

STREET & WATER IMPROVEMENTS ON THE HOMESTRETCH

As winter approaches, work on streets and water mains is on the homestretch.

Part of the final coat of tar and chip has been put on Dixon Street and the Harrington Manor project should be completed this week, said City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann. The work, being done by Paul Scotton Contracting Company, included surfacing and curbing Gordon Street and most of Dixon.

Scotton also repaired a spot in the 200 block of Weiner Avenue.

In other work: Harrington Lumber & Supply, a subcontractor, started building a pump house at the waterworks this week.

Installation of a 600-foot water main, from Clark Street down Thomas Street to the house of Keith Failing, started.

A. P. Isakson, Inc., of Salisbury, will complete its work this week. It has been installing water mains. Final work included patchings at crossings on Commerce, Clark, and Liberty Streets. The final hookup was made yesterday from East Street to a fireplug on Mill Street.

Selbyville Pours Out Nine Years Of Smell in 8 Hours

For eight hours Tuesday Delaware, Maryland and federal health officials heard complaints of nine years of "smell" in Selbyville.

Testimony was offered by health authorities, Selbyville residents, Mayor Asher B. Carey, of Selbyville and Delaware Secretary of State Elisha C. Dukes, who said he was forced to leave his home three times in 1961 because of the odor.

Dukes called the smell extremely obnoxious.

Blamed for the stench was the Bishop Processing Company, a poultry plant just across the state line in Bishop, Md.

The hearings, the first held under the Clean Air Act of 1963, were continued Wednesday with the federal government presenting its testimony.

Speaking Wednesday were Dr. Floyd I. Hudson, executive secretary of the State Board of Health; Dr. William J. Peoples, Maryland commissioner of health; Mayor Carey, and William H. Megonnel, representing the secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

The smell of decaying chicken heads, feet, entrails, and feathers were blamed for smarting the noses of Selbyville residents. The Bishop plant make a high protein food.

Hudson said the smell "causes nausea, vomiting, inability to eat and loss of sleep." He added that the smell was also unhealthy.

Dr. Peoples agreed, adding that he felt eventually the state should be able to cope with the problem but that he felt a federal solution would be quicker.

Any solution would please Selbyville residents, especially a quick one. Among other problems, they felt would be solved would be the population problem.

There hasn't been an increase in the town's population since 1910, and it is probably the only town in Delaware that can make that claim.

Beauty Is Aim In Del. Road Plan

The state highway commission Wednesday voted to join in a plan to make a northern Delaware highway corridor one of the most beautiful in the East.

At the suggestion of Alexis I. duPont Bayard of Wilmington, the commissioners adopted a resolution to work with the authority on long-range plans for landscaping the route from the Delaware Memorial Bridge to the Delaware-Maryland line via the Delaware Turnpike Section of the John F. Kennedy Memorial Highway.

Meanwhile, Ernest A. Davidson, director of highway department operations, announced Delaware will get $234,642 from the U.S. Bureau of Roads for beautification during the current fiscal year.

This money does not have to be matched by state funds. Davidson said he intends to concentrate the expenditure of this money on the Christina interchange of Interstate 95, U.S. 13 north of Delmar, U.S. 113 and the Concord Pike.

Increasing the seven selected units to full war strength has resulted in an increase in the Delaware Guard's overall strength ceiling from 2,800 to 3,121 people.

Transfer Sought Of Dyer Records

Kent County Levy Court is awaiting directions from the magistrate administrator before processing the records of a deceased magistrate.

George Gray Thouron, special assistant to the chief justice to administrate the magistrate system, will notify the Levy Court and Clerk of the Peace Emory N. Lynch of the name of the nearest magistrate, who will receive the books.

Magistrate Clarence Dyer of Harrington died last April, and the Levy Court has been attempting since then to get possession of his records and turn them over to another magistrate for processing.

The records, which should have been turned over to the Levy Court a month after Dyer's death, were delayed in arriving until this week because the books were incomplete.

The commissioners also agreed to meet with Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. and legislators next week to discuss pending legislation affecting Kent County and strategy to get the bills passed when the General Assembly reconvenes Nov. 22.

Several bills, including authorization for a sewer authority and authorization for planning and zoning, are before the General Assembly.

Del. Nat'l Guard Complete Transfers

The Delaware National Guard has completed the transfers and reorganizations required for its selected force units to begin accelerated training.

Close to 300 men already trained in required specialties have been transferred into the selected units.

To fill the spaces left open by transfers, over 150 men have been enlisted during the last two weeks from waiting lists that accumulated when the Guard was at full strength under its old manpower ceiling.

For the first time since spring, men can now enlist in the Guard with no waiting period. About 150 vacancies remain to be filled. Most of them are in the 4th Battalion, 198th Artillery, at Greater Wilmington Airport.

Others are in the 2nd Battalion in Kent County.

Maj. Gen. Joseph J. Scannell, state adjutant general, would not predict how long the no-wait enlistments would continue, but said, "With draft calls continuing at a high level, it's quite likely we could fill all our remaining vacancies within a month."

When the accelerated training was announced, he said, there were several hundred men on Guard waiting lists. But when they were called, it was found many had enlisted in a regular service or had been drafted while they were waiting for Guard vacancies to open up.

While only seven Guard units were slated to be brought to 100 per cent strength and begin stepped-up training, nine units underwent reorganization to make the program possible.

The added shuffles came about through a three-way switch of units among battalions so that one of the Selected Force units would be located in Dover and be able to draw from the large number of trained air defense Guardsmen in Kent and Sussex Counties.

The units originally designated were all located at Greater Wilmington Airport—the 1st Bn., 198th Artillery, with five batteries; the 116th Surgical Hospital, and the 1049th Transportation Aircraft Maintenance Co.

In the reorganization, the 1st Battalion's D Battery became Battery D, 4th Bn., still at Greater Wilmington Airport. The former Battery D, 4th Bn., at Smyrna, is now Battery A of the 2nd Bn. The old Battery A, 2nd Bn., in Dover was redesignated Battery D, 1st Bn., so that it could be included in the selected force as part of the 1st Bn.

Increasing the seven selected units to full war strength has resulted in an increase in the Delaware Guard's overall strength ceiling from 2,800 to 3,121 people.

Tribbitt Defends Bureau's Right To Be Housing Bill Foe

After Delaware Farm Bureau leaders spoke against open housing legislation Tuesday night, at Felton, Lt. Gov. Sherman W. Tribbitt said they have the "responsibility and right" to express thoughts on any subject.

Tribbitt, representing Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. at the bureau's annual banquet at Felton, spoke after Roland E. Garrison, its president, explained the bureau's action in unanimously passing a resolution against any of the open housing bills before the General Assembly.

"The proposed fair housing bills are bad bills," Garrison told the group. "We have to protect our rights."

"We are not hitting specifically at Negroes," Garrison continued. "There are undesirable whites as well as Negroes, and we want to have the right to choose our tenants and purchasers."

"I am told more bills are coming," he added, "so we will have to leave those up to Mr. Tribbitt."

Tribbitt did not refer specifically to open housing in his answer. "The Farm Bureau, as well as anyone else, has a responsibility to exercise its thoughts on any subject," he said, "and the right to express those thoughts."

Tribbitt then switched to another topic, zoning for Kent and Sussex Counties.

Featured speaker of the evening was Harold J. Hartly, manager of the Fruit and Vegetable Division of the American Agricultural Marketing Association.

"Farmers are developing new concepts of marketing which will permit close contact with the market place, provide a more accurate reading of the consumer's wants and needs and strengthen their selling power," Hartly said.

One new method is contract production, which is based on production for advance contracts to provide more market strength.

Hartly cited a widening difference between farm business income and income from other businesses of comparable investment as one reason for the new methods.

"Farming overall is making an average return of less than 6 per cent, and this includes operating skill and time," he said.

More and more, he added, farmers are beginning to realize that government programs have been tried and have failed.

Democratic Unit To Meet Nov. 20

The Young Democrats of Delaware will hold its third annual convention in Legislative Hall Nov. 20 with Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. providing some of the key topics of discussion.

Mathew E. Mitten, president of the Young Democrats, announced plans for the convention and said the governor has submitted a list of 10 topics "which he requested be discussed for possible action when the legislature reconvenes."

