

KENT COUNTY APPRAISAL TO BE COMPLETED ON TIME

The Kent County Levy Court Tuesday learned the J. M. Clemishaw Company expects to meet its Nov. 1 deadline for completing the county-wide property re-appraisal.

The commissioners also found out they are eligible for federal aid for comprehensive planning — if General Assembly authorization for the project can be obtained.

Chester J. Brisko of the Clemishaw Company reported Tuesday that his staff will meet the completion deadline without any delay which previously was expected.

He said the reappraisal will be finished Nov. 1.

At one time it was estimated an extension to Jan. 1 would be needed because of problems in the $117,000 project.

Brisko said the company will send out notices to Kent County property owners listing the new appraised valuation of their properties. The list is not final, he added, until it is accepted and approved by the Board of Assessors.

Before the records are turned over to the county, Clemishaw will hold a public hearing for appeals by county property owners. No date has been set for the hearing.

Levy Court President James B. Messick said this meeting will be held prior to an additional appeal meeting the county will call at a later date.

Any property owner, once he receives his appraisal notice, may take his case before Clemishaw officials at the meeting if he feels his property has been unfairly appraised.

The commissioners were notified by letter from the National Association of Counties in Washington, D. C. that Kent is eligible to apply for reimbursement of as much as two-thirds of its comprehensive planning costs.

The association said a new federal law, creating the urban planning assistance program, provides funds to cover costs, such as data collection, plan formulation and plan implementation.

Kent County, however, must seek authority from the General Assembly by having planning and zoning in the county before it can take advantage of the federal funds available.

"This is probably the most important legislation that will affect Kent County," Messick said.

During the past two sessions, the way has been paved with a constitution amendment which lifts the ban on planning and zoning for both Kent and Sussex Counties. A law granting authority still needs passage.

It's A Small World

The following excerpt is from an article appearing in the Daily Olympian dated Sept. 22, 1965, Olympia, Wash.

"A car with Delaware license plates eased to a halt near Fifth Avenue dam. The morning was foggy, but the driver didn't care. He'd come to see the fish—and there they were, milling around in the raceway.

Too foggy for good photos of the returning salmon, the visitor from the East nevertheless caught enough on film to show friends and neighbors what the big lunkers do every fall. He snapped a picture of the newly erected sign—complete with giant chinook."

The above described tourists were Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Wagner, who was directed to the fishway at Tunwater Falls, by Mrs. Kirmitt Smith, Mr. Wagner's aunt.

Accident Victim Doing Well

Arthur (Artie) Taylor, injured in a traffic accident Oct. 8, is coming along fine in Delaware Hospital, his mother, Mrs. Leonard A. Taylor, said Wednesday.

Young Taylor suffered a fractured leg and skull when his motorcycle collided with a tractor-trailer on U.S. 13 north of Dover.

There is No Dixie; It's All Dixon St.

While the city maps identify that thoroughfare running from Clark Street to Liberty Street as Dixie Street, this is no longer its proper name.

The Council, several years back, changed it to Dixon Street which now runs from Clark Street, thru Harrington Manor, to Smith Avenue.

Additional Data On Book's Store

Upon sale of Harrington Hardware to Harrington Lumber & Supply, an article was written on the store in last week's Journal. The following additional data has been gleaned from L. Booker (Book) Harrington, owner of the store from 1920 to the day of sale:

"When Billy Wright dissolved partnership with Joe Callaway in the hardware business at 29 Commerce Street, now occupied by the Burton Smith's Sport Shop, he moved next door to the present site of Harrington Hardware.

"The building was a small one, previously occupied by Squire Ward, an alderman, who moved to what was known as the Ward farm on the extension of Weiner Avenue this side of the woods. Bryan Sapp once lived there.

"When Wright had been in his new home a bit, he added the undertaking business. Then, he lengthened his building and made an addition on the south.

"B. L. Hudson, of Wyandot, Ill., a mortician and furniture dealer, once told us he worked for Wright. This could be where he learned the undertaking business. Hudson visited this office and we have a letter from him, written in 1957, when he was 83.

"Book Harrington believes Wright was in business, at his final location, 18 or 20 years. Since Book bought the store was the Wright estate in March, 1920, it can be safely presumed Wright had the store from 1900-1920 on.

"The late N. J. Harrington, father of Tharp Harrington, owned the building at 29 Commerce Street, now the Sport Shop, as previously mentioned, and conducted a hardware store in it for a number of years. Arlie Saulsbury later had a grocery store there."

Help Little Goblins To Have Safe Trick-or-Treating

Witching season is here. Three-foot high witches, goblins and ghosts will soon be knocking on doors. Halloween is exciting fun; don't let it turn into a disaster for your child, says Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware.

A jack-o-lantern grinning into the dark is a Halloween tradition. Don't let that grin turn into a fire. If you use a real pumpkin, be sure the candle is placed firmly in an upright position. Of course, never leave a lighted jack-o-lantern unattended. Plastic or cardboard pumpkins may be particular fire hazards. Melted wax itself can make quite a mess on floor and rugs.

A costume without a mask hardly seems like a costume at all. Yet a mask can be very dangerous if it blocks a child's vision. Make-up can be just as imaginative as any mask, and far safer, says Miss Morris. With Mother's lipstick and eyeshadow or even with poster paints, any goblin or ghost will look as ferocious as he could possibly want. Use a thin layer of cold cream under the make-up and use it again to remove make-up; it works much easier than scrubbing.

Costumes, too, can be hazardous, warns Miss Morris. Most are not fireproof; many are extremely flimsy. Keep candles and jack-o-lanterns safely away.

Do not allow children to wear costumes that are so long they trail on the ground. Children can trip and fall much too easily while dashing back and forth in the dark.

Hughes, Holloway Dog Leads Pack

Roger Hill Spicy, owned by Ben Hughes and Bob Holloway of Harrington, representing the Diamond State Beagle Club, copped first place in the 15-inch dog female class in a field of 45 at the Maryland Beagle Club licenses trials held at Shawsville, Md., Sunday.

Comma Don Booker, beagle, placed fifth in a class of 36 males. He is also owned by Hughes and Holloway.

Hall's Sue, owned by Claude Hall of Dover, finished fourth. In the 13-inch female class, with 50 dogs entered, Kentwood Blackie, owned by Bill Fones of Wyoming, took second place.

Blue Cross Rate Rise Effective January 1

Group Hospital Service Monday announced its long-expected rate changes, including an increase of about 12.41 per cent in the membership rates for the most widely held contract.

Not expected, however, was the announcement that the rates for the Extended Benefits Plans will be lowered. Also, some benefits were boosted.

The changes will be effective Jan. 1.

Rates were increased July 1, 1962, almost three and one-half years ago. Ordinarily rates are geared to a two-year period, because of the history of gradual increases in hospital charges. The Plan pays certain hospital bills so its rates are therefore tied to hospital rates.

Group Hospital Service absorbed increases in charges of Delaware hospitals made earlier this year. The Board of Trustees decided to use some of the non-profit organization's reserves to meet the losses which have since ensued, and to put off making rate changes until the impact of Medicare Legislation was clear.

Further delay was ordered, when it appeared the hospitals would have to make further increases in charges to adjust pay scales to comply with minimum wage requirements and in some instances new rates for nursing services.

This 12.41% increase in Group Hospital rates is for a family holding a contract with Standard Semi-Private hospital plan, surgical-medical Plan B, and Extended Benefits. The increase for this type membership would be from $15.96 — the old rate — to $17.94 — the new rate.

The new rates reflect the impact of the Medicare program to start next July 1, 1966. Medicare will result in a saving to the Blue Cross Plan, but that saving will be enough to take up only a small part of the increased cost already being encountered. Without the Medicare program, the rate increase would have had to be greater.

H. V. Maybee, Managing Director of Group Hospital Service, explained its costs are determined by two factors—or a combination of them. They are charges and utilization of benefits by members. In recent years, due to cooperation of members and Delaware physicians, utilization has changed very little, he said.

Maybe said operating costs are not a factor in rate changes. Group Hospital Service, he said, managed to use only 6.6 per cent of its income for operating costs last year, while using 9.1 per cent to pay bills of its members and putting 2.3 per cent in reserve.

Greenwood Woman Killed When Run Over By Her Car

A Greenwood woman was injured fatally Sunday night when run over by her own car on Delaware 434 north of Farmington, state police reported.

Queen Esther McMillon, 29, was thrown from her car about 7 Sunday night after she lost control of it while driving on a curve and it swerved to the right, police said.

She was thrown out the right side to the roadway, and the car passed over her body, police said.

UNICEF Drive Wednesday

With the Halloween season nearly here, the thoughts of some children and grownups, too, turn to the UNICEF drive held each year in Harrington for the collection of funds for children throughout the world.

When we think of children, we think of eager faces and strong bodies, cheerful voices and happy laughter, alert, inquiring minds, and youthful hope and optimism. This is the way most of our children are in our country—but unfortunately in many lands around the world today children are born and raised in poverty, never knowing the feeling of a full stomach, lacking even the simplest medical treatment. Education is totally inadequate for these children.

To bring hope to these children, to strengthen their bodies and stimulate their minds, UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund will be sending funds, collected in communities throughout the United States, for assistance of over 500 projects for children and mothers in more than 100 countries.

The drive in Harrington will be held on Wednesday afternoon, October 27, beginning at 3 o'clock. All children in the community are invited to help with the drive. They will meet at the New Century Club building for registration. As usual, drivers will take groups of children to various parts of the town for the collecting. Upon returning to the club house, refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Alen B. Parsons and Mrs. Frank O'Neal, Jr. are serving as general chairmen of the drive. Serving with them are the following women: Drivers: Mrs. William Sharp, Mrs. Samuel Williams, Mrs. Ethel Bull; registrars: Mrs. Albert Price, Mrs. James Rash, Mrs. Ernest Raughley, Mrs. Richard Shultie; tags: Mrs. Jack Redden, Mrs. Howell Hitchens, Mrs. Arnold Gilstad; refreshments: Mrs. Francis Winkler, Mrs. Norman Brown, Mrs. Elwood Shultie, Mrs. Abner Hickman; clean-up: Mrs. Melvin Wyatt, Mrs. Ellwood Gruwell, Mrs. Oscar Gillette; treasurers: Mrs. Earl Sylvester, Mrs. Earle Nelson; publicity: Mrs. Charles Rapp, Mrs. Frank O'Neal, Jr., and Mrs. William A. Minner.

