City Council Tuesday night placed one of the City's two police officers on probation for 30 days because he took leave without giving notice.

New Post Office To Be Dedicated At Old Dover Days

A blending of the old and new is offered this year's Old Dover Days visitors with dedication of Dover's new post office set for 1:30 p.m., May 1, the first day of the annual two-day event in Delaware's state capital.

The new post office, center for 48 satellite offices in the rapidly growing greater Dover area, is located on Lookerman Street, directly opposite the State Legislative Hall complex.

The building cost approximately $1,200,000.

Dover Postmaster James C. Bowdle said invitations to the dedication ceremony have gone to U. S. Postmaster General John A. Gronouski and the postmasters in Delaware and neighboring states.

Bowdle hopes Gronouski will be able to attend as the principal speaker. Also scheduled to take part in the ceremonies are Gov. Charles L. Terry, Jr., Dover Mayor Crawford M. Carroll and a band supplied by the Dover Air Force Base.

The new post office building is in the heart of Dover's historic area. Lining the nearby Green are houses once occupied by such Delaware greats as Caesar Rodney, John Banning and Richard Bassett.

In addition to the many 18th and 19th Century homes and gardens open for inspection, Old Dover Days will feature the traditional dancing on the Green, a review of the famous Delaware Rifles, clad in the garb of the First State regiment that joined Washington's army during the Revolutionary War, and colonial horsemen galloping through town as Caesar Rodney did on his historic ride to Philadelphia in 1776.

Gov. and Mrs. Charles L. Terry will assume official roles during the celebration for the first time with the governor's reception in Legislative Hall on the afternoon of Sat., May 1. This custom dates back to colonial times when the governors of various colonies often entertained large groups of visitors to their capitals.

The Mayor and Council of Dover also will hold a public reception in the Old State House on the afternoon of Sun., May 2.

A total of 25 old homes, gardens, public buildings and museums will be open to the public both days. Included are the former homes of Caesar Rodney, who rode horseback to Philadelphia on July 2-3, 1776 to vote for independence and John Dickinson, "Penman of the Revolution" who served as governor of both Delaware and Pennsylvania.

Rev. Quay Rice Sr. Speaks To Girl Scouts

Recently the Girl Scouts of Troop 679 observed National Girl Scout Week by attending divine worship services at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. Rev. Quay Rice, rector of the church, spoke to the group very personally, using the Girl Scout Laws as a basis for his sermon. The following account is a very brief report of that sermon. Those who were in attendance at the service that morning felt that the ideas expressed so well by Mr. Rice should be written in order that other scouts might be inspired by the message.

The sermon began with a quote from the Hon. Miles F. MacDonald of the New York Supreme Justice Department, which stated "not once have I seen a girl or boy who has passed beyond the tenderfoot stage of Scouting, accused of crime."

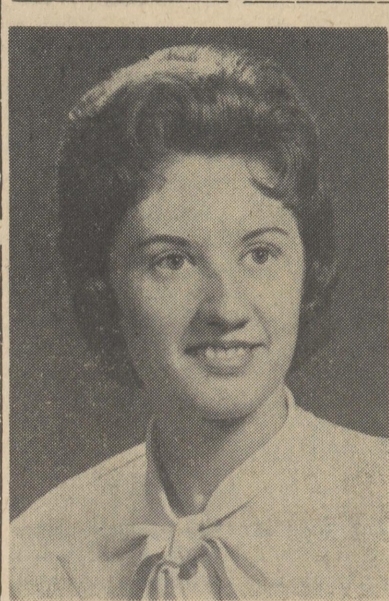

Continuing on, Mr. Rice mentioned that the greatest guide book for Girl Scouts, as well as everyone, should be the Bible. He pointed out that each of the Girl Scout laws was inspired, if not taken directly from the Holy Bible.

A Girl Scout is honest—using a letter from St. Peter to young St. Timothy as an example, he quoted the following "first of all I urge that . . . prayers . . . be made that we live life in all godliness and honesty."

A Girl Scout is loyal: Drawing on the Book of Proverbs he cited the verse which reads "loyalty and faithfulness preserve the king"—even a king's life depended on the loyalty and dependability of his people.

A Girl Scout is useful and

The Festival, scheduled for the Easton Armory, is the fifteenth to be held under the sponsorship of the Eastern Shore Arts Festival. ## "Need A Speaker?" Contact DPIA At Georgetwon

So you need a speaker for your club's program!

If this is the case, you can get assistance by contacting the office of the Delmarva Poultry Industry Association, with headquarters at Georgetwon, according to an announcement made this week by the organization's president, William R. Murray.

Members of the DPI Speakers Bureau have re-affirmed their willingness to appear before service clubs and other civic groups, providing a timely and interesting story about Delmarva's multi-million dollar broiler business.

About a year ago, some leaders of the Shore's poultry industry volunteered their services as speakers before organizations interested in hearing about the leading agricultural enterprise of the Delmarva Peninsula. Since that time, many groups have heard the story of how from a modest beginning of a flock of 500 birds back in the early twenties, last year's volume approximated 284 million broilers.

The preacher of the evening will be the Rev. Canon James G. Birney, who is assistant to the Episcopal Bishop of Delaware and is a resident Canon of the Cathedral Church of St. John in Wilmington. Canon Birney is the former rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Seaford and is a pioneer in the movement of spiritual healing in the churches of that area. He served on the Standing Committee of the Episcopal Diocese of Delaware from 1958 through 1961; has served on the Diocesan Executive Council for two three year terms, and was delegate to the General Convention of the Episcopal Church in the United States in 1961 and 1964. Canon Birney is very well known to the people of this section and many of the other churches as well as the Episcopal churches in this vicinity will want to make a special effort

Throughout the years, the City of Harrington has been working on the problem of trash disposal. It has been making headway on the situation but has never quite solved it.

At a Council meeting Tuesday night, Mayor Luther P. Hatfield said Sen. Walter J. Hoey (D) was preparing a bill stipulating borrow pits be used for a modified landfill with an attendant on duty six days a week.

Under the plan, a pit off the Marvel's Crossroads - Porter's Corner road, northeast of town, would serve Harrington, Felton, Frederica, Houston; one near Hickman would serve Farmington and Greenwood.

Tuesday night was appeal night on taxes. There were no appellants and the Council spent most of its time in executive session on a police problem.

When it returned, the remaining portion of the meeting was short.

The City's business Tuesday night was as follows: Since the City has no taxi service, it approved the application of Frank Morgan who has applied to the Public Service Commission for a permit to operate a taxi.

