

Hearing on Sewer Referendum Will Be Held Friday, May 19

Harrington will hold a referendum to float a bond issue to improve the sanitary-sewer system Sat., June 24. A public hearing on the issue will be held at 8 p.m., Fri., May 19, at the Fire House.

The document stated proceeds from the bond issue were to be used to provide pumps, improve the pumping stations, acquire land, make repairs to the sewer system, and build a new sewage-disposal plant. It also provided for extension of sewer mains to the several unserved areas in the community. A grant of $100,000 is expected from the Delaware Water and Air Resources Commissions, with federal grants also being sought. A referendum, to float a $500,000-bond issue for sewer improvements, was soundly trounced Sat., Oct. 29, 1966.

Joseph Booth Fleming

By Albert C. Price

Joe, as he is fondly known among his many friends, was born Jan. 12, 1875, in the house at 301 Vernon Road and had resided there all of his 92 years with the exception of three-and-a-half years he spent in Philadelphia and New York City as a streetcar conductor.

This nonagenarian began work prior to the turn of the century, for his uncle, Ezekiel Fleming, as a blacksmith in the blacksmith and wheelwright shop just east of his grist mill, now the Harrington Milling Company.

After returning from New York City in 1910, in which he remarked that during his one-and-a-half year stay he met only one person that he knew among hundreds of thousands of people and that being a Mr. Wix, who was employed at the John Wanamaker store, he started working in the tin shop of Joseph Callaway's Hardware Store and Tinshop in the building on the corner where Taylor's Hardware Store is situated.

In 1921, he married his wife, Florence, formerly of Bridgeville, which has proven to be a very happy marriage for 46 years.

In 1923, he went into business for himself, sharing a building (now occupied by Fairlane Trading Co.) on Clark Street. His tinshop was on one side and the other part was occupied by Fred Harrington, a former undertaker, until 1939 when this building was leased to the American Stores Company.

He then moved his tinshop to the small building next door (now occupied by William W. Shaw's dry-cleaning establishment) and remained in business there until his retirement in 1956.

A lifelong Republican, he first voted for President William McKinley in 1896. He laughingly told of how he was denied his privilege of casting his vote because the election judge did not believe him to be 21 years of age, and that he had to go home and bring the family Bible down to the election polls to certify his age. He also boasts of voting in every presidential election since that date.

Fleming recalls many changes in our community over the last 75 years, for example, he can vividly remember when all that land east of Commerce Street was woodland owned by the late L. Booker Harrington's father who sold much of this timber to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for ties when the rail line came through Harrington.

He also commented that his father, the late Charles Fleming, was the brakeman of the first train to run through here in 1856.

Having no special philosophy for his long years of life other than working hard, being honest, and generally taking good care of himself, he states that he never smoked a cigarette, however, he does like to chew tobacco and enjoys an occasional cigar. Other than being slightly hard of hearing, he possesses a keen mind, has good eyesight, and still has a spring in his step.

ALUMNI BANQUET SLATED FOR TOMORROW

The Harrington High School Alumni Association will hold its annual banquet Saturday.

LANDOWNERS TO VOTE TUESDAY ON MARSHY HOPE TAX DITCH

The public hearing and referendum for the Marshy Hope Tax Ditch is slated for Tuesday. It will be held in the Harrington School fieldhouse at 8 p.m.

One tenth of Kent County, or almost 38,000 acres, are drained by this watershed. It is located in the southwestern portion of the county, and reaches north to the Whitesburg-Felton road at Hollandsville, and eastward as far as Harrington and Farmington. More than 70 landowners depend on this ditch system to carry off excess water. State and federal funds will pay for the construction. The landowners, if they approve the referendum, will pay a small annual ditch tax to keep it in good condition.

A technician will be at the Harrington City Hall May 11, 12, 15 and 16 to show how landowners may be affected by these proposals. The hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Arts and Crafts A Feature at 20th Chicken Festival

Dover will be a hub-bub of activities during the days of the Delmarva Chicken Festival being held there this year June 21, 22, 23 and 24.

Mrs. William H. (Judy) Smith has assembled a wealth of talented personalities and materials in the field of arts and crafts. Demonstrations and displays will be located in the science building of the Dover Middle School on Delaware Avenue.

Mrs. Smith herself is renowned in the field. She has studied china painting in this country and abroad. She has attended the International Convention of China Painters and holds office in the Mid-Atlantic China Painting Teachers' Association as well as the International China Painting Teachers' Association. She is serving as Eastern Regional chairman for the International group. Judy says she has tried all media of the arts but always goes back to the china painting. She is presently teaching five classes in Dover.

In addition to her own presentation of china painting at the festival, Mrs. Smith has arranged for Huber Hogue of Milton, to show a chicken mobile figure with which he and his art classes at Milton School have established quite a reputation.

Mrs. Jane Brooks of Dover will do silhouette cuttings and make them available to models on the spot if desired.

Mrs. Elizabeth Young of Dover will show tray painting and chair stenciling.

There will be portrait painting and demonstrations and displays of ceramics, tile painting, chair caning and Swedish weaving.

Girl Scouts and 4-H Club members will perform skills that they have mastered in their group activities.

A panoramic egg that Mrs. Smith has designed and developed will be on display and available for sale.

Another featured attraction in this same location will be a display of table decorations under the direction of Mrs. Richard Alexander, representing the DAFB Officers Wives Club. Set-up will be similar to a flower show with classes and awards. Different arrangements will be used each day.

Delmarva Poultry Industry will have newspaper clippings old pictures and old program booklets from the 21 years of Delmarva Chicken Festivals on display in this same area.

LEVY COURTS TO DISCUSS WELFARE COSTS

Government officials from Delaware's three counties will meet Friday afternoon at 3 in Kent County Levy Court chambers to discuss welfare cost problems.

The meeting, set up by Glenn A. Richter, Kent Levy Court president, will bring together the governments of Kent, Sussex and New Castle counties to discuss ways in which they can reduce the costs to their respective welfare services. The state now pays for half of most welfare costs and bills the three counties proportionately for the remainder.

Also scheduled to attend the meeting is State Sen. Andy Foltz, R-Dover.

At their regular meeting in Georgetown Tuesday, the Sussex commissioners agreed to attend the Dover meeting, both to discuss the Foltz legislation and Kent's planning and zoning proposal.

Sussex officials, indicating they were hazy about what their Kent counterparts hope to accomplish seemed reluctant to get involved in welfare issues.

R. Glen Mears, a commissioner, said "That's one of the main reasons the Levy Court was established: to take care of the indigent and sick . . . and to turn that over to the state altogether might be wrong. I don't know."

However, the Levy Court members agreed that further deliberation on the topic should be tabled until the tri-county session Friday.

Foltz is seeking the support of the counties for a bill he plans to introduce in the General Assembly next week. The bill would have the state assume the full cost of all welfare services.

