Thomas Youth Hit by Car; Has Knee Fracture

Robert Lee Thomas, Jr., 14, of near Harrington, struck and injured Monday night by a car driven by a Wilmington man who was jailed on a charge of leaving the scene of the accident.

The motorist was jailed Monday night police said, after he fled the scene where his car injured Thomas on U. S. 13, a half mile south of Harrington.

Jack Bailey, 48, 500 block Church St., was committed to the Kent Correctional Institution for 30 days in default of a $100 fine in connection with the injury to young Thomas.

The boy was admitted to Milford Memorial Hospital for treatment of a fractured knee after the accident at 10:50 p. m., a short distance from his home. Two companions walking beside Thomas escaped injury.

By coincidence, Bailey was arrested on U. S. 13 a short time after the accident by Cpl. Jackson Esham of the Bridgeville State Police barracks for operating his vehicle without headlights and for speeding at 72 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone 2 miles north of Harrington. Esham did not know of the pedestrian accident at the time.

Bailey was assessed fines totaling $30 plus costs by Magistrate George E. Wooten in Harrington.

Later when Esham was notified of the pedestrian accident and was given a description of the car involved, he spread the pickup alert which led to Bailey's arrest by Smyrna police, about an hour later.

Bailey pleaded guilty to failing to remain at the scene of a personal injury accident at his hearing before Magistrate William J. Cavanaugh, at Dover.

After the accident, Bailey continued north with only his parking lights burning, police said.

Buckson Talks On Horse Vanning At Georgetown

Attorney Gen. David P. Buckson has informed the management of the Georgetown Raceway that he has received a number of complaints from horsemen who raced that track last year that they had not been reimbursed for the vanning of their horses to that track.

Buckson discussed the matter with Paul Mooney of the Georgetown management at a recent visit to the office of the track. Mooney was not able to enlighten him on the matter, however, as he was not with the Georgetown track last year. Buckson has requested him to check out the receipts or canceled checks on any money paid to the horsemen a year ago for vanning and report on the status of these claims as soon as possible before the opening of the track.

Meanwhile, the current issue of the Cloverleaf News Bulletin — official publication of the Cloverleaf Standardbred Owners Association — carries a report to the effect that these claims for vanning amount to an excess of $15,000 and requests that all horsemen who have such claims get whatever evidence of them that they may have—such as names of horses vanned, dates, invoices, etc.—into the office of the Cloverleaf Standardbred Owners Association as soon as possible so that their claims against the track for these charges may be processed.

Because the Georgetown track is sometimes short of stall space, the track customarily pays the cost of transporting horses that are not assigned to the grounds because there is not enough space.

Tunnell Proud To Be A Democrat

James W. Tunnell Jr., candidate for United States senator, said he "was proud to be a Democrat" Monday evening at a covered-dish supper of the Ninth District Democrat Club in the Farmington Firehouse.

Taking his cue from a statement made by Dr. William E. Spence, candidate for re-election to the Levy Court, Tunnell cited the accomplishments of Roosevelt, Truman, Kennedy, and Johnson.

"During the depression, Roosevelt instilled hope, faith, and confidence in the minds of the people. He had an obvious affection and concern for the welfare of the common man," he said.

Truman will go down in history as one of America's great and strong presidents, continued Tunnell. "He had absolute integrity and courage without regards for personal popularity."

"Kennedy possibly excited the American people more than any president in my time except Roosevelt. He appealed particularly to young people and something went out of them when he was assassinated. He and his wife gave the office a certain dignity which no other president had given in quite the same way."

Tunnell stated Johnson had a hard assignment. No one could work harder at his task with evident desire to succeed than President Johnson, the senatorial candidate said.

Telling of a presidential meeting of senatorial candidates, at which Tunnell was present, the former Sussex Countian said the President spoke to them 45 minutes in which he stated he had to be careful, relating to foreign policy. The President also told of hope of lifting poor and destitute to a position of relative human dignity."

Vernon Derrickson, Kent County Democratic chairman, presided at the meeting.

George Vincent, club president, appointed a Christmas Committee of Mrs. William Ward, Mrs. Robert Messick, Mrs. Maurice Adams, and Francis Baker. The Christmas party will be held the first Monday next month.

Many county candidates were introduced Monday night.

Milford Firms Waste To Be Weighed Soon

Shorgood Poultry, and Torsch Canning Co. of Milford, have completed designs to take a sampling of their waste material which is put into the town's central sewer system, City Manager George Russell said this week.

By this sampling process, Shorgood and Torsch should be able to ascertain how much they are contributing to the town's sewage and therefore how much the cost to them will be on a proportional basis for a new central system that Milford wants to build.

Torsch Canning, however, is a summer operation, and would have to wait until then to begin sampling.

Russell said the recently drawn-up city agreement with its four industries (Shorgood, Torsch, Milford Packing Co., and Mar-Clay Mills) would be a major subject of discussion at the next council meeting on Nov. 9.

It is basically a compromise agreement, which Milford would be responsible for the initial capital outlay of a one million dollar waste disposal plant—the

Heed Safety Tips Urges Fire Marshal

The tragic and untimely deaths of an Elmhurst family should alert all citizens of the need to take all precautions necessary to be assured all utilities and services are in safe operating condition for the winter months, warns State Fire Marshal, William R. Favinger.

The office is only too happy to assist anyone desiring information regarding home safety. Cold weather places extra demands on heating systems and they in turn should be given an annual safety inspection by competent servicemen. An ounce of prevention is still worth a pound of cure.

"Let us all heed the warning and place greater emphasis on all aspects of safety to be assured tragedy will not visit your home, urges the Marshal.

KENT LEGISLATIVE CANDIDATES OFTEN AGREE ON CHURCH ISSUES

Kent County candidates for the General Assembly appeared to be in conformity, regardless of political affiliation, on six questions proffered them by the Legislative Committee of the Delaware State Council of Churches.

On the most controversial issue, fair housing legislation, the candidates refused to be trapped by a "yes" or "no" and displayed their political acumen by answering in general terms, with plenty of loopholes.

They acted similarly on four other issues and appeared to be in concord only on the legislation extending the hours for the sale of alcoholic beverages. They were unanimous in opposing any extension.

The issues presented are as follows:

- Question 1. Legislation extending the hours for the sale of alcoholic beverages.
- Question 2. Fair Housing Legislation.
- Question 3. Use of capital and corporal punishment.
- Question 4. Extension of legalized gambling.
- Question 5. Legislation prohibiting sale of alcoholic beverages within a specific distance of religious or educational institutions.
- Question 6. Expenditure of public funds for private or sectarian institutions.

The answers are as follows:

District	Candidate	HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
		1.	2.	3.	4.	5.	6.

25	Robert W. Riddagh (R)	No	Yes	Yes	Yes	Yes	No

Question 6. "No. Except for busing students on established bus routes for reasons of safety!"

Sebrrell, Lorin B. — Question 2. "Both the Republican and Democratic parties have identical planks on open housing in their platforms. I shall endeavor to support the Republican platform. To give a "yes" or "no" answer to this question will depend a great deal on how any legislation is written. In view of the stand taken by both of the parties on this subject, I assume that legislation will be written on which I can take a definite stand."

Quillen, George Robert — Question 2. "Fair, fair housing! We do not need a law to tell one that you have to sell or rent your property to whom you do not choose."

Question 5. "The specific distance would have to be in range. I would not go for a 1/2 mile. Then you can look at a retail alcoholic beverage store next to a religious institution as a good place for the priest or preacher to save men from the harm of

Sewer Referendum Trowned; WAR Commission Eyes Result

Officials of the Water and Air Resources Commission will meet with town officials to decide what steps to take after Saturday's defeat of the sewer bond referendum.

Vote against the bond issue was 14,874, with 10,268 for, a deficit of 4606.

Some 372 ballots were cast, with two being thrown out because the number of votes was not listed on the ballot.

John C. Bryson, acting director of the commission, said the commission is "very disappointed" at the defeat of the $500,000 bond issue to expand and improve Harrington's sewer system. He said he will meet with Mayor

Luther P. Hatfield and other town officials to find out whether a new referendum will be held before deciding what recommendation to make at the next commission meeting Nov. 9.

If there is a chance of passing the bond issue on a second time around, Bryson said, the commission probably would not take punitive action.