When the little ghost or goblin comes knocking at the door next Wednesday with the UNICEF tag on its costume, give generously. It is for a cause that will bring hope and joy to many of the world's needy children.

Big Soybean Crop, Low Prices Predicted

Delaware farmers can expect lower prices and a strong preference for quality when they market their soybeans this fall. Prices will average $2.35 to $2.40 per bushel, according to W. T. McAllister, farm management specialist at the University of Delaware. Currently farmers are receiving $2.37 per bushel for U. S. No. 2 or better soybeans.

The largest soybean crop in history has depressed national soybean prices 25 cents to 30 cents per bushel below 1964 levels. The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates an increase of 25 per cent in national soybean production this year. While both domestic and export uses for soybeans are expected to rise, McAllister says current supplies will more than offset demand during the next several months.

Over the past four years, soybeans have become the largest U. S. farm export. At least a fourth of Delaware's current crop of three and a half million bushels will be sold overseas according to the economist. But low quality beans are being severely penalized in foreign markets. West Germany buys only five percent of her U.S. soybean imports because of the high moisture and low oil content of Atlantic coast beans.

McAllister says that as soybeans exporters set higher penalties on low quality harvesting and beans, marketing will become more important. For example, No. 1 beans cannot have more than 13 per cent moisture, 2 per cent damaged beans and one per cent foreign matter. Discounts of 2 1/2 cents per bushel will be levied for each half of a per cent of moisture above 13 per cent. McAllister believes this discount system will emphasize the importance of leaving beans in the field until they are mature and the moisture level is down to 13 per cent. Also he says it will encourage proper combine adjustment to reduce mechanical damage to the beans.

WCTU Asks Welfare - Liquor Probe

Delaware's Women's Temperance Union ended its two-day annual meeting here last Friday with a demand for investigation of the liquor-purchasing habits of Welfare recipients.

After electing new officers for the coming year, the women voted to send a letter to Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. asking an all-out investigation of the liquor problem among welfare recipients.

"If we don't get a response, we will keep pursuing the demand until we do get one," one member said, "even if it means personal appointments with the governor and camping on his doorstep."

The move to draft a letter to Terry was part of the WCTU movement to investigate fully the effects of alcoholic beverages on crime and poverty in the state.

"We're not against anyone getting welfare who needs it," said Mrs. Lorraine Ottinger, of Harrington, recording secretary said, "but we don't want them to get it to get drunk."

"We are citizens of this state," said outgoing president, Mrs. Dorothy Hilyard, "and we have the right to some say about the way our tax money is spent."

Mrs. Hilyard, of Wilmington, is retiring from the presidency of the state organization after four years in office. Chosen as her successor was Mrs. Anna D. Welldin, also of Wilmington.

Mrs. Ottinger was re-elected recording secretary, and Mrs. Edith Lacy of Milford was chosen for another term as vice president at large.

Also elected for the coming year was Mrs. Anna L. Brinton, of Wilmington, as promotion secretary.

Use of Loot To Pay Fine Laid to 2

Two robbery suspects, reportedly arrested after using stolen money to pay a traffic fine, were scheduled Monday morning for arraignment, state police said.

The pair were identified as Alvin E. Lake, 22, of West St., Milford, and Ronald W. Young, 18, of Church Street, Milford. A third suspect, a 17-year-old youth, was released in his parents' custody for family court.

State troopers said the robbery occurred early Sunday when Paul Smallwood Jr., 54, of Harrington was assaulted in his trailer near here.

Smallwood told police that he had accepted a ride home from the three, but became suspicious and left the car near his residence, walking the rest of the way.

The trio apparently followed him to the trailer on County Road 275, roughed him up and stole his money, police said.

Further details on the case were sketchy as the investigation is not completed. However, state police at Bridgeville said the group was arrested on a speeding charge following a minor accident after the robbery. One suspect supposedly tried to use a portion of Smallwood's cash to pay the fine, police said.

Elderly Deadline For Tax Exemptions Near

The Commission for the Aging calls attention to the fact that persons 65 years of age or over eligible for property tax exemption, must file application by November 1.

The law passed by the recent legislature provides that an older person with an income of less than $3000 annually, residing on their property, may receive county and state tax exemption on the first $5000 assessed valuation of their real estate. However, application must be filed with the county tax collector's office prior to November 1 of this year if they are to secure exemption.

Another feature of this law is that the property owner cannot have an immediate member of his family living with him who has an income of more than the stipulated amount of $3000.

Evangelists Recall Set For November 22

The 123rd General Assembly will return to session at Dover Monday, Nov. 22.

The recall date was announced jointly Tuesday night by Lt. Gov. Sherman W. Tribbitt, D-Odessa, and House Speaker Harold T. Bockman, D-Brookland Terrace, after a two-hour afternoon conference with Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr.

Looming as the key issues when the legislators get back to work Thanksgiving week are proposals for opening housing legislation and efforts to revamp the political parties' nominating machinery.

The legislature began the summer recess June 5 and originally was expected to return shortly after Labor Day, but a Democratic intra-party squabble over convention reapportionment, troubles with the opening housing issue and the governor's wishes delayed the decision to recall the General Assembly.

New Castle County Democratic leaders were talking Tuesday of a recall as early as next Monday. Some downstate Democrats wanted to wait until after Thanksgiving. The Nov. 22 date, three days before Thanksgiving, appeared to be a compromise and conformed with the governor's desire that the legislature remain in recess until mid-November.

The governor was concerned that another long session could cost the state a lot of money. With the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays coming in rapid succession, it is not expected that the legislature will remain in Dover too long.

Tribbitt said Tuesday night that the notices of the recall will go out shortly. It was up to Tribbitt, as president pro-tem of the Senate, and Bockman, as presiding officer of the House, to make the decision.

Tribbitt said no agenda has been worked out, but Bockman said there definitely would be an effort to pass open housing legislation.

New Castle County Democratic Chairman Francis A. (Cozy) Dolan has promised that he will seek action on a bill that would reapportion the parties' nominating conventions on a population basis and permit a primary election for statewide candidates. These candidates are now selected at party conventions.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY RECALL SET FOR NOVEMBER 22

EVANGELISTS — Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Boudreaux, Texas evangelists, who will conduct revival services for the United Pentecostal Mission at White's Church, beginning Tuesday and continuing for at least a week.

The Rev. and Mrs. Marshall Boudreaux, will be conducting revival services for the United Pentecostal Mission at White's Church, on Whitesburg Road, where Merina Dierolf is pastor. The services will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tues. Oct. 26, and will continue nightly for at least one week.

This talented young couple will be featuring many duets to accompany their evangelistic messages. They will be assisted several evenings by the Rev. and Mrs. Wayne Trout, of the First United Pentecostal Church, at Dover.

The young evangelists left their home in Groves, Tex., some time ago to hold a series of revival services in the Eastern Shore area. Some of the more recent locations are listed together with the pastors: Hazelton, Pa., Rev. Robert Jones; West Milton, Pa., Rev. Albert Vantassel, and Pleasantville, N. J., Rev. Carl Schweiger. Prior to this, revivals were held at Wilmington and Dover.

The Diamond State Telephone Company authorized district managers to identify subscribers to recorded announcements when those requesting such information furnish the company with the telephone number for the recording.

The company said it would do this even though the subscriber to the recorded announcement may have contracted for a "non-published" number.

Previously, the company had not divulged the names of subscribers to recorded announcement services when the customer asked to be placed in the "non-published" category.

Several organizations and individuals complained about the practice. As a result the company said it had reviewed its policy and decided that the non-publish agreement would not be violated if the names of subscribers were given out on request.

"When people call a publish announcement service in response to an expressed or implied invitation to do so — and such an invitation is inherent in the nature of the service—they are entitled to know the name of the sponsoring subscriber," L. C. Bailey, the company's operating vice president said.

He said after reviewing the non-publish agreement he believed the company had only two obligations: (1) not to publish such a number in the directories and on information lists and (2) not to establish a connection unless the call was dialed, or the correct number is given to the operator.

Houston School Referendum Set For Oct. 30

The School Board of the Houston School will hold a referendum on Sat., Oct. 30, for the purpose of authorizing a building program for the Houston School.

The construction, if approved, will consist of a new multi-purpose room (to be used as an auditorium-cafeteria which could easily be converted into emergency classroom space), a new kitchen, and a combination office and nurse's room. The new construction will total approximately $99,079.

The members of the Board feel that the old building needs extensive repairs and updating and plan to spend about $46,247 in this phase of the project.

The State Board of Education has allocated $150,000 for this work, of which $60,000, or 40% is to be paid for by the local residents.

A public meeting will be held at the Houston School, Wed., Oct. 27, at 8 p.m. The architect and members of the school board will be present to answer any questions.

The local school authorities hope that the residents of the Houston School District will support this referendum by voting for this new building program on Oct. 30.

Wayne Carson Elected V.P. of Honor Fraternity

William Wayne Carson, of 301 Second Avenue, Harrington, a 1964 graduate of Harrington High School, was elected vice president of the Zeta Rho Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa national scholastic honor-fraternity on Sept. 21.

Wayne Carson is a sophomore Business Administration major at Wesley College, Dover. Wayne is the son of Maj. and Mrs. S. Carson.

Others voted into office were: Bob Foley, president; Sharon Esser, secretary, and Richard Hammond, treasurer.

Discover Wonderful Del.

There's a small wonder in Wilmington, at the foot of Seventh Street. Here on the banks of the Christina River not far from the busy port of Wilmington, a small park marks the site of the first permanent settlement of the Delaware Valley.

