

RACE TRACK PLANS SCHEDULED FOR FEB. 15

Plans for an improved Kent & Sussex Raceway will be received by February 15, George C. Simpson, general manager, said yesterday.

He explained the architect, Lionel Levy, of New York, who had been in the hospital, had assured him of the delivery date for the plans. Bids will then be solicited after the contractors have had time to study the plans.

Kent and Sussex is scheduled to open an unprecedented 60-night meeting Sept. 14 and run thru Nov. 11.

"Everything is running on schedule," commented Simpson. "We sustained some slight delay in negotiations with the Securities Exchange Commission, but nothing that would jeopardize the project in any way."

"We've deliberately delayed start on track reconstruction as a favor to the many horsemen we have in winter training here. We have more than 500 horses stabled on the grounds, far exceeding that of any other year. It wouldn't be fair to cut short their stays by tearing up the track surface. William Penn opens its meet at Liberty Bell March 3 and runs to April 15. Many of the tenants we now have will be going there."

He added some 200 to 250 horses will be leaving after March 1, and that the Maryland Circuit and some New York tracks will be operating after March 15.

Contractors have assured Simpson that work on widening the local track to accommodate eight horses abreast can be completed in six weeks, barring adverse weather delays.

Track president, J. Gordon Smith, has already indicated to Harness Racing Commission members that the track will be ready for use by the Delaware State Fair in late July.

Widening of the track will necessitate closing the public road at the west end of the grounds. "We've received confirmation from the State Highway Department to proceed," Simpson pointed out, "and will construct new access roadways as the track is completed."

Plans for construction of a 100-horse paddock area at the west end still are flexible, Simpson explained, adding that this likely was a future project to be realized as finances became available.

"We'd rather delay this portion of the long-range plan and have it done well, than to skimp and have only a makeshift facility."

Kent and Sussex will retain the outer perimeter of the existing track at its east end and still retain turns two degrees wider than Brandywine's.

A lake and fountain area in the track infield will depend largely on construction needs.

"It'll become a reality if we need the dirt for fill," says Simpson, adding that the lake would be integrated as a part of the track drainage system.

Included in the expansion and renovation project is construction of a glass-enclosed clubhouse with seating capacity for 450 patrons. The present grandstand, to be glass-enclosed on the lower level, will be expanded to accommodate an additional 2,000 customers, pushing the overall total near the 6,000 mark. Back-wall wagering facilities will be installed.

Widening of the track to accommodate eight horses abreast meets with pressing demands of the United States Trotting Association. The Harrington oval had come under sharp criticism in recent years for the two-tier starts necessitated by its narrowness. Only six horses could start in the front row on the existing track.

"All plans are subject to the final approval of the Commission," said Smith.

Canning Concern Files Suit in Fire

Bramble Canning Corp., of Greenwood, charges in a damage suit that negligence by the Messick & Gray Construction Inc., Bridgeville, caused a destructive fire at a Bramble warehouse last Feb. 4.

The suit, filed in Superior Court, in Wilmington, accuses Messick & Gray of careless use of acetylene gas torches which, according to the complaint, caused a fire in the loft area of Bramble's main factory storage building.

The construction company had been using the torches for cutting in the immediate area of the fire, where a large conveyor belt was being removed, the suit claims.

Messick & Gray employees were negligent, the suit charges, in that they failed to shield floorboards and other flammable material from sparks.

The suit charges that other negligence was the construction company's failure to extinguish the sparks; inspect the work after completing it; close cut openings in the roof which permitted a draft to fan the sparks; and "perform the work in a proper, prudent and craftsmanlike manner," according to prevailing industrial standards.

As a result, the suit claims, the buildings, along with equipment and inventory, were damaged to the extent of $38,281.

The complaint — filed by William F. Taylor and Ben T. Castle, Wilmington attorneys — asks for judgment against Messick & Gray for that amount, plus interests and costs.

J. P. Court Changes Are Proposed

Joint Finance Committee members asked the administrator of the magistrate system Tuesday to draft two bills to improve the operation of the system.

One of the bills would give the justices of the peace statewide jurisdiction.

Each justice now may hear cases originating only in the county to which he is assigned and this limitation has drawn complaints from committee members from all three counties.

Rep. Lewis B. Harrington, D-Milford, pointed out that, since the Milford magistrate court is on the Sussex side of the divided city, any suit against a person living on the Kent County side of Milford must be originated in the court in Harrington.

A similar problem exists in the Smyrna court, which is just south of the New Castle County line.

George Gray Thouron, the administrator of the system, said he has been bothered by the restriction and agreed to try to draft a bill to end it.

The other bill he will draft would change a provision in the law concerning wage attachments, which is now being violated by the courts and everyone else concerned, according to Thouron.

The law now requires an attachment against wages to be served on the employer each pay period until the debt is satisfied.

In practice, however, the attachment is served only once and the employer then makes regular deductions from the paychecks until the amount is paid.

Thouron said this saves a considerable amount of court costs and mileage fees which the defendant would have to pay if the law were followed to the letter.

Nearly 95 delegates from 4-H and FFA clubs in 28 states will go to the four-day event. The sessions were designed to explain career opportunities in the poultry industry. ## Terry Picks Topel For Housing Post

Henry Topel, Wilmington real estate broker and development planner, has been appointed to the State Board of Housing, Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr., announced Tuesday.

The governor also announced Tuesday the appointment of new members to the State Fire Prevention Commission and the State Board of Barber Examiners.

The three appointments, however, hardly made a dent in the number of positions the governor must fill. The latest count showed 102 vacancies on the various state boards and commissions.

Topel will fill the unexpired term of Water Barczewski, who resigned. The term extends to July 1, 1968. The five-member board exists principally to certify to the need for creation of a new housing authority or to change the area of operation of an existing one. It has responsibility under the law to make certain studies of housing conditions, but has no appropriation.

Topel said he is interested in the fact that limited dividend housing corporations may be set up under the board's supervision. He thinks such a corporation could help fill housing needs.

He runs a real estate office in Wilmington, is treasurer of El Captain Motel, and was the planner of Electra Arms Apartments. Topel is a Democrat. He lives in Green Acres with his wife and two sons.

Appointed to the fire commission was Ralph H. Boyer of 332 Monroe Terrace Dover. Boyer replaces Luther Adkins, also of Dover, who resigned. Boyer's term will end May 5, 1969.

Robert Wilkerson of 2308 Market St., Wilmington, was named to the barber examiner's board for a three-year term. He replaces the late Thomas Ignudo of Wilmington.