The commission does have the power, however, to order the town to construct adequate facilities with or without the bond issue.

If such an order should be ignored, the commission could take the town to court, with the maximum possible penalty for continued violations set at a fine of $500 per day.

Bryson emphasized that no such action is being contemplated now. But he pointed out that this was done in Laurel several years ago, with a settlement being worked out after the case was already in court.

Hatfield attributed the defeat to large bloc voting and last-minute opposition tactics, including the spread of rumors which supporters of the bond issue had no time to counter.

"What I really think it was," Hatfield continued, "is the opposition of part of the old Democratic organization in town. I don't really think their votes against it had anything to do with the issue.

"A lot of honest voters voted against it also," he said, "but I honestly feel that if the people had voted on the issue, it would have carried."

With referendum approval, the town was to have constructed a new secondary treatment plant. The present primary plant was built in 1935 and is not adequate to handle the town's wastes. It also was to have extended lines to areas in town which are not served by sewers.

Before the election, Hatfield commented: "We can't afford to let this fail."

He said if it failed, the town would be called before the Water and Air Resources Commission to explain its failure.

The commission has been lenient with Harrington, according to both Mayor Hatfield and the commission's temporary director, John C. Bryson.

"Bryson has given us a chance," Hatfield said Sunday. "He knows of the tests we have been running and he let us go ahead with temporary measures until the system could be improved."

Hatfield said a decision on what stand to take would be discussed at the next meeting of the council.

He said at first he felt disappointment and resentment, but later he said, "I don't feel real bad. We just did what we could. To be fair about the whole thing, we will try to get some new answers and give it a new look."

One of the things the council will discuss, Hatfield said, is the possibility of holding a new referendum, he said, "it would not be just to please any enforcement group."

Harrington's sewage problems have been under Bryson's scrutiny for a number of years and more recently commission pressure has grown to have the town eradicate the problem of cesspools flowing into open ditches and some of the plant sewage flowing into Brown's Branch.

City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann has stepped up his efforts to eliminate some of the problem at the plant by chlorination injection and modifications at the plant site.

At the conclusion of the voting Saturday, Mann appeared to be dejected and said he wished to make no comment.

"We went into this," Hatfield said, "feeling in good shape. But Friday night and Saturday morn-

MAYOR EYES ANOTHER SEWER REFERENDUM

A referendum on a second sewer bond issue, reduced by $105,000 from the one defeated Saturday, has been proposed by Harrington Mayor Luther P. Hatfield.

Hatfield said he will suggest the new referendum to the council at its Tuesday meeting and will recommend the town drop all plans for annexation—a factor which added $150,000 to the total cost of the sewer improvement plans and which apparently affected the result of the referendum.

By deleting annexation, the town can reduce construction costs to areas outside the town limits by about $146,000, Hatfield said.

The cost would be further reduced he said, by removing legal and engineering fees and contingency funds figured in the total project cost in the first referendum.

Hatfield said the two actions "will reduce the total cost to approximately $773,000."

"Allowing for 36 per cent of the project for federal aid, and $100,000 for the state, then the total of the new bond issue would be $395,000," he continued.

"I believe these are realistic figures, but some of the people who have been considered community leaders have seriously questioned the availability of federal and state funds.

"Our preliminary application was filed in January with the Farm Home Administration for the federal funds. I expect the federal administrations to show us how this money was spent in other communities," he said.

According to N. C. Vasuki, assistant to John C. Bryson, temporary director of the Water and Air Resources Commission, $100,000 is the maximum any town can receive in state aid.

"If it is a new plant, and the town applies for the total amount," Vasuki said Monday, "it is pretty sure it will receive it."

Vasuki also said the commission is responsible for allocation of federal water pollution aid. Up to 30 per cent of the total project cost can be obtained from the federal government.

Vasuki called attention to the 1966 Clean Water Act recently signed by President Johnson, and said there may be more federal money available under its terms.

Hatfield said he was informed by Vasuki that Delaware has in excess of $800,000 allotted under the new act, and that Harrington has high priority in tapping the funds.

"I will definitely consider going through the commission for funds," Hatfield said. He said the town application for federal funds in the original bond issue proposal went through the Farm Home Administration only.

Bryson Monday said the commission is in no hurry to start fining Harrington because of Saturday's sewer referendum defeat.

Harrington could be fined up to $500 a day until it settles its pollution problems.

Bryson said he is "very disappointed" at the defeat of the $500,000 issue and that he expects to meet soon with town officials to decide what new steps to take to expand and improve its sewage system. After that meeting, Bryson will make recommendations to the commission on Nov. 9.

If there is a chance to pass the bond issue in another vote, Bryson said the commission will probably not take punitive action.

The commission does, however, have the power to order the town to build adequate facilities with or without a bond issue.

He said he will request a council's approval for a hearing on a new referendum on Nov. 29 and a vote on the new proposal on Jan. 7, 1967.

Hatfield said that study has shown that neither Harrington nor its adjacent areas are capable of developing further without annexation.

"Suitable space for any type of commercial development is virtually non-existent within the present town limits," he said.

He added suitable areas for development are those unincorporated tracts lying adjacent to town limits which have no responsible government, no municipal services and no plan for orderly growth."

Local Student To Attend Phila. Conference

Philip Redden, a junior at Harrington High School and Kent County Vocational - Technical Center, will leave Friday for Philadelphia to attend the 4th annual North Atlantic Regional Officers Training Conference of the Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA).

High School Grad. Can Learn To Fly In Army's Program

Qualified high school graduates can learn to fly through the U. S. Army's Warrant Officer Flight Program, said Sergeant Walter R. Frazier.

Training to be an Army pilot lasts a total of 38 rugged weeks, but at the end of that time, the graduate is a qualified helicopter or fixed wing aircraft pilot.

After completion of the training, graduates are appointed Warrant Officers in the U. S. Army and are accorded all the courtesies and privileges of an officer. In addition to the basic warrant officer salary, quarters and subsistence allowances, Army pilots receive an additional $100 a month flight pay.

Qualified applicants must agree to serve a period of three years upon completion of training. Failure to graduate from Warrant Officer Flight Program entails a two year enlistment obligation.

Sergeant Frazier has all details and is ready, willing and able to explain how qualified high school graduates can get started on a new Army pilot's career. He is located at 218 S. Governor's Avenue, Dover, or call 736-6937 or 674-1360.

How Do We Control Hallowe'en "Destruction of Personal and Federal Property"?

Postmaster Howard Dill, of the Harrington Post Office told the Harrington Journal that his office is being flooded with calls of complaints from patrons of pranksters' destruction to mail boxes in this area. As of Oct. 31, this office has approximately 50 complaints from local city and rural patrons of persons destroying boxes with water melons, pumpkins and just plain running them down.

These persons must be aware of the penalty for destroying Federal property. Any person who can give the Postmaster a reliable lead to the arrest of these persons will be assured they will be prosecuted to the laws' fullest extent.

Always report your damage to the police, then to your local Postmaster. As of the close of this Halloween, all carriers at the Harrington Post Office have been instructed to give the Postmaster the names and addresses of those patrons whose mail boxes were tampered with during this period. These names will be forwarded to the U.S. Postal Inspector in charge for actions.

Wills and Estates Topic At Consumer Forums

Every estate must be settled in some way. Either it's settled the way you wanted it done or it's settled the way the state thinks it should be done.

Disposing of the earnings of a lifetime's hard work and, if need be, arranging for the care of your children, are too important to be left to someone else. That means writing a will, and writing a will begins with estate planning, according to William B. Vaughn, life insurance consultant with William B. Vaughn Associates.

He told those attending the seventh annual Consumer Forum that estate planning is a continuing process. Family situations change and family needs change and estate plans need constant review.

Henry R. Horsey, Delaware deputy attorney general, pointed out that estate planning involves finding out the amount and kind of assets that will be in your estate and the amount that will be left for beneficiaries after taxes and costs.

How is your property owned? It makes a difference in planning your estate if property is in your name only or if it is held as joint tenants with rights of survivorship, tenants in common or tenants by the entirety. Horsey believes that joint ownership is far from the complete answer to estate planning. For one thing, joint ownership doesn't provide tax savings.

