

TOTAL TAX ASSESSMENT STILL TO BE DETERMINED

The exact city tax assessment will not be determined for a while, it was divulged Tuesday night at the first April meeting of the City Council.

The city assessment has been based on that of Kent County and this is still to be determined. The County Board of Assessment will finish receiving appeals April 15 and will still have to determine what action, if any, to take.

It is not presumed the county board will make any changes other than to rectify errors since Clemmshaw & Company, an outside assessing firm, has spent more than a year assessing property for the county and, it, too, held appeal days.

The City Council Tuesday night, in rectifying errors, changed the assessment of William Palmaro to $5500, for one piece of real estate, and $4300 for another, instead of grouping them for a total of $9800. The property of J. Millard Cooper was assessed at $16,000, instead of $23,000, based on a county error.

The City has had some 25 or 30 appellants whose assessments will still have to originate in the county.

Mayor Luther P. Hatfield said Tuesday night the exact reduction in gross city assessment can be determined at the next council meeting.

The city's total tax assessment of real estate was figured at $5,080,376, up about $500,000 from last year. Some three million dollars in real estate here are tax exempt.

Migrant Luncheon Sponsored By Delaware United Church Women

Few people in Delaware are aware of the number of migrants who come to this state for the growing and canning season. According to the national statistics the number last summer was 3500 and in all probability there will be more in 1966. In recent years many Spanish-speaking workers came from Puerto Rico, joining the white and Negro ones who begin the year in Florida and travel north as the growing season progresses.

These migrants bring with them many problems: physical, psychological and financial. To aid and succor these folks without permanent homes, rootless people, the Delaware State Council of Churches has undertaken several projects in the most densely populated migrant areas. Child Care Centers, employment of ministers, nurses, and health officers, being among the most outstanding work.

In recent years the public school system has set up short-term summer sessions to cater to children whose educational opportunities are scanty because they are always on the move. More recently the Delaware Migrant Health Project has been helped by the U. S. Public Health Service. Two denominational Youth groups has supplemented the work of the Migrant Minister Staff and given invaluable service.

One of the outstanding groups to stimulate and support this work is the "Delaware United Church Women," the female section of the National Council of Churches. For years the women have worked to add to the comfort and uplifting of this floating population, concentrating on improving the camps where the workers live and establishing Day Care Centers for little tots whose mothers must work in the fields all day.

Water Meters For Business Houses Again Considered

The City took another step toward the installation of water meters in business establishments Tuesday night after a councilman brought up the matter.

Councilman Burton Satterfield, Fourth Ward, said the city had been considering the action for some time but nothing had been done. When Mayor Luther P. Hatfield said, "The first thing we got to do is come up with a rate," City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann replied a committee had come up with a rate but it was not immediately available. "Let's bring it up at the next meeting," countered the Mayor.

Councilman Albert C. Price, Second Ward, figured the meters would pay for themselves in less than a year.

The City has been studying the problem a couple years and sample meters have been on hand. The City is in need of reve-

Trinity Women Observe Holy Week

Mrs. Ellwood Gruwell presented the Easter program at the April meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Trinity Methodist Church on Tuesday evening. Her narrative was entitled "Jesus Met Them", and it depicted the resurrection of Jesus Christ from death. Mrs. Frank O'Neal, Jr., gave a Lenten meditation, followed with a solo by Mrs. Arnold Gilstad, "Man of Sorrows".

The business session was presided over by Mrs. Ernest Raughley, who announced the Dover District annual meeting will be held at Bethel Methodist Church in Lewes at 10 a.m. on April 26. The theme to be observed is "Claimed by God for Missions".

Mrs. Lewis Clymer will accept any of the following donations for a bazaar to be held at the Neighborhood House in Wilmington on May 28: baked goods, clothing (all sizes), plants, items for fish pond, ceramics, men's accessories. All Methodist churches in Peninsula Conference are asked to support this bazaar, proceeds from which will be used for camperships to Camp Pe-Co-Meth and to purchase a new movie screen.

Mrs. Leila Hopkins reported on the activities of the Sunshine Committee for the past month, and an account of the recent Day Apart service in Middletown was given by Mrs. William Garrett. Mrs. Garrett also extended an invitation to an open house at the parsonage following worship on Sunday, May 1.

As vice president, Mrs. Richard Shultie told of the World Federation of Methodist Women Assembly to be held in London during August of 1966.

Mrs. Wilbur Jacobs asked all members to consider subscribing to The Methodist Woman and World Outlook, which are presently being offered at the special price of $3.30.

At the close of the business meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Fred Bailey and members of the Lydia Circle.

Preschool Exams Set For April 13-14

Preschool examinations will be given in Harrington Special School District to children entering first grade this September.

Examinations will be given at West Harrington Elementary School Wednesday and Thursday, April 13 and 14 from 9 to 3.

Names beginning A to M will be done Wednesday and N to Z Thursday.

Parents are requested to bring birth certificates.

Fever Blisters

Fever blisters are usually located around the mouth. They may appear on the nose or elsewhere on the body. In rare instances they attack the inside of the mouth. No matter where they are located, the condition is called herpes. This condition comes at all ages but is most common in youth.

Fever blisters start with discomfort and pain. This continues for several hours, and gradually the sore spot gets sore and swollen. A few small blisters will form on the surface and they will be filled with a clear fluid. Soon these blisters may

DELAWARE KKK SETS RALLY FOR SATURDAY

A reorganized Delaware Ku Klux Klan unit, controlled from the Klan's national office in Alabama, will hold a public rally in Dagsboro Saturday.

Robert M. Shelton Jr., imperial wizard of the United Klans of America, Monday confirmed that the rally will be held and that Bennie P. Sartin, 50, of near Elkton, Md., is serving temporarily as great titan in Delaware.

The title, Shelton said, means Sartin is "over all three counties" in Delaware. But the imperial wizard said from Tuscaloosa, Ala., the Delaware Klan "will be operated out of this office."

Sartin said Monday the setup is temporary and that he has hopes of being elected grand dragon when local Klansmen select new officers.

The meeting tomorrow will constitute the first public Klan activity in the state since before former Grand Dragon Ralph E. Pryor Jr. quit in January and denounced the Klan as a terrorist organization closely linked to the American Nazi party.

Sartin was identified as grand klaliff, or second in command of the Delaware Klan, by Pryor as long ago as last December, but until Monday Sartin avoided reporters seeking confirmation.

Sartin Monday discounted reports that a large number of former Klan members defected with Pryor. He claimed that "within three months we'll have a full setup again."

He said that the rally tomorrow would be at 7 p.m. in a farm field at the intersection of U.S. 113 and "that road that turns off into Dagsboro," apparently a reference to Delaware 26.

But he refused to name the owner of the plot to be used.

Sartin said he and several Klan leaders from southern states will speak at the rally. Shelton will not appear at the rally, but will attend another one planned for mid-summer in New Castle County, Sartin said. That one will be a combined rally for Delaware and six other states, he said. Shelton confirmed that he will be in New Castle County for a summer rally, but said details have not been settled. The imperial wizard is under indictment on a charge of contempt of Congress, for refusing

Mrs. George Cahall

Mrs. Mollie Jane Cahall, 93, died Wed., March 30, at Fairholme Nursing Home, Seaford, after a long illness.

She was the widow of George Cahall. A niece and a nephew survive.

Services were held at the Watson Funeral Home at Seaford, with burial in St. Johnstown Cemetery at Greenwood.

Harrington Also Has Its Unidentified Flying Objects

Three unidentified, flying objects were seen in Harrington Friday evening by a brother and sister, thus putting Harrington in the same bracket with Dexter Township, Mich., where such objects were first seen recently.

Ayeta Fowler and her brother, Jan, sighted the objects at 8:45 p. m., as they were walking north along the railroad right-of-way. They were described as flying north, at an altitude of several miles; oval shaped. The objects, the children explained, were circled in red, with a green center. They sounded like jets and traveled slowly, they said. They were not helicopters, they concluded, after saying their appearance was similar to those in pictures in Life magazine.

