

Sewer-Improvement Program Can Get Under Way In Spring

The City's consulting engineer, Dudley Willis, said Monday night, after a meeting of the City Council, the major work on improvements to the city's sanitary-sewer system could get under way in early spring.

Previously, he had told the Council sewer plans would be ready by Oct. 1, he anticipated construction bids would be in by Jan. 1, and he thought winter-time was a good time to secure bids.

The improvements will be financed from a bond issue of $380,000, approved in a referendum Sat., June 24, and grants from the state and federal governments. The former grant, thru the State Water and Air Resources Commission, will be for $100,000; the latter, from the Federal Water Pollution Control Authority, could be in the neighborhood of the state grant.

Council Monday night approved payment of a bill of $2276.13 from Edward H. Richardson Associates, the engineering firm, Willis represents. He said part of this sum would be repayed from the federal grant.

In other business Monday night, the Council acted as follows:

Approved a stop sign on the western side of Weiner Avenue, stopping southbound traffic at Liberty Street, and another sign telling motorists not to enter Fleming Street, a continuation of Weiner Avenue, since it is a one-way street with traffic going north.

Authorized Mrs. Kathryn Derickson, acting city manager, to see The First National Bank about traffic signs pertaining to an entrance to the bank's parking lots from Dorman Street. The Council believed the bank could erect a stop sign on its property, at Dorman Street, and the City could erect a one-way sign on Dorman Street. Councilman John Satterfield, Fifth Ward, thought the signs necessary to prevent collisions in the alley.

Authorized Councilman Burton Satterfield, Third Ward, to talk with Mrs. Willie Smith and Harry D. Adkins, Dorman Street, concerning sidewalks on Wolcott Street adjacent to their properties. These walks, deemed in good condition, were inadvertently replaced when Wolcott Street was resurfaced. The property owners have been billed by the contractor and the city will try to arrange a settlement. Satterfield is also to try to arrange a settlement with Clarence Billings, Third Street, where the contractor replaced a 6-inch-high walk with one 4 inches high. Agreed to hold no Council meeting during fair week, the last one in July, and to close the city office afternoons during the period.

Atlantic City Trip Planned for Aug. 12

A bus will leave the Harrington Railroad Station at 7 a.m., on Sat., August 12, for Atlantic City. The bus will seat up to 40 passengers. This year, there will be only one bus. Therefore, reservations should be made early. A reservation can be counted only when your money for the bus has been received. Bus will be a coach.

Ricky Nelson, along with Gene Krupa Orchestra and Jimmy Palmer, will be on the Steel Pier. (This schedule is subject to change without notice).

Arrangements can also be made to have your ticket purchased for your admission to the Ice Capades at Convention Hall that night. This year please advise about ice capades when you make your reservation—as these seats will be reserved ahead of time for you. Bus leaves for home immediately after Ice Capades (12:00 midnight).

So that arrangements can be made for the bus, etc., reservations should be made promptly by calling: Mrs. Zita Z. Hatfield, phone 398-3726.

Reservations will be handled on a first come, first served basis as money for bus is received. The deadline for reserving the bus is Sat., Aug. 5.

Pizzadili to Participate In World Scout Jamboree

James Pizzadili, of Felton, will be assistant scoutmaster for Scouts of the Del-Mar-Va Council who will participate in the XII World Jamboree, Aug. 1 thru 10th, at Farragut State Park in Idaho.

WYATT TO OPPOSE BRADLEY IN COUNCILMANIC RACE

Jackie Wyatt, of Dickerson Street, is tossing his hat into the ring early Monday night, at a meeting of the City Council, he announced he would oppose the incumbent, Wilson Bradley, of the First Ward, in the municipal elections next January. Bradley, however, has not announced his candidacy.

The Wyatt announcement came after Mayor Fulton J. Downing told the Council Bradley had telephoned him and demanded he be marked present at the council meeting because "he's working with the city auditor and the citizens." The mayor said he told him he couldn't be marked present unless he attended the meeting.

Furthermore, the mayor said,

Greenwood Gets 9 New Teachers

Nine new teachers, four of them for elementary grades, have been appointed for the 1967-68 school year by the Greenwood Consolidated School District.