What types of assets are involved? According to Horsey, a balance is desirable between liquid assets—those that can be quickly turned into cash—and non-liquid assets, such as real estate of farm machinery.

Since there will be immediate estate expenses, enough cash should be available to pay last year's income tax, death taxes and all outstanding bills. If there isn't enough cash, non-liquid assets may have to be sold hurriedly at lower than market prices. How much is left for beneficiaries, and what do you want done with it? This is the point where a will becomes essential. "It would be difficult to think of any instances where a will would be unnecessary," Horsey stated.

George Reece, assistant vice-president for Bank of Delaware, agreed with the necessity for a will and emphasized the need for professional help. "A will is not a do-it-yourself project." Words that mean one thing in common language may take on entirely different meanings as part of a legal document; the conditions for a valid will in Delaware are definite and inflexible. Have a professional draw up a will that carries out your wishes and stands up in court, Reece advised.

He pointed out that banks are often appointed to manage estates particularly if minor children are involved. He outlined the many advantages to a surviving widow and children of creating a trust administered by a bank. Professional management will often cut administration and court costs, result in building up the estate and, most important of all, give an equitable distribution to heirs.

The three panelists and the moderator, W. T. McAllister, extension farm management specialist at the University of Delaware, pointed out insurance agents, bank trust officials and lawyers are all working toward the same goal—helping you arrange the distribution of your life's earnings the way you want it done.

The four fall 1966 Consumer

Forums were held in Georgetown, Dover, Newark and Wilmington to help Delawareans become more aware of the need for wills. The forums are sponsored annually by the Home Economics Extension Service at the University of Delaware and Sears Roebuck Foundation.

Children Like It Down On The Farm

"Do those fluffy little yellow birds really grow up to be drumsticks?" Cornflakes don't look like they come from that kinda stalk. "Hey Milk does come from a cow. I thought they were kidding!"

Wandering children — more than 7,000 of them this year alone—made comments like these as they visited the University of Delaware experimental farm in September and October.

Here the children see cows and calves, sheep and lambs, baby chicks and broilers, and farm crops. As they watch a cow being milked, many realize for the first time that milk really does come from a cow.

Most of the children touring the farm live in the city and suburbs. Many have never stopped to think that the food they eat and the clothes they wear came from plants and animals. Their farm visit is an eye-opener. The sights, smells and sounds of a farm make more of an impression than a textbook possibly could, according to Edward Schabinger, New Castle county agricultural agent in charge of the tours.

Elementary and kindergarten teachers must agree; each year more of the schedule class visits when the University of Delaware extends the invitation.

As one wide-eyed youngster put it, "I specially liked the whole barn. It was so full of warm stinks 'n warm cows 'n everything."

WEDNESDAY— 7:30 p.m. Healing service.

THURSDAY— 6:30 p.m. Church Club of Delaware at DuPont Hotel. 7:30 p.m. Vestry meeting.

Sun., Nov. 6, will be Pledge Sunday at St. Stephen's. Most of those who worship at St. Stephen's regularly have received in the mail a letter with a blank to fill out indicating the amount that each would like to be able to give to the support of the church for the coming year. This pledge is made with the understanding if anyone should for any reason have to reduce his or her pledge he or she could do so by notifying the treasurer or the vicar. Those two people and those alone are the only persons who will ever know how much anyone has pledged. In case anyone has not sent in his pledge or has forgotten to bring it with him and would like to present it Sunday here are extra blanks on he table in the rear of the church. Everyone is urged to put his or her pledge into the collection plates during the offertory. Those who desire can mail it to the treasurer, Miss Janet Harrington, P. O. Box 8, Harrington.

Please remember that Sunday is the first Sunday of the month and that the loose offering goes to the Vicar's discretionary fund which is used primarily for the poor.

The women of St. Stephen's reminded that their monthly meeting will take place at 12:15 next Sunday in the lounge.

Girl Scout Troop 679 News

At their regular Tuesday meeting the girl scouts of troop 679 voted to offer assistance to anyone in Harrington who had windows soaped or other minor damage done by Halloweeners. Realizing that there are many people in town who are not able to wash windows and pick up things that may have been thrown in their yards they have volunteered their services. If you or any one you know are in need of such help, call 398-3252 or 398-8738 and a group of girls will be sent on the job.

The number of clothes a growing child needs depends a great deal on the mother's time and available laundry facilities. Most mothers find that fewer clothes of good quality are a better investment than more clothes of poor quality.

With fewer clothes for your child, you'll need time to launder them more often. But since children wear suitable clothes quickly, this can mean a savings in the clothing budget.

Up to five years of age, boys and girls usually wear play garments each day. Most nursery school teachers prefer that children wear suitable clothes for finger painting, out-of-doors play, dough sculpture and other activities. Preschool children need fewer everyday changes but more play outfits than older boys and girls.

Start planning a child's wardrobe as you do an adult's—with outdoor clothing first. Then choose blouses, skirts and dresses, sweaters, shirts and trousers in colors that blend with your child's outerwear. This way children will wear pleasing color combinations when they dress themselves.

Read labels and hang tags carefully for fiber content, finishes and washing or cleaning instructions. When buying dark colors, such as red or navy or dresses with white trimmings, choose fabrics that are colorfast. Think about your home laundry equipment as you read labels on children's clothes. If your washing machine doesn't have agitation and water temperature control, you may need to hand-wash some garments. Price is not always an accurate guide to quality. Sometimes hand sewn trimmings or embroidery make a garment of poor fabric cost more than a similar item of better fabric.

Discover Wonderful Del.

As a wonder of wonderful Delaware, Delaware City is only just beginning.

There's not much to see right now. Driving down Rte. 9, you pass the giant towers of Tidewater Oil Company's great refinery. Then, if you turn left on Clinton Street, you're back a few years, in a sleepy old river town. At Battery Park, at the foot of Clinton Street, you'll look across the waters of Delaware Bay to Fort Delaware, a squat gray pentagon on Pea Patch Island. You may see an enormous oil tanker heading for the Tidewater docks, and you'll see small pleasure boats coming and going from their harbor in the old canal. But neither the future nor the past of Delaware City is obvious to the visitor today.

The past is long. In 1675, Henry Ward took title to this tract of land for a rental of 4 1/2 bushels of "good winter wheat." His descendants farmed the land for nearly 150 years, until, in 1824, work began on the original Chesapeake and Delaware Canal, the shortcut linking Delaware River, Ports with Baltimore on Chesapeake Bay. Delaware City was then laid out at the entrance to the canal. The first house was built in 1826, and the first post office was established that year. A year later there were ten houses. When the canal opened in 1829, it became the living of the town—people worked on the canal, manned the locks at the foot of Clinton Street, and worked on the canal boats. Before long, the barges laden with lumber, coal, lime and grain were joined by steamships running between Philadelphia and Delaware City, and excursion boats heading for Baltimore.

But in 1919 the United States government bought out the canal company, and announced plans for a sea level canal. Delaware City folk looked forward to great things, but when the new canal opened in 1927, its entrance was in the midst of marshes two miles south of town. Ships no longer the life of the town as a shipping center slowed to a stop.

Two forts have contributed to Delaware City's life, and each in its own way still does. Fort Delaware, the gloomy pentagon on Pea Patch Island, was completed just before the Civil War as the major defense of Delaware Bay. But the fort has never fired a shot. Instead, it has a notorious history as a prison for Confederate soldiers. Now a state park and museum, it attracts an increasing number of visitors during the summer, and may be reached by boat from Battery Park on summer weekends.

Fort duPont was built in 1899, and modernized in 1940. It was an important military center in both World Wars. In 1947 it was turned over to the State of Delaware, and is now Governor Bacon Health Center, a division of Delaware State Hospital.

In 1954, Delaware City's revival began when Tidewater Oil Company started construction of the world's most advanced refinery on 5,500 acres just north of town. Completed in 1957, the complex includes a main refining area, a huge tank farm, and three deepwater docks which can accommodate the supertankers of Tidewater's fleet. Petrochemical plants have since been added—Stauffer Chemical Company has a unit here, and Delmarva Power and Light has built a still more industrial development.

