

Bids to Be Opened in July On Fairground Improvement

Proposals for bids for improvements at Delaware State Fair Grounds went out this week and are expected to be opened July 17, according to George S. Simpson, general manager of the fairgrounds, Friday.

Solicitation for bids went out from the office of Lionel Levy, race track architect, of New York City, this week.

After the bid has been accepted, work will begin after the fall harness meet and be completed by June 1.

Simpson said the improvements would include remodeling the grandstand, closing in the bottom portion. Furthermore, he added, 54 feet would be incorporated with an additional 54 feet, to be constructed, for a clubhouse.

The facilities will also be used by Harrington Raceway, formerly Kent & Sussex Raceway. Meanwhile, work is progressing on track improvements which are "sure to be completed by July 10, easy," commented the general manager. He explained the top coat would be put on the track this week, with a fence being erected July 5.

The improved track will allow eight horses to start abreast to conform to United States Trotting Association requirements.

More Than 100 Persons Attend Welch Reunion

Wheeler's Park was the place and Sunday was the day when the family gathered for the 13th annual Welch reunion.

After an abundant picnic dinner and a short business meeting the rest of the day was spent in having fun—fun being, whatever you wanted to do, whether it was playing ball or just catching up on the family news.

Over 100 family turned out for the day with three visitors. Mrs. Rachel Knotts, from Boothwyn, Pa., received the gift for coming the longest distance; Mrs. Charles Welch for being the oldest member present and little six-month-old Betty Jo Williams from Chestertown, the youngest member. Once again, Louis Welch, son of Carroll Welch Sr. won the gift for having the largest family present—seems no one tries to catch up.

Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. George Price, Mrs. Lillian Boone and Alfred, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Welch Sr. and David, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Welch and Timmy, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Welch, Mrs. Elsie Willey, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Welch and children, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Welch and Frank, Mr. and Mrs. Marine Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Welch Jr. and three daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Lynwood Cahall and family, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Poynter and family, Mrs. Percy Collins and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Degano, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Dulin and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Chance, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Williams and family, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Welch, Mrs. Irene Welch, Lawrence Price, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Dulin, Mrs. Catherine Gottlieb, Mrs. Annie Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Dunworth Welch and Francis and Evelyn, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Welch and family, Mrs. Lelia Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. William Welch and Ellen, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Knotts and Mrs. Mildred Willowsby. Norman Wix, Mary-Ann Seward and Ellen Rust were the three guests.

Everyone is looking forward to next year!

Ag. Students Chosen For Honor'y Fraternity

Twelve students in the College of Agricultural Sciences were recently selected as members in the University of Delaware chapter of Alpha Zeta, honorary agriculture fraternity. Four students were also elected to office.

William Boytton, West Chester, Pa.; Richard Burr, Westville, N. J.; Eugene Crossan, Wilmington; Joseph DeMeese, Wilmington; Ross Fisher, Briceley, N. J.; Walter Hopkins, Lewes; Stuart Ligon, Sandy Spring, Md.; Robert Moore, Allentown, Pa.; Robert Pitts, New Castle; and Robert Rouse, Harrington, are the new fraternity members. Students in the upper quarter of their class are eligible for membership in the national fraternity.

Eugene Pratt, a junior from Middletown, was elected chancellor or president of the chapter, he is majoring in animal science. William Boytton, a sophomore majoring in horticulture, was elected censor or master-at-arms.

Walter Hopkins, a sophomore majoring in mechanized agriculture, will serve as treasurer, and Stuart Ligon, a sophomore majoring in animal science, will act as chronicler.

Faculty advisors are Dr. Donald F. Crossan, assistant dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences; Dr. W. R. Hesselstine, associate professor of animal science; Dr. Ralph Barwick, associate professor of agricultural education; and Dr. E. Paul Catts, assistant professor of entomology.

River Unit OKs Kent Sewage Plans

A sewage treatment plant for Dover Air Force Base and a countywide disposal system were approved last Friday by the Delaware River and Basin Commission.

The countywide system is the undertaking of Kent County Levy Court. The air base is proposing construction of a secondary sewage treatment system.

Both projects have been approved by the Delaware Water and Air Resources Commission.

A Kent County Levy Court official estimated cost of the project at $5 million and said it was a basic part of a program that will eventually cost $15 million.

The Kent County project is the first phase of the county's comprehensive water pollution control program. Its purpose is to provide facilities for collecting effluents of secondary sewage treatment plants in the region then pumping them into a tertiary treatment plant that will discharge into the Murderkill River.

The collection system will be between Cheswold and Frederica, adjacent to U.S. 13A and 113, and will connect with the tertiary treatment plant northeast of Frederica on the Murderkill.

The proposed mains would be large enough to serve the 50-year projected population of the area.

The treatment plant will consist of aerated lagoons, finishing lagoons, chlorine contact chamber, sludge holding tank and drying beds. The plant will be designed for an average flow of 5 million gallons a day and a maximum of 12 million.

Final plans for the proposed facility must be submitted to the commission for approval.

The air base project is to provide secondary sewage treatment

3 Teenagers Hurt In Crash

Three teenagers were injured early Tuesday when their car crashed into two guardrails on U.S. 113A near Frederica.

Injured were the driver, William E. Walls, 17, of Frederica; Shirley Walls, 18, of Frederica; and Ray Walls Jr., 17, of Wilmington.

The girl was admitted to Milford Memorial Hospital, suffering from cuts and suspected broken legs. The two youths were treated for scratches at the same hospital and released.

State police said William E. Walls was charged with reckless driving and his case referred to Family Court.

Officers said Walls was driving south on U.S. 113A about 12:45 a.m. at an apparently excessive rate of speed, when his car hit a guardrail on the west side of the road, then rebounded into the east guardrail.

Motorist Hurt In Kent
Walter C. Benton, 35, of Broad Street, Houston, suffered a broken knee early Saturday when his car struck a utility pole at County Route 35 and Delaware 12.

According to state police, Benton was moving north on Rt. 35 about two-tenths of a mile west of Frederica at 2:05 a.m. when his car entered the intersection with Delaware 12, ran off the north side of the road, broke off a utility pole and came to a halt in a field.

He was admitted to Kent General Hospital where his condition was reported satisfactory.

RECEIVES EAGLE AWARD — William J. Walls, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Walls, Jr., 1, Harrington, was awarded the Eagle Award in Scouting in the Asbury Methodist Church during the morning worship service, June 25, by Mr. R. C. Triesler, Jr., of Dover, an outstanding leader of scouting. Bill is a member of Scout Troop #76 and is in the ninth grade in Harrington High School.

Diana Drummond, Stanley Cordery Exchange Vows

Miss Diana Drummond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Drummond, became the bride of Mr. Stanley Cordery, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Linfred Cordery, on Friday evening, May 26.

The double-ring ceremony was performed in Union Methodist Church, Bursville, at 7 p.m. by the pastor, the Rev. Ron Arms. The church was decorated with baskets of spring flowers and fern.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white lace gown featuring tapered sleeves and tier on tier ruffles over taffeta. Her finger tip veil was topped with a crown of lace, pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade of pink rosebuds on a Prayer Book.

Mrs. James Morgan, friend of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a two-piece suit of light blue covered with eyelet, and carried a nosegay of pink carnations.

Best man was Donald Stafford. Ushers were Richard Collins, brother-in-law of the bride, and Rodney Cordery, brother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Richard Collins, sister of the bride, was soloist. Preceding the ceremony she sang "I Love You Truly" and "Oh Promise Me," accompanied by Mrs. Ray Collison at the piano.

Following the wedding ceremony, the couple left for a wedding trip to Charlottesville, N. C. For traveling, the bride selected a blue and white dacton suit. Her jacket was accented with pink rosebuds from her Prayer Book. Mr. and Mrs. Cordery are now at home to their many friends in Hickman.

Careers as Electronics Technician

The field of electronics, often viewed by the public as something of mysterious complexity and considered a glamor industry by the investor, will become a reality to the students at the Delaware Technical and Community College. One of the Technician training programs offered will be that of Electronics Engineering Technology.

What does all this mean? Well, it could be the start of an exciting career as a computer maintenance technician, a radio and T.V. control room operator, a civil service electronics inspector, or an instrument mechanic, just to name a few possibilities. A quick glance at the help-wanted ads gives a clear indication of the need for skilled technicians in this field.

The studies for these courses will cover the latest in theoretical and laboratory techniques. A unique feature of this training will include courses in industrial economics, technical writing, industrial human relations, and technical drawing. These experiences will give the students an understanding of the industry in which they will work as well as make them a more valuable employee.

This will be a demanding course of study, but will provide the beginning of an exciting and challenging career in the elec-

Upcoming Fair Has Record Entries Of Ponies, Horses

There may be more cars on the highways these days but horses and ponies still crowd facilities at the state fair.

Record entries in the horse and pony department for the upcoming Delaware State Fair have made it necessary to divide the showing of horses and ponies this year.

George C. Simpson, fair general manager, said that in order to accept more entries, ponies will be exhibited July 22nd through July 25th and horses from July 26th through July 29th. The 48th edition of the fair will be held at Harrington from Fri., July 21 through Sat., July 29.

"By allocating separate days for exhibiting horses and ponies," Simpson said, "we will be able to accommodate a greater number of exhibitors from Delaware and the surrounding area. More than 400 horses and ponies were exhibited at the 1966 Fair and the total will exceed that this year."

"Despite the erection of several new barns in recent years we have been unable to provide stall space for all who want to take part in fair competition. By allocating different days for horses and ponies," the general manager said, "We will be able to double the number accepted."

Simpson said the new arrangements would be of special benefit to exhibitors from surrounding states. In past years, preference was given Delaware exhibitors and we had to turn down the applications of a number of persons from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey.

James E. Legates Receives Dairy Production Award

James E. Legates, a 1943 University of Delaware graduate and a native of Milford, has received the 1967 Borden Award in Dairy Production.

Legates, head of the animal breeding section, of North Carolina State University's Animal Science Department, was presented a citation Tuesday evening by the American Dairy Science Association.

The award honors Legates for dairy cattle through genetic selection. Legates, a bachelor of science degree winner at the University of Delaware, earned his master of science and doctor of philosophy degrees at Iowa State University in dairy husbandry and animal breeding, respectively.

broader tax base. He also emphasized the City was growing to the east and annexation should be considered.

In other business Monday evening, Mayor Fulton J. Downing appointed a committee of Councilmen Burton Satterfield, Benjamin Hughes, and Grace Wanda Quillen to review the rates for water meters.

The Harrington Planning Commission presents its progress report for the period from October, 1964, to June 22, 1967, to Mayor and Council, in accordance with the laws establishing planning commissions in municipalities.

We have held monthly meetings most of the period, with special meetings, particularly during the past two months, in the Town Council Chamber.

The original members of the planning commission were as follows: Robert Quillen, chairman;

James D. Moore, vice chairman; Mrs. J. Edward Taylor, secretary; William H. Outten, treasurer; Mrs. William W. Sharp, and Calvin Wells, members.

Present members are as follows: James D. Moore, chairman; Mrs. J. Edward Taylor, secretary; Walter Ratledge, and Carrington H. Burgess, members. There are two vacancies on the planning commission.

After organizational procedures had been consummated, Joseph Paterno, chief community planner of the State Planning Office and our consultant, has attended practically all meetings.

The studies and reports presented by Paterno are listed as follows: Comprehensive Plan Discussion; Mobile Home Parks in the Comprehensive Development Plan; Historical Development of Harrington and It's Physiographic and Climatic Characteristics; Preliminary Draft Land Use, Zoning, and Soil Interpretations

Firemen Answer
3 Alarms Tuesday
The Harrington Fire Company answered three alarms, one of which was false, Tuesday.