The Kent Levy Court Tuesday unanimously voted to back Foltz. According to the senator, the state would need an additional $3 million a year to pay for all

Armyworms Due To March

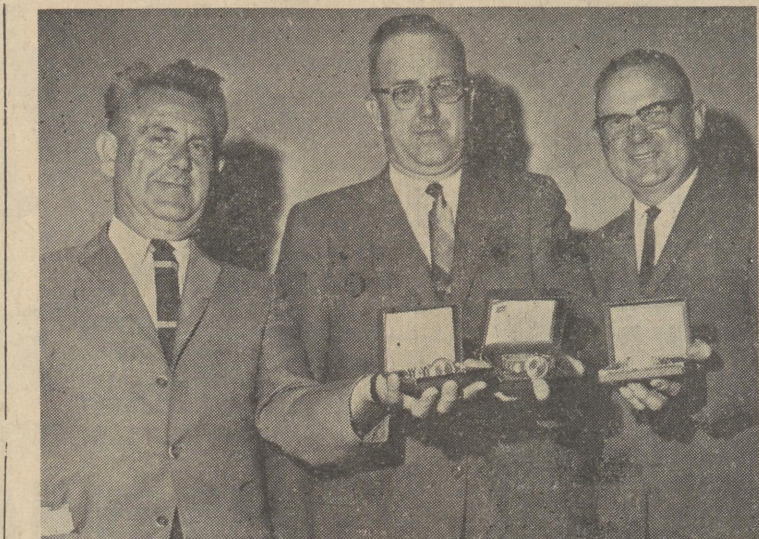

Small grain growers, in particular, should watch out for armyworms in the spring, according to Dr. Dale Bray, chairman of the department of entomology and applied ecology at the University of Delaware.

Armyworms like cool, moist weather, he points out. The cool weather this spring and the recent rains may increase armyworm outbreaks. Although they are not a general pest every year, some of these insects show up every spring; adult moths of the armyworm were taken in traps in Delaware in April.

Young armyworms are thin, active, bluish-green worms with a black line. Larger worms up to one and a half inches long, are hairless and green with dark stripes. Some of the full grown worms in Delaware have a decided pink cast.

Fortunately, armyworms don't feed on everything that grows.

City Changes Pay Program

The City Council Monday night canceled a schedule for compensation of city employees, established salaries of present employees, and agreed salary changes would have to come before the Council.

The pay scale committee, chaired by Raymond Dale, and also comprising Councilmen John Satterfield, and Benjamin Hughes, found all its recommendations accepted.

The salaries and wages of employees is listed as follows: City Clerk and Acting City Manager, Mrs. Kathryn Derrickson, raised from $70 to $85 per week, retroactive to Feb. 27 when she took office.

Office clerk, Mrs. Townsend Masten, $1.55 per hour, no change. Street help—Norval M. Nichols, $1.80 per hour, unchanged; Earl Thomas, $1.50 per hour, unchanged.

Sever and water departments—Theodore Rifenburg, $60 per week to $75.

Police Department—Chief Franklin Rogers, $102.50 per week, unchanged. Corporal Robert Darling, $82.50, unchanged. Patrolman George Collins, $72.50 per week to $77.50.

With the exception of the salary of the acting city manager, the salary changes will be effective this week.

The previous pay scale called for automatic increases.

Restaurant Owners To Be Hosted By DPI Monday

Mon., May 15, all restaurant owners and operators on Delmarva are invited to the Seaford Golf and Country Club in Seaford, for an evening that is being hosted by the Delmarva Poultry Industry Association.

That familiar bearded figure who made a fortune with his famous "Kentucky Fried Chicken" Colonel Harlan Sander, will appear on a panel along with Roy Ritter who has been outstandingly successful with serving chicken in the southern part of the United States.

These prominent personages will offer ideas and suggestions for Delmarva restaurant personnel who are interested in serving more chicken with greater profit.

This valuable information will be interspersed with fine food and good fun as the poultry association offers promotional aids to all food service operators that care to participate.

All restaurant managers on the Delmarva Peninsula are invited and urged to attend but requested to notify the Delmarva Poultry Industry office in Georgetown, if they plan to be there.

Allen Drummond Awarded FTA Scholarship

Allen Drummond, a senior at Greenwood High School, is the 1967 recipient of the Ruth L. Crawford Memorial Future Teachers of America (FTA) Scholarship, it was announced today.

Mrs. Marion L. Bickford, Dover, president of the sponsoring organization, the Delaware State Education Association (DSEA), said that Allen was selected from a large field of excellent candidates. The award carries a cash allowance of $300. It is given annually to a Delaware High school graduate who is planning to enter teacher education and who has been a member of an affiliated FTA Chapter. DSEA sponsors 33 high school FTA Chapters.

The scholarship was recently renamed in memory of Mrs. Crawford who had been an outstanding teacher of English in Delaware schools for 35 years.

Allen Drummond has been president of the Greenwood Student Council and class president during his senior year. In addition, he has been active in the Future Farmers of America Chapter, Math Club, Chess Club, Drama Club, Civil Defense team, and the Future Teachers of America. In past years he has participated in varsity basketball and varsity baseball. He ranks fourth scholastically in a class of 38 seniors with an average of 93.5% for his high school years.

"A teaching career is a career of challenge. A person must be endowed with such qualities as patience and understanding to meet the trials presented by a lifetime of teaching," the recipient said during an interview. "I am especially interested in elementary children," he concluded.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Drummond, he spent his entire life on a farm near Greenwood. Allen has been accepted at the University of Delaware in teacher education.

Civic Groups Study Clean-up, Paint-up Week

Mayor Fulton J. Downing, at a meeting of City Council and representatives of civic organizations Monday evening, proclaimed May as "cleanup and paint-up week."

"The idea is to induce property owners to make a little greater effort to improve their properties," explained the mayor. After asking civic organizations to "help carry the ball," he added he wanted organizations to publicize the event and conclude, "Each little bit helps."

The first tangible result of the mayor's campaign came from Jackie Wyatt, representing the Junior Chamber of Commerce, who asked for, and received, permission from the City to paint its stop signs and standards. City employees will be instructed to co-operate, commented the mayor.

Also present were James Moore, chairman of the Harrington Planning Commission; Mrs. James McDonald, of the Business & Professional Women's Club; Carrington H. Burgess, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Millard Cooper, of the Harrington New Century Club.

Mrs. Cooper said her organization was working on several projects, namely: To install a light at U.S. 13 and Delaware Avenue extended; to install a traffic light at Commerce and West Streets, and to secure permission to plant trees and flowers on the Brown and Townsend

Curfew Recommendations By Clergy To Be Studied By Council

A curfew will be imposed and enforced, if the Harrington Ministerium has its way. Appearing before the City Council Monday night were the Rev. Lorraine Ottinger, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene; the Rev. William Halliburton, pastor of Harrington Baptist Church; the Rev. William Garrett, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, and the Rev. Quay D. Rice, Jr., vicar of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. The last-named, serving as spokesman for the group, cited its reasons for desiring a curfew enforcement on teenagers as roof hopping and vandalism, and removal of small cars from one street to another. Enforcement of the law, explained the Rev. Rice, would cut down likelihood of delinquency and place more responsibility on the parents. Furthermore, the proposal suggested children, 16 years and under, be off the streets at 10 p.m., Sunday thru Thursday, and at 11 p.m., Friday, Saturday. Children, from 16 to 18, were to be off the streets at 11 p.m., Sunday thru Thursday, and at 12 p.m., Friday and Saturday.

LEVY COURT RECEIVES PROPOSED HOME-RULE LEGISLATION

The Kent County Levy Court Tuesday was presented proposed home-rule legislation that closely resembles state laws already covering New Castle County government powers.

There was also some indication Tuesday that the Sussex Levy Court may model its zoning and planning proposals on the Kent program. The two units and the New Castle County Council will hold a joint meeting Friday.

Included in the 73-page Kent package are provisions which would: —Establish a county merit system.

