

DEADLINE FOR FILING FOR PRIMARIES

The filing deadline of both parties for legislative and county offices has passed.

With the dust barely settled from a last-minute rush of candidates, a series of hot Aug. 15 primary battles are in view.

Republicans, however, lack candidates in many slots. In Kent County for example, they drew only one contest—for Levy Court—along with vacancies including several for the legislature.

Here is a rundown on the completed filings for Kent for the State Senate, House of Representatives, and county offices:

House
25th—Democrats have a three-man race between two incumbents—Majority Whip Rep. Glenn W. Busker, of Smyrna and Rep. J. Reynolds Pratt, of Clayton, and another Smyrnan, B. Carroll Slaats, former chairman of the State Harness Racing Commission. No Republicans filed.

26th—William B. Mitten Jr. of Dover, a contractor, filed unopposed for the Democratic nod. No Republican.

27—Rep. Maurice N. Jarrell, R-Dover, filed for a new term Friday in the 27th Representative District of Kent, and will oppose John P. Kelly, who filed earlier for the Democratic nomination in the same district.

28th—Another Democratic contest. Rep. H. Dawson Shulties, of Willow Grove filed at the last minute to oppose Rep. Wallace P. Wooten, of Frederica. Shulties had announced for the Senate but shifted to run for the House again in the light of the redistricting situation. No Republican.

29th—Maurice Adams, of near Harrington filed for the Democratic nomination. No Republican candidate.

Senate
13th—Democrats have a three-man race between two senators, Allen J. Cook, of Kenton and Leon E. Donovan, of Harrington, and one representative, George H. Exley, of Harrington. There are no Republicans.

14th—Rep. James D. McGinnis, of Dover is the only Democrat here, and Sen. Walton H. Simpson, of Camden, the only Republican.

15th—Another Democratic contest, with incumbent Sen. George A. Robbins, of Milford, opposed by Jacob M. Zimmerman, a farmer of near Dover. No Republican filed.

County Offices
The one Republican contest is for the Levy Court nomination in the 1st District where former Commissioner Fred B. Carey, of Dover, is being opposed by Ralph McGinnis, also of Dover.

The seat is held by Democrat James B. Messick, Dover lawyer, who filed Friday. Messick defeated Carey for the seat in 1962.

Also filing Friday was Democrat Edward F. Kelly, of Rising Sun, for the Levy Court seat he now holds from the 3rd District.

The Levy Court seat in the 2nd District is being sought by R. Winfred Hughes, Hartly, Democrat. The incumbent there, Carl Pretyman, of Kenton, has filed for the Democratic nomination for sheriff. Irving H. Garton, of west of Dover, filed at the last minute to run against Hughes. He is a former representative from the 4th Kent County District.

Another Democratic battle is for comptroller. Raymond Welch Sr., the incumbent, is being opposed by Mrs. James T. Wilson and Harry S. Hanson. All three are of near Harrington.

Other Democratic nominations for county office include H. Clifford Clark, the incumbent, for the post of register of wills; Farnk R. Hayes, also an incumbent, for the post of prothonotary and William C. Torbert, another incumbent, for the post of coroner.

Mrs. Bertha Killen Shulties
Mrs. Bertha Killen Shulties, 84, died at her home at Greensboro Friday.
She is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Emory Voshell and Mrs. Medford Carter, both of Dover; Mrs. Virgie Meredith, Felton; Mrs. Hazel Kruger, Georgetown; Mrs. Myrtle Minner, Greensboro; four sons, Clifford, Howard and Sheldon, all of Greensboro, and Winder, of Dover; 45 grandchildren, 29 great-grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren; three brothers, Ira and Herbert Killen, both of Felton, and Ely, of Wyoming; two sisters, Mrs. Ida Walls, Templeville, and Mrs. Charles Segelton, Sparrows Point.

Services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Rawlings-Boulais Funeral Home, at Greensboro.

FILING PASSES

HEADS MARCH OF DIMES

— Frank J. Horty, general manager of Delaware Memorial Bridge will serve as campaign chairman for this year's March of Dimes for New Castle County Chapter, National Foundation.

Horty to Head March of Dimes Campaign

Frank J. Horty, general manager of Delaware Memorial Bridge will serve as campaign chairman for the March of Dimes this year was announced today.

Joseph H. Brewer, chairman of New Castle County Chapter, National Foundation, said he was delighted that Horty had accepted the assignment. C. B. Harris served in a similar capacity for the past several years.

"Mr. Horty is well known to everyone and his civic interest over many years has been outstanding. We are happy that he can devote time from his busy duties at Delaware Memorial Bridge to help us with this important mission", Brewer declared.

Being chairman of a campaign is no novelty for Horty. He served in similar capacities for The Delaware Chapter, American Red Cross and the Cancer Society. He is a former industrial chairman of the Community Fund and for the past two years has chaired the Wilmington Community Christmas Committee "toys for tots" drive.

A former president of the Wilmington Department of Public Safety and former Jury Commissioner for New Castle County, Horty is also prominent in the work of Lions International. He has served in many capacities including the director on the International Board.

He received the first award made by Delaware Chapter, National Association of Christians and Jews, "several years ago" as he puts it, for his activity in the brotherhood movement.

A graduate of Wilmington High School and Wharton School of Business of the University of Pennsylvania, Horty resides at 2207 West Newcastle Street.

The New Castle chapter has maintained headquarters in the North American Building, Tenth and Market Streets, Wilmington, but will move to 1303 Delaware Avenue August 15. Their present quarters must be vacated to make way for a new Farmers Bank of the State of Delaware building.

Kent Woman Held After Liquor Raid

Two liquor violations were charged to a Harrington woman early Saturday after state police and agents of the State Alcoholic Beverage Commission raided her East Street home.

The woman, Emma Cornelious Howard, 48, was given a hearing before Magistrate Clarence Dyer, Harrington, where bond was set at $1,000. She posted bail of $500 each on charges of selling liquor without a license and possession with intent to sell, and was released pending trial in Kent County Court of Common Pleas.

