

CITY TO SEEK FEDERAL FUNDS FOR COMMUNITY PLANNING

Harrington will attempt to secure federal funds to defray the major part of the costs of community planning, it was decided Wednesday night by the City Council at its September meeting.

Under the plan, the government would pay about two-thirds of the estimated cost of $6000, with the State Planning Commission absorbing about $1000 of the cost, City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann told the Council.

He added the City would be billed only about $1000 since it also has data from Richardson Associates, the City's consulting engineers.

The city manager explained that Robert Paslay, of the State Planning Commission, said Laurel was also making an application for federal funds for planning and that the addition of the Harrington application would improve the chances of federal approval.

The Council motioned to have Paslay make the application for funds. It, furthermore motioned to have the City's solicitors, Brown & Brown, to draw up an ordinance for the forming of a planning commission. Zoning ordinances, which the City has had for some years, also need to be backed up by a planning commission, it has been felt in the State recently.

Mayor Fulton J. Downing believed a zoning commission and a planning commission should be one, a feeling of the State Planning Commission, and thought the city manager should be the chairman. However, there was no action on this point at Wednesday night's meeting.

In other business, the Council acted as follows: Agreed to pay the costs of installing Christmas lighting, formerly paid by the Chamber of Commerce with solicitations from merchants, and the cost of the electricity therefor.

Saw a movie on asbestos-cement pipe manufactured by the Flintite Corporation, a subsidiary of the Plintkote Corporation. The movie was shown by a company representative, Joseph Clark, of Elliott City, Md. The pipe is being used in the installation of a 10-inch water main on Delaware Avenue.

Approved a 36-inch tile beneath and adjacent to the Benjamin Street Bridge. The tile would be 86 feet long, have headwalls at each end.

The ditch, running under the bridge, is curving and this has caused undermining of the bridge and washing of private property and a catch basin. The city manager thought the ditch should be straightened. He estimated the cost of the project at slightly more than $3000. He deemed now would be a good time to do the work since the ditch is practically dry.

Approved closing of City office Thursday afternoon and all day Friday because the 44th annual Delaware Volunteer Firemen's Convention would be held in the firehouse in which the City office is located.

Approved expenditure of $10 to allow the city manager to attend a course on municipal government at Dover. The course will be given by the extension department of the University of Delaware.

SENATE LOSER PICKED TO RUN FOR HOUSE SEAT

A Little Creek farmer who lost a primary election to run for the Senate last month wound up as his party's nominee for the House of Representatives Monday.

Jacob A. Zimmerman, 33, became the Democratic candidate from the 26th Representative District when William B. Mitten, a Dover contractor, withdrew from the race citing the press of business as his reason.

Zimmerman was promptly offered the nomination by the Democratic party executive committee in Kent County and Monday he accepted. His name was certified to the clerk of the peace and he will oppose Henry B. Appleford, of Dover, a former representative, who is the Republican candidate.

Democrats were left with one vacancy in the list of names submitted to Walter Handsberry, Kent Clerk of the Peace, when Levy Court Commissioner Edward Kelly of Rising Sun withdrew as a candidate to succeed himself.

Kelly also cited the press of business as his reason for not seeking another term. A farmer, he said his personal workload

Mrs. Donald Dell Local Fund Drive Chairman for GOCI

Last week's issue of the Harrington Journal carried a story on the Golden Opportunity Center, Inc., lower Delaware's workshop for the handicapped. Unreported in the write-up was the announcement of Mrs. Donald Dell as local chairman for the fund drive which is just beginning.

Mrs. Dell expects to start a canvass of Harrington in the next few days. Assisting her will be members of the Junior Auxiliary of the Calloway - Kemp-Raughley-Tee Unit No. 7. Adult solicitors will also be needed. Anyone who would like to assist with this worthwhile task may call Mrs. Dell at 398-3423.

Funds for the Opportunity Center depend on three main sources of revenue: 1. Contributions from interested individuals, agencies, civic groups, clubs and organizations; 2. Income from contract work; 3. Tuitions for clients paid by referral agencies for evaluation and training.

The public is invited to visit the Workshop, located at 126 West Camden-Wyoming Avenue, Wyoming, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., weekdays. Illustrated talks about GOCI are also available for clubs, civic organizations and churches. Phone 697-3334 to make arrangements for such a talk.

Watch for Mrs. Dell and her helpers and give generously to the Golden Opportunity Center, Incorporated. Those at the Center are most grateful to the many generous individuals who make its existence possible.

Public To See Landmarks Oct. 4

As part of the American Landmarks Celebration, the Lea-Dickerson House and the Brandywine Academy, Wilmington, will be open for public inspection on Oct. 4 from 2 to 5 p.m.

The celebration represents this country's participation in the United Nations Economic and Social Council's International Monuments year. It is sponsored in the U.S. by the National Trust for Historic Preservation. At the request of Gov. Elbert N. Carvel, the Delaware Society for the Preservation of Antiquities is coordinating plans for local observances.

The observance will serve as a progress report to the friends and contributors to Old Brandywine Village, Inc., according to Alfred E. Bissell, president of the non-profit preservation organization.

LADIES WILL TAKE PART IN FIREMEN'S CONVENTION

The Auxiliary Association, meeting at the annual Delaware Volunteer Firemen's Convention here Fri., and Sat., Sept. 11-12, has the following included in its program:

Registration of delegates and alternates at noon at Harrington Century Club.

At 1 p.m., the convention will be opened by Mrs. Clara Smith, president, with the invocation by Mrs. Ella Harrison, chaplain. Addresses of welcome will be given by Mrs. Kathryn Derrickson, president of Harrington Auxiliary, and Mayor Fulton J. Downing.

At 6 p.m., there will be a Past Presidents' dinner at The Wonder R; a show at 8 p.m., at the field house at Harrington School, and a ball at Corbit Armory.

Nomination and election of officers will be the chief items on the agenda Saturday morning, with luncheon at 12:30 p.m., and a luncheon with the firemen at the Harrington High School Cafeteria.

Legion Plans Pool Outing

With the swimming season fast coming to a close the pool committee of C.K.R.T. Post No. 7 has scheduled a farewell pool party for all its members, members of the auxiliary and their guests.

Although this is a holiday weekend, there are many people who stay home and off the highways and the committee felt this would be some entertainment for the stay-at-homers.

Festivities are set to start at 8:00 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 5th. All Legion and Auxiliary members and their guests are invited to attend whether they are pool members or not.

Welfare Bill Signed By Carvel

The State Department of Public Welfare now can get its $264,000 supplementary appropriation. A bill appropriating the funds was one of seven recently signed into law by Gov. Elbert N. Carvel, his office announced Monday.

The money would cover administrative costs including the hiring of more caseworkers, the new medical program for the indigent aged, reimbursement to counties, old-age assistance grants and aid to needy families.

The Department had expressed the fear that if the money were not made available, some grants might have had to be reduced.

Other bills signed by Carvel: — HB 170 with HA 1, to increase benefits for state pensioners not qualified for old-age insurance.

— HB 629, to exempt the program of barbering instruction in state schools from legal provisions relating to barbering.

— HB 656 with HA 1, extending the time for Smyrna Special School District to use funds (Continued on Page 8)

The Delaware Travel Council will take at least two bus loads of people on its one day excursion to the New York World's Fair Thurs., Sept. 10.

President Harry F. Green said the response has been good, and ticket sales will be discontinued on Friday. If the demand continues the possibility of a third bus is being considered.

"We want to accommodate all who wish to join us," Green said, "but we must have definite information by Fri., Sept. 4."