The convention will start at 1 p.m. and a banquet will be held at the William W. M. Henry High School at 6 p.m.

Mitten said Terry submitted the following list of questions: Should the state of Delaware enact an open housing law? If so, what should be the key provisions of such a law?

How should candidates for statewide office be chosen? How should school districts in the state be organized?

Should the office of attorney general be elective or appointive? Should there be an admission charge for state parks, museums and other public places?

Is there a need for post-high school vocational education? What, if any of the state's commissions should be consolidated?

Should the legal age for driving be raised or should some hourly restriction be placed on driving by teenagers? Should statewide kindergartens be established in view of the expense and other pending educational needs?

Should an engineering and architectural division be established under the State Board of Education to deal with school construction problems and explore the possibility of financial savings through standardized policies?

Welfare Board Asks Fund Rise

The State Department of Public Welfare Tuesday asked for an extra $216,328 to carry it through next June, the end of the fiscal year.

Budget Director F. Earl McGinness indicated he thinks even this amount, which is less than half what the department once said it needed, is too much.

Last July, the Board of Welfare voted to cut welfare grants by up to 10 per cent, saying it could not sustain the current level of payments without the $535,135 cut from its fiscal 1966 budget by the General Assembly.

The cuts were rescinded under strong pressure from Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr., who, board members said, has agreed to support the supplemental appropriation requested Tuesday.

About half the supplement would go for welfare payments, which the board assured McGinness will continue at the same level for the rest of this fiscal year. The remainder, about $100,000, would be used to hire more social workers and supervisors to bring the case load per worker within federal limits.

John E. Hiland Jr., welfare director, said the department risks losing millions of dollars in federal funds if the extra personnel are not hired by June 30, 1966, the end of the fiscal year.

Hiland and McGinness differed considerably Tuesday on the number of employees required. Hiland said 41 are needed to meet federal requirements, while McGinness, who conferred with federal welfare officials in Washington last week on the question, contended 28 would do.

Hiland said the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare already has warned the state that it will lose federal grants if it does not comply with the case load limits.

Board chairman John N. Russo agreed with McGinness that a "substantial" supplemental appropriation will satisfy federal officials that the state is making sufficient efforts to comply.

McGinness told the board why he had opposed strenuously the earlier, much larger, request: "You have every right to ask for all you think you need for best operation in your regular budget, but a supplementary appropriation is an emergency measure—the absolute minimum necessary to carry out the programs."

The board is asking $4,503,317, for fiscal 1967, far above the appropriation this year of $3,256,000 and $800,000 more than it asked for this year.

Hiland said this budget is based on an expected 10-per cent increase in the agency's caseload, with no increase in the level of benefits.

In other hearings before McGinness, the Bingo Control Commission asked $16,900, up from $15,800 received this year; the Board of Examiners of Undertakers asked $1,600, up from $700, and the Board of Registration for Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors asked $13,975, up from $11,155 this year.

Univ. Professors To Present Papers

Staff members from the horticulture and plant pathology departments of the University of Delaware will participate in the Mid-Atlantic Food Processors Association annual convention in Washington, D.C., November 29 and 30.

Elisha M. Rahn, associate professor of horticulture, will present a progress report on eastern lima bean stock seed production and the results of research on varied lima bean planting times. He will also display samples of eight new varieties of lima beans suggested for freezing commercially.

Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist, will act as co-chairman of the lima bean commodity group meeting and of the pea commodity group meeting.

Dr. J. W. Heuberg, chairman of the plant pathology department, will present a paper on controlling pepper leaf spot.

The meeting is open to all interested food processors, according to Rahn.

He was a World War I veteran.

Christmas Seal Letters to Be Mailed Tuesday

The 1965 Christmas Seal letters will be mailed on Tues., Nov. 16, in Delaware.

The annual appeal, which originated in Delaware more than half a century ago, will be made to protect the lives of millions of Americans from tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases.

Contributions to the Christmas Seal campaign in Delaware have shown a gradual increase for several years, last year totalling more than $18,000. The TB Society annually budgets the entire returns of each year's campaign, often using reserve funds as well to finance special projects.

A substantial portion of each year's Christmas Seal returns in Delaware is used in case detection, with the Society active in a cooperative effort to stamp out tuberculosis completely. The case detection program consists principally of widespread use of x-rays and tuberculin skin tests.

Research on the local level is another function of the Delaware Tuberculosis and Health Society. A variety of programs are underway, including the search for means of combating drug-resistant strains of the tuberculosis germ.

The Society's concern with the broad field of respiratory diseases carries it activities far beyond the boundaries of tuberculosis work. The effects of smoking on the respiratory system has prompted a cooperative program between the TB Society, the Delaware Division of the American Lung Association and the State Health Department.

Del. Tracks Down Harness Racing Undesirables

In an effort to keep the state's three harness racing tracks clear of undesirables, two innovations have been put into effect this year.

"We test all sulky drivers for intoxication and fingerprint all track personnel, from the presidents and directors to the waitresses and waiters," explained Joseph R. Pittard Sr. of Georgetown, chairman of the Delaware Harness Racing Commission.

"We started the innovations with the opening of the last half of Brandywine Raceway's meeting (Aug. 2) and continued the process during the Kent and Sussex meet at Harrington," said Pittard Tuesday night.

The same tests are being applied to the people affiliated with the new Georgetown Raceway which opened its first season on Wednesday, Nov. 3, he said.

Pittard, appointed to the commission by former Gov. Elbert N. Carvel in early 1963 and now in his first year as chairman, said each driver in every race at every track in the state is given a Breathalyzer test. The machine, operated by a commission employee, registers the amount of alcohol in a person's blood by volume. And anyone registering .05 per cent is removed from the paddock, Pittard said.

"We bought the machine for $1,000," added Pittard. "Drinking and racing is very dangerous business. We're determined to stop this."

Pittard confirmed that, since the tests went into effect, a few drivers ("less than a half dozen") have been suspended for flunking. He also said that one of the commission's employees was fired during the Brandywine meeting for failing the test while in the paddock area. He declined to divulge the names of the individuals.

Pittard said persons flunking the intoxication test in the paddock are subject to disciplinary action by the commission. The penalty could range from a three-day suspension for a first offender to 10 days for a repeater.

"This is nothing new," added Pittard. "The practice has been in effect at other tracks in the state."

Mrs. Arthur J. Urry

Mrs. Augusta T. Urry, 88, widow of Arthur John Urry, Greensboro, Md., died Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Clark in Harrington.

She is also survived by two other daughters, Mrs. Gertrude Murphy, Claymont, and Mrs. Anna Hubbard, Greensboro; three sons, Arthur, of Greensboro; Tarley, of Ridgely, Md.; and William, of Linwood, Pa.; a sister, Mrs. Mary Lord, of Denton; a brother, Oakley Spencer, of New Church, Va.; 15 grandchildren; 23 great-grandchildren, and five great-great-grandchildren.

Services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Rawlings-Bou-lais Funeral Home, Greensboro.

Merchants and Businessmen Are Planning Floats For Parade

Merchants and businessmen are planning their parade floats with enthusiasm. They are vying for the prize winning trophy which has been selected by the committee at the Harrington Jewelers.

The Star Lite Shop, a two time winner with the best commercial float will not be in competition this year. Miss Tharp, the owner, will again portray a busy Mrs. Santa. She is even busier this year acting as chairman of the Christmas planning and the parade, as well as designing Santa's float.

Taylor's Hardware, another winner, is designing an entry with their usual unique style. The thorough workmanship of their construction shows much forethought. Bobby Taylor has probably been planning all year for this event. He is most helpful in arranging the judges stand too.

Peck Brothers Farm Supply also a previous winner will no doubt come in with a most original theme. Tom Peck, president of the Chamber of Commerce, has been relieved of some of his responsibility in the Christmas program this season so we expect a most clever idea from him.

Several business places have denoted they will have floats for the first time this year. The committee has planned to offer more prizes this year for non-commercial floats. Decorated vehicles and marching units will also be judged.

The three school bands under the supervision of Melvin Brobst will march in the parade not in competition.