—Establish a regional planning commission. —Establish countywide zoning and a zoning commission. —Authorize the county to set up garbage disposal and incinerator plants.

—Appoint a county engineer to supervise all county public works. According to Roy S. Shiels, the governing body's lawyer, these provisions were taken virtually intact from laws covering New Castle County.

Other sections would extend the Levy Court's power to deal with increased revenue sources. Glenn A. Richter, Levy Court president, several times has indicated the Levy Court feels the cost of running the county should not be borne entirely by property owners.

One section would allow the county to set a maximum rate of $5 on its capitation tax. The current rate is $1.

Another would change the length of terms for Levy Court commissioners from two to four years and would provide that two be elected during one general election and the remaining three during the following general election.

It also would have one commissioner elected from each state representative district in the county rather than at large as is the practice now.

The package also would separate the establishing of sewage districts from the section now combining them with water districts in Kent County.

Although Shiels is pushing for Levy court approval as soon as possible of the legislative package, the five members Tuesday decided not to act until they have had a chance to study the measures. Richter said the Levy Court also wants to discuss the package and similar proposed legislation being prepared by Sussex County with the Sussex Levy Court to see if each package might not contain sections that could be used in the other.

He said the two governing bodies would discuss the home-rule measures during a meeting Friday.

Shiels commented that the sooner the proposal is introduced in the General Assembly, the better the chances of its passage this session.

He noted that if the measures do not get through the legislature this year, there would be a two-year wait before the county could try again, since next year's session confines itself to legislation that has statewide application.

The Sussex Levy Court, anxious for some months to introduce its own zoning and planning package into the General Assembly, may model its proposal after the Kent bill.

John M. LeCato, liaison man between Sussex officials and the State Planning Office, urged the county commissioners to discuss the possibility at a Friday session with Kent aides.

The Friday afternoon meeting has been called primarily to discuss a bill to relieve counties of their welfare burden, but LeCato

State Police Promote 19

The state highway commission Wednesday approved 19 state police promotions, including three troop commanders, and decided to select a new police superintendent June 7.

The decision on the superintendent selection was confirmed by Henry T. Price, chairman of the commission, who said that since Col. Eugene B. Ellis is retiring on October 1, "I think we should get started on a successor as soon as possible."

Ellis actually will leave his duties in September on vacation. Price declined to comment on who Ellis' successor will be. Other highway commissioners were also tightlipped on the subject.

However, the rumor is that the new superintendent will come from Kent County and he may be Capt. Charles G. Lamb of Smyrna or Capt. Francis E. Melvin, also of Smyrna. Capt. Warren E. Shueler of the Dover area is also being considered.

A high-ranking Democratic politician said Wednesday it is very likely that Gov. Charles L. Terry, Jr., also of Kent County, will first be consulted.

Price said that whoever is named next month will be directed to work with Ellis until he leaves.

I think it will be important for the new man to become acquainted with the position, and he can do this with the cooperation of Col. Ellis," Price said.

Wednesday's promotions, including the new troop commanders, are effective Monday.

In the meantime, Lt. Col. George F. Schmalhofer retires today. He is the operations officer and the second-ranking officer in the state police.

His post will remain vacant until July 1, because with his retirement, money for the salary of the job runs out for the remainder of the fiscal year.

The new troop commanders are: Thomas F. Buckmaster, of Rolling Park, near Wilmington, from lieutenant to captain and commander of Troop 1, Penny Hill. He succeeds Capt. Donald

New Vegetable Soybeans Released To Growers

Verde (verd' eh), a new green-seeded edible soybean, is now available to Delaware growers, according to Dr. Henry W. Crittenden, plant pathologist at the University of Delaware, in charge of the research program leading to development of the new variety.

The release was announced by the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station and the Crops Research Division, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Verde has a sweet, nutlike flavor that should give it a popular place on the American dinner table, Crittenden believes. Vegetable soybeans will be a new treat for Americans since, in the past, cooking oil and meat imitations were the only major food uses of soybeans. The high protein content of the Verde bean—more than 40 per cent—make it an especially valuable addition to any diet.

One of only two green-seeded soybean varieties, Verde reaches maturity for processing 85 days and can be combined in 118 days. Tested for three years in Delaware and one year regionally, it

Summer Institute In Conservation of Natural Resources

As the bus slows to turn off Route 28, six miles west of Georgetown, a voice rings out, "Bring your climbing irons tomorrow, we may need to top a spar tree." They did not top any trees the next day for they were school teachers not lumber jacks, but they did study woodland management in the field. These were the students in the very successful AG 600 course last summer.

For the second year this three-week combination lecture-field trip course on the natural resources of Delaware is scheduled by the University of Delaware Division of University Extension at the Agricultural Substation in Georgetown from July 10 through July 28. In AG 600 classroom lectures comprise one-third of the course with the remaining time devoted to seeing Delaware's resources in the field and studying conservation measures.

For detailed information and application forms write the Delaware Conservation Education Association, Box 45, Dover, Delaware 19901. Students completing the course are eligible to receive three semester hours of undergraduate or graduate credit. To earn graduate credit a student must be admitted to the College of Graduate Studies. Application for admission forms are available upon request and must be received by the College of Graduate Studies prior to May 19.

All student expenses will be paid by the Delaware Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts and other agencies and groups interested in the conservation of natural resources.

Interested persons should apply as soon as possible since the enrollment is restricted to interested Delaware school teachers and a bus load is the limit.

Scout Troop 76 Host to Parents

Harrington Troop #76, sponsored by the Harrington Lions Club, recently held a Parent and Award Night in the local Scout meeting hall. Scoutmaster, Roland Hitchens, assisted by Bill Walls, Theodore Layton, Russell Blades, Howell Hitchens, together with a large group of Scouts, had arranged a very interesting program. In keeping with the theme of the program, a large canoe was on display for the parents to view. Charles Peck, Lions Club Institutional Representative for the Troop, showed a film made by Bill Walls of the boys on a recent camping and canoeing trip to Camp Horseshoe, located on the Octoraro River in Pennsylvania.

For many of the boys, this was their first experience of canoeing in white water. The enthusiasm for canoeing displayed by this troop is high. The sponsor, the Harrington Lions Club, has generously consented to purchase for this troop five canoes so that the boys can enjoy many more canoeing experiences. The canoes previously had to be rented from Camp Rodney. This canoeing film of Troop 76 is available for any Club or organization to view by contacting the Scoutmaster. Lion Club members Leonard Taylor, Post Committee chairman, Donald McKnatt, Troop Committee chairman, and Lewis Kemp, Neighborhood Commissioner, also attended the gathering.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the following Scouts received advancement awards, presented by Charles Peck who commended each one on his achievement in scouting:

Tenderfoot Award—Keith Layton, John Knapp.
Second Class—Anthony Kibler, Ronnie Rapp, Hal Blades, Danny Hitchens, Eddie Yoder, Robin Callahan.

First Class — Dale Motter, Dennis Layton, John Forbes, James Russell.

Star — Steve Gannon.
Merit Badges — Steve Gannon, for canoeing; John Brown, for cooking; Joe Gannon, cooking; Billy Walls, citizenship in the nation; Glenn Layton, personal fitness, canoeing, safety; Dale Motter, woodworking, canoeing; Dennis Layton, personal fitness, canoeing, woodworking; Louis Kemp, canoeing; Chuck Peck, canoeing.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Roland Hitchens and Mrs. Theodore Layton, and other parents.

