

CLARK STREET ALLEY UP BEFORE COUNCIL AGAIN -- OH HUM

The City Council tabled a motion on Tuesday night to make traffic two-way in that portion of a Clark Street alley running from Porter Street to Simpson Street after residents staged a vehement protest.

The motion was brought up after a letter was read from Benjamin Hughes, of Hi-Grade Dairy, requesting the change from one-way traffic because of his purchase of a parking lot across the alley in the rear of the dairy.

The alley, in its entirety, has been discussed on the Council floor many times in the past year, with one-way traffic being installed, and the direction of the traffic varying as to blocks.

These maneuvers were designed to keep traffic from running the entire length of the alley instead of using Clark Street. Mayor Luther P. Hatfield explained the changes were made because of thru traffic from U. S. 13 to a shirt factory at the western end of the alley. Since Tuesday night's meeting followed appeal night on tax assessment, it found some citizens in a spirited mood. Regarding the alley, Mrs. Marion Brown produced a letter from Mrs. J. L. Moore, who was unable to attend because of illness, in favor of maintaining the traffic as it was.

The communication said a two-way traffic would result in "a lot of traffic to U. S. 13, all in a hurry." She said the ward's Councilman, Wilson G. Bradley, should be disqualified from acting on the issue, that "he continually makes a nuisance of himself," and that if it were not for him the issue would have died long ago.

Using the alley instead of the street, she emphasized, caused unsafe conditions, beer cans, trash, dirt. "None of us want to injure Mr. Hughes, I'm sure something can be worked out."

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Martin were outspoken advocates of keeping the alley as it is. Mrs. Martin said it was wonderful now. Before, she commented, she couldn't keep her windows open for the dust. She added that, when the traffic was two way, her grass couldn't be cut until the gravel, thrown on the lawn by traffic, had been removed.

At a past Council meeting, a complaint had been registered by the Martins on mud splashed on the side of the home by traffic. Martin was not enthused by tabling the motion. "You'll bring it (the issue) up again when we're not here. We want to be here to protest ourselves."

Mayor Hatfield replied the issue would not be brought up again unless he was assured four councilmen would vote on it. Bradley brought up a motion on it earlier in the month and it died for want of a second.

In other business Tuesday night, the resignation of Calvin Wells from the Planning Commission was accepted. His term of office expires in February, 1968. Wells stated press of other duties as the reason for his resignation. No replacement.

Easter Seal Parade March 28 To April 4

There will be an Easter Seal Parade with a number of volunteers going from home to home delivering Easter Seals, March 28 to April 4. There will not be any horns or drums, but under the direction of Mrs. Donald Dell, the 1966 door-to-door Easter Seal chairman for Harrington, volunteers will visit homes for contributions to help crippled children and adults.

Of the total number of children requiring rehabilitation help in Delaware, such as physical, occupational and speech therapy, only a small number are now being treated in our local Easter Seal program. Expansion of the program depends on increased funds for employment of additional professional staff members, said Mrs. Dell.

Nationally, crippling takes a terrible toll, she said. It is impossible to total it accurately in terms of human suffering and cost to the nation and the community, but its enormity can be imagined in the fact that some 28 million Americans are prevented by crippling from leading a normal life.

Goal for the state is $70,000. The volunteers will make an effort to reach every home in their assigned area.

Mrs. Dell will soon announce her captains and helpers in Harrington.

Other chairmen in nearby area are:

Mrs. Willard Dufendach, Houston; Mrs. Clarence Elliott, Milford; Mrs. Emily Tutthill, Frederica and Bowers, chairman for Paradise 4-H Club; Mrs. W. Dwight Stevens, Felton; Mrs. Wallace Taylor, Willow Grove; Mrs. Mary B. Richards, Woodside; Mrs. Hubert Cabbage, Viola; Mrs. Irwin H. Richter, Canterbury; Miss Sharon Rust, Farmington, chairman for Farmington 4-H Club; Mrs. Carl Wright, Andrewville 4-H Club.

Automobile Breaks Electric Pole

An automobile, driven by Bobbie Beene, collided with an electric light pole on Center Street early Sunday morning, breaking it.

However, Beene escaped with lacerations and bruises, requiring no visit to the doctor. The other occupant, Herbert Barlow, received treatment for fractured ribs the following day at Milford Memorial Hospital.

Beene was fined $10 and costs, on a charge of operating a vehicle at a speed greater than reasonable and prudent, in Court No. 6 here by Magistrate Fred Carey.

FUNDS ASKED TO HIRE SEVEN MAGISTRATES

The head of the state's new magistrate's system Monday requested funds to hire seven additional magistrates.

George Gray Thouron, supervisor of the magistrate's courts, told the General Assembly's Joint Finance Committee that at least seven more are needed to cover vacations and sick leave.

He said he plans to seek legislation to raise the limit on the number of salaried magistrates from 46 to 53, and asked that money to cover their salaries be included in the budget being drafted by the Joint Finance Committee.

But the chairman of the legislative committee, Sen. Walter J. Hoey, D-Milford, convinced Thouron to include an appropriation in the magistrate bill rather than the budget bill.

Thouron asked the committee for $100,293 more than Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. recommended for fiscal 1967, including $56,000 to pay the seven additional magistrates.

Reduced Rates Brings New Ferry Business

Reduction of rates on the Cape May-Lewes Ferry has brought new commercial business, the Delaware River and Bay Authority was told Monday.

General Manager Nolan C. Chandler told commissioners at their monthly meeting that since commercial rates dropped on March 1, new interest in the Delaware Bay crossing has been shown by the industrial transportation users. He also said that traffic lost in February because of heavy ice in the Bay was made up during the first two weeks of March.

Authority's vice chairman Alexis I. DuPont Bayard urged the Authority to consider the possibility of adding the names of Vietnam Armed Forces dead to the memorial list at Delaware Memorial Bridge. It was agreed that feasibility of such action would be studied. Delaware Memorial Bridge was dedicated to the dead of World War II and Korea.

Director William J. Miller, Jr., announced the Authority had approved a contract with Toll Systems, Inc., New York City, for installation of six automatic toll units for the second Delaware Memorial Bridge. The units will be leased on the basis of $14 per day rental. The New York firm was low bidder.

Dredging work at the Cape May-Lewes Ferry will be resumed after new contracts are negotiated, according to Director Miller, and further study will be given to contracts for equipment at the Delaware Memorial Bridge. The bids awarded last month will be restudied, Miller said.

Fresh Water Supplies Endangered Says Boggs

Delaware's fresh water supplies are endangered by drought and possible salt water seepage, Sen. Caleb J. Boggs said this week.

In testimony before a Senate subcommittee Boggs said that a study of fresh water supplies on the Delmarva Peninsula is needed if the area is to make the best use of its limited water resources.

He asked that the committee approve $100,000 in the Interior Department's fiscal 1967 budget "for the beginning of a hydrologic survey of the Delmarva Peninsula. He was joined in his request by Senator John J. Williams, Delaware, and Senator Daniel Brewster, of Md.

Boggs has introduced legislation providing for a five-year water study of the Peninsula. Last week he testified on behalf of this bill. His testimony this week is another effort to get the study underway as soon as possible.

Boggs told the Senate Subcommittee on Interior Appropriations that the Delmarva Peninsula's long coastline "invites the invasion of sea water into its fresh water supplies."

He also mentioned that the latest report on drought conditions in the North East and Middle Atlantic areas indicates that as of mid-February the drought section has moved southward. All of Delaware is included in the drought area, Boggs pointed out.

Additional fresh water supplies must be found, Boggs said, if the peninsula is to grow.

Laws Sought To Outlaw Debt Adjusting

Atty. Gen. David P. Buckson and State Bank Commissioner Randolph Hughes joined Tuesday night in urging enactment of legislation to curb second-mortgage rackets and outlaw debt adjusting.

The two officials, speaking at the first of two consumer forums sponsored by the University of Delaware Extension Service, said the state's laws need strengthening to keep unscrupulous operators from exploiting the financial plight of many Delaware residents.

Bills that simply would outlaw the business of debt adjusting for profit and apply stringent controls to outfits using second mortgages to secure debt-consolidation loans have passed the House and are pending in the Senate.

Buckson told about 200 persons attending the forum of Wesley College that "the two bills pending before the General Assembly deserve your support."

Buckson said his office was successful in one effort to drive a debt adjuster out of the state, but said a law is needed to cover the practice.

He called these second-mortgage business a "racket."

Hughes termed it "one of the most sinister that is operating in the state."

The bill dealing with second-mortgage brokers would establish tight limitations on the operators and give the bank commissioner the power to license them.