Oswald J. Thomas

Oswald J. Thomas, 74, a retired farmer of near Wyoming, died Saturday at Kent General Hospital, Dover.

He is survived by two brothers, Isaac and Roger, Felton, and three sisters, all of Clayton: Mrs. May Ingram, and the Misses Viola and Elizabeth Thomas.

Services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Berry Funeral Home, Felton.

Council Considers Placing Curfew On Teenagers

The City Council Wednesday night considered placing a curfew of 11 p.m. on Harrington teenagers, at the request of the Police Chief Frank Rogers.

Rogers said he has encountered numerous young girls around 13 and 14 years of age "running around Harrington at all hours of the night, up to 3 a.m." He said he has taken several into custody and called parents, but the parents act like it's "almost too much trouble to take them home."

"The parents' show resentment to the police," Rogers said, "because they have a guilty conscience for not taking care of the girls themselves."

Mayor Fulton J. Downing suggested council take time to study the curfew idea. "We don't want the people to think Harrington's going wild," he said.

City Manager Alfred Mann and Rogers are to discuss the matter and Rogers said he will begin telling the teenagers to leave the streets at 11 p.m.

Back to School Children Should Be Physically Fit

It won't be long before the school. Now is the time to make sure that they are in good health and ready for another nine months of learning by having them see your family doctor for a physical examination.

This physical examination should include tests of sight and hearing. It often happens that gradual changes in vision and hearing occur over the summer months with no one being aware of it. Many a child has been considered a slow-learner when his inability to get good grades in school has been due to his not being able to hear the teacher or his not being able to see the blackboard clearly. A young child will not realize what is wrong and so he can become baffled and frustrated over his inability to keep up with his classmates. This can cause him to have emotional problems.

If your child wears glasses, it would be well to have them checked to make sure his prescription is still correct. Are your children properly immunized against the various contagious diseases that they are likely to be exposed to during the coming months? Perhaps they need boosters to protect them against smallpox, tetanus, whooping cough and diphtheria. Most schools require a vaccination certificate upon registration.

If your child is planning to participate in vigorous sports on

X-Rays Determine Breaks and Sprains

X-ray is the only sure method for determining whether a bone is broken. Many people think if you can move your fingers or toes, the arm or leg is not broken. However, since the fingers and toes are operated by the tendons and muscles, the ability to move them does not mean an unbroken bone.

There are, however, certain indications that might mean a broken bone. They are as follows: a deformity of the limb, such as an angle or bend, a swelling of the part, and punctured or torn skin near by a crushing type injury.

When there has been some type of injury which has caused pain and swelling, use cold packs. Cold will lessen the circulation, thereby keeping the swelling at a minimum. Heat is the wrong thing to use, since it will bring more blood into the area. This increases the swelling and causes more pain, because the circulation has been damaged by the

COUNCIL GIVES HIGHWAY DEPT. GO AHEAD ON STREET WORK

The City Council, at its regular August meeting Wednesday night, signed a resolution approving an agreement with the State Highway Department for improving Delaware Avenue and Center Street.

The project calls for reconstructing, resurfacing, and widening when necessary. Delaware Avenue would be resurfaced from Clark Street to the City limits.

Center Street would be improved from Delaware Avenue to West Street. That portion of Center Street from the railroad

KILLEN CITES REASONS HE SHOULD BE CANDIDATE

Ernest E. Killen, of Harrington, an announced candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, this week cited reasons he should be the next Governor.

In a release, he says: "Several months ago I announced in public meeting my earnest desire to be Delaware's next Governor. I promise then, and now reaffirm, to wage a vigorous, dignified campaign."

Continuing, he stated he regretted he did not enjoy the support of several local political leaders and that he felt quite

Merchants Plan Back-to-School Activity

At their regular meeting on Tuesday, the retail merchants committee planned an August Back-to-School special for the week of August 21 through August 29. Special advertisements in three downstate newspapers will stress the convenience of shopping in Harrington. All local business places are cooperating in an effort to create more interest in shopping at home.

Merchants will again compete for a prize winning window display. The most unusual back-to-school display will be judged on August 22.

Local Man Wins Internat'l Honors

Leon Porter, Duraclean of Kent and Sussex, won 8th place in the 1964 Duraclean Customer Service Contest. Mr. Porter was in international competition with Duraclean specialists throughout the United States, Canada, and 20 other countries throughout the world.

A Duraclean dealer in Kent and Sussex Counties for five years, Mr. Porter is a past president of Harrington Rotary Club, Retail Merchants Association, and a member of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. He and his wife, Lola, have five children.

Approximately 300 Duraclean dealers and guests, representing the world-wide organization of on location carpet and furniture cleaners, attended the five day convention including classroom sessions covering latest developments in the six home services offered by Duraclean specialists. Approved techniques and procedures for application of the unique Duraclean absorption cleaning process were demonstrated and practiced.

"Duraclean specialists such as Leon Porter," Duraclean President Grant Mauk, stated during the award presentation, "are true representatives of their communities. Their hard work and desire to serve their fellow citizens set an example for all of us to follow. Every businessman can learn from these contest winners the value of continuous sensitivity to customers' wishes and requirements. Superior services and products aren't enough. The businessman who combines good service with a desire to exceed his customers' expectations wins the respect and admiration of his entire community."

"To win in this contest," Mr. Porter says, "I had to depend largely on old customers to help me exceed my business quota. Without their support in the form of repeat business and their recommendation of our services to their friends I couldn't have placed in this type of competition."

By close cooperation between carpet and furniture manufacturers and retailers and then by applying what we learn from industry leaders, our own headquarters personnel, and other Duraclean specialists," Mr. Porter predicts, "our firm will be even better qualified to perform superior services to the community."

Annott To Run; Opposed

A Republican scrap developed Friday for 30th District Representative seat with the filing of incumbent John H. Annott and John Keller.

Annott, who is completing his second term in the state House of Representatives, said he is running in the elongated 30th created by recent redistricting laws.

Annott resides at Staytonville on a Harrington rural route.

The district runs from Delaware Bay to the Maryland line and takes in Milford, Greenwood, Lincoln, and Ellendale.

