

HOLLOWAY AND HITCHENS GET SCHOOL BOARD POSTS

Some 1219 voters turned out for the school election here Saturday in an exceptionally close race for the first and second places.

With two vacancies, due to the addition of a board member under a new state law, Robert Holloway garnered 585 votes and will serve five years, under the new law, while Roland D. Hitchens, board president, tallied 580 votes and will serve four years, the normal term. Ernest Steward, Negro, brought up the rear with 54 votes.

Six Negroes were involved in contests for boards of education and boards of school trustees, in Kent and Sussex Counties, and all lost.

Results, in adjoining communities, were as follows: Felton—Everett B. Warrington Jr., 513; Albert D. Warren, 495; with Negro William A. Gibbs last in the five-way field with 73. The other losers were James Pizzadili, 153, and Kenneth Richter, 102.

John A. Eisenbrey, with 93 votes, and Theodore Yerkes, with 65, headed the six-man field at Houston. Losers were Major Sockrider, 58; William D. Miner, 53; Floyd Blessing, 35, and Richard A. Yost, 33.

Results in districts in which no seats were contested (where two candidates are listed, higher vote-getter wins five-year term): Frederica: Charles H. West, 7; George E. Effinger, 5.

Greenwood: Mrs. Marjorie Baker, incumbent, 36; John M. Mervine, 12.

Free Rabies Inoculation Clinic At Dover May 23

The Dover SPCA is sponsoring a free rabies inoculation clinic (donations will be accepted) on Sunday afternoon, May 23 from 2 until 4 p. m., at the Service Center of Buchanan's Firestone Store, 540 South Governor's Avenue, Dover. It is hoped that all pet owners will take advantage of this community service project to safeguard their animals against rabies.

Dogs should be from four months old on and should be on a leash. Cats must be a year old. A local veterinarian will give the injections.

Making it possible for us to offer you this opportunity are the following persons and agencies: Dr. Edward Gliwa, Wilmington Board of Health, the Delaware SPCA in New Castle, Dr. Robert L. Ricker, State Board of Agriculture, Dover; Dr. Maynard Mires of the State Board of Health, Dover, and the visiting nurse, Mrs. Maurice Barton, R. N. of Base Housing will assist. E. W. Buchanan has so generously donated his building for this clinic. Dog licenses will be sold and animal owners will receive a certificate that fifteen women volunteers will be writing out as the animals are inoculated. Don't miss this opportunity.

If you wish more information on this clinic, please call Mrs. Daisy Munder Carter, phone 697-7739 (early in the morning) or Lillian A. Hamm, phone 734-2834 after 5 p. m.

Memorial Bridge Traffic Shows Increase for April

Delaware Memorial Bridge traffic rose to 1,209,526 during the month of April, a 17.7 per cent increase over April, 1964. In his monthly report to the Delaware River and Bay Authority, General Manager, Frank J. Horty, stated that the 132,343 increase was greatly due to the heavy Easter traffic during which the third highest traffic day in the bridge's fourteen year history was recorded on Fri., April 16, 1965.

Revenue from bridge tolls during the month jumped 15.8 per cent when $728,820.05 was collected as compared to $629,101.60 in April 1964. This was an increase of nearly $100,000.00. Bridge traffic for the 12-month period ending April 30, 1965, was 13,744,328 compared to 12,503,428 for the same period a year earlier. This was an increase of 1,240,900 vehicles or 10.2 per cent. Revenue during the 12 month period climbed to $8,260,378.96 compared to $7,016,700.25 the previous 12 month period. This was a jump of $1,243,678.70 or 17.7 per cent.

Since Delaware Memorial Bridge opened on August 16, 1951, there have been 131,711,612 crossings up to April 30, Horty reported.

Four U. of D. Students Get Sears Scholarships

Four University of Delaware students, including brothers, were awarded $300 Sears, Roebuck Foundation scholarships at a luncheon Tuesday at the university.

Weldin W. Harcum, Houston; David B. Harcum, Houston; Barry R. Fry, Harrington, all agriculture majors, and Miss Cynthia M. Lingo, of Wyoming, a home economics major, were the recipients. The Harcums are brothers.

The awards were presented by Robert J. Buzbee of the Sears, Roebuck Foundation.

Weldin Harcum is a freshman majoring in animal and poultry science. He and David are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harcum. David is a sophomore pre-veterinary major.

Fry is a freshman majoring in horticulture, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fry. Miss Lingo is a freshman in home economics education. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Kline Lingo.

Sears, Roebuck Foundation scholarships are awarded each year to freshmen or sophomores in the schools of agriculture or home economics.

Markland, Ogdon, Pa.; a half-sister, Mrs. Mary Meeks, Goldsboro, Md.; two step-sisters, Mrs. Emmett Baker, of Frederica, and Mrs. Ida Doerner, St. Petersburg, Fla.; four grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren and two foster grandchildren.

Services will be at 2 Saturday afternoon at the J. Millard Cooper Funeral Home, Harrington, where friends may call after 7 Friday night.

Seaford Caravan Comes Here Sat.

A caravan from Seaford will make a short visit to Harrington tomorrow to advertise the Seaford Centennial.

Arriving at 11:25 a. m., the group is scheduled to present Mayor Luther P. Hatfield with a shaving permit and a souvenir bow tie.

JACOB T. WROTEN, FORMER MAIL CARRIER HERE, REACHES 100

Jacob T. Wroten Sr., of Wilmington, celebrated his 100th birthday Wednesday with members of his immediate family at 1617 Laurel St.

Wroten, of whom Dorsey Torbert, Kent County Receiver of Taxes is a nephew, was born near Farmington, May 12, 1865, shortly after his father returned from service in the Civil War. He remembers his father, Charles Wesley Wroten, telling of his experiences guarding Confederate prisoners at Ft. Delaware.

The parents ran a small farm and Wroten helped work the land until he was fully grown. He has two brothers and five sisters, who with one exception, did not live unusually long lives. Wroten's parents died in their 60s. The only ancestor Wroten knows who attained great longevity was a grandfather who lived to be 93.

The one exception among his brothers and sisters is Mrs. Bertha Craig, who lives in Florida.

A life long Republican, Wroten first voted in the election of 1888 when his candidate, Benjamin Harrison, defeated Grover Cleveland, winning more electoral votes but not the popular vote.

After leaving the farm Wroten married his first wife, the former Alfreda Dill, and later took a job as a mail carrier at the Harrington Post Office. He lost this in 1913, however, after President Woodrow Wilson's Democratic administration "threw me out." For a while after that he operated a small grocery store in Harrington.

After the death of his first wife in 1916, Wroten moved to Wilmington, first took a job on

Leonard Masten, Tenor, Gives Recital

The Bridgewater Music Department presented James Leonard Masten, tenor, in his graduation recital Wednesday evening, in Cole Hall, Bridgewater, Va.

Masten is a student of Nelson T. Huffman, head of the Bridgewater Music Department. Diane Huffman, a music major from Timberville, played his accompaniments.

For the first two parts of his recital, Masten sang "Verdant Meadows," by Handel; "And God Created Man," and "In Native Worth," recitative and air from "The Creation," by Haydn; and "Even Bravest Heart May Swell," and "Flowing Song," both from "Faust" by Gorenod.

The fourth part of his program featured the work of Brahms, Serge Rachmaninoff, and of Nelson T. Huffman. He sang Brahms' "Minnelied," Rachmaninoff's "O Thou Billowy Field," and Huffman's "Until She Smiled."

The fifth part was made up of semi-classical pieces by modern composers. He opened this part by singing "A Spirit Flower," by Campbell-Tipton, and he closed it and his recital with "The Time For Making Songs Has Come," by James Rogers.

Masten, a music major, plans a career in public school music. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Masten of 61 Clark St., Harrington.

