Trick or Treat For UNICEF

Representatives from Asbury and Trinity Churches met at the home of Mrs. A. B. Parsons on Monday evening and made final plans for this year's UNICEF program. Members of the committee included Mrs. Ernest Raughley, Mrs. Norman Brown, and Mrs. Frank O'Neal.

All school children are invited to go directly from school to the Century Club on Wednesday afternoon, October 26, at 3:30. They will be given tags and coin boxes and assigned to an adult who will drive them to a specified area while they make collections. Upon returning to the clubhouse, refreshments will be served by members of the local church activities committees.

Trick or treat for UNICEF celebrates its 16th birthday this month. The cumulative collections have totaled over fifteen million dollars. Because of UNICEF, children on every continent are happier and healthier and more ready to take their place in the world. They have been fed when they were hungry; they have lived under more sanitary conditions; they and their friends have been educated. UNICEF has become an established activity in over 13,000 communities and has the endorsement of all faiths.

In 1965 when UNICEF received the Nobel Peace Prize, the Harrisburg Patriot said, "UNICEF deserves the honor. No individual or organization can have a loftier aim than working for peace by comforting the deprived children in the Universe. It is one of the world's most praiseworthy applications of the Golden Rule."

Felton Man Charged In Car Death

A 22-year-old Felton man was charged Saturday with manslaughter after he was involved in a fatal accident earlier in the day.

Lewis F. Scott waived a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court No. 4, Seaford, on Saturday afternoon and was held in $2,500 bail for Superior Court.

State Police at Bridgeville said Monday that Scott could not provide the bail and was committed to the Sussex County Correctional Institution in default of it.

According to police, Scott was driving a car which, during a heavy fog on U. S. 13-A, drifted into the other lane of traffic and collided head-on with a car driven by Cleveland Louis Carneal, Sr., of Vienna, Md.

Carneal was fatally injured. The accident occurred at about 7:25 a. m., Saturday 3 1/2 miles north of Seaford.

THE BASEBALL PLAYER (Benny Moore's Protege) By W. C. Burgess

This ball player was about six foot three or four—a big tall lefthander—a right fair pitcher—and I think—Benny Moore was greasing him with a few nickels on the side. They call it a little payola—but you have to be right fair to earn it.

I had my German album then and I showed it to him. Incidentally, Benny Moore and Lindsay McVey took my recommendation on where to put that baseball diamond out to the Moose—that is where Riley—no pinch on this one, so I didn't know what troop he worked out off. At first I picked a spot way down farther—but it was too low, so finally, I picked it where it is now.

Stanley Clarke's brother—and I think his name was Irwin, came in with a great big State Highway grader—but of course, it was after working hours—but you have to thank Clarke, anyway. He sure didn't bring that big State Highway grader out of his pocket (David Paul Buckson) no payola involved—besides the statute of limitations would come in on this one.

Clarke said to me, "Winnie, there is a spring (water, water everywhere)—but not a drop to drink. So, we all get together and help level the ground off. Then we go out to the fair-ground and get the wire from the old backstop and put it up, too. Later, I am pretty sure, they added more wire at the top.

The Moose bought their home from Harry Greenberg, and then some of the Moose elders, or organizers came to me and said, "how about helping us pick a location for a ball diamond." I said, "Of course, at first I

D.H.A. Sponsors Six Talks On Crippled Children

The second in a series of six talks on the care and treatment of the stroke patient co-sponsored by the Delaware Heart Association and the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Delaware will be presented in the nurses auditorium at the Milford Memorial Hospital on Wednesday, October 19th at 2 p. m. The audience of Milford Hospital nurses and doctors and other interested people from Sussex and Kent Counties will hear Miss Mae Hightower, executive director of the Delaware Curative Workshop in Wilmington, and Wilmer Loomis, director of the Delmarva Easter Seal Rehabilitation Center in Georgetown, discuss the role of the out-patient rehabilitation center in the care and treatment of the stroke patient.

Miss Hightower and Mr. Loomis will be introduced by Lewis H. Talley, president of the Delaware Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

The first in the series of lectures and discussions was presented by Dr. John W. Goldschmidt, director of the Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation at the Jefferson Medical College and Hospital in Philadelphia. Dr. Goldschmidt set the stage for the series by presenting the different types of stroke patients and symptoms, hospitalization, care and treatment, out-patient care and treatment and the necessity for working with the family, as well as with the patient.

Miss Hightower with background in occupational therapy, and Mr. Loomis with background in physical therapy will describe the transition of the stroke patient from the hospital to the outpatient facility and to his home. They will discuss the role played in this transition by the family physician, the nurse, the hospital therapy department, the rehabilitation center and the family. This series of talks is being scheduled at the Milford Memorial Hospital as part of the in-service training program under the direction of Mrs. Jeanne McDonald, R. N.

Scheduled for every other Wednesday at 2 p. m., the talks in coming weeks will be given by a psychiatrist, a speech therapist, and a specialist in physical medicine. These talks and demonstrations are designed to proceed can do in the rehabilitation show what the teamwork aptation of the area's stroke patients and their families.

The Delaware Heart Association and the Delaware Easter Seal Society are cooperating on this series in an effort to show that the stroke patient crosses the boundaries of service of several agencies and needs the full resources of the community for effective care and treatment.

Transportation Leader to Hear About New Dept.

Creation of a Federal Department of Transportation has given added significance to the third annual Delaware Valley Transportation Conference scheduled Nov. 15 at the University of Delaware.

Some 150 transportation industry leaders and executives from the area will hear about the new department from several government speakers.

President Johnson signed the department into law on Oct. 15, when he said its eventual 90,000 employees would have the mammoth job "to untangle, to coordinate, and to build a national transportation system."

Luncheon speaker at the all-day meeting in the university's student center will be Lowell K. Bridwell, who spoke at the first conference in 1964. He is Under Secretary of Commerce for Transportation, a position he has held more than two years, and he has been mentioned as a candidate to head the new department.

Another government speaker who will discuss the new branch will be William K. Byrd, chief of the section of explosives and other dangerous articles of the Bureau of Operations and Compliance, Interstate Commerce Commission.

Other speakers on the program are W. T. Pancoe of DuPont; J. Fred Beissel, traffic manager for the Delaware State Chamber of Commerce; Clifford L. Worth, general traffic manager of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co., and Robert Pashek, head of the Department of Business Logistics of Pennsylvania State University.

An afternoon discussion period will include Pashek; Robert W. Cook, director of the university's Division of Technical and Business Services, and Dr. Frederick Durr, associate professor of business and economics at the university.

Beissel, conference chairman and moderator, is also on the educational committee of the Wilmington Traffic Club, one of the conference sponsors. Other sponsors are the Philadelphia Traffic Club, the Wilmington and Philadelphia chapters of the Delta Nu Alpha transportation fraternity, the Delaware Chamber of Commerce, and the American Society of Traffic and Transportation.

The conference fee is $10, which includes the luncheon, and should be sent to the cashier's office, University of Delaware, by Nov. 10. Checks should be payable to the University of Delaware.