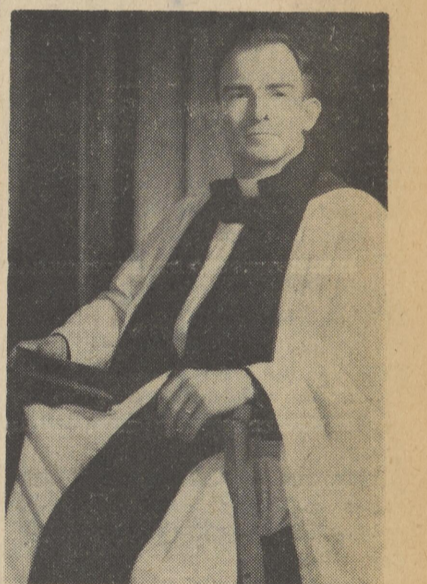

City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann announced the state fire marshal was here Tuesday and was scheduled to be here yesterday to inspect buildings.

The mayor announced bids on the City's $150,000-bond-issue for extension and improvement of the water system would be opened Monday afternoon.

Councilmen agreed to tour the City at 1:30 p.m. Sun., March 28. A proposed, previous trip was canceled because of snow.

Mayor asked Councilmen to check on abandoned automobiles, with city manager to check on one in the rear of 17 Hanley Street and one in a yard on Center Street. The City can get rid of them on a nuisance ordinance.

Work began this week on installing a sanitary sewer main across the property of Harrison Melvin, Delaware Avenue extended, eastward to the rear of Smith Avenue and Dixon Street. At this point, a sewer pumping station on Delaware Avenue will be re-installed to pump sewage down Dixon Street to a pumping station at Liberty and Dixon Streets.

DNG To Feature Medical Units

Artillery will be de-emphasized and medical units will play a much more important role in the Defense Department's plans for the Delaware National Guard.

This was the picture Maj. Gen. Joseph J. Scannell was given this weekend in the Army's proposed new troop list for Delaware. Under the plan, most units of the Army Reserve are to be brought into the National Guard. Overall strength will be reduced, but the remaining units will be at higher strength and have more equipment.

"We will need a lot more doctors than the dozen or so now active in the Guard and the Army Reserve, if we are going to do the job right," Scannell said. "Our total medical strength will include three hospital units—one now in the National Guard and two from the Army Reserve—plus a helicopter ambulance company which will replace our present Army Aviation company, and a new medical prosthetic detachment."

Overall strength of the reorganized National Guard will be 2,925-4,72 men less than the present combined strengths of Delaware Guard and Reserve units. The Guard now has 2,474 men in its units, the Reserve 918.

Major units to be eliminated are the Guard's 160th Artillery Group and 109th Ordnance Bn., and the Reserve's 415th Chemical Group. The Guard must also combine its two downstate Artillery battalions—the 2nd and 3rd, both now limited to 55 per cent of full strength—into a single battalion at 80 per cent.

"It looks like we have enough flexibility to offer a place to practically all Guardsmen and Reservists who want to continue serving with a unit," Scannell said, "and from that standpoint we have done very well on this reorganization, even though we will lose a little in overall strength."

"My principal concern has been whether the new plan would affect our ability to perform our state mission in disasters and civil emergencies. After seeing the Army's proposal, I am satisfied that we will be even better equipped to serve the State; at the same time we improve our readiness for national emergencies."

"We will still have about the same number of combat troops, even though the number of units is being cut. If anything, the addition of the medical units, and particularly the helicopter ambulance company, could be a major asset in case of a disaster in the state."

Scannell said he had discussed the reorganization with Gov. Terry over the weekend and assured him that the Guard's capability in state emergencies would not be adversely affected.

The realignment will not begin until units complete this year's summer training, and should be completed by March, 1967, Scannell said.

He has already been in touch with all Army Reserve unit commanders in Delaware, and has received assurance that their units will transfer into the Guard.

Details yet to be worked out include locating units to make use of existing Guard armories and Reserve training centers, and retraining of men who may have to transfer to other units to remain active in the reserve program. Scannell said he would appoint an advisory board of senior representatives of the Reserve, Active Army, Guard to make recommendations.

"I don't expect any serious problems," Scannell said, "because the Guard and Reserve in Delaware have always enjoyed a close working relationship. We will work this out together, just as we have worked out common problems in the past."

The following units will be retained in the reorganized National Guard under the Army proposal:

National Guard: 2nd and 3rd Automatic Weapons Bns. (5 units each) into a single battalion of 5 units; 262d Ordnance Co. into a Light Maintenance Co.; 198th Aviation Co. to a Medical Ambulance Co. (Helicopter).

Army Reserve: Signal Intelligence Detachment to Signal Search Radar Maintenance Det.; Transportation Light Truck and Engineer Dump Truck Cos. into a single light truck company; M. P. Confinement Det. to M. P. Stockade Guard.

A new Medical Prosthetic Detachment will be organized. Units to be dropped, and their personnel transferred to other units, are:

National Guard: 160th Artillery Group; 109th Ordnance Bn.; 249th Ordnance Co. (Direct Automotive Support)—241 men.

Army Reserve: 415th Chemical Group; 315th Ordnance Co. (Field Supply); Chemical Service Bn.; five three-men Signal Intelligence Detachments; two special Forces Detachments—206 men.

Present structure includes 55 units and detachments—32 in the Guard, of which 25 will be retained, and 23 in the Reserve, of which 13 are to be kept.

Delaware Food Market Report

When the market remains steady as it seems to be now, it's time to consider other things such as new foods and new processes. For after all, these may well be the foods we will be buying in volume soon.

Two new processes being used on foods that show great promise are atomic radiation and nitrogen freezing. Both of these methods will open new vistas as far as food is concerned.

Nitrogen freezing is a low temperature cooling method where temperatures range downward to minus 220 degrees F. Strict control particularly regarding the length of freezing time, is required. For instance, minimum freezing time is about 6 minutes for mushrooms. This technique is being used on other fruits and vegetables which have definite freezing problems such as tomatoes, avocados, melons, and papayas do. All of these foods may soon be common at your local frozen food counter, as a number of them are now being test-marketed. This new method also improves the quality of frozen asparagus, strawberries, and green beans.

Atomic radiation is another basic advance in food processing now approaching an early stage of commercialization. It allows preservation without heat and eventually may mean we will have a food more nearly fresh in terms of color, odor, and flavor.

An additional use of radiation, pasteurization by gamma rays, extends shelf life of foods. This can be of considerable economic importance since food spoilage is costly. Products offering greatest immediate possibilities for shelf-life extension are fish and shellfish.

Now, for some of the new products that are being tested. Bacon that is heated in your toaster. The bacon is packaged in individual servings in aluminum, it is pre-cooked and only needs to be heated quickly. An aerosol milk shake mix, which makes an instant "shake" when shot into milk is available. It needs no mixing or shaking. Sugar which is enriched with Vitamin B, and B2, niacin, iodine, and iron, is undergoing test marketing. This enriched product will retail for about a penny a pound higher than unfortified sugar. Free flowing margarine in a plastic squeeze bottle is still another new product. This margarine is a combination of soyflower, hydrogenated soybean and cottonseed oils, which when put together by a special formula makes it possible for the product to remain in a semi-solid state even when just removed from the refrigerator. These are but a few of the new things to come at the food counters all over America.