Horse Van Company Rents Garage Space

Chester C. Sayre Vans, transporters of harness horses, have rented a portion of Hall's Service Center, on U. S. 13, to do mechanical work.

Edward Bornemann, son-in-law of Sayre, is in charge of the garage and is Sayre manager in this area. Main office of Sayre is in Pittsburgh, but a branch office is maintained at K & H Transportation Company on U. S. 13 south.

The Bornemanns will move into the residence of Mrs. Austin Swann, near town, as soon as Mrs. Swann has established a Felton residence.

4 KILLED, 7 HURT IN DEL. CRASH

Seven persons were in the hospital Sunday—one of them in poor condition in the aftermath of a three-car Delaware traffic accident which claimed four lives Saturday.

Among the dead and injured in the mishap on Delaware 896, 3.2 miles north of Middletown, were members of three families, two from Delaware and one from Philadelphia.

It was the second quadruple-death accident on Delaware highways this year. Four youths were killed near Milton Jan. 9 when the car in which they were riding ran off Delaware 14.

The Saturday accident occurred at 12:25 p.m. According to state police an automobile being driven south by William Linfield Copper Jr., 29, of 2937 N. Bailey St., Philadelphia, crossed into the northbound lane of the two-lane highway and collided head-on with an auto driven by Robert K. Jester Jr., 29, of West Market Street, Greenwood.

The Copper car then careened off and skidded broadside into the path of a northbound auto operated by David Weidlein, 27, of 812 Sharondale Road, Middletown, police said.

Jester, Weidlein, Jester's 10-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, and Copper's wife, Jo Anne, 25, were pronounced dead on arrival at Wilmington General Hospital.

Weidlein's wife, Barbara, listed at the hospital as about 35-years-old, was reported in poor condition Sunday night with head and internal injuries.

Copper was listed in fair condition at Wilmington General hospital Sunday night with multiple injuries.

Five other victims of the accident were in Union Hospital, Elkton, Md., Sunday night. Their conditions all were listed as satisfactory.

Hospitalized there were Jester's wife, Rebecca, 21; Robert K. Jester, III, 2, Shauna Majors, 16, of Salisbury, Md., Mrs. Jester's sister; Mark Weidlein, 4, and Billy Copper, 7.

Treated Saturday at Wilmington General and later released was James Flamer, 25, of 1726 N. Judson St., Philadelphia, a passenger in the Copper car.

Treated at Union Hospital and released were Jackie Jester, 5, and Cindy Jester, 7, Dean Weidlein, 7, and James Weidlein, 5.

The Jester children, except Robert III, are sons of Robert Jr. by a previous marriage. According to friends of the family they lived with their mother, Mrs. Phyllis H. Brevington, in Delmar, but were visiting their father for the weekend.

At the place where the accident occurred, Delaware 896 also is identified as U.S. 301, the road to the Chesapeake Bay Bridge.

Police said that, when they arrived on the scene, several motorists had stopped and were attempting to give aid to the injured. (Continued on Page 8)

Ladies' Sextet to Sing At Union Church Tonight

Crash Kills Sussex Man

A 31-year-old Georgetown man was killed last Friday in a collision at the intersection of Rts. 404 and 13 one mile south of Bridgeville.

State police said Ernest Mann died of a fractured skull and internal injuries when a car in which he was riding, driven by his 25-year-old brother, Nathaniel L. Mann, collided with a tractor-trailer.

The police reported that Nathaniel Mann had made a left turn from the southbound lane on Rt. 13, a dual highway, into Rt. 404. His car was struck in the northbound lane by the tractor-trailer, driven by Charles E. McKnatt, 50, of Harrington, as Mann ran a red light on 404, the police said.

The younger Mann was treated at Nanticoke Memorial Hospital for bruises and cuts. Charged with manslaughter by motor vehicle, he is being held under $2,500 bond set by Magistrate Hattie Sylvia of Bridgeville.

McKnatt was uninjured. He works for Masten Transportation Co., owner of the tractor-trailer.

Mrs. Manolia S. Mick, 74, widow of Thomas Mick, died last Saturday at her home on Hanley Street here.

She is survived by a son, Elmer Betts, of Felton; a foster son, Robert Stauffer, of Harrington; two sisters, Mrs. Clara Wilkinson, of Chester, Pa., and Mrs. Elsie Willey, of Harrington; a grandchild and a great-grandchild.

Services were held Tuesday afternoon at the McKnatt Funeral Home. Interment was at Hollywood Cemetery.

Livestock Survey Cards Distributed

Postmaster Dill announced today that rural mail carriers and Star route contractors will begin distributing June livestock cards to farmer-patrons on their routes about May 22.

The June livestock survey cards provide the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service at College Park, Maryland with basic information for estimating the pig crop, calf crop, lamb crop, and information on wool, milk, and egg production.

This is a sample survey, so not all farms will receive a survey card.

To assure that your community is represented in this survey, Mr. Dill urges each farmer-patron receiving a card to fill it out and place it in his mail box.

Carriers distributing the survey cards from the Harrington Post Office are: Wm. B. Anderson, Route 1; Keith S. Burgess, Route 2, and Roland H. Stayton, Route 3.

VA Cancels Saturday Service

The VA Regional Office plan to keep the contact service open on Saturday, May 15 and May 22, from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., according to the previous announcement, is cancelled, according to Leon Fields, manager of the VA Regional Office, Wilmington. Mr. Fields said that the demand for such service, as experienced last Saturday, was so light that keeping open on the two succeeding Saturdays, as previously announced, is not justified.

The Regional Office will continue to be open during regular office hours, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, for veterans wishing to apply in person for the new GI Insurance and any other information regarding VA benefits, Mr. Fields said.

Mrs. William R. Mutterer

Mrs. Edna Anna Reyle Mutterer, 70, died Thurs., May 6, in the Memorial Hospital, Wilmington. She was the wife of William R. Mutterer, of Greenwood.

FAIR BOARD REVEALS ENTERTAINMENT FEATURES; OKAYS IMPROVEMENTS

McDowell Introduces Excise Tax Bill

Congressman Harris B. McDowell, Jr. (D-Del.) Wednesday introduced a bill to repeal the manufacturers excise tax on passenger automobiles.

McDowell said, after a careful study of the excise tax on passenger automobiles and in consultation with executives of the automobile industry, including Carl W. Dobos, general manager of the General Motors Plant at Boxwood Road, Wilmington, "I am convinced that the time for this tax saving for the users of automobiles must become a major consideration in the Congressional review of all excise taxes."

McDowell said that the excise taxes on all forms of transportation, except automobile transportation, have been eliminated or reduced. He said the automobile is still subject to the peak excise tax levies imposed during World War II and the Korean War emergencies, even though the purpose—to steer consumer purchases into less critical areas—is no longer justified.

Congressman McDowell said: "Automobile production provides a high degree of employment in Delaware.

"President Johnson has said 'reasonable changes' in the excise tax system are highly desirable.

"Few other tax changes would have as important an impact on the economy, and release so much purchasing power for all goods—not for automobiles alone—as removing this excise tax."

Congressman McDowell said the automobile is a necessity in the American economy, and that (Continued on Page 8)

NAVY AND YOU

A Navy experimental vessel, called the "Hydro-stream" can skim over the surface of the water on a cushion of air. A fan in the center of the skimmer forces the air into a chamber underneath the ship. Two skegs, one on either side of the hull, and a "water wall" at each end of the boat trap air to form the cushion. She is 21 feet long, about 11 feet wide, and weighs approximately two tons when empty. Only the skegs and screws touch the water when the fan is operating, the rest of the boat cruises about two feet above the water.

Your Clothes Tell Others What You're Really Like

Your clothes are "talking" about you, and they may be saying more than you realize, says Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing and textiles specialist at the University of Delaware.

