

GOP TAKES OVER KENT COUNTY ELECTION BOARD

Six employees of the Board of Assessments lost their jobs Tuesday as Kent County Republicans topped a 2-1 Democratic Board Membership by dismissing Harold W. Powell, a Democrat, of Hartly.

In rapid fire succession, the Republican controlled Levy Court dismissed Powell, replaced him with J. E. Scanlon of Dover, and had him sworn in to office.

Scanlon, with the help of Franklin English, the other Republican on the three-member Board of Assessments, then fired six employees of the board and replaced them with five members of the GOP faithful.

Those fired were board secretary Barle Faulkner, and Noble Carroll, Althea Messick, Doris Seamans, Barbara Ayers, and Wanda Holdeman. Each will be given a week's pay.

To replace them, the board hired George W. Kershner III who will fill the jobs as secretary and clerk, Miss Cheryl Lynn Satterfield of Harrington, Mrs. Mary Caputo of Dover, Mrs. Edith B. Moore of Dover, Mrs. Rose O'Kavage of Dover, an alternate Mrs. Phyllis Hann of Cheswold in case one of the above cannot accept the appointment.

Four employees were not removed in the shake up because, according to Levy Court President Glenn A. Richter, they have been trained to handle the books following the recent county re-assessment. They are: William Clark, Mrs. Barbara Boyer, Mrs. Evelyn Virdin and Mrs. Amy Reed.

"Moved quickly," Richter said, "because I understood Powell is going to appeal his dismissal. We did not want to be held up by a court order until his case is appealed. Now it is an accomplished fact."

Powell's services were terminated Tuesday after a hearing before the levy court commissioners at which Levy Court Attorney Roy S. Shields claimed that, contrary to state law, Powell was appointed to the Board of Assessments from the same senatorial district as Republican Franklin English.

Shields said both were appointed from the 13th senatorial district and that English was appointed before Powell. Levy court records show that English was appointed on Jan. 19, 1965 and Powell on Jan. 4, 1966.

James H. Hughes III, attorney for Powell, told the commissioners Powell, was appointed to replace Edgar Kates who was appointed to the board on Jan. 12, 1965, but who died in office in December of that year.

He said that Powell's appointment, in effect, was a continuation of Kates' position and as such, antedated English's appointment by one week.

"If you follow the strict language of the law," Hughes said, "English could not qualify as a member of the board..." because he was not a freeholder at the time of his appointment.

Hughes said it took English a week to acquire property in order to be sworn into office. "If anyone should be banned from holding the position," he said, "it should be English."

Hughes said an appeal has been filed with the Superior Court but said he did not know when the case will be put on the (Continued on Page 8)

Drivers, Not Fate Cause Accidents

"Drivers, not fate, cause auto accidents," reminds Francis J. Jamison, assistant manager of the Delaware Safety Council. "Occasional lapses in judgment, attention, courtesy and self-control are the traffic toll's heaviest contributors."

That is why driving should never be taken for granted. It isn't child's play. It requires you to make as many as 2,000 split-second decisions daily. "To make the right decisions, thorough training and constant alertness are essential. Driving demands your best, every minute you're behind the wheel," states Jamison.

To be sure of driving prepared, try to develop the following habits:

1. Continually adjust speed and spacing to changes in driving conditions.
 2. Anticipate mistakes of others.
 3. Know what evasive action to take.
 4. Drive within the limitations of your car and nature's laws.
 5. Cooperate don't compete.
- Finally, give driving your ALL — all your attention — all your ability — all the time.

Junior - Senior Band Takes Trip To Philadelphia

On Sat., Jan. 7, the Senior and Junior band members of Harrington High School took a trip to Philadelphia. The nature of the trip was to see Shipstads and Johnson's Ice Follies.

Each student chose the price of his or her ticket which ranged from $2 to $4. Also each student paid their own bus fare.

The bus was chartered and the students left the school grounds around nine o'clock with Melvin Brobst as the chaperone.

On the way up a stop was made at the bus terminal at States Road in which some of the students rested while others got something to eat.

The bus arrived in Philadelphia around one o'clock and proceeded to the arena.

The show consisted of many types of variety. Some were comical while others were dance routines or little plays. One of the acts was about the voyage of the Vikings while the other was a show of different bridal outfits including one from the United States and five other countries. Donald Jackson, the five times world winner and champion performed a routine which was interpreted the blues.

After these acts were finished the bus left the arena and proceeded home. Before reaching Harrington a stop was made around Wilmington to get dinner, and then went home, arriving at the parking lot around 6:30 or 6:45.

Man Dies In Trailer Fire

One man lost his life, but two companions escaped early Saturday when flames destroyed a house trailer on Route 16, a half-mile east on Greenwood Road.

Edward Wyatt, deputy state fire marshal said the victim, Norris Brown Milligan, about 55, died from burns and smoke inhalation.

Frank Savage, who shared the mobile home with Milligan, and a man identified only as a Mr. Daisey, a guest, fled the burning structure.

The property is owned by Ernest Murphy, who employs Milligan, according to fire chief Arthur L. Jones. The dead man was a chicken catcher.

The fire was reported at 2:45. When firemen arrived, Jones said, the portion of the 8-by-36-foot trailer was "completely engulfed in flame."

Milligan, whose body was found on the bedroom floor after the blaze was extinguished, was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. R. H. Beckert of Bridgeville.

Jones said the alarm was turned in by James E. Smith, who spotted the blaze while driving home from work east on Greenwood Road.

Services for Milligan were held Monday afternoon at the Frampton Funeral Home in Federalsburg, Md. Interment was in McKendree Cemetery, near Rhodesdale, Md.

He is survived by seven sisters, Mrs. Hattie M. Neal of Hurlock, Md., Mrs. Esther Downes of Chester, Pa., Mrs. Delma Brown of Bridgeville, Mrs. Lola Gabriel of Seaford, Mrs. Doris Collins, of Rhodesdale, Mrs. Lena Caldwell and Mrs. Lucille Rathel, both of Dover; and a brother, Roy Milligan of Bridgeville.

Harrington Jaycee Notes

By Harry E. Jarman, Jr. This being the first of our weekly articles, I would like to summarize, what is a Jaycee?

Between the mystery of a man's essence and dignity of a professional, we find a very delightful character called a Jaycee. Jaycees come in assorted sizes, weights, and colors, but all Jaycees have the same creed. Jaycees are found everywhere—in the office, in church, in government and sometimes at home—not only in the States but also in England, New Zealand and Korea.

Wives love them, children enjoy them, businessmen ignore them, bosses tolerate them, and heaven protects them. A Jaycee is truth, with sweat on his brow, honesty with blisters on his hands, and hope for the future with fifty cents in his pocket.

A Jaycee is a composite. He has the appetite of a horse, the liquid consumption of a thirsty cow, the energy of a pocket-sized hydrogen bomb, the curiosity of a woman, the imagination of a Texan, the shyness of a June bride, the lungs of a dictator and the enthusiasm of a G.I. gazing upon Jane Russell.

When he works on a project, he discovers he has five thumbs on both hands.

A Jaycee is a magical creature. His wife can lock him out of the (Continued on Page 8)

Opportunities For Local Leaders

Opportunities continue to face the local leaders of the Boy Scout organization as they plan for the new year of 1967, according to Dorsey B. Kinnamon, President of the Del-Mar-Va Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Over 18,000 boys are now active in this area as Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Explorers in all types of economic areas, Kinnamon said, and Scouting is making real progress in training boys in character development, citizenship training, and mental and physical fitness.