Registration for the conference will open at 8:45 a. m. Following a welcome by a university official, Pancoe will deliver a prologue. Beissel will present brief remarks as moderator, then Worth will speak on "Tomorrow's Education for the Traffic Manager." Byrd's talk is entitled "Safety Compliance and the New Department of Transportation."

Luncheon speaker Bridwell's topic is "Future Regulations and the New Department of Transportation." Pashek will discuss "Education Needs for the Future in Transportation," followed by the panel discussion.

Bridwell, from Washington, D. C., served in several transportation posts in the government before being named Under Secretary. He has also worked in the Diesel Engine Division of the General Motors Corp. and with the Battelle Memorial Institute, a non-profit research organization in Columbus, Ohio. Following service in World War II, he served the Scripps-Howard newspapers as a transportation specialist.

The statement said the change would cut Kent County expenditures by about $300,000 a year and the money "could be put to work to satisfy the many needs of this county for parks, playgrounds, planning, sewers and water."

The five Democratic candidates for Kent County are William C. Holden, John A. Hartnett III and William E. Spence of Dover, Ernest F. Council Jr. of Smyrna, and J. Noble Carroll of Felton.

An oil firm has given tacit approval to sharing a trench under the bottom of Delaware Bay with a Kent County sewage pipeline, according to a county engineering consultant.

Peter E. Moffa, representing the Syracuse, N. Y., firm of O'Brien and Gere, Tuesday, said "preliminary indications are Sinclair Oil Co. will go along with a conjunctive effort" involving the trenching and laying of pipeline about three or four miles out in the bay at a point on shore near Big Stone Beach.

The county would use the trench to house a sewer pipeline for underwater discharge of effluent, and the oil company reportedly would use the trench for extension of a pipeline for offshore unloading and storage of oil for pipeline transmission up the Delaware Coast to Pennsylvania refineries.

Moffa said he had talked with the project engineer for Sinclair Oil and discussed with him the possibility of utilizing the work he is doing for "study and construction purposes and possibly laying pipelines simultaneously."

According to Moffa, the engineer said if the county and the company do get together, it will represent a great savings to both.

Moffa said the trenching and construction rig required to dig a pipeline bedding and their operation is expensive, and he said if the county can work with the company, it would save duplication effort and "could represent substantial savings."

Moffa pointed out that the cost of subaqueous pipeline is about one half that of the total cost of the outfall system.

In a report to Levy Court commissioners, Moffa said studies will begin Monday at three different locations in Delaware Bay to determine the effective dispersment of effluent at a discharge point.

Moffa said present information indicates that the effluent will never reach the surface of the water, but he said detailed studies in specific locations must be made.

"Yet to do," Moffa told commissioners, "is to determine a means of financing a project."

He said either the pipeline system with the pipeline to run along the highway department's right-of-way on Route 113A to Big Stone Beach or a tertiary treatment facility between Dover and Camden-Wyoming appear to be the most feasible methods of clearing up the county's most immediate pollution problems.

"I hesitate to mention a figure," Moffa said, "but I can say they seem well within reason."

Moffa also discussed the possible formation of sanitary districts—about eight or nine of them which form a semi-circle around the Dover and Camden-Wyoming area and to the east of them—and what part they possibly could play in the project.

He said the areas, delineated by natural drainage boundaries, cannot support separate treatment facilities because of sparse population, and he said the projected population figures do not substantially change the picture.

Moffa said, however, the districts, if they are formed, may have to contribute money for support of the project, even though they might not immediately see any benefit to their areas.

Veteran's News

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—I understand the G.I. home loan program for World War II veterans is about over. Is that true?

A—The deadline for WW II veterans is July 25, 1967. Your entitlement runs 10 years from the date of discharge plus one year for each three months of service, but in no case will it go beyond July 25, 1967.

Q—My father is a World War I veteran and needs an operation. He can't afford it and neither can I. Can he get into a veteran's hospital?

A—Admittance to a VA hospital is in this order: First, veterans with service-connected disabilities; second, veterans who are unable to pay. The latter are admitted when beds are available.

Q—In 1918, I suffered TB and was sent to a Naval Hospital from which I was discharged a year later with 100 per cent temporary total service-connected disability. In 1942, I was told that my condition was inactive. Why is there a difference in service-connected disabilities?

A—The difference is the severity of each disability. Each case is decided on the degree the veteran is disabled. Just about any ailment or disability could be service-connected but not all are compensable.

Q—Where can I get a list of schools and colleges approved under the new G.I. Bill?

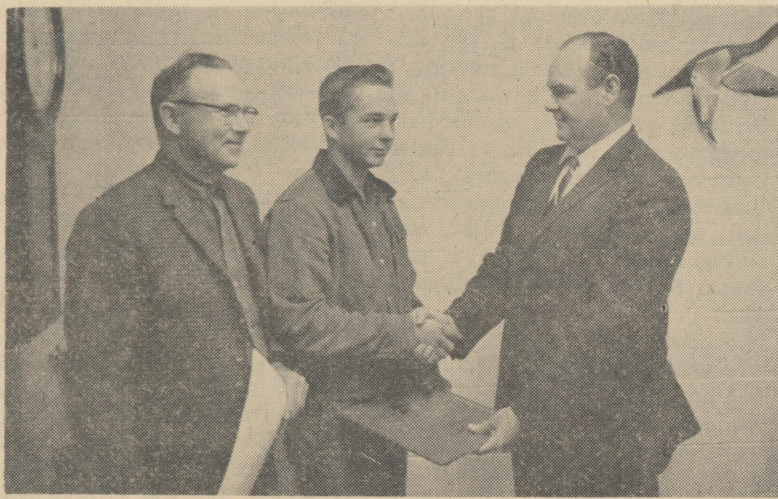

A—No such list is available. Schools are approved by state agencies. Best method is to contact the school of your choice.

Q—I have been on active duty in the Army since 1960. When I am discharged I will need a loan to re-establish my own business. Can I get a loan for this purpose under the new G. I. Bill?

A—No. Business loans are not included under the provisions of the new G. I. Bill.

Q—I am uncertain as to what I want to be, but I want to use the G. I. Educational Bill. Can VA help?

A—Yes, the Veterans Administration has a counseling service available to assist you in selecting the most suitable training program.

REGIONAL WELDING CHAMP—Mr. John Curtis, Harrington High School agricultural teacher (left), looks on as James Rouse receives certificate and $75 check from the high school principal, Mr. Charles Hoff. Rouse is the son of Mrs. Elsie Vogl Rouse.

Regional Welding Champ

James Rouse, son of Elsie Vogl Rouse, recently was presented a certificate and a check seventy-five dollars by the Lincoln Welding Company. Charles Hoff, Harrington High School principal and John Curtis, agriculture teacher were asked by the company to make the presentation.

James won third place in the Northeastern region of the United States. His project in school, with which he won the award, was the construction of a steel dump truck body. This required many hours of both planning and welding.

