

Boggs Introduces Agricultural Bill

Sen. J. Caleb Boggs this week reintroduced a bill calling for a Commission on National Agricultural Policy, calling it a better approach than the President's for studying the country's overall farming situation.

Boggs first introduced his bill, which the 8th Congress did not act upon, 15 months ago. It provides for a commission of leaders from public and private life to "study, investigate and evaluate the problems and trends of agriculture in the United States with a view toward recommending an overall national policy for agriculture."

In his farm message to Congress last Thursday the President said he was going to reorganize and rename the National Agricultural Advisory Commission, an agency established by executive order of President Eisenhower in 1953.

As the Commission on Food and Fiber, the President said, this group would "conduct a fundamental examination of the entire agriculture policy of the United States."

In Senate floor remarks Boggs said he agreed with the President's intention. But, he said, the agricultural questions involved are "too large and complex to be effectively considered" by the reorganized and renamed agency.

Since it functions under the Department of Agriculture it could not carry out its function without "considerable dependence on and direction from" this department, the Delaware senator said.

"The country's need for a new look at agriculture's problems requires the most independent study possible," Boggs stressed. The commission provided in Boggs' bill would have 12 members, with the President, President of the Senate, Speaker of the House each appointing four members. Half of the members would be from government and half from private life, and an equal division would also be made politically.

Agriculture affects foreign policy, the world's population problems, world trade, unemployment and other areas, Boggs said, and for these reasons requires the "best possible commission" to conduct the inquiry and make recommendations.

All Delaware Veterans, Attention

The Veterans' Administration Wilmington Regional Office, through which all veterans', widows' and orphans' claims are processed and serviced, is to be transferred to the northern section of Philadelphia. Not only will the personnel be transferred, but all official records will be moved to Philadelphia.

All services—filing of claims, processing of applications, securing of affidavits, etc.—are proposed being transferred out of Delaware. Service, which a grateful government conferred upon all veterans for their sacrifices in time of war, are soon to be reduced to a vanishing point so far as Delaware veterans are effected.

Presently, there are 56,000 veterans living in Delaware and nearly 8,500 compensation claims and pensions are being serviced through the Wilmington office.

Service-connected disability award veterans will be seriously handicapped because of the additional time and expense of travelling a greater distance out of state—some of whom will need travel escort.

Within a few years, thousands of Delaware World War II veterans will be entitled to a veteran's pension. Again, an unnecessary inconvenience will be placed upon these deserving veterans. It is estimated that four out of five veterans will be seeking assistance during their life expectancy.

The American Legion, Department of Delaware, urges all Delaware veterans to write our United State Senators John J. Williams, and J. Caleb Boggs, Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. and United State Representative Harris B. McDowell Jr., House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

Send your protest opposing the removal of the Wilmington Regional Office from Delaware.

Callaway to Head Heart Fund Drive in Kent County

L. Gooden Callaway, of here, has been named chairman of the 1965 Heart Fund campaign in Kent County.

Mr. Callaway and his two counterparts, Mrs. Winifred Lynch in Sussex County and Mrs. Charles G. Knodel, in New Castle County, will collectively supervise the efforts of more than 6,000 volunteers in the appeal for funds this month.

Mr. Callaway was re-appointed to the county post after having served in that capacity last year. His appointment was announced by Frederick Walter, of Wilmington, state chairman of this year's Heart Fund.

The heart workers will be seeking a total of $150,000 to finance the program of research, education and service of the Delaware Heart Association.

While the entire month of February has been designated as Heart Month by President Johnson, the principal effort will be concentrated on Sun., Feb. 21, which has been named Heart Sunday. This is the day when, throughout the state as well as in other parts of the nation, volunteer solicitors will go door-to-door in their neighborhoods in an effort to raise the bulk of the funds.

"I want to thank Mr. Callaway for accepting the chairmanship again this year and for joining with so many other Delawareans in an all-out effort to reduce the tragic toll of heart disease," Mr. Walter said. "Heart and blood vessel diseases account for more deaths each year than all other diseases combined, and it will require the active participation of dedicated persons such as this to bring the killer under control."

Girl Scouts Complete First Aid Lessons

For the past three Monday evenings, Girl Scout Troop No. 679 of Harrington has been receiving instructions and practical demonstrations on First Aid. The following report was made by Beth Graham of Troop No. 679 on the three lessons.

On Monday January 25, George VonGoerres attended the meeting and showed the group his first aid kit. He has been active in teaching of first aid courses for the American Red Cross and The Diamond State Telephone Company for many years. He told the girls what to do if someone is hurt, if a bone is fractured or if their clothes caught on fire. He also instructed them on artificial respiration. The many questions from the group were answered and a demonstration of the triangular bandage was given. Mr. VonGoerres pointed out that sometimes more harm than good is done if the person who is applying the first aid is not well trained in the work.

Rev. Quay D. Rice showed a film on rescue breathing to the Troop on Monday evening, Feb. 1. The movie helped the girls to learn how this technique has saved many lives.

This past Monday evening, Mr. VonGoerres returned to give actual practice in rescue breathing with a dummy. Each one in the troop was given an opportunity to use the mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

The lessons will help the girls to attain a badge on preventing accidents or on health care. These are requirements for the Sign of the Star award.

The troop was recently presented with the Sign of the Arrow for completing nine specific activities. Donna Mahoney has joined the troop, transferring from Pinehurst, N. C. Mrs. Albert Mason is troop leader, assisted by Mrs. Alvin Thompson.

Funeral Held For Civic Leader, Purnell

The funeral of Harold W. T. Purnell, 68, widely known civic leader, historian and merchant, was held Saturday afternoon at Westley Methodist Church, Georgetown.

Mr. Purnell died Thurs., Feb. 4, at 7 a.m. at his home in Harrington. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Mr. Purnell was a state senator from 1933 to 1946, and served as president pro tem of the Senate in 1942 to 1946. He was elected grand master of Delaware Masons in 1933, and was a 33d Degree Mason and a member of various Masonic bodies.

An amateur archaeologist, he was former president of the Sussex Historical and Archaeological Society and was considered an authority on Delaware history, especially Sussex County.

His collection of Indian artifacts was one of the largest outside of a museum. He also had a comprehensive collection of books on Delaware, antique furniture, ceramics, guns, lighting devices, stamps, coins and postcards.

Mr. Purnell was a former president of Friends of John Dickinson Mansion, chairman of the Zwaanendaal Museum at Lewes, a former member of the State Board of Parole and chairman of the Sussex County Committee of the Delaware Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

He had served as a member of the State Archives Commission and was a member of the Delaware Society for the Preservation of Antiquities.

He was a former member of the State Board of Education and a director of the Hospital for the Mentally Retarded at Stockley.

Other civic and business affiliations included: Past president of the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce, former president of the Georgetown Fire Company and vice president of Georgetown Rotary Club.

He had held offices with the Delaware Safety Council, the Delaware Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the Delaware Motor Club. He had been on a committee of the Boy Scouts of America, was active in the Red Cross and was a member of the executive committee of the Delaware Cancer Society and the Navy League.

Friends called at the Dodd-Carey Funeral Home Friday night. Although his business interests were in Georgetown, Mr. Purnell had lived in Harrington since marrying the former Loretta Paskey, former principal of the Harrington Elementary School, about a year ago.

In addition to his widow, he is survived by two sons, John Pruitt Purnell, an associate in the family business, Purnell Hardware Company and Lewis Morgan Purnell, stationed in Kingston, Jamaica, with the U.S. State Department, and four grandchildren.

New Concept For Feeding Dairy Herds

A new concept of feeding dairy cows, completely contrary to ideas of a generation ago, is gaining wide favor among dairymen in the Eastern states. The new feeding program eliminates separate feeding of roughages by incorporating the roughage into one complete ration which is kept before the herd at all times. It is the built-in-roughage program, the result of extensive research by feed companies dating back to the early 1930's.

