

COURTHOUSE PLAN FIGURES KENT COUNTY'S FUTURE

Kent County had better consider the future when planning its courthouse addition, L. V. Court members agreed Tuesday. Meeting with the Levy Court was Walter Carlson, Wilmington architect. It was decided to have all interested department heads meet with Carlson on Monday afternoon so he will know what their needs and desires are.

Levy Court President James B. Messick pointed out that "zoning is coming next year" and that this will mean there will be the need for space for a zoning board, hearings and engineering staff.

It was also brought out that Kent County firemen are interested in a central communications system in the county building, from which fire calls could be dispatched.

The county has the use of up to $950,000 in bonds, under legislation recently adopted by the General Assembly and approved by the county's bond counsel.

N. Maxson Terry, Levy Court attorney, said it would take about two months to set up and deliver the bonds.

Commissioner Edward Kelly said that the day may come when the county will require a county police force, something Terry has been advocating, and that this will mean the need for extra space.

Messick mentioned the possibility of somebody having a sewer authority. Also, it was proposed that there be a separate Levy Court meeting room.

Also appearing before Tuesday's weekly meeting was Chester Bricko, of the J. M. Clemenshaw Company, which is doing a general reassessment of the county.

He said that he expects Districts 1 and 3 to be completed by Labor Day, or at least one of them, and that there is still question whether the Jan. 15 deadline will be met for the entire job.

One big problem, Bricko said was researching deeds. Building permits in the county for June totaled $4,514,398, but a big chunk of that, $2,644,000 is for a new school in Dover and will not be taxable.

Many Overweight Permits Issued During June

The largest number of permits for overweight and oversize trucks to use Delaware Highways, ever issued in a single month by the State Highway Department, were issued during June according to a report of the Permit Section.

A total of 1,120 of these permits were issued during June with $6,697.50 in fees being collected for the permits.

During June of 1963 a total of 848 permits were issued, considered a large number at that time and they produced $5,028.85 in fees for the permits.

Of the fees issued during June of this year, 600 were for overweight trucks, 434 were for the movement of house trailers, 45 were for over-weight piling trucks, 15 were for the moving of buildings and 26 were for other purposes.

Existing law requires that overweight and oversize trucks must procure a permit before moving on the highways of this state and the permit will designate the route that can be used by the truck in traveling through the state, or from location to location within the state.

Del. Girl Leaves For Ceylon As IFYE Delegate

Miss Edith DeLong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. DeLong, 56 Sunset Road, Newark, left June 27 for a six-month visit to Ceylon as a representative of the International Farm Youth Exchange.

She is one of 30 young men and women from the United States who left to visit 15 different countries as IFYE delegates. The delegates will live with rural families in their host countries, spending two or three weeks with each family.

A 4-H Club exchange program, IFYE is designed to promote a better understanding among people of many countries. The program is conducted by the National 4-H Club Foundation in behalf of the Cooperative Extension Service and the state land grant colleges and universities, of which the University of Delaware is one.

Miss DeLong was a 4-H Club member for six years in Delaware and was a delegate to National 4-H Club Congress in 1958. A biological technician in virus research, she is a graduate of Mount Union College, Alliance, Ohio.

Before leaving for Ceylon, Miss DeLong and the other delegates took part in a training session to learn more about the countries they are visiting—and to learn more about the United States, as well, in order to be able to answer questions about this country accurately and completely.

Ceylon, an island country off the southern tip of India, is an agricultural nation now beginning to attract industry, Miss DeLong learned. However, its agricultural practices remain primitive, and the average yearly income is $122. It is densely populated.

New Ferry Use Tops Predictions

Vehicular business on the new Cape May-Lewes ferry was 13 per cent beyond the experts' predictions during the first six days of operation, it was reported Tuesday.

Nolan C. Chandler, general manager, said passenger traffic July 1 through Monday night was 50 per cent more than had been anticipated.

The figures were achieved, Chandler said, despite the fact that only two ferries—the smallest ones in the fleet—were in operation. The Cape Henlopen and the Cape May carried a total of 5,097 vehicles and 18,032 passengers during the six-day period.

Peak business to date came on July 5, when 1,060 vehicles and 4,213 passengers were transported across the Delaware Bay. There were times when the ships were loaded to capacity and had to leave cars and trucks waiting for the next vessel.

Chandler said the ferry line has already achieved a motor vehicle-passenger business "that took 13 years to build up on the old Little Creek-Kiptopeke ferry across the Chesapeake Bay."

Chandler expects that the flagships of the Cape May-Lewes fleet, the SS Delaware, will come up from Norfolk late next week. It has not only been redecorated but new boilers are being installed. Also due in a couple of weeks will be the SS New Jersey. These ships, he said, will help to cut down waiting lines at the ferry terminals.

Elections Official In Kent Quits

Harold Carrow, secretary of the Kent County Department of Elections for many years, has resigned, effective at the end of the month.

Leon C. Donovan, president of the board, Tuesday confirmed that Carrow had resigned and said he had cited "pay" as the reason.

One board member said the board had refused to grant the secretary a pay increase at the June meeting and Tuesday accepted the resignation.

Donovan said no successor has been chosen. The board meets again in early August. Members of all the departments of elections were voted raises in a bill that cleared the General Assembly and was sent to Gov. Elbert N. Carvel Tuesday.

Objection By GOP Crushed; Boundaries Bill Passed

Both houses of the General Assembly Wednesday passed — by party-line vote—a new bill to define boundaries for new districts apportioned on a population basis.

Passage came despite Republican insistence that the bill is a "gerrymander" and may prove to be unacceptable to the federal court.

In the Senate Democratic leaders got the bill passed—with no votes to spare and no help from Republicans—in the early evening. The final vote in the House—where only one Democrat crossed over to oppose it—came several hours later.

Both houses then recessed until Thursday afternoon. Senate Republicans introduced a bill that would establish a re-apportioned assembly consisting of a 19-member Senate and 38-member House. Lines would be drawn by a bipartisan commission. The Democrats' bill calls for an 18-member Senate and a House of 35 members. The Republican bill was sent to the Revised Statutes Committee, and its sponsor, Minority Leader Reynolds du Pont, R-Greenville, predicted it would "never see the light of day." He said it was put in so the people, and perhaps the

Without the combined efforts of all, this success could not have been enjoyed.