Lincoln Welding Company makes available $15,000 each year for the national welding contest to encourage boys in school to build outstanding projects and to become more familiar with welding processes.

Delaware Farm Labor News

STATE SUMMARY Beautiful fall weather has enabled all available workers to help in the potato, tomato, snap bean, and apple harvest. Field corn and soy bean harvesting are the major agricultural activities. These crops are mechanically harvested and there is no problem in securing help.

WILMINGTON AREA (Lower New Castle County) There are less than 120 acres of potatoes remaining to be harvested by approximately 70 workers. The lima bean crop will be finished this week. Rains caused the latter crop to be better than the early crop. Twenty five workers are cut-

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa

Fall foliage has splashed its splendor all over the landscape. This is one of the vintage years for gay colors. Quite a surprise after a dismal, dry summer. We hope that farmers will take pains to get in a cover crop of small grain to tie up the unused fertilizer that never got to the last crop. Otherwise this plant food may leach away with winter rains and snows.

Where the crop was poor last summer due to the rough even though you used plenty of fertilizer, it will pay to try to hold these nutrients for next year's crop. Fertilizer is like money. You can bank it in the soil with a cover crop. Or it can piddle away down the drain.

Cover crops also tend to hold soil moisture better than do unprotected soils. The best yields this year were on soils with high organic content — best achieved with a cover crop.

It is false economy to try to save money by not planting winter cover this year. The plant food is still in the ground. Go get it with small grain cover. You can get by with a lower fertilizer bill next year if you do.

Look to your laurels, DHIA members. The dairy herd of Allen C. Davis of Clayton came on official test with our Dairy Herd Improvement Association in August. His 34 cows topped the association with an average of 45 lbs. of milk per day and 1.67 lbs. of butterfat. This compares with 35 other herds averaging 30 lbs. of milk per day and 1.09 lbs. of butterfat.

The Davis farm is located at Blakiston, across the road from our association president, Presley E. Moore, Jr. Our herd supervisor, Frank Searles tells me that Allen is the son of Carlton Davis. He says the buildings are neat, clean and in good repair. And Allen keeps his breeding dates, freshening dates, and other information right up to snuff so he can use them.

We have almost 1800 cows on official DHIA at the present time in Kent County. We also have eight other herds with a total of 178 cows on the owner sampler program. Both programs offer the same information, but DHIA gives an "official" test because a milk tester visits the farm, gathers the samples, weighs the milk and feed, and makes a butterfat test on each sample.

ting cabbage. The harvesting of field corn and soy beans, both by machine, are now the principal agricultural activities.

DOVER AREA (Kent County)

Approximately 50 workers remain to finish the 100 acres of potatoes to be harvested. Cutting cabbage, picking snap beans and apples are providing employment for 170 workers. The lima bean harvest will end this week. The field corn and soy bean harvests are now the major activities on farms.

GEORGETOWN AREA (Sussex County)

Late apple harvest continues with a shortage of workers in some crews. Processing snap beans, peppers, sweet potatoes, white potatoes, and carrots is being carried out.

Tomato harvest completed this past week. Harvesting soy beans and field corn at this time. Out-of-state crews returning home for other commitments.

WAGE SURVEY

Kent County, apple picking, 12 cents a bushel. Sussex County, apple picking, $1.25 hour.

FINAL ISSUE

As our harvest season nears completion, this Farm Labor Bulletin will be discontinued until next spring. We express our appreciation to the growers, processors and canners, the University of Delaware, the County Extension Service, the Department of Agriculture, and other interested persons, for their cooperation in furnishing us with reports and information.

SO BE WISE - ADVERTISE SHOP AND SWAP IN THE WANT ADS

New electronic machines provide much more information than was formerly supplied. The records suggest about when a cow should be bred, will freshen, or should have her feed increased.

National DHIA figures show that cows on official test are superior to all other cows in milk production by 63%. Using $4.70 per hundredweight as the price for milk, DHIA cows have a yearly gross income advantage of $219 or $10,950 for a 50 cow herd.

Can you afford to be on a herd testing program? Put it another way. Will you spend $267 per year for testing to earn $10,950 more?

Black widow spiders are quite common in the fall around wood-piles, boxes, baskets and out-houses. Most people know they are poisonous. I've had two phone calls asking about them in the last few days.

The adult female has a rounded, glossy, black body, with usually an orange or red marking resembling an hourglass on the underside of the body. The male is much smaller and has stripes of white and pale brown along the sides of the abdomen.

Wear gloves if you are working in areas where you may run into them. Keep the webs clear and spray with kerosene or creosote oil (but watch the fire hazard). Destroy egg masses with a stick and kill the spiders on sight. Sprays of Clordane are helpful.

Hose-operated sprayers can be a dangerous way to apply pesticides. Homeowners and gardeners should realize that toxic chemicals may be drawn through the hose by back-siphonage and enter the water pipes within the house. This can happen if the sprayer was shut off and left standing.

A special check valve can be attached to the water outlet spigot to prevent this happening. It is also good procedure to disconnect the hose and drain it after use.

More State Fire Deputies Asked

State Fire Marshal William R. Favinger Monday asked that his force of deputies be doubled as hearings began on the state's fiscal 1968 budget.

Budget Director F. Earl McGinnis said he expects the hearings, which will cover agency requests for the year beginning next July 1, to be completed by Nov. 15.

Other major requests made Monday included $243,864 by the Soil and Water Conservation Commission and $177,627 by the Game and Fish Commission.

The total request from the Fire Prevention Commission was $97,639, compared to the $51,100 appropriated last year. Of the increase, $20,000 was asked to hire four new deputy fire marshals. This would double the current number.

The commission also asked a raise for Favinger, from $7,500 to $9,500, and for the others. Favinger and Commission Chairman William M. Donahue told McGinnis the present force of deputies is unable to fulfill its inspection duties. They said the four deputies are responsible for making inspections on 20,000 properties in addition to investigative work.

The Game and Fish Commission request was nearly $45,000 more than was appropriated for last year. Norman G. Wilder, director, explained that $25,000 would be used to study shad and other saltwater fish which spawn in fresh water.

He said the project could result in restoration of shad in the Brandywine River.

The $25,000 would represent Delaware's share of the study which would be undertaken jointly by the federal government and the Delaware River Basin Commission.

The Soil and Water Conservation asked for $15,000 to pay a director, a position it hopes to create through legislation next year.

E. H. Talbert, state drainage engineer since 1961, has been the chief executive officer of the agency but he said he plans to retire next year. Under the proposed arrangement the drainage engineer and a water management engineer would work under the director. Each would earn $12,000, compared to the current $10,000 for the drainage engineer.

The commission's request was up nearly $138,600 appropriated last year, but $62,500 of it represented a budget technicality. The commission asked that money or maintenance of tax ditches be switched to a regular fund appropriation from the supplementary appropriation it has been in the past years.

Also making requests Monday were the State Archaeological Board, $27,950, up from $22,075; Bingo Control Commission, $22,150, up from $16,000; Commission of Shell Fisheries, $159,320, up from $139,187; and State Forestry Department, $109,040 for general administration, up from $83,559, and $22,805 for fire protection, down from $23,535.