The Forty 8 car will be on hand to provide rides for the kiddies with Albert Price and Kenneth Aiken in charge.

All participants in the parade should inform the committee by Nov. 15, the type of entry, the size and a written description to be used by the commentators.

In addition to the list of entries the committee now has the following: Harrington Jewelers, Texaco Service Center, First National Bank, People's Bank, Boy Scout Troop No. 76, St. Bernardette's CYO, Paul Callaway, Grubwell & Son Greenhouse, Sunshine 4-H Club, Peach Blossom 4-H Club, Lawrence Price Antique Cars, Girl Scout Troop No. 679.

Miss Grace Wanda Quillen will supply an amplifying system and comment on the parade from a location in the H. E. Quillen Shopping Center.

As a safety precaution the committee has requested that no objects be thrown from the moving vehicles. Children darting into the parade path could be injured. The committee is also arranging for patrolmen to keep the parade in line until it has completely passed the Shopping Center on East Street toward the fairgrounds. The parking lot at the Shopping Center is a viewing stand for many customers. The decorated vehicles should proceed in line well past this point.

FIREMEN ANSWER SEVEN ALARMS OVER WEEKEND

Local firemen had a hot time over the weekend, answering seven alarms. One major fire and six minor ones were involved.

Firemen spent nearly three hours last Friday afternoon on the Ridgely Vane farm northeast of town where a house, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Boyer, was destroyed as were its contents. The fire recorder estimated the loss of building at $5000, and of contents at $2500. Cause of blaze was undetermined. Houston assisted. A truck, belonging to Alton Collins, was also damaged by fire Friday.

Saturday was a busy day for the firemen, with four alarms. These were as follows: a woodfire at the John Satterfield farm southwest of town, two car fires, an auto accident, and a blaze at the home of Clarence Willey on the Blades Crossroads road. The last-named fire was caused by flooding of a space heater. No damage was listed.

Firemen answered an alarm early Monday evening when the car of William E. Towers caught fire in town. It was out on arrival.

Dietetic food departments are among the fastest growing sections of most food stores. You may find as many as 100 low-calorie dietetic items, including different brands and sizes, in the department.

Know what you are buying when you choose processed dietetic foods. Some may be in this section only because they are salt free and not because they are lower in calories.

Read the labels to know exactly what the foods contain and to note their caloric value. Some may have little caloric difference from their non-dietetic counterparts. Some foods, including salad dressings and gelatin desserts, may reduce caloric values considerably.

Dietetic fruits are canned with an artificial sweetener instead of sugar. The dietetic canned peaches cost about eight cents per serving and contain 65 calories. Regular canned peaches, with 79 calories, cost about five cents per serving.

Regular canned peas, with added sugar, have 85 calories per serving versus 48 for the dietetic peas. The dietetic peas cost nine cents per serving and the regular ones six cents.

Consider cost, calories and quality as you plan meals and shop for foods. You must decide whether the calories saved in dietary foods are worth the extra money. Often you can plan low calorie meals from everyday foods without the added cost of special dietary products.

The channel is muddy, but the picture is clear. This is descriptive of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal and it is tempered by vision. Vision forward, vision backward—two eyes that spell progress.

Canals in this universe have played their part in history. The Chesapeake and Delaware Canal is no stranger to history.

The Erie Canal perhaps had the initial impact on virgin America when it burst through with a passage from the Great Lakes. Staunch in historical significance is our own Chesapeake and Delaware Canal. Date it back to 1786 when Benjamin Franklin, James Madison and Benjamin Rush met in Wilmington to consider plans for a canal from the Delaware River to the Chesapeake Bay.

At this time there was no short route from Philadelphia. Only the long journey by stagecoach or a four-hundred mile sea voyage around Cape Charles. These heartened Americans saw clearly the need for a canal cutting across the Peninsula that is Delaware.

Acute was their vision when they diagnosed the vast potential of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal. The northern tip of the Chesapeake Bay bends gently eastward in the direction of Delaware Bay to a point when there are only 20 miles of flat and marshy land separating the two inland waterways. Good reason to plan ahead.

From a map it would seem as though nothing could be easier than cutting a canal through land as flat as a table top. But the work, costly and difficult, was done by pick and shovel and sweat and desire.

Originally, the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal was privately owned. Now, it vibrates internationally. Officially opened in 1829, it is currently witnessing the advances and justification of time.

In 1964, the Congress of the United States authorized the face-lifting of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal. New is the high-level Summit Bridge. And no less than eight separate projects are under way, with a total estimated cost of 21 million dollars.

When day is done and the future comes to pass, the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal will be widened from 250 feet to 450 feet and it will sink to a depth of 35 feet, eight more than at present.

This is the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal, serving the ships of the world, the tastes of a nation, the economy of Delaware. The Chesapeake and Delaware is not a watery cleavage that divides our State. It is a vital, important instrument of commerce that unites us to make the great first state.

Turkey Roll Is Thanksgiving Treat

Roast turkey is traditional for Thanksgiving, but it is no longer necessary to roast the whole bird, says Miss Janet Coblenz, extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware. The boneless turkey roll or roast may be ideal for your family, she suggests.

It is even possible to cater to your particular family's taste for light and dark turkey meat. The turkey rolls are available with both light and dark meat combined in the same roll or each kind in a separate roll. In the combination, the white and dark meat are present in the same proportion as in the turkey.

Naturally, the boneless roll takes care of carving problems. This may be an advantage to consider if there are reluctant carvers in your family.

Turkey rolls are fairly expensive per pound, but there is no bone or other waste. When the amount of meat in a whole turkey is compared to the amount in a boneless roll, the turkey roll is just about as economical, according to Miss Coblenz. Allow one half pound for each person.

Turkey rolls are usually available either fully cooked or uncooked. Serve the cooked roll sliced cold, or heat it in the oven. Uncooked turkey rolls are sold frozen. Leave the roll in the original wrapping and, if possible, thaw in the refrigerator, allowing 1 1/2 to 2 days. If it is necessary to defrost more quickly, place under cold running water for several hours. Be sure the original wrap is still securely in place.

Before roasting, remove the wrapping and rinse the turkey roll with cold water. Dry thoroughly. Rub lightly with salt and pepper if the roll is not pre-seasoned. Brush the entire roll with melted butter or margarine.

Place the roast in a loaf or bread pan which is only slightly larger. Cover with a sheet of foil and roast in a 375-degree oven. It should not be necessary to baste during roasting, says Miss Coblenz. After one and a half hours of baking, put bacon slices on top. They will prevent the roll from becoming too brown or too dry.

Rolled turkey may easily be cooked on a rotisserie. Follow the manufacturer's instructions for weight, temperature and cooking time.

For best results, allow the roast to stand 20 to 30 minutes at room temperature after it is done. This allows the roast to absorb the juices, says Miss Coblenz. Remove the string and slice thinly across the roast.

Turkey meat is not only a taste treat, it is also highly nutritious, says Miss Coblenz. It provides body-building proteins with relatively few calories. It heads the list of lean meats for high protein content. Turkey meat is also high in niacin, riboflavin, calcium and other necessary minerals.

This is in keeping with the canons of the church which were prepared at the 1961 convention to the effect that a member in good standing is one who regularly participates in the public worship of the church.

The Hospital for the Mentally Retarded is planning an Open House and Parents' Day for Sunday, November 14, from 1 until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The program for the day will be "Religion and the Retarded" and will feature a panel discussion on the role of religion at this

Diabetes Week Nov. 14 - 20

National Diabetes Week will be observed from Nov. 14-20.

Diabetes Mellitus is a chronic condition which develops when the body cannot use some of the food one eats, especially sugar and starches, and can lead to serious illness unless properly treated.

Diabetes is hereditary. One out of every four persons or 45 million Americans are diabetic "carriers". "Carriers" are persons who are free of the condition themselves, but transmit the tendency to their offspring. The most likely targets are persons over-weight, past 40 years of age and related to a known diabetic.