Tickets, which include transportation, fair admission and an extra book of discount tickets are available at the office of Secretary Miles L. Frederick, 1010 Washington Street, Wilmington at $7.75 each.

H.H.S. School To Re-open Sept. 9

The schools of Harrington Special School District will re-open for the 1964-65 school term at 8:30 a.m., Wed., Sept. 9. The first day of school will be a short session dismissing at 12:30 p.m. The cafeteria will not be open this first day, but a mid-morning snack will be provided for boys and girls in the first and second grades. Full day sessions will start on Thurs., Sept. 10. On this day the cafeteria will be in full operation.

Members of the faculty will report to the school on Tues., Sept. 8, for a full day session of meetings to make ready for the school year.

The 44th annual Delaware Volunteer Firemen's Convention, to be held here Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, Sept. 10-12, inclusive, promises three days of much-needed activity in the community.

The order of business is as follows: Registration at noon Thursday, with the convention being called at 2 p.m., at the fire house. Paul Neeman, president of the host company, will give the address of welcome.

At 4:30 p.m., the convention will recess until Friday. However, there will be a meeting at 8 p.m., at the fairgrounds restaurant, of the State Fire Chiefs and the State Fire Police.

The agenda for the following Friday morning includes election of officers. Luncheon will be held at noon at Asbury Methodist Church, with J. Allen Frear, former U. S. senator, as guest speaker.

The afternoon program calls for greetings from the Maryland State Firemen's Association, New Jersey State Firemen's Association, and Delmarva Volunteer Firemen's Association.

At 3:30 p.m. fire evolutions will be performed at the Delaware State Fairgrounds, with a past-president's dinner at 6 p.m., at The Wonder R.

At 8 p.m., there will be a stage show at the Harrington High School Field House, with the firemen's ball in the Corbit Armory.

Officers will be installed the following morning, with adjournment at noon. At 12:30 p.m., there will be a luncheon with the ladies' auxiliaries in the cafeteria of Harrington School.

The usual convention parade will start at 3 p.m.

The Rev. and Mrs. John Taylor and daughters have just returned from a two-weeks' vacation trip. They report an especially lovely and restful time. They motored to New Orleans, La., visited relatives in Georgia and North Carolina and friends in Virginia.

Polly Schlabach is making reasonable progress. Her son, Dr. Walter Schlabach, plans to move her from Tennessee to Virginia, the middle of the week, and to have her under his care for some time. Address her at 312 East Main St., Luray, Va.

A beautiful wedding ceremony took place on Saturday evening, Aug. 28, at 7:30 in the Greenwood Methodist Church, when Miss Sandra Belton, daughter of Mrs. Madison Webber, became the bride of Richard Andrews, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Andrews, in a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Miss Muriel C. Smith, of Ellendale, a former pastor of Greenwood Church. Miss Judy Root presided at the console and Miss Shirley Tatum sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Miss Charlotte Belton, gowned in pink, was her sister's only attendant. The bride's little cousin, Miss Christy Breeding, gowned in white nylon, was the flower girl. The bride wore the traditional white, with cathedral train, long sleeves, and sweetheart neckline, the bodice covered with seed pearls. Her veil was attached to a small white pill-box headdress. The bride's mother chose a blue lace sheath with white accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore a green lace sheath with white accessories.

The bridegroom chose Daniel Freeman as his best man. The ushers were Donald Donovan, of Greenwood, and Noble Calloway, of Bridgeville. The bride's step-father, Madison Webber, gave her away. After the ceremony, a reception was held in the fire hall, which was appropriately decorated in pink, white and blue. The young couple left on a short trip to Luray Caverns, Va. They will be at home to their friends in their new home near Greenwood.

Delaware Food Market Report

Labor Day connotes many things, but most of all it means "no labor". This holds true for shoppers, cooks, and merchants alike. To do this, it is necessary to make plans carefully then Labor Day can be fun for everyone.

To most of us, this is the last long weekend of summer, the last opportunity to go to the shore or the mountains, etc., before the regular schedule of fall sets in. It means outdoor eating. This week's specials are made to order.

Young tender chickens are easy to cook on a rotisserie or outdoor grill and you can always find just the size and amount you need. To cook on a rotisserie, buy a whole chicken, broiler halves are a good choice for the grill and the pieces of chicken are ideal for barbecuing. Barbecued turkey breast is an elegant meat to serve and it is fit for a king. With prices as they are, this meat can fit all of our pocketbooks.

Other pre-holiday features include smoked hams, picnics, bacon, and cold cuts. All of these can fit into the planning of picnics in the backyard, by a lake, at the shore, or in the woods.

This is a wise time to choose fresh shellfish since we are still at the peak of the season. Large or jumbo shrimp continue to be plentiful and are of fine quality. Clams, crabmeat, lobsters, or sea scallops are other good choices. The big three in good supply among fresh finfish are bluefish, swordfish, and tuna.

The top buys among fresh vegetables are increasing as the weather improves. This week check the following items - beets, celery, corn, eggplant, green onions, Boston and romaine lettuce, peppers, parsley, radishes, squash, and tomatoes. More sweet potatoes are reaching our local markets and quality is much better plus prices are quite reasonable. This vegetable combines beautifully with ham to make a tasty kabob.

Leading fresh fruit buys include: Limes, nectarines, plums and prunes, peaches, bananas, and of course, melons - cantaloupes, watermelons, and honey-

Army Pvt. Norman W. O'Day Jr., whose parents live in Felton, arrived at Ft. Wainwright, Alaska, Aug. 18, and is now assigned to the 171st Infantry Brigade.

O'Day is a member of Company A of the brigade's 47th Infantry. He entered the Army last April and completed basic combat training at Ft. Polk, La.

The 21-year-old soldier was graduated from Felton High School in 1961.

Zwaanendael Museum Notes

The annual meeting of the Lewes Memorial Commission was called Wed., Aug. 26, at the Zwaanendael Museum by the chairman, Lawrence B. Knapp, of Lewes. Present were Mrs. Robert H. Orr, of Yorklyn, Mrs. Harry C. Boden, of Newark; Mrs. Charles F. Kemper, of Lewes; Leon deValinger Jr., State Archivist, of Dover, and the chairman, Mr. Knapp, of Lewes.

The business on the agenda included the budget, building upkeep, and plans for the future.

The curator reported that the attendance during the past fiscal year amounted to over 19,000, which was an increase of 3000 more than the previous year. Signatures on the register indicated that visitors were from all 50 states, Washington, D. C., and 27 foreign countries. Summer exhibits, set-up on the second floor, had included items of the War of 1812, which were lent to the Zwaanendael Museum by the Historical Society of Delaware especially for Historic Lewes Day, and were held until July 30. A special exhibit of parasols, fans, and beaded bags replaced them for the remainder of the season.

Officers elected for the fiscal year, 1964-1965, were Lawrence B. Knapp as chairman, Mrs. Robert H. Orr as vice-chairman, and Mrs. Charles F. Kemper, as secretary, Leon deValinger Jr., who has served as secretary of the commission for many years asked to be relieved because of the increasing duties as state archivist. He, however, will continue as an active member of the commission. The Zwaanendael Museum will be open to visitors during holiday hours, 12:30 to 5:30 p.m., on Labor Day, Sept. 7. Regular visiting hours are Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Sundays and holidays, 12:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Mrs. Marie Koch

Mrs. Marie Koch, 72, of Greensboro, died Saturday in the Memorial Hospital, Easton. She had been a resident of Greensboro. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Emerson, of Odenton; two sons, Harry, of Greensboro, and John, of Laurel, Del.; a brother, Carl Kauper, and two sisters, Mrs. Elsie Richter in Germany and Mrs. Margaret Dorge, in Kentucky, and six grandchildren.