The first alarm was at 12:20 a.m., and involved a vacant house at Andrewville, listed on the recorder's report as belonging to Russell Brown. The house was practically destroyed when firemen arrived. Arson is suspected.

The second alarm, the false one was received at 2:45 p.m., and was on a fire purported to be at the home of Delema Smith, 107 Milby St.

Also Tuesday afternoon, firemen were called to Whitesburg for fire on the truck of Clarence Knotts.

Tax-Rate Deadline Nears in Kent

Kent County Levy Court has until midnight Friday to set a new property tax rate.

A county official said Wednesday the present rate will continue in force if a new rate is not set for the fiscal year beginning Saturday.

No action was taken Tuesday on establishing a property tax rate, as Levy Court members debated paying the county share of the state welfare costs.

Levy Court President Glenn A. Richter pointed out that there will be no change in the rate in the coming year if action isn't taken by midnight Friday. He said that deadline is prescribed by state law.

In an informal poll taken by Commissioner Isaac Thomas, the Levy Court's two Democrats, William Holden and William Spence, abstained from voting. Of the three Republicans, Richter and Thomas were in favor of increasing the rate to the state-set limit of 50 cents for each $100 of assessed property value and Walter Abbott was against the increase.

If the Levy Court maintains its current 35-cent rate, County Auditor Harold E. Remy warned, the county will be $275,000 in debt by the end of next June. Under these conditions, he advised the county to consider refusing to pay its state-mandated share to the State Home in Smyrna. The county's share is $326,000.

Richter agreed with Remy's recommendation after the meeting.

$610 From Contest For Exchange Fund

The Harrington Chapter of the American Field Service wishes to thank those organizations and individuals who participated in their recent fund raising contest. $610 was turned over to Mrs. Bessie Boozer, treasurer, as receipts from the contest and an additional $72 was turned over to Mrs. Boozer from contributions of five different people, making a grand total of $682. The winner of the contest was Robert D. Paw, of Salisbury.

Mrs. Boozer stated that she had approximately $175 in the treasury and that this money would enable the Chapter to meet the '67-'68 payment of $750 to the American Field Service, which is the cost of the new exchange student.

Miss Elisabeth Amsler, of Aargau, Switzerland, will be met in New York in mid-August by her Harrington parents, Mr. and Mrs. Olin Davis.

Chamber of Commerce
Elects Directors
Four directors were elected Tuesday noon by the Chamber of Commerce at its June meeting at The Bridge Bit. They were as follows: Fulton J. Downing and Samuel A. Short, Jr., for two years, and Thomas E. Clendenen and Thomas H. Peck, for one year.

The Chamber's officers are the remaining directors.

Sewer Referendum Passes; To Be Completed in '68

A referendum for a bond issue of $380,000, to finance improvements to the City's sanitary-sewer system, passed easily Saturday, 11,956 to 3715.

The outcome was in sharp contrast to a sewer referendum Oct. 29, for $500,000, when there were 14,874 votes against the bond issue, as compared with 10,268 votes in favor.

There were 372 ballots cast last year, compared with 206 Saturday when the breakdown was 134 for, against 72 opposed.

A resolution, certifying the results of the election, was passed at a Council meeting Monday evening. Grover C. Brown, the City Solicitor, present at the Monday meeting, said he should hear from the bonding attorneys before the next Council meeting which will be July 18.

In the meanwhile, Mrs. Kathryn Derrickson, acting city manager, is to check with the city's consulting engineer, Dudley Willis, of Edward Richardson Associates, to ascertain his progress on plans for the sewer improvements.

The State Water and Air Resources Commission has ordered the city to submit sewer plans by Oct. 1, award a contract by Nov. 15, and complete the project by Oct. 1, 1968.

Mayor Fulton J. Downing believed the city could conform to the plan.

Improvements, to be financed from the bond issue and state and federal grants, include the following: A new sewage disposal plant and polishing ponds, repairs to existing pumping stations and construction of others, repairs to all sewer mains, extension of mains to seven areas, as follows: U. S. 13 south, Thomas Alley, EaEst Street, North Street, Franklin Street, Harrington Avenue, and that portion of Harrington west of West Street.

The WARC grant may be $100,000, with the extent of a federal grant to be determined.

The bond issue, probably for 30 years, will be paid off by an increase in sewer-usage fees.

House Gets Increased
Welfare Bid
A bill was introduced into the House Tuesday that would raise welfare benefits for indigent families and the elderly.

At the same time, legislators who want the state to bear the full cost of welfare—a bill now stalled in the Senate—submitted a bill that would relieve counties of support of the State Home at Smyrna.

Rep. Raymond T. Evans, R-Wilmington, handed up the bill to increase welfare benefits — by as much as $50 a month—and to appropriate $290,000 to cover the added cost over the next 12 months.

The measure (H.B. 257) would raise the ceiling on old-age assistance from $100 to $125 a month.

The ceiling for aid to families with dependent children would go from $250 to $300 a month.

Staytonville Man Charged in Assault

A Staytonville man was identified over the weekend in a police lineup and was charged with three counts in an attempted rape and shooting, police said.

Ellis Hickson, 48, was charged with kidnaping, assault with intent to rape and aggravated assault and battery. Hickson was put in Kent Correctional Institution in lieu of $21,000 bond Friday night.

A preliminary hearing was set for Friday.

Police said Hickson was identified by the woman he allegedly attacked, a 19-year-old mother from Farmington.

The attack took place June 19, police said.

According to state police, the victim was abducted from her home at gunpoint and shot in the hand during a struggle to free herself.

The woman was later admitted to Nanticoke Memorial Hospital for treatment of the wound and was discharged Fri., June 23.

She told police she was able to get the license number of the car before it left the scene. Hickson was arrested at 6:30 p.m. Friday, police said.

Del. Commission
For Aging To
Relocate at Smyrna
On July 1, the Delaware Commission for the Aging will move to a new location on the duPont Highway three miles north of Smyrna. The site was selected so that the Commission could be more readily available to serve the older population and those interested in their welfare.

In addition to other duties the Commission is the administrator of money allocated to Delaware under the terms of the Older Americans Act. During this past year they have allocated funds to assist in the development of eleven local programs which are serving elderly people in various parts of the state.

Senate OKs Vo-Tech Tax Bill

Vocational schools would be allowed to levy taxes without referendums in one of two educational measures passed Tuesday by the Senate.

The second bill would enable the state's school districts to increase professional staffs.

Senator Russell D. F. Dineen, D-Wilmington, who introduced both measures, said the staffing bill would not conflict with proposals for increased staffing being made by the State Board of Education.

His bill, which would go into effect Feb. 1, would cost about $400,000. It would provide for additional administrative officers in school districts with more than 150 classroom units.

The vocational school bill drew stiff criticism from opponents of increased property taxes, but only four senators voted against it.

The bill would allow the boards of the three vocational-technical centers to levy as much as 3 cents per $100 of assessed valuation without referendums. The state currently pays all the bills for the schools.

Vocational technical centers are in operation in Kent and Sussex Counties. One is planned for New Castle County.

The original bill would have allowed New Castle County to levy a 5-cent tax, but Sen. Margaret R. Manning, R-Marshtown, rushed through an amendment to lower the figure to the same level as in the other two counties.

Dineen said that law allows the boards to go to the voters for local tax supplements. However, he said, such referendums would be conducted in only one location.

Dual-Job Amendment Introduced

A constitutional amendment proposal submitted Tuesday night would prohibit members of the General Assembly from holding another city, county or state job.

An exception to this would be certain positions in the public school system.

Reps. Michael N. Castle, R-Wilmington, William L. Frederick, R-Cranston Heights, and Raymond T. Evans, R-Wilmington, handed up the proposed amendment (H.B. 259) which would, if applied to the present membership, affect eight Democratic legislators who hold city or state jobs in addition to their legislative posts. Six of the eight are Wilmington legislators.

Sussex Man Held in Rape

Ernest R. Murphy was released under $10,000 bail Thurs., June 22, charged by authorities with raping a Greenwood housewife who had been out looking for two of her three children.

Murphy, 32, of East Market Street, Greenwood, waived a preliminary hearing in Magistrate's Court 4, Seaford, according to state police, and the case was bound over for Superior Court.

Troopers said the incident allegedly occurred sometime after midnight in an abandoned gravel pit, just off County Route 583 south of Greenwood.

The 45-year-old woman, according to investigators, was out checking with neighbors on the whereabouts of her two sons, both found later brushing their horse.

She was talking with another neighborhood woman, police said, when Murphy passed by in a truck and offered to drive them around to look for the boys.

One woman declined, but the victim agreed, police stated, and was taken to the gravel pit and assaulted.

U. of D. Graduate Makes Dream Come True

Wambui Kuria came to Delaware with a dream of some day going back to Kenya, East Africa, to work with her country's farmers. It took seven years, but Wambui's dream is coming true. She graduated June 11 from the University of Delaware with a bachelor's degree in agriculture and she's on her way back home.

Small and shy, still she speaks with eager determination about the work she hopes to do in Kenya. "My people need so much. Our land is often poor and farming methods are out-of-date. When I left seven years ago, carrying food in baskets was almost the only way to get it to market."

"During harvest I can remember looking at vegetables and fruits rotting in the market place. Yet, two months later people had nothing to eat. Now I can help."

Wambui came to Delaware because a Kenyan doctor, now the Defense Minister, knew of a school teacher in Wilmington who wanted to sponsor two Kenyan girls who needed to go to high school.

It wasn't easy at first, she remembers. "My first year in high school was very hard. I missed home badly—I was older than most of the students—but, worst of all, I couldn't understand them and they couldn't understand me. Everything was very bad and very hard."

Fortunately, with what she calls "understanding assistance and kindness" from Howard High School's principal, counselor and teachers, she graduated—"a happy student."

Attending the University of Delaware became her next dream. It came true with the help of a scholarship.

Wambui majored in general agriculture, but she took a course in nearly every department of the University. She believes her broad education will be very valuable, particularly since she wants to work in the field with her people.

"I think a woman with agricultural training can do a great deal to help. In my community the Kikuyu women do most of the field work; that's the way our tribe divides the labor." But she grinned, "I also took courses in flower gardening and landscaping. I think in the near future Kikuyu men will replace women in the field and the women will have more time to decorate their homes."

Wambui admits she will miss her many friends in Delaware and her two younger brothers in the U.S. George is a junior at the University of Kansas, majoring in journalism; Joseph is a junior at the University of Buffalo, in New York, majoring in economics.

But, she's eager to see her parents again and the new dairy farm they bought two years ago. "I've never seen it." Education is expensive in Kenya—and there are three more brothers and a sister still in school—so her father works part time as a truck driver.

Before she left, Wambui tried to describe what she had seen in this country and found it difficult. "Your country has so many different people from so many nations with such different backgrounds."

She found things that reminded her of Kenya, too. "The green valleys of Virginia and hills of Pittsburgh made me think of Central Kenya."

Yellowstone Park was lovely, she said, but "it doesn't compare with the game parks of Kenya." Art museums and big libraries, cars, planes, radios and TV made a lasting impression, too.

So did the University. "Not only the courses I took. My instructors and advisors gave me courage when I was disappointed and discouraged. I can't forget them."

Wambui didn't forget the goal she set for herself seven years ago either. Diploma in hand, she's on her way to "work with my people."

Kaffeeklatch

with Eleanor K. Vosnell

It's a mistaken notion that salad is strictly a "woman's" world. More and more men are ordering salad bowls and platters for the midday meal. So ladies, keep cool by serving a chilled salad as your main dish.