He is opposed already by Keller, of Milford, a veteran of two terms in the House in the past decade, said County GOP chairman Eugene Bookhamer.

strongly and sincerely the rank and file, the party workers, recognized that his experience as a successful candidate in three statewide elections, each time winning each of the four political subdivisions and each time increasing his margin of victory, will mean much in November.

Killen was referring to his winning the election for state auditor, a post he now holds, three times in a row.

Getting back to his statement, he emphasized "although the bosses disagree, the majority of the workers want a strong candidate to lead our ticket, unhampered by restricting commitments of any kind, an active, proven vote-getter, a veteran capable of fair day-by-day political decisions and, most of all, a campaigner who wants the Democratic nomination for Governor."

In closing, he promised a night-and-day campaign to carry the Democratic message to every citizen from Delmar to Claymont and from Dickerson Creek to Corner Ketch.

Study Shows Five Major Causes of Traffic Accidents

Analysis of vacation time traffic accidents shows five major causes recurring. J. James Ashton, manager of the Delaware Safety Council, said this week.

Appealing to Delaware motorists to "take heed of the unfortunate experience of others as reflected in accident statistics," Ashton said the major causes are speed, alcohol, vehicle shortcomings, fatigue, and failure to adapt to weather conditions. Accidents are carefully investigated, and the resulting facts should serve as guides to prudent drivers, he suggested.

The safety Council executive called attention to the summer "Slow Down and Live" campaign and said it is aimed at one of the major causes of accidents.

"Because many vacationists try to cover too much territory in too short a time, speed is an important factor. About three out of ten drivers in fatal traffic accidents are violating a speed law at the time of the accidents," he said. "This is particularly true of one-car accidents, and Delaware has had many of those this year."

"People on vacation are likely to be in a holiday mood and frequently their pursuit of a good time includes drinking. Unfortunately, too many of them don't realize the danger of driving after drinking. In nearly one-third of the fatal traffic accidents a driver has been drinking," Ashton continued.

"A car with worn tires, inefficient brakes, or any other mechanical shortcoming can bring about a serious accident. About five per cent of the cars involved in fatal traffic accidents are found to have one or more unsafe conditions," Ashton reported.

"Driving while fatigued is a foolish practice indulged in by some vacationers who won't take time out to get sufficient rest. About one out of thirteen drivers involved in fatal traffic accidents are found to be in a physical condition that could be a contributing factor in the accident. Many accidents result from tired drivers falling asleep."

"Failure to adapt their driving to weather conditions brings grief to many vacation drivers. In about one of six fatal accidents the weather is rainy, snowy or foggy. Rain is present in about one-half of the bad weather cases."

"Don't turn your vacation dream into a nightmare," Ashton concluded. "Let safety guide you all the way along your highway holiday. Drive to arrive alive!"

25,000 Jam Del. State Fair For Last-Day Record

Almost 25,000 persons jammed the Delaware State Fair Saturday, establishing an attendance record for the day and helping set an eight-day fair record.

George C. Simpson, general manager of the fair, said he was "very well pleased," not only with the record crowds but with the records number of persons who exhibited.

Last year 102,000 persons attended the eight-day event. This year's total was 111,462. The previous one-day high was around 21,000, on the last day of the 1963 fair. That mark was equalled, however, last Tuesday, Children's Day.

Individual entries were up 15 per cent over last year, Simpson said, with more representation from the northern part of the state.

He said the result was that some facilities were taxed and expansion will be necessary to keep pace with the entries and exhibits.

As an example, Simpson noted that four new horse barns were built for this year's 45th annual fair but they were still short of space for horses and ponies, with entries 35 per cent higher than a year ago.

Also up this year was the number of commercial exhibits. Fair officials praised two lavish ones, sponsored by the Diamond State Telephone Co. and the Chevrolet Division of General Motors.

The weather was mostly very good, Simpson said, even though there was rain on the opening day and some on Tuesday. Weather on the final Friday and Saturday, however, was called "great."

Saturday night the auto racing, always a crowd drawer, brought a huge attendance and hundreds of persons stood in the infield, after the grandstands were filled and standing room was used up.

Simpson also noted the 1,400 to 1,500 senior citizens who attended the fair Thursday. He said Senior Citizens Day began three years ago with 300 present and has skyrocketed in interest and attendance.

Wesley College to Hear Lecturer

C. A. Weslager will be a visiting lecturer at Wesley College in the fall evening session. The author of nine books dealing with Delaware history, as well as a number of historical essays, Mr. Weslager is a widely recognized authority and specialist on Delaware Valley culture.

Mr. Weslager's course is one of twenty-seven courses being offered at Wesley College in the fall evening session.

Newark Girl Describes Trip To Ceylon

(Editor's note: Miss Edith DeLong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. DeLong, 56 Sunset Road, Newark, is spending six months in the island country of Ceylon as a U. S. representative in the International Farm Youth Exchange program. A college graduate and biological technician, she is one of several hundred young people from 43 countries participating in this year's exchange program, designed to promote better understanding among people of many nations. Following is Miss DeLong's second report on her visit, which began last month.)

Ceylon has two monsoon seasons, known as the maka season (the big monsoon) and the yula season (the lesser monsoon). It is now the yula season. Today there have been six downpours of rain. Tropical rains last about an hour with usually not too much wind but a heavy, steady downpour of water.

People vanish off the streets into shops in towns, but in the country you simply keep walking with or without an umbrella. Most people carry umbrellas during this season, for there are very few days when they aren't needed. You don't mind being outside because the rain isn't cold and in a few minutes the sun has dried the streets; only the mud on the country paths and roads is there to remind you. We have become accustomed to them. The people were quite amused when we first gazed out at the torrents in amazement. The jungle is very quiet and humid right after a storm.

Today we walked up high mounds of rock to three ancient Buddhist temples. These were built around 1200 B. C. when the king of Ceylon resided in Gampola where I am staying. The temples were built high above the villages to be the highest place around and keep the devils from the people and to assume their reverence and its holiness.