Fred Graef, chief school officer, in announcing the appointments said the new staffers will complete the faculty.

Appointees are: Miss Ann Layton, Miss Vertie Jones, Mrs. Sarah Dannenhauer and Merrill Lynch, all named to the elementary faculty; Lynch will also serve as assistant football coach.

Also: William D. Alston, junior high mathematics; Billy Cullwell, high school English and head of the English Department; Emery Miller, Spanish and English; Mrs. Margaret Jane Morris, English, and Miss Lynda Smith, physical education, and girls' basketball and softball coach.

Francis Baker Wins Guessing Contest On Spuds in a Jar

Francis Baker estimated there were 59 potatoes in a jar. There were only 57 but Baker won the contest Wednesday evening at the annual picnic of the Ninth District Democratic Club at Wheeler's Park.

In other contests and drawings, winners and prizes were as follows: William Ward, hammer; nearest birthday, Paula Boyd, toy donkey; Ruth Ann Messick, ice cube tray; Mrs. Hazel Tatman, two dinners at The Bridle Bit; Rita Messick, bubblegum contest; Myrtle Wright and Pauline Hopkins, green stamps.

CITY TO REPAIR PUMPING STATION IN NEAR FUTURE

The sewer pumping station, on Liberty Street, will be repaired as soon as possible, it was disclosed Monday night at the July meeting of the City Council.

It authorized Dudley Willis, of Edward H. Richardson Associates, the city's consulting engineers, to determine the cost of immediate repairs.

BARBECUE, BARBECUE, NO BRUSH, NO LATHER, NO RUB IN, WHET YOUR KNIFE, AND THEN BEGIN—The Harrington Jaycees are serving barbecued chicken on Delaware 14 at the northbound lane of U.S. 13. Benefits, obviously, are for the community. Barbecues will be held on Sundays, from time to time, until fall.

Band Concert Tonight

The annual outdoor summer concert by the bands of the Harrington Schools will be held tonight, Friday, in front of the main entrance to the high school on Center Street beginning at 7 o'clock. Everyone is welcome.

The program, under the direction of the school's music instructor Melvin L. Brobst, will include selections by the elementary, junior and senior bands.

Included on the program will be a trumpet solo by George Wyatt who will perform Leroy Anderson's "Trumpet Lullaby" and use as an encore "Borne Free". Another soloist, Douglas Wilson, will play "Song for Trombone".

The guest for the evening will be the appearance of Tony Perrone, Jr., local musician, who will present his own dance band in several modern versions of standard favorites.

Miss Hazel Johnson and Miss Lydia Johnson are in charge of the refreshments, and Mrs. Robert Creadick is chairman of a committee on arrangements.

In case of inclement weather, the program will be held in the cafeteria.

Counselors Needed In Del. Schools

Delaware public schools must fill ten vacancies for guidance counselors before the fall school term begins, William G. Murphy, supervisor of guidance for the State Department of Public Instruction, announced this week.

The guidance openings are all at the secondary level and are available in eight school districts throughout the state. Over half the positions are in junior high school guidance and at least one specifically requires a woman counselor.

Those districts that have reported an opening for a guidance person are: Laurel, New Castle, Caesar Rodney, Seaford and Selbyville, DeLaWarr and Smyrna need both junior and senior high school guidance counselors.

Applicants for the guidance jobs should have a Master's degree, a standard secondary teaching certificate and minimum of three years teaching experience at the secondary level (or two years teaching and one year's supervised internship); or a Master's degree in guidance, including a practicum and a year's supervised internship.

Any qualified person interested in one of the guidance positions should contact the district superintendent or William G. Murphy, Supervisor of Guidance, State Department of Public Instruction, Dover.

Tourism, A Blue Chip Industry

Samuel L. Shipley, director of Development Department reports that the June issue of State Government Administration Magazine calls tourism a $35 billion blue chip industry.

According to a survey of the states, recently completed by the magazine, a whopping $35 billion was spent in 1966 by travelers within the 50 states.

The magazine states, the individual estimates of travel expenditures ranged from a high of $4 billion in Florida to a low of $44.5 million in Alaska.