Tidewater welcomes visitors, and arrangements can be made to tour the vast complex by writing to Tidewater Oil Company, Delaware Refinery, Delaware City, Delaware. Because of Tidewater, ships again stop at Delaware City. But industry, important as it is, is not all of Delaware City's future. In 1957 the old canal entrance was made into a harbor for small pleasure craft, and already many a boatman moors his craft there in the summer. Fort Delaware is gradually being made more attractive and interesting to tourists. Must of the beautiful "Hundred Acre Marsh" south of the canal, is now a wild-life refuge. A clean Delaware River has been promised for 1970.

Army Needs Seamen Now

"The United States Army is not only a landpower but is also fast becoming a seapower", said Sergeant Walter R. Frazier, located at 218 S. Governor's Ave., Dover.

With a growing fleet of all classes of boats the Army urgently needs seamen to man these vessels. Because of this fact, the Army has re-opened the basic seaman course. The six-week school, conducted at Fort Eustis, Va., is designed to instruct students with basic ship-board routines such as, vessel familiarization, communications, "rules of the road", distress signals, and emergency duties and drills. Throughout the course of instruction much time is devoted to practical application. The final stage of their training is received on board an ocean-going vessel, when they take a three-day cruise. Upon completion of the basic seamanship course, certain classes are selected to take an additional five-week course in boatswain training.

Natural attrition during the years when the course in basic seamanship was not being taught has left the field wide open for promotion.

Sergeant Frazier emphasized that under the Army's "Choice-Not Chance" enlistment program, interested applicants, if qualified, will receive a written guarantee to attend the basic seaman course upon completion of basic training. For more information, contact Sergeant Frazier or call 738-6937 or 674-1360 to make an appointment.

Black Widow Spiders Problem During Fall Cleanup Time

Fall cleanup time is the time of year to be on the lookout for black widow spiders. Although not as dangerous as many people believe, black widows can give a painful bite.

Fortunately, these spiders are not aggressive, according to Dr. Dale Bray, chairman of the department of entomology and applied ecology at the University of Delaware. Scientists think black widows only bite moving objects in search for food.

Not that it matters to anyone who's bitten whether the attack was by chance or design—it hurts. If it's any comfort, the bites are rarely fatal even though the black widow is the most poisonous spider in this country.

Around homes, black widow spiders are most often found in sheds, garages, basements, window wells and piles of lumber—any dark, secluded place. Fall cleanup may uncover its hiding place, so watch out.

The female black widow is more dangerous than the male which is far less poisonous and rarely bites, according to Bray. The female is shining jet black with a red mark under the abdomen. The webs are loosely woven, irregular and made of coarse strands.

You can guard against black widow bites by wearing gloves when working around those dark hiding places. Keeping the yard and basement neat and clean also reduces spider problems.

Sprays containing lindane, chlordane or DDT are the best control method if the spiders become troublesome outside the house, Bray points out. The same materials can be used as spot treatments in basements or crawl spaces, but in this case, use a household formulation, he cautions.

A SEWER REFERENDUM WILL PASS BUT WHEN?

A referendum to float a bond issue for $500,000 to improve the sanitary-sewage system of Harrington was trounced by 4606 votes Saturday, providing us with a shock.

Why did the bond issue fail? Who knows? Probably the chief reason was the calling for an increase in sewer usage fee to pay for the bonds.

The issue lost, mainly, because of the negative votes of some large property owners. The affirmative votes of these individuals are usually necessary for the passage of any bond issue.

So, here we go again. The Water & Air Resources Commission will get on our back and we can be liable for a fine of $500 per day and an order prohibiting us from hooking up to the sewer.

Laurel and Bridgeville can tell us something about that. Thus, it is just a matter of time. The next thing to do is to determine a referendum which will receive the report of the big property owners.

WHY ARE FOOD PRICES HIGHER?

Almost everything else is higher, why not food prices? Housewives have been staging a strike on grocery stores in some metropolitan areas.

Would the striking housewives be willing to have their husbands work at lower wages in return for lower costs of food? Would organized labor be willing to work for less?

Elbert N. Carvel, former governor, said shoppers have been getting a bargain all these years and that the amount spent on food has dropped from 25 per cent of family budgets in 1947 to 18.2 percent today.

He blamed the over-all shortage in basic commodities for the current price increases, and said the long-range solution is greater production. "Instead of trying to curb the production of food, let's try to produce all we can," he said in an interview on Channel 12.

Delaware's former governor pointed out that despite higher food prices and inflation, "people have more money in their pockets today and there is practically no unemployment."

One cannot have his cake and eat it, too.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

We've always had a God fearing nation, Let us pray we'll always be, Getting away from world inflation, Back to child-like simplicity.

As portrayed in Helen Stair Rice's, "Faith Is A Mighty Fortress:

We look ahead through each changing year, With mixed emotions of Hope and Fear,

Hope for Peace we long have sought, Fear that our hopes will come to naught.

Unwilling to trust in the Father's Will, We count on our logic and shallow skill.

And in our arrogance and pride, Man is no longer satisfied.

To place his confidence and love, With childish faith in God above.

But tiny hands and towseled heads, That kneel in prayer by little beds,

Are closer to the dear Lord's heart, And of His kingdom, more a part,

Than we who search and never find, The answers to our questioning mind.

For faith in things we cannot see, Requires a child's simplicity.

Oh, Father grant once more to men, A simple childish faith again,

Forgetting color, race and creed, Seeing only the heart's deep need.

For faith alone can save man's soul, And lead him on to higher goal,

For there's but one unfailing course, We win by faith and not by force.

Assoc. Ed's Note:

DOUBLE - CROSSIN' TIME—Tuesday, November 8, 1966. Somebody will be happy; and somebody will be sad on Wednesday—but remember, win lose or draw—there is no politician living who has never been double-dealed by his friends at one time or another!

To the winner goes the gravy—to the loser goes the bills!

"On The Street Where You Live"

By Samuel A. Short, Jr.

Do you have any good neighbors? Or their friendship they won't give, Are they grouchy and unfriendly, On the street where you live?

Do they give you a helping hand, By showing you how they live? Are they just the same as all others? On the street where you live. Are they touchy and untidy, In the morning when they arise? If so look at them with no malice, And you'll get a pleasant surprise.

Do they go to church on Su nday? If not, try to get them started. To the church of their choice, And you'll be glad that you did.

Try to show them that you're interested, By asking them to go with you, That just might be what they wanted, And want to go along with you.

You know there will be nothing nicer, And they'll always love you for it. Pray for them with all His blessings, Asking your God to help them bit by bit.

Then you'll be known, By the deeds that you'll give. And the possessions that you own, On The Street where you live.

Sixteen Years Ago

Journal Files FRL, NOV. 3, 1950

Democrats and Republicans are girding their loins for what promises to be one of the most interesting off-year elections in many a moon when the voters went their way "pollward" in a general election Tuesday throughout the Blue Hen State.

James E. Gheen, nationally known inspirational humorist, will address the annual ladies night of Temple Lodge No. 9 A.F. & A.M., in Milford.

The Senior Class of Harrington High School will present "Linda", a comedy in three acts, Nov. 17. Some characters are Constance Knotts, Mary Ellen Thomas, Gilmore Farrow, Sara Ann Messick, Corinne Grant, Dorothy Tucker, Leslie Wix, William Wix, and Harold Venable.

Robert R. McClain, supervisor of track of the Delmarva Division of the Pennsy, has been transferred to Philadelphia.

J. Gordon Smith, chairman of the State Highway Department, announced plans had been made to by-pass Bridgeville with the state highway to eliminate a bottleneck.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Penny spent the weekend visiting relatives in Chester and Crum Lynn, Pa. They also visited Mr. Penny's son and daughter-in-law at Penn Hills, Pa.

Seaford Nylon Plant advertised for men and single women. A former teacher secured something like $50,000 in Detroit by forging checks. A janitor in New York was arrested for forging a check for $40. Thus, we have another demonstration of the fact that higher education pays.

Mrs. Richard Shultie was program chairman at Tuesday night's meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Trinity Methodist Church. In keeping with the Thanksgiving season, her theme was "Thank God Whatever Happens," which cautioned against our giving thanks spasmodically and only when things are going well. Devotions were led by Mrs. Arnold Gilstad.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Ernest Raughley, president, who reminded each officer and secretary that evaluation reports should be completed and mailed by November 5.

World Day of Prayer service, in charge of the spiritual life secretary, Mrs. Ellwood Gruwell, was held on Sunday evening.