Services were held Tuesday afternoon in the Emmanuel Lutheran Church, Cordova, Md.

Education Today

Someone once said, "The purpose of education is to cherish and unfold the seed of immortality already within us; to develop to their fullest extent the capacities of every kind which the God who made us has endowed us."
It is of the utmost importance that we develop our capacities to their fullest extent today, because we are now living in a world that is constantly changing.

Today, world knowledge is doubling every ten years. Ninety per cent of all scientists who ever lived are alive today. More mathematics have been created since the beginning of the twentieth century than in all other time combined. Ninety per cent of the drugs being prescribed by doctors today were not known ten years ago.

First, our minds must be educated. We live in a country that has always had a high regard for academic training. Schools were among the first institutions to be established on American soil.

But our education must include more than developing our mental capacities. We hear a lot about physical fitness today. At every Olympic game, Americans carry away fewer and fewer medals, while Russia gets more and more.

To this day the name of Glenn Cunningham, Kansas farm boy, college student, sensational miller, a boy with burned and twisted legs, is a symbol of physical determination.

To lack consideration for our physical well-being is a gross immorality. If Glenn Cunningham could overcome physical handicap to set a world record, shouldn't we be able to train our bodies to keep pace with our fast-changing world?

But mental and physical education is not enough. We must develop the right relationship with our Creator. God has placed within us the capability to be a power for good or for evil.

After establishing the right relationship with God, we must develop the right attitude towards others. One of the greatest problems facing us today is man's inhumanity to man.

If we succeed in developing our minds, training our bodies, growing spiritually, and developing the right attitude toward our fellowmen, we will have the kind of education that will enable us to live full useful lives—the kind of lives most needed in this changing world.

Public Office Not Popularity Contest

Some elections to public office have all the eternal signs of a popularity contest. Unfortunately, too many of our public officials attempt to conduct their office in the same manner. They avoid all controversy, do nothing which will make anyone angry and duck every issue that comes down the road.

There are few, if any, public improvements made which do not adversely affect someone. Take our interstate highway system, for example. Practically all of us like to drive on the broad, safe, uncluttered interstate highways.

The interstate highway system changed their whole method of operation and seriously disrupted a system which had been working well for over 30 or 40 years.

From time to time, events at the local level which have almost as much impact as an interstate highway are proposed. These include such things as building a civic center, using concrete instead of road oil for streets, revamping the electrical system, getting a renewal program started in the downtown area, placing additional stop lights at dangerous or busy intersections, widening certain streets, or increasing recreational opportunity.

In each instance, there are going to be those opposed. Some will rise in opposition simply because they have any change from the status quo. Others will find short term financial impact hard to face. Others will be unable to see any long term gains.

It is, in a way, surprising, that this newspaper has received no letters or other communications about the use of public funds to study the expansion of the city water system to serve the lake area.

As a matter of fact, if the study shows that lake water should be used in the system, the water service in Sullivan will carry a higher chlorine content than it usually does presently.

So while there are several good reasons to be against this study, including the fact that Sullivan is looking for a Federal handout to finance the study, the very good reason that we must look farther than our nose tends to outweigh them.

The old bromide of: "Behold the turtle, he makes no progress until he sticks his neck out," certainly holds true in public affairs.

Asbury W.S.C.S. Notes

The first fall meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Asbury Church was held on Tuesday evening with a good number of the members in attendance. Mrs. Floyd Nasser, president, called the meeting to order and turned the program over to Mrs. Fulton Downing.

For a quarter of a century, Terry was on the Delaware bench, first as a judge of the Superior Court and later a chief justice of the Supreme Court.

As a judge, he asked the questions and expected answers.

The press conference was held in the Treadway Inn, Dover. The consensus of the press there was that Terry handled himself exceptionally well, although the newsmen were a little confused as to how to address him.

Several questions from the audience closed the discussion. Mrs. Nasser conducted the business session which followed.

Tues., Sept. 29, at 1 o'clock, in Union Church, Bridgeville, Mrs. Ethel C. Bull, secretary of Christian Social Relations for Dover District will serve as leader of a model program to be presented at a training workshop.

Fri., Sept. 11, at noon, the local society will serve a banquet in Collins Hall for the Delaware Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Since it will be quite a large group, Mrs. James Moore, local church activities chairman has requested the help of all society members and any other women of the church who can give their time on Thursday evening or Friday morning.

Tables Turned On Terry; He Answers Questions

Charles L. Terry Jr. of Dover Wednesday outlined his campaign as the Democratic candidate for governor—and got a new experience by answering, instead of asking, questions.

For a quarter of a century, Terry was on the Delaware bench, first as a judge of the Superior Court and later a chief justice of the Supreme Court.

As a judge, he asked the questions and expected answers.

W. O. T. M. Notes

At the monthly enrollment ceremony of Chapter 1299 held Thurs., Aug. 13, Mrs. Marie Greenley was enrolled as a new candidate sponsored by Mrs. Roberta Wasilewski.

At the business meeting Thurs., Aug. 27, a report was given on the fair booth and Mrs. Anne McWilliams was agreeably surprised by a lovely gift presented to her by Governor Everett and Senior Regent Semans in appreciation for her help with the booth.

In order to make the firemen, who attend the state convention here more comfortable, the Women of the Moose will serve dinner on Fri., Sept. 11 from 4 p.m. until about 8 o'clock. They will offer a choice of fried fish or fried chicken for a donation of $1.50.

Sunday, Sept. 20, the first monthly chicken and dumpling dinner will be served beginning at 1 p.m.

Mrs. Curtis W. Murray

Mrs. Mae L. Murray, 76, widow of Curtis W. Murray, of Whaleyville, Md., died Sunday in Peninsula General Hospital after a short illness.

She is survived by two sons, Welton, at home, and Lacey, of Selbyville; a daughter, Mrs. Juanita Simpler, of Felton; two stepsons, Rex, of Whaleyville, and William C., of Townsend, Md.; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Madeline Clay, of Miami, Fla.; two sisters, Mrs. Missouri Twilley, of Pittsville and Mrs. Laura Littleton, of Cillard, Md., and two grandchildren.

Services were held Wednesday afternoon at Ebenezer Methodist Church, Whaleyville.

Graham - Hobbs Vows Are Said

At thirty minutes after seven on the evening of August 23, at Asbury Methodist Church in Harrington, Miss Gene Shirley Graham, daughter of Sheriff and Mrs. George Graham, Sr., of Harrington, approached the altar under the strains of Lohengrin's "Wedding March" to become the bride of L. Lester Hobbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Hobbs, of near Harrington.

The bride, given in marriage by her father was attired in a white, floor-length gown of silk and lace with a small bow and a long floating panel at the back. The bodice was trimmed with small seed pearls. She carried a bride's pearl, given to her as a remembrance of the ten years in the church choir, topped with a white, jeweled orchid corsage. On her head were leaves of silk embroidered with seed pearls and finished with a small stand up bow, surmounted by the bridal veil. Her something old and something borrowed was a yellow gold locket and chain of Miss Alice Hearn. The necklace is over 100 years old.

The maid of honor was a lifetime friend, Miss Doris Wechtenhiser, of Harrington. Her dress was maize silk with a self fabric rose and short floating panel in the back, the matching headpiece had a duplicate rose and veil. The bridesmaids were sisters of the bride, Mrs. Robert Faulkner, of Camden, and Mrs. Richard Dennis, of Lexington Park, Md. Their pale blue dresses were exactly as the maid of honor as were their headpieces. All carried nosegays of matching flowers. The bride threw a white nosegay.

