

WINDOWS TO BE DEDICATED AT ST. STEPHEN'S CHURCH

On this coming Sunday, August 7, at the 10 a.m. service, two stained-glass windows will be dedicated at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Harrington.

One window in the choir will be dedicated in memory of the late George R. Johnson, who was for many years an active member of St. Stephen's. Confirmed in 1921 in Philadelphia, Mr. Johnson married Mrs. Hester Johnson of Baltimore in 1930, who was confirmed at St. Stephen's in 1958. Together they served St. Stephen's long and well. Mr. Johnson was vestryman and president of the Men of St. Stephen's. Having fought in France in World War I, he was a member of the C.K.R.T. American Legion Post No. 7 in Harrington. The window was purchased through friends and members of St. Stephen's as an expression of their devotion.

A recent picture of Mr. Johnson was not available.

The other window is in honor of the former Vicar of St. Stephen's, the Rev. John R. Symonds, Jr., who is at present rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Blytheville, Ark. It was purchased by the people of St. Stephen's to show their esteem for the vicar under whom their church membership increased over 1000 per cent and under whom the present beautiful church, parish hall and education building were built.

When the Rev. John Symonds resigned his charge to move to Blytheville, he was serving as president of the Harrington Rotary Club, President of Friends of Youth Association of Delaware, Inc., a Commissioner of the Delaware Commission on Children and Youth, the Harrington Red Cross Home Service director, the Chaplain of American Legion Post No. 7, the State Chaplain of the Department of Delaware, a member of the Delaware Bay Council, advisor to the Youth Services Commission, a member of the Harrington Ministerial Association, and an associate member of the Harrington Volunteer Fire Department.

In June, 1959, he was selected as the Man of the Year and was presented with the trophy awarded each year in the City of Harrington.

During his service in Harrington, he served on the Executive Council of the Diocese of Delaware, the Department of Christian Social Relations, the Department of Christian Education, the Department of Ecumenical Relations, the Cathedral Chapter of St. John, the Children's Bureau of Delaware, the Board of Directors of the State Council of Churches, the Del-Mar Migrant Committee, the Kent-Sussex Migrant Committee, the Kent County Youth Convocation, as the Troop Committee Chairman of Troop No. 76, and as a member of the P.T.A.

Mr. Symonds is a member of B.P.O.E. Lodge No. 15, Washington, D. C., the University Club of Wilmington, Dud Cason Post 24 American Legion, the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity, and the Blytheville Ministerial Alliance. He is a member of the Executive Board of the Blytheville Development Council, and serves as the chairman of the Blytheville City Beautiful Commission. He is a member of the Diocesan Department of Promotion and served as co-chairman of the department.

Summer Music Classes Close

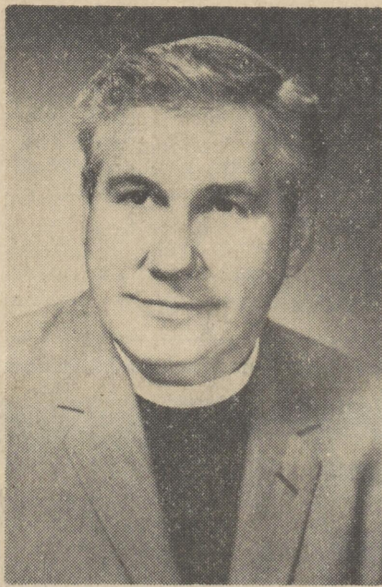

The summer music classes sponsored by the Harrington Special School District came to a close last week with over one hundred children of the district enrolled.

Classes were held for the past six weeks in all band instruments for beginners, intermediate, and advanced players.

One of the highlights of the session was a bus trip to Hershey, Pa., where the students and their chaperones visited the Hershey Chocolate Plant and spent the afternoon at the Hershey Amusement Park. On the way home in the evening a stop was made at Strasburg, near Lancaster, where a ride was taken on the Strasburg railroad.

All instruction was given during the summer free of any charge except for a small registration fee.

The concert by the three school bands that usually closed the summer music sessions was canceled this year due to a conflict with the preview of the fair last Friday night. Plans for next year's summer music classes will include an earlier date for the outdoor band concert so as to avoid any undue conflict.

Deputy Treasurer Carey Sworn In

Lawrence E. Carey, of Seaford, was sworn in Monday morning at deputy state treasurer, succeeding the late Andrew C. O'Neal, of Laurel.

Carey, 33, has operated a barbershop in Seaford for the past two years. Before that, he was employed with a firm of certified public accountants in Seaford; a Salisbury, Md., finance company, and the DuPont Co.

Carey is a member of the Seaford and Nanticoke Democratic clubs.

O'Neal, who died June 30, had been deputy for more than 10 years under both Democratic and Republican treasurers.

Mrs. Belle Everett, state treasurer, publicly expressed her thanks to Thomas Brand, deputy state tax commissioner, who has worked in the treasurer's office since O'Neal's death.

Mrs. Everett also announced that the audit of the treasurer's office books for the fiscal year ending June 30 showed the books in perfect order.

Draper Seen As Messick Successor

William H. Draper Jr. will be appointed to Kent County Levy Court succeeding James B. Messick, then will run for the seat this fall according to the Democratic county chairman.

Although the appointment will be made by Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr., party chairman Vernon B. Derrickson Monday said, "It's our agreement and understanding" that Draper will be the appointee.

Messick recently was appointed by Terry to Superior Court. If he is confirmed by the Senate Aug. 2, he will have to resign as president of Levy Court.

Draper also is a Dover attorney and has been active in party affairs. He has served as secretary of the county Democratic committee and was an attorney to the House of Representatives, along with Messick, in 1961.

Derrickson said that Draper already has filed to run. The filing was done in secret shortly after Messick learned he was to be appointed a judge.

Messick accepted the filing fee in his other capacity as secretary of the county committee.