Charles R. Welch

Charles R. Welch, 86, a retired farmer of near Burrsville, died last Friday in Milford Memorial Hospital after a short illness.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Anna Belle Welch, he is survived by four foster sons, Edward Kohlman, Harrington; Francis Kohlman, Upper Darby; the Rev. Emanuel Barque, Washington, D. C., and Louis Barque, Houston.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the McKnati Funeral Home, Harrington. Burial was at Greensboro Cemetery, Greensboro, Md.

Nat'l Commander American Legion, To Visit Delaware

Donald E. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, will pay his official visit to Delaware Tues., March 23, according to State Commander William E. Melville.

Johnson, who is a native of Cedar Falls, Iowa, will be officially greeted at a banquet scheduled to be held in the Delmar Fire House at 7:30 p.m. that day. He will hold a press conference in the morning and address the Wilmington Lions Club at noon in the Hotel DuPont. Prior to the Delmar dinner, invited guests will attend a reception at 6:30 p.m. where they will have the opportunity to meet Commander Johnson and discuss issues with him.

It is expected that the national leader will have a strong statement with regard to closing of VA facilities and hospitals, scheduled to become effective on May 1, including the Delaware Regional Office.

Johnson attended the University of Iowa and later entered business in West Branch, Iowa. He is president of a food manufacturing plant. Active in civic affairs, he was elected city councilman and later re-organized and served as president of the West Branch Chamber of Commerce.

He enlisted in the U.S. Army and following service in the European Theatre with the 89th Infantry Division, he was discharged in 1946. Following his separation from service, he affiliated with Chauncey Butler Post No. 514, American Legion in West Branch.

In 1954, and again in 1957, he served as state chairman for the Radio Free Europe fund and made an inspection tour of Radio Free Europe facilities in 1954.

Arrangements for the department dinner have been completed, Melville said, and reservations may be made through the following named District Commanders:

GIRL SCOUTS

helpful. Again tying his text to the Bible he mentioned that St. James says "be ye doers of the Word of God and not hearers only."

A Girl Scout is courteous. Jesus told his followers to love one another, which embodies the idea of courtesy to others also.

A Girl Scout is kind to animals. He drew a comparison that girls would be kind to animals, and not less to other human beings, and to love kindness always.

A Girl Scout is obedient. The obedience to God's laws are also a basis for our respect of those who govern us whether it be our parents or the laws of the country.

A Girl Scout is cheerful. Mr. Rice mentioned that Jesus, while being a very serious young man, was not without his touches of humor, and he certainly did cheer those who found new lives in his love.

A Girl Scout is thrifty. The story of the wise and foolish virgins who were invited to the wedding feast, and how several of the young women were thrifty and wise in using oil for their lamps.

A Girl Scout is clean in thought and work and deed. The song of the Psalmist in Psalm 51 is "Give me a clean heart, O God, and put a right spirit within me." This seemed the guiding star for the Scouts. Certainly if thoughts are clean then what is said and what is done by a girl will be clean and fine also.

In concluding, Mr. Rice repeated his theory that all of the laws were inspired by the Bible, and the further that particularly during the Lenten season that they should read the Bible which is the greatest guide book of all time.

Asbury W.S.C.S. Notes

The Asbury Church Woman's Society of Christian Service met recently for their regular meeting. Mrs. Floyd Nasser conducted the business session.

Mrs. William Stokes presented the evening's topic, "Rekindling the Inner Life Through Prayer". A discussion of the various methods of praying and what these prayers should consist of was given by Mrs. William W. Sharp.

Mrs. Robert Moore sang "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied by Miss Sarah Moore.

Local church activities chairman, Mrs. James Moore reported that lunches will be served during the two day Antique Show at Asbury on April 5 and 6.

She has asked members of the Society to contribute cakes, pies or homemade vegetable soup for the lunches. Anyone wishing to make such a contribution should call Mrs. Moore as soon as possible.

Children's Work Secretary Mrs. Marvin Richardson told the group that money collected at the Missionary Study lessons of the Primary and Junior departments has been contributed to the MYF project of the Korean orphan, Kim Yung Jin.

The next meeting will be held on March 30 instead of the usual time, April 6. Due to the Antique Show being held on that date, the W.S.C.S. meeting has been advanced a week.

St. Patrick's Day In North Ireland

The Time: March 17, 1944

The Place: County Ulster, Dugganong, North Ireland

By W. C. Burgess

Now comes a crowd of people beating on a great big drum.

"Now what is that." Nothing excepting the Irish are helping St. Patrick run the snakes out of Ireland. The roundup occurs once a year. And I'll bet you one nicker they never found one snake.

The reason for this is that the grass is green as spinach, because the ground is always damp. It is too damp for a snake to live in. They are built too close to the ground. Ireland and England are both known as foggy isles.

Now, back to St. Pat's Day. All over Ireland, there is an invention called the "pub." On St. Pat's Day they get out this big drum and start out chasing snakes. At every pub they come to they knock off for a little Guinness or a little Jamison. After while they begin to wonder.

The Protestants will say, "I wonder where the Harps are today; so they go looking for the Harps. The Harps say, "I wonder what our old buddies the Protestants are doing today."

"Gee, chasing snakes is rough today. There isn't a snake to be found anywhere."

They both start out looking for each other. If they meet they say, "Now, we're getting somewhere. They have a "Stone Royal." They start throwing stones at each other.

Now, if the Harps and the Protestants don't meet, they still hit the old pub, anyway. After a while they will say, "We can't let this 'pore ole day' go to waste."

So, they just say put 'em up. Let's start fightin'. So they start fighting among themselves. They had rather fight than eat.

They will say to us, "the Americans, you know, we would like to try you boys in a little contest, but we get six months, for hitting you. You boys have your problems in the States, just like we have here, segregation. And that was 21 years ago. They don't go to the same schools or to the same churches, but are they independent."

"When it comes to British baiting, they will all go together on that one.

There was no conscription in North Ireland, and no wonder. It wasn't necessary at all. You walk into one of their homes and you will see something like this. "There is my dearly departed brother. He got killed at Dunkirk. The Irish never miss a fight. If you say anything to an Irishman about the British, they don't like that either.

You could order steaks, ham and eggs, most anything that wasn't rationed, and anything that was rationed was because they couldn't get it.

Some of these guys were IRA, but they didn't bother to tell you. But they all knocked off to go to the war.

The only snakes in North Ireland must have been us; but they gave us all a royal treatment anyway.