"The changes that have occurred over the year — ever since 1910 when Scouting began in the United States — continue to offer new goals based on old experiences," Kinnamon said.

Kinnamon believes there are six needs of major concern to all citizens. He listed "the increasing need for promoting wholesome man-boy relationships; a need for boys to have guidance in finding and living by a stable code of moral and social values; need of help in being active and participating citizens in the world to which (Continued on Page 8)

PRR Establishes Tuition Aid Plan

The Pennsylvania Railroad has established a tuition aid plan for employees who seek to improve their professional and technological standing by taking courses at accredited colleges, universities and technical institutions during off-duty hours.

Stuart T. Saunders, board chairman, said this week.

"The pressure of present-day competition and the pace of technological change require that employees at all levels improve their performance and broaden their knowledge in preparation for additional responsibilities in the future," said Saunders.

The new plan will provide reimbursement up to $300 a year to PRR employees accepted under the program he said.

Saunders explained that PRR employs with high school education and considered to have "potential for growth and development within the company," qualify for this program. The courses are not to interfere with the employees' duties and must be related to his present position or to a potential future position.

Applications are handled by the railroad's labor relations and personnel department at system levels at Philadelphia, as well as at the regional headquarters in Chicago, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

Boggs Sponsors Bill To Aid Firemen

Senator J. Caleb Boggs sponsored one bill and co-sponsored three others after being sworn in last week for his second term as a United States Senator.

The Delaware Senator introduced a bill to give volunteer fire companies the lower postage rates used by many other nonprofit organizations.

Thirty Senators joined him in sponsoring this legislation. In the two preceding Congresses Boggs introduced similar measures which were passed by the Senate but not by the House of Representatives.

Delaware's 62 volunteer fire companies would be among the nearly 20,000 volunteer companies in the nation which would benefit from passage of the bill.

In introducing his bill, Boggs explained that volunteer fire companies depend largely on contributions for their financial support. Often these appeals are made through the mails, he said, and the postage savings would help the companies improve their service and equipment.

"Members of these volunteer fire companies are dedicated to helping their neighbors", Boggs said.

"And, while it is the men who do the actual fire-fighting, they are backed up by the hard-working ladies auxiliaries of the companies."

Other bills co-sponsored by Boggs would:

1. Give veterans of the Vietnam conflict the same benefits as veterans of other wars.
2. Create a bipartisan commission (like the Hoover Commission) to study and investigate the present organization and methods of the Executive Branch and make recommendations for improvements.
3. Provide for a comprehensive review of national water resource requirements and supplies.

The Delaware Senator moved up a notch in seniority on the Agriculture Committee, where he is now the third-ranking member on the minority side. He is also third-ranking on the Public Works Committee and the Post Office and Civil Service Committee. Also, he is the top-ranking minority member of the Subcommittee on Air and Water Pollution.

In addition, Boggs serves on the Joint Committee on the Organization of the Congress, which has prepared legislation to improve the operation and effectiveness of the Congress.

Harrington And Dover On River Basin's Agenda

Dover's drinking water supply and Harrington's sewers will be topics of discussion at a public hearing of the Delaware River Basin Commission January 25 in Philadelphia.

Scene of the program will be the Pennsylvania State Office Building at Broad and Spring Garden Streets, beginning at 2 p. m.

The Philadelphia meeting called to coordinate the construction of sewers and wells in the river basin geographical area, will hear representatives of Dover request official registration of the capital city's eleven wells.

Harrington must get permission to construct a secondary waste disposal system from the basin commission before it can receive federal aid. The town is proposing a $500,000 sewer bond referendum to obtain its share, about 50 per cent of the total cost of the project.

Extension of a sewerage plant in Morgantown, New Jersey and additions to a watershed project in Bucks and Montgomery Counties, Pa., are also on the agenda.

All persons wanting to testify are asked to register in advance with the secretary of the commission, by writing to the commissions main offices at P. O. Box 360, Trenton, N. J.

Army Needs Pilots

Qualified high school graduates can learn to fly through the U.S. Army's Warrant Officer Flight Program, said Sgt. Walter R. Frazier, located at 218 S. Governor's Avenue, Dover.

Training to be an Army pilot last a total of 38 rugged weeks, but at the end of that time, the graduate is a qualified helicopter or fixed wing aircraft pilot.

After completion of the training, graduates are appointed Warrant Officers in the U.S. Army and are accorded all the courtesies and privileges of an officer. In addition to the basic Warrant Officer salary, quarters and subsistence allowances, Army pilots receive an additional $100 a month flight pay.

Qualified applicants must agree to serve a period of three years upon completion of training. Failure to graduate from Warrant Officer Flight Program entails a two year enlistment obligation.

Sergeant Frazier has all details and is ready, willing and able to explain how qualified high school graduates can get started on a new Army pilot's career. For more information, call 736-6937 or 674-1360.

The new City government will probably look into the accusations of a defeated candidate on wrongdoing at the polls in the municipal election Tues., Jan. 10.

Luther P. Hatfield, defeated candidate for mayor, told the City Council Monday night he had the names of 52 voters not on the tax list and 17 of them lived outside the city limits.

Last week, Hatfield asked the Council for the addresses of the 52 voters, and that the Supreme Court of Delaware would be petitioned to void the results of the election if there was any evidence of fraud by the voting of persons residing outside the city limits of Harrington.

The Council was unable to take any definite action Monday night, to which the regular meeting night had been moved up from Tuesday, because of lack of a quorum.

However, Grover C. Brown, city solicitor, said the burden of proof of wrongdoing rested with Hatfield but he recommended "some effort should be made to ascertain where they (the accused voters) live." He didn't think the findings would affect the outcome of last week's election, but in another election it might.

Mayor Fulton J. Downing thought about sending the contested voters a notice. "You voted and you are not on the tax list," was the way he put it, adding the city also might pick up some taxables.

In discussing what could be done to be sure votes were legal, Attorney Brown suggested voters could be checked on the tax list, at the polling place, and if their names were not on it, to have them sign a statement as to their address.

This legislation, including penalties, could be made by a charter change or ordinance, according to Brown.

In the Dover election, Monday voters, whose names did not appear on the tax rolls, were required to sign a statement as to their address.

The question of registering voters, as is done in the general elections, was brought up and City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann explained Leves had registrations, with the final one 30 days before the election.

The Council may meet Monday evening, if it can be assured of a quorum, Mayor Downing said. One big item to come up will be that of a public hearing on sewer improvements next month.

Delaware 4-H'ers Come From Farm and City

To more than two and a quarter million American boys and girls between 9 and 19 4-H means an opportunity to learn and to lead. Delaware youths—2397 boys and girls—share eagerly in this opportunity.

For 60 years the 4-H program has been an important educational force in rural America; in Delaware 4-H clubs have been active for 51 years, according to James O. Baker, state 4-H club leader.

But, 4-H club work is changing; non-farm members in Delaware outnumber those on the farm. Only 738 Delaware 4-H'ers live on a farm while 882 club members come from rural non-farm homes and 772 are from suburban areas.

These boys and girls belonged to 83 community clubs, with 133 organizational leaders, 185 project leaders and 138 older 4-H members serving as junior leaders, according to figures just released.