Derrickson said that George Records, a Dover real estate man, has also indicated his interest in running for the Levy Court post, but has not posted his filing fee.

If Draper is appointed to Levy Court, he will not necessarily be county president. The three commissioners elect their president.

Tunnell Becomes Active Candidate

James M. Tunnell Jr., Wilmington attorney, Wednesday became an active candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

The former justice of the Delaware Supreme Court said six weeks ago he would strive for election if nominated, but would not actively seek the nomination. Since then he has been endorsed and urged to run by countless Democratic groups.

Wednesday he replied to the latest such urging in a letter to Levy Court Commissioner John D. Daniello, chairman of the 11th District Democratic Committee.

Tunnell told Daniello: "You're the most recent request of its kind, but others have come from rank and file Democrats, party leaders, party committees, independents and individuals whose personal friendship transcends party allegiance. This has had its effect upon my feelings. Moreover, it has become increasingly clear that if the campaign for election is to be vigorous and effective, no time can be wasted.

"For these reasons I have decided that from now on I shall be an active candidate..." He said he would "attend political gatherings and do the other things expected of a candidate."

Tunnell added that his pre-

Brenda Lee Is Fair's Final Night Feature

Doll-sized Brenda Lee, also known as "Miss Dynamite," is scheduled to show Delaware at the grandstand shows tomorrow evening.

Brenda Lee, who looks like a little girl and sings like a woman, began her skyrocketing career at a kiddie talent contest when she was six years old. Making her first network television appearance in 1956, she has frequently been a guest on the Perry Como, Ed Sullivan, Danny Thomas, Steve Allen, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Bob Hope and many other national video showcases in this country and abroad.

Her recordings read like a who's who of the Hit Parade, beginning in 1956 with "Jambalaya" and on through such hits as "Sweet Nothin'," "I'm Sorry," "Emotions," "Dum Dum," "Fool Number One," "All Alone Am I," and "Break It To Me Gently."

State Fair Weekend Crowds Larger

Weekend attendance at the Delaware State Fair in Harrington was "the best I can remember," fair manager George C. Simpson said recently.

He said 2200 were present for the fair's official opening Saturday afternoon, 10,953 Saturday night, and 6,172 Sunday afternoon for a weekend total of 19,325.

This report is well above the 13,315 for the same period last year, when rain held down attendance.

Although it was not an official part of the fair, more than 2,000 attended a demolition derby on the grounds Friday night.

"The weather's been good," Simpson said. "Now if it would only rain a little between midnight and 5 a. m."

Simpson noted the fair's exhibits have been made more accessible by new parking regulations, which, he said, are working well. There is a special lot for exhibitors, who no longer are allowed to park next to exhibit structures.

Minimum Driving Age of 18 Urged by State Safety Unit

The minimum age for licensing drivers should be 18, state officials and members of the Governor's Committee on Highway Safety agreed Tuesday.

The committee met with representatives of the state's driver education program and Russell W. Whitby, motor vehicle commissioner.

All appeared to be agreed that the minimum licensing age should be raised from 16 to 18, with exceptions being made for graduates of driver education who would be eligible for licenses at age 16.

The committee took no formal action on the proposal, and such a change would require legislative action.

Robert Massafieri, supervisor of driver education, said a budget increase of $37,000 above the present $305,000 would be needed to offer universal driver education in public schools next fall, he said.

The problem, he and others agreed, would come in extending driver education to all private and parochial schools in the state, which would be more difficult and costly.

The change could not be made in time to affect next year's program, in any case, because the legislature has quit for the year.

Massafieri and Whitby also agreed Tuesday that the Motor Vehicle Department will continue to require driving tests of all driver education graduates before they are licensed.

The two officials accepted in general a proposal by Sen. Margaret Manning, R-Marshallton, that all driver education graduates be issued 60-day learner permits when they reach 16 so that they can be active driving their family cars before being tested for the regular licenses.

Whitby and Massafieri scheduled a meeting next week with several committee members to work out the details of an arrangement under which driver education instructors in the high schools will continue to give the written tests and the Motor Vehicle Department will administer the road tests.

The details are to be made public at the next safety committee meeting Aug. 24.

Tuesday's meeting was arranged after Massafieri, Sen. Manning, and others complained that Whitby's department had begun spot-checking driver education graduates with no previous warning.

They also charged that they were not notified in advance of Whitby's decision to start requiring road tests of all driver education graduates, which became effective July 10.

At the committee meeting, it was apparent that all sides agreed that the road tests should be administered. The objection was to the method of beginning the tests.

Whitby said his records show that 30 to 40 per cent of the driver education graduates checked since his department began testing them have failed their road tests.

He also said that of 135 names of the driver education graduates of the last two years picked from his files at random, 34 have records of driving offenses.

He said, "The only thing wrong with the (driver education) program is that they don't get enough road work."

Mrs. Manning proposed that the students, after completing driver education, receive learners' permits upon their 16th birthdays so they can practice driving their family cars before taking the road test for drivers' licenses.

An agreement based on this proposal is expected to come from the meeting of Whitby and Massafieri.

Blue Shield Benefits Climb

Memberships and benefits of the 84 Blue Shield Plans in the United States, Puerto Rico, and Canada continued to climb during the first three months of 1966, the National Association of Blue Shield Plans announced Monday.

Membership increased 543,170 during the first three months of 1966 to a record 58,453,324, up over 2 million from a year ago.

Benefits paid out amounted to $363,866,053, an increase of almost $29 million over last year's first quarter.

In the first quarter of 1966, 92.8 per cent of premium income was returned to subscribers in benefits, up .8 per cent over the first quarter of 1965.

Included in the total enrollment figure is the membership of Medical Indemnity of America, Inc., a stock company wholly owned by the National Association of the Blue Shield Plans.

During the first three months of 1966, membership gains were reported by 60 Plans, 22 had losses, and two remained the same. Gains totaled 651,113 while losses amounted to 107,943.