In March, 1638, on one of the first warm days of spring, two ships from Sweden, the Key of Kalmar and the Bird Griffen, east anchor here at "The Rocks," a natural wharf of granite jutting into the stream. The passengers who disembarked that day established what was to be the first permanent colony, not only in Delaware, but in the whole Delaware River Valley.

Led by Peter Minuit, the colonists first built a fort directly back of "The Rocks." Named "Fort Christina" in honor of the young queen of Sweden, it was a small square log enclosure surrounding two log houses. In these the garrison lived and stored their provisions and the goods brought for barter with the Indians. The Indians were not particularly friendly, and no doubt Minuit knew of the fate of the earlier Dutch settlement at Zwaanendael.

Next they laid out a town on the rising ground behind the fort, and named it "Christina Harbor." They also changed the name of the river from "Minquas Kill" to "Christina."

This New Sweden Colony expanded to include both shores of the Delaware River and Bay. Thirteen expeditions of colonists had come from Sweden by 1655, when Peter Stuyvesant of New Amsterdam captured it for the Dutch.

Nothing remains today of the log fort and cabins, but a visitor sees "The Rocks" much the same as in 1638. Three hundred years later, in 1938, the State of Delaware built a memorial park at the site of Fort Christina. To mark the spot, the people of Sweden presented a monument as a gift to the people of the United States—a granite shaft created by the great Swedish-American sculptor, Carl Milles. More recently, the building of Fort Christina has been commemorated by an interchange of visits between the mayor of Wilmington and the mayor of the "sister city," Kalmar, Sweden.

Within a few hundred yards of Fort Christina Park is another small wonder—Holy Trinity (Old Swedes) Church, built in 1698. It is thought to be the oldest Protestant church building in the United States in continuous use as a place of worship. It's another wonder that when the church was struck by lightning in 1964, only the roof was destroyed and had to be replaced.

In 1959 Holy Trinity parish moved an authentic Swedish colonial dwelling, "Hendrickson House" from Pennsylvania to the church yard to serve as a parish house and museum. The nearby building previously used as a parish house now serves as the "Christina Community Center," a neighborhood house founded by the parish.

A peaceful haven in the heart of industrial Wilmington, the site of Fort Christina is just one more of the small wonders that make Wonderful Delaware worth discovering.

Boy Scout Troop No. 76 News

October is Boy Scout Recruiting and Fund Drive Month. All boys age 11 or more are welcome to join Troop No. 76. We encourage you to visit any meeting on Tuesday, 6:30 p.m., at the Odd Fellows Building on Liberty Street, in Harrington.

The Troop will sponsor a bake sale on Sat., Oct. 30, as the annual fund raising campaign. Boys from Troop 76 will solicit donations, and all contributions will be appreciated.

Oct. 22, 23, and 24, the Mid-Del District will hold a fall camporee at Silver Lake, Dover. Thirty troops consisting of over 400 boys and leaders will be displaying scouting skills and crafts. On Sat., Oct. 23, at 1 p.m., all troops will participate in a full dress parade. The public is invited to review the parade and Scouts at work.

Scouting is for everyone, the boy, the parents, the community. One of us may live next door or go to your church. We work, learn, play, and you can tell us apart from any other boy by our bearing and behavior. Our uniform identifies us more clearly. The meetings are weekly for 1½ hours, the dues are small and the uniform lasts forever. The merits that are earned and the brotherhood shared is unparalleled in any field. Again we invite you to join our Troop and share our activities which are under the direction of a team of men devoted to giving their time and talents.

City Youngsters Intrigued By Visit To U. of D. Farm

To youngsters who think milk comes from bottles and chicken is drumsticks in a package, a visit to a farm can be a revealing experience. More than 6,000 New Castle County children—most of whom live in the city and suburbs—are visiting the University of Delaware experimental farm this fall.

Here the children see cows and calves, baby chicks and broilers, ponies and other animals, farm crops and huge pieces of farm machinery. As they watch a cow being milked, many realize for the first time where milk really comes from. The children also see an incubator where baby chicks are hatching, and they have an opportunity to pet the animals. Some of the experimental work under way at the Agricultural Experiment Station is also shown.

Each October, the University invited New Castle County elementary teachers to bring their classes to visit the farm. This year, kindergarten classes also visited the farm during the last week in September. The schedule is filled for this year's tours, and some teachers have already made arrangements to bring classes again next fall, according to Edward Schabinger, New Castle County agricultural agent, who is in charge of the tours.

Guest soloists taking part will be Mrs. Joyce Dyer, of Milford; Mrs. Dorothy Jones, of Greenwood; Mrs. Donna Lee Henry, of Greenwood; Mrs. Caroline Woodall, of Greenwood; Miss Linda Wilson, of Greenwood; Eugene Bowne, of Georgetown, and Leon Donovan, of Milford.

The choir of Greenwood Methodist Church, Grace Methodist Church, and several members of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, of Bridgeville, will join the host choir for this special service.

Homecoming At St. Johnstown

The annual homecoming service at St. Johnstown Methodist Church will be held Sun., Oct. 24, at 2:30 p.m. This special service will be entirely musical in nature.

Guest soloists taking part will be Mrs. Joyce Dyer, of Milford; Mrs. Dorothy Jones, of Greenwood; Mrs. Donna Lee Henry, of Greenwood; Mrs. Caroline Woodall, of Greenwood; Miss Linda Wilson, of Greenwood; Eugene Bowne, of Georgetown, and Leon Donovan, of Milford.

Where The Action Is

development? The AMA turned its spotlight on the continuing scourge of tuberculosis, which is a lot worse than many people realize. TB, this national body of physicians said, "remains a significant health problem in the United States, causing much suffering, many deaths, national, local and individual economic loss, and risk of infection and disease to all of the people."

It urged that more be done to bring TB under control, and declared, "Even eradication is not impossible." Which statement tends to ratify current efforts of the National Tuberculosis Association to achieve that very goal: ultimate wiping out of TB.

An up-to-date summary of the TB problem is contained in the NTA's booklet, "Facts About TB and Other Respiratory Diseases." Ask your local Christmas Seal association for a free copy.

Announcement new rates and benefit changes Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Delaware effective January 1, 1966

Dear Member: As you know, the cost of your Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage directly reflects the cost of the benefits supplied to members. So, as hospital charges increase, Blue Cross rates must, of necessity, rise. Such is now the case. Our last adjustment of rates was made on July 1, 1962. At that time, this increase was expected to cover the following two years. Thus, another rate increase would become necessary by July 1964. Fortunately, however, more careful use by our members enabled us to maintain the 1962 rates for an additional year and one-half. But now, new rates must go into effect January 1, 1966. By the end of this year, the Plan will have drawn approximately $500,000 from its reserves to cover losses caused by the increased hospital charges which took place last January 1. And, the Plan will use even more than this when the recently announced adjustment in hospital charges takes effect. These dramatic increases in charges are estimated to cost approximately 34% more than the Plan was paying for a day of hospital care in 1962. Consequently, the Plan would also have faced a drastic rate increase were it not for the fact that the financial burden of providing hospital care for 20,000 individuals over 65 will be removed beginning July 1, 1966. Medicare, at its inception, will provide substantial savings for all Delaware Blue Cross and Blue Shield members.

While the overriding factor involved in the change in rates is the cost of hospital care, certain increases in benefits have been necessary to meet present-day needs arising principally from changes in medical practice. Nervous and mental coverage will be made more adequate. Maternity care will be increased, this being, in effect, a "keeping step" with the increases in hospital care. Our $7 limit on accident coverage in the hospitals' emergency out-patient departments has been removed. The age limit for enrollment of incapacitated child dependents has been removed so long as these children are unemployed and dependent upon their parents or guardians for support. As we have said, these changes are relatively minor in cost. We in the Plan are proud indeed of our record over the past several years. The number of people who have been served, and the breadth of the service rendered have never been greater. But much of the success in the past, and that which we anticipate in the future, can be attributed to the cooperation of hospitals, doctors and members in making more careful use of the Plan's benefits. Thanks to this cooperation, what might otherwise have been a very large rate increase has been minimized. You appreciate, I know, that with hospital costs as they now exist, Blue Cross and Blue Shield are not only the best buy, but an essential buy for your health protection.

Sincerely, A. V. Mayhew Managing Director

SEND THE DEMONSTRATORS TO VIET NAM

These demonstrators who have been staging protests against military action in Viet Nam, should be drafted, where feasible, and sent to the Asian country.

Whether they would be welcome, however, is doubtful. An infantry company commander, summed up his views on demonstrations in the United States:

"I'll tell you why these kids are here and why they're doing a dangerous job well," he said. "No. 1, they are doing it because they're good kids, as fine as you'll find anywhere in the world, let alone the States. They are not the kind you'll find burning draft cards or picketing the White House.

"Hell, we don't want that kind, couldn't use them because they wouldn't be any good.

"No. 2: They are here because of Order 13. That's the order that sent my division over here. They'll obey the order, and they'll do their best to perform their duty."

Congressional hearings opened this week on the Ku Klux Klan. Congress is not staging any hearings on the demonstrations against our military action in Viet Nam.

Sixteen Years Ago

From The Files of The Harrington Journal Oct. 21, 1949

The Harrington Special School District issued a prospectus, citing its construction needs. These included a high school, a cafeteria, gymnasium, and elementary school. The district had acquired some 17 adjoining acres (from A. Decker and on what was formerly the farm of the late Fount Billings) and was preparing for a referendum. New Castle purchased 65 acres near Deemer's Beach, for a prospective track for harness racing. The purchasers were headed by John W. Kane, a Wilmington businessman.

Mrs. Ethelyn Hardesty Cleaver, prominent New York clubwoman and daughter of a Delaware legislator, was buried at Barratt's Chapel. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Hardesty. Hardesty had an undertaking parlor on the site of The Journal Office. The newspaper occupies the former building of The First National Bank, built in 1888. The Hardestys lived in a house, still standing, at the northwest corner of Dorman and Wolcott Streets. The Hardestys moved to Frederica, where the undertaking business was continued.

