

Improvements Being Made On Wolcott & Third Sts.

Construction started last Friday on improvement of Wolcott and Third Streets and, City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann said, should be finished in less than 75 days.

Cost of the project, being done by Paul Scott Contracting Company, of Dover, is around $24,000.

Wolcott Street will have a select borrow base, curb, and 4-foot sidewalk. Third Street will have a crusher-run stone base, curb, and sidewalk.

The cost will come from the municipal-aid fund of around $36,000. The fund will also provide for repair work to other streets.

In line with the street work, Councilman Albert C. Price, Second Ward, at Tuesday night's council meeting, said a citizen inquired about using dirt from the Wolcott Street project to fill holes in alleys.

The city manager replied the dirt from Wolcott Street would not be any good because it contained asphalt which would have to be broken up. He explained that, in street projects where the dirt had been good, it had been used by the city.

In other street work, the Scott Company will grade a street beside the Harrington Shirt Company factory and the city manager will see that several holes are filled in an alley near the home of Sol Martin.

Fire Prevention Is Our Job

Conscientious following of standard fire prevention procedures can do much to reduce loss of life and property from fire states Fire Marshal William R. Favinger.

Fire prevention is paying off. While estimated dollar losses caused by fires exceeded $1-billion for the eighth year in a row, there was a slight decline of 2.7 per cent under losses for 1963.

This decline was encouraging news to people dedicated to fire prevention because without fire prevention efforts, the nation's fire losses would be three times what they are today, says the American Insurance Association.

During Fire Prevention Week, fire safety programs will be held in thousands of schools throughout the United States.

There will be speakers on the subject of fire safety at Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and other service organization weekly meetings.

In many communities, school children will be taken on visits to the local fire department headquarters to get a close look at fire fighting equipment and the men who operate it.

The job of fire prevention, however, should begin at home. Every citizen in this community can participate in Fire Prevention Week by getting his family together and making sure that all members know at least two escape routes from the home.

Throughout the year, the home, from attic to basement, should be kept clear of unneeded combustibles such as old newspapers, accumulations of old paint cans, broken furniture, and discarded clothing.

And, remember, if fire occurs, get everybody out of the home first—then call the fire department.

Fire prevention can help save lives. That is most important. But secondly, it can prevent the destruction of property, which reduces our national wealth.

City and Fire Company Officials Talk on Smith Property

During a lengthy executive session Tuesday evening, the City Council and representatives of the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company decided to work together on the purchase of the former Dr. Hewitt Smith residence on Fleming Street.

Dr. Smith, now retired and living on Raughley-Hill Road, had offered the structure to the City, in a letter read at a September Council meeting, for $18,000.

The City had been thinking about holding a referendum to promote $50,000 for a city hall, location undetermined.

A council member said the agreement, in the executive session, called for the fire company and the city not to bid against each other for the property. The fire company has indicated a willingness to buy the property

PATROLMAN RESIGNS TO ACCEPT SAME POST IN MILFORD

The resignation letter of Patrolman Ralph Sharp was read to the City Council Tuesday night to the consternation of most councilmen who had not had even an inkling of the impending event.

Sharp stated in his letter he was resigning to accept a higher-paying position on the Milford police force. Meanwhile, he had worked his final shift Sunday night. The Ellendale man began his duties here July 11 at $80 per week.

Sharp was also quoted as saying he hadn't known he would have to work six days a week when he accepted the job. Sharp was also quoted as saying he approached City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann, on his dissatisfaction, but had not received any satisfaction. Chief of Police Franklin Rogers told the Council he was unaware of Sharp's displeasure.

Mayor Luther P. Hatfield said if the salary of one police officer was raised, those of the other two (Chief Rogers and Patrolman Robert Darling) would also have to be raised. He added the city had a system whereby patrolmen were given automatic raises. He concluded the issue by saying there might be some merit in the Council's discussing a 40-hour week.

The Harrington Police Department's pay schedule calls for officers to start at $72.50 a week with 250 increments ranging up to $92.50 after 48 months on the force. The schedule calls for $1.60 per hour for overtime. The chief starts at $90 a week and after 48 months receives $110. At the authorized strength of a chief and two officers, the normal work schedule is eight hours a day, six days a week, plus overtime.

Council motioned to advertise for a replacement for Sharp.

September Ferry Traffic Report Shows Decrease

September 1966 traffic at the Cape May-Lewes Ferry was 8.1% under that of September 1965, according to General Manager Nolan C. Chandler. In September 1966, 16,850 vehicles used the ferry crossing the Delaware Bay between Cape May and Lewes. This compares with 18,450 in September 1965.

In the nine months of 1966, the Ferry traffic has increased 1.6% over the same period of 1965. The nine month totals for 1966 are 141,110 vehicles.

September 1966 pedestrian usage amounted to 51,431 people, a 16.9% decrease compared with September 1965. The nine month pedestrian usage shows a 1.8% decrease under 1965.

Many farmers have already filed Form 3434-A with the county office, listing their social security or employer identification number. Producers who receive direct payments and who have not filed the form however, are asked to forward the information to the county office by October 15, 1966.

For 1966, ASCS must report to the Internal Revenue Service any sight draft payments of $600 or more under direct payment programs. This includes the Agricultural Conservation Program; (Continued on Page 8)

Sewage Disposal Plant Undergoes Renovation

City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann put in a couple long, long days but the renovated sewage-disposal plant is in operation and will tide the community over until a new one is constructed as part of a general sewer-improvement program to be determined by the outcome of a referendum Sat., Oct. 29. Mann worked from 3:30 a.m. to 8 p.m., Monday and Tuesday. The renovation contract called for the work to be done in 48 hours to enable users to suffer but the least inconvenience. As it was, there was little, if any, inconvenience.

In fact, general knowledge of the project was not known until the city manager announced it at a meeting of the City Council Tuesday night.

The contracts were held by Harrington Lumber & Supply, with Satterfield & Ryan handling the electrical work. Cost of the project was figured around $9000.

The renovated sewage plant is working on one aqualator until a second arrives which can be installed in five minutes, said the city manager. He explained the aqualator is an aerator, or a device which airs the sludge. He added a sludge return pump was also expected. This device would return the sludge for a second aeration.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed Tuesday night, city officials are explaining the approaching sewer referendum to civic clubs.

Delaware Wins Trustees Award For Safety

The National Safety Council announced yesterday that its top honor—the Trustees Award—will go to Delaware as the state that made the best accident-prevention efforts during 1965 and thus far in 1966.