The State Board of Health, will offer an opportunity for adults to have a check for diabetes at these locations during Diabetes Week.
Tues., Nov. 16, Georgetown, Fire Hall, 11 a.m. - 2 p.m. Sponsored by The Sussex County Business and Professional Women's Club, Dr. Elizabeth Phillips, chairman; the Georgetown Home Economics Extension Club, Mrs. F. HIGHER EDUCATION MORE AVAILABLE AS JOHNSON SIGNS STUDENT AID BILL

When President Lyndon B. Johnson penned his name on a $2.6-billion higher education act this week, he called it "a new adventure in learning."

"It means," he said, "that a high school senior anywhere in this great land of ours can apply to any college or university in any of the 50 states and not be turned away because he is poor."

This may well prove to be one of the most monumental bills ever signed by the Texan. The next move should be an attempt to inspire in the students a desire to go to college.

The new law provides for scholarships up to $1000 a year awarded on the basis of need alone. It opens the way to part-time jobs paying students as much as $500 per year. It sets up a plan for loans that can be repaid after graduation.

POWER FAILURE POSES DEFENSE PROBLEM

With the State of New York, Erie, Pa., to Harrisburg, Pa., and to Boston, suffering a power failure Tuesday evening, a problem of national defense arises.

If it could happen in that section, what is there to prevent its occurrence elsewhere?

There is not the slightest doubt the Ruskiens and the Commies are very much interested in the cause of Tuesday night's blackout.

President Johnson has ordered an investigation, and, unless someone is very careless, the nation's power systems will have additional means of electricity in the event of failure.

We understand defense installations have their own auxiliary power sources.

This area was not bothered by the power failure. In fact, the Delaware Power & Light Company has means of supplying current to other areas, since it has four generating sources.

ORDINANCES SHOULD BE PUBLISHED

The City Charter reads that ordinances must be published in a newspaper of general circulation, published in the community or posted in two public places.

May we suggest the Charter be amended to stipulate the ordinances be published in the newspaper and posted in two public places in the community?

This issue was brought to our attention when it was revealed an ordinance of unusual length and importance was to be merely posted in two public places. We do not know where these two public places are.

The ordinance pertained to the granting of a franchise to Chesapeake Utilities, Inc., of Dover, and for installation of gas mains and the sale of gas in Harrington. The law covered four or five typewritten pages. Thus, it is not likely the average citizen is going to read it at its place of posting.

Printed in the newspaper, persons would have an opportunity to read, and study it, at their leisure. We believe the public is entitled to know what is in the ordinances, and that it should not have to go out of its way to do so.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

We are on a see-saw once again as prices bounce up and down. Wholesale pork, beef, and fryer prices have advanced a bit this week due to lighter supplies. Retailers, however, are still offering any number of excellent buys during special sales. Turkeys are in ample supply and special buys continue to be available on all but small sizes.

All ast week hog receipts continued to be the smallest in 2 or 3 weeks. This condition probably exists because farmers in the hog belt once again had clear weather and they spent their time harvesting rather than shipping livestock.

Beef prices have been steady to fractionally higher—reflecting good demand and limited receipts. Loin cuts again appear to be the most popular selection for near-cost suggestions this week—all kinds of steak are being featured in one store or another.

Fryer prices have advanced a bit and this is probably due to a temporarily depleted stock due to many recent feature buys.

Egg prices, which have been see-sawing up and down in recent weeks, have dropped a couple of pennies. Grade A large eggs are now the best buy with Grade B large following closely behind.

The "heartly" winter vegetables are in good supply but prices are holding firm. Best buys are found among the following: Cabbage, carrots, squash, dry onions, potatoes (both white and sweet) and rutabagas.

California is harvesting in larger volume both Brussels sprout and broccoli. Artichokes many of which came from California are in good supply and are a special feature in some stores. Lettuce quality continues to be variable but with new areas beginning to harvest, quality should improve and prices drop.

Fresh citrus fruit is cheaper this week as Florida begins to ship in larger volume. Grapefruit, particularly is an excellent buy as quality is good to excellent and prices reasonable to low. Banana imports are heavy and many retailers are featuring this fruit at bargain prices. Cranberries are ample and should continue to be so through the holiday while air-borne strawberries are only light in supply and definitely high in price.

Veterans News

Veterans wor World War II and the Korean War who hold National Service Life Insurance, who have passed their 55th birthday, but not their 60th, and who would like to apply for the total disability income provision (TDIP), must do so before December 31, 1965.

On and after January 1, 1966, the application must be submitted before the veteran reaches his 55th birthday.

Total disability is any disability of mind or body which prevents the insured from continuously following any gainful occupation, according to Leon Fields, manager of the Wilmington VA Regional office.

The new total disability income provision provides that if the policyholder becomes totally disabled before his 65th birthday, and meets all other requirements, he will be entitled to income payments of $10 per month for each $1,000 of National Service Life Insurance in force, Mr. Fields said.

If the policyholder now has the "age 60" TDIP ($10 per month per $1,000 of insurance), he may exchange it for the new "age 65" rider. If he has not attained his 55th birthday at the time of exchange, no evidence of good health is required.

If he applies on or after his 55th birthday (this will only be possible before January 1, 1966) and before his 60th birthday, he must submit a full medical examination report showing him to be in good health.

Medical examinations may be made at the applicant's own expense by any licensed doctor who is not related to him, or associated with him in business.

The examination may be obtained free of charge at any VA Hospital, or office where there is a doctor on duty. For those in military service, the examination may be made by a medical officer of the military service, or U. S. Public Health Service.

Applications for the total disability income provision should be submitted to the VA office where the veteran's insurance records are located.

Additional information about TDIP may be obtained at the VA Regional Office located in the VA Hospital Building, 1601 Kirkwood Highway, Wilmington, Mr. Fields said.

Social Security News

by W. J. Bulkley

W. J. Bulkley, district manager announced today that the Dover Social Security office is making an extensive effort to reach those persons 72 or over who have some credit for work under social security, but who do not receive social security benefits.

The Social Security amendments of 1965 reduced the amount of work credit some persons 72 or over need to qualify for monthly benefits, Bulkley added. He said that many persons in this area have not been able to qualify for benefits in the past because they did not have credit for enough work under social security. Now, many of these people, or their widows, can receive a special benefit of $35 a month if they meet the lowered work requirement under the new law.

These people should get in touch with the Dover social security district office to find out if they can receive a special benefit of $17.50 a month when they are 72.

Another good reason these people should visit the district office, Bulkley continued, is because of "medicare." Anyone 65 or over, who does not receive social security or railroad retirement benefits, needs to establish their eligibility for hospital insurance benefits. At the same time they can sign up for medical insurance benefits, the voluntary part of the program. People who are 65 or over before March 31, 1966, so that they can have this protection when the program starts July 1, 1966.

People at the Dover social security district office will give a complete explanation of "medicare" rights. The Dover district office is located at 230 West Lockerman Street and the telephone number is 736-1426.

Country Lane Extension Club News

Eleven members of the Country Lane Home Economics Extension Club met at the home of Mrs. Mary Lou Wright at 12:30 on Tues., Nov. 2. The leaders for this month, Mrs. Phyllis Falton and Mrs. Doris Reed gave a very interesting demonstration on "Party Sandwiches". We soon learned they were as delicious as they were attractive as we all had lunch with our hostess.

The business meeting followed with our president, Mrs. Jean Donovan, giving a report on County Day. We are proud of having 43% attendance at County Day, placing second.

We submitted names to the president of young marrieds which will be placed on the mailing list.

Our Christmas dinner will be December 7 at the Bridle Bit. We will meet at 12:30.

Upon adjournment of the business meeting, Mrs. Mary Lou Wright and Mrs. Jane Everline gave the leader-training program for October - Entertaining. They put on a skit with the help of two other club members about entertaining guests at dinner. The club members also arranged two place settings and these were discussed.

The next regular meeting will be in January.

"LOVE & KISSES" At Reese Nov. 12, 13, 14

What is the ideal all family show? The management of the Reese Theatre puts forth every effort each week to assemble all the ingredients necessary to please everyone in the family.

Laughter, music, action, suspense, sprinkled with comedy tidbits usually answers the question.

Rick Nelson and Jack Kelly in "Love & Kisses" listed for showing this Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Nov. 12, 13, 14 plus Shirley Jones in the new MGM hit, "The Secret of My Success" surely makes for what one might desire a happy all family show to be.