Delegates appointed by Pres. Neeman to 7th Kent County Vol. Firemen's Association in Dover, Wed., July 15th, were Melvin Wyatt, Paul Neeman, and Donald McKnatt.

The committee chairmen responsible for laying plans for the coming Delaware State Vol. Firemen's Ass'n Convention to be hosted in Harrington, Sept. 10-11, and 12th, reported progress in all activities of the convention.

3 Traffic Deaths Mar Area Holiday

Two men died on Delaware highways during the long July 4th weekend, and a Delaware man was killed in Maryland just across the state line near Smyrna.

Killed in traffic accidents were William T. Ricketts, 67, of Clayton; Bruce Phillips, 53, of 108 Minquadales Ave., Minquadales, and Airman 2C John Hennessey, 22, of McGuire Air Force Base, N. J.

The Delaware deaths of Hennessey Friday brought to 61 the number of persons killed on the state's roads this year, compared to 37 for the same period last year.

Ricketts was killed Saturday when a car in which he was riding failed to make a curve on Maryland 291, two miles east Millington, Md. and turned over.

Phillips died after he was hit from behind by another motorist as he pushed a disabled car along U. S. 40 near the State Road intersection about 11:45 Friday night.

D. S. Telephone Co. Tariff Rates Effective August 2

Tariff revisions filed with the Delaware Public Service Commission by the Diamond State Telephone Company to become effective August 2 are expected to save nearly $55,000 a year in telephone charges for Dover customers, it was announced recently.

Local service rates in Dover will be reduced by $36,500 a year and elimination of toll charges on calls to Felton and Frederica will result in savings of an additional $18,300 a year.

Toll charges which now apply on calls from Felton to Dover will also be discontinued, effecting estimated savings of $19,300 a year for Felton customers.

Elimination of the Felton toll charge on calls from Frederica to Dover will save an estimated $11,600 a year for Frederica customers.

The changes are part of The Diamond State Company's recently instituted three-year statewide supplemental service improvement program.

5 Man School Boards Passed By House, 30-2

Delaware school boards would be increased from four to five members under a bill the House passed Tuesday.

Only minor opposition developed after the sponsor, Rep. James D. McGinnis, D-Dover, said the measure is fully backed by the State Board of Education, according to Dr. Richard P. Gousha, state superintendent of public instruction.

McGinnis also said the bill will not affect vocational schools or comprehensive schools in each county that have boards of seven members. Seven would remain since they are appointive and are established in a different section of the code than that affected by this bill.

On the roll call the measure received 30 yeas, 2 nays (Fifer, Annett) and 3 absent (Downs, Keenan, Lowe).

The House Tuesday received a measure (HB 638) that would make $172,650 available to the State Park Commission for the development and maintenance of Ft. Miles which soon will be taken over by the state.

The bill would provide the park commission with $43,700 for salaries and wages, $300 for travel, $28,650 for contractual services, $10,025 for supplies and materials, $39,975 for capital outlay and $50,000 for capital improvements.

A Senate bill to provide for humane slaughter of livestock was tabled in the House after it received 15 votes, three short of passage.

Numerous objections were voiced. Rep. Norman Younger, D-Appoquinimink Hundred, charged that the bill would put small businessmen out of business by requiring them to make large investments for equipment.

Substitute legislation to provide pay boosts for members of boards of elections of all three counties cleared the House, 24-9, for the second time and was sent to the governor.

The bill HS1 for HB179 with SA1, provides for members' salaries to go from $750 to $1,000 annually and for $1,500, an increase of $500, for the three chairmen.

Carvel Signs Corrections Reform Bills

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel signed three corrections bills, including the key one to provide for prisoner rehabilitation, before a jammed Kiwanis Club luncheon in the Gold Ballroom of the Hotel Du Pont Wednesday.

With the strokes of his pen, the governor wrote "finis" to one of the most successful cooperative ventures between citizens and their government in the history of the state.

The key bill, SB 323, was written by a joint legislative committee under the chairmanship of House Speaker Sherman W. Tribbitt, D-St. Georges Hundred, and was passed handily in both house after two earlier bills, doing much the same thing, had been snafued in Sen. Walter J. Hoey's

One Dies, 4 Injured on U.S. 13

An Air Force enlisted man was killed and four others injured Friday, when their car crashed into the rear of a moving tractor-trailer at 5 a. m. on U. S. 13, two miles north of Felton.

A spokesman at the Dover Air Force Base said the victim was Airman 2C. John Hennessey, about 22, the driver, attached to the 1611th Air Terminal Squadron at McGuire Air Force Base, N. J.

He was pronounced dead at Kent General Hospital.

After treatment at Kent Hospital, the injured airmen were removed to the Dover Air Force Base Hospital, where they were reported in satisfactory condition.

Carvel, Family Lead 1,000 From State on Tour of Fair

More than 1,000 Delawareans, led by Gov. Elbert N. Carvel, and his family, toured the World's Fair, Thurs., July 2.

The Governor and his party were given the red carpet treatment by Gen. William E. Potter, executive vice president of the fair and the exhibits which they visited.

A total of 1,032, including 127 children under 12, made the long train trip on a special train which left Delmar at 5:55 a. m. and returned early the following morning.

The response to the special excursion train was so successful — Pennsylvania Railroad officials said that hundreds were denied tickets—that the railroad said it will probably run another excursion in the near future.

The train arrived promptly at 11:30 a. m. and the official Delaware Day ceremony began at noon in the United States Pavilion with a welcome by Potter, who gave Gov. and Mrs. Carvel medallions.

Carvel presented Potter and Robert Moses, the fair president, with certificates making them honorary citizens of Delaware.

During the train ride north, Carvel visited each of the 16 railroad cars several times. So did other Delaware political leaders as they bowed to the attraction of an election-year crowd.

Abard the Delaware Day special were Republican National Committeeman Harry G. Haskell Jr., Democratic Auditor Ernest E. Killen and Democratic Speaker of the House, Sherman W. Tribbitt, all potential gubernatorial entries.

