

Two More Die; Five Hurt in Weekend Highway Accidents

Two men died and five were injured in weekend highway accidents in lower Delaware and the Eastern Shore.

The dead: Hertford Gibbs, 33, of Lewes, who died of brain injuries Sunday in Milford Memorial Hospital after his car struck the rear end of a truck driven by his cousin, went out of control and crashed into a house Saturday.

Ray Hill Arthur Jr., 22, of Pleasant Hill, Md., killed instantly in a head-on collision Saturday at 8:15 p.m. on U.S. 301, near Millington, Md., 500 feet south of the Kent-Queen Anne's county line. He was employed at the General Motors Co. plant near Wilmington.

In the Delaware crash, four passengers in the Gibbs car were injured but only one, William Harris, 51, of Lewes, was hospitalized with forehead cuts.

Milford police said the crackup happened about 3:04 p.m. Saturday on Delaware 21, about 1000 feet north of Delaware 14, about a half-mile north of the Kent-Sussex line.

Milford police gave this account of the fatal crash, the second in that town this year:

Gibbs was going south in a convertible with the four passengers at what police said was an excessive rate of speed when he attempted to slow down to miss a truck driven by Marvin Gibbs, 30, of the Georgetown area.

Police said the two drivers are cousins.

The truck, a flat-bed type, was slowing down for the intersection.

Apparently, the car could not avoid hitting the truck by passing it, so it tried to cut around on the right side.

The truck driver escaped injury.

Others in the crash, Leon Bowden, 19, Charles D. Brown, 41, and Garrett Adams, 33—all of the Lewes area—were treated and released at the Milford Hospital. Harris' condition was described as satisfactory Sunday night by the hospital.

Arthur died when his car collided with one driven by Louis Alfred Ollino, 47, of Torrington, Conn. Ollino is in serious condition at Kent-Queen Anne's Hospital, Chestertown, Md., with internal injuries.

Maryland State Police said Ollino told them he was northbound on U.S. 301 when he saw Arthur's car approaching in his lane. He said he swerved to the left but was unable to avoid the collision.

Graduate Specialist Program Limited To School Grads

Foremost among Army voluntary enlistment options, the Graduate Specialist program is limited to high school graduates only. This is another of the many options in the Army's "Choice Not Chance" program.

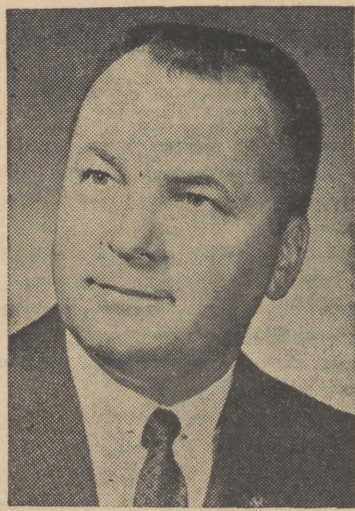

If a high school graduate passes the qualifying examinations for enrollment as a graduate specialist, he chooses the schooling he wants before he enlists. Successful candidates for this program can take their pick from 107 challenging classroom courses. In many technical fields, Army schooling ranks with the world's best.

Another phase of the graduate specialist program is the "early choice" offered high school seniors. This allows them to choose from the widest range of available courses—60 days prior to graduation—before quotas for the most popular courses are filled. If a senior qualifies, his chosen course is reserved for him until after he graduates, with no obligation until he enlists.

To take advantage of the "early choice" the high school senior needs a letter signed by his high school principal or guidance counselor stating that he is likely to graduate. After satisfactorily completing aptitude tests, the Army recruiter will assist him in selecting a course of instruction based on test results and desires of the applicant.

The applicant then receives his guarantee, in writing, which goes into effect only when he actually enlists.

High school graduates or seniors about to graduate may choose the schooling they want, qualify through testing and have it guaranteed—before they enlist. See your local Army recruiter for details of this and other "Choice Not Chance" enlistment options. M/Sgt. Walter R. Frazier, 218 S. Governor's Ave., Dover, Del. 736-6937.

ZIP Code Is Vital According to Postoffice Dept.

ZIP Code "is just as vital to modern postal progress in the small town as it is in the big cities," Postmaster Howard Dill said today.

At the same time the Postmaster defined the program as an economy measure designed to keep pace with the nation's rising mail volume without an "unmanageable" increase in the Department's workroom personnel.

"Economy is the watchword of this administration," Dill said. "President Johnson has directed us to provide the best possible service at the least possible cost."

"Now, and in the future, ZIP Code will help us to meet President Johnson's objectives." Explaining how the program operates for the benefit of both large and small communities, Dill said Zip Code is built around the concept of sectional centers, where mail is processed in bulk and then shipped directly to the sectional center nearest its destination, skipping a number of time-consuming handlings along the way.

He likened it to the "island hopping" deployed to great advantage by our armed forces in the Pacific during World War II, enabling them to reach and recapture the Philippines without stopping to take each island on the way.

This management technique, he said, has been combined with advanced mechanization in larger post offices to automate the sorting process and accelerate even further the delivery of the mail.

"Old Dover Days" Slated for May 2-3

The old capital city will parade its heritage of homes, famous gardens and fine museums on Old Dover Days, Saturday and Sunday, May 2 and 3.

Despite the donning of colonial costumes and traditional dancing on Dover Green, there will be a modern and international aspect to this year's occasion.

Governor Elbert N. Carvel, who made two trips to Japan—in 1962 and 1963—will be host to a group of Japanese governors on May 1 and 2, and he has insisted that they be able to see the area ordered laid out by William Penn in 1683.

Also expected to be guests during Saturday and Sunday will be a score of travel writers from newspapers and magazines along the eastern seaboard. They will be visiting as guests of chambers of commerce and the State Development Department.

With a record 25 homes, churches, public buildings and gardens open to the public, Mrs. Oliver V. Farrow predicts a record throng of fair weather prevails. Interest will hinge around the Ridgely House, built by Thomas Parke, of Virginia, in 1728; the Bradford-Loockerman House, dated 1683.

Planning Meeting To Be Held Thursday Night

The future of Harrington hangs in balance on the scales of the future. Shall these scales tip to the side of a greater and better city or to the side of "standstillism" and deterioration? The answer to this question is up to you, the citizens, businessmen and organizations of the City. Harrington's future is not a game of chance; it is what we make it!

The Mayor, Council and Administration are most interested in a greater and better Harrington. In working toward this goal, the Mayor and Council have scheduled a meeting Thursday, April 23, 8 p. m., on the second floor of the First National Bank Building.

John Bivens, Jr., director of Planning for the State of Delaware, will attend to discuss planning for Harrington's future.

Seaford, Milford, Dover, Finish 1, 2, 3, In V.F.W. Competition

Posts and auxiliaries from lower Delaware have again carried off top honors in the annual Veterans of Foreign Wars Community Service competition.

According to announcement made this week by V.F.W. State Commander Charles E. Mulholland and Auxiliary State President Clara Burns, V.F.W. units of Seaford, Milford and Dover finished 1-2-3 in this year's finals.