Delaware, the winner, will receive a specially designed art creation in Steuben glass, fashioned to symbolize the Flame of Life that accident prevention seeks to sustain. The award will be presented by Council President Howard Pyle at the banquet of the 54th National Safety Congress, the Council's annual convention, in Chicago's Conrad Hilton Hotel, Wed., Oct. 25.

This was the first year since 1963 that any state's safety efforts met the high standards of the Trustees Awards, which take into account all areas of accident prevention: traffic, home, work, farm, school, recreation and transportation.

The Flame of Life is awarded in the name of the Council's Trustees to honor the efforts of the business and civic leaders who have, by their personal interest in and support of accident-prevention activities strengthened.

tion from Hollandville to Felton yet to be improved.

Bids will also be received on Oct. 25 for placing a new surface on a blacktop road leading into Blackbird from the west and an adjacent road, a total of 4.5 miles. The existing 10 to 12-foot road will be widened to 18 feet.

Highway Department records indicate the Felton - to Frederica project was first listed on a possible improvement program about 11 years ago.

Included in the project will be the improvement of the two streets in Frederica which are used by Rte. 12 traffic.

Kent County farmers who are planning an earth-moving or ground-treatment conservation project on their farms were advised today to get the work completed as soon as possible.

Olin Gooden, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, reminds farmers that winter is not too far away, and that an early freeze could easily interrupt and so delay the effectiveness of some conservation work if it does not get under way soon.

The Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) for Kent County offers cost-sharing assistance for a number of practices which can best be carried out in the fall. These include open ditch drainage, field tilling, land leveling, and pond construction.

Information on ACP approved practices, and on other farm-action programs is available at the Kent ASCS county office in Dover, phone 697-3601.

Fruit-Good To Eat; Good For Landscaping

Fruit from your own backyard orchard tastes best of all, according to Robert Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware. Many fruits and berries also add a decorative touch to the landscape with spring blossoms, colorful fruit and bright fall foliage.

Some fruit trees are large enough to use as shade trees. Some varieties can be trained or espaliered to cover a bare wall or fence, although this takes a great deal of painstaking work. Blueberries and grapes are often used to screen off a portion of the yard and strawberries make a lovely border planting.

Of course, growing your own fruit has its drawbacks too, Stevens points out. They need more care than many plants, requiring regular pruning and insect and disease control.

Birds may eat the crop faster than you can pick it. And, if the fruit drops to the ground, it can make a smelly, insect-attracting mess. But, many gardeners decide the eating's worth the trouble.

Apples, peaches, grapes, strawberries and blueberries are the most suitable for this area. Pears, apricots, cherries, nectarines and plums are not as well suited to Delaware's climate, and they are more susceptible to disease and insect and bird damage.

Dwarf fruit trees are best for the backyard orchardist, Stevens says. Plants such as apples that have been grafted onto the rootstock of a different tree to keep them dwarfed should be planted so the graft is one inch above the ground. If the graft is planted in the ground, the tree will not stay dwarfed.

Fruit trees need a good, rich soil with proper drainage. Plant them later this fall or early next spring. Add humus, if necessary, but no fertilizer should be needed the first year. Careful pruning is a must; it should be done during the dormant season.

Blueberries can be very ornamental additions to the garden, Stevens says. They grow three to six feet high and provide good fall color in addition to delicious fruit. The bushes should be planted in the spring, after preparing the soil two feet deep with sand and peat moss. Provide for pollination now by planting more than two varieties and protect from birds. Blueberries need regular pruning, too.

The familiar—but always delicious—strawberries are one of the best fruits to grow in a home garden. Plant them in the early spring, using the recommended varieties for this area. Renew the bed every three or four years with virus-free plants.

A list of home fruit varieties recommended for Delaware is available from Robert Stevens, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Del. 19711.

Harrington FFA Participates In State Meat Judging Contest

The team members were Billy Abbott, Calvin Bonniwell, and Mike Coverdale. At Richmond, swine, sheep, and beef cattle were judged. Harrington's team placed second in sheep judging; third, in swine, and finished fourth as an overall team in the three classes of swine, sheep, and beef. The team was in competition with boys from seven states.

The Harrington FFA dairy judging team won third place as a team at the Delaware State Fair and won a trip to the Atlantic Rural Exposition also. The team members were: Glen Layton, Gerald LeGates and Terry Donovan. Glen Layton placed third in the overall contest and won an award of $10. He also won first place in the Holstein class with a score of 100. Glen was awarded a plaque and a medal for achieving a perfect score.

Gerald LeGates and Terry Donovan also won plaques for placing the highest in the contest. The team won second place in the overall contest and received an award of $35. The dairy team was in competition with boys from seven states.

Teenage Dance Canteen Seeking Members

The dances for young people which were initiated by St. Stephen's Episcopal Church last spring and held throughout the summer, will be continued on Saturday evenings for most of the coming school year.

The best interests of everyone were evaluated by the adults involved during these dances and as a result, the program for the coming months will be handled by a St. Stephen's EYC Canteen, which provides membership cards (at a cost of $1) and for a 200-member limit. The policy-making body of this Canteen is a Board of Governors comprised of the confirmed Episcopal Young Churchmen of St. Stephen's as well as the Rev. Quay Rice, Vicar; Mrs. Edward Bakley, of Felton; Carl Morris, Sr., of Frederica, and Henry White, of Harrington.

Application blanks for membership to the Canteen were distributed through the Harrington High School office for young people in the thirteen to nineteen-year-old age bracket. However, there are still blanks available upon request at the Canteen of a Saturday evening, or by phoning the church office (398-3710) before noon of a weekday to receive one by mail.

"Canteen regulations are strict," comments Mrs. Bakley, "but have been established only after considering the needs of our youth as well as the requirements of law and wholesome recreation. Teenage bands are encouraged to be auditioned, hoping to provide fresh and new talents for our youth to enjoy each Saturday night; as well as provide an opportunity for teenage musicians to be heard." Father Rice concludes, "The 7:30 to 11 p.m. hours are designed to allow for enjoyment as well as make possible a decent bedtime and attendance at church of their choice the next day."

This coming Saturday evening, Oct. 8, the St. Stephen's EYC Canteen will be closed to enable its members to support the Bill Wise Benefit Dance beginning at 7 p.m. at the Harrington Armory. "The Poor Boys, LTD," "ME," "Galaxies," and "Scoops," are the four teenage rock and roll bands which will provide the music until 11 p.m. for a $1 admission.

Canteen will be open the following Saturday evening, Oct. 15, at 7:30 to 11 p.m. with the live band sound of Rickii and The Monterreys.