Your clothes have a great deal to do with the way people react to you, she says. After all, your clothing is 90 per cent of what people see when they look at you. Your clothes tell about your age, sex, job, wealth, taste and position in the community. Be sure they say what you want them to.

If your slip is showing, or your shoe heels are run down, or a coat button is dangling by a thread, it makes little difference whether you are wearing a high-fashion dress—your clothes say you are careless.

Do not put off doing the mending chores, says Miss Reed. Sew on that dangling button before it falls and is lost. Take time to check all the minor details of your appearance before leaving the house. It is a boost to your self-confidence to know you are perfectly groomed.

Good appearance depends on fit. A well-fitted dress is much more flattering than one that gaps at the neckline or one that has the wrong waist length. As a general rule, fit a suit or dress at the neck and shoulders. It is much more difficult to alter these built-in contours than to alter a skirt or waistline. Drastic changes may lose the style line that was one of the main reasons for choosing the costume. Alterations cost time and money; so, if many are necessary, look for a better fitting size or pattern. Such a large number of figure types and size ranges are now available in ready-to-wear clothes and in patterns, that extensive alterations should no longer be needed.

Make your clothes work for you—your coloring and your figure. Choose clothes, or choose patterns if you sew-it-yourself, that emphasize your good points and minimize your weak ones, says Miss Reed.

If your legs are not your best feature, do not wear the short-skirted skirts that draw attention to them. If your hips are heavy, avoid both very tight and very full skirts. The gently flaring A-line is very flattering, Miss Reed points out. Disguise your hips with pressed rather than unpressed pleats, in firmly woven, rather than bulky fabrics. Wear solid colors in muted or greyed tones rather than bright plaids or prints.

Take a good look at your skin coloring today, advises Miss Reed. It may not be the same as it was five years ago. It may not even be the same as it was five months ago. If you tan very much during the summer, take this into consideration when choosing the colors for your summer and fall wardrobe. Soft colors are generally more becoming, particularly for older women.

Emphasize a trim waistline with a wide contrasting-color belt; minimize a larger waistline with a narrow belt of the same color as your outfit. If you are tall, a belt will cut the long lines and seemingly reduce your height. If you are short, a noticeable belt will make you look even shorter. Surprisingly enough, the non-fitted dresses of today's styles, such as the skimmer and shift, hide very few figure faults.

Your activities determine the type of clothing appropriate for you, says Miss Reed. You will undoubtedly want different clothes for bowling than for scrubbing the kitchen floor, or for shopping or for going to church. If you entertain casually, your clothing should be casual. If you are more formal, your clothing should reflect the formality.

Simplicity is the foundation of good taste, reminds Miss Reed. Even when you feel an ultra-feminine urge to wear ruffles, remember too many are more fusy than feminine. One detail on a costume will emphasize a good feature better than too many details.

Know yourself, Miss Reed recommends. "Take an objective look at yourself. The more you really know yourself, the more you will be able to choose clothes that do the most for you. Make your clothes sing your praises."

3:45 p.m. Youth and Children's Confirmation Class. 7 p.m. Youth and Adult Choir. This coming Sunday the Women of St. Stephen's will present their United Thank Offering Boxes at the regular collection time. This offering is being brought early due to the fact that the May meeting of the Women of the Diocese takes place this coming week.

Tonight marks the close of the Church League Bowling season. While St. Stephen's did not come in first or second, her team is to be congratulated as having maintained high standards during the entire season. We appreciate the time and money spent for this part of our church program. Bowling can be expensive, especially with three members in a family participating!

The congregation of St. Stephen's are enthusiastically making preparations for Rogation Sunday, which comes this year on May 23. On that Sunday after assembling at the church, the congregation will motor out to the Winker farm for the Blessing of the fields, the farm implements, the farm home, and the families of the land. Following the service, St. Stephen's will treat her guests, members of the congregation of Christ Church Christiana Hundred in Greenwood, to an out-door dinner. St. Stephen's and Christ Church have a companion relationship for the present year and this is the first event in observance of that relationship.

452 Unemployed Receive U.S. Job Training in 1964

Occupational training projects for 452 unemployed Delaware workers were approved under the Manpower Development and Training Act (MDTA) during 1964, according to a report just released by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz.

Wirtz, in his third annual MDTA report to Congress, disclosed that $668,924 in Federal funds had been allocated to Delaware last year for 5 MDTA projects involving 452 trainees.

Nationwide, approximately $285 million was committed for the operation of the MDTA occupational training program for 199,240 trainees during the past year.

Wirtz reported that training in 700 occupations was approved during 1964 with an average cost of $1,516 per trainee. The average will have their usual parcel post weeks.

"Of the many occupations in which training was given in the MDTA in-school program last year," Wirtz told Congress, "ten outranked all others, accounting for about one-half of all trainees in 1964. The ten most popular occupations were stenographer, automobile mechanic, nurse aide and orderly, typist and clerk typist, general machine operator, licensed practical nurse, welder, automobile body repairman, general office clerk, and cook."

The report also called attention to these advances made through the MDTA program in 1964: —The proportion of nonwhite workers increased to one-fourth of the total number of trainees. —Nearly one-third of the enrollees came from among the hard-core, long-term unemployed—those jobless for over six months. —Enrollment of unemployed youths under age 22 rose to almost 38 percent of all institutional trainees. —Seventy-two per cent of the graduate trainees of institutional courses and 94 per cent of the OJT graduates were placed in training-related jobs.

Copies of the report, "Manpower Research and Training under the Manpower Development and Training Act of 1962," are available upon request from the Office of Manpower, Automation and Training, U. S. Department of Labor, Washington, D. C. 20210.

State Needs A Slaughter House Bill

For the first time since 1925, the State Department of Agriculture is drafting a bill to place certain controls on the state's slaughter houses.

Dr. Robert Ricker, of Harrington, a state veterinarian with the department, says legislation is still very much in the planning stage.

There is only one slaughter house in the state with federal inspection. To make the record plain, we refer to houses slaughtering cattle, hogs, sheep. Some packers, who do not slaughter, have federal inspection. Poultry processing plants also have federal inspection.

Federal inspection of meat, and poultry, are required when the processed products cross the state line.

Where the processed products do not cross the state line, federal inspection is not required and there is no state inspection. To protect the consumer, all meats should be inspected.

To give one an idea of what should be done, let us take a look at the process at National Stock Yards, Ill.

As the livestock leaves the truck chutes or railroad cars, it is inspected by federal inspectors. After it is sold and slaughtered, the meat is inspected by federal inspectors, if the packer is involved in interstate commerce. The meat is also graded by government inspectors.

The safety of the consuming public demands the bill, espoused by Dr. Ricker, be passed. We presume, however, the act would not pertain to the farmer who sells an occasional ham or pound of side meat.

PENNSY TO TRY DAYLIGHT RUN

Effective July 1, a six-month extension of downstate passenger service on a trial daylight schedule has been agreed upon by the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Delaware Public Service Commission.

The train will leave Delmar at 5:56 a. m.; arrive in Wilmington at 8:20. It will leave Wilmington at 5:15 p. m., and arrive in Delmar at 7:39 p. m.

On the current schedule between Wilmington and Delmar, the southbound train leaves Wilmington at 1:40 a. m. and arrives in Delmar at 4:25. The northbound train leaves Delmar at 5:50 p. m., and arrives in Wilmington at 9:05 p. m.

The Pennsy has been seeking to cancel this run because of the lack of patronage. However, the schedule was hardly conclusive to passenger traffic. The new schedule is more appealing. The Pennsy is to be congratulated on making the trial. That is what other businesses do when a plan does not prove feasible.