Best man was M. William Pike Jr., of Houston. Ushers were brother-in-laws of the bride, Richard Dennis and Robert Faulkner.

The mother of the bride chose a light blue crepe dress with navy accessories. The bridegroom's mother's choice was frothy blue lace over taffeta, navy accessories. Both wore a white rose bud wrist corsage.

Miss Sarah K. Moore, of Harrington, was organist. Carlton Goodhand was soloist. He rendered "I Love You Truly", "Because", and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride and bridegroom, leading the bridal party and the rest of their guests out of the church hand in hand, unglowed, left the beautiful lighted triple stained glass windows (depicting Christ with his hands out stretched in the center window and St. Paul and St. Luke on either side) along with the flickering candles, the palms and the white flowers to the reception at the Century clubhouse.

Miss Graham was honored with a pantry shower, a most unusual bus shower and a rehearsal supper.

The newlyweds are residing on a farm near Felton.

Jerry Lee Cartwright

Jerry Lee Cartwright, 6-month old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Cartwright, died Saturday. Sussex County Coroner VOLLIE C. Gray attributed the death to pneumonia.

The child is survived by a twin sister, Carrie; two half-sisters,

Peggy Jean and Sandra Yeomans; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Watkins, of Houston, and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Goldie Eve, of Oldtown, Md. Services were held Tuesday afternoon at the J. Millard Cooper Funeral Home, Harrington.

Miller Issues Statement On Ferry Strike

William J. Miller, Jr., director of the Delaware River and Bay Authority, after a four hour meeting with members of the Authority in Atlantic City, N. J., Monday afternoon issued a statement of policy with respect to the illegal work stoppage and strike at the Cape May-Lewes ferry.

The meeting was held in Atlantic City since a majority of the Delaware River and Bay Authority members are attending sessions of the annual convention of the American Bridge, Tunnel and Turnpike Association there.

"On Fri., Aug. 28, at 10:30 a.m. the captains and other licensed officers of the vessels in concert with representatives of the International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots, walked off vessels to enforce their demand that the union be recognized and for an immediate pay demand amounting to $50 per week.

This pay increase would amount to 32.5 per cent for the captains and 44 per cent for mates over their present salary. The Authority had granted these mates and captains a 10 per cent increase over rates which they earned on the Chesapeake Bay Ferry when they started to work on July 1.

"The captains now receive $8,004 a year. They work for two days and are off two days. The total working time for a year is less than a six months' period. In addition to wages, all crew members receive food, room, uniforms, laundry, hospitalization and similar fringe benefits. Overtime work is paid for a double time rate. The Authority also supplies free life insurance equal to the annual salary.

"The Authority is a governmental agency of the states of Delaware and New Jersey, but does not have the right under the law to engage in collective bargaining with its employees or chosen representatives. In addition, public employees have no right to organize or participate in a strike against the states or the ferry operation.

"Most tragic of all however, is the effect of the un-announced work stoppage on the other employees of the ferry operation and the inconvenience and hardship caused to the thousands of people who have been using the ferry daily.

"After the work stoppage last Friday, Superior Court Judge George B. Francis, of New Jersey, issued a restraining order enjoining the employees of the Authority from engaging in any strike or work stoppage. The order also prohibited the International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots from other strike activity. Telegrams to this effect were sent to the union, the captains and other licensed personnel.

"Several of the licensed personnel have reported to work, but the union and the captains have ignored the order to work. "The legal counsel of the Authority has been instructed to take immediate appropriate legal action. The steps under consideration are:

1. A contempt of court proceeding against the union for violating the restraining order in continuing to picket.

2. A suit for damages to recover the loss of ferry revenue estimated to be $5500 a day.

3. The Authority has suspended any consideration of possible wage increases while the ferry service is out of operation.

"At the August meeting of the Delaware River and Bay Authority it was agreed to work out a program of pay increases for the 150 employees on the ferry project. The Authority plan would consider pay increases for all classifications of employees, it was stated.

"The program of pay increases is to be presented at the next meeting of the Delaware River and Bay Authority on Sept. 15.

"The Masters, Mates and Pilots organization was told of this plan. The employees of the Authority were told of this plan. They were also told that pay increases would be made retroactive to cover the waiting period. The union and captains refused to wait and instituted the illegal work stoppage.

"The Authority knows that the union and captains chose this time to take the illegal action to take advantage of the increased traffic generated by the Democratic National Convention and the anticipated heavy Labor Day weekend traffic.

"In summary, the Authority's position is that the four captains and other licensed personnel, acting through the Masters, Mates and Pilots organization refused to work; that the work stoppage was for more money or recognition. The Courts have already ruled that the work stoppage was illegal. The Authority has initiated legal proceedings covering the strike and will follow up with appropriate legal action. The wage condition will be considered after the ferry is again in operation."

Attending the session in Atlantic City were Commissioner Vice Chairman Theodore C. Bright; Commissioners Thomas J. Gallagher and Clarence B. McCormick, New Jersey; Commissioners William R. Murphy, Howard S. Abbott and James T. Ferri, Wilmington.

Also present were Authority Counsellors James L. Latchum, Thomas K. S. Tuso and Phillip Grucio; General Manager Nolan C. Chandler and Mr. Miller.

Survey Reveals Serious Soybean Problems

Dry weather may have caused more damage to Delaware soybeans than most people want to admit. A survey of the state's soybean acreage, conducted by the University of Delaware, indicates that much of the crop has been seriously affected. And, most of the problems that were found can be attributed to the dry season.

Dr. Richard Cole, a School of Agriculture agronomist, and Dr. Walter Connell, entomologist made a random survey of the state on Aug. 18. According to Cole, growers in general have done a good job on the 1964 crop. But in spite of their efforts they will have to settle for an average crop of 21 1/2 bushels per acre or less. And he says unless more general rains fall over the state, this figure could be considerably less. Right now he figures yield could be reduced by as much as a bushel a week through the lack of moisture.

In addition to the obvious problems caused by the dry weather, Cole and Connell list these additional aggravations: delayed plantings, resulting in short season beans and reduced yields; a heavy infestation of mites that cut into plant productivity; variable growth in individual fields, causing poor seed quality, and a larger infestation of weeds, partly because farmers were afraid to cultivate during the extremely dry weather for fear of damaging root systems, and partly because chemical weed killers did not get enough moisture to become fully activated.

Of the fields checked in Kent and Sussex Counties, Connell reports 50 per cent showing heavy infestations of plant damaging mites.

The number of growers producing varieties best suited for this area is increasing. Cole found Kent and Delmar varieties, or those closely related to them in 67 per cent of the fields checked. The less desirable Ogden variety was still found in 20 per cent of the fields. This is a green colored bean that is late maturing, low in oil and protein content, and less desirable from the processors' or exporter's point of view. There should be a trend away from this variety and to the University of Delaware-developed Kent and Delmar.

One unusual problem that turned up in this year's survey was the presence of volunteer corn in soybean stands. The agronomist says this condition has been a problem in the mid-west, but until now hasn't bothered Delaware producers. The presence of corn kernels in soybean seeds will cause them to be severely discounted by soybean buyers.

Fence Talk

With George Vapaa

Your county agent gave an invitation at a recent farm meeting something like this: "If you have a question even remotely related to agriculture, call our Extension Service office for an answer. We may not have the answer at hand. But we're supposed to know who to see for it."

So a guy in the back of the room asks: "Who should I see for some rain?"

