MINI RATES Everything seems to be going up these days... hemlines, the cost of living... but not the cost of phoning. Recently we reduced our rates on a wide variety of services and equipment, including color phones, supplemental equipment, and other special services. We aim to provide the best possible service at the lowest possible cost. That's why your telephone service is one of the biggest bargains around.

TELEPHONE PROVERBS... When calling friends to say hello, please don't mistake "zero" for the letter "O". A WORKING PARTNERSHIP... Income and jobs created by economic activity are the main support of our way of life.

A VERY HIGH JINX... A rash of wrong numbers had been harassing the people of Chester, England. Phones rang constantly and erratically. When someone answered, only silence followed. After months of investigation, telephone men traced the trouble to the city zoo. George the Giraffe had been licking the wires stretched across his enclosure and short circuiting all the phones in the area.

ENJOY THE GOOD THINGS IN LIFE THIS SUMMER! Let electric service give you pleasure through... Garden lighting, Outdoor speaker for hi fi, Decorative outdoor lamps, No-frost refrigerator, Portable TV, Barbecue motor, Dishwasher, Range with self-cleaning oven. A WORD OF CAUTION FOR OUTDOOR LIVING: Cords, outlets and appliances of the "grounding" type are recommended for safety's sake. Your electrician can give you sound advice about this. Of course, you should not use electric equipment if you are standing in water or on damp ground. AROUND A SWIMMING POOL: Radios, TV's, lamps and other electrical devices should not be used at poolside... because of the extreme danger of splashing or knocking them into the water.

Community Leaders Target Of Cancer Society

Community leaders — people who influence other people—are the latest target of the Delaware Division of the American Cancer Society in its efforts to discourage cigarette smoking.

The Society, which nationally and locally labels smoking as a principal cause of lung cancer, has entered a new phase of its campaign with the production of the film, "Time for Decision".

This film, available to clubs and organizations in Delaware, urges community leaders "to protect all Americans from lung cancer", Mrs. David C. Porter, chairman of the board of the Delaware Division, said.

"Its radically new aspect lies in the concept of community action, in addition to individual will-power," Mrs. Porter explained. "Thus, the potential audience for it is conceived of as the 'active people', the opinion leaders, business and industrial leaders, club figures, physicians, members of the clergy, teachers, executives, union officers, legislative figures and the like.

"The decision such leaders are asked to make is not a personal one. They are asked to keep in mind at all times the example they set to others through their smoking or not smoking cigarettes, as well as the need to work within the community itself to combat the acknowledged dangers of smoking cigarettes. It thus becomes a question greater than themselves and beyond the individual — a question of the community-at-large: society itself.

"The minister, for example, can provide a source of guidance and advice, just as—in another field—the physician can. The educator, too, can serve as an example and furthermore can organize and provide formal classroom instruction. The club official can work within his organization, both to heighten awareness among its membership and to foster the organization's educational activities within the community.

"At medical meetings, for instance, even those doctors who still smoke—at the moment about 30 per cent—generally hesitate to 'light up', and usually wait until the session is terminated," Mrs. Porter continued.

"Since all communities have their leaders, the Society's new approach has at least three marked advantages: (1) it involves those with demonstrated public awareness and interests; (2) it harnesses the energies of those who can appeal to or affect numerous others; and (3) it strikes at the social aspects of the problem through a socially oriented response."

"Time for Decision" is a cartoon in animated color with stylized human figures and off-camera voices. Produced for the Society by Hanna-Barbera, the largest film animators for American television, the film was a contribution from a single donor. It may be scheduled for public showing by writing to the Delaware Division of the American Cancer Society, 1925 Lovering Avenue, Wilmington, Del.

Houston Vacation Bible School Begins Monday

The Houston Methodist Church will have Daily Vacation Bible School from June 19-30, Mon.-Fri., from 9-11:30 a.m. According to the director, the Rev. Harry 9. Bradford Jr., the two week school will be divided into the following departments: age 3, Nursery Department; age 4-5, Beginner's Department; grades 1-3, Primary Department; grades 4-6, Junior Department; grades 7-12, Youth Department.