A chart printed in the magazine story shows that in 1966 Delaware spent $35,000 on travel promotion and had 12,000,000 visitors, with no advertising. (Continued on Page 4)

Cars Collide, Two Injured Near Felton

Two persons were injured in a two-car accident at 4:15 p.m. last Friday on U.S. 13 one mile north of Felton.

State police at Dover said Holly Todd, 12, of Felton, was treated for head and leg injuries at Kent General Hospital and released. James Cronin, 12, of Georgetown, was treated for scalp lacerations at Kent General Hospital and also released.

The accident occurred when a north-bound car driven by Peter A. Stafford, 20, of Morris, N. Y., pulled from the right lane to pass an unknown vehicle.

Police said he then pulled into the grass at the middle of the highway to avoid a car driven by Rita W. Saulsbury, 34, of Felton traveling north in the left lane.

But the Salisbury car turned left at a crossroads and was struck in the left rear by the front of Stafford's car, police said.

Both of the injured persons were passengers in the Salisbury vehicle.

Police said Stafford was fined $10 and costs in Magistrate Court 6, Harrington, for traveling at an unsafe speed.

Madden, Jass Choices Confirmed By Terry

Gov. Charles L. Terry - Jr. Wednesday appointed Rudolph F. Jass director of the State Planning Office, and confirmed that Dr. Kenneth C. Madden will be the new superintendent of public instruction.

Jass fills the vacancy that opens Saturday when the resignation of John A. Bivens Jr. becomes effective.

The appointment of Jass was recommended to the governor by the State Planning Council Tuesday night.

Robert L. D. Allen, president of the State Board of Education, who said Tuesday Madden would be the new education superintendent, announced the appointment formally Wednesday in the governor's office. Allen said Madden was selected unanimously by the board, which acted as its own selection committee.

Madden, superintendent of the Seaford Special School District, succeeds Dr. Richard P. Gousha, who will leave July 31 to become superintendent of the Milwaukie, Wis., school system.

Madden, who applied for the job in 1963, said, "I've had my eye on this position for many, many years." He said he has no other ambitions of any kind.

Bivens will become the first president of the Georgetown Branch of the new Delaware Technical and Community Colleges.

Terry said an advisory committee of the planning council recommended Jass to him.

Terry said Jass' salary in the absence of Senate Bill 150 will be $17,000 annually, the same as Bivens'. The governor urged passage of the bill, which could raise salaries of both Madden and Jass.

Terry said that if Senate Bill 150 passes, Jass' starting salary will be the minimum provided for in the new scale. SB 150 would set the planner's salary at $17,000 to $23,000.

Allen said Tuesday that Madden was selected by the board June 7. Several board members have said since then that the nominee would not be named until the board learned the fate of Senate Bill 150. The bill, pending before the House, would raise the salary for that job and others.

The board is expected to take the required official public action on Madden's appointment at its July 20 meeting.

Ann Hoffman Graduates From Goldey Beacom

Graduation exercises for Goldey Beacom Junior College, Wilmington, were held Fri., June 30, in Wilmington.

The class consisted of 420 graduates, and the principal speaker at the ceremonies was United States Senator J. Caleb Boggs, of Delaware.

Among the members of the graduating class was Ann L. Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Arthur Hoffman, 44 Commerce Street, Harrington, who received her Associate in Arts degree in the Medical Secretarial program.

Senior Center to Hold Open House This Afternoon

HARRINGTON SENIOR CENTER, INC., will hold open house from 4 p. m. to 8 p. m., in the New Century Club Building on Dorman Street.

Harrington Senior Center, Inc., will hold open house at 4 p.m., today in its quarters in Harrington New Century Club building on Dorman Street at Mechanic Street. It will remain open until 8 p.m.

Mayor Fulton J. Downing will cut the ribbon and Mrs. J. Millard Cooper, president of the center, will introduce the guests.

Legislators and representatives of civic clubs are among those who have been invited.

The Rev. William M. Halliburton, pastor of Harrington Baptist Church, will give the invocation. There will also be entertainment and refreshments.

Mrs. James Moore is chairman of the open house committee.