Mrs. Frank O'Neal reported on the successful UNICEF collection. Over $125.00 was realized therefrom and 110 youngsters participated. Refreshment expenses for the children will be shared by the women of both Trinity and Asbury churches.

Mrs. Raughley advised that a container will be placed in the church for Christmas gifts to be donated to the Neighborhood House in Wilmington. Date for the annual bazaar and OUR class supper is Sat., Nov. 19.

Mrs. Lelia Hopkins reported the activities of the Sunshine Committee for October.

Following the business session, refreshments were served by the Esther Circle, Mrs. Harry Adkins, chairman.

Asbury W.S.C.S. Notes

Mrs. Floyd Nasser, president of the Asbury Woman's Society of Christian Service presented at the meeting of the society on Tuesday evening, Mrs. Fred B. Greenly led the devotions to open the meeting. She had prepared a lovely worship center which lent a religious atmosphere.

Mrs. Charles E. Greenhaugh was in charge of the program. In August, Mrs. Greenhaugh was the chairperson for a group of students from Harrington High School who joined a group of high school students of Delaware for a trip to three European countries under the sponsorship of Delaware Junior Classical League.

Assisting Mrs. Greenhaugh in presenting a review of this trip were Miss Candace Peck, who told of their visit to Italy; Miss Hope Torbert, who told of many interesting places they visited in France, and Miss Andrea Walls, told of their visit to England. Miss Susan Greenhaugh concluded the program by showing several slides with pictures of the highlights of all three countries, which she described well.

Then a business session was held with reports from the various department secretaries. Mrs. Allen B. Parsons gave an interesting report of the NICEF Halloween party in which 110 children from various churches of Harrington participated. The collection amounted to $126.57 at present, but more is coming in every day.

Mrs. Mark Willey, secretary of membership cultivation, reported a new member, Mrs. William J. Brode, of the Ruth Circle. Mrs. Fulton Downing asked everyone to bring a gift for the Neighborhood House at the December meeting, when she will present a program appropriate for Christmas.

Mrs. Nasser closed the meeting with a prayer of thanksgiving. The Martha Circle, Mrs. Oscar Gillette, leader, served delicious refreshments.

The next meeting will be December 6.

Disaster Livestock Feed Program Announced

The extended drought period in the summer of 1966 has drastically reduced the production of feed grains on Kent County farms. Some livestock farmers may encounter undue hardship in securing sufficient grain to feed their livestock. Olin Gooden, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee announces that Kent County has been approved for the livestock feed program, whereby feed grains in Commodity Credit Corporation storage may be shipped into the county at a cost lower than the county price-support loan rate, for dairy cows and foundation stock.

Farmers in the county who are in dire need of livestock feed grains are encouraged to contact the County ASCS Office at Dover concerning details of this program. Information that may be needed in filing an application is: The number of dairy cows 2 years old or older, other cows and bulls for breeding purposes, the number of replacement yearlings for the dairy herd, the number of replacement calves for the herd, the kind and amount of grains on hand not under price-support loan and not sold or fed, a financial statement and the kinds and amounts of hay and silage on hand. It is noted that in making this announcement that the feed grains available under this program are limited to 5 lbs. per day for dairy cows with lesser amounts for yearlings and calves. The purpose of the program is not to increase production or even maintain full production, but to maintain the health of the animals until such time that sufficient feed can be grown on the farm. Farmers are encouraged to make their request known as soon as possible. It was noted that farmers do not have to be participating in other programs to be eligible for this disaster livestock feed program. Phone: 697-3601 for further details.

Insurance Commissioner Robert A. Short has been working to protect your interest since his first day in office. His job has been made extremely difficult at times by the current inadequate insurance laws, which ignore the need to protect people who buy insurance.

Commissioner's lonely battle to protect you in the revision of the laws has not yet been won. Bob Short has been the public's spokesman on this committee and has worked hard to stem the floodtide of the old laws to prevent them from spilling over onto the new ones.

Veterans News
QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—The new G.I. Home Loan interest rate is 6 per cent. But I understand there is some kind of insurance fee on top of that. What is it?

A—There is a fee on a Veterans Administration guaranteed or insured loan that amounts to one-half of one per cent. That is paid on the amount of the loan. It is paid only once. Not every month.

Q—I'm in college under the G.I. Bill. I heard that I do not have to send in a certificate of attendance to get my first allowance check. What about the second, third, fourth, etc.?

A—The certificate of enrollment returned to VA by the college is sufficient for the mailing of the first check. Subsequent checks will be sent after you send in your monthly certificate of attendance.

Q—I receive regular treatment and medicine from the Veterans Administration for my service-connected disability. I plan to travel overseas for about six months. Is there any way I can get medical care or medicines if I need them on my trip?

A—Yes. The Veterans Administration provides such care and medicines for service-connected disabled veterans everywhere possible. Just contact the nearest U.S. State Department, Embassy, Consulate or Legation.

Q—Last January my G.I. insurance premium was waived because of a disability. Yet the other day I received a dividend check. Should I return it?

A—No. Keep it. It is yours. A waiver of premium on a G.I. participating policy is not a bar to dividends.

Q—I receive a monthly benefit check from the VA which is sent to me at General Delivery. I have been informed that if I fail to pick up my check within the 10-day time limit and it is returned two months in a row, my payments will be suspended. Is this so?

A—Yes. Payments are suspended on the basis that the whereabouts of the payee is unknown.

Q—I am 66 years old and have a $10,000 National Service Life Insurance 5-year level premium term policy in force. I have a disability which caused me to be unemployable for six months after I was 65. Am I eligible for waiver of premiums consideration on this policy?

A—No. In order to be considered for waiver of premiums, your disability must have started before age 65.

Q—I plan to take a correspondence course under the new G.I. Bill. Do I have to pay for my textbooks?

A—The allowance paid on a correspondence course may include tuition charges and the charge for textbooks, supplies and equipment when such items are required of all students enrolled in the course.

then back to the printing office with me. The treatment is when a man has had almost enough to pass him out. And this is what happened. This boy had told me he had turned in to the Air Police before. The big boys said, "we can't help him if he don't turn himself in; and so that is what happened. "Air Police, Dover. Come down and get an AWOL soldier." They had to go and get two Air Police off duty and they sent them down — an hour late and in civies. They came in an Air Police car with the lights blinking and no siren on, of course.

They said "we can't come in, we have no warrant. I told them I own half of this place—which I still do, and in they came. They were surprised—why this man is AWOL, after all. Don't squeeze the bracelets on him, too tight, boys; but watch him close, he'll run on you"

Now the Air Police were told, "remember, this man turned himself in." They said, "Ok."

"Wait, let me give him one for the road."

"No can do; he is in custody."

"No he isn't either; not until he gets out that door."

"Correct." — Oh! lonesome me! The AWOL MP got a big swig; and then they took him away.

This story had a happy ending after all. In just a little while. This AWOL MP was back in town, legally, this time; and I guess everybody was glad, the Air Police got credit for an assist, the big man got an assist, the investigator of the plot—W. C. — was happy—and it all turned out alright. However, don't you try it. It all comes from 'know-how', and a lot of good luck.

"All that glitters is not gold; but to get a man out of the stockade; you have got to be pretty bold—legally speaking." "Who kidnapped the AWOL MP?"

"Make it a citizen's arrest; there were two other Harrington boys in on it with me!"

Prevent Plant Winter Injury

Every winter many ornamental plants are damaged and sometimes completely killed by winter injury. If gardeners protect their plant much of this damage can be prevented, according to Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

Winter injury may be caused by excess loss of moisture, alternate freezing and thawing of the soil, stem girdling by animals, frost cracking and snow, sleet and hail.

Excess loss of moisture mainly damages broadleaf evergreen shrubs such as rhododendron, boxwood, Oregon holly grape and Chinese holly. Sweeping winds and direct sunlight make the leaves lose water faster than the roots can take it up. The problem is particularly bad when the ground is frozen more than a few inches deep.

Gardeners can prevent excess moisture loss by planting susceptible broadleaf evergreens only in protected locations. Stevens points out. If the plants are already in an unprotected spot put up a wind and sun screen of lath, snow fence, burlap or similar material, he advises. The screen need not extend entirely around the plants, but it should keep the sun and strong winds off. A mulch will also help prevent moisture loss damage.