F. C. O'Neal Sr., was appointed magistrate by Gov. Elbert C. Carvel. He was a retired state policeman.

The music of Samuel A. Short Jr., was played at the Kent & Sussex Fair by Joe Basile's Band.

Mrs. Fred Challis, Chattanooga, Tenn., visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peck Jr. Lt. Challis spent the weekend with the Pecks.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Swain, of Dover, have a new daughter. Swain is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George Swain.

Mrs. L. T. Jones, Mrs. A. B. Parsons, Mrs. E. W. Dean, Miss Elva Reese, and Mrs. W. W. Sharp spent Monday in Philadelphia.

Joyce Downing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Downing, celebrated her ninth birthday Saturday.

The Harrington ball team defeated Henderson Sunday afternoon at Felton, 10 to 9.

Mrs. Fount Billings Jr., was operated on for a stomach disorder at Mt. Sinai Hospital, Philadelphia.

Mrs. George Hurd attended the wedding of her granddaughter, Catherine, in Charlottesville, Va. Julius Cooper and Kesler M. Farrow published a "Card of Thanks" for those who remembered them when they were patients in St. Thomas Hospital, Nashville, Tenn. They were injured in an automobile wreck while returning from a visit with Bill Moore, in Orange, Tex.

Orville "Pat" Fry advertised his Intersection Service Station on U. S. 13 and Delaware Avenue extended. (Fry, who operates Fry's American now, has advertised continuously in The Harrington Journal since he began business in 1946.)

W. W. Welch advertised corn flakes, 2 boxes, 35c; 2 cans peas, 29c; syrup-pack sweet potatoes, 19c; sugar, 10 lbs., 91c; pork chops, 55c lb.; country sausage, 52c; 10 lbs. flour, 69c.

Chester Benson, owner of the Benbrae Kennels, who is a breeder of Conformation and Field Bred Beagles will judge the dogs of the Hound Breeds and will select the winner of the Hound group.

Asbury M.Y.F. News

Attention, high school juniors and seniors! Spend an exciting Saturday in November in Washington, D. C. for just $1.75, on the campus of American University!

Sat., Nov. 13, will be MYF Day, the purpose of which will be to acquaint members of the Senior MYF with Methodist higher education. Here is an opportunity for you to learn about your Methodist related colleges and universities.

Check-in time will be at 9 a.m. and following the opening session in the sanctuary of Metropolitan Methodist Church participants will be divided into three groups. Each group will tour American University campus and Wesley Seminary, attend a resource program on colleges and universities, and eat lunch in the cafeteria, Mary Graydon Center. A member of the Methodist Student Movement will guide each of the groups to its assigned place.

As the registration will be limited to only 500, obviously those anxious to take advantage of this fine opportunity should act immediately.

Please bear in mind the vocation discussion groups will be led by professors at the university and will deal with all fields of study: medicine and nursing, government and law, radio and television, music, art, Christian education, the Christian ministry, social sciences, to name a few. There will then be tours of dormitories and discussions on student life, which will include topics such as sports, fraternities, sororities, and other student activities.

Further information and application blanks can be had from your pastor, the Rev. J. Edward Jones, or MYF advisors, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cain and Mrs. Thomas Clarke. Applications must be in the mail by Nov. 1.

Women to Attend U. of D. Program

More than 200 Delaware women are expected to gather at the University of Delaware on Tues., Oct. 26, for an all-day program designed to help them keep informed on developments in higher education and progress at the university.

The program, titled "Know Your University", is cooperatively sponsored by the American Association of University Women's Delaware division, the State Federation of Women's Clubs, and the Advisory Committee on Education of Women.

Two concurrent morning panels, both featuring university speakers, will be one of the day's highlights.

One panel is devoted to "Continuing Education for Myself." Acting as moderator and talking about job opportunities for women will be Mrs. Geraldine Wyatt, director of placement. Other speakers will be John A. Murray, director of the extension division; Dr. C. Ernest Birchall, dean of the College of Graduate Studies, and Dr. Elizabeth Lloyd, director of teacher education and professional standards for Delaware.

Moderating the second panel will be Dean of Women Bessie B. Collins. Discussing various aspects of "Continuing Education for My Family" will be Assistant Dean Harold Kaufman on financial aid; Dr. Edward R. Ott, director of admissions; Miss Margaret H. Black, university counselor, and Otis P. Jefferson, director of the Community College.

Following a luncheon in the Student Center and a talk by Dr. John A. Perkins, university president, there will be a choice of three tours—language laboratories in Old College, the Student Center and Russell residence hall complex, and the Morris Library and Home Economics building. Students will be tour guides.

Committee members for "Know Your University Day" are Mrs. Earl B. Tull, of Seaford, chairman; Mrs. John E. Burris, of Milford; Dean Collins, and Mrs. E. K. Ellingboe, Mrs. A. Felix duPont, Jr., Mrs. S. Marston Fox, and Mrs. Albert James of Wilmington. Persons interested in attending may call Mrs. Tull, Mrs. Burris, or Mrs. Fox. Registration deadline is Sat., Oct. 16. The cost is $2.50, which includes the luncheon.

"40 ACRE FEUD" At Reese Oct. 22 - 25

Undoubtedly, when Country Music came back, it came back with unadulterated zest and gusto, discharging a grand salute that has blanketed the entire entertainment horizon.

"Second Fiddle" made such a big hit Reese Theatre movie fans requested the No. 2 all country music jamboree, featuring the one and only Minnie Pearl and Ferlin Husky, plus 25 Nashville country music stars.

If it's a great time one desires, be sure to see "40 Acre Feud" at Movie Center this Friday, Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, Oct. 22-23-24-25.

Frankie Avalon is the star of "Sgt. Deadhead" the co-feature on Fri. & Sat., Oct. 22 & 23 with Walt Disney's "Golden Horseshoe Revue" the co-feature Sunday & Monday, Oct. 24 & 25.

It is true, the never-to-be-forgotten "Old Yellow" is coming to Movie Center for a four day engagement, Fri. thru Mon., Oct. 29-30-31 and Nov. 1. Never has the management of the Reese Theatre had the privilege to present so many all family shows.

Army Seeks Pilots

The Department of the Army is in urgent need of Army pilots, according to a statement issued by Sgt. Walter R. Frazier, local Army recruiter.

He said that the Army has greatly expanded its new warrant officer flight training program, which guarantees flight training before enlistment to qualified applicants, to help meet this critical need.

High school graduates, between the ages of 18 and 30, who pass the mental and physical examination and are accepted by a warrant officer flight training board will be enlisted in the regular Army. After successful completion of basic training, they will be sent to warrant officer flight training school. Upon graduation, the pilots will be commissioned as warrant officers.

Warrant officers are technical specialists who enjoy the privileges of commissioned officers. In addition to their commission status, Army pilots receive $100 a month above and beyond their base pay, subsistence and quarters allowance.

Interested persons may contact M/Sgt. Walter R. Frazier in his office at 218 S. Governor's Ave., Dover, or by telephoning 736-6937 or 674-1360 for further information.

Social Security News

by W. J. Bulkeley

Working round the clock since September 1, social security headquarters in Baltimore has completed the mailing of medicare information kits to all of the 15 1/2 million persons 65 and over on the social security and railroad retirement benefit rolls.

By now, all elderly social security or railroad retirement beneficiaries in southern Delaware should have received their kits and the enclosed application for the supplementary medical insurance part of medicare. W. J. Bulkeley, social security district manager, stated.

About three hundred other older persons—those not on the social security or railroad retirement benefit rolls—have already been in touch with the social security district office in Dover, he reported. But many others still need to take action to protect their medicare rights.

Eight out of ten aged persons will be reached through the mass mailing, he noted. About one-third of those who will not be reached this way are receiving old-age assistance payments and will hear directly from their local welfare agencies.

Another third are still working full time and will need to file social security applications. About one million will also have to get in touch with their local social security district office.

The enrollment period for those who will be 65 or over before the end of the year closes March 31, 1966, Bulkeley pointed out. The March 31 deadline is very important, Bulkeley stresses.

Everyone who is 65 or will be by January 1, must return the medical insurance enrollment card by that date—whether received in the mail or picked up at a social security district office, if he wants full protection when the program goes into effect July 1, 1966.

For the housebound, the district office will make arrangements to have a social security representative pay a visit to them at home. The Dover district office is located at 230 West Lookerman St., the phone number is 736-1426.

NOW! A WHOLE NEW SERIES OF ULTRA-LUXURIOUS CHEVROLETS '66 CAPRICE BY CHEVROLET

Caprice Custom Coupe—with exclusive formal roof line that comes on no other Chevrolet.

Caprice Custom Sedan—with superb new Body by Fisher elegance inside and out.

Caprice Custom Wagon—with fine new look of hardwood paneling on sides and tailgate.

Everything it takes to create a distinguished luxury car has gone into these new Caprices.

Beneath the formal styling elegance that sets the Custom Coupe apart, for instance, you'll find thick wall-to-wall carpeting, comfort-contoured seats and the look of hand-rubbed walnut on the instrument panel, glove compartment and inside door panels. You can order a finely instrumented console, together with new Strato-bucket front seats.

In the Custom Sedan, a new Strato-back front seat is available with bucket-type contours separated by a fold-down armrest. And in the equally opulent Custom Wagons, offered in 2- or 3-seat models, you can even order carpeting for the cargo area.

Each model rides super Jet-smooth. And for incomparably smooth power, you can specify Chevrolet's advanced Turbo-Jet V8 in either a 396- or 427-cubic-inch version.

The price of it all? Somewhat more than you're used to paying for a Chevrolet. But less, as your dealer will happily confirm—that the select class of fine cars these new Caprices invite comparison with in every detail.