But Hughes made clear that the purpose of the bill was to make it impossible for them to operate in the state. "I have no intention of licensing them if I can help it," he declared.

Hughes has described cases in which persons in serious financial straits went to debt consolidation outfits and wound up with second mortgages amounting to more than twice their original debt.

The Bank Commissioner hit hard in his talk at what he called, "the racket of debt adjusting," in which the operator pro rates debts and agrees to pay off the creditors—for a fee.

"They have very little to offer except for advice and you know that advice is one of the cheapest commodities you can peddle," he said.

He said the debt adjusters take the debtor's money and put most of it in their pockets.

Hughes also called for legislation to control sale of insurance by small-loan companies. He said out-of-state loan companies have set up business in Delaware mainly for the purpose of making money on credit insurance sales.

"I think we should have a law against this kind of business," Hughes said.

Another speaker at the forum, Silas W. Petit, vice president of the Farmers Bank of the State of Delaware said two thirds of the people who have done business with debt adjusters or second mortgage brokers could have obtained debt consideration loans from their banks and paid a lot less.

Gov. Terry Has Ulcer Doctor Says

Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr.'s physician, E. H. Mercer, said Monday the governor is suffering from a duodenal ulcer of recent origin.

In a statement issued Monday, Dr. Mercer, a Dover general practitioner, said, "Gov. Terry has an acute duodenal ulcer."

"The treatment is strictly medical and no surgery is anticipated."

"The governor is on a dietary regime and is expected to be hospitalized from a week to 10 days. There are no complications and none are anticipated," the statement said.

Terry's press secretary, Ned Davis, said Monday the governor is "feeling fine" and said that he spent some time in his Kent General Hospital room signing letters.

Terry was hospitalized Saturday for a gastro-intestinal upset, and underwent X-ray examinations and other diagnostic tests Monday.

Terry became ill last Wednesday night with what he thought was a virus. He had returned the night before from a five-day Florida vacation.

Joshua Dixon Keeps Bacteria Counts Low With Electric Cooler

Three years ago Pet Producer Joshua Dixon, Greenwood, purchased an electric cooler for his neighbor, Norman Adams. Before that time, Josh had been using a concrete cooling vat to cool his milk. He had had some trouble with high bacteria counts, and occasionally had had sour milk. Every-other-day shipments also added to his problems. The old concrete cooling vat had insufficient capacity and held only two cans of milk.

"The four-can immersion-type electric cooler which I bought from my neighbor, Norman Adams, has saved me time, labor and water," Josh remarked. "The old concrete vat was just too small, and wouldn't cool the milk properly."

"All the bacteria tests on my milk have been good, and I have gotten no milk back since I started using my electric cooler three years ago," he added.

Joshua take good care of his cooler. He changes the water when it becomes cloudy and stale. He also keeps the water level in the cooler higher than the milk in the cans at all times.

The Dixons have been sending milk to Pet Milk Company at Greensboro for the last 15 years. Joshua, who is 85 years old, does all the milking himself since the children have left home and have other jobs. He has been milking cows for about 70 years.

Six grade Holstein-Guernsey-Jersey cows are in the Dixons' small herd. Mrs. Dixon does her

City Assessments Increased; Tax Rate Lowered 3c

A combination of a general city reassessment and adoption of county reappraisal figures brought about 30 persons to the Town Council chambers Tuesday night for tax appeals.

The attendance was higher than usual for the annual appeal night, but represented only about half of one per cent of the 600 property owners in Harrington. The combination of the county reappraisal and the city reassessment which Harrington tries to do every four years, has boosted the town's assessed valuation by slightly more than $500,000.

Last year the assessed valuation was $45 million and the city also realized $13,000 in capitation taxes. The assessed valuation has risen to slightly more than $5 million this year.

City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann estimated the city's capitation tax income tentatively at $12,000, but there will be new capitation tax payments to add to the list.

Under the dual revision, Mann said, about 51 per cent of the taxpayers saw their assessment raised, about 35 per cent had it lowered and 14 per cent realized little or no change.

While the assessment this year covers $5,080,376 it does not include more than three million dollars of tax exempt property. While the property assessment went up about $500,000, the taxpayer pays only 60 per cent of the assessed value, or on about $300,000. The tax rate, late Tuesday night, was lowered from 83 cents to 80 cents per $100. Thus the city's revenues, from property taxes will be increased only about $2400. This will not pay for the annual increase in the cost of operating the new mercury-vapor lights now in use or scheduled for installment.

Hughes also hit at mobile home owners who are protesting tax increases and assessment of their homes as property.

"I can't understand their desire for tax exemption," he said. "They should pay taxes."

"I feel they should have the privilege of choosing a trailer as a home, but they should be willing to pay their share of the tax load," he continued. "Most of their taxes will be less than the current $15 flat rate, anyway."

He said the difference will be that most of them will be forced to pay the tax for the first time because they will be facing a lien against their property if the taxes are not paid.

The Levy Court agreed that all properties, as up to date as possible.

COUNTY ASSESSMENT BOARD ACCEPTS PROPERTY REAPPRAISAL

Kent County's Board of Assessment has been directed to accept the county-wide property reappraisal as is, without wholesale changes in assessments.

"Changes will be made only if a blatant error is found during the appeal hearings scheduled for the first two weeks of April, Levy Court Commissioner L. Winfred Hughes said Tuesday.

"We're not going to do any favors in this matter," he added. "Changing one assessment on the basis of favoritism would defeat the whole purpose of the reappraisal," Hughes said.

The announcement of the directive to the Board of Assessment came after one employee of the board asked Levy Court if the board would continue its practice of changing assessments at the request of property owners.

In the past, Kent County frequently has lowered assessments for, as the employee termed it, "good Democrats."

"There's to be no favoritism in this assessment," Hughes reiterated. "We don't want to get in the same mess as before."

Many of the properties found to be undervalued by the J. M. Clemmishaw Company were in that state because of past favors.

"The burden should be, and will be, on the property owner," Hughes added. "His only re-

Ban Asked On Bridge Union Vote

The Delaware River and Bay Authority has started Chancery Court action to prevent a union from being declared the exclusive bargaining agent for its employees.

A suit has been filed to enjoin the Delaware Department of Labor and Industrial Relations and the Electrical Workers' Union, Local 313, from holding an election among toll collectors and maintenance employees at the Delaware Memorial Bridge.

The Delaware River and Bay Authority is an agency of Delaware and New Jersey which operates the bridge and the Cape May-Lewes Ferry. Its lawyer, James L. Latchum, of Wilmington, takes the position that Delaware laws pertaining to the unionization of public employees do not affect the bistate authority because it is an interstate agency.

Latchum's action in filing suit was approved recently by the bistate authority at its meeting.

The official attitude of the bistate authority is that, while its employees can join unions if they desire, no one union shall be regarded as the sole representative of the men in any particular category.

According to the bill of complaint, the electrical workers union had asked the department of labor to certify it is the exclusive bargaining agent for the toll collectors and maintenance employees of the bridge below the grade of supervisor.

Latchum, on behalf of the bistate authority, petitioned the labor department to dismiss the union's petition. However, on March 9, the labor department denied the petition and ordered that an election be held.

Latchum charged that, not only is the Delaware law permitting unionization of public employees "unduly and arbitrarily interfering with the powers and duties of the authority," but that its application to the authority is unconstitutional.

He further argued in his bill of complaint that the Delaware labor department has no jurisdiction over a bistate agency and that the General Assembly of Delaware cannot "unilaterally place additional duties or obligations upon the authority."

Another contention was that the electrical workers' union cannot exercise any control over the bistate authority because it is a private agency outside the framework of government.

All members of the Post and Auxiliary are urged to be present for the celebration. It promises to be an evening of enjoyment.

580 Tons Of Food Federally Donated

During the first five months of the current school year, over 580 tons of federally donated food were distributed to Delaware schools by the State Distribution Agency.

Brig. Gen. D. Preston Lee, chairman of the agency, said the schools received $440,000 worth of food at a cost of only $5,800 for handling and delivery.

The January distribution to schools included over a quarter million pounds of frozen meat and poultry, canned fruits and vegetables, butter, dry milk, rice and flour.

During February the agency distributed 326,000 pounds of food to needy families totalling 28,841 people.

The 6,808 families who received federally donated food represent 77 per cent of the total number eligible.

Distribution of surplus food to needy families during the remainder of this month will take place at the following centers:

Wilmington and New Castle County: Third and Union St. Fire House, March 18, 10:30 a.m.-3 p.m.; National Guard Armory, 10th & DuPont Sts., March 25, 9:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.; Middletown Fire Co., March 17, 9:30 - 11:30 a.m.