Delmarva Sun & Fish Show To Be Held at Rehoboth

The first signs of summer will hopefully, appear in Rehoboth Beach on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, Feb. 17-19, when the Chamber of Commerce will sponsor its first Delmarva Sun and Fun Show in the Convention and Civic auditorium.

Chairman J. Paul Rodgers said this week that an attempt will be made to assemble boats, outdoor equipment of all kinds, accessories, fishing gear and summer clothing so that people from the entire Peninsula may prevent the new lines and start thinking about vacation plans.

Invitations have been extended to more than 100 wholesalers and purveyors of various types of merchandise and equipment to participate in a show that will have approximately 25 display areas.

It is expected that Friday evening will be prelude night, and some form of entertainment and possibly a bathing suit fashion show will be highlights of the affair. Present plans call for an "open house" presentation without sale of tickets.

Rodgers said that neighboring cities have staged similar events with success for years, but people from the Delmarva Peninsula must travel great distance if they want to participate. Since the civic auditorium is adaptable to shows of this kind, the Chamber of Commerce felt it could develop this into an interesting annual affair.

Entries are just starting to come in, Rodgers said, but he feels there will be a sellout and good attendance if the weather cooperates.

Shepherd Stevenson, named chairman of the committee to run the campaign, said he believes the organizations should be able to raise as much as $50,000 dollars to aid the victims of the twister. He said his lodge realized that insurance may not cover all losses sustained in the storm.

Four houses and a service-station were destroyed in the tornado and eleven other structures damaged.

"We want to get them back where they were at 1 o'clock Friday Stevenson said.

The meeting, to which organizations will be invited by letter, will be held at 8 p.m. at the Odd Fellows Lodge Hall on Main Street, Felton.

Peninsula Develop. Part Of Farm - Home Week

The value of city planning and county-wide planning is widely recognized. Planning for the economic growth of the entire Delmarva Peninsula is equally important, according to the Delmarva Advisory Council. The Council is trying to find ways to guide economic growth on the peninsula that that it will yield maximum benefits to all Delmarva people.

Council members will summarize their suggestions at a resource development session held Wednesday morning, Feb. 8. The meeting is part of the University of Delaware's annual Farm and Home Week, Feb. 7, 8, and 9.

J. Worthington Thompson, council executive director; R. Scott Wilson, deputy director; Roy Tolbert, director of tourism; and A. L. Fleming, economic consultant, will report at the meeting. A discussion session with questions from the audience will follow the report.

Among the suggestions the council expects to discuss are coordinated planning for Delmarva, tourism and manpower development with the major effort directed to upgrading human skills. They favor promoting a high grade of employers and providing the skilled labor they would need. The council may also suggest an overall transportation study of water and highway arteries.

The University's Farm and Home Week, held Feb. 7, 8 and 9, will also include programs on dairy and beef cattle, agronomy, fruits, vegetables, potatoes, home gardening and home economics. The Thursday schedule will feature a special program on light horses. All programs are open to the public without charge.

The Golden Opportunity Center delivered fifty new travel information racks to the Development Department for distribution throughout the state for the display of travel literature.

"The new racks were ordered from the Golden Opportunity Center last fall," stated Samuel L. Shipley, director of the Delaware State Development Department, "to be used by the Travel Division as a means of distributing travel literature to the motoring public."

Earl L. Canter, executive director of the center cooperated with the Development Department in the project to give his handicapped people workshop experience. They spent a total of 128 man hours on the project which broken down amounted to 64 hours of cutting and assembling, 48 hours of sanding and staining and 16 hours of spraying and waxing.

Breakfast In School?

Eating breakfast in school may become the way to start the day for 3,693 pupils in Delaware starting February 1, when schools in Milford and Greenwood districts embark on the first full-breakfast programs in the state.

Funded October 11 under the Federal Child Nutrition Act of 1966, the basic breakfast program is being initiated here on a pilot project. Miss Martha Bonar, supervisor of School Lunch for the Department of Public Instruction, is directing the program. She initiated plans as soon as authorization was granted January 1.

Communities for the breakfast program were selected on two basis: need of the children in the area and distance they have to ride on the school bus. Once need of the general area is established, any child in the schools can eat the breakfast provided, no a la carte items are offered.

The complete basic menu is the only one served. Other schools may apply for school breakfast programs starting next fall and selection will be made on the criteria of need and distance traveled along with the factor of availability of cafeteria employees.

In Milford, Mrs. Constance Howell is district supervisor of the school lunch program and at Greenwood, Mrs. Helen LeKates is local cafeteria manager.

A typical basic meal will include one-half cup serving of fruit or fruit juice, one half pint of fluid whole milk and either bread, roll or cereal. In addition, schools are encouraged to serve egg, meat, fish or other protein supplement.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

The Lenten season comes early this year, beginning on Feb. 8. Thus many shoppers will soon be searching for meat substitutes to serve on fast days. The choice for many of us will be fishery products.

People who know and like fish don't have to be told of this food's wide variety, nourishing protein and economical price. At a time when red meat prices continue to be relatively high, fish should be used more often, for it will help net greater value for your food dollar.

Because Lent is unusually early, the increase in fresh fish supplies may not get under way until the season is well along. However, there are many delicious frozen fishery products available in all local markets. The same is true for canned fish.

For economical shopping for fishery products, remember that prices vary greatly for different products and for the same product in different forms. Fillets have far less waste than whole fish and may be the low-cost choice. Domestic products usually cost less than imported items. Packing mediums may also affect the cost of canned fish. Then, too, different brands of the same fishery product may vary in cost. If economy is the guide, then compare costs before making a choice.

Prices on live hogs continue to be irregular as wintery weather has again curtailed receipts. Demand is heavy and prices remain generally unchanged to slightly higher. Check special sales for the best buys. This week, ham, bacon, and loin cuts are being featured.

There seems to be little change in the general beef supply. Special prices are not extensive—they are mainly on chuck cuts, rib roast and a few steaks. Egg prices have dropped again because of the increased supply. Some dealers report that supplies of large eggs are in excess of demand. Quotations have dropped as much as three to four cents difference per dozen between the large and medium sizes of the same grades. This definitely means that the large-size egg is the best value in weight received.

Vine-ripened tomatoes are again making news on the vegetable counter. A continuing increase in shipments has brought prices down almost to the summertime level. It is unusual to find carton tomatoes priced higher than loose ones, but that is what is happening now. A few other vegetables such as broccoli, cauliflower, green peppers, white turnips, and rutabagas are slightly cheaper. Most other vegetables have gone up a bit in price.