Phase Three of Wesley Expansion Program Begins

The trustees of Wesley College in their Spring meeting, April 25, acted to move into phase three of the development of Wesley College, according to Dr. Robert H. Parker, president of Wesley College. The expansion program was initiated in 1957 and aims for completion by the centennial year, 1972-73.

The first phase, between 1957 and 1960 saw three buildings, Slaybaugh Hall, Budd Hall and Gooding Hall, constructed at a total cost of $1,333,360. The second phase, from 1961 to 1967 brought five buildings to completion. Dulaney Hall, the Gymnasium-Student Center, Williams Hall, Cannon Hall, and Carpenter Hall were constructed at a cost of $4,331,640. Carpenter Hall is nearing completion and will be in use this September.

The third phase, projected from 1967 to the centennial year, 1972-73, will require an estimated $3,400,000. The new library, for which $211,000 is already in hand, has priority. Initial plans and drawings have been made, and finished plans should be ready this summer. Other objectives in the third phase include the renovation or rebuilding of Old Main, a Chapel and Conference Center, and Field House. Also included is the finishing of the basic campus plan with the creation of an outdoor auditorium between Cannon Hall and the new library on State Street.

The total investment represented by the three phases will be in excess of $9,000,000 when completed. In other actions the trustees approved the operating budget for the next academic year, to the total of $1,400,000. The budget is geared to a capacity resident enrollment of 565 students. Confirmed applications for this year are at the present nearly 40% ahead of last year's total at the same date of April 28.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

Shopping for turkey this week? It's hardly surprising, since this meat is in large supply with prices very low for this time of year. Prices have declined the most on lightweight birds, the size most homemakers prefer. Demand for heavy toms has benefited from the rising use of convenience foods made from turkey and increased institutional and restaurant use. Some of the most popular convenience foods made from large turkeys are turkey roasts, frozen turkey dinners, and frozen turkey pot pies. There are also a number of canned turkey products. Do not, however, expect the prices on any of these products to decline in the same proportion as the prices on whole birds.

To help you choose the best turkey available, look for these two important "shopper's helpers."

The U. S. inspection mark, which is round in shape, is your assurance that the turkey was inspected for wholesomeness, that it was produced under stringent sanitary conditions, that it is not adulterated, and that it is truthfully labeled.

The U. S. Grade mark is in the shape of a shield, and it is your assurance of quality when the turkey is packed. Only turkeys that have been inspected for wholesomeness can be graded for quality. U.S.D.A. Grade A is the highest quality grade, and birds so labeled must be clean, free of pinfeathers and broken or crooked bones, and have little if any skin discoloration. U.S. D.A. Grade B is less perfect, for it may have a broken wing tip, a certain amount of discoloration, etc. Regardless of the lack of perfection, these turkeys are wholesome and safe to eat.

In comparing prices among various turkeys on sale, notice the U.S.D.A. Grade or packer grade and class—size, age and sex—in order to be objective. Quite a lot of the turkey now available is Grade B and should sell at a lower price per pound than Grade A turkey of the same class.

Regardless of which quality you buy, check the condition of the bird yourself. If it's a frozen bird, which the greater majority of these birds now available are, check for freezer burn. This is often caused by defective packaging due to a break in the container or improper sealing. Also, check for the presence of excess ice crystals which tell you that the bird has partially been defrosted and refrozen. These two major faults will bring quality down, and the price paid should be definitely lower than those in top condition, if they are to be classed as a true bargain.

FFA State Meeting Kaffeeclatch Held at U. of D.

Sixteen-year-old John Comegys, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Comegys, Hartly, and a member of Caesar Rodney High School Future Farmers of America chapter, won top honors in the FFA state public speaking contest. He received a trophy and $100 for his speech, "Agriculture—Strength of America," at the 37th annual FFA state convention held May 3, at the University of Delaware.

Comegys told convention delegates the American farmer is the backbone of U.S. economy. "Agriculture represents a substantial part of the business economy. It is the largest factor in the growth of the U.S.; if America is to remain great, young farmers must do their part."

F. Thomas Unruh, 18, Middletown, won $75 and second place honors; James Walker, Georgetown, received $50 as third place winner in the public speaking contest while fourth place honors went to Steve Willey, Greenwood.

Three veteran Delaware vocational agriculture teachers received recognition at the convention for 25 years of service. Watches were presented by Frank Flaherty, Sears Roebuck Foundation, to Noah M. Cain, Greenwood; John Curtis, Harrington, and Horace E. Short, Wyoming. Caesar Rodney High School FFA chapter was awarded first place in parliamentary procedure competition; the chapter received $100 and a trophy. Second place winner, receiving $50, was the Greenwood High School Chapter. Middletown High School FFA won third place and $25 while Harrington High School chapter received $10 for fourth place.

State officers were elected for the next year at the convention; officers include president, Dewey Whitmore, Greenwood; vice president for New Castle County, Steve Davis, Middletown; vice president for Kent County, Charles Postles, Milford; vice president for Sussex County, Allen Drummond, Greenwood. Also elected were William Abbott, Harrington, state secretary; Gary Marine, Laurel, treasurer; F. Thomas Unruh, Middletown, reporter; Gary Warren, Felton, sentinel; and Thomas Davis, Milford, chaplain. The members of the executive committee will be Steve Cherry, Newark; Clifford Hudson, Dover; and Arba Henry, Laurel.

Felton Avon Club News

The closing meeting of the Avon Club was Tuesday, May 2nd, with the club president, Mrs. Charles Harrison, presiding.

Mrs. William Patton, of Dover, was present and gave an account of the Delaware Technical and Community College, which will open September 18, at the William Jason High School, Georgetown.

Club received an invitation to attend the annual art show given by the Women's Club of Odessa, Sun., May 21. Mrs. Nelson Hammond, cancer chairman of the Felton community, reported that $567.17 had been collected to date for the cancer drive and more was to come in. The club voted to give $5 to the Palmer Home, Dover. Delegates elected to attend the convention in Dover, May 17 and 18 were Mrs. Robert Erne, first delegate and Mrs. Leland Price, second delegate. The alternates are Mrs. Irwin Richter and Mrs. Annabel Morrow. Plans for the bake and food sale to be held at the fire hall Saturday morning, May 15, were discussed. The club will sponsor their usual parcel post booth at the Street Fair, to be held in July. Mrs. J. A. Jester will be secretary for 1967-68. Officers and committee chairmen will meet at the home of the president, Mrs. Charles Harrison, Tues., May 23, to plan the program for the coming year. At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Harrison gave a fine report of the year's work.

After the business meeting, the hospitality committee served refreshments.

When you look for the most room and the smoothest ride and the best value, you'll end up with a Chevrolet wagon everytime.

Chevrolet Impala, roomiest in its class. While extra roominess is perhaps the best reason for buying a Chevrolet wagon, consider, also, these bonuses: Body by Fisher, Chevrolet dependability, flush-and-dry rocker panels and Magic-Mirror finish. Chevelle Malibu, smoother, quieter ride. A Malibu not only gives you a Full Coil suspension ride, but the body mountings are double-cushioned. And Chevelle carries plenty. It opens wide. 54.6 inches, to be exact, 28.5 inches high. Flip the second seat down and you've got 86 cubic feet of cargo space for all your gear. Chevelle was built to take a lot. Chevy II Nova, best equipped for the money. All-vinyl upholstery is standard. Flush-and-dry rocker panels that clean themselves are standard. Separate panels beneath each fender to inhibit rust are standard.