School District to vote for or against an issue of bonds of said School District of the aggregate principal amount of $80,000. The polls for said election will open at one o'clock P.M. and will remain open until eight o'clock P.M., Eastern Daylight Saving Time. A polling place will be opened and voting facilities provided at Houston School #125, School Street, Houston, Delaware.

The bonds are to be issued to finance a part of the cost of a school construction program which is estimated to cost $150,000 of which $80,000 is to be paid by the School District and $70,000 is to be paid by the State of Delaware. The State Board of Education of the State of Delaware has determined such school construction program to be necessary and in aid of the School District. Said school construction program provides for: Construction, furnishing, and equipping of an addition to the existing building, said addition to consist of a multi-purpose room, kitchen, administrative office, and health suite. The total project will also include renovations and alterations to the existing building and up-dating of service systems; all in keeping with modern recognized school plant standards. Included in the total project will be site work, legal fees, architect's fees, and costs of supervision incidental to and accruing from said construction program.

Said election voters will be provided with ballots upon which are printed the words "For Bond Issue" and the words "Against the Bond Issue", each to be marked by the voter shall make his choice.

Every citizen, male or female, residing in the School District who would be entitled at the time of the holding of said special school election to register and vote in the aforesaid School District is a part, at a general election, of which a general election was to be held on the date of said special school election, shall be deemed to be a qualified voter and entitled to vote at such special school election, regardless of whether or not he or she is, at the time of said special school election, a registered voter.

Airman James E. Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmor F. Turner, of 211 Pennewell Ter., Greenwood, has been assigned to MacDill AFB, Fla., after completing Air Force basic training.

The airman, a 1963 graduate of Georgetown Special High School, will be trained on the job as a fire protection specialist with the Tactical Air Command.

Pfc. Fulton White, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Noah W. Merrill, live in Lincoln, arrived in Vietnam with the Army's new 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile).

He entered the Army in December 1963 and received basic training at Ft. Jackson, S. C.

The 23-year-old soldier is a 1960 graduate of William C. Jackson High School in Georgetown, and was employed by the Burris Processing Company in Milford, before entering the Army.

Pfc. George W. Cripps, son of Colonel and Mrs. George W. Cripps, 208 David Hall Rd., Dover, arrived in Vietnam with the Army's new 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile).

He entered the Army in September 1964 and received basic training at Ft. Jackson, S. C.

The 19-year-old soldier attended Caesar Rodney High School in Camden.

"Who 'Finked' On Ole' Daddy?"

By W. C. Burgess

Time: 1944
Place: A lonely road between Dungenannon and Moy, North Island.

Subject Matter: Contraband, one taxiload of American cigarettes. Guest Operators, one taxi driver and one Irish gangster.

"Situation normal; all fouled up!"
"Who finked on ole' daddy?"
Calling all sleuths, even my boys, the local cops.

There they stood, each one with a rifle. "Who were they?" That is the question, "were they Irish gangsters making a heist, were they the Irish Homeguard?" I'll go along with the last theory, but theory it is, and that is all.

To start off with, we were all quarantined, and were not supposed to leave the battery area; oh! well! rules are made to be broken; no fools, no fun; the guys in my outfit would tell you that; but I usually operated alone.

We were going to England, so naturally we weren't allowed to leave the area. The sergeant in charge of the PX knew me, because he had been in another outfit with me, so he says, "Winnie, do you want to take all the cigarettes off my hand?"

"Why, of course, sarge, I know you are too tired to box them all up! So, W. C. has 24 cartons of cigarettes, to sell to the black market boys.

Collins owned a confectionery in Dungenannon, so I call him up, of course, he would take him, so pore ole' Burgess loads them up with Podell, and tells Podell where to take them. Podell goes in the back alley with the six by six to unload the cigarettes, and the man chickened out on the deal. This man was influential, too. I don't think he liked the idea of six months in the pokey. Me, if they caught me, they would have give me more than that. Then when they got ready to move; they would have said, "Combat soldier, load up your gear and go wid us, and how. I will be delighted to join the Blue, even if I am a Confederate; it did happen to the other boys, too, you know!"

So, back comes the cigarettes. So, I calls up a taxi. You know all the guards anyway, so there is no sweat there. The taxi comes along, and we load up the cigarettes. The taxi goes down the road a little ways, and another chicken out job. The taxi man unloads the cigarettes in a ditch and takes off.

That does it; only one chance left. I'll be carried to the new jail tomorrow; but I hope it is better than the usual domicile!

Sadie, your boys have done fouled me up; get your gangster brother-in-law, and get that jamok down with a taxi right away; I have a taxi load full of cigarettes down here, and I will unload them at a bargain. Ok! Will do! Pretty soon, you rolls a taxi, with two guys in it. Now don't ask me where the guards were, because it was broad daylight; and when I say broad, I don't mean a dame!

They just spell it the same way! Now the gangster short changes me one pound, which was par for the course; and one for the taxi driver. They give me my 23 pounds and away we go; after awhile it gets dark, and here we go. Two guys with rifles; and they weren't looking for Rudolf Hess, they already had him.

There was old Churchill—W. C., sitting on 24 cartons of cigarettes, and somebody had us stopped. They looked in the car alright and then waved us on. We takes the cigarettes up close to this guy's wives house and unloads the cigarettes in a ditch, and then the boys take me back to the barracks, where we are billeted.

The next night I hires a taxi, and we all sneak out the back way—which bordered the road, and went to a dance.

The next day, we all hit it out for England.
"Now, I am sure those guys who stopped the car must have known me. The reason is quite simple enough. The IRA, the IHG, and the spies, and I understand, there were some—according to the MP's—all hit the beer parlors, so with the name I have, Winston Churchill, they all took a double look. Of course, it is nice to know people.

Now, "who finked on ole' daddy?" Was it the IRA, the IHG, the confectioner, the gangster, or who was it? I am quite sure it was somebody, because I walked that road many a night, and it was nine miles from Dungenannon to our barracks. You figure it out! All I want right now is for the man to turn the heat up!

hazard is internal. Children who eat a six months supply of candy in one night will probably need medical attention the next day. Put some candy aside and dole it out over a few weeks' time, Miss Morris advises parents. Wrapped candy keeps best, she says.

Never give suckers with hard sticks. Why not give fruit, cookies, popcorn balls or small packages of raisins to the youngsters who knock on your door this Halloween? Parents, at least, will welcome these more nutritious treats.

The Methodist Church named 12 of its ministers to ride horseback from various parts of the country to Baltimore, arriving in time to participate in the bi-centennial of Methodism at the Baltimore Civic Center, April 21-24, 1966.

Originally, one minister had been sought to make the 800-mile ride from Cape Girardeau, Mo., to Baltimore, commemorating the ministry of Methodism's preachers on horseback who carried the gospel across America. Surprised by 130 ministerial hopefuls, the committee settled on a dozen who will ride from various starting points as far from Baltimore as Omaha, Neb. All will preach in Methodist churches along the way as they ride, and will tell their story to all who will

Foreign visitors are always welcome in Kent County. A group from the Near East is spending this week with Paul Bickford, our Farmers Home Administration loan supervisor.

They are here to study agricultural credit and were scheduled to be in New Orleans in September. But the hurricane required a change to New York State where they explored Federal Land Bank programs. Their tour began at Ohio State University in August and will wind up there in November.

Their countries and our visitors names follow:
From Nepal: M. Prasad, M. Dixit, S. P. Upadhyay, Satya N. Prasad.

From Turkey: Mrs. Neriman Buyuktopcuoglu, Surat Cuhadaroglu, Mr. and Mrs. H. Demirbilek.

From Cameroon: Thomas B. Nikobo.

Mr. and Mrs. Demirbilek may return to Delaware after the tour for further intensive study in November.

While here, the group has been visiting FHA farms in Kent County to see the loan programs in action.

The milk hearings at Philadelphia may be the most vital ever held for Delaware Valley farmers says Clayton Reynolds, fieldman for Interstate Milk Producers cooperative. New York and Baltimore shippers are trying to tell us how to run our markets, he adds. A comparison of August blend prices reveals why. Delaware Valley producers averaged $5.43 per cwt, upper Chesapeake $4.81 cwt., New York $4.44, and Chicago $3.76.

Mr. Reynolds went on to needle the bureaucrats who seem to be embarrassed that they cannot operate market pools as well as Delaware Valley farmers operate their handler pools.

His remarks were made at the annual meeting of the Harrington-Felton local of Interstate Milk Producers Cooperative. Robbins Webb of Milford presided at the election of new officers as follows: for president, William Eliason, of Harrington; for vice president, Edward Harcum, of Houston; for secretary-treasurer, Alvin Brown, of Harrington. Ellwood Gruwell of Felton, reported that producer numbers have dropped 40% in the last five years, altho the milk supply is the same.

Delegates named for the annual meeting of Interstate at Philadelphia are Derrickson Biggs of Felton and Alphonso Vogl, of Harrington. Alternates are Robert Salmon, of Harrington and Reynolds Robbins of Frederica.

The size of his flock is probably the single most important factor in earning a livelihood for the poultryman who does not market his own eggs. John W. Carncross, professor emeritus at Rutgers University, reports on a three state survey.

Many factors contribute to a successful and profitable poultry business. If a producer is "good" in all of the many factors, but has a size of business not competitive with today's trends, his net return will not be satisfactory.

Carncross told us that small farms with an average of 5,100 birds, produced an annual labor income of minus $2,093; medium sized operations averaging 9,900 birds returned a labor income of minus $746, and large operations averaging 22,000 birds provided a labor income of $6,922.

Labor income is the amount left to the farmer for his own labor and management.

Larger flocks enable poultrymen to obtain standard production with less labor time. In the New Jersey study flocks of 5,000 birds required 1.3 hours of labor per layer a year. The amount of labor time required to raise a layer on a farm of 9,900 birds, on the other hand, was only .9 hours and this figure dropped to .7 on farms of 22,000 layers.

