R. H. REED SEEKS DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION FOR GOVERNOR

Dover businessman Robert H. Reed has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Reed, 53, said he will begin seeking delegates for the nomination, which will be decided at the State Democratic Convention in Dover Aug. 19.

The only other announced Democratic candidate is State Auditor Ernest E. Killen, but another possibility is Supreme Court Chief Justice Charles L. Terry, Jr., who will only say regarding the race, "I am not a candidate." However, a draft movement for him is underway.

Another possibility is Speaker of the House Sherman Tribbett, of Odessa, who has said he is available if the nomination does not go to a Kent County candidate. Tribbett has not campaigned since he is from New Castle County, and 1964 is considered to be Kent County's "turn" for the nomination.

The two announced Republican candidates for the nomination are State Attorney General David P. Buckson, of Dover, and National Committeeman Harry G. Haskell, of Wilmington.

Reed has been active in many civic activities including the American Legion, Rotary Club, United Community Fund, YMCA, and the Greater Dover Chamber of Commerce. He was selected in 1956 for the YMCA's "outstanding citizen" award.

He is past president of the Dover Board of Education, has been chairman of the William Henry High School's board of trustees since 1953, and was vice president of the board of trustees of Delaware State College.

He was also president of the Delaware School Boards Association for five years, a member of the Board of Directors of the National School Boards Association for the same length of time, and has served on the state concerning educational matters.

Politically, he was the defeated candidate for State Treasurer in 1952. In 1953 he was part of a group which undertook the task of organizing Democratic Clubs throughout the state, and in 1954 became the first president of the Delaware Federation of Democratic Clubs.

He was appointed by Gov. Elbert N. Carvel several years ago as the first chairman of the Commission.

Reed owns and operates a local trucking and automobile and truck rental service.

He was born west of Dover near Hazletville, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds Reed, of Dover. He is a graduate of Dover High School and the University of Alabama. He is married to the former Vivian Dees, of Chatham, Ala. The couple have three children, Jeff, Bob, and Rebecca.

Road Unit Asks Funds to Fight Mosquitoes

The State Highway Commission voted unanimously Wednesday to seek $3.5 million from the divestiture fund for implementation of a broad mosquito control program.

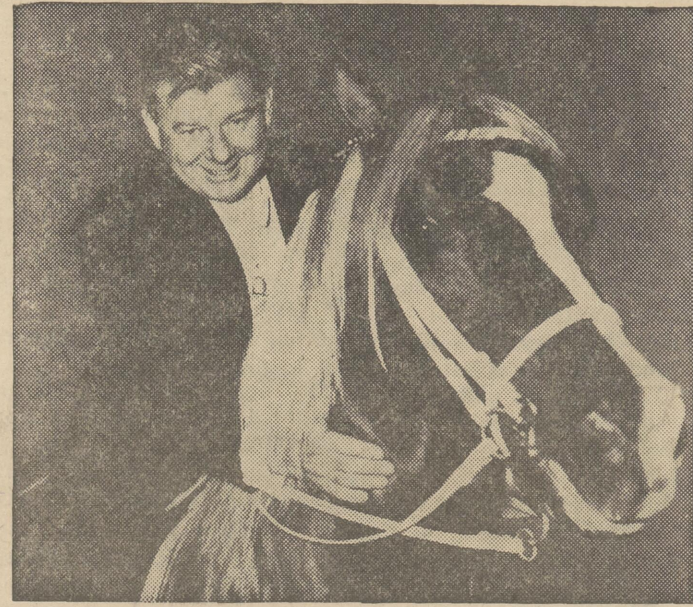

The commission, with eight of the 10 members present, directed Ernest A. Davidson, director of operations, to write Gov. Elbert N. Carvel and all members of the General Assembly informing them of the decision.

The decision was reached after Charles D. Murphy Jr., Mosquito Control Division, told commissioners that "90 per cent of the state's mosquitoes could be eliminated" if a comprehensive control program were undertaken.

Murphy estimated the cost at between $3 million and $3.5 million and outlined the steps to be taken as follows:

- Increased ditching, particularly in marsh areas. He called it "a tried and true method" of mosquito control.
- A series of water impoundment projects similar to the 650-acre site that has been developed in cooperation with the Game and Fish Commission near Little Creek.
- Extensive fill operations such as the one which was conducted (with federal recovery funds pumped into the state as a result of the damage done by the storm of March, 1962) in the Rehoboth Bay area.
- Construction of "champagne" pools. Murphy described these as small pools created in marshy areas with the help of blasting.

Murphy said spray control still would be necessary to prevent influxes of mosquitoes into residential areas but it would represent a "long-term solution."

GOVERNOR'S STATEMENT

"Let's all go to the Fair!" said Governor Elbert N. Carvel this week in urging Delawareans to patronize the annual Delaware State Fair which opens at the Fair Grounds, Harrington, this Saturday.

In a statement issued at Dover, Governor Carvel pointed out that the Fair affords "opportunities for our farm families, 4-H'ers, Future Farmers of America, Grangers, Farm Bureau members and others engaged in Agriculture to exhibit the fruits of their labor" and also causes those living in urban areas to "recognize the essential roles played by our 'tillers of the soil' in raising the standards of living in both our State and Nation."

After noting that the Delaware State Fair is "a popular attraction for the people of our neighboring states and thus serves to help publicize our State and its many attractions," Governor Carvel predicted that this year's Fair will be "the biggest and most outstanding event of this nature ever held in the Diamond State."

Delawareans were urged to not only "avail themselves of the educational and entertainment facilities provided by the Delaware State Fair" but "to encourage their friends and relatives to do likewise."

The full text of statement follows:

"For many years, our State Fair has afforded opportunities for our farm families, 4-H'ers, Future Farmers of America, Grangers, Farm Bureau members and others engaged in Agriculture to exhibit the fruits of their labor. This event also has afforded an opportunity for other Delawareans to view these fine displays and recognize the essential roles played by our 'tillers of the soil' in raising the standards of living in both our State and Nation.

"The Delaware State Fair is also a popular attraction for the people of our neighboring states and thus serves to help publicize our State and its many attractions.

"Indications are that the 1964 Delaware State Fair, to be held at the Fair Grounds, near Harrington, July 25 through August 1, will be the biggest and most outstanding event of this nature ever held in the Diamond State.

"I strongly urge all Delawareans to avail themselves of the educational and entertainment facilities provided by the Delaware State Fair and to encourage their friends and relatives to do likewise.

"Let's all go to the Fair!"

Potato Crop Harvest Underway

Light harvesting of Delaware's potato crop is already underway and this week, July 20, should see our potato growers in the midst of their busiest period of the year.

Because of an overabundance of rain during April which was followed by an unusually dry spell crops are running about a week behind normal. Presently a limited number of Cobblers and Haigs are available but it is expected that Katahdins will become available in quantity this summer.

Because of the unseasonable weather total potato crops will be less than those harvested last year but Delaware's output will still be substantial. It is expected that about 75 potato growers will harvest close to 10,000 acres this season according to Eugene Gagen, president of the Delaware Potato Growers Association.

A distribution pattern has been set up that will see Delaware potatoes delivered to the entire Atlantic Coast and as far west as Mississippi.

Broiler Research Featured at Aug. 12 Field Day

Poultry researchers at the University of Delaware's Georgetown Substation are dedicated to solving a dilemma so big and so important that the effects of their work could mean the success or failure of the poultry business on the Delmarva Peninsula. Unless they continue making progress toward producing a healthier bird of higher quality that will gain more weight on less feed, and in a shorter period, the industry could find itself in serious trouble.

Experiments aimed at finding answers to these problems will be displayed at Farm and Home Field Day at the substation on August 12. Visitors will have an opportunity to tour the poultry facilities, talk with the researchers about the work that is being done there and get answers to specific poultry production problems.

Frank D'Armi, who heads the poultry research at the substation, lists several experiments that are in progress. The windowless broiler house, which was built last spring, will again be open during Field Day. A summary of the results of a one-year, four-flock trial will also be available. The windowless house has been compared with a partially insulated house and one with no insulation. Birds in the house never see the light of day from the time they go in at a few days old, until they are loaded on trucks for shipment to the processing plant, according to D'Armi.

He says the experiment is designed to determine if birds raised under artificial light and mechanical ventilation do better than those in conventional houses. Such things as rate of gain, feed conversion, market quality, and cost of production are being studied.

Other experiments on the Field Day tour include a comparison of coccidiostats, an evaluation of drugs designed to prevent or control chronic respiratory disease of broilers, and the use of a low protein finishing feed in an effort to lower feed costs.

Field Day activities start at 10 a.m. Aug. 12 with tours of the experimental farm and the poultry research facilities. The Delaware Poultry Improvement Association will serve a fried chicken dinner at noon.

A special feature at this year's event will be a demonstration of mechanical tomato harvesting. Two machines—the first to be seen on the peninsula—will harvest tomatoes developed at the farm especially for mechanical harvesters.

Again this year a sick plant clinic will be conducted by specialists from the University's School of Agriculture.

Armed Forces Notes

Army Pvt. Edward K. Ross, whose mother, Mrs. Lillian Ross, lives in Felton, completed a nine-week general supply course July 15, at the Army Quartermaster School, Ft. Lee, Va.

Ross received instruction in the receipt, storage and issue of supplies and material.

The 22-year-old soldier entered the Army in January 1964. He completed basic training at Ft. Jackson, S. C.

Ross is a 1960 graduate of Felton High School.

Before entering the Army, he was employed by Henry B. Gilpin, Dover.

Side-Dressing Corn With Nitrogen Has Advantages

The number of Delaware farmers that side-dressed their corn with nitrogen this year increased. Side-dressing is not necessarily better than plowing under or broadcasting before planting. Each has its advantages. Dr. William Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware, says personal preference, available equipment, convenience, and cost may determine the method used.

He lists these special advantages to side-dressing over application before planting: (1) You can apply nitrogen in years when you most need it and omit it in other years. If you have a very poor stand of corn or large areas that have drowned out, you can save the nitrogen planned for side dress. But, if you have an unusually good stand and plenty of moisture in the subsoil to produce top yields, you can side-dress at an extra-heavy rate. (2) Side-dressing gets the nitrogen on after you've controlled the weeds—you fertilize corn, not weeds. (3) There's less time for nitrogen to leach from sandy soils or to be lost in the air by denitrification in poorly-drained soils.