In all cases, to be eligible the veteran must have discharges that are other than dishonorable and they must not already have used up their eligibility under previous programs.

Mr. Fields said all the new benefits, with the exception of the Educational Assistance program, went into effect immediately upon the President's signing of the bill. The educational assistance provisions will go into effect June 1, 1966.

The benefits established by the new law are: Educational assistance, home and farm loans, medical care, job counseling, job replacement, federal employment preference and the issuance of burial flags.

Veterans Readjustment Benefits Act

The Veterans Readjustment Benefits Act of 1966, which was signed into law Thurs., March 3, by President Johnson provides a permanent program of benefits to veterans who have served or who will serve in the U.S. Armed Forces since January 31, 1955, according to Leon Fields, manager of the VA Regional Office, Wilmington.

Chief among these benefits will be education, home loan guaranty and the extension of VA hospital benefits on the same priority basis as for wartime veterans.

Thus approximately four million veterans discharged from the service since January 31, 1955, ranging from "Cold War" veterans to those now on duty in Viet Nam, become eligible for benefits somewhat similar to those granted the veterans of World War II and the Korean Conflict. It is estimated that about 10,000 Delaware citizens are "Cold War" veterans.

At the same time, provision has been made for 600,000 additional veterans who will be returning to civilian life each calendar year to participate in the same benefits.

In all cases, to be eligible the veteran must have discharges that are other than dishonorable and they must not already have used up their eligibility under previous programs.

St. Patrick's Day In North Ireland Any Old Time

A Return
Time: March 17, 1944
Place: County Ulster, Dunganon, North Ireland
By W. C. Burgess

Now comes a crowd of people beating on a great big drum.

"Now what is that?" Nothing excepting the Irish are helping St. Patrick run the snakes out of Ireland. The roundup occurs once a year. And I'll bet you one nicker they never found one snake.

The reason for this is that the grass is as green as spinach, because the ground is also damp. It is too damp for a snake to live in. They wouldn't want to get their toolies wet, nor their tummys either. They are built too close to the ground. Ireland and England are both known as the foggy isles; and in countries like that; they would lose all their wiles. I lost a few there myself. A soldier—here today and gone tomorrow; and maybe with no road of return; so live it up, boys, and also the dolls.

Now back to St. Patrick's Day. All over Ireland, there is an invention called the "pub." On St. Pat's Day they get out this big drum and start out chasing snakes. Snakes sometimes hide under rocks; they have the rocks there, alright; but I never heard of an Irishman getting bit by one. At every pub they come to they knock off for a little Guinness or a little Jamison. After a while they begin to wonder—Where is my wandering snake—the one I had last year; I guess he ain't around anymore. It was just a mirage, anyway!

The Protestants finally say, "Let's go get us a harp to play with. It's the only chance we'll ever have of getting to Heaven." The Harps will say, "Let's go find our old snake buddies the Proties."

They are, of course, two different factions, and when they meet; you can hear the ground shake.

"Both sides have finally found snakes." They all start having a "Stone Royal." Which consists of throwing stones at the enemy. Sometimes, if they can't find the enemy factions; they will start fighting amongst themselves. They had rather fight than eat anyway.

They will say to us, "You Americans, you know, we would like to try you boys out in a little contest, but you are our guests, and besides, we would get six months for hitting you. You boys have your problems in the States, just like we have here, segregation, you know. And that was 22 years ago. They don't go to the same churches of the same schools, but they are really independent.

Jack Smyth, please note: It would cost us, $50, if we got in South Ireland. A few of the boys made it. One guy was from Chicago; and his mother was in South Ireland. So, they dressed him up in a civilian suit, gave him a little vacation and let him hit it south to see his mother. If they caught him; they wouldn't keep him anyway. If they could have joined our Army; they probably would have, and I mean the South Irish.

"When it comes to British baiting, they will all get on that one."

Now most of this article was written last year; so I didn't know anything about the Lord Nelson affair. They bait the British; but you don't want to say anything about the British with them around. They always like to help the underdog.

There was no conscription in North Ireland. It wasn't necessary, at all. They all joined up anyway.

You walk into one of their homes and you will see something like this. "There is my dearly departed brother. He got killed at Dunkirk. The Irish never miss a fight.

In Ireland—North Ireland, too—you could order steaks, ham and eggs, most anything that was rationed was because they couldn't get it.

Some of these were IRA, but they didn't bother to tell you. But they most all knocked off to go to war.

The only snakes in North Ireland must have been us; however, there were a few American Indians.

They gave us all the royal treatment, anyway. Even the bartenders, promised to sign for me a job, if I ever came back that way.

"Winston Churchill, of course. It seems like the Irish gangsters and the IRA all hung out at the pubs. When the cops got off duty; I wouldn't be a bit surprised, either. But they would be too noticeable in those 1900 old-fashioned hats they wore in those days! I wonder if the South Irish cops wore them too. Man, they were a foot and a half tall.

And so, we all wound up at the pub on St. Patrick's Day in North Ireland—soldiers, gangsters, cops, IRA and all.

Veterans News

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—I receive monthly compensation payments from VA for a service-connected injury. A portion of my payment is for my son who becomes 18 years of age next month. If he remains in school after 18, will I continue to draw this extra income for him?

A—As long as your child remains unmarried and in school, except for normal summer vacation periods, you will continue to receive an extra allowance for him until he is 23 years old. Payment of this extra allowance would cease, however, in the event your son completes his education, drops out of school, or marries before reaching the age of 23.

Q—Do veterans need to attain age 65 before they are eligible for pension from the Veterans Administration?

A—A veteran of wartime service may be eligible for pension at any age if he can prove permanent disability and unemployment, subject to income limitations.

Q—My husband is a veteran of World War II and he has a service-connected disability of 100%. What benefits does he have when one of his family needs hospitalization?

A—The Veterans Administration does not provide hospitalization for the dependents of veterans.

Q—I am an elderly World War II veteran. I would like to make arrangements to be buried in a national cemetery when I die. To whom do I apply?

A—Application for burial in a national cemetery cannot be accepted in advance of death. Upon the veteran's death, a survivor should apply immediately to the superintendent of the national cemetery where burial is desired. The VA can furnish information and assist the survivor with the application.

Q—My father died as a result of service-connected disabilities in World War II, making me eligible for schooling under the War Orphans Educational Assistance Act. May I pursue this education at the U.S. Military Academy?

A—No, not under the War Orphans Act. However, since your father's death resulted from a service-connected disability you can apply to the President for special appointment to the Academy. The Congress provided for Presidential appointment of additional cadets of midshipmen to the U.S. Military Academy, the U.S. Naval Academy, or the U.S. Air Force Academy from those sons of servicemen who were killed in, or died later as a result of disabilities incurred in service in World War I, World War II, and the Korean Conflict. Your selection will be in order of merit among other War Orphan applicants as established by a competitive mental examination and a physical examination.

Q—I receive disability compensation payments from the Veterans Administration. Will the VA at my request take my Government Life Insurance premiums out of the monthly check I get. If they will do this I am less likely to forget to pay my insurance.

A—Premiums on a Government Life Insurance policy may be deducted from either compensation or pension payments. Contact any VA office and ask for VA Form 29-888.

Q—How much time remains to obtain the re-opened GI insurance, so-called?

A—Eligible veterans (those with service-connected disabilities even though they receive no compensation payments and those with nonservice-connected disabilities who are too disabled to obtain commercial insurance) have until midnight, Monday, May 2, 1966, to obtain the re-opened insurance. By that time, however, they must have sent not only their application but also sufficient funds to cover the initial premium payment.

Q—Congress has just passed a new GI bill. When does it go into effect.

A—It became effective immediately upon signing by the President, in all provisions except those applying to educational benefits. These will become available on June 1, 1966.

Q—I hear my child, age 21, is now entitled to educational assistance even though my peacetime service terminated before 1940. My service-connected condition is rated as permanently, totally disabling. What would his monthly allowance be if he enters college?

A—Yes, your child became eligible under a recent change in the law extending War Orphans' Educational Assistance to children, generally between ages 18 and 23, of both war time and peacetime veterans from the beginning of the Spanish-American War period provided their permanent and total disability or death is service-connected. Allowances for institutional type training are: $130 monthly for full-time study; $95 monthly for three-quarter-time study; and $60 monthly for half-time study.

Q—Since I purchased my home on a GI loan, I have been transferred to a job in another city. What can I do?

A—On all VA home loans, the veteran remains liable on the note until the loan is paid in full or he is released from liability by the VA. When you receive orders to transfer, you should immediately attempt to arrange a sale of your property and when a purchaser is found, obtain a release from liability from the VA.