Virgil Wilson Post No. 4961 and Ladies Auxiliary of Seaford, received recognition as having the best all-year-around program of community service with Blue Hen Post No. 6433 of Milford finishing a very close second. Memorial Post No. 9962 and Ladies Auxiliary of Dover, finished in third place.

The Seaford units finished second to Dover in the 1962-63 competition. Gen. W. W. Atterbury Post No. 3420 and Auxiliary of Wilmington finished fourth in the 1963-64 contest and Newman-Lee-Urban Post No. 8801 and Auxiliary of Clayton, finished in fifth place.

J. F. Speer Post 615 and Auxiliary, of Wilmington, finished sixth; Polish American Post 3257 and Auxiliary, Wilmington, seventh; Lt. J. Allison O'Daniel Post 475 and Auxiliary, Newark, eighth; and Raymond Reynolds Post 2931 and Auxiliary, Georgetown, ninth.

Although all thirty of Delaware's V.F.W. posts competed, final judging was based on scrapbook documenting the community service claims. Judging of scrapbooks was accomplished on Sunday by a panel consisting of Mauro D. Grieco, businessman of Wilmington; Harry C. Smith, assistant principal of Dickinson High School, New Castle County; and Charles Harris, of Dover, executive secretary of the Delaware State Education Association.

The 1963-64 statewide competition was under the direction of Walter R. Williams, of Wilmington, state V.F.W. Community Service chairman. Co-chairman was Mrs. Helen Best of Richardson Park.

The Seaford and Milford scrapbook entries are being forwarded to the V.F.W. national organization as the Department of Delaware's entries in nationwide competition. The results of the 1963-64 nationwide contest will be announced during the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at Cleveland in August.

Du Pont Plant To Lay Off 300

The layoff underway at DuPont Seaford Nylon Plant will involve approximately 300 people instead of the 180 as originally estimated earlier this month, Arthur J. McGinty, manager, made known today.

Mr. McGinty said process changes which account for the layoff cut deeper than expected into personnel, hence the revision of the number of people affected. Those to be laid off have been with the Company less than one year.

When the layoff was first announced McGinty pointed out that during the past three years Seaford's Nylon payroll had increased by more than 36%, or by some 800 people. "The program shift," he said, "has been to certain processes requiring changes in manpower needs which result in this layoff."

The plant presently employs approximately 3,000 people.

State police said Michael McAlpine, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McAlpine, Jr., of Dover, was hit by a car driven by Valentine W. Miller, 44, of Greenwood.

Miller told police he was driving south on Route 338 near Felton and was rounding a curve when the child darted in front of his car.

Police said Miller told them he could not stop in time to avoid hitting the child.

Miller took the boy to the base hospital in his car, where the child was treated for a skull fracture and scalp cuts.

Rebecca Moore Heads Cancer Crusade Here

Miss Rebecca Moore will lead the American Cancer Society's 1964 Crusade in Harrington. Her co-chairmen are Mrs. Vincent Lobo and Mrs. Francis Winkler.

Miss Moore said that we hope to have the most successful educational and fund-raising crusade ever.

The crusade kicks off April 19, Harrington's goal being $811.

The chairman is calling on everyone to do his part in the fight against cancer. She noted that the disease will eventually strike some 48,000,000 Americans now living, according to present rates. "All of us," she said, "either directly or indirectly are destined to be touched by the suffering caused by cancer. Therefore all of us must unite against the disease."

The new chairman said that cancer was giving way, slowly but surely, to the world-wide attack against it. "A generation ago, fewer than one in five were saved from cancer," she pointed out, "today we are saving one in three, and, under the best conditions, we are now capable of saving one in two." She defined "best conditions" as getting people to their doctors in time for prompt, proper treatment of those forms of the disease which are now considered curable.

Miss Moore said that this was one objective of the crusade. "As part of our educational campaign we seek to persuade more adults to have an annual health check-up by a physician and to learn the seven danger signals that may mean cancer. These two important steps can prevent needless cancer deaths."

The fund-raising aspect of the crusade, she said, provides the support for the Society's programs of research, education and service to cancer patients.

To assure the success of the 1964 crusade she appealed for a record number of volunteers to join her in the work of organizing and conducting the campaign. She urged those who would like to serve as volunteers to call her at 398-3421.

"It is through co-operation and personal effort that this disease will be conquered," she said. "And by working together we can make the 1964 Crusade the best year yet in Harrington."

Yearbook Forum 'Nursing Careers In Mental Health'

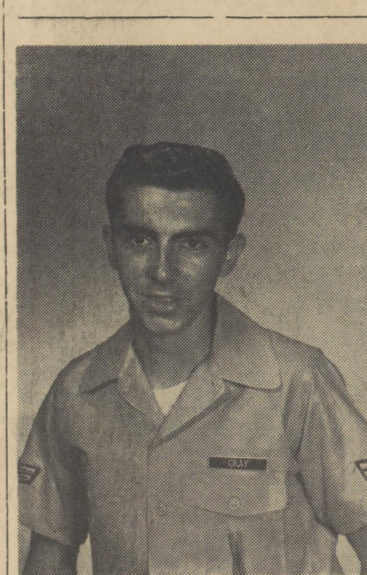

An illustrated booklet describing opportunities in psychiatric nursing for high school students has just been issued by the National Institute of Mental Health.

"Nursing careers in Mental Health" describes the various nursing positions open in public and private psychiatric hospitals, in the armed forces, and in community mental health programs conducted in clinics, in schools, in industries, and in homes.

The informative brochure is designed to attract the potential nurse to the special training which can equip her for an interesting staff career. With more than one-half of all hospital beds in the United States occupied by psychiatric patients, and less than five percent of all registered nurses in psychiatric positions, health officials have estimated that 40,000 new psychiatric nurses will be needed within the next few years. Further, the new Federal assistance for community mental health center construction programs is to widen the need for nurses to the need for nurses.

All Signs Should Be Obeyed, Says Safety Council

"Traffic signs, signals and markings are silent policemen," Richard H. McMullen, president of the Delaware Safety Council, told Delaware motorists this week.

"All signs should be observed as if a traffic officer were stationed with every traffic sign," said the safety official. He said the traffic signs have been called "Signs of Life." The council is striving to encourage recognition and observance of traffic signs in a continuing effort to cut down traffic accidents.

"In four out of five fatal accidents, one or more driver violations are reported," he said, "and many of these involve the deliberate or unintentional disregard of traffic signs, signals and markings." The council advised motorists to learn the sign shapes and know the meaning of each one so they can be recognized at once. The six signs, shapes and meanings are:

Octagon, the stop sign, is red with white letters or yellow with black letters. It means come to a full stop and be sure the way is clear before proceeding.

Rectangle, white with black lettering, states the law, including speed limits, parking regulations and turning and passing regulations.

Diamond, warning, yellow with black lettering, warns of school zones, curves, side roads, intersections and other hazardous conditions ahead.

Round, yellow with black X and R. This identifies a railroad-highway crossing ahead. Crossbuck, the tall white railroad crossing sign stands at the crossing itself.

Triangle, the newest sign, is yellow with black lettering and means yield right of way. This sign requires drivers to give the right of way to cross traffic by slowing down and being ready to stop if necessary.