In earlier days, dairy authorities were convinced that a dairy cow had to have hay or other roughage in its original form, along with the grain ration. Research conducted in the early 30's and published in the Proceedings of the American Society of Animal Production in 1938 showed that roughage could be processed with the grain ration to make one complete ration.

Although economic conditions did not favor this type of feeding at that time, research was continued because it was apparent that increasing land values, plus higher labor, equipment and building costs would eventually make such a feeding program economically desirable.

Key factors of the new feeding concept are these:
1. The ration is complete. No other roughage or grain is needed.
2. It is self-fed in dry lot.
3. It must be available to the cows at all times.
4. Livestock mineral, free choice, is kept before the herd at all times in a separate feed. (Continued on Page 5)

D.N.G. Plans To Supervise Military Support To State

Headquarters of the Delaware National Guard has been reorganized to include a new section that will plan and supervise all military support to State and local Civil Defense organizations.

Maj. Gen. Joseph J. Scannell, the adjutant general of Delaware, said the new organization carries out a policy adopted early in 1964, under which state adjutants general will be responsible for all military assistance—both men and equipment—which will be provided to support Civil Defense in an emergency.

The plan has no connection with the pending merger of Army Reserve and National Guard forces, nor does it diminish the responsibilities of Civil Defense officials at state or local levels, Gen. Scannell said.

Under the plan, the state adjutant general and his headquarters will be ordered into Federal service in case of a civil defense emergency, and will assume command of all active and reserve military forces in the state—Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps—that are available to help. Units that have immediate national defense missions will not come under command of the adjutant general.

The plan is expected to produce closer support for two reasons: Civil Defense officials will deal with a single military headquarters rather than a separate one for each service; and the adjutants general, while they will be on duty as federal officers under (Continued on Page 8)

DERRICKSON ELECTED EASILY AS DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CHM.

Red Cross Fund Drive Begins March 1

The 1965 fund drive to carry on the humanitarian services of the Red Cross will begin Sun., March 1, in Delaware.

The goal of the intensive month-long campaign in the state is $319,000.

A large army of volunteers will launch an appeal to enroll Delawareans in the world-wide organization which is dedicated to the tradition of mercy.

Harry B. Bissell, Jr., Wilmington businessman, is serving as campaign chairman this year.

The drive is the Delaware Chapter's annual appeal for the funds needed to carry on local, national and international Red Cross health and emergency welfare programs.

The quota this year will provide for $149,409 or 46.3 percent to go to the national organization as the Delaware Chapter's allotted share of the total expenditures of the American National Red Cross.

"The Red Cross belongs to all Delawareans," Mr. Bissell said. "It serves all the people and depends entirely upon their voluntary support for its funds. It is imperative that we meet our goal this year if we are to meet our increasing obligations."

The campaign slogan is "Join Up and Serve — Join In and Give."

It is funds raised in the annual appeal that helps the Red Cross to aid our servicemen and their dependents at home, across the country and around the world; provide emergency care for disaster victims and help families recover from losses caused by storms, fires and floods; train families in home nursing, first aid and water safety, and help our youth gain, by serving others through the Red Cross, the experience and training that will equip them to become the future leaders of the community and the nation.

The campaign chairman pointed out that all Red Cross disaster aid is an outright gift, made possible by Delawareans who support the Red Cross.

He said the Delaware Chapter aided 63 families, including 152 adults and 198 children, driven from their homes by fire throughout the state last year. They were provided with food, shelter and clothing.

Mr. Bissell asserted that Red Cross relief expenditures for the 10 major domestic catastrophes in 1964 exceeded $6 1/2 million and resulted in aid to several hundred thousand persons in many parts of the United States.

44 School Units Lag In Bias Act

Only 36 of the 80 Delaware school districts have met the requirements of the federal Civil Rights Act of 1964, according to a state school official.

The state had set a deadline of Wednesday for districts to file compliance notices. However, officials of the State Department of Public Instruction still expect at least 43 of the 44 districts which haven't filed the notices to do so.

A district which doesn't meet the act's requirements will soon face the loss of federal funds.

Lord Baltimore District in southeastern Sussex County was called a possible holdout Wednesday by Daniel E. Koble, state agricultural education supervisor.

Koble is working with Assistant State Supt. Howard E. Row to achieve total state compliance with Title 6 of the act.

He said the Title stipulates that any government agency which discriminates against any person on the basis of race, creed or color will lose federal aid funds.

Delaware was notified Jan. 3 that it must formally comply with the federal act or lose federal funds, Koble said. The state has 60 days from that date to secure compliance, he added.

Letters mailed to the 80 districts last month gave Wednesday as the deadline for filing the necessary notices. Koble said he has contacted all 44 districts which haven't filed them and expects at least 43 forms without difficulty.

He said school districts may comply with the act by filling out the form mailed to them last month and returning it to his office.

They also may comply by submitting a plan for integration or by showing a court order telling (Continued on Page 8)

Vernon B. Derrickson was elected unanimously to his eighth term as Kent County Democratic chairman Tuesday night by the new county committee.

The committee also upheld the election of Michael J. Ambruso over William M. Murphy Jr. as committeeman in the 5th Election District of the 27th Representative District, backing up the judges who had thrown out five ballots marked in ink instead of pencil.

Harmony reigned as the committee selected all its officers without opposition, and in short order. Earlier reports of dissatisfaction with Derrickson's leadership did not materialize in votes against him for chairman.

Also elected were Mrs. Blanche Cahall to her third term as vice chairlady; James B. Messick as secretary, and Maurice A. Hartnett III as treasurer.

The only contest occurred in the seating of Ambruso when Richard V. Noble appeared on behalf of Murphy and himself. Noble was one of five persons whose ballots were not allowed in the race between Ambruso and Murphy.

Noble contended that rules requiring ballots to be marked in pencil or crayon—not ink—were not made known and that his right to vote had been denied.

Harrison F. Turner, a Kent County attorney, spoke for Ambruso and said the inked ballots had to be thrown out and the judges supported.

Turner pointed to the election code and to court decisions relating to strict enforcement of such rules and claimed the particular rule involved is not arbitrary since use of a colored pencil, for example, could identify who voted and for whom.

Not to support the rule and the judges, he said, would "result in future elections, in the utter breakdown in the system of voting."

Immediately before the roll call on the issue, Derrickson told the committee that copies of the instructions were sent to each committeeman (Murphy was a committeeman) and that the judges were fairly selected and all agreed on their course of action.

"I'm sorry this had to occur but it has occurred," said Derrickson.

Noble then asked who was the chairman, since Messick had been presiding.

"I'm the acting chairman," replied Messick.

"I'm chairman," said Derrickson, adding that after the committee members were seated he would step down and an acting chairman be named until the election of a new chairman.

Derrickson then banged the gavel and called for the vote, which was 47 to 3 in favor of seating Ambruso.

Derrickson was then nominated for chairman by Leslie C. Greenly, who told the group that Derrickson was giving Kent County the same type leadership that Presidents Roosevelt, Kennedy and Johnson had given the United States.

"Just as the American people have demanded the service of Lyndon Johnson," Greenly said, "we in Kent County demand the service of . . . Col. Vernon B. Derrickson."

Counseling Service To Science Fair Entrants Available

The Delaware Council of Engineering Societies' student guidance committee has established a counseling service to aid high school students who are entering a project in the annual state science fair.

Now in its thirteenth year, the fair seeks to increase students' interest in science through the building of exhibits in a field of the students own choosing.

The DCES counseling service provides assistance in selecting topics and gathering information, although the students are required to do the actual construction themselves. The science fair will be held at the University of Delaware April 7 to 10. Last year 500 students from throughout Delaware entered exhibits.