You can side-dress dry, liquid or gaseous nitrogen carriers. Mitchell says cost, available equipment and convenience should dictate which form to use. Compare costs of nitrogen fertilizers on the basis of cost per pound of actual nitrogen applied to the soil. When side-dressed correctly, the different nitrogen fertilizers are nearly equally effective.

How about side-dressing phosphorus and potassium with the nitrogen? This practice generally won't pay. You'll get these nutrients on too late and in the wrong place for most efficient use. Corn needs phosphorus and potassium during its first few weeks of growth.

weeks of growth. And, unlike nitrogen, these elements stay where you place them in the soil, so that they'll be too near the surface for most efficient use in mid-summer.

Nitrogen placement—how deep and where? Get side-dressed nitrogen down into the soil. Nitrogen side-dressed on the soil surface won't be effective until rain moves it down into the root zone. Since corn roots can't function in dry surface soil, it is best to side-dress dry and liquid forms preferably one to two inches deep. Some nitrogen carriers must be discharged under the soil surface to prevent volatilization losses. Anhydrous ammonia should be placed four to eight inches deep and solutions that contain free ammonia should be covered by at least one inch of soil.

To avoid root damage, side-dress at the midpoint between corn rows. You'll gain nothing by side-dressing close to the row since corn roots meet between the rows when corn is knee-high.

When should you side-dress? You can side-dress nitrogen any time from planting until the corn plants are too tall to get equipment through. However, delay increases root damage. Besides, a prolonged rainy period would prevent timely application. So, for best results, side-dress before the plants are "knee-high".

Avoid Food Spoilage With Proper Precautions

Even with modern refrigeration and food processing methods, summer heat and humidity can cause rapid food spoilage, according to Janet Coblenz, extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware.

She explains that the bacteria that cause food spoilage grow rapidly at summertime "room temperature." This, along with the fact that picnic and outdoor community suppers are held frequently in the summer, means an increase in the likelihood of food poisoning, unless proper care is taken to prevent it.

Especially susceptible to rapid spoilage are meat, poultry, egg and creamed dishes. Any food which is handled a great deal, or which is soft, moist or non-acid should be treated especially carefully, Miss Coblenz points out.

Food should not be allowed to stand at room temperature for more than an hour or so, she says. If prepared in advance, food should be kept at cooking temperature or should be chilled very rapidly and kept icy cold until mealtime. Any food prepared in large amounts should be cooled in the refrigerator in a large, flat pan in order to insure rapid cooling. Quantities of food in large containers can spoil in the center before the mixture is chilled through.

Miss Coblenz also cautions about choosing food in restaurants in the summertime. If you aren't sure the food has been properly prepared and stored, be sure to select hot, freshly cooked or canned foods. A grilled cheese sandwich is a wiser choice than one with a meat, seafood or egg mixture, she says. Avoid cream and custard pastries, meat, fish and potato salads, cold egg mixtures and creamed foods unless you know they have been properly prepared, covered from flies and dust and properly refrigerated. And, if you aren't sure of the water supply, select a bottled beverage.

In preparing food for a picnic, allow enough time for food to chill thoroughly. And, if you have hot food, either cook it on the spot or keep it simmering until mealtime. Avoid using mayonnaise or salad dressing in sandwiches or salads that will be out of the refrigerator for more than an hour, and in any case, be sure to keep them cold. When buying food at the supermarket, be sure all perishables have been properly refrigerated, and then take them home and refrigerate them immediately, concludes Miss Coblenz.

Last Sunday morning our Sunday School attendance was increased to 73 over 71 of the previous week. There seems to be a falling away in attendance during the summer months.

During our morning worship service our pastor's message was entitled, "The Influence of Godliness." His scripture text was taken from I Timothy, Chapter 4, Verses 1-11. This was a continuing message of "The Faithful Sayings of Paul." Other scriptures referred to were I Timothy, Chapter 3, Verse 16 was in the sevenfold history of Jesus Christ.

The youth choir sang, "Blessed Redeemer." The ushers were Clark Lilly and Donald Comstock.

We were happy to have with us our area missionary for the Eastern Association, Rev. L. B. Barnette of Salisbury. He spoke to us from Romans, Chapter 12, Verse 1-8. Verse 1 declares that we present our bodies a living sacrifice unto God, holy and acceptable, which is our reasonable service to Him. iVisiting with us also was Linda Coper from Grand View, Missouri, and Pat Valliant from Pensacola, Florida. They helped us with the survey that was conducted in Milford this past Monday. We were blessed by their presence and Linda sang a special number during the evening service, "I Am Satisfied With Jesus." There were 51 present.

Heart Association To Support Six Research Projects

Six research projects on various phases of heart disease will be supported in the next 12 months by $33,100 from the Delaware Heart Association.

The experiments include one on use of an artificial heart valve co-designed by a University of Delaware engineering graduate who is now a cardiac research associate.

Major areas of the medical fight to prevent and/or cure the nation's top disease are represented in the approved studies. Earlier progress in each project has been reported by the researchers, and additional experiments are needed to prove new findings.

The work will cover wider testing of artificial heart use, improved techniques on transplanting hearts, the cause of hardening arteries, improved methods for surgery on arteries, and micro-photography of tissues. The grants go to four projects at the University of Pennsylvania Hospital's Harrison Department of Surgical Research and two at the Dover Medical Research Center where Dr. O. J. Pollak is director.

Support of such local and regional research has been a DHA service for many years and is financed by public contributions to the annual Heart Fund campaign. In addition to these locally-initiated research grants, the Delaware Heart Association also makes substantial contributions to national research programs through funds which the state organization provides the American Heart Association each year. Dr. Lemuel C. McGee, medical director for the Hercules Powder Company, is chairman of the Delaware Heart Association's research committee whose five members also include a business and a research chemist.

The recipient of one of the Association's research grants is Adair Rogers, graduate of both Wilmington High School and the University of Delaware and an engineering specialist in hydraulics and pneumatics. A research associate with the hospital in Philadelphia for the past year, his previous design work on a hydraulic heart resulted in co-production of an improved, smaller heart valve with Dr. Kirkley R. Williams. The investigators will use the DHA grant to test the valve's performance over a long period after its implantation into an animal, and to perfect an insertion method which does not require surgical stitches.

Under a separate DHA grant, Dr. Williams will expand his research into animal heart transplants. This involves finding the best way to preserve normal hearts during the time required to remove, store, and implant them in other animals. Protection of the heart muscles against any changes which might affect subsequent re-functioning will be tried by using various blood solutions and coolants on both the organ and the animal into which it will be placed.

Also at the hospital's research department is a third Delaware-sponsored project, involving the perfecting of techniques for operating on the especially-small arteries of the heart. Investigators are Dr. Gordon K. Danielson and Dr. Julian Johnson. This experiment depends upon continued heart function during surgery and development of special surgical skills. Methods to be used include reducing body temperatures, employing the heart-lung machine, and examining with a dissecting microscope.

Still another study on the use of artificial hearts, hopefully leading to successful use of such mechanisms in replacing diseased human hearts, will be headed by Dr. William S. Pierce at the Pennsylvania Institution. The researcher, who is also an engineer, reports that work on open-chested animals with artificial hearts has now advanced to where longer use of the mechanical organ can be tried and observed.

At the Dover Medical Research Center, Dr. Pollak will continue work on the induction of calcium deposits in the main heart arteries of rabbits by injecting various fluids. This study is aimed at discovering new findings about hardening of the arteries in humans and was supported by a DHA grant in its initial phase. Donald A. Burns, research associate under Dr. Pollak, received third-year fellowship support for advanced work on microphotography of tissues, a technique being explored to help delicate surgical procedure, and also assists Pollak on the atherosclerosis experiment.

U of D. Announces 8 Ass't. Directors

The appointments of eight assistant directors of residence halls at the University of Delaware were announced Tuesday by John M. Hale, director of residences.

All graduate students or upperclassmen at the university, the assistant directors will be responsible for informal counseling of students.

"Through the programs and activities of the residence halls," Hale said, "there is the opportunity for students to develop new ideas, to express themselves to participate in serious discussions with faculty and distinguished visitors and to enjoy themselves through social events and intramural sports. The assistant directors in the residence hall help develop these programs."

Named as assistant residence hall directors were: Mark Augustine, John DeMartini, George Govatos, Thomas Henderer, Thoms Michaels, William Olkowski, Edward Shaffer, and David Wolfe.

Augustine, 1812 Millers Rd., Arden, Wilmington, received his bachelor of arts degree in mathematics from Pennsylvania State University in 1961 and is working toward his master's degree at the University of Delaware. He has been a navigator in the U. S. Air Force, has taught mathematics at the college level, and has worked for two years with Atlas Chemical Co. in Wilmington.

DeMartini, 1016 Mayfield Ave., Omaha, Neb., received his B. A. degree from City College of New York in 1961. He took some graduate work at the University of Omaha and is continuing studies in history at the University of Delaware, where he has served several years as resident adviser in dormitories.

Govatos, 3 Doris Ave., Claymont, will be completing his requirements for a degree in civil engineering. He received a two-year associate degree from Valley Forge Military Academy in 1962. He has also served as resident adviser at the University of Delaware.

Henderer, 4304 Whittier Rd., Wilmington, received his bachelor's degree from Swarthmore College in 1960. In 1963, following three years' employment with General Electric Co., he returned to school as a graduate student in history at the University of Delaware.

Michaels, 5 Pearl St., Sayreville, N. J., will be completing his work for a baccalaureate degree in physical education. He has served several semesters as a residence hall adviser.

Olkowski, 451 Roosevelt Ave., Lyndhurst, N. J., received his bachelor of science degree in agriculture from the University of Delaware in June and is continuing his education in the same field.

Shaffer, 818 East Church St., Salisbury, Md., received a bachelor of science degree in education from Salisbury State College in 1963. He is a graduate student in chemistry at the University of Delaware.

Wolfe, 823 Shiffler Ave., Williamsport, Pa., earned a degree in history at Westminister College and will continue his studies at the University of Delaware this fall. He is a member of Phi Alpha Theta, a history honorary.

Swiss Observe Anniversary of Independence

On behalf of the State of Delaware and its citizens, Governor Elbert N. Carvel has extended congratulations and best wishes to the people of Switzerland for the occasion of the observance of the 673rd anniversary of Swiss independence.