Parts of the salad that might require cooking can be prepared during the cooler hours of the day and stored in the refrigerator.

Club salad is quick and hearty enough to make a hit with the men and the teenagers. Place a slice of rye bread, plain or toasted, in center of a crisp lettuce and cup. With lettuce being on the expensive side right now you might like to substitute escarole or another green. Top with slices of cooked ham, tomato, Swiss cheese and hard-cooked egg. Spoon thousand island dressing over all. For a good thousand island dressing combine 2 cups of mayonnaise with 1/4 cup of chili sauce and 2 tablespoons each of chopped green pepper and chopped stuffed olives.

Frankfurter salad will make a small fry happy. You'll need six cooked frankfurters, sliced diagonally and 2 cups of diced, cooked potatoes. Prepare 1/2 cup chopped cucumber and 1/4 cup minced onion. Toss it all together with this special dressing: 1/3 cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon mustard, 3 tablespoons chili sauce and 1 teaspoon each of salt and vinegar. Garnish with pepper rings and offer carrot and celery sticks. Makes 6 servings.

Fruit salad is a favorite with the ladies and makes a pretty picture accompanied by dainty sandwiches, hot rolls or melba toast. Whether you choose fresh, canned or frozen fruit be sure it is chilled before serving. Use garnishes — water cress, mint leaves, cherries, nuts, berries, dates, prunes.

Almost any combination of fruits will look inviting served on a bed of greens. Include a dab of cottage cheese or a ball of cream cheese rolled in chopped nuts. To keep apple or banana slices from turning dark sprinkle them with fruit juice. For a very special fruit dressing combine 1/2 cup mayonnaise and 2 tablespoons honey. Fold in 1 cup heavy cream, whipped.

4-H News

With Marion McDonald

Good health is not a "Some-time Thing" with 4-H boys and girls. They work at it year-round. Besides the 4th "H" stands for Health. More than 2,225,000 youth pledge their "health to better living."

Members enrolled in the national 4-H Health program are expected to: (1) get plenty of daily exercise (2) include nutritious foods in their daily diet (3) get enough sleep (4) stretch mental capacities (5) acquire habits of personal cleanliness and good grooming.

State-wide supervision of the program is given by the Cooperative Extension Service. County Extension agents work with local club leaders in setting up and carrying out health projects for both the individual and the club.

National sponsor of the 4-H health program and awards for the 12th straight year is Eli Lilly and Company. It will provide six $500 scholarships to three boys and three girls who qualify for 1967 national honors. The winners will be announced during the National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago next November.

Prior to the Congress one member per state will be named a delegate, and the award will be an expense-paid trip to Chicago. Thousands of members will earn the county 4-H Health medal, and individual clubs will be cited for both state and county honors.

These awards do not come easy, however. The 4-H'ers must show definite progress in a health project or activity and should complete a specific phase of the program. Year-to-year records are kept by the member.

Here are examples of what two top 1966 winners did to improve their own health and that of others.

One 16-year-old boy headed community projects dealing with water pollution, immunization and drowning first-aid. As a matter of fact, one young mother who had attended the 4-H mouth-to-mouth resuscitation training session was able to revive her own child.

An 18-year-old university co-ed credits her work and knowledge gained in the 4-H health program with her decision to become a social worker. Physical fitness, dental health, and eye and ear care were stressed in her projects.

No special requirements are needed for enrolling a youngster in a 4-H Club. Age limits generally are from 9 through 19 years. Parents wishing more information about the 4-H program can obtain it by calling the county extension office (736-1448).

Discover Wonderful Del.

Delawareans can now proudly discover a new (and old) wonder of wonderful Delaware. Beginning June 27 the Public Archives Commission is opening Buena Vista to the public during regular museum hours: Tuesdays thru Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sundays, 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. In short, every day except Monday.

Buena Vista is the lovely Greek Revival house built in 1845-57 by John M. Clayton, the distinguished Delawarean who served as Secretary of State with President Zachary Taylor, and who represented Delaware in the United States Senate for three different terms. Clayton named his proud new house Buena Vista in commemoration of General Taylor's famous victory in the Mexican War.

On Clayton's death in 1856 the house became the property of James Douglass, his nephew and secretary. Through this family line it became the home of Delaware's late Governor, the Honorable C. Douglass Buck. Governor Buck bequeathed Buena Vista to the State of Delaware, in 1965, and the house and grounds have thus become an intimate memorial to two of Delaware's most distinguished citizens.

The history of Buena Vista is a long happy family one—no mournful ghosts are known to haunt its pleasant rooms. But the ghosts of John M. Clayton, James Douglass, C. Douglass Buck, and all those others who lived in the house and loved it should be happy to come back today. They'd surely rejoice in the beautiful wonder of wonderful Delaware that the Archives Commission has made of Buena Vista.

With the help of members of the Buck family, the New Castle Historical Society, and others, the Archives Commission has furnished the house in Empire and Early Victorian style that appropriately reflects the taste of Clayton, Douglass, and those who came after them.

Naturally, the most interesting furniture is that which was originally in the house. The oldest piece, perhaps, is a Recamier style sofa made for Joshua Clayton, great-great-grandfather of John M. Clayton. It is said to be made of wood from nearby Wrangle Hill.

In the music room is a spinet made by Thomas Loud of Philadelphia (a Loud spinet?), a harp and music stand, and a pair of Argnd lamps all of which were part of the original furnishings. They were given in 1926 to the New Castle Historical Society, which has now generously returned them to their proper home.

The large mirrors on the east walls of the dining room and parlor were heirlooms in the Douglass family.

Possibly the most interesting room is the Clayton library on the second floor. It contains

John M. Clayton's own books, in their original bookcases, and a portrait of Clayton by H. C. Pratt, a well-known portraitist of the period. In the upstairs hall is a bust of Clayton cast from the original mold for the statue in the United States Capitol.

All the bedrooms in the house have been comfortably and elegantly furnished, and will be used to accommodate distinguished visitors to Delaware.

The south wing of Buena Vista, added by the Buck family in 1930, contains a very large paneled library with a spectacular Kirman rug measuring 35 feet by 24 feet. It is planned to use this room for special meetings of State Agencies and for State entertainments.

Buena Vista is easy to reach—it's on Rte. 13 about 8 miles south of Wilmington, about halfway between State Road and Tybout's Corners. Admission is free, and a well-informed guide will show you around to help in your discovery of this newest wonder of wonderful Delaware.

Greenwood

Mrs. Jacob Hatfield

Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Meredith, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. William Ray, of Bridgeville, motored to Waldorf, Md., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Barry Sisson and family.

Recently, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Meredith attended the wedding of Lois Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pierson Nelson, of Chestnut Hill, Pa. The rest of the weekend was spent with Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Meredith, Jr., who entertained at a Father's Day dinner on that Sunday. E. L. Kratz and Lawrence Wilson, of Greenwood, also attended the wedding in Chestnut Hill.

Friday evening at 7:30 in the football stadium at Leural, there will be a band war, with seven bands competing for the prizes of $100, $50, and $25. The band winning first prize will also be on television over Salisbury network. The bands are sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. The band competing from Greenwood call themselves the "Electronic Sonics", with Dana Dennis at the organ; Wayne Lloyd, guitar; Greg Ellingsworth, Milford, guitar; Terry McCready, Harrington, base, and Terry Porter, Harrington, drums.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dennis, Jr. and Lance enjoyed a camping trip to North Carolina for a few days. Over the weekend they were in Solebury, Bucks County, Pa., to visit their son, Mark, who is spending some time with his great uncle, Edwin Davis.

Harry Haskell entertained all the committeemen and committeewomen and their respective wives and husbands of Sussex County, to an outdoor picnic on Wednesday afternoon at Chadds Ford, Pa. Those attending from Greenwood were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Meredith and Mrs. Della Russell.

Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Algier and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Algier attended the 12th wedding anniversary party given by Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ryan, of Andrewville. Twenty-three guests were present on this delightful occasion to enjoy the outdoor dancing, steamed clams and other delicious food.

Mrs. Darryl Algier and baby daughter, Suzette, of Seaford, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Algier and family, who really enjoyed this visit with their first grandchild.

Miss Carolyn Hawk, daughter of Mrs. Ann Hawk, has returned home after representing Greenwood as "Miss Greenwood" in the Delmarva Chicken Festival. Carolyn had a wonderful time and says that even though she did not win, she was treated like a queen every minute of her stay from the first day until the lovely final dance at Rodney Square Inn. She wishes to thank the Greenwood Lions Club and everyone else in Greenwood who made it possible for her to be a part of this affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Short, Jr. have as their house guest, Fred DeGraw, of Columbus, N. J.

The Rev. Haig Medzarentz advises that the Greenwood MYF has formed a softball team and desires to contact other church teams concerning games. Please call either the parsonage, 349-4324 or Terry Bowden, 349-4349.

Jay Reynolds was in Dover last week representing Greenwood High School at Boys' State.

This week, Eleanor Lamica and Gwen Stevens are likewise representing their school as delegates to Girls' State.

Recent guests of Mrs. Anna Isaacs were Mr. and Mrs. John Burr, of Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Davis and daughters were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Allison Davis, who returned with them for the evening.

Draper Reunion One hundred and ten persons attended the annual Draper family reunion which was held on Sunday. The usual perfect weather prevailed. In 22 years of holding this reunion, the amazing fact remains that they have always had a perfect day.

The oldest guest present was Mrs. Nora Kenton Morris, 83 years old, Mr. Draper's oldest sister, from Wilmington, who has remained with the Drapers for a longer visit. The youngest guest was little Lisa Ann Hudson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hudson, of Redden, aged 3 1/2 months old.

The family coming the longest distance was M. and Mrs. Ralph Draper and three children, of Leipsic, Ohio.

Since the last year's reunion, one death has occurred, that of William H. Draper, of Linwood, Pa., oldest brother of the Draper clan.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Passwaters and daughter and two grandchildren, of Wilmington, spent several days with the Drapers last week.

Mrs. William Fleischauer has, as their house guest, her mother, Mrs. Ernest Forbes, of Hammond, Pa.

Sunday, Mrs. Hershall Tindall, of Farmington entertained at an outdoor barbecue in honor of her grandson, Billy Fleischauer, the occasion being his 21st birthday. Those present here Mr. and Mrs. William Fleischauer, Sr., Mrs. Ernest Forbes, of La.; Billy and his fiancée, Miss Bonnie Messick, Miss Eileen Fleischauer, Clifford Hopkins, Gregory Fleischauer and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Keim, of Seaford.

Mennonite News: Vacation Bible School is now in progress at Greenwood Mennonite School House.

We are all grateful that God over-ruled in the accident that occurred to Mark Swartzentruber on Tuesday evening. He was working under a bushhog when, in spite of his precautions, it dropped on him. Within minutes someone heard his call and with God's help, no doubt, lifted it off of him. This left him severely bruised and sore, but he is reported recovering well.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Workman were hosts and hostess in dining out with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allen, of Seaford.

Frank Wroten was a Wednesday evening guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Workman.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Workman spent Thursday in Rehoboth. Sympathy of the community is extended to the family of William H. Morris, 79, who died on Friday, June 23, at his home, 101 Market St., Greenwood. He had been in poor health for some time. Mr. Morris never married. He was a retired postal worker and had been postmaster for the Greenwood Post Office from 1921 to 1936. He was a veteran of World War I. He is survived by his twin sister, Miss Mary Jane Morris, of Greenwood. Services were held Tuesday afternoon in the Berry Funeral Home, Milford. Interment was in Odd Fellows Cemetery, Milford.