L. V. Glick was selected to assist students in Northern Delaware. His office telephone number is 366-3525, and home number is POrter 4-259.

Students in Southern Delaware should contact L. T. Gast in Seaford. He may be reached at 629-9121, Ext. 440, during the day, and at 629-7326 in the evening.

Lent is less than one month off and therefore it is good for everyone to begin making plans for that Holy Season. In the Episcopal Church while it is recognized that to fast and to do without material and physical things are good disciplines and good reminders of our Lord's temptation and passion, still the emphasis is laid more on giving up of time for spiritual preparation and cleansing. Therefore, St. Stephen's, in the hopes that her church family will take this custom seriously, is planning a series of presentations on the Thursday nights of Lent with the exception of the first Thursday, which comes right after Ash Wednesday and of Maundy Thursday. The Vicar is happy to announce that he has been able to enlist the services of the Rev. Victor Kusik of St. Mary's in Bridgeville for this series. It will consist of five presentations entitled "The Drama of the Bible in Five Acts". Each presentation will follow evening prayer at 7:30 on each of the Thursday nights and will be followed by a short period of questions and discussion. Evening prayer will be held in the church, while the presentations will take place in the Parish House in an informal setting, with coffee. Everyone of the St. Stephen's Church family is urged to put aside these Thursday nights beginning with March 11. Visitors are invited.

Asbury Methodist Church Notes

The Reverend Edwin A. Hackney, missionary to India, who has spent the last seven years there, will be the guest speaker in Asbury Church this Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock hour. Rev. Hackney was a district evangelist, a builder of new churches and parsonages, instructor in sanitation, and vocational instructor. He is a graduate of Duke University and Duke Divinity School and the father of four boys. Rev. Hackney comes to us through our Commission on Missions and the Conference Board of Missions.

The 7 p.m. evening service will be brought by the pastor and the subject of his sermon is "The Tie That Binds." It is the pastor's hope that we will have an opportunity to see our contradictory pursuits of life while still professing other things.

The Fourth Quarterly Conference, under the direction of Dr. Hartwell F. Chandler, our District Superintendent, will be held Mon., Feb. 15, at 7:30 p.m. All members of the Board are urged to be present and all members of the congregation are invited, but the voting power is with the Board members.

Fence Talk

With George Vapaa

You gotta have love for horses in order to manage them. This is the first and most important single thing a horse handler must learn. Most of the trainers at the Delaware State Fair winter training quarters agree that one cannot do much with horses unless he has a knack — a confidence — or "horse sense".

About 100 owners, trainers and groomers listed the skills expected of a trained groom for me last week. We hope to use their ideas as a basis for teaching these skills to under-employed farmers, school dropouts, and others needing jobs.

Ray Ellerman, a trainer from Bridgeville, stresses that a horse is a creature of habit. The horse must be fed regularly, and on time. The groom should keep the feed tubs, water buckets and stalls clean, and look after the horse properly.

Others suggested the groom should understand and follow orders, which can include cooling out and watering properly, help in breaking a colt, cleaning harness and other equipment, and jog a horse. The groom should know the parts of a horse, external defects and blemishes, how to give first aid until the veterinarian arrives, and hay or feed quality. Hoof and leg care are particularly important needs.

Some jobs are more properly left to trainers or horse farm managers. These include principles of feeding, maintaining financial and performance records, points in breeding and horse selection, stable management, as well as supervising groomers.

The trainers agree that some groomers learn more quickly than others, but three months is considered to be adequate for most.

Three soil fertility meetings have been set for Feb. 15, 24 and March 3 at the Soil Conservation Service office south of Dover. Starting time will be 1:30 p.m. and run two hours. Similar sessions will be held on the same date at Crothers Store at Mount Pleasant, north of Middletown, starting at 8 p.m.

Soil is more than dirt. It must be cared for to give us our food at a booming rate. We should know the facts of soil, the use of water by plants, lime as a key to unlock plant food, and the part each fertilizer element has on a crop.

The first meeting will feature Dr. William Mitchell, our University of Delaware agronomist and Oscar Lavoie, SCS soils scientist. They will show how soils are formed, soil properties that affect plant growth and the uses of soil maps. Water movement in the soil, and using it to best advantage will also be covered.

Farmers who would rather switch to campsites than fight low agricultural prices should investigate before acting. A successful campground is not an easy, low investment enterprise. Like any other business, campgrounds take financing, sound planning and management, good location, design, construction and a knowledge of what the customer wants.

We classify campers into three groups: wilderness, transient and family. Each has particular tastes and needs.

The wilderness camper wants the scenic beauty or unspoiled countryside and great privacy. He's willing to hike into his campsite and doesn't expect conveniences. Normally, he'll camp in remote places and is not served by regular commercial ventures. Delaware has none of these.

The transient vacationer is on the go. He pulls in at night and leaves in the morning. So he looks for campgrounds with easy access on or near a main road. The transient wants flush toilets, face bowls, showers and adequate drinking water. He is not particularly concerned however about recreational facilities.

The family campers may come for a short or long stay. But regardless of length of stay, they have about the same needs in a campground except for recreation. Persons planning to spend most of their vacation at a single campground usually need a little extra to hold their interest.

Potential extras include good swimming and boating facilities, fishing, hiking, sports area, special scenic attractions and places to purchase food, ice, fuel and other needed items.

This type camper will probably spend more money than the others at one campground and he is the most likely to return if satisfied.

Establishing a campground is something like starting a small community. The owner must provide roads, sanitation, water, police protection, recreation activities, swimming and boating safety and may provide electricity, food, fuel and other conveniences.

Herbs, Spices Add Gourmet Touch To Mid-Winter Meals

Despite the wide selection of fresh produce and frozen foods available in the supermarket to provide summertime variety for meals all year long, mid-winter menus can begin to seem a bit boring. One simple cure for this is to do some experimenting with herbs and spices, says Janet Coblentz, extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware.

While "gourmet meals" are often associated with expensive restaurants, gourmet dishes are not necessarily expensive—they are just prepared with a bit more thought and ingenuity than an ordinary meal. And gourmet dishes aren't limited to restaurants; in fact, Miss Coblentz says, they are easily prepared by any homemaker and usually are the mark of a good cook.

"If we interpret 'gourmet dishes' as those that will pass the test of your sensitive taste, add something different to your daily meal plan and a different flavor to a familiar food, the use of herbs and spices may well give you a reputation as a gourmet cook," Miss Coblentz says.

In addition, herbs and spices can replace butter or cream sauce and salt for those on low-fat and low-salt diets, Miss Coblentz points out.

She explains that herbs are the leaves of plants which grow in temperate zones, while spices come from the bark, dried leaves, seeds, and other parts of plants which grow in the tropics.

Start out on your first few ventures with herbs and spices by following recipes which have been well tested, Miss Coblentz recommends. When experimenting, a good rule of thumb is to start with one-quarter teaspoon of a spice or herb. It is easier to add another small amount than to be faced with the problem of over-seasoning.

Most any of the herbs can be used interchangeably or blended together in recipes. Thyme, savory, marjoram, basil or bay leaf can be used to very stuffings. Basil, with its delicate flavoring, is often favored for egg dishes, but there is no reason why you couldn't try it in soups, with lemon on fish, or crumbled and sprinkled on tomato slices.

Herbs can be blended with butter for a new spread when French bread, heated with garlic and butter, has lost its novelty. When buying a packaged spice or herb, look for strength and color. A fresh, rich color and pungent aroma that rises to meet you mark highest quality. Miss Coblentz notes. Since these seasons gradually lose color and flavor, you get no bargain when you buy a large quantity in a bag. Smaller, tightly sealed containers are best for the average homemaker. Frequent replenishment assures you of best quality for cooking.

