City Has 63 Springs, Says Dr. Hewitt D. Smith

"Today we are in Eureka Springs in the famous Ozarks you know so well," writes Dr. Hewitt D. Smith who, with Mrs. Smith, has been vacationing in the South.

Continuing, he writes of the Arkansas City: "There are 63 springs in the city limits and the houses cling to the steep slopes. Also known as the Switzerland of America. The St. Elizabeth's Church is entered from the bell tower and one descends to the sanctuary. Some houses are entered by the second and third stories right off the street. Hatched Hall here is where Carrie Nation gave her last temperance talk. This was her home. She was a hatchet swinger and swung on bars and trained young and zealous prohibitionists here. Great scenery."

The attached information will provide you with pertinent facts concerning the issuance and use of these permanent type, tamper-proof plastic drivers licenses.

We expect this bill to be released from the committee in the next session of the Legislature, and I felt it imperative the facts be known to all concerned.

Century Club Gets Tax Exemption

Town Council Tuesday night voted to exempt the Harrington New Century Club from municipal property taxes for the coming year.

Council took the action after a representative of the women's club read a letter stating that the club sought the exemption on the ground the club performs a valuable community function.

Members of council discussed the possibility of other organizations seeking tax exemptions, but Mayor Luther P. Hatfield said to his knowledge no other groups in town would qualify.

By exempting the New Century Club, the town will realize a loss of $94.40 in annual revenue, Hatfield said.

In other action, council accepted about 25 appeals on tax assessments which resulted in a reduction of $29,910 in the town's assessed property valuation.

Mot of the property is either wholly or partially outside the town limits but was inadvertently included on the assessment list, the officials said.

Council approved the deletion of 15 persons from the capitation tax list due to death or moving from town.

In other business, the mayor read a letter from Joe L. Rawlins, director of Civil Defense for Kent County, telling of a meeting May 2 in the Courthouse in Dover. Rawlins informed he intended to form a Civil Defense planning group in Kent County second to none. Councilman Wilson G. Bradley, the local Civil Defense director, is to attend the meeting and report to the Council.

The mayor said Calvin Wells had resigned from the local planning committee and a replacement was needed to serve out the two years remaining in the term. Prospects were mentioned but they will have to be contacted.

Melvin Wyatt, a member of the Board of Education, and Councilman Burton Satterfield will check on outside lighting of West Harrington Elementary School. It's inadequacies were revealed last week when a play was held at the school.

City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann was authorized to prepare a list of streets needing drainage work. He replied he would report at the next regular meeting.

It was decided the Council would inspect sidewalks.

Councilman Wilson G. Bradley who, from time to time, has asked for a removal of poll taxes for persons over 70, brought up a motion that it be put on the ballot in the January elections.

There was no second. Other councilmen believed the city attorney should prepare a report, or resolution, for the next meeting. The Bradley motion stipulated those favored should earn $2500, or less, per year. It was estimated the city would lose $2000 a year in taxes.

The Felton High School Music Department will present its annual spring concert on Thursday evening, April 28, at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

The Junior Band will open the concert. They will play "Starter" march, a theme from "Scheherazade", "Song of the Rose" overture, "Warming Up" march which will feature a group of majorities, "Blue Moon" waltz, a rhythm novelty "Golliwog Meets Mr. Bones", and "Promotion" march.

The High School Dance Band will follow the vocal groups by playing a Benny Goodman tune "Stompin' at the Savoy", a Larry Clinton arrangement of "My Kind of Girl" and a very beautiful arrangement of "Me and My Shadow" which will feature a trombone quartet.

The High School Concert Band will perform last on the program following the intermission. The band will open the program with the stirring march "Grandioso", "Ballet Egyptian" by Luigni will follow the march. A beguine tempo "Tropical Twilight" is next followed by "Trombones Triumphant" which will feature the trombone section. A majorette routine number will give the majorettes a chance to perform next.

Three operatic excerpts will provide a refreshingly different addition to the concert—"Toreador Song" from Carmen, "La Donna E Mobile" from Rigoletto and "March" from Aida. The contrasting lovely "Deep Purple" will follow.

The concert will conclude with "Night Beat" which portrays musically the impressions one might receive during a tour of duty afoot in a modern metropolis after dark, and the U.S. Navy Band arrangement of "Anchors Aweigh".

Mrs. Margaret S. Storey will direct the vocal groups and M. Ross Evans will direct the bands.

The Band Boosters Club will sell refreshments during the intermission. The concert is open to the general public. Tickets may be purchased at the door which will open at 7:15 p.m.