We are glad to welcome back into our community Medford Calhoun, who has had quite a siege of it in the hospital. We regret the passing of one of our neighbors, Miss May Morris, who died this past week in a Carlisle, Pa., hospital.

Donna Jean, Irene and Kevin Lynch, children of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lynch, of Seabvill, were weekend guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Meredith, Sr., while their mother and dad are vacationing in Florida.

There seems to be little change in the general beef supply. Special prices are not extensive—they are mainly on chuck cuts, rib roast and a few steaks. Egg prices have dropped again because of the increased supply. Some dealers report that supplies of large eggs are in excess of demand. Quotations have dropped as much as three to four cents difference per dozen between the large and medium sizes of the same grades. This definitely means that the large-size egg is the best value in weight received.

Vine-ripened tomatoes are again making news on the vegetable counter. A continuing increase in shipments has brought prices down almost to the summertime level. It is unusual to find carton tomatoes priced higher than loose ones, but that is what is happening now. A few other vegetables such as broccoli, cauliflower, green peppers, white turnips, and rutabagas are slightly cheaper. Most other vegetables have gone up a bit in price.

We are glad to welcome back into our community Medford Calhoun, who has had quite a siege of it in the hospital. We regret the passing of one of our neighbors, Miss May Morris, who died this past week in a Carlisle, Pa., hospital.

Mental Health Forum at Murphy School Auditorium

A mental health film forum will take place at the Murphy School auditorium on Kings Highway, Dover, beginning Tues., Jan. 31 and continuing on the next two Tuesdays, Feb. 7 and 14. Sponsored by the American Association of University Women, Dover Branch, and the Mental Health Association of Delaware, the series will portray situations related to the child's growing-up process and family mental health problems. On each evening a film of about a half hour in length will be shown and followed by discussion, led by a psychologist. At this time questions may be asked and problems pursued that are introduced in the film. For many, the discussion may become an adventure in self-discovery.

The film for January 31, "Jamie—The Story of a Sibling", deals with episodes in the life of a typical family with three children, concentrating on the behavior of the middle child, 10-year-old Jamie.

On Feb. 7 the "Boy in the Doorway" shows how a teenager, rejected by his parents, develops emotional problems which affect all of his relationships until it is necessary to place him in a residential treatment center where he makes progress with the help of a counselor.

On February 14, "Family Affair" depicts the life of a family whose relationships, strained to the breaking point, are helped by professional family counseling.

The discussion leader for the series, Dr. Melvin Galof, psychologist, directs psychological services and mental retardation programs for the Delaware State Board of Health. Dr. Galof took his masters degree in guidance in the School of Education, New York University, and his doctorate degree in educational psychology in the same institution. He has had wide experience in teaching and in work with retarded children and emotionally disturbed children.

With mental illness the nation's number one health problem, the film forum will be of general interest, especially to parents and educators. The films have been chosen with great care and arrangements made by the committee: Mrs. Richard E. Collins, A.A.U.W., Dover Branch president; Mrs. George Ehinger, chairman of community problems; Mrs. Sarah Beckett and Mrs. Bertram Widder.

There is no charge for admission. The program will begin promptly at 8 p.m.

World Day Of Prayer Service

By Mrs. G.W.T.

When millions of persons in one hundred twenty-seven countries, including those in the Harrington area, unite in prayer on the same day, it is a remarkable event. This occasion, World Day of Prayer will take place on Feb. 10th, sponsored by the United Church of Women, who write all of the community to join in this observance.

Written by a South Sea Island queen, a Christian woman who knew she had only a few months to live, the prayer service is bound to fill a need for every Christian woman, for it embraces praise and thanksgiving, supplication for forgiveness, an entreaty for God's help for all who suffer and for all who are working toward making a better world.

The local service will be at eight p.m., at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Raughley-Hill Road, Harrington. Communities participating in the observance will be Houston, Farmington, Greenwood, Felton and Harrington.

When women come together for this prayer day, they are observing a tradition of nearly eighty years.

Besides supplication, other parts of the program include monetary gifts to help support C h r i s t i a n interdenominational colleges, literature and literacy programs in many countries abroad, national projects such as educational, recreational, child-care help for migrant workers, services to Indian youth.

More than a program, World Day of Prayer is planned primarily for the purpose of leading the participants into an active experience of prayer. It is always observed on the first Friday of Lent.

Queen Salote of the Tonga Islands had ruled her island kingdom forty-seven years when she wrote this 1967 service just before her death. Her strong Christian faith and sense of the eternal is reflected in the service. Since 1949, World Day of Prayer has been observed on Tonga, the only country in the Pacific to remain an independent kingdom after the 19th century.

Green Plants Add to Decor

Gardeners have an advantage on bleak mid-winter days; they can enjoy their hobby indoors. Green growing house plants bring a bit of spring inside especially if it's snowing outside.

However, indoor gardening has changed in the past few years. Collections of plants struggling for space on the crowded windowsills aren't very popular now.

Gardeners today prefer to fit plants into the interior decorating scheme. Each plant has to suit the decor, and the decor has to suit the plant. And that isn't always easy.

Two experts from Rutgers, the State University, will be at the University of Delaware's annual Farm and Home Week (Feb. 7, 8 and 9) to help home gardeners find the right spot for the right plant. Miss Gena Thames, extension specialist in home furnishings, and Malcolm R. Harrison, extension specialist in floriculture, will discuss "House Plants for Interior Decorating" on Wednesday afternoon at 1:15 p.m., Feb. 8.

Programs on developing resources of the Delmarva peninsula, numerous agricultural topics, horses, pets and youth are also scheduled for the three-day Farm and Home Week. "Consumers Day" and "Families on the Go," Tuesday and Thursday (Feb. 7 and 9) home economics sessions, are designed to appeal to women attending the meeting.

All programs are open to the public without charge.

Enlistment Option For Practical Nurses

Here is some food for thought if you are a State approved licensed Practical Nurse or soon will be. Never has the need for Practical Nurses in the U. S. Army been greater than it is today. The Army has one of the finest most modern hospital systems in the country. Opportunities for advancement and specialization are plentiful. You will work hand in hand with some of the finest, most skilled medical personnel in practice today.

Men and women who are licensed Practical Nurses can enlist or re-enlist for a three-year period for duty as Clinical Specialists.