Spices and herbs should be stored in a cool, dry place and never near the range. Once containers are opened, herb flavor begins to wane. If they are properly stored, the few ounces of herbs in tightly closed containers retain good flavor and color for several months.

Herbs tend to lose flavor a little faster than most spices, but they are used in greater amounts. If you buy them in leaf form and crush them as you use them, they will keep their flavor longer. Ground spices should be replaced within six months, while whole spices keep their flavor almost indefinitely.

Some women who grow plants on kitchen window sills keep a few pots planted with rosemary, thyme, basil, marjoram, sage and parsley. This way, they can have fresh herbs whenever they wish.

Miss Coblentz points out that whole spices are especially useful in dishes which cook a long time, such as stews. They should be added at the beginning of the cooking period to extract their full flavor and aroma. Add ground spices and herbs about 15 minutes before serving. In uncooked dishes, such as salad dressings, fruit juices or cottage cheese, the spice or herb mixture should be left standing for several hours to develop maximum flavor.

Only your own taste can tell you how much of any spice or herb you will prefer to use, Miss Coblentz says. Since the pungency of each seasoning differs, and its effect on different foods varies, there is no hard-and-fast rule for the perfect amount.

Freeman Sets Up Consumer and Marketing Service

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has announced that the Consumer and Marketing Service will be established as outlined in the Secretary's Memorandum No. 1567 (12-31-64) to become effective immediately.

All functions administered by the Meat Inspection Division of the Agricultural Research Service and all warehouse examination functions of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will be transferred to the Consumer and Marketing Service. Program direction of the Meat Inspection Division functions is being transferred immediately, and direction of warehouse examination functions will be transferred April 1.

Secretary Freeman stated that the reorganization will strengthen the consumer protection and service functions of the Department and will lead to lower costs, saving an estimated $500,000 a year.

During the 30 days following the announcement of the proposed reorganization, some communications were received that questioned the proposed reorganization on the grounds that the inspection function should not be "separated" from "research, disease eradication, quarantine and similar activities."

Secretary Freeman stated that the reorganization announced will not affect the relationship of the inspection functions for meat or any other product to the supporting functions of research, nor to the related functions of disease and pest control, eradication, and quarantine.

The Secretary noted that the reorganization provides for the transfer of the inspection functions to a newly-appointed Deputy Administrator, Consumer Protection. Thus, the status of the inspection service as a function primarily designed for the protection of the American public is explicitly recognized. The same access to research and supporting facilities that has always prevailed will continue.

Secretary Freeman stated that the matter of placement of the Meat Inspection function within the Department has been analyzed over the past several years by such agencies as the Hoover Commission, jointly by the Civil Service Commission and the Bureau of the Budget, and by Congressional Committees and Intergovernmental Groups within the Department. Without exception, and after careful and comprehensive analysis, all such inquiries have led to the recommendation for the kind of reorganization carried out by this directive.

Secretary Freeman also announced the appointment of Dr. Robert K. Somers as Deputy Administrator, Consumer Protection, in the new Consumer and Marketing Service. Dr. Somers, who has had a long and distinguished career in the Department of Agriculture, is presently the associate director of the Meat Inspection Division. Dr. C. H. Pals will continue to serve as director of that Division. Hermon I. Miller will continue to serve as director of the Poultry Division.

Secretary Freeman said that he is very gratified that the reorganized agency is being staffed by such able and experienced personnel.

Secretary Freeman also stated that Dr. George L. Mehren, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, has been assigned personal responsibility to supervise the reorganization and the establishment of the Consumer and Marketing Service. Specifically, all matters relevant to the inspection of meat and poultry and other consumer services will be under the direct, personal supervision of Dr. Mehren.

Shift In Crop Production Predicted In Del.

Delaware's 9 1/2 million dollar soybean industry will take a downward turn in 1965 according to a University of Delaware agricultural economist. At the same time, the number of acres planted to corn is expected to increase. W. T. McAllister, farm management specialist at the University made these predictions in summarizing the state's agricultural outlook for 1965.

In spite of three dollar per bushel prices, soybean growers will make a gradual shift to corn to get away from the low yield problems of soybeans, according to the economist. Even in good growing years, soybean producers have been unable to get consistently high yields. The state average for the past seven years is only 22 bushels per acre, and in 1964 it dipped to 12 1/2 bushels. On the other hand, corn yields have been averaging nearly 60 bushels per acre, and even with the extremely dry conditions of 1962 the state average was 55 bushels per acre.

This shift in crop emphasis may tax local drying and storage facilities for corn. McAllister believes a substantial shift could cause serious handling problems.

Dairy farmers can expect a better year than any of the past three or four. The economist believes that milk prices won't increase much above present levels, but the costs of producing it will decline as a result of increased production per cow, lower roughage costs, and more total sales per man, per cow, and per acre.

McAllister believes that broiler production during the first six months of 1965 will be more profitable than during the last six months of 1964. He expects a production increase of three to four per cent, coupled with steady prices, and higher costs for feed, labor, and chicks. This will mean incomes about the same as in 1964.

Hogs seem to be one of the really bright spots in the 1965 farm outlook. Unfortunately they account for only 1 1/2 per cent of the state's total farm sales. So, increased income from hogs will be too small to help many farmers. The improved hog market is based on predictions of smaller spring and summer farrowings coupled with reduced hog numbers in feed lots this winter.

McAllister says beef cattle have gone through the worst of a price slump, and should enjoy gradually increased prices for the next several years.

FFA Boy Attends Poultry Conference

Wayne Donaway, a 16-year-old FFA member from Laurel will represent Delaware at the 12th Junior Poultry Fact Finding Conference in Kansas City, Feb. 11-14.

About 90 delegates from 4-H and FFA in 26 states are expected to attend the conference. The main topics for discussion are career opportunities in the poultry industry, latest production and marketing information and an opportunity to view exhibits and demonstrations of modern techniques.

Donaway's expenses will be paid by the Eastern Shore Poultry Growers, Selbyville. M. Hal Taylor, extension poultryman at the University of Maryland will chaperone Donaway and a delegate from Maryland.

The delegates will hold their fact finding clinic on Friday afternoon (Feb. 12) to discuss topics such as the proper disposal of dead poultry, the golden egg, consumer's choice when buying eggs, broiler and egg production, housing layers, and turkey production.

Donaway is a junior at Laurel High School. He has been enrolled in vocational agriculture for three years, carrying broiler projects. During this time he produced 50,000 broilers. He has participated in poultry judging activities, state and regional events. He plans to enroll at the University of Delaware after graduation and major in animal and poultry science.

The Junior Fact Finding Conference is sponsored jointly by the Institute of American Poultry Industries, Cooperative Extension Service, National 4-H Service Committee and the Vocational Agricultural Branch, Office of Education.

A LOOK AT MUNICIPAL ELECTION PROCEDURES

A mountain was made out of a mole hill recently over the voting procedure in the municipal elections. Nevertheless, the complaint should warrant another look at the procedures with the aim of making the elections as foolproof and as efficient as possible.

But let us go back to the beginning. To vote in a municipal election, a taxpayer must not be delinquent in tax payment. A ruckus at the first February meeting of the City, revealed one individual's name was, inadvertently, on the delinquent tax list, though she had paid her taxes. She was allowed to vote. Another was thought to have paid her taxes and she voted, but they had not been paid.

In practically all elections, errors are made and will continue to be made. Those in the January municipal election were negligible and the Election Board should be complimented.

However, the City Charter needs a complete revision and now is the time to make a study to improve voting procedures.

The Election Board is not presumed to know the name of every taxpayer, some have more than one surname, or in which ward the voter lives. Thus, the board must call upon someone identified with the City government, or a person challenging the taxpayer's right to vote, when there is a doubt as to the prospective voter's qualifications.

A system of registration, something like that of the Kent County Department of Elections, could be used. This system gives the address and written signature of the voter. When in doubt, the Election Board can request the voter to write his or her name.