Enlistment of Diocesan Program Nears Completion

The enlistment of more than 12,000 men and women for work in the Diocesan Development Program is nearly complete, according to a report issued this week by Albert A. Pavlic, general campaign chairman.

"With less than a month remaining" Pavlic said, "before the area-wide solicitation on Sunday, May 15, we must complete the orientation program for all workers who will be contacting each Catholic family on Solicitation Sunday."

"Starting this week," Mr. Pavlic explained, "we will be conducting meetings in each of the 51 parishes and 21 missions throughout the Delmarva Peninsula, in order that the pastors and lay committee members may brief each of the workers on the procedures that will assure our success in the $7,000,000 fund campaign."

"The informative phase of the program," Mr. Pavlic said, "is moving according to schedule. The women under the direction of Mrs. Clair J. Killoran are now in the process of enlisting the last echelon of workers. The members of this Women's Committee plan to conduct a person-to-person publicity campaign prior to Solicitation Sunday. Area wide briefing meetings are being scheduled in Wilmington and Dover for the 5,000 women representing each parish and mission throughout the Diocese."

The fund campaign announced early this year centers around some 33 spiritual, educational and social projects that include: construction of a new co-educational high school and four regional elementary schools; the addition or renovation of classrooms at eight present parish grade schools; construction of a new Catholic Student Center at the University of Delaware; the establishment of more modern administrative and operational procedures in our present school system; granting of initial funds for the construction of a home for senior citizens; financial assistance toward the renovation of property in the Inner-City Development Program and the construction and renovation of additional religious and educational facilities in many parishes throughout the diocese.

Parish meetings scheduled for all workers from individual parishes are:

Harrington F.F.A. "Learns by Doing"

The Harrington FFA participated in the State FFA Public Speaking and Parliamentary Procedure contests April 14 at Laurel High School.

Howard Brown represented the Harrington FFA in the Public Speaking Contest. This contest requires that the speaker write his own speech. The speech must be 1000 words long and require 6 to 10 minutes to give. Howard's speech was about soil conservation and management. The boys are required to memorize their speeches and they lose points if they have to refer to their notes. Howard did a very good job representing Harrington FFA and he placed 5th in the state.

In the Parliamentary Procedure contest the chapter officers represented the Harrington FFA. The officers are Wayne Hendricks, Billy Abbott, Calvin Bonniwell, Howard Brown, Roger Bullock, Steve Welch, Bob Donovan, Brett Wix. In this contest the boys were required to memorize their parts in the opening and closing ceremony of the FFA. The boys were also required to do the following things in order to receive a perfect score: 1. Demonstrate at least six parliamentary abilities. 2. Take accurate minutes of the meeting. 3. All members must be able to preside. 4. Give committee reports. 5. Display poise and confidence. 6. Speak in a clear voice and enunciate words clearly.

The Harrington FFA won 4th place in the contest and received an award of ten dollars.

The State FFA contests are part of the leadership education that FFA boys receive.

Ralph Taylor, of Blades, was in fair condition yesterday morning, after being shot three times in the chest.

Police Chief Franklin Rogers said Tuesday morning, local police, assisted by state police, have arrested Novelle McReynolds, 38, of High Street, on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

Rogers said the shooting took place about 7:15 o'clock Monday night in McReynolds' home. "The two had been arguing and alcoholic beverages were involved," Rogers added. He, however, refused to confirm that both men had been drinking.

Taylor was shot three times with a .22-calibre rifle, and was rushed by a Harrington fire company ambulance to Milford Memorial Hospital, where he underwent emergency surgery.

McReynolds was taken before Justice of the Peace Fred Carrey in Magistrate Court No. 6, Harrington, where he was committed to Kent County Correctional Institute in default of $2000 bail. He was bailed out Tuesday.

Mature Woman Can Adapt Some Fashions Of Today's Youthful Look

The 1966 spring fashions show the influence of youth in styles, colors and fabrics. Designers are featuring the young look, but the style-wise mature woman can also adapt these fashions to flatter her, according to Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing and textile specialist at the University of Delaware.

The dress and coat combination has replaced the suit in importance this year, she says. The young influence is evident in the many belted, no-waistline smocks, chemise or shift dresses. While the looser, A-line skirt is more flattering to the mature figure than the too-slim sheath, many women prefer to wear a belt to define a waistline.

The lowered waistline dress is still popular too. Usually in two parts, often in two colors and sometimes in two fabrics, the dress features a skirt with pleats, godets or gathered fullness. This style requires a straight, slim silhouette. It calls attention to the hips, so women with heavier hips should probably avoid it, advises Miss Reed.