You must be between the ages of 18 and 35, pass the mental and physical requirements, be a graduate from a State approved one-year course in practical nursing and have current State licensure as a practical nurse. Male enlistees may be married providing they do not have more than one dependent.

Personnel enlisting for this option will complete basic training as appropriate. Following basic training, you will be assigned to the Medical Training Center, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, for technical medical training.

Upon entry into medical training you are appointed to the enlisted pay grade of Specialist Fourth Class and upon completion of training you are appointed to pay grade of Specialist Fifth Class for duties as Clinical Specialist hospital and field medical assistants.

For more information on the Practical Nurse program, contact your United States Army Recruiter - MSG. Walter R. Frazier, at 218 S. Governor's Ave., Dover, Del., or call 736-6937.

Dairy Day Held At Farm - Home Week

Dairy Day, Wednesday Feb. 8, will be the final meeting in a series of six programs for Delaware dairymen. The Dairy Day program is a part of the University of Delaware's annual Farm and Home Week, scheduled this year for February 7, 8 and 9.

Dr. Roy Davenport, director of field services for National Dairy Products Corporation, will present awards to Delaware Dairymen with outstanding production methods and management knowledge. Richard Proud, president of Delaware Dairy Herd Improvement Association, will award production certificates to Delaware's leading dairy producers.

At the morning dairy meeting, Dr. Millard Calhoun, assistant professor in the department of animal science and agricultural bio-chemistry at the University of Delaware, will discuss modern nutrition in dairy feeding. Dr. Donald Glotfelty, Accident, Md., will describe his experiences with sealed storage during the morning session.

Many dairy farms are going out of business even in states where dairying has been the leading farm enterprise for generations. One reason is the increasing difficulty dairymen have in making a profit. A successful dairy cattle breeder, Althea Messer, Church Hill, Md., will discuss his methods of making dairying pay at the morning Dairy Day session.

The afternoon meeting will feature Glen Lake, Michigan milk Producers Association, speaking on "Our Voice in the Price." Dr. K. G. Weckel, department of dairy and food industries, University of Wisconsin, Madison, will talk on milk substitutes.

Management is an important part of profitable beef farming, according to Dave Brower, manager of Still House Hollow Farm, Hume, Va. He will discuss managing cow and calf herds for profit at the Tuesday afternoon (Feb. 7) beef meeting at Farm and Home Week. His talk will include keeping good performance records, maintaining low-cost feeding programs and obtaining high calving percentages.

Dr. J. P. Fontenot, department of animal science, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, has helped establish several commercial beef feeding operations using chicken litter as a major source of nutrients. He will speak on "Research Results on Feeding Chicken Litter to Beef Cattle" during the beef program.

The University of Delaware's Farm and Home Week (Feb. 7, 8 and 9) will also feature programs on development of Delmarva peninsula, on agronomy, fruits, vegetables, potatoes, home gardening and home economics. The Thursday schedule includes a special program on light horses. All programs are open to the public without charge.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

Several years ago the Men's Bible Class at Asbury Church organized a hill-billy orchestra for their own amusement, under the name "The Musical Sabateurs". This name was decided upon since we had no leader in particular, each one operating on his own initiative. We had a piano player, violin, guitar, harmonica, a washboard and an upside-down wash tub with a bass G string attached, serving as a bass fiddle. Rev. Richard Gibson did not claim music ability but his guitar could make anything we elected to sing or play, draw applause. Maybe it was brought on by pity for us but we were always called back and had many invitations.

It was on our second or third trip to the Welfare Home at Smyrna that an aged and crippled inmate, who was emotionally impressed with our efforts, especially that of Rev. Gibson, attempted to recite the following poem, which I later received in its entirety:

THE PREACHER'S VACATION

The old man went to meetin', for the day was bright and fair,
 Though his limbs were very totterin', and 'twas hard to travel there;
 But he hungered for the Gospel, so he trudged the weary way
 On the road so rough and dusty, 'neath the summer's burning ray.

By and by he reached the building, to his soul a holy place;
 Then he paused, and wiped the sweat drops off his thin and wrinkled face;
 But he looked around bewildered, for the old bell did not toll,
 And the doors were shut and bolted, and he did not see a soul.

So he leaned upon his crutches, and he said, "What does it mean?"
 And he looked this way and that, till it seemed almost a dream;
 He had walked the dusty highway, and he breathed a heavy sigh—
 Just to go once more to meetin', ere the summons came to die.

But he saw a little notice, tacked upon the meetin' door,
 So he limped along to read it, and he read it o'er and o'er.
 Then he wiped his dusty glasses, and he read it o'er again,
 Till his limbs began to tremble and his eyes began to pain.

As the old man read the notice, how it made his spirit burn!
 "Pastor absent on vacation — church is closed till his return."
 Then he staggered slowly backward, and he sat him down to think,
 For his soul was stirred within him, till he thought his heart would sink.

So he mused along and wondered, to himself soliloquized—
 "I have lived to almost eighty, and was never so surprised,
 As I read that oddest notice, stickin' on the meetin' door,
 'Pastor on vacation'—never heard the like before.

"Why, when I first jined the meetin', very many years ago,
 Preachers traveled on the circuit, in the heat and through the snow;
 If they got their clothes and vittles ('twas but little cash they got),
 They said nothin' 'bout vacation, but were happy in their lot.

"Would the farmer leave his cattle, or the shepherd leave his sheep?
 Who would give them care and shelter, or provide them food to eat?
 So it strikes me very sing'lar when a man of holy hands
 Thinks he needs to have vacation, and forsakes his tender lambs.

"Did St. Paul git such a notion? Did a Wesley or a Knox?
 Did they in the heat of summer turn away their needy flocks?
 Did they shut their meetin' house, just go and lounge about?
 Why, they knew that if they did Satan certainly would shout.

"Do the taverns close their doors, just to take a little rest?
 Why, 'twould be the height of nonsense, for their trade would be distressed.
 Did you ever know it happen, or hear anybody tell,
 Satan takin' a vacation, shuttin' up the doors of hell?

"And shall preachers of the gospel pack their trunks and go away,
 Leavin' saints and dyin' sinners valued less than settlin' beer?
 Or do preachers tire quicker than the rest of mortals here?

"Why it is I cannot answer, but my feelings they are stirred;
 Here I've dragged my totterin' footsteps for to hear the Gospel word,
 But the preacher is a travelin' and the meetin' house is closed;
 I confess it's very tryin', hard, indeed, to keep composed.

