

City Requests Extension of Sewer Hearing and Referendum Dates

The City of Harrington presented a new schedule, for improvement of its sanitary-sewer system, to the state's Water and Air Resources Commission in Dover Wednesday afternoon.

The program called for a hearing on a bond issue, amount to be determined, Friday night, April 14, with a referendum on it issue Sat., May 20.

Heretofore, the City had planned on a hearing Feb. 28, with a referendum in not less than 30 days nor more than 60 days.

The Wednesday appearance before WARC was to request an extension of the hearing and referendum dates for what Dudley Willis, of Richardson Associates, the city's consulting engineers, termed good and sufficient reasons namely:

There is a possibility of receiving additional federal grants from a newly formed agency—Demonstration Projects of Federal Water Pollution Control Administration.

A grant from this agency, Willis explained, could enable the federal government to pay as much as 75 per cent of the cost of a sewage disposal plant, instead of about one-third as believed at present.

Since it will take about three weeks to process the application, hence the request for an extension of dates from WARC.

The City government, having a new mayor and three new councilmen, is trying to find out the costs of the sewer improvement program. Mayor Fulton J. Downing suggested that possibly bids could be received before a referendum for a bond issue was held.

Willis explained contractors were reluctant to bid on a project before a referendum. Bidding, he said, was expensive.

City Manager Alfred Mann Resigns To Accept City of Dover Post

City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann resigned his post with the City of Harrington Monday night at a meeting of the City Council. His resignation is effective Feb. 17.

At the same meeting the Council named John H. Walls, of Clark Street, as Mann's replacement.

The Council hoped Walls would start Feb. 13, but said there was still the matter of salary to be worked out. Mann was getting $103 per week, after four-years' experience, but the councilmen did not believe a new man should get the same.

Walls made the only formal application for the post, and his letter read he sought the post if the present manager intended to leave. Last year, a member, or members, of the city government, had approached prospects asking them if they were interested in the post.

In the meanwhile, for the past two years, Mann had been offered posts elsewhere.

His new post will be chief operator and superintendent of the Dover sewer plant. He will replace Robert L. Smith, who resigned Friday to join the staff of the Water and Air Resources Commission.

Mann, a native of Augusta, Kan., attended Southwestern College, Winfield, Kan.; worked for a company erecting water tanks, and operated a waste paper company. He is married to the former Lucille Sharp and they reside on Dorman Street.

Walls, his replacement, was manager of Huber Baking Company here, no longer in the community, and is presently working as an automobile salesman at Georgetown.

Local Student Is Winner In Magazine Contest

Harrington High School has announced that Susan Perry has been named the local winner in Time's 31st annual Current Affairs Contest. Other high-scoring students include: Maggie Deputy, second place, and Brenda Neeman, third place.

In unofficial testing of the eleventh grade students, Terry Yoder, first; Jay Konesey, second, and Debbie Aiken, third.

Time's Current Affairs Test, given this year to more than 3 million college and high school students in the U.S. and Canada, consists of 100 questions on national and foreign affairs. Also included are such categories as business, sports, entertainment, science, religion, literature and the arts.

The test, created for the Time Education Program—an exclusive classroom service of Time magazine—has been taken by nearly 10,000,000 students since its inception 31 years ago.

Top scorers receive a certificate from James R. Shepley, publisher of time.

Marianne Clarke Accepted at a West Va. College

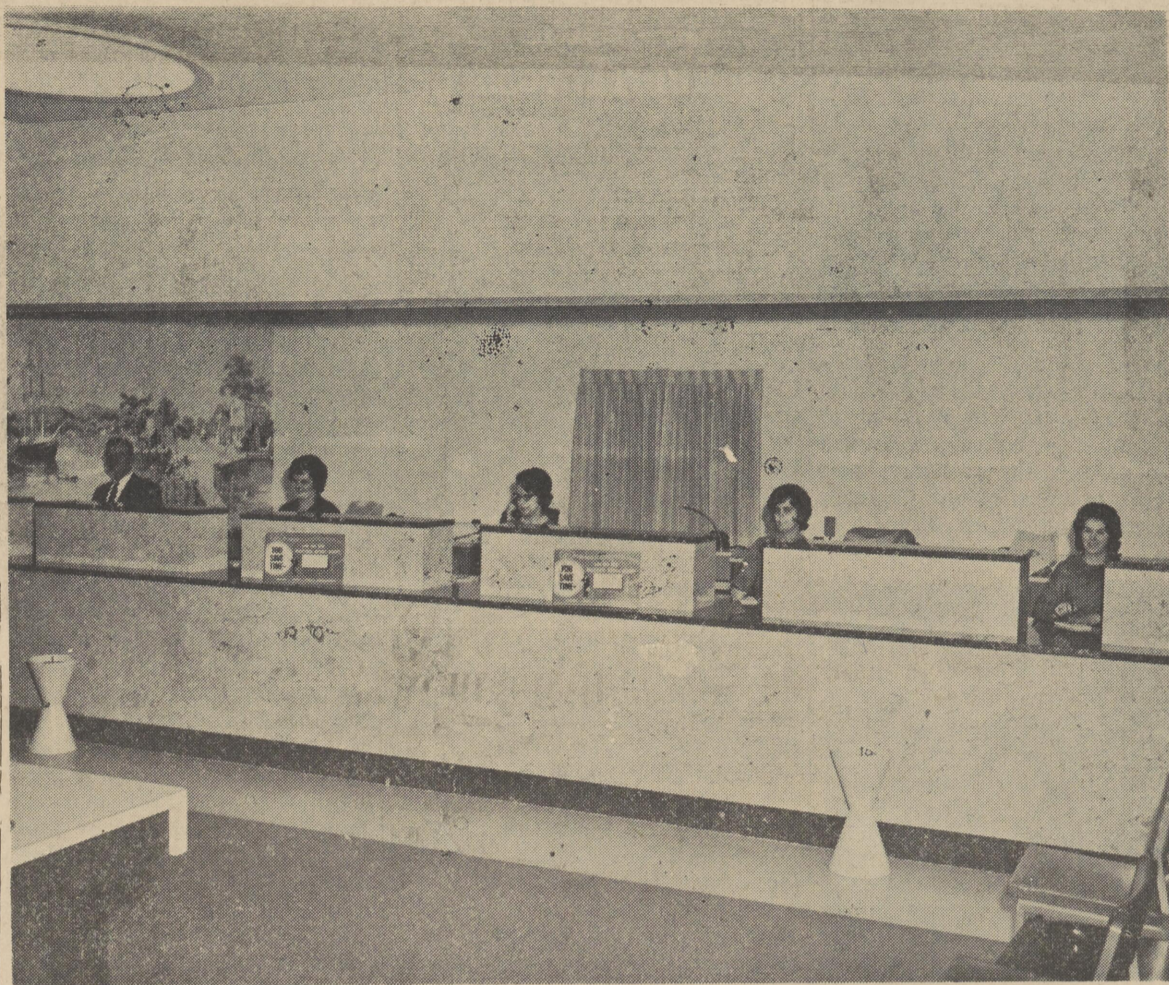

Marianne Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Clarke, of R.D. 1, Felton, has been accepted for admission to West Virginia Wesleyan College.

The Harrington High School senior plans to make music her major.

Miss Clarke is a member of the Glee Club, Varsity Club, Art Club, Debate Club, Yearbook Club, band, field hockey team, and the choral ensemble.

She was selected to participate in the Kent County Choral Festival as a member of the glee club, the Kent County Chorus, Delaware State Chorus, Delaware Music Camp and the Delaware Science Symposium.