Waistlines wander, and so do hemlines—ever upward. Hemlines retain their high level with knees still in sight. Some designers are featuring hemlines inches above the knee. These are only for the very young, Miss Reed emphasizes. She believes every woman should find the skirt length most attractive for her own figure and tastes—and then stick with it.

The youngsters, too, are having trouble deciding on a hemline, though they tend to adopt the extremes. The much-talked-about granny dress usually refers to an ankle-length shift with a high empire waist. Trimmings of ruffles, ribbons or lace add an old-fashioned look to the granny dress as well as to some of the baby doll and smock styles.

Poplin, sailcloth, gabardine, duck, denim and even canvas are used for the bell-bottom, hip-hugger pants which are favored for sportwear. They are sometimes combined with sheer voile blouses. Hip-huggers and jumpsuits, which are still in style, are also for the very young, according to Miss Reed.

"Jams" and "jellies" don't refer to food, but the newest in beach wear. They are close fitting drawstring shorts with a ruffled hem, usually seen in a floral cotton print reminiscent of Polynesian. Generally they are worn over a bikini; the more sedate surfer suit would better suit a mature woman, Miss Reed believes.

Delicate crepes and voiles are the most popular fabric this spring, Miss Reed notes. Adding coolness and femininity, voiles are featured in misty solid colors and romantic prints.

Fabrics, in general, are less bulky this spring. Contrasting fabric textures are used to provide a subtle touch of interest. Piques, ranging from waffle, pettepoint, and birdseye to bullseye, are abundant in summer white. Seersuckers, with wider, more interesting strip effects, feature cords for added detail. The hand-knit and crocheted look in fabrics continues. Woolens appear in light, airy leno weaves; worsteds in prominent twills are popular for the costume look. Deep-pile velor is widely accepted for luxury pull-overs.

Cottons which change colors like a chameleon are making their debut this spring. Ultramarine blue, added to the original dyes, is the secret of the color change. Citric acid in the "magic powder" removes the blue from the dye when you decide to change the color of the garment. The fabric will change from lavender to pink, blue to green or green to yellow. The fabrics, available in flower prints, stripes and solid colors, are guaranteed washable without fading both before and after changing colors, Miss Reed says. Naturally, the color can only be changed once.

The young set has given its approval to the scrambled patterns of dots and stripes or florals and plaids combined in one dress. However, there are also patterns which have been designed for a well-mannered fashion look. A women linen stripe and a companion plaid or a check matched to a different size check may be more to the taste of adults.

Exotic, bright patterns are popular also; brilliant floral designs, abstract designs with dramatically contrasting colors or paisleys in deep jewel tones are all featured. Use them with caution, Miss Reed says.

In contrast, the sun-bleached neutral shades are also in demand. Often they are paired and accented with white. Black and white, used together, serve as a bold addition to distinctive designs.

Perhaps the wide range of styles and colors is most typical of 1966 fashions. There is a fashion to fit everyone's taste; pick those that suit you best, advises Miss Reed.

Food Shortage Crisis In Hungry Nations Must Be Solved Soon

Dr. Donald F. Crossan, assistant dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences at the University of Delaware, was elected president of the Potomac Division of the American Phytopathological Society. The division met last week (April 7 and 8) at the University's Agricultural Hall.

More than 250 scientists from Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and the Washington, D. C. area are members of the Potomac Division. At their division meeting, papers were presented on the basic biology of micro-organisms, viruses and nematodes, on the chemistry of fungicidal action and on the control of important plant pathogens.

Dr. James G. Horsfall, plant pathologist and director of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station and member of President Johnson's Advisory committee on food and fiber, spoke on "Food for the Hungry" at the evening banquet meeting. He stressed that an affluent society, free from hunger, puts fewer men on the land. It provides research and education for all citizens and emphasizes need for more food from each farmer, not less.

"An affluent nation doesn't look like an agricultural nation—but it is. A hungry nation looks like an agricultural nation—but it is not," he said.

A hungry nation tries to cure its problem by putting more men to work on the land. This is the wrong direction to move, according to Dr. Horsfall. The industrialization so often prescribed for hungry societies is also the wrong direction, he added. "They need 'agriculturalization' instead—this means more food from each farmer, not merely more farmers."

The population curve and the food curve are on a collision course, according to Dr. Horsfall. "This means we can now feed the people, but for how long?" He believes the problem of feeding the growing population must be solved within the next 15 years.

Expanding the acreage used for growing food will not be sufficient. There is no reasonable chance for such expansion in the hungry lands, he believes. And, in the United States, one million acres are lost to urbanization each year. The 50 million acres in the soil bank includes land of poorer quality that will not greatly improve food supplies.