Liming Lawns

Now that the summer's drought is over, many homeowners are working feverishly to get their parched lawns back in shape.

For a lovely lawn, don't overlook liming. Speaking recently at Lawn Field Day at the University of Delaware turf plots, Dr. William Mitchell, extension agronomist at the university, said liming can correct soil acidity, supply calcium and magnesium and improve overall soil structure.

The most desirable grasses grow best in a neutral or near neutral soil. Since fertilizer and grass clippings increase soil acidity, lime is needed to reduce this acidity to a more desirable level.

Apply lime either before seeding a new lawn or to a mature lawn. Fall is a good time to determine whether liming is necessary. The results of a soil test from the University of Delaware will tell you whether your lawn needs liming and how much it needs, Mitchell says.

Ground limestone is the best kind to use; burnt or hydrated lime burn the grass too easily. Lime will encourage bluegrass and the resulting competition will help get rid of bent grass, which performs best on acid soil. Lime is one of the cheapest materials available for use on a lawn, according to Mitchell. Don't be afraid to use an adequate amount; as much as 100 lbs. for each 1000 sq. ft. may be needed. Don't just whitewash the ground, he told the Lawn Field Day audience. A little lime looks impressive but doesn't do much good. The only way to find out how much lime your lawn actually needs is to have a soil test done. Then, if limed properly, the lawn shouldn't need liming again for three or four years in Delaware.

Contestants were required to judge three classes of cows and three classes of heifers and give the reasons for their decisions. The dairy cattle were judged for their general appearance, dairy characteristics, body capacity and mammary system.

Dr. W. R. Hesseltime, extension dairyman at the University of Delaware accompanied the Delaware 4-H'ers.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller (AUTUMN)

Here we are in the middle of the World Series and the end of the "good old summertime."

When chill creeps in at early dawn, And frost will soon be on the lawn, And flowers droop, no more to bloom, Nor share their whiteness with the moon.

No early songsters greet the ear, The days of Autumn now are here. No more the early morning sun, Shall start the busy bee to hum.

The katy-dids have ceased their song, The blue birds from our midst have gone, The harvest fields look bleak and bare, How different when the wheat was there.

No canopy of lovely green, Along the wooded lanes and stream, Leaves are turning golden brown, The hollyhocks are drooping down.

No longer soft warm breezes blow, Through meadows where wild flowers grow, Steeped in dew and gentle rain, I wish that June was here again.

Someone has (unwisely) said: poetry is "for the birds." So am I (the Orioles), underdogs in the current series, "because they would not be able to hit National League pitching." I wonder what those scribes think today about that first game in which the Orioles let go a barrage in the first inning that floored the Dodgers for the rest of the game, right out there in their own playhouse.

It is still a little too soon to bury the Dodgers, but at this writing I am very much inclined to write a poem entitled "The Downfall of Drysdale."

YOU CAN'T TELL THE PLAYERS WITHOUT A SCORECARD

By Betty Clarke

Now that the long-awaited World Series time has come at last, we find ourselves condensing our thoughts—fixing players' positions, batting averages, and stamina in an effort to hazard guesses as to who will be the ultimate winner. All these bits of information make the game more interesting and exciting.

As a parallel to this line of thought, it entered my mind while listening to the Crusader Choir at Asbury Methodist Church last Sunday morning that it might be more meaningful to the members of Asbury if they knew a bit more personally, the youngsters in the choir. (Not to be construed to mean that my mind was on the World Series in church). However, to go on, when my dad sees a bright eye and/or a determined song-bird in the choir-loft, he likes to know whose little jewel he is. We found that it makes all the difference in enjoying when one knows whose mother and dad gets that youngster out every Sunday morning.

Here's a run-down on our youngsters: the top row is usually our seventh-graders who will be moving on the Mr. Brobst's Chancel Choir in September '67. Next to the wall is our faithful Beth Graham: then Donna Mahoney, racing-driver-tenor George's sweetheart; Jean Louise Price, Elma and Albert's little blonde; Joanne Thompson, Buck and Nancy Thompson's dependable representative; Sue Ann Knapp, Ruth and Warren's sweetie; Joan White, Smokey's Clara the second; Thea Quillen, Connie and Frank's filly; and Kathy Nelson, Mary E. and Earl's darlin'. The top row is completed by three boys—sixth-grader John Knapp, Sue Anne's brother; Kevin Wooters, a fourth-grader; and another sixth-grader, hard-working Jack Direct, the pride of Lib and Jack Parker.

I would love to make a proud comment about each of the children for each contributes some little part of himself (I mean you, too, girls) but space will not permit. To go on—the second row from the top holds most of the fifth-graders: Johnnie Schreck, whose mother Audrey Schreck is one of our dependable choir mothers; Lu Ann Welch (Charlotte and Lewis); Robin Willey (Joyce and Morris); Chipper Moore (Marian and Jim); Terri Hawpe; 6th grade (Coach Jim Hawpe); Michael Wilson, 6th grade (Mary Ann and Donald); Bobbie Ralph (Iva and Jim); Jerry Thompson (Nancy and Buck's 4th-grader); Debbie McKnatt, 5th grade, next to the oldest of 5 girls (wish they were mine) (Carol and Donald); and Chris Adamo, 5th-grader (Lucille and Joe).

The third, or middle row is the alto row. All the altos are sixth-graders except Gwyn Melvin (who will be in the eighth grade in Sept. '67) which means to me just one thing—we'll be losing them to Mr. Brobst after just one more year. You can see we have to plan a whole year ahead when it comes to grooming altos. Nearest the piano is Robin Hill (Mary and Carl); Ricky Hoffman (Jewel and Arthur); Gloria Lynn Dill (Gloria and Jack); Tommy Clarke (his and hers); Gwyn Melvin (Janet and Curtis); and Kim Hitchens (Libby and Hal). We're awfully proud of these alto voices. They are all clever youngsters who do a wonderful job of harmony.

The second row from the front holds only five youngsters but these five will be catching your eye and ear more than once in the coming years as they grow older and their voices mature. (Along with my alto section, naturally). Kim should be in this row too but he wanted to try his hand at harmony this year. We feel like we're putting a mute in a trumpet, but we're trying it for size. Sandy Aiken, 5th grade, (Louise and Ken); Toni McCready, 6th grade (Jeanette and Gary); Joan Mason, 6th grade

(Frances and Boots); and Tiger Terry Jarrell, 4th grade, (Marlene and Donald).