Miss Clarke is a member of the youth fellowship and she sings in the choir at the Asbury Methodist Church.

First National Bank to Show Improvements At Open House

The official opening of Harrington's first drive-in banking facilities will be held tomorrow afternoon at The First National Bank of Harrington on Commerce and Fleming Streets.

L. Booker Harrington, venerable president of the bank, will inaugurate the ceremonies when he cuts the ribbon for the drive-in teller windows, Harrington's first, at 1:30 p.m.

An open house, at which souvenirs will be given out, will last until 5 p.m., and will enable the public and specially invited guests to view the bank building's first major improvement since construction started on it in 1927.

6-Inch Snow Provides Some Inconveniences

Six inches of snow and sleet fell here last Monday night and Tuesday, making driving hazardous and closing schools.

Because of the efforts of the State Highway Department, arterial roads were passable, but traversing side roads was difficult.

Civic gatherings were canceled, including a Shrove Tuesday pancake supper which had to be pushed back to Thursday. Postmaster Howard Dill said the storm was not holding up the mail to amount to anything, but that rural mail carriers were running an hour behind Tuesday.

Harrington schools were closed Tuesday but open Wednesday.

House Talk On Bus Strike, Storm Victim

The House of Representatives forum on the Wilmington bus strike, scheduled of Wednesday, fell victim to the storm, but both houses of the legislature will convene next week.

Lt. Gov. Sherman W. Tribbitt Tuesday called the Senate into session Tuesday afternoon, at 1:30. House Speaker George C. Hering III, R-Wilmington, said the House will reconvene Tuesday afternoon at 1:30. He said a session on the bus strike will be held one day, not yet selected, next week.

Among the bills ready for introduction in the Senate are four bond bills.

One will provide $2.7 million for construction of a new treatment unit and enlargement of a unit already authorized to cope with problems arising from a fire at the Delaware State Hospital.

The second includes $1.54 million to permit the Sussex County campus of the new Delaware Technical and Community College to be ready to open next fall.

The third is for $600,000 from the capital investment fund to improve the state beaches at Indian River.

The fourth high-priority item listed by Terry is $1.32 million for expansion of Legislative Hall.

The improvements comprise an addition and remodeling of the main structure.

The addition encompasses the drive-in department, a new tellers counter and a bookkeeping department. The other improvements include separate tellers and loan counters, a kitchenette, cloak room, and rest rooms.

Randolph Hughes, state bank commissioner, and all banks in Delaware have been invited to attend the open house.

The addition and driveway occupies the site of a dwelling house, the boyhood home of the late W. W. Sharp, a bank director.

Wilkinson Associates, Inc., of Philadelphia, was the general contractor, and Harrington Lumber & Supply Company, the local contractor, for the improvements.

Council Grants Building Permit

The City Council granted a permit to John E. Pearson, Jr., to build a residence on Liberty Street after it had been turned down by the Harrington Zoning Commission.

The commission, of which James Moore is chairman, had refused to sign the document because the State Water and Air Resources Commission had denied the City the right of hooking up to a sanitary sewer system until it had assured WARC it had reliable assurance of improving the sewage disposal plant. This cannot be done until a referendum for a bond issue is passed.

Meanwhile, the Council granted the permit, which stated in a note at the bottom, the builder could not hook up to the sewer system under present circumstances.

The Council decided that, after completion of the building, an appeal could be made to WARC for permission to hook up to the sewer system. If this fails, the State Board of Health would be contacted to see if a cesspool could be used.

WARC has refused permission to hook up to sanitary sewers here because it deems the disposal plant to be operating at full capacity. Meanwhile, the city is planning for a referendum to remedy the situation.

Accidents Kill Record Number

"There were a record number of 251 Delawareans that died in all types of accidents last year," according to J. James Ashton, manager of the Delaware Safety Council. Mr. Ashton said this compares with 186 fatal accidents in the year 1965. Ashton said the accidental deaths in 1966 occurred as follows: motor vehicles—131, home—54, public—46, and work—20. Ashton said, "the large increase in motor vehicles was a contributing factor, however, the fatal accidents were up in all categories in our state last year."

Of the accidents in the home, falls were the greatest killer followed by fire, mechanical suffocation and poison. In public places, the accidents were largely due to drownings which contributed to 24 of the fatal accidents last year. This is a large increase over what we have experienced in the past. Ashton pointed out that falls also contributed to a large number of the fatal accidents in public places.

A further study of the motor vehicle accidents indicated that

Mrs. Derrickson Back As City Clerk; Mrs. Butler As Aide

Mrs. Kathryn Derrickson was hired as city clerk Monday night at a meeting of the City Council. She had served a number of years in the post before being displaced last year.

Furthermore, Mrs. Derrickson was named secretary of the Council.

She replaced Mrs. Faye Butler, but Mrs. Butler was retained in the newly created post of assistant city clerk after it was explained the work of the City office had increased considerably and was likely to increase more as the City got into its sewer-improvement program.

Mrs. Derrickson was hired at $70 per week, the same as she received in 1966. Mrs. Butler was rehired at $62 per week, same as before.

Advocating the hiring of an extra person in the City office was City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann. He pointed out it was difficult to keep books, wait on customers, and answer the telephone for one person.

Implied support for the hiring of additional office help was advanced by Frank Holden, the City's accountant. He had been asked to explain to the Council why the City's annual audit, due Jan. 1, was late. He commented he had been hospitalized from September into October.

Too, he said, the year's audit required more analyses and summaries, he had difficulty in finding some check stubs, it was hard to find qualified help in this area. The City was also the only account where he called once a year. He said he called on his other accounts from time to time throughout the year. He didn't know just how long it would take to complete the audit.

In other business: The Council voted to ask for bids on a new police car. The present car had a second engine which had been "shot" at 10,000 miles.

A motion was made to rehire all police and city employees, not heretofore mentioned, at present wages and salaries.

A schedule of wage and salary increases, instituted by the previous Council, was voided after a councilman pointed to additional expenses this year.

Those rehired and compensation were as follows: Chief of Police Franklin Rogers, $102.50 per week; Patrolman Robert Darling, $85 per week; patrolman George Collins, $72.50 per week; Street employees—Norval Nichols, $1.80 per hour; Earl Thomas, $1.50 per hour; Theodore Rifenburg, $60 per week, and Howard S. Wagner, treasurer, $50 per quarter of a year.

Alderman F. Laurence Price was renamed Alderman. He acts only at elections.

C. Tharp Harrington and Lester Smith were renamed auditors. Mrs. Theodore Harrington was renamed scrap assessor and if she doesn't want it, the city manager is to hire another, Dale Dean, chief of the Harrington Volunteer Fire Department, was named fire marshal.

It was voted to install a mayor's office on the second floor at a cost of not more than $100.

The Council meeting nights were changed from the first and third Monday's to the second and fourth.

The meeting adjourned at 11:30 p.m.

The meeting adjourned at 11:30 p.m.

Jaycees Endorse Delaware Technical College

Delaware Jaycees have given full endorsement and support to the Delaware Technical and Community colleges. At the third quarterly meeting, the board of directors of the state Jaycees adopted a resolution favoring the establishment of the new institution it is reported by Marvil A. Tice, president.

The Technical and Community Colleges will open the first unit in the building of the William C. Jason School in Georgetown.

The Jaycees cited the need for higher education facilities in Delaware, at low cost, within commuting distance for the student.

"Technical education of the individual is becoming more vital each and every day," says Mr. Tice, "and a multi-purpose institution dedicated principally to the education needs of all Delaware citizens is needed. We heartily go on record endorsing fully and supporting the Delaware Technical and Community College."