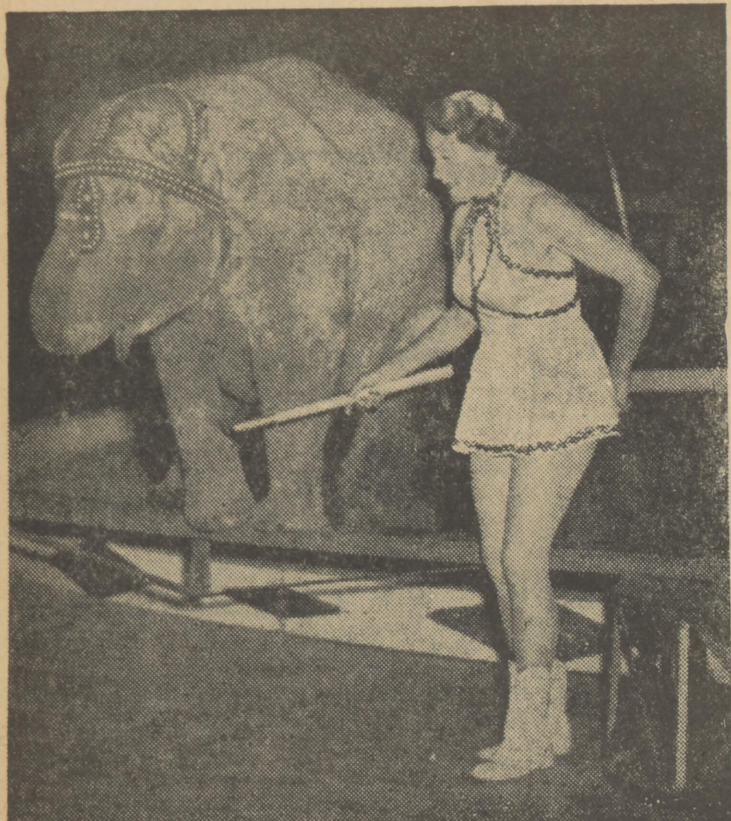

McMullen cautioned pedestrians to know and obey all signs, signals and pavement markings directing pedestrians' movements. These include traffic lights and signals and crosswalk lines at intersections.

"The pedestrian and motorist share responsibility in preventing pedestrian accidents," he said.

Delaware Food Market Report

The weather has changed for the better all over. This is especially so in the growing areas of California and Florida. Lower prices and better quality are sure for a few of our fresh vegetables. Green beans are showing better quality and so are green peppers, lettuce, and other leafy greens. Excellent values continue in green cabbage, green onions, celery, carrots and radishes. Improved supply of cauliflower has brought prices down as much as seven cents in some stores. The adverse weather caused squash to be scarce and prices to be high.

The asparagus season, very late this year, is now picking up in California and other growers will soon be joining the asparagus rush to market. The season for fresh asparagus is relatively short so enjoy it often. When selecting this vegetable, choose spears that are crisp, straight, and have close compact tips. To prepare, break off each stalk as far down as it snaps easily and scrub with soft brush to remove sand. Leave stalks whole, or break into one inch lengths—cook whole stalk about 2 minutes, cut ones should be cooked 1-2 minutes.

The strawberry season in Florida is past its peak and the price of berries is increasing. Grapefruit, oranges, and bananas, are all in good supply and are more economical than other fruits. Regular storage apples are almost gone. However, there is a fair supply of apples from controlled atmosphere storage. These apples are crisp and juicy and well worth the higher prices you will have to pay. Local rhubarb will soon be reaching the market, but until then good supplies of hot-house grown rhubarb are on hand.

Eggs galore are selling at budget prices in most stores this weekend. Grade A large eggs are selling below fifty cents a dozen.

You will continue to see many cuts from high quality beef at very reasonable prices. It's still an excellent time to enjoy steak and other favorite cuts and to replenish your freezer for summer time meals. Most pork cuts remain reasonable also, and poultry continues to be an outstanding buy.

The freezing weather of March 29-31 did a great deal of harm to crops in the Carolinas. The United States Department of Agriculture estimates "an almost complete loss of the entire peach, pear, and blueberry crops, and also the first blooms of the straw-

The aerospace group of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (I.E.E.E.) will hear four research papers from the University of Delaware at its conference in Phoenix, Ariz., April 19 to 25.

Only three other universities will be represented at the meeting, delivering a total of five papers. Other institutions are Ohio State University, Arizona State University, and Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn. Other papers will be given by industrial and other courses.

The Phoenix conference will present papers reflecting advances in the application of electricity to the nation's space program.

At a regional meeting of the I.E.E.E. in Clearwater, Fla., May 4 to 6, the University of Delaware will be one of 12 universities submitting papers along with industrial researchers.

Research at Delaware has been done by Professor Edward A. Erdelyi; F. C. Trutt, a part-time instructor; and graduate students S. V. Ahamed, R. W. Landgraff, K. K. Surti, and R. E. Hopkins.

Titles of the papers to be presented at the Phoenix conference are: "Nonlinear Vector Potential Equation for Highly Saturated Electrical Machines," "Influence of Air Gap Curvature on Flux Distribution in Saturated Homopolar Inductor Alternators at Balanced Loads," and "Effects of Slotting on Flux Distribution in Saturated High-Speed Homopolar Inductor Alternators."

At the Clearwater meeting, where the theme is "Energy Conversion and Control—Pico-watts to Gigawatts," the University of Delaware paper is entitled "Non-Linear Theory of Heteropolar Electrochemical Energy Converters."

Publications Involve 2 U. of D. Faculty Members

One book involving a University of Delaware faculty member is already off the presses and a second book by another professor is heading for the printers.

Completed but not printed is an engineering text book, "Fundamentals of Manufacturing Processes and Materials," by Carroll Edgar, associate professor of mechanical engineering.

Scheduled for publication by the Addison-Wesley Publishing Company, Reading, Mass., the book contains 24 chapters, more than 180,000 words, and over 400 illustrations.

Dr. Charles G. Wilber, new director of the Marine Laboratories of the University of Delaware, was executive editor and wrote one chapter of a new volume in the "Handbook of Physiology."

The new volume is entitled "Adaptation to the Environment." Dr. Wilber wrote a chapter on "Animals in Aquatic Environment," reflecting a long term interest in the relationship of animals in the physical and chemical environment, especially as illustrated in the ocean and estuaries.

The new volume represents a comprehensive international effort on the part of experts from many parts of the world, including the principal fields of physiology, zoology, entomology, anatomy, pharmacology, and toxicology.

A group of "Hospitality Rooms" is being set aside at the Tidewater Inn, Easton, and will have a special committee acting as hosts and hostesses each evening of the Festival.

John W. Noble, general chairman of the festival, has named Albert H. Holland as hospitality rooms chairman. Mr. Holland already is at work, and states that the purpose of the hospitality rooms is to extend a welcome to guests who come from various states, universities, the poultry industry across the nation, representatives of magazines and newspapers, governmental dignitaries, and others of comparable categories.