The front row is made up of the remaining twelve of the forty-four children of the Crusade Choir. These 12 are all fourth-graders, whose task it is to switch from attending a portion of a service once a month to a full service each Sunday. They obviously know they are young ladies and gentlemen now for they are very well-behaved. By the time Choir Award Night rolls around in May you will think they have been Crusaders all their lives. And they have, actually—or their parents have been. Ricky Grinolds (Mary Ellen and Larry); Robbie Wyatt (Charlotte Ann and Mel); Matt Burgess (Jane and Keith); Angela Minner (Ann and Bill); Nancy Dill (Glo and Jack); Lu Ann McKnatt (Carol and Donald); Lisa Welch (LuAnn's sister); Nina Adamo (following brother Chris); Anita Hawpe (middle of 3 girls); Cindy Wix (Mary Ellen and Bill); Lisa Masten (another Tiger-Sara Emily and Bob); and last, but not least, Jackie Parker's big sister, Lynn.

It is difficult not to tell you something about each one of these children! We know you enjoy them each Sunday morning but the best time to observe them is during choir rehearsals. Oh! They really are jewels—each has something to tell or contribute—and each is there because he wants to be. Things get sticky sometimes but Mr. C always has a firm hold on the reins and the end result is praising God on Sunday morning. The parents can surely pat themselves on the back for urging and cultivating their interest.

But how lost we can all be without Jerri Outten, our patient, dependable, most capable, and beautifully-dispositioned accompanist. Jerri's temperament is perfect for the many-times-thankless job of "being there" and setting a wonderful example for the children. But if one were to attempt to thank Jerri, she would simply say "well, gee whiz, I just love to do it and I feel lost when I can't be there." Gail Melvin played for us many times last year as a substitute, as did Gwyn Melvin and Ruth Ann Moore. They enjoyed the experience as much as we appreciated their help.

Now, here I've run away with myself, but that usually happens when the Crusaders become the topic of conversation.

"How about those birds!"

U. of D. Slates Career Day For Students Today agriculture is the largest single industrial complex in America. You don't have to live on a farm—or even near one—to have a career in the broad field of agriculture. In fact, more than twice the number of actual farmers are involved in agriculturally-related fields.

Jobs in agriculture and agribusiness may call for training in engineering, chemistry, plant and animal pathology, entomology, genetics, plant and animal nutrition, soils, marketing and economics. College programs are designed to give students a broad understanding in many areas and specific training in his selected field, according to Dr. William E. McDaniel, dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences at the University of Delaware.

Careers Day (Saturday, Oct. 8) is planned by the College to help high school students become familiar with the variety of agricultural careers possible. It will be held in Agricultural Hall on the university campus, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Carrying out the theme "Science in Action," demonstration and exhibits are planned in plant and animal science, conservation and food business.

Veteran's News

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—I have been told that I am not eligible for treatment at a VA hospital for my non-service-connected disability because my military service was in a so-called peacetime period and was not considered wartime service. Is this correct?

A—If you were separated with other than a dishonorable discharge anytime after January 31, 1955, you are eligible for all medical, hospital and domiciliary benefits to which veterans with war-time service are entitled, and on the same priority with war-time veterans.

Q—My son enlisted in the Air Force in 1955. Shortly after he was in they did away with the G. I. Bill. When he was discharged after four years he decided to go to college and with our help, and working himself he graduated in 1965. It was a struggle. Now the G.I. Bill is back. What he would like to know is can he get a loan on the bill to start him in business? Two or three thousand dollars would help him a great deal.

A—Loans may be made only for the purchase of homes; to make alterations, repairs or improvements in homes already owned and occupied; to purchase farms or farm supplies or equipment; to obtain farm working capital; or to refinance delinquent indebtedness on property to be used or occupied by the veteran as a home or for farming purposes. The post-Korean G.I. Bill does not authorize business loans.

Q—Several people have told me that my husband, a World War II veteran now deceased, is entitled to a marker on his grave site stating he was a veteran. Could you give me any information on this matter?

A—Headstones or grave markers are available for any deceased veteran of wartime or peacetime service whose last period of service was terminated honorably by death or discharge. If you desire a headstone or grave marker you may contact the nearest VA office, which will provide an application and assistance in filing. If you mean, a marker in which the service organizations place flags on Memorial and Veterans Day, contact the service organization to which your husband belonged.

Q—May a veteran receive educational assistance allowance for a program of education pursued exclusively by correspondence?

A—Yes The educational assistance allowance will be computed on the basis of the established charge paid by non-veterans for the same course or courses. The allowance will be paid quarterly on a pro rata basis for the lessons completed by the veteran as certified by the school. Veterans should be cautioned not to enroll in a correspondence course before ascertaining whether or not the school and course are approved by the VA.

Q—What is the maximum amount a veteran may borrow on a VA guaranteed loan for the purchase of a home?

A—There is no maximum on the amount of a guaranteed loan. Direct loans made by the VA, however, may not exceed $17,500.

Q—Does the new GI Bill provide any form of veterans' life insurance?

A—No. The bill includes education, GI loan and hospital benefits, but there is no provision for Government life insurance.

Q—Is service in Vietnam of the Dominican Republic a requirement for educational benefits under the new GI Bill?

A—No. It is not even required that you have served overseas. If you served anywhere for a period of more than 180 days, any part of which was after January 31, 1955, you are eligible.

World Food Crisis Topic At U of D. Conference

Two-thirds of the people of the world are on a diet below the minimum needed for health. Hundreds of millions of children are suffering from a lack of protein according to Mrs. Dorothy Jacobson, assistant secretary for international affairs at the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Speaking at the recent seventh annual National Food Distribution Research Conference held at the University of Delaware, Mrs. Jacobson said as many as half the children under six in the underdeveloped nations of the free world along lack sufficient protein in their diet.

The deficiency has serious physical effects; it also causes severe mental retardation that cannot be changed by a better diet later. Many of the peoples now accused of being "naturally lazy and indolent" are instead products of infant malnutrition, according to Mrs. Jacobson. "If the food situation is bad now, how much worse will it be in 1980, when there will be one billion more people than there are now?"

The United States is now sending food supplies to 66 food-deficient countries. However, even if this country puts all available acres back into efficient agricultural production, within twenty years the world need for food will outstrip food production. The surplus food from all the highly productive countries in the world will not be sufficient to feed the world, if trends continue, according to Mrs. Jacobson.

"These trends must be changed—now," she told the conference audience. "The world cannot face the violence resulting from world starvation. Controlling the population growth alone won't solve the problem immediately."

