

Hearing Held on Improvement Of Three Thoroughfares

A hearing was held Tuesday night, at a City Council meeting, on the contemplated improvement of three streets and all went well.

The projects were as follows: 1. Wolcott Street, 4-foot sidewalks, curbing, and surfacing of 24-foot street from curb to curb. Property owner to pay full price of sidewalk and one-half cost of curbing. A gas line will be installed before improvement. 2. Third Street, curbing and sidewalk and surfacing of 30-foot street. 3. Harrington Manor — Benjamin Street from Center Street Extended to Smith Avenue, and Center Street extended. Streets will be 32 feet, the same as other streets in the manor. Contract will include curbing but no sidewalks.

Advertising for contracts is still to be done. Payment will be out of the municipal aid fund, received from the state, usually in late July or early August.

Just how much work will be done will depend on the cost.

Street Named For C. L. Peck Sr.

South Street, that is, the newly opened thoroughfare running from East Street to near U. S. 13, has been named Peck Street in honor of Charles L. Peck Sr., who spent 27 years as a member of the City Government.

The naming was done Tuesday night by the City Council to avoid confusion with another South Street, that one running from Dorman Street to Calvin Street.

In other business Tuesday night, it was decided the City should notify owners of lots to mow them. If the letters are not answered in five days, the City can do the work and bill the property owner.

Turning to the sewer system, it was revealed the State Board of Health was complaining about the lack of a sanitary sewer to a property at Misspillion and Franklin Streets belonging to the S. L. Sapp Estate. The board's notice gave the property owner only two weeks to get the job done.

The improvement is included in a plan for a referendum to expand and improve the City's sewer system, replied the mayor. The plan, answered City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann, called for 200 feet of 8-inch sewer in an alley between Franklin and Hanley Streets, with two man-holes and two laterals, the latter to connect to two properties in the block between Misspillion and Milby Streets. No action was taken on the complaint but unofficial opinion was that the Board of Health would wait for the referendum.

The City has a number of isolated sewer problems which, for financial convenience, would be done wholesale after the referendum, rather than piecemeal before it.

Today Is Deadline To Signup For Delaware-65

Friday, June 10 is the last day for Delawareans aged 65 or older to apply for Delaware-65 programs of Blue Shield, said Edward J. Dugan, enrollment manager of the local plan.

A special three-week enrollment for these senior citizens was opened on May 23, Dugan said. Coverage for these persons who enroll in Delaware-65 programs by June 10 will be effective July 1—the same day that Medicare starts, Dugan added.

Delaware — 65 programs are companion plans to Medicare, Dugan explained.

Though Medicare coverage is broad, there are some expenses not covered that persons 65 and over have to pay. To keep them from having to make these cash outlays, Blue Cross and Blue Shield have developed the Delaware-65 programs.

There are five different Delaware — 65 programs available to combine with Medicare. They do not duplicate any Medicare benefits. Instead they fill in supplement and add benefits to coverage under Medicare's Part A—the hospital benefits — and Medicare's Part B — the surgical-medical benefits.

Three of the five available programs of "Delaware-65" are available to those persons 65 and over who signed up for the Part B of the government's Medicare program which pro-

SOME TWO-WAY PARKING BACK ON CLARK STREET ALLEY

Well, part of the alley has reverted to two-way traffic. The alley, of course, is the one running parallel with, and just south of Clark Street.

The alley, from Simpson Street to Porter Street, is now open to two-way traffic after a motion by the City Council Tuesday evening.

Bennie Hughes, of Hi-Grade Dairy, asked for the move to provide a better traffic pattern for his customers and because he had recently purchased a parking lot on the alley in the rear of his dairy. Before the Tuesday night motion, the traffic had been one-way, west to east.

Still on the alley—Councilman Wilson Bradley told the Council Mrs. Evelyn Masten, of Clark and Harrington Streets, had requested two-way traffic in the rear of her home block. Bradley motioned for two-way traffic from Reed to Dickerson Street, but it lost for want of a second. Had it won, there would have been only one block with one-way traffic, that from Dickerson to Simpson Street. Bradley said Mrs. Masten wanted two-way traffic in the alley because Harrington Street traffic cut into her lawn. "She has some beautiful roses," said Bradley.

Still on the alley, which has been in the public alley for more than a year: a hearing Tuesday night was to be on a decision to close the alley from Reed Street to Harrington Street to permit the Harrington Shirt Company to extend its plant. No one appeared for or against the proposal and no action was taken by the Council.

Mayor Luther P. Hatfield said he wanted to know the company's plan before taking any action. One item he has been requesting is a parking lot to take the employees' cars off Clark Street.

Wheat Allotments Boosted 15% For 1967

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has set the 1967 national wheat allotment at 15 per cent over 1966, according to Paul Hastings, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee. This represents a regular allotment of 55 million acres plus small-farm increases to make an effective allotment of 59.3 million acres.

"This means that most farm allotments for 1967 will be around 15 per cent above 1966," the chairman said. "However, the percentage may vary from farm to farm and between states and counties because of certain adjustments permitted under the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965."

Hastings said further details of the 1967 wheat program, including the price support loan level and marketing certification allocation, will be announced soon and farmers can expect to have their 1967 farm allotment notices by July 1.

Secretary Freeman forecast a "substantial increase" in farm income as a result of the new allotment. The 1967 allotment is the largest in six years and will mean that wheat acreage on most farms in 1967 can be at a level equal to that for the period 1955 through 1961.

"The strong demand for wheat exports both for dollars and for food assistance programs has reduced our stocks sharply," he said in his announcement. "For the first time in 13 years, our June 30 carryover will be under 600 million bushels." Six hundred million bushels is about one year's supply for domestic food consumption and seed.

"Stocks will be further reduced during the coming year despite good crop prospects," the secretary said. "With continued strong demand in the market, and more acres of wheat, farm income will be substantially increased."

Hastings pointed out that farmers who cooperated in the diversion programs since 1962 have contributed substantially to the reduction of wheat stocks. "Because they produced less each year than would be used," he said, "the nation's wheat farmers are due a large share of the credit for cutting the wheat carryover from 1.4 million bushels in 1960 to this year's 600 million bushels. This is considered an ample reserve to meet any emergency."

Production in 1967 is expected to range between 1.5 billion and 1.6 billion bushels, depending upon yields. This compares with (Continued on Page 8)

Asbury W.S.C.S. Notes

A very interesting program was presented by Mrs. Guy Winebrenner and her committee at the June meeting of Asbury Methodist Church Woman's Society of Christian Service. The meeting was held in Collins Hall, Tuesday evening, at 7:30.

Topic for the program was "Chosen for Action." Taking part in the short dramatization were Mrs. Howard Wagner and Miss Oda Baker. Participating in the panel discussion of the topic were Mrs. Charles Rapp, Mrs. William Stokes, Mrs. Mark Willey and Mrs. Frank Quillen. Mrs. Lydia Griffin gave the closing prayer. Mrs. Ralph Butler supplied the piano accompaniment for the hymns.