"The day is here", Professor Carncross concludes, "when the successful family farm will have from 15,000 to 20,000 or more layers. Some of these farms will be independently financed. In an increasing number of cases the egg producer is likely to enter into some form of contract with egg processors, feed dealers or other interested concerns."

"Today's successful egg producer keeps on top of all changes to keep from being washed up tomorrow."

How to live on $100 a year. A typical family receiving U.S. food for Peace lives on an income of $100-$200 a year.

What this would mean to a typical American family is outlined in 12 easy stages: (1) Take out the furniture, except a few old blankets, a kitchen table and 1 chair. (2) Take away all clothing, except for the oldest dress or suit, a shirt or blouse, and a pair of shoes for Pa.

(3) Empty the pantry and refrigerator, except for a small bag of flour, some sugar and moldy potatoes for tonight's dinner, a handful of onions and a dish of dried beans. (4) Dismantle the bathroom, shut off the water, remove electric wiring. (5) Take away the house itself, and move into a toolshed. (6) Remove all other neighborhood houses and set up a shantytown. (7) Cancel all subscriptions to newspapers, magazines and book clubs—this will be no loss as the family is now illiterate.

(8) Leave one small radio for the nearest clinic or hospital 10 miles away and put a midwife in charge. (10) Throw out bank books, stock certificates, insurance policies and pension plans, and leave the family a cash hoard of $5.

(11) Give the head of the family 3 tenant acres to cultivate. On this he can raise $300 in cash crops, with 1/3rd to landlord and 1/10th to money-lender. (12) Lop off 25 to 30 years in life expectancy.

Alfalfa stands can be profitably topdressed at any time of the year when labor and equipment are available and the soil is fit to be driven over. When recommended amounts of plant food have been used, yields have been equally good for fall and spring applications of fertilizer, says Dr. William Mitchell our Extension Agronomist.

An annual application of 40 pounds of phosphorus and 120 pounds of potash is not enough to produce 4 tons of hay per acre per year and maintain the stand. A ton of alfalfa hay will remove about 45 pounds of potash from the soil. Unless this much is replaced, the stand will not be maintained.

A soil test is the best way to determine the fertilizer needed for alfalfa, but in the absence of a soil test, topdress annually with 60 pounds of phosphorus and 180 pounds of potash. Established alfalfa stands do not need nitrogen topdressing.

In Delaware, it is also a good practice to apply from 1 1/2 to 3 pounds of boron per acre per year. Boron can be easily lost through leaching. The cost of boron is a very small investment when compared to its potential return in increased yields. In some cases, alfalfa yields have been increased by 1/2 ton per acre when the boron was mixed into the annual topdress fertilizer.

Paths to Peace will be trod by 200 or more Dover area people on October 30. A conference to examine world peace issues will be held in the new Science Center at Delaware State College.

It has been prepared by an interfaith church group and is open to anyone interested in attending. Small discussion groups will develop questions to be answered by four speakers.

The speakers are William Huntington, director of the Quaker United Nations Program; Neal Potter, an economist who will speak for World Federalists; Dr. Thomas S. Lough with the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, and John W. Johnston Jr. of the Agency for International Development.

The program starts at 3 p.m. with the panel speakers followed by the discussion groups. Reservations will be needed for the dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. Lionel Griffith of Dover is toastmaster and Mr. Johnston will tell of his economic aid experiences after 23 years with the State Department.

The question and answer session to the panel speakers will conclude the conference.

Dinner reservations may be made with the program chairman, Rev. Samuel Snyder at 736-6919 or any committee member. Other steering committee members are Dr. Rona G. Finkelstein, Eugene A. Dendinger, Russell S. Wilson, George K. Vapaa, Mrs. Daniel Koble and Mrs. P. Lemmel, all of Dover.

Del. 4-H'er Wins Demonstration Contest in Pa.

Seventeen-year-old Dottie Hopkins, Lewes, won first place in the poultry foods demonstration at the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council exposition in Harrisburg, Pa., last week.

Competing against 4-H members from six other states, she received the blue ribbon for her demonstration of "Gourmet Chicken."

Miss Hopkins' winning recipe is as follows:

Arrange meaty pieces of chicken in a glass baking dish. Mix in a separate bowl and pour over the chicken: the juice of one lemon, one medium onion chopped, 1/4 cup chili sauce, 1/4 cup soy sauce, one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, one teaspoon mustard, two teaspoons prepared mustard, two drops tabasco, one teaspoon salt, and one half pound pureed strained purple plums. Bake in a 350-degree oven for about one and a half hours or until chicken is done.

Is the day of no-ironing really here? The new "permanent press" process is now being called "durable press". That change alone tells us a lot.

By spring of 1966 durable press is expected to account for some 40% of all lightweight fabrics for children's wear, sportswear, and dresses.

Durable press is the ability of a garment to keep its shape throughout its life. Sharp creases, flat seams, and smooth appearance of the fabric remain after many wearings and washings.

Are special fibers needed in durable press garments?

In process using chemical treatment cotton or rayon must be used in order to get the right chemical reaction. The reaction degrades the cotton or rayon. It may cut the tear strength in half and reduces abrasion resistance. Synthetic fibers are added for strength and they also take a crease by pressing at a high temperature.

What should the consumer look for in buying garments of durable press?

1. Look for fiber identification. A good combination to look for is 65% polyester and 35% cotton. This should give good lasting performance because of their built-in wrinkle resistance and crease retention. Blands of polyester with acrylics also give good results. The addition of nylon to cotton fabrics will give better durability and abrasion resistance to durable press garments.

HINT: Different trade names for polyester are Dacron, Fortel, Kodol, Mylar Teron and Vycron. They are basically the same fiber.

Trade names used for acrylic include orlon, acrilan, creslon, and zefran.

2. Look for trade names with durable press. Sometimes fly-by-nighters sell inferior products. The process is too expensive for small companies to duplicate.

3. Look for a garment that fits. Once a garment goes through the process alterations are very difficult.

4. Realize that there are still problems to be worked out. At this point any grease or oily stain is very difficult to remove and strength and abrasion resistance could be better.

Non-Credit Course Offered by U. of D.

"Understanding the Stock Market," a non-credit course offered by the University of Delaware's Extension division, will open Nov. 2 for 10 weekly sessions at the P.S. du Pont High School in Wilmington.

A similar course, meeting Thursday nights at the same location, started Sept. 23. The first section was oversubscribed so the Tuesday night course was arranged, according to Art McDaniel, supervisor of continuing education.

Dr. Irving C. Kogon will teach the second section too. Designed to provide basic information about the stock market, the course includes discussion of various theories and techniques affecting it. Topics are Dow theory, daily advances and declines, volume of trading, odd-lot purchasing and selling, confidence index, short selling, and charting technique. Examples will illustrate the theories and techniques.

TIME WAS when phone talk was often loud talk. Not today. Just send your natural speaking voice into the phone and out it comes—sounding close and clear. But we think voice transmission can be still better. To make it so, we're spending 1 million dollars in Delaware over a six-year period—beyond our usual construction programs. Every improvement we make means finer phone service for you. But your phone can send only the sound you give it. So be sure to hold the mouthpiece near your lips and speak directly into it.

Peach Blossom 4-H Club News

The Peach Blossom 4-H Club was represented by 29 members, leaders, and parents at the Kent County Achievement Banquet this past Saturday night at the Caesar Rodney School. The club received a top award of a blue seal for the charter. Philip Mesibov was presented a scholarship certificate to 4-H camp or conference. Rita Messick received a trophy for the girl chosen the outstanding first year club member in the county.

Then the big surprise, the club won first prize in the county window display contest. A check of $5 was presented to the treasurer. The display was in Andrew's Store in Farmington. All members thank Mr. and Mrs. Andrew for the use of the window.

Those receiving county medals for completion of fine project books were Susan Kielbasa, food preservation; Becky Messick, photography; Kevin Kielbasa, dog care, and Philip Mesibov, gardening.

At the Oct. 18 meeting seven new members were welcomed. They were: Geneva Clarkson, Cindy Foskey, June Ann Jerred, Debbie Salmos, Susan Snyder, Ricky Rust, and Mark Williams.

Horticultural Society Sets Annual Meeting

The 79th annual meeting of the Peninsula Horticultural Society has been scheduled for December 14 and 15 at Elks Hall, Salisbury, according to Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware, and secretary of the society.

The program will feature reports of the latest research in production and marketing of fruits and vegetables. Following the two-day meeting, society members will tour the newly developed Hunt Market in New York City.

Kenneth Woodall, Milford, and Thomas MacCublin, Chestertown, will each receive a $200 scholarship from the horticulturists at the meeting. Woodall is a senior at the University of Delaware, majoring in entomology and plant pathology in the College of Agricultural Sciences. MacCublin is a senior at the University of Maryland, majoring in horticulture.

Nearly 1500 society members, including farmers, processors, commercial company representatives and staff members of the University of Delaware, University of Maryland and the Virginia Truck Experiment Station, participate in the annual meetings to discuss current problems. Non-members may also attend, Steven said.

Programs will be mailed to members and may also be obtained from county agents in Newark, Dover and Georgetown, or from Robert Stevens, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware 19711.

Poison Control Center Is Aid To Parents

Many Delawareans, particularly children, are kept alive despite accidental poisoning because of efforts of the Poison Control Center in Wilmington, according to Frank Boys, extension specialist in agricultural chemicals at the University of Delaware.

For the past 10 years one office in the Delaware Hospital has been maintained as a Poison Control Center. Manned around the clock seven days a week, this office provides physicians and parents with information needed to treat accidental poisonings. The telephone number is listed on the inside front cover of all Delaware telephone directories.

When a doctor or parent calls for emergency information, the pharmacist on duty can quickly tell the caller what is in the substance the victim has taken and what antidote should be administered, as well as any other emergency measures that should be taken. The center maintains a file listing of drugs, pesticides and household chemicals by brand name, as well as a cross reference with the products' chemical contents. New information on both old and new compounds is supplied daily by the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare. At present, the files contain information on some 20,000 chemicals and compounds. Besides keeping lists of household chemicals and medicines, the center has listings of various plants and weeds that could cause harm when eaten or handled.

