streets and highways of this state during 1963 than there were reported during the previous year.

The records of the Financial Responsibility Division of the Motor Vehicle Department show 9,667 of these accidents being reported during 1963, as compared with 8,739 for 1962.

According to the records, 2,930 operators involved in these accidents were from out of the state. This is an increase of 249 in the number of out of state motorists involved in accidents during 1962.

There were a total of 4,101 persons injured in the accidents reported during 1963 and this is an increase of 842 over the number injured in the accidents reported for 1962.

Damages reported in connection with the accidents reported during 1963 totaled $3,599,673.00, an increase of $293,628 over the amount of damage reported during 1962.

Motor Fuel Taxes Largest in Years

Receipts for motor fuel taxes in Delaware during 1963 showed the largest total for any years since this form of taxation has been in effect, but the increase in the amount was the lowest recorded in some years.

For the first time in some years the increase in gas tax receipts for 1963 was less than a million dollars leading some persons to indicate that these receipts may be reaching the saturation point. The total gross collection of gas taxes in 1963 was $12,908,407.87, an increase over the receipts for 1962 of $620,840.26. The increase of receipts for 1962 over 1961 was $2,303,976.67.

During 1963 receipts in excess of a million dollars were reported for 7 months, while 5 months reported increases over the same month of 1962 in excess of $100,000. Decreases were recorded in 3 months in comparison with the previous year.

The largest monthly increase was recorded for May, it being $186,096.48. The largest decrease was reported for November, which was $62,179.64.

14 Safety Devices On Automobile Can Save Lives

Fourteen safety devices—some of them with low price tags—can be life saving features of an automobile, a safety official said yesterday.

Richard M. McMullen, president of the Delaware Safety Council, recommended all car owners consider the importance from the safety standpoint of various equipment available as "extras" for cars.

One of the simplest, least expensive and most important is the side rear-view mirror, he said. The rear-view mirror mounted outside the car on the left side "avoids close calls when you change lanes on a highway unable to see a car in your blind spot." It is extremely important when the rear window is fogged or covered with rain or snow. Such mirrors are available for about $6.

Another important item, costing $10 to $15, is a set of back-up lights. The lights do provide better illumination for backing up, but more important for safety is the fact that they warn other drivers and pedestrians that the car is in reverse.

Another inexpensive safety item is the non-glare mirror for

River and Bay Authority Nears Completion of a $103 Million Bond Issue

Delaware River and Bay Authority came a step nearer Tuesday to completion of work on a $103,000,000 bond issue with which to finance a second Delaware Memorial Bridge and the Cape May-Lewes ferry.

It is expected that bonds will be offered to the public on or after April 21.

The Authority announced that an information meeting will be held April 16 in the office of Lehman Brothers, New York City, one of the bond counsels, where questions concerning the issue and what it covers will be answered. Chairman J. H. Tyler McConnell urged that all Authority members attend.

A further meeting of the entire Authority is scheduled for Monday, April 20 at Delaware Memorial Bridge headquarters at 1:30 p.m. It is expected that approval will be given the complete bond indenture at that time. Although the executive committee is authorized to take this action, McConnell called for the presence of all commissioners, five from Delaware and five from New Jersey.

At 10 a.m. Tuesday, April 21 McConnell said it would be mandatory for all commissioners to be present when Governors Elbert N. Carvel of Delaware and Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey will join the Authority to give personal approval to the bond issue. This will expedite matters and allow an immediate offering to the public. Without such action the governors would have ten days to study the proposal.

Vessels on the Cape May-Lewes Ferry run will be manned by Delaware and New Jersey personnel, the Authority members declared. General Manager Nolan C. Chandler said that after interviews were held in both states a large number of prospects responded. Forty qualified personnel have been hired to date.

From these hands Chandler said he can secure the nucleus of a third crew if business warrants placing a third vessel into service this summer.

Shore personnel, waiters for the ship's restaurants and laborers will be employed at a later date Chandler said. He pointed out that all waiters must be qualified life-boat men.

Chandler was also authorized by the Authority to secure bids from concessionaries to operate the restaurants and snack bars aboard ships.

A contract was awarded to John J. Dunn Construction Company, Haddonfield, N. J., for construction of an approach road on the Cape May side, running from the Ferry terminal along Bayshore Road to U. S. Route 9, a distance of 1.6 miles. Dunn was lowest of five bidders at $419,841.50. Consulting engineers had estimated the project at $431,845.00.

The Norfolk Shipbuilding and Drydock Corporation won Authority approval on a contract for a lapping bridge on the Cape May side to cost $34,900.00. Director William J. Miller, Jr. was authorized to complete negotiations on this contract.

The Delaware River and Bay Authority will be represented on the Board of Directors of the

Howard Wagner Attends A.B.A. Meeting in Arizona

The Agricultural Committee of the American Bankers Association met in Phoenix, Arizona, Thursday and Friday of last week, to discuss the agriculture credit needs of farmers.

Howard Wagner, member of the A.B.A. Committee, representing this area of the Eastern Seaboard, stated that capital requirements of farmers will increase as their operations increase and banks will try to make funds available to accommodate agricultural needs.

Domestic Parcel Post Rates To Increase April 1

Postmaster Dill reminded residents of Harrington that an effective date of April 1 has been set for new domestic parcel post rate increases.

The parcel post increase—approved recently by the Interstate Commerce Commission and averaging about 13.1%—is expected to yield about $75.4 million annually.

Catalog rates will be increased approximately 13% and will produce added revenue of about $2.4 million if 1962 volume is maintained.

The higher rates do not affect air parcel post or international parcel post.

Postmaster Dill said he has been advised by Postmaster General John A. Gronouski that the decision of the ICC will assist the Post Office Department in carrying out its objective of reducing the drain on the Federal treasury by $100 million.

The last parcel post increase was on February 1, 1960, the postmaster pointed out.

To illustrate the effect of the new rates here, Mr. Dill noted that a six-pound parcel - which is the average weight - for local area delivery will cost 37c instead of 32c.

Du Pont Lays Off 182 at Seaford

Arthur J. McGinty, manager of the Du Pont Seaford Nylon plant said today that 182 people will be laid off as a result of process changes.

"In the past three years, during our program of modernization and expansion, it has been necessary to increase the payroll by more than 36 per cent, or by some 800 people," Mr. McGinty said. "The program has now shifted into a phase where certain processes require changes in manpower needs and this accounts for the layoff."

Presently there are more than 3,000 people on the payroll and the 182 to be laid off have been with the company less than one year, he said.

John M. Bailey To Speak At Dem. Banquet

The chairman of the Democratic National Committee, John M. Bailey, will be the principal speaker at the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day banquet on Saturday, April 11. Announcement of Mr. Bailey's acceptance was made by dinner chairman Edwin W. Hutchinson. The fund-raising event sponsored by the Delaware State Committee is expected to attract some 1,500 persons to the State Armory in Wilmington. Preceding the dinner, scheduled for 7:30 p.m., will be a reception in Padua Auditorium.