The devotions were led by Mrs. Fred B. Greenly, Spiritual Life Secretary. She had arranged a most attractive worship center using the "old-fashioned sitting room" as a theme. Beside the old square table were two old-fashioned rockers, one for the mother, another for a child, complete with china doll. On the table were two oil lamps, two Bibles, one for Mother and another child-sized. Small gold-rimmed spectacles were also included.

The business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Floyd Nasser, followed the program. Business for the evening included approval of the 1966-67 budget for the society, and reports from Mrs. Edgar Graef on the "Day on Campus," and Mrs. John Edward Jones on the annual meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Peninsula Conference.

An appeal was made for donations and help for the Hanson sale on June 24 and 25. The society will be serving refreshments during the sale and needs both cakes and pies for each day as well as help at the sale. Members should call their Circle leaders to volunteer their assistance in any way possible.

Mrs. Nasser announced that she would be out of town much of the summer, and suggested that Mrs. Audery Scherck, vice-president, be called for any business of the society.

Mrs. Charles Peck, Jr. gave a report on the year's activities of the campus ministry committee. She reminded the group that this Sunday will be Methodist Student Recognition Day and students from the graduating class have been invited to attend the morning worship service at Asbury.

Antibiotics

These 'life-saving' drugs which were almost unknown two decades ago have now become an everyday means of saving lives.

Although all antibiotics are produced by bacteria and will reduce the growth of, or destroy, other bacteria, their ability to do so varies. Certain antibiotics will have an effect on only one group of bacteria or protozoa and none whatsoever on any other group. They also vary in their effect on the human body; some of them are life-saving, some poisonous and other just ineffective in the treatment of an illness.

One of the most important factors to know and to take precautions against is the ability of bacteria to develop resistance to an antibiotic. It is important for the physician to determine which bacteria are causing the disease to be treated, and then to prescribe the proper antibiotic in the correct dosage.

Because of the ability of bacteria to develop resistance to an antibiotic if the correct amount is not given, it is important to follow your physician's advice exactly. For example, it's generally felt that much of the effectiveness of penicillin in the treatment of hospital-type 'staph' infections has been due to the over-use of small amounts of penicillin in gum, cough drops, ointments, etc.

Another danger in the use of antibiotics is their ability to cause allergic reactions. These can vary from a mild itching at the site of an injection to a more generalized and serious reaction.

It is important, therefore, never to take an antibiotic without your physician's recommendation and prescription. Let him decide which of the antibiotics is best for you. He'll make certain that you get a large enough dose to rid you of infection. Don't give Donald's prescription to Tracy! If there is some left over, throw it away!

Psoriasis

Psoriasis is a common skin disorder affecting at least one out of every fifty persons in the United States. It is an embarrassing disease as the blemishes that appear on the skin are visible to others, unless covered by clothing.

Circular patches of inflamed skin appear on different parts of the body. The patches have a red base and are covered with a dry, silvery, adherent scale. Psoriasis is often confused with eczema. When the scales of psoriasis are removed, the area beneath bleeds easily, while in eczema this is not the case. The patches in eczema are moist, larger and itch continuously. There are no silvery patches in eczema. The cause of psoriasis has never been discovered. It tends to occur in families in which other generations have had the disease. Psoriasis cannot be spread by any means from one person to another.

There are many factors that have been recognized as influencing psoriasis. Injury to the skin is the most common cause factor triggering psoriasis, followed by changes in the seasons, periods of physical and emotional stress, obesity, and medications used in the treatment of other diseases.

At the present there is no cure for psoriasis. Since the cause is unknown, treatment may be varied until the doctor arrives at the most effective method to treat a particular case. The individual lesions will appear and disappear but once they have occurred, they will exist in varying degrees of severity for the rest of the person's life. Creams and ointments have caused significant improvement. Sedatives and tranquilizing drugs have been found effective, especially in those cases which seem connected with emotional stress. The daily use of a sun or ultra violet lamp is also recommended.

Swollen Legs

Swelling of the legs and ankles may be caused by various diseases, and by some conditions which we should not even call diseases. Some of the causes are heart disease, kidney disease, vein trouble, complications of pregnancy, and pre-menstrual fluid retention caused by hormonal changes.

The treatment of a symptom caused by such very different conditions will vary greatly depending upon the cause.

If the swelling is the cause of heart failure, then the treatment of the heart disease with a drug such as digitalis may very well suffice to clear the swelling. The treatment of kidney disease may very well entail the use of special diets and medications, quite different from those used in heart disease. And of course, the treatment of toxemia of pregnancy is very different from either of the two treatments mentioned already.

The treatment of swollen legs caused by vein incompetence is still different. Often the use of elastic stockings which indirectly give support to the walls of the damaged veins provides a sense of comfort and well-being, in addition to preventing the swelling which accumulates during the day. The manufacturers of such elastic stockings have successfully manufactured a stocking which is reasonably sheer and good-looking but which still gives the desired support. The stockings, used without treatment, act simply as a crutch and are not curative.

A plan for the day is a simple measure which can help minimize swelling successfully. This entails setting aside a few half-hour periods during the day when one may sit or lie down so that the heels are at a higher level than the shoulders. Nearly everyone's day includes some items such as letter writing, making up shopping lists, watching TV, mending or just visiting, which can be done with the heels up instead of down. Try it and see!

ARE YOU SPENDING MORE, AND ENJOYING IT LESS?

Are you spending more today than last week, last month, or last year? But enjoying it less? The odds are nearly unanimous that you are.

The U.S. Department of Labor last week reported that the cost of living went up four tenths of a per cent in April, bringing the consumer price index to 112.5, an increase of 2.9 per cent since April of 1965—just one year ago. The April, 1966 jump marked the eighth straight months that the cost of living has continued to climb.

During 1965 alone, inflation equaled a hidden sales tax of four to eight per cent on all residents of nearly every state. In Delaware, which has no general state sales tax, 1965 inflation cost every citizen the equivalent of a four and one half per cent bite.

During the last five years the federal government increased the national debt by $31 billion. During the same period inflation cost the American public $51 billion. Average annual inflation since 1961 has amounted to $10 billion. With the exception of the federal income tax, inflation has taken more purchasing power away from our people than any other item—and it's getting worse instead of better. Three years ago, one-fifth of our increased gross national product consisted of inflation. Last year, the figure jumped to one-third.

The cost of inflation for the average Delaware family of four has been $423 since 1961. For the five year period (counting 1965 as the latest year), that amounts to $84.60 a year, or approximately $7.05 a month. What does that mean to the average Delaware family? The average weekly wage in our State was $117.17 at the end of last year. If we subtract inflation from figure, a wage-earner in Delaware gained little if anything over a $109.02 weekly salary in 1961!