So much for identification. Now let us turn to the matter of payment of taxes.

The Council, previous to the January municipal elections, voted, had passed a motion that all voters must have their taxes paid by Fri., Jan. 8, to be eligible to vote in the municipal elections the following Tuesday.

Later, it was learned that, under the Charter, anyone could vote as long as his or her taxes were paid before voting. Thus, some paid taxes on election day and voted. In this circumstance, some person with the City government would have to be convenient to pass this last-minute information to the Board of Election.

Now this is not efficient. Why not change the Charter in this manner:

Stipulate that all persons wishing to vote must have their taxes paid within two working days of the election. This would give the city clerk time to compile a list. Furthermore, stipulate the city clerk must give each election judge a copy thereof and receive a receipt for the same.

This would eliminate a question which arose at the first February meeting. The clerk said she offered the list to the three board members, in their entirety. One board member said he wasn't offered a list.

TOO MANY DOLLARS, TOO LITTLE SENSE

Money is the root of all evil, the Good Book says. And it comes closer to being an evil in itself in this day and time than ever before in the history of exchange. Writing about last week's international Sunday School lesson on Stewardship and possessions, Dr. Kenneth Foreman said, "if you add up the people who want to be rich, you will just about have the sum total of the people of the world."

Money and things money buys have since time immemorial been an obsession with many people. History relates major incident after incident to substantiate this conclusion. But it's doubtful that possessions have ever meant so much to so many people as they do now.

We can't take them with us when we go, but we can have a hang of a time with them while we're here. Such a philosophy seems to be more prevalent among us as we over-indulge in our bowl of continuous prosperity and dote on our cradle-to-grave security. Sociologists are now saying that much of our craving for things as well as our crime explosion, is based on our failure as a people to have to strive.

Bankers, other financiers and economists advise us a larger percentage of young people are starting married life with almost a total misunderstanding of practical economics and thrift. Many are starting out with the most ill-conceived conceptions of money, how to earn it and the things it can get.

Even honesty in the handling of money doesn't command the respect it once did. Or, the interpretation of honesty has been redone so that rules of the game surrounding money and responsibility with possessions are not quite so stringent.

Secondly, so many new adults are coming out with ideas that one can live above his income. Of course, extra easy credit, complicated financing and shrewd salesmen play a part in the education in the field so many young people get in practical economics. But high interest rates, carrying charges, insured debt and perhaps the threat of garnishee doesn't seem to bother too many folks whose sense of values has never been stabilized.

If Uncle Sam can operate on a financial structure of paper money and credit, why can't residents of this country? At least this influence is definitely felt.

Of more concern is the point that not too much is being done about educating our young people in the proper school about practical grass root economics.

So many parents are so wrapped up in this maze of home finance and that matter of making ends meet that they hardly get around to passing words of wisdom and caution on to junior. And the public schools aren't necessarily in the business of instructing the young about the hard, cold facts of money, and about thrift and honesty with possessions and in the marketplace.

The little bit church, schools and parents are doing apparently isn't enough. Instruction in values rather than commodities is in short supply. Evidence is exhibited in the fact that more Americans than ever are now living on what they expect to make in the future rather than on what they realize in current income.

The Laurinburg Exchange

INTERNATIONAL GRASS ROOTS

People travel the world for a broad spectrum of reasons. Businessmen go abroad to buy and sell. Students go to learn. Scholars go to undertake research in far-flung museums, libraries and universities. Statesmen go in their endless efforts to do something constructive about the problems that plague the world. And great numbers of people go primarily for fun, or because of wanderlust.

This has been true for many generations. But in our own era, world travel has taken on great new dimensions. The jet plane is the reason for that. It has, so to speak, conquered time. We can go almost anywhere in a matter of hours, flying high above the weather at dramatic speeds, and in total comfort. The person with a two-week vacation can spend virtually all of it abroad. And a gradual reduction in fares—which, incidentally, has been a pioneering effort of our own principal international airline, has vastly increased the numbers who can afford a big trip.

What this means is that there is a far greater knowledge among Americans of the wants, needs, traditions and attitudes of other people than ever before. The reverse of the coin is true also—the number of foreign visitors to our shores is rising as well. They carry back home a new knowledge of America and what it stands for.

It all adds up to greater and greater understanding, at the people-to-people level. A sort of international grass roots is developing. The ultimate result must be a better, healthier, more pacific world.

HOW TO RUIN YOUR TOWN

"How to Ruin a Town". This sort of article has been done in many ways, but the ingredients are similar everywhere:

- 1. Never attend any meetings. Just sit around and criticize about the way "they" are doing things.
2. Vote against any kind of tax levy—whether the purpose is good or not. "They" just want your money.
3. Make fun of the fire and police departments. "They" are just out there for the glory and pay.
4. Don't ever go to the movie, school concert or ball game, benefit program, or exhibit. Sit in a half-trance in front of that "idiot box."
5. Knock your city council. This is a must. Every one of them is just on the council to get a little kick-back.
6. Stay out of church. You might go on Easter and Christmas just to prove to yourself that the minister does not know what he's talking about and everyone there is a hypocrite.
7. Buy everything you can out of a discount catalog or mail order book. These firms are the first to come forth with donations and service to the community.
8. Don't support your town's newspaper. The out-of-town papers are a lot better and contribute much more to your town than the local bugle. But jump on your paper's editor the first time Aunt Hegatha's visit is left out—forget the other ten times it was in.
9. Spread any story or rumor that is defamatory or uncomplimentary about the town. Never say nothing nice about nobody. All kids are delinquents, all businessmen are crooks.
10. Above all, always be skeptical and cynical about anything supposed to be good for the progress and betterment of the community.
Your motto should be: "If it's good, it can't happen here." —The Marceline (Mo.) News

Several clubs are doing an excellent job of planning their monthly meetings. Fox Hall reports that they had five demonstrations this month. This was followed by a talk on Demonstration tips by Miss Helen Grampp, Dover, Oak Grove 4-H Club. I hope other clubs will call on Helen as she's had lots of experience in giving visual presentations. Oak Grove members, Larry Pepper, Fred Stites, George and Mary Grampp recently held a planning meeting. They plan to carry out a citizenship theme this year. At each meeting they will have their members present some phase either through reports, poems, or slides.

At Chestnut Grove's Parents Night, Janet Clendaniel and the officers welcomed new members, Albert Biddle, Jr., Audrey Ford, Lynn Lamb, Gary Lucks, and Cindy Melhunek into the club.

Congratulations to Sam Dixon III, for his selection as State Holstein Boy of Delaware. Sam has been a dairy member for eight years and owns 12 registered Holsteins.

Junior Council advisors Josie Hufnal and Janet Clendaniel have announced a bowling party Feb. 14 for council members.

Health Films Available

Three short health education films for migrant farm workers and their families have been released by the Public Health Service, U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. These films are of interest, also, to growers, crew leaders, camp managers and civic organizations working with migrant groups.

The new films are: "A Healthier Place to Live", "Keep Clean - Stay Well", and "Safe Food". Each runs 10 minutes, is 16mm, black and white, with sound.

Designed specifically for use with agricultural migrants along the East Coast stream, the films focus on clean housing, personal hygiene, and cleanliness in preparing food. With all-Negro casts, roles are played by persons who have worked and lived in migrant camps.

Sore Throat, Warning of Body Disorder

Sore throat is nature's warning system that something in your body is out of order.

Often a sore throat accompanies a common cold and the soreness passes in a few days with no further affect. But, says Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association, sore throat can also be the symptom of any of a wide range of diseases, from diphtheria to leukemia, that require your doctor's skill, not your guessing, to diagnose.

Sometimes tonsils and adenoids are involved in causing a sore throat, and when these organs cause trouble they frequently are removed. Tonsil-adenoid removals account for half of all operations performed on children, Today's Health reports. Sometimes the surgery helps prevent sore throat, sometimes it doesn't.