I will tell you about the most spectacular of the three. After walking along dirt roads around a high hill with jungle going down to paddy (rice) fields bright green at the valley, then across the valley with tea bushes ascending to the top of the steep hill, we arrived at the pinnacle of rock. The last 300 feet was climbed by stairs chiseled from the stone.

Atop were a massive blue temple and several side temples, worshipped by the Buddhists. There were a giant Botree (present at each temple, a shoot from the tree under which Buddha attained enlightenment) and a silver dome with a steeple-like spire in which is a relic of Buddha or one of his disciples. Around the dome were small shrines in which were statues of Lord Buddha. In front of each was a table containing flowers, coconut oil lamps brought by worshippers.

To enter the temple we removed our sandals. The saffron robed monk opened massive 25-foot-high doors. The archway in front of the doors was guarded by human-like figures carved out of stone. The doors were covered by paintings done in white, grey, green and silver shades.

Inside I was awe struck by the mammoth statue of Lord Buddha which sat above an ornately decorated altar. As in all temples, his two most trusted disciples stood at his side. The altar contained many similar statues of brass, marble, wood and brass bowls, urns and jugs of flowers which filled the room with a sweet scent. Above the replica were painted a thousand Hindu gods. As we left, my host brother and sister knelt, touched the ground and folded their hands in prayer in respect to the priest who had provided us with the opportunity to see this ancient and beautiful place of worship.

I am now with my first host family. It is a poultry farm in the hills of the central region. Their main interest is hatching 9,000 eggs a month for sale as day old chicks and 1,500 eggs a day for table eggs. The hens are housed in double deck with floor units holding approximately 900 birds per unit. The breeders are kept in deep exterior units, in 300 bird capacity.

This establishment was started from an intense interest but no knowledge of poultry. Eight years intensive research and constant development have put this farm among the finest in Ceylon.

Contrary to the expectations, it is not in the country. It is on the main village street. The houses extend back from the main building on what used to be a dump yard. In the main building is a modest office, a 12,000 egg incubator, a sitting room, kitchen, a dining table and bedrooms.

My host sister, Komala de Silva, just returned from the U.S.A. and a six month tour of Europe. She was a 1963 IFYE delegate to Illinois and California. She and her brothers and sisters completely manage and run the farm and feed business. They sell feed which is especially prepared for them.

My family is not dependent upon the monsoons for their living as the rice cultivators are. These farmers are the majority of Ceylon. The fields are flooded now and the paddy is bright green. It ought to be a good harvest if all goes well.

157,000 Blue Shield Members Convert To Plan B

Over 157,000 Delaware Blue Shield members have improved their surgical-medical benefits by converting their membership from the low level, Plan A, to the high level, Plan B. The new Plan B program was first made available this past spring and provides benefits which are, in many instances, 50% above the standard coverage.

H. V. Maybee, managing director of Group Hospital Service, told the trustees at their July 27 meeting that the magnitude of this conversion program has taxed every resource of the Delaware Blue Cross and Blue Shield Plan for the past several months. Because handling 157,000 membership and billing charges caused such a heavy work-load in all departments of the Plan, the usual spring enrollment period did not take place.

Other Delawareans will have their opportunity to apply for "Plan B", the higher cost, higher level surgical-medical plan, at an enrollment period this fall. Mr. Maybee announced that this Plan B contract and other contracts are being made available to eligible Delawareans in a week-long period from Sept. 28 through Oct. 2, 1964.

The trustees were told that membership in the Blue Cross hospital plan also continues to grow. Over 5,000 members have been added since May to bring Blue Cross membership in Delaware to over 312,000. The rate of growth is approximately the same as that in 1963 and is attributed to the expansion of employment in Delaware and to the addition of new groups.

The Blue Shield surgical-medical plan has added over 2,500 members since May to bring its membership to over 284,000.

Reporting on the financial condition of Group Hospital Service, Maybee said that because of the strenuous effort to control hospital utilization and through the cooperation of members and hospitals and doctors the Plan has been able to operate on a break-even basis.

Cape May-Lewes Ferry Traffic Ahead of Estimates

Traffic figures for the first full month of operation on the Cape May-Lewes Ferry system ran well ahead of engineers' estimates, according to Nolan C. Chandler, general manager.

At the end of the first month's operation Chandler said the ferry line transported 27,215 vehicles across Delaware Bay for a daily average of 878.

Passenger volume on the Delaware River and Bay Authority operated facility also continued high. A 31-day total of 104,911 passengers was carried, for a daily total of 3,384. Many of the passengers, Chandler explained, were vacationers who took the 16-mile bay crossing between New Jersey and Delaware as a Day's outing.

Chandler pointed out the fact that the ferry system is still under construction and that only two of the Authority's bay liners were put into operation on July 1, prior to completion of the facility. He said this was done to accommodate the summer resort areas on both sides of the bay. He said a full four-vessel service will start as soon as additional boat slips are completed.

A check of license plates turned up vehicles from 47 states and four foreign countries. The license count disclosed vehicles from the following points of origin:

New Jersey, 5840; Pennsylvania 4008; Maryland, 3170; Delaware, 2079; New York, 1669; Virginia, 1647; Florida, 725; Washington, D. C., 529; North Carolina, 317;

Connecticut, 313; Ohio, 309; Massachusetts, 297; Canada, 261; South Carolina, 123; Georgia, 118; West Virginia, 99; Illinois, 91; California, 77; Michigan, 68; Alabama, 58; Indiana, 56; Texas, 52; Rhode Island, 51; New Hampshire, 40;

Art Course Set for Fall Session

Lon M. Fluman, Jr., recently appointed instructor in art at Wesley College, will conduct a course in painting at the College evening session this fall. The course begins Sept. 23, and carries three credit hours.

Mr. Fluman, before coming to Wesley, was art supervisor in the Montgomery County (Pa.) Area Schools from 1959 to 1964. He held exhibitions of his art work in Williamsport, Bloomsburg, Pa. and in Boston, Mass., and has had illustrations published in two national magazines.

In the course painting and composition fundamentals will be developed to include particular emphasis on developing personal forms of painting expressions. Human figure studies, and trompe l'oeil exercise, and investigation of impressionists and other recent painting techniques will be investigated.