Mr. and Mrs. Medford Calhoun entertained at Sunday dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Calhoun and children, Terry, Sherry and Shelley, of Harrington, and Mr. and Mrs. John Minner, of Harrington. The occasion celebrated Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Calhoun's wedding anniversary and also Leroy's birthday.

Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Medford Calhoun entertained at dinner, Mrs. Hulda Messick, of Moorestown, N. J., and Mrs. Helen aWerner and William Garrett, of Dover.

Thursday luncheon guest at the home of Mrs. Franklin Morris was Mrs. Katherine Kiser, of Smyrna. Sunday guests from Smyrna at the Morris home were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Liehr and sons.

Miss Lynn Morris participated in the talent contest on Friday evening at the Delmarva Chicken Festival.

Mrs. Franklin Morris III and children, spent Wednesday in Smyrna, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Morris, Jr., and also visited many other friends while there.

Mrs. Jacob Hatfield spent Thursday evening with Mrs. Lawrence Meredith.

Armed Forces News Two cadets from Milford will attend Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps summer camp at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, Pa.

Cadets attending from the University of Delaware, Newark, are: William F. Plack, III, 21, whose parents live at 507 Seabury Ave. A member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity at the university, he was graduated in 1964 from McDonogh (Md.) High School.

Stephen J. Rice, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Rice, 7 Mill St. A member of Tau Beta Pi fraternity at the university, he was graduated from Milford High School.

Upon successful completion of summer camp and graduation from College, they will be commissioned second lieutenants in the U.S. Army.

Marine Private First Class Roland H. Metzner Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland H. Metzner of Lynch Heights, Milford, has completed the Aviation Mechanical Fundamentals School at the Naval Air Technical Training Center in Memphis, Tenn.

The four-week course introduces students to mathematics, physics and the principles of electricity. Subjects stressed include atomic theory, static and dynamic electricity, a magnetic theory and the construction of aircraft batteries.

This month-long course prepares Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard personnel for entrance into more advanced courses at the center.

Army Private First Class Donald H. Palladino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Palladino, Route 2, Felton, was assigned to the 87th Engineer Battalion near Cam Ranh Bay, Vietnam, June 8.

Palladino, an engineer in the battalion, entered the Army in May 1966.

He attended Harrington High School.

Thumbs Down on Minis Say Del. Teenagers

Mini-skirts — pants suits — tent dresses — teenage fashions are in the news. But, if you really want to know what teenagers themselves think about today's styles, see what they sew for their wardrobes. Sixty 4-H girls entered in the state 4-H Dress Revue demonstrated which styles Delaware teenagers prefer.

They unanimously turn thumbs down on fashion extremes, according to Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing and textiles specialist at the University of Delaware. Mini-skirts are out although they prefer skirts just above the knee. "It's an attractive length for this age group," Miss Reed says.

High heels, hats and long, long hair are no longer in favor either.

Tent dresses received a vote of no confidence too; however, slightly fitted A-line are popular. Margaret Workman, 14, Bridgeville, and Kathy Hill, 15, Lewes, used A-line designs with French darts or diagonal seaming for their wool party dresses.

A-line skirts and pleated skirts are also favorites. The trend is away from the tightly fitted skirt, Miss Reed notes. Connie Booth, 14, Georgetown, experimented with moss green and green, yellow and brown striped drapery materials in a sleeveless striped hip-length overblouse over a pleated skirt on a hip yoke.

Several 4-H'ers made their own suits. The "little boy look" in printed homespun cotton was the choice of Janice Harrison, 16, Goldsboro, Md., and Anne Lomax, 15, Corner Ketch. "A suit is just right for school, church and trips," Janice believes. Anne Lomax says, "The little boy style has interested me for a long time so when I fell in love with this fabric, I figured the time was right."

Nancy Kramer, -4, Milford, brought a shocking pink paisley fabric from Florida for her double breasted suit. "It was such a gay material, it gave my whole wardrobe a lift."

The new vinyl prints found favor with Virginia Gibson, 15, Newark. She made a raincoat and hat from the vinyl and a cotton dress to match that had much use during Delaware's rainy spring.

Wool was a look-ahead-to-fall favorite. Joan Yaiser, 16, Middletown, added intricate seam detail to a dress and jacket of pale green wool. Mary Ann Foster, 16, Newark, picked up a double woven red and green plaid wool at a bargain. Miss Reed explains, "Mary Ann used her imagination to make a bias cut, well matched dress with self fabric fringe at the neckline and on the sleeve. She saw possibilities in the material that no one else had seen."

Nancy Zott, 14, Bridgeville, showed she had imagination too. She chose a simple style in white butcher linen to show off the embroidery along one edge. She inserted a band of shocking pink ribbon through the embroidery and made a purse to match from the remnants.

Delaware 4-H'ers are enthusiastic about the Dress Revue program. "Through the dress revue program, we learn what styles and fabrics are most becoming; and we test our skill by making an outfit, choosing appropriate accessories and modeling it in county dress revue. We learn the essentials of good grooming, what hair styles are becoming, how to model—all skills which carry over into our everyday lives to give other people the impression of us we want them to have," according to Dorothy Hopkins, Lewes, mistress of ceremonies of the dress revue.

ISRAEL WILL NOT GIVE UP A THING UNLESS

We see no reason to repeat the head. In two previous conflicts with the other Semitic states, Israel has taken and retained territory. It has taken territory, during the recent conflict, and will retain it. The Israeli want to deal directly with Jordan and Egypt. The United Nations, we believe, can make the Israeli give up all the territory it has seized only by force. Israel is a small country. It needs room to expand. It needs the oil of the Arab states. Control of the Suez Canal would also return it a nice income. The fact is, the Israeli, with the financial aid from abroad, can defeat the Arabs, who could not fight their way out of a paper bag, any time. The danger of this perennial bickering in the Middle East is the fomenting of another world war in which American lives will be lost and American dollars spent. Unless a substantial, permanent military force is maintained to keep peace in the Middle East, mind what we tell you, there will surely be another war there within a decade.

THE SLAWIK AMENDMENT SHOULD PASS

It is time to call a halt to the practice of the General Assembly in granting exemption of payment in real estate taxes. The state grants the exemption and the taxpayers of the counties make up the difference. Furthermore, once the name is removed from the tax roles, pressure is put on school boards and municipalities to do likewise. House Bill 264, introduced by Rep. Melvin Slawik (D) Tuesday, proposes a constitutional amendment to shift to the counties the authority to declare property exempt from taxation. The bill should pass. Too long have religious and social groups profited from tax exemption. The fact these groups are presumed to be nonprofiting is beside the point: most small businesses are also nonprofiting. Passage of the Slawik amendment would tend to prevent greater evils to come, evils we have seen in other states. Stores and other real estate, from which a profit is derived, tax free because it belongs to a school or church. Furthermore, some of the nation's largest merchants have found it to their advantage to build stores, give them to a school, and lease them back.

PASSAGE OF SEWER REFERENDUM REAFFIRMS FAITH IN HARRINGTON

While it appeared a referendum for a bond issue of $380,000 Saturday, proceeds of which were to provide improvements to the sanitary-sewer system, might pass, some of its backers had their fingers crossed. And justifiably so: a referendum for $500,000 for the same program, lost out Oct. 29 of last year. However, Saturday's election passed 11,954 to 3715, thus providing a pleasant shock to those favoring passage of the referendum. We can say, without any qualms, most of the owners of substantial property, voted for the bond issue. This, then, reaffirms our faith in those interested in the future of Harrington. Hindsight is better than foresight, they say, and we can advance some reasons for Saturday's victory. The bond issue was smaller; its proponents had the benefit of experience derived from the referendum of last fall. The bond issue, was for a smaller sum. The sewer improvements were necessary. Any delay meant higher construction costs and a higher cost to the user of the sewers. The last sewer referendum, successful one, that is, was in 1935, and was for 30 years. It can be justifiably presumed this bond issue will be for a like period. Thus, a number of the affluent property owners will not be around, but they will leave the benefits of their vote to their progeny, posterity, and the community.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller ROMANCE

John came home from Mahatonga, Home spun clothes, a sight to see; Got a job in town at clerkin', That was back two years, or three.

Took to learnin' city manners, From the people in the stores, Soon became a "City Slicker", And forgot his country chores.

Took to goin' out to dances, Learned to step 'round quite smart, Put nigh every girl he danced with, Left them with a broken heart.

At a dance one night last winter, Came a gal from off the farm, High top shoes that had on buttons, Home made dress that had no charm.

The boys an' gals jest poked each other, Makin' sport o' Mary Jane, Asked her 'bout the crops back yonder, If she thought they needed rain.

John, he saw the country shyness, Found the sunshine in her kisses, Now they're back in Mahantonga And she signs her name as Mrs.

Dr. J. S. Ketchum and Riley Pullen were partners in a store at Imboden, Ark. Their sign read: "Ketchum & Pullen." Perhaps the most realistic sign of all was that of Robert Hill and Dale Pharr, engaged in the fire insurance business at Des Arc, Ark: "The Hill-Pharr Insurance Company." St. Stephen's Episcopal Church Notes

Calendar for June 30 to July 6 SATURDAY— 7:30 to 11 p.m. EYC Canteen SUNDAY— 9:30 a.m. Church school for nursery and kindergarten. 9:30 a.m. Holy Communion combined with healing service and adults' sermon. 10:45 a.m. Coffee hour. MONDAY— 10 a.m. Interdenominational prayer group in lounge. TUESDAY— 6:30 p.m. Boy Scouts meet. 8 - 11:30 p.m. EYC Canteen. WEDNESDAY— 7:30 p.m. Healing service. Billy Smith, who will be seven years old Monday, will go to the Kent General Hospital in Dover, this coming Thursday where his eyes will be operated on Friday morning. Both of Billy's eyes will be bandaged for about five days. This little notice is being put in the bulletin and the newspaper in the hopes that many of Billy's church and community friends and acquaintances will send to him cards and other remembrances.

For the next two weeks, during the absence of the vicar, the Rev. Joseph S. Hinks will occupy the chancel at St. Stephen's. All emergencies should be reported to Father Hinks at phone number 422-5110. It is a pleasure to welcome this "best of friends" back to St. Stephen's both for the Sunday and Wednesday services. It happens that the coming two weeks was the only time on which the vicar could get suitable quarters for his vacation and also so the only time during which Mrs. Mason, the parish secretary could conveniently arrange her own vacation. Therefore, the parish office will not be open during these two weeks. However, John Thorpe, the sexton, will be on hand each morning in case parishioners need to have access to the building. At the service of divine worship this coming Sunday morning, the officers for the Women of St. Stephen's for the incoming year will be installed. They are as follows: President, Mrs. Robert McNally; vice president, Mrs. Carrington Burgess; secretary, Mrs. Ernest Killen; treasurer, Mrs. Woodrow Welch; secretary of Christian Social Relations, Mrs. Thomas Clendenning; prayer and worship chairman, Mrs. Quay Rice; United Thanks Offering custodian, Mrs. Augustus Raughley; church periodical club director, Mrs. George Thompson; educational secretary, Mrs. Clyde Perry; Christian ministries secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Creadick; United Church Women representative, Mrs. Walter Winkler. These women have already had several organizational meetings in preparation for the coming year. They seem to be off to a good start. The prayers of the congregation will be with them most heartily. Their time of meeting beginning with September will be at 7:30 p.m. on the second Monday of each month. After this coming Saturday night's St. Stephen's EYC Canteen dance, the remaining dances for the summer will be held Tuesday. Since the first Tuesday of July falls on Independence Day, July 4, these Tuesday dances will begin at that time. They will begin at 8 p.m. instead of 7:30 and will last until 11:30 p.m. The last Tuesday dance will be August 29. The first September Saturday night dance will be Sept. 2 and will go back to the 7:30 - 11 p.m. hour. The Boy Scout Committee of St. Stephen's under the leadership of William F. Smith will this coming Sunday, present a flag which has been prepared for Troop 79, which is sponsored by St. Stephen's. Messrs. William Smith and Robert McNally will bring the flag forward. After it has been blessed at the altar, it will be presented to Neil Russell, scoutmaster, who will receive it on behalf of his troop.