Allergies can cause sore throats. Cold, dry winter air can trigger it. So can extreme thirst, excessive smoking or mouth breathing. Anything that dries out the throat and cuts off secretions that normally wash dust away.

Virus infections of many types also are a cause of sore throat, and everyone who has had "flu" knows that this particular virus disease often causes the throat to hurt.

"Strep throat," is a serious infection that occasionally leads to rheumatic fever and possible heart damage. It can be knocked out with penicillin, if it is diagnosed in time.

The crucial diagnostic test in sore throats is the swab test in which the germs causing the trouble can then be identified.

There is little or nothing you can do to cure a sore throat at home, says Today's Health. There are medications which bring temporary easing of the discomfort but the cure must be launched by your physician. The best money you can spend if you get a sore throat is the dime it takes to call your doctor.

Girl Seniors May Have Choice In U.S.A. Tech. School

High school girl seniors may receive a place in the U. S. Army Technical School of their choice before they enlist in the WAC, according to M/Sgt. Walter R. Frazier, local Army Recruiting officer.

To be eligible for enlistment in the WAC, women must be between the ages of 18 and 34, single, of fine character and physically fit.

THE HARRINGTON JOURNAL

With Eleanor Voshell

"Will it wash?" is the first question today's shopper is apt to ask about a fabric. Back in 17th Century Europe the big question was, "Will it prevent contagions?" One myth cherished in the early development of textiles was that wool flannel worn next to the skin served as a filter to prevent the "ingress of contagions"! A century later flannel was suspected of causing "military fever" or even leprosy.

Colors as well as fibers were once thought to possess magic. During the Middle Ages, red dyes and clothing of any fabric were treasured. Red was thought to prevent smallpox and measles.

These superstitions have gone down the drain. Today women want "the facts" about new fabrics and fibers.

Stretch fabrics are being improved to "spring back" faster and better and to keep their shape.

I've heard there are two kinds of stretch fabrics—power stretch and comfort stretch. What does this mean?

Power stretch fabrics are highly stretchable and have quick recovery and "muscle power." They are used mostly in foundation garments, swimwear, and other athletic clothing.

Where holding strength is not needed, comfort stretch fabrics may be used. In everyday clothes they allow for freedom of movement and give a smooth, comfortable fit.

How far do these fabrics stretch? The amount of stretch depends upon the special purpose of the garment. For example, requirements for stretch may range from 15 per cent for blouses and shirts to 45 per cent for pants with stirrups. For tailored garments, such as men's and women's suits, fabrics with 30 per cent stretch and a high rate of recovery are recommended.

How are stretch pants supposed to fit?

Any garment made of stretch fabric should feel comfortable. It should never feel or look strained or too tight. Stretch fabrics are not meant to be under a continual state of strain. When clothes are made with good stretch fabrics, they are able to recover their original shape with little or no signs of change.

Is any special laundry care needed for stretch clothing?

Most stretch fabrics are hand washable. Many are machine washable if the manufacturers' directions are followed. Be sure to check the label.

Before laundering stretch garments empty the pockets and fasten buttons. Baste along the edge of scoop neckline or snug turtlenecks and ribbed cuffs or bands. Untie knit bows and turn down cuffs. Turn garments inside out to prevent buttons and bead trim from catching in other pieces. It also helps to cut fuzzing and pillowing on the surface.

Do you have to block stretch garments?

Many stretch fabrics can be dryer-dried, especially the synthetics such as nylon, Orlon, Dacron and Acrilon. Be sure to keep all labels and check this information. Before machine-drying let the garments go through the washer. Spin cycle and then set the dryer at low. Otherwise remove them dripping wet after the last rinse and hang them. Most stretch clothing needs no blocking. Drape dresses over a padded hanger. Hang skirts or slacks from clamp type hanger. Shape and smooth them with the fingers. Stretch plackets and bindings to prevent puckers. First, squeeze out excess moisture or blot in a towel. The weight of dripping water may cause the hemline to sag and spoil the fit. Don't twist or wring because "set-in" creases are difficult to remove.

Laundry Tip: If you're having trouble with your clothes dryer, check the lint trap before you call the repairman. Cold-weather clothing tends to shed a considerable amount of lint and fuzz, and the trap may need frequent cleaning.

Care of the lint trap is a home job that many people tend to neglect. It is wise to empty the trap after each use of the dryer. A clogged trap will reduce air circulation and thus cause slow drying. It can also affect the controls.

Delaware Food Market Report

The latest report of cattle on feed provides clues to future beef supplies and that numbers as of January were just equal to that of a year ago. This is particularly true throughout the Midwest which is the major source of our fresh beef supply. However, many of the cattle on feed were light weights, thus, requiring considerable time in feeding lots to reach market weights. This suggests that beef marketings during the first quarter of this year may be a little less, perhaps 3 or 4 per cent less, than for the same period in 1964. This simply means process will become firm and may increase some during March. Marketings are expected to start increasing a bit in April making beef more plentiful once again. Nevertheless, weekend specials will continue and they definitely place beef on the "best buy" list since prices are fairly low and quality usually good to high. Remember when buying beef all cuts contain the same nutrients, however, the tenderness varies greatly as to grade and cut. The more marbling (flakes of fat throughout the lean meat) this is present, the more tender the cut. The very lean beef is good beef also but must be cooked in such way as to make it tender. Moist cooking is good but this very lean tender meat may also be cooked by the dry method, also. The secret is very low heat (approximately 200 to 250 degrees F) over a much longer period of time.

Don't forget eggs are an excellent buy. Heavy receipts continue and, thus, makes eggs lower in price. The majority of these eggs on the market now are Grade A with the larger ones being good buys. Remember to buy from refrigerated display cases and to take the eggs home and refrigerate them soon after purchase if you want to keep the quality high.

Even though many growing areas have been affected by the cold, wet weather there is a good supply of fresh vegetables this weekend. The ones that are recommended include beets, spinach, carrots, small green peppers, tomatoes, green onions, and most cabbage-type vegetables include cauliflower, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, and cabbage.

This seems to be the season for specials on citrus fruits, particularly on seedless grapefruit and such oranges as Navel and Temple. These fruits are in good supply and the sizes are much larger than usual plus the flavor is much superior to those early in the season. Other fruits to check are Emporer grapes, apples, and some avocados.

Dairymen Cited At Farm And Home Week

Six Delaware dairymen were honored by the National Dairy Products Corporation at dairy day activities Wed., Feb. 10, at the University of Delaware Farm and Home Week. The top award went to Walter Mills of Greenwood. He received a $40 check and an engraved plaque. Second place went to Howard Wilkins, of Milford, who received $35 and a plaque. Other winners were Albert Lank, of Milton, third; Eldred Cress, Frankford, fourth; Ockels Dairy Farm, Seaford, fifth; and Carlton Blendt, Townsend, sixth.

The awards were based on outstanding dairy production records and management knowledge. All dairymen who participated in the Delaware Dairy Herd Improvement Association were eligible to compete. Scoring is based on such things as milk quality, feeding programs, production sanitation, herd health and production levels and breed improvement.

Five Dairy Herd Improvement Association supervisors were also honored at "Dairy Day". Ronald Wenger, Wilmington and Frank Searles, Harrington, received top honors of a $35 check and an engraved plaque. Other award recipients were B. Lee Currey, Wyoming; Orville Wheatley, Milford, and Joseph Stambaugh, Middletown.

Guides For Summer and Fall Potatoes Issued

The U. S. Department of Agriculture recommends a 7 per cent acreage reduction in 1965 for both fall and late summer potato crops, and a 2 per cent reduction in acreage for early summer potatoes.