The ceremony included a brief parade from the Long Island Rail Road station to the U. S. pavilion. It was led by the state color guard, the American Rifles and the 278th Delaware National Guard Band.

The band won high praise from the Delaware visitors as did Ann Hall Carvel, the governor's daughter, who sang the National Anthem and "Our Delaware."

FIRST ON BOARD—Governor and Mrs. Elbert N. Carvel are first to board the Cape May for initial trip to Cape May, N. J., Tuesday, June 30. Following them were more than 1,000 Delawareans to enjoy crossing of Delaware Bay.

Cape May-Lewes Ferry Off With A Bang

Although it is still too early to determine what traffic pattern will develop on the Cape May-Lewes ferry, Delaware River and Bay Authority officials glowed at reports covering the first five days of operation.

Beginning at 6:40 a.m. on July 1 from both sides of Delaware Bay, the ferries ran regularly scheduled trips with the vessels Cape May and Cape Henlopen in service. Up to 10 p.m. Sunday evening the two ocean-going vessels had carried 4,022 vehicles and an estimated 14,324 passengers.

When figures were examined it was found that traffic was evenly divided between the two points, with the Lewes to Cape May runs having a slight edge. There were 2,116 vehicles and 7,308 passengers from the Lewes side while from Cape May there were 1,906 vehicle departures and 7,016 passengers.

Attendants at both terminals expressed amazement at the number of "walk-ons" or persons without cars who merely wanted to enjoy the salt air breezes between the two points. Officials believe this heralds a new type of recreation that will prove popular in the months ahead.

Dedication exercises were held in Lewes and Cape May on June 30 with Governor Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey and Governor Elbert N. Carvel, Delaware participating. Chairman J. H. Tyler McConnell of the Delaware River and Bay Authority served as master of ceremonies.

At Lewes Governor Carvel said, "The final act to form a Delaware River and Bay Authority was the result of good leadership by the administration of Governor Hughes in New Jersey and we on this side did all we could to encourage its activation."

"The federal government, then under the leadership of our late and beloved President Kennedy also did its part in approving the compact so we could go forward with our plans."

At Cape May ceremonies, Gov. Richard J. Hughes also expressed confidence that the new ferry service would open new areas of development and would lead to greater prosperity for the people of both states.

Under Secretary of Commerce for transportation Clarence D. Martin, Jr., expressed the belief that the ferry service would be the forerunner to an eventual direct highway across Delaware Bay.

Although events did not completely follow original plans more than 1,000 Cape May County residents visited Lewes on Monday, June 29—saw historic spots, toured nearby resort areas—and although delayed on the return trip by a fouled propeller, kept their spirits and evidently enjoyed the day. They also witnessed a parade in Lewes which drew 5,000 spectators.

Ferry service officially began at 6:40 a.m. Wed., July 1, rather than at 3:20 a.m. The cancellation of the first trip was necessary in order to place pilings at the Cape May terminal to insure smoother docking. This was accomplished early that morning.

First aboard after a wait of several hours was a Cape May Point public relations man, Andrea Lippi, 45, who purchased the first ticket for vehicle and passenger. He also bought the first "walk-on" ticket to hold as a souvenir.

Summer Workers To Get Tax Break

While the steep unemployment rate among untrained high school dropouts is among our most pressing socio-economic problems today, the fact still is that huge numbers of school students across the nation have found jobs this summer.

They are working temporarily for pay — and they are therefore, up against our income tax laws.

If this is your teenager, he or she, gets a special tax break this year because of the 1964 tax law—and it is vitally important for him as well as you to know the precise details. Here are the three key points.

First he can earn up to $900 completely tax free this summer compared with a tax-free limit of up to $875 until this year.

Second, any taxable income he earns above $899.99 will be taxed at the reduced individual tax rates provided in the law, and in the bottom income brackets the rates are now sufficiently low to make the income tax angle of minor significance to the overwhelming majority of summer jobholders.

Third, as a parent, you can continue to claim your summer jobholder as a dependent and get the usual $600 dependency deduction for him regardless of how much he earns—assuming you meet the customary tests.

Now here is a breakdown of these three points.

(1). Until 1964, a typical summer jobholder could earn up to only $675 completely tax-free.

Under the 1964 law, he is entitled as before to the $600 personal exemption for himself. But he is no longer limited to the 10-percent standard deduction and instead he can take the new minimum standard deduction of $300.

(2). If he earns more than $899.99, he gets the break of the reduced tax rates. On the first $500 over $899.99, he must pay a rate of only 16 per cent. On the next $500, he must pay a rate of only 16.5 per cent. In contrast, on these same earnings over $674.99 last year, he had to pay a rate of 20 per cent.

(3). As a parent, you can claim your summer jobholder as a dependent and get the $600 dependency deduction for him regardless of how much he earns. You can do so if you meet these conditions:

Your summer jobholder must be less than 19 years old, or he must be a full-time student regardless of his age, and you must furnish more than half his support.

Support is not only the cash you give. It also includes board, clothing, maid service in the home, lodging, education medical and dental care, recreation, transportation and similar necessities. Support does not include the purchase price of a car you buy for him.

Road Test Score Sheets Available

Do you want to know whether or not you are an expert driver?

A scoring system to show how good a driver anyone is—and to show where improvements are needed—has been devised as part of the defensive driving technique being taught to many drivers through the Delaware Safety Council.

The council uses a "road test score sheet" supplied by the Institute of Driving Behavior. Many large firms and other operators of fleets of vehicles are having their operators taught defensive driving. The Safety Council trains the instructors.

Now it has decided to make the score sheets available to the general public as an aid to driver improvement.

Twelve points about driving are scored and they are arranged in five groups, following lessons taught in the defensive driving system. The first lesson is on aiming high in steering and the scoring is on centering the car well in traffic lanes and following a safe path on turns.

The second lesson is on getting the big picture of driving conditions, and the two scoring points are on seeing delays well in advance and making smooth stops and turns.

The third lesson concerns the driver's keeping his eyes moving, and the scoring is on checking the ground near the wheels of other vehicles and checking the sides and rear to keep track of other vehicles.

The fourth lesson subject is on leaving yourself an out and three points are scored. These include keeping a stopping and swerving space; using safe speed near intersections, and reducing speed in lane next to parked cars.