Rep. Club Women To Host Senior Citizens

Senior Citizens will be honored as guests of the Kent County Women's Republican Club at a Lincoln's birthday celebration, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., February 12, at Republican headquarters, 116 Water Street, Dover.

Mrs. Don Concilio, chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Willis C. Jenkins and Mrs. Robert A. Calhoun, Jr. Club members will serve as hostesses.

Mrs. Clara Cook Smith, newly installed president of the Kent County Club, will preside at the next regular meeting on Mon., Feb. 20, at 7:30 p.m. at Republican headquarters.

Notice to Relatives Of G.I's in Vietnam

If you know of a member of the Armed Forces, serving in Vietnam, listing South Murderkill or Mispillion Hundred as his or her home, we will send him or her a free Harrington Journal until further notice. This does not apply to subscribers already receiving the paper in Vietnam. These will be taken care of at expiration time.

Md. Nabs Three Kent Jail Escapees

Three escapees from Kent (Del.) Correctional Institution, including two Kent County men, were captured early Wednesday by Maryland authorities near Greensboro.

State police from the Easton barracks said one of the men surrendered to Greensboro town police and the other two were chased down by the state police Canine Corps.

Awaiting return to Delaware from the Easton barracks were escapees Robert L. Crocker, 25, of 200 Block N. Broom St., Wilmington; Paul J. Williams, 26, of Woodside; and Frederick J. Donovan, 16, of Magnolia.

Officers said they were alerted by a Greensboro man who spotted a Delaware truck with three men in it parked in front of his house about midnight.

While officers were on their way to the truck, Williams gave himself up to Greensboro police and the other two struck out across the snow-covered fields.

Officers said they had an easy time following their tracks and Donovan and Crocker were picked up by 2:15 a.m.

The three men escaped from Dover facility early Tuesday when they apparently saved two bars and forced a window in a room on the first floor of the prison. Prison officials said they crossed the recreation yard, scaled a high fence and wiggled to freedom through a maze of barbed wire.

Crocker was awaiting trial in Superior Court on a charge of fourth-degree burglary. Williams was committed to the prison in default of bail pending Superior Court trial on 10 counts of fourth degree burglary and one each of assault and battery and malicious mischief.

Donovan was committed by Kent County Family Court for a hearing Friday.

2 Vehicles Collide At Intersection

A car, driven by J. Elwood Wyatt, of Harrington, was slightly damaged early Wednesday evening when it was hit by a pickup truck driven by Robert Hassett, Rd 2, Greenwood. The Hassett truck was also slightly damaged. No one was injured, according to state police of the Bridgeville station.

The Wyatt car, also occupied by his wife, Janette, and son, had stopped for a traffic light at the southbound lane of U.S. 13. It was headed east on Delaware 14. The Hassett truck was going west on Route 14 and the collision took place when it turned left into the Wyatt car.

Since the local magistrate's court is closed on Wednesdays, Hassett was taken to Court 5, Milford. The Greenwood man was charged with failing to yield right of way and was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Hattie Sylvia.

Richard Henry Breaks Shin Bones

Richard L. Henry, 317 Calvin St., suffered two broken shin bones, in his left leg, in a fall on the sidewalk near the corner of Clark and Commerce Streets Tuesday morning.

He was taken to Milford Memorial Hospital in the ambulance of the Felton Fire Company, the Harrington ambulance being away on a call, treated by Dr. Sills and is at home on crutches.

World Day of Prayer Service To Be Held Tonight

By Mrs. G. W. T.

Everybody is invited to share in the 1967 World Day of Prayer Observance, which will be held in this area tonight, Feb. 10, 8 p.m., at St. Stephen's Church, Raughley-Hill Road, Harrington. Included in the program will be the congregations of churches in the Farmington, Felton, Greenwood, Houston, and Harrington districts.

"Of His Kingdom There Shall Be No End"—this is the theme of tonight's service. Prayers and offerings will be for many projects, including the adult literacy program of the churches in Swaziland, Southeast Africa; ministry to off-reservation Indians in the United States; support for twelve colleges in Africa, India, Pakistan, Japan, Korea, Hong Kong, and Taiwan; Christian literature for women and children in Asia, Africa, and Latin America; program of friendly reception and hospitality for students through the International Student Service; support of the Migrant Ministry; provision for religious work directors among Indian youth and assistance in transition to urban life.

The prologue to the service includes the plea, "May the prayers and witness of the women of the world help to usher in God's new day for all people."

The thanksgiving embraces all who have overcome difficulties and persecution, builders of peace and good will, doctors, nurses, teachers and leaders "in the cause of truth and right."

Supplications are not only for relief for those who fear or hunger or fail in health but also for the tyrannical and oppressive that they may be given "a searching of spirit and amendment of ways" that God may show mercy on them also.

A group of Mennonite singers from the Greenwood Church will be a special feature of the local service and nine or ten churches in this area will participate in the observance.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Iolberton

Any great advance in beef prices seems to be in the future, since more top quality beef cattle is of heavier weight are coming to market. The cattle-on-feed report shows 7% more cattle were in feed lots on January 1 than a year ago—and most of the increase is in heavyweight cattle. These cattle are fed concentrated rations to finish them for market, thus producing the highest grades of beef. Marketings are expected to decline noticeably in late spring. Therefore, those of you with home freezers should consider stocking up on beef during this period of top quality abundance. Remember, however, a bargain is not a bargain if the family refuses to eat it. So buy only those cuts your family likes best. When buying beef by the quarter or half, be sure to check the pounds of hamburger you will get, soup bones and stew meat as well as the number of steaks and roast. Then check the cost per

Potatoes - Raw Or Processed?

Potatoes are still an important staple food in this country, but fewer homemakers are peeling them. Whole, raw potatoes might be only a pleasant memory a few years from now, according to Miss Marguerite Krackhardt, extension nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware.

Comparing raw and processed potatoes at the Consumer Day program during the University of Delaware's Farm and Home Week, she said prepared potatoes are available in many different forms.

Competition from canned, frozen and instant process potatoes isn't the only reason raw potatoes may someday disappear. Raw potatoes are bulky and storing them until they can be moved to market means special storage in a carefully controlled environment.

Of course, Miss Krackhardt points out, for the woman working away from home, the time saved can be substantial if she uses already prepared potatoes. The time saved may justify the extra cost.

Some loss in food value does occur during processing; how much depends on the processing method. However, processed potatoes still serve as a good general vegetable supplying average amounts of several essential nutrients.

Today's your last chance to enter the 4-H Reddy's Food Contest. All Kent County 4-Hers carrying food and nutrition projects may enter. The contest will be held on February 18th at the Capital Grange Hall. Members participating should prepare check lists to remember the items needed that day. Recipe cards and menu cards will be mailed to entrants. Check accuracy of amounts of ingredients and accuracy in directions. Secondly, list equipment necessary for table setting so you can check this as you pack. And thirdly—plan to carry container to return any food left over after the contest. This may be foil, wax paper, or covered container.

Leaders — keep up to date by attending our February 21st meeting at the State Board of Health at 8 p.m. This is your opportunity to voice your needs and desires for future programs. Be sure your club is represented so the latest information is available to you members.

THE JOURNAL HAS BEEN IN THE BURGESS FAMILY 50 YEARS

The Harrington Journal has been in the Burgess family 50 years as of January. This business has been in one family longer than has any other enterprise now operating in the community.

We believe we deserve kudos, for operating a country weekly is not a utopian delight, despite what some of our colleagues on the dailies believe.