In a message prepared for distribution in Switzerland on Swiss Independence Day, August 1, Gov. Carvel has pointed out that "some of your ancestors, who were among the early settlers of our land, brought to America a love of freedom that undoubtedly influenced the later actions of our founding fathers in establishing here a representative form of government."

After acknowledging that Switzerland, a small country, has played an important role in advancing democracy and representative government in Europe, Carvel also pointed out that Delaware, a small state, has contributed immeasurably to the advancement of American Democracy and observed that "our peoples have much in common."

Carvel closed his message with the hope that "the day will soon dawn when the entire world will enjoy the freedoms and the desire for peace that has rightfully earned for the citizens of Switzerland the respect and admiration of all freedom loving peoples."

The full text of statement follows:

"Delaware, the 'First State' is a comparatively young nation, welcomes this opportunity to salute the government and the people of Switzerland on the occasion of the 673rd anniversary of Swiss independence.

"Where Switzerland, a small country, has played an important role in advancing democracy and representative government in Europe, Delaware, a small state, has contributed immeasurably to the advancement of American Democracy, establishing beyond all doubt that our peoples have much in common.

"Some of your ancestors, who were among the early settlers of our land, brought to America a love of freedom that undoubtedly influenced the later actions of our founding fathers in establishing here a representative form of government that has served as a shining example for other peoples of the American continents.

"Together, the citizens of Switzerland and the citizens of the United States, through the development and practice of representative democracy, have set an example for freedom-loving peoples everywhere.

"It is my hope that the day will soon dawn when the entire world will enjoy the freedoms and the desire for peace that has

Accidents Do Not Take Vacations Say Safety Council

People take vacations, but traffic accidents do not, a safety official reminded Delaware drivers recently.

"To be safe on the roads in vacation time increased vigilance is essential, said J. James Ashton, manager of the Delaware Safety Council. He suggested "Slow Down and Live" be adopted as the traffic watchword this summer—especially in view of the fact that traffic accidents are running higher in Delaware and the nation.

"During the vacation months, thousands of motorists are on the highways, and many of them are intent on cramming as much activity as they can before the end of the summer," he said. "The result is often tragedy."

He cautioned vacationers to be on their guard against speeders, drinking drivers and drivers who disregard traffic laws. Above all, he warned them to make sure they are never guilty of such offenses themselves.

"Many vacationers get into trouble by not allowing enough time to cover the trip comfortably," Ashton said. "Then they try to make up time by driving too fast for conditions, by driving when fatigued or by disregarding traffic laws, and the common-sense rules of safety."

The safety official advised motorists to observe the following rules for a safe and pleasant trip:

- 1. Plan your trip so that you have plenty of time to reach your destination and return in comfort. This means a minimum of night driving, no speeding or slow-poke driving, and no driving when fatigued. 2. Before you start on your trip, learn the driving regulations of the states you expect to travel through. 3. Never drive after you've

Motor Fuel Tax Receipts For May Show Decline

Receipts from motor fuel taxes for the month of May, which were received during June, showed a reduction of $105,102.48 over the amount received from these for the same month of last year.

Excluding the amount received for taxes on special fuels, which was $38,910.51, the reduction would have totaled $144,012.99, or a decrease of 11.45 per cent.

The report on receipts from gas taxes for the month of May, as prepared by Charles F. Hudson, Director of the Motor Fuel Tax Division of the State Highway Department, showed total receipts of $1,142,329.83.

The taxes received for May represented the sale of 19,038,830 gallons of motor fuel, or a decrease of 2,463,524 gallons over the amount sold during May of last year.

The report indicated there were 80 concerns bonded for the sale of motor fuel in this state during the month of May and of that number 32 concerns reported no sales for the month.

In contrast to this, 4 other concerns reported sales that produced $571,164, or about 50 per cent of the taxes received for the month.

These concerns with the amount of taxes they produced, were: Atlantic Refining Co., $133,285.88; Gulf Oil Co., $112,383.12; Humble Oil & Refining Co., $230,761.82 and Sun Oil Co., $87,031.24.

Fence Talk

With George Vapaa

Peter Greening is an English extension worker who has worked the last ten years in Southern Rhodesia. He visited farms with your county agent on two days of last week. He is married to a former Wilmington resident, and wanted a busman's holiday during his vacation leave.

Rhodesia is a land in Africa the size of Texas. It has a European population of 70,000 residents and a total native population of about 3 1/2 million. The country will become independent of Great Britain this fall.

Peter finds it hard to understand why our farmers do not expand more quickly. We looked at a number of dairy farms where it is obvious that herd size could be easily doubled. I tried to explain that our farmers shun the excessive use of credit or other risks. We tend to be more conservative than do frontier areas.

He explained that people in some areas of Rhodesia never wore clothes until about six years ago. Living is much more primitive than in the developed countries. A can of gas will travel 1500 miles from the coast, and the last 50 miles may be on someone's back.

Rain does seem to come along to help gardeners and farmers if we can only wait long enough. This last shower seems to have hit here in the nick of time.

Corn is at a critical stage. The root system has pretty well formed and we will now get the big push for top growth that only moisture can bring. Early sweet corn has suffered harshly because of its shorter growing season. Howard Papan, of Wyoming, tells me that all vegetables have been about a week late. They have finished up early cabbage and now are into long green cucumbers and the sweet corn.

Those of you with dried up lawns take heart. Grasses move into a dormant stage with dry weather and most lawns can take severe punishment. Well fertilized lawns of adapted grasses usually recover very nicely. Keep the mower set to cut from 1 1/2 to 2 inches high. Use 2-4 D weed killer to get those pesky broad leaved weeds.

The dairy tour to New Jersey was well attended by Delaware farmers. I have never seen a group more anxious to slobber in the rain all day.

The high per square mile use of fertilizer in Delaware is further evidence of the concentrated and progressive agriculture found in the first state. Dr. William Mitchell, our extension agronomist, quotes from a USDA survey which places Delaware ahead of all other states.

Calculated on a square mile basis Delaware rates above all others in the use of phosphorus and potash, and second only, to Indiana in the use of nitrogen. Delawareans averaged 13.4 tons of fertilizer per square mile during the past year. These values are in terms of the oxides of the major plant nutrients, customary language for farmers and the fertilizer industry. In terms of total fertilizer familiar to all of us this amounts to over 40 tons per square mile or 125 lbs. per acre.

Temperature and humidity are important in their effect upon the performance of beef cattle.

Since there is no practical way to lower the humidity encountered by livestock, the only factor presently considered economical is shade. All of us have seen cows seek out protection from the sun. Shade also furnishes relief from flies and provides the opportunity to use effective fly control practices.

In constructing a shelter, we recommend that the long dimension run in a north-south direction. This helps greatly in keeping the ground beneath the shade dry. It's also wise to have a minimum height of 12 feet. When the roof is less than 12 feet from ground level, you get poor air circulation and excessive reflection of heat back to the cows. One other factor that's important is roof slope. Steeply sloped roofs make for a considerably cooler shade structure.

Have you ever had the experience of finding a houseful of fleas when you returned from vacation? It sometimes happens, especially if you have cats and dogs.

You can recognize fleas by their small size—about 1/8 of an inch in length. They have a hard, dark brown body, are extremely thin from side to side, and have relatively long legs adapted for jumping. Flea bites are most prevalent on the ankles and legs of man, and are often mistaken for chigger bites.

Pet cats and dogs are usually responsible for carrying fleas into the home. So long as the pets are around for the fleas to bite there's usually little trouble. The real trouble starts after the house has been vacant for a week or two. This allows time for the fleas to get real hungry and hungry fleas will readily bite humans. To control fleas in the home, we suggest a three-step program: Use pyrethrins to kill the adult fleas - an aerosol bomb works well for this job; treat the pets with an approved flea powder or wash; and use a residual insecticide such as sevin or methoxychlor to kill the flea larvae.

The Delaware State Fair approaches the countdown. George Simpson, the general manager, told the superintendents at a "get ready" dinner to be prepared for more exhibits than ever before. Some departments have entries 30% above last year. And George says, horses and ponies don't stack atop one another very well.

There are four new horse barns close to the show ring. Some 326 horses were shown last year. The figure is well over 400 for this fair.

I'm impressed with the smooth running organization that handles the fair exhibits and events. The new fair office building makes the job easier. But trained, volunteer workers are the reason things go smoothly.

We invite folks particularly to the 4-H exhibits in the Extension Service building behind the grandstand. There are so many entries that practically the whole building is now given over to competitive exhibits.

Random thoughts after a blessing rain:

Lawns are recovering nicely. Lush, wet grass smells "green" in cutting. Dry, mature hay smells brown or tan.

The effect of irrigation on turf is most strikingly seen on the Kowalski farm between Canterbury and Magnolia. Some 30 acres or more of Merion blue grass is being grown as the first sod farm to my knowledge in Kent County, if not the State of Delaware.

Short corn is very much in prospect this year. But this need not mean reduced grain yields. New hybrid corn varieties tend to be shorter anyway. After all, why grow a tall crop if you only intend to harvest the ears. Dry weather has stunted top growth. But the rains came as the earliest corn began to tassle. Good pollinating weather and recent showers should assure good grain yields.

Blackberry picking is one of my seasonal pleasures. Since the rain, berry size and sweetness have improved tremendously. For the novice who might like to try this relaxation, look for berry bushes near wooded thickets, usually near a stream. The best berries are close to the ground, and well into the clump of bushes. So wear long sleeves and be prepared to treat scratches.

The worth of a farm can be most fairly assessed when a buyer makes a deal with a seller in an open market. And this was a week when your county agent has been literally bargained with land value requests.

The average value of farm land and buildings has moved up markedly for the last several years. This is one aspect of inflation. Back in 1959 the farm census quoted a figure of about $195 per acre for Kent County. Today the figure seems to be closer to $250 per acre.

But averages can be misleading. The same piece of land can have quite a range of values to different people. In general, a tract is worth more to a neighbor interested in expansion. Large tracts today have more per acre value than do small, cut up farms. Special site advantages, such as location on well traveled roads, or adaptability for non-farm uses, tend to add value.

Lack of feed, not heat, is the usual cause of a summer slump in dairy herd milk production.

Shade is important for dairy cows on hot summer days, but they will graze at night, if there's grass to graze. Too often the pastures are over-grazed and cows do not have time to eat enough to prevent a slump in milk production.

To overcome or prevent a summer slump provide: plenty of clean, fresh water; plenty of shade, (put the cows in the barn during the heat of the day, if necessary); salt free choice; extra feed in the form of hay, silage, or grain and spray for flies.