Delaware Farm Labor News

State Summary

The demand for seasonal harvest hands is experiencing the traditional temporary slack period. Most of the asparagus harvest workers have moved on to commitments in other areas and the workers for the summer harvests are starting to trickle into the area. Crews should be advised to either contact the Farm Labor Office or their employer before moving into the state. No figures on out of state labor are included for this period because the movement in and out of the area fluctuates very rapidly.

Wilmington Area

The primary activities in the area are the cultivation of corn, tomatoes, potatoes and the beginning of the small grain harvest. The need for out of state seasonal workers is at its normal mid-season low, it is expected that this slack period will probably last until around July 15. The day haul of workers out of Wilmington for the blueberry harvest in New Jersey began today with approximately thirty workers involved.

Dover Area

Harvest of the pea crop continues. Cabbage harvest started during the past few days. A few southern migratory workers have moved into the area and others are calling each day to inquire for any available work. It would appear at present that it is most likely that the labor supply will be here before growers are ready to begin harvest, this is especially true of those crews that do not stop in Virginia. The cultivation of corn, soybeans, and tomatoes and the harvest of small grain are the major activities at the present time. Georgetown Area

Asparagus harvest should be completed this week. Some Puerto Rican contract workers will remain for cucumber harvest and others will return to Glassboro, N. J. Cucumber harvest should begin week of July 10. Growers reporting that they hope to start apple harvest about July 8, but could be few days later depending on weather. Blueberry harvest underway with sufficient labor at present, but yield will increase next week and demand for local workers could increase. Snap bean harvest late, but some processing plants will begin processing out of state snap beans next week. Warm weather past week and showers over weekend contribute to ideal growing conditions.

and many more. "Your job in the WAC will be one of the most rewarding you'll ever have," said Sergeant Frazier. "You'll be trained in a job that takes advantage of your particular skills and abilities. You'll be among the nucleus of trained women which stands ready to keep the Army and your country strong in times of peace and emergency," he continued. Young women with high school diplomas who are between the ages of 18 and 34, may be tested by the Army and, if qualified, receive a written guarantee of the job training of their choice before they enlist. Benefits available to members of the Women's Army Corps include 30 days paid vacation annually, opportunities for travel and additional education and training, free medical and dental care, and the use of post exchanges, commissaries and recreational facilities.

Sergeant Frazier has additional information about Women's Army Corps requirements and opportunities. She may be reached by calling 736-6937 or 674-1360 or by writing him at 218 S. Governors' Avenue, Dover, Del. 19901.

Expanded Job Opportunities In Women's Army

Plans to increase the enlisted strength of the Women's Army Corps by approximately 4,000 over a 24-month period were announced by Sergeant Walter R. Frazier, local Army recruiter.

"This increase will provide additional opportunities for young female high school graduates to receive top-notch job training and all the other benefits of Army service," Sergeant Frazier stated.

Openings currently exist in the fields of communications, administration, dental and medical skills, personnel, secretarial skills, automatic data processing

Breakfast In School Program Eyed Favorably

Breakfast in school? Yes. No need to start classes hungry. At four Delaware schools the day begins with a hot meal for 153 children, some of them paying customers, and others guests of Uncle Sam. Under the Federal Child Nutrition Act of 1966, it became possible for a full-breakfast program to be instituted in selected schools as a pilot project. Since February 1, when the program in Delaware started, 16,965 breakfasts have been served, with 9,000 of these given without charge. Miss Martha Bonar, state school lunch supervisor with the Department of Public Instruction, selected Milford, Lincoln and Greenwood for the pilot projects on the basis of need of the children and distance they have to travel on the school bus. So successful has the enterprise proven that starting next September many more schools will be added to the list as they meet the qualifications and have cafeteria employees available. At Milford, where Miss Constance Howell is supervisor of school lunch, the cafeteria employees arrive on the job at 7:15 a.m. to prepare and serve the breakfast before starting on the noon-meal preparation. The same schedule is followed at Greenwood, where Mrs. Helen LeKates is cafeteria manager and in Lincoln, Mrs. Anne Whitehurst, manager. The program has received votes of approval from pupils and staff. Children show their endorsement by their voluntary presence. No roll-call is made, no attendance requirements set up, and no schoolbell sounds for the opening of the cafeteria. If you're hungry, you come. A consistency of attendance has shown the acceptance of the meal. Teachers report that attendance in class has picked up, and that there is a more alert attitude among the pupils receiving the free breakfasts, indicating mental and physical improvement. The school nurse, Mrs. Garrie L. Clendaniel of the Lulu M. Ross School in Milford, presents the most revealing evidence; her weight—gain statistics, show appreciable gains closely correlated with the onset of the breakfast program. A complete basic menu is served; no choices are offered. A typical meal includes one-half cup fruit juice or the equivalent in a serving of fruit, one-half pint of milk, hot cereal, bread or rolls. Sometimes egg, meat or fish dishes are added. On the mornings of the breakfast program. Navy Career Offers Electronic Challenge

An electronic revolution has occurred within the United States Navy within the past two decades. Supersonic aircraft, equipped with radar and other search devices, sweep the skies to detect enemy aircraft and weapons. Guided missiles with electronic brains stand poised to flash toward air, surface, and underwater targets. Nuclear submarines probe the ocean world hundreds of feet beneath the surface, navigating with pin-point accuracy on their electronic navigational systems. Surface ships and aircraft team up with their sophisticated electronic search equipment to detect and destroy enemy submarines. Yes, the modern nuclear, supersonic, and electronic Navy is indeed far above its World War II counterpart. As a result of this revolution, the United States Navy today needs intelligent, sincerely motivated men with an aptitude for electronics. To meet this demand, the Navy has initiated the Advanced Electronic Fields Training Program. A program that offers a high degree of training and a challenging future. A successful and rewarding naval career as an Advanced Electronic specialist has many benefits. These may include: An advanced technological education. Proficiency pay. Re-enlistment bonuses. Rapid promotions. Pride in belonging to an important team of skilled technicians. If you are interested in acquiring an outstanding electronics education in a highly technical area, accept the advanced electronics field training program challenge and join the team regardless of race, creed or national origin. Interested High School graduates can call the local Navy Recruiter at the Keith Building, Dover, or phone 734-7819.

The proposed amendment says that no senator or representative is eligible during the term for which he is elected "for any other office or appointment by the State of Delaware or any of its counties or incorporated cities or towns, but excluding the office of school trustee, teacher or instructor in the public school system." Four senators would be affected if the proposed amendment were in force now. Sen. Allen J. Cook, D-Kenton, the majority leader, works for the turnpike division of the State Highway Department. Sen. Calvin R. McCullough, D-Holloway Terrace, the president pro tempore, is an inspector for the same department. Sen. Herman M. Holloway Sr., D-Wilmington, works for the State Tax Department. Sen. George F. Schlor, D-Wilmington, is director of the Wilmington License Bureau. In the House, Rep. Paul E. Shockley, D-Wilmington, is Wilmington's city clerk; Rep. Reese Hammond, D-Wilmington, works for the city Department of Public Works; Rep. John J. McMahon, D-Wilmington, is a support officer for Family Court, and Rep. Oliver S. Fonville, D-Wilmington, is a bridge tender for the highway department. If approved—by two legislatures—the proposed amendment would go into effect Jan. 1, 1971.

Model Subdivision Ordinance (an ordinance for the regulation and zoning of the subdivision)
General Development Pattern of the Greater Harrington Area
Fiscal Profile Analysis of the City of Harrington
Administrative Procedures Outlook

We intend to complete the comprehensive plan. Tonight we submit the preliminary for your consideration, and, after its re-viewing, recommend its adoption. We recommend changes to zoning ordinances and city map to conform to the comprehensive plan.

We recommend appointment of a separate zoning commission, consisting of three members from the Planning Commission and two other persons. We recommend ordinance for subdivision controls. We recommend adoption of a building code. We suggest the above recommendations be adopted to make the comprehensive plan, for improvements to the City of Harrington, workable.

After adoption of a comprehensive plan, the City should keep up-to-date records, and maps such as those of streets and alleys, water mains, sanitary and storm sewers, gas mains, traffic patterns, etcetera. After the comprehensive plan has been adopted, the Mayor and Council should continue working with the State Planning Office on a retainer basis.

Under this program, the payment schedule would be stepped up. The maximum for the first dependent would be increased from $75 to $90 a month and the maximum for a caretaker relative from $50 to $60 a month. The schedule of maximum payments for dependent children ranges from $87 a month for two children to $150 a month for eight. This would be increased to $105 for two children and $180 for eight. But altogether, no single family could get more than $300 a month in aid and services. While Evans was introducing that measure, Rep. Robert W. Riddagh, R-Smyrna, was submitting the bill to take the counties off the hook for support of the State Home. The counties now share the costs of the home, as well as other welfare costs, with the state. Officials of all three counties have supported legislation offered in the Senate by Sen. Andy Foltz, R-Dover, to shift all those costs to the state. Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. had agreed to go along with the measure dealing with the State Home, but the bill is bottled up in the Senate Revised Statutes Committee. Wilmington Democratic Sen.

George F. Schlor, chairman of the committee, has scheduled a hearing on Foltz' bills for Friday. Republicans have charged that Schlor's action was intended to prevent any legislative action until after the counties enacted their budgets for the fiscal year starting July 1. Riddagh's bill is identical to Foltz'.

Transit Department Bill Beaten

A lone Democrat teamed up with Republicans in the Senate Tuesday night to defeat a bill which would establish a state transportation department. Senator Curtis W. Steen, D-Dagsboro, and seven Republicans voted against the measure, proposed by Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr., largely as a means of preserving bus service in Wilmington.

The bill needed ten votes for passage. It got eight supporting votes and eight opposed. Sen. Dean C. Steele, R-Windsor Hills, was recorded as not voting and Sen. Ralph S. Keenan, R - Wilmington, was absent, but the Republicans did not need those votes to defeat the bill. The action appeared to kill any chances of passage of bus service legislation before the General Assembly begins its summer recess. Senate Republican leader Reynolds duPont of Greenville told the Senate, "This is no attempt to delay a solution to our transit problem. I recognize as well as anyone else the deadlines that exist and the dangers of another cessation of service. Frankly I would love to see this issue resolved today, but I do not feel that we are at a point where we can do it today, tomorrow or Friday."

"I believe it would be better to pass a good bill in September than a bad bill now," he said. Democrats warned that Delaware Coach Co. could go out of business at any time, leaving Greater Wilmington without any mass transit system. The chief objections to the bill centered on the job security provisions covering employees of the existing private transit systems.

The Rev. Charles M. Moyer's Sunday morning message was "Christian Perfection." Altar flowers were white lilies given by Miss Nellie Hughes in memory of Mrs. Adelia Hughes.

Once again it is nearly time for the annual Street Fair, which is to be held Saturday, July 8. The main attraction of the fair is the fried chicken dinner, prepared by the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Last Sunday, Mrs. Clara Bradley, Mrs. Orpha Taylor and Mrs. Bessie Ryan, of Harrington, spent Sunday at Rehoboth Beach.

Deirdre and Caroline Henry, of Dover, have been visiting their grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Howard Henry.

Mrs. Hattie Eaton is visiting her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lynch, of Wilmington.