Obviously, our longevity is not entirely due to "the enterprising operators": most credit must go to the community in more ways than one. Some persons have helped us beyond the call of duty. These, the same type of citizens who established the Delaware State Fair (formerly the Kent & Sussex County Fair, thought of the need of a community for a newspaper.

For example, near the tailend of the Depression, there was notice of a sheriff's sale on the door. But Wilbur Jacobs, William Sharp, Book Harrington, and, without doubt, the late B. I. "Pete" Shaw, bailed our father, the late J. Harvey Burgess, out of hock and waited until after World War II for their money. We believe the community still has the same types of citizens but we have not been forced to call on them.

As in the case of most businesses, we have had our ups and downs.

We came here from southeast Missouri in January, 1917, and purchased the plant from Frank Fleming. Then came World War I.

J. Harvey Burgess, a brilliant poet and lecturer, had to lecture to make money. The newspaper was operated by W. C. and Carrington H. Burgess, the present owners, and local help.

With no typesetting machines, the type was set by hand. Help came from Bernice Simpson, Lavinia Fleming, Mary Wroten, et al. The latter was a good all-around printer. Transient printers also helped.

We bought a Linotype in the early twenties. In 1928, the building burned and we came to our present location, the old First National Bank Building. The late Dr. W. T. Chipman had considered it for an office, but he let us come first.

Then the Depression and the sheriff. In World War II, with no help and a lack of advertising, the plant was closed. After the war, W. C. Burgess opened the plant in 1946. Carrington H. Burgess came along in March, 1947, and the brothers purchased the plant from their father in August, 1949.

The town has progressed, but not as much as we had thought it should have, but we have expanded largely because of an excellent commercial printing business.

As in the case of many businesses here, we are hoping for industry, for time is running out. However, as long as we keep in there pitching, we will make a go of it.

Probably the greatest innovation, mechanically, in the plant, has been the introduction of offset lithography. We do not see how we can get along without it.

The greatest thing, otherwise, has been the training and employment of local help.

When we hired outsiders they usually wanted to work until they could get a job in the metropolitan areas. One of the first things a newly hired trainee asked was "Any girls around here?"

J. Harvey Burgess, who died in 1955, was a country newspaperman of the old school. These gentry were usually poets, lecturers, and excellent editorial writers. They sold advertisements, wrote the news and editorials, and worked as printers.

J. Harvey Burgess was no exception. He was a brilliant editorial writer and we do not expect to see another of his calibre, in this community, in our lifetime. May he rest in peace.

TRUMAN WAS RIGHT: HOW ABOUT GOLDWATER?

Some cartoonists and editorial writers are giving poor old Goldwater the devil for advocating the bombing of Hanoi in North Vietnam. We are certain the former Republican candidate for president believed such action would cause the conflict between North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong to end sooner.

We believe Goldwater has something. Truman countenanced the bombing of Japan with atomic bombs because he believed the Japanese would surrender sooner, thus saving American lives. When North Vietnam sees we mean business, that will save lives on both sides.

CITY MANAGER GETS A PROMOTION

We do not believe City Manager Alfred G. B. Mann, who resigned his post Monday night, is going "to a better place I know," when he assumes his new post of manager of Dover's sewage disposal plant and sewer system.

However, he will, without doubt, find it a profitable post with opportunities for advancement he could not possibly find in a small community such as Harrington.

We believe he is the best city manager Harrington has ever had. Furthermore, we believed he would get a better post for it is hard to keep a good man down.

In his letter of resignation, a typical example of Mann brevity, he said he had enjoyed working with the City of Harrington and that he believed it would continue to progress, and that was that.

While here he performed tasks beyond the call of duty. His was no desk job. He was mainly occupied with those duties normally occupied by a superintendent of streets and sewers. The city would have benefited more if he could have spent more time at his desk. So, we recommend a street and sewer man to help John Walls, the new city manager here. In the meanwhile, we wish Mann, who will continue to live here, the best of success.

The City of Dover knows where to get good employees. Another former Harringtonian, Billy James, is tax assessor at the county seat.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

RAILROAD RHYTHM

Where do you work 'a John On the Delaware Lackawanna.

It was my good fortune during early association with the AAR (Association of American Railroads) to have made the acquaintance of Mr. W. H. Truesdale, a practical man, who came up from the ranks to the presidency of the Delaware Lackawanna & Western Railroad and was the Founder of Employees' Pensions.

In recognition of his consideration for his fellow man, the following poem was authored by Shandy Maguire, another practical railroader—

Mr. President Truesdale, when singing this song, I echo the praise of the thankfulest throng Of old gray-beards with thinning white hair Gained the hilltop of joy from the depths of despair.

Now we feel that at last we've a father in fact,— One not given to talk, but humanly to act, Filled with justice for those who gave muscle and brain Night and day on your road in sunshine and rain.

When you first came amongst us we trembled with fear, For we felt you intended to drive us from here. But we soon found you noble and kindly of heart, Approachable and liberal right from the start.

One who acted instead of professing to be A true friend and father to each employe. Like some whom we know of who blowed their bazoos, Just to hear themselves talk, but who'd pensions refuse.

The old lads held us down and kept salaries small, Just enough to keep bread in our stomachs, that's all; And we dreaded the time when we could not get around With the gait of the boys who are youthful and sound.

But your brains sought the problem your kind heart desired; Now we old servants feel, when we're ailing or tired, That the poorhouse will not be the final abode Of us who gave all our best years to your road.

Speaking, Sir, for myself, I have oft by the boys Been invited all over to sociable joys, Just because with my pen I've been handy at times And could tickle their fancies with doggerel rhymes.

But I had to decline. When my service is o'er And the duties of years shall require me no more, I'll be off when invited. Wherever I go, Of yourself and your road, like a rooster I'll crow.

And I feel that your coffers shall never decline, For you'll multiply friends for yourself and your line And the Old Lackawanna with patrons shall bloom Through your management after we're laid in the tomb.

NO TIME TO SPARE

By Sam Short Jr.

No time to spare, to do a good deed, No time to spare, to help one in need. No time to spare, to do any good, No time to spare, for one like you should.

No time to spare, 'tis such a sad fate, With excuses you give until it's too late. Makes no difference, there is no end, You keep right on living if you loose a friend.

You growl and nag, with friends loving you, You just can't help it, but you do, You don't wait for others to give advice, You think you know it all and that isn't nice.

No time to spare, to read a good book, There's plenty for you, if you'll only look. No time to spare, the minutes are not your own. There's no time left for repentance for the seed you've sown.

No time to spare to go to church, my son. Too tired for the things you've left undone, But you should do it, you know you should, Yes, for an hour, which is only one.

You owe it to your God, for the sake of Him, He'll look after you and keep you from sin The rest of your life, so give Him that chance, And you'll have more time to spare to do as you should.

Editorial—J. Harvey Burgess. It was wise in the Atomic Bomb Commission to select the State of Nevada for those boisterous experiments. However, we doubt that these fearful explosions back in the remote hills can be as damaging to civilization as are those matrimonial explosions occurring at Reno every day. Las Vegas claims that these bomb explosions rattle the windows in that city. How do they know the window rattling is not the result of loaded dice

Irvin Wyatt
Irvin Wyatt, 49, of Felton, died Thursday, Feb. 2, in Kent General Hospital, Dover, after being admitted in the morning suffering from an apparent heart attack.

Services were held at the Berry Funeral Home, Felton, Sunday afternoon with interment at Barratt's Chapel Cemetery, Frederica.

Irving Legates
Irving Legates, 79, of 43 E. 23d St., Chester, Pa., died Saturday at Sacred Heart Hospital, Chester, after a long illness.