Mr. Holland, a native of Talbot County and a graduate of the University of Maryland, has been associated with Kronheim & Co., of Baltimore, for 24 years. He is active in community affairs, and particularly at Christ Episcopal Church. Members of his committee named to date include the following, all of Talbot County: John N. Critchlow, Jr., with Chesapeake Estates and Tidewater Realty, Inc.; Charles Elliott Wheeler, attorney of the firm of Miller, Wheeler, Thompson and Thompson, and William H. Norris, Jr., and Robert T. Swanson, both of German, Hersloff and Swanson, Inc., real estate and insurance.

With the finals in the many states for participants in the National Chicken Cooking Contest now being held, the beauty contests for many communities of Delmarva Peninsula vigorously under way, plus activities in behalf of a great variety of displays, entertainment programs and other phases of this big event, hundreds of volunteers are involved in their jobs.

The Lions Club of Easton, in charge of the World's largest frying pan, which will cook thousands of pieces of chicken to appease the hunger of the great crowds that will attend, state that more than a hundred men are being recruited to work at this necessary—and spectacular attraction.

Mr. AND MRS. DAVID WAYNE DILL

Betty Ellen Dean Becomes Bride of David Wayne Dill

St. Paul's Methodist Church, Greensboro, Md., was the scene of a beautiful service at 2 p. m. on March 23, when Miss Betty Ellen Dean became the bride of David Wayne Dill.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Helen M. Dean and the late Purnal T. Dean, Greensboro, Md. Mr. Dill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Courtland R. Dill of Harrington.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Donald Carter, pastor of the church, before an altar decorated with white gladioli, pompoms and ivy.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Marvin Seeny, wore a floor-length gown of white peau de soie satin fashioned with a scoop neckline and long pointed sleeves. The neckline was outlined in lace applique and baby seed pearls. The skirt had a princess panel front with side and back fullness falling into a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was held in place with a tiara of orange blossoms. She carried a cascade of fugi mums and ivy.

Miss Winnie Wilson, Greensboro, a friend of the bride, was her maid of honor. She wore a short peach organza over taffeta gown with scoop neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. It featured a fitted midriff with an over skirt and self bow. She carried a cascade of fugi mums.

Miss Rowena Dean, cousin of the bride, Greensboro, Miss Cheryl Clark, cousin of the bride, Claymont, Miss Lois Dill, sister of the bridegroom, Harrington, and Mrs. Arline McGee, close friend of the bride, Philadelphia, were bridesmaids. Their gowns were the same as the maid of honor in colors of aqua maize, orchid, and Nile green. They carried cascades of fugi mums dyed to match their gowns.

Miss Terri Lee Topping, Ocean City, was the flower girl. She wore a white silk organza gown fashioned from the bride's maid's and carried a basket of dyed fugi mums.

Courtland R. Dill, father of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Glenn Cannon, Baltimore, cousin of the bridegroom; Dorsey Hammond, Newark, cousin of the bridegroom; James Dunn, close friend of the bridegroom, Greensboro, and Thomas P. Topping, nephew of the bride, Ocean City.

The bride's mother wore a deep pink silk dress with matching accessories, accented with a white rose corsage. Mrs. Dill wore an aqua silk dress with matching accessories and a red rose corsage.

Charles Dent, Denton, was soloist accompanied by Ormond Andrew, Jr., Denton, at the organ.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Fire Hall, Greensboro, after which the couple left for a wedding trip to Chicago. For traveling, the bride wore a winter-white suit with black accessories and a red rose corsage.

The couple will make their home in Whiteleysburg, near Greensboro. Mrs. Dill is a graduate of Greensboro High School and Goldey Beacom School of Business, Wilmington. Mr. Dill is a graduate of Felton High School, and has just completed 18 months service with the U. S. Army in Germany.

Passing Land From One Generation To The Next

Transferring land from one generation to the next has been a problem for centuries. It can be costly, unfair to the receiving generation, and, in extreme cases, receiving land may be more of a problem than a blessing. In many countries land is transferred from one generation to the next by giving the entire parcel to the eldest son. This keeps the farm in tact, and, according to the tradition, in the hands of the most competent heir.

Another system that is widely followed in Europe and in this country is to divide the land equally between all heirs. This creates problems as each succeeding generation gets a smaller and smaller piece of land. European agriculture is suffering the effects of this method now, as many farms have become too small for effective mechanization.

One even more disastrous concept has been that of dividing each piece of land equally between each heir. This causes a farmer to work small parcels of lands scattered over a large area. Even though he may own several acres, his holdings may be so small and scattered that it is impossible to use modern equipment and farming technology.

W. T. McAllister, farm management specialist at the University of Delaware, suggests a more sensible approach to the problem of land transfer. He says a farmer should solve this problem before he nears retirement age.

McAllister lists three alternatives for accomplishing the transfer. Each has its advantages in a given situation.

These include: a father-son partnership; purchase contracts, and incorporation. The method selected should be the one that best fits the individual family situation.

A farmer who is 10 to 15 years away from retirement may want to form a family partnership. By the time retirement age is reached, the young partner will be established in the business and the transfer can be easily accomplished. If the father is approaching retirement age now, selling the farm business to the son may be more desirable than a partnership.

The incorporation method of transferring farm assets to the next generation is desirable where several members of the family are involved and the amount of capital is large, McAllister notes. Regardless of the method of transfer, be sure to get good advice on the legal financial problems involved, the specialist warns.

Girl Scout Council To Meet April 27

The Chesapeake Bay Girl Scout Council, Inc., will hold its annual council meeting at Dover Central School, Delaware Avenue, in Dover, on Mon., April 27. A dinner will precede the meeting.

The theme of this year's meeting—"Action Through Progress"—will be highlighted in a dramatic presentation entitled "Golden Links of Progress".

The registration booth will open in the main entrance lobby of the school at 6:30 p.m. During registration the chairmen of the 12th district associations comprising the Council will serve as hostesses.

Dinner will be served at 6:30.

Since one of the chief purposes of the Council meeting is the election of Council officers and members of the board, the polls will be open until 7:30 p.m. to permit delegates to cast their votes.

Adjournment to the school auditorium will take place 15 minutes after the closing of the polls. The business meeting will begin promptly at 8 p.m. with a flag ceremony.

All adults registered with the Council are invited to attend. Those wishing to go to the dinner may make reservations with the Chesapeake Bay Girl Scout Council office at 1503 W. 13th Street, Wilmington, Del. 19806. Reservations, which cost $3, will be accepted until April 20.

Labor File Folders Available

File folders to facilitate the keeping of records by labor organizations which must submit annual financial reports to the Department of Labor are available at the area office of the Office of Labor-Management and Welfare-Pension Reports, Room 5000 U. S. Courthouse Building, Ninth and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia, Pa., area director Frank P. Willette announced this week.

Since records necessary for the verification of the reports must be kept by the organization for five years, the folders provide a permanent record of the officers elected and reports made. Mr. Willette said. They will be especially valuable to successors in union office, since the president and treasurer of each organization must sign all reports.

The labor-management reporting and disclosure act, which is administered by the Department of Labor, requires that every labor organization subject to the act must file financial reports within 90 days of the end of the organization's fiscal year.

Mr. Willette said that when the folders are issued to unions they will contain appropriate labor-management reports publications to aid the organizations in complying with the election regulations and other phases of the act.