DPIA Honors Gordy, 4-H, FFA Members

J. Frank Gordy, director of the University of Delaware's Georgetown Substation, was recognized for 20 years of outstanding service to the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association at the organization's annual banquet March 31. Gordy served a term as DPIA president and 19 years as secretary, Charles Marker, Dover, presented a desk set to Gordy "as a symbol of our appreciation for your many services to DPIA over the years."

The association also honored Kenneth Speicher of Bridgeville as 4-H Boy of the Year and Allen

HUGHES SEEKS 2ND LEVY COURT TERM

Kent County Levy Court Commissioner L. Winfred Hughes of Hartly, Tuesday became the first announced candidate for the new five-member Levy Court.

Other Democrats were jockeying for a position on the county ticket, with a fight shaping up in the 25th Representative District, now represented by Glenn W. Busker of Smyrna. Hughes also is reported to be facing possible opposition.

Levy Court President James B. Messick, who is expected by many Democrats to seek re-election, said Tuesday, "I haven't made up my mind yet. It's too early."

Hughes said, "Of course, a lot depends on what happens between now and election, but I thought I would run."

At least two Smyrna men, Arthur Dickerson and Charles W. King, are reported to be interested in Hughes' job.

The chief contest so far seems to be shaping up for Busker's seat. Some sources say that Busker, who survived a primary fight in 1964, will be rotated out of his seat this year.

The names mentioned most prominently are John Pearson of Hartly and a former representative Gooden Darling of Maryland, both in the old 4th Representative District. Busker lives in the old 1st district.

Sen. Allen J. Cook, D-Kenton, denied that Busker will be rotated out of his seat. Cook, chairman of the district committee, said that candidates will be allotted among the old representative districts on the basis of which district comes up with the strongest candidate for each office.

Two men who had been mentioned prominently as Levy Court candidates, Tuesday removed themselves from consideration.

Samuel J. Fox II of Leipsic said, "I've never thought about it. I don't think I'd be interested."

And Rep. H. Dawson Shulties of Willow Grove said, "If I run for anything, I will run for the House again."

Most party leaders and prospective candidates, however, agreed with Messick that it is still too early for firm commitments to be made.

Assembly Recall Set For April 18

The 123d General Assembly will reconvene Monday, April 18, for what legislative leaders are billing as its final session.

Lt. Gov. Sherman W. Tribbitt, president of the Senate, and House Speaker Harold T. Bockman announced the recall date Tuesday after a round of meetings with Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. and Sen. Walter J. Hoey, chairman of the General Assembly's Finance Committee.

Legislative leaders have been waiting for the finance committee to complete its work on the fiscal 1967 general fund budget before issuing the call. Tribbitt said Tuesday that the finance committee expects to complete its deliberations early next week and get the budget printed soon thereafter.

Tribbitt is aiming toward a windup of the legislative session in May. After that the legislature would return only in case of emergency or unforeseen developments.

New Kent Voters To Register Wednesday

New voters had their first chance to register this year during a special registration Wednesday in the Kent County Courthouse.

The Kent County Department of Elections had special registrars on hand from 8:30 to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday to accept new registrations, transfers and party affiliation changes.

Five additional days of supplementary registration are scheduled at the courthouse during the next three months.

Harrington School Alumni Association To Hold Meeting

The Harrington School Alumni Association will hold a general meeting and election of officers Tuesday, April 12 at 7:30 at the school cafeteria.

Mrs. Coretta J. Mason

Evangelistic Services Start Sunday At Asbury

A week of evangelistic services will be held in Asbury Methodist Church starting at 7:30 p.m. on Easter and continuing every evening except Saturday through April 17. Mrs. Coretta Johnson Mason of Lynchburg, Va. will conduct the services assisted by the minister, the Rev. John Edward Jones and the members of Asbury Church.

Mrs. Mason is well known in this area. She conducted services in Asbury Church in March, 1961 and again in September, 1962. She has served in many other churches in Peninsula Conference and it is hoped that friends in other towns will attend the services, too.

She began her evangelistic work as a result of the Billy Sunday campaign in Lynchburg. At the age of 19 she went to Broad Street Methodist Church in Portsmouth, Va., for one day but so impressed the people she was earnestly requested to stay longer and on the second Sunday evening, 1200 people were in the church by 7 p.m. and the doors had to be closed, turning away 500 more people. There were many conversions during the two weeks she was there. Another year she was invited to return and had similar success. It is hoped that her stay in Harrington will be a blessing to her and to the community.

Plans for the week are as follows: The Chapel will be open each evening at 7 p.m. for periods of quiet prayer. A program of guest singers has been arranged for each evening. The Cathedral, Chancel and Crusader choirs will assist. Also members of the Woman's Society

DMB Construction Contracts Out

Bids on two major construction contracts for the Delaware Memorial Bridge twin will be opened at the Administration Building on April 12, at 10:30 a. m., according to William J. Miller, Jr., director for the Delaware River and Bay Authority.

Contract No. 122 calls for the construction of the concrete deck from the west abutment to the west anchorage, and contract No. 123 covers the construction of the concrete deck from the east anchorage to the east abutment.

Bids will also be opened on three painting jobs for the original span. Contract No. 63 covers the repainting of the steelwork on the west approach truss and girder spans and the main structure suspended spans. Contract No. 63 has been separated into two parts for contractors who do not wish to bid the whole job.

Contract documents are now available at the Administration Building, Delaware Memorial Bridge, New Castle, Del.

Good Friday Service Today

The annual Good Friday Service will be held at the Metropolitan Methodist Church on West Street. The service will be conducted by the Harrington Ministerium with each pastor participating. The service begins promptly at 12 noon and will end at 3 p. m.

Special music will be presented by the girls quartet from the Nazarene Church. The quartette is composed of Pauline Crist, Nancy Darling, Joanna Darling, and Rev. Mrs. Lorraine Ottinger. They will be singing during the 12:30 meditation.

Mrs. Jerri Jarrell of the Asbury Methodist Church will bring a message in song during the 1:45 meditation.

CITY SEEKS IMPROVEMENT OF CERTAIN REAL ESTATE

Owners of run-down real estate will be prodded to make improvements, it was decided Tuesday night at a meeting of the City Council.

The Council decided the owners could be penalized under a nuisance ordinance if its warnings were not heeded. The properties cited for special attention were as follows: A vacant house on West Street, at Wolcott Street, belonging to Franklin Lewis, a Florida resident; the center portion of a building, in the 100 block of Commerce Street, which extends from Commerce Street to Fleming Street, belonging to Mrs. Brown Smith; a shed on Mill Street belonging to Henry Stubbs; a small brick building in the second block of Commerce Street, Baynard Smith, proprietor. A complainant told the Council the windows were dirty and covered with obscene writing.

Mrs. Dill Presents Easter Program

"Symbols of Easter" topic for the April meeting of the Asbury Woman's Society of Christian Service, was beautifully presented by Mrs. Harry John Dill, Jr. on Tuesday evening. She opened the program by reading a poem "What is Easter". In speaking of the symbolism found in Easter, she mentioned the many works of art which are based on events from the life and death of Jesus.

An ensemble from the Harrington High School Chorus sang "Led By My Saviour". Those taking part were Jeri Jarrell, Marianne Clarke, Cindy Clarke, Nancy Taylor, Marshall Hatfield, Steve Motter and David Greenly. They also sang "Lo, the Earth Has Risen Again." Miss Jarrell and Miss Marianne Clarke sang "Were You There?", accompanied by Miss Candace Peck.

Miss Gloria Lynn Dill played a piano solo, "Easter Lily". Mrs. Dill explained some of the more familiar symbols of Easter including the Palm Leaf, Cup and the Cross, Crown of Thorns, the Bursting Pomegranate, the Peacock, and the Lily. Each symbol had been sketched especially for the program by Mrs. Dickson Willis, Barbara Edgar, and Howard Krouse of the Harrington High School Art Department. Mrs. Dill related a verse of scripture to the particular symbol.

Mrs. William W. Sharp gave a closing prayer, after which Mrs. Dill read a final poem entitled "Easter Wish".