Mono-Plate rear suspension to smooth the ride is standard. Price? Below standard.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

Sunday is Mother's Day and there's one mother in our immediate surroundings (Mrs. Wilbur Bradley, near Houston) who will probably be one of the happiest mothers in the country. She received word this week that her son, Dennis, after four years in the U.S. Navy, was on his way home from the Philippines and should arrive here about the 14th. What a wonderful—

MOTHER'S DAY GIFT

I saw a mother open gifts
Received from sons afar,
The grown-ups who ne'er forget
No matter where they are.

She handled each with tender care,
And read each card inside;
Her eyes were moist, a tear-drop fell,
A hurt she felt inside.

She loved each single gift received,
And kissed each card inside,
But the hurt each brought, none ever knew
Nor why o'er each she cried.

You spent a lot on the gift you sent,
And the card of greetings too,
For she deserved the best you had,
And the best was coming from you.

But, oh my boy if you ever knew,
Your gift didn't bring all joy,
And her thoughts went back to baby days,
When you were just a boy.

She'd willingly give up any gift,
The things she needs are few,
She'd do with a humble crust of bread,
If only she had — just you!

So boy, if you're far away from home,
And Mother is living today,
Don't send your gift, but go yourself,
'Tis YOU she is wanting today.

"Buck", as Dennis is known to all of us, is doing "just that". We are happy to report that he has kept in touch with home-town happenings as he received the Journal throughout his service. A recent letter from him (Sept. 17, 1966) from somewhere in The Republic of Philippines he states: "Dear Winnie, I have been receiving the Journal and enjoy every bit of it. Living conditions here are the worst I have ever seen and I guess it is much worse back in the jungle. I've eaten a lot of stuff they call food, but it actually makes you sick to talk about it. People in the States don't know how lucky they are. I've only met two boys from home; George Jerread and Frank Fowler. I was sure glad to see somebody I know. I guess that is the last I'll see them until I get home—if I ever do."

We are all glad Buck will soon be here and we're happy to have had a part in this wonderful homecoming Mother's Day greeting.

U. of D. Alumni Reunion Saturday

University of Delaware alumni will return to the Newark campus on Sat., May 13, for the annual spring reunion.

Fourteen special class events are scheduled on Friday and Saturday for graduates in five-year increments—Class of 1962, 1967 and so on.

Ten members of the Class of 1907 will be celebrating their 60th reunion, with one member flying in from Hawaii to be with his classmates.

Registration starts Saturday morning in the Student Center. Bus tours of the campus are scheduled at 10 and 10:45 a.m. and again at 2 and 2:30 p.m.

Football Coach Harold "Tubby" Raymond will narrate a film of highlights of the 1966 Middle Atlantic Conference championship season, starting at 10 a.m. in the Ewing Room of the Student Center.

One of the highlights of the Alumni Association luncheon in the Rodney Room of the Student Center will be the presentation of the Outstanding Alumnus Award. The presentation will be made by Marjorie Johnson Squire, committee chairman.

Robert F. Siemen, president of the association for two years, will introduce his successor, Miss Dorothy M. Welsh, running unopposed for the presidency. Other elected officers will be announced at the reunion.

The Delaware-Seton Hall varsity baseball game on the Delaware baseball field will attract many of the returning alumni in the afternoon. Another athletic event scheduled Saturday is the Middle Atlantic Conference Track and Field Championships at the South Campus athletic complex.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—I am presently attending college under the new G. I. Bill. I plan to marry soon. How should I notify the Veterans Administration that I have a dependent so that the rate of my educational allowance can be increased?

A—The Veterans Administration will pay the additional allowance for your dependent from the date of notification of your marriage. This may be done by letter. The additional allowance will not be paid, however, until a copy of the marriage certificate is furnished.

Q—I am planning a trip abroad next year and am making some arrangements concerning my financial matters. I receive a disability compensation check from the Veterans Administration each month. I understand that mail service in some foreign countries is a bit unreliable. Could I arrange to have my checks sent to my bank during my trip?

A—Yes. There is a procedure whereby you may have your checks sent to a bank for deposit to your account. Your bank will assist you in making the arrangements. The VA must know, of course, where to mail the checks and so a change of address must be submitted.

Q—I am a World War II veteran, and have just paid the last installment on my 20-year G.I. home loan. Am I entitled to another loan before the July 25, 1967, deadline for World War II veterans?

A—Full repayment of a G.I. loan does not, in itself, entitle you to another loan. However, your entitlement may be restored until July 25, 1967 if you are forced to sell for certain compelling reasons.

The City of Harrington is out of the red! The City Council voted Monday evening to pay off $6000, the balance of an indebtedness which amounted to some $23,000 about four years ago.

The comparatively short time to liquidate the debt was attributed to economy and tax increases.

Mrs. Florence Wyatt Hatfield, 77, died at her home, 214 Commerce St., early Wednesday morning after several months' illness. Her husband, Zach Hatfield, died seven months ago.

Sulky Slants, by Mrs. Dave (Pat) Smith: Douglas Smith was out to Rosecroft to work for Warren Holmes for the summer. Betty Meyer too busy to find much gossip for me this past week, as Betty is holding down the switchboard during the race meet. After all, Betty is my gal Friday. Ann McWilliams was a visitor at the track this past week. Ann and Mac are taking two baby kittens I have and I know they will have a good home.

Railroad News — W. Cliff Miller: What do the different locomotive whistles mean? Approaching station, junction or railroad crossing — one long. Alarm for animals or persons on track—succession of short toots. Apply brakes, stop—one short. Release brakes, proceed — two long. Flagman protect rear of train — one long, three short. Flagman return from west or south—four long. Flagman return from east or north — five long. Call for signals — four short. Back up (when standing)—three short. To another train: A second section is following— one long, two short. Engineer's answer to most signals from other trains—two short. (Editorial Note: Most of these signals have their counterparts, though obviously not for the same purpose, in Morse Code.)

Annuals Are Gardeners Best Summer Friend

The first warm days of spring seem to bring out the gardening urge—but don't get too enthusiastic too soon. Inevitably, you'll have sore muscles no matter when you begin, but too much of you hard work may be in vain if flowers are planted so early that a cold snap damages them.

What's the rush? Dr. Charles Dunham, horticulturist at the University of Delaware, points out that annual plants may be set out even as late as June and they will still make effective summer displays when annual bloom is really a garden necessity. He suggests making several plantings and even sowing some seed near the end of June to have plants available to fill in where and when needed. For those planning to enter annuals in the fall Delaware Flower Show, June sowing dates will provide the best specimens.

However, pansies, dwarf phlox and English daisies—all biennials or perennials — can be planted any time.

Dunham has experimented for several years with many varieties of plants for the home garden; he suggests buying plants by variety name to be sure of getting exactly what you want.

Petunias are among the most popular flowers for the home garden, and many people prefer to plant beds by color. Dunham recommends the following proven F1 hybrids such as Fire Dance and Commanche, red; Paleface, white; Coral Satin and Silver Medal, silvery pink, and Capri, blue, as best for flower beds.

The F-1 hybrid grandiflora petunia varieties Alaska, Hawaii, Gay Paree and White Cascade are wonderful in planters, hanging baskets and pots. Novelty types include Sugar Plum, Cherry Tart and Calypso.