One reason cited for the rapid expansion of the 4-H program into almost all parts of Delaware is the range of projects and activities being offered. Club members from town and country can choose from projects in automotive, home economics, clothing, electric, entomology, horse, wood-working, foods, crafts, photography and safety. Projects aimed mainly at farm youths include beef, swine, field crops, sheep, tractor and dairy.

Many 4-H activities are designed to offer leadership opportunities, Baker points out. Among these activities are the citizenship, community service, public speaking and junior leadership programs.

The 4-H program is the youth phase of an educational program conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service, working with state land grant universities. It began in the early 1900's when agricultural extension agents organized corn and pig clubs for farm youngsters as a way to introduce new farming practices to their fathers. These informal groups were organized into 4-H clubs in 1914.

Boys and girls in Delaware between the ages of 9 and 19 who are interested in 4-H club work should contact a local 4-H club leader or the county 4-H club agent in Georgetown, Dover or Newark.

C.K.R.T. News

The January meeting of the Callaway-Kemp-Raughley - Tee American Legion Auxiliary was held on Tuesday evening, with Mrs. Joseph Crisp, vice-president, conducting the session.

Several reports were made concerning activities of the Child Welfare Committee. Mrs. Donald Dell reported that the annual Christmas party for the underprivileged children was held with 16 guests present. A gift was provided for each child and refreshments were served. Several local merchants donated the refreshments for the party. Mrs. Dell also reported on a Thank You note from the recipient of the Thanksgiving basket.

For many years the C.K.R.T. Unit has participated in sending clothing to an organization called the Save The Children Foundation. Hundreds of pounds of clothing have been mailed to the organization which collects clothing for people in the Appalachian region. This year has been no exception, since Mrs. Dell has mailed two packages to the foundation. However, for the first time the Unit was presented with a beautiful bronze and walnut plaque as the "outstanding unit in the state" in the collection of clothing. The plaque reads as follows:

"Presented to the American Legion Auxiliary #7 in grateful recognition of kindness and generosity to needy children in underprivileged and disaster areas in the United States and in free countries overseas. 1966 Save the Children Foundation."

Mrs. Dell mentioned also that she has a large package almost ready to send for the 1967 contribution. Anyone wishing to add to the collection may call her. A donation of $5 was made to CARE, and another donation of $5 was sent to the Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation.

The group also consented to serve as sponsors of a newly formed Brownie Troop. More details as to troop number and leaders will be given at the next meeting.

Insect Control Vital To Agriculture

Chemical pesticides are still the most effective weapon against insects, according to Frank Boys, extension agricultural chemical specialist at the University of Delaware.

Despite control efforts, insects nonetheless cause millions of dollars of damage every year to agricultural crops. But, without modern controls, insects would do so much damage that American farmers could not provide the food and fiber to help support the growing world population, Boys points out.

Farmers haven't always had insecticides. In the "old days" farmers commonly used paris green, lead arsenate, sulfur and lime to kill agricultural insect pests. Nicotine, pyrethrum, soap and kerosene served for garden insect control and sulfur cones, kerosene and pyrethrum dust preparations were the principle household insecticides.

Those who can remember the futility of trying to keep roaches, flies, and ants out of kitchens and mosquitoes and bedbugs out of bedrooms can confirm the limitations of these early day control methods. Agricultural insect control methods were no better, according to Boys.

Modern insect control methods, chemical and biological, have helped carry this country from shortages to abundance from a time when nearly everyone had to farm to this modern day when less than ten per cent of our population are actually on the farm.

Dr. Dale Bray, chairman of the department of entomology and applied ecology at the University, gives entomologists much of the credit for our progress against insect pests. Through research they gained an understanding of insect weaknesses and thus they could develop effective insecticides. Bray points out that entomologists also continue to look for ways to use natural biological methods for control.

Research into developing insect attractants has been very promising, he states. With this method, insects are lured by natural or artificial baits to traps or into contact with a limited amount of a particular chemical.

Bray believes that plant breeders may hold an important key to the reduction of many insect problems. Also, the use of sterile insects has met with some success, particularly with cattle screw worm control; it holds promise for the future control of some other insects. This control method prevents the multiplication of insects by flooding the natural population with sterile males.

Phelan announced that a regional conference will be held on Tuesday, Jan. 24, at the Sheraton Hotel, 1725 John F. Kennedy Blvd., Philadelphia, at 2:00 p.m. to acquaint public officials with firsthand information on the program. Invitations will be dispatched by mail.

The standards and other application data are contained in a 57-page book entitled, "Improving the Quality of Urban Life — A Program Guide to Model Neighborhoods and Demonstration Cities." Designed for use by public officials interested in applying for model cities aid, it includes information and instructions on how to develop a proposal and apply for planning funds; what constitutes a model neighborhood area; program standards; Federal financial aid; planning and developing a comprehensive city demonstration program; and an appendix containing the model cities legislation and the kinds of activities that might be included in a city demonstration program.

The book is available for 55 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20401.

Under the model cities program HUD will provide grants to cities for planning and carrying out a program that concentrates a coordinated range of Federal, State and local sources, including private as well as public, on a specific hard-core poverty neighborhood to demonstrate ways in which the social, physical, and economic problems of the people in that neighborhood can be solved or substantially alleviated. HUD has an appropriation of $11 million for planning grants for the current fiscal year, ending June 30, 1967.

"HUD is now ready to review applications as soon as they are submitted," Phelan said. However, this does not mean that they will be approved on a first-come, first-served basis. We want to make sure that cities of all sizes and from all sections of the region have an opportunity to apply. That is why, in the planning application stage, we are placing more emphasis on such elements as understanding the needs of the suggested neighborhood and its residents, and the commitment and ability of the city to carry out a model cities program, rather than an elaborate complicated proposal," he added.

"Through our regional conference we hope to carry the model cities message to the people involved," said Phelan, "so that we can explain the program, provide more detailed information, and exchange views with local officials."

a real boost to corn yields, Mitchell believes.

Delaware tests were conducted under record drought conditions; yet highly significant increases in production were obtained with the right hybrid-population-row width combination.

Mitchell adds that farmers considering 30-inch rows should not overlook the full season hybrids. In Delaware tests, he says, they responded to narrow rows and high populations even better than short, early maturing hybrids.

When row widths were changed to 30-inch, the first hybrid produced 81, 87 and 65 bushels per acre with the same population variation. The second hybrid produced 89, 87 and 81 bushels per acre under the same population conditions.

Narrow rows, in themselves, are not the answer, according to Mitchell. However, combined with the right plant, population and hybrid variety, they can give Row widths, plant population and corn hybrids are all closely related. A change in population or hybrid brings about a change in response to row widths.

For example, one hybrid produced 66 bushels per acre with 16,000 plants in 40-inch rows. The same hybrid produced 46 bushels per acre with 20,000 plants and 33 bushels with 24,000 plants, all in 40-inch rows.

Under the same change in population conditions, with the same row width, another hybrid produced 68 bushels with 16,000 plants, 66 with 20,000 and 69 with 24,000. Obviously, one hybrid fell off badly as the population was increased while the other changed its production very little.

Geological Survey Makes Summary of Water Resources

The Delaware Geological Survey has begun publication of a monthly summary of water conditions in the state.

State Geologist Johan J. Groot said five-year drought conditions in the Northeast, including Delaware, have led to anxiety about the availability of adequate resources in the present and future.

"Stream flows have been below average for much of the past five years and water levels in many wells have been somewhat low too, particularly during the summer," said Dr. Groot, professor and chairman of the Department of Geology at the University of Delaware.