Harkening to the history of the senior center, the Delaware Commission for the Aging promoted surveys in other communities similar in size and circumstances as Harrington, and such centers had been established.

The Century Club offered its facilities, if other civic and service organizations would join with their support. As a result, The Harrington Senior Center, Inc., was organized in March of this year.

The center is open to all persons, 60 years of age or older, within a 10-mile radius of Harrington. This includes Felton, Houston, Farmington, Vernon, and Burrsville.

The center is to be operated by the senior citizens with the guidance of Mrs. Herman Minner, executive director.

The program will receive some financial assistance from the federal and state governments for three years, after which it is presumed the community and the center will be in a position to assume the financial responsibility.

Temporary Repairs to Be Made to Reed Street

Mrs. Kathryn Derickson, acting city manager, was authorized by the City Council, meeting Monday night, to have temporary repairs to Reed Street, a thoroughfare adjoining the northern side of the Harrington Shirt Company building on Clark Street and running from that street to Peck Avenue.

When this is done, the Council believed, a parking lot on Reed Street would be cleared of weeds to enable parking by employees. There have been a number of complaints about parking on Clark Street.

The City has planned to have more substantial improvements to Reed Street, but these have been delayed because it is planned to establish a sanitary sewer in the area south of the shirt factory. This is a feature of a program approved in a referendum June 24. Dudley Willis, consulting engineer, said it is hoped to have sewage flow directly to the disposal plant, instead of going to the Liberty Street pumping station.

Melvin Wyatt Is New School Board President

July's meeting of the Board of Education of the Harrington Special School District was a brief one with reorganization taking place.

Melvin Wyatt was elected president of the board succeeding James W. Rash. Roland D. Hitchens was named vice-president. New member Keith S. Burgess was sworn in.

Superintendent of Schools Albert W. Adams disclosed that the faculty has only two vacancies. Needed are a teacher for grade 4, and a driver education teacher.

Secretaries Ass'n. To Sell Candy

Diamond Chapter, National Secretaries Association (International) will sell the delicious Cherrydale Farms Candy at the Delaware State Fair July 21 through July 29. The Secretaries' Booth will be in the old 4-H Building. Proceeds from the sale will be used toward the Secretarial Scholarship, which this year was presented to Miss Charlan Robinson of Smyrna. The funds will also be used for Secretarial Workshops which will be starting in the fall.

The members of Diamond Chapter, NSA (International) will welcome and appreciate the support of the community on this drive.

Auto Demolition Derby To Be Held At Fairground

A big auto demolition derby, matching a number of area drivers against the best in the east, will be held Friday night, July 21, at the Delaware State Fairgrounds at Harrington beginning at 8 p.m.

The derby will be the entertainment feature on the opening night of the 48th annual Delaware State Fair which starts that night and continues through Saturday, July 29.

More than 60 local drivers have already signed to compete for the $800 in prize money to be awarded the winners.

The evening's program will consist of four preliminary heats and a grand finale matching the top cars in earlier heats.

Those not familiar with a demolition derby will find it brutally simple. The daredevil drivers just go about smashing every other car that is still moving until only one car remains. The last car that can move 12 inches under its own power is declared the winner.

There is still time for anyone with more nerve than caution to enter the derby. Entry blanks can be obtained at the fairgrounds in Harrington or at various garage and service stations in the area.

George Simpson, fair general manager, said that the fair opened with a similar event last year and the spectators response was so good that officials agreed to make the demolition derby a fair fixture.

"Auto races have always been one of the most popular events at the fair," Simpson said, "but we were not sure just how a derby would be received. Those persons who attended last year liked it so much we didn't hesitate to schedule another for this year."

"With a number of local drivers competing, it gives the fans a chance to root for their favorites", he added.

Terry Is Fashion News

Terry cloth is in fashion headlines this summer. Even Turkish towels are decorative as well as functional, according to Miss Janet Reed, extension specialist at the University of Delaware.

Available in a wide range of patterns, from mod to floral, terry cloth is ideal for beach robes, glamorous and practical "at-home" lounging or for summertime slippers. And today's beautiful towels make it possible to select towels to harmonize with the bathroom color scheme to add a touch of luxury.