According to Dunham, the best tall marigold is Climax. Petite, Naughty Marietta and Brownie Scout are excellent dwarf marigolds, popular as bedding plants. Spun Gold is a large flower on a dwarf plant.

Another favorite border plant is ageratum. Blue Ball grows to a height of approximately six inches; white Midget Blue is about four inches tall.

Dunham recommends the white Carpet of Snow, or the violet Royal Carpet as excellent alyssum varieties.

Rockets snapdragons are the most vigorous of all the snapdragons, and they are available in several colors. The dwarf Floral Carpet snaps are excellent edging plants and the new butterfly snapdragons are a wonderful addition to the snapdragon family.

All of these plants require good soil and full sun. They should be planted only after danger of frost is past, according to Dunham.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS
Troop 679

Girl Scout Troop 679 had as their guests at the Tuesday afternoon meeting, the members of Brownie Troop No. 401. After having light refreshments, they went on a scavenger hunt-hike. Each Girl Scout had a Brownie sister, whom she had invited and fixed a snack for. They walked along the edge of the woods looking for some of nature's hidden treasures. An impressive outdoor flag ceremony was held with both troops participating. There were a few muddy shoes and scratched legs, but it was an enjoyable meeting for both the Girl Scout Troop and the Brownies.

The Brownies were very secretive about gift wrapped packages that they were taking home with them. I suspect that it was a Mother's Day project that they have been working very hard on at their last few meetings.

The leaders of Girl Scout Troop 679 asked all the members of the troop to be sure to be in uniform and have their Scout handbooks at their next meeting, May 16. They will have an inspection of their uniforms and records they have kept as to badge work and requirements.

Windowless House Saves $27 Per Thousand Chickens

"Will the broiler house of the future need windows?"

After two years of tests some answers to this question are forthcoming from the Delmarva Poultry Industry Association. New tests will shortly be underway for further answers.

In 1963 the association built a windowless, insulated and mechanically ventilated broiler house on the University of Delaware Experimental farm near Georgetown.

For a year they tested flocks in this house against flocks in different kinds of more conventional broiler houses with windows elsewhere on the University farm.

The results were in favor of the windowless house and so in late 1964, they built another house to really test it. This one was like the windowless house in most respects except that it had less insulation and used hand-operated window ventilation instead of the six big (24-inch) turnabout fans that the windowless house uses to move air in and out. They are operated by timeclocks and thermostats for the most part.

Brooding, feeding, vaccination programs and other management practices were alike in both houses and similar to general grower practice on Delmarva.

There have been nine flocks in each house that were test-run against each other during the past two years.

For the first six tests the conventional house and the no-window house ran a neck-and-neck race.

The non-window house showed up better in several respects. Production costs were lower because of substantial savings in feed and fuel. The chickens grew to slightly heavier weight in nine weeks and chick cost was a quarter-cent less because there was no need to debeak the chicks in the windowless house where the lighting was dim.

There was one surprise. Labor costs were no lower in the windowless house even though it's nearly-automatic fans and ventilation system are supposed to be great labor-savers.

George Chaloupka, the University of Delaware research man who heads up the project, thinks there is a good explanation for this, however. The experimental houses are small, only 5,000-bird capacity. A commercial-size 15,000 to 25,000-bird house would give the automation a better show he thinks.

On all phases of cost measurement except one, the no-window house had a quarter-cent per pound advantage over the conventional house for the first year and a half of tests.

Its chickens graded out about equally well with those from the other house. But more of its chickens failed to pass government inspection.

The difference was sufficient to cancel out the no-window cost savings and put the two houses almost exactly even over the period of the first six trials.

Then the research men made a change in the windowless house. It was a simple one, cost little, and merely involved the addition of a baffle board at the air inlet.

During the following four series of flock trials between spring 1966 and the marketing of the winter 1967 flock, the no-window house racked up startling savings in costs. It beat the windowed house by a shade more than seven-tenths of a cent for each pound of chicken grown—beat its own average costs for the previous six tests by well over eight-tenths cents per pound.

Total costs averaged over the last four series of tests showed the no-window house producing broilers at 15.06 cents per pound as compared to 15.77 per pound for the conventional house.

Putting it into commercial terms, the no-window house showed production costs per thousand chickens that averaged $27.76 lower than those of the conventional house during the past four flock tests.

Since a windowless house of this type costs only about a nickel extra to build for each chicken it can hold, these kind of production-cost savings can pay the higher price tag for the house in the time it takes to grow two flocks of chickens.

Ed Brown, of Salisbury, chairman of the Poultry Housing Committee that supervised these tests for the Delmarva Poultry Industry Association, reports that other changes and new developments are in the works to further improve Delmarva's poultry buildings, however.

His committee has put in a new concrete floor in both of the test houses at the University Farm at Georgetown and plans to install some additional insulation and add ventilating fans in the conventional house for the next series of tests starting in July.

Other poultry housing and management projects underway or being considered, include the testing of 30 different kinds of insulating materials for poultry houses and tests on new kinds of poultry-house bedding.

Work is planned to start shortly on a new test poultry house at the University of Maryland Experimental Farm near Salisbury. There, the association will test brooding temperatures for chicks and other poultry-growing problems for which new answers are needed.

Army Guarantees Choice Before Enlistment

The United States Army is the only branch of the service which can guarantee you a choice of school or Army career group option in writing before you enlist.

Here are some of the benefits you can receive under the new Army program:

1. Technical school of your choice before enlisting, if a high school graduate.
2. Career group option of your choice before enlisting.
3. Officer's candidate school—if a high school graduate. Application can be made after entrance into the Army.
4. Apply for a West Point appointment from within the service.

You can enlist under the "Buddy Assignment Plan" and be guaranteed the first eight weeks of training with your buddies.

The Army is the only branch with a three year guarantee enlistment option program.

For further information you can contact your Army Recruiter, M/Sgt. Frazier, 218 S. Governor's Ave., Dover, 736-6937 or 674-1360.

MISS BARBARA LOUISE MARTIN, Silver Springs, Md.; to cook in National Chicken Cooking Contest in Junior Division for Maryland, June 22, 23, 24, in Dover.

Maryland Chicken Cooking Contest Finalists Named

Miss Barbara Louise Martin, daughter of Lt. Commander and Mrs. George W. Martin, of Silver Spring, Md., is one of the 200 fascinating personalities that will be cooking in the National Chicken Cooking Contest when it takes place in Dover, June 22, 23 and 24.

She happens to have been chosen to represent the Junior Division for the state of Maryland but was born in Rhode Island and lived in California, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Florida before moving to Maryland.

Barbara is a nine year old fourth grader who first heard about the contest when she saw Delmarva Poultry Industry chicken cooking demonstrations at the Maryland State Fair last year.

Her recipe is entitled "Plum-Good Chicken". She says she developed the recipe by thinking of her favorite food and it took only about an hour to put them together. She spent five hours practicing on the recipe before sending it in as an entry.

Barbara accounts for herself as "My work is keeping my room neat, sitting for my brother and cleaning the table. After school I hope to have saved enough to go to college to study and be a good teacher". She says "My daddy is in the Navy where he works deep in the ocean mostly; my mother is a mother and used to be a nurse in a hospital."

Barbara says she has been cooking always starting with making pudding when she was four years old. She also loves ballet and horse back riding.