Nor is exporting American agricultural knowhow as easy as it sounds, according to Dr. Horsfall. "How do you help an impoverished nation? They are proud nations, fearful of the possibility of imperialism. Working with local institutions is not always easy or even possible." Local institutions are geared to another pattern; the problems of widely differing religious and ethical standards and anti-scientific attitudes are difficult to solve, Dr. Horsfall stated.

Nonetheless, they have been solved in at least two programs that were successfully aimed at helping hungry nations. These successful programs, the Rockefeller project in Mexico and the McArthur program in Japan, should mold national policy in the future, suggested Dr. Horsfall. Many people depend on agricultural science to solve the world's food problem. "We accept the challenge," Dr. Horsfall said. "But how about the time lag." It took 20 years for hybrid corn to be accepted, 14 years for weedkillers, and eight years for Zineb. "We haven't time to wait," he warned. In brief, he concluded, the Colleges of Agricultural Sciences in every state of the union face the challenge to do their best to provide solutions to the food crisis ahead.

Sixteen Years Ago

From The Files of THE JOURNAL
 Fri., April 21, 1950

Baseball season is here. So is the season for grass fires and ground hogs, both of which do a lot to make railroad operations costly, writes W. Cliff Miller in "Railroad News." The ground hogs ate the insulation off the underground wires on the Chestertown branch and the grass fires are costly in property damage.

Bowers—The friends and relatives of Lawrence Roe, Jr., are very much concerned with his whereabouts as he was last seen on April 10. Some think there may have been foul play. The state troopers and some of the town citizens were dragging the Murderkill River Sunday, but at this writing they have no trace of him.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Phillips, of near Harrington, announce the marriage of their daughter, Irene Messick, to Robert J. Fry, son of

Mr. and Mrs. Clold Fry, Sr., of Harrington, at Denton, Sat., April 8.

Andrew Martin, of Magnolia, was the king bee of the annual shoot of the Harrington Gun Club for the county championship at the Kent & Sussex Fairgrounds here Wednesday afternoon. His score was 50 straight. A shootoff was held to break a three-way tie for second prize. Walt Simpson, of Harrington, broke 49x50, to best Harry Meredith and Gayle Smith. C. H. Mason, Jr., of Texas, broke 110 consecutive targets.

Burrsville—Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Baker are very sick and under the doctor's care at their home here.

Harrington Legionnaires basketball team downed Lewes, 70-54, in a playoff for the championship.

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa

The sudden concern for "open space" in planning our communities is awakened by the federal programs for natural beauty. It was my privilege to attend a regional seminar on natural beauty at Villanova University last week.

Let's distill some of the thoughts expressed. They may have applications here in Kent County.

John Bivens, our state planning director, was chairman of the panel on rural resources. He reminded us that "Today is the very tomorrow we planned for and constructed yesterday". The watershed approach, used by the Brandywine Valley Conservation Group and others, was pictured as a sound method of attacking growth problems in developing areas.

One speaker, David Wallace of the University of Pennsylvania, suggested that we can predict the directions of growth rather easily. The locations of roads, the terrain which determines sewer locations, and certain utilities give us good guide lines. He proposed a systems approach, much like the Tennessee Valley Authority, as a method of guiding growth. I particularly like his final recommendation. If one is in doubt about what to do with a given area, plant trees, lots of them.

Zoning was cited as a frail reed by several speakers. It breaks down as a tool under political pressures in regulating growth. The use of development rights or easements was suggested as a better way to provide for open space uses. It does seem, that in time, public agencies may have to resort to eminent domain to direct certain land uses.

We were told that Massachusetts now has a coastal wetlands law which insists that the landowners preserve the resource, or have the choice of selling the land to the state. Will Delaware ever resort to this?

We heard how Penn's Landing in Philadelphia is being restored. Waterfronts can be magnets to draw people and create a sense of place, a source of quietude and an outlet for recreation. Some commercial and industrial functions are declining. But waterfronts can change in character to help people live closer with nature.

We were reminded that the creation of wilderness areas is beyond the capability of professional planners. Our highly structured open spaces or parks are the closest approach to nature.

My question is this. Why leave stumps or outmoded industrial sites for new areas? If the site was good for an original use, such as a factory, should we not replace it? The central city area of Pittsburgh is a good example. The old city core has been ripped out and redesigned for twentieth century needs.

Our big advantage today is that we realize clean air, clean waters, and a sense of harmony with nature are worthwhile goals. Yea, we finally recognize we might be engulfed by our garbage and wastes unless we change our living patterns.