The theme of the D.V.B.S. is "God's Power for My Life." The departments will be studying: Nursery, "Jesus, Wonderful Son of God"; Beginners, "Wanting to Please the Lord"; Primary, "Growing and Doing for Jesus"; Junior, "Following My Guide"; and Youth, "Accepting Christ's Challenge." The pupils will be learning about the Bible, singing new songs, doing creative handwork, and listening to exciting stories.

The staff will be: Nursery, Ruth Kenton, Lois Studte; Beginners, Connie Parvis, Hazel Lemmon, Helen Southard; Primary, Pauline Morgan, Margaret Storus, Evelyn Lane, Janet Yerkes; Junior, Grace Bradford, Stella Counselman; Youth, Pat Jump and Beulah Sockrider.

Other members of the school are: secretary-treasurer, Ruth Buarque; refreshment committee, Francis Parvis, Ella Simpson and Elon Eisenbrey.

An installation service for the staff will be at the morning service at 11 on June 18 at Houston Church by the pastor, the Rev. Bradford.

If you need transportation to the Bible School call the minister at 422-7190. Everyone is welcome to attend.

DO YOU REMEMBER—THESE? The lovely young lady on the float was the very first Miss Delmarva, chosen at the first Delmarva Chicken Festival in 1948. ### Ornamental Disease Notes

By W. J. Manning - J. W. Heuberger

The homeowner has a fairly wide range of fungicides for control of ornamental diseases. Many of these, such as ferbam, zineb, captan and maneb, will control many diseases; others, such as dodine, folpet, Karathane and sulfur are specific for certain diseases. For that reason, it is essential that you read the label to see what diseases the particular fungicide will control; in addition, read the label to find out how much material to use. Usually, the amount is expressed as pounds per 100 gallons of water and as tablespoons or teaspooonfuls per one gallon of water; however, in some cases, it is only expressed as pounds per 100 gallons.

A table has been prepared for the readers of "Ornamental Disease Notes" as an easy reference to show the amount of fungicide to use in one gallon of water. The fungicides listed are only those of low mammalian toxicity which are safe to use when reasonable caution in handling is exercised. Fungicides that are highly poisonous to mammals have not been included.

The fungicide table may be obtained, free of charge, by writing to: Department of Plant Pathology, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Del. 19711.

The table shows the amount to use in level tablespoonfuls (T) or teaspooonfuls (t). Do not use heaping tablespoonfuls or teaspooonfuls as injury may result. The materials should be mixed by stirring in water and then added to the sprayer.

On plants with glossy or waxy leaves, such as ivy, laurel, pine, rhododendron and spruce, a commercial spreader sticker should be added to the fungicide according to the manufacturer's recommendation to provide complete coverage of the foliage as well as to aid in sticking the fungicide to the leaf surfaces. Two common materials are Triton B-1956 and DuPont "Spreader-Sticker".

Lions Club News

By Al Price

The membership decided that the next regular meeting night, Mon., June 26, will be "Ladies Night". Committee chairman, Tom Peck, to make necessary arrangement and secure the place for this affair.

E. Allen Rutledge, local chairman of the American Field Service, informed the club members that Harrington's exchange student next year will be from Switzerland and this brown-haired beauty will reside with Mr. and Mrs. Olin B. Davis on the Harrington-Milford Road.

The minimum cost for sponsoring a student in the Harrington area for the year is $750.

All Star Football Game ticket chairman, Tom Peck, stated that he has tickets for this game to be held at University of Delaware football stadium on Aug. 24. The cost of tickets again this year is $3.50 each. This annual all-star football game is a cooperative effort of thousands of Delawareans to aid the cause of mental retardation throughout our state.

Zone chairman Elwood Wright, introduced our new District Governor, Jack Fanin, of Claymont, who after a short address to our members, inducted our new club officers for the ensuing Lions' year as follows:

President, Donald McKnatt; first vice president, Russell McCready; 2nd vice president, John Curtis; 3rd vice president, Joseph L. Brinster; secretary, Alexander Argo III; treasurer, Martin Jarrell; tail-twister, Albert C. Price; Lion tamer, Norris Jarrell; two directors, C. Tharp Harrington and Lawrence Price; two hold-over directors: Charles Peck Jr. and James Stafford.