Let's take a closer look at what this means to the average factory and white-collar employee this year. A factory worker who earned $7,000 in 1965 will probably get a pay-raise of about $300 in 1966. But how much of the increase does he really take home?

The federal income tax on $300 is $49. He pays an additional $103 in social security taxes this year. Increased state and local taxes take up $21 of the total. The cost of living increase eats up $115. All of these factors add up to $288, leaving a net gain of $12 out of the $300.

The comparable figures for white-collar worker earning $10,000 in 1965: federal tax on $400 pay-raise, $68. Social security hike, $103. Higher state and local taxes, $22. Higher cost of living, $164. Thus $357 of the pay-raise is gone before it's received, leaving an actual pay-raise of a mere $43.

At least the wage-earner in the labor market can hope to break even, however. The people who are really hurt are those on fixed incomes, particularly those who rely entirely on social security checks for their subsistence. With the 7 per cent increase in social security benefits voted last year, the purchasing power of pensioners was below what it was in 1954 and 1958, the prior two years when pensions were increased. The actual purchasing power of a 1965 pension of $1,220 really amounts to $537.

The moral of the story. The federal government can continue to offer polyandrous programs to cure every ill, real and imagined, in the world today. But ask Mrs. Delaware housewife, or Grandmother Delaware living on social security, what the effect is on her weekly food budget!

GONE ARE THE GOOD OLD DAYS

When man worked this precious land,
 With nothing but his bare hand,
 There was something about turning the sod,
 That brought him closer to his God.
 I know now what it did mean,
 To grandparents, and how it must seem
 To them, as their story relays,
 The happenings in the good old days.
 In this world of automation,
 Where anything new is a great sensation,
 How will we tell our children and their friends,
 Of the changing times and trends?
 In this land of hustle and bustle,
 There isn't time for even a tussle.
 With the lad down the road a-ways,
 For now are gone, the good old days.
 At mealtime after we've said our blessing,
 And partake of grandma's favorite dressing,
 We hear of the elder's yesteryear,
 And we know that gone are the days held so dear.
 When in late summer comes the threshing,
 And old timers start rehashing,
 The good old days that used to be,
 But are no more for you and me.
 Gone are the days when you could wander,
 Away down the road and yonder,
 When your neighbor you would greet,
 But where the road now is a busy street.
 Even now as we think back,
 We seem to know what the new era does lack,
 And our minds seem to be in a haze,
 As we realize, gone are the good old days.
 I wonder what ever happened to the Heaven sent,
 Days that grandparents have spent,
 Doing their usual everyday chore;
 Those were the good old days, that will be no more.
 From the past we all must sever,
 For the good old days are gone forever;
 Still their lingers in our memory,
 The hopes and dreams that used to be.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

"Let Your Conscience Be Your Guide"

That age-old saying has more meaning than is casually taken from it and can be good advice to the graduating seniors, who, I am sure, have more ability to weigh its potential than the dropout who, when asked, "How's your conscience?", replied, "Should be as good as new; it was never used!"

As we looked over that fine group of man and womanhood representing so many good homes and church memberships, we are hoping we can say something here that might help them maintain the clear conscience that was definitely essential to their present status.

Some will be going to college, some hoping to get steady work, and others looking forward to marriage and a home of their own. However, there is usually a feeling at this stage that, "I am on my own"—looking away from home ties, ALONE, to make my own decisions—that's where this fellow 'CONSCIENCE' comes in. "You are not alone." There are two of you; the outer-man (the body) and the inner man (the soul). Your conscience represents the counselor between the two and if kept clean, will never let you down. The way to keep it clean is a continuation of moral training that has brought you to your present high level and no one will know better when this is right than:

"THE MAN IN THE MIRROR"

It isn't your mother, your father or your wife,
 Who judgment upon you must pass;
 This fellow who's judgment counts most in your life,
 Is the one staring back from the glass.

He's the fellow to please, so forget all the rest,
 He is with you right down to the end;
 And you've passed your most dangerous, difficult test,
 If the man in the glass is your friend.

And when it comes time to be judged from above,
 And the life you have lived is no lie;
 God in his wisdom will crown you with love,
 And the man in the glass will not die.

Three U. of D. Faculty Members Promoted

Three University of Delaware faculty members were promoted to full professor Saturday by the board of trustees and an administrator was named a vice president.

New professors are Dr. Jack R. Vinson, chairman of the mechanical and aerospace engineering department; Dr. Charles H. Bohner, English, and Miss Mary E. Wines, home economics.

John E. Hocutt, who has served since 1952 as the university's dean of students, was made vice president for student affairs.

Trustees also approved the promotion of 13 faculty members to associate professor and six others to assistant professor.

Prof. Vinson, chairman of the department of mechanical and aerospace engineering for the past year, joined the University of Delaware in 1964 after a career as an industrial consultant and engineer.

He received his bachelor of mechanical engineering from Cornell University by completing a five-year curriculum, studied at Cambridge University in England for a year as a Rotary International Fellow, and received his Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1961.

During a five-year period ending in 1961, Dr. Vinson was functional engineer for General Electric Co. and directed the technical work of a group of 15 engineers and technicians in the performance of a million-dollar advanced structures program on missile and space vehicles.

He then spent three years as vice president and senior scientist with Dyna-Structures, Inc., consultants in applied mechanics for numerous firms on the East Coast.

Author of more than 80 technical papers, reports and other publications, Prof. Vinson belongs to the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the American Society of Civil Engineers, the Cambridge University Engineers Association, the Society of the Sigma Xi, Pi Tau Sigma, the American Society for Engineering Education.

Residing at 229 Cheltenham Road, Newark, Vinson is married and the father of four sons. A native Delawarean and a graduate of P.S. duPont High School in Wilmington, Dr. Bohner received his bachelor's degree cum laude from Syracuse University, and his master's and Ph. D. degrees from the University of Pennsylvania.

Before joining the University of Delaware in 1955, he taught at the Officer Candidate School at Fort Belvoir, Va., with the Army of Occupation on Okinawa, and as an instructor at Syracuse.

From January to May of 1965, he was in Europe as an American Specialist Grantee for the Department of State, lecturing at 19 universities in Germany, Yugoslavia, Finland, Norway and Ireland. He had traveled in Europe during the summers of 1957, 1958, 1960, and 1961.

During the past academic year Dr. Bohner coordinated the Eighteenth Century Arts Festival, which explored life in the 1700's through a series of lectures, musical and dramatic events, and art exhibitions. He was honored in 1964 with a University of Delaware Faculty Teaching Award.

Prof. Bohner has written two books—"Robert Penn Warren" in 1964 and "John Pendleton Kennedy: Gentleman from Baltimore" in 1961—plus numerous articles and reviews for professional publications. He is listed in "The Directory of American Scholars".

Married and the father of two, Dr. Bohner resides in Landenberg, Pa. He belongs to the modern Language Association and the American Studies Association, which he served as secretary-treasurer for several years.

