QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—My son is now serving with the Armed Forces in Vietnam. He entered military service June 15, 1965. Is he covered by government insurance?

A—All members of the Armed Forces have been provided with Servicemen's Group Life Insurance since midnight, December 28, 1965, unless they submitted a refusal in writing. These policies are issued and administered by private commercial companies, not the Veterans Administration. Upon leaving service the serviceman has 120 days in which to convert to a permanent form of insurance.

Q—I had named my first wife, mother of my two children, as beneficiary of my G.I. insurance. She is now deceased and I have remarried. Is it necessary that I now name my present wife as beneficiary, or wouldn't the insurance be paid to my present wife for these minor children anyway?

A—The VA is required by law to pay the insurance proceeds to the designated beneficiary. If you want the proceeds to go to your present wife, write VA that you want her designated as beneficiary.

State Day To Be Held May 3

Consumers will have an expert at their elbow at the "State Day" held May 3 in Dover. Extension food, clothing and management experts will answer the bewildering questions posed by the avalanche of new fabrics, new foods and new appliances that face homemakers each year.

Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing specialist at the University of Delaware, will have shopping suggestions for buying clothes and home furnishings. She will discuss new fabrics and possibilities for the future.

Miss Margerite Krackhardt, extension foods and nutrition specialist, will compare new convenience foods with traditional "make it from scratch" foods. Preserving foods is less of a do-it-yourself job every year; Miss Frances Shoffner, Sussex County home economics extension agent and Mrs. Mary Sudler, extension agent for home economics in Kent and Sussex Counties, will talk about the new preservation methods.

Non-stick cookware has gained widespread approval and, at the same time, caused many questions. Mrs. Eleanor Voshell, Kent County home economics extension agent, will answer those questions at the State Day meeting.

Picnic Shelter Plans Available

A unique picnic shelter designed for family cook-out or for an attractive landmark at a recreation site has been developed. U.S. Department of Agriculture engineers have designed a shelter with a doubly-warped triangular roof, with three sections supported by three wooden posts. The shelter covers nearly 700 square feet.

Each roof surface is supported by two sets of arches crossing at right angles. The roof is especially stable because its long, projecting overhang at the points of the triangle provide a counterbalance for the high crown. Stabilized asphalt is used for waterproofing.

According to the engineers, as many as six triangular roofs can be joined to form a six-sided building. Pipes are then used for interior support; they are also used as storm drains for the roof water. The water flows under the pipes to a disposal line under the building.

Building materials, available from hardware and lumber stores, cost approximately $450 per shelter. Working drawings of the shelter, plan 5995—"Picnic Shelter", are available from E. W. Walpole, extension agricultural engineer, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware, 19711.

Helpful Hints For Harried Hort. Homeowners

Homeowners dream of reclining lazily on their backyard patio surrounded by putting-green lawn and lush flowers. The dream usually fades when yard-care begins.

But the dream doesn't have to fade—not completely anyway, according to Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware. A beautiful, useful yard with not-too-much work is possible—if you plan.

Plan first of all for privacy. Many families get only a small fraction of the possible use from their yard because it lacks privacy. Good fences do make good neighbors; often the fence builder will find the man next door doesn't want his yard peered into either. Besides, if your lawn has a few weeds and your flowers are failing, at least no one else can see them.

Your fence doesn't have to be wire or wood; mass planting of trees, hedges and shrubs can also keep you un-stared at. Both have advantages, Stevens points out. A fence will often cost the most to begin with, but it gives immediate privacy the year around, needs less space and less care. On the other hand, a shrub border creates a more subtle enclosure, is better at reducing wind and looks better to many homeowners.

When you are making your yard plan, separate the service area and the use area; you can't get along without garbage cans and clotheslines, but they don't make an inspiring view.

Use areas should be separated and uncluttered with plantings. Open, organized space within the area results in a more usable and easier to care for yard. That's your dream, remember?

Separate flower beds, shrub borders and tree masses from grassed areas for easier mowing. Redwood or treated boards put in vertically in a trench will make a good edging. Or, lay bricks flat in a sand-filled trench; try redwood lap siding for a curved edge. Railroad ties are another suggestion from Stevens.

When you pick out grass varieties, trees and shrubs, choose those that take the least care. Some species resist insect pests and disease problems better than others; some are more drought-resistant and easier to grow. Ask your county extension agent or nurseryman for advice — before you buy.

Drainage often causes problems. Improving the slope can solve surface drainage problems; digging in organic matter and sand will help soil drainage. Two or three inches of mushroom soil, peat moss, compost or other forms of organic matter and humus will improve a soil that is too heavy or too sandy, Stevens points out.