Q—A dear friend of mine, a veteran of World War Two, died without friends or relatives. Due to our long association, I arranged a funeral and paid the bills. Will the VA reimburse me for my expenses?

A—Yes, at least in part. The VA pays a statutory allowance up to $250 towards the burial of a veteran who was honorably discharged from a period of wartime service.

Q—Does a "General Discharge under Honorable Conditions" have any bearing on the eligibility for veterans benefits as related to an "Honorable Discharge"?

A—Either a "General Discharge under Honorable Conditions" or an "Honorable Discharge" are acceptable for Veterans Administration benefits.

Proclamation Of Tall Cedars

Whereas, members of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon of the United States of America continue to contribute immeasurably to philanthropic principles as enunciated by the founders of that splendid organization; and

Whereas, Those same members have assumed leadership in the continuous effort to gain public response and participation in the medical and scientific research into the causes and cure of muscular dystrophy, a disease that strikes down many Americans each year; and

Whereas; expensive research and treatment units for this disease are financed annually by the Tall Cedars of Lebanon; and Whereas; the 122nd General Assembly of the State of Delaware, by means of House Joint Resolution No. 2 has designated the third week of March for the observance of Tall Cedars of Lebanon week and has authorized the Governor of the State of Delaware to issue a proclamation "calling upon all citizens of the State of Delaware to acquaint themselves with the programs of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon and to lend their full support to its efforts whenever possible;"

Now, therefore, I, Charles L. Terry, Jr., Governor of the State of Delaware, do hereby designate and proclaim March 13-19, 1966 as "National Tall Cedars of Lebanon Week."

In Witness Whereof, I, Charles L. Terry, Jr., Governor of the State of Delaware have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the said State to be hereunto affixed at Dover this 11th day of March in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and sixty-six, and of the Independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and ninetieth.

Good Lighting Makes Home More Pleasant

Good indoor lighting is having the right kind and right amount of light at the right place. Good lighting is a must for every home, says Miss Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware.

Well-designed and attractive lighting units contribute to the comfort, safety, and livability of the modern home. Lighting units are made for beauty as well as for utility. Your decorative scheme will be accented and enhanced by good lighting throughout the home, Miss Morris believes.

Properly lighted work areas are safer and more comfortable than shadowy corners for home tasks. Varying amounts of light are needed depending on the work. For instance, more light is needed for sewing than for reading a well-printed book.

A certain amount of roomwide lighting is required for comfort, if ever, adequate. A single unit may provide enough light for a given task and leave the rest of the room dark. The human eye sees the dark portion of the room as well as the light, and the contrast causes the pupil of the eye to dilate and contract. Eye strain could result easily.

For this reason, the color and finish of the walls and ceiling are important in planning lighting, Miss Morris points out. It is possible to light rooms with dark colored walls satisfactorily; however, it is simpler and more economical if walls and ceilings are finished in light colors. A dull finish on walls and ceilings will also help make the lighting more comfortable. A shiny surface will have an uncomfortable reflected light or glare.

Bare lamp bulbs also cause unnecessary eye strain and interfere with vision. Shield all bare lamp bulbs, recommends Miss Morris. Glass, plastic or paper shades improve the appearance of lighting fixtures as well as giving more comfortable light. Open-top shades are most desirable because part of the light is directed to the ceiling and upper walls which improves the general room lighting. A good lamp for reading must have a glass or plastic diffusing bowl beneath the light bulb or have a harp the metal frame to which the shade is attached—that permits using a white indirect light bulb.

A pair of lamps, either wall-hung or table-based, provide the best lighting for school work, according to Miss Morris. They distribute the light more uniformly over the entire work surface. Since study lamps are nearly always located close to and in front of the student's eyes, it is important that they have diffusing bowls or discs to soften reflected light. Pull-down lamps may be used if they can be adjusted so the bottom of the shade is at eye-level. The shade should be opaque and an adequate sized bulb should be used.

Every kitchen, regardless of style, needs modern, high standard up-to-date lighting, says Miss Morris. "An adequate amount of glareless light will let you see what's cooking inside the pots and pans." Washing dishes will also be much easier and faster in a brightly lighted kitchen.

The range, sink, baking, food preparation counters, the eating center and the business center are areas for local lighting. Tie them together with a ceiling fixture for roomwide lighting.

The laundry is another work area that requires good lighting. A well-lighted, cheerful laundry can help take the drudgery out of washday. Lighting can also be a large factor in making the garage and basement safe and efficient. Stairs particularly need good lighting to be safe, Miss Morris points out.

Dr. Robert Cook To Speak At U. of D.

Dr. Robert W. Cook, director of Technical and Business Services at the University of Delaware, will address the Rehoboth Beach Chamber of Commerce luncheon on Tuesday, March 22, President Harry E. Derrickson announced this week.

Invitations have been extended to Chamber of Commerce members in Dover, Milton, and Lewes to join the Rehoboth Beach group at the Avenue Restaurant to hear Dr. Cook.

The luncheon will be "Dutch Treat," Derrickson said, and any of the general public interested in the University of Delaware program may attend.

In a series of talks recently, Cook has been pointing out that the reason for lower Delaware's lack of industrial growth is the lower payrolls in this area. Derrickson said this occasion would be an opportune time for Cook to field questions and defend his recent announcements.

The Chamber of Commerce is working actively for a big Easter weekend. According to reports this past weekend, the resort area was already feeling sign of spring. The Atlantic Sands Motel was sold out this weekend and reservations are coming in for facilities for the Easter weekend, April 9-10.

The annual Easter sunrise service will be held at 5:29 a. m. on the boardwalk at the bandstand, according to Mrs. Mae Hall McCabe, chairman. The Easter promenade will go on rain or shine. If weather is inclement, judges will review marchers in the Convention Center. All ladies in the promenade will receive free orchids from the Chamber of Commerce, according to Chairman Ralph Pierson.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. CLIFF MILLER

A HOLY LESSON OF LOVE

In these days and times of the right clothes, the "image" worshippers, the status seekers, the "in" crowd, a refreshing experience is taking place in Harrington and Asbury Church in particular. At the moment it is perhaps being felt only faintly and by only a few who are "tuned in" but little by little this small swell is gaining momentum and cannot help but grow into a flowing, rushing tide that will carry us all toward a much-needed and blessed understanding of one another. And what better way for love to be generated than through sincere search and joyful discovery of understanding.

Since February 27 each week at Abury has been a special one: "the week of letter writing": Feb. 27 to Mar. 6—write at least one letter of love or appreciation that only you can write; "the week of phone calls": Mar. 6 to Mar. 13—make at least one or several phone calls to say whatever you feel should be said to make someone know you love and appreciate them; "the week of remembrance": Mar. 13 to Mar. 20—take or send some remembrance to someone you are not accustomed to remembering—the old fashioned practice of a pie or cake; a flower or a book; "the week of prayer": Mar. 20 to 27—keep someone you know in your prayer for this week. They do not ever need to know. It may be someone passing through sorrow or illness, or maybe in need that only you can see or know. Pray for him by name. The remaining days in Lent are YOURS to promote love and good will in your way.

Naturally, when one receives a note or phone call of appreciation it just follows that the sender is looked upon as a friend—one who understands your problems, one who sees something noble in you. He loves you. You can't help but respond.

All of this has been motivated by a fine person who calls himself "old-fashioned" and "square". The only thing old-fashioned about him is his name, and even that isn't as square as it is—well, comfortable. And when he leans over that pulpit and grins at us we feel our spirits lift and our hearts go out inspired to be as noble as he expects us to be. He always seems to be saying "I Know Something Good About You!"

Wouldn't it be fine and dandy

If the folks we meet would say,
 "I know something good about you!"

And then treat us just that way?

Wouldn't it be fine and dandy

If each handclasp warm and true
 Carried with it this assurance,
 "I know something good about you?"

Wouldn't life be lots more happy,

If the good that's in us all

Were the only thing about us

That folks bothered to recall?

Wouldn't life be more happy,

If we praised the good we see?

For there's such a lot of goodness

In the worst of you and me.

Wouldn't it be nice to practice

That fine way of thinking, too?

You know something good about me!

And I, something good about you!

At a special meeting of the voters of the Felton School District at Felton High School, a motion was unanimously passed to hold a second referendum for the sale of additional school bonds in the amount of $32,370. Because of an under estimating of the assessable wealth of the district last year, the additional bonds could be financed without increasing the tax rate as approved by the voters in the referendum last December.