Hollywood, undoubtedly, in the past few years, has outdone itself with the presentation of the world's best entertainment.

With the coming of Columbia's "Ship of Fools" listed for Reese Theatre presentation Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Nov. 19-20-21, the ultimate in motion picture entertainment presents itself. As Stanley Kramer stated, "The word will get around"—and it has.

Have the critics gone wild? One might think so with all the praise given the new Universal James Bond Goldfinger type hit, "The Ipcress File" the big Thanksgiving attraction to play Movie Center starting Nov. 25.

Card Burners Break Faith With Deceased Vets

Draft-card burners and "Retreat To Peace" demonstrators demanding withdrawal of United States Forces in Viet-Nam were accused Wednesday of breaking faith with the nearly 1,000,000 Americans who have died in the service of their country.

The change was leveled by William J. Driver, administrator of Veterans Affairs, and chairman of the President's Veterans Day National Committee, as the Nation observed Veterans Day Thursday.

At the Delaware Memorial Bridge Ceremonies, observing Veterans Day on November 7, James P. Connor, Delaware's only living Congressional Medal of Honor winner commented, "These immature acting demonstrators are abusing the rights and privileges of individuals in a free democracy by criticizing our country's position. They show a failure to discharge a normal citizen's responsibilities."

Driver pointed out that more than 30,000,000 Americans have donned uniforms to insure the survival of freedom and liberty in the course of nine wars during the Nation's history, and that approximately 1,000,000 of these patriots met death in service. "If those who now refuse to serve and those who preach peace at any price were to prevail," he declared, "It would make a shameful mockery of the sacrifices and deeds of valor contributed by all our veterans, living and dead."

The VA chief, a veteran of World War II and the Korean Conflict, said he supported fully the right of so-called Peace Demonstrators to assemble and protest, for "such a right is a vital part of the heritage for which our veterans fought and died, but those who would evade service, and yield Asia to the Communists should pause to consider how long such freedom to criticize would be tolerated in Peking or Hanoi, or any other communist controlled country. "The supreme irony of the misguided actions of this vocal minority," he declared, "is their failure to realize that mere wishful thinking and docility in the face of aggression is no road to peace. If our country, and its veterans had pursued this policy in the past, there would today be no free America in which to demonstrate.

Magistrate Code, Rules To Be Made Public Dec. 1

Details of a code of ethics and a set of rules for Delaware magistrates will be made public about Dec. 1, George Gray Thouron said Wednesday.

Thouron is deputy administrator for magistrates under Chief Justice Daniel F. Wolcott of the State Supreme Court.

Thouron, a Wilmington attorney, said he is working now on rules for criminal cases with guidelines for civil cases "pretty well done." The package will be submitted before Dec. 1 to a three-man committee which is studying the new magisterial system.

The code of ethics, will be submitted for action to the state Supreme Court on or about Dec. 1, he said.

The magisterial reform system will take effect Jan. 1.

THE CASE OF THE HUNGARIAN COMMANDER

I think I'll send one of these to the Hungarian Embassy; I think they might be able to tell me something about these guys!
This happened outside of Obendorf, Austria. Now Obendorf is noted for that little, white church—and it is not as big as our own Baptist Church—where the man wrote "Silent Night! Holy Night!" Fifteen yards from there but afraid to go in; might accidentally damage something!

These soldiers looked like something out of Disney Land—slovinsky — the first time I saw them; wow! would you be surprised!" "Who are them guys?" Immaculate! Don't even describe it! Them guys came up in full dress uniform; polished boots tailored uniform. You wouldn't believe it unless you saw them! They were Hungarian soldiers going back to the rear to raid a German warehouse for food. Guards, not a guard one! Splendor, is what you call it; they looked like they were fresh from Ireland. Their uniforms were Emerald Green. That was somewhere in Germany!

lieutenant: "Have you got a little old small car?" The lieutenant gives an order and out comes a little old car. "Take me to the guard post; and away we go. Pfc. B. trots into the guard post picks up a five gallon can of benzine; and away we go again. I didn't like one of the corporals anyhow!
We go back to the DP camp; and the Hungarian soldiers go and carry the commandant out; the commandant was crying; or did he just have tears in his eyes from the pain? Two American soldiers standing at attention, and saluting; while the commandant was being carried to his car to go to the hospital.
And I'm quite sure they told him how they got the benzine for the trip—borrowed it off the United States Army, without permission — I guess everybody has to get into the act. So away went the Hungarian Commandant—with heaven and earth in his eyes, for the American soldiers who helped him. I guess somebody must have given him a bad impression—things do happen like that.

The lieutenant was about sixty, anyway. I asked him, "Lieutenant, how many wars have you been in?" He laughed, and said, "the Boar War, the Russian Revolution, World War I and World War II; why do you ask?"
Well, lieutenant, you have a patch over one of your eyes, which means you must have lost an eye."
The lieutenant said, you boys come over tonight, and we will have a surprise for you. So, this other guy and I came over. They didn't do much for us, oh! no! or maybe they had it planned anyway; that I don't know. Now do you really want to know what they did!

They staged a Hungarian folk dance; and I think it was for us—in appreciation—but that I didn't ask!
The gals all came out in black uniforms with white contrast—and they really went to town. All for two Pfc.s—just two.
Then they staged a show with a funny name to it. They take off a white sheet and put two men in back of it. One of them is supposed to be a doctor; and he is cutting on the other man; he pulls out shoes, and everything you can think off! Maybe even a blonde!

Now I do not know whether these guys are still living or not, or even if the Hungarians can find their records; it makes no difference what their politics are; they always take care of their own, the same as we do.
The commandant was heavy set; he weighed about 200 pounds; wore a moustache and looked a lot like Joseph Stalin. That is all I can offer the Hungarians to go on! The lieutenant was lean and wiry, was about five foot eight, 170 pounds or a little more, when he ate regular; and he wore a patch over one of his eyes. It is a shame I never kept a diary; is one for-

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa

Recharging our mental batteries was the goal of our Delaware county agents at Pittsburgh last week.

You begin to realize how complex and diverse this country really is at such a meeting.

Dr. Paul Miller, president of West Virginia University, reminded us of the rural lag as compared to cities in terms of community growth.

I write this as I listen to the reports of our national committees in such areas as professional training, public information, young men and women activities and awards.

Our new national president is John Hansen of Oregon. He is drumming up support for the next annual meeting at Hawaii.

Sat., Nov. 20, is the deadline for nominating candidates for the annual Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Supervisor's election.

Three requirements that candidates must meet are: 1. Be a Kent County farm operator or landowner.

Isaac Thomas, Marydel is the present chairman supervisor whose term expires on Dec. 31.

The annual fall livestock survey provides the Maryland-Delaware crop reporting service at College Park, Md., with basic information for estimating the pig crop, and changes in the number of cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry on farms.

This is a sample survey, so not all farms will receive a survey card. To assure that your community is represented in this survey, Postmaster Dill urges each farmer-patron receiving a card to fill it out and place it in his mail box.

Carriers distributing the survey cards from the Harrington Post Office are: William B. Anderson, Route One; Keith S. Burgess, Route Two, and Roland H. Stayton, Route Three.

The Kent and Sussex Chapter of the Mancus Foundation will hold their annual Christmas party at 8 p.m. Wednesday evening, Dec. 1, in the Kiwanis Yotuh Center, Milford.

A reminder to all 4-Hers to return their enrollment cards to their local leaders soon so that project books can be sent out.

Girls Top Boys In 4-H Livestock Projects

Girls took most of the top honors for their livestock at the second annual Delaware Junior Market Stock Show last week at Felton when more than 30 4-H club members showed and sold animals they had raised.

Susan Comegys, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Comegys of Hartly, won the grand championship of the show for her heavyweight Hereford steer. The steer also took first place in the Hereford heavyweight division and first place for fitting and showmanship.

Nancy Harvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Harvey of Middletown, won reserve championship of the show with her Hereford heavyweight, as well as second place in that division.

Sally Sloan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sloan, Harbeson, earned first place with her Hereford medium weight steer, and Joan McColley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McColley, Milford, took first for her Angus heavyweight.