That dream gets brighter all the time.

Board members are requesting parents to make a special effort to attend the meeting on Monday evening to get first-hand information on the educational opportunities to be made available for Felton students at all grade levels. ## Good Jobs Await Grads Who Enter the Army

Local high school graduates are discovering former Army men and women are securing well-paid technical jobs on the basis of their military training, according to reports from the local U.S. Army Recruiting Service.

The local Army counselor has received queries from high school graduates who want to take advantage of the new guaranteed school program, with more applicants arriving every day. Of this group, there are already a number of men from this area who have received confirmation from Washington that they will be enlisted in the Army to attend the technical school of their choice after successfully completing basic training. There are other applications still in Washington, expected to be received in the near future.

The guaranteed program for school, offered only by the U. S. Army, is literally what it says. A man's choice of school is forwarded to Dept. of the Army, Washington, D. C., and his letter of acceptance returned direct to him indicating which date he must enlist in order to complete basic training and meet the opening date at school.

For complete information on the U. S. Army's Technical School program, see your local U. S. Army counselor: M/Sgt. Walter R. Frazier, located at 218 S. Governor's Ave., Dover, Del. or call 736-6937 or 674-1360.

Early Action Recommended To Aid Dairy Profit

Action along several lines has been taken by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman to help dairy farmers, according to Paul Hastings, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee.

First, the Secretary has recommended to the President—as a "most urgent issue"—that action be taken to reduce the volume of dairy products being imported into the United States.

Specifically, the recommendation is that the President direct the Tariff Commission to undertake an immediate investigation under Section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended, looking to the establishment of import quotas on certain dairy products not now subject to quotas.

Dairy product imports in 1966 totaled 27 billion pounds milk equivalent compared with about .9 billion pounds in 1965. Of this quantity, butterfat-sugar mixtures and Colby cheese made up about 1.8 billion pounds milk equivalent. The Secretary said this is a 300 per cent increase in dairy imports, which was largely accomplished through evasion of the current law. He said these imports are having an adverse effect upon the U. S. price-support program, and will hold down the income of American dairy farmers.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has also announced that (Continued on Page 8)

Deadline on Sewer Bid Put Off

The State Water and Air Resources Commission Wednesday gave the town of Harrington an extension of time to submit plans for a new sewer system.

The action was taken after Harrington Mayor Fulton J. Downing explained why a public hearing was not held April 14 as scheduled and asked for more time to iron out difficulties.

Downing said the extra time was needed to complete a necessary audit of the town's books, to close a transaction for purchase of the needed property and to be "sure we have the people with us on the bond issue."

The new schedule approved by the commission calls for a public hearing May 30, a referendum June 6, submission of plans by Sept. 1, commission approval or rejection by Oct. 1, awarding of contract by Nov. 15 and completion of the project by Oct. 1, 1968.

Felton School Construction Plans To Be Aired Monday Evening

A public meeting for Felton School District voters will be held in the school auditorium on Mon., April 24, at 8 p.m. Preliminary plans for the new Felton High School will be displayed at that time and members of the Board of School Trustees will answer questions concerning the proposal for increased space to relieve overcrowding, as well as increased current expense funds to finance curriculum improvements. The Felton P.T.A. is cooperating in this project.

Representatives from the firm of Dollar, Bonner, Blake and Manning, architects, will discuss preliminary plans for carrying out the educational specifications prepared by administrative officials after consultation with faculty members.

Plans call for construction of a new junior-senior high school with an initial capacity of 700 students, and will be designed for expansion to 1600 students. The building would be constructed west of the new state park lands at Gillen's Pond, where a 160 acre tract has been optional. A complete instructional and athletic program will be offered to Felton high school students if the voters approve a half-million dollar bond issue and a modest increase in current expense tax. The state has appropriated almost two million dollars to finance the proposed construction, over one million dollars of which is a special appropriation to provide for a large increase in pupils received from phased-out schools.

Board members are requesting parents to make a special effort to attend the meeting on Monday evening to get first-hand information on the educational opportunities to be made available for Felton students at all grade levels. The existing building at Felton will be used for elementary pupils when the new high school building is ready for use in the fall of 1969.

Early Action Recommended To Aid Dairy Profit

Action along several lines has been taken by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman to help dairy farmers, according to Paul Hastings, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee.

First, the Secretary has recommended to the President—as a "most urgent issue"—that action be taken to reduce the volume of dairy products being imported into the United States.