However, Miss Reed stresses, a terry cloth must meet two requirements. It must readily absorb moisture and it must wear well in use and in laundering. The pile adds bulk and absorptive power to toweling. The more loops toweling has per square inch, the better it will absorb moisture.

The weave gives strength and shows how well a towel will wear. Hold it to the light; if the weave is uniform, tight and little light shows through, the fabric will wear well. If the terry cloth is pure in quality, a great deal of light will show through.

Salvage edges are another clue to quality in towels. A (Continued on Page 8)

Legion Installation Of Officers To Be Held Tomorrow

The Department of Delaware, the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary will hold the installation of officers for 1967-1968 on Sat., July 15.

The program will take place at the Electra Arms Banquet Room, 18th and Broom Streets, Wilmington. There will be a reception from 5 to 6 p.m., dinner served at 6 p.m., and the installation to follow with dancing until midnight.

The reservations chairman for The American Legion is Garrett Steele, 400 Burnside Boulevard, Wilmington, 19804 and for the Auxiliary, Mrs. Florence Krivjanik, 814 West 2nd Street, Wilmington, 19801. Reservations must be made by the 12th of July. There will be no tickets sold at the door.

Miss Ann Hoffman Bride Of James L. Hopkins

Miss Ann Louise Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Arthur Hoffman, of Harrington, became the bride of J. Lynn Hopkins on Saturday, June 24, at 2 p.m. in Asbury Methodist Church.

The Rev. John Edward Jones performed the ceremony. A reception followed at the Harrington New Century Club.

Parents of Mr. Hopkins are Mr. and Mrs. J. Louis Hopkins of Harrington.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of chintilly lace over taffeta, fashioned with a bateau neckline and long tapered sleeves. Her finger tip veil of illusion was held in place by a crown of seeded pearls.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses entwined with Ivy and a white orchid.

Matron and maid of honor to the bride were her sisters, Mrs. John R. Hawkins, of Fleetwood, Pa., and Miss Charlyne Hoffman, of Harrington.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sarah Moore of Harrington, and Miss Linda Stowe of Ridley Park, Pa. The attendants wore pink Grecian sheaths with detachable trains and the bodice was overlaid with white cluny lace.

Their full bustle type headpieces were attached with a tiara of pink seeded pearls.

They carried cascades of shaded pink carnations entwined with Ivy and orchid satin streamers.

Gail Hawkins, of Fleetwood, Pa., niece of the bride, was flower girl and her twin brother, Dale, was ring bearer.

Best man for the bridegroom was his brother-in-law, Mr. Curtis Marker, of Dover.

Ushers were Kenneth Hoffman, brother of the bride, Jeff Adams and Roger Betts.

Odd Fellows' Service Com. To Meet

On Saturday evening, July 15, the regular monthly meeting of the General Service Committee of the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of Delaware will be held in the rooms of Golden Rule Lodge No. 17, in Milton, with chairman, Blanche D. Miller, calling the meeting to order at 8 p.m.

Scout Troop 76 Completes 50-Mile Canoe Trip

Seventeen scouts and four leaders of Scout Troop No. 76 spent five days canoeing and engaging in conservation work in order to qualify for a 50-mile canoe award. The trip was accomplished without a serious mishap thanks to good fortune and help from mother nature. There were a lot of blisters, aching muscles and tired boys, but no quitters. The younger boys surprised the leaders and older boys by more than holding up their share of the trip. There was one leader who was too anxious to retrieve a candy bar which had fallen into the water, and as a result, a good tangle in the water for the leader and a most hearty laugh from the troop.

The trip consisted of paddling the Indian River, sailing the Rehoboth Bay, paddling the Rehoboth Canal, and paddling and sailing the Delaware Bay. All will agree, that the thrill of putting a sail on a canoe and sailing it, is something that cannot be described. This troop is sponsored by the Harrington Lions Club and the trip was made possible by the club furnishing the canoes.

Painful Joints Can Be Helped By Special Care

Sometimes it's "housemaid's knee." Or "policeman's heel."