Railroad News — During the cold snap last week, Howard Sipple and Byron Burgess were standing in the cab of the engine on D-37 with their backs toward the fire box wondering why a man's back always got so much colder than the rest of his anatomy. Les Rogers told them it all started when the Ark was settling down after the flood and bumped into the top of a telegraph pole, punching a hole in the bottom of the boat. Noah's little dog stuck his nose into the hole but could not stand it, so that's why dogs have cold noses. Noah's wife stuck her foot into the hole to try to stop it up but she could not stand it and that's why women have cold feet. So Noah sat down on it and that's why men stand with their backs to the fire.

WE'RE ALL BIRDS OF A FEATHER THESE DAYS

Four trees from Myra Phlegor's home
 And almost all day long
 The birds would gather there to sing
 And fill their world with song.

But winter came and chilling winds
 Came sweeping down shore
 To shriek of bitter days to come—
 Their songs were heard no more.

Then one by one the leaves were strewn
 And when the trees were bare
 Still bravely holding 'gainst the gale,
 Eight nests were clinging there.

But icy blasts came down to breathe
 The land with mist and rain:
 Three nests have vanished in the winds
 And only five remain.

Quite soon five birds will winnow home
 To raise their feathered brood
 And sing their songs of joy again
 In leafy solitude.

But three heart-broken ones will mourn
 Who're winging from afar:
 "How in the heck can we rebuild
 With prices what they are?"

SPEAKING OF TURNIP GREENS

Some poets writ of rivers
 And others of the sea,
 And some of trees, and wimmin'
 But none of that for me;
 Some write of birds a-singin'
 And some of childhood's scenes,
 To me there's naught inspirin'
 But Sussex turnip greens!

When fields 'way down in Sussex
 Are mellowed by the sun,
 When turnip greens are sproutin'
 And herring start to run,
 You've got to climb Olympus
 And twang your lyre a bit—
 This stuff may not be published—
 But, by gosh, it is writ!

When turnip greens are sproutin'
 And willows cease to weep,
 With dandelions bloomin',
 When ivy starts to creep,
 You fell you're just a youngster,
 A feller in his teens,
 Down here in bloomin' Sussex
 Where grow the turnip greens.

The turnip greens are sproutin'
 And in the early dawn
 The crows are out a-guessin'
 Where you will plant your cawn;
 The farmers are a-cussin'
 And venting of their spleens
 About the price of broilers—
 Forgettin' the turnip greens!

The cawnbread's in the makin',
 The hog jowl and the beans
 And buttermilk are screechin'
 For Sussex turnip greens.

This here old Ponce de Leon,
 Who sought the Fount of Youth,
 Was nothin' but a faker
 Who always shunned the truth—
 Else he'd have journeyed northward
 To Wales beyond compare
 And settled in the heaven
 We know as Delaware.

They're braggin' in Miami—
 But braggin' sort of sour;
 Their turnip greens down yonder
 Ain't half as good as ours.

Storms Bring Decrease In Traffic

February's storms brought a 3.3 per cent decrease in traffic over Delaware Memorial Bridge, the Delaware River and Bay Authority learned this week.

In his monthly report to the Authority, General Manager Theodore C. Bright stated that 867,361 vehicles crossed the span during the 28 days as compared to 897,326 a year earlier.

Revenue received from bridge tolls for the past month dropped from $549,294.80 in 1965 to $541,053.15, or a 1.5 per cent differential amounting to $8,241.65.

Bright reported that since the span opened on August 16, 1951, through February 28, 1966, 143,998,198 vehicles have used the facility. There were 14,490,780 crossings during the 12 months ending February 28, 1966, for an average of better than a million cars a month.

Revenue for the 12-month period totaled $8,686,919.30, an increase of 6.6 per cent of $539,224.90 over the previous year.

Bright said that the general passenger traffic was most affected by the bad weather, cars in that category showing the greatest decrease during February. Truck volume remained almost constant, it was pointed out.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

Changes in our present living patterns bring an increasing and constant need for time and energy saving foods. According to the latest statistics a little over a third of the married women in the United States now work outside of their homes. This simply means a large number of women are "carrying two major jobs on their shoulders". Of course, this would be physically impossible if women had to prepare all their meals today as they did a generation or two ago.

American food companies and the U. S. Department of Agriculture are developing new food processes and constantly improving the familiar ones to meet these changing times. One of the best things yet to happen to ham is the 1 1/2 pound "miniature" canned ham. Three of these minatures are just being introduced—champagne, Hawaiian, and honey glazed hams are fully cooked, glazed, and flavored. For the small family they are fine for everyday dinners. They'll serve 3 or 4 grown-ups generously, with a minimum of leftovers.

A process of shipping fresh fruits and vegetables with little deterioration has been developed and is now being used. In the process, the oxygen in a trailer truck or railway car is replaced with pure nitrogen gas, which is closely controlled during transit. Fresh produce after harvest continues to respire or breathe in oxygen, which causes deterioration. By removing the oxygen and replacing it with nitrogen, the respiration rate is sharply reduced. Thus, fresh produce can be harvested more nearly ripe and suspended in this state, giving consumers better quality and better flavor. Strawberries, tomatoes, and lettuce have been successfully shipped by this process. A similar principle is involved in controlled atmosphere apples.

A well known tea manufacturer has moved into the canned dinners department. These new canned "main dish" items or "one step" meals require only water and 15 minute heating time—no refrigeration. The items now on the market are beef stroganoff, chicken cacciatore and a number of other interesting combinations.

A premium line of frozen fruits, packed in plastic pouches are now being test marketed. The pouches of fruit can be immersed in warm water and thawed in less than 15 minutes compared to a much longer time for conventional frozen fruits. Mixed fruits (sliced peaches, sweet cherries, red raspberries, bay-berries and grapes) and peach slices mixed with strawberry halves will be offered in 12 oz. packages.

These are but a very few of the new, quick and top quality foods available for we people who live in this world of fast and furious change.

Cordless appliances powered with rechargeable batteries are more and more common on the appliance market. The current list includes kitchen mixers, knives, barbecue rotisseries, tooth brushes, television receivers, drills, lawn and hedge trimmers and typewriters.

Cordless appliances are powered by storage batteries which must be recharged periodically by plugging into an electrical outlet or a charger for a specific length of time. To improve operation and extend the life of the appliances, the battery should be recharged before it is completely discharged.

Compared to the regular electrical appliances, the cordless appliances feature true portability. Some appliances are equipped with two batteries which doubles the length of usable time between charges. They are also electrically safe due to their low voltage of five to 12 volts, as compared with 115-120 volts when powered by ordinary house current.

However, the initial cost of the cordless appliances usually greater because of battery and charger. Most of the batteries require 14 to 16 hours to recharge. The cordless appliances are heavier and bulkier because they carry batteries.

The cordless tools usually have the capacity of their electrical counterparts but they work more slowly. Whether this would be a disadvantage depends on the job. However, the user must plan jobs according to the usable time between recharging of batteries.

NAVY AND YOU

The Navy's TRANSIT program is planned to provide a worldwide, all weather, navigational system which could be used by all nations on earth. This system will also permit man finally to measure the sizes of land masses and the distances between points on the earth. The feasibility test of this new navigational system is based on the capacity of ground receiving stations and a computing center to extract positional information from the signals of an orbiting sphere. This TRANSIT program is being developed for the Astronautics Group of the Bureau of Naval Weapons.

THINGS THAT I DIDN'T KNOW TILL NOW!

That it was the present Reese Theatre management who first presented simultaneous projection on the Eastern Shore, using a Power and Victor projector. This was in 1913 and ended the wait between rails. This marked the end of ONE MOMENT PLEASE slides so familiar in the early days.
That it was the same management who presented the first feature length motion picture in Delaware. Its title was "Enoch Arden" and directed by D. W. Griffith. It was in two reels. Then followed "Roméo and Juliet," and "Quo Vadis."
That the present Reese Theatre management introduced for the first time on the Eastern Shore The Big Screen with the presentation of "Hell's Angels."
That it was the present Reese Theatre management which first brought to lower Delaware and the Eastern Shore, sound pictures the picture being "Wings."

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa

The first leg of our Strip City Farm Tour came off in fine style. You may remember that we were to bus over to Columbia, the new city being built between Baltimore and Washington. Bob Stansfield, the Howard County Agent, hosted our group of 32 Grangers, Farm Bureau members, planning study committee members, and, yes, some of our local planners.

John Bivens, our state planning director, brought the message we saw closer to home. Columbia will build for a density of two families per acre. If we use good planning in Delaware and build at the same density, our 300,000 new people will need only 10,700 acres of land for housing and related community service. Or less than two per cent of the total available.

Better than 60% of Delaware land is now being farmed. We can continue to have a compatible farm economy for many years to come. We just must make sure that we have farm units which use modern, competitive methods.