Prof. Wines, with the University of Delaware since 1952, is a recognized authority in clothing and textiles who attempts to relate the social sciences and clothing by exploring psychological and sociological reasons for clothing selection.

Her Delaware career includes a year as acting dean of the College of Home Economics, service on numerous university and home economics committees, and membership in professional organizations. She was listed in "Who's Who Among American Women."

A graduate of Seton Hill College in Greensburg, Pa., Prof. Wines received her master of science degree from Cornell University in 1947. She has also studied at Syracuse, Penn State, Oregon State, and Iowa State universities.

Following her Seton Hill graduation, Prof. Wines taught home economics in junior and senior high schools in Williamsburg and Hanover, Pa., for six years. While at Hanover she was also supervising teacher for student teachers from Pennsylvania State University.

From 1943 to 1946, she served as communications officer with the Office of Naval Intelligence in Washington, D. C., and Cleveland. Following military service, she was employed by the Celanese Corporation of America as a home economist in educational and promotional work. Then she spent one year as an instructor at the State University of New York at Oneonta, N. Y., before moving to Delaware.

The trustees noted that Hocutt's new title more accurately reflects the university's concern for student life and student activities. Under the Dean of Students Office are student services, admissions, records, placement, student health, and residence hall programs. Student services include the dormitory and food service, counseling and testing, financial aid, the student center and many extracurricular activities.

Hocutt was the first Delaware dean of students, moving to Newark in 1952 from his post as dean of men and associate professor at the College of William and Mary.

He received his bachelor's degree in chemistry at William and Mary, then immediately joined the faculty there. Three years later he received his master of science degree from Ohio State University and returned to William and Mary as assistant dean of men and chemistry instructor.

He moved up the teaching ranks and in 1941 was named assistant to the president, and in 1946, dean of men.

Currently a captain in the U. S. Naval Reserve, Hocutt has for the past four summers directed an instructor training school at the Norfolk (Va.) Naval Station. He commands the Delaware Battalion of the U.S. Naval Reserve.

Hocutt is married and the father of a son and daughter. The family resides at 112 Bent Lane in Newark.

Faculty members promoted to associate professor are: Ralph P. Barwick, agricultural education; Gordon R. Bonner, business and economics; Paul P. Burbitus, entomology; Lucio Chiaraviglio, philosophy; E. Wayne Craven, art history; William M. Crosswhite, agricultural and food economics; John C. Kraft, geology; John H. Miller III, physics; William H. Mitchell, agronomy and agricultural engineering; Robert W. Stegner, education; Marenes R. Tripp, biological sciences; Conrad N. Trumbore, chemistry; and Richard J. Wednesday—7:30 p. m. Healing Service.

Thursday—7:30 p. m. Meeting of Camp Arrowhead Chaplains at Christ Church, Dover.

Friday—6 p. m. Saturday Diocesan Laymen's Conference at St. Andrew's School.

Sunday it will be the privilege of St. Stephen's to have as guest preacher, the Rev. Hayward Greene of the Metropolitan Methodist Church in Harrington. It is a pleasure to welcome the Rev. Mr. Greene to St. Stephen's. He has attended many meetings in our parish hall since he came to this vicinity in June of 1965 and we are happy to have him preach for us at the 10 o'clock hour. Mr. Greene is active in the Harrington Community Action Group as well as in the Harrington Ministerium. In Community Action he was helpful in laying the foundation for a Head - Start program for Harrington for the coming summer. On the following Sunday which is June 19, Father's Day, the Rev. Mr. Rice will be the guest speaker at the Metropolitan Methodist Church. This exchange of pulpits is part of the ecumenical movement which involves the following denominations: The Methodists, The Disciples of Christ, The Evangelical United Brethren, The United Presbyterians in the U.S.A., The United Church of Christ, The A.M.E. Church, the Episcopalians, and The Presbyterian Church, U.S.A.

The congregation will be grieved to hear of the resignation of Clyde Perry as Chairman of the committee on Buildings and Grounds. Actually, however, no one can be grieved Clyde a rest from his many duties in this capacity at St. Stephen's. He has actually been the whole committee! And for all these years has given generously of his time to the upkeep of the physical plant. We are happy to say that Clyde will continue as director of acolytes and as an active vestryman. Surely the Vicar speaks for everyone when he says that we could never show enough appreciation to Clyde for his good service through the years.

Since Mr. Perry is retiring as chairman of the Committee on Grounds and Buildings, it is going to be necessary for every person in the congregation to be even more careful than ever about the physical plant of the church; for instance each worshiper should see that kneelers, prayer books and hymnals are in place at the end of each service and that old bulletins, kleenex, etc., are not left in the pews. When anyone uses any part of the building, for any purpose, it should be his or her responsibility to leave it in an orderly fashion and to see that all windows are closed and doors locked. The use of the kitchen is particularly important where housekeeping is concerned. Counters should always be clean and clear of anything that can be put away in cabinets. It should be the duty of anyone who uses tea towels to take them home and bring them back clean. Dishes should never be left in the sink. In short, we must be more careful and it is a shame that it takes something like a resignation to bring this about. In this respect, I should like to hastily add that all of this has nothing to do with Clyde's reason for resigning. He simply finds that he is neglecting other needed tasks, and feels that perhaps someone else can take this part of the work here at St. Stephen's.

Moles Eat Insects While Digging Up Lawn

Many home gardeners may disagree, but actually moles should be considered beneficial. Although they may dig a network of tunnels through the lawn, they destroy many injurious insects in the soil, according to Dr. Dale Bray, chairman of the department of entomology and applied ecology at the University of Delaware.

Moles of the eastern United States feed almost entirely on earthworms, grubs and insects found in the soil. Often a mole will eat enough in one day to equal its own weight. Contrary to popular belief, moles don't chew the bark of shrubbery or eat flower bulbs, but mice and rats frequently use mole burrows and damage seeds tubers and plant roots; so the moles get the blame.

Control methods for moles should be used only when their burrows cause damage to cultivated land or lawns, Dr. Bray believes. Since moles dig extensive tunnels and rarely come to the surface of the ground, they are quite difficult to control.

The most dependable control is trapping; however, this is very slow. Poison baits and gas are seldom effective, Dr. Bray says.

The easiest way to control moles is to remove their food supply. Mole runways in a lawn or field usually a good indication of a grub infestation. Therefore, treating the area with chemicals to eliminate the grubs will decrease the food supply of the moles and they will usually move to another location in search of food.

To control grubs in the lawn, treat the areas containing the undesirable mole runways with chlordane or dieldrin. Use the rates recommended by the pesticide manufacturer. Following the application of the pesticide, water the lawn thoroughly. This type of treatment will last several years; don't apply chlordane or dieldrin every year, Dr. Bray warns.