Mr. Legates retired in 1959 after 47 years as a conductor with the Pennsylvania Railroad. He was the husband of the late Mrs. Susan Cooper Legates. He was a native of Harrington.

He was a member of Chester Lodge 236, AF&AM, of Benjamin Franklin Consistory, and of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Mr. Legates is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Ethel L. Edwards, at home; two grandsons, and a sister, Mrs. Carroll Chism, of Chester.

Services were held Wednesday afternoon at Berry Funeral Home, Milford. Interment was in Hollywood Cemetery, Harrington.

BEAUTIFUL BIBLE COVER
The cover itself is easily fashioned of fine white fabric; a moire or satin would be most lovely. The binding strip and cross are delicately tatted in mercerized crocheted cotton using the traditional white, cream or ecru. For that "touch of blue", a bride might be so compelled as to use a pale robinette shade for the design. When the wedding is over and only pictures bring back those happy memories, this beautiful bible cover will remain as lovely as when it was first used. Put it on your night table or on a shelf in the living room for an extra touch of religious beauty.

GIVE AS A GIFT
What could be a better gift to give at Christmas time than a bible cover? Easy to make and beautiful enough to give, this religious book cover will be appreciated and welcomed by all.

By W. J. Bulkley

Medicare beneficiaries who had doctor bills in the last three months of 1966 that counted toward their $50 doctor bill insurance deductible for this year, according to W. J. Bulkley, social security district manager in Dover.

If a person did not have $50 worth of covered services under medical insurance before October 1, 1966, the doctor bills he had in October, November, and December before meeting your $50 deductible for 1966 can also count toward his 1967 deductible.

Under the medical insurance part of medicare, a beneficiary is responsible for the first $50 in a calendar year for covered services before medicare starts paying 80 per cent of the rest of the bills. Beneficiaries should save their doctor bills and other bills for services covered by medical insurance until they reach $50. A special rule applies for persons who do not have $50 worth of covered expenses in a year, or whose covered expenses do not reach $50 until the last three months of the year. In both situations any bills in the last three months of the year that counted toward part or all of your $50 deductible may be counted again for the next year's deductible.

It is particularly important, then, for beneficiaries who received no payment under medical insurance in 1966 because they didn't meet their $50 deductible, to save their bills for October, November and December. These bills may mean a person will not have to pay all of the $50 deductible for this year.

The Dover Social Security staff is available to answer any questions about filing a medicare claim. Telephone them or call at the office for help, particularly in completing your first medicare claim.

The Methodist Men of Asbury Church met Sunday morning, February 5, with C. D. Mills, the president, opening the meeting promptly at 8 a.m.

There were 30 members present with five from Calvary Church, Milford, and Theo. Briggs, Dover, as the speaker. Jack Dill read from the Bible the Parable of the Soil.

The Rev. Jones led us in prayer and then introduced the speaker, Mr. Briggs, who is the business manager of the conference, spoke on budgets of the conference and the church's responsibility to their needs.

The next meeting will be the first Sunday in March. All men of Asbury are requested to be present.

A very outstanding speaker will be on hand so come out and hear him.

Guy Winebrenner and his committee provided the breakfast of ham and eggs, with Ed Graef as chef.

Dover Area To Host Missionary

Dr. E. Stanley Jones, world-famous missionary, evangelist, and author of 24 books will be coming to the Dover area November 5-10, 1967. He is brought here by the Methodist churches of the Dover area in cooperation with the Dover Ministerial Association and Wesley College. During the day Dr. Jones will be conducting meetings at Wesley College and in the Dover area. Nightly meetings will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the new Whatcoat Methodist Church in Camden. The church will have adequate seating and parking facilities.

Stanley Jones was born in Baltimore, January 3, 1884 and left as a missionary to India in 1907. A distinguished bishop has called him "The Greatest Missionary since St. Paul." His 50 week a year schedule is a miracle of physical achievement. He speaks daily from two to five times.

Dairymen Honored At Farm and Home Week

Seven Delaware dairymen were honored by the National Dairy Products Corporation during dairy day activities, Wed., Feb. 8, at the University of Delaware Farm and Home Week. Isaac Thomas, Marydel, and Richard C. Proud Hockessin, shared top honors; each received a $30 check and an engraved plaque.

Other winners receiving $20 checks include William Kux, Port Penn; Carlton Blendt, Jr., Townsend; Phil Sheats, Middletown; and James C. Hudson & Son (Larmac Farm), Dover. William Vanderwende, Bridgeville, was given a $10 award. Awards were presented by Dr. Roy F. Davenport director of field services, Sealtest Foods.

The awards were based on outstanding dairy production records and management skill. All dairymen who participated in the Delaware Dairy Herd Improvement Association program were eligible to compete. Scoring was based on milk quality, feeding programs, production sanitation, herd health, production levels, breed improvement and other factors of good dairy herd management.

Delaware Dairy Herd Improvement Association supervisors were also honored at Farm and Home Week. Orville Wheatley, Milford, and Lester Krull, Middletown, each received the top award of $40 and an engraved plaque. Frank Searles Harrington, and B. Lee Currey, Wyoming, each won $30; Weldon Harcum, Harrington, received a $10 award.

The Delaware Dairy Herd Improvement Association presented certificates of recognition to herd owners of outstanding cows in production testing programs. B. Irvin Armstrong, Middletown, had the top milk producing cow, N-Del-Cee Reflection Naomi (22-390#), in New Castle County and the state. The University of Delaware, Newark, had the top fat producing cow, U. of D. Ivanhoe Okebersa (894#), in both New Castle County and in the state. Kent County's top milk and fat producing cow was from the herd of Joseph Moore Dover. Walter J. Mills, Greenwood, owned the top milk producing cow in Sussex County; Ockels Dairy Farms Seaford, had the top fat producing cow.

FENCE TALK

By George K. Vapaa

The recent twist at Felton was not limited to the main intersection. News accounts seemed to assume this. One farm suffered broken windows on two sides of the house, several sheds scattered to the winds, and extensive damage to the tenant house.

Derrickson Biggs, of Felton, happened to be attending a meeting of our Dairy Advisory Committee when a telephone call alerted him to the tornado problem at home. Four days later I went by his farm and was amazed how quickly repairs are being made.

Felton residents are commending the electric and the telephone companies for restoring service so quickly. Town was also saying: "Well, it took a tornado to get Felton on the map—or rather, off the map."

Some rather bizarre situations occurred in the path of the storm, which waggled erratically to the northeast. Debris is scattered more than five miles from Felton; a cake dish cover in an open field a box hung up 30 feet in a woodland tree, insulation batts strewn over a winter cover crop. One Felton man has received two of his canceled checks picked up at Rising Sun and the Air Base. Scattered roofing metal reminds us of the hurricane Hazel days.

Few people will be concerned about building storm shelters as they are in the mid-west. Nor will many concede that a nuclear accident could have created a similar situation. Is there any point in asking: "Was your fallout shelter ready?"

The national soybean growing champion, John Reiser, Jr., of Cass County, Ill., will appear at the Delmarva Soybean meeting in Salisbury, Feb. 28. Mark the date on your calendar and plan to be there from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. This includes a free lunch provided by our two local soybean processors on the shore.

Some 1800 people have attended each of the two corn clinics held also at the Salisbury Civic Center. Soybean growers and processors see this as a challenge for their people. That 1800 figure was the top attendance nationally out of a total of 75 corn clinics over the country.

Some national yields this year went as high as 93 bushels per acre. This is far above the record 62 bushel Delaware yield made by Mike Witomski of Viola several years ago.