"Tell me, when I tread the valley and go up the shining height,
 Will I hear no angels singin'—will I see no gleamin' light?
 Will the golden harps be silent? Will I meet no welcome

there?
 Why, the thought is most distressin', would be more than I could bear.

"Tell me, when I reach the city over on the other shore,
 Will I find a little notice tacked upon the golden door,
 Tellin' me 'mid dreadful silence, writ in words that cut and burn,
 'Jesus absent on vacation, heaven closed till his return!'"

Sixteen Years Ago Highlights Of State Board of Education Meeting

The Kent & Sussex Fair will open Monday night, July 23, and continue through Sat. July 28, according to T. Brinton Holloway, general manager of the Fair, who announced the dates on his return from a convention of the Central Fair Circuit in Harrisburg, Pa., last week.

In compliance with the request of some adults, the Harrington Special School District Board of Education is making available a commercial course. W. C. Burgess, associate editor of The Harrington Journal, was treated at Milford Memorial Hospital Friday night for a lacerated scalp, suffered in a fall at the American Legion Home. Five stitches were required. He returned to work Tuesday.

Assoc. Ed's note: Read my article; it tells all about it! Enabling legislation for the redistricting of administrative school areas, is expected to be in its final form today, the State Board of Education announced Wednesday. The local area was defined as District 4, to comprise Harrington, Felton 54, Farmington, 39, Harrington Negro, Reeve's Crossing 159, and Union 158.

Mrs. John Bullock, of Dover, spent Friday with her daughter, Mrs. Ernest Homewood. Mr. and Mrs. William Hearn and daughter, Alice, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Butler and Mrs. Clara Wilson, of Trainer, Pa.

Miss Louise Layton, of Wilmington, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Layton. Editorial — J. Harvey Burgess — Will Rogers once said: "You can't tell anymore whether a woman is on her way to school or to the old ladies home." He also said: "When folks missed the state coach, they were content on sitting down and waiting several days for the next one to come along, but now they get peeved if they miss one flap of a revolving door." It was 20 years ago when Will made these remarks. Wonder what he would think of the present pace, with human beings traveling faster than sound?

The Journal received a postal card from W. J. Wheeler Tuesday from Miami, Fla., where he and Mrs. Wheeler are taking a little vacation. Mr. Wheeler writes, "Sorry, fish are so perishable. Must leave them all behind."

Recent U. S. Navy enlistments include John W. Brown and T. Jay Brittingham, both of Harrington. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Sullivan have returned home after spending several days in Florida.

Of Local Interest
 H. C. Dow, of Lakeland, Fla., who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Burgess returned home on Saturday. Dow, a piano teacher, was taken to National Airport, Alexandria, Va., by the Burgesses for the return flight. The flight up was Dow's first plane ride.

Mrs. Eva Littleton, of Harrington, and Mrs. Bertha Albane, of Harrington, and Coral Gables, Fla., have returned from a cruise of the Bahamas. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Outten, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bennett, of Laurel, spent last week in Tarboro, N. C., attending the wedding of Mrs. Bennett's brother.

Distribution of these policies will be made in February. These policies are part of a seven policy package which will cover programs of the Division of Pupil Personnel Services.

The State Board of Education approved the regulation that all persons who are paid on the State Board payroll are considered as school employees and are covered by such regulations as that applying to chest X-rays.

The State Board of Education recommended that a letter be written to the Governor as outlined in the Delaware Code, Chapter 37, Section 3701, per a request from the Newark Special School District for financial assistance.

Delaware's Wonderful ETV

Once again, wonderful Delaware is the first state. This time, it's the first state, and so far the only one, to have a complete multi-channel closed-circuit instructional TV network. That's quite a mouthful, but it means exactly what it says: every public school classroom in Delaware can receive programs, planned for its grade level, originating at Delaware Network ETV's studios at Dover.

It's no small wonder of wonderful Delaware. It all began when Governor Carvel appointed a commission to study the possibility of using television in Delaware's school system. The Governor enthusiastically supported the commission's recommendations, and signed enabling legislation, including appropriations for the first two years, in the summer of 1964. Broadcasting began in September 1965, from a makeshift studio, and last October the new Resources Center was dedicated.

The new set-up, with 20,000 square feet of space, must be one of the finest of its kind anywhere. They can broadcast over six circuits at once (so far, three are being used), and two large studios make it possible to transmit two separate live programs at once. The building also has offices for a staff of 38—producers, directors, photographers, artists, technicians—and all the necessary production, transmitting, and monitoring facilities. There's a separate studio at the University of Delaware.

What comes out? Well, this year there are 41 different classroom series, ranging from a folk-song program for the primary grades to conversational French and Spanish for High School. In addition there are six in-service programs for teachers including a live "Monthly Report" on education in Delaware for administrators and teachers.

ETV staff keep in close touch with teachers, administrators, and classrooms throughout the state, in order to know what programs are needed. Utilization coordinators on the staff help teachers make the best possible use of the programs, and conduct frequent workshops for teachers.

A great deal of time goes into the selection of programs to find the best program in the country for each need. Before a series is bought previews for teachers are held, and a continuous program of follow-up research makes sure the program is the one best suited to its classroom use. These are emphatically not "a teacher at a blackboard" programs, but active demonstrations and documentaries to enrich the teacher's classroom work.

When a high-quality series cannot be found to fit a Delaware need, ETV produces its own. Three such series are being done this year. The first and biggest job is a series on Delaware history for the primary grades. The first broadcast, on the life of Delaware Indians, will be shown in early February. When completed, the series will have 16 programs, dramatically covering Delaware history up to the minute.

Another important series in the works—seven programs on career guidance—will give Junior High students insight into the wide variety of job possibilities, and help them see how they can individually find their roles.

The third series produced in Dover consists of four in-service programs on venereal disease for teachers of health and guidance classes. Inquiries on this unique program have already been received from other states.

Delawareans should go to Dover and discover this new educational wonder for themselves. The Delaware Network ETV Resources Center is just north of Dover on Rte. 13 at Delaware State College, and the people there will be glad to show you around. Since they're very busy people, it is best to write to Delaware Network ETV, Box 898, Dover, 19901, or telephone (674-3080) so that you'll be expected. And to save everyone's time, it's a good idea idea to organize a group visit. You'll find it a wonder of wonderful Delaware worth knowing about.

"Pack Up All My Care and Woe"

By W. C. Burgess

Miss Mary Kemp, my schoolteacher of 40 years ago, used to give us assignments, "write this, write that; memorize that!" Ah! she was so right; and here I am still doodling it!