Dr. Gerald Coe, plant breeder at the USDA Beltsville experiment station, visited our sugar beet plots in Delaware last Thursday. We looked at the plantings on the Sam and Arthur Walker farm at Woodside, the Virgil Jarrell farm at Viola, and the University Substation Farm near Georgetown.

Despite the extreme dry weather this season, all plots have shown reasonably good growth. But if we are ever to go into commercial production, we must have disease resistant strains of sugar beets. All the plots show leaf spot (Cercospora), a fungus disease usually found in humid areas. Phoma, another leaf disease, may also be present. These diseases cut yields sharply.

Insects have not been a severe problem up to this time, although blister beetles, Lygus bugs, flea beetles and other species have been noted.

The two Dutch varieties of seed have shown good growth to this point, but are the most heavily infested by leaf spot. The monogerm strains of beet used in commercial producing areas show the greatest resistance to diseases and insects in Delaware.

We suspect some trace element nutrient deficiencies, especially manganese. The lack of manganese shows up as dark streaks on the leaf stems or petioles.

Fertilizer differences are quite striking at Georgetown. Some plots received up to 120 pounds of nitrogen. These are very green. Others received none, and these have a yellowish growth. Added rainfall will bring out these differences stronger.

It is too early to venture an opinion on yield and sugar content. These will be measured in late October.

At this point we see no strong case for sugar beets in Delaware. Both corn and soybeans are showing up as strong competitors to beets. Beets need a finely prepared seed bed, careful thinning at the seedling stage, and in 1964 all of our plots had to be irrigated at least two times to get them to sprout. Special tillage equipment, which we did not have available, might change some of these objections.

Incidentally, Dr. Coe's associate, Dewey Stewart, of Beltsville, is in Russia for a couple of months. It seems the Russians want help in growing sugar beets too.

A University cow has established a new Delaware butterfat production record in the official testing programs of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America. The new production class leader broke the previous all-time record for Senior two-year-olds milked two times daily in the 305 division. Her official 305-day lactation totalled 17,000 pounds of milk and 772 pounds of butterfat.

The lady of the farm is likely to get more attention in the future when it comes to credit matters. F. Vernon Wright, deputy governor of the Farm Credit Administration says farm women are playing a greater role—not only in the operation of the farm, but in more of the decision-making, including credit decisions. He thinks lenders should consider the credit needs of the farm home and family, not just production.

Eggs in 1912 were selling in stores for around 34 cents per dozen. A factory worker earned 21 cents per hour, had to work 97.4 minutes to buy a dozen eggs. This year, with eggs selling at around 55 cents per dozen average, a factory worker earning $2.50 an hour has to work only 13 minutes to buy a dozen eggs.

The U.S.D.A. will open eight of the first 22 Job Corps camps within 90 days in national forests in eight states—in connection with the newly approved anti-poverty program. Tentative plans, contingent on approval of governors of the states involved, call for activation of camps in: Arkansas, California, Idaho, North Carolina, Pennsylvania and Washington. By next June the Forest Service plans to have 75 camps for 10,000 enrollees. Camps aim to prepare youth for the responsibilities of citizenship, increase employability through education and training.

Evening Classes Set for Sept. 28-29 At Dover School

The newly established State of Delaware evening high school will hold registration from 7 to 9 o'clock Sept. 28-29, Monday and Tuesday nights, at Dover High School.

Adults and young people, age 16 and over, now may earn their high school diploma in their spare time. Academic courses and business subjects are being offered at no fees to residents of the State of Delaware.

Persons without a high school diploma are asked to bring their most recent report card if it is available. A person does not need to apply in advance to be eligible for enrollment in the evening classes. The courses offered and the number of classes will depend on how many register.

Del. Soybeans Short But Prices Won't Be High

Dry hot weather is rapidly reducing the potential yields of Delaware soybeans. The August 1 crop report indicated soybean yields would average 21 bushels per acre. This is an increase over last year's average of only 18 bushels, but less than the five year average of 22.6 bushels. This doesn't mean that prices will be high. The total U. S. soybean crop is reported to be seven per cent greater than a year earlier. Adding to this large crop is a 60 million bushel carry-over—three times the average.

Dr. T. A. Hieronymus, University of Illinois economist and an authority on soybean marketing, expects the price of soybeans to fall slightly below the price support loan rate at harvest. A slow normal seasonal price rise is anticipated as the heavy supplies are worked off.

Good demand for soybeans for feed is anticipated, since more cattle are on feed and hog numbers are likely to increase. The market for soybeans for feed however, will depend on keeping prices at moderate levels.

Hieronymus points out that soybean use decreased in one of the first years when supplies were adequate. "This happened because soybeans were overpriced last year. There was too much holding of soybeans, they were held too long and prices got too high at a time when hog prices were weak and cattle prices declining. You can price things out of use."

This year's export picture is bright. The sharp upward trend in exports, which started 13 years ago when we exported only 17 million bushels, will probably continue. A record-setting 187 million bushels of last year's soybean crop was exported. This includes large quantities of soybean meal and from 12 to 14 per cent of the total soybean oil production.

'65 Wheat Program Announced

The 1965 voluntary wheat program in general will operate about the same as the 1964-crop program, Russell C. Bowdle, chairman, Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, has announced. While some program provisions have been modified for 1965, he said, participating farmers can get about the same returns as from the 1964 program. Some farmers may get more by using new options that will enable many producers to adapt the program more closely to their farming operations.

The principal changes, compared with 1964-program provisions, are:

1. Domestic certificates will be worth 75 cents per bushel (were 70 cents), and export certificates will be worth 30 cents per bushel (were 25 cents).

2. Price support national average loan rate will be $1.25 per bushel (was $1.30).

3. Program participants can qualify for domestic certificates on as much as 45 per cent and export certificates on as much as 35 per cent of the normal production from their allotment (were 45 per cent each).

4. Wheat and feed grain - acreage substitution will be possible. (There was no provision for substitution in the 1964 program).

5. If the grower underplants his 1965 wheat allotment by at least 10 per cent and devotes those acres to an approved conserving use — in addition to the 11.11 per cent minimum diversion payment on such additional diversion will be made at 50 per cent of the county loan rate on the farm's normal production of such additional acres diverted to conserving use. Maximum diversion for payment can be 20 per cent of the allotment or enough additional acreage within the allotment to make a total of 15 acres. No payment will be made for diverting to an approved conserving use the minimum diverted acreage, equal to 11.11 per cent of the 1965 allotment. (Payment in 1964 was at 20 per cent for all acres diverted to conserving use).

6. A producer can qualify for loans and certificates even though he exceeds his acreage allotment by not more than 50 per cent on any farm in which he has an interest if he stores the wheat from the excess acreage under bond and carries out conserving-use requirements of the program. (This provision was not included in the 1964 program.)

Mr. Bowdle pointed out that the sign-up for the 1965 wheat program will be held in the Kent ASCS county office at Dover, from now through October 2.

Newark Girl Describes Farm Rally In Ceylon

(Editor's Note: Miss Edith DeLong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. DeLong, Newark, is spending six months in the island country of Ceylon as a U. S. representative in the International Farm Youth Exchange program. Following is another in a series of letters describing her experiences.)

I recently attended a Young Farmer's Club Rally here in Ceylon—similar to a fair in the United States. Island wide rallies aren't held because of transportation difficulties—families don't have any means of transportation to go to a central location. Once in a great while there will be a district rally. This would be similar to our state fair. However, the exhibits would be only of Young Farmer's Club project work.

Rallies are held only when Agricultural Extension officers on each of four levels and the National YFC headquarters approve the club's program.

Clubs have rallies each year on their anniversary day, the day on which the club was officially started. A club first must have had at least 10 members who each have at least one project for a year before the national headquarters will approve their application to become a YFC club.