The .9 per cent enrollment increase in the first three months brought Blue Shield coverage in the United States to 27.6 per cent of the population.

Blue Shield now covers 26.7 per cent of the Canadian population and 4.3 per cent of the population of Puerto Rico.

Miss Taylor Returns From FHA Meeting

Miss Harlene Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan F. Taylor, of near Greenwood, returned home July 20 after attending the national meeting of the Future Homemakers of America, which was held in St. Louis, Mo., July 13-16.

Harlene was one of 1100 FHA delegates representing a national membership of over 600,000 high school students studying home economics. Other delegates from Delaware were Miss Susan Weimann, national vice president; her mother, Mrs. Norman Weimann and her advisor, Miss Constance Parvis. Also were Miss Maxine Elliott, state president; her advisor, Mrs. Margaret Nelson, and Mrs. Jeanne Conner, advisor to Harlene Taylor.

The St. Louis meeting launched the 21st birthday celebration of the Future Homemakers of America. Harlene reports that the historical pageant "The Past is to Build On," presented by FHA members on the second day of the meeting (July 13), was a real inspiration. She said:

"Our historical pageant carried out the conference theme of '21 Years—A Foundation for Progress.' Some of the people who were in on the original plans took part and the pageant ended with a representative of the Home Economics College Clubs lighting the Betty Lamp (symbol of the American Home Economics Association) with these words: 'We have before us the light of home economics—a light which radiates throughout the world. This is the light of our ideals—our purposes, which enable us to make our homes, communities, nation, and world a happier place to live.'"

We learned so much at the meeting it's hard to say what was the most outstanding event. We heard from leaders in the education field, held some wonderful workshop sessions, elected our new national officers, had a chance to do some sightseeing, and enjoyed a night at the St. Louis Municipal Opera seeing the Broadway hit 'Can Can'."

Harlene will be a junior at Greenwood High School this fall and holds the office of State Vice President in FHA.

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa

Our farm and home field day at the Georgetown Substation of the University of Delaware is Wed., Aug. 10. This is when the public can see our farm research on parade. Except that our audience does the parading so to speak. We furnish free guided bus tours over the farm.

Dry weather problems have been numerous for all Delaware farmers. A great deal of research effort aims at solving these questions. Our subsurface irrigation is the most spectacular. It seems to show the strongest promise for the small homeowner and his garden and lawn. Dr. Donald Fieldhouse is working with plastic mulches, antitranspirants, and with dwarfing compounds to produce a more compact plant.

A fried chicken platter is served under the grove of trees at the substation. Free watermelon is offered about 3 p.m. to top off the afternoon events.

We hope to attract 1000 people this year. Our crowds have been growing each year. 1966 marks the 25th anniversary of the substation.

First call for our Delaware Dairy Tour to Virginia on Aug. 16, 17, 18. Our dairymen have received the schedule of events in the Dairy Digest. Others can get the details from our county extension offices. Our telephone number is 736-1448.

We're going to the Culpepper and Richmond areas. We will make seven herd visits where there are from 80 to 375 milk cows. The Norfolk Navy Yard and the Bridge-Tunnel are other points of interest.

We will use an air-conditioned bus leaving from the old Board of Agriculture building near The Green in Dover. Total estimated cost for the bus, motel room for two nights, and all meals is $45 per person. Of this amount, $22 is paid as a reservation for the bus fare and three meals.

This is an annual event. We have several families who make this short vacation prior to the fall harvest season. So call us for reservations if you would like to go. Our bus capacity is limited to 41 people.

Maple trees lose leaves and die back along certain limbs at this time of year. One cause may be a fungus, Verticillium albo-atrum. At sure sign is green streaks found in leaf stems or branches of the affected portions.

A tree may be infected and live on several years. But dead and dying branches should be pruned. Be sure to sterilize all pruning tools with wood alcohol after use to prevent the spread of the fungi.

You should promote tree growth with fertilizer containing ammonium sulfate. Also water the tree during dry periods.

We must admit that this is only a delaying action. One should think about replacing with another tree.

The 1964 farm census figures for Kent County and for Delaware have finally been cranked through the computer. We're told that later census reports will now come much faster because the coding has been established.

Total farms in the county declined to 1219, a drop of almost 300 in the five-year period. But the average size of farm increased to 190 acres, a gain of 25 acres. Average per acre land values are estimated at $293, a gain of $98 in the same period.

The average age of Kent County farmers is just under 51. But 17% are over 65 years of age. This follows a national trend. It would be interesting to know the size of farms operated by younger farmers. We suspect that younger farmers rent a large portion of the land they till. As they build a stake, they tend to buy up more land.

Within limits, the larger farm units should operate more efficiently. They can afford the big machines that speed up the quantity and quality of tillage and of harvest. However, it is the man in management that determines how profitable any given farm may be.

Unconventional Use For Fall Fabrics
Planning for fall wardrobes begins in mid-summer for women who sew. This fall's fashions make unconventional use of fabrics, according to Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing and textile specialist at the University of Delaware.
Fabrics and colors are no longer seasonal. The sunny, bright colors of spring are equally emphasized this fall. Colors may combine or clash; many fashions are totally dependent for their style on the use of color. The "little black dress" is taking a back seat to bold colors.
Summery sheer fabrics are floating into winter usage and cold climate colors are used in the sun, Miss Reed points out. Corduroy and velour are being used for swim suits this season, while sheer voile, so popular for summer shirts and beach coats, is used for fall in straight styles, often lined.
Flouting convention, decorator fabrics are featured for fashion, and fashion fabrics are used for interior decorating. Heavy linen decorator prints have been a popular fabric for sleeveless summer dresses, while cotton velvets and corduroys or crushed or cut velvets are the newest fabrics for interior decor.
Elegant decorator fabrics will be in style for dramatic evening fashions this fall, Miss Reed believes. Velvet, chiffon, and glittery brocade and matelasse are always popular for evening and holiday wear, but embroidered and beaded fabrics are the newest rage.
Men and women are trading fashion fabrics this fall. Men's shirts are featuring velours and the bright paisley prints, while crisp twills and hard-finished wovens, usually associated with men's wear, lend themselves to women's wear.
Knits continue in popularity. Textile technology has produced new designs, textures and fiber blends for attractive, comfortable and shape-retaining knitwear, Miss Reed points out. Some are bonded for a stiffer appearance and for easy sewing. New synthetic variations of double and triple knits are being introduced for fall.
Reversible fabrics are in the fall fashion news. Gingham reverse to poplin; wool plaids reverse to solid flannel; and checked knits reverse to a plain knit. They are made in a variety of ways and require different sewing techniques to benefit from the beauty of the double-faced fabric, according to Miss Reed.