Wade Shaub, who has been a patient in the Milford Memorial Hospital, Milford, returned home on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Torbert entertained Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Moore at dinner on Thursday evening, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Moore's 40th wedding anniversary.

Marsha and Donna Kemp have been recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Masten and family in Kenton.

Mrs. Russell Torbert and son, Jimmy, have been spending a few days in Ocean City, N. J., with relatives.

Mrs. Clara Bradley was recently elected president of the World War I Department of Delaware.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Hammond attended the Yerkes-Marvel wedding and reception at the Houston Methodist Church, Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Failing Jr. were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Kelly, Lian-gollen Estates.

Mrs. James Carlisle, who has been a patient in the Kent General Hospital, Dover, for several weeks, has returned home.

Miss Nellie Hughes attended the wedding at the Asbury Methodist Church, Harrington, on Saturday afternoon of Ann Hoffman and Lynn Hopkins. The reception was at the Harrington New Century Club.

Mrs. Helen Harrington was a Sunday dinner guest of Mrs. Virginia C. Morrow.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Stevenson and family, were his mother, Mrs. Joseph Stevenson, of Beverley, N. J., and Mrs. Steevenson's mother, Mrs. Florence Seber, also of Beverley, N. J.

Sunday morning visitors of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Kates were Mrs. Mary Tripplett and two granddaughters, of Newark.

Saturday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Torbert were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Torbert and son, Jimmy.

Attending music camp at the University of Delaware, Newark, last week were Larry Sipple, of Viola, Linda Hart and Bill Erne, of Felton.

Mrs. Robert Sherwood and family, Cheryl and Bobby, of Selfridge Air Force Base, Illinois, were Sunday morning visitors of Mrs. Sherwood's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Kates.

At the Delmarva Chicken Festival parade on Saturday, the Felton School Band won $100, the Auxiliary of the Felton Fire Company won $50 and the Felton Fire Company won $25.

Children's Day service was held at Manship Church, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Donaway, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Hammond and Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Moore attended the antique show at the Tidewater Inn, Easton, Md. Sunday afternoon. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. James Hall and family, at Church Hill, Md., and Mrs. Walter Cole, Goldsboro, Md.

Larry Sipple, of Viola, entered Milford Memorial Hospital, Milford, Monday and will undergo surgery on Tuesday.

Trees - Here Today Gone Tomorrow

The ad reads "wooded lot." And you dream of a cool yard with shade and privacy, worth many dollars more than a bare lot. But how will that wooded lot look after your house is built or ten years from now?

All too often valuable shade trees are torn out during construction or they are so badly injured by grade changes causing trunk and root damage that they die slowly. It doesn't need to happen that way, according to Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

How can you tell which trees on your lot should be saved? Their location, the kind of tree, their size, age, shape and vigor, and the cost and work involved are all important considerations, Stevens points out.

To be worth saving, a tree should provide shade where you want it, not shut off sunlight needed for lawn and garden. It should break the force of winter winds, not prevent the circulation of summer breezes.

One tree blocking an unpleasant view deserves more consideration than one in the way of a beautiful view. Perhaps the best question you can ask yourself is, "If no tree were growing in this spot, would I plant one here?"

The kind of tree has a great deal to do with its desirability, reminds Stevens. It is difficult to grow lawns and shrubs under trees with roots growing close to the surface—such as maple, linden, dogwood and most conifers.

Willows are notorious for blocking sewer lines with their roots. Some varieties of trees are often attacked by insects or diseases. Maples, for instance, frequently have aphids which produce a sticky liquid; don't plant them near a driveway where the liquid can drip on cars.

Some trees are less adaptable and require more care to survive changes in their environment, Stevens says. Old, large trees are also less adaptable, but are often irreplaceable. On the other hand, a small tree can easily be replaced, and replacing may be cheaper than preserving it.

Once you have decided which trees to keep, protect them from mechanical injury during construction and from grade changes. A fence, enclosing an area at least 10 feet square with the tree in the middle, will prevent damage from builder's trucks and other equipment.

Many trees are killed each year by piling soil around them or by taking soil away during construction. When the grade level is changed more than six inches, the tree can't get the air, water or minerals it needs. The tree will not die immediately; death comes gradually, over a number of years, from the top down.

If several feet of fill soil is needed to raise the grade near the tree, you should build a tree well around the trunk so air and water can circulate around the root system, Stevens recommends. Then, radiate a tile system from the well out as far as the branches spread on the original soil surface. Cover the tile with crushed stone with fill soil on top. Where less fill is needed in the grade change, a layer of crushed stone and soil on top can save the tree.

If the grade must be lowered, build a retaining wall around the tree or terrace the grade. If you build a retaining wall, don't forget to leave drain holes.

A USDA bulletin, "Protecting Shade Trees During Home Construction," which describes ways to save desirable trees, is available from The Mailing Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware 19711.

4-H'ers Attend W. Va. Camp

Bonnie Layton, 16, Georgetown, and John Gray, 18, Wilmington, are the two delegates from Delaware attending West Virginia State 4-H Older Youth Camp at Jackson's Mill, June 19 to 24. James O. Baker, state 4-H leader, made the announcement.

The daughter of Mrs. Roy Layton was the 1966 winner of the state 4-H photography awards and was also a state winner in the Reddy Foods contest. Gray, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gray, is active in 4-H photography projects.

Jackson's Mill is the boyhood home of General Stonewall Jackson. While at the camp, 4-H'ers will take part in leader training courses, discussion groups and in musical and recreational activities. Baker believes the Delaware 4-H'ers will return to their homes better trained to act as junior leaders in their local 4-H clubs, in community activities, and county 4-H camps.

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa

We have another crazy season weatherwise. No one knows it better than our potato growers. Their vines are showing blotches on the leaves, pin point holes between the leaf veins, and some leaf curl. Lower leaves are also losing their green color.

Dr. John Heuberger, University of Delaware plant pathologist, and Dr. John Campbell, his counterpart at Rutgers University of New Jersey give this explanation. Planting weather was extremely good in April. The month of May brought heavy rains and very cool weather. Much of the available plant food, especially magnesium, was leached away. June has brought dry weather, and despite irrigation, all of the above signs point to drouth, with visible symptoms of the lack of magnesium. Our potato tuber crop is about the size of a silver dollar at the moment, and tending to draw plant food away from the leaves. The yellow color of the lower leaves is due to reflection of hot sunlight from the ground.

Some New Jersey growers are trying to correct the problem by side dressing with about 500 pounds of 6-10-10 fertilizer with 2 or 3 per cent of soluble magnesium. Most Delaware growers do not side-dress their plants—are simply equipped for it. We can probably live through the problem without doing anything. Recent heavy rains should help.

Where fields are low in magnesium, Bob Stevens, our extension horticulturist, suggests a foliar spray of 20 pounds of magnesium sulfate in 100 gallons of water. If applied as a sidedressing, then one can use up to 200 pounds of magnesium sulfate per acre.

We thought at first that air pollution damage might be a factor. But the pattern of the damage is clearly between leaf veins. Air pollution might affect any portion of the leaf.

We can also rule out blight or any other disease at this time. To sum up, blame very wet weather in May, and the mild drouth in June. Sit tight and do nothing or if you must, get some sidedressing equipment and put on a bit more plant food.

The Delmarva Chicken Festival brought forth this question. Where are all the chicken farmers? The answer is, that in Kent County at least, we have fewer than 100 commercial broiler growers. This, in spite of the fact that Sussex County and Delmarva as a whole, is the most concentrated broiler producing area in the world.

Another point, few farmers belong to the Greater Dover Chamber of Commerce, the Festival host organization this year. But farmers are sprinkled through the many supporting organizations—Capital Grange, the 4-H clubs, civic and service clubs, need to present such a spectacle.

Remember too that farmers represent less than 10 per cent of our county population, and even less closer to Dover. Poultry growing provides better than a 60 million dollar annual income for Delaware farmers however.

Poultry income is important to the community and to the state. The money revolves with local supporting businesses. Not only is this true of chicken money, but also for corn, soybean and grain crops, which go into poultry feeds.

The annual Festival somewhere on the Peninsula calls attention to a very basic, healthy, local industry. We've been told that Dover has been a splendid host. Bpt remember, this is possible only by the full cooperation given by those who worked and those who supported the many events.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

July starts off with a bang with Independence Day, a day when picnics reach the ultimate in quantity and quality. Why not plan on turkey for your picnic meat this year? Favorable prices are the prospect for the entire summer but particularly during July. Turkeys now come in a variety of sizes as well as in parts such as breast, thighs, etc., so there should be no difficulty in finding just what you want to roast, barbecue, fry, fricassee, or cook in any manner you desire.

This first full month of summer brings other foods that also are attractive and well-suited to both outdoor and indoor meals. Take frozen fish fillets and steaks; they are in excellent supply and are delightful served broiled or baked on the patio or in the dining room. This nutritious and easy-to-eat food rates a top place in summer meals and takes so little time to prepare that you'll want to use it especially often when the thermometer soars.

There's nothing like a cold lemonade or limeade on a hot day! You'll hear this sentiment expressed often in the month ahead, so be prepared. Fresh and processed lemons and limes will be plentiful and thrifty. This is the result of the 18 per cent above average lemon crop and the 22 per cent above average Florida lime crop. Remember too, that both of these fruits go well in cooking and baking. Use them to bring out better flavor in vegetables, fish, poultry, and meats.

July is the month when many locally produced vegetables are available in large volume. The local season is usually the period when prices are lowest and quality is at a peak. Vegetables typically in good supply during this first month of summer are lettuce, beets, cabbage, summer squash, and dry onions. Tomatoes are the only item expected to be in relatively light supply.

To finish off the list of plentiful foods for July are dry beans. The supply continues to be plentiful and prices are and will be quite reasonable. Stock up the pantry shelf, by all means, and serve nourishing baked beans, bean salad, bean soup, bean sandwiches, and an assortment of bean casseroles often.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—I was divorced from a veteran a short time ago. He is now in the hospital and is unable to make his payments to support our two children. Can I get VA payments toward the support of these children?

A—If your husband has more than a 30 per cent service-connected disability, and if he is receiving compensation payments because of it, you should contact the nearest Veterans Administration office and discuss your case with representatives there.

Q—Can the burial expenses of a wife or child paid by the veteran be deducted from his income for pension purposes?

A—The expenses of last sickness and burial of a wife or child paid by the veteran pensioner can be deducted from his income for the year in which they are paid.

Q—I am receiving a VA pension check as a widow. The words "unremarried widow," have been removed from my check. Does this mean I can continue to get a pension if I remarry?

A—Remarriage of a widow causes her pension payments to stop at the end of the month before the month in which she remarried.

Ornamental Disease Notes

By
W. J. Manning - J. W. Heuberger

The disease of crabapple trees called "scab" is caused by the fungus Venturia inaequalis which overwinters in dead leaves on the ground. During heavy spring rains, spores produced by this fungus are liberated and spread to the new leaves of the crabapple tree. These spores germinate and infect the leaves, resulting in the appearance of small chlorotic areas on the surface of the leaves. These areas gradually enlarge and turn dark olive-green in color. During wet years, most of the leaf surface may be covered with the fungal growth. The fruit is also infected and the surface marred by dark spots.

The overall ornamental value of a crabapple tree with scab is severely impaired. Severe defoliation can result which reduces the vigor of the tree over a period of years.

The best control of this disease is to rake up all the leaves beneath the tree in the fall and burn them. The fungicide Dithane (Dithane), at the rate of one teaspoon per gallon of water every 12 to 14 days, will help to keep scab down during the season.