Specifically, the recommendation is that the President direct the Tariff Commission to undertake an immediate investigation under Section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended, looking to the establishment of import quotas on certain dairy products not now subject to quotas.

Dairy product imports in 1966 totaled 27 billion pounds milk equivalent compared with about .9 billion pounds in 1965. Of this quantity, butterfat-sugar mixtures and Colby cheese made up about 1.8 billion pounds milk equivalent. The Secretary said this is a 300 per cent increase in dairy imports, which was largely accomplished through evasion of the current law. He said these imports are having an adverse effect upon the U. S. price-support program, and will hold down the income of American dairy farmers.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has also announced that (Continued on Page 8)

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

Beef and pork receipts continue to be liberal, and there are a number of good buys available. Among the features are beef steaks—round sirloin and T-bone—and roasts, chuck and rump.

As for pork, wholesales have continued to tumble as receipts reached a nine week high. Across the board retails are thrifty and there are particularly excellent buys on center-cut chops and loins. Smoked ham and Boston

Butt roasts are also grand buys and should be checked when you shop. Bacon prices continue to hold firm with only occasional special here and there.

Fryers persist in giving red meats a lot of competition. Prices are definitely economical, and this versatile meat should be used often. Roasting chicken is especially priced again in many markets—both the specially bred birds for high yield of meat and market is the large fryers. The turkey market is generally steady, though some special prices may be found on 10 to 16 pound birds.

There are frequent egg specials, so check prices before you buy since the price spread between sizes may be very small. Remember, the larger size is more economical if the spread is no more than 7 cents.

Vegetable supplies are increasing slowly with ups and downs on prices. Artichokes are cheap; in fact, cheap enough to experiment with. Most of those now on local markets are free of frost damage and no only look good, but taste good too. Asparagus as arriving in increasing volume as the local growing season comes closer.

When buying this vegetable, select straight, green brittle stalks with close compact tips. When preparing it, break off each stalk as far down as it snaps easily. Remove scales with a knife and scrub with a soft brush to remove sand and dirt. Other vegetables on the best buy list are cabbage, celery, carrots, green onions and corn. Old crop potatoes and dry onions are cheaper, but green beans and peppers are still in light supply and comparatively high in price.

More watermelons are in the stores since Florida started to ship them. However, cantaloupe shipments are light and prices are high. Supplies of grapefruit are still large, since three growing areas are shipping this fruit now. Both Florida Valencia and California Navel oranges are still available in volume and prices are reasonable. Strawberry supplies are rising seasonally and supplies are liberal.

Ornamental Disease Notes

By W. J. Manning - J. W. Heuberger
Sycamore Anthracnose
 Sycamore anthracnose is caused by a fungus which "overwinters" in the buds and small cankers in many hardwood trees. Its development is favored by cool, wet spring weather. With spring rains, spores of the fungus are washed into the opening buds and infect the young leaves. The first visible symptoms are the sudden browning of individual leaves or clusters of leaves. If the spring weather remains cool and wet, most of the leaves are brown by May. These leaves fall to the ground, and the tree remains bare until late summer when a new crop of leaves is formed. Small twigs are also attacked and killed.

In addition to spoiling the beauty of trees and shrubs, this disease seriously weakens the tree over the years so that it becomes easy prey to many other troubles, particularly drought injury. Sycamore anthracnose can be controlled by spraying with any of the following fungicides at the rates shown for 100 gallons of water: Bordeaux mixture (8-8-100); Puritized Agricultural Spray (1 pint-100); Tag 331 (1/2 pint-100). Make the first application when the buds are breaking and continue application at 10 to 14-day intervals until three or four have been made. Spraying will not only control this disease but also will enhance the vigor and beauty of the growth over the years.

Canker Diseases
 Many parasitic fungi can cause cankers on trees. These cankers usually begin as small dead spots which enlarge over a period of years. As the cankers enlarge, the bark dies, shrinks and cracks. Many cankers become large enough to girdle whole limbs and even trunks, while others become just large enough to cause a decrease in the vigor of the tree.

Mechanical injuries to trees are often mistaken for cankers. As a rule, mechanical injuries tend to decrease in size over a period of time, while cankers usually become larger. Now is a good time to remove badly cankered limbs and branches. Small cankers can be cut out with a chisel. All exposed areas should be thoroughly painted with tree paint. To avoid spreading the causal agents, tools should be disinfected between cutting cankers if more than one is to be removed.