There is no rest for the weary, the dreary, weary kind!

On television the other night, they said that it is not the education you have gotten; it is the knowledge.

Now, please read about my bad head in the column, "Sixteen Years Ago, from Journal Files, Feb. 2, 1951.

One of the Harrington hoodlums decided he was the best man in the house, and started a little shuffle with an unknown quantity—a man who he thought he could take, but couldn't! These two boys were having a little "tete-a-tete"—French or Spanish?—head to head combat without any gloves on.—The villain lost, but weren't they both anyway?

Now, poor old relaxed W. C. was clean across the wall—pardon, me—hall—and was making his way back to the latrine, bathroom, head, or comode—when some little guy was so eager to see the fight, that he gave old W. C. a shove, and I hit a table, and my head was not that hard. I hit a corner. Now a corner is sometimes known as the last nip on a jug. You hold it up sideways to see if there is enough left for a small one—only this was a corner of a table I hit. What a bloody mess—all belonging to me.

"Oh! Yes!" All the time the orchestra was playing, "When The Saints Go Marching On!" I thought I was about to get promoted!

Eugene Anderson, of the Pacific boys—World War II—took me to the Milford Memorial Hospital—for which I am hereby thanking him in this column. Eugene said, "Do you want to prefer charges?" "I told him, no," because I don't think the guy did that intentionally—which I am sure he didn't. However, the doctor told me, a little deeper, and it would have been curtains or paralysis. Paralysis, I've had before, but not of the permanent type.

The doctor who stitched up my head, and there were six, or more, not five—After all, wasn't it my head that sawbones was working on? He gave me a shot of horse tetanus—and I didn't come back to work on Tuesday of the next week. I came back a week later.

This doctor was a foreign doctor—and I have forgotten his name—and he was working as an intern because he hadn't been in the States long enough to get his papers or something—but he knew his oats, alright, though. I knew that I didn't have my head in any sowing machine.

And that is that story. Back to Eugene.

Eugene was a medic in the Pacific—with two Purple Hearts. He told me he was laying in a hospital wounded, and the Japs came up and hit the hospital with hand grenades. So they gave Eugene his second Purple Heart.

Just think, I got the medics with me—but no jeep, and no purple heart. You see the boys come by, two on a jeep, and on stretchers—and they were all looking up at the sky. They were in a state of shock! When they get them a little further back; then they transfer them to an ambulance.

Eugene, L. Gooden Callaway, and some other fellow—I think it was Frank O'Neal—but I am not sure—were on a firing squad at a military funeral at Barratt's Chapel—several years ago—with Capt. John, "grocery man" Abbott, of Patton's Third Army, in charge of the firing squad.

H said, "Load." He had to wait. Private Burgess could not get the cartridge in the rifle. "Aim." "Fire."

The second round, same as the first. Private Burgess couldn't get the cartridge in the rifle. Ditto.

The third volley went off on schedule.

The American Legion furnished Endfields—an English rifle, a 30-30—at the time—and they would knock your head off. They would bust your mouth, your nose, or anything else—if you didn't hold them just right. They are the same as our own Springfield .03 You had to use a sling on 'em to hold them.

Now, you have to make everything nice and cozy for the soldiers, sailors, marines, etc., so they finally gave us carbines, and M-1's. Who wants to shoot at the enemy, when it might wind up as you. I was expecting this gun to kick; but with no round coming out of it, it was alright.

Captain Abbott told me one day recently, says "Winnie, I am in the reserves; if I'm called up, would you care to go along as my orderly?" I told him, sure, but you'll have to dig your own fox hole; I might accidentally be real busy myself. "Dig me, man, dig me!" "Dig yourself, cat!" "This ain't home on the range; they're shooting live ammunition!" You know, in WWII, you could not tell an enlisted man to dig your foxhole, unless he was your orderly!

I forgot to ask Capt. Abbott if he ever heard of a Col. Berry, 15th Corps. Arty., or attached to the 15th, anyway. I never saw anything like it—one night my commanding officer was talking to this Colonel Berry—and I never saw so much Brown-nosing in my life—"What Price Glory? especially if you can brown-nose yourself into a promotion!"

The Colonel was disgusted—he was nobody's fool. He was real patient with my little brown-nosing oak-leaf. He knew he was getting his boots polished all the time. The reason for this is simple enough—and it is not personalities, either. I have been studying for a long time on this little deal; and finally it came to me.

This Colonel Berry was a strait-Eagle from the 198-199 Field Artillery Battalion, Michigan National Guard. He was the big wheel over the whole shebang—so you didn't see much of him—No, wonder, I didn't know him, I never saw him but once or twice. The light - colonels - or the oak leaves did most of the executive work.—Some other time I will tell you about this outfit—they could really go! Boy, I wound up with the Alabama boys—National Guard and ROTC, too.

Oh! My! Take me to the execution chamber; I've been killed before!

On the story, "Run for Your Life—Don't!" which I wrote two weeks ago—"Evelyn C., was right—Sam Short. She lives in the same house. And Mrs. W.—Your father was the friend I mentioned—D.E.H.

It is such a small world—but, oh! my! How fantastic! I get caught telling the truth again!

Kaffeeklatch

With Eleanor K. Voshell

Windows are made to look through.

To get ready for washing windows, the used should select the type of window cleaner she prefers. Stores sell many products especially formulated to clean windows. Some are sprays, some liquids, and some creams. Every container carries directions on how to use the content, and these should be followed carefully for best results.

However, it isn't always necessary to buy something special to wash glass. Warm soap or detergent suds will do a good job. When using sudsy water for washing, any one of these brighteners may be added to the rinse water: 2 tablespoons ammonia, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1/2 cup rubbing alcohol, 1 tablespoon borax.

Windows can also be washed successfully by using just warm water with ammonia, borax, vinegar, or rubbing alcohol added.

The first step is to take down the curtains and shake out the dust. If they are dirty, this is a good time to wash them. The next step is to pull down the shades, dust them on both sides, roll them up, and remove them from their brackets.

The window frames and window sills need to be dusted, and very dirty windows should be wiped on both sides with a damp cloth. It is important to avoid rubbing dry dirt because this will scratch the glass.

It is best to wash one pane at a time using a sponge or cloth dipped into the washing solution—followed by rinsing that part of the window with a clean damp cloth, and always changing the wash and rinse water as soon as soiled. The finishing step is to dry and polish the clean glass by rubbing it with crumpled newspaper.