The final lesson subject is making sure the others see you. The three point on which scores are made are using the horn, avoiding the blind spot, and making sure his signal is heeded.

Austin C. Chidester, Jr., field representative of the Safety Council, who trains instructors, tells them "all accidents are caused by people not seeing the accident-producing situation in time to do something about it. If correct seeing habits are developed they should see hazards while they still have time and space to avoid them."

A passenger in the car can read the information on the score card and score the performance of the driver. Copies of the road test score sheets are available from the Safety Council.

Children's Day At Fair July 28

School children and senior citizens will have their special "days" at the Delaware State Fair to be held at Harrington July 25 through August 1.

Children's Day is traditionally on Tuesday of fair week and the free admission of all school children makes for one of the annual event's biggest attraction days. Special entertainment programs selected with the young in mind, add to the occasion.

Sally Starr, one of the all-time TV favorites, has been chosen to highlight the afternoon and evening grandstand shows on Tuesday, July 28. There will be such added attractions as: pony races, vaudeville and circus acts and a brilliant fireworks display at night. Barbara Heller, star of the Jackie Gleason television show, will also appear at the evening performance.

Senior Citizens' Day, on which all persons 60 years of age or older are admitted free, was started two years ago and is rapidly gaining popularity. This special tribute to the area's older residents is held on Thursday of fair week. This is also Governor's Day.

Fair officials have arranged for the appearance that day of two of the entertainment field's biggest attractions. They are Arthur Godfrey, an all-time radio and TV favorite and The Serendipity Singers, sensational singing group which has become one of the most sought-after acts of show business.

Arthur Godfrey's appearance that day will be the first of two days at the fair. He will also feature the grandstand show on Friday evening.

Bobby Vinton, young singing star, will headline the final grandstand show on Saturday night. Both the opening and closing Saturday afternoons will feature the big auto races, always one of the fair's biggest attractions.

Wheat Payments Due by Mid-July

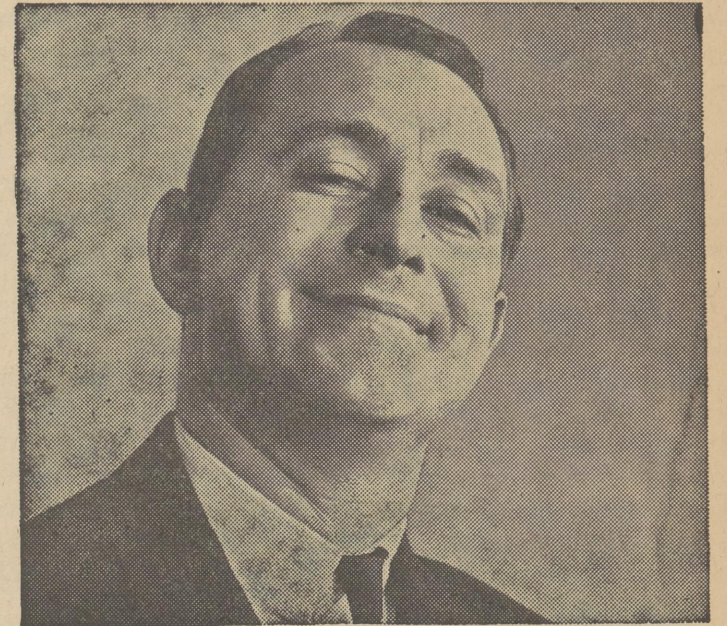

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman says wheat marketing certificates and payments for diverting cropland out of wheat production will begin reaching farmers around mid-July.

Participating farmers who market their 1964 crop wheat at prices reflecting the national average support rate of $1.30 per bushel will be issued marketing certificates which will bring their wheat levels returns to about $2 per bushel for their share of domestic consumption and $1.55 per bushel for their share of exports.

The combination of the loan, 70-cent per bushel domestic marketing certificate, and 25-cent per bushel export marketing certificate is designed to maintain wheat returns to farmers at about the same rate of recent years for domestic food use and for exports.

Freeman said the diversion payments and marketing certificates will total about $450 million. This will go to more than 600,000 participating farmers whose farms account for more than 75 per cent of the national wheat acreage allotment.

STOP

"STOP! Before Using Any Pesticide—Read the Label!"

That is the slogan of the pesticide safe-use project for 1964. The motivating force behind this project is the National Agricultural Chemicals Association. And a distinguished list of other organizations, such as the National Safety Council and the Department of Agriculture, are cooperating.

The campaign is a big one, involving brochures, program aids, TB spots and newfilms, and radio features. It is directed to all rural young people, all parents in rural and suburban areas, farmers and others who have to do with the use of pesticides. And it is predicated on the soundest of bases—that pesticides are absolutely essential to modern agriculture, and that what is needed is a wider knowledge of basic safety precautions.

Reading the label, of course, is the first step. Then comes storage—pesticides must be kept out of the reach of children, irresponsible of uninformed people. Then they must be applied precisely as directed. Finally, adequate provision must be made for disposal of used containers. It is suggested that the best means of doing this is to bury them at least 18 inches deep in an isolated area away from water supplies.

This is an education project of the highest importance. Over 350,000 tons of pesticides are used each year to control destructive insects. The accidents they cause are totally unnecessary and are the result of sheer carelessness. So, when you use a pesticide, read that label and take the other simple and essential precautions.

—Bennett County Booster, Martin (S. Dak.)

HOW TO STOP

The government's tobacco report prompted a number of medical groups to set up programs designed to help people stop or curtail smoking.

One was the American Cancer Society. Almost immediately after the government report, the Society set up a course in Washington for the purpose of "upsetting the smoking routine." The nation's capital, it added, would be the testing ground for the new program and if successful there, it would be offered in other cities.

Dr. Harold W. Krough, president of the Washington group, said the program would involve seven one-hour sessions over a five-week period. "An attempt will be made to control, without necessarily giving up, the smoking habit," he said.

The system involves no drugs, nor does it require abstinence from foods or liquor. It was devised by Dr. Daniel Horn, of the U. S. Public Health Service.

The Cancer Society would say nothing about the program's method except that it is designed to help stop or curtail smoking.