Many of the disease specimens mailed in to the department of plant pathology arrive in such poor condition that accurate diagnosis is difficult and, in some cases, impossible. Also, enough of the specimen, or specimens, is often not sent. By following a few simple steps, much of this trouble can be avoided. Collecting the Specimen(s)
 For plants showing wilting, yellowing, or dwarfing, dig up the entire plant and mail, if possible. If it cannot be mailed, bring it to the department. For plants with cankers (dead areas on wood), send the entire cankered area. If young and old cankers are present, send some of both. Cut out the cankers so there is healthy wood above and below the dead area. Don't send in twigs or portions of branches that have been dead for some time; they are useless for identification.

To collect plants for leaf spots, select leaving showing the range of symptoms from early to late stages of infection. Include a few healthy leaves. For fruit infections, select representative specimens showing early and intermediate stages of infection. Don't send specimens in advanced stages of decay. For plants with diseased fleshy organs (bulbs, corms, stolons, etc.), select fairly young diseased specimens.

Packaging and Mailing the Specimen(s)
 Wrap the fresh plant specimens in cellophane, plastic bags, wax paper or aluminum foil. Do not add moisture. If the specimens are leaves or small twigs, send them in an envelope. For larger specimens, place the wrapped specimens in a crush-proof box or mailing tube. Wrap the package in heavy paper and address to the Department of Plant Pathology, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware 19711. Mail the packaged specimen to arrive during weekdays—preferably Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday. Don't forget to place a return address on the package. Information Needed with the Specimen(s)
 List the symptoms, name of the plant, extent and severity of the disease, when first observed and weather conditions at the time disease first appeared. Also, include information on cropping sequence, seed or soil treatment, fertilization, date of planting, herbicide application and any sprays or dusts used for disease or insect control.

Country Lane Extension Club News

By Jane Everline
 On Friday, April 7 at 12:15 p.m. all members of the Country Lane Home Economics Extension Club met in the kitchen at Delaware Power & Light Co. Our hostess, Mrs. Pat Pinnell, home economist for D.P.&L. served a most delicious luncheon to our group. Our plates were so attractive with the green of stringbeans, deep red of cranberry-orange salad, yellow of candied sweet potatoes, not to mention the beef, blueberry muffins, butter, coffee and a delicious concoction of cake, fresh strawberries, whipped cream and pudding to complete this most delicious meal.

When we were finished eating, Mrs. Pinnell explained to us that she had prepared the "electronic oven". Put a glass half full of water in this oven and in seconds the water is boiling, but you can take the glass out with your bare hand. Mrs. Pinnell demonstrated the fast cooking of this oven by cooking steak, broccoli, honey buns, and crisp bacon, while we watched. There is no doubt that Mrs. Pinnell sold all of us on an electronic oven. Many thanks Pat, for the demonstration and luncheon!

On Thursday, April 13, seven members of the Country Lane Club attended the group meeting held at Todd's Community building. Gerald Vaughn and David Keifer, from the State Planning Office were the guest speakers. They told of the problems Delaware will be facing in 1980 with a population of 835,000 (twice that of today) and told us of their preliminary development plan. There was also a discussion on zoning. The Country Lane Club will meet May 2 with Mrs. Russell Bowdle at 10 o'clock.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller SAMBO'S SPRING FEVER

Don't you hear dat robin chirpin', Seem's jes like he wants to sing, 'Cause he knows he come to tell you, Dat it's sure-nuf comin' spring.

Hear dat whistle in the meadow, That we waited long to hear, It's the sign that summer's comin' When the Bob White's hoppin near.

See dat bush a turnin' yellow, And de buds on yonder tree? Dey am sendin' out de message, Spring is here for you and me.

Everything has changed so sudden, Seems just like I had a dream, Everything was white and frosty, Now dey's turning fast to green.

Bees from out the hives come buzzin', Sunlight sparkle on their wing, Maple sap must sure be runnin', Yes sir, it am sure-nuf spring.

I'se a-feelin' sort of lazy, Jest don't want to do a thing, Ceptin jest to laze around some, So I know it's sure-nuf spring.

MERE MAN

Poor Adam fell because he ate, An apple from Eve's hand. Mere man still falls for appeasance, From maids from every land.

Wife to husband: 'I'll meet you half-way. I'll admit I'm wrong if you'll admit that I'm right.'

"DEPARTING"

The experienced husband, Is the one who will know, The best time to leave is; When his wife says: "Let's go."

And finally, to end on a bewildering note, there was the woman who was trying to choose a pair of glasses from a counter full of spectacles in a variety store. After picking up and rejecting several pairs, a lady at her elbow asked: "Isn't it awfully hard to get the right glasses that way?" "Yes," agreed the woman, "especially when you're buying them for a friend."