Contrary to the belief of some dairymen, grain feeding does not produce extra heat in the cows' body as compared to hay or silage when used to supplement over-grazed summer pastures.

Summer heat adversely affects pasture grasses more than it does cows, so to prevent a summer slump in production, feed the cow enough nutrients. The cow doesn't care if the nutrients come from grain, hay or silage.

Question: Is feed in pellet form good for horses?

Answer: Pelleted feeds are quite satisfactory for feeding horses. Pelleting may be concentrates alone, roughage alone, or concentrates and roughage combined in a complete ration. In the pelleted complete ration, it is recommended that the ratio of roughage to concentrate be higher than when long hay is fed. One-half inch pellets are recommended for mature horses and one-fourth inch pellets for weanlings and short yearlings. Very hard pellets should be avoided. As with any feed change, the switch to an all-pelleted feed should be made gradually.

Soybeans and millet make good emergency hay crops. Now is the time to do something about it. A mixture of 15-20 pounds of Millet and 1 1/2 bushels of soybeans per acre seeded now will produce from 2 to 3 tons of good quality hay.

German Millet is the best variety and either Bethel or Ogden varieties of soybeans should be used as they produce the greatest amount of vegetative growth.

Care should be taken in seeding in order that the Millet will not be covered too deep. An application of 500 pounds of a 10-10-10 fertilizer drilled in ahead of the seeding will give an increased yield.

While there are other crops that can be used for emergency hay such as Sudan grass, oats and other small grains, none of them provide either the quality or quantity of hay as the soybean and millet mixture.

Further information on emergency hay crops is available at your County Extension Office, P. O. Building, Dover.

Veterans News

Children of living veterans who are totally and permanently disabled from service-connected causes, may now participate in the War Orphans Education Assistance program administered by the Veterans Administration.

This extension of the program to children other than those of deceased service-connected veterans was signed into law July 7 by President Johnson.

Thousands of children throughout the nation are expected to be affected by the new law, according to Leon Fields, manager of VA Regional Office, Wilmington, Del.

Originally the War Orphans Education Assistance Act, applied only to those children whose veteran-parent died as a direct result of service in the Armed Forces during wartime. Mr. Fields said. The fact that the other parent still lived did not prevent these children, in age between 18 and 23, from qualifying as an "orphan" in the meaning of the law.

Later the law was amended to include children of veterans who died as members of the Armed Forces in peacetime from illness or injury resulting from "service in the line of duty."

Mr. Field said the new law now extends the program to children of veterans of the Spanish-American War, World War I, World War II, the Korean Conflict and the peacetime service who have been permanently and totally disabled by illness or injury attributable either to their wartime service or, in the case of peacetime veterans, to disabilities received in line of duty.

The law provides for benefits up to $110 a month for full time enrollment and proportionately lower for part time study for eligible children attending college or pursuing non-college courses leading to gainful employment. Courses on the high school level are not allowed, Mr. Fields said.

Age limits are set at 18 to 23 but in certain cases exceptions can be made. For instance, handicapped children who may have to take special training may start at age 14.

At the same time, studies may be pursued after age 23 in special cases, especially for those students who serve with the Armed Forces before their 23rd birthday.

However, 36 months has been set as the limit of entitlement and the age of 31 has been designated as the maximum eligibility age.

Marriage does not preclude educational assistance for those who otherwise qualify.

If the eligible person is of legal age he or she may file application with the VA; if not, the parent or guardian must apply.

The dates during which the enabling illness or disability must have occurred are as follows:

Spanish-American War—April

21, 1898 through July 4, 1902.

World War I—April 6, 1917 through November 11th, 1918. (Those who later served in Russia have until April 1, 1920.)

World War II—December 7, 1941, through December 31, 1946. Korean Conflict—July 27, 1950, through January 31, 1955.

Induction period (peacetime service)—September 16, 1940, until the termination of the Universal Military Service and Training Act.

Delaware Food Market Report

Summer fruits and fresh vegetables are not making news in all grocery stores this week. Supplies are definitely improving and prices are beginning to slip.

New York State is shipping cauliflower now and this vegetable is once again becoming reasonable. Quality is improving also, so check this vegetable when you shop. Broccoli is cheaper and a vegetable which is a good choice this week.

The new crops of Irish potatoes are now reaching the market in volume. Most of the old potatoes are gone or are of such poor quality that it is questionable if they are worth buying. The demand for the new crop is now exceeding supply and prices are higher. When buying the new potatoes, remember they have not been cured and, thus, are much more perishable. With the weather as hot and humid as it is, buy only what you will use within a few days and store in a cool, dry, dark place. If you have the space, the lower part of the refrigerator is ideal. Tomatoes from nearby growing areas are beginning to come to market. As yet, the volume is not great enough to reduce prices much but within a week or so the story should be entirely different. Local tomato crops look good and the time for harvest is almost here.

Fruit is considerably cheaper, also. Watermelons, cantaloupes, green apples, Bing cherries, and plums are all down in prices and quality is excellent on these fruits. Pineapples, peaches, and bananas are also a penny cheaper, so consider all of these when you shop.

The first shipment of Bartlett pears moved out of California last week. Growers report the crop is 48% bigger than the 1963 crop and much better in quality. California fresh plums and nectarines are also in big supply.

The prices on the most tender cuts of beef continue to hold to the advanced levels of the last couple of weeks. These most wanted cuts seem to be the only ones which have gone up, less tender cuts remain quite reasonable and are especially economical when on weekend sale. Remember these cuts can be tenderized by marinating, grinding, pounding, etc., and can be used on kabobs—broiled, etc. It takes time and fore-thought but in return delicious economy cuts of beef can "fill the bill."

Harriers Are Getting the Fever

It has been said that every long distance runner at some time or another says to himself, during a particularly arduous practice or race, "What am I doing here? I need my head examined!" The writer can't answer the question in full but will try to shed a little light on the subject. First like most athletes they want to win recognition and / or glory. The tyro soon sees that hard work brings immediate improvement as he lowers his times steadily and he gradually gets faster. There is also the satisfaction of a job well done and the thrill of pushing the body to even greater feats as the runner becomes a finely-timed machine. This is in other words another example of mind over matter.

There are other plus factors too numerous to be mentioned here. Last year, Harrington High School's cross-country team captured the state championship in both the varsity and junior varsity divisions. Two of the key performers in the varsity triumph, Marshall Hatfield and George Bonniwell have started running already with the official start of practice just a month away. Bob Smith and Dan Hicks are working out also. This kind of dedication paid off last year and may very well put Coach Harold McDonald's Lion harriers in the winner's circle for the second year in a row. The fellow who does more than he is asked to do, often produces when the chips are down.

A couple of high school kids whose fame has already spread around the world, are cross-country devotees. Ryan of Wichita, Kansas, and Gerry Lundgren of Spokane, Wash., came in to prominence this year. Ryan was invited to come out for cross-country after he ran a 2:20 half-mile in gym class. Later, he became the only schoolboy to run a mile in under four minutes. He's done it twice. Just ten years ago, Roger Bannister of England ran the first mile under four minutes. Now a high school junior beats Bannister's best times.

Lindgren had two older brothers who ran cross-country and decided to try it himself. Last winter he electrified the sports world by running two miles indoors in the fabulous time of eight minutes and forty seconds.

Both boys have earned several trips to California, New York City, etc., because of their running prowess. They will receive free college educations and it now looks like both will make the U. S. Olympic team and compete in Tokyo this fall. We would say these kids are making participation in minor sports pay off for them.

Shue to Play in All-Star Game

Every high school has its "Mr. Everything," and at Wilmington High the leading senior candidate for that honor last term was Charley Shue. Shue gets a chance to display the football portion of his talents Saturday afternoon, August 22, at Delaware Stadium in the Delaware All-Star High School Football Game played for the benefit of the Delaware Foundation for Retarded Children.

Shue, a 6-foot-1, 200-pound tackle will be joined on the Blue team by Wilmington fullback Bill Alessandrini. They'll oppose the Golds. A second team All-State choice and first-team All-Conference selection, Shue was a co-captain of a Red Devil eleven, which won 6 and lost 3. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert N. Shue, 2819 West Second Street, Shue was student council president, a member of the National Honor Society, sophomore and junior class president and a Boys' State representative. In addition, he was Wilmington High's representative in Michigan in the NASC conference.

Shue will attend Delaware on a maximum academic grant, but intends to play football. A runner-up in the National Football Hall of Fame Award, he found time in his busy schedule to play basketball as well as football. Alessandrini was the short-yardage man on the Wilmington team. A 6-foot-1, 190-pounder, he was a power runner, accounting for a touchdown and two extra points. A co-captain, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Alessandrini, 500 N. Lincoln Street, he was a member of the student council during his sophomore year.

Barry Fry To Play On All-Star Football Team

Two Bridgeville High players and a Harrington representative who were opponents last season, will be teammates Saturday afternoon, August 22, in the Delaware All-Star High School Football Game at Delaware Stadium. The game is played for the benefit of the Delaware Association for Retarded Children, matching the Golds, from below the southern city limits of Wilmington, against the Blues. All were outstanding senior footballers last fall.

The Gold squad will include Jay Gilbert and Rich Friedel, of Bridgeville, and Barry Fry, Harrington, all from the Henlopen Conference. Gilbert, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Gilbert, Laws Street, Bridgeville, was president of the Varsity Club, a member of the school's fire squad and on the credit list. The 6-foot, 215-pound tackle, is an all-around athlete, winning four varsity letters in baseball to go along with his football honors. Gilbert plans to major in business administration at Wesley College.

Friedel, who ran out of a half-back slot in the Bridgeville offense, was captain of the track team and a football co-captain. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Friedel, Seaford, he tallied eight touchdowns for 48 points during the regular season. Rich makes up in speed what he lacks in size. He is 5-foot-6, and 145 pounds. He will attend the University of Delaware and major in psychology. Friedel was president of the student council and senior class, vice-president of the French Club, a Boys' State representative and the photographer for the yearbook.

Fry, who played in the school band for four years, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fry, Shaw Avenue, Harrington. A member of the school's newspaper staff and the varsity club, the 6-1, 165-pound halfback found time to get in varsity letters in basketball, baseball, track and football. Fry scored 39 points for Harrington, with five touchdowns and nine extra points.

He plans to enter Delaware in September, with a major in either biology or botany.