OPEN DOVER DAY—For the first time in recent years the Bradford-Loockerman House will be open on Old Dover Days, Dover, Delaware, Saturday and Sunday, May 2 and 3. This home was built by Vincent Loockerman, merchant and landowner in 1742. Above is a room with its Philadelphia mirrors and chairs just as it was more than 200 years ago. Furnishings have never left the home now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Bradford. Mr. Bradford is a direct descendant of one of America's first printers of the same name.

Picture a farming country where population density is greater than New York, where agricultural practices are primitive and average yearly income is $122. Three languages, three ethnic groups and three religions divide the people. What can an American learn here?

"Plenty," says Edith De Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. De Long of Newark. Miss De Long, a six-year 4-H member, will leave for Ceylon in June for a six-month visit with rural families, sponsored by the 4-H International Farm Youth Exchange - IFYE for short. Ceylon, an island country in the Indian Ocean, is just on the southern tip of India.

A 1958 National 4-H Club Congress winner, Miss DeLong graduated from Mt. Union College in Alliance, Ohio, and is now a biological technician doing virus research.

Since 1948, the International Farm Youth Exchange program has sent more than 1500 rural Americans between the ages of 20 and 30 to 67 foreign countries. Exchanges from abroad number 1,750, and they have visited with American farm families in 48 states and Puerto Rico. Several Delaware families played host to an Irish girl who visited the United States last summer as an IFYE representative.

A variety of experiences during the six-month stay as possible because the IFYE delegate spends from one to three weeks with each of several farm families. Trips are scheduled to coincide with the productive agricultural season of the country.

With a recorded history of more than 2,000 years, Ceylon today is facing the problems of transition from agricultural economy to one that includes industry and technology. Miss DeLong has learned. It has been said that 90 percent of Ceylon's population depends in some way on agricultural enterprises, and one-half of her people farm the land. Tea, rubber and coconut are the main crops and constitute 98 percent of export trade. Diversification is needed to avoid dependence on world prices for these crops. Natural resources give rise to gem-stone mining, and Ceylon is the world's leading producer of graphite. With developed technology, she is expected to be able to supply electricity for her own needs and for all of India.

Large industries include cement, paper, sugar, textiles and plastics. Greater development in these areas is being sought, to eliminate dependence on agricultural exports for income.

Miss DeLong will join 104 other IFYE delegates at the 4-H Club Foundation in Washington, D. C., for orientation sessions early in June. Knowledge of their host countries—their geography, history, culture and agriculture, and some language lessons—precede the delegates' departure. Knowing their own country, so they can give clear explanations to the people they meet, is also important.

The IFYE program has been operating since 1948 through the support of the National 4-H Club Foundation, the Cooperative Extension Service and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

IFYE is financed privately in the United States. Each state provides the first $1000 of the average $3000 needed for a two-way exchange. This comes from 4-H clubs, local groups and farm organizations. A major grant from the Danforth Foundation currently provides some funds, while the National 4-H Sponsors' Council contributes the remainder.

U. S. Army Has Plan for Women

This is for women only. Are you a college senior looking for a promising job after graduation? Or a college graduate who wants a greater challenge? Have you analyzed your desires for the future and found that you want a responsible job in a field related to your college major; opportunities for additional training and schooling; a change to meet a wide variety of people with a still wider variety of interests; world-wide travel; good salary; permanency of position, if desired, with regular promotions, and a 30 day paid vacation annually? If this is what you desire—then the United States Army has the plan for you.

If qualified, women are being accepted for direct commissions as second or first lieutenants, depending on age and experience. You receive, grade for grade, the same pay, allowances and other benefits as your male counterparts.

Most positions available to young women Army officers are keyed to major college subjects. As an example, if you studied business management in college, you would probably be highly qualified for most positions in supply, finance and administration. As a graduate in the personnel management field, your studies would relate to the military areas of personnel specialist, career counselor, management consultant and manpower control. Education majors would normally seek positions in military training, information, education, training aids, or academic research development.

Journalism and public relations students could qualify for the Army's public relations field which includes radio, television, newspapers, community relations and recruiting. If you studied languages or geopolitics in college, your natural area would be intelligence or communications. Physical education, recreation and drama majors work well in the broad field of Army special services. And now, women lawyers can enter the latest career field to be opened to them, the Judge Advocate General's Corps.

These are the major fields in which college graduates are assigned. However, the Army is still pioneering in new area of usefulness for women in the Armed Forces and you will find additional duties which women officers can perform will continue to

Blossomtime Is Season For Sightseeing

Blossomtime, advises the Delaware State Development Department, is a delightful season for sightseeing in the "First State".

While the blooming season varies somewhat from year to year because of weather conditions, late April and early May generally find Delaware's gardens, orchards, yard, fields and woods ablaze with breathtaking color.

Man's efforts, combined with those of Mother Nature, have produced such attractions as: the Spring Flowers and Azalea Gardens at Winterthur (six miles northwest of Wilmington), which will remain open through June 30, this year; the two dozen Wilmington Area gardens that are open to the public on Wilmington Garden Day, May 2; the gardens of Dover, always at their best on "Old Dover Days", the first weekend in May; and the well-kept yards and gardens of historic New Castle, open to the public on "A Day in Old New Castle," May 16.

While Kent and Sussex Counties no longer offer the orchard acreage, that once produced, in abundance, the famed Delaware Peach and gave the State its official "flower"—the Peach Blossom, there are still quite a few well-kept orchards, which are bloom in the spring. Those near Camden, in Kent County, and at Nassau and Bridgeville, in Sussex County, annually attract hundred of admirers.

Apples, like peaches, are no longer produced in abundance, although small, well kept apple orchards still dot the Lower Delaware countryside and contribute their beauty and aroma to the springtime scene. Scattered pear, plum and cherry trees add their color to the beauty of Delaware and in the spring.

The Development Department also advises that while a warm welcome always awaits the visitor to Delaware, visitors are particularly welcome this year when the state government is joining with the state's tourist industry in extending an invitation to "See The First State-First in '64'."

Delawarean To Be Legal Secretary In Switzerland

A Delawarean will be a legal secretary to a law firm in Geneva, Switzerland, for a year starting July 1.

Miss Phyllis Connolly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin B. Connolly, of 122 School Rd., Alapocas, is currently with the Wilmington law firm of Connolly, Bove and Lodge in the Beneficial Building.

This summer Miss Connolly, a 1963 University of Delaware graduate, will join the law firm of Lenz, Schluep, Briner, and deColon in Geneva. She expects to return to Wilmington in the summer of 1965.

Arrangements for the position were made by Miss Connolly's uncle, Arthur Connolly, senior partner of the Wilmington firm and Atty. deColon.

Miss Connolly said she plans to continue French language studies at the University of Geneva. She took a beginning course last fall from University of Delaware extension.

A home economics major as a freshman, Miss Connolly switched to secretarial studies in her sophomore year. The switch eventually became her passport for a year in Switzerland.

FENCE TALK
With George Vapaa

A good fresh egg is what we all look for and expect. The food retailer knows he can lose customers faster with off-quality eggs than almost any other single food.

Eggs seemed to be uppermost among food items at the two Consumer Forums held at Wilmington and at Dover. So we should touch on them.