Livestock Industry Needed in Del.

Delaware needs an efficient livestock producing industry to use the vast amount of roughage now going to waste. By-products from vegetable processing plants and roughage such as cornstalks, cobs and chucks, can and should be converted to edible meat by livestock. That's the opinion of Dr. George Morrow, extension livestock specialist at the University of Delaware.

Morrow predicts as the cost-price squeeze becomes tighter and the seasonal labor supply becomes more unpredictable in Delaware, farmers are going to look harder for ways to use their resources more fully. They will then be willing to put up with the possible inconveniences involved in using livestock as another farm enterprise. The role of the University of Delaware will be to educate producers as to the best methods of livestock production.

Historically, Delaware has not been a livestock producing area. The number of beef, sheep and swine per farm ranks low compared to other states. Nonetheless, most Delaware farmers use livestock for supplemental income. According to Morrow, most of these farmers know farming, but have limited knowledge of basic livestock production management practices.

Too many beef producers in Delaware fail to recognize the value of using performance-estimated sires and seasonal breeding programs to produce uniform high-quality calf crops. Neither do they see the value in synchronizing heat cycles and pregnancy testing so that cost of cows and breeding expenses are cut down; they neglect de-horning, castrating and vaccinating.

Generally, beef feeding programs in Delaware are inefficient because producers feed too much or too little. Cattle feed has to be cheap for livestock to show a profit. Yet, well-balanced rations with proper amounts of protein, energy, minerals and vitamins are absolutely necessary for good performance from beef cattle. And that's where cheap roughage comes in; Delaware produces at last two times as much roughage as concentrates.

Sheep are also efficient users of roughage. Although parasite control is a major problem, with three lamb crops every two years, sheep can be profitable.

As a whole, the swine industry in Delaware is more advanced than the beef industry, Morrow points out. Unlike the beef producers the swine industry has shown a profit in the last few years; consequently swine producers are more enthusiastic about improving and enlarging this part of their farm operation. Their most common problems are swine nutrition and disease control. Morrow says producers considering going in hog production for the first time need information on obtaining feeder pigs, constructing facilities, proper feed rations, sanitation, and finally marketing.

IN THE SEWER REFERENDUM

FOR A BETTER HARRINGTON

WHAT YOU GET

- New Sewage Disposal Plant
- Sanitary Sewers to All Areas, Presently Unserviced, Within the City, As Follows:
  - U.S. 13 South
  - East Street
  - West Harrington
  - Franklin Street
  - Harrington Avenue Extended
  - Thomas Alley
  - North Street
- Improvements to and Installation of Pumping Stations
- Repair of Storm Sewers to Prevent Seepage into Sanitary Sewers
- Sinking Fund for Additional Sewer Extensions As Needed
- Acquisition of Land for Polishing Ponds for Disposal Plant

HOW IT WILL BE PAID

The bond issue will be for $380,000. It will be paid from an increased sewer usage fee. As an example: The average householder pays $6.50 per quarter for water, and $3.25 for use of sanitary sewer, or a total of $9.75 per quarter. The sewer usage fee, per quarter, will be increased $9.75, or approximately .1060¢ per day, a mere pittance for the benefits to be achieved.

BENEFITS TO BE ACHIEVED

Less likelihood of disease, particularly typhoid fever; fewer objectionable odors in the community; less pollution of streams; increased attractiveness to builders of homes and industry, which will bring in additional revenue to the city. Sanitary sewers mean elimination of cess-pools and cost of maintenance.

The present disposal system is 30 years old, antiquated and worn out. It will not longer serve the needs of modern demands any more than will a 30-year-old automobile.

WHO CAN VOTE

Any voters, eligible to vote at a municipal election, can vote in this one. Each voter is allowed one vote for each dollar, or fraction thereof, of capitation or property taxes. Those unable to attend the polls, or who do not plan to be in town June 24, can arrange for proxies at the City Hall within five days of the election.

WHEN TO VOTE

At the Fire House, SAT., JUNE 24, 1967 from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.