Smokers who want to quit, but can't, at least on their own volition, might find encouragement in the ACS method, and approach.

CIGAR SURGE

Figures are now coming in to document the public's reaction to the government's report on dangers of cigarette smoking (particularly), published in January. And it appears that cigar makers are the chief beneficiaries. One big firm reported its sale of small-sized cigars in January soared 250 per cent over the previous January; other firms agree that the smaller types of cigar are leading the sales advance.

G. I. Bill In Effect For 20 Years

The G. I. Bill favorably affected the nation's economy and has already returned, in the form of higher tax payments, more than the cost of the entire program, John S. Gleason, Jr., U.S. administrator of veterans affairs, told Delawareans at a luncheon in Wilmington last week.

The luncheon, held in the Gold Ballroom of the Hotel Dupont, had special significance due to the fact that at the same site, approximately 20 years earlier, Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, then veterans affairs administrator, interrupted a speech to make the first public announcement of the signing of the G. I. Bill by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Ten years later, on June 22, 1964, still another veterans affairs administrator, Harvey V. Higley, spoke at a 10th anniversary observance in the Gold Ballroom.

Arrangements for Gleason's participation in the 20th anniversary observance were completed by a committee headed by David S. Hugg, veterans affairs liaison officer with the State Development Department and a past state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Members of this committee called upon Gleason last March and sought his participation in a June 22 observance. Upon learning that Gleason, an Army Reserve officer, would be on active duty through most of June, the committee moved back the luncheon until July 1.

During the course of his speech, Gleason told his audience that, under the provisions of the G. I. Bill, the Veterans Administration guaranteed or insured 5.2 million home loans, totaling almost $44 billion.

Continuing, he pointed out that "one out of every five single-family homes built in the U. S. since the end of World War II has been financed by the G. I. loan program, thereby providing a major stimulus to the American economy."

Gleason also pointed out that "the G. I. Bill sparked the largest mass adult education programming in history, with approximately 50 per cent of all World War II veterans participating."

The V. A. administrator concluded by noting that "the higher incomes of veterans, as a result of their training, is producing higher tax payments, and the education program of the G. I. Bill, will studies show, pay for itself twice or three times over during the lifetime of the veterans who received such training."

Other program participants included Gov. Elbert N. Carvel, who presented Gleason with an "honorary citizenship certificate"; John G. Leach, Wilmington educator and civic leader, who was instrumental in arranging the earlier luncheon meetings which last week's affair commemorated; Robert L. Hag-enbach, vice president of the Wilmington Kiwanis Club, who extended the official welcome; and David S. Hugg, who introduced the speaker.

Other platform guests included James P. Connor, Congressional Medal of Honor winner; Mayor John B. Babiarz of Wilmington; Dr. Major Gasper, director of the V. A. Hospital at Brack-Ex; Leon Fields, manager of the V. A. Regional Office; Clement J. Nevin, commander of the Department of Delaware, Veterans of Foreign Wars; William Melville, commander-elect of the Department of Delaware, American Legion; Marvin Silvers, first national vice president of the Disabled American Veterans; and Harry Wilson, representing the Department of Delaware, Jewish War Veterans.

Hardware-itis Afflicts Cows

Cows often suffer from a stomach ailment known to farmers as "hardware disease."

Veterinarians, who know that cows eat fencewire, nails, nuts, bolts, pieces of wood and tin cans, call the disease, "traumatic gastritis."

The hardware punctures the lining of the second of the cow's four stomachs. It can be fatal.

Doctors say the cause of the trouble is lack of "oral discrimination in cattle that leads to their swallowing foreign bodies that would normally be rejected by other animals."

This coming Monday marks the beginning of camping at Camp Arrowhead for this summer. The Diocese of Delaware is very proud to own one of the outstanding youth and children's camps in the nation. This year a film made of camping at Camp Arrowhead is being shown nationwide as a model for church camps. Those interested in camping will be interested to know that there is not only the "homestead camp" which takes place right on the camp site at Camp Arrowhead on Rehoboth Bay, but that much of the camping is done in outlying areas with trained personnel of advanced college age and with a great deal of what is called "wilderness camping" which takes place altogether at distances from Arrowhead, such as the Appalachian Mountains and Canadian camping spots.

It is hard to believe, but Fair Week is almost on us. The Delaware State Fair begins on Saturday, July 25, and lasts through the following Saturday, August 1st. Many of the St. Stephen's people will be receiving calls during the next few weeks asking them to do such things as make soups and to give of time to work in the fair booth. Last year the response to this appeal was most hearty. Surely, all will want to help in this worthy project.

Two of the young men of St. Stephen's have been honored by Troop 76 of the Boy Scouts of America in Harrington. John Winkler and Gail McReynolds will leave this coming Sunday for Camp Rodney where they will attend a pre-jamboree training session until the 16th, when they will leave to represent their troop at the National Boy Scout Jamboree which takes place this year at Valley Forge, from July 17th through the 23rd.

The National Jamboree is held every four years and it is a wonderful experience and honor for these two young men to be able to represent their troop. 50,000 boys, coming from the United States and 79 other countries will take part in the jamboree. July 19th is special Delaware visitor's day. Congratulations and best wishes, Gail and John.

U. of D. Studies Farm-Related Jobs

Employment opportunities for high school and college graduates in agriculturally oriented businesses are being studied under the direction of the School of Agriculture at the University of Delaware and the State Department of Public Instruction, Division of Vocational-Technical Education. The companies and corporations being contacted in the study are those supplying and servicing agricultural producers and those involved in marketing food products from the time the product leaves the farm until it reaches the consumers.

"More and more, graduates from the college of agriculture and vocational agricultural programs are being drawn into farm related occupations of supply and service, rather than actual farming," states Ralph P. Barwick, assistant professor of agricultural education at the University of Delaware and director of the study. Information from the study will be used to guide adjustments in teaching programs which are preparing students for current and future job openings, he states. A sample of agribusiness owners and managers throughout Delaware will be contacted during the month of July to determine their present and anticipated employee needs. Employee numbers, turn-over, educational requirements and skills in present and emerging off-farm agriculturally oriented occupations are being obtained, Barwick says.