By any other name it's still bursitis, and it is one of mankind's more painful and disabling ailments. Bursitis, says the American Medical Association, means inflammation of a lubricating sac about a joint. The sac, called a bursa, is similar to a collapsed balloon with some fluid inside. It is located at various places in the body where joints or tissues touch and rub, and without cushioning there would be friction.

Bursitis can hit at many points in the body, but most often occurs in the shoulder, elbow or knee.

In almost every case bursitis follows unaccustomed strain or overuse of an extremity. By taking a little time to work up to your physical condition, and especially by working up the muscles that you plan to use in any repetitious motion outside your normal activity (strengthening your wrist and arm before starting to paint the house, for instance) you can probably keep clear of this common and painful ailment.

If you get bursitis, no one need suggest that you see a doctor. The pain is so acute that you will be the first to seek relief.

In recent years science has learned much about bursitis, and there is much your doctor can do to relieve the pain and promote healing. One of the mainstays in treatment is a mild pain killer. The newer cortisone-type drugs have been used with some success. Heat treatments also have their place in bursitis therapy. In extreme cases surgery may be required. A treatment long used in this painful ailment is complete rest in bed. Anything that will lessen the chance of the afflicted joint being moved will ease the pain and speed healing.

Like any other bearings, your bursae stay trouble-free much longer if you warm them up slowly and let them get fully lubricated before you race the motor.

Paraplegic To Train For Channel Swim

An Arlington, Va., paraplegic with a lot of frotitude is spending weekends in Rehoboth Beach training for an attempt to swim the English Channel in August. He is 42-year-old Harry Hinken—Washington insurance man, who was left without the use of his legs following an attack of polio 13 years ago. If Hinken is successful in his quest, he will be the first paraplegic to swim the dark 12 mile stretch between France and England.

Deadly serious in his training, which is supervised by Stan Tinkham, Arlington, director of the Northern Virginia Aquatic Club and former swimming coach for the APN-American games, Hinken spends weekends at the Hobo Beach Motel, where he takes long workouts in the pool and even longer ones in the Atlantic Ocean.

Hinken says this area was chosen because of similar conditions in tides and flows of the water which he will encounter when he makes the channel attempt. He swims every day to condition himself.

The idea is not a sudden impulse with Hinken. He has been in training since 1965. He was temporarily stymied when he developed arthritis in his collarbones. He overcame that deficiency by having the bones removed in an operation which left visible scars. The operation did not weaken his highly developed shoulders and forearms, and that made him more determined to try the channel.

Hinken is married and has a son, Douglas, 10, and a daughter, Kathy, 7. He says Mrs. Hinken is in favor of his undertaking and may accompany him when he leaves for Europe.

Ne wtechniques will be employed to shield his body from channel's waters he pointed out. Instead of the heavy grease that used to be standard equipment on these trips, his body will be covered with silicone since it is lighter and more protective.

Hinken is registered with the English Channel Swimming Association, and says two boats will accompany him across the channel. One will carry supplies, while, according to standard custom, the other boat must be rowed. He will be fed from tubes similar to those employed by astronauts, since there is less danger of contamination from the water, he explained.

According to Hobo Beach management, Hinken hires a boat and goes o the Atlantic via the Indian River Inlet for his practice swims. The exact date of his big attempt at conquering the channel has not been set.

Price Support Loans Let Farmers Exercise Muscle in Market

Price-support loans on wheat give farmers an opportunity to exercise "muscle in the market," J. Heyman Roosa, chairman, Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation, County Committee, said this week.

Even though there will be no overall surplus of wheat as a result of this year's crop, market prices for some kinds of wheat, particularly soft red winter, may drop unnecessarily if too much wheat is marketed at harvest-time, Chairman Roosa pointed out.

Of course, each farmer has to make his own decision of the best time for him to market, he said. However, price-support loans do offer farmers immediate cash at harvest. At the same time, farmers retain control of their wheat and can market it at later date by redeeming the loan.

Chairman Roosa acknowledged that predicting the course of the market prices is at best sometimes risky. On the average, wheat prices, particularly soft red wheat, tend to be higher later in the marketing season than at harvesttime. He pointed out however, that prices last year were higher in the July-September period than through the remainder of the season to date.