Eggs are highly perishable and should be stored under refrigeration if possible. The island displays at retail stores often are not refrigerated, but the retailer depends on fast turn over, several times a week, to hold spoilage to a minimum.

Eggs in Delaware, except when sold by the producer directly to the consumer, must be packaged and labeled as to grade, size, producer name and address or other identifying mark, such as a code number.

Egg prices vary widely during the year. They are usually cheapest and most plentiful in the spring.

The small sizes may be a better buy as pullets come into production early in the fall. The consumer with a pencil should compare sizes and prices. The weights of 22, 24 or other ounce weights refer to the dozen. Grades refer to freshness. Hold an egg to a light bulb to see the size of the air cell. The larger the air cell, the older the egg, usually.

There has been some scare promotion against the use of cracked eggs, much of it unjustified. Cracked eggs can pick up bacteria more readily than uncracked eggs. Dr. Floyd Hudson, of the State Board of Health, says the problem can be most serious in hospitals where certain organisms, such as Salmonella are more apt to be found, and where elderly, less resistant patients might be on a soft diet. Generally, as with most foods, adequate cooking kills these organisms and you have no problem.

The consumer can learn to recognize egg quality very readily. Our extension service has free pamphlets which describe market sizes and grades. But the best protection is to simply tell your grocer if you are getting bad eggs. A few complaints and bang! He's looking for a new egg supplier.

Jack R. Woods, superintendent of public works for the City of Dover, has successfully moved a fine specimen magnolia tree to a point just east of the City Hall. He has demonstrated that trees and shrubs can be relocated if the proper steps are taken.

We suggest that folks should look at the completed work. Most important, the tree has been securely braced to reduce wind action which might damage the roots.

Here are some other pointers that helped:

A large ball of earth was necessary. The ball was securely tied together with plans and chains. We estimated the weight moved at 35 tons. Weight is one thing that people tend to forget as they move small trees or shrubs.

A platform was built under the tree and then skidded out of one hole and into the other, after a 100 yard trip down the street. The platform took most of the draw motion, and not the tree itself.

The new hole was well supplied with humus material to improve drainage, supply some nutrients, and give better tilth.

Cross your fingers. It's done now.

Let's talk about oranges, as a sequel to last week's item on pecans.

You often hear this expression: "We ship our fresh produce off to the city and try to unload the off grade stuff at home."

Unfortunately you can buy both oranges and pecans at roadside stands from here to Florida. And much of the product is off type or off grade. The city markets may turn it down, so the trucker tries to peddle it off to salvage his trucking fee.

Well, the wife and I bought some oranges along the road at several points on a short trip to Florida. We stopped at a grove first and sampled the fresh orange juice. We even sampled several varieties of oranges, and settled on one.

You can't buy "grove run" oranges in the picking box and dump them in your car. Everybody sells by the netted bag. We paid a premium price for what was represented as top-grade, tree ripened fruit.

ing high producing grass-legume mixtures. This applies to both pasture land improved by renovation and to cropland pasture.

A mixture of alfalfa and late orchardgrass was the top yielding mixture as shown by rotational grazing studies at Pennsylvania State University. This mixture persisted for five grazing years.

Birdsfoot, trefoil, timothy and bluegrass was another high yielding mixture, as was birdsfoot, trefoil, reed-canary grass. Ladino clover-orchardgrass, and ladino clover-bromegrass mixtures also gave top pasture yields when grown on soils with a high moisture holding capacity.

Five or six pasture paddocks of similar size should be available. Thus, for a 30-cow herd, six improved pastures of four to five acres each are excellent.

Each pasture should have species that reach maximum growth at different dates. This assures sufficient pasture throughout the grazing period. Early spring surpluses can be ensiled for supplemental midsummer feed.

Stripgrazing, zero grazing and stored feeding are more intensive pasture management methods and may be preferred to rotational grazing under certain conditions. More cows can be carried on fewer acres with these methods, but they require more labor and management.

Liquid fertilizers give about the same results as dry fertilizers. The form of the fertilizer which supplies plant nutrients makes less difference to the plant than its composition.

A gallon of liquid fertilizer weighs about ten pounds. When liquid and dry materials are of the same analysis, it takes about ten gallons of liquid fertilizer to equal 100 pounds of dry. For instance, ten gallons of 10-10-10 liquid fertilizer equals about 100 pounds of 10-10-10 dry fertilizer. This means that both the ten gallons of the 10-10-10 liquid and the 100 pounds of the 10-10-10 dry fertilizer supply, ten pounds each of nitrogen, phosphate and potash.

To realize equal crop response from liquid and dry fertilizers, apply both forms in the same manner. If dry material is to be plowed down, so should the liquid. If dry fertilizer is to be drilled at seeding, and liquid fertilizer is substituted, it should be applied in the same way.

Of the earth's land surface of nearly 33 billion acres, about one-tenth is cropland. But harvested acreage each year totals only about 2.3 billion acres, the result of fallow land, crop failure and omission of minor crops, the U. S. Department of Agriculture says. Most of the cultivated land—71 per cent—is used to produce grain, with wheat accounting for 22 per cent of harvested land. Rice, using almost 13 per cent of the earth's land, is the second largest.

Here in Kent County 55% of the land surface is cropland. About 4/5th's of this is in corn or soybeans.

Tar Heel Humorist Will Be Speaker At DPI Dinner

North Carolina's peripatetic ambassador of good will, Edmund H. Harding, will play a return engagement for guests of Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., at the association's annual $100-a-plate dinner in Salisbury, May 19.

The famed Tar Heel humorist from Washington, N. C., played before the same audience six years ago at the Wicomico Senior High School and his dry wit literally convulsed the over 600 poultry industry fund drive subscribers present. It is predicted that over 1600 will be present this year.

Harding has the reputation of telling a story a minute—all of them clean. He keeps 160 speakers engagements a year and appears in all fifty states.

Appointed as North Carolina's ambassador of good will by the Tar Heel state's governor, Terry Sanford, Harding also holds such honorary titles as Kentucky Colonel, Texas Ranger, Arkansas Traveler. He is a life-time member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, an honorary chief in the Kiowa Indian tribe, an "Admiral" in the Alabama Navy, and an "officer" in the Confederate Air Corps.

The Delmarva Poultry Industry Booster Day Dinner at which he will speak May 19 climaxes this year's drive for funds to carry on the research and market promotion work of the Peninsula's regional poultry association. Goal this year is $160,000.

Try New Ideas, 4-H Leaders Told

"Habits can be crippling. Get away from being mentally locked in, and let imagination and new ideas take over. Don't be afraid to try something new."

This is the advice Delaware 4-H Club leaders heard from Miss Dorothy Emerson, consultant to the National 4-H Foundation, who spoke at the recent banquet honoring 4-H leaders throughout the state. The dinner was sponsored by the Delaware Bankers' Association.

"You don't need a college degree to be qualified to teach and work with young people," she told the leaders. "Make your own degree on a piece of paper if you feel you have to have one. But it really doesn't do a bit of good when evaluating in terms of self-satisfaction and a job-well-done. Your own background of experience and interest will help you more than any degree on paper."