The visit of National Chairman Bailey to Delaware will be his first appearance as speaker at a Jefferson-Jackson Day celebration. His last trip to Wilmington was in 1959 when he accompanied then Senator John F. Kennedy to a dinner arranged by the Brandywine Hundred Democratic Committee.

When he was unanimously elected chairman of the National Committee, the late President Kennedy told the National Committee meeting:

"We are getting someone who understands what the Party can do."

Mr. Bailey is a member of a prominent Hartford, Connecticut law firm and is a nationally recognized authority on constitutional law.

The Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner is the largest single party event held by the Delaware Democrats each year. Democratic leaders including Governor Elbert N. Carvel, Congressman Harris B. McDowell, Jr., National Committeeman William S. Potter and State Chairman John M. Conway will be among those in attendance.

Each night the services will be highlighted by enthusiastic singing by the congregation; personal testimonies by the members of the church, and special musical selections by the Youth and Adult Choirs.

The Harrington Baptist Church is located at 110 Fleming St., Harrington, and is affiliated with the Southern Baptist Convention. The Rev. W. M. Halliburton is the pastor.

Wesley College Receives Grant Of $550,000

Wesley College, Dover, has received a grant of $550,000 from Longwood Foundation toward the construction of the proposed science hall on the Wesley campus.

Announcement of the grant was made in a letter to Dr. Robert H. Parker, Wesley president, from Henry B. duPont, president of the foundation.

Total cost of the new science facility, which will include laboratories and classrooms for chemistry, biology, and physics, is estimated at $800,000.

Construction is expected to begin as soon as final plans are received from the college architects, Larson and Larson, of Winston-Salem, North Carolina, and approved by the college.

The grant is the largest single gift ever received by Wesley, according to a college spokesman. It is the first time Wesley has received a grant from Longwood Foundation.

The Longwood Foundation was set up by the late Pierre S. duPont, of Wilmington, in 1937. Primary obligation of the foundation is the support, operation, and development of Longwood Gardens, near Kennett Square, Pa., assistance to Eleutherian Mills Historical Library in Wilmington; grants to nearby educational institutions for scientific and engineering training and to local hospitals for building purposes.

Some 15 opponents successfully protested a proposed change in zoning in Harrington Manor at a hearing before the City Council Wednesday evening.

The petitioner, Rowe Pleasanton, of Dover, owned lots 5 and 6 on the west side of the south-bound lane of U. S. 13 between two filling stations. Pleasanton wanted the lots rezoned from residential to commercial to permit building of a frozen custard stand. The filling stations had been built before the community had zoning laws.

The opponents to the change in zoning, led mostly by Harrington Manor Residents William Outten and Alan Rutledge, opposed the change in zoning mostly because they deemed the operation of the business would be noisy, especially at night.

The Council voted unanimously to refuse the request for rezoning.

Planners Ask Stay on Heavy Industry

Delaware should declare a moratorium on new heavy industry coming into the state until the state's comprehensive plan is prepared, members of the State Planning Council agreed Wednesday night in Dover.

New Castle County members also called for a friendly warning to Kent and Sussex Counties to profit by the experience of the northern county and do a better job of guiding their growth.

"Kent and Sussex should be warned that we in New Castle have eaten a bitter pill and we will never be able to swallow it," said Samuel Homsey, a Wilmington architect on the council.

Daniel L. Herrmann, council chairman, announced after a spirited discussion that he will appoint a three-member committee—one from each county—to try to figure out how a moratorium on the coming of more heavy industry could be invoked and what can be done to warn Kent and Sussex to profit by the bad experience in New Castle County.

"We must have a halt while we have this planning work thought

Gov. Carvel Urges Celebration of "Swedes' Day"

Delaware's schools, churches, patriotic and historical societies and other institutions and organizations have been requested by Governor Elbert N. Carvel to provide appropriate ceremonies for observance of Delaware Swedish Colonial Day, March 29.

In a proclamation issued at Dover, Governor Carvel pointed out that the landing of the Swedes at "The Rocks," now part of present day Wilmington, March 29, 1638, marked the first permanent settlement in what was later to become the State of Delaware, and also marked the introduction of government, religion, education, agriculture, commerce and industry in this area.

"It is fitting and proper that this recurring anniversary of the founding of the first permanent settlement upon the soil of Delaware be commemorated by appropriate observances and exercises," advised the chief executive.

Governor Carvel also called for display of the flags of the United States and of the State of Delaware on all public buildings.

According to Dr. H. Clay Reed, president of the Delaware Swedish Colonial Society, this year's observance of Delaware Swedish Colonial Day will not be as elaborate and extensive as last year's observance of the 325th anniversary of the landing of the Swedes which had the then Vice President of the United States, President Lyndon B. Johnson, and H.R.H. Prince Bertil of Sweden as participants.

Inasmuch as Easter falls on March 29, the Delaware Swedish Colonial Society has scheduled

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—How much is paid to a war orphan or eligible peacetime orphan taking part in the VA's Orphans Education Assistance program?

A—Students enrolled in the VA's War Orphans Education Assistance program may receive $110 a month for up to 36 months of schooling of vocational training.

Q—I have never asked the VA for anything but I am a war veteran. Can I get a free physical examination?

A—You can get a free examination but it will have to be in connection with your application for some sort of benefit such as hospitalization or to determine if some condition you have may be found to be service-connected. A free examination cannot be had for some private purpose of your own.

Q—Some years ago, the VA denied my claim for disability pension. I am becoming increasingly worse. What steps can I take to have my claim considered again?

A—Write or visit the VA office which previously studied your claim and enclose a statement from your doctor as to the nature of your disability and its increasing severity. The VA will then send you further instruction.

Q—Is a veteran given preference in obtaining private employment?

A—A veteran is aided in obtaining private employment by the Veterans Employment Service of the U. S. Department of Labor. This work is carried on through the local state employment offices in each of the 50 states. A veteran also has some re-employment rights for the job he held prior to going into the service. Full details may be obtained at the nearest state employment office.

Q—Can I select my own lot for future burial in Arlington National Cemetery?

A—No. Gravesites are not assigned in advance of immediate requirement. Application may only be made at time of death of the veteran or that of an eligible dependent.

Q—I am a Canadian and have served in the armed forces of the United States but not during wartime. Am I entitled to become an American citizen?

A—An alien with three years active service during peacetime may have this naturalization process authorized and expedited provided he file citizenship papers while in the service or within six months thereafter.

Q—Are widows of veterans eligible for GI home loans?

A—Veterans' widows may be eligible for GI home loans if they meet these requirements: - they must be unmarried widows of veterans of World War II or the Korean Conflict who died in service or after separation from service as the result of service-connected disabilities. Entitlement for World War II widows expires July 25, 1967, and for widows of Korean Conflict veterans January 31, 1975.