Acreage-marketing guides issued by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service call for the important fall crop to be cut to 904,390 acres, 7 per cent less than last year. Acreage of late summer potatoes was recommended at 136,720 acres, also down 7 per cent. For the early summer crop, acreage of 79,710 acres was recommended, down 2 per cent.

Individual State recommendations range from reductions of 10 per cent in acreage to acreages equal to 1964. In the major Northeast fall crop areas, the guides call for a 7 per cent cut-back in acreage in Maine and 6 per cent in Upstate New York, but none on Long Island, N. Y. However, the guides recommend a 10 per cent reduction in Long Island's late summer potato acreage, 9 per cent in New Jersey, 4 per cent in Rhode Island, and 6 per cent in Massachusetts and Maryland. Recommended acreages for early summer potatoes in Delaware and Maryland are the same as last year.

The acreage guides just issued, combined with guides previously released for the winter and spring crops, recommend that U. S. potato plantings in 1965 total 1,267,655 acres, 6 per cent below the 1964 total of 1,347,200. With average yields obtained on the guide acreages, U. S. production in 1965 would amount to 257 million hundredweight—a marketing guide which is 6 per cent greater than last year's below-average crop of 242.9 million hundredweight.

A more detailed report on these acreage-marketing guides will be included in the report "1965" Acreage-Marketing Guides, Summer-Fall Potatoes." This publication will be available for distribution through the State Agricultural Extension Service at an early date. The guides will also be available from the Marketing Information Division, U. S. Department of Agriculture, 346 Broadway, New York, N. Y. 10013.

Swine Carcass Show Scheduled

The sixth Delaware Swine Carcass Show has been scheduled for March 1-3. The event which is sponsored by the Delaware Swine Producers Association in cooperation with the University of Delaware Agricultural Extension Service and White Packing Company of Lewes, is open to all swine producers.

John Shropshire, extension livestock specialist at the University, says that any breed of market hogs between 180-220 pounds may be entered. Facilities limit the number of entries to 25.

hogs based on date of entry.

All hogs entered in the competition will be judged on foot then they will be slaughtered and carcass evaluations made. These will be based on length of carcass, average back fat thickness, area of loin eye muscle and weight of the four lean cuts—ham, loin, butt and picnic. An official judge will determine final placings based on evaluation data and carcass quality.

All carcasses will be exhibited on March 3, between 5 and 8 p.m. at the White Packing Company. This session is open to the public. The official judge will discuss the placings and answer questions about hog carcass quality.

In stressing the importance of this event, Shropshire says the increased emphasis on lean meat makes it extremely important for swine producers to turn out lean hogs. He says the swine carcass show has helped to create an awareness of this problem and has prompted both producers and packers to work toward better carcass quality. At least one local packer is paying a premium to producers of high yielding hogs.

Boy Scout Plans For Boy-A-Month Now In Operation

A new effort to make Scouting available to all eligible boys in the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula has been launched by the area Boy Scout Council.

As Cub Packs, Scout Troops and Explorer Posts throughout the Del-Mar-Va Council observed the 55th Boy Scout Week, Scout Commissioner George B. Fitzgerald disclosed details of the "Boy-A-Month" plan now in force for the entire year.

All units will be involved in the year-round recruiting and registering of new boys, Mr. Fitzgerald announced. Each sub pack, scout troop or explorer post has a goal of signing up and formally registering a net gain of one or more boys during five different months of this calendar year, and must show a net gain of at least two boys at the beginning of its new charter year over the number recorded at the start of the prior year.

A special certificate, signed by Council officials, is awarded each unit qualifying at any time during the calendar year. Mr. Fitzgerald pointed out the new techniques are aimed at reducing the number of boys dropping out of scouting and keeping a constant flow of new members into each unit.

"A growing unit is a going unit," the Scout commissioner added. "First of all, we want to be sure that new boys are invited and encouraged to join; secondly, we want to be sure no boy is dropped without some effort at encouraging his interest and activity; and thirdly, we wish to encourage prompt re-registration after the annual charter review." Highlights of the Boy Scout Week observance are continuing through next Sunday, with special programs scheduled by packs, troops and posts as well as council-wide events. The annual reports to the governors of Maryland, Delaware and Virginia are scheduled for Friday, Feb. 12, in Richmond, to which Eagle Scout Albert McMath, Troop 313 of Onancock, Va., will travel to make the report to Gov. A. S. Harrison.

Sunday the second portion of scouting award ceremonies sponsored by the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington will be held in Georgetown. Since the Diocese covers the same tri-state area as the Del-Mar-Va Council, the presentations were held for northern units last Sunday in Wilmington. Next, Sunday the host-church will be St. Michael the Archangel, with ceremonies at 3 p.m. to have the Most Rev. Michael W. Hyle, Bishop of Wilmington, presiding. Awards offered by the Catholic Committee on Scouting to outstanding units, boys earning special honors through service and study, and to individual adult leaders will be presented by Bishop Hyle.

Memorial Bridge Business Increases In January

Delaware Memorial Bridge registered another 6.8 per cent increase in business in January, 1965 over the same month in 1964.

Figures released by General Manager Frank J. Horty this week show there were 854,305 crossings last month while there were 799,911 in January, 1964. This is a gain of 54,394 vehicles. In his monthly report to the Delaware River and Bay Authority, Horty points out that revenue also was up by 6.4 per cent during the period. Collections in January came to $528,595.80 compared to $496,609.70 a year earlier. This was an increase of $31,986.10.

Bridge traffic for the 12 month period ending Jan. 31, 1965 was 13,521,883 compared to 12,365,749 the previous 12 months. This was a 9.4 per cent gain over 1,156,134 vehicles.

Revenue for that 12 month period was $8,099,365.75 compared to $6,336,218.90 the previous year. This increase of $1,763,146.85 represents a 27.8 per cent jump.

He also announced that James Maxwell was first among the toll collectors and was awarded a $50.00 U. S. Savings Bond in the monthly efficiency competition. Emory Postles was second and received a $25.00 bond. Howard Wilson, Joseph Wierzbicki and Howard Givens finished in that order.

Redden and Tribbitt Shine, Lions Tie Tourney Champ Bucs

Coach Bill Muehleisen's tough Harrington High wrestling Lions continue to do well against rough opposition as they tied Milford's Invitational Tournament Champions 22-22 on the Milford mat Friday night. Milford in the recent tournament had won out over Dover, Dover Air, Smyrna, Middletown, Caesar Rodney, Delmar, Easton, Md. but against the fighting Lions had to get a pin from 250 pound George "The Monster" Wilkins in the final clash to scrape up the deadlock.

Jack Redden trailed in the early going at 95 pounds but pinned Benton with two seconds left in round two. Allan Greenly outclassed Lane 9-1 at 103 pounds to send the Lions out to an 8-0 edge.

Milford's classiest grappler, Larry Pfeiffer and David Greenly clashed head-on in a battle of undefeated 112 pounders. Pfeiffer, the Milford Invitational champion at his weight, finally took a narrow, hard-won 5-3 decision in what must have been his toughest fight this season. Pfeiffer was good enough two years ago to extend Georgetown's fabulous state champion, Vic Pizzala.

Dover Air Upsets Harrington, 64-55

Jim Hawpe's Harrington High basketball Lions came up short against a stone wall Friday night as the Dover Air Base High School Falcons came here and scored an upset victory.

Everything went sour for the locals. Basketballs rolled around the rims of the baskets all night, then dropped in for the visitors and out for the home team. Harrington fans believe the officials could have done a better job, also. The Falcons had a good night and did especially well in the rebounding department.

At one point the Lions trailed by 14 points but courageously rallied to within two points of the Airmen only to lose Richard Black on fouls. With Black out, the drive lost much of its impetus.

Glenn Smith continued his sharpshooting as he tossed in a career-high total of 25 points. Sam Knox caught 11 tallies for the Lions.