The answer lies in encouraging underdeveloped countries to help themselves. Mrs. Jacobson believes. While the United States will continue to provide assistance, new legislation will provide for aid only to countries with self-help agreements. "Help them improve the rice paddies instead of building steel mills," Mrs. Jacobson advised.

Effectively increasing agricultural production and providing efficient food distribution in these countries involves tremendous difficulties. Even in the hungriest countries of the world, only 75 per cent of the food produced is ever eaten; the remaining 25 per cent is wasted or spoiled.

Modern methods of food distribution used in the United States must be adapted to fit the conditions found in each underdeveloped nation. "We must recognize that we can't transfer our efficient food distribution system as is; the system must be adapted to fit the problem," Mrs. Jacobson pointed out. "The greatest contribution the food industry of the United States can make is passing on their sense of industry, ingenuity and salesmanship, Mrs. Jacobson believes.

"Instead of racing with other nations to put a man on the moon, we should be racing to put food in the mouths of hungry children. We can win this race," Mrs. Jacobson concluded.

Delaware Farm Labor News

State Summary Heavy rains throughout state curtailed many harvesting activities. However, work was being carried out to some extent on unpicker crops such as snap beans, cucumbers, tomatoes, peppers, and apples. Labor is scarce and help is needed for harvesting apples, peppers, and potatoes.

Wilmington Area Rains continued throughout the week causing fields to remain wet and muddy. Very little harvesting could be done. Despite the weather, a few tomato crops were picked. The lima bean crops are not as good as was first reported. Several crews remain in the area to complete the harvesting of crops. Grain farmers will start harvesting field corn as soon as mechanical pickers can get into the fields.

Dover Area Rains totaling six to eight inches in September have curtailed all harvesting activities. Snap beans, cucumbers, tomatoes, peppers, and cabbage are being picked, but potato harvesting has been at a standstill. Apple growers report they are picking about 50 per cent to 60 per cent of a normal crop. Labor is scarce but crews are scrambling about taking any work available to them. Some field corn has been harvested, but the yield this year appears to be very poor.

Georgetown Area Rain curtailed harvest activities last week. Picking tomatoes for out of state processing is continuing but processing in state completed. There is a shortage of workers for picking peppers and apples. Some crews are short of workers and are unable to get Puerto Rican workers. Plants are processing peppers, white potatoes, sweet potatoes, carrots, lima beans, and snap beans. Anyone interested should contact Employment Security office in Georgetown, phone 856-2717.

New Geologic Map Published

A new generalized geologic map of the State of Delaware has been published by the Delaware Geological Survey.

Although it is the result of intensive research by senior author Nenad Spoljaric, geologist, and Dr. Robert R. Jordan, assistant state geologist, it is described by the researchers as only the first step in a continuing program.

Extensive study and field work already are in progress which will lead to the preparation of a more detailed and sophisticated map to be published within the next several years.

Dr. Jordan noted that Delaware started late in its development of geologic surveys. The Delaware Survey was begun in 1951, almost 100 years later than New Jersey's 1854 beginning and also far behind Maryland's 1896 origin of its survey.

The geologic map itself is useful to both the technical man and the layman, Dr. Jordan said, "contributing to multitudinous and varied fields concerned with the development of a state including: highway and industrial construction, planning, conservation, agriculture and water supply."

The newly published map is a summary of the Delaware Geological Survey's work of the past 15 years. Its many previous publications have contributed to the map.

Inasmuch as a geologic map indicates the nature of rock units underlying the surface of a given area, showing their location and interrelationship, it becomes indispensable for industry. Before building, engineers must consider the general nature of rock units which might be encountered in excavation, drilling, tunneling, or ditching operations. They must know what the potential water supply is, and what the drainage expectations are. Too much risk is involved to spend millions of dollars building on "quicksand," thus the geologic structure also becomes economically important. Of economic importance, too, is knowledge of the availability of mineral and natural resources, for instance, in the exploration of probable petroleum reserves along the Continental Shelf.

Then there is the necessity to know more about our water supply. According to Dr. Jordan, "Certain of the rock units function as underground reservoirs, or aquifers, and it is their physical nature and extent that controls our ability to provide all-important water for the continuation of well-being and growth of the state. Water, and our other mineral resources such as gravel, a variety of sands, clay, and stone, are economically recoverable from only certain rocks and it is the purpose of geologic maps to locate such materials and facilitate their exploration and development."

The new geologic map will be of educational value. For some time the public school system has contemplated adding earth science programs to the curriculum, and other scientific and geological studies would find it useful.

Each year the Delaware Geological Survey receives hundreds of requests for this kind of map, from mineralogical and natural history societies, and from industrial consultants and engineers. Now it can comply, and thereby participate in a cultural exchange.

"Continued economic and population growth in Delaware means that we must make increasing demands upon our natural resources," Dr. Jordan said. "In order to meet these demands we must achieve a fuller understanding of our geologic framework. This new map provides technical persons with basic scientific information and also will provide the geologic layman with background information necessary to make decisions concerning our resources."

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

Delightful autumn brings the crunch of dry leaves underfoot, brilliant fluffy chrysanthemums and football games, and the Indian Summer sun warm on your back as you walk in the tingling air. That air does mammoth things to your appetite after the wilting summer days, and more filling foods become the menu order of the day. To satisfy this growing appetite and yet stay within the food budget is becoming an everyday challenge to most shoppers. And once again this week it will take careful planning and equally careful shopping to break even since food prices continue to increase.
Many fresh vegetables have increased a penny or so in cost, as supplies arrive from growing areas further from us and weather continues to cause concern. Cabbage has jumped up in price during the past two weeks due to bad weather, which has cut the crop to well below average size. Lettuce prices are up also and head sizes are smaller than usual. Broccoli, cauliflower, beets, carrots, celery, corn, green onions, peppers and tomatoes are all up a bit in price. However, potatoes, both white and sweet, are in good supply and prices are reasonable. Most of the sweet potatoes are exceptionally fine as far as quality goes, but remember that these early potatoes do not keep as well as the later ones do, as the late ones have been cured. So buy in quantities you will use in a few days and save large volume buying until later.

Recent rains have helped apples to color up and increase in size. This fruit should be a big sale item during this week and the weeks to follow, and prices should be below average. Bananas are also on the bargain counter. Plentiful supplies of grapes and Bartlett pears continue and the first shipments of oranges and grapefruits have already left Florida. The citrus season has started and it looks like a good year for these fruits. Shipments of cantaloupes, honeydew melons, plums and watermelons are small and prices have advanced as the season closes for these summer-time favorites.