If you are planning to freeze fresh fruit this summer tuck a few words of wisdom under your belt before you begin.
What you take out of the freezer will be no better than what you put in. Be sure to choose really fresh fruits. Use the unblemished, firm, just-ripe product.
If you've been disappointed with fruit darkening during storage or as it thaws try this trick of the trade. A blend of ascorbic acid (vitamin C) and citric acid is almost necessary for many fruits. If you can't remember those names, just ask for the stuff that keeps fruit from turning dark. It's usually available near other freezing supplies. Directions for using it with different fruits will be on the label. It not only helps preserve the natural color and flavor, but increases the amount of vitamin C in the diet.
Some fruits store best in sugar syrup, other may be dry sugar packed. The ascorbic mixture is added to the sugar or the cold syrup before it is combined with the fruit. When using a dry pack with the mixture. For a syrup pack there should be enough syrup to cover. To prevent leakage from a syrup pack use a rigid container (rather than box and plastic bag). Blueberries, some other berries, and cantaloupes are usually frozen without sugar.

For the weight-watcher fruits may be frozen without sugar or syrup. Artificial sweetener would be added just before serving. However, the lack of sugar or syrup makes the storage period a great deal shorter. Packages of fruit should be used frequently in the first few months of storage. If the fruit show any sign of rapid change use them up in a hurry to avoid waste. Unsweetened fruit juice or sometimes water with ascorbic mixture will help retain both color and flavor. Be sure to label these special packs.

Grave Concern Over Increase In Traffic Fatalities

James T. Ferri, president of the Delaware Safety Council expressed grave concern over Delaware's alarming increase in traffic fatalities during the month of July.

Ferri said that July's motor vehicle fatalities surpassed the previously set record for any given month in Delaware, since September, 1958 which totaled nineteen.

"If traffic fatalities continue to occur at their present rate at approximately one a day," Ferri continued, "Delaware's 1966 toll will exceed all previously set records."

According to Ferri, the number one cause of fatal accidents in the driver, not mechanical defects of the automobile. Four of the vehicles involved in fatal accidents this year had defective tires and one had faulty steering. In each case the driver had been speeding; thus speed and driver negligence were the contributing factors which resulted in death.

Ferri cited the following driving violations as the leading causes of fatal accidents in Delaware this year:

1. Speed—The number one killer on Delaware's highways, approximately half of the fatal accidents involved speeding drivers.

2. Alcohol—Motorists driving under the influence of alcohol are rapidly increasing in Delaware. Perhaps the false confidence attained from alcohol is the reason drivers are taking an increasing number of unnecessary risks, drinking drivers have been involved in approximately one third of the 1966 fatalities.

3. Reckless Driving—Inattention, fatigue and falling asleep contribute to a quarter of the current motor vehicle fatalities.

Ferri said that in most cases these accidents involved more than one driving violation such as drinking and speeding combined.

"Unless we change our driving habits and attitudes, our improved highways and advanced automobile safety standards will do little more than surround drivers with over confidence. The result? Even more persons, often innocent victims slaughtered on our highways."

College of Ag. Announces Soil Testing Changes

The College of Agricultural Sciences at the University of Delaware has expanded and modernized its soil testing facilities to meet the demands for increased services. In addition to doubling the size of the laboratory, new equipment has been added. Included is a machine for rapid drying and crushing of soil samples and devices to perform special analytical services.

Along with the expansion and modernization program the college is initiating a fee system to defray part of the cost of operating the facility. The announcement was made by Dr. William E. McDaniel, Dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences.

Beginning September 1, routine soil tests including pH, phosphorus, potassium and magnesium will cost one dollar. Organic matter and soluble salts tests will each cost one dollar. Tests for manganese and boron will cost two dollars each.

In announcing the fee schedule, McDaniel said it was impossible for the college to improve soil testing services without seeking additional revenue sources. He said the fees will cover only a small part of the actual costs of maintaining the laboratory and performing the involved analytical services required. Substantial financial support will be provided by the College of Agricultural Sciences and the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service.

In pointing out the importance of soil testing to increased crop yields, Leo J. Cotnoir, director of the laboratory, said rising costs have meant that a farmer's livelihood depends largely on his success in boosting yields. "The fertility needs of the soil are among the most important influences on productivity. Soil tests have proven to be valuable tools in providing necessary information for maximizing yields."

Nationally, farmers' acceptance of soil testing is indicated by a study that shows soil tests were the most important outside influence in guiding farmers in their fertilizer purchases.

In Delaware, farmer acceptance of soil testing can be seen in the increased demand for the service, according to Cotnoir. Crop producers have requested an increasing number of soil tests each year since 1949, when the soil testing laboratory in the College of Agricultural Sciences was organized. There has also been an increasing demand for services from non-farm people. A substantial number of lawn and garden soil tests are run each year, Cotnoir said.

Soil tests on 1300 samples were made during the first year of operation. In 1965, 11,500 samples were tested. In addition to the increase in the number of routine tests there has also been a substantial increase in the number of requests for special determinations.