William Powell, manager of the 2800 acre Doughoregan Manor Farm near Columbia, had mixed feelings about the new growth. This tract was originally 13,000 acres deeded to the Carroll family by an English king years ago. He welcomes the new neighbors as customers for the milk produced by the 200 cow herd. But he must go farther off to buy supplies because the farm neighbors sold out to developers. Kids and families tend to trespass and create some hazards, such as open gates and trash. But he finds he can keep farm help if he provides housing and other amenities.

Sewell's Orchard Market is surrounded by Columbia. The owner feels his new neighbors may fuss about drifting spray residues. He also thinks he may have to fence off his orchards to minimize vandalism. He hopes to talk with the developers about having some of the planned new industry next door. Will he sell off? Not immediately. After all, farming has been his whole life. Anyone can see that he has been successful at it.

Our group questioned the Howard County Planner, Dave Shaw, about aspects of farming as it relates to community planning. Their present general plan makes no provision for agriculture, and some feel it may be too late. From the discussion I gathered that the best that can be salvaged are farms as buffer zones between conflicting uses. Because most of their farmers now are thinking as developers.

We had hoped to talk to some farm renters. A Maryland law permits tax deferral for land kept in tillage. So farmers sell off and rent back crop land. This is one person believes these renters can do well indeed if they can control enough resources to build an economic unit. For use in Kent County, this means a minimum of 500 acres of corn or soybeans per man. Livestock farmers now need a minimum of 40 cows per man (or 60 cows in a 2-man unit which raises its feed) 20,000 layers or 60,000 capacity broiler units.

The condominium farm may answer the farmer's need for more resources and more labor. Condominium is the term I use to describe a single farm unit made up of several farms pooled together to gain the economies of scale. Here's an example. Six dairy farmers with 20 cows each put their cows together in a modern loosing housing system with bulk tank and milking parlor. Two farmers can handle all the cows, while the others handle the crops program.

More on this later as we refine what is still a dream.

We can landscape for wildlife and songbirds, says Fred Mott, SCS Conservationist. It takes the right kinds of trees and shrubs and ornamentals to attract interesting, useful wildlife. Whether you want them at your window or in your community park, plant suitable vegetation for your area. This insures food and shelter. Enjoy watching wildlife in this way winter and summer, and colorful protection for your land. Carefully chosen plants will do the job. Thoughtful information on wildlife, trees and shrubs is available through our Kent Soil and Water Conservation District, or check the United States Soil Conservation Service office in Dover.

Delaware Egg Producers To Meet March 28

The spring meeting of the Delaware Egg Producers will be held at Agricultural Hall at the University of Delaware, March 28, at 7:30 p.m.

Three speakers will be featured at the session. Dr. Floyd Hicks, extension poultryman at the Pennsylvania State University, will discuss "Good Management Practices for Floor and Cage Layer Production."

Dr. Dale Bray, chairman of the department of entomology and applied ecology at the University of Delaware, will describe "Control of the Darkling Beetle in Poultry Houses." Recent research seems to show that the darkling beetle may be a carrier of the leukosis virus.

Ray Lloyd, associate extension poultryman at the University of Delaware, will speak about "Buying Flock Replacements Pullets on Contract."

Interested egg producers from Delaware and nearby areas are invited to attend.

Kent Soil and Water Conservation District office, aiding you to keep the land green. Fred Mott, our Soil Conservation Service technician, has the needed information.

Diversion programs have "built in insurance" feature. Farmers taking part in the 1966 wheat and feed grain, diversion programs have built-in insurance against natural disaster, according to Olin Gooden, chairman, Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee.

The chairman explained that last year, when flood, drought, and other such natural disasters prevented farmers from carrying out their signed-up program intentions, special legislation was enacted to enable them to qualify for the program payments, and thus meet the emergency situation. Because of this experience, similar provisions were included in the omnibus Food and Agriculture Act of 1965, enacted last November.

Therefore, farmers who sign up to take part in the 1966 wheat or feed grain programs may still qualify for feed grain price-support payments and wheat marketing certificates if he files a special application at the ASCS county office and it can be determined that disaster conditions prevented the planting of part or all of the acreage intended for production under the adjustment programs. However, the acreage would not qualify for the disaster benefits if it was subsequently devoted to any income-producing crop for harvest in 1966.

The price-supported payments and certificates available under this program provision would be figured on the project yield of the unplanted acres. Ordinarily, the payments and certificates are computed on the projected yield of the "acreage planted for harvest."

This insurance feature of the program assures the program participant that he will have some income from acreage he intends using for production even though he may be overtaken by natural disaster.

U. of D. Lists Insect, Disease Control Methods

Pesticides are necessary for the control of many injurious crop insects and diseases that cannot be satisfactorily controlled by other cultural practices. In fact, Americans are better fed and clothed with a greater choice of food and fiber than any other country in the world because of the modern pesticides.

The effectiveness of any program employing pesticides is determined mainly by the person who uses it. Most control failures can be traced to the grower who did not apply the right materials, in the right amount, at the right time and in the right way.

Dr. John W. Heuberger, chairman of the department of plant pathology; Donald MacCreary, extension entomologist; and Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist, all at the University of Delaware, have prepared two folders containing Delaware's 1966 spray schedules. Recommendations for insect and disease control on vegetables are included in one folder, and the spray schedules for the control of fruit insects and diseases in orchards and home plantings are in the second.

Instructions for pesticide applications for tomatoes, lima and snap beans, asparagus, cucurbits and cole crops are contained in the vegetable folder. The orchard and home fruit planting folder contains a commercial and a home apple and peach spray schedule.

Copies of these folders may be obtained free of charge from county agents in Newark, Dover and Georgetown or from the Mail Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware 19711.

Early Spring Best Time To Plant New Trees

Plant trees anytime they are dormant, from fall through early April. However, early spring is the preferred time, according to Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware. The soil is usually moist in early spring, and temperatures are cool. This enables the plant to grow new roots and become fairly well established before hot, dry weather starts.

Selecting the location for trees and shrubs requires careful planning, Stevens says. In general, it is best to plant shrubs at least three feet away from a building. Small flowering trees may be planted as close as eight to ten feet from the house, but large shade trees should never be planted closer than 25 or 30 feet, and preferably 25 or 40 feet away. Telephone and electric lines overhead, sidewalks, sewer pipes, curbs and driveways must be considered also, reminds Stevens.

Trees are available from nurseries either with bare roots or balled and burlapped—a ball of soil wrapped in burlap around the roots. Bare-rooted trees dry out quickly if left uncovered; keep the roots moist, and plant as soon as possible. Bare-rooted trees may cost less to buy, but they generally do not grow as fast or as well as balled and burlapped ones.

Soil preparation is very important for the future growth of any tree or shrub, Stevens points out. The hole should be a foot wider and six inches deeper than the ball of earth or the root system. Straight sides and a flat bottom in the hole are recommended because more good soil is placed near the roots and the plants settle more evenly. If roots show growth in two main directions, you may find it best to place a small mound of dirt at the bottom of the hole to support the tree.

Subsoil should be discarded and the topsoil mixed with generous amounts of peat moss, compost, leafmold or similar material. Sand may also be used if the soil is heavy. Do not use any fertilizer in this mixture. Replace six or more inches of this soil in the bottom of the hole and tamp down firmly. Be sure to plant the tree or shrub at the same level as it was growing before—and no deeper, Stevens advises.

Balled and burlapped plants are put in the hole with the burlap on. After the plant is packed with soil, loosen the top of the burlap and leave it at the sides of the plant. Add several gallons of water. Allow the water to settle before filling the rest of the hole with soil. Form a basin around the tree to hold future water. Three or four inches of peat moss or other humus helps hold moisture.

Trees up to two inches in trunk diameter will need one to three stakes for support. Trees with a diameter over two inches will probably need guy wires the first two years, Stevens says. Pieces of garden hose or inner tube at the points of contact will protect the bark from damage by wires.

Pruning while the plant is dormant is important to balance the top with the loss of roots that inevitably occurs when transplanting. Another purpose of pruning is to shape the tree. Keep the natural shape of the tree when you prune. Remove low growing limbs with clean cuts close to the trunk, and shorten other limbs. Do not cut back the leader, or main shoot, since it may determine the shape of the tree. Careful planting practices will pay off in faster growth and a healthy plant, Stevens points out.