Discover Wonderful Del.

It's a wonder of wonderful Delaware that there were people living here 10,000 years ago. At spots scattered all over the state archaeologists find spear points of a peculiar fluted design. Spear points of this particular type have been found elsewhere in formations dating back to the days of the mastodon and the giant sloth—just after the last glacial period. Who were these people and what were they like?

It's another wonder that in Delaware there are graves of the Adena people, who are known to have lived in the Ohio Valley about 2,000 years ago. These burial sites contain very fine large stone artifacts typical of the work of these people—and the stone of which they are made has been identified as coming from as far-separated places as Tennessee and Wisconsin. The graves also contain beads of Lake Superior copper. What brought these far-ranging people to Delaware? Or how did the Adena artifacts get here?

A more recent wonder came to light last summer when Delaware archaeologists digging at the "Island Field" site just south of the settlement at Bowers Beach, discovered the remains of a village of the Late Woodland period—200 to 500 years before Columbus. At "Island Field" they found a grave containing a complete skeleton, what appears to be the remains of a house, and the usual sort of village refuse dump. Among the shells and bones and tools there was one complete pot of a type that has never been found anywhere else, and many shards of the same type. So far, no one knows who the Late Woodland people were, or where they came from. Possibly they were the ancestors of the Lenni Lenape Indians who greeted the first white men to arrive in Delaware.

The Smithsonian Institution in Washington is now studying the skull found in the grave at "Island Field" in an effort to find out more about these mysterious people. The explorers of these mysteries are the members of the Delaware Archaeological Board and their staff. Although the Board has been in existence for some time, it is only since 1965 that it has had a professional staff. Ronald A. Thomas, State Archaeologist, now has three part-time laboratory assistants, and during the summer employs about 10 more in field work such as the "Island Field" excavation.

The Archaeology Board has three major objectives—First, to do research in the pre-history of Delaware—to explore the mysteries of the past. Second, to help private collectors of artifacts in the identification, documentation, and preservation of their finds. Many private collectors are unaware of the means to properly document their collections for greatest scientific value, and the Archaeology Board staff is very glad to help them do this. They also hope that private collectors will let them look at any unusual finds.

The third objective is education. Members of the staff are available for talks at schools and clubs on prehistoric Delaware, and also on the science of Archaeology in general. The Board now publishes a quarterly bulletin from its office at 17 the Green, Dover.

Think of the wonders of wonderful Delaware going back 10,000 years!

Choose Winter Coats For Wear And Style

It's almost winter coat time. A new winter coat is usually an expensive purchase intended to be worn for several years. Be sure it will wear well and fit well, advises Miss Janet Reed, extension textile and clothing specialist at the University of Delaware.

Most women can find a coat that fits reasonably well without major alterations if they know their figure type. Petite sizes make it possible for shorter women to find a coat that doesn't even need a hemline changed.

However, different manufacturers cut coats with slight size variations. Keep trying on coats until you find one with a good fit, Miss Reed suggests.

In these days of self-service you have to recognize when a coat does fit. Look in a triple mirror. How does the coat hang? Wrinkles or pulling in any one spot indicate the coat fits poorly. The collar should fit well around the neck. A full-length sleeve should just hit your wrist bone when your arm is bent.

How does the coat feel? It should be comfortable and there should be no strain with your arms raised.

The style of a new coat is important also, Miss Reed believes. Study style trends, she recommends. Look for a coat that has a "new" silhouette, instead of a style you have seen for several years; the new style may stay in fashion longer.

Don't be a slave to fashion, however; look for a truly becoming style. Often small details such as the collar, sleeve length or seaming can make a coat look "new" even though it has classic lines.

Don't forget the rest of your wardrobe when you're buying a winter coat, Miss Reed cautions. Some coat styles require especially careful coordination with the clothes worn underneath. If a coat is three-quarter length, the dress or suit worn underneath should match. This may cut down on the usefulness of the coat.

Tweeds with a distinctive pattern or bold checks or plaids are best worn with plain, colored dresses or suits.

High fashion and bright colors may call for very careful color coordination throughout your wardrobe. Neutral colors will make wardrobe coordination easier. If you expect to wear a coat several years, high fashion colors promoted for one season only may not be a good buy, Miss Reed says.

The latest trend in coats is smooth surface fabrics that wear well. "Loopy" fabrics have a tendency to catch and snag. Heavily napped or fleecy fabrics show wear once the fleece wears off.

Zip-in linings extend the wear of a coat and make it suitable for both cool and cold weather. They're very practical for Delaware climate, according to Miss Reed.

Many women prefer a lightweight coat. However, the insulated type linings which cut down on the weight of a coat may not give enough warmth in very cold weather.

After the lining and the way it is put in is a reliable guide to quality. Linings should be serviceable and good-looking; they should be cut with a pleat at the center back and should not pucker around armholes and sleeve edges. A smooth lining enables you to slide in and out of the coat easily.

Good workmanship gives the mark of quality—and long wear—to a winter coat. Seams should be flat and even, and they should be bound or double stitched if the fabric is loosely woven. The hem should be flat, even in width and finished with good quality tape.

Buttonholes should fit over buttons evenly, not too long or too short. They should be cut on the grain of the fabric, reinforced at the ends and evenly stitched or bound. Bound buttonholes are usually found on better coats.

Finally, be sure you really like the coat, Miss Reed advises. You're going to wear it often and long. So don't settle for something that will just "do".

Country Lane Extension Club News

By Jane Everline

All members and one guest of the Country Lane Home Economics Extension Club toured the John Dickinson Mansion, the museum, and the Governor's Mansion on Tues., Oct. 11.

John Dickinson was elected Governor of our state in 1781, but prior to this he had earned the title "Penman of the Revolution" by writing practically all of the important documents of the American Congress up to the Declaration of Independence. As our guide took us through the mansion it was amazing to see the excellent condition of the furnishings that are over 200 years old. Women are always interested in kitchens, but none of us felt we wanted to trade ours for the one the Dickinsons used. There were so many things of interest in the museum, it is impossible to name them all. We enjoyed the tour very much.

After a delicious buffet-style lunch at the Hub, we visited the museum. Quite fascinating in building number one, was the playing of "My Country 'Tis of Thee" on the Grand Harmonicon of Musical Glasses.

In building No. 2 we saw a very old fire engine, once used in Dover, agricultural and wood-working tools of the past and a demonstration of hand spinning and weaving. Building No. 3 contained cobbler tools, blacksmith exhibit and grind stones and implements from an old grist mill. There was also in building No. 3 a Swedish-type log house of about 1704 which had its origin in Delaware.

Our last stop was the Governor's Mansion. A lot of interest was shown in the huge Dutch-type door by which we entered. We saw the drawing room and dining room on the first floor, then on the second floor, the bathroom, master bedroom and the guest room with its canopied bed. After signing the guest book we were on our way home after a very enjoyable day.