Q—Why is a so-called "C-number" necessary in connection with veterans benefits? Shouldn't the veteran's name and proof of service be sufficient?

A—There are many veterans (sometimes hundreds) with the same name and middle initial. Periods of service are often duplicated. A C-number (claim number) positively identifies the record of the individual veteran.

Q—Can a War Orphan who has his entrance into VA educational training delayed or interrupted by military service have his completion date extended?

A—Yes. He has five years from the date of his first release or discharge from military service in which to complete his training.

Variety, Economy, Nutrition Make Eggs A Bargain

Economical eggs can be used to stretch your budget, and at the same time be used in such a wide variety of dishes this Lenten season that your family need never see the same dish twice, according to Janet Coblenz, extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware.

Served alone, eggs are an excellent source of protein and a welcome ally of weight watchers; there are only 75 calories per egg.

For a turn-about, eggs can be used to supplement three meals a day for those who need to gain weight, Miss Coblenz notes. When used in beverages, or served hard cooked, or eaten in their many forms, eggs provide body-building protein without the danger of unhealthy calories in calorie-laden desserts and candies.

Mild flavored, eggs can be combined well with almost any other food. They complement vegetables, meats, fruits, while unsuspiciously stretching them a bit further. For instance, a small amount of left over peaches or pineapple can be served to the whole family as a custard dessert. Crusting the fruit, you can line the bottom of the dish, place it in the middle, or use it as a fruit topping.

Omelets — favorite any-hour meals — can carry a theme of meat, cheese, or vegetable. Combine them as you would the colors of the rainbow for festive touches at your table.

Small children delight in the many surprises eggs hold in store. Often the first solid food of infants, eggs are easily digested and provide iron not found in milk, Miss Coblenz reminds.

For teenagers, the younger set, or the bridge club luncheon, Miss Coblenz suggests Twin Egg Chargers. Make them by slicing a bun in half and hollowing out a hole in each half large enough to hold an egg. Spread with butter or margarine and drop an egg in each half. Bake in a slow oven about 15 minutes. Top with tomato slice and cheese. Place under broiler until cheese begins to brown.

U. of D. Offers Home Economics Course to Students

Girls who take academic courses in high school will now be able to gain background in home economics as well.

A summer course, offered at the University of Delaware on an experimental basis last year, will be given again this June. Its need is no longer in question.

The four-week course sponsored jointly by the University and by the Home Economics Department, Vocational-Technical Division, State Department of Public Instruction, will be conducted for high school seniors who have had no previous home economics instruction.

At the same time, the class will be observed by Delaware home economics teachers so that similar courses might be conducted in their respective schools.

The summer course will be taught by Mrs. Catherine Bieber, assistant professor of home economics education at the University of Delaware. Classes, will meet three hours a day for a total of 60 hours. Current plans call for the course to run from June 22 to July 17.

Girls enrolled in an academic curriculum have few electives available in their first two years of high school, with the result that they have little or no time for home economics courses until junior and senior years. At that point, many are reluctant to enroll in freshman courses with younger students. Home economics officials feel that the answer may lie in a "non-laboratory" course, designed to give academic students background in such subjects as management of time and energy, consumer economics, textiles, child development, and personal and family relationships.

The teachers this summer will use the class as a workshop, developing curriculum materials that they may personally utilize later.

Credit will be determined by the high school officials concerned. Senior girls from every Delaware high school will be invited to attend.

Russell Stover Candies, Fostoria Glassware, Westmoreland Milk Glass, Franciscan Ware, Yardley and Coty Toiletries, Eaton & Montag Stationery, CLARKE & McDANIEL Gift Shoppe, 25 Loockerman St. Dover, Delaware

Students considered for enrollment in the program must have completed their junior years, must be recommended by their high school, must present a high school record of good quality, and must be interested in studying home economics.

Tuberculosis and Chest Disease Seminar to Be Held

A seminar on tuberculosis and chest diseases will be presented April 18 at a meeting of the Delaware Academy of General Practice to be held at the Emily P. Bissell Hospital near Wilmington.

Dr. Maynard H. Mires, Kent County Health officer, will serve as chairman.

The seminar will be a cooperative effort of the State Board of Health, the Communicable Disease Center of the U. S. Public Health Service, the Delaware Tuberculosis and Health Society, the Medical Society of Delaware and the Academy and Hospital. Doctors of national prominence in the field will speak at the meeting.

Dr. Felix Mick, Milford physician, will discuss "The Role of the General Practitioner in Follow-up of Tuberculosis," followed by a presentation on "Hazards of Drug Treatment," by Dr. Nathaniel Young of the hospital staff.

Dr. Mires will moderate a panel discussion at the conclusion of the seminar. The program will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the hospital auditorium and will conclude at 4 p.m.

While much has been accomplished in the field of tuberculosis control, it is still considered a major health problem. In the United States during 1961, nearly 10,000 people died of the disease and more than 50,000 new active cases were reported. Current health department registers in this country list about 330,000 known cases, and 48,000 persons are recorded as being treated for tuberculosis in U. S. hospitals.

In Delaware, 132 new active cases were recorded during the past year.

Time Is Right To Plant Shade Trees

Without a doubt, the easiest way to get a tall tree to shade you in summer is to plant a seed. But the bare fact is that most people just don't live long enough to plant acorns and wait for oak trees. Besides the process is risky and nerve-racking—who knows what will survive lawnmowers, children and dogs.

Most people—not because they are lazy, of course—decide that the best thing to do is to buy a tree. How long you have to wait before your tree can legitimately be called a "shade" tree depends on soil conditions and how big it is when you plant it, says Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware. Most trees take 15 to 20 years, but some fast growing varieties give moderate shade in 10 years.

"Trees are like people," Stevens says. "There aren't any 'perfect' ones. Pick the one that suits your needs."

Trees are available from nurseries either with bare roots or "balled and burlapped"—a ball of soil wrapped in burlap around the roots. Bare-rooted trees dry out quickly if left uncovered. Keep roots moist, and plant as soon as possible. Wet moss covered with a plastic wrapping will help retain moisture until you are able to plant. Bare rooted trees may cost less to buy, Stevens notes, but they generally don't grow as fast or as well as protected ones.

Any time trees are dormant, from fall through early April, is a good time to plant.

When planting, dig a hole large enough to hold all roots without crowding. Straight sides and a flat bottom are recommended by Stevens because more good soil is placed near the roots and plants settle more evenly. If roots show growth in two main directions, you may find it best to place a small mound of dirt at the bottom of the hole to support the tree. Plant the tree at the same depth as it was before transplanting. A mixture of one-quarter peat moss and three-quarters top soil is best. Where clay soils are prevalent, sand should be added to this mixture.

When roots are two-thirds covered, pack the soil and add several gallons of water. Allow water to settle before filling the rest of the hole with soil. Form a basin around the tree to hold future water. Three to four inches of peat moss or other mulch is helpful during the first two years, Stevens does not advise fertilizer at planting time, but recommends moderate amounts during the second year.