Fence Talk

With George Vapaa

The function of the Extension Service of the University of Delaware is education. We supply information, based on research and experience, as a public service (no charge) to anyone willing to listen. We do not regulate anything. Nor can we force compliance.

Two of our specialists spent a whole afternoon with a local landowner trying to analyze his managerial problems and his cultural practices. Growing problems are the easiest to deal with. Research can establish which practices may show the best progress.

But managerial decisions are something else again. The man who takes the risks usually demands an opinion and action as to how any job is done. A good owner-tenant relationship is built on mutual confidence and cooperation. Most livestock operations call for day to day decisions, and therefore, closer team work.

Our contract broiler growers went through a long soil searching period. The grower now supplies only the house and labor for the most part. The feed man owns the birds, supplies the feed, gives direct supervision and all growing risks. The grower is paid a basic salary, plus a premium for efficiency. He has no assurance of contract tenure unless both he and the contractor can show a profit.

A hard nosed policy? Yes. But Delmarva has emerged as a quality, broiler producing area. And broiler men will tell you they're not looking for government subsidies or controls. It is a demonstration of free enterprise operating under the laws of supply and demand in the market place.

Growing potatoes on a commercial scale calls for a high degree of skill and experience. This is our word of caution to those who may want to take a flyer at it for 1965.

Our 60 Delaware growers average better than 130 acres each. In a normal year, they must average 200 cwt. per acre to break even on costs.

Some general farmers may still have a small potato patch. But most discovered they can buy potatoes cheaper than they can grow them. The same principle applies to milk from a family cow, pork from the butchering hog, eggs from the small farm flock, or fruit from a dozen trees.

Of course it's still hard to beat the freshness and quality of the family garden plot—tomatoes, strawberries, sweet corn, pole beans. One cannot always find some of the unusual vegetables in local stores, such as okra, egg plant, certain squashes, or a particular variety of melon.

This whole topic comes up because several people ask where to find a good 100 acre farm. The average size Kent County farm is about 200 acres—and even this is small by some standards.

We will probably always have part-time farms, retirement farms, subsistence farms, and the like. But let's not kid ourselves that these small farms can provide a good living compared to a town job calling for moderate skills. The successful full time farm has emerged as a good sized business in our communities.

A farm profit planner shooting at net incomes of $10,000 to $20,000 has just been published by the Ford Motor Company. It is beautifully done, in readable form, and written at you, the farmer. I presume copies may be available from the local dealer. Our office asked for and received some extra copies.

The booklet stresses volume and margin of profit for high farm earnings. Worksheets are developed for each of several enterprises. Corn, soybeans, forage, hogs, dairy and poultry are those of most interest to us. Costs and profit indicators are assigned for average and for top producers. Blanks are also there for you to supply your own figures.

The booklet speaks of two neighbors with widely differing incomes on similar size and type of farms. One netted $2,100 net profit, the other a healthy $12,000. Management made the difference. There is no pat description for higher income. Management is another name for careful planning and action.

The sign-up for the 1965 feed grain program is underway at the County ASCS Office. Advance payments will be made again this year in connection with the feed grain program, so if you request it you can get half of the estimated total feed grain diversion payment to be earned on your farm at the time of signing up or as soon as possible after that time. The rest of the diversion payment and all of the price-support payment earned under the feed grain program will be made next fall.

The 1965 feed grain program again covers, corn, barley, and grain sorghum. And while participation in the program is voluntary, the price-support payments and loans, as well as the diversion payments will be available only to growers who sign up and carry out the program's provisions.

The sign-up started on Feb. 8, and will continue through March 26. It's a good idea not to postpone filing your intention to participate. Signing up is a necessary step in taking part in the program.

Kaffeeklatsch

With Eleanor Voshell

The crowd rises for the Star Spangled Banner. Then cheers go up and we hear the words, "play ball!" This is a signal of spring—the baseball season begins!

Through the sparkling windows of her home we see the homemaker involved in a major house-cleaning operation—another activity that seems to come with spring.

This is often a dreaded activity. The house is upset. There's no inviting place to sit. Family members can't find their belongings. Mom is dog-tired and her nerves are worn to a frazzle.

Is it necessary? Why not avoid "spring" and "fall" housecleaning? Consider doing thoroughly one room every week or two, doing some of it every day. Only one room at a time is then upset. All areas that get regular periodic cleaning can be kept clean easier.

How do you know how much to plan? I never seem to finish what I have planned. Think through your activities for the following day and assign priorities to the jobs to be done. This may be either a mental or written plan. This prevents wasting time the next day, deciding what to do first. If you don't get to complete the list, the most important jobs will be done. Remember to allow time for interruptions — a Kaffeeklatsch with your neighbor, a telephone call, or five minutes to sit down and put your feet up as you glance through a magazine trying to decide if it should be removed from the living room!

Time yourself on cleaning jobs. Know which ones can be done in 5, 10, and 15 minutes. Here are some average times to use as guides. Remember this is solid working time.

Five minutes or less—
Wipe finger marks off doors of kitchen cabinets, and refrigerator.

Wipe off spots on range, remove wash, dry and return reflector pans.

Sweep or vacuum kitchen floor.

Wipe spots off electric mixer or blender, and cord.

Remove crumbs from and polish toaster.

Wash and wax telephone.

Ten minutes—
Straighten out a bureau drawer.

Remove utensils, wash drawer, replace utensils in kitchen drawer.

Remove things from bottom of closet. Sweep, mop or vacuum floor, return things to closet.

Clean and polish one piece of furniture.

Fifteen minutes—
Wash a window inside and out.

Vacuum mattress and bed-spring.

Before going to bed, spark up living room: empty ash trays, pick up newspapers, magazines; dust furniture, lamps; run carpet sweeper over areas to remove surface litter; plump pillows.

Twenty minutes—
Take down draperies, tumble-dust in automatic dryer, replace at windows.

Wash finger marks off wood-work in two or three rooms.

Wash all window sills.

Address your questions to Kaffeeklatsch, P. O. Box 340, Dover, Del.

Banker To Speak At DPIA Banquet

A Maryland banker will be guest speaker at the 26th annual Delaware Poultry Improvement Association banquet March 25.

Robert W. Wheatley, vice president of the Maryland National Bank, Hurlock, Md., will discuss "More from Your Dollar Bill."

Awards will be presented to the 4-H club member and the Future Farmers of America member with the most outstanding poultry projects for the year. The Laurel Progressive 4-H Club will provide entertainment, and Jack McHugh, regional manager of Southern States Cooperative, Seaford, will be master of ceremonies.

A former Air Force and commercial test pilot with experience in flying nearly 50 different types of experimental aircraft, Wheatley is a graduate of the Maryland-Virginia Bankers School of Bank Management at the University of Virginia. Before joining the Maryland National Bank, he was with the Commercial Credit Corporation and later the County Trust Company of Maryland.