Beef prices are holding steady this week, and prices are considered reasonable—check specials for the best prices. This week, roasts from the hindquarters of the beef are good buys. Beef liver and ground beef are economical meats to include in your menus, also. There's no great change in fresh pork prices except for scattered specials. Some brands of bacon and sausage are a bit cheaper, but demand has caused ham prices to increase.
Wholesale lamb prices are up, yet some retailers are offering special prices on shoulder roasts and leg of lamb.

FENCE TALK

By George K. Vapaa

Shades of Tunisia! The weather recently has reminded me of North Africa back in 1942. Our fighter squadron was camped along a wadi, or dry stream bed. We were supposed to dig in to the ground and put our tents over the holes. But the ground was so hard and dry that it took an axe to break up the soil. So some of us got below ground leveling by the simple expedient of raising our tents in the stream bed.
One night the rains came in a rush, quickly filled up the wadi, and flooded us out. It was a wet night, followed by a wetter week and then several wet months of oozy muck.
What we didn't realize was that Tunisia has a dry season with very little rain, and a wet season with very little dry weather.
Our farmers are already crying about the recent rains. Many cannot fill silos because the heavy fodder bogs down the wagons in the mud. It was too dry to plow before, and now it is too wet. Some oat, barley, hay and pasture seedings are late going into the ground.
It's fast becoming a test of faith whether conditions will change.
Swing with 4-H was the timely theme selected by two 4-H clubs in the annual window display contest. We hope that our readers saw at least one of the 17 exhibits scattered all over Kent County last week.

The winners will be named at the 4-H Achievement banquet on Sat., Oct. 15. We would like to talk names now, but we'll give the highlights of the judging instead.
It's quite evident that our boys and girls are making their point to promote 4-H club activities: "Join 4-H Now," "What is 4-H?", "The Time is Now—4-H is for You".
We've seen fine growth in the quality of the displays over the years. Most of the exhibits work in some movement—swings, flashing lights, a turntable device, a clock pendulum—all to attract and fix attention.
Color treatments and ideas were built into the names or activities. The Harrington Sunshine Club featured a red sun and four clover-shaped clouds as a background for their head, heart, hands and health theme. The Woodside Emeralds used a rocket and star theme, with the stars representing projects. The Westville 4-H used fallen leaves to designate projects under their 4-H tree asking boys and girls to "swing to 4-H".
Fine exhibits! We only wish that more than one first place winner could be named.

Hold a family fire drill during Fire Prevention Week.
Pre-planning is essential to protect your family, for fire spreads so rapidly there is no time to figure out what to do. Make sure everyone, including the children, knows exactly what to do.
Then hold family fire drills regularly, so everyone in your home will react almost automatically to a fire emergency.
Here are pointers to help you plan:
1. Carefully figure out at least two routes to the outside from every room in the house, especially bedrooms. Allow for blocking of stairways or hall by fire.
2. Particularly for nighttime fires, remember that closed bedroom doors will hold back flame and smoke, allow extra time for escape.
3. For upper floor escape, use any available porch and garage roofs, ladders, or trees as ways down to safety. Be sure exit windows work easily, and especially that they are low and large enough to get through.
4. Pick an outside assembly point where the family will meet, and be sure everyone understands the rule "once out—stay out."
5. Know how to call your fire department, from an outside or neighbor's phone, and do this as quickly as the house is clear of people.

Lions Down Milton, 6-0

Harrington High School's varsity football team, coached by Bill Muehleisen, evened its record with a 6-0 victory over Milton, at Georgetown Friday night. When the public address system announcer came to the Lion coach's name on the program, he hesitated for several seconds then butchered it good, saying something like "Myewlenhize". Milton's offense also was in difficulty as the Lions' defense did not let them get inside the home thirty yard line all evening.

Harrington's offense was not clicking like it did against Delmar but this might be accountable to the workouts missed because of rain.

The Lions' first three plays, from scrimmage, saw Raleigh Davis and Steve Welch gain nine yards after Jerry Cagle returned the opening kickoff to the 35. Ed Wheatley kicked to Milton's 32.

Derick Crouch, the giant Henlopen Conference shutout champion, was the biggest man on the field. Running from the fullback slot, Crouch gained only a yard in two shots at the line. Mike Stayton was in on both tackles. Quarterback Hitchens rolled out to the 44 for a first down. Millman lost a yard on a bad handoff. Cagle's diving stop into a wall of interferers caused a two yard loss on an end sweep try. After an incomplete pass, a punt carried to the Lions 28. Incidentally, the Sussex Countians' kicking game was excellent all night.

Davis looked set for big yardage as he started around right end with plenty of interference. The gain was limited to seven yards as Hitchens slid across the entire row of blockers to get at Davis. A dive by Davis picked up two yards but Milton stopped the third down try. Wheatley got off a good punt to Milton's 30.

Crouch got one, Millman lost three, stopped by Gayle McReynolds and Cagle. A screen pass gained eight yards.

Davis returned the kick to his own 36. On the play, Milton paid a 15 yard fine for piling on, putting the Lions on Milton's 49. Three plays didn't gain. The last one was a Welch-to-Wheatley pass that just missed. Wheatley punted to Milton's 31.

After a pass in the flat gained 5, another aerial was deflected, then intercepted by McReynolds. H.H.S. then marched into touch-down-land, although fumbling and recovering for the second and third times.

Davis circled left end for eight yards. Davis then fumbled but the ball was recovered for a first down by the alert Robert Teed on the 24. Welch's jump pass to Bill Moore carried to the 15. Welch racked up the first down, fumbled and recovered it one play later, then smiled (or at least should have) as Milton declined a backfield-in-motion penalty. On third down, a pass from Welch was gobbled up by Cagle for a 11 yard scoring jaunt. Cagle, was a pretty fair cross-country prospect last year, but we're here to tell you, folks, that he shows promise of being a much better grider than he was a harrier. The switch HE made to football was the right move. A jump pass try for point No. 7 bounced off several players before hitting the turf.

Two plays later the Lions threatened again. Moore intercepted and flashed good speed and power as he finally was downed only 24 yards away from another score. A penalty and a fourth recovered bobble set the locals back to the thirty yard line. The gates opened as Welch went back to pass. A flood of tacklers caught him speedily for minus 7 yards.

Milton, in possession on their 11, finally got a few yards from Crouch, as the huge one added six through the middle. Crouch tried again for 2. Hitchens swept right end for three and a first down. Crouch got only one but a lateral netted five. Hitchens shed several tacklers and turned a probable loss into a pickup of two yards. Neither team could move for the rest of the first half.