TERRY TELLS ASSEMBLY OF MEANS FOR REVENUE

Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. went before the General Assembly yesterday to urge enactment of revenue measures which reportedly would increase state income from $11 to $12 million yearly.

Terry recommended substantially the same package proposed last month by the Governor's Revenue Study Committee.

The ad hoc committee, composed of citizens and state officials, recommended 16 revenue measures which it estimated would bring in an additional $13.69 million a year.

Working with a special joint legislative revenue committee, Terry considered a number of other proposals for increasing state income, but it was learned that all were rejected. Those proposals included taxes on corporate capital gains and dividends, a soft drink tax, a wage tax and the sale of state-owned beachlands.

Sources said what finally was agreed upon at a meeting of Terry and the legislative committee was a package that includes most recommendations of the governor's revenue study.

It was reported, however, that the $13.69-million package was trimmed by more than $2 million by elimination of some of the proposals and juggling of the recommended rates on others.

Among committee proposals that the out of the picture for the time being are a gift tax and a franchise tax on railroads.

Scheduled to stay are the two biggest money raisers—elimination of the $600 deduction on Delaware's income tax for federal tax payments and a one percent tax on real estate transfers. Each would raise an estimated $2.5 million a year.

The governor also recommended a flat increase in the automobile registration fee. The governor's committee had proposed increases based on the weight of the vehicles.

The committee also had recommended increase in the gasoline, cigarette and liquor taxes, institution of a road-user tax for trucks, an increase in commercial vehicle registration fee and an increase in the inheritance tax.

The committee's proposals to increase the state's take on race track betting already have been introduced in the House.

The House Wednesday passed a bill that would increase the state and track take on flat racing at Delaware Park. The bill (HB 212), which must also win Senate approval, would raise the state take on parimutuel betting from 4 1/2 to 5 1/2 per cent and the track's take from 7 1/2 to 8 1/2 per cent.

The other bill, not yet acted upon, would increase the state tax on harness track betting from 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 per cent and give the state 50 per cent of the harness track breakage.

The governor also took up the committee's recommendation for creation of a stabilization fund of at least $7 million. Any excess over $7 million would be used instead of bond funds for capital projects.

It was appointed after Terry addressed an earlier joint session of the General Assembly and painted a grim picture of state finances, warning that without spending cuts or revenue increases, the state will face a $9-million deficit by 1967.

While the committee was still deliberating, Terry ruled out any increase in the income tax or a general sales tax.

Then the General Assembly's Joint Finance Committee, with Terry's warning in mind, went to work in the $121.85-million budget bill recommended in January by former Gov. Elbert N. Carvel. The committee finally submitted a budget of its own calling for expenditures of $122.7 million. The increase in the budget included a paper increase of more than $1 million and the Carvel budget was trimmed by a scant $210,000.

Felton Avon Club Notes

The Felton Avon Club met Wednesday, May 5, for the closing meeting of the season. Mrs. J. Harold Schabinger, the president, presided at the business meeting. The club voted to give $5 to the Palmer Home, Dover.

The State Convention to be held at Lewes May 18 and 19 was discussed. Mrs. Charles Harrison and Mrs. Paul Chase will be delegates to the convention. The club course duration was nearly 28 packages at the Street Fair June 26. They also voted to have a Christmas bazaar in the fall.

Mrs. Nelson Hammond, chairman of the cancer drive in this community announced that to date $456 had been turned in for the drive.

The club is getting up a petition as a request that a new post office building be erected in the town of Felton as part of its community improvement program.

Mrs. Schabinger gave a very interesting report of the year's club work and programs.

After the business meeting the club members enjoyed slides shown by Patty Warren of her European trip. This was followed with a tea by the hospitality committee.

ALUMNI BANQUET

and Mrs. Melvin Brobst will be unable to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur H. Jump will also be present, and Mr. Jump, who was principal in 1915, will give the invocation.

Final committee reports were received at a meeting Tuesday evening in preparation for this annual affair. The Hospitality Committee consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cain, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. John Abbott, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. Millard Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kent, and Mr. and Mrs. James Temple, will be on hand to greet the guests of the association and will work with the Host and Hostess Committee.

Consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Tucker, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Garey, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Porter, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Aiken.

Miss Lois A. Larimore, 1964 Alumni Scholarship recipient, is also expected to be in attendance. Miss Larimore is attending the University of Delaware and the association is honored to have a scholarship winner present at its annual banquet and dance.

Chairman of Cafeteria Decorations, Mrs. Randall H. Knox, Jr., reported that her committee had made a special effort to make an attractive setting for the banquet. Other members of her committee are Joan McKnatt, Anna Lee Derrickson, William H. Outten, and Donald Derrickson.

On the lighter side of the program, members of the association will provide vocal quartet and octet music, concluding with the alma mater.

The female quartet is composed of Mrs. William Kramedas, Mrs. James Neeman, Mrs. Robert Moore, and Mrs. Kenneth Outten. The male quartet is composed of Randall H. Knox Jr., William Manship, Keith S. Burgess, and Carrington H. Burgess.

The completion of the new stage in the Field House is expected to allow more room for the dance, and as usual, the association is very happy to be able to have the benefit of the decorations used for the Junior High School Prom, which is held the night before the alumni banquet.

The association warns that all attending the dance are expected to have a ticket registered in their name.

Sunshine 4-H Club Notes

On May 10, 1965, the Harrington Sunshine 4-H Club met at Gail Melvin's home with Gail as hostess and Ruth Ann Moore as co-hostess. The meeting was called to order by Diane Jarrell, president. Dues were collected and business was discussed. We announced Dress Revue which is May 15, 1965.

We are to have a picnic on June 14. The various foods to be brought were mentioned. This will be our last meeting of the 4-H year. The picnic will be held at Mrs. Robert Jarrell's home at 6:00 p. m. All members are invited to attend.

Mrs. Stayton, an assistant leader, gave a demonstration on different names of cotton fabrics.

Ruth Ann Moore gave a demonstration on "colds." The meeting was then adjourned.

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa

The academic climate is something a county agent misses. It is a mite difficult to attend many University functions. Part of the reason is distance. Part is conflict with our own meetings.

A series of seminars on water resources is a case in point. I've caught two of the last seven at the University of Delaware. Professor C. E. Kindswater, of Georgia Institute of Technology last week told how various professions cooperate in water resources education and research.

His chief thesis is that the subject of water resources is so broad that no one individual can be an effective water specialist. No less than 53 professions, from ichthyologists to lawyers, are needed to tackle a big water problem. Any time man tries to change his natural environment, it has an effect in many related fields.

Locally, mosquito control is a good example. The solution is to drain the breeding marshes and to construct tide gates to prevent salt water from backing up. The wildlife folks rightly feel that it causes changes for them. Too we know that our plant life and land use patterns will change.

During the question period Herb Howlett, of the Delaware River Basin Commission, was asked to define a water resources planner. His definition can apply to most any professional planner. He said: "A planner is one who makes the most of what other specialists have to offer in resolving a problem or toward reaching a goal."

Oddly enough, specialists working on a common problem find their greatest difficulty is communications. The same words have different shades of meaning. Some is carelessness in the use of the English language.

Most any government worker knows that definitions are all important. In the area of agriculture, it is very important to be clear on such terms as farm, parity, conserving land use, to mention just a few.

Finally, it was interesting to see that the audience, mostly civil engineers and geologists, recognize that there is a political and social context to water problems, as well as the economic slant most usually dealt with.

Poverty programs are demanding our attention as extension service workers. It is something of a new experience since the poor read very little, attend few meetings, and rarely search for more education.

Extension service programs are voluntary. Oftentimes we are accused of helping only those who need us least—the successful farmers. And in truth, we tend to respond where we get requests. Our services are free to anyone who asks for educational help.

Sometimes things can become frustrating. For though we offer help, no one has to use it. There is no compulsion. We regulate nothing. The individual progresses by trying new practices. This can take some "selling".