Other nationally recognized people on the program include Dr. Billy Caldwell, USDA leader of soybean research; and Dr. John V. Baird, of North Carolina State University, Maryland and Delaware researchers together with a panel of four local growers will talk about local growing practices.

County agents on the Peninsula will have free luncheon tickets available for distribution. This is needed to give us an estimate of attendance. Call me at 736-1448 for your reservations.

Henry Kozicki, of Clayton, has a farm tractor equipped with a converted truck cab and a heater. He uses it mostly for feeding corn silage to his cattle. The front bucket scoop allows the operator to work in comfort during the most blustery weather.

Henry was one of three Delaware farmer hosts at "Open Barns"—a variation of the urban "open house". The others were Dan Williams, of Farmington, and Ed Ely, who lives just north of the C and D canal. There were over 100 visitors in the five hour visit period—so many that Henry had no time for lunch.

New European tractors must be equipped with roll bars says Henry. The new larger U.S. tractors are being developed with reinforced cabs tall enough to permit standing up while working. Too, the cabs can be pressurized and air conditioned to minimize dusty working conditions and spray hazards. The tractor seat for the last several years has been a marvel of engineered comfort for the operator.

Artificial breeding of dairy cattle is widely accepted by Delaware farmers. The smiling image of Si R. Kirk atop an inseminator's compact car is a familiar sight in Kent County. This is the rotating sign of Atlantic Breeders Cooperative which maintains a Dover office under the leadership of Richard Davis.

The annual meeting of the Cooperative will be held at Capital Grange Hall on Fri., Feb. 17 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. This is the year when the Delaware director Levis Phipps, of Centreville is up for re-election. He is running against a Chester County, Pa. dairy farmer, because of reorganization into larger districts. Levis has an almost perfect record of attendance at board meetings. He was forced to miss one meeting while his son was on his honeymoon.

Back in the late 40's and early 50's, Delaware started its own bull stud. But competition and the trend toward larger business units led us to combine with the Southeastern Pennsylvania unit, which in turn has combined with western Pennsylvania and with a New Jersey group. Now our farmers can select from several hundred bulls scattered from Louisiana to Michigan. Floren Seaman and other techniques have made this possible.

Give the bull half the credit for improving milk production of his offspring. Credit better bull selection for the great progress we have seen in higher herd production averages.

Trees Need Food, Too

If trees could squeal when they are hungry, they wouldn't be starved for food so often. They can't make a noise but, trees do have signals that warn when they're beginning to suffer from malnutrition. J. T. Hayden, tree warden for Lower Merion Township, Pa., discussed the symptoms at the recent Nurserymen's Short Course held at the University of Delaware.

For example, if a tree is short of nitrogen, the leaves are stunted, new growth is poor, foliage may turn brown and twigs are elongated. Hayden distinguished between nitrogen deficiency and drought damage; drought damage may result in some of the same symptoms, but it will be more widespread, affecting more than just one tree.

Hayden pointed out that mulching with a leaf mulch won't supply enough nitrogen, since nitrogen moves back into the tree before the leaves come down in the fall. In fact, 3000 pounds of leaf litter will only provide approximately 30 pounds of nitrogen.

Plantings along the street are seldom mulched at all so they don't receive any nitrogen from this source. Since no plant can survive without adequate nitrogen, trees—particularly those planted along the street—must be fertilized, Hayden stressed.

Phosphorus and potassium are also necessary nutrients for trees. Phosphorus is needed for plant proteins and potassium promotes plant vigor and resistance to disease. The trace elements usually provided in a complete fertilizer are also important for a healthy plant.

Every tree will get a good start if the planter pays attention to the "four R's" of tree planting—the right tree, planted the right way in the right location during the right season. The right way to plant is particularly important for street plantings since the soil is usually very poor. Hayden suggested digging a large hole for the root system; a hole four feet in diameter and 30 inches deep is often necessary. Usually the original soil will need to be replaced with a good rich dirt.

During the afternoon session at the Nurserymen's Course, R. H. DeBoer, chairman of the department of landscape architecture at Rutgers, spoke on trends in residential landscape design. Most people need more than a decorative landscape meant only to be looked at, according to DeBoer.

People need a landscape design with usable space that can be adapted to a family's changing needs. After all, a family with small children may need a playground area now, but they will undoubtedly have very different needs ten years from now. A well designed yard will take this into consideration.

DeBoer told the nurserymen that a homeowner should have a planting plan for the whole yard before he begins to plant. And that's where a nurseryman comes in—helping the homeowner plan, not merely selling plants.

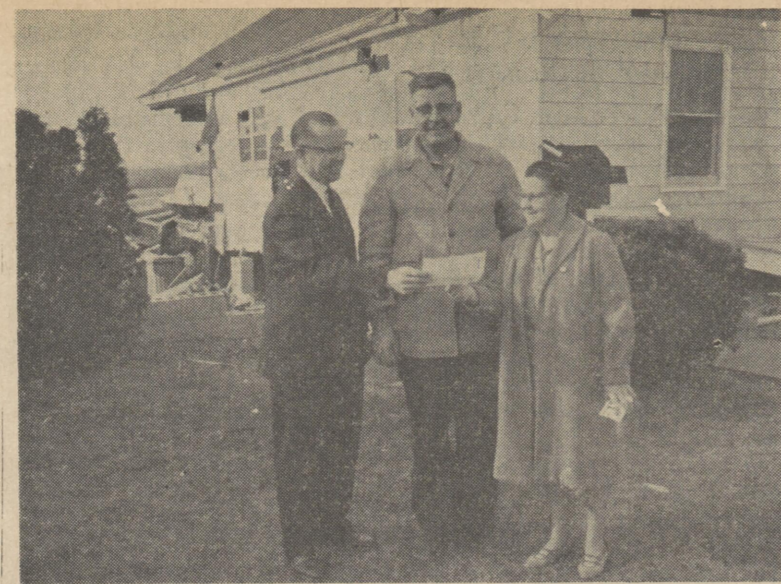

Navy Needs Pharmacists

The U.S. Navy has announced that applications in the Pharmacy section of the Medical Service Corps are now being accepted. The Navy will shortly have a requirement for 68 military pharmacy officers, effective July 1, in addition to those required to replace current authorized officers in this specialty being separated through normal attrition.

Pharmacy applicants who have completed one year of academic or professional training beyond the normal four year college level will be processed for a direct appointment. In this regard, one year pharmacy internship or residency performed following graduation from college, as a pre-requisite for state registration as a pharmacist, is considered to be a year of professional training.

More information about this program may be obtained from your local Navy Recruiter at the U.S. Navy Recruiting Station, Dover, Phone 734-7319.

New Textiles Topic Of Farm, Home Week

Royalty of yesterday would envy the modern consumer for the fabric she can buy so easily. Beautiful and luxurious fabrics, easy to care for and reasonable in price, rival the velvets and ermines available only to kings years ago. And, clothes designed to be worn once and then thrown away can make you feel as extravagant as the most wasteful king.

Man-made fibers helped begin the amazing textile developments taken for granted today, according to Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing and textile specialist at the University of Delaware. She discussed new textile products during the Consumer Day meeting, Tuesday, Feb. 7, at the University of Delaware's Farm and Home Week.

Man-made fibers resulted in fabrics that were easy to care for—easy washing, quick drying and needing little or no ironing. Producers of natural fibers, faced with competition from synthetic fabrics, began the research that led to easy care cottons, machine washable wools and durable press fabrics.

Not too many years ago, nearly all fabrics were woven on looms. Since ancient times the majority of fabrics have always been woven, but things are beginning to change. Competition from foreign markets has resulted in the current popularity of knits, according to Miss Reed.