KENT COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF ELECTIONS

Letter to the Editor

As life long workers for the Democratic Party we are curious to know the reasoning behind the "Draft Terry" movement.

We don't feel the office of Governor is an honorary position and therefore if the Chief Justice had announced his desire to become a candidate for Governor we workers would have then asked him:

1. How qualified is he to manage the fiscal affairs of the state?
2. What will his efforts be regarding the welfare of our farmers and our small business men—in fact—what does he know of their problems?
3. What are his views on county zoning and the establishment of recreational areas?
4. What efforts would he make to create a more desirable business climate and attract new industry?
5. What plans has he to upgrade educational and vocational opportunities for our citizens?
6. What is his stand on a merit system for state employees?
7. What are his opinions with regard to a minimum wage law and right to work legislation?

And if elected will he be able to cope with the give and take essential for cooperation with the Legislature

And Finally
 Is he willing and able to perform all the duties and obligations of a full time Governor or will the powers of his office be entrusted to those who are so eagerly seeking the nomination in his name.

We feel these questions are pertinent and important to ask of a man who for twenty five years has been disassociated with all such policy making responsibilities.

For Killen

There will be a primary Aug. 15 to select not only candidates for the county and local district slate but also, for delegates and alternates who will attend the State Convention.

Since Ernest Killen lives in our town, it seems that the very least we could do, would be to elect delegates to support him. He has, after all, won three consecutive state-wide elections—which will help by the very fact that he is familiar to everyone.

Six years' experience as our State Auditor qualifies him as much, if not more, than either of the other candidates.

Then, there is the matter of local pride, not as important a factor perhaps, but it does exist for all of us.

Selecting the delegates who will support "Ernie" is the only way that we can help—I appeal to you to do so.

The following delegates and alternates are pledged to his support:

DELEGATES—
 Benjamin Hughes, Thomas Peck and Franklin Hendricks.

ALTERNATES—
 Franklin Derrickson, Mary Brown and Anna Lee Hitchens.

Fence Talk

With George Vapaa

My last call for the Farm and Home Field Day on Wed., Aug. 12, at our Georgetown Substation Farm. Everyone is invited to attend this annual event. Many farm families come to see the research work and to talk with our specialist staff.

We have tried to mail out individual family invitations to every Kent County farm. We have posters scattered around the towns to invite our urban friends.

Plan to take a guided bus tour around the plots. There are many interesting trials — sugar beets, new vegetable and fruit varieties, numerous spray treatments for example.

I have always been fascinated with the logarithmic spray applications. A special machine increases the concentration of the spray down the row so that the researcher can learn the most effective rate of application.

Then too, we have a special spray mulch applicator for certain vegetable crops and a host of other machines.

Best of all we will have a Delmarvalous fried chicken luncheon topped off with all the free watermelon you can eat in the afternoon.

Farm tours are very much in the picture during the dog-days of August and early September.

A two day state dairy tour to the Leesburg, Virginia area on Aug. 18 and 19. We will use a bus and the cost for the two days should be less than $20.00. But we'll need reservations for those who would like to go.

Charles Blendt, of Smyrna, is president of our State Soil Conservation Supervisors. His group will attend the northeast area meetings at Baltimore from Aug. 9 to the 12th.

Bill Henderson, our Sussex Agricultural agent, is shaping up a one day beef tour of farms in the state early in September. This will be capped with a beef barbecue at Sam Sloan's farm near Millsboro.

A scorched earth policy by alfalfa producers may develop into the most effective measure in saving the hay crop from the alfalfa weevil.

A North Carolina farmer had part of his alfalfa field burned over by a brush fire. This spring, it was noted that the scorched alfalfa had superior growth and about 80 per cent less weevil damage than the unburned portion of the field.

A flame treatment hasn't been perfected yet, but this type of control in some form seems to be effective. The flame treatment is used during the dormant season of January and February, and is aimed at destroying the weevil eggs.

The weevil has completed its primary egg laying season by January. The flame, applied in concentration, destroys the eggs that have been laid on the alfalfa stubble.

Research with the flame treatment will be pushed with the hope of developing a definite method of application, thus eliminating insecticides completely.

No matter how fast you are, you cannot move fast enough to save yourself when a tractor flips backwards. Time and motion studies show that a rearing tractor gives you just two fifths of a second to get out of the way. That's hardly enough time to realize you're in danger.

An operator's best protection is to guard against doing anything that would cause a tractor to tip over backward. The recommended practice of hitching below the tractor axle line is not in itself assurance against tipping backward. Even then, racing or gunning the engine when the drive wheels are mired deep is certain to cause trouble. The forward climbing motion exerts a terrific lifting action on the front part of a tractor.

When the tractor drive wheels are mired—it's much safer to back out. Don't take a chance, back out.

Dairymen, go slow in switching from a system of raising your own to buying herd replacements.

This, in essence, is the message contained in the results of a recent research study in North Carolina. The project compared the two systems of herd replacement, and it also made a comparison of different feeding programs for replacements.

In the study it was assumed that heifers ready to calve should be purchased at prices of $450. The comparisons showed that it was always cheaper to raise heifers where the milking herd size was constant.

Only when the herd size was being expanded was it more profitable to purchase heifers and use the released labor on the milking herd.

The researchers figured the estimated cost of raising heifers weighing 1,159 pounds at 27 months of age with 14 feeding systems.

The least cost system was 25 pounds of milk replacer, 293 pounds of calf starter, 1,327 pounds of grain and 13 1/2 tons of silage at a cost of $144.

The research indicates that the price of silage would have to double before it would pay to substitute pasture and hay for some of the silage.

Dairymen may want to consider whether, under their own conditions, they can reduce cost of herd replacements. Many dairymen can profit by switching to a limited grain-silage system for raising heifers. Other producers may wish to devote more time to raising replacements.

SHD To Adopt Emblem for Slow Moving Machines

The Delaware State Highway Department will be the first state highway organization to adopt for statewide use the new slow moving equipment emblem.