4-H Club News

with Marion MacDonald

Kent County's older 4-H youth met this past week to form a non-organized group. A different term for 4-H but our older 4-Hers want to try a new approach to practical leadership training and participation. Those attending the meeting have selected committees which will function throughout the year. 4-Hers not attending will be given this opportunity later. These committees will experience the planning and development of county events. As a group our 15 year old and older 4-Hers, including former 4-Hers will also investigate leadership development. Those attending were Janet Clendaniel, Clifford Hudson, Delores Tinley, Marjorie Hudson, Emily Tuthill, Diane Jarrell, John Hall, Harvey Thomas, Pat French, Nora Jean Davis, Craig Ellison, Ken Clendaniel, Beverly Luicks, Debbie Moore, Sharon Brown, Larry Pepper and Bette Clinton. The group also was pleased to have the guidance of Mr. W. W. Willey, Mrs. Raymond Burge, and Mrs. Mary Drain, all local 4-H leaders.

4-H dog show, sponsored by the Milford Saddle Pals for all 4-H members will be held March 27 at 1 p.m. at the Milford Bowling Lanes. Classes will be available for each of the six groups: working, hound, terrier, toy, non-sporting, and sporting. From these purebred dogs a best of show will be selected. For those members having mixed breeds there will be two divisions: under 15" and over 15" with a Best of Mixed Breeds selected.

Showmanship classes will be divided into a Junior Division—10, 11, and 12 years of age. Intermediate—13, 15 and 15 years of age, and Senior—16, 17 and 18 years of age. A Champion Showmanship Award will be presented. Showmanship classes are open to members with either purebred or mixed breeds. Awards will consist of ribbons, trophies or special awards.

Junior Broiler members have only a few days left to prepare for their chicks as delivery will be on either the 21st or 22nd of March.

Corn Growers Cautioned Against Over - Optimism

Corn growers should not be misled by current publicity about world hunger into believing there will be a profitable market for all the corn they can produce this year, says Paul B. Hastings, Chairman, Delaware Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee. The facts are that in spite of the withdrawal of 25,000,000 acres of corn through the feed grain program in 1965, the U. S. corn crop set a new record of 5.3 billion bushels. The demand for corn has been quite good, especially foreign demands. This has kept corn prices this fall and winter at about last year's prices in spite of the four per cent larger crop.

But the export demand is not coming from the food deficit countries of Asia and Africa. These people want the food grains of wheat and rice. This is why President Johnson in his message to Congress asked that the rice allotment be increased by 10 per cent. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman seeing a need for additional wheat in the Food for Freedom program, has suspended the options for voluntary division of additional wheat plantings under the 1966 program.

Hastings pointed out that despite the growing domestic and export market for corn, the total supply is entirely adequate to meet these demands and still leave a substantial carryover by the time the 1966 crop is harvested.

Farmers are urged to carefully weigh all the advantages and disadvantages of participating in the feed grain program for 1966. Even though the payments might be slightly smaller than last year, Hastings points out that the program does provide a degree of income insurance against a poor crop, makes it possible for farmers to do a better production job on the land that is planted and provides cash for other farm expenses.

Farmers are urged to visit the county ASCS offices to get the full details for their individual farms. But this must be done immediately as the farmers that plan to participate must sign up by April 1.

DPIA Fund Drive Set At $185,000

A goal of $185,000 was announced Tuesday night for the 1966 Delmarva Poultry Industry Association fund drive. Occasion was the drive's annual kickoff dinner at the Seaford Golf and Country Club. Approximately 100 volunteer members of the Fund Drive Committee were present.

Emily H. Womach, Laurel, banker and poultry association director, who is chairman of the fund drive for the second year in a row, said that the goal was only two per cent over the 181,416 subscribed last year but noted that the size of the poultry industry which the association serves had increased about seven per cent in the same period.

"The funds raised each year are used by the Peninsula's poultry association to carry on projects which will increase the efficiency and competitiveness of the entire Delmarva poultry industry and help to promote the sale of its products throughout the northeastern United States," Mrs. Womach said.

Keynote speaker at the dinner Tuesday night was Robert W. Wheatley of Sharptown, Md. Wheatley, 41, is a vice-president of the Maryland National Bank. Prior to embarking on a career in finance and banking in 1950, he was a test pilot first for the U.S. Air Force and later for a commercial aircraft company. At 21, he was the youngest test pilot in the Air Force. He holds commercial pilot's licenses for glider, helicopter and conventional single-engine and multi-engine aircraft.

Milton Edges Felton With Last Ditch Basket, 60-58

Felton's hard-fighting Green undefeated record at Delaawre Devils nearly spoiled Milton's undefeated record at Delaware State College, Dover, on Friday night before losing 60-58 on a basket by Curt Hudson with two seconds to play.

Milton ended Felton's two-year reign as Henlopen Conference champions. The Warriors finished the season as Delaware's only all-winning scholastic five with a 17-0 record.

It is probable that several ulcers had their beginnings as a capacity crowd of 1600 watched the nerve-wracking contest. This writer, as a neutral observer, had to enjoy the festivities more than most of the 800 or so Milton and Felton fans. We could relax once in a while. They couldn't.

Felton's two losses this campaign were both inflicted by the maroon from Milton, led by All-Stater, Bill Cordrey, the state scoring champion, with an average of 30 points a game.

Hitchens, of Milton, opened the scoring with a jumper before Hoffner made a layup for Felton. A Jack Beheler drive-in layup was neutralized by a jump shot by John Sheets. Will Dill's foul shot gave the Green Devils the lead at 5-4. A Hitchens jumper, Beheler layup, Cordrey rebound shot and Curt Hudson layup sent Milton out to a 12-5 bulge.

Will Dill, the best player in action this night, dribbled by several Warriors to lay one up close.

Curt Hudson and Red Dill exchanged layups, Will Dill dropped in a foul try and Cordrey took a sharp pass from C. Hudson and the score was 16-10.

George Brown, one of Milton's three key performers, along with Curt Hudson and Cordrey, carried off a chair and left the premises to have four stitches taken in a nasty gash near his eye.

Felton started to move at once and trailed 18-17 at the end of the period. Red Dill had two buckets and Bob French rebounded for two points to lead the surge.

In the second quarter Cordrey caged four baskets for Milton. Sheets tallied seven points for Felton, including the go-ahead points, that ended the first half at Felton 30-Milton 29.

Twice in the third period, Will Dill cleverly dribbled up the center of the court through the entire Milton defense and made up-close baskets. This proved to be the sum total of Felton's third period efforts.

Two quick baskets by Cordrey gave Milton a 33-30 lead. Hitchens and Beheler led a Milton drive that opened up the biggest bulge of the night at 43-34.

After being outscored 14-4 in the third quarter, Felton poured in 24 points in the finale and came within inches of their third straight Henlopen championship.

Two field goals by Dave Hoffner reduced the gap to 43-38. R. Hudson scored underneath for Milton but Sheets converted two fouls, but sank two more and Felton trailed by only three points.

Cordrey added two free throws and Red Dill sank an easy layup. Beheler and Hoffner traded field goals. R. Hudson netted two free throws as Milton led by five at 51-46. W. Dill dribbled down the middle, sucked in the defense, then passed to French for a two pointer.

The Warriors lead grew to five points again on a pair from the charity stripe by Hitchens. Field goals by French, Hoffner and Bill Dill on a long dribble and layup put Felton in the van at 54-53.

Milton took time out and the handaged starter, George Brown, came back into the game. Hundreds of Milton fans shouted his name. Women and girls shrieked. They gave the wounded Warrior a resounding, standing ovation. Suddenly the handsome little rascal took on the stature of a combination of Superman, Paul Bunyan, Popeye and Bob Cousy. The keyed-up Sussex Countians felt that everything would turn out fine now. "George is back."

Brown's dramatic return may have given a mental boost to his teammates, too. Free throws by Fernch and Will Dill brought the count to 56-53 with 2:41 on the clock. Jack Beheler made a basket, but W. Dill scored in a drive. Beheler scored again and with one minute to go George Brown toed the charity stripe. At this stage in a contest the word calmly is often used. Who could be inwardly serene in this situation? Outwardly, yes. Inwardly, no. Brown made both tries good to get his team even at 58-58. The Warriors froze the ball hoping to make a bucket in the last few seconds. Brown's try with 4 seconds left was not close and Felton took the ball out of bounds.

Will Dill fired the ball the length of the court but brother, Bob, in the clear, couldn't quite reach it. If he had, the Green Devils would have probably been home free. Since no one touched the ball, Milton was awarded it back where the long bomb originated. Brown tossed it in to Curt Hudson in the corner and Hudson's shot was good with two seconds left.

George Brown fainted soon after and was carried from the arena on a stretcher. However, he was examined and released at the Kent General Hospital.

The Green Devils gave a 1000 per cent effort and are to be commended on the fact that they retained their poise and composure until the final whistle.