Robert F. Wagner, former mayor of New York City, returns to Mitchell Hall in Newark on Friday, April 22, at 8 p.m. His topic, "Problems of Municipal Government", should give us a better understanding of our growing urban society.

The program is presented by our University Division of Urban Affairs. It is free and the general public is cordially invited to attend.

Lawns need an early spring application of fertilizer to help keep them attractive and healthy. Use one of the specially formulated turf foods which typically list the ingredients as 10-6-4, 10-5-5, or 20-10-10. Where crabgrass may become a problem, apply a pre-emergence chemical such as Dacthal, Zytrom, or Azak. Crabgrass killers are available both as separate materials and in combination with fertilizers.

April is an excellent time for planting both deciduous and evergreen trees and shrubs. For certain deciduous trees (dogwood, magnolia and birch, for example) success is more certain with spring planting than with fall planting. When setting a plant in the ground, dig the hole large enough to easily accommodate the root system and refill with a good mixture of soil and peat moss.

Pruning of most trees and shrubs can be done at this time before new growth develops. It is most important to remove wood that is dead, diseased, broken or unsightly in appearance. However, severe pruning of spring-flowering shrubs, like forsythia, quince and lilac, should be delayed until immediately after flowering.

Farm wage rates for hired help are moving up too. For Delaware the hourly rate without room and board is $1.22, or $10.00 per day or $220 per month with a house. We have no figures for Delaware with room and board, but the Maryland figure is $175 per month.

This is another reason why farms are becoming larger and more mechanized.

Our Georgetown Substation research data for 1965 has been totaled and is in report form. The research projects are not necessarily complete. But the yields and observations made in 1965 are given with the project leaders conclusions.

Some of us wish the information could be gathered together a bit earlier in the year. However, the researchers do their paper work in the winter when they cannot be in the field. The best we can say is, at least we're ready to start afresh with the 1966 growing season.

Philadelphia Banker Honored For Study Of Delmarva Poultry

The Delmarva broiler industry is a good financial risk for large-scale loans by city banks, according to a report prepared by a Philadelphia bank official which was released by the American Bankers Association for use of member banks last Friday.

The author is Edward A. Flood, Jr., vice-president of The Philadelphia National Bank — that city's second largest.

His report, which covers 108 pages, was written after an exhaustive study of the broiler industry on Delmarva which he completed last June. It was prepared as a thesis required for graduation from the Stonier Graduate School of Banking at New Brunswick, N. J., a school of advanced study for bankers of officer rank which has been conducted by the American Bankers Association in cooperation with Rutgers University since 1935.

Mr. Flood's report was signally honored by being selected as one of 25 theses from a total of 320 submitted by his graduating class. It was termed to be of outstanding merit and deserving to be made a part of a permanent collection of authoritative banking literature in the libraries of the American Bankers Association, Rutgers University and the Baker Library at Harvard University. The 25 bankers so honored last year came from 14 states.

In his study, entitled "Financing the Integrated Broiler Industry on Delmarva," Mr. Flood traces the industry's history and development from the time Mrs. Wilmer Steele raised the Peninsula's first broiler flock at Ocean View, in 1923.

His study covers all phases of poultry production, processing, marketing, pricing and financing as it evolved on the Peninsula and offers detailed comparisons of Delmarva and competing broiler areas.

In the course of his study, he analyzed 66 studies and reports on the Delmarva industry and other areas made by universities, bankers, poultry industry groups and had on-the-spot interviews with 18 Delmarva bankers, university specialist and poultry industry leaders to obtain firsthand knowledge of the industry and its financing methods.

In commenting on the financial soundness of the Peninsula's broiler industry, his summary says, "The integrated broiler industry on Delmarva will continue to require bank support, mostly from city banks, for working capital and long term purposes. Although at the present time most banks have a strong loan demand and may not be seeking out new credits, it is believed that the financing of this regional industry presents an opportunity for the development of profitable loans and sound banking business in the future."

Mr. Flood goes on to conclude, "If such loans are handled, it is the writer's opinion the banks involved, whether or not they be located within the area, will not only be obtaining additional profitable business but will also be serving a segment of agriculture very important to the economy of Delmarva."

George Harrison Oldest Contestant In 1966 Festival

Oldest contestant in the finals of the 1966 National Chicken Cooking Contest hails from Huntington, W. Va. He is George Harrison, 78-year-old retired meat sale manager, who has taken over many of the cooking responsibilities in his household. His wife, Mrs. Clara Harrison, is an instructor in business administration at Marshall University, so Mr. Harrison always cooks breakfast and lunch. Mrs. Harrison usually prepares dinner, and together they do the weekend cooking.