Fireblight can also be a problem on crabapples. This disease is caused by a bacterium (Erwinia amylovora). If infection occurs early, the first symptom is the presence of dead and dying flowers. Close examination shows that the floral parts are covered with a sticky ooze which contains millions of bacteria. Splashing rains spread the bacteria, infecting leaves, twigs and fruit. The final result is a burned or scorched appearance of twigs and leaves, hence the name "fireblight". Fruit has a dark appearance and is covered with a sticky ooze.

Control of fireblight is hampered by the internal development of the disease in the vascular system. Dark streaking in the wood extends several inches beyond any outwardly damaged area.

As the bacteria that cause the disease overwinter in damaged branches, it is important that these branches be removed and burned. Due to the internal development of the disease, it is necessary to remove dead areas at least 6 to 8 inches below the internal discolored wood. It is also a good idea to disinfect pruning tools with alcohol or dilute Chlorox solution (1-10) after each cut to avoid spreading the bacteria to new areas. Pruning wounds should be painted with three paints containing a disinfectant.

A number of crabapple varieties have been found to be resistant to scab and fireblight as well as rust and powdery mildew. These include Adams, Basketong, Beauty, Blanche Ames, Evelyn, Ferrill's Crimson, Golden Hornet, Goldfinch, Gwendolyn, Jack C., Lady Northcliffe, Ormiston Roy, Peachleaf C., Pixie, Professor Sprenger, Red Splendor, Seaford and Winter Gold.

Peach Blossom 4-H Club News

The June meeting was held on the 17th, at the home of the Mesibov family. Devotions were by Robin Cahall and the pledges were led by Cindy Rust. Following the routine business reports were heard.

Linda Newmon talked about the recent state Reddy Foods Contest at the fairgrounds. Mike Baker reported on the electric exhibit. Our club entered an exhibit and won $15.00 third prize in state. Lee and Steven Mesibov each received $10 first prizes for their individual exhibits. Ronnie Bramble and Mike Baker each brought home $5 second prizes. Mr. O'Bier of Delmarva Power & Light gave an interesting electrical demonstration.

Becky Messick commented on the Chicken Festival starting June 21. Four members of our club will help sell programs.

The 4-H Conference held at the University of Delaware, June 26-29 will be attended by Philip and Lee Mesibov from our group. The president reminded members that State Fair entries are due July 1. Also that there will be a vegetable training and judging contest on July 11.

Rita Messick and Steve Mesibov told club of the fun of camp and encouraged as many as possible to go this year in August. Prior to the meeting we met at Debbie Salmon's for a hay ride through the countryside. We all had a good time.

Refreshments were furnished by Junanne Jervad, Mark Williams, Debbie Salmons, Donna Rust, and G. B. Langford.

Plans were made for us to go by bus to see the movie "The Sound of Music" on Sat., July 1.

Pod and Stem Blight Controls In New Publication

Pod and stem blight damages soybean seed quality more than any other disease in Delaware. The blight, caused by a fungus, is present to some extent every year.

Three plant pathologists from the University of Delaware, Dr. H. W. Crittenden, associate professor; H. E. Bloss, former graduate assistant; and F. A. Yelen, graduate assistant, have written a new circular "Pod and Stem Blight of the Soybean in Delaware," which describes the blight and gives control measures.

According to the authors, pod and stem blight is easy to recognize two or three weeks before harvest when the soybeans begin to ripen. The soybean stem, near the base, looks as if it were sprinkled with black pepper. The same black spots show up on the surface of the pods at the same time or a little later. Actually, the black spots contain spores which may be carried by rain or wind to healthy plants where they can cause new outbreaks.

When diseased pods are opened, the seeds inside may be shriveled and white or grayish white. The diseased seeds are greenish or grayish-brown inside instead of a normal yellow color. In severe cases the embryo of the seed is killed; if the fungus attack is milder, the seed may just be weakened so that it may not produce a vigorous plant.

To control the fungus causing pod and stem blight, plant healthy seed of one of the resistant soybean varieties such as Delmar, Hill, Dorman, Dare, Hood, Ogden and Lee. Varieties which are most susceptible to the fungus are Wayne, Clark, Clark 63 and Shelby. According to Crittenden, these varieties are much more likely to be infected when they mature in August rather than September or when they mature during a period of high temperatures and high humidity.

Crittenden also recommends plowing under all soybean material after harvest. The fungus can survive the winter in the seed, in stems left standing or in diseased pods and stems blown back onto the ground at harvest. Using a winter cover crop and practicing crop rotation are further suggestions.

If you use a fungicide for control, apply spray every seven days throughout the flowering season. Six or seven applications of zineb give good control; tribasic copper sulfate is less satisfactory, according to the circular.

Copies of "Pod and Stem Blight of the Soybean in Delaware," published by the Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Delaware are available from The Mailing Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Del. 19711.

SS Delaware Back In Business After Being Overhauled

The SS Delaware, flagship of the Cape May-Lewes Ferry, is plying Delaware Bay again after a complete overall and paint job.

Streamlined for new duty on Delaware Bay the largest of the Delaware River and Bay Authority vessels saw rugged duty for more than a year before she was retired for the renovation work. This was just recently completed at the Maryland Drydock and Ship Building Company Yard, Baltimore. She was returned to the Cape May Ferry Terminal where workers completed the painting and interior decoration which makes her trim and handsome once more.

General manager Nolan C. Chandler said the vessel will be a big help along with the SS New Jersey and SS Cape May in giving efficient service to traffic between Cape May and Lewes, which he said is growing rapidly.

Ferry figures reveal a 15% increase for the first ten days in June over last year and on the weekend of June 17-18 that figure rose to 21%. Chandler reported. The Cape May-Lewes Ferry makes possible the "seaward route" of the Ocean Hiway, the well known route from New York City to Florida. This Chandler gives as a reason for the steady climb in traffic figures. The seaward route and the ferry connect the Garden State Parkway in New Jersey with Delaware routes to U.S. 13 South.

The Authority spent approximately $700,000 to make the Delaware operative until it gives final approval to construction of a least one and perhaps two new vessels. Plans for new construction are now underway by Kindlund and Drake, New York Naval Architects and designs are more than 90% complete.

Patrons of the ferry express delight in the 70 minute crossing of Delaware Bay which was the last open area on the east coast without a crossing until this service began on July 1, 1964.

Trade Negotiations Expected To Boost U. S. Exports

U. S. farmers will likely earn more money through increased exports of farm products as a direct result of international trade negotiations concluded recently in Geneva, Switzerland, according to Paul B. Hastings, chairman of Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Delaware Committee.

Based on reports from members of the U.S. negotiating team, Chairman Hastings sees farm product exports increasing from the current level of $7 billion to $10 billion during the three-year period established by the Kennedy Round of the General Agreement of Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

"This was a major goal of our U.S. negotiators," Chairman Hastings says, "and they achieved it. Of course, the U.S. team didn't get all it asked for. After all, there were 53 importer and exporter nations represented at the conference table. Getting any concessions at all in such a situation is tough."

The ASC Chairman believes most farmers are convinced that they need access to more markets outside the United States if they are going to be able to increase their farming operations. "And they need to be able to sell what they produce at a price that makes it feasible to get into the market in the first place."

He cites some significant gains reported by Under Secretary of Agriculture John A. Schmitz, a member of the U.S. negotiating team:

—Increases in the minimum prices of wheat moving into world trade. These increases will be reflected in part to U.S. producers. The U.S. team asked for an increase in grains of about 40 cents. The three-year agreement was for about 20 cents.

—Multilateral sharing of the world's food aid burden. The food aid program of 4.5 million tons annually for three years is less than the 10 million ton world food bank which the U.S. team requested, but it effectively established the principle of multilateral sharing of responsibility to supply needy nations with food.

—Tariff concessions averaging about 25 per cent were obtained on a long list of items, including soybeans, tobacco, grapefruit, and other fruits and vegetables, both fresh and canned. The successful effort with these items was to reduce tariffs or to reduce and remove non-tariff barriers that hindered trade.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—I converted my National Service Life Insurance term policy to a Modified Life Plan shortly after this new plan was made available. I was assured that since my term policy participated in an annual dividend distribution, that my Modified Life policy would also be "participating." When will I receive a dividend?

A—Perhaps never. It is true that a Modified Life Policy converted from a participating term policy is also "participating." Dividends are distributed from reserves that have accumulated in an amount necessary to pay claims. The premium rates for the Modified Life plan are scaled so low that no excess reserve has accumulated as yet. Experience thus far indicates that there may never be a reserve on Modified Life plans large enough to justify a dividend distribution.

Q—I have been attending a vocational school under the new G.I. bill. This fall I plan to enter the University of Wisconsin. What steps should I take to insure that my educational allowance will be paid promptly after I make this change?

A—It will be necessary that you apply for a supplemental certificate of eligibility. This is done by completing VA Form 21E-1995, "Request for Change of Program or School." This form is generally available at the school, or may be obtained at any VA office. This certificate of eligibility must be submitted to the school before or at the time of enrollment, since it is used by the school to certify your enrollment to the Veterans Administration.

Q—I have just been discharged from the Army. I served four years, part of it in Viet-Nam. Can I get a G.I. home loan and go to school under the new G.I. Bill at the same time?

A—Yes. There is no bar to participating in each of these benefit programs at the same time.

Q—May a veteran who is receiving compensation from the VA arrange to pay a policy loan on his National Service Life Insurance out of this monthly benefit?

A—Yes. It is a most convenient and relatively painless way to accomplish this repayment. It is necessary that you authorize the Veterans Administration to make his deduction and to credit your policy loan account.

TB: The Last Mile

Tuberculosis, though greatly reduced in recent decades, still hangs on to the tune of nearly 50,000 new cases a year. Like a late-staying guest, it edges slowly toward the door but shows no readiness to depart, according to the Delaware Tuberculosis and Health Society.

Just the same, medical science now sees a distinct possibility of reducing TB to a point where eradication is a realistic prospect.

Isoniazid, a drug highly effective in curing the disease, has recently shown itself capable of additional wonders. About 25 million Americans are infected with the TB germ but haven't developed active disease. In mass trials involving such people, it has been shown that isoniazid can protect about half those who take it from breaking down into active TB.

So far so good. Does this mean that the annual case rate in Delaware and other states can be cut in half immediately? Unfortunately, no. For one thing, it would be impossible to give the required treatment to all the 25 million at once. However, Mrs. Shirley Ferebee, a Public Health Service expert on TB statistics, has calculated that by treating infected persons at the more manageable rate of two million a year, the annual number of new cases could be reduced to about 19,000 at the end of fifteen years. From that point it would continue to decline at an ever accelerating pace.

In an article in the National Tuberculosis Association's monthly bulletin, Mrs. Ferebee voices the opinion that although some incidental problems would have to be overcome, widespread systematic use of preventive treatment with isoniazid offers the most promising road to eventual eradication of TB.

But in order to treat infected persons one has to find them first. That's the function of the tuberculin skin test. You probably aren't one of those 25 million, but there's only one way to be sure. The Delaware Tuberculosis and Health Society recommends a TB test or a chest X-ray as part of your annual medical checkup.

No Danger Of Wheat Surplus Buildup

There's no wheat surplus in sight for 1967 even though this year's wheat crop is forecast at a record level, Paul B. Hastings, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Delaware Committee, said this week.

According to June 1 crop estimate, winter wheat production this year will be about 17 per cent above last year, and 28 per cent above average. Estimated spring wheat production is up about 23 per cent above a year ago.

Even though production of wheat for 1967 will total about 1.5 billion bushels, estimates indicate domestic and export use will be at about the same level, the chairman points out.

Not only does this mean there should be no appreciable buildup of carryover supplies beyond current levels, but there should be no drop in market prices, the chairman emphasizes.