The business meeting presided over by Mrs. Floyd Nasser, followed. Two important dates were mentioned. The first, Tues, April 26, is the date of the Dover District annual meeting to be held in Bethel Methodist Church, Lewes. "Claimed By God for Missions" will be the theme. Charter members of the societies in the district will also be honored during the day. Reservations must be made with the Circle leaders before April 15. All members of the local society will be called and urged to attend. The second date is Sat., May 28, when the Neighborhood House Bazaar will be held in Wilmington. All churches in the conference have been asked to participate by donating items for the booths. Things for the Children's Fish Pond will be gladly accepted, as will potted plants, used items such as clothing, furniture, baby needs, men's items, such as, ties, toiletries. Anything that can be donated may be brought to the May 3rd meeting or given to Mrs. Fulton Downing.

Next Monday evening, at the evangelistic services the members of Women's Society have been invited to supply the special music. Mrs. Audrey Schreck will be most happy to have all members participate. Anyone having a special song request is asked to call her.

A gift of money was sent to Miss Susan Morrison, a new missionary from Peninsula Conference. The May meeting will be the annual Plodge Service, as well as the time of the presenting of the attendance awards. Following the adjournment of the meeting, Mrs. T. H. Storus and the Lydia Circle served refreshments.

Construction Begins on Drive-in Facilities For First National Construction has begun on drive-in facilities for the First National Bank of Harrington, with the digging of the foundation under way.

The facilities will be on the south side of the bank in a space formerly occupied by a restaurant. The restaurant building was originally a dwelling house and was the home of the late William W. Sharp, a bank director, who lived there as a boy. Patrons using the drive-in will enter from Clark Street and exit on Commerce Street. The facilities, expected to cost about $56,000, will be completed in about four months, according to a bank official.

The Council decided the owners could be penalized under a nuisance ordinance if its warnings were not heeded.

The properties cited for special attention were as follows: A vacant house on West Street, at Wolcott Street, belonging to Franklin Lewis, a Florida resident; the center portion of a building, in the 100 block of Commerce Street, which extends from Commerce Street to Fleming Street, belonging to Mrs. Brown Smith; a shed on Mill Street belonging to Henry Stubbs; a small brick building in the second block of Commerce Street, Baynard Smith, proprietor. A complainant told the Council the windows were dirty and covered with obscene writing.

A site at Franklin and Milby Streets, belonging to Harrington Lumber and Supply. A dwelling house had been razed but the site had not been cleared.

A frame store-building on West Center Street, owned by Earl Quillen who has built anew on Dorman Street.

An abandoned ice plant on Weiner Avenue, rear, belonging to Atlantic Ice Company.

It was revealed Tuesday night cleaning would be completed of the Trane land and it would be leased to Nyle Callaway for tilling. The Trane Company, maker of air-conditioning and heat-transfer equipment, bought the land some eight years ago.

In other business Tuesday night, the Council acted as follows: Agreed to negotiate with Miss Elva Reese on purchase of right-of-way to enable extension of Franklin Street to Reese Avenue. The latter street would also be extended so the thoroughfare could meet at right angles.

Felton Avon Club Notes

The Avon Club of Felton held its State Guest Day luncheon at the Dinner Bell Inn, Dover, March 30. Mrs. J. Harold Schabinger, president, introduced the state guests, Mrs. Jonathan Willis, president of the State Federation spoke briefly and reminded the club members of the state convention to be held at the Tally-Ho Lodge near Wilmington, in May.

This is the General Federation Diamond Jubilee and each club has been asked to select two jewels. The first jewel, a living member with the longest continuous membership was Mrs. A. C. Dill. The second jewel, a living member with the longest and most outstanding record of leadership in the Federated County and State Federation was Mrs. Nelson Hammond.

Mrs. Howard Henry was in charge of the program for the afternoon. Mrs. Earl Field sang three spring songs accompanied at the piano by Fred Brown. Brenda and Linda Harper played several accordion selections.

Mrs. William D. Hammond and committee were in charge of the luncheon arrangements and Mrs. Lynn Torbert, art chairman was in charge of the flowers and favors. The flowers from the speakers' table were sent to Miss Dorothy Heyd, a club member, who is a patient in the Milford Memorial Hospital.

The next meeting will be April 13, a program on religion arranged by Mrs. Marion McGinnis and committee, Mrs. Bess Hargadine, Mrs. Erwin Richter, Mrs. Ida Clifford Johnson, Mrs. Ida Hughes and Mrs. Helen Harrington. The club members will leave the fire hall at 1:30 p.m. April 13

Discover Wonderful Del.
The annual Brandywine Canoe Slalom is a wonder of wonderful Delaware that attracts white-water canoeing enthusiasts from as far as the Rocky Mountains.

This year's event will be on Saturday and Sunday, April 16 and 17. About 100 contestants representing canoe and kayak groups from all over the East and from Wyoming and Colorado are already expected.

Since the Brandywine Slalom is a qualifier for the National Canoe Slalom held later in the spring (and it, in turn, determines in alternate years), most of the best white-water canoeists in the East will be on hand.

The Brandywine is the perfect place to see them, since the rapids chosen for the event are right in the middle of Wilmington, and the whole course can be seen from the walk leading up the East side of the river from Market Street. Most such races are held in mountainous areas hard to reach by car, and they are often impossible to follow on foot.

A canoe slalom is planned to compress into a short distance and a few minutes the myriad hazards of white-water river conditions. This is done by hanging "gates"—cored poles between which the canoeist must pass—at strategic points along a particularly rough and rapid section of a river. Colors indicate how the canoeist must pass—at strategic points along a particularly rough and rapid section of a river. Colors indicate how the canoeist must pass through the gates, whether downstream, backwards or upstream. Scoring is by elapsed time in seconds (usually 4 or 5 minutes on the Brandywine course), plus time penalties for errors in negotiating the gates. Errors can range from touching one of the poles—that's a minor one—to missing the gate altogether, or going through it in the wrong direction, or side-

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. CLIFF MILLER
 BACK HOME

I've taken trips both far and near
 On some, just pleasure bent;
 On some, to cheer the lonely hours,
 Of one whose days are almost spent.

The scenic view I've oft' enjoyed,
 The wide expanse of space,
 New friends I've made on every side
 When each new trip I face.

But there's no trip that thrilled me more,
 No matter where I roam;
 'Tis this that I would sing about—
 The one that brings me home.

After spending the entire month of March and almost that much of my earnings for fifty years service, in Florida, I came away with a pretty good opinion on who might win the pennant in the Grapefruit League. I reported my findings to Woody Welch, the most ardent Yankee fan in town. (Wrong—George Price—Assoc. Ed.) Told him they are not going anywhere this year as I saw them lose five straight games. Woody, who is pretty much of a diplomat and wouldn't argue the point with me (I'm one of his customers) said, "wait 'til they start 'playin' for keeps". Maybe he's right; I see they have won six straight since I left!

I have been asked about costs of living down there and if I intend to go back next year. I found the cost of food and lodging in the southern part of Florida to be 50 per cent less than at corresponding points enroute. Our stopping place in Miami was at the La Sena Motel at 6891 SW 8th St. ("On the Trail"), owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Matson, a lovely couple who go out of their way to make you feel at home. Came nearest to our own DOWN HOME atmosphere, and, if nothing prevents, we hope to be there again next March.

While down there, I received a couple of letters from dear ones back home that called to memory this poem sent me by poetic-minded neighbor, Marty Foster, while we lived in Harrisburg, Pa., in answer to one he had received from me.

A LETTER FROM A FRIEND BACK HOME

When you're far away from home,
 Though you didn't want to roam,
 From the friends you knew you never could forget,
 It sure makes your heart beat quicker,
 And through tears your lashes flicker,
 When a letter comes, you thought you'd never get.
 Though the day be dark and dreary,
 And your thoughts be aught but cheery,
 And you didn't think you had a friend that cared,
 But the letter brought you gladness,
 Chased away your gloom and sadness,
 And the happiness of friendship now you shared.
 You know your real friends don't forget,
 And your absence they regret,
 And your name comes up amongst them often times.
 They are always there to praise you,
 Bless their hearts, 'twas them that made you,
 That's why the Good Lord loves them all the time.

CLIPPINGS FROM CLARK'S KNOLL
 BRAHMS, BACH, BEETHOVEN and BROBST

About 1957 the Harrington Rotary Club had a "This Is Your Life," program starting (by complete surprise) Melvin Brobst. Everyone who attended agreed the object of the surprise was well-chosen and more than deserving of the honor.