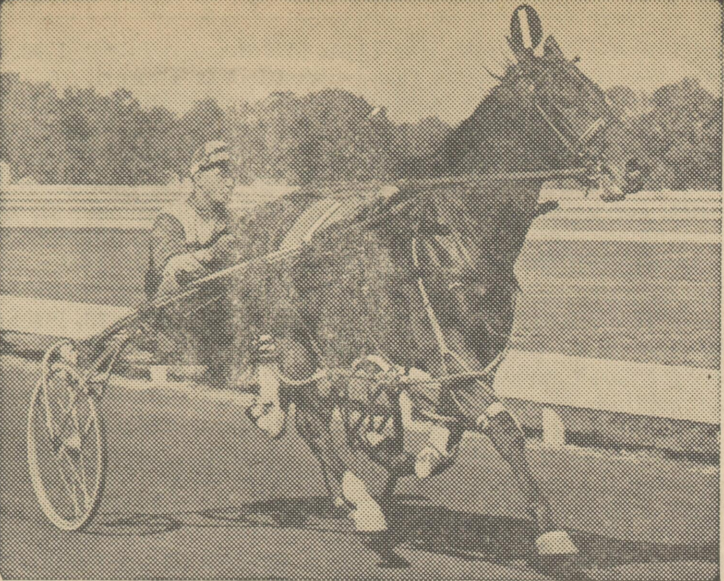

Little League Baseball News

Harrington's Senior Little League All-Star entry was eliminated in the first round play Smyrna-Clayton at Clayton, by the score of 3-0.

Ellis Myer, the Harrington hurler, pitched a tidy seven-hitter and did not walk a man. With perfect support he too, would have had a shutout.

Harrington was held to three hits as Myer, Sam Knox and Dan Smith hit safely.

In Senior League play this

VICAR HANOVER, fastest three-year-old pacing colt in the U. S. A. with a 2:00 mark on a half-mile track, as well as a 1:59.1 mark on a mile oval which he shares with Lopex Hanover, is due at Brandywine Raceway this Saturday night to match steps in the $30,000 (est.) Battle of the Brandywine stake. The Donald D. MacFarlane standardbearer is shown with Billy Haughton.

week, Buck Thompson's People's Bank team defeated the First National Bank, 15-10, and Shaw's edged the Merchants, 3 to 1. Ellis Myer, the winning pitcher, allowed two hits through the first six innings as Shaw's led and on the credit list. The 6-foot, 215-pound tackle, is an all-around athlete, winning four varsity letters in baseball to go along with his football honors. Gilbert plans to major in business administration at Wesley College.

There will be no baseball at Moose Park next week because of the Delaware State Fair. At this writing it appears that the Senior League second half crown is still up for grabs between First National Bank, Shaw's and People's Bank. Since First National Bank was the first half champ, if they finish on top in the second half, the season will be over. If one of the other two clubs grabs second half honors, they will then play First National for the championship. At any rate there will be at least one game played the week after the fair and possibly more.

In Little League games the Legion defeated Rotary, 17-8, and Moose remained undefeated for the year by besting the Lions 14-3. The Little League All-Stars will open their bid for tournament honors by playing at Camden-Wyoming on Thursday, July 23, at 6 p. m. The Moose Sports Committee would like to thank another group for their invaluable aid to the Little and Senior League programs. These people do not have youngsters of their own on any of the teams, but help out nevertheless. This group consists of umpire-in-chief David "Doody" Hands, Jack Dill, Tom Peck, Bob Jester, Ted Layton and Bill Minner. It has been the aim of the Sports Committee to publicly thank everyone who has helped in any way. With this in mind, the Journal has published lists of helpers from time to time. If anyone's contribution to the program has not been mentioned it was an inadvertent omission.

Stake Races Run This Week at Brandywine

Stake racing, that classy brand of equestrian leg work for which horse owners have plunked down thousands to see their animals in the big league, opened Monday night at Brandywine Raceway and will continue throughout the weekend. From East, West, North and South, two and three-year-olds have converged at Brandywine to seek an estimated $110,000 in purse money.

Fans are seeing many of harnessdom's brightest stars on display as well as some just starting to shine in the glittering array of talent.

The nominating rosters to the classics were overflowing with bluebloods, including Triple Crown of Pacing nominees, Big Four of Trotting hopefuls, and many who have become prominent via the national Season's Records listing.

From the agenda Monday was the rich Martha Washington Trot for three-year-old fillies. Two-year-old pacing fillies took over Tuesday night in the 5th annual Pocahontas, and the $20,000 (est.) Gen. George Washington Trot for colts and geldings in Wednesday night's main dish. Among prospects to seek the silver are three national season's champions — Simpson's Ayres, fastest of his class on a mile track in 2:00.1; Hughton's Speedy Count, fastest trotting colt on a half-mile track in 2:02.1, as well as last year's foremost two-year-old trotter, speed-wise, win-wise, and money-wise; and Bud Gil-mour's Gerard Mir, fastest gelding in 2:04.4 on a half-mile track.

Three-year-old pacing fillies go postward in the $20,000 (est.) Betsy Ross stake Thursday night, with national season's champions Please Repeat and Adios Penny heading the nominating roster. The Allwood Stable's Tar Heel daughter is fastest three-year-old filly on a half-mile track in 2:02.2, while Adios Penny is queen of the big oval in her class in 2:01.1.

The $10,000 added Tom Hal Pace for two-year-old colts and geldings will hold sway Friday night. It's been a two-division affair for the last two years, and will likely be split again this time. The stakes record, set in 1962 by Sly Yankee, is 2:02.1.

Rounding out the week of major league action will be the $30,000 (est.) Battle of the Brandywine Pace for three-year-old colts and geldings on Saturday. Principal nominee is the Haughton-trained Vicar Hanover who's sporting a two-minute half-mile track mark this year to head his ranks. Along with 18 other Battle nominees, Vicar is eligible to all three legs of the $300,000 (est.) Triple Crown of Pacing.

It supplies a want that many theatres cannot give. It gives a program of "in person" turns; the glitter of sequins, the flash of silver slippers and the music is "hot from the horn."

Ocean Downs Raceway Meet Begins Tonight

The familiar call to the post will sound at Ocean Downs Raceway for the 16th consecutive year Friday night, July 24, as the nation's only resort harness racing track opens a 32-night meeting under the lights.

Board chairman James C. Robinson said $25,000 has been spent for improvements for the upcoming meeting and everything will be ready when the first patron comes through the turnstiles.

Robinson said he and the other directors have every reason to believe patronage and mutual play will be up substantially over 1963, basing the opinion on the 17% increase in wagering at Rosecroft and the current upward trend at Laurel Raceway now in progress.

Also pointed out were the apparent advantages the new bridge - tunnel connecting Norfolk, Va., with the Eastern Shore will mean to Ocean Downs. Tidewater Virginia represents almost a million people who now will be within 2 1/2 to 3 hours driving time of the race track.

All stable facilities will be filled with more than 600 horses and three nearby tracks have been engaged to handle the overflow of trotters and pacers.

Although most of the horses will come from Laurel Raceway, approximately 100 will van in from Raceway Park, Toledo, Ohio. Others will truck in from the recently concluded Liberty Bell Park, Philadelphia, Monticello (N. Y.) Raceway and The Meadows, near Pittsburgh, Pa.

Last season's driving champion at the shore oval, Bobby Webb, returns with the formidable Rainbow Farms Stable, Taneytown, Md. Carl Wallace, 1962 top driver from Carlisle, Pa., visits the Downs again with an eight-horse stable and Pat Hubbard of Harrington, leading driver here in 1956, will have an even dozen trotters and pacers to drive here.

Austin Thomas, the percentage king of the sulky-sitters at Rosecroft Raceway earlier this year, will be pitting his skill against the 150-odd drivers who will be in action starting tonight.

The most costly improvement is a 12,000 square yard area of hot mix put down in the spectator space around and under the grandstand. Painting has been a big part of the improvement program. The horsemen's restaurant, recreation building, administration building and three other buildings have been repainted. Also slicked up with a new coat of paint are the paddock buildings and all benches.

The racing strip has been regraded and rejuvenated with a thick layer of washed sand under the direction of Bill Davis, the pioneer builder of all-weather dirt harness tracks.

Ocean Downs poured thousands of dollars into a Davis-built all-weather track in 1962 and has not lost a night since.

Beside the weekly invitational features for the increased figure of $1,500, Ocean Downs will present four colt events called the Del-Mar-Va stakes.

Seventy-five 2-year-old pacers remain eligible and race secretary Don Roberts says the purse will amount to more than $8,000 the value raced for last year in the 2-year-old pacing division.

The 2-year-old pace will be raced Friday night, August 7 and the 3-year-old pacing division will feature the night's card on August 8.

The latter event will bring together the Maryland Circuit winners Oak Grove Bill, Nock's Frosty, Afton Perry and Pepper's Way plus Liberty Bell winners Blizzard Hanover, Golden Mine, K-Nora, Brook Adios and several others.

Post time each night will be 8:30 and the daily double will close at 8:20.

Case Introduces Revolutionary New Farm Tractors

Some of the unique features of the Case 1200 Traction King Tractor recently introduced are a new 4-wheel drive system that provides equal power and equal traction to all four wheels of equal size, and the new 4-wheel hydrostatic power steering device gives independent steering control of both front and rear wheels.

The weight of the Case 1200 Traction King tractor is 7 1/2 tons, and the weight is balanced with 60% on the front wheels and 40% on the rear wheels. This balanced weight design provides maximum traction and easy handling under all conditions.

The tractor features a new Case 6-cylinder diesel engine with 451 cubic inch displacement that provides 125 P.T.O. H.P. The engine is equipped with a new turbo charger that runs off exhaust gases and a new 7 main bearing crankshaft. The new alternator electric system provides 24 volt starting system and a 90-gallon fuel tank. The new human engineering operator platform and console controls offer latest in convenience features. An enclosed custom made cab can be equipped with an AM-FM transistor radio, tinted glass, heater, or air conditioning which will be available to finally give Mr. Farmer the last word in personal comfort.

The new Case 1200 Traction King tractor will cut production cost to the "bone" by the use of big capacity farm implements. With use of new multiple implement hitches, the new tractor can utilize 10"-16" plows with the capacity of plowing up to 60 acres per day. The tractor can also handle 30-foot wide disc harrows that can disc up to 130 acres per day. The harrow hitch can be converted to narrow road transport position with little effort on the part of the operator.