From 1949 through 1963, the soil testing laboratory routinely provided tests for soil pH and available phosphorus, potassium and magnesium. By special request, however, soluble salts were determined, and since 1963, determinations of soil organic matter and available manganese have been made. The demand for these special analysis has tripled in the past year alone, according to Cotnoir.

Further information on the procedure for submitting soil samples to the University laboratory is available from county agents in Dover, Newark and Georgetown and from county ASOS offices.

Research Featured On Field Day

Twenty-five years ago in 1941, the University of Delaware's Georgetown Substation farm was purchased for one main reason—agricultural research. The annual farm and home field day, scheduled this year for August 10, is designed to bring that research to the attention of the public. More than 1000 farmers, agricultural businessmen and others are expected to attend.

Field Day will have many highlights—educational exhibits, sick plant clinic, home-maker's program, strawberry taste test and a chicken dinner—but, as always, the main feature will be a review of the research projects underway and a first-hand report from the researchers about their work.

Spray calibration, flame cultivation and other new or standard farming practices will be demonstrated. Because of their economic importance in the state, corn and soybeans lead the parade of research projects, although research is also underway on vegetables, fruits, ornamentals, poultry and air pollution.

Approximately 3,000 different soybean plots are being studied for weed and disease control, planting dates, varietal differences, seed quality and the development of new, improved varieties. Nearly ten acres of vegetable soybeans are growing at the substation to develop a better disease resistant green soybean for commercial freezers and home gardeners. Dwarf soybeans for forage are also being studied. Plots of these rapid-growing, leafy soybeans are used to determine disease resistance and cultural practices.

Corn yields of 100 bushels per acre are no longer unusual. The best way to maintain a substantial margin of profit is to push yields even higher. Several research projects at the Georgetown farm are trying to develop a recipe for 150 or even 200 bushel corn yields. Projects have been underway for three years including planting corn at several densities and fertilizing at extremely high levels.

There are many soil types in Delaware and each has a slightly different yield potential, depending on such factors as the water-holding capacity and the power to supply plant food. A study to determine the most economical level of corn fertilization for a particular soil type, Portsmouth sandy loam, will be open to the public on Field Day.

Another of the corn projects deals with the use of nitrogen solution weed control mixtures; several researchers are trying to develop herbicides and weed control practices for use in corn and soybeans.

Starting at 10 a.m., buses will take Field Day visitors on tours of the more than 80 field plots and research projects at the substation farm.

College of Ag. Sciences Wins National Awards

For the fourth consecutive year, the University of Delaware's College of Agricultural Sciences received awards in a national communications media, were submitted to Jerry Webb, agricultural editor.

Entries, representing several communications media, were submitted from 50 states and Canada and judged under a program of the American Association of Agricultural College Editors. The regular Delaware Farm and Home radio service and a series of photographs were the University's winning entries. Awards were made during the 50th professional meeting of the Association at the Georgia Center for Continuing Education, Athens. The photographs were a black-and white series describing the process of fitting a sheep for showing, from toenail trimming to fleece combing and clipping. The series will be used in a 4-H training publication.

Radio coverage of the 1965 Delaware State 4-H Conference and University extension specialists' reports on nutrition, safety and materials handling were included in the award-winning program. The radio service is aired regularly on local stations.

AAACE is made up of approximately 500 professional writers and editors who prepare agricultural and home economics information. Representing Land-Grant Colleges, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and various communications media, nearly 250 member-editors reviewed their responsibilities as educational communicators, discussed media changes and pinpointed future training needs at their recent annual meeting.

U. of D Revises Ag. Associate

Recent changes have been made in the course of study of the University of Delaware's S. Hallock duPont School of Applied Agricultural Science, according to Dr. William E. McDaniel, Dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences.

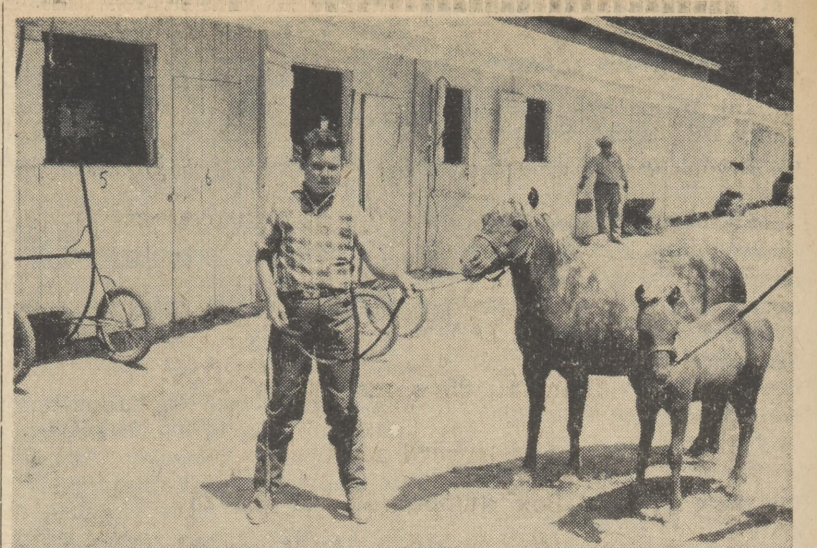

Dr. Ralph P. Barwick, adviser for the associate degree program in agriculture, conducted a survey in the State and found many job opportunities available for persons with technical training at a level beyond high school. The S. Hallock duPont School of Applied Agricultural Science provides training and skills to prepare students for active careers in the agri-business industry. Upon successful completion of a two-year course of study, the student is awarded an associate degree in applied science.

Students may choose to prepare themselves to work in the areas of agricultural mechanization, animal and plant science, food business, or landscape horticulture. These courses have been recently changed and will go into effect with the fall class of 1966.