He also pointed out that the 1967 soft red winter crop is substantially larger than last year. He said that if markets are flooded with soft wheat at harvest-time prices are apt to drop more than supply-demand conditions would justify. He repeated, however, that farmers must make their own choice in deciding whether to market immediately or take out a loan on the basis of the storability of their crop, and the availability of storage either on their own farms or in commercial warehouses, and their appraisal of the market.

During the vicar's vacation it is a pleasure for St. Stephen's to have the Rev. Joseph S. Hinks as guest celebrant and preacher. Father Hinks, a former Vicar of St. Stephen's for many years, later the rector of Christ's Church in Milford, now retired, is a friend of long standing to the people of St. Stephen's. It is a pleasure to have him to take charge during the vicar's absence. Emergencies should be reported either to Father Hinks at phone number 422-5110, or to one of the other Protestant ministers of Harrington. (At the most recent meeting of the ministerium in Harrington it was suggested that during any minister's absence this summer, people of other denominations should be able to call on those ministers not on vacation in case of emergencies.)

There will be a meeting of the EYC Canteen Board of Governors and the Vestry Team on Mon., July 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the lounge.

Expansion of WAC Creates New Opportunities

The recently authorized expansion of the Women's Army Corps by approximately 4000 enlisted women and 600 officers will result in increased opportunities for college women under the unique WAC Student Officer Program, it was announced recently by Sergeant Walter R. Frazier, local Army recruiter.

Under this program, young women may receive over $300 a month to do with as they please during their senior year in college in return for a 2-year commitment to serve as a WAC officer following graduation.

To qualify for the Student Officer Program a woman must have completed the WAC College Junior Program, an orientation held each summer at the Women's Army Center, Fort McClellan, Ala. Participants in the College Junior Program receive over $160 while they spend four weeks previewing life as an Army officer. At the conclusion of the program they are not obligated in any way, but they are eligible to apply for the WAC Student Officer Program.

Benefits available to WAC Student Officer Program participants in addition to their monthly salary include 30 days paid vacation and the use of post exchanges, commissaries and medical, dental and recreational facilities at Army, Navy and Air Force installations. They need not wear a military uniform or attend any military meetings while in school.

Young women interested in obtaining additional information about the College Junior Program or the Women's Army Corps Student Officer Programs may call Sergeant Frazier at 736-6937 or 674-1360 or write him at 218 S. Governor's Avenue, Dover, Del., 19901.

Every Day A Holiday Somewhere

With 2,000 miles-per-hour jets in the offing, making an overnight trip to almost any country on earth possible, we're going to have to become more cosmopolitan. Especially are officials and business and professional people going to have to learn more about the mores of peoples of other lands.

We are reminded that almost every day is a holiday in some country. Moreover, while all nations are not on a five-day business week, it may come to that as the world progresses.

One calendar shows 212 of the year's 365 days are legal holidays somewhere, and this doesn't include all of the special and religious holidays sometimes declared. We have our own quota. Believe it or not, the almanac lists 11 legal holidays in the U.S. in addition to election days, and 63 other "legal or public holidays" observed in the various states. Think what a puzzle that must be to foreign visitors in this country. But it should enable some of our own "jet set" to make every day literally a holiday by following the holiday circuit around the globe.—Joplin (Mo.) Globe