Last Friday, expressed in and by our young people, Mr. Brobst's life again touched all who attended the Senior Band Concert.

It's a pity everyone in town couldn't have been there, for there wasn't a selection presented that didn't move us all to knee-slappin', toe-tappin', hand-clappin' enjoyment. And what wasn't rousing was touching, particularly when considering that 16 of these fine youngsters will no longer be with us after June!

I would be remiss if I didn't rave a little about the previous week's concert which featured the Beginners, the Grade School and the Junior Bands. They were nifty—and their conductor takes as much pride in their accomplishments as he does in the older group. This younger group is more exciting to hear because of the many unexpected talents you discover. And they really work diligently at doing a good job. Let's enjoy them and support them because all too soon they'll be the seniors we will hate to say goodbye to.

But you know, when one begins thinking of each of this year's Seniors, it's mighty hard to leave off discussing them one by one because they're a great group. I wish everyone could know them better, and I'm sure all the adults who do know certain ones of them will consider it a privilege to be liked back.

Bill Knox, first clarinetist, was ill and unable to be present. Those who heard last year's concert when Bill was a Junior, will remember the outstandingly beautiful rendition of Mozart that Bill performed. Nancy Taylor filled in for Bill Friday night, playing all the small things that fill out a composition. (I can't resist the personal observation at this point, that playing a clarinet is like eating a peach with someone else's false teeth.)

My buddy, Cheryl Satterfield, on the cymbals, looked right in her element up there where the action is. I can't remember offhand which numbers featured the muted trumpets, but, oh! they were elegant. Remember last year's concert? Rubber-legs Greenhaugh and Hot-Lips Wells really broke me up in the German Band number. John and Donald, whom I've gotten to know so well thru their activities in MYF, were great as usual this year and are going to be assets to North Carolina when they attend Wake Forest in the fall. (If I were discussing basketball in this column, it would probably be entitled, "My Pal, John.")

I know everyone must have felt a little twinge of apprehension when the five handsome boys sang, "The Green Beret": Steve Motter, Chuck McNally, David Greenley, Marshall Hatfield, and Donnie Sam Knox.

Now those little "Space Cadets", Kathy Nelson, Ruthann Moore, and Norris Guy Winebrenner, handled themselves very nicely. It's reassuring to know we have so many musically inclined youngsters in the lower grades—but as Mr. B pointed out, when Steve Motter and Tom Simpler graduate, where will we be without trombones? The Galaxies were really neat, weren't they? Ringo Redden and Chuck McSaxly had their own following, of course, but Nicky Morris and Jimmy Simpler on guitars also have the charm and ability that draws a crowd (girls, naturally). But the way kids are today, you never know who is the chaser and who is the chased. Its always open season, too. I appreciate Mr. Brobst's including them in the program. I understand the Professor was doing a little Allentown Drag back stage.

You know something that was very appealing? Jeri Jarrell's bearing as she read of "The Awakening of Galatea". The color of her gown, its lovely style and drape, the way her hair flipped up in back—she just looked like the statue she was reading about, when Janie, her sister, is going to have to do some fast moving to fill out the soprano sections of Mr. B's Glee Club and Asbury's Chancel Choir.

Now that Dixieland Band — man! Just think of all the good times we could have with them. Wonder if they could play at the Fair? For those who were not in attendance (and don't let it happen agin!) you really missed something by not hearing Donald Wells, trumpeter; Tommy Simpler, trombone; Chuck McNally, tenor sax; Doug Berry, tuba; and Jack Redden, drums. A hand wasn't enough. Just clapping didn't say enough. "When the Saints Come Marching In"—great, really great!

I forgot to tell you that at the beginning of the program Mr. B had orders (from the kids, of course) to sit down front. He didn't know what to expect, but when the audience hushed, and the curtains parted—the stage was empty! Then we discovered this was an inside joke and Mr. B's band members all hollered "April Fool!"

But now the end of the program had come. It had been a really lovely evening, and the last number, "May You Always," was dedicated to the Seniors, and sung by much-too-soon-a-Senior:

May you always walk in sunshine, slumber warm when night winds blow;

May you always live with laughter, for a smile becomes you so.
 May good fortune find your doorway, may the bluebirds sing your song;

May no trouble travel your way, may no worry stay too long.
 May your heartaches be forgotten, may no tears be spilled;
 May old acquaintance be remembered, and your cup of kindness filled.
 And may you always be a dreamer, may your wildest dreams come true;

May you find someone to love, as much as we love you.

Eczema

The first symptom of eczema is redness, as in any other inflammation. The affected part of the body is red at all times, but under excitement, irritation from rubbing or scratching, exposure to heat, or after violent exercise the redness is increased.

Little blisters form on the skin and, as these break, there is moisture on the affected surface. Later, scales and crusts take the place of the blisters. With it all, the affected part itches, especially when the redness is increased from any cause. At times the itching is almost intolerable.

It is possible to tell the difference between simple inflammation, and true eczema. The matting of the skin, called dermatitis, and eczema former is due to some outside cause. Eczema may be confined to the face or to some part of the face. Other forms of eczema attack the arms, legs, or the body itself. Sometimes it comes on the hands between the fingers, back of the arms, or in the bends of the legs or arms.

The establishment of the diagnosis by a physician is the first step in the treatment of eczema. Often the patient comes to the doctor with an aczematous eruption that has been present for a long period of time. It may have been treated with many different local medications, which may have altered its appearance. The physician must determine how much of the eruption represents the original situation, how much has been caused by locally applied creams or lotions which may have caused irritation of the skin, and what is merely the result of the patient's scratching or digging with his fingernails. Once a proper diagnosis has been made, the physician can describe a preparation which will reduce the itchiness so that injury to the skin from scratching will be minimized. Other preparations may be prescribed to combat inflammation and infection.

If a physician is not available, wet compresses of lukewarm water may be applied to the affected area two or three times a day are quite soothing. A bland ointment can also be applied until a physician can be consulted.

4-H Club Notes

With Marion McDonald
Kent County 4-H Agent

Expressing the feelings of many 4-H Leaders, Mrs. Jacie Hall, Paradise 5-H Club, wishes to thank her co-leaders and club parents publicly. Jacie feels the club is accomplishing much through the help of so many.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holliday have offered their home for meetings anytime, as have the other leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hudson and Mr. and Mrs. William Ellison. Newest project leader is Mrs. Oscar McGinness. In Jacie's words, "I just feel I would like to how my appreciation to all that have been so willing everytime I needed assistance. Also to my Junior Leaders and the members which I think the world of." Special thanks to those who have given their time in the Heart, Red Cross and Easter Seal campaigns. And may I add my thanks to Mrs. Hall and all our 4-H leaders who donate their time and do the many extras that build our 4-H Club program.

St. Joseph's 4-H Club presented fifteen demonstrations at their March meeting. Their leader, Brother George, was as proud as I at this accomplishment. Demonstrating were: Anthony Banks, Paul Davis, Vernon Foster, Reginald Harris, William Hopkins, William King, Andrew Mitchell, Earl Mitchell, Jerome Napur, Ronald Pugh, Frederick Reyes, James Small, Jr., Alexander White, Kevin Yearwood, and Stanley Young Jr.

The Westville 4-H Club will be serving at the Black and White Show on April 9th. A cooperative venture that provides food for the participants and a money making activity for a 4-H club.

Remember only 4-H leaders who have returned their reservations can attend the State Leaders' Dinner on April 14th and your card must be in M-ETA. Your card must be returned by April 7th.

Mrs. L. H. Thomas
The last Quarterly Conference of the year is being held in the Burrsville Methodist Church (Union), Thursday evening of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Butler and daughters, Shirley Faye and Madeline, of Tuckahoe Neck, were recent guests of Mrs. Georgia Butler, the former's mother.

One day last week, Mrs. A. S. Loftis, entertained her nephew and friend, of New Jersey.

Mrs. Harold Scott, rural Denton, visited her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Stafford and family, last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Seward have had a telephone installed in their farm home.

Leander H. Thomas is a patient in the Easton Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Ida Fluharty entertained several friends at dinner, Sunday.

Elmer Butler called on Messrs. Clinton and Earl Satterfield, rural Burrsville, last Monday.