The banquet will be held in the Felton Fire Hall.

Cooking Contest Entries Received From 50 States

Entries for the 1965 National Chicken Cooking Contest have been received from every one of the 50 states and the District of Columbia. Never before in the history of the contest, which is now approaching its 17th year, has every state been represented at this level.

The contest has grown from a modest and humble beginning to a nationally and internationally recognized food event that has brought renown to Delmarva and its poultry industry.

The National Cooking Contest is an outgrowth of the "Chicken-of-Tomorrow" contest, a United States Department of Agriculture project designed to help develop a heavier, meat-type, broiler-fryer chicken, that was held on Delmarva in 1948. Poultry industry leaders organized themselves as the "Delmarva Chicken Festival" and staged an affair that stretched from Easton to Georgetown to Rehoboth to serve as a backdrop for the 1948 contest.

When the "Chicken-of-Tomorrow" contest moved on to another part of the United States in 1949, the Delmarva poultry industry people realized the tremendous value of their Festival and decided to continue it and instigated a National Chicken Cooking Contest as a highlight of the festivities.

The "Chicken-of-Tomorrow" contest was abandoned three years later and the "Delmarva Chicken Festival" organization was changed to "Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc." in 1955 when the program was broadened to include industry research and improvements, consumer information, and general product promotion projects.

In that first National Chicken Cooking Contest held in Salisbury, most participants were from nearby towns and hamlets—a far cry from the thousands of miles that will be traveled this year by contestants coming to cook chicken recipes that have qualified for the national finals.

All recipe entries were due on Feb. 15. Preliminary cookoffs and recipe judgments are being held to determine the two finalists for each division from each state that will be eligible for finals.

Delaware is staging a preliminary cook-off at Delaware State Fairgrounds in Harrington March 27. Maryland's cook-off will be held in James M. Bennett High School, Salisbury, April 3.

Approximately $13,000 worth of prizes will be awarded at the national finals that are returning once again to Salisbury—this time to the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center, June 17, 18, and 19.

The top winner in the Senior Range Cooking Division will receive round-trip tickets for two from New York for a tour of five European countries on Pan American Airways. In the Junior Range Cooking Division, the highest winner will be given an airplane trip to Chicago, a $1,000 Tappan Electronic Range and $1,000 "shopping spree" at Polk Brothers stores, a large appliance center in Chicago. A nine-day stay at the Nassau Harbour Club at Nassau in the Bahamas with round-trip tickets for two from New York on Pan American, is the first prize in the outdoor barbecue division. The top winner in the portable appliance division will get a household supply of 17 Sunbeam appliances.

Among the 60 contest prizes in the national contest are color television and stereo sets, deluxe electric and gas ranges, portable appliances, barbecue grills, and many others.

Del. Flower Show To Feature Floral Castle

A floral castle, complete with turrets, will be one of the featured attractions at the seventh annual Delaware Flower Show June 5 and 6 at Carpenter Field House at the University of Delaware.

Carrying out the theme, "fantasy of flowers," will be 15 classes for floral arrangements. Entries will be accepted until May 28. Number of entries in these classes is limited. No entry fees will be charged, and anyone may enter.

In the horticultural division there are classes for specimens of roses and a wide variety of perennials, biennials and annuals, as well as house plants, ter-rariums and bonsai. Classes are open to any amateur.

A junior division will include a flower judging contest, a flower arranging contest, a plant and garden insect identification contest and educational exhibits, as well as horticulture and arrangement entry classes for high school and grade school children. A special junior training workshop for youngsters through high school age will be held at the University of Delaware on Sat., May 22.

In addition to individual entries, floral displays will be provided by garden clubs, Delaware nurserymen and similar organizations.

The Delaware Flower Show, only statewide flower show in Delaware, is sponsored annually by the University of Delaware and the Delaware Federation of Garden Clubs in cooperation with Delaware nurserymen.

Anyone may enter an exhibit, but advance entries must be made in the arrangement categories since a limited amount of space is available for these classes. More than 100 entries are expected at the flower show.

A list of classes and additional information is available from Mrs. Curtis Layton, 105 Galewood Road, Galewood, Wilmington, Del.

A spring flower festival on Wed., March 31, will feature six professional designers, with part of the proceeds of the event to be used for the Delaware Flower Show. Two identical sessions are planned, at 1 p.m. and at 8 p.m., in the Scottish Rites cathedral, Lea Boulevard near Market St., Wilmington. The six designers will simultaneously create floral arrangements which will be sold following each session. Tickets for this event are available from garden club members and from commercial florists.

4-H News

With Marton McDonald

One hundred 4-H'ers participated in the Kent County Variety Show recently. This shows a real interest of 4-H'ers, parents and leaders. Many hours preceded this event in planning and practice.

In another area a group of dairy members are busy working on judging. This process they are learning the identification and correct names of the parts of the cow; which is important to the written and oral reasons. Judging, although often a contest, trains our 4-H'ers to make selections and give logical reasons. The adult committee is Joseph Moore, Earl Clinton and Sam Dixon. Attending our first meeting were: Sam Dixon, Clifford Hudson, Craig Eliason, David Robbins, Jerry Charles, Jimmy Charles, Nancy Webb, John Webb, Chris Webb, John Comegys, Bill Warner, Debbie Moore and Edna Dixon.

Kent County 4-H Links will meet in Newark at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Hufnal, March 25. Kent Counties will leave the old Dover post office at 7 p.m. Bill Warner, Junior Council member, Chestnut Grove Club reported on the Council's Driving Safety plans at the recent meeting on Rules of the Road. Paradise 4-H Club members participated in the Frederica P. T.A. meeting as a part of the program on Community and Youth. The club presented the story of 4-H.

Feed Grain Program Benefits Detailed

Growers who participate in the 1965 feed grain program will have definite advantages over growers who elect not to participate, according to Paul Hastings, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee.

First, he explained, the diversion payment earned for reducing the farm's 1965 acreage of corn, barley, or grain sorghum, assures the participating grower of a substantial income from the diverted acres, regardless of drought, flood, insects, hail, or crop disease.

This is also true of the price support payment which is made on the acreage planted in 1965 to one or more of the three feed grains—not matter what disposition is made of the crop, the price-support payment is assured.

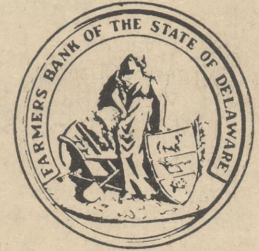

And, third, price support is available through loans and purchases on the participating farmer's entire 1965 production of the three feed grains.

Furthermore, the chairman added, if the farm operator request it, an advance payment of one-half of the estimated diversion payment will be made at the time of signing up or as soon as possible after that time.