Mr. Harrison's recipe entered in the Range Division is entitled "Chicken Appalachia" and calls for dipping the chicken in mayonnaise and dehydrated potato flakes before oven-baking in butter.

He may win a paradise island vacation for two to Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands or Hawaii with transportation by Pan Am or any other of a number of ranges and household appliance that will be awarded at the contest. He knows he will receive a McCormick spice rack for his participation in the finals of this nationally renowned event.

Dover Gets 1967 Chicken Festival

The 1967 annual Delmarva Chicken Festival will be held in Dover. This nationally renowned event with its National Chicken Cooking Contest is one of Delmarva's claims to fame and a colorful part of the Peninsula's lore. This will be the twentieth year for the festival and will be held in conjunction with Dover's 250 anniversary celebration.

The invitation to hold the 1967 Delmarva Chicken Festival was extended by Dover's Mayor J. Crawford Carroll and Victor Holpp, chairman of the committee coordinating Dover's celebration.

At the recommendation of William H. Rodney, chairman of the DPI committee studying possible festival sites, the executive committee of the Delmarva Poultry Industry organization at their regular meeting on Tuesday of last week voted unanimously to accept Dover's invitation. This will be the first time since 1962 that the Festival has been held in the State of Delaware. Salisbury and Easton, Md., have hosted recent years with Pocomoke City, Md. doing the honors on June 16, 17 and 18 of 1966.

Caesar Rodney School News

Page Watson, a senior at Caesar Rodney High School, has won first prize in the statewide section of the National Hallmark Hall of Fame Art Competition.

The painting, titled "The Young Defenders," was produced to comply with the theme "Help Freedom Grow." It is a mixed-media, done with Acrylic Polymer paints, tissue paper, and newspaper. The composition features three young men who are prepared to defend their freedom, preferably with the pen, but probably with the sword.

Miss Watson has also won distinction at the Syracuse University Workshop, having been judged "outstanding painter" in the summer of 1965. She has been an art major for four years, and has now been accepted to Tyler School of Fine Arts at Temple University.

The second patrol had a conservation and fire prevention theme and had a tent scene with a campfire and "Smoky the Bear" as a special guest. Mon., April 18, the third patrol presented their "Scout's Own" and used "Our Country's Symbols" as their theme. They told the story of the "Star Spangled Banner", and took a make believe boat trip to visit the Statue of Liberty.

Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Mason were to choose the best program to be presented to a visiting troop at a later date, but could not make a choice between the three very well planned and well presented programs. They decided to combine the three and extend the make believe trip to include an Indian Reservation and an outdoor camping scene.

The girls have a very busy schedule ahead, getting the program ready to present to guests, besides planning a party for the visiting troop.

They are combining work on their "Hospitality" badge with the "Scout's Own" and the party.

KEITH S. BURGESS — Sports Editor

Eagles Flee Early, Falcons Fly By Lions, 65 - 63

Lord Baltimore's Eagles were late getting to the triangular meet at Dover Air on Monday afternoon but encouraged Harrington's Lions by getting off some good practice throws in the weight events. The locals figured to win the meet if Lord Baltimore could sap a little of Dover Air's strength in the shot put, discus and javelin.

Early in the meet the Eagles clipped the Falcon's wings by taking first and second place in the shot put. As the competition continued Harrington opened up a lead that figured to be safe enough if Lord Baltimore performed as expected in the discus and javelin. But "Lo and behold!" the Sussex Countians had inexplicably piled into their cars and gone home when it came time to hurl the spear and sail the dish. Why would a team vanish from a track meet with its strong events coming up? Why leave with a miserable 20 points when it would have been possible to double that total? Why not make the score respectable if possible? This is no way to behave in any sport. Action of this type will not help the great sport of track and field, the heart and soul of the Olympic games every four years.

The host Falcons swept first, second and third spots in the javelin to vault into the lead. The Lions fought back with Dan Hicks' broad jump victory and third and fourth finishes by John Flamer and Jim White.

With only inexperience going for the Lions in the discus, the Falcons eked out the victory with first and second places. Freshman Harold Coleman and Jim Harris picked up third and fourth positions for H.H.S.

Dover Air had never before beaten Harrington in track. This is the best Falcon team in history which was demonstrated by the fact that the Air Base unit set five new school records. Yet they needed the breaks to win and got them. Lord Baltimore's hasty exit was the major factor but Dame Fortune smiled on the winners a few other times too.

Bob Dean was off and winging in the 440 yard run and was holding off Butch Cathcart of the host team on the final curve when Cathcart accidentally spiked the Lion, causing him (Dean) to break stride. Bob lurched all over the track, fell back from first place to fifth before fighting back to second again. It is very likely that Dean would have won this event in close to 56 seconds flat but for the mishap. At a larger track meet a jinx would have been stationed on the turn and the Falcon would have been disqualified.