Miss Emerson feels that there is no such thing as a mistake. "What we call mistakes are really 'learning experiences' through which young people and adults learn and profit." Fear of making a mistake often stifles the initiative of young people to think and work on their own. Let them always be able to say, "I did the best I could," and say it proudly, she emphasized.

Projects and activities should be attractive and stimulate youngsters to want to learn. Miss Emerson remarked that some experts feel that the increasing number of high school drop-outs has nothing to do with high school. They feel that the first step was taken in the home, when as children, the joy of discovery and learning was taken from them. Parents who continually say, "No, Johnny, don't do that, I can do it better and faster myself," deprive their children of the joy of self discovery. Don't give answers for youngsters can find out for themselves, she told the leaders. Ask questions, or present alternatives so they can have the experience of choosing the one they think best and trying it out. If it doesn't work, nothing is lost, but they have gained the knowledge that such and such a method won't work and they learn it won't work.

Miss Emerson noted that all education is self-education, and all people have to learn some time, somewhere. The best advice she could give to leaders was "just be there." Self discipline can't be taught either; it has to come from within.

Being relaxed and giving free rein to imagination and new ideas, no matter how crazy they seem, help both young people and their leaders. You can't teach or learn if you are not relaxed, she said. When life is a rat-race, there is no room for new ideas. You need a quiet, relaxed time to let ideas come to you.

Self appreciation, the feeling that you are someone important and that you can do something worthwhile needs to be developed in all youngsters. Values come from within, and a looking glass doesn't begin to tell what kind of a person stands in front of it. Miss Emerson believes that even the worst examples of youth have the potential to develop qualities of maturity. Fairness, truth, understanding, diligence all have to be developed, and it is here that a greater challenge lies for 4-H leaders.

The value of an individual is his own personal uniqueness. No matter how the outside appearance may change from day to day, he has his own personal make-up, and the potential to use as many of these qualities as he is given the opportunity to develop. 4-H should not be just a venture into doing something, she added. It offers young people the opportunity to be something—the best that they can.

Visual presentations will be presented on Sat., April 18, by Kent County 4-H'ers. These demonstrations will cover project areas of foods and nutrition, clothing, home beautification, gardening, health and electric. This indoor type of presentation will be held at the St. John's Lutheran Church on Pine and Park Streets, just off State Street in Dover. Livestock, Dairy, Poultry, Auto and Tractor Care and Field Crops will be held outdoors on April 18th.

Many Kent County 4-H'ers are looking forward to participating in horse shows soon. Milford 4-H Saddle Pals is holding their 4-H show on April 19 at the Delaware State Fairgrounds. New Castle 4-H Clover Club will hold a show on May 17 at the Brandywine Raceway property. The Delaware Chicken Cooking Contest found several 4-H names among the top sixteen and alternates. Congratulations to 4-H leaders Mrs. Robert Jarrell and alternate Diane Cooper. Marilyn Walls also a Harrington Sunshine member placed 2nd in the Junior division. Mrs. Jean Blessing and Mrs. Pauline Sullivan as well as Mrs. Louise Blades are all Kent Countians. Others participating were Marjorie Hudson, Delores Tinley and Rosemary Davis. Many persons sent entries into the contest and just over one hundred survived the original screening of recipes. Recipes were screened on the basis of keeping within the contest rules, particularly the two-hour time limit. But many recipes were eliminated because the entrant failed to list correct amount of ingredients. With the variety of containers available today a can of food is not usually specific enough.

Nearly one thousand strawberry plants were distributed last week in Kent County. Bob Stevens met with the participants at the Dan Hudson home in Frederica to distribute and give planting instructions. These plants were provided by Buntings Nursery, Selbyville. Participants are Ira Tuthill, Emily Tuthill, David Powell, Becky Tatman, Margaret Moore and Marjorie Hudson. Paradise 4-H Club; Ruth Ann Moore, Harrington Sunshine; John Eisenbrey, Chris Jump, Bob Southard, Fred Thistlewood, Houston Cardinals; Kathleen Wiesel, Sheryl Smith, Linda Metheny, Kevin, Jerry, and Jimmy Charles, Whiteoaks; Roy Roland, Danny DeMora, Joyce Boone, James Boone, Viola Bobwhites; Linda French, Linda Maloney and Faye Robbins, Millwood Club and Fred Waski, Chestnut Grove.

The first livestock training meeting conducted by our assistant livestock specialist, Don Burton from the University of Delaware had 21 members and leaders attending. Dan Hudson, Paradise Club brought Jay Robbins, Clifford and Marjorie Hudson, David and Steve Robbins, and Emily Tuthill, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dixon, Sr. from Chestnut Grove had Sam and Edna Dixon; and Bill Williams, Kent County Blue Hens brought Clifford Hammond of Houston Cardinals.

Lion Thinclads Outclass Falcons

Coach Harold McDonald's Harrington High track team made the finest start in H.H.S. cinder history by accomplishing the almost unprecedented feat of winning all thirteen events as Dover Air High was swamped by 96-13.

Dover Air was in session the week before last while Harrington was not. This caused the locals to go into the fray in poor condition, comparatively speaking, yet the Falcons never threatened at any time. The losers are not a strong team but possess several individual standouts. However, none of these could get in the money.

Dennis Rogers and Randy Knox were double winners for the Lions. Rogers took the mile and half mile runs. Knox was triumphant in the javelin and high jump.

Frank Cain tied the Lion record in the pole vault as he cleared 10 ft. 6 in. for the third time. Co-holder George Bonniwell came in second.

Jose Torres won the 12 pound shot put in his first try at this event. He missed the school record of 39 ft. 11 in. by only two inches. Ron Melvin and Harry Bitler took second and third to sweep the event.

Bob Smith and Barry Fry ran 54.4 and 54.6 respectively to grab first and second in the 440 yard run. Jim Schiff's school record of 53.6 appears to be slated for erasure from the books.

The sprint picture at H.H.S. seems to be the brightest it has been in several years with Tom Lord, Raleigh Davis, Bill Adams, Richard Black and Ron Hughes showing good form. Barry Fry, Jose Torres and Dennis Rogers are others, who can turn a fast 220 if the need ever arises.

Lord won the 100 in 11 seconds flat. This is good time for early April on a soft track. Black captured the 200 in 25.1. Since this race was run around a turn his time was good, also.

Randy Knox threw the javelin more than 145 feet to threaten Bob Gillette's school record of 143 ft. 11 inches, but the throw was voided by a foul call. Knox won with another throw of 130 ft. He may get that record soon.

Barry Fry leaped 18 feet 10 1/2 inches to win the broad jump. Randy Knox, Artie Taylor and Dennis Simpson were second, third and fourth.

In the 880 relay, Raleigh Davis gave Harrington the lead on the opening leg. Ron Hughes, Tom Lord and Richard Black widened the lead on the last three legs for an easy victory.

Harold Ellwanger led off the mile relay with his best quarter yet, 58.8 seconds. Jose Torres opened up a big lead on the second leg. Bob Smith and Richard Black, running with only a few minutes rest from earlier races, took it easy and finished the race looking back at the outdistanced Falcons.