A handy trick is to wash windows from side to side indoors, makes it easy to tell which side

Homemaker Service Begins Next Week

The Homemaker Service of Central Delaware, Inc., begins operations next week.

The Dover-based agency, offering the services of trained homemakers to households in which there is illness, will open its doors to Kent County residents on Mon., Feb. 6, according to an announcement made yesterday by Dr. Maynard H. Mires, president.

The agency, jointly sponsored by the Delaware Division of the American Cancer Society and the Delaware Tuberculosis and Health Society, is a non-profit community organization that will provide substitute mothers or "good neighbors". This service will be available to families or individuals who, because of illness, disability, infirmity, or social reasons, need help in maintaining their homes.

Kent County residents interested in obtaining this service are asked to telephone 734-7005 in Dover. The agency is located in the tuberculosis society's office at 4 The Green. The project is being coordinated by Mrs. Mary R. Griffith, a registered nurse.

The homemakers, who are completing their training this week, are available on an hourly or daily basis. They will offer care and attention to children and elderly persons, management of homes, preparation of meals, marketing, running important errands, light housekeeping and instruction of family members in home management.

The salaries of the staff homemakers will be paid by the agency. Families receiving service will be asked to pay fees, or arrange to have these paid by employers, insurance companies or appropriate voluntary health agencies.

In the case of medically indigent cancer patients or those with tuberculosis or respiratory disease, the fees will be paid by the Cancer Society and the Delaware Tuberculosis and Health Society to the limit permitted by their policies.

The founders hope that the new homemaker service will enable many ill, disabled or elderly persons to receive care in their own homes rather than in institutions and that it will prevent family break-up and displacement of children when their mothers are temporarily unable to care for the homes. It will also permit children to remain in school instead of having to stay home to help there, and will free employed adults to stay on the job.

The board of directors consists of Dr. Mires, Dr. Richardson B. Ghidde, Miss M. M. Klaes, Mrs. Margaret Palmer, Harold E. Remley, Mrs. Lillian Wagner and N. Maxson Terry Jr. Mrs. Wagner is vice president, Mrs. Palmer, secretary, and Mr. Remley, treasurer.

and up and down outdoors. This to rub again if any streaks show up.

If a special window cleaner is used on the glass, it should be wiped off promptly with a dry cloth—followed by rubbing the glass with a clean cloth or with a newspaper to make it shine.

FENCE TALK

By George K. Vapaa

Farm and Home Week is one of many efforts by our College of Agricultural Sciences to bring the latest in science and technology to the people of Delaware. We look forward to having you as a "campus student," on February 7, 8, and 9 or any part of it. This is the invitation by Dean William E. McDaniel, Extension Director Dr. Samuel M. Gwinn—and little old me, your county agent.

Dean McDaniel quotes the prediction of demographers that the world population will double by the year 2000. So agriculture must provide the "know how" and efficiency to meet the needs of food, feed and fiber to keep up with population growth. Fewer farmers, with ever present changes in technology, can continue the miracle of our revolution in agriculture.

The revolution, in case you wonder at its meaning, is simply this: more total food, in greater variety, better and safer quality, and most important, at a fair price to the consumer. Is there a better goal in a hungry world? George Mulgrue, United Nations representative, maintains that most wars are fired by hungry men driven to anger. Food will dampen that fire. Our colleges make possible the training, research and experience needed to help underdeveloped areas to feed themselves.

Call our office, 736-1448, if you would like to have a copy of the Farm and Home Week program. Please feel welcome to attend. There is no charge.

Alois Stracar lives on Sugarstick Road, northwest of Harrington. How is this for a fanciful address? He is a transplant ed farmer from Czechoslovakia, who left the old country to seek his fortune as a cook in America.

Several years ago Alois' doctor warned that he must get out of New York City if he hoped to live out a normal life. So he bought his farm and started a dairy herd. The cows did nicely and were on our herd testing program. But it became necessary to sell them off because the work was too hard for a man of Alois' age.

Now he grows tree and vine fruits in the old world manner. He uses several texts in the Slavic language to guide his efforts, but called me to help with fertilizer, insect and disease problems. He mulches around his plants with a shovel. This is a task we rarely see being done now.

He asked me to help him find a wooden fruit press—not metal—because it hurts the flavor. It turned out to be quite a trick to locate a new one in the U. S.

Here is a man who has a keen appreciation for his land and its culture. This man is enjoying a gracious life.

Our State Planner, John Bivens, Jr., told the Greater Dover Chamber of Commerce that "in 1772, the city of Dover showed their urban dignity by passing an ordinance to forbid hogs to run in the streets." He then asked: "Are we doing anything now about our streets?"

Former Kent County Agent Russell E. Wilson, leaned over to me and whispered: "Road hogs!"

KEITH S. BURGESS — Sports Editor

Felton Romps Over J. M. Clayton, 88-71

Charley Neal's Felton Green Devils won their fourth straight game Friday night over John M. Clayton's Bears. The visiting Sussex Countians have a losing streak approaching 50, since their last cage triumph was recorded in the 1963-64 season. The Bears are a football power but, of late, are taking their lumps on the hardwood.

People in this area figured that Felton would be a contender again this year with players like Bob Dill, Tom Berry and Lloyd Shelman returning. However, the swift rise of Chris Moore, Roger Bradley and Gene Palmer, have made the Green Devils tougher, sooner.

The Bears fell behind 27-10 after one period and only managed to make the score fairly respectable, by outpointing Felton's reserves 28-16 in the fourth period.

Bradley's 25 points were exceeded by only one Henlopen player, Friday night. Craig Martin, of Selbyville, hit 28 against Delmar.

Bob Dill snared 20, Shelman had 12, Moore caged 11 in two periods of action. Berry missed a chance to make it five Devils in double figures, when he blew four out of five free throws. Let's face it, it is going to take more than a tornado to stop Felton's basketball dynasty. The Devils, from this seat, look like a winning combination for at least three more years. The only real threat we can see to their cage domination, is the Wolcott Report.

Table with columns: J. M. CLAYTON, G, F, P. Lists players like McCabe, Doukas, Lynch, Melson, Montague, Bunting, Murray, etc.

Foresters Win, 71-59, At Millsboro

Greenwood's sixth win in nine Henlopen starts and seventh triumph in eleven outings overall, was achieved at Millsboro on Tuesday night.

Table with columns: GREENWOOD, G, F, P. Lists players like Willey, Wyatt, M. Hughes, etc.