Captain Bernard H. Thomas, of Alexandria, Va., visited his grandfather, L. H. Thomas, in the Easton Hospital Monday evening.

The Rev. Conrad Cohen, assistant pastor of the Easton Methodist Church, called on L. H. Thomas, in the Hospital, Monday morning and called on Mrs. Thomas, at the home of her son, L. Hopkins Thomas, of Easton.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service met with Mrs. Elmer Butler Wednesday evening of last week. Sixteen members were present. The president, Mrs. L. H. Thomas, called the meeting to order. After opening services were finished, the ladies planned for their spring oyster and turkey supper, which they are serving in the community house Saturday evening, April 16.

Kaffeeklatch

with Eleanor K. Voshell
If your child is overweight, don't wait for the situation to solve itself. Research shows this problem is rarely outgrown. Often it becomes more difficult with age. Correcting the problem early with a balanced diet and good food habits is the best idea.

Food habits, tastes, and preferences are learned early, and authorities agree it is a sound policy to help young children acquire the habit of eating balanced meals, not too calorie-loaded. Establishing good food habits is simpler than breaking bad ones.

Calorie counters can soon enjoy a new low-fat cheese. A new process has been developed for making cheese from fat free milk plus a meager 5 percent butterfat. Careful control of processing, aging, and certain additives make this new cheese tender, tasty and very like cheddar. But, cheddar has about 30 percent fat. This new cheese will make it easier for calorie counters to get balanced nutrition.

By 1970 there will be 75 million Americans who are 65 or older, according to forecasts. Generally speaking our Senior citizens need fewer calories, but also need a balanced diet. A good diet helps people to stay physically fit. A free booklet entitled, "Food Guide For Older Folks" is available on request. Call or write to P. O. Box 340, Dover, Delaware, 19901 — telephone 736-1448 for your copy. The booklet features three food plans worked out by nutritionists as guides for weekly shopping and meal plans. One plan is low cost. Another is moderate in cost. The third is a liberal plan. All will provide for nutritional needs.

Bill Frank, columnist for the Wilmington Morning News, will be guest speaker at State Day for Home Economics Extension Clubs, May 4th, at the Capital Grange Hall in Dover. Mr. Frank will speak about his recent trip to Viet Nam, and illustrate his talk with slides.

Another guest speaker will be Robert Wheatley, banker, of the Maryland National Bank in Hurlock, Md. His topic will be "Leadership."

The theme for the program will be "Facing Today's Challenges." Luncheon reservations may be made with Mrs. Harvey P. Pifer, R. D. No. 1, Dover. Price $1.25. The program will be held from 10:00 A. M. to 2:45 in the afternoon, and is open to the public.

Corn And Soybeans Profitable Crops

Corn and soybeans will continue to be particularly profitable crops to Delmarva farmers during the next 9 to 10 years, prophesies Jim Baxter, Georgetown, farmer and chairman of the Delmarva Poultry Industry Association's grain grower committee. He also feels Delmarva will need to step up average yearly production of these crops sharply to meet local demand.

The reasons are two-fold, he says.

For one, there is a steadily rising world demand for many of our food and feed grains, he reports.

Of more immediate effect to Delmarva corn and soybean growers, however, says Baxter, is the continued growth of the Peninsula's huge poultry industry.

Last year, the tri-state Delmarva Peninsula produced approximately 260 million broiler chickens, he noted. To feed them, it needed almost 26-million bushels of the Peninsula's bumper crop of corn of 35-million bushels. In addition, it needed all of the Peninsula's 11-million bushels of soybeans.

The poultry industry paid Delmarva corn growers a premium of at least 12-cents a bushel over and above the U.S. average price for the 28-million bushels it bought, Baxter noted. For its soybeans, it paid Delmarva farmers 5-cents a bushel more than they could have gotten if they had been forced to look elsewhere for markets.

Altogether, these poultry industry purchases brought Delmarva corn and soybean growers a bonus of $3,910,000 last year over what they would have received otherwise. The bonus amounted to about $700 per farm on the average for corn, $131 per farm for soybeans, said Baxter.

He foresees the continuance of premium prices to Delmarva farmers even if the poultry industry gets more favorable railroad rates on feed ingredients from the Midwest than it has now.

"Our poultry industry is increasing and the bankers say it's financially sound," he explains. Economists and marketing men are predicting a Delmarva broiler crop of 336-million chickens a year by 1975, or 76-million more than were grown last year.

"This will mean the poultry industry will need to buy 25 to 30 per cent more corn than they buy from us in an average year from now, and some 3 1/2-million bushels more soybeans. Even if the per-bushel bonus the Delmarva poultry industry now pays is reduced somewhat, it will be a sound investment for us to step up corn and soybean production."

Foreign Body In The Eye

There are people who will use any sort of an implement to remove foreign bodies from the eye. These might be toothpicks, nails, corners of unclean handkerchiefs, and pointed sticks. The application of an implement of any sort may carry germs to invite serious inflammation, if not the actual loss of the eye.

Foreign particles can be removed safely from the eye, if precautions are observed. A foreign body cannot always be located, despite irritation and watering of the eye. The irritation continues for a time even though the foreign body may be carried away in the tears. Dangers from foreign bodies on the eye surface are infection and the development of ulcers on the surface. The greatest danger comes from the object's lodging on the surface of the pupil. An affected eye should not be rubbed, as the foreign body may penetrate the eyeball surface, and become even more deeply embedded.

The first thing to do in caring for a foreign body in the eye is to wash the hands thoroughly. Then grasp the upper eyelid and raise it. Have the victim look up, down, and to the right and left while you check each part of the eye. If you see the speck, touch it with the corner of a clean, damp cloth. In many instances, the foreign body will adhere to the cloth. Do not use a cotton ball in place of cloth.

If you cannot see the speck, likely it is under the surface of the upper eyelid. Grasp the eyelashes of the upper lid, and draw the lid downward gently several times over the eye surface. Often this will dislodge the foreign body so it will wash away or can be removed with a damp cloth.

If the speck does not come away with the cloth, don't persist. Seek medical care at once. If a foreign body such as a splinter, however tiny, penetrates the eyeball surface, make no attempt to remove it. Take the victim to a physician.

Zwaanendael Museum Notes

Collecting is fun but the collecting of Butter Pats or Chips, says Mrs. Franklin Pierce of Lewes, has been exciting. Over a comparatively short period and without an exorbitant amount of money, she has a collection of almost two-hundred "Pats" and the Zwaanendael Museum is at present featuring 84 of her beautiful Butter Pats in a special exhibit. Included are lovely portrait ones and two blanks that have been hand-painted and signed. There are beautiful examples of Haviland, Dresden, Spode, Belleek, Leeds, Majolica and ironstone, all in colorful familiar patterns dated for the most part in the middle or late 19th century.

With the arrival of spring a rearrangement of the glass exhibit at the Zwaanendael Museum has also been completed, featuring some of the long term loans and gifts from the Museum's collection. Plans are being made to have the second floor open to visitors before summer. The "Bombardment of Lewes" panel exhibit has been revised and will be a part of the tour for school groups visiting the Zwaanendael Museum this year. It has been the opinion of historians that most Delawareans, as well as many others, do not realize the courageous defense which was

1966 Cancer Crusade Gets Underway

The 1966 Cancer Crusade gets underway in Delaware this week. The appeal, which annually raises about $150,000 for research, service an education in the cancer field, is under the direction of Crusade chairman A. Felix du Pont, Jr.

Assisting Mr. du Pont as heads of the county unit organizations are Robert P. Barnett, New Castle County; George W. Cripps, Sr., Kent County, and Mary R. Brinser, Sussex County. Mrs. M. I. Bro and Mrs. F. Leslie Lindsay, Jr. are serving as co-chairman of New Castle County residential solicitation, while Mrs. Thomas W. Reed is chairman of Wilmington residential solicitation.

Joining forces with the Crusade leaders as a volunteer force approximating 10,000 Delawareans, believed to be the largest volunteer body to aid in a single health drive in the state. Most of these are neighborhood workers who are making a door-to-door appeal, distributing information about cancer as they go.