Growers take part in the feed grain program by diverting at least 20 per cent of the farm's feed grain base acreage into an approved conserving use and carrying out other provisions of the program. If more than the minimum acreage is diverted, a higher rate of payment will apply. Maximum diversion is 50 percent of the farm's feed grain base or 25 acres, whichever is larger. If 40 per cent or more of the base is actually diverted, the higher rate applies to the entire acreage diverted.

Farm operators may file applications to take part in the 1965 feed grain program at their ASCS County Office. The sign-up period extends through March 26.

Louis Starkey Wins State Wrestling Title

After only four years of having a wrestling team, Harrington High School has a state champion wrestler. Louis Starkey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Starkey, climaxed an unbeaten season by winning the 180 pound division in the Ninth annual Delaware Interscholastic Wrestling Tournament held in Carpenter Fieldhouse, University of Delaware, before a crowd of 2000 people, Saturday night.

Starkey just missed winning state titles in his sophomore and junior years because of bad luck and injuries but he went all the way in his final attempt.

Friday night the Lion outclassed Tom Moyer, of De La Warr 9-1. Moyer was runnerup in the Blue Hen Conference Tournament. Saturday afternoon the Lion opened up a good early lead, then wrestled conservatively to decision Jay Simmons, of Tower Hill, 5-2.

Saturday night's final brought Starkey face to face with Jim Sneddon, Caesar Rodney's undefeated Diamond State Conference wrestling champion.

The local force acted in round one and apparently scored an early takedown for a 2-0 lead. The referee ruled that the participants were out of bounds and therefore still even 0-0. Ten seconds later he allowed them to go almost two feet closer to the edge of the mat before blowing his whistle.

Sneddon started the second period on top but trailed 2-0 when Starkey reversed him. The Harringtonian had the upper hand as the final round started but Sneddon appeared to escape and score one point. However, the arbiter ruled a reverse worth two points and a 2-2 tie. Seconds later Starkey escaped from Sneddon to win the match 3-2 and end Sneddon's long winning streak.

Starkey's victory appeared to be as popular with the crowd as any triumph in the twelve weight classes. The muscular lad was surrounded by wrestlers from all over the state and this writer had a time getting within back-slapping or hand-shakin' distance.

The new state champion won 15 straight matches this winter and has only one loss in his last 28 outings. In the 1964 state meet he lost a one-point decision to Paul Camp of A. I. DuPont in the title match. Camp, an all-State football tackle, weighed 184 to 172 for Starkey, who, because of a technicality, had to wrestle in the wrong weight class. Starkey had beaten Camp just two weeks earlier at St. Andrew's School, Middletown on the way to the 180 pound title in the Independent Schools Tournament.

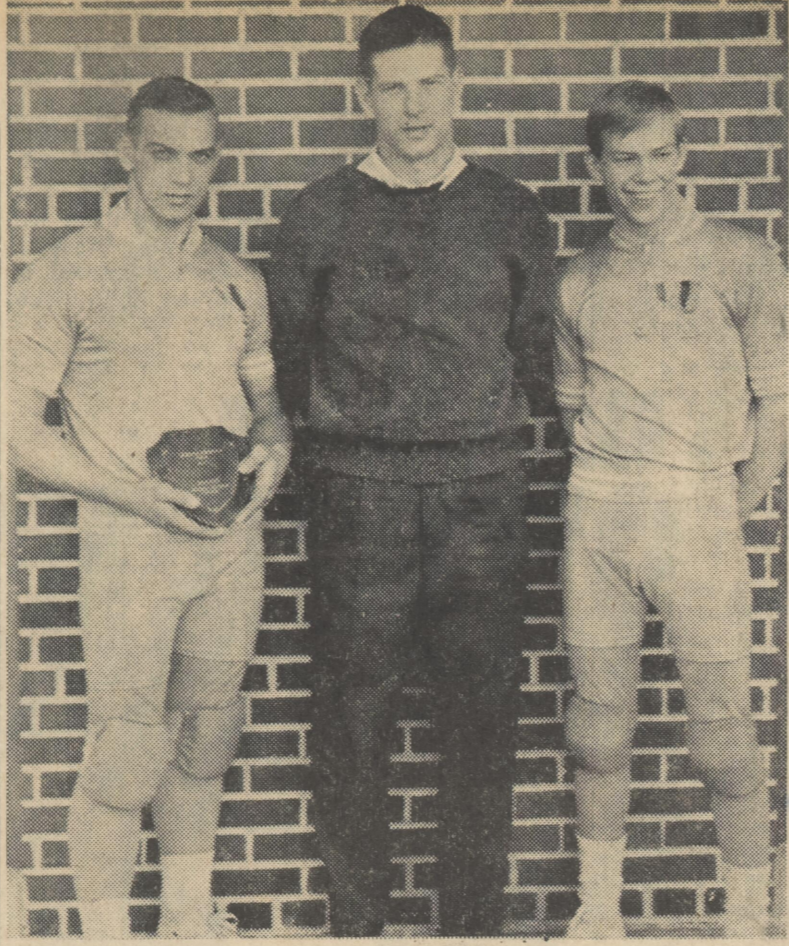

Lion Coach Bill Muehleisen wore his "lucky jacket" a plaid number that he sported throughout the Lions' unbeaten 1964 football season. Jim Cain looked like the Jim Cain of last season as he dropped a cliff hander 8-6 to Don Dawson, of Conrad, on Friday night. Dawson went on to win the 127 pound title, while Cain defeated Diamond State Conference champ, John Culp, of Dover, 10-3 and Rick Taylor, of Tatnall 3-2 to capture 3rd place. Cain, a junior, will be back for one more try next winter.

Like Cain, it took state champions to put the Greenly brothers out of the tournament. Allen Greenly (103) was decided by Woody Thomas, of De La Warr and David Greenly (112) lost on points to Larry Pfeiffer, of Milford.

Bill Harcum (138) did a good job though losing 3-0 to Mark Hedley, of Tower Hill. Hedley, in turn lost by only 2-0 to the fabulous Floyd Thomas, of De La Warr, for the championship. Charlie Tribbett (165) was decided by runnerup Dave Bullock, of Claymont, but later just missed getting third place as Blue Hen representative Jack Leyh, of Dickinson, the state's biggest school, refused to mix it up with Charley with the scoreboard showing 1-1. Leyh knew he had enough riding time, or time in command to get an extra point and win. Tribbett lost 3-2 but did well in his last bout for the Blue and Gold.

Indicative of the fine condition of Bill Muehleisen's boys is the fact that in sixteen bouts against the best competition in the state only once did a local grappler fail to go the limit. Ed Wheatley, the least experienced of all the Lions, was pinned by Bob Sanderson, of Caesar Rodney, who at 340 pounds, had a 140 pound advantage.