Delaware Food Market Report

The French say en brochette, in Russia the word is shasklik, Hawaiians say teriyaki, but the Americans call them kabobs. It's food broiled on a skewer, sword, stick, or wire and people all over the world agree they are good to eat and fun to make.

Selections of foods for kabobs are especially good right now. High quality beef is low priced and plentiful, pork and lamb prices are reasonable, franks and cold cuts are bargains, and seafood is a "must" for food value is high and prices are low. Summer vegetables and fruit supplies are ample enough and prices reflect this good supply.

You will want to plan on quick-cooking foods, preferably those that will get done in the same length of time. If some do take a little longer time to cook than others, such as potatoes and onions, then precook them. Do be careful and don't overcook for then they will fall off the skewers.

Another point, foods that share the same skewer should all be approximately the same size. The best size is 1 inch to 1 1/2 inches, never bigger.

Skewer cooking is a delightful, impressive way to entertain and everyone can get into the act. Just set up the makings: meat, vegetable, fruits, along with melted butter or a favorite sauce. Provide some good hot coals and give each person his own skewer and let him go to it.

How hot should the fire be? Unfortunately, experts can provide only an "it depends," answer. But here are a few tips from the experts. Hold your hand over the fire at about the same level or position the meat will be and begin counting—"one thousand one, one thousand two, etc. The number of seconds you can comfortably hold your hand over the fire will you how hot the fire is. If you count to only "one thousand one or two", that's hot—and ready for steaks or hamburgers. At "one thousand three or four", the fire is just hot enough for kabobs, a roast on the spit, or pot roasts wrapped in foil.

Remember kabobs can be made with almost any meat, vegetable or fruit combination. Regular broiling cuts of meat are excellent. However, beef chunks and rounds (U. S. Choice Grade) are all right if they have been tenderized. A commercial tenderizer may be used but a marinade has the advantage of added flavor. Marinate for two to ten hours, depending on the cut of meat.

Now here are some kabob combinations you might want to try: Brown and serve sausage, mushrooms, bacon and cherry tomatoes, ham, pineapple, and orange sections. Meat balls wrapped in bacon, green peppers and onion. Raw shrimp, scallops, and bacon squares. Beef steaks, mushrooms and onions. Last, but not least, fruit kabobs for dessert. Canned peaches, pineapples and banana chunks, basted with a sweet-sour sauce.

Dig your farm ponds and drainage ditches now! Summer-time construction is the cheapest and best. Weather conditions cannot be better than we are having at the present time.

Some people ask why we worry about land drainage in dry weather. But the facts indicate roughly a third of Kent County with soils needing treatment. Fred Mott, our work unit conservatist, points out that improved drainage, where needed, can double the value of crop land. This is because the farmer can work the land sooner with excess rainfall moved off.

Ponds, of course, are designed to retain at least a portion of the run off water. They can be valuable for stock watering, for fire protection, for irrigation, and for recreation such as swimming, boating or fishing. Fred says we now have several hundred ponds scattered over Kent County. But we can use many more.

The Kent Soil and Water Conservation District has hired a new equipment manager, Harold A. Apt. Our draglines and bulldozers are in excellent working condition. Too, ACP cost sharing help is available upon request.

Dr. Bill Mitchell, our extension agronomist at the University of Delaware, has this quotation from Emerson on his office desk:

"We must walk as guests in nature; not impassioned, but cool and disengaged. A man should try time, and his face should wear the expression of a just judge, who has wisely made up his opinion, who fears nothing, and even hopes nothing, but who puts nature and fortune on their merits; he will hear the case out, and then decide."

This is the formula of the scientist and researcher. Those who know Bill realize how well he lives by this creed.

Here is a home cure for hydrophobia or mad dog bite as found by Sam Walker, or Woodside, in some old records dating back to the early 1800's.

"Boil the root of Elicampagne in milk and drink freely."

This was one of several remedies from the records of Marshall Conant Derby for whom Derby Pond is named near Woodside.

Sam was showing us a unique lap desk that was originally made in Massachusetts years ago. It's an exquisite piece of walnut furniture that still shows the pride of craftsmanship that antique lovers relish.

The system of research and education, of which the University of Delaware is a part, has helped make American agriculture so productive it has been the subject of some interesting comments by Premier Khrushchev of Russia. He seemingly did pick up some rather useful information during his tour of American farming areas.

Premier Khrushchev didn't quite get all the details or the terminology right, but he got the general idea. Here is what he said, according to a recent issue of the official Russian newspaper, Pravda:

"I will reveal a 'secret': When the Central Committee effected the reorganization of the management of agriculture, we borrowed something from the practice of serving the farmers in the United States of America. I have in mind the scientific service, the introduction of scientific achievements. What is valuable in the American practice of organizing scientific service for the farmers? Concreteness, a businesslike attitude.

"In the United States of America a farmers' service exists under the universities and colleges. When I visited the U.S.A., I became acquainted with the work of the institutes, in particular the organization of the work of the service for farmers. How does this service work? It has inspectors, or agents, as the Americans often call them. The agents meet with the farmers and persuade them to introduce this or that method, help them in the organization of production and furnish them with plans and recommendations. Let us suppose a farmer wants to organize the production of broiler chickens. He turns to the institute, he is given outlines, documents and advice, and a specialist is sent to this farmer to help him organize broiler production.

"The farmer pays for the scientific service. This payment is in the form of a tax levied in the state budget. The farmers' funds are used to pay for the specialists who serve farm production. "As I was told, the inspector (agent) receives part of his wages from the Federal budget and part from the local budget, that is, from the payments made by the farmer. Thus he has an interest in having the farmer apply innovations, receive higher profits and deduct more for the needs of the scientific service, that is, for the payment of the inspector and other specialists. If the farmer does not receive concrete help from the agent, he no longer turns to him and the agent has to quit the service."

So that is Mr. Khrushchev trying to describe our Extension program. Here is a good case of how a foreign observer tells what he sees and hears.

Clean, high-quality grain is the aim of Kent County wheat farmers. A combine in top working order can help you harvest this kind of grain.

First thing is to keep close check on your machine and the job it's doing. Is it cracking grain or leaving weeds and straw in the grain? This week, I'll be the doctor and prescribe some "remedies" for these and other harvesting troubles.