Mr. du Pont said that there is no fixed goal for this year's Crusade, but added:

"We would like to surpass last year's total of $150,662.17. As additional cancer cases are detected and as research efforts become more intense and complex, more money is needed."

"The dissemination of cancer facts is an important part of our Crusade, apart from the fund-raising aspects," he said. "For, if we can familiarize Delawareans with cancer symptoms and can motivate them to take precautionary measures, many lives will be saved in our state."

The chairman said that currently only one out of every three cancer patients survives. One out of every two could be saved, however, if the patient would go to his physician in time.

"In that regard, you could describe the Cancer Society's literature on cancer's seven danger signals as a matter of life or death," Mr. du Pont continued.

The program of the Delaware Division, American Cancer Society, is a broad one. One of the largest local activities is the service program, in which aid is given to the cancer patient and his family. This aid may take the form of drugs, homemaker service, transportation, loan of equipment, visiting nurse care or dressings.

Also included are special classes such as those being given to laryngectomies to teach them to talk after having had their larynxes removed.

Public education is another area of activity for the Cancer Society, spanning the distribution of literatures referred to by Mr. du Pont as well as other specialized activities such as the smoking programs. The Society working as a part of the Inter-Agency Council, has sought to curb the spread of lung cancer by discouraging cigarette smoking.

Professional education is another phrase of the Cancer Society's program. Medical experts are brought to Delaware to lecture before groups of physicians and nurses on new developments in cancer.

A highly successful program on oral cancer has been sponsored jointly with the State Dental Society and State Board of Health. Nurses are sent on scholarship to special cancer nursing institutes at New York University and Memorial Hospital. Many cancer publications and technical firms are sent to physicians and medical libraries each year.

Research, the final major program, is regarded by the Cancer Society as the key to the ultimate conquest of this family of diseases. This is conducted on the local level by grants from the Delaware Division and on the national level with funds received by the American Cancer Society from Delaware and other states.

Two major research grants have been made by the Delaware Division in recent years, one to Dr. Dorothy M. Powelson for work at the University of Delaware and a second to Dr. Josnath H. Burchenal, a Delaware dentist of the famed Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York City. Dr. Powelson's studies concern the relationship between a bacterium and the development of cancer, while Dr. Burchenal's research efforts are in search of a cure for leukemia.

"In the early 1900's, few cancer patients had any hope of cure," Mr. du Pont said. "In the late 1930's, fewer than one in five was saved. Today one in three is saved. This is progress, but obviously much more progress is needed. That can be achieved only through the widespread support of such important efforts as this annual Crusade."

Poll-Tax Ruling Seen Affecting Delaware

The U. S. Supreme Court's poll-tax ruling "definitely applies to Delaware," City Solicitor Claude L. Tease said recently, supporting a fellow attorney.

Tease, basing his reasoning on a recent ruling which affected Milford's January election, gave unqualified support recently to Peter Warren Green, who ruled Friday that Odessa's delinquent taxpayers could not be barred from voting because of the March 24 Supreme Court decision on poll taxes.

Green's ruling resulted in a squabble over who would be seated as election judges in Monday's Odessa election, with a last-minute panel being seated when they agreed to uphold the opinion instead of the town charter.

Milford's charter, like Odessa's and many other Delaware towns, requires that taxes must be paid up to date by voters before they can cast a ballot.

"In eight of the recent pronouncements by the highest court of the United States," Green said, "it is my opinion that the aforesaid provision in the charter for the town of Odessa . . . is unconstitutional."

The opinion, if carried out in Delaware, can affect a number of towns in the state which have the same charter provisions as Odessa. School boards also have the same provisions in many instances.

Green interpreted the Supreme Court opinion to include delinquent property-taxes as well as capitation taxes.

He requested that the election judges in Odessa "take whatever action necessary . . . in order that otherwise eligible voters will not be disenfranchised because of the delinquent-tax provision."

Green based his ruling on the court's statement that "voter qualifications have no relation to wealth nor to paying or not paying this (poll) tax or any other tax."

Tease, supporting Green, said Milford followed the procedure of permitting delinquent taxpayers to vote in its January election before the Supreme Court issued its poll-tax decision.

Other towns, notably Harrington and Dover, have the same provision in their charters, but made no change this year in elections held prior to the Supreme Court decision.

Dover, like other towns, posts a notice that taxes must be paid before a certain date preceding the election, in order that taxpayers be allowed to vote. The procedure was confirmed by the city clerk and treasurer, Francis J. Neylan.

Dover's city solicitor, David P. Buckson, who also is Delaware attorney general, issued an opinion at the time of the decision by the Supreme Court. He stated that the Supreme Court ruling did not apply in Delaware. He was out of town and could not be reached for comment in his position as Dover's attorney.

Buckson's earlier opinion was not clear on whether he was referring to towns or the state of Delaware in regard to the opinion.

Tease said he consulted last fall with Milford's bonding attorneys and the solicitor general in Washington, D. C., before determining that the Voting Rights Act of 1965 applied to the Milford general election in January.

ary. "I was told it applied, and that's the ruling I gave for the election," Tease said. "A town may not disenfranchise anyone, and that applies not only to a general municipal election, but also to bond referendums."

Tease said he is "convinced Green is right."

"There isn't much I can do except agree with him," he said. "Green is a competent attorney, and he ruled as he saw fit."

Diabetes Station To Come To Harrington

A diabetes detection station will be conducted by the State Board of Health in Harrington at the Fire Hall, on Tuesday, April 19 from 12:30 to 3 p.m. This clinic is being sponsored by the Harrington Home Economics Extension Club. For further information, call Mrs. Dewitt Tatman, chairman (398-3748).

At least a million Americans are known to have diabetes, and it is believed that at least another two million have the condition in an unrecognized form.

Diabetes is due to a deficiency of the pancreas, resulting in insufficient insulin which is necessary to convert the sugar of food into heat and energy for body use.

Anyone can have diabetes. However, persons developing the disease are usually over 40 years of age. More women have it than men. There is a higher incidence of diabetes among people who are overweight and persons who are relatives of diabetics.

This service is free of charge. Remember that—Diabetes must be detected before it can be treated. Untreated diabetes will surely lead to complications. Properly treated people can live healthy, normal, happy lives.

Blood Bank Of Delaware To Give Benefits

Groups of people too old or ill to donate blood themselves will be able to qualify for Blood Bank of Delaware benefits under a new sponsored group plan, Brig. Gen. D. Preston Lee, President of the Bank, announced this week.

Under the new plan, groups like residents of homes for the aged or nursing homes will be sponsored by volunteer civic or service organizations, whose members will donate for the old or infirm group member when his or her turn comes to give one pint of blood under the Blood Bank rules.

First to be protected under the new plan are 45 women residing at the Home for Aged Women, Inc., 119 Gilpin Ave. The sponsor for their group is the Brandywine Jaycees Chapter.

Delaware's Blood Bank provides its members replacement without limit for any blood administered in Delaware hospitals, as well as more limited benefits out of state. The necessary blood is supplied by calling each member in turn to donate one pint of blood at a designated hospital.

There are no age or health requirements for membership, but members who cannot provide blood themselves must find someone else to give in their place, unless they choose to pay cash instead.

The Blood Bank has had group members—employees of a firm or members of a labor union, for example—since it started operations almost 11 years ago. Members of groups, as well as individual Blood Bank members, who have been ineligible themselves to donate their pint of blood, have frequently had relatives or friends donate in their place when it came their turn to provide blood.

Until development of the sponsored group program, however, there had been no practical way to provide Blood Bank protection for entire groups of persons who because of age or health are not acceptable to hospitals as blood donors.

The mechanics of the new program were developed by a committee of the Blood Bank board of directors chaired by Dr. William H. Lockwood, who found many institutions in the state would welcome such a program.

Organization of the first sponsored group came about when Mrs. E. C. Reese, director of the Home for Aged Women, mentioned to a member of the Brandywine Jaycees Chapter that the Home needed a sponsor before it could come into the program.

James H. Scott III, president of the chapter, said, "It was a natural thing for us to support—we are always looking for worthwhile community projects, especially those that require something other than just financial help. This gives us an opportunity to really serve other people."

The new Blood Bank members at the Home will have all the benefits of other members. A distinction will be made only when it is the turn of one of them to donate blood. Then, instead of calling the member, the Blood Bank will call the sponsoring group to have someone donate the required pint of blood.