The Case 1200 Traction King tractor will be shown at the Harrington State Fair the last week in July.

Early Officials of the K & S Fair, Now the Del. State Fair, Four of A Kind Is A Very Good Hand

Someone must have had a baby: These officials of the Kent & Sussex Fair, now the Delaware State Fair, in its early days, are smoking cigars. In the picture are shown (left to right): The late Ernest Raughley, secretary of the fair association for many years; the late Horace E. Quillen, treasurer, and head of Murphy & Hayes; the late Warren T. Moore, vice president of the association, and the late B. I. (Pete) Shaw, president. This excellent photo was made by the late H. G. Tropea, prominent Milford photographer.

ERNEST RAUGHLEY WAS THE GUIDING STAR OF THE FAIR

Ernest Raughley was the secretary of the Kent & Sussex Fair (now The Delaware State Fair), which takes place from Saturday to Saturday, inclusive, from its inception in 1919 until his death October 5, 1948.

He was its guiding star, and a man of vision who did all the numerous jobs a secretary has to do and served without pay in the fair's earlier years.

The Fair Association has been fortunate in that it had capable men to sustain it thru the years of trials and tribulations.

Raughley's particular hobby, as far as the fair was concerned, was the procurement of entertainment. The late William W. Sharp, Harrington's venerable historian, sharp of mind and keen of wit, said: "When Raughley suggested putting up $5000 for the big vaudeville acts in front of the grandstand, the directors threw up their hand in horror."

But the directors went along. Events of recent years have shown that it takes entertainment of the highest calibre and variety to enable a fair to secure the attendance and revenue it needs to expend. Raughley started the ball rolling here.

The large, new grandstand and GAC promoters have been responsible for an excellent stage show, especially in the past few years, filling the grandstand and space between it and the racetrack. These big-time acts have included The Mariners, Pat Boone, The Lone Ranger, Lassie, The Four Lads, Red Foley, and The Chordettes. Ernest Raughley was born in Cambridge, Md., April 29, 1892, the son of Beniah and Ada Harrison Raughley. He came to Harrington at the age of 2 and attended Harrington School until his father died.

Young Raughley quit school and went to work in the clothing store of one Greenstein, in the present location of the Polan Store at 15 Commerce Street. O. C. (Ora) Sapp & Son, bought out Greenstein and Raughley and Baynard Smith bought the store and continued its operation until it was purchased by Earl Sylvester before World War II. Sylvester sold it to Marion Collins.

On the side Raughley sold insurance. When he quit the clothing business, he opened an insurance agency, the Ernest Raughley Insurance Service which continues under the leadership of his son-in-law, Arnold Gilstad, a director of the fair association.

Raughley was an outdoor enthusiast, an advocate of hunting and fresh water and salt water fishing. He also had some renown as a painter in oils.

In a memorial service at the fair in 1949, George Hamid eulogized: "He (Ernest Raughley) was successful in life because he knew how to play."

First State Offers Many Forms Of Recreation

Virtually every form of summertime outdoor recreation is available in Delaware's resort area advises the Delaware State Development Department in accounting for the increasing popularity of the First State's ocean front and bayside communities.

Swimming, water skiing, crabbing, clamming, boating, and fishing of every variety, according to the state information and promotion agency, may be enjoyed in this area.

The follower of Isaac Walton is particularly content along the Delaware coast for he can join one of the many fishing parties that daily go out from Indian River Inlet or Lewes for deep sea fishing; he can surf fish along some twenty miles of easily accessible beach front or cast into swift moving water off the rocks at the Inlet; he can fish the calm and quiet waters of any one of numerous bays, or he can enjoy fresh water fishing in any one of the many well stocked ponds within just a short driving distance of shore points.

Visitors are also impressed with the neat and clean appearance of buildings, streets and beach areas and by the absence of the crass commercialism found in most larger resorts.

Another factor influencing the popularity of Delaware's oceanfront and bayside communities is their proximity to Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Wilmington—only a few hours driving time, over good highways, from the First State's resorts notes the Development Department.

Young GOP Fails To Endorse Goldwater Ticket

The Federation of Young Republicans of Delaware went home Tuesday night without endorsing the Goldwater-Miller ticket nominated last week in San Francisco.

William S. Hudson, state YR head, said after the meeting he thought an endorsement of the national ticket would have carried without difficulty, but that he had decided there was no need to cause division by having one or two persons object.

The only really political activity at the meeting of about 30 persons came when Hudson announced he was for Sen. Barry M. Goldwater and urged those attending to back him, and William E. Miller, his running mate. The Kent County Chapter is trying to get the two State GOP contenders for governor to attend a panel discussion at Dover July 31.

National Committeeman Harry G. Haskell Jr. and Atty. Gen. David P. Buckson will be invited to the session at the Fox American Legion Post, which will include a crab-clam, feast and dancing.

The meeting was told that "Buzz" Lukens, president of the national Young Republicans, will speak to the Sussex County Republican Committee at the Georgetown VFW on Aug. 10 at 8 p.m.

REDISTRICTING ISSUES GET AIRING AUG. 3.

Gerrymandering and the possibility of holding a special election for the General Assembly are two of the issues to be considered in the Delaware reapportionment case hearing starting Aug. 3.

The three federal judges handling the case which started in 1962, filed a pre-trial order Tuesday afternoon defining issues to be determined at the forthcoming hearing.

The court has been asked by seven northern Delaware residents to declare unconstitutional the apportionment plan enacted by the General Assembly earlier this month and to prevent election of legislators under it.

In Tuesday's order, the court held that the basic issue now is whether or not the 1964 reapportionment acts of the state legislature (S. B. 332 and 336) will cause a "disruption of state election processes" within the meaning of the recent Supreme Court decision that Delaware must reapportion its legislature.

Chief Judge John Biggs Jr. of the Court of Appeals for the 3d Judicial Circuit, said that "disruption of state election processes" is a broad term. It includes, he said, both the question of the constitutionality of the 1964 acts, and whether it would be disruptive to put the acts into effect this year, should they be found constitutional.

Conceivably, Biggs said, the acts might be constitutional, but it might be considered "disruptive" to try to implement the new district lines for the election this November.

In this case, the Supreme Court mandate allows the court to fall back on the 1963 Delaware reapportionment amendment (which the Supreme Court declared unconstitutional) for the coming election while a new plan is worked out for subsequent elections.

Tuesday's court order says the basic issue of "disruption" includes, but is not limited to, the following three issues:

—The status of the so-called "hold-over" senators, who were elected under the old apportionment and whose terms do not expire this fall.

—Whether or not certain election districts in New Castle County have been split, and, if so, how much split districts have been constituted in respect to the number of electors therein. Biggs said this issue includes the question of gerrymandering (whether district lines have been unfairly drawn to favor one political party and, if so, whether this is unconstitutional) and also the question of whether the new districts which cross census enumeration district lines, have equitable populations.

—Whether the laws of Delaware authorize the holding of a special election for seats in the General Assembly. Biggs said the court is in a "box of time," with legislative candidates required to file by July 31 and primaries scheduled for Aug. 15.

The order, he said, "does not foreclose any other issue or issues the parties, or any of them, may desire to present . . ."

It also states that the plaintiffs' motion to implement the mandate of the U. S. Supreme Court will be treated as a motion for both preliminary and a permanent injunction against the 1964 reapportionment acts.

The defendants have through July 27 to file their answers. A hearing will be held commencing at 11 a.m., on Monday, Aug. 3.

Tuesday's order was filed after the three-judge district court panel — headed by Biggs and including Chief Judge Caleb M. Wright and Judge Caleb R. Layton III of the District Court — had met in closed session with attorneys for the seven plaintiffs, for the public officials who are defendants, and for the Committee of 39, which has been admitted to the case as a friend of the court.

Vincent A. Theisen and Victor F. Battaglia represented the plaintiffs; Frank O'Donnell, former Judge Daniel L. Herrmann, N. Maxson Terry, James H. Hughes III and Maurice A. Hartnett III represented the state in various capacities; and Bruce M. Stargatt represented the Committee of 39. Herrmann, a former Superior Court judge, is a new face in the proceedings. He said afterward that he is associated with O'Donnell in representing the New Castle County Department of Elections.

T. Brinton Holloway Played Important Part in Fair's Growth

There can be no mention of the success of The Delaware State Fair and, for that matter, the Kent & Sussex Racing Association, without bringing up the name of the late T. Brinton Holloway, secretary, and general manager of the fair and secretary and assistant treasurer of the racing association.

He died June 28, 1961 following surgery, in Wilmington.

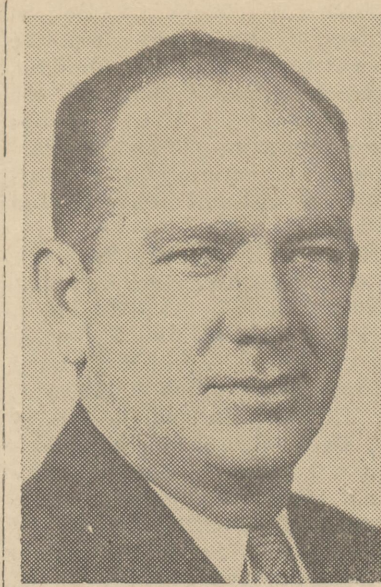

T. Brinton Holloway, or Britt, as he was commonly known, had come from a family long identified with the Kent & Sussex Fair, as it was then called. His father, the late Jack Holloway, and his sons worked at the fair and, when parimutuel harness racing came to Harrington in 1946, the Holloway family was identified with it.

We remember seeing Britt at his first job, that of selling racing programs. Within a couple years, however, the fair and racing associations required a full-time manager. The fair association advertised for one and Britt was selected.

He performed his duties faithfully and assiduously 13 years. One of his remarkable qualities was his cheerful disposition and his ability to get along with people. Also, he was never one to harbor a grudge. Thus as one can readily see, his traits made him invaluable in dealing with individuals, at the fairgrounds and race tracks, where tempers can easily become volatile.

The success of The Delaware State Fair is due to the integrity and initiative of its founders, and those who followed them, and the Kent & Sussex Racing Association. The fair is a non-profit organization.

The success of the fair has been tremendous since World War II. While its growth must be attributed to all who took part, and the patronage of the public, its chief progress took place under the late B. I. Shaw, president, and Jacob O. Williams, also president. The later-named individual died in June, 1958.