Pruning while the plant is dormant is important to balance the top with the loss of roots that inevitably occurs when transplanting. It also serves to conserve strength until adjustment is made to new living conditions. Another purpose of pruning is to shape the tree. Keep the natural shape of the tree when you prune. Remove low growing limbs with clean cuts close to the trunk and shorten other. Do not cut back the leader, or main shoot, as it may determine the shape of the tree.

Trees up to two inches in trunk diameter will need one to three stakes for support. Let tree diameter be your guide. Trees with a diameter over two inches will probably need guy wires the first two years, says Stevens. Garden hose or inner tube at points of contact will protect bark from damage by wires.

Bugs Travel; Hard to Isolate

What are the chances of an insect outbreak in one field spreading to other fields in the neighborhood? Entomologists at the University of Delaware say that, contrary to popular concept, bugs do get around quite a bit. And the idea that a single outbreak will remain isolated is misleading.

Professor Donald MacCreary, entomologist at the University, has established that insects range quite far from their feeding grounds, and for no better reason, apparently, than to see the sights. He reports that the tarnished plant bug, an insect that damages lima beans, has been found in the Delaware Bay, 3.2 miles from the nearest land. The insects were captured in mosquito traps located on lighthouses in the bay.

MacCreary says this indicates that flights from infested fields to adjoining fields presents no problem to the bug. And he says this is a factor in planning a crop protection system, or preventing a serious outbreak from spreading.

Winterthur Gardens To Open To Public April 1

The Winterthur Gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Francis duPont, near Wilmington, world famous for their vast naturalized plantings of spring flowers and shrubs, especially azaleas, will be open to the public this year for three months beginning April 1 and continuing through June 30.

Extending over more than 40 acres of rolling meadows and woodlands, the Winterthur horticultural collection includes almost every type of plant which will grow in Delaware. Although they were laid out with meticulous care and are the product of a truly creative effort, the Gardens appear as natural growth among the native trees and shrubs which have been preserved. Color and form are the hallmarks of Winterthur.

In April the Gardens will feature thousands of flowering bulbs, forsythia, early azaleas and rhododendrons, and the delicate blossoms of magnolia, cherry, and crab-apple trees. The Azalea Woods, for which the Winterthur Gardens are noted, reach their height in May when the tree peonies, white lilies, spireas, and Asiatic primroses are also in bloom. In June the climax groves of oak, tulip poplar, and beech trees are in full foliage and their extraordinary grandeur dominates the Gardens.

For the visitor wishing to study the plantings at Winterthur, a "guided tour" is available by means of an Acoustiguide which may be rented for a nominal fee. This portable playback device, with individual earphones, carries a recorded commentary written and narrated by the director of gardens which is changed to keep pace with new blossoms as they appear.

For a five-week period from April 21 through May 23, twenty-six early American period rooms in the Henry Francis duPont Winterthur Museum will be open in conjunction with the gardens and may be seen without the advance appointment needed at other times of the year. Each of these rooms contains hand-fashioned woodwork from a house built along the eastern seaboard of the United States before 1840, and is furnished to the smallest detail with objects of daily living contemporary in date with the woodwork.

The Winterthur Gardens will be open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and on Sundays from 1 to 4 p.m. During the five weeks from April 21 through May 23, the period rooms in the museum may be visited Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Both the gardens and the museum will be closed on Memorial Day, May 30.

The admissions charges which support in part the education and research programs of the Winterthur Museum, a nonprofit educational institution, are $1. to tour the gardens, $1 to visit sixteen rooms in the main museum, and 50 cents to see ten rooms in the south wing. Children under 14 years of age when accompanied by adults are admitted for 50c.

Winterthur is located six miles northwest of Wilmington on Rte. 52 between Greenville and Centreville.

Kent General Plans Expansion Committee

The president of Kent General Hospital has been authorized to name a committee to plan development of its plants and services.

"The public is obviously demanding more from the hospital each year," said Walton H. Simpson, a republican state senator from Camden and head of the hospital's Board of Trustees.

Statistical reports showed occupancy had increased greatly since November and short-term waiting lists were now developing. Simpson said that although memberships in the hospital corporation were still being received the response was not what he had hoped for when he recently carried the hospital story to local groups.

monthly board meeting were cooperation with the Sussex County Vocational-Technical Center in the training of practical nurses, renovation of the older sections of the hospital building and the increasing drain on the hospital's resources by indigent patients.

Simpson said that although memberships in the hospital corporation were still being received the response was not what he had hoped for when he recently carried the hospital story to local groups.

"How can you convince people that obnoxious heavy industry is illogical in Delaware," he asked?

Henry B. duPont, another New Castle member, declared that industry and land speculators can control the development of the state if steps are not taken to prevent them. There is little control over what industry comes in now, he said.

Also discussed at this week's Union Carbide Corp., which is "a fine company" and has been a good citizen elsewhere wanted to have its land rezoned without stating what would be put there, he said. Now, he added, the firm has given a general indication but "it doesn't tell you much."

He said Delaware already has one oil refinery "which was not a good neighbor when it started."

Said DuPont: "We must make up our minds. Do we want another Marcus Hook? Do we want Route 13 to become another Kirkwood Highway? You can't just snap your fingers. We must make up our minds what we want."

The discussion on heavy industry and the urgency of planning got started when John A. Bivens, state planner, said World's Fair tourists will be coming through the state. Homsey remarked that the way things are going "we are going to have no land left for the tourists to see that is worthwhile."

Bivens later said there is much work to be done in planning—and that a study of the shoreline is needed among other things. Homsey said it's too late for that because much of New Castle County's shoreline has already been put to industrial use.

There is an acute need for planning in Kent and Sussex, Bivens said. Even after zoning is adopted by the two counties, he said, the need for planning will not be diminished. "The mere existence of a zoning ordinance does not assure a proper pattern of development," Bivens asserted. He suggested the state's future pattern could be shaped in part by the state's control over placement of highways and schools.

The discussion turned to Route 13, cited by Sidney B. Barnes, another New Castle County member.

Bivens said unless access to the dual highway is limited another highway will be needed and that too will prove insufficient unless there is limited access.

FENCE TALK

With George Vapaa

Some people expect new community growth to be urban in nature. But the swing to suburban living is a revolt against the crush of the core city.

Some of us here in Kent County believe we can preserve much of our pastoral setting with good planning. We believe that we can be selective about new industry which is needed to reinforce and balance our strong agricultural base.

Many other areas have lost their strong farm base by failing to work to keep it. "Open Space" is the big cry now. Good farm land fills that need—and still stands on the tax rolls. The public parks are still needed too.

Some areas are trying to develop a tax base on property which reflects in strong part the land's demand for public services. Thus, with planning, housing and industries can be clustered, rather than stretched out in ribbon developments along roads. The clustering save on sewage lines, streets, lighting and a host of other services.