The rally I attended was the eighth anniversary of the Ratasize Club. The name is that of an ancient national hero.

Dick Augspurger, of Ohio, the other IFYE representative here, and I were guests of honor, so at our arrival the president and two leaders presented us with two beetle leaves and the traditional greeting of hands folded as in prayer before your face and the word "Ayubowan".

Beetle leaves are chewed with bits of tobacco, coconut, much as chewing gum is used in the states. This habit is predominant of the older people, however.

The YFC clubs are quite similar to the 4-H clubs; however, the age range is from 14 to 30. Also attending were agriculture officers in the area who assist the local farmers and YFC clubs.

There were displays of equipment which could be rented from a local co-op run by the government's Department of Agriculture. The equipment was all for paddy (rice) cultivation. It included seeders, cultivators and a fertilizer. All are hand pushed or pulled instruments.

Seeds provided by the government are on sale. Tomatoes and eggplant seeds packed in small tin cans sold for 4.25 RS (about $1). This must be judged, too, as extra expensive as their yearly income is much less than ours. Fertilizer for use on paddy fields was also for sale.

The exhibits included insect collections, seed collections and identification and needlework of several kinds.

Large pictures made from cotton batting cut like flowers or animals and stitched on black cloth make attractive wall hangings. Hand embroidery was done on table scarves, pillow cases, chair back covers and handkerchiefs. Machine embroidery on table doilies were displayed by a leader who will teach members at her home; she had the only machine equipped to do this. Knitted sweaters and scarves were among the product.

Baskets and bowls from carved and polished coconut shells were popular, as were baskets, plates and covers woven from reeds and grasses cut, prepared and woven by the members. Government agricultural bulletins pertaining to crop management, production and health, and posters about production and plant and animal disease prevention were displayed.

The whole village was invited to attend; a large percentage did, I think. The club has 57 members. The president had been an IFYE in 1962; he had some of his souvenirs displayed as well as some popcorn which he had prepared from a bag he had brought back with him. In the afternoon a meeting was held. It was primarily a time when the visiting officials were introduced and given the opportunity to speak. The meeting was opened with the club song and secretary's minutes.

Our host sister, an IFYE last year, accompanied us to the meeting and spoke to the group, as we did. Kamala stressed that on American farms and in American homes the family all works and is expected to contribute a share. She explained that American teenagers, quite unlike Ceylonese youth, work also outside the home and earn spending money and money for future education. In Ceylon, middle class families all have outside servants coming in part time, at least to do cooking, dishes and always farm chores. The youth are dependent upon their families until, and often after, marriage here.

The highlight of the day was the "concert". These were items presented by club members ranging from skits and stunts, similar to those at 4-H camps to folk songs, songs and dances spontaneously created about any topic at all, to musical numbers on long thin drums (played by kneeling on the two-ended drum and playing with both hands) and flute made from a bamboo branch, to folk dances depicting such as the crop cycle of paddy, to Dick and me singing the national 4-H pledge and song and "White Coral Bells." We explained the meanings and similarity to their numbers. In rhythm and nature, however, they were quite unlike theirs.

Typical of Ceylon culture, I was the only girl performing. We were served tea at about 4 p.m. with plantain (banana-like fruit) and confections of rice flour deep fried in a flower shape.

Dr. Robert Wood, U. of D. Chemist Receives Grant

A University of Delaware chemist may be playing a key role in a massive worldwide research effort to find economical ways to convert salt water to drinking water.

The chemist is Dr. Robert H. Wood, associate professor, whose work is being supported over the next three years with a $38,736 grant from the Office of Saline Water (OSW), a branch of the U. S. Department of the Interior.

The object of Dr. Wood's research is to study some of the properties of salt solutions. His research is one of scores of projects in various fields underway across the country. The OSW will be a clearing house for reports from all the studies, including Wood's. It is hoped that these projects, by leading to a better understanding of salt solutions, will provide the key for a major breakthrough in the desalinization of water.

The importance of the prime target is indicated by the fact that OSW is working closely with the Atomic Energy Commission, probing ways of using nuclear energy for desalinization. And President Johnson has called a worldwide symposium on the subject for October of 1965. Both the OSW and the AEC have instituted crash programs in efforts to find cheap and effective ways of transforming sea water for consumption.

Despite conservation practices, water resources are falling while demand continues to rise. People are using more and more water and indications are that use will increase rather than decrease. Some predictions are that in as short a time as 10 years, the drinking water supply will have dwindled to a critical stage.

Dr. Wood, who joined the university in 1957, wants to measure the energies of interaction of charged molecules in salt solutions. These interactions depend on the size of the charged molecules and the way in which the water molecules are arranged around them. He said his research, in addition to having a possible bearing on the desalinization project, has applications in other areas, including the prediction of the structure and behavior of the salt solutions in biological systems.

In his work to learn more about the structure and energy relations in mixed salt solutions, he will use a specially built calorimeter, so sensitive it can detect a temperature difference of four-millionths of a degree.

Material to be measured in the calorimeter is placed in a water bath, also especially built, which can be controlled to one-thousandth of a degree, thus shielding the material from changes in room temperature.

Another piece of equipment Dr.

Wood is using is a galvanometer which can record electrical output as small as one one-hundred-millionth of a volt.

Funds from the OSW grant will permit other special equipment to be purchased and allow refinements in present research tools.

Working with Dr. Wood for the first year will be a post-doctorate fellow, Henry Anderson, now completing requirements for his Ph.D. He has studied with Dr. Wood for several years and is familiar with the project. For the second and third years of the grant, Dr. Wood will have a research fellow, supported by the grant.

Wood received his bachelor's degree in chemistry from the California Institute of Technology in 1953. Four years later he received his doctorate from the University of California at Berkeley.

He and other scientists are now pursuing research goals which will prevent a familiar passage from literature from becoming a truism. You know the one—"Water, water everywhere—And nary a drop to drink."

Windowless Broiler House Is A Success

Broilers can be grown quite successfully in a windowless house, according to a report just released by the University of Delaware. In a one year study, of 20,000 birds grown in a windowless, mechanically ventilated house, researchers at the University's Georgetown Substation found that birds could be produced at lower cost than those in conventional houses. Primary savings were attributed to reduced fuel, feed and labor costs.

Frank D'Armi, poultry researcher at the substation, reports that birds in the windowless house were subject to the same disease problems, but it was possible to maintain a more comfortable year-round environment, thus minimizing diseases.

The purpose of the study was to determine if the use of insulation and fan ventilation installed in a windowless house would be an improvement over conventional broiler houses. Special attention was given to performance, cost of production, market quality and the rate of condemnations, according to the researcher.

In comparing the windowless house with a partially insulated and a non-insulated house, the following facts were established:

—The rate at which birds converted feed into meat was better in the windowless house.

—Market quality was the same in all houses.

—Cost of production was lowest in the windowless house—as much as 2 1/3 cents per pound of broilers sold.

—The windowless house produced savings in feed, fuel, and labor.

—While the cost of electricity was higher in the windowless mechanically ventilated house, other savings more than made up for it.

—One man can care for as many as 100,000 birds following the system used in the windowless house. One man for 30-40,000 birds is the accepted standard in the industry.

The big advantage for the windowless house seems to be in the reduced amount of bird activity inside the house. The reduced light—a few 25 watt bulbs scattered throughout the house, and the more uniformly comfortable conditions seemed to have a good effect on the birds. They moved around less, made faster gains, and ate less feed per pound of gain. Through the use of large thermostatically controlled fans, in summer it was possible to reduce the temperature inside the house as much as 10 degrees through the use of large thermostatically controlled fans. This proved to be a great benefit during the hottest days. It was also possible to maintain a winter temperature of 70 degrees, remove the moisture produced by the birds with fans, and still achieve a fuel saving over conventional houses.