T. Brinton Holloway

While the fair association issued the orders, it was up to Britt Holloway to see they were carried out. Thus, we see the following plant improvements: A water system costing approximately $40,000; a swine building at around $18,000; a three-quarter mile track costing some $10,000; a grandstand, rest rooms, and state building at a total cost of $354,000; a poultry building, and a restaurant costing some $70,000.

Britt has mentioned that one could not stand still and that one should continually strive to progress. He felt this way about the fair and the racing association.

He was prominently identified with affairs relating to his job and for civic betterment.

He was a director of the United States Trotting Association for District 8, and a past president of the Clover Leaf Horsemen's Association. He was also an active member of the Chamber of Commerce, particularly on its Industrial Committee, past president of the Rotary Club, past president of the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company; past president of the Harrington Board of Education, and an associate member of the American Legion.

He was also a director of The Peoples Bank, a member of the Delaware Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission, and a member of Temple Lodge No. 9 A.F. and A.M., and the Tall Cedars of Lebanon.

In his work at the fairgrounds, he was succeeded but not replaced.

A View of The Delaware State Fair Grounds

First President of the Fair

Charles D. Murphy, one of the founders of The Delaware State Fair, was its first president, serving from 1919 to his death in 1928.

Former state senator, wealthy lumber and flour mill owner, railroad director, financially interested in a diversification of enterprises, Charles Dure Murphy was born at Farmington, March 18, 1880, engaged long at the business of manufacturing wagons and carriages, and, later, having become interested in the lumber business, engaged in that direction exclusively, in Farmington and Harrington. His death took place in July, 1928. The former state senator's mother was Georgie H. (Sheldrake) Murphy, who was born in Chester County, Pa.

After he attended the public school of Farmington and the Conference at Dover, and Pierces Business School in Philadelphia, Murphy in 1903, at 22, became associated with his father's lumber business in Farmington, engaging in it both as manufacturer and wholesaler. In 1911, he moved with these interests to Harrington and became head of Murphy and Hayes, Inc., lumber dealers. Hayes lived at Andersontown, Md. When he died, Murphy purchased the balance of the company.

During World War I this company furnished an immense quantity of lumber to the government. It also specialized in mine props, and furnished a large portion of the mine props used in Pennsylvania operations. Railroad lumber, too, was also supplied in large deliveries.

As the years went by, Murphy acquired tracts of timberland and sawmills in other centers of Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, and adjoining states.

Murphy was treasurer of the Harrington Milling Company, flour mill owners; president of the Kent County Motor Company in Dover; president of the Miller Blythe Company, general contractors, New York City; director of the Lewes Fisheries Company, at Lewes; director of the Corsica Sand and Gravel Company, Centerville, Md.; director of the Baltimore, Chesapeake, and Atlantic Railroad Company, of the Delaware Railroad Company, and of the First National Bank of Harrington.

He was also a member of numerous Masonic groups. Politically an adherent to the principles of the Democratic party, Murphy was elected to the State Senate from his district in 1919 and again in 1920. During his latter term he was president pro tem of the Upper House, and was on several occasions mentioned as candidate for governor.

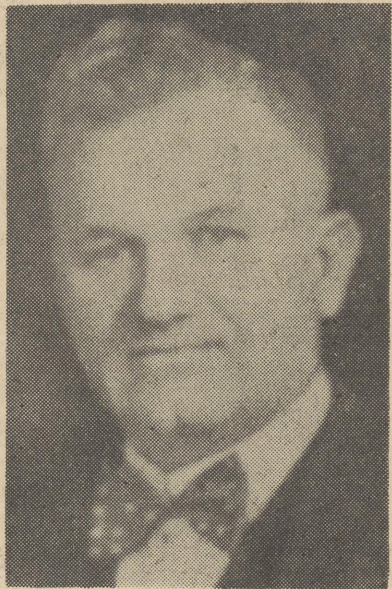

In 1924, he was alternate delegate to the Democratic National Convention in New York, and served thereto on the state and county committees. He was a member of the Democratic League of Wilmington.

In religious adherence, he was a communicant of the Episcopal Church.

He is said to have employed more men in his enterprises than any other figure of contemporary activity south of Wilmington.

It was his pleasure to start on long automobile drives, to visit his many properties, the mills or one of his large 12 farms, at 6 a.m. Accompanied by only his chauffeur, he took breakfast en route. Ted Rifenburg, formerly employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad, was one of his drivers.

First President

Mr. Murphy married, in October, 1918, Elva Bennett, of Milford, daughter of George and Harriett (Short) Bennett; and of this union were the following children: Charles Dure Jr., born August 8, 1920, and Louise A. Murphy born March 17, 1924. Charles Jr. is in the lumber business in Milford. Mrs. Murphy is now Mrs. J. Gordon Smith of Dover.

Mr. Murphy died, as the result of a fall down a stairway, on July 21, 1928, at the age of 48. Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. B. T. Thompson, Dover, assisted by the Rev. E. H. Collins, of Asbury Methodist Episcopal (now Asbury Methodist) Church, Harrington.

B. I. (PETE) SHAW WAS SECOND PRESIDENT OF THE FAIR

B. I. (Pete) Shaw was the second president of The Kent & Sussex Fair (now The Delaware State Fair), serving from 1929 until his death in October, 1947. He was a man with the common touch and fewer individuals had more friends.

At the time of his death of a heart attack, he was an established produce broker. He was born here Feb. 4, 1881 the son of William Jr. and Matilda Shaw. William Shaw was a salesman in the fertilizer industry.

Benjamin Irving Shaw was educated in the local schools, graduating from high school in 1900. He then served as a clerk for four years in the hardware store of Joseph Callaway and four years in the hardware store of N. J. Harrington.

Mr. Shaw then served as postmaster under Theodore Roosevelt and President Taft. After retiring from federal service, he formed a partnership with A. C. Creadick to engage in wholesale lumber business. He also became a member of the firm of Shaw and Marvel, (Fred), carrying on an extensive wholesale business and shipping of fruit and produce to all important cities of the East.

(Editorial note: B. I. Shaw was a man of rare integrity. We heard the late J. Harvey Burgess, former publisher of this newspaper, say that if Shaw made a verbal agreement in February to pay a certain price for tomatoes in August, he would keep his word, even if the market was lower.)

He was vice president and director of The Peoples Bank at the time of his death.

He was also prominent in Republican politics, serving as state auditor in 1938-40, and 1946-48. He served eight years

Kent Planning Board Must Wait For Funds

Kent County's new Planning Commission will have to proceed without funds—temporarily, at least—until it becomes a legally constituted agency.

State Planning Office representative Robert H. Paslay Tuesday night explained to the embryo commission that it cannot expect funds until the General Assembly recognizes its existence.

The commission, which later will include at least one member from the Milford area, is also ineligible for federal funds.

Sen. Allen J. Cook, D-Kenton, was elected temporary chairman of the commission, which will meet next at 8 p.m., Aug. 18, at the Kent courthouse.

John A. Bivens Jr., state planning director, authorized Paslay to extend an offer of aid, but Bivens' office also will be able to contribute little in the way of monetary help for the new group.

"We can make materials available," Paslay said, "but additional help will be needed in terms of professional planners."

Legislative recognition and monetary aid would come in January at the earliest, Paslay told the four members present Tuesday night. Two were absent for the first meeting of the group appointed last week by Levy Court.

He said enabling legislation will be presented to the General Assembly in January to establish zoning and planning in both Kent and Sussex Counties.

"Meanwhile, until you receive General Assembly sanction," Paslay said, "you can get a head start by assembling materials, talking to county leaders and familiarizing yourselves with the planning process."

Paslay and Kent Agricultural Agent George K. Vapaa discussed the role of planning with the commission.

Paslay emphasized the commission's role as an advisory committee to the Levy Court. He said the enabling legislation, in addition to providing funds, also will spell out the duties of the Planning Commission.

"You have no legislation prerogative, and no police power," Paslay said. "The legislation will strengthen your advisory capacity, but it will never give you these powers."

Paslay warned against the eventual growth of a separate planning commission and a separate zoning commission.

Levy Court Commissioner Edward Kelly told the commission that separate planning and zoning was not the intention of the Levy Court.

"We're trying to avoid the pitfalls of other areas and combine the two functions," Kelly said. "Separate planning and zoning has led to conflict, and we want to avoid the possibility of such conflict in Kent."

Paslay said Delaware is the only state he has worked in where the two functions were separated.

"We want to stay away from duplicating any given system," Paslay continued. "Our eventual goal is working out a tailor-made setup to fit Kent County's needs, incorporating the best of any and all plans."

"You have to view the county as a whole," he continued. "You all represent particular interests, but these interests should not be overemphasized. You also have to be realistic and rational about your goals," he said.

Paslay predicted that the commission will have little effect on Kent County in 1970.

"The die is cast for 1970," he said, "and what will be here by then is for the large part already planned. Your influence might begin to show by 1980, however."

Registration at U. of D. Second Session, July 25

Registration for the second session of the busiest summer in University of Delaware History will be held Saturday, July 25, from 9 a. m. to noon in Carpenter Field House.

There are 35 courses offered in the second session, including four courses in education covering just three weeks. The other 31 courses will start July 27 and run until Sept. 2, or about 5 1/2 weeks. Last year's second session offered only 11 courses, so a larger registration than the 390 who enrolled for the second session in 1963 is expected Saturday.

All second session courses will meet in the morning. Included are courses in economics, history, accounting, mathematics, literature, biology, geography, chemistry, political science, psychology, philosophy, music and languages.

The language courses are continuations of courses offered in the first session, so that students can earn a full year's credit during the summer.

Final examinations for the first session courses were completed July 22.

Two Del. Girls Delegates to Girls Nation

Saturday, July 25, 1964, will be another Big Day in the lives of two Delaware girls, Diane R. Brower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Brower, of 608 West Spruce Street, Seaford, and Linda Flood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elga L. Flood, of 3017 Centreville Road, Wilmington.

The first Big Day was when they were elected as Governor and Lieutenant Governor of Girls' State on June 25th, at Dover, the American Legion Auxiliary's training program in City, County and State Government held annually at Wesley Junior College and Legislative Hall.

On Saturday, July 25th, they will board the "Congressional" for Washington, D. C., where they will represent Delaware at Girls' Nation, the American Legion Auxiliary's school in Government, held annually at the American University there.