Alternate freezing and thawing will heave plants out of the ground and often kill them. Heaving is usually a problem with shallow-rooted plants, perennial flowers or small shrubs and ground covers planted late in the fall with limited root growth. Mulching with leaf mold, pine needles, peat moss or similar materials will help keep the soil temperature more uniform and may prevent heaving damage.

Burlap protection will help prevent damage from snow and sleet. Stevens also advises tying up those plants that tend to bend open in the middle. For instance, Hicks yew and Greek juniper are often injured by heavy snow and sleet.

Meadow mice and rabbits frequently eat the bark from trees and shrubs causing considerable damage. A wire barrier of galvanized fine mesh hardware cloth installed around the trunk from about two feet high to just below the ground level effectively prevents animal damage.

This year the soil moisture is good and late watering will not be necessary except for plants under the eaves or in planters where rain does not reach. Plants in these locations need watering all winter, according to Stevens.

Diabetes Clinics Set For November

Two large and simple facts make diabetes detection a high priority health need for American communities today:

1. Diabetes is the 7th leading cause of death, and the 3rd leading cause of blindness in the U.S. 2. There are more than two million "hidden diabetics" among us. These people suffer from the disease but don't know it—yet.

To find these "hidden diabetics" early and help them get the medical treatment they need is a public health objective of the State Board of Health and the Delaware Diabetes Association in offering Diabetes Detection Stations for the people of our state. This service is free.

The fall schedule includes some industrial locations and several schools where participation is limited to students, faculty and other personnel. The opportunity for a free test is offered to the adult public in widely scattered localities.

During Diabetes Week (Nov. 13-19), a diabetes detection station will be conducted in each county by the State Board of Health.

Dover—Tuesday, Nov. 14, Ronda, Old State House, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sponsored by the Friendly Homemaker's Home Economics Extension Club.

Agriculture Carrers Cited In New Publication

While less than seven million workers earn a living directly from farming, agriculture, including production, marketing, education, is America's biggest processing and education, is America's biggest employer. According to a publication prepared by the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, and distributed to Delaware high school students by the University of Delaware, 40 per cent of all employment in the United States represents some phase of agriculture.

In pointing out employment opportunities for agriculturally trained college graduates, "Rewarding Careers in a Dynamic Industry" lists these facts: —20 per cent of all U.S. scientists are engaged in life-sciences and agriculture.

—Agricultural research needs 2,000 new scientists each year.

—Agricultural education provides careers for 37,000 men and women.

—Manufacturing and processing companies employ 32,00 professional and technical workers.

—More people are employed in transporting, distributing and marketing farm products than are engaged in producing them.

The publication, which provides high school students with reference material on agricultural careers, includes sections on research and development, education, manufacturing and processing, management and marketing, conservation and recreation, services, communications and production.

The booklet points out that mechanization, improved crops and livestock and other scientific advances in agriculture have improved agriculture's efficiency and output. In dispelling the myth that agriculture careers are open only to those with a farm background, the publication says many agriculture colleges have a majority of students from non-farm families. And, fewer than 10 per cent of the farm boys return to farming after graduation. It points out that non-farm job opportunities command about 90 per cent of the agricultural college graduates.

Single copies of the publication, "Rewarding Careers in A Dynamic Industry," are available from the College of Agricultural Sciences, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware 19711.

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa

Reston, Virginia is a new city, urban in character and open spaced in design. My first impression was—well at least for once the developers didn't start with prime crop land to carve out their new town.

Townhouses clustered together make up the most interesting character of the city. You and 49 other families own row houses of unusual design to give privacy to each family. You also own about 12 acres of common land with the other homeowners. Through your homeowner association, you also receive other built in services—snow removal, lawn mowing, leaf removal and street cleaning.

A group of Delaware officials took a bus trip to see what is being done in this new city. We walked over much of the town, and looked into the new housing, which sells from $23,000 up, depending on size and location.

Reston will house about 75,000 people by 1980. It is about a 30 minute bus ride from downtown Washington, but Reston itself provides its own new industry. Right now there are 375 families after a little more than a year. One thing seems certain. They will grow.

Medford Davis, Jr. of Clayton raised this question in a meeting of our Dairy Advisory Council: "Why can't Delaware farmers be paid for 100% class I milk?" He went on to explain that we probably import more milk than we ship out of the state.

For the benefit of a non-dairyman, milk from the farm is sold for a blend price. In this area, better than 50% — and up to 90% — is sold as class I or fluid milk. The balance goes into manufactured products such as ice cream, butter or cottage cheese. A lower price is paid for the milk which goes into manufactured uses.

I was reading an article in the current issue of The Pennsylvania Farmer which describes a farmer who produces and sells all of his milk at retail. He produces and sells 1,000 quarts per day—and has all of the dealers headaches as well. He's welcome to it.

The point I'm trying to make is this. Milk marketing is no simple problem. Some manufacturing is needed to handle the inevitable surplus that must develop at times. State lines mean little in American trade. Even Europe has found that its Common Market program means better living after a long history of tariffs and regulation of trade.

Discorides was a Greek physician of the first century A. D. He has gone down in history for his classic book on medical botany. He studied the plant life of his time while serving with the armies in several countries of the Roman empire.

His name has popped up for years as I've studied various crops and their uses. The abbreviated DIOS, appears as the species name on a great variety of plants. The whole Yam family is named for him. This includes over 200 species, some of which are edible. But the so-called "yam" or sweet potato of the United States is not one of these.

The thing that amazes me is that most of the plants he described at the time of Christ are found in the United States. For example, purslane or portulaca is described as being found in gardens (where the soil is fertile). He describes the leaves and red stems as being juicy and tender. He also notes, as many small boys have found out, that the taste is sharp and somewhat salty. He goes on to say that if you mix it with Axungia (what is it?) it will dissolve your garter swelling.

Here's one that baffles me. Trefoil, a kind of clover, "Which being juiced and mixed with honey doth dissolve ye Argema and ye nubeculas and ye Albugines and ye things that darken ye apples of ye eyes". Now was he the one who originated the last phrase?

I've often heard of mead, and only know what it is. Honey wine, made of old and hard wine mixed with good honey. He says "it's good for ye belly".

The deadline for nominating candidates for the annual Kent County Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Supervisors' election is Thurs., Nov. 10.

Three requirements that candidates must meet are:

1. Be a Kent County farm operator or landowner.
2. Receive the written endorsement of ten other landowners or farm operators in the county and present this endorsement to the Kent County Soil Conservation District office at the State Board of Agriculture by November 10.
3. Reside in the southwest section of the county which formed the old sixth and ninth representative districts.

C. Arthur Taylor of Harrington is the present supervisor whose term expires December 31. Mr. Taylor has announced that he will not be a candidate for the election for family reasons. The term of office for the candidate will be four years.

Each judge shall then stamp or write the word "VOTED" in the column opposite the name of the voter in the Books of Registered Voters in his possession. No voter shall remain in the voting machine booth longer than three minutes, unless for good and sufficient reason he be granted a longer period of time by the election officers in charge. In case any voter, after entering the voting machine booth, shall ask for further instructions concerning the manner of voting, two election officers of opposite political parties shall give such instructions to him; but no person assisting a voter shall in any manner seek to influence his vote. After giving instructions and before such voter shall have registered his vote, the persons assisting him shall retire and such voter shall then register his vote in secret. Added 49 Del. Laws, Ch. 18 § 1, eff. Mar. 20, 1953.

The same principle shall be applied to removals from one place to another within this State.

If any political party fails to appoint a challenger, the Inspector and Judges shall make such appointment. The challengers shall be changed and their places filled in like manner during the day. The challengers shall be protected in the discharge of their duty by the election officers. The challengers, chosen for any general or special election, shall be peace officers of this State and shall have the same powers for preserving the peace as election officers have.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

There should be no difficulty this week in finding "good buys" in meats for both pork and beef are being featured in many markets. It would be good to check meat ads with flexible menus in mind in order to make the greatest savings.

Beef prices, after dropping a week ago in response to larger cattle marketings, are now holding fairly firm. However, due to an abundant carryover of supplies, markets will feature such beef cuts as steaks, ground beef, rib cuts and chuck cuts.