Professor Groot said the monthly summaries are intended to provide facts and figures on current water conditions to the many people concerned with Delaware's water resources.

The first report, which includes data from selected points throughout the state, covers November. December's report is expected to be issued mid-way through this month.

The November report notes that precipitation in Delaware was below normal—down 1.73 inches in New Castle County, 2.22 in Dover and 2.54 for Kent and Sussex Counties combined.

Also included in the report are streamflow and withdrawals for Brandywine Creek, static ground water levels and maximum daily chloride concentration of the Delaware River at the Memorial Bridge.

The summary notes that ground water levels in all eight of the observation wells rose slightly less than a foot during November.

Kenneth D. Woodruff, hydrologist with the Delaware Geological Survey, prepared the November report.

FENCE TALK

By George K. Vapaa

How does a farmer measure success? Money? Land? A big tractor? Time for leisure? Social position? The simple, uncomplicated life? It can be any or all or none of these.

Few people will agree on any one point—except perhaps that one must scratch or strive for success in life.

This is the time when farmers make plans for the year ahead. Your county agent feels the pressures have never been greater on our grain crop farmers — those who grow corn, soybeans, and small grain. A series of five straight dry years has cut crop yields drastically.

Because of mechanization, grain crop farmers need these particular inputs:

1. Control of a lot of land, preferably all close together. We figure a man-unit in a mechanized crop farm at about 500 acres to lower the machine cost per acre.

2. Extensive credit. Today's specialized farmer buys rather than produces his plant food. Top yields demand more plant food than manures or cover crops can supply. Hybrid seeds must be purchased. The same for pesticides to control weeds, insects, diseases, etc. Machinery repairs, fuel and electricity are other cash costs.

3. Skilled labor. You can't put an untrained man on a $10,000 machine. The local draft board gets this appeal on nearly every request for a farm deferment. It's a valid claim.

Let's take the other extreme. Someone cited the local Amish farmer as one who is getting along without these things. I won't argue the point except in this respect. The Amish farming pattern is the general subsistence farm which most other people avoid today. Young Amish men tend to work as carpenters to supplement the family income. Carpentry is one of the few trades where the work is done with hand tools.

I find it difficult to question an individual's approach to a successful life. Not that all will succeed. For it is the nature of a democracy that some must fail. Some play it safe and move cautiously. Others shoot for top yields and must take larger risks.

So the right way to success is a nifty thing indeed. Oftentimes a county agent is asked: "Shall I do this, or will the other approach be better?" The best we can answer is: "These are your choices as I see them. There may be others I haven't mentioned. You are taking the risks, so the decision is yours. You must decide what is the best answer."

Cover crops. Are they worth the money? Definitely yes for the long pull. Our county ASC committee was debating the argument presented by some that $6 per acre spent for fertilizer may do more good than the same money spent in seeding a cover crop.

Cover crops reduce run off and conserve moisture. Most Kent County farms need protection from wind erosion if not water erosion. They provide excellent late fall and early spring grazing. In dry years they conserve unused fertilizer from the previous crop. The added organic matter improves soil tilth. And of course legumes add nitrogen to the soil.

Our vegetable growers tend to appreciate the value of a green cover. But corn and soybean growers tend to plead a lack of time to get a cover in, or they feel that the crop stubble is good enough.

Unfortunately, many cash-farm land renters or share crop land renters do not realize or care about keeping their lands fertile. Many do not even use a written contract or lease which can easily spell out that a cover crop is to be used. A responsible tenant has quite a stake too. He needs top yields to be able to compete as a farmer.

How do we get these ideas across? That's one of our ASC problems at the moment. Who has a suggestion in the meantime, write or call for our pamphlet: "Let Cover Crops Work For You!"

Kaffeeklatch

With Eleanor K. Voshell

"Having a child does not automatically make you a mother." These are the words of a Delaware homemaker, Mrs. Warren Baker, who is presently serving as vice-president for the State Council of Home Economics Extension Clubs.

Mrs. Baker, known to us as Peggy, feels that the job of mother must be developed as any other job is. Fortunately our children have no basis for comparison. We must stop or start ourselves according to our own conscience. She explains it this way, "We are stewards of our children. Molding bodies, minds and souls and raising a family becomes an act of worship worthy of our whole strength. A responsible adult is the end result of our work and this only after years of effort." Then she adds, "If you want to do something nice for your grandchildren, improve your own character."

We learn mostly by observation. How do you speak to your husband? Your daughter will do the same. How do you treat your aged mother? You daughter will do the same. Motherhood is truly an awesome responsibility and all too often the job is bigger than we are.

If you had to put your idea of mother into words, how would it sound? Here is Peggy's description:

My mother image is one who stays home, one who bakes and fills the house with mouth watering fragrance. She is there when I am sick. She is there when I am lonely. She gives me something to fight against with her integrity and fairness. She is just in her punishments and generous with her love.

Peggy has chosen to remain at home with her children. She says this is not the only way, nor is it the perfect way. But, it is the way that suits her best.

Drought and Weeds Bad Combination

Weeds and water robbers and crops suffer most when there isn't enough water to go around. In a drought, weed control is even more important than in years with normal rainfall.

According to Dr. William Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware, effective weed control nearly tripled 1966 corn yields at the University's Georgetown Substation. The same effective weed control only increased 1965 yields by 19 percent. Water made the difference; there was lots of it in 1965 and a record scarcity in 1966.

Mitchell reported on these findings at the Northeastern Weed Control Conference held recently in New York. He said the most effective weed control treatments tested at the Substation were atrazine, knickweed or roundup as pre-emergence treatments for early weed control, followed by lora or 2, 4-D as directed, lay-by sprays.

Mitchell says that previous work showed that during dry periods the effectiveness of herbicides such as atrazine improved by mixing it in the surface soil. This practice also keeps down the loss of nitrogen into the atmosphere.

To test the advantages of incorporation of liquid nitrogen-herbicide mixtures, a rotary hoe was used immediately after the application. According to Mitchell, atrazine controlled weeds just as effectively when the rotary hot was used, despite nearly two inches of rain within the next two days. All other tested herbicides showed some reduction in activity from the mixing into the soil.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

(Quoting 25th anniversary 1939-1964 Report)

LITTLE LEAGUE FOUNDATION

"To support the work of Little League
 And help it grow
 Is to build a memorial
 Not of stone or marble
 But a memorial
 That can be found in the eyes of a boy
 And in his hopes for the future."

"The great hope for Little League in the years ahead is its capacity to extend good leadership."

Harrington, though lacking miserably in our attendance (in the past) has been blessed with good leadership, and we are not going to let them down. Busy businessmen giving graciously of their time, expense and effort to insure a better future for our sons, grandsons and nephews.
 They'll be at the banquet, and we had better be.

Admission is only two dollars for the family.
 So, mothers, don't feed the family tomorrow evening,
 and Dad, bring them along so no one might say:

What sort of father are you to your son
 Do you know if your standing is good
 Do you ever take stock of yourself and check up
 You account with him as you should?

What sort of memory of you will he have
 In the days that are certain to come.
 Shall he look back on his youth as a season of joy
 Or an age that was woefully glum

Check up on yourself and consider the lad,
 Your time and your thoughts are his due
 How would you answer your God should he ask,
 What sort of a father are you?

Discover Wonderful Del.