Frank White again swept the 100 and 200 yard dashes and anchored the 880 relay team which romped to victory in 1.39, same as last week against Lewes. Jim White, Dan Hicks and Marshall Jackson were the others of the quartet.

The most thrilling race of the afternoon took place in an event that is not often closely contested, the two mile run. Gerry Garey set the Lion school record of 11:07 last year but has not been working out at that distance this season, going in the half mile and mile runs instead. This gave Hatton, Dover Air's ace an advantage since he has been training and competing in the eight-lap run. Garey took the lead after two or three circuits. He and Hatton drew steadily away from the field. Hatton challenged strongly in the last lap but the Lion smartly kept the Falcon on the outside and outspiced him to win by a fraction of a second. Hatton's second place time of 11:13 plus was one of the five new Falcon school records.

Larry Bonniwell took the pole vault for the second straight week and tossed the javelin 130 feet to get a fourth in that event. His spear throw was his best yet. Larry is allowed one more event and may soon be drafted as a runner to beef up one of the Lion's weaker spots.

Bob Matthews ran his best mile ever as he held off two sprinting Falcons to take second place behind Ron Shadel, of Lord Baltimore. Matthews had the flu over the weekend but clocked 5:03.8 to Shadel's 5:07.4. Shadel was second to Harrington's graduated Dennis Rogers in the conference mile in 1965.

Nick Morris had thirds in the pole vault and two mile run. Eighth-grader Jack Warrington again scored in the two mile getting a good 12:30 for the grind.

Harold Coleman added a second in the high jump to his third in the discus.

Oscar Matthews, like Coleman, is a freshman. Oscar had Harrington's best toss in the shot put.

Since only H.H.S. had junior high milers on the premises the young Lions had to run on an exhibition satus. Paul Marshall, a freshman, surprised by clocking 2:12.4 which was faster than any of his varsity teammates. Paul may get a promotion out of this fine performance. His best previous effort was in the area of 2:28.

Lions Lose Opener in eleven Innings, 4-3

Harrington High's baseball team, under coach Frank Glazier, dropped a real heart-breaker at Delmar last week in its first Henlopen Conference game of the year. Delmar's host Wildcats edged the Lions in the eleventh inning by scoring the winning run on an error.

Harrington's Ellis Myer and Delmar's Greg Budd hooked up in a hurling duel with Delmar getting eight hits and Harrington seven bingles. One of the Lions' safeties was a home run by Myer.

H.H.S. had a 2-0 lead after two innings but the Wildcats finally got even in the sixth frame. Harrington took a 3-2 lead in the top of the seventh only to see the Sussex Countians set the equalizer in their half of the inning.

The Lions' seven hits were credited to as many players with clean-up hitter Marshall Hatfield and ninth position hitter Dennis Spicer drawing the only blanks. Myer had two runs batted in.

Randy Knox Scores In 3 Events As U. of D. Wins

Sophomore Randy Knox was a point-maker in three events as the University of Delaware defeated Lehigh in a dual track meet.

Knox, the Harrington High record-holder in the javelin, placed third in that event although he is lighter than practically any college performer you'll ever see toss the spear. In the triple jump Randy was the top U. of D. performer finishing in second place.

The former Lion capped a fine day's work by winning the broad jump with a near 20 foot effort in the rain. He has previously scored in the high jump and should have a good career as a thrower with two more years to go after the present campaign.

Lions Clip Falcons, 7-4

Frank Glazier's Harrington High baseball team clipped the wings of Dover Air High's Falcons by a score of 7-4 here on Tuesday afternoon.

Former Little League and Senior League performers filled every position for the winning Lions.

The visitors took a 1-0 lead in the opening inning but leadoff men Calvin Bonniwell drew a walk for the Lions and later tied on a hit by Ellis Myer. Myer scored on the first of Sam Knox's two doubles.

H.H.S. picked up another tally in the fourth and appeared to be in good shape until a questionable call on an interpretation of the infield fly rule paved the way for Dover Air to tie the score in the top of the sixth. Harrington came back with four runs in the bottom of the same frame to ice the verdict.

Sweet-swinging Terry Yoder is only a freshman but he has known for years how to get the bat on the ball. Terry had a single and a double to account for three runs-batted-in.

Calvin "C. Coolidge" Bonniwell, the "Scourge of Wheeler's Park", rapped out two safeties as did the aforementioned Knox. The Lions garnered nine hits as Dover Air was held to a measly four bingles off the combined offerings of Tom Simpler and Ellis Myer.