Jack Redden, Lion freshman, almost upset Newlin Keen, of Tower Hill before bowing 3-2 in a 95 pound clash. Clay Jester, a former Harringtonian now wrestling for Caesar Rodney, finished third at 95 points by beating Frank Wright of William Penn in an overtime match, which had to be decided by a referee's decision. Clay was outstanding against a little destroyer with an outstanding superstructure.

Downstate wrestlers made an outstanding showing by putting six wrestlers in the finals of whom three became state champions. Another Jim Campbell, of Delmar, was sick in bed all day Thursday or he would probably have been the fourth downstate champion. On a per capita basis the Kent and Sussex Counties outwrestled the upstaters. Ten heavily populated Blue Hen Schools could get only four champions compared to three for the ten much smaller downstate schools.

Louis Starkey, Bob Smith and Charlie Tribbett will be sorely missed when practice starts this fall. The Lions will be hurting in the heavier classes and overpopulated in the lighter divisions as they attempt to make it two winning seasons in a row.

H.H.S. Trackmen Face Interesting Schedule

Close to sixty candidates have reported to Lion track coach Harold McDonald as the locals prepare for the most challenging and interesting schedule in Harrington High track history.

The Lions seldom have a losing season in track and do not anticipate one this time, although some stalwart performers including Randy Knox, Joe Taylor, George Bonniwell, Tom Lord, Barry Fry, Bill Adams and Wayne Carson are among those who will not be back.

The defending Henlopen champion Lions will open the season against Diamond State rival Lewes here on April 7th. Lewes' Chick Hockman figures to be one of the few sprinters around fast enough to extend Harrington's new speed boy, Frank White, a transfer student from William Henry.

In addition to the five dual triangular and quadrangular meets on the schedule are six multi-team invitationals which should make for a very exciting spring for all the boys involved.

These are: the Seaford Invitational; Milford Invitational and Henlopen Conference Championships which start in the afternoon and conclude under the lights; the Peninsula Relays, Wilmington; the Kent-Sussex Counties Championships at Delaware State College, Dover; the State Championships at Frazier Field, University of Delaware.

The icing on the cake is the first trip of a Harrington High athletic unit into really big-time competition.

The Penn Relays Track and Field Carnival held at the University of Pennsylvania's Franklin Field in Philadelphia is the largest meet of its kind in the world. Close to 50,000 people watch as high school and college athletes by the hundreds run race after race from 10 a. m. to almost 6 p. m. A half dozen lower Delaware high schools compete in this extravaganza.

The Lions will enter a mile relay team in Harrington's first Penn Relays competition.

In order to be permitted to compete, a small school's mile relay team must be able to clock 3:42. Larger schools must be able to hit 3:39.1 at the 1964 Milford Invitational, although only one of the four Lions, Richard Black, was fresh. Bob Smith, Dennis Rogers and Barry Fry had run in grueling, distance races earlier or H.H.S. could have even gone faster.

Black, Smith and Rogers are among the leading candidates for the Penn Relays race but they will have to earn the trip on what they can do this year, not what they did at Milford last season.

Frank White, Henry Minner and Charlie Taylor can all turn a pretty good 440. It is possible that more than one of this latter trio might get the nod if the favored three front runners don't get crackin'. This is an opportunity worth striving for.

The schedule: March 4—Frostbite Invitational, Wilmington

March 13—State Indoor Meet, University of Delaware

April 7—Lewes, home

April 14—H.H.S., J. M. Clayton, L. Baltimore, J. M. Clayton, 3:45 p. m., day and night

April 14—Seaford Invitational, Seaford

April 24—Penn Relays, Philadelphia

April 28—Milboro, Greenwood, H.H.S., home, 3:45 p. m.

Scoring System, Rules of High School Wrestling

First takedown by each man—2 pts.
Subsequent takedowns—1 pt.
Escape — 1 pt.
Reversal — 2 pts.
Predicament — 2 pts.
Near Fall — 3 pts.
Time advantage — 1 pt.

Explanation of terms:
Takedown — Starting from a neutral position, one wrestler takes the other to the mat and gains control over him while the supporting points of either wrestler are within the wrestling area.

Escape—Starting from the underneath position, a wrestler breaks away from his opponent and gains a neutral position.

Reversal — Starting from the underneath position, a wrestler manages to gain control over his opponent.

Predicament — A wrestler has his opponent in a pinning combination with one shoulder on the mat and the other within 45 degrees of the mat or both shoulders within 4 inches of the mat for an instant.

Near Fall — As in a predicament, except that both shoulders are within one inch of the mat for 2 seconds or both shoulders are in contact with the mat for one second.

Fall (pin) — Occurs when both shoulders of one wrestler are held in contact with the mat for two full seconds.

Time advantage—Occurs when one wrestler has been in control of his opponent for at least one minute longer than his opponent has been in control of him.

Conduct of Matches: All regular matches shall consist of three two-minute periods. The first period will start with both contestants standing opposite each other and on the 10 foot circle. The wrestlers will come forward, shake hands with the right hand, pass each other, turn to the left at the edge of the circle and, when the Referee blows his whistle, begin wrestling. A fall during this or either subsequent period terminates the match. If neither contestant secures a fall in this first period, the Referee shall recess the match and place the wrestlers in the Referee's position with the appropriate contestant in the position of advantage. The second two-minute period shall be started immediately by the Referee's whistle. If no fall occurs during this second period, upon its expiration the Referee shall again recess the match, place the contestant who started the second period in the position of advantage underneath and start the third period as before. If no fall occurs during this final period, upon termination of the match the Referee shall award the contest as provided. The time in a match is continuous except when the Referee stops and starts a match.

The annual dinner of Delaware Ducks Unlimited is scheduled for Wed., March 31, 1965.

R. Riggs Griffith IV and Richard T. White, chairmen of publicity for the Delaware Committee, have announced that this popular annual affair will again be held at Nur Temple (Shrine Club) on the DuPont Highway at the intersection of Routes 13 and 40. ## State Golf Ass'n. '65 Tournament Schedule Set

The Delaware State Golf Association recently released their 1965 tournament schedule and announced this year's Men's State Amateur Championship will be converted to medal play, according to Raymond B. "Scotty" Duncan, Tournament Director. This will be the first medal-play championship since the DSGA was organized in 1952. Prior to the institution of the DSGA, a state championship was played at the Newark Country Club on a 72-hole medal-play basis. The Delaware Amateur Championship, top attraction of the state's golfing program, will be played at the Newark Country Club, Newark June 14, 15, 16, 17. A practice round is slated for Mon., June 7. Only golfers who reside in Delaware, belong to a DSGA member club, and play with an established handicap of 8 or lower are eligible to enter. Qualifying will be over 36-holes (Monday and Tuesday) with the field cut in half for the final 36-holes (Wednesday and Thursday) Duncan pointed out.