The substances which cause the greatest number of serious accidental poisonings in Delaware include aspirin, household cleaners, insecticides, turpentine, nail polish, berries—holly, firethorn, mistletoe—and furniture polish.

Aspirin heads the list as the worst offender in reports from all poison control centers. It accounted for about one-fifth of the 700 documented poisonings in this state last year. Obviously, says Boys, one reason for this is that children are given baby aspirin and learn to like them since most baby aspirin is flavored. Usually it will make them sick, causing dizziness and stomach pains, but it can kill if enough is consumed. And yet it is left within easy reach of small children every day.

Ninety per cent of all accidental poisonings involve children under five. The most susceptible age is two, and the next most dangerous age is one. One-third of all poisoning accidents occur in the kitchen; the bedroom is a close second.

In two out of three poisonings, the harmful substances are not in their customary storage places, and in one out of every four poisonings, the substances are not in their original containers.

Boys recommends that parents take the advice of the Delaware Poison Control Center and eliminate carelessness. It's careless, he points out, to leave aspirin on a bedside table, or to leave furniture polish on the coffee table while you answer the telephone, or to put kerosene in a cup or pop bottle, or to think a child knows better than to drink perfume or liniment—or to believe that products marked by a skull and crossbones are the only real hazards in the home.

For a safer home, take the time to place household cleaners, drugs and pesticides out of the reach of little ones, making sure the containers are clearly marked, Boys urges. Follow the directions and precautions listed on the label, and don't use soft drink bottles and tea cups for anything other than soft drinks or tea. When medication is necessary, don't take medicines in the dark; the consequences can be deadly. Place the telephone number of your doctor and Poison Control Center near your phone.

Boys advises parents to call the Poison Control Center immediately when their child has taken something they believe to be toxic and to make sure they know exactly what their child has taken. Save the container, for the information on the label can save a life, he says.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

In these days of the population explosion, we owe the greatest respect to the cabbage for it is said to be the most productive of all green vegetables. Almost any soil and climate will do, for it is not a fussy grower. In as little as three months' growing time, from seed to head, an acre of cabbage plants will yield a greater amount of green vegetables than any other plant.

This cabbage just didn't happen. As early as the 1700's, farmers and seedsmen developed varieties of cabbage adapted to particular soil and climate conditions. Through breeding and development have emerged our tender, succulent, and nutritious varieties of cabbage which hold a highly respected place among our vegetables.

Right now cabbage is very expensive, so be sure to buy it often. Here are a few pointers to help make the job easier. When selecting cabbage look for these characteristics: a firm, solid head, heavy for its size, with leaves of good color—to insure maximum yield and avoid waste. The leaves should be fresh looking, crisp, free from insect injury or bruises this will insure freshness, good flavor, and texture. When buying remember one pound of cabbage will make about 3 1/2 cups of shredded raw cabbage or 2 1/2 cups of cooked cabbage. When cooking, do not overcook. The old fashioned way of boiling in lots of water destroys lots of the nutrients so for the best results steam cabbage in the water which clings to it from washing. Cooked in this way cabbage retains most of its nutritional value plus it needs little seasoning since it is already delicious.

Other members of the cabbage clan share the spot with the oldest member. Cauliflower, brussels sprouts, and broccoli are all good quality and priced reasonably. Good supplies of beets, green beans, carrots, celery, cucumbers, eggplant, sweet potatoes, peppers, potatoes and squash make all of the vegetables ones to be considered as you shop this week.

The fruit picture remains much as it was last week with apples heading the list of best buys. Other fall fruit offerings include cranberries, coconuts, bananas, pumpkins, and grapes.

Beef prices remain very similar to last week. Specials are on roasts, steaks, ground beef, and stew meat. The best values in pork are centered around boston butts, bacon, loin roast, and a few spareribs. In general, it would be well to remember as you shop that even though boneless cuts are usually higher priced per pound, the cost per serving may equal or surpass in value as similar bone-in cuts.

Gary Sets Second Record, Lions Win Sixth Straight Run

Senior co-captain Gerry Gary dashed swiftly through flaming October and left the other 19 participants far behind, as he led Coach Harold McDonald's Harrington High cross-country team to its sixth straight victory at Milton Thursday afternoon.

For the second straight race Gary set a new course record. At Lewes on Tuesday the Lion had lowered the course standard from 12.21 to 12.02. At Milton Gerry chopped a whopping 25 seconds off the 11.45 done by Warrior Dave Webb earlier in the season. Webb had been advised by Caesar Rodney's Tom Baker that he must run Gary into the ground early if he hoped to beat him. The Warrior started out furiously with the local following closely. After a mile and a quarter the Lion stepped out front and Webb was soon forced to turn him loose. Leaving the woods, Gary had a good lead and hit the tape in a blistering 11.20.5. Webb's fast early pace was largely responsible for the new standard. He, too, broke his old course record.

for his team that corresponds with his finish position in the race. Thus Gary scores 1 for first place, Webb 2 for second place, etc.

Lion Reserves Remain Unbeaten

Neighbors Jack Warrington and Danny Hitchens showed the way as Harrington High's reserve harriers trounced Milton's reserves 18-43 to preserve their all-winning 1965 slate.

Lanky Warrington is 13. Watch charm-sized Hitchens is 12. This pair along with other 12 and 13 year olds Motter, Wetherhold, Redden, Kemp, Brode and Rash have been trimming seniors, juniors or what have you all season. Now the young ones are starting to get some help from improving older reserves such as Jim Simpler, Ron Morris, Gerry Cagle, David Dill and Roger Klapp. The result is an extremely promising group.

Not content with trouncing veterans from other schools the kids are showing that they may threaten some varsity performers at Harrington in 1966. For example, Warrington and Hitchens had times at Milton Thursday, that were more than 30 second better than the clockings turned in over the same course the same day, by two of Coach McDonald's varsity letter winners.

Simpler appeared to be destined for fourth place but a last second surge by the sprinter got him third spot by a whisker.

Ron Morris since August 25th has run most of his races in the same pattern. This has consisted of a fast start, a blazing finish, but plenty of sauntering and sashaying in between. The result has been a slow overall clocking and a finish well back in the pack. At Lewes just two days before the Milton test, Ronald Wayne was two full minutes behind Jack Warrington, the race winner. 48 hours later as Warrington was winning in a swift 13 minutes here comes Morris bolting home in fifth place just 18 seconds behind. To put the icing on the cake Ron went out to Killen's Pond for a workout Monday afternoon and dropped his mark there, a tremendous 65 seconds to 13.45. This trails only Chris Chris Wetherhold's 13.42.5 on the reserve squad.

Motter, Wetherhold and Redden were seventh, eighth and ninth to wrap up the victory at Milton. Louis Kemp had a good 13.58 to lead a string of Lions across. In this group were Cagle, Dill, Brode, Klapp, Rash, Martin, Adams, Allen, Derrickson, Charlie Brown, Ron Rapp, Aubrey Brown, Joey Gray and Mark Hurd.

Track officials are virtually working around the clock as they ready the new track for the Nov. 3 opening.

Racing director Ed Keller has been flooded with applications from owners and trainers for accommodations at the track. Racing secretary John Phillips has drafted the condition book for the first four days of the meet, and already the race program has met with high approval on all sides.

Racing throughout the entire meet will be on a five-program weekly basis. Nights Wednesday through Saturday, with a big Saturday afternoon matinee card of ten races with a one-thirty post, to be featured.

Night post times have been set for eight o'clock. The new Raceway will offer the fans the only completely glassed in and heated grandstand and clubhouse facilities on the Delaware-Maryland harness circuit.

Jack Crawford Owes Success To Harness Racing

Twenty years ago Otis (Jack) Crawford decided to quit the hotel and restaurant business and spend the rest of his life doing what he enjoyed most—training and racing harness horses.

Today he has no regrets and is convinced he made the right move.

"Racing has been good to me. I live fairly comfortably and have earned enough money to acquire some property without touching any of my original capital," he declared.

Crawford, who celebrated his 65th birthday last August, has been racing eight horses at the Kent and Sussex Raceway at Harrington since the 40-night racing meet opened on Sept. 8. He also has three horses racing at Lebanon, Ohio, and three others at fairs in California.

During the off-season Crawford makes his home in Shafter, Calif., where he operates a public stable, training and driving horses for other people. He plans to continue in the harness racing business until he is forced to retire.

Over the past 20 years Crawford has owned several horses which have brought him considerable profit. One of these was Model Heir who earned $100,000 from 1954 to 1957 after he was nine years old. Red Streak was the tenth highest money winning pacer when retired to stud in 1947. Another horse, Hawthorne, earned him $70,000 and is still racing.

Crawford has been working with horses since he was nine years old. When he was 15 a veterinarian owed him $35 and settled the debt by giving him a 15-year-old horse named Oncon. The horse won the first time Crawford raced him.

At the age of 21 Crawford joined his father in the hotel and restaurant business and raced only at fairs in Arizona and California. In 1935 he became fairly active in the racing business and became part owner of eight horses. He enjoyed it so much that 10 years later he decided to devote his full time to harness racing.

Born in Texas, Crawford moved to Arizona and finally settled in California where he raised his family, four boys and one girl. Only one son, Leland G. Crawford, became interested in horses. Leland started driving in 1950 and went on his own five years ago. He now operates his own public stable.

Crawford believes that older drivers are involved in fewer accidents than younger men. "Over the years you acquire the knack of being able to see the accidents coming, and in most cases you are able to avoid them," he said. Over the years he has been involved in very few accidents and has never been seriously injured.

Eagles Win Little Football Opener, 32-0

Ted Layton's Eagles opened the Harrington Little League football season with a convincing 32-0 victory over the Bears Sunday afternoon at the Harrington High School Athletic Stadium.

The Bears seem to be the team which has lost most heavily in the number of 1964 players no longer young enough to play in this 9-13 league.