The Warriors returned the second half kickoff to the 37 before McReynolds called a halt. Crouch went to the 40. Davis downed a back for a loss with a shirt tackle. Backfield-in-motion cost five. A Hitchens-to-Harris throw got back to the 38 before Cagle made the stop.

Milton punted to Davis, who was hit and fumbled the ball to the home team on the Lions' 35. This was to prove to be the Warriors' deepest penetration. A quarterback keeper was stopped by Mike Welch. Teed stopped Hitchens on a rollout for a one yard deficit. Wheatley, Stayton and a guy with a dirty number, broke through and dropped a passer for a big loss. Milton punted to the H.H.S. 19.

Welch ran for four but a pitch-out lost eight. Wheatley's kick took a Lion roll to the Maroon 48.

Harrington held. A Milton kick traveled over 50 yards to the Lion end zone. A Harrington first down was recorded at the 31 as Davis shot off tackle for 9 yards in two tries. Davis added three more the same way. Milton declined a penalty. Welch hit Wheatley in the right flat for a first down.

Milton threw back the threat and were in business on their own 42. Cagle dropped a Warrior for a loss before Hitchens rolled out for six yards, to the right. The Warriors kicked two plays later, to the locals' 25.

Davis hit off tackle for a five yard gain. Welch bulled for seven over the right side. He did it again for five. Two more tries by the hardworking Lion stalwart just missed another first-and-ten at Harrington's 46. Milton put the ball in play on their 37 yard line.

Hitchens rolled out to the right for 14 yards to the Lion 49. Dick Johnson, a star cross-country runner at Milton, who also is a starter on the football squad, used his speed to get too-close-for-comfort to a Hitchens pass in the clear. This was Harrington's worse scare all evening.

Davis, on the next play, had a good chance to go all the way with an interception but, apparently confused, he carefully and firmly, with both hands, smashed the ball to the greensward. Bill Moore tipped a long throw away from another would be scorer. A Warrior punt was bounding toward the end zone but the speedy harrier-grider, Dick Johnson, put Harrington in a hole by downing it on the Lion 4 yard line.

Harrington had fumbled several times but could not afford another back against their own goal. Steve Welch did the ball carrying and his teammates did the blocking to get away from that sensitive area. Welch started wide right, cut back in sharp and, to rack up 29 big yards in four carries. Milton finally dug in and forced a punt which took a Warrior roll backward to midfield.

With two minutes and twenty seconds left Milton chose this inopportune moment to get penalized for taking too much time. A pass was good for 7 yards. Mike Stayton just missed catching the passer for a loss but cost the Lions 15 yards when his momentum caused him to hit the quarterback. Stayton atoned to a large degree when he burst through the line and hit Hitchens in a hurry forcing him to release the ball so quickly that the Warriors lost five yards, although completing the pass. Milton's dying gasp saw Hitchens throw a strike upfield. Cagle hit the receiver hard just a hair after the ball did. The leather rolled free, an incomplete pass.

Harrington hosts J. M. Clayton tonight (Friday). Comparative scores indicate that the Bears are four touchdowns better than the Lions. We don't believe they are that good. Come out and see if Joe Sexton and Co. are as advertised.

Felton Hockey News

The Felton High School hockey team hosted the Milton squad Monday afternoon. The game proved to be a defensive game as the two teams allowed only one goal each in the game, which ended with a 1-1 tie. Donna Blades made the goal for Felton.

Thursday afternoon the Felton team will journey to Milford for a scrimmage game to start at 6 o'clock.

R. Morris, Wetherhold, N. Morris Beat Millsboro In Cross-Country

Harrington High's cross-country team extended its win streak to 14 straight with a 17-42 win over Millsboro at Killen's Pond on Wednesday. The 43rd win in the last 44 starts was achieved over a Blue Devil squad which was fresh from a victory over the always-tough Milton Warriors.

In dual meets a team that has the first three finishers can't lose. Since several strong runners have decided not to help their school this season, the pressure is greater on those who remain.

Ronald Morris, Chris Wetherhold and Nick Morris decided to take matters in their own hands. The trio ran side by side in the lead, for most of the race, then assured the victory by crossing the finish 1-2-3. Wetherhold logged a new low of 13:44. Dan Hicks put the icing on the cake by cutting his time 30 seconds and grabbing fourth place. The veteran senior captain is rounding into shape thus strengthening the Lions considerably.

Bob Rash, Danny Hitchens, and Wetherhold performed the rare feat of winning varsity letters in the eighth grade. Rash sliced 33 seconds off his best time and is down a whopping 80 seconds in three days. Hitchens tied his fastest clocking of 14:46. Dale Motter, another excellent eighth grade prospect, was 33 seconds faster than ever.

Other Lions to make the fastest trips of their careers around the rugged, new, 2.34 miles layout were Randy Cagle, Gary Redden, Joey Gray, Billy Walls, Mike Davis and Dennis Layton. Walls is one of the cost consistent improving boys on the squad with six new personal records, already.

Davis, 12, had an excellent 17 minutes flat in his first workout but couldn't better that, although coming close on occasion. Against Millsboro, the spunky towhead put everything he had into the final sprint. When he heard the time announced, 16:40, he grabbed Walls and did a jubilant dance at the finish line. This is typical of cross-country runners when they finally reach a clocking the have been aiming at for some time.

Layton, a late turnout for cross-country, has knocked off a minute and seventeen seconds in only three days.

Coach Harold McDonald has 20 boys in the 12-13-14 age group on his team. Most of these are fine prospects, two or three are potential state champions. The majority of them are 13 years of age. At the beginning of the season, these kids, with the exception of Chris Wetherhold, were expecting to compete in the junior varsity championship races in the state meet, the Henlopen Conference meet and the Harrington Invitational test. But these eighth-graders have been dealt a cruel blow by some of their older schoolmates. These older lads, all proven long distance runners, are capable of winning positions on the H.H.S. varsity. All of them were on the team but quit AFTER proving how good they were and also how unreliable they are (it says here). On the team they could make the Lions much stronger a threat to win another state championship to go with the one taken in 1963. Also here is how their absence is unfair to the junior high boys. The latter are good enough to beat many high school varsity harriers. They are willing to train hard, to work themselves into such peak condition that they can trim seniors who are six or seven years older. But as a reward for such dedication, they deserve the right to compete against boys their own ages in the aforesaid three, important Invitational meets.