It's a wonder of Wonderful Delaware how many golfers you'll find on the links in below-freezing or snowy weather.
 Some of them will even paint
 the ball red and carry a hand-warmer to thaw a little live-liness into it, and there they are,
 with mittens and boots, on days
 that you or I would rather spend toasting by a nice fireplace.

Nearly all of Delaware's golf courses keep open all winter
 long; and with a little planning, and maybe a drive up or down
 state, there's hardly a day that an ardent fan can't get in a game somewhere. Of course there are days when the ground is just too wet, and days when the snow is just too deep, but managers of clubs up and down the state estimate that not more than 12 or 14 days a winter are that bad.

Here's what the different clubs
 report:

Rock Manor, near Concord Pike at Wilmington, one of the only two public courses in the state, is probably the busiest place. They have a group of men who call themselves the "Sweepstakers" who play almost every day. If it is clear and not too cold, there may be as many as six or seven foursomes playing, (particularly, of course, on weekends). The only time Rock Manor is closed is when it's under deep snow, and as soon as the course opened after the big Christmas snow
 two men were there playing with colored golf balls and using a toboggan to carry their clubs.

It's quite a feather in Rock Manor's cap, that in spite of the freeway construction that's taken part of their land, they've managed to keep a good 18-hole course going all along. The entrance, by the way, is around the corner on Weldin Road now.

Greenhill, the other public course, on DuPont Road, is open except when it's wet or when there's snow on the ground. The management at Greenhill says that quite often people come in very cold weather just to get out and get a bit of exercise - sometime playing only about six holes.

Brandywine Country Club, at Talleyville, is open all winter,
 depending entirely on the weather.
 Many of Brandywine's
 members like to use golf carts,
 and these can't be used when
 the course is too wet.

Cavaliers Country Club, on Churchman's Road, near Newark, is open all winter. They estimate that last year the course was only closed 12 to 14 days.

The duPont Country Club, for duPont employees and their families, has four courses, three of which are being kept open all winter. Temporary greens and temporary tees are provided for times when the ground is wet,

so that it's only about three weekends a year that the courses have to be closed because of deep snow or water and ice on the surface. People play there in any weather - even when it is's down to 18 or colder.

Hercules Country Club, for Hercules employees, is almost never closed - the course is very hilly, so that wet ground isn't much of a problem. And when there's too much snow for golf,
 it's one of the more popular sledding places around Wilmington.

The Wilmington Country Club,
 on Kennett Pike, is open all the time, and only deep snow prevents play. Temporary greens are provided for wet weather,
 and golf carts aren't allowed
 when the ground is too soft.

In Kent County, Garrison's
 Lake Golf Course on Route 13
 south of Smyrna is open all year round, and can be played unless it's too deep in snow.

At Maple Dale Country Club
 near Dover they play all winter.
 They estimate they lost
 only two and a half weeks because of snow. The course is well-drained, and the greens are good in the winter. Sometimes in winter they change around and play the course backward, or switch from one fairway to another to avoid the deep snow.
 The course at Dover Air Force Base is open all winter, but not used when there is snow on the ground. They feel it's too cold
 then anyway.

In Sussex County, the Shawnee Country Club near Milford is open all winter, and the management estimates that they have more good playing days than any other course. It's well-drained, so that wet ground is not a problem.

The Rehoboth Beach Country
 Club's two courses are open all winter, except when there is snow or heavy rain or when the course is extremely wet. Since they're right on the bay, they have installed an elaborate drainage system which enables them to drain off the extra water and at the same time keep the salt water from ruining the grass.
 They expect to lose not more than two weeks of playing days
 in a winter.

The Seaford Golf and Country Club has a well-drained course,
 and they have temporary greens for the worst weather. Their chief problem is in the alternate freezing and thawing during January and February.
 People play in the snow there,
 too, using red or green balls.
 Seaford also has two ice-skating ponds, a driving range, and a "pitch and put", so that if you can't play golf, there's something else to do outdoors.

That's quite a wonder of Wonderful Delaware - to discover 13 golf courses open all winter,
 and with people playing golf nearly every day.

Vaughn Named
 Dev. Specialist

Gerald F. Vaughn has been named coordinator of rural community and resource development by the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Delaware. Vaughn, who earned his master's degree from the University in 1962, holds a joint appointment in the College of Agricultural Sciences and the University's Division of Urban Affairs.

In announcing the appointment, Dr. Samuel M. Gwinn, extension service director, said Vaughn will complement other extension and research activities of the college on rural-urban fringe populations and land use,
 and in studying and developing the economic aspects of the state's agricultural potential. He said Vaughn's academic training and experience in rural-urban fringe areas will enable the university to improve and intensify its programs through which state and local governments, industry and farm groups, civic groups
 and others, secure technical advice and assistance on rural community and resource development programs.

Vaughn, 28, a native of Salisbury, Md., received a BS degree from the University of Maryland.
 As an employee of the U. S. Department of Agriculture between 1960 and 1963, he conducted research on land use in rural-urban fringe areas in cooperation with the University of Delaware. He was employed by Texas A&M University in 1963 to initiate an adult education program on the effects of urban expansion on rural areas. Since 1964 he has led the land use research program of the State Planning Department of Maryland.

 young people with recognized talent and a good background in

 is offering two scholarships in music to be held in the department of music on Sat., Feb. 18. Students interested in applying for one of these scholarships should write at once to the Director of Admissions, Wesley College, Dover,

Development Dept. To Assist In Travel Shows

The Delaware State Development Department's Travel Division announces that the State of Delaware will participate in three major travel shows during 1967.

The three most productive shows of last year's participation were chosen for this year's effort. The Pennsylvania Sports
 Travel and Vacation Show held in Harrisburg will be the first covering the dates of February 13th through the 18th. The show held in the Farm Show Building will feature 200 square feet of space designed to invite the public to "Discover Wonderful Delaware." Exhibiting with the State of Delaware will be Rehoboth Beach Chamber of Commerce and the Cape May-Lewes Ferry.

The second show of the season will be the International Sports
 Travel and Vacation Show held in the National Armory in Washington, D.C., between April
 4th and the 9th. The Delaware State Development Department will occupy approximately 100 square feet of floor space in this show along with other Delaware exhibitors making a total space approximately 500 square feet. The Washington show is a most important one to Delaware because of the number of people from that area
 coming into Delaware to enjoy its beaches and other outdoor recreation. Rehoboth uses the nickname "The Nation's Summer Capitol" because of its popularity in Washington.

Delaware will go international again this year by participating in the 1967 Canadian National Exhibition to be held in Toronto from mid-August to Labor Day. Delaware's participation in this show last year marked the first time the state had ever participated in a travel show outside of the continental United States.

Social Security
 News

by W. J. Bulkley

Older people who have paid
 doctor bills but have not yet claimed their medicare doctor bill insurance payments are invited to have their claims check-ed by the Dover social security office before mailing them to the medicare carrier, according to W. J. Bulkley, district manager.

"In the first six months of the medicare program some benefit payments were delayed because the applicants did not include all the necessary information with their claims," he said.

Bulkley believes that most people will need this help only the first time they make a medical insurance claim. "The Medicare Handbook, which is given to all beneficiaries, explains how to make the claims," he said,
 "and the form is relatively simple, but most people can use some advice the first time they apply. We're glad to offer assistance, and we believe we can help many people to avoid some delay in their payments."