Harrington's 6-3 record puts the locals in fourth place in the Western Division of the Henlopen Conference. H.H.S. is one game out of second place now occupied by Greenwood and Bridgeville.

It is definitely no disgrace to lose to an opponent of his class.

The rivals traded bouts with Mills of Milford decisioning Steve Welch at 120 and Jim Cain of Harrington outpointing Corder.

Milford won the next three tests as Rick Fisher won over Allan Jerred 7-0. Willis decisioned Bill Harcum 6-0 and talented Gary Simpson pinned Harold Coleman. Harcum's match was the first this year that he did not either win it or lose by a narrow margin. He has a good record for a tyro.

Bob Smith decisioned Stevenson 2-0 to get H.H.S. close again at 17-14.

Charlie Tribbitt squared off with Robotka at 165 pounds and nearly pinned the Buc in round 1. Tribbitt flattened Robotka for his first pin of the campaign in round three. This unexpected bonanza made the score, Harrington 19, Milford 17, with Louis Starkey coming up.

Starkey has a string of 20 straight dual meet victories and wins most of his bouts by falls. Knowing this the Buc 180 pounder, Phillips ran like a deer and wrestled defensively, not trying to win, just avoiding the pin.

An opponent who refuses to mix it up and who knows what he is doing is hard to flatten. Louis got the decision but Milford was happy to eventually settle for the stalemate.

The Lions now are virtually certain to finish at .500 or above for the first time with a record of 3-3-1 and weak Easton and in-and-out Delmar left on the schedule.

Felton Romps Over Greenwood

An attempt was made in some quarters last week to make it appear that Greenwood, with only one close defeat at that time, had a chance to halt the high-powered Felton combine which had a winning streak of 26 straight games.

The more realistic of the sport fans in this area knew better and so did the Green Devils as they sprinted out to a 23-6 first quarter lead on the way to a rousing 82-44 victory. Felton had a lopsided 36-14 edge in field goals and only Greenwood's well-known proficiency from the free throw line made the score a little bit more respectable.

The Foresters gave Jim Blades extra attention and succeeded in holding him to "only" 17 points, but Dave Wood seized the opportunity to pump in 23 markers. Phil Clark (14) and Bill Dill (11) were in double figures also. Bill Barr, the fifth regular, missed two foul shots or the starting five would have made the select group.

Duane Anthony led the losers with 16 points. Dave Henry was next with 13 markers. Henry made nine fouls in as many attempts. Anthony also was perfect in this department with four-for-four.

The loss was the second in nine games for Greenwood and left them tied for second place with Bridgeville. Felton is 9-0 and like Old Man River "They just keep rolling along."

Felton Nabs No. 27 In Succession, 88-63

Felton's magic formula worked again at Delmar Tuesday night. This schedule calls for a quick, merciful annihilation of the enemy in the first quarter (23-7) so that the losing team and fans may then relax with the outcome already apparent and enjoy seeing the smooth-working Green Devils in action.

We were talking with a native of Philadelphia recently who stated that he had never seen a better scholastic team. This may be extravagant praise but the fact remains that the Greenies have virtually spearheaded the Henlopen Conference for the last two years.

Easing up in the second period the winner "only" outscored the losers at slightly better than two to one. Lightly 46-19 at halftime, Felton Mentor, Joe Kerns, used ten players with nine making the scoring column.

Jim Blades scored at his most prolific 1964-65 pace as he poured in 33 points. Also in double figures were Phil Clark (15), Bill Dill (12) and Dave Wood (11).

Felton's victory was the tenth of the year and 27th in succession. Barring an epidemic they should reach 33 at the end of the regular season.

Jayvee Grapplers Take Two Matches

In addition to the good work being turned in by Bill Muehleisen's varsity mat Lions, several outstanding prospects are to be found on the jayvee squad.

The young Lions defeated the Wicomico jayvees 19-2 on Wednesday night and bested Milford's junior varsity 19-5 on Friday night.

Against the Marylanders, Dan Adams wrestled to a draw. Mike Stayton, Roger Moore and Mike Bakota won decisions. David Hurd was very impressive as he pinned his opponent in the second round. Bill Webb did a good job as he too won by a fall.

Chuck Hurd, a 75 pound seventh-grader, gave away 15 pounds but won the decision at Milford. Another seventh-grader, Louis Kemp, won by a pin as did Roger Moore. Dan Adams and David Hurd also won on points over their Bucaerian rivals.

We predict that two or three of these boys will move up to the varsity next winter. Louis Starkey (180), Charlie Tribbitt (165), and Bob Smith (154) are in the graduating class so the search will be on next season for large boys to replace them.

Harrington Cagers Win At Greenwood

Jim Hawpe's Harrington High basketball team drew within one game of a coveted .500 season by tripping Greenwood's Foresters 62-56 at Greenwood Tuesday night. The battle of two of last season's doormats was decided in the second period when the Lions outscored the Foresters 18-11.

Greenwood outscored Harrington by one point in the combined totals for the other three periods. Glenn Smith of the Lions has hit over 20 points in his last few outings and with the 23 he canned at Greenwood now is only two points out of fifth place in the Henlopen Conference individual scoring ranks. Smith is scoring at a fine 16.4 points per game pace. Sam Knox had the best scoring night of his varsity career with 18 tallies. Smith, Knox, John Greenhaugh and Richard Black are averaging in double figures for the Lions. This is good scoring balance.

Duane Anthony's 19 points for Greenwood is his highest total of the campaign. Bruce Henry continued his terrific work at the free throw line as he canned 8 of 11 to total 16 points. Henry's ability to draw fouls and then sink the shot has disconcerted several teams thus far this winter. He is averaging close to 15 points a game and better than six good free throws per contest.

Ron Breeding had 11 points for the losers. Harrington led in Field goals 24-20. Greenwood made 16 of 27 free throws. The Lions netted 14 of 21.

The two schools are tied for third place in the Western Division of the Henlopen Conference with fine 7-3 records. The leading teams in the Eastern Conference, Milton and Lord Baltimore, have only 6-4 logs.

Wicomico High Grapplers Edge Lions, 22 to 20

Wicomico High of Salisbury, Md., sent its undefeated wrestling team to Harrington Wednesday night and the result was the same as a match between the teams at Salisbury in December. In both cases the Lions led going into the final bout of the evenly only to lose because Wicomico has an experienced heavyweight and the Lions do not. Harrington has auditioned three of the big lads with Ed Wheatly, a latecomer, currently holding down the position.

Freshmen Jack Redden and Allan Greenly led decisions to Wells and Dryden at weights of 95 and 103 pounds respectively to start the hostilities.

David Greenly and Steve Welch were victorious at 112 and 120 pounds to tie things up at 6-6.

A most unexpected development occurred in the 127 pound division when Jim Cain was pinned for the first time in his three year mat career. The fall occurred in the first round.

Allan Jerred brought Harrington up on even terms, with a sensational victory. Cropper of Wi-Hi had the Lion flat on his back when Jerred suddenly rolled his foe over and held him down for a full minute with Harrington fans chanting "Pin! Pin!" The referee called it a fall with 20 seconds left in the fray.

Bill Harcum "We keep wanting to call him David after his football-playing brother" put the Lions in the van for the first time with a 2-0 decision over Buntly.

Mike Kohel normally wrestles at 145 but as luck would have it has been out of action both times against Wicomico. These absences have cost the Lions a chance to win both of the encounters with the big school from Salisbury.

Harold Coleman, a strong and courageous eighth-grader, fills in at 145 for Kohel but as might be expected can't do much against the older boys he faces. Most wrestlers in the 95 or 103 pound divisions. Davis, of Wicomico, a real "showboat", confidently expected to pin Coleman and thereby give his team five points and the lead. The Lion was determined to keep his shoulders off the mat and to lose at the