Discover Wonderful Del.

Odessa is one of wonderful Delaware's most attractive and historically interesting small towns, and it's one of the easiest to visit, since it's just half-way between Wilmington and Dover on Rte. 13, the Delmarva Peninsula's main route. The traveler who makes a short stop-over will be rewarded by the calm pleasure of spending an hour or so in the eighteenth century.

Odessa has several small wonders of wonderful Delaware. The Corbit-Sharp House is doubtless the best-known, but no visitor should miss the David Wilson Mansion right next door.

The main section of the house, a fine example of Georgian Colonial architecture, was built in 1769 by David Wilson, a prosperous local merchant. The back wing however, is the original part of the house, having been built in 1747.

The large high-ceilinged rooms of the main portion of the house all have beautifully paneled end walls. Most of the very fine 18th century furnishings in these rooms, and in the dining-room, was bequeathed to the museum by Dr. and Mrs. J. Newbury Reynolds of Princeton, N. J. Of particular interest is a signed William Savery desk, which has an unusually ingenious secret compartment.

In the older part of the house, the kitchen fireplace has two ovens, and the smoke house built on directly behind the kitchen to cover the ovens and to make use of the cooking smoke. Upstairs in the older wing is a room furnished with possessions and mementos of Mary Corbit Warner whose will established the museum in 1923.

Two rooms of the Mansion, one of them a 1937 addition house the Corbit Library, founded in 1847 and the first free library in Delaware. Until 1924 the library was housed in the town school house and was moved to the David Wilson Mansion under the terms of Mrs. Warner's will.

The David Wilson Mansion is open to the public, from April 1 to December 1, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesdays through Saturdays, and on Sundays from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. The Corbit-Sharp House, next door, is open during the same hours. There is a small admission fee charged for each. To reach both houses, turn East on Main Street in Odessa at the traffic light on Route 13. Also well worth a visit in Odessa is the Friends Meeting House, just west of town on Rte. 301 North (Main Street, too). It was built in 1783 by David Wilson, and is said to be the smallest Quaker meeting house in the United States.

FENCE TALK

By George K. Vapaa

Kent County farming has seen many changes in the last 85 years. Here are some figures from the 1880 farm census as compared to those of 1964.

There were 2,473 farms in Kent County in 1880 and 1,216 in 1964. Some 319,609 acres were in farms earlier as compared to 232,124 acres in 1964. This is out of a total of 380,800 acres in Kent County. Average size of 1880 farms was 129 acres and is about 190 acres today.

I'm not sure what the technical definition of a farm was in 1880, but we can assume that some land was rested or untilled each year on every farm. But with modern fertilizers, the use of lime and other practices, we can build fertility as we crop our lands heavily. The best farms today are those which are intensively cropped.

We had 7,332 horses, 1,415 mules and 913 working oxen in 1880. The farm census no longer counts these animals separately. On a pure guess I would estimate that we now have 2500 light horses for harness racing, flat racing and pleasure riding; no more than 100 draft horses used by the Amish or for snaking logs out of the woods; less than 25 mules and no oxen.

On a percentage basis, farm sizes were about the same in 1880 and 1964. About 57% were and are over 100 acres in size. But we now have 13 farms over 100 acres as compared to three farms of this size prior to the turn of the century. In general, we can say that the larger farms are cropped more heavily than the smaller farms, because of large power machines available today. Our small farms on the other hand may be part-time farms today, with the owner holding a salaried job in town as well.

We have more total cows today, but on fewer farms. The day of the family cow is gone. Sheep numbers have dropped from 6,300 to less than 1000, reflecting fewer pasture acres. Hog numbers are about the same, about 12,000 head, and again concentrated on fewer farms. You may remember that the general farmers once kept two fattening hogs, one to eat and one to sell. He hoped that the hog he sold would pay for the grain he bought for both of them. These hogs too were the family garbage disposal system.

Finally, less than half the farms were cropped by the owners in days gone by. We have 15 per cent tenants today, mostly cash rent. This seems to be increasing again as larger machines come into general use. Most tenant farmers in by-gone days were share renters, the reasons being that cash was scarce and unstable in value due to wars and depressions.

If you want to read more of our earlier agriculture, look in the 250th Dove celebration booklet to come out soon.

It's time to check your last year's pesticides to be sure they are still good. There is no set time limit on how long a pesticide will stay useable after being opened, but here are some indicators that you can use to check them.