Hog receipts and prices have fluctuated within the past ten days. Perhaps bacon has shown the greatest change as most grades are now selling for much lower prices. Spareribs have also shown a sharp loss in price and hams are gaining wide retail attention. Loin roasts, too, are a definitely good buy.

Since new cooking methods are always in the news, here is the latest research on fresh pork loin cooking. For this particular cut alone an internal temperature of 170 degrees F. has been found to be an ideal temperature instead of the former recommended 185 degrees F. The loin roasts cooked at 170 degrees were found to be more juicy, with the same good flavor and tenderness as those cooked longer. These roasts required five to six minutes less cooking per pound, also. This information should not be applied to any other pork cut, only loin roast. All other cuts should be cooked to internal temperatures of 185 degrees F. or until all traces of pink color disappear from the interior. Slow cooking, though, is recommended for all cuts in order to conserve as much of the meat juices as possible.

The fresh vegetable picture this week is brighter and you can expect continued improvement unless there are drastic weather changes. The vegetables on the "better buy" list this week include sweet potatoes, Eastern potatoes, spinach, cauliflower, broccoli, Brussel sprouts, celery, dry onions, and cabbage.

A change in the supply area has caused lighter shipments of lettuce, and both eggplant and green pepper prices are slightly higher this week.

Banana imports have been extremely heavy and retail prices are low. November is the time to make banana cake, bread, cookies, and all the other delicious foods that call for this fruit as a main ingredient.

Florida grapefruit shipments are picking up rapidly and prices are dropping. Shipments of oranges are also increasing. Other fruits to check are pears, grapes, and of course apples.

LIONS WIN STATE CROSS-COUNTRY VARSITY, JAYVEE TITLES

Coach Harold McDonald's Harrington High cross-country Lions were supposed to be in a building year but one would never guess it as the fired-up Harringtonians romped to victory in both the varsity and junior varsity tests, in the Delaware State Group 2 Interscholastic Cross-Country Championships at Rockford Park, Tuesday afternoon.

Gone from last year's third place squad was Gerry Garey, Marshall Hatfield, Gary Simpson, Bob Matthews and Dan Adams. Four graduated, while Simpson quit cross-country to play football. In addition to losing five of seven 1965 starters, No. 1 jayvee Jack Warrington resigned as did a couple of newcomers, who looked great in their first workouts.

But, despite all these setbacks, the courageous Lions turned the unfamiliar, hilly, Wilmington course into a private playground to win the varsity race by nine points and the jayvee test by a whopping forty-one points over Tower Hill, in both events.

Tower Hill is a little smaller than H.H.S. in enrollment, but has a couple of big advantages that make them favored over Harrington most years. No. 1—The state course is only 200 yards from their front door. They run this course perhaps 50 times a year both in practice and in competition. The locals, in most cases, see it only once a year and sometimes get lost on it.

No. 2—At Tower Hill, every boy not out for football MUST run cross-country. This assures the Wilmington team a big turnout every year.

Ron Morris, Chris Wetherhold and Nick Morris played the key roles in the thrilling Harrington victory. R. Morris, the 1965 state jayvee champion, ran 37 seconds faster this time in grabbing 4th place with a 11.58 clocking. Wetherhold, 13, finished only 2 seconds behind Ron and stamped himself as one of the best young prospects in Delaware history. His time of 12 minutes flat is probably the best ever at Rockford Park by one so young. Jeff Brokaw, the 1965 state champion, was timed in 12:04 as an eighth grader in 1964. But Wetherhold is six months younger, in the same grade. Also, Chris was only on the Rockford course for the third time, whereas, Brokaw, as a Tower Hill runner, had run it many times, when he posted his 12:04.

Nick Morris was 16 seconds better than in 1965 in grabbing 11th place. Nick is the only junior on the squad. Team captain, Dan Hicks, the only senior sewed up the Lions' victory when he outspurred Don Schmitz and Larry Thornton, of Tower Hill, to finish 20th.

At the conclusion of the nine-team race, the winner was undecided. It appeared that Harrington's very young team, with luck, might get third place. First, individual engraved plaques were given out with Ron Morris and Chris Wetherhold getting the 4th and 6th place awards.

Frank Newlin, head of this annual affair, then announced the ninth place team first. Then came the eighth, seventh, sixth, fifth and fourth place squads. When Claymont was announced as the third place team, the upwards of 50 Harringtonians froze. Had a miracle occurred? Had this gallant group of downstaters from one of the state's smallest cross-country schools overcome all the obstacles put in their path this autumn to take home all the marbles? When Newlin said "In second place with 61 points, Tower Hill" there was no reaction from the stunned Harringtonians. Perhaps they feared their standing had been omitted by mistake. They didn't want to sound off ahead of time. "In first place with 52 points, the state champion Harrington Lions."

Wow! Bedlam, pandemonium, and a little noise, too, as the Harrington people woke up. This writer had an electric "Bull Horn" but they drowned that out, too. A happier bunch of people was never seen anywhere. Those kids were so high that their parents probably had to scrape them of the ceiling on Wednesday morning to get them to school.

Now you know what that screaming was about at 7 o'clock Tuesday night. It was a delicious busload of kids. Your kids.

H.H.S. JAYVEES ROMP

Bob Rash, Danny Hitchens, Bobby Smith, Dale Motter and Billy Walls made up the state champion junior varsity team. This is, in effect, a junior high team, since these boys are all 14 or under. The opposition consisted of boys up to and includ-

Harness Racing Hits Wire At Kent-Sussex Track

Harness racing at Kent and Sussex Raceway hits the wire this weekend when the mid-Delaware track rings down the curtain on its 21st annual 40-night fall meeting.

A pair of banner programs will help close out the campaign on Friday and Saturday nights. The Marshal's Pace, spotlighted by track marshal Nellie Ann Dennis, and the Rodney Village Trophy will be co-featured on Friday night's card.

The President's Trophy will be presented to the victor of Saturday's feature, with raceway president J. Gordon Smith on hand to make the presentation.

Ten-race programs will be offered on each of the two closing nights. Post time will be 8 o'clock with the early daily double closing nightly at 7:50.

Patrons will be getting their final glimpse of the 10-year-old Harrington grandstand at this meeting. The old structure will give way to a $1 million renovation project that is scheduled to be completed prior to the 1967 meeting, when a 60-night program is in prospect.

Included in the renovation project will be the lengthening of the existing grandstand to include a heated, glass-enclosed clubhouse with seating for 700 persons. The present grandstand area will be enlarged to seat an additional 2,000 patrons and also will be glass enclosed. Back-wall wadding will be installed.

The track will be modified to meet United States Trotting Association regulations. It will be repaved and will be razed by widening to accommodate eight horses, instead of the present six. Some stables and the paddock area will be razed by the widening. A new paddock is planned for the west end of the track. Stables will be relocated.

The project will be financed by sale of additional shares of Delaware State Fair stock, states J. Gordon Smith, the president, and plans are subject to the final approval of the Delaware Harness Racing Commission.

and the little speedster darted through the left side of the line for 11 yards. Davis notched the T.D. Melvin's kick was good for a final of 45-6.

Peppy Biles, of Rehoboth was in the clear and speeding for an apparent touchdown until overhauled by Steve Welch. Coveleskie was dumped for an eight yard loss but got it back on a pass.

Harrington took over and narrowly missed an eighth touchdown. Cagle's pass reception gained 20 yards. Davis' line plunge added 7 to midfield. Cagle hit to the 44. Welch tossed to Big Ed Wheatley, who dragged a little guy apparently trying to dance with him, to the 12. Three plays later, on fourth down, Wheatley took an aerial into the end zone but dropped it there for a touchback.

The game ended a few plays later.

It appears that Bill Muehleisen has emerged from the smothering, all-enveloping shadow of Frank Glazier and is now emerging as a capable coach in his own right.

town paying about half, while the other half would be made up through federal and state grants — while its industrial complex would repay the town in installments over a period of years.

The companies had originally balked at a large initial capital outlay of their own, but since they contribute well over half of Milford's total domestic sewerage they were willing to pay what they considered a fair share of the expense of a new plant. However, they wanted the payments spread over a number of years.

None of the companies have as yet signed agreement to the Milford pact, and Shogood and Torsch's move toward sampling is the first action taken on the part of the companies to decide whether they want to join the town in a central plant, or build their own waste disposal systems.

ing, we knew something was wrong."