J. James Ashton, manager of the Delaware Safety Council announced the Highway Department has agreed to use the emblem which is being promoted as an important new safety device by the Council and the University of Delaware's Extension Service. The Highway Department, which operates mowing machines and road graders, and farmers, who operate tractors and wagons, are the main users of slow moving vehicles for which the emblem is designed.

The object is to prevent accidents—mainly read-end collisions—which occur when faster moving vehicles suddenly come upon slow moving vehicles, traveling 25 miles per hour or less. The emblem, developed at Ohio State University, is readily visible for one-sixth of a mile and is easily identified once drivers are informed of it. The new emblem was introduced at the Delaware State Fair and advertising and publicity will be used to acquaint motorists with it.

It is a 14-inch equilateral triangle of fluorescent yellow-orange with a reflective red border. It is to be mounted on the rear of slow moving vehicles to give a warning at a glance.

Research at Ohio State University preceded the introduction of the new emblem. Over 700 collisions between ordinary motor vehicles and slow-moving vehicles were analyzed. It was found that most such accidents happen in daylight and that the flashing lights used as warnings on slow vehicles are not sufficiently visible in the daytime and are confused with turn signals at night. Also, flags were found to be ineffective and red reflective tape was of little value in daylight.

The result of the study is a unique emblem of a shape easily identified and with the most visible color available for daylight use—a fluorescent yellow-orange.

Ashton praised the Highway Department for adopting the emblem and putting it on slow moving equipment that most used public roads. "As the largest single operator of slow moving equipment in the state, the Highway Department—always safety conscious—is showing leadership in accident prevention by using the new emblem, which we believe will become a nationally-accepted symbol."

Navy Needs Lawyers

The chief of Navy personnel has recently announced that a number of openings are available during Fiscal Year 1965 in the Law Specialist Officers program. In addition to holding a law degree from a school accredited by the American Bar Association, applicants must be members of the bar of a Federal court or the highest court of a state, Puerto Rico or the District of Columbia.

Upon successful completion of a 16-week officer candidate indoctrination course at Newport, R. H., selectees are appointed Lieutenants (junior grade) in the Naval Reserve, with a date of rank 18 months prior to graduation. They are then ordered to the U. S. Naval Justice School for seven weeks indoctrination in the Uniform Code of Military Justice and Naval legal procedures. On completion of Justice School, Law Specialists are assigned duties as legal officers at Naval stations and staffs throughout the world.

The Navy lawyer has an opportunity to engage in the practice of law on a worldwide basis and to become experienced in international law, admiralty, tort, administrative, taxation, property law and many other facets of the law. In providing legal assistance to Navy personnel and their families, the Navy lawyer runs the gamut of general office practice and the legal problems which such a practice entails in a moderate community.

Further information may be obtained from Lieutenant Commander W. Y. Sneed, Officer Programs Officer, U. S. Navy Recruiting Station, 13 South 13th Street, Philadelphia or from Frank J. Markert, CS1, USN, Keith Building, State and Lookerman Streets, Dover.

Blackbird Damage Controls Display At Field Day

Blackbirds are causing heavy economic damage to field crops and vegetables throughout Delaware. Farmers have been hard-pressed for a way to control these pests. In some parts of the state damage has been so severe to corn, that growers have been forced to switch to soybeans or some other crop that is less susceptible to damage. No simple solution is available.

John T. Linehan and Allen Stickley, U. S. Department of Interior biologists stationed at the University of Delaware have been working on the problem for several years. They are quick to admit that they don't have a simple answer to the problem, but they have developed some techniques that are effective.

The findings of their work will be displayed in a special exhibit at the University's Farm and Home Field Day at the Georgetown Substation on August 12. Visitors will have an opportunity to see preventative devices, and some of the newer research that is under study.

The work of this team of biologists is not aimed at destroying blackbirds. Rather they are seeking ways to control the damage caused to economic crops. Attempts at controlling the birds range from the simple scarecrow to such elaborate measures as noise making devices, toxicants and reproduction inhibitors.

So far protection seems to be the best control. At Field Day growers will see corn plots developed to partially withstand bird damage. The plots were covered with wire netting, then blackbirds were placed in these cages to feed on the different varieties. The corn was then rated on its resistance to damage.

Also on display will be a large assortment of nets, firecrackers, automatic exploders, air horns and chemical repellents.

Other features of Farm and Home Field Day will be tours of the experimental plots on the substation farm, exhibits of fruits and vegetables under research and a "sick plant clinic" where visitors can have ailing plants diagnosed by a team of plant experts. Two mechanical tomato harvesters will be demonstrated on a new tomato variety developed at the substation especially for mechanical harvesting. A chicken dinner will be held at noon in the substation grove.

This year marks the 20th anniversary of Farm Field Day. More than 1,000 visitors attended last year's event, and plans are being made for a larger attendance this year.

Teachers, Students Assist in U. of D. Ag. Research

Eight Delaware high school science teachers are spending eight weeks this summer at the University of Delaware's School of Agriculture, assisting scientists in their research work.

Their projects range from evaluating the characteristics of ornamental plants to assisting in the research for better methods of controlling poultry diseases.

The teachers, studying under grants provided through the S. Hallock DuPont Research Participation program, will receive graduate credit for their work.

The program offers participants an opportunity to assist in basic research in the Agricultural Experiment Station as well as to vary on specific experiments themselves, according to Dr. Morris S. Cover, director of the experiment station.

George Stewart, of Seaford, a teacher at Laurel Central high school, is assigned to a plant pathology project for the fundamental study of diseases in soybeans and clover. Also working in that department is Edwin D. Stowell, Jr., of Newark, a teacher at Christiana High School, who is studying the relationship of various sugars to the growth of fungi.

In the department of entomology, Edward J. Kedda, 2104 Lynch Dr., Eastburn Acres, Wilmington, a teacher at Stanton Junior High School, and Claude G. Tisinger, Jr., 374 Gunning Bedford Dr., Dover, a teacher at Caesar Rodney high school, are assisting in research on the role of predators of insects. Kedda is studying a group of small flies to determine if some of them feed on mosquito larvae. Tisinger is studying spiders found in the Delaware salt marshes.