1. Aerosols are usually good as long as they will spray. If you have any doubts after trying out-of-doors, dispose of can by placing in refuse container for dump disposal.

2. If oil or emulsifiable concentrates do not form a milky solution, but curdle or separate out when mixed with water, do not use them.

3. Dusts and granulars that show signs of excessive lumping when package is opened should not be used. Wettable powders that are too old form lumps and mix poorly with water.

Soil insecticides should be used with special care because of residue problems. Don MacCreary, our extension entomologist, has a caution on corn root insects in "Late News on Insects and Diseases".

The problems does not persist on heavily tilled ground as a general rule. But you can almost depend on trouble if you are planning to plow up sod ground and put in corn. So he suggests the use of chlordane according to label instructions for control.

Other insecticides such as diazinon, aldrin, dieldrin and parathion are cleared for use on corn ground.

The Late News report comes out weekly during the growing season. Call us if you want to receive current insect and disease for Delaware crops.

Looking for a job as a part-time census taker? The Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service will be doing a special survey in late May and early June. They need a few enumerators. The work is too early in the season for most college students. Training starts in Ocean City, Md., on May 22.

The pay is $13 per day plus 6 cents per mile of travel on the job. Our office can give you more information if you are interested. This sort of work comes up at various times and can fit into a homemaker's schedule or that of a retired person.

Plow down application of anhydrous ammonia may take hold in Kent County. The chief advantages are low cost and convenience in comparison with other methods of supplying crop nitrogen.

Andydrous ammonia is the material from which most other nitrogen fertilizers are made. We believe the cost per pound will be about 6 or 7 cents compared to 11 cents or more for other materials.

All-Risk Crop Insurance is the answer to a farmer's question: Where will the money come from if there is no crop this year? The "if" is much too real for some Delaware farmers in recent drought years.

Federal crop insurance can become available in Kent County if farmers want it strongly. But we must apply within two weeks if we want it as early as 1968.

What does it do and what does it cost? Basically, it assures a 75 per cent cash return when premiums have been paid. Assuming a 60 bushel per acre normal yield over the past ten years, then the farmer can be paid for 45 bushels per acre at three levels of cost: 80 cents, $1 or $1.25 per bushel. This means a $45 per acre return at $1 per bushel and a premium cost of about $3 per acre. In other words the premium cost is about 6 per cent of the possible guaranteed return.

Several conditions apply. Actual county experience determines the cost. About 93 per cent of the premium are used for insurance payments. The individual with few losses can earn lower premium rates.

Crop insurance can help a farmer get needed crop loans by lowering the crop growing risks. Premium payments are cash expenses like fertilizer, seed and interest and so are tax deductible.

Visit or call office on the second floor of the Dover post-office if you want more information (telephone 736-1448).

Gerald Konings is a true citizen of the world. Born two years ago in Delaware of Dutch parents, he is now a resident of Geneva, Switzerland. He and his parents, Bert and Arja, are guests in our home this past week.

Some folks may remember that Bert first came to Delaware about six years ago to learn about our broiler business. But his command of four languages, English, French, German and Dutch suggested that his best future might be in international fields. So he trained in food distribution at the University of Delaware. His work now is with DuPont as a technical representative in the film division at Geneva. But for two weeks now he is back for meetings and conferences.

Let's return to Gerald. He is just beginning to talk. His parents speak English to him, but lapse into Dutch when they talk quickly between themselves. He plays with Swiss children who speak French. Gerald as at the one or two syllable stage: "Voilà!" (French for there!) "thank you or merci"; "please".

My wife reminded Gerald's mother that it was time to trim his beetle haircut. "Oh, but I just did after you told me the first time", Arja answered. It seems that European boys wear their hair longer than Americans.

Nuclear energy is now being used safely to develop new kinds of paints. Mrs. Marion MacDonald, our 4-H Club Agent, has received a supply of seeds which have been treated with different levels of radiation. Would you or your children like to try a little experiment?

We will give you a small supply of seeds and an instruction manual. The manual tells you how to sow and care for the plants that emerge. You will see differences and the project will be entirely safe. Radiation treatment damages some plant cells which results in new kinds of growth. The damage ceases when radiation treatment stops.

Years ago I wrote a college term paper with this title: "The Influence of X-Rays and Radiation Emanations on the Bud Mutations (Changes) of Horticultural Plants". I was looking for the longest title for the term paper. Strangely enough, I looked for the shortest possible title on the next term paper: "Herbs". It turned out to be the longest term paper in order to do justice to the subject.