He said one voter — "a very large property owner in town" — said he wanted a treatment plant but did not approve of extending sewage lines to those areas in town with no service.

Voting was on the basis of one vote for each $1 of municipal tax paid.

ing will avoid problems which may create hazards.

1. All heating equipment be at least 18" from combustibles.
2. Thoroughly clean all stoves, pipes and other equipment.
3. Metal containers for storage of ashes.
4. Chimneys, flues and boilers cleaned annually.
5. Safety controls and ignition checked to insure proper operation.
6. Fireplaces adequately screened.
7. Electrical fuses of standard size. Are circuits overloaded? Be sure.

Public apathy to these warnings can only lead to increasing the 74,000 fires resulting in $71-, 800,000 property damage from defective or overheating of home equipment.

ing eleventh-graders, but they couldn't give the young local phenoms a good workout. Corpus Christi harrier, Larry Connors, was the winner in a good 12:40, five seconds off the record held by R. Morris of Harrington (1965).

Since the Elsmere school was disqualified in the varsity test because they did not have five finishers, it appears that they should have used Connors in the big race. Then Bob Rash (2nd), Danny Hitchens (3rd), Bob Smith (4th), would have been vying for the state crown instead of second place. H.H.S. had jayvee individual champs in 1963-'64-'65.

Dale Motter (8th) ran a very fine race in his first attempt. He, Rash, Hitchens and Smith, picked up four engraved plaques. Billy Walls, 13, a newcomer, was the lad who wrapped it up for Harrington with a good 13:49. Four days earlier in a practice meet at Rockford, he went around in 14:48. As the fifth Lion, he had to get fairly close to the front. He delivered when the chips were down.

Bob Rash cut off a terrific 1 minute and 20 seconds from his 1965 time. Hitchens was a half minute faster. Danny so captivated the Wilmington High Red Devils that they formed a "Danny Hitchens Fan Club" on the spot.

The Red Devils cheered the 4 ft. 6, 68 pounder on at the starting signal, during the race and at the finish. When the spunky little towhead stepped forward at the award ceremony to get his third place plaque to go with his tenth place award from 1965, his rooters were ready. With a borrowed electric megaphone, the Wilmingtonians led the cheering "Now let's hear it for the little man". The welkin rang more for the littlest Lion than for any other individual on this day of days.

Wetherhold, Hicks, Pace Harriers To 21st Straight Win

Lewes High School's powerful cross-country team, posed the last major threat of this autumn, to Harrington High School's undefeated young Lions at Lewes Wednesday afternoon. Key home-stretch drives by eighth grader Chris Wetherhold and senior team captain, Dan Hicks, enabled the locals to chalk up the ninth victory this season in as many starts. Coach Harold McDonald's youthful charges now own a winning skein of 21 straight with only one solitary loss in the last 51 outings. Since many of those meets were triangular or quadrangular races, the number of teams met and conquered in this four year period is probably around seventy-five.

The Pirates answered the starting signal with a roar as their bright blue uniforms quickly filled the first six or seven positions. It looked like the Lions might be forced to walk the plank. As the runners made their way around the first lap of the course in Henlopen State Park, the Lions began to move up. Lewes still held the upper hand as the competitors passed the nearly Delaware Bay late in the second and final lap. Enter Hicks and Wetherhold.

The 13 year old Wetherhold was slightly behind Martin, a strong-running Lewes junior.

Martin had picked up the pace three times in the last half mile but couldn't shake the gritty eighth-grader. Wetherhold edged slightly ahead with over 200 yards to go as both boys started to sprint. Chris watched Martin's shadow, and when it faltered slightly, he opened the throttle to beat the Pirate by two seconds and capture second place. Lewes' classy Barry Lambertson clocked a swift 11:42 over the flat course to take top honors.

Wetherhold's 11:57 is six seconds faster than the 12:03 posted at Lewes last year by 1965's top Lion Gerry Garey. Garey's performance, at that time, was the course record.

Ronald Morris and Nick Morris were fourth and fifth, but the Lions were still in hot water as Dan Hicks trailed Wilson, of Lewes with another Pirate, Seabreeze, closing fast on both. Hicks was preparing to jump Wilson when Seabreeze suddenly went by. The Lion track dashman went to the outside and outlegged both rivals to the finish. If he had caught neither Lewes would have had a one point victory. Harrington thus prevailed 26-29.

The Lewes course is the first one this year that was not altered since 1965. Therefore, it offered a chance for comparison with last year's performances for many Lions.

Wetherhold improved one minute and thirty-four seconds in the one year period. Bob Rash lowered his Lewes time by 1.38 and other to show much faster time trials were Joey Gray, down 1:13, Dale Motter .59, Danny Hitchens and Gary Redden .53, Brinley Brode .15.

Martin Adams was 2.29 faster. Ron Morris was 3.13 better. But neither of these lads had caught on to the sport at this time last fall.

Others to run well at Lewes were: Alan Parker, Richard Benson, Bob Smith, Bill Stubbs, Billy Walls, Mike Davis, John Kinney, Randy Cagle, Brad Morris and Dennis Layton.

Would You Believe Harrington 45, Rehoboth 6?

A fired-up Harrington High football team went on a seven touchdown rampage Friday night and crushed a visiting Rehoboth Seahawk eleven by a score of 45-6. The Lions started fast and never let up in avenging a 32-0 trouncing suffered in 1965.

Bill Muehleisen's gridders, after winning their fourth contest in six starts, are within sight of a winning season. One victory in the next three starts will do the trick. Unbeaten Bridgeville will host the Lions Fri., Nov. 4 at 8 p.m.

Four touchdowns by Raleigh Davis and three by Steve Welch, plus three extra points off the toe of Wayne Melvin, accounted for the Lions' scoring. Welch is now fifth in the Henlopen Conference with 38 points. Davis is tied for eighth with 30 tallies.

In the first quarter Davis' six yard run and a 40 yard scamper racked up all the points the Lions were to need.

The Seahawks went to the air from deep in their own territory and saw Davis latch on to an errant throw, that went right to him. He reached the five in two thrusts at the right side of the line. Welch never had a finger laid on him as he raced around right end for 19-0.

Rehoboth got a break, a little later, when a Lion punt bounced out at the H.H.S. 39. Two runs got to the 15. Shelton caught a pass from Coveleskie for Rehoboth's lone tally.

Davis got the kickoff at his own 20, ran straight up the middle, burst into the clear and hotfooted it 80 yards to a touchdown, probably ending the visitors' hopes right there. Time was running out as Rehoboth completed two passes to get to the Lion 25 but an interception killed both the drive and the clock.

Wayne Melvin returned the second half kickoff to his own 43. Two plays later, Gerry Cagle racked up a first down at the Seahawk 45. Welch faked a hand-off, went left to the 38. A pitch-out to Davis got three yards. Cagle darted through the forward wall, then cut to the left to go all the way to the five yard line. Welch hit off right tackle for the score. Melvin's kick was high enough but just barely too wide, 31-6. A Lion, it looked like Danny Smith, put his team back on offense with a fumble recovery at the Rehoboth 27. Cagle went to the 22. Bill Moore's pass reception was good for 13 yards. Welch turned the left flank to score standing up. Melvin's kick was good to run the count to 38-6.

Melvin set up the last marker with a fumble recovery at the Seahawk 37.

Welch drove to the 21. His clever handoff to Cagle was not immediately seen by the defense

Harrington Bowling League

Well, McKnatt finally did it! They overtook Acme in the runner-up spot behind Kent Gas, who has practically sewn up the first third in this 10-team league. Kent Gas has to win two more games to take all the marbles in this third. And, the way they've been bowling of late, it looks like it's in the bag.

With McKnatt coming on strong, it looks as if there might be a different story at the onset of the second third.

As it stands, Acme is going to have to do some strong bowling to hold down the third spot, as Taylor & Messick is moving up fast and can, with a good night, take over the third spot. So look out Acme.

Porter's Hardware really took an upward leap, going from the eighth spot to fifth place. With some of these teams really putting on the pressure, it looks as though the second part will really be tough. As it stands now it looks as though the second third winner's margin of victory will not be by more than a couple of games. As it has always been said, "time will tell."