Sponsors are being sought for other institutions that want to participate in the program. Clubs or organizations that are interested may call the Blood Bank of Delaware, PO-24300.

Bottoms Up In Tavern: Diggers Find Old Bricks

The hunt for buried treasure has started in the old Joseph Caldwell Tavern in Canterbury, and the archaeologists have already hit pay dirt.

Digging about three feet into the kitchen foundation, members of the Kent County Archaeological Society have unearthed what they feel is the foundation of the original fireplace of the pre-Revolutionary War building.

Of course, no pieces-of-eight are expected in the treasure the Society hopes to find, but hand-blown bottles, and old brick foundation, and small everyday items of the 1700's will add up to a prize for the historians.

"I was out there Saturday until 1 p. m. laying out the plots," explained James Hutchins, director of the Society project.

He said that on Sunday, the digging actually began, and the fireplace was found under a brick floor that was under a wooden floor.

The find is an important one, and the entire kitchen area will be excavated to a depth of two to three feet.

include the house and the grounds around it, should be completed by May 1, if society plans are followed.

Hutchins said, however, that they could be held up by what is found.

When the work is through, the artifacts that are found will be offered to the Delaware State Museum and the State Archivist.

Then the State Highway Department will get into the act, razing the remains of the historic site, so that the Viola-Magnolia road may be widened.

Raymond To Greet 81 Football Candidates

Delaware football coach Harold (Tubby) Raymond expects 81 football candidates to report next Monday (April 11) when the Blue Hens start 20 days of spring practice.

Raymond, who took over from Dave Nelson as head coach last month has a nucleus of 16 lettermen returning from last year's 5-4 team. Seven players, including four of the lettermen, have been excused from the drills to compete in spring sports.

Scott Campbell, Don Keister, John Miller, and Bill Wheeler, are members of the track team; Gene Waldman and Art Smith are both pitching for the baseball squad; and John Spangler is playing lacrosse.

The biggest task confronting Raymond and the other Hen coaches is finding some line depth. Only three players return from last year's regular offensive and defensive lines. Middle guard Bill Neiger and end Ed Sand return from the defensive front wall. End Mike Purzycki is the only returnee from the seven-man defensive line.

"We won't assign positions to the linemen for the first several days," Raymond said. "We will want to get a look at everybody playing both ways with emphasis on the fundamentals. This general indoctrination will give us a basis for some position changes and a better idea how the sophomores fit into our plans."

The Blue Hens will be relying very heavily on a fine crop of linemen from last year's freshman team. Of the 16 returning lettermen, only three are interior linemen.

Raymond expects some of his more experienced players to play both offense and defense this year.

"We probably won't have enough good players to play two-plot football," the new coach said, "but we really won't know what we have until we get a better look at some of the new players."

Raymond said there would not be any additions to the Hen staff for spring practice. He will continue to work with the backfield.

Good Care Will Keep Easter Lilies Blooming

The stately Easter lilies, so popular this time of year, are natives of Okinawa, first introduced to the western world in 1819, according to Dr. Charles Dunham, associate professor of horticulture at the University of Delaware. Now, of course, the flower has become an important part of the Easter holiday for millions of people.

Most Easter lily bulbs were grown in Japan until World War II. During the war, bulb growing became popular in northwestern United States, and this is where most bulbs come from today.

With good home care, potted Easter lilies can hold their bloom for several weeks, according to Dr. Dunham. He recommends keeping the plant in a moderate cool, draft-free place. Keep the plant in moderately bright light, but out of direct sunlight.

Be sure the lily has adequate drainage. If the pot comes wrapped in waterproof material, such as aluminum foil or cellophane, do not let the water accumulate in the bottom. Saucers placed under plants to catch drainage water should be emptied promptly.

Water the lily as it needs it; keep the soil moderately moist, neither waterlogged nor bone-dry. When watering, soak the entire soil ball, not just the top inch or two. And then, don't water again until the soil begins to dry out, suggests Dr. Dunham.

If you buy lilies from a source other than a florist shop, there may still be golden yellow anthers inside the blossoms. Remove the anthers as soon as you can get at them easily to prevent discoloration of the blossom. This also helps keep the blossom from being accidentally pollinated and then closing prematurely.

Easter lilies can be made to bloom again in the late summer, Dr. Dunham says. When all the blooms have wilted, place the potted plant in a sunny window until early May when it can be planted outside. The bulb should be planted six to eight inches deep. The plant will die down completely, but with normal growing conditions, the lily should come up and bloom again at the end of summer.

However, Dr. Dunham cautions, Easter lilies should not be planted outdoors if the homeowner has other valuable lilies in his garden. Most Easter lilies are infected with a virus that will spread to other lilies in the garden.

Easter lilies planted outdoors may live over the winter, but they are generally single-season plants, Dr. Dunham says.

Brook, Rainbow Trout Are Being Stocked

Brook and rainbow trout are being stocked this week in James Branch between Trap Pond and Records Pond near Laurel. This will be the first year that the Delaware Game and Fish Commission has introduced trout into any stream in Sussex County. Fishermen will be required to have a current fishing license but, because of the experimental nature of these stockings, a trout stamp will not be required. The trout season opens on April 8 and runs through November 12. Fishing hours are 1/2 hour before sunrise to 1/2 hour after sunset. The creel limit is four; there is no size limit.

Water temperatures in Sussex streams were systematically recorded during the spring months in 1964-1965. It is felt that with a reasonable amount of rainfall James Branch will remain below 74 degrees F. during April and May. Higher temperatures are fatal to trout.

White Clay, Pike and Mill Creeks north of Delaware Rt. 2 and the Brandywine River from Rockland to Wilmington are regularly designated trout streams. These streams are stocked several times in April, May and June. A trout stamp costing $2.10, in addition to the regular Delaware fishing license, is required to fish White Clay, Pike and Mill Creeks. A trout stamp is also required to fish in Brandywine Creek from April 8 through April 30, 1966.

Armed Forces Notes

Pvt. James F. Wilson, son of Mrs. Elizabeth L. Blake, 44 Monrovia Ave., Smyrna, completed a radio course at the Army Training Center, at Fort Dix, N. J., March 18.

Despite the ten-week course, Wilson received instruction in basic radio and electrical theory and was taught the international Morse code.

The 23-year-old soldier entered the Army in October 1965 and received basic training at Fort Knox, Ky.

Delaware Food Market Report

Easter is here and Sunday should be a day of joy commemorating Jesus Christ's Resurrection from the dead. To capture all the joy of this happy occasion, it is wise to plan ahead as well as prepare ahead for Easter dinner. This is a sure way to avoid a last minute rush, to free more time for Sunday worship, the proverbial egg hunt, and other fun with family and friends. So plan your menu now, make out your shopping list and get started on food shopping and food preparation.

If ham is the traditional meat for Easter in your home, there will be enough available. However, prices will be higher than those of last year. Leg-of-lamb is the favorite meat in many homes. This meat, too, is available but like ham, due to smaller marketings this year, prices are high. Why not serve turkey, this meat stands at the head of the list for providing light, low calorie meat that is truly economical now. Broiler-fryers should be included with turkey as a choice meat to serve for Easter, they too are light, easily digested meat.

If beef is your choice then check rib roast, T-bone steaks and Bolar roast, all are available and many are on "special sale".

Many vegetables are in better supply this week, however, a few still remain scarce. Shipments of broccoli and spinach have increased and prices are lower. Cauliflower, sweet corn, and green onions are in somewhat heavier supply with slightly lower retail prices. Fresh asparagus more reasonable this week, prices will not be much lower until the end of April when nearby areas ship large supplies in. Those vegetables in high supply and wearing high price tags are cucumbers, vine ripe tomatoes, green peppers, squash, and snap beans.

Pineapples, oranges, grapefruit, and bananas continue the best buys at most fruit counters. Watermelon is appearing in good supply, while harvest of Florida strawberries is past its peak and shipments of most imported fruits are about finished.