On Monday evening, Oct. 17, 12 ladies met at the home of Mrs. Jeanette Holloway, to receive instruction in knitting.

The next regular meeting of our club will be Tues., Nov. 1, at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Laughery.

Services at the Fleischer Funeral Home at Greenwood will be Friday at 2.

Interment will be in the Bridgeville Cemetery.

"A pint's a pound the world around"—but how many teaspoons equal one tablespoon? That question often confronts the homemaker at a crucial time in the middle of cooking.

Here are five of the most popular measures and their equivalents. Three teaspoons equal 1 tablespoon, 4 tablespoons equal 1 1/4 cup, 2 cups equal 1 pint or 16 ounces, 2 pints, 4 cups, and 1 quart equal each other. A 1/4 lb. stock of butter or margarine equals 1/2 cup or 8 tablespoons.

Kitchen "musts" should include a nest of 4 measuring cups and a set of measuring spoons. Buy them in stainless steel for long wear and easy care, good for hot or cold ingredients. Hang cups and spoons nearby for instant reaching.

Ever in the middle of a chocolate cake before you realize you're out of baking chocolate? You can come close to the same result by substituting 1/4 cup cocoa plus 1 1/2 to 2 teaspoons shortening for each ounce of unsweetened chocolate.

If your cookbook doesn't spell out equivalents and substitutions you might want to keep them on a card in your recipe file or fastened inside a cupboard door.

You can substitute for 1 cup of buttermilk by using 1 cup of sweet milk or reconstituted evaporated milk with the addition of 1 tablespoon of lemon juice or vinegar.

Two tablespoons of flour can be used in place of 1 tablespoon of cornstarch for thickening.

If you use shortening instead of butter, add 1/2 teaspoon of salt for each cup.

One cup of evaporated milk (undiluted) will make about 3 cups when whipped. One cup (1/2 pint) of whipping cream makes about 2 cups when whipped.

P. S. A pint (2 cups) is NOT always a pound! Just to name a few exceptions, it takes 4 cups of sifted flour to make a pound, 2 1/4 cups of sugar, and 6 cups of uncooked oatmeal!

THE SOCIETY FOR THE PRESERVATION OF THE CROW

The society says the crow was the navigational founders of the New World, that Leif Ericson and Christopher Columbus followed the big, black, bird to land.

The society, which claims 2500 members, said Ericson's ship, like those of all the Viking explorers, was guided to Vinland by two navigator crows, and that Columbus altered his course to follow a flock of what appears to have been migrating crows to the West Indies Oct. 12, 1492.

We see the Kent County Levy Court has appointed a committee of three to study sites and plans for a county airport. The group is composed of three Dover businessmen.

We presume Kent County may have to pay for part of the project. So, why not have the airport in the vicinity of Harrington where there will be less chance of collision between private and commercial planes with those of Dover Air Base? So, it would take 25 minutes to reach Dover from the Harrington area. How long does it take one to reach Friendship International Airport from Baltimore or Washington? In fact, how long does it take anyone to reach a major airport from a large city?

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

After ten days' travel throughout Pennsylvania, over recently built Expressways, that make the Turnpike look like a cow-path, we breathed a sigh of relief entering the DuPont Highway for the happiest part of the trip—

BACK HOME

Back home from a week of busy travel
 Away from loneliness of crowded ways
 Where lighted streets showed faces all distorted
 Picturing the lust of other days.

Back to woodland robed in autumn glory
 Back where perfect peace just reigns supreme
 Where open country spreads before my vision
 Gold and brown with just a little green.

Back to where the country roads and waysides
 Show the beaten pathways leading home
 Back among the farmer-folk and neighbors
 Simple hearts—that never yearned to roam.

Back around the happy family hearth-side
 Where, after all the evening's chores are done
 To learn of what has happened in our absence
 And other interesting things that's yet to come.

P.S.—I want to remain on Paradise Pastures until time to enter another Paradise not far beyond.

Me and Col. Boggs, Or "The Last Reporter At The End Of The Line"

By W. C. Burgess

"Oh! Lonesome, Lonesome Me!"
Time: "I don't remember, except Carvel was getting sworn in at the State House. Place: Governor's Parking Lot.
 He had just got throwed out—lock, stock and barrel—just like old shoe, when it is worn out and through.
 "Caleb, "how did you beat Frear?" It was a grunt—something like a slight groan, or a mumble.
 "Uh! huh, boy! I told you, you had to lose someday."
 "Still two terms is enough for any man. — Just a thought from W. C.—That is all—"The bigger they are the harder they fall." This bird was an EAGLE in Patton's Third Army. If Burgess had a known—AWOL W. C. — This eagle started out with me."
Time: 1926. Place: Dover, Delaware.

It seems like the roster said: "Boys going to Plattsburgh Barracks, CMTC, (72 miles from the Canadian border) Caleb Boggs, Dan Anderson, and I think—Irving Buckson! So, I was invited to a party for the going-away boys—And that is where I met the Cale. Now on this trip I saw Lou Gehrig and the "Bouncing Babe" Ruth in Yankee Stadium. The bambino hit one and the center fielder and the right fielder never even looked 'til it hit the ground and it missed the right field fence by about 20 yards. Then a moonlight trip up the Hudson to Albany—now that is a trip! The next year I went by train—right by Sing Sing—(not a Chinese lullaby, either, incidentally). Why drop in—"I don't know anybody there!" and on to Plattsburgh. There were nice views, like Bear Mountain, Lake George and Lake Champagne—pardon me—Lake Champlain; later, a trip to Burlington, Vt., to Ft. Bennington, a cavalry outfit, and later a trip to Lake Placid for a baseball game. Boy, what a trip! Five cents a mile, too, both ways—also, plenty of 'tatters to peel—when you got KP!

Fred Lord, "Monk," Callaway, and some of the other Harrington boys have been up that way, too—also, honorable mention, Calvin C. Coolidge, President of "Los Estados Unidos"—which is Spanish for United States. "Eyes, Right,"—and there he stood on the bandstand—a conservative president—but a Republican—and a very good president!

Now, up there they taught us "the one-pounder," a thirty seven millimeter gun, trench mortars and water-cooled thirty-three machine guns—we got the air-cooled machine guns from the Germans, later.

And, "Heavenze, Helfense Mir"—"heaven help me"—we ran around in old World War I uniforms—Caleb, too—wrapped putese, or roll-leggin's, straight-brim hats, like Ben Emory, "Hollywood John" Harrington, Clarence Cohee, and "Shortie" Krause used to wear—Just like "All quiet on Western Front." We used Springfield 03's for rifles, and even if you used the slings, which you had to do anyway—they would almost knock your ears off. They have a kick like an Endfield, which is the corresponding British "knocker-outer."