Other highlights of the season include the Men's Senior Championship at the Cavaliers Country Club on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 15 and 16; a two-day Better-Ball-of-Partners Handicap at the Rehoboth Beach Country Club on Saturday and Sunday, October 9 and 10. In addition to the 2-day Better-Ball at Rehoboth, three other tournaments are booked for the southern end of the state, an A-B-C Handicap at Garrison's Lake on Wed., July 14; a Better-Ball Gross at Seaford, Wed., Aug. 4, and an A-B-C Handicap at Shawnee on Sat., Aug. 28.

Officers of the Delaware State Golf Association for 1965 include: Douglas V. McMinn (Newark Country Club), President; Anthony L. Dominelli (Hercules Country Club), 1st. Vice-President; Joseph V. Barry (DuPont Country Club), 2nd vice-president and membership director; Charles L. Baldo (DuPont Country Club), Secretary-treasurer; Raymond B. Duncan (Newark Country Club), Tournament director; H. Chauncey Dean, Jr. (Newark Country Club), tournament advisor.

Baseball Practice Begins at H.H.S.

The Harrington High School baseball team is starting its second week of workouts under new head coach Frank Glazier, a former professional player.

Fifteen candidates are on the squad. Every boy has previous experience in high school or Senior Little League play. Many played, in order, Little League, Pony League, then Senior Little League ball.

Following is a list of aspirants and possible positions. Rusty Jack, second base and catcher; Glenn Smith, third base and pitcher; Marshall Hatfield, first base and pitcher; Sam Knox, shortstop; Mike Wamsley and Steve Motter, catcher; Ellis Myer, pitcher, centerfield and utility infielder; Dean Manges, outfield and infield; Rennie French, first base and pitcher; Bob Matthews, second base and outfield; Richard Black, pitcher; Chuck McNally, Lonnie Wirick, Bob Rouse and Tom Simpler, outfielders.

If Coach Glazier can weld this group into a winner, Harrington High may then be able to point to this school year as the greatest in the Lions' athletic history with six varsity sports and a winning team in each if the track team can come through, also.

Baseball Schedule

Ducks Unlimited To Hold Dinner Wed., March 31

The annual dinner of Delaware Ducks Unlimited is scheduled for Wed., March 31, 1965.

R. Riggs Griffith IV and Richard T. White, chairmen of publicity for the Delaware Committee, have announced that this popular annual affair will again be held at Nur Temple (Shrine Club) on the DuPont Highway at the intersection of Routes 13 and 40. The social hour will begin at 5 p.m. with dinner served at 7 p.m. Highlight of the evening will be the showing of the latest Ducks Unlimited films, "Canada Goose" and "Arctic Goose Hunt".

The annual "Duck and Goose Calling Contests" will be a feature again this year with prizes for the winners. There will be no speakers but there will be a large number of valuable prizes awarded. Top prizes will be a Remington shotgun, rifle and a pram. Ducks Unlimited emblems, neckties and pins will be on sale as well as the new handsome metal car emblem. The Delaware Committee has the exclusive franchise for the sale of these emblems which it designed. They are being sold throughout the United States. Tickets may be obtained from L. C. Slicer, 307 North James Street, Newport, Del. 19804. All reservations must be in not later than Fri., March 26. Advance reservations indicate that the affair once again will be a sellout.

Glenn Smith 10th in State Cage Scoring

Senior Glenn Smith had the tenth best average in the state during the recent basketball season as he pored 293 points through the nets in 16 games for an average of 18.3 points a game. As fourth best scorer in the Henlopen Conference it appears that the Lion might make the loop all-star first or second teams.

Richard Black, the other graduating starter, had a per game average of just under 10 points.

Returning next season are: Sam Knox, John Greenhaugh, Ellis Myer, Dean Manges and Marshall Hatfield.

Knox scored 212 points on an average of 13.3 tallies per contact and Greenhaugh made 176 markers to hit double figures with 11 a game.

Coach Jim Hawpe's 10-6 Lions rank as the most improved team in the conference. They will be out after an even better mark in 1965-66.

Century Club News

The Harrington New Century Club will hold a short business meeting at 1:45 p.m. Tues., March 23.

They will leave promptly at 2 p.m. for a tour of the Broadcasting Station in Milford and the Milford Chronicle. The program on communications is under the chairman, Mrs. William Kohel and assistants, Mrs. Donald McQuate, Mrs. James Moore, Mrs. James Fair, Mrs. Norman Oliver, Mrs. Jehu Camper, Mrs. Reese Thistlewood and Mrs. Mahoney.

Plan to be with them for this trip. Make it worth while to the hosts for the afternoon. Time is 1:45 p.m.

Frank Cain Repeats As Indoor Pole Vault King

While Harrington wrestlers were doing a fine job in the wrestling meet at Carpenter Field House, University of Delaware, Saturday, other Harrington athletes were doing alright too in the same building. On the other side of the east wall of the wrestling arena is a 162-yard dirt track.

Here, Frank Cain won the pole vault in the annual Delaware Interscholastic Indoor Track and Field Championships for the second straight year. Thus, tiny Harrington High gets two state champions in two different sports under the same roof on the same day, while competing against the biggest, fattest schools in the Diamond State. This is a good example of another of the values to be derived from a strong athletic program, which can offer something for practically every boy in school. At most of the other Henlopen Schools, Frank Cain and Louis Starkey, the 180 pounds state wrestling champion, would have been anonymous faces in the crowd.

Cain, bothered by a sore leg, limped into the arena and cleared nine feet, nine feet six inches and ten feet without a miss. At this point only three vaulters were left in the competition. Dick Kelly, of Newark, went out at 10 feet six inches, while Cain and old rival, Frank Domino, of Caesar Rodney, cleared that height.

The Lion's ailing pedal extremity was giving him more trouble as he jumped 10 feet 9 inches to win the event but he pluckily tried eleven feet and cleared that height by three inches. Cain won last year with 10 feet 6. Eighteen pole vaulters competed. Frank was the only defending champion to repeat as Claud Jones, of Howard; Art Wright, of Newark, and Elwood Thompson, of Howard, failed in events they won in 1964. Larry Garey, of Harrington, went out at ten feet. He and Cain should give the Lions a powerful 1-2 punch in this event.

Henry Minner won his heat in the 600 yard run and Dennis Rogers finished second in his 1000 yard test.

Other locals to do well were Frank White and Raleigh Davis as each lad was third in his heat of the 50-yard dash and second in separate 320 yard runs. White showed exceptional speed as he quickly opened up a ten-yard lead in the 320 but lost the race when he misjudged a narrow turn and ricocheted twice off the wooden retaining wall. It was plain to see that he has the ability to be a big help in the sprints this spring.

Two-miler Gerry Garey figured to place high in his race but did not run because of an accident at home.