In Delaware medicare doctor
 bill insurance is handled by Blue Cross-Blue Shield in Wilmington.

The same simple one-page request for payment form is mailed to the carrier no matter what the payment is to go to the patient or to the doctor. Doctors' offices, accustomed to filling out insurance forms, should have no difficulty providing the few items of information requested. But handling of forms received directly from medicare beneficiaries is sometimes delayed because some essential item of information has been omitted.

"The social security office does not make the decision or pay the claim," Bulkley said. "The law requires that the payments be handled through the selected medicare carriers. But we can answer general questions about medicare and help people get their applications ready for review by the carrier."

"If an older person cannot visit the social security office in person, he can send the forms
 by mail or by someone else," he said, "but in this case, he should be sure to give his telephone number."

The Dover social security office is located at 230 W. Lookeman Street. The phone number is 674-3610.

sis from Westminster Choir College, and has done additional graduate work at Western Michigan University and the Peabody Conservatory. He teaches history of music and voice.

Winners of the audition will be enrolled in the fall of 1967 as music majors in a program widely recognized for its excellence
 leading to the Associate in Arts degrees. Last year's winners, now in the midst of their first collegiate year, are Suzan Levens,
 of Media, Pa., and Marilyn Creighton, of Ocean City, N. J.

SBA Loan Program Available All Over State

The Small Business Administration's Economic Opportunity Loan program is now available throughout Delaware, it was announced by William T. Gennetti, SBA regional director.

The loans will be made to existing and new businesses by SBA's Regional Office at 1015 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia; the Dover Branch Office, 21 The Green, Dover, and by 72 other SBA field offices throughout the nation. Previously the program was available on a limited basis in 44 communities.

To find those low-income and other handicapped people with the best potential to successfully operate a business, SBA will work closely with community action agencies, neighborhood centers, regional organizations and other groups throughout the State, Mr. Gennetti said. These organizations also will be asked to assist in providing volunteers from the business community to work with SBA personnel in providing management assistance to loan recipients.

In announcing the expanded loan program in Washington, SBA Administrator Bernard L. Boutin said:

"We do not intend to make bad loans under this program, but neither do we intend to set up inflexible road-blocks. Our people will go out into the ghetto areas in the cities, to the poor sections on the peripheries of the suburbs and to the rural areas. We will look for the loans which can expand viable businesses, exploit new ideas, establish small manufacturing plants—the kinds of businesses which can have a healthy effect on the community, which can expand employment opportunities, which can stimulate the economy and be in concert with our national goals.

"And, we intend to work closely in the EOL program with local groups, such as community action agencies and neighborhood centers, as well as with areas and regional organizations devoted to stimulating the development of the disadvantaged and lower-income groups. Wherever authorized by the Office of Economic Opportunity, SBA will cooperate with Small Business Development Centers in providing counseling, guidance and management training. SBDCs shall refer applicants for financial assistance, coming to their attention, to SBA.

"In addition, SBA will make available to EOL recipients all of our management assistance tools in a combined effort to assure the success of these small businesses."

A key feature of the expanded EOL program is that it will also seek to assist for the first time those who are above the poverty level, and yet cannot qualify for SBA's regular business loan program. "For too long," said Boutin, "this group of people has been in a sort of financial no-man's land. We intend to help them."

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Louberton

Oranges are receiving the red carpet treatment during this period of great supply. The orange crop this year is a record breaker — 18.3 million boxes large, over 39 million more than last year and about 49 percent above average.

Remember in serving oranges that they're one of the main sources of vitamin C. Because they are eaten uncooked for the most part, oranges stand out among all other fruits and veget- ables that have this important nutrient. Don't forget vitamin C is noted for helping develop and maintain body cells.

Be a wise shopper when you are selecting the oranges you buy. This will assure you of top value for the money you spend. Oranges of best quality are firm, heavy for their size, and have good color and reasonably fine textured skin for the variety. Fuffy or spongy oranges are apt to be light in weight, thus lack- ing juice.

As far as other fruits are con- cerned, this is the way it looks this week. You can get good buys on grapefruit. Either red or white varieties are available. They come with or without seeds. A good supply of tangerines is still on hand, and apple vari- eties on sale include Red and Gold Delicious, McIntosh, and York. Bananas are in better supply with prices varying. To end the list are grapes, pears, and avoc- ados.

Fresh tomatoes provide a bright spot at the vegetable counter. Prices have dropped on all types; loose, cartoned, etc. Tomato fields in the prime pro- ducing area in south Florida are said to be the finest on record. Sizes so far are on the small side but should increase as the season progresses.

A few other vegetables are cheaper this week. Celery, corn, green onions and yellow squash have dropped a penny or so. However, on the other side of the ledger are broccoli, cabbage, radishes, kale, carrots, and spin- ach.

There have been rapid changes in the pork market over the past two weeks; after hog deliv- eries were held back on farms for income tax purposes and the extended holiday, deliveries at the end of the first week in January jumped to the largest number since October. But the increased demand has readily ab- sorbed supplies and wholesale prices this week are higher than they have been. Even though the cost at wholesale has in- creased, there are some excel- lent buys available due to store specials.

Beef prices are about steady. A number of specials feature chuck cuts. Frying chickens re- main very reasonable, as well as turkeys and stewing hens — all three are kind to the budget this week.

Parents, support your youth. Plan to attend the Kent County 4-H Public Speaking Contest.

Hear what our youth have to say on current topics. 4-H members from 9 to 18 will compete for honors. That's at the Capital Grange Hall, Sat., Jan. 21, 7:30 p.m.

Earl Clinton called the leaders to order this past week at their monthly meeting. A lively discus- sion developed on our Talent Show and its future. 4-H'ers who have ideas as to how to improve this activity should discuss this with their local club leaders.

Foods and food judging guides are available for leaders and Ju- nior leaders to set-up practice sessions. These were distributed at the leaders meeting and those not attending may request them from the 4-H club office.

Kent Light Horse club mem- bers will gather on Friday, Jan. 20 at the Capital Grange for their annual parents' evening. Dr. George Morrow will talk to the club. Mrs. Bea Campbell, local club leader, expects a large group. Among the recognitions that will be presented the club awards plaques to two parents who have supported the club dur- ing the past year. A nice idea, as parents are vital to 4-H.

Pot Au Feu or Ragout It's All the Same—Stew

January's food budget is often caught in the squeeze between high food prices and the need to budget for remaining holiday bills. Protein usually accounts for a large proportion of any food budget, so economizing on meat and fish is a good way to "ease the squeeze."

According to Miss Marguerite Krackhardt, extension foods and nutrition specialist at the Uni- versity of Delaware, even with today's prices, you can econom- ize on meat. A little more time spent cooking and a dash of spices and imagination — can turn less tender, less expensive cuts of meat into a family-pleas- ing dinner.

Those less tender cuts of meat require slow, gentle cooking in moist heats by braising, stewing or cooking in water. In braising, the meat is first browned, then seasonings and a small amount of liquid are added and the meat is cooked, covered, until tender.

Small pieces of less tender cuts of meat are used for stew- ing. More liquid is added than used for braising and vegetables are added during the last part of the cooking.

Larger pieces of meat can be cooked in water as the first step in making soup. If you want to, you can brown the meat before adding water, seasonings and vegetables.

Miss Krackhardt points out that shoulder and arm cuts, round steaks and roasts, breast and shank meat and frozen fish are generally low to medium priced cuts. Less meaty cuts such as short ribs and shank meat can be combined with beans — limas, navy or pea beans — to boost the protein content of the main dish.