The art of growing cucumbers is being further refined as we shoot for higher yields. Hybrid varieties have come into general use, ever something called gynococious hybrids, which Webster defines as pistillate or female plants.

Fertilizer needs are heavy. So we suggest the use of a soil test. But if test results are not available, plow down about 500 lbs. of 5-10-15 fertilizer, band on 250 lbs. of 10-10-10 at planting, and sidedress just before the vines start to run with 250 lbs. of 20-10-10. Heavy rainfall or frequent irrigation may call for another side dressing.

Most commercial growers prefer to irrigate to assure top yields. Frequent cultivation and chemical weed controls are called for now days. Diseases and insects require the use of several pesticides. And since cucumbers are insect pollinated, it often pays to have a few bee hives handy.

THINK OF YOUR TELEPHONE AND YOUR DIRECTORY TOGETHER. IT'S HOW THEY WORK BEST.

Use them together, and you'll make calling easier for yourself, more accurate. For example, the Pink Pages section of your telephone directory tells you how to get the right area code . . . everything you need to know about dialing local and long distance calls.

The White Pages of your book, of course, contain an up-to-date record of area telephone listings. And if you underline numbers the first time you look them up, you'll find them faster next time. Also, transfer frequently called numbers to your Personal Directory—it saves time and provides a ready reference.

We want you to get the most out of your telephone service. One very good way is to remember: the telephone book is the first place to look . . . for numbers and information.

D. Porter, J. Parker Win Races in Penns Grove, N. J.

The flashing spikes of two very young Harrington boys carried them to impressive victories in a youth track meet at Penns Grove, N. J., on Saturday afternoon.

The entry list included embryo tracksters from Philadelphia, Wilmington, Pennsylvania, Pennsville and Penns Grove, N. J. (That Wm. Penn sure got around, didn't he?), West Berlin, N. J., other New Jersey towns and 15 Harringtonians.

Danny Porter was competing in the Bantam Class for boys 9 and under. The local third grader must love to run because, on a dozen occasions last fall, he ran the 2.4 miles cross-country course at Killen's Pond and finished ahead of several boys as old as sixteen.

In the 50 yard dash Porter was second in a trial heat and thus qualified for the final. In the final he won the second place ribbon.

In the Bantam 660 yard run, a rival sprinted to a huge early lead but Porter didn't panic. He kept up a good, steady pace and eventually started to gain. When his larger rival reached the quarter mile mark, the local lad was right there with him. Danny started to pass only to have the leader jump sideways into his path. A quick move inside to the pole and Porter was on his way to a thirty yard victory in a fast two minutes and twelve seconds. Now 10 years old he will move up to the Midget Class (10-11).

In Saturday's Midget activity, Chris Mertz, 10, closed fast to finish second in a qualifying heat of the 100 yard dash. In Heat No. 2, Chip Moore, 10, got off to a good start and held on to nip Jackie D. Parker.

In the 100 yard final Parker picked up the third place ribbon for Harrington. Although, Moore and Mertz finished out of the money it was impressive, that tiny Harrington had three of the six qualifiers.

In the Midget 660 Jackie D. came into his own. The 100 winner was a tall, well-built lad. When another "rabbit" shot out to a big early lead, the Harrington lad tucked into fourth place and bided his time. The 100 winner was on his heels in fifth place. After 250 yards the leader slowed and Parker and "shadow" increased the pace and began to gain. Nearing the 400 yard mark, the pair passed two boys to move into second and third. Forty yards later they caught the early pacesetter and Parker shifted into high gear to draw well away from his tall rival in the last 220 yards. His winning time was a swift 2.03.

The poise, courage and running ability of Porter and Parker left many observers with the thought that these Harrington boys have a bright future in the track sports.

In the 12-13 (Junior) half mile run Harrington's entries were giving away upwards of a year to the opposition, who in some cases were junior high school track team performers. The local fifth and sixth graders ran near their best practice times except for newcomer, Wardell Davis, who dropped from 2.56 of 2.45, a fine improvement. Marvin May another recent addition was in third place until a collision forced him to retire. Tentative next meet, May 6, at Penns Grove.

Felton Nine Wins Two; Greenwood Loses Two

Felton's Green Devils are off and pacing again with victories over Bridgeville 8-2 and Delmar 3-0. Bob Dill and Chris Moore have pitched in both victories. Dill has three hits thus far. Quail, Thompson, Palmer, Sipple, Shelman, have two each.

Greenwood's Foresters have bowed to Dover Air 9-0 in a no-hitter tossed by the Falcon's Jerry Taylor and 6-1 to a two-hitter thrown by Delmar's Greg Budd.