Coach Layton's Eagles have won the title in three of the four years the league has been in operation including last season. However, Layton feels that the team to watch this year will be the Colts. The Blue-and-White has been the perennial doormat of the loop but this campaign has most everybody back, had first choice of the new players since they finished last in 1964 and has two experienced football men in Ray Wetherhold and Fred Mertz at the helm. Wetherhold has coached previously in the Harrington Football League and played his scholastic football in Emmaus, Pa. Mertz has a good pigskin background including coaching and scouting. Fred, a speedster, formerly that is, once ran the 220 yard dash in 21.9 and performed on the gridiron at Lehigh, Pa. High School.

The Eagles got two touchdowns from quarterback Chris Wetherhold and one each from Richard Larimore, Boy Tyler and Mark Dalton. Dalton now lives in the Felton School District but is still eligible to play here since he did last season. Ross for the Eagles proved to be a sure tackler and defensive standout.

Sunday's game was played in excellent weather that brought out a crowd larger than any turnout last autumn.

The refreshments stand was operated by Mr. and Mrs. James Moore and to some of the younger set was probably a bigger attraction than the game.

The Colts will unveil their revamped 1965 model in a contest with the Bears this Sunday afternoon.

FINDS RACING PROFITABLE — Otis Crawford, of Shafter, Calif., with Swift Song, one of the horses he trains and drives at Kent and Sussex Raceway in Harrington. Swift Song is owned by Dale and Everett Brown of Hicksville, Ohio.

Gary, N. Morris Knox Hurt, Pace Harrier Win Lions Lose to Bears

Gerry Gary and Nick Morris were the first two finishers as Coach Harold McDonald's cross-country Lions ran their latest win streak to seven with a 15-49 triumph at Greenwood Tuesday afternoon. Morris was only 6 1/2 seconds behind his teammate as the sophomore made his best showing of the season. Nick has his eye on the No. 2 team position now held jointly by Gary Simpson and Marshall Hatfield.

Both squads were minus one regular as Ron Breeding of the Foresters was temporarily out of action and Gary Simpson of Harrington, was sidelined by injuries received in a sand lot, equipment less Sunday football game. It is hoped that Simpson can rejoin the team in time for the North Carolina meet at Denton Oct. 21.

Donald Wells and Oscar Matthews nabbed eighth and ninth places with Jackson of Greenwood next.

The Lions travel to Milford on Oct. 25, host the multi-team Harrington Invitational on the 27th, run in the state championship test at Rockford Park, Wilmington, Nov. 2, vie in the Henlopen championship meet at Killen's Pond, Nov. 9 and wind up the campaign with a triangular meet on the 11th against Lewes and Caesar Rodney at Killen's Pond.

At this writing the Lions own a 7-1 log and with only four dual and triangular races left have preserved their proud boast that every harrier season thus far has been a winning one. 1965 is the eighth year of the grueling hill-and-dale sport at H.H.S. Coach McDonald must be battling over .900 at present since four teams were all-winning and a couple others showed only one loss. Of eleven meets scheduled this autumn only three were against schools whose enrollment was smaller than Harrington's.

Two plays gained seven yards but the loss of the down forced the Lions to punt. McNally kicked to the J. M. C. 37. Chuck intercepted a Bear aerial and dashed to the 17 before being downed. A fumble on the next play rescued the home team.

In the second period the Lions trapped a Clayton back for a good loss and forced a punt which was downed at the H.H.S. 43. Knox was forced out after a pickup of nine yards. Sam went left again for the first down at the 46. After a loss back to the Lion 48 on a pass attempt, Wayne Porter made a nifty 12-yard zig-zagger to the J.M.C. 40. The Bears held here and McNally punted 50 yards into the end zone for a touchback.

Three line plays and a penalty gave the Bears a first down. Sexton bounced off would-be tacklers for 15 yards. A pass down the middle added 17 more. A Clayton passer finding his receivers covered ran to near the Lions goal line but a holding penalty saved the Lions by putting the ball all the way back to midfield. A pass in the flat was complete but Wayne Porter, the football players' football player or the gridders' griddier, dropped the receiver for no gain.

Knox, starting at his own 17 broke into the clear momentarily but was hauled down after a gain of 18. After a pickup of four Knox went back to pass. Raligh "Scooter" Davis appeared to be knocked down as he was reaching up for what could easily have been a touchdown reception. Davis is fast when he's lean and he's lean right now. However, no infraction was ruled and the half soon ended.

When play resumed Knox was injured and taken from the game. After McNally picked up a first down, the next two plays gained nothing. On third down an attempted surprise quick kick failed as the punter missed the ball completely. Clayton scored from the Lion 38 in two plays with Sexton tallying.

Davis outran all pursuit to get into the clear at midfield but was overthrown on a long pass attempt by Lion substitute quarterback Steve Motter, who proved that he can throw the long ball.

The Lions took an intentional safety in order to get out of a back-to-the-goal punting situation but it proved futile as Sexton returned a kick to the Lion 40, hit the middle to the 33, swept end shaking off tacklers to the 5 and then bulled across the wide stripe in two tries for his third score of the evening.

Trailing 21-0 the Lions gave their fans a couple of thrills. Motter back to pass ran for a good gain. Davis sifted in between two tall Sussex Countians and took a Motter toss away from them for a pickup of close to 40 yards. J.M.C. stalled the march with an interception on their own 10 yard line.

The Lions came right back as Davis uncorked a beautiful run-back to reach Clayton's 30. Pass interference put the Lions on he 20 but an end zone interception ended the contest.

Harrington goes to Lord Baltimore Saturday afternoon. At full strength the locals could very well bring home the bacon. With Knox hors-de-combat the Eagles will have to be favored. Knox hopes to be ready for the homecoming game against Millsboro next week. Local football fans are praying that he will be fully healed by then.

Ron Morris Leads Lion Reserves To Victory

A real cliff-hanging race occurred at Greenwood Tuesday afternoon as six harriers charged up the home stretch battling for the honor of being first across the finish line. Harrington's Ron Morris broke loose from the pack in the last few strides to eke out a narrow victory over Lions Jack Warrington and Chris Wetherhold, Forester Pettyjohn and Lions Danny Hitchens and Jim Simpler. Only 7 1/2 seconds separated the first and last finishers of the sextet. Morris is 15, but one week earlier was finishing two minutes behind the 13 year old Warrington and 12 years olds, Wetherhold and Hitchens. However, Ron is finally discovering what his body can do if he really calls on it. Simpler, 16, and Gerry Cagle, 15, are other late bloomers among the reserves. Both are sprinters in track and with the endurance that cross-country gives, each is starting to get closer to the top each time out.

Of course, the youngsters on an age-for-age basis are still way ahead. Other 13 year olds to run well for the Lions are Dale Motter (7th) and Bob Rash (9th).

David Dill had the fastest clocking of his career to easily get twelfth position. Brinley Brode, 12, and Louis Kemp, 13, finished in a dead heat for the next place.

Gary Redden, Aubrey Brown, Charley Brown and the youngest Lion, diminutive 11 year old Joey Gray turned in their best races ever to beat all but two Foresters. Greenwood's Pettyjohn looks like a fine prospect. Although, he ran in the reserve race, his time was faster than all Foresters in the varsity race except Retzlaff and Jackson. Jackson's 13.04 was only two seconds better than Pettyjohn's. The latter could have given G.H.S. three finishers in the first eleven, which would have been a good showing considering the vast edge in experience held by the Lions over the host team.

Jackson, of Greenwood, 16, and Wetherhold, of Harrington, a great 12 year old prospect, hooked up in a stirring duel at Harrington earlier this year which saw Jackson prevail by a scant half second. Although running in different races Tuesday they still appear evenly matched since each clocked a swift 13.04.

Coach Gene Carlisle's Greenwood crew looks better each time out. They should be a force to be reckoned with next year. However, we would like to offer a little friendly criticism. Whenever a boy is good enough to run varsity his development will be slowed considerably if he is forced to run with a junior high, junior varsity or reserve unit. For example, Jeff Brokaw, of Tower Hill School, Wilmington, which is located just a couple hundred yards from the Rockford Park course, was only 13 last year. When he proved he could beat the entire Tower Hill team, except for 1963 state champion, Mac Thornton, the astute Hiller mentor, Bob Behr, promoted Brokaw to the varsity. In the state meet, Thornton and Brokaw finished third and fourth and led their team to the state championship dethroning the defending champion Harrington High Lions, who were rated even stronger than in their undefeated title-winning season.

Here at Harrington this season, 13 years old Oscar Matthews became the youngest Lion harrier and perhaps the youngest Lion athlete in any sport to win a varsity letter.

Gary Simpson became the first 14 year old Lion harrier to break 13 minutes at Killen's Pond in early October. One other Nick Morris did 12.47 in late November last year before turning 15.

H.H.S. Hockey Team Doing Well

The hockey team has started a successful year with three wins and one tie.

The first game of the Lions' season was tied with Selbyville, 1-1. The one point was scored by Marilyn Walls, an inner on the Lions' rushing forward line.

The second game was ended with a victory over Felton, 7-1. Judy Burgess, Peggy O'Neal, and Marilyn Walls were the scorers for the Lions' season.

The Lions defeated Delmar, 2-0. Judy Burgess, rushing inner, and Peggy O'Neal, a fighting center made the points for the team. The Lions' powerful backfield held the Delmar Wildcats scoreless.

The third game was automatically won, by a forfeit by Bridgeville, which does not have a team.

The Seniors on the team are: Vickie Hill, Phyllis Robinson, Elizabeth Trotta, and Marilyn Walls.

The Juniors on the team, who will remain on the team next year are: Judy Burgess, Denise Calloway, Marianne Clarke, Marsha Harrington, Brenda Hurd, Peggy O'Neal, Nancy Richardson, Joan Smith, Debby Swain, and Susan Taylor.

Come support the team Oct. 25, at Harrington vs. Millsboro.