To get meals out of the mid- winter doldrums, try a few new dishes — sauerbraten, sweet and sour pork, short ribs and limas or fish filets baked with cheese or tomato sauce. How about making a ragout or pot au feu — doesn't that sound more adventurous than a plain stew? Actually they are just different names for the same delicious economical main dish.

When you make that stew — whether you call it a ragout or not — adventuresome. Try a new seasoning; Miss Krackhardt suggests using either curry powder, ginger, mace, rosemary, chili powder or dry mustard to add a new taste. Sliced black or green olives also add to flavor and appearance.

How about trying a different vegetable too? Your family might enjoy a stew with egg- plant, Chinese cabbage, yellow turnip or parsnips added to the usual carrots and tomatoes. In fact, stews are a good way to introduce a new vegetable to the family since the flavors are so well blended together.

Take advantage of another characteristic of meat, spice and vegetable combinations, Miss Krackhardt recommends. Cook them a few hours ahead of time so the flavors have a chance to blend well. Many dishes seem to taste best after standing cooked for a few hours in the refrigerator. No matter what spices or veg- etables you prefer, or which less-tender cuts of meat you use, the principles of moist cookery are the same. And, the results are the same, too. A delicious, nu- tritious main dish that's easy on the budget.

New Man at U. of D. Works On Mushroom Study

Mushrooms add a tasty flair to the simplest dish. What makes them taste so good is the subject of research at the University of Delaware, according to Dr. Mil- lard C. Calhoun assistant profes- sor in animal science and agri- cultural biochemistry at the Uni- versity. Calhoun's appointment to the post was announced by Dr. Morris Cover, chairman of the department.

Modern handling and process- ing methods help insure flavor- ful mushrooms. However, the characteristic mushroom flavor is elusive and delicate as well as delicious and it sometimes varies with changing growth conditions or processing methods. Calhoun will work to determine exactly what makes a mushroom taste the way it does.

Once he has found and identi- fied the specific chemicals that give mushrooms their flavor, Cal- houn will be able to compare mushrooms that have been grown or processed differently. Refinements in processing will be checked for the flavor changes they may produce in addition to any cost or efficiency improvement, Calhoun says.

This research, sponsored by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, is directed at improving mush- room flavor and nutrition to benefit consumers and local growers alike. Growers in Dela- ware, Maryland and south-east- ern Pennsylvania account for over 65 per cent of the commercial mushroom production in the United States. Calhoun, a native of Green- wood, received his bachelor of science degree in 1958 and mas- ter of science degree in 1960, both in animal science from the Uni- versity of Delaware. He will re- ceive his Doctor of Philosophy degree in animal nutrition and biochemistry from the University of Connecticut, Storrs, in 1967. He is a member of Sigma Xi, honorary science fraternity and Alpha Zeta, honorary agricul- tural fraternity.

Lion Cagers Win First, At John M. Clayton

Jim Hawpe's Harrington High basketball Lions made the win column for the first time this season, when a Tuesday night trip to John M. Clayton High School in Dagsboro, resulted in a 63-45 victory. If memory is correct, the host Bears have not won a game since the 1963-64 season.

Harrington outscored the Bears in every period but did not have a substantial lead until tabbing a 20-12 edge in the third quarter. Going into the last period H.H.S. was in front 43-30.

Four Lions made double figures, led by Bill Moore with 15. John Swain added 14. Nick Morris and Erloy Hendricks contributed a dozen each.

Foresters Club Rebels, 79-58

Greenwood's Foresters now own a 3-3 Henlopen mark after an easy victory over Selbyville's Rebels on Tuesday night. A 31-point explosion in the second period was the most productive period in the league that night. Selbyville mounted a mild threat by getting within ten points in the second half, but Greenwood had little trouble in drawing away again.

The Foresters 33-25 field goal bulge was augmented by a 13-8 decision in the free throw department.

Greenwood's Maurice Hughes is currently the state scoring leader. His 23 points paced the winners. Frank Spence (16), Tallent (13) and Wyatt (10) were other Foresters in double figures.

Bridgeville Beats Greenwood, 87-69

Bridgeville's undefeated Mustangs parlayed a hot night at the foul line and a sizzling first quarter into an 87-69 victory over Greenwood on Friday night.

The Mustangs led 19-6 after one period but were able to add only five more points to that lead over the final three periods.

Greenwood trailed by only 30-28 in action totes, but Bridgeville drew more foul tries than any other team in the 12-team Henlopen Conference Friday night (35) and missed only eight.

The Mustangs had five players in double figures. For Greenwood, Maurice Hughes had a game high of 26 points, followed by Frank Spence with 13 and Steve Tallent with 10.

The winners' canned 27 field goals to win the 25 points, followed by Bradley (11) and Lloyd Shelman with 10. Andy Raymond led Rehoboth with 18 tallies.

Bob "Red" Dill, of Felton, was in third place in the state scoring race going into the contest. His average of 22.4 points per game was bettered only by Greenwood's Maurice Hughes, who had 23.5. Dill had only eight points against Rehoboth, as Coach Charley Neal used 12 players.

Lion Grapplers Crush Holy Cross To Reach .500

Bill Muehleisen's Harrington High wrestling Lions, lost early-season matches to Seaford and Georgetown but are back to .500 with victories over Dover High and Holy Cross of Dover.

In the latter test, the locals smothered the Crusaders, 51-2, by winning 11 bouts and tying one. The Lions won eight weight classes by pins, including a stretch of six straight, from 103 to 138, inclusive.

Chuck Hurd, 95 pounds, won a lop-sided 15-0 decision over Mag Majka; Rick Welch (103) and Mike Adams (112) had a lovely time, as Rick pinned B. Love, and Mike flattened T. Love, both in Round 2.

120 Pounder Roger Klapp won by a fall over Hoey. Allan Greenly, at 127, is one of the Lions' most experienced gripsters. Coach Muehleisen felt that caution should be tossed to the winds against McFadden of Holy Cross. Greenly was given the green light and had the Crusader, hors de combat in 31 seconds, the shortest match of the evening.

Freshman Louis Kemp's first varsity triumph was a 3:06 pin of Hodukavich. Roger Bullock (138) pinned Fisher. Steve Welch, the Lions 138 pounder, moved up to 145 and decided Gentile, one of the better visitors, by 8-0.

After Roger Moore (154) out-pointed Poling 6-0, the Crusaders' Arrigenna lasted 5 minutes and 11 seconds with Bill Webb, only 49 seconds away from going the route. The muscular Arrigenna is another of the visitors' top performers.

Bob Donovan, the Lions' 170-pound - 160 pounder, got a draw with Smith. The Crusader received one warning for stalling and was hanging on at the end. It is felt, that if Harrington had not had a 44-0 lead at the time, Smith would have been penalized a point for stalling and Donovan would have been the winner.

Ed Wheatley ended the near-perfect performance with a 3:46 flattening of Peacher.

Tonight, the Lions entertain a strong Smyrna team.

White, Wetherhold, R. Morris, Vie at Dela. Fieldhouse

Jim White, Chris Wetherhold and Ron Morris, three fleet Harrington youngsters, acquitted themselves nobly in the first indoor school-age track meet ever held at the impressive University of Delaware Fieldhouse.