So much for that—and now for the main entree.—
Time: 1946. The politics, are showing up!
 Parked at the printing office one night, is none other than "Eagle Kale". "Hello, Cale, let's go get us a jug." "No, I can't do that "Winnie." "I can't do that, I am a politician." "I have a little beer in the car, though." "So, I says, Cale, let's go over to Harry Adam's Restaurant, and lo! and behold, there is "Black Cat," and he "says, "Have one." "So, I gave him an introduction. And the man, when he got to be governor, he also says hello to "Black Cat." To be a politico, you have to remember everybody. Incidentally, I also know Jim Flood, his secretary.

To be a politico, you have to be awful careful. I asked him once, "Cale, I understand there was some talk of making you a general. He studied awhile and said, "how am I going to make myself a brigadier general, ain't I the governor? "But of course, it would have been a conflict of interest."

"I calls him up, one morning about four o'clock and asks him: "Can I help you Cale."
 Back came the answer:—the politician's prayer—"I need votes." "Winnie, says is it alright if I go back to bed?"—the Elephant asking the mouse if he could go back to bed!"
 And so ends the story of the man who is dedicated to the public—win, lose, or draw.

Judy—my daughter was there, so was my wife, and one of Cale's daughters. I suppose she couldn't figure out why her father was looking up at the State House, and in a kind of moody way, too.

One thing, though! You could get in to see him with or without an appointment, which is a lots better than some other professional people I know. If they don't want to see you, they tell the secretary. "tell him I am in conference; which I don't think is a good way to duck the issue at hand. After all, if you make your living off the public—you owe them something in return. "Does the shoe fit; or does it pinch the tootsies?"
 "They call him, never say 'no' Boggs". To be a good politician, you have to help the public. That is whenever possible! After all I have only known this EAGLE for 42 long years. "Come on grandpa; help the poor!"

Mrs. Shy Mackes

Mrs. Shy Mackes To Speak At Asbury Church

On Saturday evening, Oct. 23, at 7 o'clock, Mrs. Shy Mackes of Dover will be the guest speaker at Asbury Methodist Church, Harrington. Her topic will be "Prayer." The public is invited to hear and meet Mrs. Mackes.

Mrs. Mackes was born and educated in Puerto Rico, and lived there for seventeen years. A graduate of Lasell College, she is married to Phil Donald Mackes, of Dover, and is the mother of two sons.

Mrs. Mackes is a prayer group leader and speaker, and conducts retreats and schools of prayer and Quiet Days in all denominations. She is a member of the Order of St. Luke, the Physician, the Healing Ministry of the church. This is an interdenominational and international non-monastic order, open to clergy, doctors, psychiatrists, nurses, social workers, and lay people active in intercessory prayer, who want to develop a vocation in spiritual therapy, and who are seeking to restore to the Church the ministry of Christ's healing power.

She is also a leader in the Camp's Farthest Out. This, too, is an interdenominational movement, founded by Dr. Glenn Clark, for those interested in going "Farthest Out" in spiritual training. Prayer is kept central in the Camps Farthest Out, and persons come back to their respective churches more dedicated to God, and better members of His Church.

Mrs. Mackes is a member of the General Council of the Koinonia Foundation of Baltimore, Maryland, a non-profit organization which gives spiritual training to persons going overseas to work in many areas of church and government.

As a member of the Dr. Frank Laubach Literacy Committee of Delaware, she helps promote the work of literacy for all peoples, and has just returned from a world tour with Dr. Laubach Literacy, visiting fourteen countries, with Literacy Centers in most of them.

The author of several articles on "Prayer" and "The Healing Ministry of the Church," her poetry, also, has been published in many religious magazines. She is also an active member of the Speaker's Bureau of The American Bible Society.

Harrington Bowling League

Kent Gas moved five games out in front in the Harrington Bowling League, winning all four games Tuesday night. Acme retained its hold on second place. McKnatt Funeral Home made the almost impossible, possible by winning all four games despite the absence of two men from the team. Bowling against Wally's Garage, last week's third place team, McKnatt Funeral thus took over the third place spot and dropped Wally's Garage to fourth place.

It's a rare feat indeed to have three men beat a team of five in bowling. Is McKnatt Funeral that good or was it a bad night for Wally's Garage? Perhaps the next meeting will prove different with both teams at full strength.

leave and "Tony" — "the tap dancer" Collins told me to get 'The Hobo News', out of New York City. So, I did.

Nobody from home would answer my letters, but the soldiers certainly liked to read "The Hobo News." After all, in France, anything was good reading. Johnny Joyce from Bethel got the Morning News and The Evening Journal, and sometimes he would forget and throw them away. Then there comes old Churchill backtracking and diving in the foxholes — just to get a little ole' news from home—Oh! well! It was worth it!

Ish Fristan—in German — I understand. Sorry for the tear-jerker. It is just two of them all tied up in one.—Just call it a couple of human interest stories. — And one of them is among my memoirs. And the other one is the letter from mother to us about her son.

If you really want to know—sentiment in these times is practically a forgotten thing—it is the cold green—or money—is about all that counts. It is not people anymore, it seems—it is just the greenback.

"They said, "how you going to do it?"

I said, "a State Highway grader." Now this Benjamin Moore has a few connections.

"He said, "there is the State Highway garage over there, and I know Irving Clarke; "I'll ask him."

And out came a State Highway grader, with the compliments of Irving Clarke, Lind-say McVey, and the State Highway Department—with or without their knowledge—a fool never asks any questions — he is foolish enough already.

So that is the story of the Moose ball diamond. When Riley, — now Major Riley—got up on that mound — he never knew who fixed the works up.

Even Benny used to say, "Winnie, get out of sight, you'll make us all look bad. You see, at that time, the Stote boys didn't go to Felton. The turnaround for the Bridgeville boys then was in Harrington."

When they pulled in—Church-hill had to duck.—That is my middle name.

Federal Grant For Dover Special School District

Dover Special School District has been awarded a federal grant of more than $3,000 to plan a pilot program for educating students about education.

OUT-GUNNED AND OUT-MANNED, BUT NEVER OUT-FOUGHT, JONES VANQUISHED THE LARGER SERAPIS THROUGH SHEER SKILL AND COURAGE.

Steve Welch's Last-Minute T. D. Nips Lord Baltimore Eagles, 13-7

A beefy Lord Baltimore team had Coach Bill Muehleisen's Harrington High football Lions on the ropes here Friday night, but Steve Welch's touchdown with 40 seconds on the clock, brought the Lions from a 7-6 deficit to a stirring 13-7 victory.

Coach Muehleisen, a likely candidate for an ulcer, saw his never-say-die charges rebound from last week's horrendous 41-0 shellacking at the hands of John M. Clayton, to even the season's log at two wins and two losses. The Lions journey to Millsboro Oct. 21 and take on Rehoboth here, Oct. 28. These schools are in Harrington's class this season. A pair of victories against the Blue Devils and Seahawks and one at Selbyville on Nov. 11 would give H.H.S. a winning 5-4 season. We are assuming that the powerhouses at Bridgeville and Dover Air are too strong for the locals this autumn.