Jim Walmsley had two of the Falcon's base-knocks.

Felton Defeats Bridgeville, 7-2

Felton High took to the diamond for the first time this season and logged a 7-2 victory at Bridgeville. Will Dill held the Mustangs to six hits and fanned 14.

A paradox occurred when Bridgeville's giant Ron Tull whiffed 17 Green Devils to account for all but four outs, yet gave up a healthy 12 hits to become the loser.

Bob "Red" Dill, Will's brother, had three RBIs and three hits, one a two-run homer.

Will Dill, Porkey Coulson and first sacker Payne had two hits each for the victors.

Felton was off to a fast start with three tallies in the opening frame and a pair in the second stanza. They had a 7-0 bulge when the home-standing Mustangs broke Dill's shutout spell with two runs in the sixth.

Lion Junior High Thinclads Win At Dover Air

Harrington High's junior high track team swept every event in an abbreviated triangular meet at Dover Air this week.

Doug Berry and Henry Wright finished in a dead heat for first place in the 50 yard dash in 6.4 seconds.

John Flamer was first and Martin Adams second in the 100 yard dash. Flamer's time was 11.6.

Adams won the 220 yard dash with Ken Tribbett second. Adams' clocking was 26 seconds flat.

Dale Motter captured the shot put with 36 feet. Paul Marshall was second and Bob Thompson was third.

Foresters Bow To Wildcats, 2-1

Greenwood High's Foresters could not solve the offerings of a pair of Delmar hurlers and as a result a well pitched game by Ron Breeding went down the drain.

Breeding gave up two runs in the first inning and blanked the Wildcats the rest of the way but his mates could not catch up as Daugherty and Budd gave up only two hits. Delmar had six bingles.

Frank Spence and Beauchamp got the Forester safeties with Spence stealing home for the Greenwood run.

Low-Priced Seed Is Not Always Best Buy

Consider more than cost when buying seed, according to Dr. William Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware. Money saved buying inexpensive seed can be a very costly economy if the seed quality is poor.

Germination, noxious weed seed content and the amount of the seed of the desired variety are considerations that are generally more important than cost alone. These quality factors can be easily checked by reading the attached labels.

The analysis tag required by law must show the month and year the seed was tested for germination, and the percentage of seed that will germinate. The tag must also show the percentage of pure seed of the labeled variety, the percentage of other crop and weed seeds and the number of noxious weed seeds per pound.

When attached to sealed containers, the certified tag is a sure sign to the buyer that this seed has met specific standards as required by law of a state certifying agency, Dr. Mitchell points out.

If the seed has been chemically treated, a separate chemical treatment tag must state the name of the chemical used. This tag must also specify any necessary safety precautions when handling the seed.

Dr. Mitchell suggests that before you buy seed this spring, take the time to read and compare the information on the tags attached to seed containers. Seed prices vary; the lowest priced seed may not be the best buy after all.

Fight Begins To End Measles In Delaware

Dr. Edward F. Gliwa, Director of Immunization Activities with the State Board of Health, recently announced the beginning of the fight to end the disease of measles in the State of Delaware. Doctor Gliwa pointed out that "for too long the public has been blinded by the myth that measles is an inevitable childhood disease, for this 'red plague' has in recent years accounted for six times as many deaths as the once dreaded polio."

"Measles," he said, "is a disease that up until now has struck at almost the entire population at one time in their lives; but it is not, as commonly thought, simply limited to a week of mild discomfort. It can impair the hearing of its victims; it can lower body resistance to the ravages of pneumonia; or it can impair the minds of children through measles encephalitis (inflammation of the brain)."

The harm of measles and its complications was an accepted medical fact until the recent discovery and perfection of a live virus vaccine, which grants adequate and long-lasting immunity. It is this vaccine that the State Board of Health will employ in its attempt to conquer measles. The drive to wipe out measles will begin in our schools during the week of April 25. At this time, with the cooperation of all the Boards of Education, all students in the second, first and kindergarten grades who have never had measles or the measles vaccine will be offered the inoculation.

Following this will come public immunization clinics on the days of May 21 and May 22. On Saturday, May 21, clinics will be opened in Kent and Sussex Counties to all children from one year to six years of age. The same procedure will then be repeated on the following day, Sunday, May 22, in New Castle County.

Doctor Gliwa concluded with the thought that though the enormous effort involved in this program will need and have the help and resources of the broad spectrum of our community organizations, "it is only with the understanding of the public with their encouragement and involvement that we can ever hope to raise the barriers of protection about our children."