You can reduce grain cracking by increasing the cylinder-concave clearance, reducing cylinder speed, or opening the lower sieve slightly. Increasing the wind blast or lowering the tailgate will get rid of shriveled kernels.

Grain moisture can increase when weed stems and straw get into the hopper. To clean the grain, increase the cylinder-concave clearance, reduce the rate of travel, close lower sieve slightly, increase the wind blast and direct it toward the forward end of the sieves.

Weed seeds, too, can lower grain quality. Slow down the cylinder speed, increase the wind blast, close the adjustable sieve slightly, raise the header or lower the tailgate to separate the weed seeds from the grain.

Are parts of the grain heads getting into the hopper? Increase the cylinder speed, decrease cylinder-concave clearance or slightly close the adjustable chaffer or sieve.

Make these adjustments slightly and one at a time. Over correction of one problem can create another. You will want to check your operator's manual on how to make these adjustments on your machine.

Harold A. Apt, of Houston, has been appointed equipment manager for the Kent Soil and Water Conservation District according to the board chairman, Isaac Thomas, of Marydel.

Mr. Apt will be responsible for the management of the District's four draglines and bulldozers. In addition to his duties in Kent County, he will also be assistant to the Sussex Soil & Water Conservation District equipment manager, Harold A. King. The two county soil and water conservation districts have recently coordinated their activities in order to keep up with the demand for their services.

Farmers in both counties will benefit from the cooperative efforts of these two districts and the appointment of Mr. Apt. A greater amount and variety of machinery for conservation work will be available in both counties on a year-round basis. The two counties are now connected by car radio as a further step in improved service to farmers and landowners. Mr. Thomas says he and the entire board are especially pleased to have Mr. Apt as equipment manager.

Mr. Apt, better known to his associates as "Tom", lives on Sunset Avenue, in Houston, with his wife, Jane, and their three daughters, Debbie 11, Susan 6, and Joan 5.

4-H Club Notes

You've read by now the results under the big top. Andrea Moore, Sussex County was named Dress Revue winner for 1964 and Christine Wiebe was honored in the Junior Court. Over 80 4-H'ers participated in this event held at the beautiful Dover High School auditorium. With the assistance of Walter Artis and James Orr at the school and many other able hands the circus gave an exciting air to this year's revue. Paradise 4-H Club members and Whiteoaks assisted in the opening parade. Judy Werkheiser and her baton was an added attraction. Kent County honor court members were Elaine Blechman, Whiteoaks and Barbara Austin, Kent County Blue Hens; Karen Brown, Houston Cardinals, and Thelma Thomas, Whiteoaks.

4-H'ers who were selected to represent the county at the State Demonstration contest should be starting to brush up on their presentations. Remember, it will take some work to compete with the others.

Watch all your fair entry dates carefully. All entries for the 4-H department are due in your 4-H office by July 15. Be early and help our secretaries as there is much work they must do after your entries are received.

Over fifty 4-H'ers participated in the County Clothing and Foods Judging contest. Identification of salad greens and fabrics was quite interesting. Lois Wiebel, Whiteoaks prepared the cupcakes for the contest. Results will be available in about a week.

Wheat Acreage Allotment Set

A national wheat allotment of 49 1/2 million acres for the 1965-crop has been proclaimed by Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman, according to Jacob Zimmerman, chairman of the Delaware ASC Committee.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture simultaneously announced the allocation of the allotment, less reserves, among the States. All except Hawaii are listed as commercial wheat states. The 1965 wheat allotment for Delaware will be 24,736 acres, down by 944 acres from 1964. This downward trend of the state allotment for the past several years has been caused by farms going out of wheat production. The reduced 1965 state allotment should have very little, if any, effect on farms that have continued producing wheat over the past few years.

The national allotment has been apportioned among the States on the basis of acreage seeded for production of wheat during the 10-year period, 1954-63, with adjustments for abnormal weather, the so-called Anfusio amendment concerning loss of acreage history through overplanting, and for trends in acreage. County allotments, determined in essentially the same manner, will be apportioned among individual farms according to past acreage of wheat, tillable acres, crop rotation practices, type of soil, and topography, with special provisions for small farms.

Included in the national allotment for 1965-crop wheat is a national reserve of 20,000 acres for additional allotments to be issued on the basis of relative need due to the new areas coming into production of wheat during the last 10 years. It has been the same amount for several years. A special acreage reserve of 100,000 acres is being established for the first time as provided by the Agricultural Act of 1964. This special reserve is for additional allotments to eligible farms in counties where wheat is a major income-producing crop. It will be used in adjusting allotments for eligible old wheat farms. Each state shared proportionately in providing these reserves.

No national marketing quota will be in effect for the 1965 crop of wheat, according to the chairman.

Although the 49 1/2-million-acre figures is the announced allotment, current legislation also provided increases in allotments on small farms. Thus the state total allotment shown does not reflect an estimated additional 3.8 million acres which could result in increases on farms with less than 15-acre allotments.

Weeds Get The Water; Crops Are The Losers

A "great water robbery" is in progress in Delaware, according to Dr. William H. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware. And he says unless something happens to offset it, the "haul" may amount to as much as ten per cent of the state's $20 million corn and soybean crop.

Mitchell points to weeds as the $2 million offender, and singles out button weed, jimson weed, morning glory and smart weed as being particularly guilty. He says water, desperately needed by growing corn and soybean crops, is being siphoned off by these weeds.

The effect has been especially severe on the corn crop. In fields where weeds have been allowed to grow unchecked, corn leaves are shriveled and twisted and lacking the vigor of healthy, well watered plants. On the other hand, where effective weed control practices have been followed, the crop is hurting, but it still has a chance.

In periods of adequate moisture, there is usually enough water for the crops and the weeds. But during the current dry period, the weeds get their water first, leaving the crops to suffer.

Weed killers, so effective during normal growing seasons, have been of some help, but in the extreme dry areas of the state, many have remained on the soil surface, and have not done an effective job. Mitchell says the chemicals are still there, waiting for adequate moisture to become activated.