Research in the department of animal and poultry science includes the propagation of viruses for identification and study of their biological characteristics, as well as the identification of bacteria and parasites causing disease. High school teachers assigned to the department are William D. Mort, Route 1, Greenwood, a teacher at Bridgeville Consolidated School, and Edward Malin, 104 Bestville Rd., Wilmington, a teacher at Wilmington High School.

Francis M. Gavas, 1902 Miller Rd., Arden, a teacher at Claymont High School, is assigned to the department of horticulture where he is evaluating the characteristics of various ornamental plants. Also assigned to that department is William M. Howlett, Route 2, Greenwood, a Bridgeville High School teacher. His project is to determine root activity and water loss from plants and soils as a test of the effectiveness of anti-transpirants and sprayed plastic mulches.

The high school science teacher program in agriculture was first initiated at the University in 1960 and until 1962 was financed by the National Science Foundation. In 1963 the teacher training program was discontinued at the University of Delaware, but the School of Agriculture and Agricultural Experiment Station preserved the program through the S. Hallock DuPont fund. Dr. Cover explained. Again this year the fund is supporting the high school Science Teacher program and has the eight participating teachers.

Dr. Cover says the program gives the participants an opportunity to work in on-going research, providing them first hand information on new techniques and updating knowledge.

The School of Agriculture and Agricultural Experiment Station also participate in the National Science Foundation program for high school students. Financed by the foundation, the program offers the students an opportunity to work with scientists in their research programs. Of the 35 NSF student apprentices on the University of Delaware campus, seven are enrolled in the program in the School of Agriculture.

Corn Growers Disprove Adage

August 12 at the Georgetown

Knee-high by the Fourth of July" used to be a rule of thumb that corn growers respected. Today most Delaware corn is "eye-high" by that time. But in spite of the progress made in getting corn plants up and growing, there still exists a problem of dry weather right at the critical stages in plant growth.

Illinois research indicates that two inches of rain above what is normally received during the critical tasseling period could mean eight bushels more corn per acre. The seven days before and the seven days after pollen shedding have the greatest effect on corn yields. The next most critical time is the ear-filling period that occurs two weeks after pollen shedding. An inch of rain at this time could increase yields another 3.6 bushels per acre.

The low water-holding capacity of Delaware soils compared to Illinois makes any rainfall relatively more important here in Delaware, according to Dr. William H. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware. "Two inches of rain on our sandy soils will make an even larger difference in corn yields than the eight bushels per acre increase found in Illinois."

Visitors at the University's Farm and Home Field Day on Substation will have an excellent opportunity to see first hand the effects of a lack of moisture at this critical time. One of the experimental plots at the substation was designed to compare natural moisture conditions with irrigation. Ed Wisk, research associate at the substation, says the difference is painfully obvious. Prior to the crop-saving rain of July 28 there was considerable doubt that the non-irrigated corn would produce anything. Even now he expects a difference of as much as 40 bushels per acre between the two plots.

Mitchell says rain affects corn yields less when it comes 15 days and a month before pollen shedding than at and after pollen shedding. An inch more rain than average at these later periods boost yields by 2.9 and 1.5 bushels respectively. Research shows that additional rain during other periods boosts yields by 2.9 and 1.5 bushels respectively. Research shows that additional rain during other periods of the plant's development apparently doesn't directly affect yields.

N. Y. Driver Wins Harrington Race

Don Gillette, of Brewertown, N. Y., won the 10-mile feature auto race at the State Fair here Saturday before an overflow crowd of 11,162 paid customers. It was the largest Saturday race attendance in the fair's history.

Because of accidents—the race had to be restarted three times—there was no official time for the feature attraction, in which Lou Johnson, of Wilmington, the only Delaware entry in the field of 18, placed third.

The first accident occurred when Bill Brown, of Denville, N. Y., wrecked his car when it plowed backward over the fence. On the 11th lap, Earl Hallquist, of Sidney, N. Y., went over the 12-foot fence on the second turn, but was able to return to the race. In another accident, Dick Mealy, of Trenton, N. J., jumped out of his flaming car coming into the homestretch. The fire department standing by put out the flames, but Mealy's car was in no condition to continue.

In all three accidents, the drivers escaped uninjured.

In the four-mile qualifying heats, the victors were: first heat: Red Reigel, Leesport, Pa., 3.04.5; second heat: Bill Brown, Denville, N. Y., 3.35.81; third heat: Cookie Osterhout, Albany, N. Y., 3.34.90.

In the semifinals for non-qualifiers in the three previous events, Charley Ingalls topped the field in 4:46.85.

the right side of the brain, for the southpaws they are concentrated only in the left side.

Most children show a definite preference for using one side or another and, if, after encouragement, your child continues to prefer his left hand, do not force him to change. He can be trained to be just as skillful and coordinated as the righthanded individual.

Once you are sure your child is lefthanded, help him to use his left hand constantly for all activities. He will have greater emotional stability by doing this than he would have from using his left hand for certain things and his right hand for others.

Schools and industry are now providing desks, work benches, tools, and sporting equipment for the lefthanded. Being lefthanded even has certain advantages in some fields—baseball for example.

When you think there might be a compound fracture, which is a combination of a broken bone and broken skin, it is even more important to see your doctor as soon as possible. With an open wound there is the possibility that dirt and infection can reach the bone and cause osteomyelitis or infection of the bone. The longer the time interval before having such an injury treated by your doctor, the greater are your chances of getting osteomyelitis which is very difficult to cure.

When you are in doubt about a broken bone, be sure to see your doctor, you will have the part x-rayed. It may be a chip has been broken off a large bone, or a torn ligament, or a bad sprain, all of which should have professional treatment to promote the best possible healing in order to get a strong joint again.

Brandywine Raceway Notes

Cardigan Bay, eight-year-old pacing monarch from Down Under, and his nibs Overtrick, hottest Yankee four-year-old around, have become the first to be invited to match steps in Brandywine Raceway's $25,000 General "Mad" Anthony classic this month and all indications are they will accept.