The program in agricultural mechanization is designed to train persons in the areas of sales, installation and maintenance of equipment used in agricultural production and processing. It also prepares students for jobs in the area of soil and water conservation. The number of technicians needed in these areas is increasing.

The animal and plant science course of study prepares students for the production, processing or marketing of agricultural products, as well as providing a background for those who plan to work for suppliers of commodities used in agricultural production. Students completing this program can serve as fieldmen, servicemen, managers, salesmen and in other technical jobs within the animal and plant industries.

As the size and complexity of food distribution firms continue to increase, so does the demand for trained personnel. The specialized courses in merchandising, operations, and management in the food business program prepare students for positions in the whole-sale and retail food industry.

The growing interest in more intensive development of both public and private grounds has created opportunities for persons trained in landscape construction and maintenance. In addition to landscape construction courses, the landscape horticulture program also includes courses in plant materials, control of insects, weeds, and plant diseases and turf management. Graduates are trained for positions with landscape contractors, private estates, public parks, golf courses, nurseries, and garden centers.

Admission requirements for the two-year associate degree program are less stringent than for the four-year bachelor of science degree curricula. In general, those students in the top three-quarters of their high school graduating class are admissible. The associate degree program is offered only in day courses on campuses and only to residents of Delaware.

Further information on the S. Hallock duPont School of Applied Agricultural Science is available from Dr. William E. McDaniel, dean, College of Agricultural Sciences, University of Delaware.

Poems from Paradise Pastures
 By W. Cliff Miller
 OLD FOLKS

I love to talk to old folks,
 You know, the homey kind,
 That saw Springtimes come and go,
 And they were left behind.

They smiled through weary winters,
 In the very long ago,
 And live the old days over,
 In the memories they know.

I love their wrinkled faces,
 Where care has left its trace,
 But time has brought them comfort,
 As contentment takes its place.

They seem to wait the morrow,
 When their earthly journey ends,
 Happy and contented, knowing,
 They are going to their friends.

During one of these discussions recently, with Joe Fleming and "Book" Harrington at George Tatman's garden party, I was reminded of my first evening in Harrington (Jan. 1, 1946). I was leaving my office around midnight and noticed a man with a cane in difficulty, trying to get into his car, parked alongside mine at the RR station. After assisting him to get seated, and being sure he was alright and, as he said it was only his game leg giving him trouble. His question was: "and to whom am I indebted for this 'Sir Walter Raleigh' service?"

Therein began a friendship that I have always cherished highly. It was Lem Beauchamp, a man I had met almost thirty years before while shooting claybirds with the Western Pennsylvania Trapshooters Association.

A few months after our meeting, I was going into the postoffice as Lem was coming out. He backed up against the railing and said in a commanding tone: "I have a crow to pick with you." "Didn't I see you riding with Joe Fleming in your car?"

I said, "yes, what's wrong with Joe Fleming?"

He said: "Why he's a Republican!"

Students from Harrington making the dean's list at the University of Delaware were as follows: Robert R. Steward, 3.56; Melvin C. Luff, 3.53; Kenneth C. Walls, 3.32; Laura G. Baynard, 3.00. From Felton, Jeanette Bostick, 3.00.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Dennis, of Farmington, announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Claire, to Alvin William Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Thompson, of Harrington. The wedding is to be at the bride's home Aug. 5.

An unidentified baby was found dead from heat prostration in a car at the fairgrounds. Noble Wooleyhan, of Felton, said he had left the car at 3 p.m., and the baby was in it when he returned at 5 p.m.

The Cape Charles business car with Superintendent Tom Goodfellow, Division Engineer Kirk Werden, and Trainmaster Russell Spore came in on No. 454 Wednesday evening for Governor's Day activities at the fair. Fulton Downing and Cliff Miller were dinner guests on the business car.

Editorial by J. Harvey Burgess: Wilmington sport fans are as gloomy as a shore resort on a rainy day following Labor Day because their baseball team, the Blue Rocks and their football team, the Clippers, will not be playing next year owing to a lack of paying customers. About the only solace they have is the marbles champ. As old Sam Langford, half-crippled and almost blind, said when he won the boxing championship of Mexico from a bull fighter, "It ain't much—but it's sumpin'!"

TUESDAY— 8 to 11:30 p.m. Youth dance.

WEDNESDAY— 7:30 p.m. Healing service.

During the vicar's vacation, Father Hinks will have the 7:30 Wednesday evening healing services and the Rev. Messrs. Victor Kusik and John Rhein will celebrate Holy Communion on 10 a.m. on Sundays and will preach. It is a genuine pleasure to welcome these three friends back to the church of St. Stephen's.

Also holding a warm place in the affection of the people of St. Stephen's, the Rev. Messrs. Kusik and Rhein have always shown themselves most willing and ready to help in every way. It will be a pleasure to the people of St. Stephen's to attend these services.

Sun., Aug. 7, at 10 a.m. two stained glass windows will be dedicated. One of these will be in honor of the Rev. John R. Symonds, former vicar of St. Stephen's, who now lives at Blytheville, Ark. The second will be in memory of the late George R. Johnson. Both of these windows have been given by members and friends of St. Stephen's immediately following the service there will be a reception in honor of Mrs. Johnson and of Father Symonds. All guests will be invited to remain for the reception. Immediately after the reception there will be a covered dish dinner. As an unusually large group of both local and out of town guests are expected, each St. Stephen's family is requested to bring at least two covered dishes. Salads or green vegetables are suggested. Bread, meat and beverages will be provided by the church and prepared by the Women of St. Stephen's.

There will be a meeting of the committee for the reception on Tuesday night, August 2, at 8 p.m. at Mrs. Thomas Clending's. All interested persons are asked to attend.