While it may be too late to control many of the weeds, he says a good rain would activate some of the weed killers, for control of late growing weeds. Weeds that have already made substantial growth for the most part are out of reach of the chemical weed killers. Farmers have had some success with cultivation, and vigorous use of the rotary hoe. But without proper rainfall, this may not be enough to save the already weakened plants.

The moral to the story, according to Mitchell, is to follow recommended tillage and weed control practices every year. "If there is enough moisture you will assure yourself of high yields. And even in a dry year such as we are having, you're ahead of the fellow who lets the weeds get the jump on him."

All-Star Games To Be Held Sat., Aug. 22

Dick Stoutland might be the first player ever to make two appearances in the Delaware All-Star High School Football Game series.

The Dickinson High guard of last year has been picked to play for the Golds against the Blues on Saturday, August 22, at Delaware Stadium. This is the game that annually benefits the Delaware Foundation for Retarded Children.

Stoutland also was on the field in the 1962 game—but as a musician. He was with the Dickinson High Schol band that played between the halves.

Stoutland, 5 foot 11 and 190 pounds, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stoutland, 4003 Limestone Road. He plans to enter Juniata College in the fall.

Four Conrad High athletes also will represent the Conrad School District with the Golds. They are halfback Ernie Anderson, quarterback Harry Crystal and ends Bill Beatty and Warren Adkins. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Holstein Anderson, 208 Cunard, was an outstanding halfback for the Redskins for three years, totaling 25 touchdowns and 153 points. He led the Blue Hen Conference in scoring as a senior, enjoying a four-touchdown spree against Dickinson. A third-team All-Stater, he will enter Delaware State.

Crystal was Conrad's passing ace, an co-captained the team with Adkins. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Crystal, 1510 Clayton Road, Cleland Heights, and plans to enter Delaware. He was an all-conference choice of coaches.

Beatty will be the tallest Gold at 6'5" and 188 pounds. He was president of the senior class, and was a class officer since his sophomore years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Beatty, 56 Belmont Ave., Richardson Park. Adkins, the senior class treasurer, will major in engineering in Delaware. The 6'1" 175-pounder is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Adkins, 212-B Matthes Avenue, Elmhurst, and was an all-Blue Hen Conference end.

Seaford High's Denny Russell picked off a pass against Wicomico High of Salisbury, Md., in his own end zone and ran 105 yards to a touchdown. The 5-10 160-pound halfback will be trying to match this performance in the Delaware All-Star High School Football Game, Saturday, August 22, at Delaware Stadium.

Denny will be performing along with teammate Eddie Roberts for the Gold team in the annual game to raise funds for the Delaware Foundation for Retarded Children.

Russell, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen G. Russell, 45 Front Street, Seaford, scored 10 touchdowns from his halfback post while pacing Seaford to a 7-0-1 record. He was vice-president of his Hi-Y and plans to major in Physical education in college. Russell was football co-captain.

Roberts, 5-9 and 180 pounds, was named to the All-State team at guard. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Roberts, 801 Oak Street, Seaford, Roberts won the sportsmanship award after the annual Seaford-Laurel game.

The program included a tableau, "Caesar Rodney arrives to vote," which depicted Rodney's arrival in Philadelphia on July 2, 1776, to cast the deciding vote for American independence.

Dr. Maynard H. Mires of Dover portrayed Rodney. Lynn D. Sprankle of near Wilmington, played the part of Thomas McKean and Alan Hurd, of near Dover, portrayed George Read.

Tribbitt presided and introduced Miss Anita Eubank, the 1964 Miss Delaware.

Following the ceremony, Carvel and his official party were treated to a seven-course Danish smorgasbord at the Denmark pavilion.

The group then went to the Du Pont exhibit where the governor was warmly welcomed by John E. Sly, the director. Carvel was shown through the entire pavilion and then given a special viewing of the display showing the progress of mankind. The display also included some pre-views of man's mode of life in the years ahead.

Carvel, his wife, daughter an son, Edwin, were guests of the Fair during a tour of some other exhibits. Other Delawareans struck out on their own.

The governor dined at the Maryland pavilion — he was raised in Maryland.

TRAFFIC DEATHS

Phillips was crushed between the car he was pushing and the other, driven by William Roberts, 29, of 79 Memorial Drive, Garfield Park, state police said.

Two others with Phillips, Coy E. Bailey, 38, of 715 N. Scott St., the car's owner, who was steering, and Bailey's son, Darrell, escaped injury.

Roberts and two passengers with him, Robert Montgomery, 21, of 112 E. 38th St., and George Casey, 23, of 205 Werndon Ave., Liangollen Estates, were treated for minor injuries and released.

In Rehoboth Beach, Frank L. Covelski, commander of the beach patrol, said one of the biggest July 4th crowds in history jammed the sands Saturday.

Few however, entered the water, he said, which was a chilly 62 degrees.

A near-record 60,672 crossings were reported by the Delaware Memorial Bridge for July 2, when most people started out for the weekend.

The Cape May-Leves Ferry reported 2,662 cars and 9,826 passengers were carried during the three-day holiday.

Police credited extra patrols during what they termed critical hours—6 p. m. to 2 a. m. every day—with keeping the traffic toll from being worse.

Nearly every trooper was on duty, and many worked the equivalent of an extra eight-hour tour during the weekend.

Finance Committee.

But Dr. Russell S. Peterson, general chairman of Wednesday's luncheon and chairman of the Citizens 3-S (Salvag e people, save dollars, shrink the crime rate) Committee which did most of the groundwork to stimulate enactment of the bill, praised the members of the legislature during the luncheon which was held in an expansive mood.

Carvel called it a day to "re-joice" as he also signed a House bill appropriating $17,000 to 308 West, the home for ex-prisoners maintained by the Prisoners Aid Society and a Senate bill appropriating $55,000 to the Board of Corrections for pay raises to employees of the state's prison system.

The governor also had special praise for John Jessup, chairman of the Citizens Crime Commission, which put up $25,000 that enabled a special committee named by Carvel and chaired by Herbert Cobin, Wilmington attorney, to engage the National Council for Crime and Delinquency to do a special study that led to the legislation.

The 3-S program was initiated by the Kiwanis Clubs of the state and they were, appropriately, the hosts at the luncheon.