At the Station to see them off, in addition to members of their families, will be Mrs. George F. Foster, Department President, Miss M. Elizabeth Bane, Department Girls' State Chairman, Mrs. Charles T. Allen, Department Publicity Chairman and others.

Each girl delegate to Girls' Nation is accorded the status of Senator from her State and while in Washington they meet with and are taken to lunch by the Senators from their state.

As the state delegates are not permitted to room together, they have a better opportunity to meet the other 98 delegates from the remaining 49 states. Later, following election of the Girls' Nation officers and appointments to the diplomatic staff, they are given the opportunity to meet their counterparts in Government.

When the girls return to their respective states and take up their studies as seniors next Fall, they will have a wealth of knowledge of how our national government is run and just what it means to be a part of the key office holders in our nation's capital.

Miss Dianne R. Brower, a Seaford High School senior, campaigned and won her position as Governor of Girls' State on a platform of redistricting and immediate re-apportionment according to population. She is a member of the American Foreign Exchange School Program, and has been waiting to go to Germany as an exchange student when a home is found there for her. She is a member of the Math Club, president of the American Field Service Club and has varsity letters in hockey and basketball. She plays in the county and state bands, attends St. John's Methodist Church at Seaford, was a girl scout and works as a volunteer in the mental hospital at Stockley. She was nominated for the aNational Council of Teachers of English Award and took part in the Delaware Science Symposium. She is considering a career in teaching or the Foreign Service.

Miss Linda Flood, a senior at Alexis I. duPont High School, Wilmington, served as the newspaper editor at the school, was a member of the Civic Forum League, C.S.P.A., color guard and the choir. She was part of the Pilot Study Group for the State of Delaware in Communication; president of her church youth group and vice-president of the Youth Council at Emanuel Baptist Church, in Wilmington, where she does volunteer social work and group singing. She took a course in Parliamentary Procedure and will take History and Political Science next year. Her experience as Lieutenant Governor of Girls' State will aid her at Girls' Nation.

Both girls will return to Wilmington on Saturday, August 1, on the "Congressional."

Delaware will also be represented at Girls' Nation by Mrs. Lawrence R. Alfele, Jr., of 1016 Dettling Road, Woodland Heights, Wilmington, the Middle Atlantic Area National Girls' State Chairman, who will serve as Distinguished Guests Chairman and office manager at Girls' Nation. As Distinguished Guests' Chairman she will welcome Margaret Chase Smith and other distinguished guests.

Miss Virginia Lee Tribbett became the bride of Thomas L. McFarland in the First Baptist Church, Elkton, Md., June 28.

Miss Tribbett is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tribbett, of Rising Sun, Del. Mr. McFarland is the son of Mrs. Margaret McFarland, Harrington.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Howard Van Sice. Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Webb, of Camden.

D.R.B.A. Making Progress on All Fronts, Miller Says

Delaware River and Bay Authority is making progress on all fronts, William J. Miller, Jr., director said this week.

Continued heavy traffic over Delaware Memorial Bridge set another three-day weekend record for the second straight time on Friday July 17 through Sunday, July 19.

Traffic the past weekend was 20,000 vehicles higher than a week ago, and surpassed the previous week by nearly 4,000 vehicles. The old mark, prior to July 10-12, 1964, was 158,307 set during the first weekend of July 1961. The one day high total still remains at 63,190, set on July 1, 1961.

Meanwhile General Manager Nolan C. Chandler placed the flagship S. S. Delaware into service at the Cape-May ferry at 6:40 a. m., Monday morning. The Delaware and Cape May will keep the present ferry schedule in operation, while the Cape Henlopen, smallest of the four vessels acquired, will play a stand-by role.

The two vessels now in operation have a joint capacity of 224 vehicles and 2400 passengers. It is believed this will relieve the waiting lines that have been almost constant since ferry service began on July 1. A fourth vessel, the S. S. New Jersey will join the fleet soon.

Meanwhile dredging operations at Crow Shoal continue to widen the channel to 500 feet with a depth of 25 feet of water. Sunday's unfortunate grounding of the Cape May, according to Chandler, was not due to the channel depth, but by winds and tides that veered the vessel southwest of the channel.

The grounding took place at 8:40 a. m., just as the tide was going out. The vessel was moved by tug as the tide came back in around 1 p. m., Sunday. There were no injuries.

Filing Date Set By Democrats

A Kent Countyman who announced his candidacy for governor Tuesday was not given an opportunity to speak at a meeting of the Democratic county committee Tuesday night.

Robert H. Reed, Dover businessman, said he "had a couple things I wanted to say to the committee."

Reed said he decided not to ask for recognition when it was not offered by Chairman Vernon B. Derrickson. Reed is a member of the committee.

He would not elaborate on what he had planned to tell the committee, saying he would hold a press conference, probably next week.

The committee agreed to accept filings from Wednesday to July 31 for the county and legislative offices to be filled by the electorate in November.

If any contests develop for the officers or for delegate and alternate seats to the Aug. 19 state convention, a primary election will be from 3 to 5 p.m. Aug. 15. The Kent County offices to be filled this year include three Levy Court seats, sheriff, coroner, register of wills, comptroller and prothonotary.

The county plans to elect three state senators and five representatives under the reapportionment law signed last week by the governor, but still being tested in federal court.

The committee set 5 per cent of the total salary of an office for a full term as the filing fee to be paid by those who seek election. In the event of a primary contest, the unsuccessful candidate will have half of the filing fee returned.

Derrickson also announced that Democratic election headquarters are now open on Loockerman Street, Dover, adjacent to the Bayard Hotel. He said Saturday will be the last date for persons to register who wish to vote in the Aug. 15 primary.

He said the registration from June 15 to July 10 produced a total of 418 Kent voters of whom 196 are Democrats, 155 Republicans and 67 declines.

Appointments Announced By V. F. W. Com.

If experience assures good performance then 1964-65 should be a highly successful year for the Department of Delaware, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Anyhow, appointments and committee assignments announced this week by V. F. W. State Commander Clement J. Nevin, include seven men who have previously served as department commander plus other outstanding veteran leaders from all parts of the state.

Commander Nevin has re-appointed Past Department Commander Herbert Willis as service officer and Quartermaster Francis A. Sidowski as adjutant. Willis has been department service officer since June 1944 while Sidowski has served as quartermaster-adjutant for the past several years.

Past Department Commander David S. Hugg, Milford, has been reappointed public relations officer and historian, and Past Commander William A. Mazzetta, Wilmington, has been named chief of staff. Past Commander Miles L. Frederick, Wilmington, will assist with the publicizing of V. F. W. activities.

George A. Seidle, a past commander of Gen. W. W. Atterbury Post No. 3420, Wilmington, has been named department inspector.

Department Senior Vice Commander Ronald J. Riale, Wilmington, heads up the membership committee, and Junior Vice Commander James E. Wilgus, Selbyville, is the new ways and means chairman.

Karnis, Wilmington, chaplain; Dewitt W. Miller, Wilmington, surgeon; Charles E. Mulholland, Newark, immediate past department commander.

Also the following district commanders: Robert Elliott, Wilmington, District No. 1; Leon C. Deardorff, Claymont, District No. 2; James Sullivan, Milford, District No. 3; and Milton Messick, Seaford, District No. 4.

Local Merchants Put on a New Face

Although errors are always regrettable, constructive criticism is usually rewarding. The Retail Merchants Committee has been advised that in listing the business places on their map last week, they omitted Dr. Vincent Lobo, Bridal Creations by Marian, Bohr Spreader Service, Thompson Metered Gas, and Hoffman Insurance.

The sales event last weekend seems to be an incentive for the merchants to cooperate in promoting Harrington as an easy shopping area. Sam Short, treasurer of the committee reports that liberal contributions were received from more than half of the business places.

Already many businesses have decorated for the Fair. On the highway, D & R Trailers have pennants flying, Kirby and Holmway are displaying horse equipment, H-Grade Dairy has a display of miniature autos, W & D Furniture has used the patriotic colors and flags, Rob-Wan Shop features all the Exhibit Department of the Fair, Star Lite Shop has combined the history of 45 years with the fun of the present-day Ferris Wheel, Pensupreme used Delaware State Blue Hen with State Flower, Flag, and colors, Polan's has a display of vegetables and other exhibits, Short's Grocery has used place mats of the Fair, Harrington Lumber is also putting on a new face.

At the committee meeting August 4, the merchants plan to arrange something special for the Back-to-School season and the Firemen's Convention.

Throngs Enjoy Programs at Rehoboth Beach

Throngs continue to enjoy the delightful weekend programs at this seashore resort and from every indication the next few weeks will bring exceptional entertainment.

Scheduled this Saturday night is the concert by the Second Army Band of Fort Meade, Maryland, under the direction of Captain Hal J. Gibson. This musical organization was a distinct hit last season according to President C. W. Martin of the Rehoboth Beach Chamber of Commerce.

On Saturday, August 1, the popular Chuck Laskin Orchestra of Wilmington, will make its second appearance of the season to give a "different" musical program to vacationers. All of the concerts at the boardwalk bandstand are free to the public.

Hundreds of Delawareans are expected to crowd Rehoboth on Nur Temple, Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine will bring their entire complement of uniformed groups to town for a parade and band concerts.

The Nur String Band, the Patrol and other units in brilliant uniforms will be reviewed by Governor Elbert N. Carvel, who is also Potentate of the organization this year. The concert at night will feature several of the Nur units.

On this same Saturday, August 8 the one-day Atlantic Coast Surf Casting for Accuracy Tournament will be held from noon until 5 p. m.

Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce with the assistance of the P. Ballentine and Sons Brewing Company and the Garcia Corporation, there will be awards in a number of classes of this popular pastime.

The original announcement that the casting tournament would be held on August 1 has been corrected. The competition is definitely on August 8, and will be in two sections; spinning and conventional surf casting, with points to be scored on the accuracy of casts. There will be prizes for individuals and club winners.

Individual prizes will include Garcia fishing tackle, a rod and reel are the first prize in each section; second prizes are reels and third prizes are rods.

The Sul Murphy trophies will be awarded to the surf casting clubs each of the two categories—spinning and conventional. The top three scores in each of the categories determines the club winner in each.

The tourney works in this fashion: A series of five targets will be placed on the sand near the water's edge; The surf caster will stand in front of the boardwalk and cast for these targets which will vary in size and distance. Each caster will use a pyramid sinker.

A scorekeeper near the targets will determine the scores on a point system which will be recorded on a scoreboard to be seen by spectators on the boardwalk.