Others from the state of Maryland who will be cooking in the National Chicken Cooking Contest finals are: Mrs. Ronald Kelley, of Glen Burnie, outdoor division, and Mrs. William J. Blackburn, Rockville, range division. Mrs. Howard E. Ross, of Princess Anne, Md., has the unique distinction of being the only Delmarvan chosen from Maryland or Virginia.

Delaware, coincidentally, will be represented in two divisions by a husband and wife team who

FENCE TALK

By George K. Vapaa

The 4-H garden block program has come to Dover. Very briefly, it is an attempt to spruce up and brighten a neighborhood by boys and girls making plantings. Capital Green is the local site. Don Morris is the local leader of a club of 31 boys living in the community.

The hope is to have each boy with a small planting near his home for which he assumes full care. The group has already started by preparing potting soil, a mixture of soil, sand and humus. Tomato plants were the first to be transplanted into pots. The boys then will transfer these to their gardens.

Once the garden is established, the boys will set out other flowering plants and plant seed. They will also prepare simple fences to set off their plots. In time, ribbon awards will be made for those boys whose plants bloom and fruit.

A community playground has been designed by the State Planning Office, which is located nearby. The new club proposes to make and care for a community garden.

Garden blocks were first started in the center city of Philadelphia under the leadership of Bill White, the local extension agent. The program continues to grow there. We can hope for the same success here.

Our corn variety test plot is planted on the John F. Tarburton farm. Visitors may look at it anytime because it is located on the north Little Creek road east of Dover. Your county agent hopes to get a sign posted as soon as possible.

Some 40 hybrids have been seeded in three replications. Two different row spacings, 28 and 37 inches apart, were used. Atrazine weed killer was sprayed on at planting to hopefully eliminate cultivation.

All of the fertilizer went on prior to planting. Anhydrous ammonia was put on as a plow down application at the rate of 110 pounds of nitrogen per acre. We had hope to broadcast 400 pounds of 0-15-30 fertilizer and then plow it down too. But it was broadcast after plowing and disced in.

The county agents must have been a strange sight during the planting. Each plot is sixty feet long. Forty varieties, repeated three times, at two row spacings means that we have 240 plots. Which means that we were continually dumping the boxes on the four row planter, or 960 changes. Oh yes, some of the seeds were round kernels so we often changed planter plates back and forth as well.

We deliberately overseeded to try to insure a stand. Of course this means we will go over the plot and hand hoe the excess plants after the stand gets up. My aching back! There are six acres in this trial—and a similar acreage near the University Substation farm at Georgetown.

Late news on insects and diseases gives these suggestions for ornamental problems: Pachysandra—For control of the leaf spot and canker disease, clean out any debris in the bed and rogue out disease plants. Then spray with either ferbam (2 tablespoons per gal.), Maneb (2 T/gal.), or zineb (2T/gal.). Add a spreader sticker. Begin a bud break and repeat 10 and 20 days later. Where pachysandra is infested with euonymus scale, spray with malathion or DDT about May 25. Repeat in a week or 10 days. Peony—For control of Flower Blight, spray with zineb (2 T/gal.) or maneb (2 T/gal.). Begin when flower buds are "pea-size" and continue weekly until bloom.

Considerable control of the euonymus scale on euonymus can be obtained now by spraying thoroughly with a horticultural oil. Spray on dry days when the temperature is above 40 degrees F. Follow directions on container. Prepare to control the birch leaf miner on white birch. Spray trees thoroughly with Cygon between May 10 and 15. Boxwood leaf miner sprays should be applied about May 15 (watch for tiny yellow flies around boxwood). Use Cygon. Spray spruce trees for spruce gall aphids immediately (this week if possible). Use lindane.

The Lions met Monday evening at the Bridle Bit Restaurant. Lion President, Robert Ricker, appointed zone chairman Elwood Wright and Lions Lawrence Price, Nyle Callaway, Alex Argo, and Russell McCreedy as delegates to the Lions District 22 convention in Atlantic City, May 24 through 27th.

Lions John Curtis and Neil Brasure, advisors for the Harrington Chapter, Future Farmers of America, introduced the local chapter officers, who as guests of the club presented the program for the evening.

Billy Abbott, chapter president, gave a resume of "What is the Future Farmers of America?".

Calvin Bonniwell, vice president, described the "Degrees of Membership".

Gerard LeGates, secretary, explained "The Emblem".

Terry Donovan, Sentinel, recited "The F.F.A. Creed".

Mike Coverdale, reporter, told of the awards received by the local chapter.

Glenn Layton, secretary, gave a speech on "Feeding a Hungry World".

The program was concluded with a Parliamentary Procedure Demonstration with the entire group participating. The program was very interesting, informative, and well received by the club membership.

Roth Opens Office In Kent County

Congressman William V. Roth Jr. has announced plans to open a part-time congressional office in Kent County on Fri., May 12. The public is invited to the opening between noon and 2 p.m., at the Levy Court Office, Kent County Court House.

Discussing the Dover office, Roth said he planned to spend as much time in Kent County as his schedule permits. Vernon J. Menard, the Congressman's State Executive Secretary, and John H. McDonald, a Washington assistant from Dover, will be in the Kent office at least one day each week to meet with people.

Discussing the need for a congressional office in Kent, Roth said, "we will be able to handle constituent problems and inquiries much faster and more efficiently. I will be in the office as often as possible while Congress is in session, and on a regularly scheduled basis when Congress adjourns in the fall."

"I will be glad to meet with anyone at any time to hear their ideas and opinions, or discuss problems they might have with the Federal government. When I cannot be in Delaware, Mr. Menard or Mr. McDonald will be available in person or by phone to assist anyone in any way."

Greenwood Beats Rehoboth, Loses At Selbyville

Greenwood's Forester nine lost at Selbyville 7-4, then rebounded to defeat Rehoboth 9-4. The Foresters have won two games and lost six thus far.

The Foresters took a 1-0 lead at the border town only to see the Rebels ahead 4-1 after one inning. Greenwood knotted the count with three tallies in the fourth and fifth frames, but Selbyville came right back with a trio of markers in the bottom of the fifth and six innings.

Lynch, of Selbyville, held the losers to four hits, while his mates had seven baseknocks.

After three scoreless innings, Rehoboth scored a pair of runs to lead 2-0. As the fifth inning opened that bulge looked like money in the bank. However, a six-run Greenwood outburst changed the complexion of the game quickly. Rehoboth added a pair of aces but the Foresters tacked on a trio to draw even further ahead.

Heinz Retzlaff, who lurks around Harrington on occasion, had a big day at the plate with three hits in four trips and two RBI's. Maurice Hughes had two-for-four as the above pair of sluggers nabbed five of Greenwood's seven safeties and all three runs-batted-in.

Scott Baker was touched for eight bingles but scattered them sufficiently enough to pick up his second win of the campaign.

Lions Held Hitless At Milton

Harrington's fifth loss in seven games occurred at Milton Monday night. Milton's second-place Warriors did the feasting instead of vice-versa, as they slammed out 16 hits, including four round-trippers, in defeating the Lions, 11-0.

Winning pitcher Dick Johnson pitched a no-hit no-run game and hit two of the home runs. Would a saliva test be in order?

The victors now share second place in the Henlopen Conference with Felton, who lost to Selbyville on Monday.

Pre-Teen Thinclads Rained Out At Penn's Grove

Harrington's youthful tracksters, who made a big splash at Penn's Grove, N. J. on April 15, made another kind of splash this past Saturday, but literally, as rain washed out the second of a series of three meets.