The race, richest of the season for the Free For All Class, is by invitation only and will go on Fri., Aug. 14.

Cardigan Bay, who has had American racing buffs buzzing since he stepped off the plane in March, has been fulfilling beautifully the wishes which purchaser Stanley Dancer had for him when he plunked down $100,000 in New Zealand. The bay gelding by Hal Tryax, an exported American sire, has won $114,250 in 9 races since mid-May. He's had 5 victories, 2 placements and 2 shows, and gave Yonkers Raceway a new track mark of 1:58.1, winning from the 7 post on July 16.

Only horses who have beaten him in this country are Overtrick, who outdistanced him twice—in the $50,000 mile-and-a-half International May 21, and in the $25,000 Dan Patch Encore, July 24; Mighty Tide, in a $25,000 FFA Handicap after he, Cardigan Bay, suffered an interference break at the start of the race, June 16, and Henry T. Adios in another $25,000 mile on July 4.

Cardigan Bay became the swiftest pacer ever to tour the Anzac in December of last year when he blazed a mile against time in 1:56.1. He had a few wins under his belt when he came to this country and his actual season's record for both American and Down Under performances reads 15 wins, 3 seconds and 3 thirds in 23 starts, season's earnings of $165,885.

Dancer, who trains and drives him most of the time, purchased Cardigan Bay in New Zealand on behalf of I. W. Berkemeyer, of New Milford, N. J., who has a 50% interest, and four others, including his wife who has a 12 1/2% interest.

Overtrick, Mrs. Leonard J. Buck's speedball who has 15 career triumphs under the miracle mile, is regarded one of the most likely pacers to succeed Adios Butler as all-time world speed champion (1:54.3) and Henry T. Adios as pacer's leading money-winner (close to $650,000).

The Solicitor son, handled by John Patterson, already has a 1:57.1 world mark for three-year-olds on a half-mile track (1963); a 1:57.2 world mark for four-year-olds on a mile oval, which, naturally, is a 1964 season record; he's won $407,483 during his illustrious career, $158,521 of that this season alone in 11 races, 8 of which were triumphs; and he re-set the season's four-year-old record on a half-mile track, winning the Dan Patch Encore at Yonkers in 1:59.1 less than two weeks ago.

BACK TO SCHOOL

one of the school teams, be sure to tell your doctor. He will make certain there are no physical conditions which might be aggravated by such activity. A doctor's certificate is usually needed for a student to go out for the team.

A dental check-up is important also. The dentist can fill small cavities and often prevent the loss of a tooth because of decay.

Championship Sailboat Races Set For This Weekend

The Indian River Yacht Club will host Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 8-9, to the Atlantic Coast Lightning Sailboat Championship Races.

Fifty or more racing craft from a 15-state area are expected to compete for regional honors and the right to compete for national honors.

Competition will consist of three races with the first scheduled at 10:30 Saturday morning. The second race will get underway at 2 p.m. Saturday and the third and final race of the two-day meet will get underway at 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

Among those expected to compete are Harry Sindel, of Fishing Bay, Fla., defending champion and former U. S. Olympic representative, and Robert Seideman of Westmont, N. J., who once finished second in world championship competition.

Ten Delawareans, members of the host club and the Rehoboth Bay Yacht Club, will be among the competitors. Included are Bill Parks, Rehoboth Bay Y. C., who won the Dixie championships, beating Sindel, at Baltimore Yacht Club July 18-19; Bob Purnell, of the host club, former Dixie champion; Bob Tunnell, prominent Georgetown attorney and sportsman.

Honors will be determined by a points system and trophies will be awarded those finishing first through fifth in final standings.

Indian River Yacht Club may be reached by preceding on U. S. Route 113 to Millsboro, and then east on Route 24 to a point near Oak Orchard where directional signs will guide the motorist to the Yacht Club facilities.

Additional information may be obtained from Kenneth R. Pfister, P. O. Box 669, Dover.

Asbury W.S.C.S. Notes

With the first fall meeting of the Asbury Methodist Church Women's Society of Christian Service less than a month away, Mrs. Floyd N. Nasser, president, has been busy with plans for the year ahead.

Three executive meetings have been held during the summer months to arrange for two banquets and conduct business that could not wait until fall. One banquet has already been held, the second will be served on Sept. 11 at noon in the Collins Building. Circle leaders will be calling their members for help with this event.

The first fall meeting will be held on Tues., Sept. 1 at 7:30 in Collins Hall. Mrs. Fulton Downing will be leader for the program and will present Miss Joyce Downing, Miss Frances Downing and Miss Marianne Clarke. These three will report on their attendance at the Girls' School of Missions this summer. Rebecca Circle, with Mrs. John Curtis, leader, will be the hostess circle.

Ferry Service to Add Third Liner

A third bay liner will be added to the Cape May-Lewes ferry run this weekend, it was announced by officials of Delaware River and Bay Authority this week.

The record-breaking crowd on Saturday and Sunday which brought 2,536 vehicles and 9881 passengers across Delaware Bay on two vessels, caused the decision to add a third for the remainder of the summer season.

The S.S. New Jersey will arrive in Lewes early Friday from Norfolk and will be integrated into the current day-time ferry schedule to provide faster service for patrons, officials said.

With the arrival of the New Jersey, formerly the Virginia Beach of the Chesapeake Bay fleet, all four vessels purchased by the Authority will be available on Delaware Bay. The S. S. Delaware and Cape May have been making the regular runs. The smaller Mv. Cape Henlopen is on a stand-by basis.

Meanwhile, General Manager Frank J. Horty, of Delaware Memorial Bridge reports that another weekend record was smashed Friday through Sunday, July 31-Aug. 2.

The 178,513 crossings makes the third time this year that a weekend record has been broken. This occurred first on July 10-12, when there were 164,078 crossings, topping the weekend mark of 158,307 set the first weekend

Ferry Service to Add Third Liner

There were 62,752 crossings on the record fell again with 168,247 crossings and the past week topped that mark by 10, 266 vehicles.

Sat., Aug. 1, but this did not top the all-time single day record of 63,190 set on July 1, 1961, Horty said.