Gary Sharp, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Rodney Sharp, Lincoln, won first place in the Angus medium weight division. Douglas Unger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Unger of Newark, earned reserve champion honors in the Angus division.

Helen McQuail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McQuail of Smyrna, took first place in three divisions for her lambs. She earned grand championship honors for her market ewe, first place for her pen of three lambs and first place in fitting and showmanship.

Mary Ann Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Foster, Newark, earned first place for her market wether lamb and reserve championship of the show.

Chris Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Webb, Goldsboro, Md., earned championship honors for one of his hogs, as well as first place in the medium weight hog division.

Reserve championship and first place in the heavyweight hog division went to Robert Horsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Horsey, Jr., of Laurel. He also earned first place for his pen of three market hogs and for fitting and showmanship.

David Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Morgan, Laurel, won first place for his lightweight hog.

Judge for market steers was Donald Kniffen, livestock specialist at Rutgers University. John Shropshire of Hockessin judged sheep, and William Howlett, Greenwood, judged market hogs.

The youngsters raised their animals as 4-H club projects designed to help them learn more about selection, management and marketing of livestock. All animals were sold at auction after they were judged.

4-H Club Notes

With Marion McDonald

Janice Harrison, Westville 4-H'er, took top honors at the recent State Land Judging Contest. Janice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Harrison, Goldsboro, scored 257 points. Three other Westville members backed her to bring the State 4-H team award to their club.

A busy 4-H weekend is coming up. November 13 will find 4-H'ers gathered at the Capital Grange Hall at 8 p.m. for a Junior Council Fun Party.

Sunday will find 4-H leaders, parents and 4-H'ers gathering at the Capital Grange at 1:30 p.m. for the first of three stops on their progressive dinner. General chairman is Mrs. Grace Tinley with Mrs. Pauline Hufnal in charge of the first stop, Dan Hudson, the second stop at the Felton Firehall, and Kitty Jarrell the third stop at Farmington Firehall.

On November 16 there will be a training meeting for the crop judging at Caesar Rodney High School, Home Economics Room at 7:30 p.m.

Our Dairy Princess, Delores Tinley, Whiteoaks will be representing Kent County at the Inter-state Milk Producers' Cooperative annual banquet in Philadelphia next week.

A welcome to our newest 4-H Club—the Smyrna Blue Jays, under the leadership of Mrs. Joyce Scuse. Just a month old and they've already been active with a float in the Smyrna Halloween parade. The Farmington Peach Blossoms also had a float in the Milford parade.

Winners Named In Land Judging Contest

The Kent County 4-H team and Future Farmers of America teams from Felton and Selbyville High Schools won top honors in the Delaware State Land Judging contest Oct. 30 at the University of Delaware's Georgetown Substation.

Janice Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Harrison, Goldsboro, Md.; Beverly Luicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Luicks, Wyoming; Roy Scheppens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Salvador Scheppens, Maryland, and John Comegys, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Comegys, Hartly, were on the Kent County 4-H team that won top honors among competing 4-H'ers.

Miss Harrison was the top individual scorer among all the contestants.

Carl Shelman, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Shelman; Thomas O'Day, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman O'Day; Ken Haines, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Carlton Haines, and George Englehardt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton G. Englehardt, all from Felton, won first place in the FFA team competition. Carl Shelman tied for second place and Ken Haines took third in the individual scoring.

The Selbyville FFA team, James Beauchamp, Curtis Bixler, George Hudson and Gary Lathbury, all of Selbyville, won second place in the team competition.

The land judging contest is planned to provide learning experience for young people interested in soil and water conservation. Contestants are required to decide whether the land used in the contest is best suited for continuous row crop, rotation pasture, occasional plowing, permanent pasture, trees, wildlife or recreational use.

Fifty-nine youngsters took part in this year's contest.

Swine Management Meeting Scheduled

New developments in swine feeding and management will be discussed at a meeting at the University of Delaware's Georgetown Substation, November 24 at 8 p.m. Dr. A. J. Clawson, associate professor of animal husbandry at North Carolina State University, will be the featured speaker.

This meeting is scheduled each fall to help acquaint swine producers with new methods of growing and finishing swine, according to Don Burton, associate dairy and livestock specialist at the University of Delaware. It is sponsored jointly by the Delaware Swine Producers and the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service.

No pre-registration is required, Burton says. The meeting is open to all interested swine producers.

Farm Manager Will Participate in Scientific Advance

The science of agriculture has made more advance in the past 50 years than during all the previous time since man inhabited the earth, according to W. T. McAllister, farm management specialist at the University of Delaware.

McAllister says agriculture is sharing significantly in the progress of science and will continue to do so for many years to come.

The high school student with an interest in business as well as science and agriculture will find almost unlimited opportunities as a farm manager in the years to come. But he will need more knowledge than the farmer of today.

McAllister says the farm manager of the future will be a businessman rather than a technician or specialist, but, in turn, he will rely heavily on advice from extremely well trained specialists. He will use such managerial decision making aids as electronic computers and linear programming.

McAllister says tomorrow's farm manager will also buy more special services on a job basis, such as veterinary service, soil analysis, fertilizer application, seed treatment, weed spraying, insect control, business record keeping, record analysis and tax management.

The farm manager must also learn how to manage people, McAllister believes. "One of the new sciences we are just beginning to learn about is human dynamics—why people do what they do, how they think and what motivates and restricts their actions. This knowledge is very important in helping the individual farm operator adjust to and take advantage of the new ideas and methods discovered through science."

McAllister believes the farm manager of the future will find a college education a necessary requirement in order to stay in business. Courses in agricultural economics and business, as well as plant and animal sciences will help prepare the student to become a successful farm manager in the years to come.

Wildlife Bureau Names Plant As Waterfowl Threat

The Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife is seeking to control the spread of purple loosestrife, an exotic plant which tends to crowd out wetland food plants needed by waterfowl.

This colorful perennial herb, with its reddish-purple blossoms, is a Eurasian species that found its way here sometime in the last century. Recent dry conditions have favored the spread of this plant in fresh water wetlands and accelerated its competition with more beneficial wetland vegetation.

Because loosestrife displaces smartweed, rice cutgrass, sedges, and wild rice—plants needed as food and cover for waterfowl—the Bureau seeks effective control methods to halt the spread of the plant.

Growth habits of loosestrife will be studied at the Great Meadows National Wildlife Refuge in the Concord-Sudbury Valley and at the Parker River Refuge on Plum Island. Increased amounts of loosestrife on these lands set aside for the benefit of waterfowl have prompted the study of various control methods.

Loosestrife resists most herbicides although ammonium sulfamate has been found to be moderately successful when used according to directions for brush control. Since the plant poses a problem in marsh haylands, harbors mosquitoes, and is a threat to waterfowl and other wetland wildlife, the Bureau does not recommend that it be introduced in places where it has not already invaded.

In addition, participating farmers will maintain in conservation uses on the participating farm an acreage equal to the established conserving base plus the acreage to be diverted under all programs for which they expect to receive benefits.

Information on any of these degree programs is available from Dr. William E. McDaniel, Dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences.

'Cross Compliance Under 1966 Wheat Program Outlined

In response to numerous inquiries regarding cross-compliance under the various crop acreage programs, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has recently announced that it intends to make no basic changes for 1966 in cross-compliance features of farm programs. New farm programs will be effective under the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965.

Paul Hastings, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, outlined how cross-compliance will operate under the 1966 wheat program.

To be eligible for program benefits, wheat producers must meet the wheat diversion provisions of the program on the participating farm. On all other farms in which the producer has an interest in the wheat crop he must plant within the wheat allotment.

They will not have to stay within their feed grain base acreage unless wheat is being substituted for feed grains, Hastings said. If they use substitution, they must participate in both wheat and feed grain programs on the participating farm and stay within the wheat acreage allotments and feed grain base acreages on any other farms in which they have an interest in the crop.

Participating farmers will maintain in conservation uses on the participating farm an acreage equal to the established conserving base plus the acreage to be diverted under all programs for which they expect to receive benefits.

Participating farmers will maintain in conservation uses on the participating farm an acreage equal to the established conserving base plus the acreage to be diverted under all programs for which they expect to receive benefits.