The girls' who are to advance into Junior Girl Scouting next year were presented with their wings and girl scout pins at a fly-up ceremony. They were pinned by their brownie leaders, Mrs. Lucille Adamo and Mrs. Betty Friedland, and greeted by Junior Scouts as they "crossed over the bridge" from brownie scouting to Junior Scouting. The fly-ups were Nina Adamo, Joanne Matthews, Bonnie Friedland, Lu Ann McKnatt, Lisa Masten, Nancy Dill, Angela Minner, Laura Wetherhold, Anita Hawpe, Lisa Welch, and Sandra Passwaters.

Girl Scout Troop No. 679 is planning to go "twilight camping," Friday, June 10, at Wheeler's Park. They will go at 6:00 p. m., have a cook - out hike, play games, and sing around a campfire. They will have their court - of - awards ceremony where the girls will be presented with badges and honors they have earned. The girls who will be going into Cadette Scouting next year will be given their "coockades", which is an emblem to pin to their girl scout hat identifying them as Cadette Scouts. The parents are to pick them up at 10:00 p. m. at the park.

FENCE TALK

By George K. Vapaa

The farm problem of the last forty years has been one of displaced people. People whose farm jobs were taken by machines. Where did the people go? To cities looking for new jobs.

Now 70% of Americans live on 1% of the land—the huge cities. So today we have an urban problem. The Secretary of Agriculture, Orville Freeman, says, "We stack up three quarters of our people in the suffocating bins of the city." He proposes moving some industrial jobs back toward rural areas.

Modern transportation and communication facilities, plus a ready supply of rural labor suggest that it can be a good move. The evidence of new industry in Kent County is impressive. If the jobs are here, our young people can build their careers here too.

Dr. N. G. Chokkanna, of Madras, India, has been visiting his son in Dover. He is the father of N. C. Vasuki, who works with our State Water Pollution Commission. They made farm calls with me for this past week.

We attended the regular luncheon meeting with our pesticide workers at Harrington. Then we made a draft survey of a young farmer. This was followed by a short visit to the new Agway bulk fertilizer blending plant at Felton. Then a weed problem at Hollandville, with a farmer, Fletcher Price. Next a visit to see a self-propelled overhead irrigation system near Mud Mill. Finally a visit with Isaac Thomas, to see his fine herd and farm homestead.

Our visitor had spent thirty years conducting coffee research and extension work in southern India. He has a strong grasp of social and economic conditions in India. His country is trying desperately to increase its food supplies with modern farming methods. He feels the major problem with feeding India's people is poor transportation.

Dr. Chokkanna was trained as a chemist. He did his doctoral study in Germany while Hitler was in power, and says fervently: "One cannot imagine the horrors of a dictatorship unless he has lived with it."

We wish our guest well in his new career as regional executive of the Fertilizer Association of India, southern region. We are glad that his business trip to the Frankfurt Trade Fair in West Germany gave him the chance for a fortnight with his son in Dover.

The Dairy Festival at Houston this Saturday evening reminds us of June Dairy Month. The Houston Cardinals 4-H Club does a rousing job with the event each year.

The script has become traditional. Winsome 4-H girls line up to hand milk for one minute each from Alvin Brown's patient cow. George C. Simpson acts as weightmaster of the milk. Then the girls don party dresses and give a short talk on some of the phases of 4-H activity. Three judges then put their scores together to come up with a "Kent County Dairy Princess."

While the judges are out, the 4-H boys line up for a pie eating contest. Then George Simpson auctions off an assortment of homemade cakes and jumbo strawberries.

Want an entertaining evening with the family? Drive to Houston this Saturday evening. It's all free except for the refreshments.

Fred Mott's report to our Kent Soil and Water Conservation District supervisors has several items of general interest:

Walter Fry and Paul Sapp were anxious to have me see their newly constructed farm pond. It is one of the nicest things that has happened to that farm and they are both quite proud. Walter said, "I feel like I have finally made a permanent mark on the land and it feels good." It kinds of makes the whole business seem worthwhile, doesn't it? They already have a sign with the name of the pond on it—"Fur, Fish and Fin, Pond." Their wildlife pond, built a year ago, is marked with a directive sign calling that pond, "Paddle Foot Pond."

Several logs of petrified wood ere dug out in the excavation of the Mt. Friendship Tax Ditch. Most of them were covered with about two feet of silt.

Which conservation practice is most popular according to ACP requests?

- 1st. Cover Cropping
- 2nd. Seeding Permanent Sod
- 3rd. Ponds
- 4th. Wildlife Ponds
- 5th. Drainage
- 6th. Wildlife Seeding
- 7th. Land Leveling
- 8th. Forestry

The ACP lime program has been cut by 90% due to ACP restrictions this year. Drainage would be 4th, it is wasn't for the present ACP restrictions and 3rd, if it wasn't for the drought these past years.

Fishing reports from many farm ponds are very encouraging. The two best tell of a 5 1/2 pound bass taken in Lawrence Jarrell's pond and a 6 pound bass in Lawrence Ellery's pond.

Delaware Farm Labor News

State Summary

Hot weather has spurred asparagus growth and caused strawberries to ripen faster. More than 1300 Puerto Rican workers and approximately 175 Texas Mexican workers are harvesting asparagus at this time. More than 200 local workers are engaged in the strawberry harvest, manpower shortages are being reported throughout the area. Job openings have been received for general farm hands, dairy hands, as well as workers in the poultry industry.

Wilmington Area

Chilly nights early last week slowed growth of asparagus, so that workers could not work full time. Hot weather at end of the week changed this picture. There are 950 Puerto Ricans engaged in cutting asparagus. Weather also has affected the strawberry crop. Picking is just getting started and there is a shortage of pickers. The potato crop looks very good, and there are no signs of extensive use of irrigation yet. Current agricultural activities include cultivating, planting soybeans, and mowing hay.

Dover Area

Hot weather has reversed the asparagus harvest. There are approximately 200 Puerto Ricans and 175 Texas Mexicans cutting asparagus. Strawberry picking is scattered. Berries are of very good quality. The pea harvest will not get started until the end of this week. The potato and tomato crops are in fine condition. There has been no need for irrigation of these crops up to this time. Soybeans are being planted. Much needed cultivation is being done, hay is being mowed and baled.

Georgetown Area

Warm weather during the past four days have been a boom for all crops. Higher yields are expected for asparagus and strawberries this week. Pea harvesting is being started today, but a heavy yield is not expected until latter part of week. Laurel Auction Block reports strawberries good. Approximately 266 Puerto Rican Contract workers used to harvest asparagus. Blueberry harvest starts about June 15. Work will be available in the Georgetown area for agricultural workers.

Kaffeeklatch

Have a kabob! In skewer cooking, each person can construct and grill his own kabob. It's a good idea for an outdoor barbecue.

Kabobs are made by alternating chunks of food on skewers. Armenians use lamb and call them shish kabob, "shish" meaning skewer and "kabob", to broil. The Hawaiians call these teriak; the Russians, shashlik; the French, en brochette.