There are a number of new kosher - for - Passover products available for the first time this year. Two margarines made entirely from cottonseed oil are being sold. This means that many dishes can be prepared that could not be made before, such as baked goods and sauces. New kosher-for-Passover dairy foods include cream cheese, whipped butter and sweet butter. A new stuffed heat-and-serve cabbage is available for the first time with the circled "U", kosher-for-Passover rabbinical supervision and endorsement.

Arden Table, Tennis Guild Notes

Delaware's men's table tennis champion, Robert Hughes, of Brandywine Hundred, will defend all three of his titles at the 1966 Delaware State Closed Table Tennis Championships to be held at the Arden Gild Hall, Arden, on April 23 and 24. Mr. Hughes is currently the men's singles champion, holds the men's double title with Donald Estep, and the mixed doubles championship with Miss Veda Trader. The women's singles champion, Mrs. Gladys Blaner, of Rehoboth Beach, will be defending her title.

Both Mr. Hughes and Mrs. Blaner play exciting, spectacular games, and their defense of their titles is guaranteed to be very exciting. Their many challengers will be attempting to dethrone them during the championships. The public is invited to witness the 100's of matches over the two-day tournament in the 11 spectacular championship events. The matches start Saturday, April 23 at 9 a.m. with the semifinals and finals scheduled for Sunday afternoon and evening.

All residents of Delaware are eligible for the tournament.

The scheduled events are: under 13 singles, under 15 singles, boys' under 17 singles, novice singles, class B singles, senior singles, men's single, men's doubles, women's single, mixed doubles, women's doubles.

For further information regarding the tournament, and for entry forms, call or write Mert Berger, 2117 Meadow Lane, Arden, Wilmington, 19803 or phone 475-8538.

Boy Scout Notes

Philip C. Cooper, chairman, has announced plans for the 50th anniversary Recognition dinner to be held by Del-Mar-Va Council, Inc., Boy Scouts of America on April 16 at James M. Bennett High School, Salisbury, Md.

Special recognition will be afforded those men who have more than 45 years of service in scouting. Men and women who have received the Order of Merit for outstanding service to boyhood, from the respective districts are also being especially invited. Holders of various training awards will also be singled out for recognition.

Highlight of the evening will be the Award of the Silver Beaver for Distinguished Service to Boyhood to a group of eight scouters whose names are traditionally announced at the ceremony. This is the highest honor a local council can confer.

Clarence F. Urffer, regional scout executive will be the guest of honor. Mr. Urffer who supervises the scouting programs in the states of Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia is a former member of the professional staff of the Del-Mar-Va Council. Subsequently he served as scout executive at Washington, D. C. and Reading, Pa., and a deputy regional executive.

Speaker for the occasion is Perle L. Whitehead of Cincinnati, O., a retired professional scouter with a vast background in boys work with the American Legion, church and rural groups as well as in scouting.

Whitehead is in great demand as a speaker for this occasion. He has been described as "Scouting's Will Rogers".

Dorsey B. Kinnamon, Council president, will preside at the dinner.

Bradshaw Announces Training Program In Nurses Aides

Joseph Bradshaw, chairman executive director of the Employment Security Commission, has announced that a training program for nurse's aides and orderlies under the Manpower Development and Training Act has been approved for Kent County. The program would involve the education and training of approximately twenty applicants to meet the anticipated demand for trained personnel by the Kent General Hospital, Dover, the State Home and Hospital, Smyrna, and various nursing homes throughout the county, and to provide skills for those unemployed persons interested in this type of work.

Under the Act, those unemployed persons having two years of any previous work experience and who are the head of the household would be entitled to allowances of $40 per week, plus additional funds for dependents. Those unemployed applicants not qualifying under these provisions would be accepted for training but no allowances would be paid. The program is scheduled to run for thirty-two weeks.

If you are unemployed and would be interested in acquiring these skills, please register immediately at the Employment Security Commission Office, 135 South Bradford Street, Dover, where more information will be available to you.

Traditional Easter Eggs Decorative, Nutritious

Eggs were the symbol of spring in long-ago spring rites. They are still a symbol of the renewal of life in our present-day Easter festivities, says Miss Janet Coblentz, extension foods and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware.

Games and frolicking are associated with springtime and eggtime. The early English custom of rolling down Greenwich Hill at Easter was replaced with the custom of rollings eggs down instead. The egg rolling custom has become a White House tradition in this country. The familiar egg hunts, now a Easter custom, have gone on since antiquity.

The original purpose in coloring eggs was to immitate the bright foliage and flowers that come with spring. In northern Europe the eggs were dyed red for the god Thor and yellow for Eostre, the goddess who lent her name to our Easter. In the early days of the Christian church, eggs were colored red to symbolize the blood of Christ. Medieval English people used red, blue and violet dyes. The Persians and Russians have long been famous for their elaborate works of art created from blown eggs.

There are so many ways to decorate Easter eggs that your imagination is the only limitation, Miss Coblentz believes. Blown or emptied egg shells can be decorated to resemble nearly anything—from rabbits to moon men. Many people prefer to dye hard cooked eggs, however.

For something truly novel, write on the shell with a solution that comes through on the egg itself. Make breakfast a fun-time for the youngsters, on Easter morning or any morning of the year. The design—or secret message, a la spy thrillers—is put on the egg before they are cooked. To do this, dissolve one ounce of alum in one cup vinegar. Alum is available at any drugstore. Dip a small, pointed brush in this solution and draw the design or write the message. Let the solution dry thoroughly.

Put the eggs in a pan and cover them completely with cold water. Bring the water to simmering and simmer for 20 to 25 minutes. Do not let the water boil. Cool the eggs quickly in cold running water.

There will be no trace of the writing on the shell when the eggs are served. But inside, on the hard-cooked egg white, the writing or design will appear bright and clear, according to Miss Coblentz. The eggs may be dyed as usual after hard-cooking and cooling, she says.

Some eggs sold in the supermarket are oiled. This seals in freshness; however, it will also seal out the alum-vinegar solution used to write the secret messages. Only a small percentage of eggs receive the treatment. So, if you are unable to cast the "magic spell" the first time, try again, urges Miss Coblentz.

Color as many eggs as the youngsters want—inside or outside. Hard-cooked eggs can be used so many delicious and nutritious ways; there should be no problem using all the Easter eggs.

Sliced hard-cooked eggs add flavor and nutrition to almost any vegetable or sea-food salad. Combine them with green beans, chopped onions and crumbled bacon, or use kidney beans, chopped celery and pickles or relish. Deviled eggs, seasoned to your family's taste, are always welcome. Stuff the eggs with crabmeat, ham or chicken salad for a different treat, recommends Miss Coblentz.

Traditional Easter Eggs Decorative, Nutritious

Ham and eggs go just as well together in a salad as they do on the breakfast platter, she says. Vary the salad with chopped celery and cucumber or with cheese strips, cooked peas and broken lettuce. Chipped or sliced hard-cooked eggs can be combined with tuna, salmon, shrimp or crabmeat in many seafood salad combinations.

Chopped or sliced hard-cooked eggs add protein and flavor to many casseroles also, Miss Coblentz points out. Garnish vegetable casseroles with sliced eggs, she suggests.

Make a quick egg sauce by adding chopped hard-cooked eggs and chopped green pepper or onion to a can of cream of celery soup. Serve over cooked vegetables or ham or chicken croquettes. Cream of mushroom soup may also be used.

It is obvious, Miss Coblentz says, that no matter how many eggs you decorate this Easter season, they can all be used to add economical nutrition to family meals.

run together, and the contents become milky. Later they dry up, forming brown or yellow crusts. After a week or so the scab comes off, leaving a red spot for a period of time. The whole process takes about ten days.

Herpes isn't 'catching' or infectious. Some persons seem to have a susceptibility to the disturbance and are inclined to have repeated attacks.

The blister should not be touched. The hands ought never to be applied to the face except when you wash it. Your hands come in contact with dirt, filth, and germs. You cannot avoid picking up material which is capable of poisoning the tissues of the face.

Recurring attacks of herpes about the mouth should cause concern. They may be due to bad teeth, infected gums, diseased tonsils, infection in the nasal sinuses, or intestinal disturbances.

In the beginning of herpes the trouble may be headed off by applying an alcoholic lotion. Styptic powder, which is commonly used to control bleeding from small cuts in shaving, will often dry up fever blisters if applied early.