Some 80% of U. S. poverty is in rural areas—most the South. Four per cent of Delaware's population is on welfare rolls. More certainly qualify as poor if you use a $3000 yearly maximum income as a yardstick.

Automation and the lack of skills keep many folks poor. The answer obviously lies in teaching new skills for which there are needs. Currently, trained farm equipment operators, skilled horse groomers, and several trades workers are needed.

One highly successful salesman says its merely a matter of "pushing the hot button" to get someone to buy (create a need). The poor must somehow be inspired to want to learn. With inspiration and a goal the learning becomes much easier.

A group of my peers from our northeastern states will visit in Delaware early in June. Twelve county agents from as many states will spend three weeks on a study tour, two days in Delaware.

Of course we're planning a chicken barbecue for one evening. One can't come to Delaware and not eat Delmarvalous broilers. For here is the best example we have of a free market product based on the law of supply and demand.

We'll also show our "Urban Agent" John Johnson in the Division of Urban Affairs at the University. Here is a unique program patterned after the agricultural extension idea but adapted to an urban audience.

The Hagley Museum west of Wilmington is another highlight. It portrays the growth of industry along the Brandywine River since colonial days, from four mills, to gunpowder factories, to a highly refined chemical industry.

I always like to show visitors the Papen Brothers vegetable farms west of Dover. This is truly an outdoor factory with good automated practices. Their neighbor, the new General Foods plant is another stop, as is the air freight mission of the Dover

Air Force Base.

We're quite proud to show our land drainage projects, as well as our USDA farm agencies offices south of Dover. It's nice to have visitors, because it gives urgency to that spring cleaning job!

Grass leaf blades function as a stomach. They convert raw materials into starches and sugars that the plant uses for growth. Constant close mowing reduces the leaf surface of the grass plant and impairs its vigor. Only vigorous healthy plants are able to compete with weeds. Mowing lawns at 1½ inches maintains adequate leaf surface at all times.

It pays to cut hay early—at the bud stage.

Recent studies show that cows fed early cut hay produced 25 to 30 per cent more milk than cows fed late cut hay.

Dairy scientists say the late cutting reduces production for two reasons: (1) it has less nutritive value, and (2) the cows don't eat as much of it because it is drier and more fibrous. They say early first cutting also offers a chance to get three or four high quality hay cuttings during the season.

Early sheep shearing makes ewes more comfortable as the days grow warmer. Early-shorn ewes will milk better and lambs will grow more rapidly and reach desirable market weights at a younger age. Provide shelter for at least two weeks after shearing.

Care at shearing time will insure top value for your wool. *Sheep must be dry at shearing time.

*Keep straw, hay and chaff out of fleeces.

*Avoid second cuts. Such cuts reduce fleece value very much.

*Tie fleeces with paper twine. Use no other.

*Store wool in a clean, dry place until it goes to market.

Charcoal is highly combustible when wet and stored where air cannot get to it. Like wet hay, spontaneous combustion can cause it to burst into flame when it is packed tightly and stored in an area where ventilation is poor.

If you use charcoal for barbecuing, some precautions are in order.

Don't put wet charcoal back in the original sack and then store it in the trunk of a car or a corner of the basement or garage. And don't set sacks of charcoal on the floor in areas where they are likely to draw dampness.

Growth Regulators New Frontier In Agriculture

By Jerry L. Webb
Asst. Extension Editor

Wouldn't it be great if farmers could pick the dates for harvesting their crops. Instead of harvesting corn in the fall when prices are at rock-bottom, why not wait until March when prices are better. Or why not harvest in September when the weather is nice. All of this and more may be practical in the not-too-distant future. The complete answer may be slow in coming, but agricultural researchers have made a basic breakthrough that may point the way. They have found a "switch" to turn plant growth off and on at will.

Agricultural researchers feel that this discovery may lead to results even more dramatic than those credited to chemical fertilizers, hybrid seed corn, and pesticides. By regulating plant growth, crops could be harvested almost on command. Corn should be harvested in July, fresh strawberries in December and lettuce in March. In addition to the economic advantages to farmers, think of the consumer advantages involved. Fresh vegetables throughout the year could be the rule rather than the exception.

U. S. Department of Agriculture scientists working at the Beltsville, Md., Research Center, say the amount of light that a particular plant pigment called chlorophyll receives determines plant growth. This pigment, which is part of a phytochrome molecule, activates the molecule and causes plant growth. The scientists have succeeded in separating the pigment from the rest of the molecule. This in itself is a major scientific breakthrough.

Scientists agree that they have barely scratched the surface. Fundamental work is underway at Harvard, Cal-Tech and in some commercial companies. One researcher, Dr. R. P. Upchurch, of North Carolina State, says public agencies and commercial firms will have to team up to get this dramatic research into high gear.

Despite the relatively small amount of research findings in the field of growth regulators, there are a number of growth regulating chemicals already in use. Some were discovered accidentally, some are by-products of other agricultural research.

Growth regulators are now being used to thin apples, cause pineapples to set fruit, shorten stems of chrysanthemums and reduce water loss in plants.

Perhaps the most widely discussed inhibitor is a substance called MH-30. So far its use has been limited to reducing tobacco suckering, but there may be uses by potato and onion growers in preventing premature sprouting. Floriculturists say MH-30 can be used to retard terminal growth of many flowering plants

Good Lawn Care No Fly-By-Night Deal

If you're a typical homeowner, you may be a potential victim for one of the quick deal lawn care operators who come out of hiding this time of year. You can usually tell the "lawn-shark" by the way he operates. If you are already a victim, you'll know it by now, if you're not, beware!

The typical lawn-shark carries all of his equipment in the trunk of a car, and for a hundred dollars or so he promises complete lawn care throughout the season. By the time you have finished signing the agreement and shown him to the door, his assistant is about finished with your lawn care.

10-10-10 fertilizer per thousand square feet. Look for the numbers on the bag. The law requires that the analyses be listed on all fertilizer bags.

*Set your lawnmower to cut at about two inches above the ground. The best way to do this is on the sidewalk.

*Cut the grass often enough so you don't remove more than half of the growing plant at any one time.

*Sharpen the mower blade so it will cut, not shred, the grass.

*Avoid disease problems by removing build-ups of grass clippings.

As a special service to homeowners, the University returns lawn soil test results in a special folder containing lawn care information in addition to specific fertilizer recommendations for each test. Soil samples can be sent to the county extension offices in Georgetown, Dover, and Newark for forwarding to the University soil laboratory.

With your money tucked safely in his pocket, the fellow mumbles something about needing some additional supplies and disappears around the corner in a cloud of blue smoke. You'll be hard pressed to find any benefits your lawn received during this brief visit.

This isn't to say that all people interested in providing lawn and grounds service are unreliable. On the contrary, many reputable firms and individuals provide excellent service. But, if there is any doubt in your mind, be sure to get the facts before you sign a contract or spend any money.

Dr. William Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware, says a reputable grounds keeper will provide tangible, lasting services that can make your lawn a thing of beauty.

If you prefer to do the job yourself, he offers these suggestions:

*Take a soil sample and have it analyzed by the Soil Testing Lab at the University of Delaware. Lawn specialists there will provide recommendations tailored for your soil conditions.

*If you don't get a soil test, broadcast 50 pounds of ground limestone and ten pounds of any

8 Science Teachers Named for Research Program

Eight Delaware high school and junior high school science teachers have been selected to participate in a summer research program at the University of Delaware School of Agriculture and Agricultural Experiment Station. The teachers will work with University research scientists in animal and poultry science, plant pathology, entomology and horticulture, according to Dr. Morris S. Cover, director of the Agricultural Experiment Station.