However, at this writing after two victories in two starts, the Lions have eighth graders Bob Rash, Danny Hitchens and Dale Motter running in the No. 5, No. 6, and No. 7 spots on the varsity. If these gritty kids have to run on the varsity instead of the junior varsity in the big meets, we lay the blame at the doors of these older absentees. We don't expect any of them to come back because of what we say here, but we want them to know we respect very much this grand bunch of fighting young Lions. Their upperclassmen, former teammates, we respect somewhat less. Perhaps some day they will learn that it is unprofitable to continually drop out of programs entered. Some folks won't finish anything they get into unless perhaps an ice cream cone.

Harriers Down Seaford For Win No. 42 of Last 43

The proud winning tradition, that is Harrington High School's cross-country team, was demonstrated at Killen's Pond Tuesday night. Harold McDonald's Lions romped to a 21-40 victory over Diamond State Conference rival, Seaford. The triumph was the 13th straight dual, triangular or quadrangular win and the 42nd in the last 43 starts. It's small wonder, then, that the hill-and-dale sport continues to attract a large number of aspirants, most of whom stick.

Ronald "The Champ" Morris continued his fine performing by setting a new course record for the fifth time this season. Parker, of Seaford, stayed on the Lion's heels for 2 miles before Morris shook the Blue Jay in the last 1/3 mile. The new course mark is 13:34, down from 13:41.

Nick Morris, of Harrington and Thomas, of Seaford, stayed together for most of the journey. Nick left the Sussex Countian and missed by only a second in a gallant effort to catch Parker. Meanwhile, Harrington's "Wonderkind", 13 year old eighth-grader Chris Wetherhold, poured on the coal and passed the laboring Thomas for a standout performance in his first varsity race, in the colors of the Blue and Gold.

Completing the varsity scoring for H.H.S. was Captain Dan Hicks and tiny but very tough 68 pound eighth grader, Danny Hitchens. Hicks cut seven seconds off his personal record, while Hitchens chopped off five.

Bob Rash was next in 15:15 compared to a 15:20 on Monday and a 16:02 last week.

Richard Benson's 16:18 melted to 15:23 as he put forth a tremendous effort and stamped himself as one of the better young runners on the squad.

Other new personal record setters for H.H.S. were Vaughn Baynard, 40 seconds off; Billy Walls, Billy Stubbs, down 20 seconds; Randy Cagle, 40 seconds off; Dennis Layton, 40 seconds off.

Lions To Host J. M. Clayton Tonight

The Harrington Lions open the home 1966 football season this Friday evening at 8 p.m. against the John M. Clayton Bears.

Admission prices for this year's football games will be $1.25 for adults and 50¢ for students. No student below the seventh grade will be admitted to the games unless accompanied by a parent.

Felton Harriers Improve Rapidly

Coach Buddy Bonniwell's Felton High cross-country team got off to a late start and probably won't make a big splash in the won-lost department this season, but watch out for them next year. After only three workouts the Green Devils have come up with several good prospects. A month from now might see the number of these increase to a dozen or more.

The large number of candidates in the last four grades is a cause for optimism. Older boys have a strength and maturity that the youngsters can't match. In most cases a thirteen year old with any given number of practice sessions can't get anywhere near a sixteen year old with the same amount of practice time.

It's a little early to develop an accurate records system but we have managed to get a list of 28 names from Coach Bonniwell along with incomplete listings of respective grades and time trials.

Senior Irae Williams is currently holding the number 1 position after a fine first time trial of 15:25 on Friday night. Sophomore Howard Price is No. 2 after finishing first on Thursday and Monday nights.

Curt Bowers, Gene Palmer, Allan Dill and Bruce Morris are occupying the next four places. We believe Bowers and Dill accomplished their high rankings on the strength of only one workout.

Buddy Sipple rounds out the varsity at this writing. Sammy Bostick, at present, appears to be one of the best harriers on a year-for-year basis. He is an eighth grader, only 12 years old, yet he holds a high Number 8 ranking. Monday night he was clocked in 17:33 as he sliced a big 42 seconds off his first clocking on Friday.

Bob Dill was third in Thursday night's first workout but pulled a muscle along the way. When he recovers fully, he just might move up with the leaders.

Chris Moore, a freshman, was timed in 19:50 on Friday night. Monday night he stepped up the pace to 18:26.

As the Green Devils get used to cross-country and to the Killen's Pond layout some more big improvements will take place. The following list of clockings, after one or two workouts, is only the beginning. Most of these boys will have new personal marks by the next writing. In a few cases minutes, not seconds, will be sliced off the present figures.

TRUSTEES AWARD

ed the Council's services to the nation.

In picking Delaware as the state winner, the judges took special note of the fact that the state's traffic court system was upgraded by replacing the justice of the peace "fee" system with salaried magistrates. In addition, a court administrator was appointed to supervise the new system.

Among other activities and accomplishments that led to Delaware's award:

A comprehensive child-safety program was carried on, including an intensive "school's open" campaign, a well-administered school safety patrol program and an over-all safety education program covering aspects of child safety.

Although traffic deaths across the nation increased by 3 percent during 1965, Delaware showed a slight decrease in such fatalities, and its death rate dropped from 5.1 deaths per 100 million vehicle-miles to 4.6.

The driver education program was expanded throughout the state's schools, including private and parochial schools.

Members of the Delaware Safety Council's engineering section participated in the inspection of schools, the development of a set of rules and regulations for school science laboratories, studies and recommendations on safety codes proposed by the state labor commission and monthly meetings to exchange ideas on current industrial safety trends.

In cooperation with police, engineers and school officials, the Delaware Safety Council sponsored a study of school-area sidewalk needs that resulted in legislative approval of funds for the required improvements.

In the area of home safety, the annual Home Safety Inventory and Analysis was conducted, and there was a family-safety convention, held by the Delaware Safety Council, the State Board of Health and the University of Delaware.

Corporate membership and participation in the Delaware Safety Council and related organizations increased during the year, permitting an expansion of accident-prevention services.

The availability of accident-injury data, for use in analyzing specific problem areas, was increased by hospitals throughout the year.

The period covered by the award saw expansion of the National Safety Council's Driver Improvement Program throughout the state, including its use by the Wilmington Municipal Court for motorists found guilty of traffic offenses.

and associated electronic equipment will be in operation.

Visitors will see how motion picture film is edited to produce effective classroom lessons, as well as the photographic supplies and darkroom apparatus used by the Network. Personnel trained in television utilization will describe their activities in reaching teachers throughout the state. A demonstration by skilled artists and a brief explanation of ETV scheduling techniques will complete the building tour.

And, beginning January 1, 1967, and each year thereafter, all such sight draft payments made to producers under these programs, will be reported to IRS without regard to the amount. Producers will be advised annually of the program payments reported to IRS beginning with payments made in 1967.