Kent County, Delaware is probably in the best position of any area on the East Coast, or perhaps anywhere in the U.S.A., to keep this truly the land of pleasant living." But we'll have to fight to keep it so.

Katie Thomas, our Extension agent for home economics, and I have been amazed at the interest of local farm groups in international affairs. Here is one of the very live topics.

The Common Market, more properly known as the European Economic Community (EEC) is a union of six countries: West Germany, Belgium, France, The Netherlands, Luxembourg and Italy, aimed at improving their economic and political development. Over 169 million people, or almost as many people as in the U. S., live in an area about an eighth as large, or 450,000 square miles (excluding overseas territories).

As a single economic unit, the Common Market is ahead of the Soviet Union and is second to the United States in industrial production. It is the world's largest importer, and the world's second largest producer of autos, steel and coal. Some areas are densely populated—about 900 people to the square mile in Holland compared to 60 in the U. S.

West Germany, Belgium and Luxembourg are the most highly industrialized. Italy is the least developed, and with France and the Netherlands has a heavy agricultural base.

The mission of the Common Market is stated as "the harmonious development of economic activities, continuous and balanced expansion, increased stability, a more rapid improvement in the standard of living, and closer relations between its member states". The Treaty of Rome, which formalized the structure in 1957, has been compared to the U. S. Constitution in importance. Many foresee a possible "United States of Western Europe" in time.

The political character of the movement is what concerns non-members, especially Britain and the U. S. The "Chicken war" is one example of friction generated against non-members. Steel will probably be the next commodity to come under review. France, in particular, is trying to exert dominant leadership, and was influential in denying British membership, and in raising food tariff barriers against non-members.

The "European movement" is not without problems. Individual national goals and hopes are still politically strong. New forms of regional consultation, coordination and unity are being forced. Controls for fore-shadowed conflicts are being revolved.

The purpose of a foundation planting is to enhance the appearance and architectural lines of the house and to help blend it gracefully into its surroundings. This object should be kept in mind when selecting shrubbery for the foundation.

The appropriateness of a foundation planting depends on several factors. These should be given serious thought by the homeowner when purchasing nursery stock for this purpose. Considerations include the habit of growth and ultimate size of the plant, the color and texture of its foliage and whether it is evergreen or deciduous, and the amount of care that the plant will need. The local nurseryman or county agent will be happy to help in determining the best choice of plant material.

The following list includes just a few of the many varieties that are excellent for foundation plantings:

Entrance Planting—Azalea varieties (broadleaved, both deciduous and evergreen foliage); Rockspray Contoneaster (broadleaved, semi-evergreen foliage); Heller Japanese Holly (broadleaved, evergreen foliage); Mugho Pine (needled, evergreen foliage); Spreading English Yew (needled, evergreen foliage).

Corner Planting—Redvein Enkianthus (broadleaved, deciduous foliage); Winged Euonymus (broadleaved, deciduous foliage); Japanese Pieris (broadleaved, evergreen foliage); Burford Chinese Holly (broadleaved, evergreen foliage); Hicks Yew (needled, evergreen foliage).

Kent County 4-Hers participating are: Margaret Thomas, Janice Harrison, Westville; Michael and Roger Bullock, Honey Bee's; Charles Donophan, Viola Bobwhites; Ray Wright, Robin Breeding, Andrewville; Kathleen Wiebel, Mark and Elaine Blechman, Whiteoaks; Fred Waski, Sam and Edna Dixon, Chestnut Grove; Pat and Cindy Blackburn, David Koble, Kent County Blue Hens; Clifford and Marjorie Hudson, Jay Robbins, Paradise; Bill Simpson, Houston Cardinals; Margaret and August Dienneck, Fox Hall.

Over three hundred persons saw Linda Burge, Kent Light Horse Club and Paradise 4-H Club members Rita Hall, Cliff Hudson, Blake Powell and Sue Tuthill win the Individual and Group Talent Show. These 4-Hers will represent the county in the state contest. In the Senior individual contest Judy Werkheiser, Kent Light Horse was second and Patsy Hughes, Chestnut Grove third. Junior individuals were first, Dana Gooden, Fox Hall; second, Bill Davis, Fox Hall; and third, Debbie Aptt, Houston Cardinals. Group act second place was taken by the Kent County Blue Hens, Barbara and Bette Clinton, and Rita Kinney; third place was the team of Roxanne and Michele Russell, Oak Grove Blue Hens. Eighty-six 4-Hers participated and all represented their clubs well.

Kent County 4-H leaders will hold their regular meeting on Tuesday, March 31st. They will meet at the Dover Reserve Center on New Street. Host clubs are Kent County Blue Hens and Chestnut Grove.

West Germany, Belgium and Luxembourg are the most highly industrialized. Italy is the least developed, and with France and the Netherlands has a heavy agricultural base.

Dorothy Emerson, consultant with the National 4-H Club Foundation, will speak to Delaware 4-H club leaders and members of the Delaware Bankers Association on Thursday evening, April 2, James O. Baker, state 4-H leader, has announced. The annual banquet honoring 4-H leaders throughout the state will be held at Caesar Rodney High School near Dover.

Miss Emerson, former state 4-H club leader in Maryland, retired after 38 years with the Cooperative Extension Service and now serves as a consultant on leadership and training with the 4-H foundation in Washington, D. C.

The 4-H leaders' recognition banquet is sponsored annually by the agricultural committee of the Delaware Bankers Association in appreciation of the community service extended by 4-H leaders to the youth of Delaware. Soybean-Millet Hay Valuable, U. of D. Reports

Soybean-millet hay can be an excellent supplemental hay crop, yielding up to two tons of high quality forage per acre, according to a report released by the University of Delaware. In answer to questions about this combination as a forage crop, the School of Agriculture at the University conducted an experiment at its Georgetown Substation in 1963.

Plantings were made and data taken to establish the best variety of soybeans to plant with millet, the nutritive value of this kind of hay, and the proper time to harvest the crop.

Under the direction of Dr. William Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University, several soybean varieties were planted, including the popular Hay variety, Black Wilson. A tall growing variety identified as UD 1515, the long season Ogden, and the University of Delaware-developed Bethel were also seeded. Plantings were made on the 7th of June.

Since the test plots had been seeded to alfalfa during the four years prior to the test, it was determined that the nitrogen level was probably adequate. But to insure a "bountiful harvest", Mitchell added 500 pounds of 10-10-10 disked into the soil prior to seeding. German millet was seeded at the rate of 20 pounds to the acre in combination with the different soybean varieties seeded at 1 1/2 bushels per acre.

Two cutting dates were observed to give the researchers an opportunity to check the nutritive value of the crop at different stages of maturity, and also to see which cutting date resulted in the largest total yield.

Only slight differences exist between varieties, according to Mitchell. Ogden and Black Wilson were slightly higher yielding than the other varieties planted, and he noted, no really significant differences in protein content, amount of digestible fiber, or the total amount of digestible food produced per acre were found.