Long, green sticks, or metal skewers can be used for making kabobs. Metal skewers hold food in place best when they have a square or angular shaft rather than a round one. Wood handles stay cool and make skewers safer and easier to handle.

Use meat and vegetables which cook in the same time. This may mean that potatoes, onions and green peppers could be partially cooked ahead of time, or place meat on one skewer and each vegetable on a separate skewer. Have all meat cubes and all vegetable cubes the same size. Before broiling, season with salt and pepper. Brush with marinade, barbecue sauce or melted butter and lemon juice as they broil to keep moist and promote browning.

Chunks of meat cook more evenly and faster if not crowded on a skewer. Meat is more tender and flavorful if it stands in a marinade 24 hours. Turn kabobs to brown on all sides. Arrange coals in parallel rows for kabobs, so coals are spaced between kabobs—no flareups this way.

To serve, point skewer down and slip food, a few pieces at a time, onto plate with fork. Or, grasp food on a skewer with a hot dog bun and pull out of skewer. Then your sandwich is ready.

Hives

There are two kinds of hives. The most common kind is a nettle rash. In this there are swellings of the skin and terrible itching. The other variety is commonly called giant hives. In this form there may be but one large and very hard swelling.

The most common causes of hives are drugs, foods, or exposure to certain atmospheric conditions.

Hives often appear and disappear within the space of hours, but may persist for longer periods, become chronic, or recur persistently. They frequently disappear after several days unless the victim irritates or infects them.

You cannot cure hives by any local application. For temporary relief of the itching, certain antihistamine and hydro-cortisone lotions or powders are available. But until you find and remove the cause there will be repeated attacks.

Almost always a sudden acquired blemish of the skin is a danger warning. When a given drug causes a skin reaction, this should alert you to the fact that the drug does not agree with your system.

The condition may be caused by eating certain foods which are poisonous to some individuals. There are certain well-known offenders in the food list. Among these are shellfish and strawberries. But there are many others which are capable of causing real illness to susceptible individuals. Some of these foods are: chocolate, cocoa, nuts, peanut butter, fish, tomatoes, fresh pork, fresh fruits, and spice.

The climate should be kept in mind when one is susceptible to changes in temperature. Clothing must be selected with great care. Any garment which produces respiration should be discarded, as it will aggravate the itching. Consult your physician should the eruption persist.

Boggs Authorizes Five Year Study of Delmarva Penin.

Senator J. Caleb Boggs' bill authorizing a five-year study of the Delmarva Peninsula has received favorable action by a Senate subcommittee.

The Senate Interior Committee's subcommittee on water and power reported the bill as introduced by Senator Boggs and co-sponsored by Senator John J. Williams (R-Del) and Senators (D-Md) and Joseph D Tydings (D-Md).

Discovery last year of a large underground river in the southwestern corner of Sussex County and just north of Salisbury, Md., underscores the need for examination of water resources, Boggs said. In separate action, and at Boggs' urging, matching funds for the start of a Delmarva water study have been earmarked by the Senate in 1966 appropriations for the Geographical Survey branch of the Interior Department.

It now awaits action by the full committee.

Drought conditions in recent years as well as the expected water requirements which will accompany development of the Delmarva Peninsula, make such a study essential, in Sen. Boggs' view.

Also a matter for concern, he said, is possible damage of fresh water sources by salt water encroachment.

Add Thought And Love To Father's Day Gifts

Of course, fathers deserve recognition all year around. But, make this June 19, Father's Day, an extra-special "appreciation day" for father and grandfather, suggests Miss Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware.

Perhaps a book on the propagation and care of a favorite flower of a new plant itself—if this is the proper plant season would be appreciated. Several hours help with the weeding might be the most welcome gift of all—provided you can tell the weeds from the flowers.

A man who enjoys photography can probably use another gadget. A new light meter, a different type flash attachment, developing or enlargement equipment, a new projector or screen, a slide case or even a supply of film and flashbulbs will make most camera fans happy.

Whatever father prefers, a gift to increase his enjoyment is available. A golfer might be delighted with a new club or bag, a golf cart or a package of high grade golf balls.

A fisherman would undoubtedly be pleased with a new reel or pole, if you know which type he uses. Hip boots, landing net, bait box or creel—any one would make a good gift for a fishing father.

The easiest men to buy for are the fathers and grandfathers who collect things. Simply add to the collection, whether stamps, coins, guns or antiques.

The do-it-yourself man may already have a basement full of power tools; nonetheless, he could always use another small tool. Make sure tools are the best quality, advises Miss Morris.

For the man who reads, there is always a new and exciting book; for the man who enjoys music there is a new recording. As an added gift, make sure he has the leisure time to enjoy the book or record.

Of course, if he appreciates or needs new clothes, these, too, can be an excellent gift for Father's Day, according to Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing and textile specialist at the University of Delaware.

Consider his clothing likes and dislikes as well as his size before you buy, she advises. Does he spend a great deal of time outdoors or does he prefer to read or watch television inside? Does his business life require formal or casual clothes? Are there any fabrics he particularly likes, does he have special color preferences? Does he dress conservatively or does he like to wear the latest fashion?

If he likes the latest styles, consider one of the new wider ties, a widely striped pastel business shirt, or a boldly patterned sport shirt.

Easy care or permanent press fabrics for dress and sport shirts and for summer slacks and shorts are a welcome gift for mother as well as dad, Miss Reed adds. And don't forget to keep all the buttons sewed on.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

Cooking out-of-doors has certainly become the national pastime for many American people. Because of this, here are some timely tips to make the job a bit easier and help save many a cook's patience.

First, start the fire 30 to 60 minutes ahead of time to make certain you have a bed of hot coals.

Next, rub the grill with suet or salad oil to prevent the meat from sticking to the bars. Be sure you trim off excess fat from meat, this helps prevent flames and smoke. Don't make the mistake of trimming too close because you need some fat to give your meat flavor. Now you are ready to place the meat on the grill. Use long tongs for this job, also for turning the meat and be sure to keep the pieces of meat separated so they may cook evenly.

If coals flame, douse with a little water: A sprinkling can, clothes sprinkler, or a child's water gun will do the job nicely. When the time comes to replenish the fuel, simply add the briquettes at the edge of the fire so heat is constant with no smoke. If you have chosen to use the rotisseries to cook your meat then use a drip pan of heavy-duty aluminum foil under the meat to prevent smoke and flames.

After the cooking is completed, scoop the hot briquettes into a pan or can, using a short-handled dust pan. Cover closely to smother the fire and save the fuel for another time.

What to cook outside? Right now many chuck cuts of beef are bidding for a place on the outdoor grill. Some of these may need to be marinated over night to help make them tender. Of course, nothing can be better than a succulent piece of tender steak.

Frying chicken continues to be a bargain and they can be bought in just about any form. This meat, too, is perfect for the outdoor cook.

The deviled egg season has definitely opened and prices are lower on Grade A eggs. Both large and medium sizes have dropped in price and they are both very attractive buys.