She says the new knits can be produced seven times as fast as woven goods, and time is money in the textile industry. New knitting machines are computerized and can produce intricate and beautiful fabrics quickly.

Producers of woven cloth are meeting the competition by trying to shorten the weaving process with fewer steps from fiber to cloth, Miss Reed points out.

New Looms are in the Experimental Stage jet looms, for instance, can make cloth faster than conventional looms. They are also experimenting with new methods of making cloth such as tufted cloth blankets, tufted carpets and needle punching techniques.

Vinyl fabrics for clothing and home furnishings and paper clothes indicate a trend to cheaper methods of producing fabrics, Miss Reed told the Farm and Home Week audience.

New fabrics create new fashions which, in turn, bring new demands. Body clinging knits require smooth undergarments, and the result is the molded bra with no seams that show. Heat softened fibers make possible fabrics that can be shaped as desired; perhaps garments with no seams at all are somewhere in the future.

Since new textile products are appearing all the time, consumers must realize they are doing some experimenting themselves when they buy a new product. Read labels, Miss Reed suggests; care for the article as directed. Then, if it does not perform as it should, return it to the store.

In her role as product-tester, the consumer is in partnership with American business by letting them know what she likes and wants. Indirectly, you, as a consumer, assist in the development of new and better products for everyone.

U. of D. Pub, List Insect, Disease Control

The latest information on how to best use insecticides and pesticides on crops is now available from the University of Delaware.

Dr. John W. Heuberger, chairman of the department of plant pathology Donald MacCreary, extension entomologist, and Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist, all at the university, have prepared two folders on 1967 pesticide recommendations for Delaware. One folder covers insect and disease control on vegetables; the second contains spray schedules for control of fruit insects and diseases in orchards and home plantings.

Speaking at farm and home week recently, Heuberger, MacCreary and Elisha Rahn, associate professor in the department of horticulture at the university, stressed the importance of proper use of insecticides and pesticides for controlling insects and diseases which cannot be satisfactorily checked by other means.

The effectiveness of the pesticide program is determined mainly by the person who uses it. Most control failures result from the grower not applying the right materials, in the right amount, at the right time and in the right way.

The 1967 pesticide folder on vegetables contains instructions for pesticide applications for tomatoes, lima and snap beans, white potatoes sweet corn, cucurbits and cole crops. Information for home vegetable gardens is also included. The fruit and orchard folder contains a commercial and home apple spray schedule and a peach spray schedule.

These booklets may be obtained free of charge from county extension offices in Newark, Dover and Georgetown, or from the Mailing Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Del., 19711.

Boy Scouts Reach High In Membership

On its 57th anniversary Wednesday, the Boy Scouts of America reached an all time high in active membership with 5,831,541 boys and adult leaders enrolled. Thirteen Eagle Scouts made a report to the nation to President Johnson Wednesday.

Word of the membership record attained last December 31, was received by M. R. Disborough, Scout Executive, of the Del-Mar-Va Council, Boy Scouts of America. Chief Scout Executive, Joseph A. Brunton, Jr., told the local Scout Council that the increase of 98,833 boys and leaders came to 1.7 per cent.

The boy membership showed 4,289,379 enrolled, a gain of 53,343 or 1.4%.

Cub Scouts, a program for boys 8, 9, and 10 years of age total 2,125,394 boys in 56,436 Cub packs. There are 1,853,316 Boy Scouts, 11 years old and over, in 68,214 Scout Troops.

Explorers, comprising boys 14 through 17, total 310,669 in 22,538 Explorer posts.

On December 31, there were 147,188 units, a gain of 2,650 over the previous year, or 1.8 per cent.

Since its founding 57 years ago February 8, the Boy Scouts of America has ended each year with a gain in membership. Since 1910 there have been over 42 million boys and leaders identified with the Boy Scouts of America.

Investment credit provides a real tax break for businessmen, including farmers. It can also be a source of trouble, according to W. T. McAllister, farm management specialist at the University of Delaware.

Trouble starts when farmers don't keep equipment on which they have claimed investment credit for the full period of time used in computing the credit. McAllister uses the example of a farmer who bought a tractor in 1962 for $5,000. He expected to keep it for six years, so he claimed two-thirds of the investment credit allowed, or $235. However, the tractor wasn't large enough, so in 1966 he traded it for a larger one investing an additional $4,500.

Now his taxes are doubly complicated McAllister points out. Since he owned the tractor for four years, the farmer qualifies for only one-third of the total investment credit—not the two-thirds he claimed. Therefore, on the 1966 tax report he must pay back half of the investment credit he claimed, or $117.50. A special line, 14b, has been added to the 1966-1967 form for this purpose.

The farmer's second problem is to determine the basis for figuring investment credit on the new, larger tractor he bought.

The basis for this credit is the amount he paid over and above the trade value of the original tractor (in this case, $4,500) plus the undepreciated value remaining on the old tractor. Since there were two years remaining of the six-year life—or one-third—of the original $5000 tractor, this remaining value is $1667. Thus the basis for determining investment credit on the new tractor would be the sum of $4,500 and $1667, of $6167.

If the life of this new tractor is six years, the farmer could claim two-thirds of the full seven per cent investment credit allowance. This credit—$287 in this example—would be reported on form 3468 and the tax credit transferred to form 1040, line 13.

Don't fail to take advantage of investment credit, McAllister advises. It may seem complicated, but each dollar of tax credit is a dollar of tax you don't have to pay.

Lions Finish Strong, Trim Rehoboth, 52-39

Jim Hawpe's Harrington High basketball Lions picked up their second victory Friday night, here, as they rallied from a 24-17 half-time deficit and won going away 52-39.

The Lions had a 20-15 edge in field goals and a 12-9 bulge in free throws. Two Lions missed a total of 10 out of 12 foul shots, or H.H.S. might have been able to put the game on ice early. As it was, Rehoboth stayed close most of the way.

Nick Morris hit a career-high of 20 points to take game honors. 22 was the Friday night high in the 12-team Henlopen Conference. Weber of Lord Baltimore and Tull, of Bridgeville shared that mark.

Andy Raymond led Rehoboth with 15 points.

Milton, Down 20 Points Beats Greenwood 72-50

Milton's undefeated Warriors looked like doormats and Greenwood looked like champions, for one period. The Foresters led by 20 points at one stage but Milton's 25 point second period, gave the eventual winners a one point lead at halftime. Greenwood was still in the ball game, only six points off the pace, when another explosion, for 22 points in the fourth period, gave the Warriors their 27th straight victory.

Milton scored 30 field goals to 19 for Greenwood. Foul shooting results saw a stalemate as Milton had 12-for-22 against Greenwood's 12-for-21.

Hitchens, Brittingham and Harris canned 50 points for Milton. Steve Tallent led the Foresters with 16 markers. Maurice Hughes, in a virtual dead heat for the state scoring lead had 15. Larry Wyatt tallied 12. Hughes and Crawford of Claymont each have a 22.8 per game average, at this writing.

Felton's Balance Downs Millsboro

With scoring leader Bob Dill hampered by a sore leg, Felton's other four starters took up the slack in a grand manner, as all four hit double figures to beat Millsboro 57-46 on the Sussex County floor.

Felton's 19-12 first quarter lead helped immensely as the Blue Devils almost matched the Green Devils' attack over the last three frames.

The winners had a 22-20 field goal bulge and made the win certain by hitting 13 of 23 free throws. Millsboro had 12 attempts and made 6.

Chris Moore paced Felton with 16 points followed by Lloyd Shelman (14), Roger Bradley (13), Tom Berry (12).