The cutting date did affect the value of the crop for animal feed. Contrary to common practice, Mitchell says the late cut hay actually outyielded the early cuttings. "The more mature hay produced 2.24 tons per acre - 1/3 ton more total hay than the early cut. In the laboratory this was found to be a difference of more than 400 pounds of total digestible nutrients."

Mitchell says this experiment tends to disprove the theory that soybean-millet hay should be harvested when the millet heads first appear. The late-cut hay, harvested 36 days later, contained podded soybeans in addition to fairly mature millet heads.

There are two factors, however, that support the early-cut idea. Mitchell says it is possible to get another crop on the field if the hay is cut in early August. Also it is doubtful that livestock will eat the mature hay as readily. The intended use of the hay seems to be the governing factor, according to the agronomist. If it is to be fed to dairy cattle for maximum milk production, the early-cut hay would probably be superior. If however, it is to be fed to livestock only as a wintering ration, then the yield-maximizing, late-cut hay would give better results.

Delaware Food Market Report

Easter is almost here and it is important that we remember that it is a joyous day. It is the day we commemorate Jesus Christ's Resurrection from the dead. Worship services in flower-decked churches with magnificent music mark the day. But, even before the Christian era, there were springtime festivals marking the end of winter and the return of new life to the earth. The egg, as a symbol of new life, has become an emblem of Easter.

Easter traditions in America include the visit of the Easter bunny, New York's famous Easter Parade, the "egg rolling" at the White House. Here in our area, the Easter egg tree is also an important part of the holiday. The decorating of this tree gives joy and pleasure to all who help, yet, it wastes nothing. The empty shells are best to use for the eggs on the tree because they are light, do not need to be refrigerated, and favorite ones can be kept from year to year. To empty the shell, prick a hole in both ends of a fresh egg with a needle (the holes may have to be made as big as a pencil lead). Blow the egg from the shell; this would be a good job for dad. If the blowing is difficult, enlarge the hole. Wash egg shells and dry - then decorate. The eggs you have blown out should be refrigerated immediately or frozen for later use. You can use these eggs for scrambled eggs, boiled custards, pancakes, cakes, etc.

Now for the Easter foods we all enjoy. Beef, pork, and poultry are all plentiful and of top quality, so there will be no limit to what we may serve. However, ham is one meat many people associate with this holiday. This year there are many types and kinds of hams to choose from. When you shop for this meat, be sure to read the labels carefully. This will enable you to choose the one best suited for your use. Many hams today are already fully-cooked and need only to be warmed while many others must be cooked the full-time.

Fresh asparagus is now available and it is a natural for ham. Prices are a bit higher, but quality is good to excellent. Other choices at the fresh vegetable counter are: Carrots, beets, Brussels sprouts, broccoli, potatoes (white and sweet) fresh peas, green beans, and spinach. Lettuce is still high and quality needs to be watched. This is also true of tomatoes.

Honeydew melons, strawberries, and plums, make the frozen

Versatile cottage cheese offers a multitude of new faces to greet spring and the trend for lighter meals. Rich in protein, calcium and riboflavin, one half-cup serving supplies the average man with one-fourth of his daily protein needs, says Katie Thomas, Kent County extension home economics agent.

Economical to use, cottage cheese can be served by itself or used to enhance other foods. Combine cottage cheese with fruit or raw vegetables in salads, with egg omelets and pancakes. Sandwiches, party-style or lunch box, take on springtime lightness when made with a cottage cheese filling. Chopped walnuts, dates, apricots and prunes; horseradish and minced parsley; sardines; hard-cooked eggs and mayonnaise are but some of the ways to vary cottage cheese in sandwiches—try making up your own favorites.

To help you choose between the several varieties, Mrs. Thomas describes five types of cottage cheese. Popular creamed cottage cheese, she says, is available in large and small curds. It is made from pasteurized skim milk to which a culture is added. Flavored cottage cheese combines creamed cottage cheese with fruits or vegetables such as pineapple, chives, scallions, parsley, celery, carrots, spanish onions, green and red peppers or spices. This new-come costs slightly more than unflavored types.

Cottage or "pot" cheese is usually made from skim milk, whether with or without fat, containing up to 80 per cent moisture. Skim milk cottage cheese with no salt pleases people on special diets. Check the label carefully for its ingredients.

Farmer cheese is sliceable. Pressed into a flat package, it contains about eight per cent fat—more than the other kinds. "To preserve your favorite cheese's delicate flavor, buy only refrigerated cottage cheese and keep it tightly closed at about 40 degrees F.," urges Mrs. Thomas. "Use it within a week."

On Holy Saturday confessions will be heard from 4 until 5:30 and again in the evening from 7:30 until 9.

On Holy Saturday evening the vigil services will begin at 11 o'clock and will consist in the various blessings - the new Fire, the Easter candle, the Baptismal Water. These services will be followed by a high Mass at midnight.

Easter Sunday morning a low Mass will be offered at 9:30 during which Easter hymns will be sung by the congregation.

Because of the school holidays there will be no Confraternity classes of religion for any of the children in the parish this week.

The Pasch is a name given to the Jewish feast of the Passover and also to the Christian feast of the Resurrection from the dead of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. For Christians this is the "feast of feasts" and the keystone of their religion. During the Easter season the large candle that is specially blessed during the Vigil services on Holy Saturday, stands in a special candlestick on the gospel side of the sanctuary. The candle is lighted during the Masses offered on Sundays throughout this season. The candle symbolizes Christ as the light of the world and the illuminator of those who had been baptized. The wax of bees from which the candle is made has always been regarded as a type of the pure flesh of Jesus.

Century Club News

A small group of Harrington New Century Club members journeyed to Dover Tuesday afternoon to tour the State Board of Health building and to view its facilities. The visit was a part of the health chairman's program for the year.

The women were royally treated with a personally conducted tour by Dr. George Campana, head of the Cancer and Chronic Diseases section of the Board. They were shown all parts of the building including the extensive laboratories which handle all types of tests and investigations as well as services for the various state clinics.

Dr. Campana urged the women to go to the clinics which are also a part of the State Board of Health program. He told the group that Delaware is one of the most fortunate of states in that it is covered completely by many services and by a State Board of Health doctor in each of the three counties and in Wilmington.

Mrs. John Curtis, health chairman, had arranged the visit. Serving on her committee were Mrs. Norman Oliver, Mrs. James W. Rash, Mrs. Edsel Broce, Mrs. George C. Price, Mrs. William W. Shaw, Mrs. Albert Price, Mrs. Vincent Lobo, Jr., Mrs. F. Brown Smith, Mrs. Reynolds French and Mrs. Charles Jerread.

25 Baseball Candidates at H.H.S.

Jim Hawpe's Harrington High School baseball Lions are drilling feverishly in anticipation of the Henlopen Conference opener on April 16th. The Lions were third in the 12 team loop last season, which was their best showing in several years.