This giant, brand-new structure, adjacent to the Delaware football stadium, contains a beautiful, fast, one-eighth of a mile tartan track. The cork-rubber-asphalt surface is springy and conducive to fast times. This writer has been a spectator at several indoor track meets, including ones held at New York's Madison Square Garden and the Arena in Cleveland. Delaware's setup is only eight laps to the mile compared to 10, 11 and 12 laps to the mile at most indoor arenas. At Newark much longer straightaways give plenty of "racing room".

White and Morris have worked out a few times lately, trying to get an early start on the outdoor track season, which will see most of the best performers practicing by the first of March. White, a last minute entrant at Newark Friday night, did not have the light, cross-country shoes with him and had to go with the heavier, basketball shoes. Pinched in at the start of the quarter-mile run, "Big Jim" saw an opening after 100 yards and breezed into second place.

He held that position despite a closing rush by Dover's stellar Mike Patterson. White's time of 54.6 is only one second off Jim Schiff's 1959 H.H.S. school record effort of 53.6. He should set a new mark, possibly 52+, by the end of May.

Chris Wetherhold, a 13-year-old eighth grade student, hasn't been running much since the wrestlers went indoors. Nevertheless, the junior high student took on nine high schoolers and trimmed four of them en route to a 5:20 mile. Chris will probably break five minutes outdoors this spring.

Ron Morris had to wear the heavier shoes, also, in the two mile run, but came on strong to grab fourth place in 11:50. This is great time for January.

Two more track meets will be held at Delaware Fieldhouse on February 17 and 24. With a month to get in much better shape, we wouldn't be surprised to see the above trio and a few more localities, turning in some record efforts.

Dick Hall To Speak At Little League Banquet

Dick Hall, relief pitcher for the World Champion Baltimore Orioles last season, will be guest speaker at the annual Little League banquet in the Harrington High School cafeteria at 6:30 tomorrow evening, Saturday, Jan. 21st. Admission, $2 per family.

Although bothered periodically with arm trouble during the 1966 season, Dick won six games and saved seven others for the pennant-winning Orioles. He appeared in 31 games, all in relief.

Dick ranks as one of the best control pitchers in the majors and walked only eight batters—four intentionally—while herling 68 innings this past season. He won three decisions against the New York Yankees and yielded only three runs in 14 innings.

Dick, a graduate of Swarthmore College and an accountant in the off-season, serves as player representative for the Orioles and represents the players on the Major League Player Pension Committee. His home is in Lutherville, a suburb of Baltimore.

1966 Record
Won 6; lost 2; innings pitched, 66; strikeouts, 43; base on balls, 8; and earned run average, 3.05. For further details, see "Little League Foundation," in Paradise Pasture column.

Felton Trips Improving Lions, 60-49.

Jim Hawpe's inexperienced H.S. basketball team, is still winless, but looks better every game. If they continue to improve, they the going to knock somebody off one of these nights.

Felton came here Friday night to face a unit made up of a 1966 varsity substitute, a lad who didn't play basketball until this year and three of last winter's jayvees. The Green Devils took a 60-49 verdict by turning in a strong 18-9 third quarter edge. H. H.S. played on virtually even terms with the visitors, otherwise. The Lions had a one point bulge in both the second and fourth periods. Felton held a narrow 29-26 lead at halftime.

The victors iced the contest by sinking 23 field goals to 17 for the locals. The number of foul shots taken and made were practically identical for each quintet.

High scoring Bob "Red" Dill was the only Devil in double figures, as he canned 28, to again lead the entire 12-team Henlopen Conference, in Friday night's play.

Erloy Hendricks was top Lion with 16 points. The aggressive Nick Morris tallied 13.

Lord Baltimore plays here tonight, Jan. 20.

Harrington Bowling League

In this week's action, Wally's Garage just won't let up, moving four more games out in front. Now leading by eight games, with that many more to play, it looks as if it's all over except for the shouting. There just doesn't seem to be a team around that can stop them. But, you never can tell, as there are some teams acting the part of the spoiler.

Taylor & Messick found that out this week when they bowled against last week's fourth place Kent Gas. Kent Gas solidly trounced Taylor & Messick, taking all four games from them. This just about killed any hopes Taylor & Messick had of catching the leader, as it put them eight games behind. With this feat, Kent Gas moved up from the number four spot to a tie for second place with Taylor & Messick.

McKnat Funeral Home, which had been tied with Kent Gas for the past couple weeks, could not keep pace this week and remained in the number four spot.

Jarrell Fuel moved up another notch this week, from sixth to fifth place.

Hamilton Fund, who did real well up until last week, can't seem to stop sliding, as they lost all four games to drop from third to sixth in the ten-team league.

Well, just look at the high games this week. We see some new names in both columns, as the pressure is really being turned on.

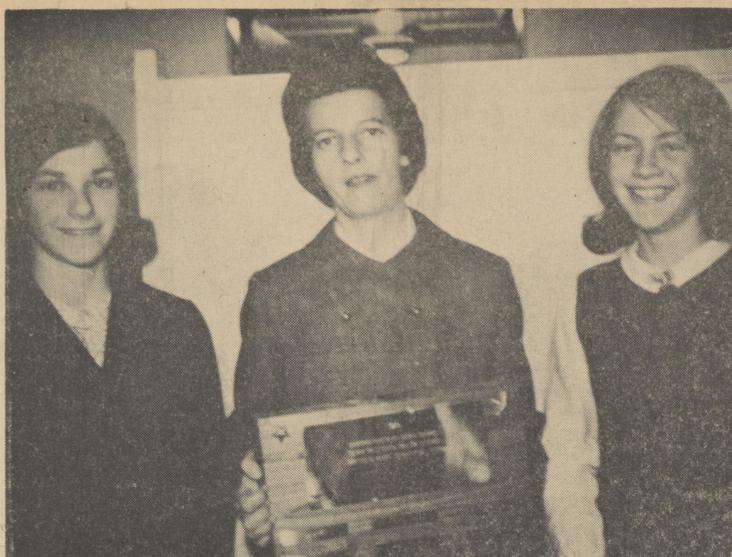

H. Tribbitt led all bowlers in the high game department with two games over 200; rolling games of 221 and 208. He also had a good series of 557.

G. Wright also rolled a fine 221 game, followed by L. Wheeler with a game of 213. Wheeler also had a very fine high series of 564.

I. Hoffman had a good 212 game, with C. Gallo and W. Ryan, games of 210. Hoffman also made the series column with a series of 537.

We knew it couldn't last forever, as a Collins finally made it in the scoring column again. It was G. Collins this time with a 204 game and a good 541 series. H. Jack also had a 204 game.

K. Layton led in the high series department with a very good 567 series.

Army Gives Free Copy of "Your Son's Future"

Parents are invited to pick up a free copy of "Your Son's Future" at the U.S. Army Recruiting Station, 218 S. Governor Ave., Dover.

Sergeant Walter R. Frazier, local Army Recruiter, emphasizes that 9 out of 10 qualified young men today face a military obligation.

With this in mind, the United States Army designed a booklet especially for the parents, in order that they may be better informed and in turn help their son to make an intelligent decision about his military obligation and his civilian career.

The publication also explores the more than 300 school courses that are available through enrollment in the United States Army.

His choice is guaranteed to him in writing, before he enlists, added Sergeant Frazier.

The U.S. Army Recruiting Station is normally open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday and Saturday, 9-12 noon. For an appointment call 734-6937 or 674-1360.