Jim Simpler gave the Lions an early boost when he intercepted a pass on the second play from scrimmage. Raleigh Davis, on an end sweep, got by an Eagle at the scrimmage line and went on for several yards. Davis picked up four more yards. The Lions had to kick when Steve Welch's third down pass was dropped. Jarman, Venable and J. C. Bennett ran the Eagles from their 13 to the 45 where Venable was hurt. Jim Harris stopped a running play. The Eagle fumbled and recovered for a loss of seven yards. Harris caught Shadel trying to turn the corner and the Sussex Countians lost seven more.

After a punt, Gerry Cagle started around the flank but a missed block caused him to cut inside the tackler. Lord Baltimore was penalized for both clipping and face-mask tackling to their 30. Both these infractions can cause injuries but ironically an Eagle was hurt on the play. Welch passed to Davis for four yards. Gayle/ McReynolds went through a gaping hole for a first down at the 15. Gayle did the same thing to the 9. Two plays gained only a yard but Davis recorded a first down on the 4. Welch went wide to score untouched. The extra point was no good as Welch slipped on the wet grass.

After a few plays the Eagles punted to the Harrington 22. Welch was snowed under on a pass attempt. Another toss caught the receiver not looking and Shadel intercepted.

An offside penalty moved L. B. ahead five yards to the 23. A matching penalty moved it back to the 28. A pass in the flat was good for five. A third down pass was batted in the air and came down in the arms of a Lion who muffed it. There was nothing but green grass between the luckless one and the goal. Wayne Teed caught Shadel for a loss back to the Lion 30. Welch fumbled the ball away at the 27 but the threat died as Mike Stayton immediately recovered an Eagle fumble.

A Lion punt was downed on the L. B. 42. Big J. C. Bennett, who killed us last year at Ocean View, almost got away as he ran for 11 yards. Bennett tried to sweep the end but Steve Welch came up fast and saddled him with a two-yard loss on a nice tackle. Jarman, another large lad, was cut down for-1 by Ed Wheatley, who is no shrimp, either.

Taking over the pigskin at midfield the Lions called Davis' number but he was smashed viciously to the turf by two El Huges at the half.

Wayne Melvin took the Lord's second half kickoff 25 yards to the Harrington 47 on a nifty run-back. He looks good in this department. We won't be surprised if he goes all the way some night. L.B. picked off another errant aerial but couldn't capitalize on it. A quick kick set the Lions back to their 11. Welch's runs took off the pressure as he moved to the 25 on three plays. Bill Moore "The Wizard of Argo's Circle" caught a Welch strike for 43 yards, the top Lion gainer of the fray. Davis bolted for eight yards but the long march then fizzled out. The last play of the third quarter saw H.H.S. with the ball back at their own 30 yard line.

Disaster struck. A long Welch throw was aimed for a receiver in the clear but Shadel again intercepted just in time. He raced through most of the Lion team all the way to the 2 yard line. With a one yard penalty helping the Eagle further, it was a simple matter to punch across the tying score. A run for the extra point moved the visitors ahead 7-6.

Wayne Melvin returned the kickoff 28 yards to near midfield.

This fine runback helped give the Lions good field position enabling them to keep L. B. bottled up and thus was one of the key plays leading to the winning tally. Welch hit Davis for five yards and then cut in sharply on a play that started wide, to rack up a first down at the 40. The basketball or jump pass which the Lions have used to good advantage this season didn't work at all against the tall visitors. J. C. Bennett picked one off to stall the Lions momentarily. H. H. S. poured through to block an attempted quick kick and fall on the ball at the 30.

Davis sped to the 19. Welch reached he 15, the 12, then a first down at the 8. McReynolds carried to the six yard line. Welch fell again for no gain. McReynolds got to the 4. Davis turned right end on fourth down, was tackled but dove desperately for the end zone missing by only 12 inches.

Lord Baltimore couldn't move the ball away from the shadow of the goal posts as the furious,ly pacing Muehleisen sent in orders to "Hold them there."

After the punt, H.H.S. filled the air with footballs. First down pass, no good. Second down pass, no good. Third down pass, grabbed by Davis at the five. Someone yelled "Eight seconds left" a false rumor, but one that scared the wits out of the partisan rooters.

Welch started wide to the left but cut into a hole created as Mike Stayton flattened an Eagle or two, to score standing up. Pandamoniumville! The same thrust worked again for an anti-climatic extra point.

On the kickoff a would-be ball carrier was downed so quickly one would almost swear the Lions had a spy in the Eagle's midst. The last play of the contest saw Shadel get the ball and instantly get an introduction to the turf.

Almost on cue a few seconds later, the fog rolled in as jubilant Lions and Eagles with clipped wings headed homeward, the latter still searching for that elusive first victory.

Felton Harriers Beat C. R., 26-30

Coach Buddy Bonniwell's Felton High cross-country team forgot to read the script. First-year teams aren't supposed to win. After losing close decisions to Milford and Caesar Rodney the Green Devils upset the Riders at Rising Sun on Friday. If the Devils had started practice a week or ten days earlier than their late September beginning, they would now have a 3-0 record.

Lloyd Shelman and Irace Williams, both of Felton, came in 1-2 just a second apart. Williams' first name fits him to a T because he certainly does (race that it). Curt Bowers of FHS was only five seconds behind the winning time in 4th place. The victory was assured when Gene Palmer (8th) and Howard Price (11th) made the scene. Eighteen runners competed in the varsity test.

Allan Dill led the way around the 2.35 miles course in 13:53 followed by teammates Dave Tribbett, Mike Price and Ron Voshell. Egan of C. R. was fifth before Felton's last scorer Bud Sipple in sixth.

Lions Trip Milton; Win 18th Straight

On October 11th, Lewes' fleet Barry Lambertson came to Harrington, handed Ron Morris his only defeat of the season and lowered Morris' Killen's Pond course record mark of 13:38 to 13:10. It was thought that time would probably stand until Lambertson comes here to vie in the multi-team Harrington Invitational on November 9th.

Ron Morris served notice that he may have the course mark back in his possession before then. On October 18th, Morris tangled with Milton's ace, John Wilson. The Warrior led through the middle part of the race and forced the Lion to run hard to keep up with him. With a little more than half a mile to go, the Harrington lad took the lead and moved away to win in 13:12, only two seconds off the course mark. Just a smidge more of competition and "The Champ" would have his course record back to go with the ones he owns at Milford and Millsboro.

Milton's Warriors were fresh off a one point loss to a strong Lewes squad. This is not the best team that Bob Edgerton has brought to Harrington, but it is a well-balanced squad and is not to be taken lightly. The Lions were "rattled scared" and their fears proved to be justified. Milton ran much better at Killen's Pond, than did Lewes. If Harrington had posted the same times that they did against Lewes, Milton would have been the victor.

The spirited Lions rose to the strong challenge with Wilson and Morris setting a hot pace up front and harriers all down the line fighting hard not to get too far behind, the first eighteen Lions across set new personal records 22 of 26 Harringtonians accomplished this feat in what is probably the greatest mass improvement in nine years of cross-country here. The four kids who did not make it missed by only 3, 5, 10 and 16 seconds, respectively.