Felton F.F.A. Work On Projects

The Felton Future Farmers of America are still making progress this year. The chapter has two heifers, both already bred, and a calf which they will sell.

Crop projects range from fertilizing chapter-operated pasture to harvesting corn and soybean crops on rented ground. Similar work to be done this fall is top dressing the club's alfalfa field and planting barley as a cover crop on rented ground.

Additional activities consists of a basketball team which will compete with other clubs and the annual parent-son banquet for which plans will soon begin. The club will have a dance during the holiday season if time permits.

The Harrington Sunshine 4-H meeting was held at the home of Cheryl Lekites. There were 14 members present. Plans for the Christmas Parade were discussed.

We are happy to report that our club collected 50 dozen cookies for the soldiers in Vietnam. We would like to again thank all the people that contributed.

Our covered-dish supper was held last Saturday evening for the 4-Hers families. Mrs. Marion MacDonald, our county agent, spoke to us about our record books. The program ended with a skit showing what the 4-Hers do in their projects.

Miss Janice Scott, a missionary to Northern Rhodesia, now Zambia, Africa, for the Pilgrim Holiness Church, will speak at 10 a.m., Thanksgiving, at the Pilgrim Holiness Church, Greenwood. Miss Scott is at home on furlough after a term of missionary service in Zambia. She is a registered nurse, and her chief responsibility was that of the hospital work, first at Siachitema Mission, and later at Jembo Mission. Her professional abilities, her devotion to the Lord, and her deep passion for souls combined to give her a successful ministry on the mission field. She will have some interesting things to tell about the mission field where she has labored, its people, and the missionary work being done there. Colored slides will be shown. There will be curios from the field on display.

Miss Flora Belle Slater, a missionary to the Philippines for the Pilgrim Holiness Church, will speak at 10 a.m. Thanksgiving, at the Pilgrim Holiness Church in Greenwood. Miss Slater is home on furlough after spending two terms of missionary service in the Philippines. Her principal work has been that of teaching in the Bible training schools on Luzon and Mindanao. She is an effective missionary, and the results of her work in the schools and also among the churches of the two districts have been gratifying. Miss Slater first served the church as a missionary in Mexico, and then in Puerto Rico and in Peru. During her childhood, she spent a number of years in Africa and the West Indies, where her parents, the Charles Slaters, served as missionaries. She will have some interesting things to tell about the mission field where she has labored, its people, and the work being done there. Colored slides will be shown. There will be curios from the field on display.

Garey Blazes 11:43; An Important Lions Breeze To Loop Harrier Title

By Matt Zabitzka
Wilmington Morning News

Gerry Garey lost his breakfast a couple of hours before the Henlopen Conference cross-country championship race held at Killen's Pond Tuesday afternoon. However, this may have been beneficial since the slender, senior co-captain of the Harrington High Lions ran off and hid from the other 27 harriers to break the tape in a blistering 11 minutes and 43 seconds. This ties the record for the best Harrington clocking on the 2.4 miles course; done by Dennis Rogers last year and trails only the 11:39 done by an inspired Charley Heidel, of Seaford, in last year's 10-team, 70-runner Harrington Invitational. Garey winds up his career on Thurs., Nov. 11 at Killen's Pond against Lewes and Caesar Rodney.

Down lower than a snake's underside at the state meet in Rockford Park, Wilmington, one week earlier, the Lions almost to a man ran poorly and finished third behind Tower Hill and Milton. The Sussex County Warriors became the first team from either of the two lower counties to finish ahead of Harrington in a cross-country race in eight years of the sport here.

Coach Harold McDonald had his boys "up" for this one and the comebacking Lions, for the first time this season, had all seven men under the magic, 13 minute figure, as four locals set new personal records and a fifth tied his previous 1965 best.

Nick Morris, the Lion's sophomore whiz, chopped 16 full seconds off his log with a terrific time of 12:21 for fourth place. Nick is one of several Lions who are college material in track and cross-country. If he continues his present rate of improvement and keeps his scholastic standing at a reasonable level, an athletic scholarship, is a definite possibility.

Bob Matthews, who had a duet with Garey in the breakfast-losing episode, must also do better on an empty stomach. In Matthews' good year (1963) the Lion senior was state jayvee champion and traveled the Killen's Pond layout in the neighborhood of 12:40. He could not match that mark since and had a best of 12:49 going into Tuesday's test. Bob really got cracking and was timed in 12:24 for a very important fifth place.

Marshall Hatfield got off to a slow start and worried a lot of people, but picked up the tempo considerably later and passed enough runners to come in sixth in 12:29, equalling his best race time here this year.

Gary Simpson, the Lions 14-year-old eighth grader, ran a great race again. Simpson is young, in his first year of cross-country, yet was timed in 12:35 for seventh place. This lopped 14 seconds off an already outstanding 12:49.

After the first four finishers were in, Harrington and second-place Milton were all even with five points each. Thus Matthews, Hatfield and Simpson clinched the victory for H.H.S.

Dan Hicks and Ronald Morris were a second apart in that order as every local was in before the watch hit 12:52.

To illustrate the improving caliber of cross-country in lower Delaware and the Henlopen Conference, 15 harriers of the 28 got under the 13 minute barrier which separates the very good from the good. Another was only a second away.

Greenwood and Millsboro each put a boy in this coveted bracket, as Ron Breeding of the Foresters held off a spirited bid for his 11th position by Thielman of Millsboro. Breeding, a senior, never ran before this year but his 12:47 indicates that he most surely has the ability to be a very fine distance runner. Here at H.H.S. some seniors have graduated with six years of running behind them. Imagine where Ron would be now with that kind of experience.

Milton fans were disappointed as the Lions beat the Warriors for the third time this fall. But, a study of the record shows that the first six Warriors, collectively, ran a total of 41 seconds faster than they did at Killen's Pond in the Harrington Invitational. This shows an average improvement of almost seven seconds per man. The Sussex Countians should not be downgraded. They are a good team, but H.H.S. was not to be denied.

Seahawks Down Lions, 32-0

Harrington High's football Lions were holding their own with a Rehoboth team, which appears to be much better than advertised, when Gayle McReynolds suffered a badly broken arm. The limb is apparently broken in several places.

After the injury the Lions seemed to come apart at the seams and their play deteriorated rapidly as the home team romped to victory.

Rehoboth couldn't gain the first time they had the ball. Raleigh Davis returned a punt from his own 23 to the 37 yard line. Sam Knox hit off right tackle for a gain of seven yards. Chuck McNally went the same way for a near first down. Needing inches for a first down, Knox bolted 11 yards to the Black and White 42. Three plays gained five yards and a McNally kick roled out of bounds in the coffin corner. The play was called back for illegal procedure. Punting from five yards further back Chuck hit it good again to the Rehoboth 12.

A pass and a Shockley run picked up 10 yards to the 24 just prior to the McReynolds injury. The Seahawk quarterback, who riddled the Lions' pass defense with nine completions in ten tries, rolled out to the right and passed complete near the sideline upfield on the Lion 45. Seven plays later the Beachboys had a T.D. The last 45 yards were covered with the aid of another good aerial and two large gainers through large holes in the Lion forward wall.

In the second quarter Wayne Porter picked up several yards to reach the H.H.S. 32. Sam Knox fooled a charging Seahawk with a nifty body fake and added ten more yards. Rehoboth recovered a bobble and marched into the end zone for T.D. No. 2 in ten plays despite a 15-yard penalty.

Mike Kohel returned a short kickoff to the 37 yard line. McNally went off right tackle for six yards, then seven to reach midfield. A jump pass to Steve Welch reached the enemy 40. McNally went to the 37 and Knox to the 34 but a five yard penalty made it 2nd and 12 for H.H.S. The home defense smelled a jump pass coming and tall line-men straightened up to bat the ball down. A pass to Wayne Porter kept the drive going as the chunky back got to the 30. McNally drove for three yards but a fumble on a reverse try was picked up by Rehoboth. Had this surge resulted in a score, the final outcome could have been entirely different.

As the second half opened, a McNally run was good for six yards to the Lion 26. The Sussex Countians came up with the ball on the next play, swept left end for six yards, then went up the middle for a third touchdown.