The windowless house was financed by grants from the Delaware Poultry Industry, Inc. and the Delaware Poultry Commission. The first flocks were tested on June 4, 1963.

Six Workshops Offered by U. of D.

A series of six workshops for mayors, city managers, and other local government officials is being offered this fall by the University of Delaware.

The workshops, starting Sept. 24, are designed to supply information on the principles and practices of local government administration. Workshop topics will include some major functions of local government: organization, finance, public works, public safety, planning, and zoning.

The course if offered by the university's extension division as a non-credit course under the continuing education program. Instructors will be specialists from the university's division of urban affairs.

The two-hour workshops will be held at the Dover Air Base High School on six Thursdays, starting Sept. 24, with all sessions starting at 7 p.m.

Instruction will be based on standard texts, materials from the division of urban affairs, and professional sources in various fields.

The fee is $10. Enrollment forms are available from Extension Division, University of Delaware, Newark.

Girl Scout Director Named for Chesapeake Area

A new executive director took over the reins of the 18-member staff of the Chesapeake Bay Girl Scout Council Tuesday. She is Miss Dorothy E. Hande, a native Marylander and a veteran of more than thirty years experience in professional Girl Scouting in the United States and Europe.

"Naturally I am delighted to return to the Chesapeake Bay area where I was born and grew up," Miss Hande said, "but I am looking forward even more to sharing with our 15,000 girls and 2,500 adult volunteers in the dynamic growth of this 14-county Delmarva organization."

Miss Hande, who succeeds the retiring executive director, Miss Virginia Middlebrook, came to the Wilmington headquarters after six years as council advisor on the staff of the Girl Scout national branch office in Boston. Before this appointment, she had spent three years in Europe as advisor and later as executive director of the North Atlantic Girl Scouts, serving American children whose families are living abroad. This organization covers Germany, France, Great Britain, Italy, Morocco, Ireland, Spain, Greece, Libya, and Turkey.

Miss Hande is a former executive director of the Port Washington, N. Y., and Pasadena, Calif., Girl Scout Councils, and has also served as district director in the Indianapolis Council.

In each of these three councils she also held camp director posts.

An enthusiastic Girl Scout while in school, she became interested in professional Scout work during her college years, when she served as a leader in College Park while attending the University of Maryland. During this time, she also held waterfront posts at Camp Whippoorwill, Baltimore, Juniper Knoll, Chicago, and Deep Wood, Sara-mac Lake, N. Y.

After graduation with a B.S. degree in Physical Education, she took graduate work at George Williams College in Chicago and worked as an apprentice in the Chicago Girl Scout office. With the exception of 18 months as program director for the American Red Cross in Italy during World War II, her entire career has been in Girl Scouting.

Both Parties Fill Rosters Downstate

Eight places were filled on the ballots for legislative and county offices in Kent and Sussex Counties Tuesday to give both parties full slates.

The deadline for filing was Tuesday. In the final day, Kent Republicans named candidates for one legislative seat and four county offices not selected in the Aug. 15 primary. Kent Democrats named a Levy Court candidate and each party in Sussex rounded out its slate with the naming of a legislative candidate.

Sussex Democrats ticketed a newcomer, Edward H. McCabe, III, of Milton, to oppose Republican incumbent Sen. Eugene D. Bookhammer, of Lewes, in the 18th Senatorial District. McCabe, a former state policeman, retired with the rank of chief investigator.

Sussex Republicans tapped Richard Gundry, a Seaford area farmer, to oppose Democratic incumbent Norman A. Eskridge, of Seaford, in the 31st Representative District.

In Kent, Dr. William E. Spence, Democrat, a Dover area veterinarian, was selected to run for Kent County Levy Court against Republican Joseph C. Gerow, of Frederica. Spence, who was defeated two years ago for the state Senate by Walton H. Simpson, of Camden, will run in the slot vacated Monday by incumbent Levy Court Commissioner Edward Kelly of Rising Sun.

Kent Republican filings were:

Glen G. Price, of Hartly, to run in the 25th Representative District against Democratic incumbent Glenn W. Busker, of Smyrna.

Jesse F. Fickes, of near Willow Grove, to seek election in the 2d Levy Court District against Democrat Winfred Hughes, of Hartly.

Loren W. Becker, of Dover, for county comptroller against incumbent Democrat Raymond Welch Sr., of near Harrington.

Former State Rep. Orville Myers, of Hartly, for sheriff against present Levy Court Commissioner Carl F. Prettyman, of Kenton. James E. Jackson, of near Frederica, for prothonotary against incumbent Democrat Frank R. Hayes.

Rogers Returns Retakes No. 1 Harrier Spot

Dennis Rogers, who paced Harold McDonald's Harrington High Lions in 1963, just returned Sunday from a summer job at a boy's camp near Chester. Some of his teammates from last year's state championship team had been working out at Killen's Pond and posting fast times on the rugged 2.4 miles hill-and-dale layout.

Ellis Myer had recorded a swift 13 minutes and 15 seconds which had stood as the top effort until Marshall Hatfield clocked 13.09. Sophomore Dan Hicks checked in with 13.20, his best lifetime mark here.

Rogers, despite a heavy cold made the trip in 12.41 to serve notice that persons after his No. 1 ranking have their work cut out for them. Dennis is a senior with four years' experience in cross-country. He is expected to play a key role as the Lions seek to run their unbeaten skein to 11 at Easton, Sept. 24.

Tuesday night's workout was the first held in fairly cool weather. Donald Wells responded with a terrific performance. The youngest junior on the squad was timed in 13.36 compared to a previous best this year of 14.24 and his peak 13.43 in last year's Harrington Invitational. The Invitational each year is held just before Thanksgiving and this windup meet usually sees most of the runners turn in their fastest clockings since they are in great shape after three months of training and competition. When holdover runners report in late August of the following year, they often require several weeks to get in good enough condition to equal or surpass the previous season's best marks. Thus, when a runner sets a new all time personal record by the end of August he has improved greatly and can look forward to a further substantial improvement by the end of Autumn. Nick Morris, Donald Wells and Dan Hicks have accomplished this feat this week.

Dennis Spicer and Larry Bonniwell set 1963, but are back stronger and faster than ever with clockings of 13.50 and 13.33 respectively.

Freshman Lester Green, a newcomer, has a good 14.37 already. George Bonniwell (13.23) and Roger Betts (13.17) are rounding into shape.

Gerry Garey after only two workouts is pushing 15 minutes. Randy Coleman cut a minute and 48 seconds off his mark. Since he is only a seventh grader his 18.12 has to rank as a very good run. Lewis Kemp, another seventh grader has done 17.10. Kemp looks very strong and may get much faster. Roger Hicks will not be 12 until December but has a fantastic 15.22. He and his brother, Dan, continue to be two of the best runners pound-for-pound on the squad. Both will trounce many older runners before the snow flies.

Hoch Wins Shawnee Tourney

Bob Hoch used to throw curves to make a living.

He gave that up years ago, started playing golf, and Saturday won the Class A title of the Delaware State Golf Association's A-B-C Handicap Tournament at Shawnee Country Club.

A left-handed pitcher for Allentown of the Inter-State League, Hoch, who plays out of the host club, Saturday fired a 72-6-66. He tied with Tony Cossetti, Cavaliers, but won on the basis of matching cards. Cossetti carded a 73-7-66.