Chris Wetherhold, the hard-working 13-year-old eighth-grader, was only nine seconds behind Morris. Eight downstate teams with 150 runners have competed at Killen's Pond this season. Only two, Ron Morris and Lambertson, have better times than Wetherhold.

Nick Morris may be approaching last year's form when he made the All-Henlopen team as a sophomore. Nick's 13:49 against Lewes, melted to 13:24 against Milton.

Captain Danny Hicks cut off 27 seconds. Allan Parker dropped 20. Danny Hitchens, Bob Rash and Dale Motter, eighth graders all, came down 14, 2 and 27 seconds, respectively. This trio with Wetherhold should keep H.H.S. on or near the top through 1970. Hot dog!

Other new record holders are: Jim Redden, 18; Bob Smith, 8; Martin Adams, 45; Gary Redden, 41; Billy Walls, 1:04; Charley Brown, 29; Brinley Brode, 26; Joey Gray, 4; Vaughn Baynard, 9; Billy Stubbs, 26; Don Minner, 1:36; Brad Morris, 49; Johnny Curtis, 1:52, and Bob Legates, 1:34.

There are several truly outstanding performances in this last group. Perhaps that of Billy Walls tops the list. Walls is one of the youngest, smallest and least experienced of the Lions, yet cut off 64 seconds to move up several notches on the team roster.

Charley Brown, a freshman, is making his move earlier than in 1965 when he showed drastic improvement in his last start.

The Lions' win streak now stands at 18 in a row with 47 wins in the last 48 starts. If H.H.S. can get by Lewes and Milton in two Sussex races, another undefeated season is in the bag. Lion Coach Harold McDonald, has had several unbeaten seasons but is always ready for another. At the beginning of this season prospects were bright for a fine year. As time went by Coach McDonald began to revise his thinking and was about ready to settle for a slightly better than .500 record. This was caused by the departure of several standout harriers.

On August 1 it appeared that the start of practice would see the team shape up like this: No. 1 Gary Simpson; No. 2, Frank White; No. 3, Nick Morris; No. 4, Dan Hicks; No. 5, Ron Morris; No. 6, Chris Wetherhold; No. 7, Jack Warrington; No. 8, Jim White.

In 1965 Simpson, then 14, came out for the team, unheralded, but several times finished ahead of veterans like Nick Morris and Bob Mathews, two former jayvee state champions; Dan Hicks, Marshall Hatfield, Dan Adams. Only school record holder, senior Gerry Garey, 17, was out of the first-year 14-year-old's reach. With 1965 state champion, Jeff Brokaw, out of action this season, Gary Simpson could have had a good chance to become the 1966 state champion. Instead he is a substitute on the Lions' varsity football team. But it's a free country isn't it? Participation in

Lion Harriers Win 17th Straight At Millsboro

Ron Morris set another course record at Millsboro last Thursday afternoon as he raced around a sandy 2.4 miles course in 12 minutes and 35 seconds. The old mark was 13:06. Bunting of Millsboro was second with Chris Wetherhold and Nick Morris of Harrington in third and fourth places.

Theilman, of Millsboro, a large lad who missed by inches in an attempt to win the Henlopen mile title last spring, was fifth with tiny Lion eighth-grader, Danny Hitchens sixth. Theilman must weigh about 180 pounds or more while Hitchens started the season at 68 pounds. One spectator from Sussex couldn't believe his eyes as Danny scored his high finish. "Is he running?" he said, incredulously. Obviously, the smallest varsity letter winner in H.H.S. history (unless someone knows a smaller lad) was running. What the fellow meant was "Did that kid start the distance and finish that near the front." He dood it.

Bob Rash, like Hitchens, an eighth-grader, was close behind to become the last Lion to figure in the scoring. Allan Parker, Richard Benson and Dale Motter completed the first ten finishers.

1-R. Morris, H 12.35
2-Bunting, M 12.45
3-Wetherhold, H 12.51
4-N. Morris, H 13.06
5-Theilman, M 13.28
6-Hitchens, H 13.40
7-Rash, H 13.48
8-Parker, H 13.51
9-Benson, H 13.52
10-Motter, H 14.33
11-Showell, M 14.59
12-Hicks, H 15.02
13-Latham, M 15.39
14-Mitchell, M 18.00

Millsboro had only two younger runners so no meet was held, but the young Lions worked out on the course with some good time resulting. Runners to do especially well for H.H.S., in our opinion, were: Bob Smith, Jim Redden, Billy Walls, Charley Brown, Joey Gray and Mike Davis.

Felton Jayvees Down Milford, 26-29.

Felton's jayvee cross-country team won its second race in as many starts when they defeated Milford's junior varsity 26-29 at Killen's Pond last week.

Mike Price, a 17.36 performer, knocked almost two minutes off his personal record as he won the race in 15:47. Jerry Minner of Milford, a former Harringtonian, was right behind in 15:49. Ron Voshell, Dave Tribbett, Bud Sipple and Chris Moore sewed up the victory by finishing 4th, 5th, 6th and 10th.

1-Mike Price, F 15.47
2-Jerry Minner, M 15.49
3-Banning, M 15.53

Season Mark Set At Harrington

Sassafras Mate wrote a new season mark into the Kent and Sussex Raceway record book Saturday night when he streaked over the half-mile oval in 2:03.2. The effort by the 3-year-old brown gelding, owned by the Sassafras Farms of Georgetown, Md., easily bettered the 2:05 established by Jug Dream on Sept. 17.

Sassafras Mate's record performance came in the sixth race, a mile pace valued at $800 and was only his second success in 17 season starts.

At 4 o'clock, Oct. 12, the Harrington Lionesses met the Rehoboth Seahawks in what was to be one of the most decisive hockey games of the season.

Felton Harriers Drop Second Close Meet

Milford's Buccaneer harriers came to Killen's Pond last week no doubt in expectation of an easy triumph. The Bucs had handily defeated a Caesar Rodney team which had shaded Felton by one point. However, the Green Devils had only five work-outs before losing that cliffhanger and had improved greatly with a few more workouts.

Milford eventually nosed out the Devils 26-30, but had many anxious moments as Coach Buddy Bonniwell's boys continue to take great strides forward in this brand new sport at Felton High.

Gary McKnatt, of Milford, took top individual honors with a fine 13:44 clocking. Lloyd Shelman, Curt Bowers and Irace Williams were 3rd, 4th and 5th for Felton. Williams won the C. R. race but was ill and out of school until one day before the Milford test. Otherwise Felton might have managed a tie with the Bucs.

Gene Palmer was seventh in good time for Felton. Howard Price completed the Felton scoring in 11th position.

1-G. McKnatt, M 13.44
2-Bullock, M 14.06
3-Lloyd Shelman, F 14.28
4-Curt Bowers, F 14.29

10-Abbott, M 15.01
11-Howard Price, F 15.05
12-S. Williams, M 15.11

Here is how one scores a cross-country meet. Low score wins. The first five boys for each team are credited with a like number of points corresponding to where they finish in the race.