The entire Felton starting five reached double figures led by Will Dill's 15 points in his final outing in Green-and-White. His last game may have been his best one.

BE WISE — ADVERTISE SHOP AND SWAP IN THE WANT ADS

Did Bad Call Cost Cain State Mat Crown?

Jim Cain, Harrington High School's clever 133 pound class wrestler, came within five seconds of winning the state championship in his division at the University of Delaware's Carpenter Fieldhouse on Saturday night. Cain was all even at 4-4 with St. Andrew's unbeaten Cy Hogue, but the Lion was on top of his rival and in position to win 5-4 with one point for riding time. Just before the buzzer sounded ending the final period, Hogue managed to get on top of the Lion but did not, according to wrestling buffs, actually get control of the local. There are many positions in scholastic wrestling in which the man underneath still retains the advantage. The referee, who had been heartily booed by the 2,000 fans the previous night, ruled that Hogue had reversed Cain just before the buzzer, thus giving Hogue the coveted 133 pound division state championship.

The crowd gave the referee another verbal barrage but in vain. Even upstate aficionados joined the chorus. This writer sided up behind a veteran mat coach and referee from Wilmington and heard him say "Cain was not reversed." He then went on to explain the mechanics and regulations governing the positions that Cain and Hogue were in when the controversial call was made.

When upstate fans, coaches, and even a referee take the side of a downstater we are convinced that Jim Cain indeed lost the state championship on a bad call.

It may be poetic justice of a sort that the decision made by the same official on Friday night which also upset the fans, gave the defending state champion, Woody Thomas, of De La Warr, a 1-0 verdict over Otis Chapman, of St. Andrews. Since Thomas then went on to defend his crown, it will be stated by some that the same arbiter took away a title from one St. Andrew's wrestler then gave a crown to another.

Jim Cain advanced to the finals by pinning Milford's Duane Corder in 4:45 and by taking a 3-2 decision over Longo of De La Warr. Cain is probably the fastest and most skillful Lion grappler ever. We feel sure he could get a wrestling scholarship and become a fine collegiate grappler, but he has no aspirations in that direction at present.

David Greenly (120), like Cain, a senior, made the next best showing by an H.H.S. grappler as he wrestled Martin, of St. Andrew's, to a 4-4 stalemate before losing 1-0 in overtime.

Sophomore Steve Welch, (127), lost a decision to Campbell of De La Warr. Campbell, a terrific wrestler, was eventually eliminated after a titanic struggle with Abbie Forwood of A. I. duPont. Forwood, a two-time state champion barely eked out a 2-1 verdict in overtime, over Campbell.

Senior Bill Harcum (138) lost to Taylor of Tatnall 5-2 in a match between opposites. Harcum is short and stocky, while Taylor looks like a two-eyed needle.

Junior Lion heavyweight, Ed Wheatley, was outpointed 6-2 by McGee of Caesar Rodney, who finished runnerup to Gardner Cadwalader, of St. Andrews. The latter probably learned to defend himself early in life with a hamstring. Cadwalader was state unlimited champion last season also and can give away a hundred pounds to a rival and win. Last year he handled a 300 plus pounder. This time Wilkins, of Milford, a 280 pounder, was the giant of the meet.

Coach Bill Muehlisen had a fine record this season and has the nucleus of a good squad for next year.

Mike Adams (95), Steve Welch (127), and Ed Wheatley (heavyweight), were Henlopen Conference champions. Bob Donovan (180), Bill Webb (165), Dave Hurd (154), Terry Donovan and Bill Garey, both 103 pounders, Chuck Hurd, Alan Greenly, Mike Stayton, Roger Moore, Roger Bullock, Mike Welch, Louis Kemp should make the Lions strong once again, unless too many lads grow into the same weight classes.

A letter was read from Alderman Arthur R. Marsan offering his resignation. He now lives in Detroit. The mayor commented that most of the City's business went through the new magistrate's court and that the aldermanic post was now mostly honorary. One would be needed, he said, however, to serve on the the election board and to notarize city documents.

The mayor also read a letter from the Public Service Commission stating Chesapeake Utilities had applied for a certificate of public convenience and necessity to install gas mains here. The PSC will hold a hearing before April 5. The utilities have been granted a franchise by the City of Harrington.

sible, will be on the assessment lists when they are posted May 1. These lists will be the county's assessment base.

The commissioners said Tuesday they are considering coordinating the county's fiscal and budget years, but any change apparently won't be in the near future.

Any plan to link them would have to include raising enough revenue to cover the half-year gap between the end of the fiscal year in November and the end of the budget year in July. The half-year period, because of tax collection timing, would have no income.

"We're thinking about it, but have decided on no action," Hughes said. "Any changes will have to be made by statute, and that can't be done in this 30-day General Assembly session." Only legislation affecting the entire state may be considered this session.

The commissioners announced that a preliminary inquiry to the Farm and Home Administration is ready on the proposed Kent County sewer project estimated to cost $10.6 million.

It is the first step in a request for federal funds. Federal agencies will circulate it, then inform the Levy Court which agency it is to apply to for funds.

part in the dairy operation by cleaning the utensils properly. "The milk checks have been a big help to me," Josh said, "and they keep my farm business going."

The Dixons, who live on a 200-acre farm five miles from Greenwood, near Scott's Store, have 12 children and 15 grandchildren. Milk from the Dixon dairy herd is transported to Greensboro on Charles Kinnamon's 4100-Route.

vocational or similar education for each month or fraction of a month on active duty. Those taking full time courses will receive $100 per month if they have no dependents; $125 a month with one dependent, and $150 a month with more than one dependent.

Proportional rates will be paid for part time courses.

The income of the veteran will not be considered. Application blanks and full information will be available at VA offices and at colleges and educational centers sometime in April, well in advance of the June 1, 1966, starting date.

Mr. Fields said the maximum period allowed will be 36 months but this may be reduced by the amount of educational assistance previously received under a VA education program. Since the program starts by law on June 1, 1966, there can be no retroactive payments.

There is no deadline date to enter upon the educational program and veterans will have eight years from the date of their last discharge from active service to complete their courses. However, the first cut-off date will not be until March 3, 1974.

Loan program: Veterans with more than 180 days of active duty will be eligible for VA guaranteed home or farm loans or VA direct home loans in areas where such loans are authorized.

They will have until ten years after the date of their last discharge from active service plus one year additional for each three-month period of active service to make such a loan, with a maximum deadline date of twenty years after the date of discharge from the qualifying service. For those veterans who have already been out of service for a period of years, a minimum entitlement date has been set at ten years.

VA guaranteed loans will be made at 5 1/2 per cent interest rate. Mr. Fields said. The new law authorizes the Administrator of Veterans Affairs to establish an interest rate as he determines the requirements of the loan market, but not to exceed the rate in effect for loans insured by FHA.

A one-time non-recurring fee not to exceed one-half of one per cent of the loan amount is payable by the veteran but may be included in the loan and collected by the lender. However, it must be remitted to the VA before a guaranty certificate may be issued.

In the direct loan program, the new law raises the maximum loan possible from $15,000 to $17,500. Veterans with unused and unexpired World War II or Korean Conflict entitlement will have that previous entitlement canceled and will become eligible under the new law alone. However, during the period their canceled entitlement would have been available such veterans not only need not pay the statutory guaranty or direct loan fee under the new law but they may also secure loans for business purposes as well as for home and farm purposes. Mr. Fields said both the educational assistance and loan guaranty provisions of the new law also will apply to those on military duty, after they have served two years.

Medical care: Veterans who have served after January 31, 1955, will be eligible for admission to VA hospitals on the same basis as wartime veterans. The priorities are:

First—veterans with service-connected disabilities have top priority for admission; second—veterans with service-connected disabilities but who are seeking treatment for some other ailment will be admitted as beds are available; third—veterans without service-connected disabilities may be admitted to VA hospitals if (1) hospitalization is deemed necessary, (2) they are financially unable to defray the cost of the hospitalization, and (3) beds are available.

Other benefits: The new law also makes provisions for job counseling and job placement, both of these under the auspices of the Veterans Employment Service of the U.S. Department of Labor, and Civil Service Preference in Federal employment.

Mr. Fields said a United States flag will be provided for use at the funeral of veterans who have served after January 31, 1955, and to be retained by the next of kin.

Veterans who believe they are eligible for any of these benefits except the educational assistance program, can write, telephone or visit the nearest VA Regional Office which is usually in the state in which they reside.

Veterans interested in the educational benefits are reminded that they cannot start any courses until after June 1, 1966, and it will not be until mid-April that the proper forms and instructions will be ready.