4-H Club News

with Marion MacDonald

Our Delaware State Fair is rapidly coming to a close with 4-H exhibits being released after 2 p.m. Sat., July 30. 4-H members can justly be proud of the ribbons they'll take home. Thousands of hours of work went into the various exhibits of clothing, woodworking, entomology and the many other classes. Special thanks to the many volunteer help by our local leaders and 4-Hers who have worked all week. Assisting with the entries and display were Mrs. Annabelle Brown, Houston; Mrs. Betty Gooden, Wyoming; Mrs. Mary Thomas, Maryland; Mrs. Marie Austin, Rising Sun; Delores Tinley, Dover; Beverly Luck, Wyoming; Marjorie Hudson, Frederica; Diane Jarrell, Harrington; Margaret Thomas, Maryland; Dana and Joy Gooden, Wyoming; to mention only a few of the 4-H help.

Records due — only too soon 4-Hers will find the day for record book completion has arrived. Members should spend these August weeks completing their projects and readying their records for County and State Competition. All records to be considered for county awards should include the state record form — available from local 4-H leaders. 4-Hers are urged to prepare their record reports as completely as possible. Award selections are made on the report as turned into 4-H leaders. Be sure you're proud of your record book—keep it neat and clean in its preparation. Why not request the help of former state winners such as Cliff and Marjorie Hudson, Bette Clinton and Linda Stayton. Nearly all 4-H leaders have the awards handbook which announces are available award areas.

Smyrna Ousts Harrington Senior Tourney Team

After disposing of Milford in first-round competition, Harrington's Senior League All-Stars were blanked 14-0 at Smyrna in the second round of the Delaware State Senior Little League tournament.

Smyrna later disposed of Georgetown and Suburban, of Wilmington, the New Castle County champion to win the state title for the third straight year. It is no disgrace to lose to Smyrna. In four tournament contests the powerful state champs allowed only one run.

Harrington's three hits were tabbed by Jack Redden, who had two and Danny Hitchens.

Hitchens is 13, stands about 4 feet 6 and scales around 70 pounds. George Dunning, the Smyrna hurler, stared in disbelief at that tiny strike zone, then fired one across the plate and roared with laughter when the little fellow stood his ground and lined a hit over third base.

Smyrna's mound staff gave up only 10 hits against Harrington, Georgetown and Suburban. Redden and Hitchens can be proud of their success at the plate.

Ocean Downs Raceway News

Ocean Downs Raceway at Ocean City is in full swing and Saturday night's feature will be an Invitational Pace carrying a $1500 purse.

Next week the four annual Del-Mar-Va stakes for two and three-year olds at both gaits are to be raced.

Wednesday's program will feature the Del-Mar-Va stakes for two and three-year-old trotters.

The baby colts and fillies will race for a purse of about $3,500 and the three-year-olds for $2,500. The purses depend on how many owners pay the $40 starting fee.

Many of the starters expected at the Downs raced Wednesday at the Delaware State Fair.

Fri., Aug. 5, is the date for the fast 3-year-old pacers, among them are Biancha, Blaze Oregon, Jonie's Pony, Law Diamond, Lornzo, Mary B. Gallon and Sincerely Yours.

It was Jonie's Pony that won the 2-year-old division last summer for driver Warren Cameron.

The pacers Friday will race for a purse of about $4,300. And the 2-year-old pacers go August 6 for about $6,000.

Miss Robin Dykes, 16, 1966 Queen of Delmarva Poultry, from Princess Anne, Md., will be present each stake night to award a trophy to each winner.

Newnom Fans 11; Harrington's First Tourney Win Ever

David Newnom pitched a four hit, eleven strikeout victory as Harrington's Little League All-Stars defeated Dover Air Base 5-4 in an extra inning contest. The Wednesday night victory, in the Delaware State Little League tournament, was the first triumph in Harrington Little League tournament history.

The nerve-racking contest saw the locals go ahead four times only to allow the host team to come back and tie three times with the aid of mental lapses and loose fielding on the part of Harrington.

Brinley Brode walked in the first inning and reached third base on two passed balls. Newnom's dribbler to the mound was picked up by the pitcher, who threw to third catching Brode off the bag. However, Brode dashed home and beat the return throw.

Newnom allowed one hit in the opening inning and despite two errors behind him got out unscathed by fanning two men. He struck out the side in the second frame.

In the fourth inning Short walked for Harrington. Ricky Moore hit a bouncer over second which would have been Harrington's first hit except that the second baseman managed to flip it to the shortstop for a force on Short.

The bottom half of the inning saw Newnom fan the first hitter, walk the second, then throw too late to second on a bunt by the third baseman. An infielder fielded a ground ball but became confused and held it while the tying run scored.

In the fifth stanza, Mike Davis walked, Brinley Brode bunted in the air toward third, forcing Davis to stay close to first. When the ball dropped safely Dover Air threw wildly to second trying to get Davis. Layton's liner to center field was caught near the fence and Davis scored from third after the catch. Brode dashed in quickly on a passed ball to make the score Harrington 3, Dover Air 1.

The losers came right back as the first hitter singled to right field. An infielder erred put another man on. The next two men went out. A Harrington infielder fielded a ground ball and threw home, too late, apparently thinking there was only one out.

With the score 3-3, Short doubled to the right field fence for Harrington's first hit. Mike Trotta singled over second to give his team the lead at 4-3.

Once more the host nine rallied to tie the score. A fly to the outfield fell safely for two bases. Newnom whiffed the next two hitters but a ground ball was juggled sending the game into the extra inning.

Once again the clever baserunning of Brinley Brode paid off. The little southpaw doubled down the left field line, raced to third on a passed ball and scampered home on a ground ball by Layton.

One last-ditch effort by Dover Air nearly bore fruition. With one out a batter hit a single. A bunt followed with no one covering first base. The bunter was trapped between first and second. The runner on third lit out for home but was flagged down as his Micky Chaffinch made a diving catch and tag. A fly to Mike Davis ended the hectic evening.

The locals will play Dover on Saturday at 2 p.m.