Now in its third year, the research participation program is financed by a grant from S. Hallock DuPont. Participating teachers will receive graduate credit for their work during the eight-week session.

Named to assist in the department of animal and poultry science are Joseph A. McGirt, 16 River Terrace, Clifton Park, Wilmington, a teacher at Mount Pleasant High School, and John R. Stenger, Gills Neck Rd., Lewes, a teacher at Lewes High School. Their work will include research in poultry disease control.

David R. Snow, 8 Garrett Rd.,

Felton Telephone Customers' Savings Amount to $4600

The Public Service Commission announced last week that the Diamond State Telephone Company has field tariff revisions with the Commission which would result in annual savings totaling nearly $4600 for customers in Felton.

Mileage charges totaling approximately $465 a year would be eliminated for 43 customers by extending the base rate area of the Felton exchange to include portions of U. S. 13, Delaware Route 12, the back road to Harrington, and the North by-pass. Establishment of uniform zone rate areas in the remainder of the exchange would reduce mileage charges by $4,135 annually for 174 customers.

The changes, part of the company's supplemental program of service improvement, are scheduled to become effective May 25.

Newark, a teacher at Gunning Bedford High School, St. Georges, and Norris L. Hammer, 509 Buckson Dr., Dover, a teacher at Dover High School, will work in the department of plant pathology, assisting in research on plant diseases and disease control chemicals. Snow formerly taught here.

Named to assist in entomology research are Lewis H. Brown, 112 W. Sixth St., New Castle, a teacher at George Read Junior High School, and Robert P. Reeder, Pilgrim Gardens, Newark, a teacher at Henry C. Conrad High School. Their research will include studies of insect control methods as well as ecological and behavioral studies of Delaware insects.

John L. Tentromono, Old Mill Manor, Newark, a teacher at Stanton Junior High School, and Robert J. Kanjorski, Old Manor Rd., Newark, a teacher at Brandywine Springs Junior High School, will participate in horticulture research. Their projects include research in controlled plant growth and horticultural characteristics of ornamental plants.

The summer research participation program will run from June 21 through August 14.

Get Out of Mealtime Rut With Gourmet Foods

Gourmet food shelves at the store may feature chocolate-covered ants, pickled grasshoppers and marinated whale blubber. However, in this country these are still considered more as oddities than as foods. Gourmet foods do not need to be exotic foods, says Miss Janet Coblentz, extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware. Gourmet foods may be more simply defined as "foods with a flair," she says.

Occasionally, make an extra effort to cook something a little out of the ordinary. Add a new twist to an old family favorite or introduce an entirely new food, says Miss Coblentz. Cookbooks are available with recipes from every country for every possible food. Take advantage of the adventures in good cooking—and good eating—they offer.

Add 1/4 teaspoon powdered ginger and 1/8 teaspoon nutmeg to your favorite meatball recipe for a subtle difference. Make your usual meat gravy, but add 1/2 teaspoon instant coffee to the liquid. Instead of turkey a-laking, make creamed turkey royal by adding 1/8 teaspoon each of mace and giner, a chicken bouillon cube and the liquid from a six-ounce can of mushroom caps to the cream sauce. Add the cubed, cooked turkey, the mushrooms and slivered almonds.

Candied ginger adds its own subtle flair to many dishes, from meats to desserts, says Miss Coblentz. For instance, when making a pot roast, sliver candied ginger and add one tablespoon for each three pounds of roast. Add the ginger after browning the roast.

For a Chinese touch, add 1/2 cup chopped green onion, sauteed in salad oil, and two tablespoons candied ginger to four cups hot cooked rice.

An easy, but still out of the ordinary, dessert is made by adding two teaspoons finely chopped candied ginger and one cup orange juice to a drained pound can of sliced peaches. Chill to blend flavors. Then add banana slices and serve trimmed with kumquats, if desired.

Another candied ginger dessert is a calorie-rich ice cream pie. Mix two tablespoons candied ginger with a pint of softened vanilla ice cream and spread on a baked nine-inch pie shell. Cover the ice cream with one cup whipping cream, whipped, folded into a mixture of one cup canned pumpkin, one cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon each of salt and powdered ginger, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg and 1 1/2 cups tiny marshmallows. Freeze.

Perk up your tired salads by changing your salad dressing, says Miss Coblentz. Use tarragon vinegar instead of cider vinegar. Its herb fragrance is perfect for greens or meat salads. For a hearty salad try malt vinegar. Add a new spice to your salads; use sesame seeds or dill seeds in a cucumber salad, for instance. Or, try adding chopped anchovies to salad greens.

Try a new vegetable or new ways of cooking the old familiar ones, says Miss Coblentz. Onions will taste intriguingly different if seasoned with monosodium glutamate, sugar, salt and pepper, then cooked in butter until barely tender. Add 1/2 cup cooking sherry and heat through. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

Add a cheese sauce to green lima beans and cover with hot buttered crumbs. Or, cook carrots in a small amount of water with butter and sugar. Add salt and pepper, and sprinkle with fresh parsley and fresh or dried tarragon.

Asparagus will taste even more like spring cooked the Chinese way, says Miss Coblentz. Slice the asparagus on the extreme bias so the slices are about 1/4 inch thick and 1 1/2 inches long. Add the asparagus, salt, pepper and 1/2 teaspoon monosodium glutamate to a small amount of hot salad oil in a large skillet. Cover; shake the pan above the heat just as if you were popping corn until the asparagus is tender, about four minutes.

Chinese podded sugar peas would have been considered exotic and rare only a few years ago. Most supermarkets now carry them in their frozen food departments, says Miss Coblentz. They will make a tasty addition to your diet, eat pods and all. Add a small amount of chopped pimento or diced celery or sliced mushrooms for a further treat.

Fried chicken is a delicious strictly-American food, but chicken is good to eat in any language, says Miss Coblentz. Serve it in the Italian manner as chicken cacciatore; in the Chinese style with walnuts, onions, celery, bamboo shoots and water chestnuts; in the Indian fashion as a curry; or in the Russian style as chicken breast Kiev, pounded and rolled, stuffed with parsley, onion and botteh, dipped in beaten egg, rolled in bread crumbs and deep fat fried.

Consult your cookbook; try something new from your supermarket; get out of the rut of cooking the same old foods the same old way every day; be a gourmet in the truest sense of the word, says Miss Coblentz.

Kaffeeklatsch

With Eleanor Voshell

Use that freezer—quick! All women are invited to a special program May 25 at 8 p.m. in the Civil Defense Room of the Dover Court House.

Miss Janet Coblentz, Foods and Nutrition Specialist from the University of Delaware and Mrs. Eleanor Voshell, Kent County Home Economics Agent will present the information. There will be a short film explaining new techniques in freezing and a demonstration of quick tricks. The public is welcome. There is no charge.

Can you really have money with a freezer? When we consider the cost of the freezer, the cost of operating it and the cost of packaging, the dollar-and-cents benefits are not so clear. Whether, in the long run the family's food budget will be reduced or increased by use of a home freezer, depends on whether food is homegrown or purchased, kinds and quantities of food frozen, and how the freezer is used.

The family that uses the freezer extensively is usually the one that gains the highest financial return on the investment.

For many families financial considerations will be over-balanced by the convenience of the home freezer, the saving of time in marketing and meal preparation, and the satisfaction of enjoying throughout the year a variety of fresh flavored foods of high nutritive value.

Where should the freezer be placed? The ideal location, from the operating standpoint, is a cool, dry, well-ventilated place.

The higher the room temperature, the more the motor must run to maintain the freezer temperature and the greater will be the cost of operation and wear and tear on the mechanism. However, it is a bad practice to put the freezer where the temperature falls below 40 degrees F, unless it is specifically designed to operate at low temperatures. At low temperatures the freezer mechanism may not function properly.