Gus Misunas, Maple Dale, Dover, and Chauncey Dean, Newark, both with 76-10-66, tied for Class B honors, with Misunas being declared the winner.

Charles Conway, Cavaliers, won Class C honors with 89-25-64. Rick Rickerson, of DuPont with 88-22-66 was second.

U. of D. Football Team Opens Season Sept. 26

As many as nine sophomores must be ready for second unit duty by the time the University of Delaware football team opens the 1964 season against Hofstra on Sept. 26.

That's the word from the Blue Hens' coaching staff as the squad opened its pre-season training camp Tuesday on the Newark campus.

Dave Nelson, starting his 14th season as head coach, says that he hasn't decided whether the Blue Hens will have two teams to go both ways or have separate offensive and defensive units.

In any case, sophomores will play an important role in the defense of the Lambert Cup, the Middle Atlantic Conference title and the United Press International crown won by the unbeaten '63 aggregation.

The first team will probably be made up of all lettermen, but several first-year men such as guards Bert DiClemente and Herb Slattery are candidates for starting berths.

Coach Nelson says he is "generally pleased with the physical condition" of the 59-man squad, and the coaching staff expressed particular pleasure with the condition of sophomore halfback Jack Hoopes and team captain Ron Bianco.

Hoopes, a standout in spring practice sessions, won the mile run in 5:17, two second ahead of Bianco. That is the best time ever for this annual event of the opening of practice.

Hoopes and fellow soph halfback Ken Bills are expected to challenge lettermen Paul Meuller and Bill Hopkins for the starting halfback posts.

Quarterback and fullback are set with triple-threat Tom Van Grosfki and hard-driving Mike McCrann returning.

The first team line will probably have Bianco and Wes Frith at end, Jay Gibbons and Bill Spangler at tackle, Manny Insua and Art Christensen handling the guard posts, and Denny Toddings at center.

The second unit may line up with Bill Dreuding and Mike Purzycki at end, Stan Ogden and Dave Stewart at tackle, DiClemente and Slattery at guard, Russ Bonadonna at center, Bills and Hoopes at the halfback posts, Buddy Luby at quarterback and Dave Burslem at fullback.

Dreuding and Stewart are the only juniors on the tentative second unit—the rest are sophomores.

Rehoboth To Get New Golf Course

Plans for an 18-hole public golf course that will be located west of Rehoboth were announced Monday.

The layout, to be operated on a green-fee basis, will be known as the Old Landing Golf Course.

Old Landing Farm, consisting of 173-acres and owned by W. Virdin Marshall, is located two miles south of Midway, which lies between Lewes and Rehoboth Beach.

Virdin said Monday nine holes are expected to be completed by next spring, with the remaining holes finished by the following summer season.

A club house will be erected, he added.

H. Walton Jones, former golf pro and superintendent at Shawnee Country Club in Milford, is developing the course. Jones presently operates a driving range just outside of Rehoboth.

A portion of Old Landing Farm has also been sold to the Rehoboth Bay Sailing Association, which presently has facilities at Indian Beach, Marshall said.

The sailing group plans to have a clubhouse and slips completed by next spring, said Marshall. Old Landing Farm with its Rehoboth Bay waterfront, was used as a seaplane base during World War II.

George A. Thompson

George A. Thompson, 80, formerly assistant postmaster at Hurlock for many years, died Thursday, Aug. 27, at the House-in-the-Pines, a nursing home at Easton.

He is survived by three sons, George, Harrington; James P., Washington, D. C.; J. Mitchell, Centerville; four daughters, Miss Olivia Thompson, Washington; Mrs. C. W. Benson, Las Vegas, Nev.; Miss Estelle Thompson, Towson; Mrs. John L. Curtis, Charleston, S. C.; five sisters, Mrs. L. Otis Cochran, Mrs. Wyatt Williams, Miss Grace U. Thompson, all of Hurlock; Miss Mattie Rook and Mrs. Cecilia Cutler, Philadelphia, and 10 grandchildren.

Services were held at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Hurlock.

HUMMEL

Hummel also is active in fraternal affairs. He is a member of Temple Lodge No. 9, Milford; Scottish Rite Consistory, Nur Temple; is a past high priest, Royal Arch Mason, Delta Chapter No. 6, Wilmington, and he belongs to the Kent and Sussex Scottish Rite Club. He is a member of the Methodist Church.

The 29th District includes all of the former 9th and 10th Representative Districts and embraces Harrington, Houston, and the Kent side of Milford.

CITY TO SEEK

Approved the installation of mercury-vapor lights on Clark Street when the money is available and after the lights had been installed on prior approved projects on Delaware Avenue and Center Streets.

The city manager is to secure rights of way on Center Street in preparation for street improvement by the State Highway Department. Center Street is a state-maintained road, as is Delaware Avenue, and both thoroughfares are scheduled to be improved soon.

On that portion of Center Street, running from the railroad to West Street, it was said some sidewalks would reach the porches. The Highway Department would improve the street, build curbs, with two feet and four inches between the curb and a four-foot sidewalk, which it would also build. Some trees would have to be felled and a gasoline pump at Quillen's Clover Farm Store would have to be moved.

Rights of way will also have to be secured on Center Street from the railroad eastward to Delaware Avenue, but it was not believed, at Wednesday night's meeting, there would be any difficulty securing them.

Fatality Free Labor Day Weekend Urged

Delaware can again be one of the nation's exceptional states by having another Labor Day weekend free of fatal accidents, a safety official suggested yesterday.

Richard M. McMullen, president of the Delaware Safety Council, noted Delaware had no highway fatalities during the long Labor Day weekend last year, and has often done the same on other long weekends. "Let's do it again," he suggested.

"All the grief and hardship that goes with serious accidents can be avoided by the use of good sense and caution in driving," McMullen said.

"A little less speed, a little more alertness, and avoiding the mixture of drinking and driving can mean the difference between safety on the highways and a shocking continuation of the unnecessary death and destruction we have been witnessing this year," he continued. McMullen referred to the states record of highway fatalities, which is running far ahead of last year.

"The throttle and the bottle are the big villains in the nation's highway traffic toll," the safety council president declared.

He urged drivers to keep away from drinking and to avoid the various traffic law violations associated with speed. These included improper passing, following too closely, failure to yield right-of-way, and excessive speed for road conditions.

Kent & Sussex Raceway To Open Meet Sept. 14

Kent and Sussex Raceway at Harrington will open its 1964 night harness racing program on Mon., Sept. 14.

This year's racing will be scheduled definitely for 30 nights with the likelihood of a 10-day extension provided weather conditions are satisfactory. This was announced by William W. (Pete) Shaw, racing director.

According to Shaw, stall reservations have been made to date for almost 500 horses, with indications pointing to a capacity of around 600 by opening night.

Many of the trotters and pacers which raced at the recent Ocean Downs Raceway meeting, and a smaller contingent from Brandywine, will appear at Harrington. Shaw said that raceway officials have continued their efforts to improve the raceway track surface. During the past year 400 tons of stone dust and 400 tons of sand have been added, he revealed.

As in the past, the Kent and Sussex program will consist of nine races nightly, Monday through Thursday, and ten races scheduled for Friday and Saturday evenings. Post time for the first race will be 8 p.m. with the daily double closing at 7:50 p.m.

Baseball Little League to Meet

The Harrington Baseball Little League will hold a meeting Tues., Sept. 7, at 7:30 p.m. over the First National Bank.

Plans for a banquet for all Minor League and Senior League boys will be discussed. This banquet will be held in November. The League is planning to have a big league baseball player for its guest speaker at this time.