Former pro ball player Frank Glazier is assisting Hawpe. The team is off to a good start since they started practice on the first day it was legal to do so.

Hawpe plans to suit up 15 varsity players with the remainder forming a junior varsity squad.

Returning experienced hands are Rennie French, Glenn Smith, Rusty Jack, Walter Perdue, Bill Adams, Mike Walmsley, Barry Fry, Jose Torres, Joe Taylor, French, Smith, Perdue, Fry and Torres are pitchers. Like most small high school moundsmen they may be called upon for other duty when not on the hill.

Adams, the leading batsman in 1963, batted a resounding .612. It is asking too much to expect him to get anywhere near that figure this season, but enemy pitchers will be wary of him just the same.

Newcomers trying to survive the cutoff are Lee Graef, Lee Dean, Marshall Hatfield, Tom Simpler, Bob Rouse, Dean Manges, Ellis Myer, Harold Russ, Charles Taylor, Harold Brode, Dennis Simpson, Frank Collins, Sam Knox, Charles McNally and Steve Motter.

Some of these boys are good prospects with several years' experience. However, baseball's substitution rules are such that coaches are forced to go all or almost all the way with the best 11 or 12 players.

Bill Green, Jim Blades Make All-Henlopen Team

Bill Green, Kent County's Bob Cousy, and Jim Blades, top Henlopen scorer were chosen on the Henlopen Conference All-Star team for their stellar play this season. Blades will be back next year while Green will graduate in June.

Julian Woodall, former resident of 219 Delaware Avenue, here, was picked on the second team.

Army Enlistment Program Offers Choice Not Chance

Choose before enlistment — Know before enlistment.

These key phrases in the Army's voluntary enlistment program, set the theme for the "Choice Not Chance" options being offered the young men and women of America.

The haphazard processing of World War II is over. The Army needs top technicians in all career groups. The service can not afford the waste of personnel and money by trying to force a square peg into a round hole. Now the Army must know before a man enlists, what he is qualified to do—and whether his abilities are what the Army needs.

To insure that square pegs go into square holes, the Army has designed a system whereby a potential enlistee is given the opportunity to choose the training best suited to his temperament, knowledge and desires for a future career. He is then tested, an if qualified, given a guarantee in writing that he will be trained in the career group he selects. All this before he enlists.

Under the "Choose-it-yourself" Vocational Training option, men have the choice of 55 career groups and 198 occupations. Although high school graduates are preferred, there are no specific educational qualifications for this option.

Eligibility for the chosen vocational training is determined by means of special aptitude and physical examinations. If qualified, a guarantee is written into his future Army record stating he will receive schooling or on-the-job vocational training in his chosen speciality.

His future career is up to the potential enlistee. He can choose his job, qualify for the job and be guaranteed he has the job—before he enlists. For details about the choose-it-yourself option and other opportunities through the Army's "Choice Not Chance" enlistment program, see your local Army Recruiter, M/Sgt. Walter R. Frazier, 218 South Governor's Ave., Dover, phone 736-6937.

Track Lions Open April 8

Harold McDonald's H.H.S. track team will open their season at the Dover Air High track on April 8. With the largest turnout in history it became necessary to start time trials in order to get a better idea of each boy's possibilities.

Tom Lord, 1963's top Lion sprinter captured the 100 yard dash just nosing Richard Black. Black nosed Lord in the 220.

Bob Smith captured the 440 in 57.2 seconds. This is very fast time for a March quarter on a wet track. Black nabbed second place again. Two more good prospects for the one lap circuit turned up in the persons of Harold Ellwanger and Dennis Rogers. Ellwanger clocked 61 seconds in his first 400. Rogers, better known as a distance runner, turned in a very fast 340 yards before running out of gas. When he learns to pace himself at the shorter distance he could very well find himself on a record-breaking mile relay team here.

Last year's quartet of Bob Smith, Barry Fry, Jeff Adams and Bill Sollars clocked 3:43.9 in winning a race at the Milford Invitational Tournament and in the process shattered the old record of 3:49. Adams and Sollars have graduated but it is felt that Fry, Smith, Jose Torres and Rogers or Black could get under 3:40. Torres ran a 56 second quarter for Chestertown High two years ago but has not competed in track here. In a recent quarter with the baseball team he demonstrated that he still has the old glide.

Dennis Rogers won the half mile trial in 2:20 which is very fast considering that the runners had to leave the flooded track twice during the test. Wayne Carson was runnerup with Henry Minner third.

In the upcoming mile trials, a host of long distance runners from the H.H.S. state champion cross country team are slated to get out and "walk the dog." Dennis Rogers, Wayne Carson, George Bonniwell, Harry Bittler, Ellis Myers, Marshall Hatfield, Henry Minner, Jack Dickerson, Roger Redden. This has to be the best balanced mile corps in lower Delaware history although this group could not match the individual brilliance of the H. H. S. trio of Harry Knotts, Dwight Hackett and Clarence Hackett, who made history in the Seaford Invitational by finishing 1-2-3 in the mile.

Joe Taylor and big Ron Melvin appear to be headed for good seasons in the 12-pound shot and should set a new school record in that event. Wayne Collison is way ahead in the discus.

Tom Lord, Randy Knox and Harry Bitler are leading javelin tossers. Knox, conference high jump champion in 1962, Glenn Smith, Larry Garey and Frank Cain are all capable high jumpers.

Cain and Bonniwell are 10 ft. 6 in pole vaulters with Bill Adams not far below that height. The broad jump is a question mark since Henlopen champ Barry Fry is recovering from a basketball injury.

Since Harrington also was state champion in the junior high class cross-country meet, the Lions are well fortified in the junior half mile, the longest race of the 7-8-9 set. Donald Minner, Dan Hicks, Nicky Morris and Bob Dean are the best of this group. Jerry Cagle, Minner and Roger Moore are tops in the 220. Cagle and Minner lead in the 100 yard dash. Gordy Jarrell is a good bet in the 50 yard dash. Dan Hicks also can do a good job in any junior high running event.

Grade 7—Miss Collins—Nancy Broce, Barbara Calloway, Terry Carroll, Judy Davis, Hope Torbert, Helen Welch.

Grade 8 — Miss Schreiner—Debbie Aiken, Anne Gilstad, Susan Greenhaugh, Cynthia Kohel, Gary Minner, Sharon Outten, Camdace Peck, Wayne Reid, John Winkler, Terry Yoder.

Grade 9 — Mr. Horst — Judy Burgess, Norma Frost, Brenda Neeman, Susan Perry, Nancy Richardson.

Grade 10 — Mrs. Graden—Carol Klapp, Lillian Tibbett.

Grade 10 — Mr. McDonald — Kenneth Eilers, William Knox, Donald Wells.

Grade 12—Mr. Rutledge—Janet Anthony, Phoebe Bullock.