Another requirement for the freezer location is a strong floor.

What does it cost to operate a freezer? Operating costs vary, depending on such factors as size and design of the freezer, capacity of the compressor, freezer location, and the local electric rate. To freeze a pound of food and lower its temperature to 0 degrees F. for storage, about 0.1 kilowatt-hour of electrical energy is required. Energy for maintaining zero temperature in all storage locations in a freezer for 24 hours can be estimated roughly as follows:

Size of freezer:	Energy Per cubic foot
6 Cu. Ft.	0.30
12 Cu. Ft.	.25
18 Cu. Ft.	.20

For the country as a whole, the average electric rate is between 2 and 3 cents per kilowatt-hour, depending upon the amount of electrical energy used.

Delaware Food Market Report

Fryers and a variety of other poultry products seem to be predominant at all meat counters this week. Production of broiler-fryers continue on the upward trend and there are ample supplies of economical birds for barbecue fans, for freezing, or for just generally good eating.

Have you ever tried freezing a molded chicken salad? It can be done and it won't be watery. This is a wonderful idea when you are entertaining and must work ahead. The secret to freezing molded gelatin salads is use less liquid. For instance, when using lemon flavored gelatin use 1 1/2 cups water instead of the 2 cups recommended on the label. Not only will you avoid weeping salads, but the celery in them will stay crisp.

Here's a recipe for a molded chicken salad which you can put in the freezer, then bring forth when the company comes.

You use 1 can condensed cream soup (mushroom soup is preferred), 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin (one envelope), 1/4 cup hot water, 1 cup diced celery, 2 pimientos cut in small pieces, 1/2 cup cooked salad dressing (not mayonnaise) and 2 cups diced chicken meat (you may substitute turkey, veal, ham, or tuna fish).

Soak gelatin in cold water and add heated condensed soup. Stir to dissolve gelatin, then add other ingredients. Mix. Pour into a mold and chill until firm. Then freeze—for no longer than two weeks. Thaw overnight in the refrigerator.

Wholesale prices on both beef and pork have taken an upward swing, as a result you'll be seeing fewer specials on these meats. Now is a good time to consider rolled roast and other boneless cuts for these choices are often cheaper than bone-in cuts when the number of servings per pound is taken into account. Remember on the average cuts containing bones will yield 1 1/2 to 3 servings per pound while boneless cuts will yield 4 servings per pound.

Veal supplies are up slightly and variety meats are relatively economical.

Artichokes are still in heavy supply and remain the outstanding buy at many vegetable counters. Though the weather has improved in many areas, the story of a cold and cloudy spring can be seen at every store for fresh vegetables are expensive and the quality of some is classed as only fair. Tomatoes, lettuce, potatoes, green peppers, and cabbage are all more expensive than at this time last year. The vegetables to check this week are beets, carrots, artichokes, cucumbers, and new crop onions.

Steady supplies of fresh pineapple are arriving from Hawaii, grapes from South America and South Africa and strawberries from Louisiana are plentiful.

Citrus fruits are ample also though many supplies are decreasing as the season begins to close. Avocados are really scarce and quality leaves much to be desired.

Do Housecleaning The Easy Way

This year spend those warm, beautiful spring days outside in the sunshine, and stop worrying about spring housecleaning, advises Miss Coral Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware. If you plan and organize your cleaning, you will not need to devote exhausting days to a special spring housecleaning.

In fact, says Miss Morris, you should never try to do all your cleaning in just a few hectic days. Trying to do too much work in too short a time leaves you over-tired, short-tempered and accident-prone. Studies have shown that your children, too, are more likely to be involved in household accidents when you are too tired or too busy to pay sufficient attention to them.

Planning, not cleaning, should be your first step. Make a list of all the cleaning you want to accomplish, noting the time each job should take. You can do many jobs while sitting down; plan to alternate them with heavy cleaning jobs.

Do some of the little jobs—those that require only five to 15 minutes—while you are preparing a meal, or some other time during your daily routine. For instance, while you are cooking dinner take five minutes to wash the kitchen window sills, or a kitchen cabinet door or the refrigerator door. Take everything off a kitchen shelf, wash, repaper and replace everything after you do the lunch dishes. When you make the bed in the morning, dust mop the room, or clean out one bureau drawer. It only takes a few minutes at any one time, but soon a majority of your cleaning jobs are done, says Miss Morris.

Store your cleaning equipment and supplies neatly in a convenient place, she recommends. If you only have 20 minutes to spend washing a window, you cannot afford to spend 15 minutes hunting for the equipment you need. Store smaller essential cleaning supplies together in a basket or box with a handle. Carry the basket when you start to clean in a room and have unnecessary trips to the cleaning supplies.

Use the tool best suited for each job, Miss Morris advises. It pays to look in the store occasionally; new products and tools make cleaning easier all the time. A self-wringing mop saves stooping and keeps you cleaner. A long-handled wax applicator again saves stooping. When you use a squeegee with a sponge attached, you can wash and dry windows with no wasted effort.

Your vacuum cleaner is a time and energy saver, too, so use it whenever possible, says Miss Morris. When you take the vacuum cleaner out to clean the rug, take a few minutes to dust lampshades, bookcases, pictures and hard-to-reach ceilings. Do not forget to vacuum upholstered furniture once a week to protect the fabric. Use your cleaner periodically to get the loose dirt off the mattress. Use all your cleaner tools; they are shaped to reach loose dirt no matter where it happens to be.

Do not clean and wax your floors unless they need it, says Miss Morris. Wax wears off much sooner in heavy traffic areas, so just clean and wax those pathways to avoid the buildup of wax in corners and under furniture. Once or twice a year if often enough to remove all the old wax from the entire room. Of course, take care of food spills as they occur, both for the sake of the appearance of the floor and for the sake of safety. Spilled water and grease probably cause more falls than anything else she says.

Do the messy jobs in each room first. For instance, clean the fireplace first to avoid spreading ashes and dust in a newly cleaned room.

When washing walls, begin at the bottom and work up, says Miss Morris. If you start at the top, dirty water will run over the soiled part of the wall and cause hard-to-remove streaks. Scrub water dripped on a clean area is much easier to wipe up. Wash the ceiling last.

Spend some time planning and organizing, fit small cleaning jobs into the daily routine; do not try to do too much heavy cleaning at one time. Keep these hints in mind and you will have time to enjoy the spring sunshine with a clear conscience.

Lions Are 5th In 13 Team Meet

Harrington High's track and field Lions made a good showing in the Milford Invitational last Wednesday by finishing 5th in a field of thirteen teams. The Lions tallied 17 points and just missed beating out Dover (19 points) for fourth place behind the powerhouse teams of larger schools Seaford, Caesar Rodney and Milford.

The Lions placed in the 100, 220, 440, mile and mile relay and just missed placing in the 880 relay as a last minute substitution had to be made due to a sprinter with academic troubles. In the field events H.H.S. scored points in the broad jump and pole vault.

Dennis Rogers placed second in the mile run and was the only competitor near the winner, Seaford's Steve Owens, at the finish.

Frank White had a busy afternoon and evening, as he raced no less than seven times. The little speedster ran the 100-yard dash three times and the 220 yard dash on four occasions. White won the first qualifying heat of the century and qualified for the final by getting second in the semi-final. Off to a bad start in the championship round, he appeared to be fourth at the finish but was awarded fifth. He has tough luck it seems if the race is close. At Seaford the judges moved him back from fifth to sixth and in the 220 final at Milford he dropped a hairline decision for third place to Caesar Rodney's Rod Gibbons.

Artie Taylor unleashed the best jump of his career, 19 feet 3 inches, to become a surprise, fourth-place finisher in the broad jump.