Late Church Bowling League

Table with columns: STANDINGS, W, L. Lists names like Calvary VI, Asbury I, St. John I, etc.

Lion Cagers Drop Squeaker To Millsboro

Harrington High shows only one victory in seven starts but are causing a lot more trouble in the Henlopen Conference than practically anyone could have foreseen.

For example, at Millsboro Friday night, the Lions lost a 61-57 verdict, although using a green squad composed of five of last year's jayvees, one varsity substitute and two lads, who didn't play basketball last winter.

Jim Hawpe should get some kind of award and his charges should get a big E for effort. Powerful Bridgeville only won by four points at Millsboro, as the Blue Devils are tough at home.

Table with columns: HARRINGTON, G, F, P. Lists players like Hendricks, Swain, Moore, Fry, Cagle, etc.

Felton's Bob Dill's Shots Nip Eagles In Overtime

Bob "Red" Dill, the fourth most prolific scorer in Delaware at this writing, dropped in a basket that forced Lord Baltimore into overtime, then netted another that decided the contest in Felton's favor.

Table with columns: MILLSBORO, G, F, P. Lists players like Hovington, Showell, West, Hudson, Cannon, Thielman, Harmon, etc.

The Tuesday night contest was held at Millville-Ocean View and was Felton's fifth straight victory. Now 7-2 for the season, the Green Devils are tied for second place in the Western Division of the Henlopen Conference, with Dover Air High. Bridgeville is one game in front with a record of eight wins and one loss.

Greenwood Nips L. Baltimore, 45-43

Greenwood's Foresters had their hands full Friday night with a pesky Lord Baltimore quintet. The Eagles were coming on strong at the end and lost a narrow 45-43 decision because they still haven't learned how to make a free throw. Against Harrington, four days earlier, the Lords made only four of nineteen foul shots.

In the Greenwood game, L. B. improved slightly and canned a still poor 7 of 20. Greenwood made a fair showing at the charity stripe by netting 11 in 23. This was good enough to overcome an Eagle 18-17 edge in field goals.

Table with columns: GREENWOOD, G, F, P. Lists players like Willey, Wyatt, Hughes, Tallent, Retzlaff, Spence, etc.

H.S.S. Wrestlers Upset Smyrna For 4th Straight Win

Felton's Bob Dill's Shots Nip Eagles In Overtime

Bob "Red" Dill, the fourth most prolific scorer in Delaware at this writing, dropped in a basket that forced Lord Baltimore into overtime, then netted another that decided the contest in Felton's favor.

Table with columns: MILLSBORO, G, F, P. Lists players like Hovington, Showell, West, Hudson, Cannon, Thielman, Harmon, etc.

The Tuesday night contest was held at Millville-Ocean View and was Felton's fifth straight victory. Now 7-2 for the season, the Green Devils are tied for second place in the Western Division of the Henlopen Conference, with Dover Air High. Bridgeville is one game in front with a record of eight wins and one loss.

Unbeaten Milton Rallies To Down Harrington

Milton's all-winning cagers have not tasted defeat since the 1964-64 season but had more trouble than was expected, before downing a scrappy but inexperienced Harrington High quintet 56-35.

Table with columns: MILTON, G, F, P. Lists players like Hitchens, D. Millman, Beheler, Brittingham, Johnson, J. Millman, Harris, Schirmer, etc.

Harrington High School wrestling Lions rallied from the brink of defeat and upset Smyrna's Eagles for their fourth straight victory, after dropping the first two meets of the winter.

The Lions were underdogs going into the test and when one of their most experienced hands, Allan Greenly, was injured and had to default in the 127 pound division, it looked like Smyrna might win hands down.

Harrington had trailed 8-0 after the first two bouts, but knotted the count at 8-8 when Mike Adams (112) flattened Robinson and Roger Klapp (120) decisioned Dunning 8-6. Klapp is doing a fine job filling in for regular Terry Donovan, who fractured a collarbone in the opening meet against Seaford.

John Winkler Wins Bowling Title

Harrington Bowling League

Congrats! Wally's Garage, you did it! It finally looks as though a team got to Wally's Garage, but too late to do any good as they walked off with the honors in this second third. They started out on top in the beginning game and were never headed through the third. This was a very fine showing for a team which finished fourth in the first third, eight Gas behind the winner, Kent Gas. Two weeks ago saw Wally's Garage leading by nine games, but at the end of the second third, that lead had been whittled down to four and a half games. With the second third already won, they could afford to drop a few games. This by the way, was the closest margin they had allowed a team get to them in several weeks.

to be coasting along. Maybe they're just biding their time until it really counts (in the roll-off games to come). Well, only time will tell. They have another third to get in shape for the finish, so we'll just wait and see what happens then.

Hamilton Fund, the team that moved up and down the standing ratings in this third, finally settled down in the fifth place spot, one notch up in two weeks of bowling. This is a very big improvement, compared to their finish in the first third. At one time they had moved up as far as second place in this third and were once in a position to overtake the leader. Their record is remarkable, considering they finished in the cellar in the first third, hardly moving out of that spot in the whole first third of bowling.

Sharing the number five spot, Taylor & Messick dropped from a tie of second place, losing seven of eight games in two weeks. This was a surprise finish, as Taylor & Messick, always showed strength in the final stretch, when there was plenty of pressure. They finished four games behind the winner in the first third, nabbing the runner-up spot in that third. But, they didn't fare too well this second third as they ended up nine and one-half games behind Wally's Garage.

Acme, who finished the first third in a tie with Jarrell Fuel, finished two notches down in seventh place. In two weeks of bowling they picked up five games, but couldn't advance their rating.

Wilson Electric finished this third one game higher in the standings than in the first third, ending up in the eighth spot. They managed to pick up six games out of eight though in the final two weeks of this third.

P.R.R. ended this third one rung from the bottom, dropping one step down from their eighth place finish in the first third. Two weeks of bowling saw them only able to pick up two games out of eight.

Porter's Hardware held down the cellar spot in this third, never being able to advance, and finished three notches lower than their seventh place finish in the first third.

In the high series department this week, K. Layton really knocked the pins down, rolling a great 224 game to lead all bowlers in the league Tuesday night. He also had a very fine 551 series.

D. McKnatt was next with a good 213 game, and added to his other games, led the series department with a very good 572 series.

J. Madenspacher also had a 200 plus game, rolling a game of 204. He was also second in high series with a great 566 series.