Brandywine Raceway News

It's one week from Saturday and already they're whispering a return of Bret!

The $25,000 General "Mad" Anthony Invitational Pace is the "it" in question, to be staged at Brandywine Raceway on Saturday night, Aug. 6, and Bret, of course, is the fabulous Bret Hanover, harnessdom's No. 1 prospect to take command of the annual classic.

The 4-year-old son of Adios-Brenna Hanover, owned by Ohioan Richard Downing, raced at Brandywine for the first time on May 14th of this year, helping to create the track's all-time record single night handle of $937,191. He singled the course in 2:01.1, defeating Balenzano, Rivaltine, Adios Marches and Midnight Fire, all likely prospects as well for the "Mad" Anthony.

Since then, Bret has made six more starts, losing only once—to Cardigan Bay in the $65,000 "Pace of the Century" at Yonkers Raceway, N. Y., one week after his Brandywine bout. He lost by a freckle in 2:00.1. All told, Bret Hanover has won 52 of 56 career races. He's been under two-minutes four times this year, boosting his lifetime "magic mile" record to 22. Bret now ranks third on the all-time two-minute list behind pacer Dan Patch, who chalked up 30 between 1900 - 1909, and trotter Greyhound, with 25 between 1934 - 1940.

The handsome stallion's season money-winnings stand at $182,410, for a career total of $732,492. He zipped by the pacing leader Henry T. Adios, who retired with $706,698, and now has only trotter SuMac Lad to surpass. Sumie retired at age 11 last fall with $885,095.

In addition, Bret Hanover currently decorates the national season's champions roster as fastest pacer of the year on both a mile and a half-mile regardless of age or sex. He boasts a 1:59 on a Brandywine-size oval and a 1:57.2 on a five-eighths track.

His major victories this year have been in the $86,111 Realization Pace, a one-and one-sixteenth-mile trek at Roosevelt Raceway, Westbury, N. Y., which he handled in 2:12.2 over a sloppy track, and the $71,418 American National Maturity at Sportsman's Park, taken in 1:58.2.

A 1:57.4 at Sportsman's Park, Chicago, on July 8th, went in the books as a track record and a national season's record for pacers in a race. Bret's 1:57.2 was taken in a time trial at Liberty Bell Park.

The track record at Brandywine which goes up for grabs in the General "Mad" Anthony classic, having its fourth renewal, is Adios Butler's 1:58.4 set in 1960. The stakes mark is 2:00.2, shared by Stephan Smith (1963) and Cardigan Bay (1964). Fly Byrd won the race last year in 2:01.2.

Delaware Park Raceway News

The $100,000-plus Delaware handicap, most coveted of America's rich stakes for fillies and mares, will be the nation's number one horse race Saturday and serve as the classic climax to Delaware Park's 55-day meeting.

The Stanton track's closing day extravaganza, a grueling test of a mile and a quarter, will have its 29th running and—as usual—have an important bearing on the Army Reserve's championship in the distaff division. Speed, stamina and courage are requisites for winning such a race—truly a survival of the fittest.

In the 28 previous runnings, only six favorites managed to win. Delaware Handicap winners who held national championships include:

Marcia, 1938, voted champion handicap mare that year; Bridal Flower, 1946, voted champion 3-year-old filly; Kiss Me Kate, 1952, 3-year-old filly champion of 1951; Grecian Queen, 1953, champion 3-year-old filly (and last sophomore winner of the Delaware "ap"); Parlo, 1955, champion 1954 3-year-old filly and distaff handicap queen; Airmans Guide, 1961, champion handicap filly or mare, and Old Hat, 1964, champion handicap mare of 1965.

George D. Widener's Steeple Jill, heroine of the 1965 Delaware, has not raced this year and failed to train up to this season's renewal, but the stable has two other highly regarded eligibles to choose from—What a Treat, champion 3-year-old filly of 1965, and Mount Regina.

Stanley Conrad's Old Hat and Rovon Farm's North South Gal, the latter an upset winner of the 1962 Delaware Oaks, are the "old ladies" of the nominees this year. Both are now 7-year-olds.

Should Open Fire, surprise winner of the recent New Castle Stakes for track president Donald P. Ross' Brandywine Stable, go on to capture the big one Saturday, she'd become the fourth horse to account for the New Castle-Delaware "double" the same year. Such a feat has been accomplished by Princess Turia in 1957, Quill in 1960, and Airmans Guide in 1961.

Among the most respected of other possibilities for the weekend's grand finale are such stars as Summer Scandal, Gold Digger, Ho Ho, Petite Rouge, Straight Deal, Miss Cavandish, Lovejoy, Treachery, Discipline and the like. The stretch-running Ho Ho was second in the classic last year and finished a belated third in the 1966 New Castle.

The glamor gals are ready, the stage is set and the blue chips are down for another "gold roll" as Delaware Park's eventful meeting comes to a colorful conclusion.

Born in Wilmington, June 9, 1925, he was educated in the Virginia Theological Seminary. He also did graduate work at Yale University.
It is the pleasure of the people of St. Stephen's to present and dedicate the window in honor of Mr. Symonds during the year which marks the tenth anniversary both of his being ordained into the ministry of the Protestant Episcopal Church and of his coming to St. Stephen's in July, 1956. He served as vicar of St. Stephen's from that date until May, 1962.

At the 10 o'clock service Sunday, the Rev. Symonds will celebrate Holy Communion. The Rev. Joseph S. Hinks, vicar emeritus of St. Stephen's will dedicate the window in honor of Mr. Symonds after which Mr. Symonds will dedicate the window in memory of George Johnson. The vicar, the Rev. Quay D. Rice, Sr., will act as host minister and will preach.

After the service, the congregation will be invited to remain for a reception and covered-dish dinner honoring Mrs. Johnson and Father Symonds. Everyone is urged to remain and to renew old acquaintances.