Bob Smith was clocked in 54 seconds flat in the 440 yard run. Smith duelled with Palmer of Seaford, a 52.8 quarter-mile, for the lead for most of the race and finally nipped the Blue Jay at the tape. However, Bruce Rhoads, of Caesar Rodney and Greg Showell, of Milford, the 1963 winner of the Milford Invitational 440, edged out both Smith and Palmer. Bowden, of Seaford, had a better time than anyone except Rhoads in another heat. Smith's time is his best of 1965.

In the two mile run Gerry Gary was fourth in 11:10. This makes the third consecutive time that the junior distance ace has neared the 11-minute barrier. He may make it soon because of the added support of the improving Marshall Hatfield. Hatfield plays baseball and has little opportunity to practice. In spite of this fact, Marshall lowered his mark more than half a minute Wednesday night in clocking 11:20 and finishing in sixth position. He and Gary could run 1-2 in both the Kent-Sussex and Henlopen Conference Championships.

Frank Cain tied for third in the pole vault and the mile relay team of Rogers, Smith, Henry Minner and Richard Black raced to a 3:41.5 clocking, the fastest of the year. This quartet was nosed out by Caesar Rodney for second place.

The Lions junior high squad almost won an abbreviated junior meet as they scored 8 points to 9 for Wicomico and 10 for Dover. Seaford tallied 5 1/2, Bridgeville 5, Banneker 3, Lewes 3, Millsboro 1 1/2.

The locals were hurt by the absence of two key men in the 440 and 880 relays but still might have won the junior high meet. A youthful competitor showed up for the 880 relay wearing heavy basketball sneakers. He was eaten up in the opening leg by Bridgeville's speedy Robert Smith. The ground lost here proved to be decisive as the Lions had to scramble to salvage fifth place. The locals had easily won the 440 relay over the same teams. However, these mistakes will occur more often when one is dealing with 12,13 and 14-year-old boys. We doubt if the luckless lad will try to race anyone again who is wearing spiked shoes at a time when our hero is shod in much heavier foot gear.

In the junior high 880 the locals came up with a trio of outstanding performances. Names that may be familiar to track buffs throughout the Peninsula in a few years are Gary Simpson, Oscar Matthews and Jack Warrington.

Another fine young prospect is freshman Nick Morris. Competing in the varsity section, Morris ran a good 5.20 mile and then came back later in the evening to run a 2:23 half. Nick could probably break 2:18 in the 880 when he is fresh.

The winning 440 relay team was made of Gerry Cagle, Harold Coleman, Brett Wix and Jim Simpler.

The reason track coaches want to coach a cross-country team in the fall was readily evident at Milford. The following stars were also cross-country runners: The first four finishers in the 440, the first three in the 880, the first two in both the mile and two-mile.

There will be track meets under the lights at H.H.S. next Wednesday night and the following Wednesday night. The latter test is the Henlopen Conference Championship.

H.H.S. Nine Wins First Game

All's well that ends well. Although, the Lions appeared to be the victims of a bad call by the umpires at Millsboro last week, they weren't protesting the ruling because the locals won the game 5-4 in an extra inning. The win was the first of the season after four losses and it lifted the Lions from the basement to 10th place in the 12-team Henlopen Conference.

Renny French continues to pitch good ball but on Thursday there was another factor present that was absent on the previous occasions the big righthander was on the mound. Harrington got some hitting for a change, in fact, they outhit the Blue Devils 7-6.

The Lions went ahead 2-0 in round 2 but fell behind 4-2 in the fourth when Millsboro benefited by a controversial ruling. With two out and the bases full, a Blue Devil batter lined a drive into the outfield. The ball hit near the bottom of the fence, then ran up the wall and dropped on the other side. This is a ground rule double scoring two runs. The three (count 'em) umpires ruled a grand slam home run, instead.

The Lions fought back with two runs in the seventh, to tie the score and send the game into the extra inning. A bases-loaded walk in the eighth frame put the game in the H.H.S. win column.

Richard Black had two-for-three to lead Harrington's batting attack.

Felton Trounces Rehoboth, Retains League Lead

Joe Kern's Felton High Green Devils got back on the winning track in grand style, as they scored in the middle four innings to overwhelm the visiting Rehoboth Seahawks by a score of 11-0 on Thursday afternoon.

Felton's 6-1 record gives them the Henlopen Conference lead over Bridgeville (5-1) and Dover Air (4-1).

Will Dill held the losers to three hits as his mates mounted a 11-hit attack, including home runs by brother, Bob Dill, Dave "no relation" Dill, and Phil Clark.

The trio of homer clouters had another hit each, while "Porkey" Coulson had a pair of base knocks. Bob Dill had five RBIs.

Greenwood Bows To John M. Clayton

A seven run fifth inning by John M. Clayton broke a tight, 3-1 ball game wide open at Greenwood Thursday afternoon. The Bears went on to win a 10-3 decision behind the four hit pitching of Eldred Cress and Burnley Wilder, a transfer student from Wicomico High, Salisbury, Md.

Buell Schulze had two of Greenwood's safeties, while Maurice Hughes and Ron Breeding had the other bingles.

Greenwood's 2-5 record puts them in eighth place in the 12-team Henlopen Conference at this writing.

trouble with his appetite. He likes chicken and roast beef but says turkey is his favorite meal, "mainly for the dressing."

The only thing of significance which has happened to him so far in connection with the coming event is "my barber gave me a free haircut the other day."

As usually happens when a reporter and centenarian get together, the question about the secret of a long life was asked. "You know, my doctor has asked me the same question and I'll tell you what I told him. I don't know it. I don't know the secret."

A member of the Peninsula Methodist Church, Wroten says he never smoked or drank alcohol. "But I don't know if that had anything to do with it or not. I tried chewing tobacco once, about 65 years ago, but it made me sick. I haven't had anything to do with it since," he said.

Foresters Defeat Eagles, 8-4

Greenwood's Foresters picked up their third victory in eight outings by rallying to defeat Lord Baltimore 8-4 at Greenwood Monday afternoon.

Trailing 3-0 when they came to bat in the bottom of the fifth frame, the Foresters pushed a pair of runs across the plate and settled Lord Baltimore's hash with a six run burst in the sixth inning.

Ron Breeding was the winning pitcher and aided his cause by batting in two runs. Two was the day's lucky number for Drew Clendaniel and Heinze Retzlaff, as this pair each had two base-hits and drove in two runs apiece.

Felton Wins Seventh In Eight Starts, 9-6

Felton's Green Devils continue to come up with runs as they are needed. The Kent Countians demonstrated this fact at Millsboro Monday afternoon when Jim Blades gave up ten hits and six runs but saw his mates make the same amount of safeties count for nine runs.

Felton opened up a 4-0 first-inning lead but when the host Blue Devils went ahead 5-4 in the second inning the Green Devils (Don't you just love those diabolic nicknames?) wasted no time in regaining the lead. F.H.S. tallied two in the third and two more in the fourth to wrap up their seventh win in eight starts.

Phil Clark had three-for-four for the winners. Dave Wood and Jim Reible had a pair of bingles apiece. Wood batted in three runs.

Lion Baseballers Win 2nd Straight

Frank Glazier's Harrington High baseball team won its second straight game after opening the season with four losses. The Lions down John M. Clayton here Monday afternoon by a score of 8-5.

Harrington trailed 4-0 after two turns at bat but rallied to tie the score in the third inning. Two run fourth and fifth innings put the game on ice.

A two run single by Renny French and Richard Black's home run with one on were key blows in the early scoring. Black's drive into right field went onto the paved tennis court and the speedy trackman easily beat the relayed horsehide to home plate. Sam Knox entered the contest with a five game hitting streak and had a perfect day at the plate with three hits and the remaining three RBIs. Marshall Hatfield had two hits in three trips to the plate.

Renny French was the winning pitcher for the second straight week.