In the mile run Pemberton, of Dover Air, opened up a huge lead on the first two laps. Dennis Rogers appeared to be beaten but finally managed to gain some ground on the third lap. He overhauled the tiring Pemberton with 200 yards to go and clocked 4:58.7 for his fastest mile yet. In the 880 Rogers, Wayne Carson and Bob Smith were 1-2-3 with the first two turing in their best times ever in this event.

Wayne Collison, Ron Melvin and Harry Bitler swept the discus, Glen Smith and Frank Cain finished behind Knox in the high jump.

Dover Air triumphed in the junior high meet by a score of 38-26. A couple of breaks went against the Lions or the result might have been different.

Larry Bonniwell was leading in the 220 with Jerry Cagle rushing up from third place like a fire engine. Bonniwell stumbled on a ratty stretch of track and fell forcing D. Whitney of Dover Air in second place to jump in front of Cagle. This accident caused the Lions to get only a second place instead of first and second.

Gordy Jarrell, tiny eighth-grader, got off to a bad start but finished fast to grab second place in the 50 yard dash in 6.1 seconds, compared to his previous best of 6.3.

Cagle nipped Futch for second in the 100 yard dash then anchored the winning 880 relay team. Bonniwell, Nick Morris and Donald Minner ran with Cagle in the relay.

Dan Hicks won the broad jump with 15 feet 5 inches. Don Fry was third.

Futch, of Dover Air, Jim Simpson and Larry Wirick all cleared the winning height of 4 feet 6 inches in the high jump with Futch getting the nod for fewer misses on the way up.

Felton H. S.'s All-Winning Cagers Feted

A proud community honored its youthful sport heroes at the Felton Fire Hall on Saturday night. Joe Kern's undefeated Green Devils put their school on the scholastic map as they spread-eagled all opposition on the way to the Henlopen Conference championship.

William Edgar Dill, president of the sponsoring Ruritan Club, made the welcome address. He stated that he would like to see more sports banquets of this type and also wished the boys well in all their future efforts.

Richard Adams proved to be an embryo Herb Shriner as in his role as Master of Ceremonies he told several humorous stories that were very well received.

Ross Evans, Felton High music instructor and his very fine high school dance band demonstrated their proficiency on such wonderful numbers as "Song of the Islands", "St. Louis Blues", "Undecided", "Swing Low Sweet Chariot", "Tuxedo Junction" and one unidentified twist selection. To this music lover it was a delightful vacation from the garbage which passes as music, nowadays.

Coach of the year, Joe Kerns, presented each team member a green and white insignia to be worn on jackets and sweaters. These patches bore the legend "1963-64 Henlopen Conference Basketball Champions".

Dr. Howard Henry, superintendent of the Felton School District commended the Ruritan and everyone else, who had a hand in helping make the affair possible.

Virgil Jarrell, president of the Felton School District Board of Education, lauded the people of the district for their support of the educational program at the school.

Ronnie Jester, the Liberace of Hollandville, played and sang "Mule Train" and "Alley Cat". On the feline number he had the assistance of two cagers, Dave Wood and Jim Blades, who made their debut in show business by furnishing the cat's meow. The audience loved this act and called Jester back for an encore, "This Ole House".

The main speaker of the evening was the Episcopal vicar of St. Stephen's Church in Harrington, the Rev. Quay Rice, Sr. He compared athletics with the game of life and urged each listener to aim high in an effort to reach higher goals. His story about Lefty Grove told of how the old fireballer could no longer throw the high, hard one but refused to quit and lasted several years longer in the American League by learning to pitch with his head instead of his arm.

The speaker went on to say that it is good for a person on the top of the heap to start at the bottom and work his way back up again. Thus, the Little League hero must take this path when he tries out for the junior high team. The junior high ace must make the same adjustment when he enters the competition for a high school varsity team. And then the high school standout enters college and as a freshman is at the bottom of the totem pole once more.

All these struggles tend to fit a person for their place in society. Athletics teaches the competitor to play a level head, to practice fair play and to work for the good of all.

Each member of the team, the scholastic manager, Mike Statham and coaches Joe Kerns and Bucky Bolyard were given trophies to highlight a memorable evening and a memorable season.

Jim Blades, Bill Green and Dave Wood were picked on several "All" teams at the conclusion of the season. Others on the squad were: Bill Barr, Phil Clark, Ron Draper, Bob Reible, Ed Yocum, Art McClellan, George Reible, James Wyatt and Sam Ludlow.

Felton Nine Drops Opener to J. M. Clayton, 3-1

Last spring Felton High's baseball team defeated John M. Clayton of the Henlopen Conference baseball championship in a game played on a neutral diamond at Greenwood.

John M. Clayton obtained some measure of revenge by downing the defending champions 3-1 in a game played at Felton Monday afternoon.

Wayne Long, one of the premier moundsmen in the circuit, allowed only two hits by Bob "Red" Dill and Ron Draper in pitching the win.

Bill Green, a former hurler until he was traded to the Kent County team, appears to have regained much of his old stuff as he held Clayton to five hits and blanked the Bears after the first inning.

The contest was the season's opener for both teams.

A Parent Asks; A Coach Answers

Question: Will my son's grades suffer if he plays football?

Answer: There are a number of reasons why students fail in their studies. Almost all of these reasons can be condensed into three major points. Normally speaking, poor grades are due to: lack of interest on the part of the student; a lack of ability on the part of the student; and a lack of time for study purposes.

A number of studies have been made which prove conclusively that normally a player's grades improve during the season. This improvement is the result of increased interest in studies because a boy must maintain a satisfactory academic standard to remain eligible to play football.

In addition, we know that vigorous physical exercise is an outlet or form of relaxation from mental chores. It is no secret that physical activity is conducive to the mental process. This fact also contributes to the improved grades.

If a boy wants to and is allowed to play football, he must learn to budget his time. This is a very important principle of organized living. There is little doubt that a normally intelligent boy can participate in one or even two extracurricular activities in addition to doing his school work. However, a boy must learn to budget his time properly in order to get the maximum out of it. Every boy must set up a time schedule during the busy period.

If a boy is allowed too much free time, he is inclined to put off his studying until later. This fact usually results in a search for excitement.

Every term many students who do not play football fail to attain an acceptable academic standard. On the other hand, many who play football obtain good grades. This is proof enough that football will not hurt any boy's chances of getting good grades if he wants them. Parents are constantly aware of their son's grades, and they should be. However, it has been found that a purely academic diet is not the answer to obtaining good grades. The interested parent would be wise to encourage his son to play if he so desires and takes it upon himself to teach him how to best arrange his time to make sure the study time is reserved, adequate, and utilized.

Circus Day Here Wed., April 29

William Kramedas, president of the Jaycees today warned area residents "don't be alarmed if you hear seven black-maned nubian lions roaring on Wed., April 29."

"It'll be circus day in Harrington," he explained. "We're bringing the 18th annual edition of Von Bros. Three Ring Circus here on behalf of our local General Fund."

"We decided to sponsor the circus because we feel there are thousands of children, and young-hearted adults, who will welcome an opportunity to see America's 2nd largest and greatest tented circus," he added.

"Also, we want to stress the fact that the Jaycees receive a high percentage of all tickets sold by our organization. When a member asks you to buy a group of tickets for your family, remember that you will save stand-