The market could break, particularly for some kinds of wheat, if, instead of withholding wheat and marketing it in an orderly manner, farmers flood the markets at harvest-time.

Wheat producers should consider taking advantage of price-

Matford S. Salmons

Matford S. Salmons, 61, of 4 Dickerson St., Harrington, died in the Milford Memorial Hospital Tuesday, after several months illness.

Mr. Salmons was employed in the insulation shop at the Seaford DuPont Nylon Plant. He was a veteran of World War II.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Marguerite G. Salmons; five sisters, Mrs. Walter Prettyman, of Blades; Mrs. Jack Martin, of Winston-Salem, N. C.; Mrs. Avry West, of Milford; Mrs. Calvin Campbell, of Salisbury, and Mrs. L. E. Watson, of Harrington.

Funeral services will be held from the J. Millard Cooper Funeral Home, 110 E. Center Street, Harrington, on Friday at 1 p.m. The Rev. John Edward Jones, pastor of Asbury Methodist Church, will officiate. Interment will be in Hollywood Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Thursday evening, from 7 to 9.

In lieu of flowers the family suggests contributions to the American Cancer Society.

James S. Moore

James S. Moore, 82, of near Felton, died Sunday at the Crescent Nursing Home in Smyrna after a long illness.

He retired in 1959 after 23 years a manager of the Petersburg Game Preserve of the Delaware Fish and Game Commission.

He was a member of Union Lodge No. 5, AF&AM in Middletown.

Mr. Moore is survived by his widow, Mrs. Beulah Ford Moore.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at Faries Funeral Chapel, Smyrna. Interment was in Odd Fellows Cemetery, Smyrna.

Thomas E. Greer

Thomas E. Greer, 59, of Harrington, died Saturday in Milford Memorial Hospital after a long illness.

He was a retired employee of Bond Bread Company, of Harrington. He was born in the Bronx, N. Y., but had lived in Harrington since 1929.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Louise D. Greer; two sons, Edmund J. of Bellhaven, N. C., and Robert A. of Newark; four daughters, Mrs. Patricia Gray, of Harrington; Mrs. Margaret Lorenz, of Dover; Mrs. Betty Whittington, of Clark Air Force Base, the Philippines, and Mrs. Diana Seki, of Harrington; two sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Kriete and Mrs. Viola Macaulay, both of Long Island, N. Y., and 13 grand-children.

Services were held Tuesday afternoon at the McKnatt Funeral Home, Harrington. Interment was at the convenience of the family.

In lieu of flowers, the family suggests contributions to the Harrington Heart Fund or the Diabetes Association of Delaware.

Local Runners Excel at Milford

Seventeen Harrington athletes performed at the Kent and Sussex County Age Group Development Meet held at Milford High School Tuesday evening. Although, nine other local entries didn't show, the Harringtonians still managed to account for 13 awards while winning five races.

Ken Tribbett, 15, was a little leery about running against 17-year-olds but captured both the 100 and 220 yard sprints in 10.8 and 23.8, respectively. Two of his victims were well-known Dover athletes, Chuck Little and Bob Enright.

Dennis Rogers holds the Harrington High School record in the half mile but hasn't competed in track since graduation in 1965. Dennis was persuaded to enter the 18-and-over half-mile at the last moment. He won easily, only 11 seconds slower than his best 880 time. This was quite an accomplishment for an out-of-shape entrant.

Jim White took the over 18 440 with a good 57.5 effort, in which he beat former Seaford ace, Wilbert Bowden.

Bob Smith led a Harrington sweep of the 13-and-under 220. Smith won his heat in 30.4, just one-tenth of a second better than the time posted by Don Bryant and Wardell Davis in the second heat. Steve Gannon and Tommy Clarke were close to the leaders in fourth and fifth places, as Harrington posted the first five finishers. Ray Gannon, age 8, expected to finish last because of his youth, but gave it all he had to beat one Milford rival and narrowly miss nosing out two more. Both Gannon boys look like naturals for track and field.

Donald Parker, who won a 6.6 50 yard dash in Wilmington last week failed to put in an appearance as a Milford lad won the event in seven seconds flat. Don Bryant, Wardell Davis and Tommy Clarke were 2-3-4.

Chris Wetherhold was second in the mile run, an event he has not competed in for a month.

Ron Morris was third in the 880, only one tick of the watch off his personal record of 2:11.7.

Erwin Rogers, a former letter winner in cross-country at Harrington High, was third in the over-18 mile run.

Frank White holds a share of the school record at H.H.S. in the 100 yard dash. He and Jim Schiff, now a dentist, both did 10 seconds flat. But what a difference a year makes. The popular, but out-of-shape "Frankie" was nosed out in an eleven-second century.

Roger Jarrell, 14 and Wardell Davis, 12, had much-improved clockings in the mile run. See another article on this page about the dramatic performance of Danny Hitchens.

There will be another Development Meet sponsored by the Delaware Track and Field Club and Milford High School at Milford, on July 18th, for both sexes. How about getting in shape and giving it a whirl?

Events to be contested are: Boys meet, 13-and-under, 50 and 220, long jump, 14 to 17, 100, 220, high jump, shot put, 18 and over, 100, 440, high jump, shot put. There will be a mile run in both 14-17 and 18 and over if five entries are obtained. Contestants may compete in an older age group if desired.

Girls: 13 and under, 50, 220, long jump, 14 to 17, 100, 220, high jump, shot put, 18 and over, 100 440, high jump, shot put.

Buckson's Race Track OK Delayed

The Senate Tuesday postponed at least until Friday action on a bill authorizing establishment of Atty. Gen. David P. Buckson's proposed race track.

The delay came after Sen. Reynolds duPont, R-Greenville, seeking information about the measure, said he had been told that daily doubles at the proposed track near Dover would be computed manually rather than by machine, a practice not done at "well-run tracks."

Buckson said Wednesday morning the provision for manual computation merely is a restatement of the state's present race track law and does not mean his track will use this method.

If the legislature were to amend the law to eliminate this provision, it would be all right, Buckson said.

Sen. Russell D. F. Dineen, D-Wilmington, moved the bill be deferred until Friday, when a member of the State Racing Commission can be present to explain the measure.

Little David (Danny Hitchens) Downs Goliath

This writer has been a track fan for more than thirty-five years. We have seen many of the world's greatest athletes in action. Yet some of the most thrilling races we have witnessed have involved Harrington athletes. Danny Hitchens has been the key figure in several. In one case he was the subject of a feature article by Matt Zabitka, Wilmington Morning News.

Picture this scene at the Kent and Sussex County Age Group Development Track Meet, held at Milford High School on Tuesday evening. A 6 ft. 4 inch giant from Dover was speaking "I have won two ribbons for third places. I think I'll get in this mile run and get another. Who do I have to beat? I think I can beat that guy and that one." His eyes rested momentarily on 4 foot, 7 inch, 70 pound Hitchens. After a brief appraisal of the frail-looking, blonde, 14-year-old, the 17-year-old announced, "And I know I can beat that one."

David and Goliath ran together in fourth place for more than a lap. Then the little guy started to draw away. By the fourth and final lap he had a sizeable lead. When he saw he had no chance to overtake the first three runners, he probably eased up a little. Meanwhile the giant started to gain ground. If Danny had been informed of this sooner, he could have increased his pace slightly and would have ended the threat quickly. When Hitchens did realize the situation, he got into high gear. The crowd enjoyed this duel more than anything else that happened this night. The big fellow chased the little guy at top speed for 150 yards. He caught up about a yard from the tape, but the gutsy Harringtonian leaned forward to get the verdict by a couple of inches. Afterwards the pair shook hands with Goliath declaring "This kid can run!"

A good camera shot of the finish and another of the handshake afterwards could very likely have been sold to The Associated Press. A greater contrast would be hard to imagine, than the 4-7 towhead and the 6-4, dark-haired genial giant from up the road.

Some thoroughbred race horses can run like the wind on dirt tracks but don't have it when competing on the grass. With others, it's just the opposite. The great Kelso excelled on both "skinned" strips and the turf, as did one of his arch rivals, Mongo.

The more recent great, Buckpasser, is a perfect example of a horse being virtually unbeatable on dirt—but "lost" on an infield course. That was definitely proved June 17 at Aqueduct when the 1966 Horse of the Year was tried on grass for the first time after winning 15 straight races on dirt. It was in the Bowling Green Handicap and mighty Buckpasser showed nothing of his true form. His jockey, Braulio Baeza, said afterward that the brilliant colt "couldn't grab the ground and kept slipping, especially around the turns."

Which brings us to a horse named Ginger Fizz, one of the likely favorites for Saturday's (July 1) $25,000 added, 1 3/8-mile Sussex Turf Handicap at Delaware Park.

On the Stanton track's opening day program, May 27, Ginger Fizz was an impressive winner of a division of the Brandywine Turf Handicap. His trainer, Irish Tommy Kelly, said with a grin:

"This horse is not worth two cents on a dirt track. The grass is the place for him!" Since that victory, Ginger Fizz accounted for still another stake on grass—Aqueduct's Edgemere Handicap, June 7.

Thus, he has to be reckoned with as a candidate for the Sussex, even though he may run into his toughest task of the season to date. The field for the race will come from among 39 nominees and a goodly number of horse eligibles can be expected to start in the longest and richest stake of the Delaware Park meeting for grass competition on the flat.

Ron Clarke Cites Reason for His Running Success

Ron Clarke, Australian distance runner, who is the world record holder in the 5000 meter run (3 1/8 mile) says: "The most important attribute of a distance runner is determination."

"Age doesn't have much to do with it, providing you have a long enough background and are of the mature type. You can go further in distance running with more hard work and less natural gifts than in any other sport. There is only one workout that is essential—the long run. It should include a tough hill if possible. Satisfaction and maintenance of good morale in distance running comes from improvement, slow improvement. Training must be consistent. All types of training are good. The only bad things are too easy or too hard workouts. But you must run at least a year to get results."

ing when he said, "The only way we can stay solvent if the tax rate remains at its present level is by not paying part of the county's $600,000 welfare bill."

"I'm for boosting the tax rate," he said, "because I think it's the only thing we can do. But it doesn't seem right to raise the tax rate and give the taxpayers absolutely nothing in return. Nor does it seem right that the legislature can sit in Legislative Hall and set the amount we have to pay for welfare, which just about consumes all our property taxes. They might just as well set the tax rate."

He laid special blame for the county's financial straits on two causes. On the state level, he singled out Sen. George F. Schlor, D-Wilmington, for stalling a bill by Sen. Andy Foltz, R-Dover, which would have shifted the costs of welfare to the state.

facilities to supplement an existing primary sewage treatment plan now serving the base.

It will be on the St. Jones River, southeast of Dover. The secondary treatment facilities will include two trickling filters, a recirculating pump station, a final settling basin, and other equipment.

Average flow will be 1 million gallons a day with peak flow of 2 million. Effluent will discharge into the St. Jones River.

The commission approved the project, subject to conditions imposed by the State Department of Health and the Water and Air Resources Commission.

Rotary Club News

Last Tuesday was installation of officers night at the regular meeting at the Bridle Bit Restaurant.

Ted Storus, local district manager for D. P. & L. Company, took over the presidency and Leon Donovan is the vice-president for the ensuing year. Incumbents, secretary, Allen Parsons, and treasurer, Sam Williams, were retained.

Outgoing President, Melvin Wyatt has had a very busy and successful year along with his many other civic activities; ambulance and Fire Dept., Diamond State Telephone changes and emergencies, he was on the ground at "Wonder R" fire salvaging Rotary effects when the meeting place was destroyed.