Harrington Bowling League

Congratulations, Jarrell Fuel, you dood it!

Jarrell Fuel wrapped up the title in this third Tues., April 11, by taking three games from Kent Gas. They needed that win badly as their big lead of a couple weeks ago was suddenly whittled away, by a couple bad nights. By picking up three games last week, they managed to pad their lead to five and a half games. It's a good thing, too, as they dropped three of their four games this week, to eke out a narrow victory in this final third of bowling.

Wally's Garage ended this third in second place, picking up three games Tuesday night to solidify their standing. It looks like the finals are going to be rough and should prove very exciting.

Hamilton Fund overtook Acme for third place winning three more games. Acme could only come up with one game to their credit and dropped down to the fourth spot.

Kent Gas finished in the fifth place spot, getting three of their four games. This moved them over Wilson Electric who dropped down to the sixth place.

Kay's Beauty Salon, McKnatt Funeral Home, Taylor & Messick and Penn. R. R. could not advance from their standings and remained in the seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth places, respectively.

Worth mentioning from last weeks bowling was the fine showing by G. Hobbs who bowled a great 236 game and another game of 203 to amass a very fine total series of 608 to lead last week's scoring. This week Hobbs also rolled a very good 211 game in the high game department.

Also in last week's bowling were very fine games by H. Tibbitt (218) and I. Hoffman (207). Tibbitt with a 575 series and R. Gray with a 560 series concluded last week's bowling scores.

H.H.S. Nine Drops Two Games

Harrington High School's baseball Lions are off to a rocky start with losses to Dover Air (11-3) and Bridgeville (4-2). The locals were held to two hits in each contest. Gordy Jarrell, Chester Scott, John Winkler and Steve Welch own the bingles.

Welch and Howard Brown pitched against Bridgeville holding the Mustangs to four hits.

DAIRY PROFIT

present purchase prices for dairy products will be continued. Also, dairy products acquired by the Commodity Credit Corporation under the dairy support program will not be offered for sale back to the domestic market at less than 110 per cent of the purchase prices. This will provide a wider margin for prices received by farmers for manufacturing milk to rise before government inventories can be sold. Such stocks now are relatively small, but purchases are being made steadily.

On October 14, 1966, the Secretary announced that support prices of $4 a hundred-weight for manufacturing milk and 68 cents a pound for butterfat in farm-separated cream will be continued in the 1967-68 marketing year. The support prices had been increased in April 1966 from $3.24 to $3.50 a hundred-weight for manufacturing milk and from 59.4 cents to 61.6 cents a pound for butterfat. Then, in June they were raised again to $4 and to 68 cents, respectively. Production was on a downturn, and many farmers were going out of milk production.

While price-support purchases of butter and cheese during the current marketing year started in October 1966, they did not amount to much until December when production began to out-run demand. Purchases now total 111 million pounds of butter and 44 million pounds of cheese. Also, 686 million pounds of nonfat dry milk have been purchased for price support. In addition, 10 million pounds of butter and 15 million pounds of cheese have been bought under Section 709 of the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965, which authorizes the Secretary to buy dairy products at market prices for school lunch and other uses.

COOKING CONTEST

Crisco through store displays and TV commercials, Kelvinator and Sunbeam will supply the same in prizes and cooking equipment.

All of these efforts when added to what Demarva Poultry Industry has been building through the years have brought us to a contest level that is a real claim to fame for Delmarva and does so much to promote its broiler-fryer industry.

Food communicators throughout the country write thousands of articles that reach millions of people about this major food event. A great part of the phenomenal increased consumption of pounds per person in 1950123... broiler - fryer chicken — from 5 pounds per person in 1950 to more than 30 pounds per person today — has been attributed to publicity resulting from this Contest.

STATE DAY

extension agent, will act as the inquiring homemaker, asking the questions that concern today's homemakers.

Carlos Page, teacher at Middle School, Dover, and a native of Panama, will speak about life in Panama, during the morning session of State Day. Mrs. Earl White, Bridgeville, president of the Delaware Home Economics Council, will report on the national convention she attended last year.

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. in the Capital Grange Hall, Dover. Sponsored annually by the Delaware Home Economics Extension Council, the sessions are open to all Delaware homemakers. Reservations should be made before April 29 with Mrs. Francis Raughley, R. D. 5, Box 36, Dover, Delaware 19901.

Mrs. Warren Baker, Middletown, vice president of the Delaware Home Economics Council, is the chairman of this year's event. Mrs. James Marvel, Georgetown, is also serving on the program committee.