Fresh vegetables and fruits continue to arrive in bigger volume and prices are becoming more reasonable. When shopping, be sure to check watermelons, cantaloupes, bananas, strawberries, green beans, asparagus, peppers, kale, and eggplant all are on special sale.

Ornamental Disease Notes

By Wm. J. Manning, J. W. Heuberger

The name Dutch elm disease is a confusing one for many homeowners. The name implies that it is found on "Dutch Elms" or that it was found originally in Holland. Both of these implications are false, as many kinds of elms are susceptible and the disease was first found in Northern France and Belgium in 1918. The disease is called Dutch elm disease because much of the early investigation of its nature was done by plant pathologists in Holland.

Dutch elm disease is caused by the fungus Ceratocystis ulmi. Spores of this fungus are carried by American and European bark beetles from one tree to another in the spring. As the beetles feed, the spores are introduced into the tree and the tree becomes diseased. The fungus can also be spread from trees to tree by root grafts. The tree responds with a sudden wilting and yellowing of the leaves on small branches and sometimes on whole limbs. This pattern progresses until the entire tree is killed. Brown discoloration is usually evident in the sapwood of diseased trees.

Small branches that show symptoms should be removed and burned. Dead trees should also be cut down and burned as the fungus remains in them through the winter. The best control, however, is to use insecticide sprays in the spring to kill the bark beetles and stop their spread of the spores of the fungus.

All American and European elms are susceptible. Most Asiatic elms are resistant. A selected variety of European elm, "Christine Buisman", is considered to be highly resistant.

Verticillium Wilt of Maple

Every year many Norway, silver, red, sugar, and Japanese maples are killed or damaged by a vascular wilt disease. This disease is caused by the fungus Verticillium albo-atrum. The fungus lives in the soil and probably gets into the tree through the roots. The fungus spreads rapidly through the tree and causes a sudden wilting of the leaves on small branches, larger limbs or the whole tree. The sapwood of diseased trees is characteristically streaked or flecked green.

Badly diseased trees should be cut down and burned. Replanting in the same site is not recommended, since the fungus is still present in the soil. Small diseased limbs can be cut off and burned. A regular fertilization program may help to save partially diseased trees for a few more years.

Lion Track Marks Continue to Improve

Harrington High School fielded its first track and field team, in the modern era, in 1957. An abbreviated schedule was followed that first year with 1958 seeing a full slate of meets.

At the end of that second season the school records were as follows:

- 100 yard dash—Jim Schiff 10.1
- 220 yard dash—Jim Schiff 22.4
- 440 yard dash—Jim Coady 57.
- 880 yard run—Dwight Hackett 2.18

- Mile—Dwight Hackett 4.57
- Mile Relay—4:01.5
- Pole Vault—Don Garey, 9 feet, 9 inches

- High Jump—Dave Welch, 5 feet, 2 inches
- Broad Jump—Joe Klimant, 18 feet, 8 1/2 inches

- Shot put—Bob Wilson, 39 feet, 7 inches
- Javelin—Bob Wilson, 131 feet
- Discus—Phil Holson, 112 feet

Only one of those 12 records remains after the assault by Lion trackmen over the past eight years. Jim Schiff's 220 mark of 22.4 was done in a trial heat of the Delaware State meet in 1958. Dick Jeffers, track coach at that time, shouted to Schiff to ease up and save his strength for the final. This is standard procedure, of course, but one wonders how fast Schiff would have gone that day if he had been running without restraint.

In 1959 Schiff lowered the 100 yard to ten seconds flat, a time equaled this year by Frank White. Schiff ran the 440 only once but blazed to a record 53.6 in the final start of his high school career.

Dwight Hackett's 2.18 for the half mile has been exceeded many times. Chris Wetherhold, a seventh grader, can beat that clocking already.

Records as of now, give or take a few tenths or inches:

- 100—Jim Schiff 1959, Frank White 1966 - 10.
- 220—Jim Schiff, 1958 - 22.4
- 440—Jim Schiff, 1959 - 53.6
- 880—Dennis Rogers, 1965-2:06.4

- Mile—Harry Knotts, 1961 - 4:38
- 2 Mile (new event in 1964)—Gerry Garey, 10.54 in 1966.

- 880 Relay (new event in last few years), 1:35, Dan Hicks, Marshall Jackson, Jim White, Frank White, 1966

- Mile Relay—3:39.1, Bob Smith, Barry Fry, Richard Black, Dennis Rogers, 1964

- Shot put—Joe Taylor, 44 feet, 6 inches, 1964
- Javelin—Randy Knox, 153 plus, 1964

- Discus—John Taylor, 124 feet, 1959
- Pole Vault — Frank Cain, 11 feet, 1965-65

- High Jump — George Pfeiffer, 5 feet, 9 inches, 1961
- Broad Jump — George Pfeiffer, 20 feet, 6 1/2 inches, 1961

- To carry this survey one step farther we would like to list the best performances this past track season by some of the young athletes who will be back next year.

- 100—Dan Hicks, 10.5
- 220—Jim White, 23.5
- 440—Jim White, 54.5

- 880 — Chris Wetherhold, 2:19; Oscar Matthews, 2:22; John Brown, 2:23.

- Mile — Chris Wetherhold, 4:51.1
- 2 Mile — Nick Morris, 11:15

- 880 Relay — Hicks and White return of the quartet.

- Mile Relay—Jim White is the only one back here.

- Broad Jump — Hicks, 18 feet, 2 inches
- High Jump—Harold Coleman, 5 feet, 6 inches.

- Pole Vault—Nick Morris, 9 feet 9 inches.
- Shot put—Bill Moore, 37 feet
- Discus — Harold Coleman, 105 feet

- Javelin—Jim Simpler, 138 feet

An undefeated junior high squad will probably augment the above group and should assure respectable seasons for the next few years.

Mayor and Mrs. Luther P. Hatfield celebrated their wedding anniversary June 7.

Letter To Sports Editor

Mr. Burgess:

I have in my possession one medium-sized Girl Scout cookie box of trophies that you, and other sponsors in the Middle Atlantic area, awarded me while I was trying to find a meaning to life by running three mile foot races on hot, humid and sticky Delmarva streets and racing tracks. My wife, Sandy, and I, have just added a boy to the family, and this 1-month-old has taken over my old room; hence, my trophies must go for reasons that you won't have to face the "Whiteyburg Whip" in 1967.

Motter was selected to the All-Henlopen Conference team along with teammates Ellis Myer and Sam Knox. Myer made the grade as a pitcher, Knox as a utility infielder, despite a bad arm. Sam hurt his shoulder playing football and the injury plagued him throughout the basketball and baseball seasons.

Motter banged out 15 hits in 37 trips to the plate for a robust .405 batting average. He was the only Lion to get four hits in one game and he did that against Milton's Henlopen champions. On another occasion Steve laced out three hits in a game. Only catcher Dean Manges on the Lion team could equal this feat.