In the earlier test Jackie D. Parker and Danny Porter defeated rivals from Philadelphia and New Jersey in the Midget (10-11) and Bantam (9 and under) classes respectively. Both Harrington kids won by big margins, against stiff competition, with impressive clockings.

In practice sessions since, more improvement has been noted and a couple of bright new prospects have joined the workouts.

J. D. Parker has started workouts in the half mile. The 11-year-old, sixth-grader has notched a glittering two minutes and forty-five seconds clocking, which has caused track aficionados to predict, that he is another Chris Wetherhold. The latter, as an eighth grader, has won a raft of honors already in the running sports, is known as one of the two best middle and long distance prospects in Delaware and received a mention in the Internationally-read "Track and Field News," as a 12-year-old seventh grader last spring.

J. D. is like Chris in many ways. Both are intelligent kids with plenty of moxie (courage). Cold wind and drizzling rain will not deter either from getting a daily workout. Each boy realizes that one of the best ways to improve is to tangle with older, fastest runners and so they lock horns with all comers, bar none. Such dedication, determination and natural talent is bound to pay off in the long run, excuse the pun.

Danny Porter, at 10, is almost two years younger than Jackie D., but has already run the equivalent of a 2.59 half mile.

Donald Parker, a 12-year-old, has won a dozen trophies to date with times of 12.9 in the 100 yard dash, 69 seconds for the quarter mile, 2.47 for the half mile, 5.56 for the mile run and 14 feet 2 inches in the broad jump. These marks were set at age 11 except for the half mile and mile performances.

Both Danny Porter and Donald Parker are tremendous prospects with perhaps even more natural talent than the aforementioned Jackie D. Parker. However, each boy is in love with out national pastime, baseball, so track must take a back seat, even though neither boy has anywhere near the potential on the diamond, that he has on the cinderpaths. We feel both eventually will reap more honors as runners. But their development will naturally be slower than that of such single-minded competitors mentioned earlier.

With Porter reaching his tenth birthday and leaving the Bantam class, two new comers have taken his place.

Ray Gannon and Howard Parker (J. D.'s brother) are 8-year-old third graders. Gannon reported first, ran a fine 2.25, 660 yards, then turned his attention to the quarter mile (H.H.S. Coach Harold McDonald often has trouble persuading high school students to run this far.) Ray's opening 1.33 was very good, but hard work and spiked shoes have brought the junior member of the three "Galloping Gannons" down to 1.25.8. Older brothers, Steve, 12, and Joe, 15, are fine distance prospects on the junior high and varsity track teams, respectively.

Tiny Howard "Hard" Parker showed up later, logged a 1.32, 440 and is now down to 1.30. He has a long stride, despite his stature and has a running style similar to his older brother. With no size one spikes on hand, he runs in heavier sneakers that cost him a few seconds each lap. Howard, Ray and another third grader, Mark Krouse, 9, can handle the average 11-year-old in a quarter mile jaunt. Krouse has a 1.27 to his credit. With all factors equal, this trio would be expected to come across the finish line within the space of one second. If their interest doesn't wane, they may be star wearers of the Blue and Gold in another few years.

Tommy Clarke, a sixth grader, was timed in 2.57 for the half mile several weeks ago, but was then sidelined by an appendectomy. He is at least two years ahead of normal progress in the running sports.

Marvin May and Donald Bryant, team with Donald Parker in the sprints. These sixth graders have all broken 13 seconds in the 100 yard dash and can turn a good 880, also.

Wardell Davis is the best 12-year-old half-miler (2.45) and has a 6.21 in the mile behind May's 6.17.

Kevin Wooters, 9, did a 1.33 quarter mile. hris Mertz, 10, has a 2.23, 660 yards time. Larry Sorden, 12, at 3.03 is close to the magic three-minute, half mile.

Chip Moore, Billy Winkler, Jay Wyatt, Ricky Hoffman (3.04-880) are others who sometimes participate in workouts. All of these are above average runners, who may become high school tracksters someday.

Next outing and last of the Penns Grove series will be Saturday, May 20th. Emphasis will then shift to athletes of high school age with several Wilmington outings on tap, plus four tentative starts at Milford and Seaford. The 8-9-10 group will see some action this summer, while the 11-12 section will be in action almost as often as the high school athletes.

Lions Trip Eagles, 11-9

Coach Bob Young's Harrington High baseball Lions picked up their second victory of the season by winning a wild-and-wooly contest with Lord Baltimore's winless Eagles.

The 11-9 triumph was annexed here on Thursday afternoon behind the 10-hit hurling of Howard Brown, Mike Adams and Steve Welch.

The Lions banged out 13 hits and stole 15 bases with Jerry Cagle, Gordy Jarrell and Chester Scott, all being credited with steals of home.

Cagle, Jarrell, Calvin Bonniwell, John Winkler and Gary Smith had two hits each with Bonniwell and Winkler batting in three runs apiece.

The locals scored at least two runs in every inning except the third. Lord Baltimore tallied in five of seven frames, including a three run rally that fell short in the final stanza.

Delaware Park Racing Season Opens Monday

Delaware Park's stable area will be opened Monday to welcome the vanguard of thoroughbreds pointing for the Stanton track's 30th racing season, May 27 through July 29.

With the horses, of course, will come their trainers and their helpers—grooms, exercise riders and other assistants—and among them will be many female workers who are destined for a pleasant surprise when they start their various chores.

A Delaware Park innovation this season is certain to be welcomed and appreciated by the ever-increasing number of female workers in the stable grounds. Realizing the benefits of a long-felt need, the track has provided a thoroughly modern and completely appointed ladies lounge located close to the horsemen's cafeteria.

It is a redwood structure, air-conditioned and with electric heating as required, consisting of three rooms—the lounge, a dressing room and a maid's room, the maid to be in attendance during all working hours. A shower, lavatories and kitchen unit with electric stove and refrigerator are included. The walls feature pecan wood paneling. Shrubbery and flower beds surround the building.

The appointments, architectural refinements and general decor compare with the finest to be found anywhere — a Delaware Park "first" to serve the many women workers who put in long hours in the area.

The innovative project initiated by track superintendent Clarke M. Pardee drew enthusiastic seconding from Mrs. E. T. McLean, wife of the general manager. Indeed, Mrs. McLean, to insure the ladies' touch, volunteered her services as interior decorator and color coordinator.

Felton Splits Pair of 3-2 Ball Games

Felton's Green Devils are in a tie with Milton's Warriors for second place in the Henlopen Conference baseball race after defeating John M. Clayton 3-2 and losing to Selbyville 3-2.

John M. Clayton scored a pair of runs in the first inning against Felton. The Green Devils finally mustered three tallies of their own in the fourth. Bob Dill held the Bears to five hits, while Felton was getting nine safeties off Montague. Both hurlers threw goose-eggs in six of seven innings. A good ball game.

Sipple, Bob Dill and Chris Moore had a pair of bingles each for the winners. Losing pitcher Montague led Clayton to 2-for-3.

AT SELBYVILLE

At Selbyville, Felton got a run in the fifth inning to lead 1-0. The Devils added another in the top of the sixth, but the Rebels finally broke freshman Chris Moore's spell with two scores in the bottom of the sixth and a winning tally in the seventh.

Barrett Quail had two of Felton's five basehits off winning pitcher Lynch. Moore, in defeat, pitched well enough to win most ball games.