Trailing 20-0, Harrington picked up a first down on two Knox runs and a pass reception by Porter. McNally added three but the locals lost several yards on their next effort. Knox kept the ball for seven yards, but the third down play was two yards short of first down yardage.

After the punt Rehoboth was halted with the aid of a behind-the-line tackle by Porter. The Lions had a six yard run by Knox before Shockley intercepted for the home forces.

As the fourth period started, the winners got on the scoreboard again by a run by full-back, Vignola, a big, mobile grinder. Vignola went through a large orifice in the forward wall and swiveled into the end zone.

A final touchdown throw completed a dismal evening for Kent Countians in Sussex County. Bridgeville's defense - minded Mustangs gallop to Harrington for a contest tonight. With a 3-4 record at present, Harrington must win or tie to keep alive the hopes for a 500 season.

The Bears had taken one-sided lacing from the Colts and Eagles in their previous two outings and at kickoff time had to be rated as decided underdogs.

Chief architects of the victory were an 80 pound quarterback, Mike Davis and a freckled, 73 pound halfback, Billy Walls. Bear in mind that some players in this loop go 115 pounds or better.

Davis, a sixth grader, has potential in several sports. A left-hander, he fakes the handoffs well and is also a threat as a runner. He recently reached the ripe old age of 11.

Walls, a 12-year-old seventh-grader, is not big enough to play football but participates anyway because he loves the game so much. In a previous HLEFL season he suffered a broken leg, that would have caused many other boys to forget about football. But he's back and raring to go.

In the first quarter the Eagles were on the Bear 31, when Walls intercepted a pass and returned it to the 36. Two plays later he took a handoff from Davis and darted around th left side to reach the Eagle 49.

Walls recovered a Bear fumble for a three yard gain. Davis and Parker picked up five more before Bill swept right end to the Eagle 37 and another first down.

Lion Jayvees Beat Milton, 22-37

Harrington High's jayvee cross-country harriers completed an unbeaten regular season by winning easily over Milton's reserves Tuesday afternoon at Killen's Pond.

The Warriors had the winning runner as Randy Gooner finished the tough 2.4 miles hill-and-dale layout in 13 minutes and 7 seconds. Actually, Gooner normally runs in the No. 7 spot on the Milton varsity, but was dropped down to the jayvees for this race, in an apparent effort to end the Lion juniors' win streak.

Gooner's fast pace proved to be a blessing in disguise. The youthful locals are very proud of their own fast personal records over the long grind and welcome each chance to lower them still further. Chasing the Milton varsity harrier caused five of the first seven Lions to excel their previous best efforts.

Jim Simpler dropped from 13:24 to 13:13. We predicted last week that Jim could get under 13 easily next year. He could do it this year if the season was a few days longer.

Eighth grader, Jack Warrington, is now at 13:17 to excel last year's fine eighth grade record of neighbor Oscar Matthews by 30 seconds with one start left.

The fantastic Chris Wetherhold is only one second back as a 12-year-old seventh grader. Tower Hill can keep their 15-year-old state champion. Pound for pound and year for year we will take Chris. Warrington and Wetherhold each chopped off 17 seconds on Tuesday.

A net profit of 12 seconds was logged by Harrington's "Mighty Mite" Danny Hitchens, who won a stirring duel with Irons, of Milton to finish eighth. Tiny Hitchens said "That little guy was hard to shake until I finally got away from him in the woods."

Sprinter Gerry Cagle, wearing heavy basketball shoes, charged up the homestretch to cut off half a minute. Cagle could make it as a harrier but will probably switch to football if H.H.S. gets a gentle grid coach next year.

Greenly, Redden, Rash, Kemp and Brode ran well with two or three at or near their best earlier form.

Joey Gray passed the 12th birthday mark last week and celebrated by knocking 34 seconds to move past several teammates on the squad ranking last. He's my paper boy. We get our Sunday paper from Sam Knox, the varsity quarterback. How's that for fast company?

- Bill Stubbs and Chris Neilsen broke 17 minutes for the first time. Ricardo Griffin was headed for a new record when he had to retire due to reopening an old wound on his hand.

Bears Upset Eagles, 7-0

Bill Morris' Bears notched the upset of the Harrington Little Football League season as they edged Ted Layton's co-league-leading Eagles by a score of 7-0 at the Harrington High Stadium Sunday afternoon.

The Bears had taken one-sided lacing from the Colts and Eagles in their previous two outings and at kickoff time had to be rated as decided underdogs.

Chief architects of the victory were an 80 pound quarterback, Mike Davis and a freckled, 73 pound halfback, Billy Walls. Bear in mind that some players in this loop go 115 pounds or better.

Davis, a sixth grader, has potential in several sports. A left-hander, he fakes the handoffs well and is also a threat as a runner. He recently reached the ripe old age of 11.

Walls, a 12-year-old seventh-grader, is not big enough to play football but participates anyway because he loves the game so much. In a previous HLEFL season he suffered a broken leg, that would have caused many other boys to forget about football. But he's back and raring to go.

In the first quarter the Eagles were on the Bear 31, when Walls intercepted a pass and returned it to the 36. Two plays later he took a handoff from Davis and darted around th left side to reach the Eagle 49.

Walls recovered a Bear fumble for a three yard gain. Davis and Parker picked up five more before Bill swept right end to the Eagle 37 and another first down.

Davis charged off left tackle to the 32. Two subsequent Bear efforts reached the 27 before Walls was thrown for a loss by the Eagles' Travis. Don Parker sped across the field attempting to turn the right corner but was halted by John Dill. Parker made a nice catch of a Davis toss with two Eagles near and was finally downed at the 17. A fourth-and-one sneak failed.

The happy Bears played the kind of game that underdogs dream about. They will get another chance next week to do it again as they will meet the first place Colts of Fred Mertz and Ray Wetherhold on Sunday afternoon.

can Cancer Society, and other groups in the area of public education. A variety of programs are held to dissuade Delawareans—teenagers and adults alike—from smoking.

As new techniques and materials for combating tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases are discovered, the Society brings these to the attention of medical personnel in Delaware through literature and professional lectures.

Of each dollar contributed in Delaware, 93 cents will remain in the state to finance programs such as case detection, professional lectures and training, and education of direct benefit to Delawareans. The remaining six cents out of each dollar will be sent to the National Tuberculosis Association, which conducts research and educational programs on a country-wide basis.

"The program of the Delaware Tuberculosis and Health Society is a broad one, reaching into every corner of the state," Dr. Beatty continued. "We mean every word when we say that when you give to the Christmas Seal campaign, you give the gift of health."

United States for many years. It should have been put in effect here a long time ago. Why it wasn't, I don't know. You'll have to ask my predecessors. I've been commission chairman less than a year."

Pittard said that, unlike other intoxication testing machines, Delaware's gives the results immediately.

"While we test every driver every night, we don't test every groom, unless there is some suspicion," said Pittard. "Eventually, we do get around to every groom, regardless. No groom knows exactly when he will be called to undergo the test."

"I would say that so far we haven't experienced any more intoxication cases at our tracks, than you would find elsewhere. Perhaps less. We've had some drivers set down and some grooms disciplined, both at Brandywine and at Kent & Sussex, but not to any great extent.

"These tests have been accepted by the drivers wholeheartedly. Many have commented to me that they are happy that we are doing this and that we should have done this a long time ago.

"There hasn't been a single case of reluctance on the part of any driver to submit to the test. In my opinion, the drivers, without exception, want this rule in effect and enforced, for the simple reason it is for their own protection."

Pittard said that drivers—the cast majority—abstain from drinking while driving because the offense is also entered on the records of the United States Trotting Association and that continual black marks against them could bar them from driving at any track in the nation.

As for the fingerprinting, Pittard said that every person affiliated with the operation of a track or employed by a track has to submit to prints.

"The prints are sent to the FBI in Washington," said Pittard. "If there's a record on file against the person, he is discharged."

"Without exception the officials of Delaware's three harness racing tracks have been most cooperative in our innovations. They are as sincerely interested as the commission."

In addition to Pittard, other members of the commission are Claude A. Brittingham, of Wilmington and Hudson E. Gruwell, of Dover. J. Ewell Calhoun, of Georgetown is executive secretary.