Chuck McNally did not get off the bench until the last inning of the third game but he belted a home run in his first turn at bat. He went on to record a healthy .333 for the runnerup position.

Sophomore Terry Yoder (.259) is the only hitter in the top five, who will be back next season.

John Creighton, 904 La Grange Ave. Cambridge, Md.

John Creighton was a Delaware State champion in the mile run while competing for Mt. Pleasant High, Wilmington. Several years ago this writer organized and directed a series of three-mile runs in Delmarva Peninsula towns in connection with various festivals, centennials, fairs, etc. The first of these was held at the fair here in Harrington and was a big success. Creighton was just out of high school and West Stack of Seaford, had just completed an outstanding season as a runner for University of Delaware freshman teams. This pair brought the crowd to its feet when, after running 2 3/4 miles, they sprinted the last quarter of a mile side by side with the older Stack winning in the last few strides. As Creighton crossed the finish line the audience noted another home-stretch duel taking place. Harry Knotts, a H.H.S. sophomore was battling with a high school junior from South Dorchester, Md., John Murphy. The Maryland lad from south of Cambridge was a Maryland State champion but Knotts was too much for him. This set'o was scarcely over when John Preston, a 190 pounder from Wilmington, held off Herb Jarvis, of Wilmington, in another fast and furious finish. Many in the crowd had seen horse races before, but had never witnessed a long distance race involving humans. For several days afterward, we were meeting people who would tell us how much they enjoyed the race. They were amazed at the fine physical condition of these mere human beings.

Creighton turned down offers of athletic scholarships when he won an academic scholarship by Swarthmore. Stack went on to become one of the greatest distance runners ever to perform at the University of Delaware.

We hope to use these trophies to start some kind of a running program in Harrington this summer. In the cool of the evening, of course.

WHEAT ALLOTMENT

A 1966 wheat crop presently estimated at about 1.4 billion bushels.

The chairman explained that there have been, in effect, two acreage allotments for wheat under the law. The basic 1967 wheat crop acreage allotment applicable to most wheat farms in major wheat-producing states is 55 million acres, compared with 47.8 million acres this year. In addition, about 4.3 million acres will be available to producers with small acreages who prior to 1964 could plant wheat in excess of their farm allotments—up to 15 acres—without being subject to marketing quotas. For the period 1964 through 1966, when marketing quotas were not in effect, the allotment for such farms was equal to the higher of the allotment computed on the basis of 55 million acres or the allotment computed on the basis of the 1959-61 average acreage of wheat. The increased allotment on such small farms in 1966 totaled 3.8 million acres.

As in previous years, eligibility for price-support loans and wheat marketing certificates is contingent upon the producer's complying with conservation and other program features. However, because of the increased allotments, no acreage diversion will be required for the 1967 crop.

posed system was speeded up last week when the county was notified it would no longer be eligible for aid programs under the Office of Economic Development. However, the OED said it would accept applications within 30 days from the date of the notice, May 27.

Williams and Levy Court President James B. Messick are confident an application can be prepared in time. Messick is hopeful of hand-delivering the application in Washington next week.

Williams said he would rely heavily on data already compiled by State Planner John A. Bivens Jr. and John C. Bryson, water pollution director.

Supplementary information would come from Bivens office; from substantiating statements from industry and businesses, and from other agencies such as the Shell Fisheries Commission and Game and Fish Commission.

"The important thing is to get the application in," Williams said. "Once it is in, using the best possible estimates, we can get in this short time, we can have it amended at a later date."

One of the demanding tasks, Messick said, is gathering information to show that a county-wide sewer system will be beneficial to the shellfish industry, health, agriculture, recreational and industrial interests.

Messick said he is planning a meeting with officials at Dover Air Force Base to discuss the project. He said he hopes to get the base's official support. He also indicated assistance may be sought from the state's congressional delegation.

The contract states the firm will be due 40 per cent of the $30,000 when engineers certify 50 per cent of the study is complete; 70 per cent upon 80 per cent completion and 100 per cent when the study is completed.

Messick estimates the project will cost about $10 million. By meeting the application deadline and pending approval by the EDA, the county hopes to save $5 million in federal grants.

Miss Delaware Pageant Set For June 12

Everything is set for Rehoboth Beach's first Miss Delaware Pageant at the Convention and Civic Center Sun, June 12.

The sixteen level contestants, representing all parts of the state, will begin to arrive Friday night and Saturday. Rehearsals of talent number will be held Saturday afternoon and evening, according to pageant director Miles L. Frederick. The pageant is sponsored by Rehoboth Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Frederick noted that Miss America pageant officials have taken special interest in the event and Miss America—Miss Debbie Bryant, of Kansas—will make a personal appearance at Convention Hall during the presentation. The program gets under way at 8 p.m. Sunday evening.

Among Miss America pageant officials expected to attend are John Rowe, president; George Cavalier, national producer, and William Muncie, national field director. Mrs. Charles Brunjaes, president of the Miss California pageant, and a former Miss Vermont, Mrs. George L. Miller, of Dover, are also attending.

Miss America is expected to arrive Sunday at 5 p.m., when she will be greeted by Delaware's Lieutenant Governor Sherman L. Tribbitt. A press conference will follow. Then the contestants will join in a motorcade which will include a ride down the boardwalk at approximately 5:45 p.m. Miss Bryant will relate some of her experiences this past year during the pageant performance.

The sixteen talented Delaware girls will run the gamut in the talent competition from ballet and interpretative dance, to karate, dress designing and flower arranging. Frederick said the show seems well balanced and should run smoothly with the background music of Chuck Laskin's Orchestra. The Laskin group opened Steel Pier just a few weeks ago.

In keeping with national policy, prizes for the winners are scholarships and other valuable gifts. The new Miss Delaware will receive a $1,000 Pepsi-Cola Scholarship, sponsored by the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Companies of Salisbury, Md., and Wilmington, of which William E. Morgan and Arthur G. Broll are respective presidents.

All of the girls will ride in style while they are in Rehoboth Beach. Each will be furnished with a 1966 Oldsmobile Convertible for transportation to various activities and the convention center. They are furnished through the courtesy of Eastern Division, General Motors Corporation.

Each of the contestants will receive gifts of bracelets, candy, and other gift certificates at the end of the contest. The two runners-up will have the opportunity to take two-year courses at Brandywine Junior College, Wilmington, for which the institution is awarding $800 scholarships.

Bill Glynn, well known master of ceremonies in the Rehoboth Beach area, will keep the show moving along with Miss Ellen Warren, Miss Maine of 1964. The couple will do song and dance numbers between the evening presentations. The entire production is called "We Are Tomorrow" and has a college-based theme.

The contestants, the committees they represent, and their sponsors are as follows:

Miss Brandywine Hundred, Cheryl Diane Clark, sponsored by Brandywine Jaycees.