Felton's eighth win in ten starts saw them retain a share of second place in the Western Division with Dover Air.

Delmar Matmen Trim Harrington

Harrington High's wrestling Lions dropped a Henlopen Conference match to Delmar last week 24-16, after threatening to pull off an upset in the early going.

The Lions had to get good performances at the lighter weights from some of the younger matmen, in order to stand a chance. These fine showings became a reality as Chuck Hurd (95), Mike Adams (112) and Roger Klapp (120) won three of the first four bouts to put the locals ahead 9-3.

Hurd and Adams both scored near-falls to win by big margins. Klapp gets this writer's vote as the most improved Lion. By clever wrestling he kept a fast opponent under wraps and won by a shutout, 7-0.

In the 127 pound test, Harrington's Allan Greenly suffered a recurrence of a back injury and was forced to default in round two. Delmar's Phil Shedaker is a tough opponent but would have had his hands full with a healthy Greenly. The 133 pound division is one of several in which H.H.S. has been plagued with injuries.

With regular Lou Kemp out for the season, the improving Roger Bullock is competing at that weight. Bullock put up a good scrap against a more experienced opponent and lost a narrow 3-2 decision.

In the next two classes Lion wrestlers were leading with seconds to go but, in the heat of battle, tried to take their opponents to the mat. The Delmar grapplers scored the Lions off balance, caught takedowns and Lion victories became draws instead.

After an expected Wildcat victory at 154 a cocky Bob Watts met Harrington's Bob Donovan at 165 pounds. Watts had announced earlier in the evening that he was going to pin his opponent. For two years, Donovan has been wrestling at 180 pounds, giving away 10 pounds or more every start. If memory is correct, no one has pinned him yet. The rugged, experienced Watts won by decision as Donovan showed his great courage once more. Watts slammed his headgear furiously to the floor and stormed into the dressing room. "Curses, foiled again!"

Regular 165 pounder Bill Webb moved up to 180 for the second time this campaign and won a 7-2 decision over a heavier rival. Webb had Porter on his back with a chance to win by a fall when the bout ended. Webb is the only Lion with a perfect record this season, although Steve Welch has six wins and a draw in seven matches at 138 and 145 pounds.

"Bad Burt" Culver, Delmar's fine all-around (though hot-tempered) athlete, took the mat against Harrington's unbeaten Eddie Wheatley in the heavy-weight clash. Wheatley is the defending Henlopen Conference champion. After a Pier-Six brawl the scoreboard read 5-5, but Culver was declared the winner on "riding time" or time in control of his adversary. It was an exciting match, which pitted Wheatley's experience against Culver's strength, speed and natural athletic ability. The match could have gone either way.

Culver was picked to be all-state in basketball this winter but surprised by switching to wrestling. We have heard three reports concerning this switch. They vary slightly, but agree on one basic point. Burt and the cage coach don't see eye-to-eye and as a result, Delmar's basketball squad is weakened but the wrestling team is probably an even-money bet to recapture the Henlopen Championship from Harrington.

Mike Adams continues to wrestle very well. A narrow 2-0 loss to 1966 state champion, Ralph Clausen, of Georgetown, is the only blemish on his record.

It wasn't in the cards for Harrington to beat Delmar this time. Take away a couple of mistakes made by the Lions and a break or two that went to Delmar and the final score could easily have been H.H.S. 24, Delmar 12.

McKnat Funeral Home picked up four games also Tuesday night, and like Hamilton Fund and Jarrell Fuel, share a part of first place. Maybe this will be their third, having finished in the third place spot in the first third and second in the second third. The next step up would finish them up on top.

Wally's Garage, (did I say Wally's Garage!) also finds themselves on top in this third. We don't expect to see them stay there though, as they can relax a little as the pressure will not be on them. They, like Kent Gas, can just act as spoilers the remainder of this third, so watch out you guys.

Pennsylvania Railroad is in the fifth spot, splitting four games down the middle with Wilson Electric, who also share the number five spot. This is pretty good for both teams as Wilson Electric and P. R. R. finished in the eighth and ninth spots at the end of the second third.

Acme, Kent Gas, Porter's Hardware, and believe it or not, Taylor & Messick, all drew big zeroes, dropping all four games, Tuesday evening. Taylor & Messick started sliding at the end of the second third, and it seems they haven't quit yet. That kind of luck can't last forever, and we predict that they will snap right back and be in there with the rest of the pack before too long.

Porter's Hardware, it seems, had to give four games away to a forfeit, as there weren't enough men present to make a team. Maybe with a little better weather and other unforeseen circumstances out of the way for next week, they might be able to improve their standings.

Acme should move up soon as they aren't one to stay in the cellar too long. Kent Gas, as was stated earlier, doesn't have to worry about their finish in this third.

In last week's high game column, it seems that C. Gallo's game of 221 was inadvertently overlooked. As the saying goes these days: "Sorry about that". In the high game department this week, it seems that D. Garey had a real good 200 plus game, rolling a high game of 222. He also rolled a game of 205 and totaled a 552 series.

H. Tibbitt also had two games in the 200 bracket, with games of 209 and 205. He led in the high series department with a very fine 583.

R. Gray had a 204 game to finish the list of high game bowlers. In the high series department, R. Jarrell rolled a very fine 576 series.

There were 64 one-car collisions in our state last year, which is the most preventable of all types of accidents since they do not involve another driver except the one that was involved in the crash. Ashton pointed out that these accidents can be prevented by simple care and caution on the highway.

"To avoid further accidents in our state," Ashton said, "it is the responsibility of all citizens to avoid accidents and death in the home, in public places or on the highway. He further suggested, that families discuss this in the home and make every member in the family aware of the great problem that they are faced with in their daily lives. We should all follow these suggestions with the hope that our accidental deaths can be reduced in 1967.

Puzzled as to how to rear your children to make them decent members of society? Most parents are. And a good many parents are inclined at times to try to push the responsibility for rearing their children onto the church, the school or some other agency.

The basic fact remains, however that it is in the home where children become what they are. It is the parents who must accept the responsibility for the behavior of their children. Most people, while somewhat vaguely aware of this responsibility, become lost in trying to figure out just how to go about being responsible parents.

In looking over the annual report of the Stearns County Probation and Parole Department, we were impressed by 13 points presented by Probation Officer Mel Janski. These are not points for children; they are points for parents to read and remember.

1. If a child lives with criticism, he learns to condemn.
2. If a child lives with hostility, he learns to fight.
3. If a child lives with fear, he learns to be apprehensive.
4. If a child lives with pity, he learns to feel sorry for himself.
5. If a child lives with jealousy, he learns to hate.
6. If a child lives with encouragement, he learns to be confident.
7. If a child lives with praise, he learns to be appreciative.
8. If a child lives with acceptance, he learns to love.
9. If a child lives with approval, he learns to like himself.
10. If a child lives with recognition, he learns to have a goal.
11. If a child lives with fairness he learns justice.
12. If a child lives with honesty, he learns what truth is.
13. If a child lives with friendliness, he learns that the world is a nice place in which to live.

Fact or Fiction?

One of the first things a journalist learns upon starting to work for a newspaper is how many stories turn out to be mere "gossip," just because some people will actually start a story, probably from lack of anything else to do.

Often the newspaper office phone rings with inquiries about things that are reported happening in the "world of gossip" and investigation proves there is not a fact of truth to the story.

This brings us to the matter of people. There are some among us who spend most of their conversational time talking about other people.

Many persons are caught in between. They don't start the story. They just repeat it, and some even enlarge on it.

Let us all do our part in trying to reduce the number of "untrue stories" in our community. If you don't know the full facts from