Grade 12 — Mrs. Smith—David Brobst, Susan McDonald, Maurer Riley, June Thompson, Frank Welch.

Glenn Smith Top Gun in Pa. Shoot

"Have Gun, Will Travel," could very well be the slogan of H.H.S. junior, Glenn Smith, if that phrase had not been worn out, elsewhere. The versatile local athlete journeyed to "Penn's Sylvan Woods," recently and engaged 67 other dead-eyes in a live pigeon shoot. After the smoke had cleared, Smith and five Pennsylvania ties for first with 19 out of 20.

This affair is now known as the Joseph Strode Invitation Birthday Flyer Shoot and is held at the West Chester Gun Club. Many years ago this event was known as the Delaware State Live Bird Championship and was held in Delaware until a law was passed making it illegal here.

Since Glenn was the only Delawarean among the group tied for first, his feat, in effect, gives him the Delaware State Championship.

Bill Pike Forms Hot-Rod Club

Word has been received that one of our local boys, William R. Pike, Jr. has been appointed supply foreman for the Bechtel Construction Co., a world-wide firm which is currently erecting the new General Foods plant at Dover. Bill, a handsome six-footer with a shy smile, will be remembered as the class president of 1960 of Harrington High.

Among his other interests are hunting, skin-diving, surfing, and his current hobby — building modified racing "hot-rods." He lives with his family near Houston, where nearly every night one can find a group of young "hot-rod" enthusiasts eagerly watching and learning the re-conditioning of motors, car parts etc. To these boys, Bill is a "swell guy." We all extend our best wishes to Bill on his new career, and predict this is one young man who will go places in the future.

"Love With The Proper Stranger" At Reese, Mar. 26-27-28-29

Work is progressing in the renovation of Movie Center to the extent of the completion of a new asbestos roof, decorations of the ladies lounge, wall to wall carpeting on steps leading to second floor, plastering and decoration of auditorium ceiling. Much remains before completion, with necessary work being completed between running time of shows.

According to the management, one of the biggest Easter holiday shows ever is listed for Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday, March 26 - 27 - 28 - 29 with Natalie Wood and Steve McQueen in the Academy nominated "Love With The Proper Stranger." Miss Wood's performance in this great hit has won for her the Academy nomination as the best actress of the year.

With regular price prevailing and in addition the policy of all children under 12 years, free, if with parents, makes this the holiday bargain hit of many seasons.

During the month of April, the Reese Theatre will be open Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Designated as the "month of big hits" plus the requests of our Delaware and Maryland patrons, Monday will be added to the present open time.

Jan Fonda, Cliff Robertson, and Rod Taylor are the stars in the new MGM hit, "Sunday in New York" listed for Thursday, Friday, Saturday, April 2-3-4 with the extra added "Hootenanny" attraction "In Old Missouri" with the Weaver family.

Dean Martin, Carol Burnett, Eliz. Montgomery in "Who's Been Sleeping in My Bed" is the attraction listed for Sunday and Monday, April 5-6.

Chicken Festival To Again Hold Three-Mile Race

The Delaware Chicken Festival will again hold a three mile foot race this year. Successful races of this length were held at previous festivals in Selbyville, Seaford and Harrington.

Runners will toe the mark early in the afternoon of June 20th at Easton, Md. Since there are many good high school cross-country teams on the "Shore" the race should have the biggest entry list yet. Coach Harold McDonald's state champion H. H. S. Lions will probably have several entries.

ment, who have to travel the dirt road almost daily, quickly provide the needed right of way for the improvement in most cases.

But where the dirt road intersects with a paved road, it is sometimes difficult to procure the right of way for the intersection.

The law providing for dirt road improvements contains no provision for the payment for the land needed for right of way purposes and this prevents the use of condemnation proceedings to procure the right of way.

The State Highway Department has already awarded contracts for the improvement of 24.45 miles of existing dirt roads during the present construction season.

Contracts for more dirt road improvements will be awarded as rapidly as plans are completed and the needed right of way acquired.

Clifford E. Hall New Chairman of Multiple Sclerosis

Lt. Col. Clifford E. Hall, director of the state's Selective Service office is the new chairman for Delaware Chapter National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Hall succeeds Dr. John F. Heiney, superintendent of Mt. Pleasant High School, who completed two terms in that office and helped stage its most successful fund drive in 1963.

Colonel Hall has been a member of the Board of Directors for several years and has shown increasing interest in those suffering from the practically incurable demyelinating disease, officials said.

Other officers elected by the Board of Directors included: Robert E. Whitney, sales manager of Hercules Powder Company's cellulose products department as new vice president; Mrs. Elton Fox, secretary; and Richard W. Toppel, of the Bank of Delaware, re-elected treasurer.

Mrs. Fox replaces Mrs. Benjamin Steinberg, who served as secretary since the chapter was organized in 1959. Mrs. Steinberg also supervised the Society's office, which is operated from quarters in her home, 2111 Veale Road. The office will remain there at the invitation of the Steinbergs.

Mrs. Ruth Schwartz was named executive secretary—the first such person employed by the organization, which finds it must maintain regular office hours to service patients, Hall said.

Besides the Board of Directors which was recently elected at the Society's annual meeting, it also has the cooperation of a Medical Advisory Board, of which Dr. Dewey A. Nelson is chairman and Dr. Thomas S. Vates is secretary. Other members are Dr. George J. Boines, Dr. John H. Furlong; Dr. Arthur J. Heather, Dr. W. O. LaMotte, and Dr. Charles L. Reese, III.

Delaware Hospital To Train Mentally Retarded Children

Delaware's Hospital for the Mentally Retarded is undertaking new programs and approaches to care for and train retarded children, according to Dr. Peter Peffer, Assistant Superintendent and Medical Director. Dr. Peffer spoke at a meeting of the Mid-Del Chapter of the Delaware Association for Retarded Children on Monday evening at the Dover Air Force Base.

Dr. Peffer cited the three therapeutic teams at the hospital, each consisting of a doctor, psychologist, social worker, teacher, vocational and recreational trainers, and other personnel necessary to give each pupil-patient maximum training. The goal of the new program is to prepare more retarded children and adults for placement in the community when they have received maximum benefit from the institution.

New recreation programs are underway at the hospital, including Saturday night dances, a bowling team, and a new Girl Scout troop. Dr. Peffer also announced that six new 25-bed cottages are almost completed, and will help in the finer classification tion and training of pupil-patients.

Dr. Peffer described the Hospital's Pre-Admission Evaluation Committee which evaluates each patient applying for admission. Factors relating to the patient, his family and his community give an overall picture of the case. Thus in serving first the most serious cases, the waiting list at the hospital has been considerably reduced.

Dr. Richard Grunert, president of the Delaware Association for Retarded Children, announced at the meeting that the state Foundation for Retarded Children has allocated $3,000 for scholarships in special education. He also said that DARC is hiring a new staff member to assist in establishing new recreation programs for the retarded in Delaware.