Veterans News Checks for more than 200,000 veterans who will attend college next fall under the new GI Bill for Viet Nam veterans will arrive about ten days earlier each month because of an improved system adopted by the Veterans Administration. Leon Fields, manager of the Wilmington VA Regional Office, said that under the previous system, recipients of the checks had to tell the Veterans Administration each month of their enrollment status, changes in their studies and number of hours attended. A card for this purpose was enclosed with each check with instructions for the veteran student to complete it and return it to the appropriate VA office at the end of the month. Mr. Fields said future checks will normally arrive about the 10th of the month. The 10-day Felton Mrs. Walter H. Moore The Rev. Charles M. Nitrogen Application Featured at Field Day A demonstration of machines and methods of applying nitrogen to the soil will be a feature of the annual Farm and Home Field Day, August 9, at the University of Delaware's Georgetown substation. Approximately 1000 farmers and agricultural businessmen are expected to attend. Nitrogen leaches out of Delaware's sandy coastal plain soils quickly. Therefore, farmers need to supply full nitrogen requirements every season. They can broadcast, side dress or plow down the fertilizer as a gas, liquid or solid with a wide variety of machines. The type of nitrogen and the machinery that is best depends on the crops, soil and cost to the individual farm operator. Delaware farmers will be able to see for themselves the different methods and machines at the 1967 Field Day demonstration. University of Delaware agronomists will be on hand to explain the advantages and disadvantages of each method. The nitrogen demonstration is just one aspect of the continuing agricultural research that will be on display on Field Day. Nearly 200 acres at the Georgetown Substation are divided into plots with each designed to find the answer to specific agricultural problems. Beginning at 10 a. m., bus tours throughout the day will take Field Day visitors over the farm for an on-the-spot inspection of more than 80 different research projects. Plots are used to test new varieties of field and vegetable crops, new methods of controlling weeds and insects, sub-irrigation and growth regulators, and new production techniques to insure better yields and higher crop quality. Soybean research alone involves almost 3000 individual test plots. University scientists are studying weed control, planting dates, varietal differences, seed quality and the development of new, improved varieties. In addition, several broiler production tests are being conducted in six houses with a combined capacity of 42,000 chickens. Higher quality broilers in a shorter time with lower costs are the goals of poultry research; studies of housing, feeding and disease control lead toward that goal. According to J. Frank Gordy, director of the substation and chairman of Field Day, the 1967 program will again feature a sick plant clinic. Visitors can bring plant specimens for diagnosis to a panel of University specialists in entomology, horticulture, agronomy, and plant pathology. Gordy also reports plans for the day include a special home-makers program at 10 a. m., special exhibits on view all day and a fried chicken lunch at 12 noon. The women's program will emphasize new ways to pep up everyday meals. Using different herbs and spices or combining foods in a new way can add zest to familiar lackluster meals. STATE JOBS TO GO TO DELAWAREANS

We have carried recent editorials espousing the appointment of Delawareans to state jobs wherever feasible. In this campaign we suggested the appointment of Dr. Kenneth C. Madden, of Seaford, as Delaware's new superintendent of public instruction, and Rudolph Jass as head of the State Planning Office.

When we say "Delawareans," we mean residents of the Diamond State and not necessarily natives of it.

We are pleased to see our hopes have been carried out. We also suggest the state continues to give its residents first crack at similar lucrative posts.

Jass, for example, has been promoted from the ranks. We think this is good for morale, especially as it tends to enable other workers to move up a notch.

Persons hired from within the state have a tendency to stay here. Their roots are here and they may consider benefits here worth more than an increased salary elsewhere.

Dr. Joseph C. Denniston has resigned as superintendent of the Hospital for the Mentally Retarded to take a post in Indiana paying $8,900 more than his present post. We cannot blame the doctor. His roots were not in Delaware. After all, he had been in Delaware only 17 months.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller SENIOR CITIZEN

I'm happy to be a Senior Citizen, One of the Down Home kind, Who have seen the Springtimes come and go, While we've been left behind.

We look back on weary winters, In times of long-ago, And live the old days over In the memories we know.

We're not ashamed of wrinkled faces, Where care has left its trace, Knowing time has brought us comfort As contentment takes its place.

We're not alarmed about the morrow When our earthly journey ends, Happy and contented knowing That we are going to our friends.

The Independent Order of Odd Fellows will give a picnic for children at Wheeler's Park.

James Minner, who broke his hip at Libby, McNeil & Libby's, Houston, returned Monday from Milford Hospital.

David W. Ryan, son of Mrs. Ruth W. Ryan near town, has enlisted in the Air Force and is stationed at Sampson Air Force Base, Geneva, N. Y.

J. Paul Slaybaugh was unanimously elected president of Wesley College at a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees.

Mrs. Leon Kukulka was given a surprise birthday party last Friday evening by Mrs. Luther P. Hatfield.

The shoulders of Delaware Avenue will receive a surface treatment, it was revealed by the State Highway Department today.

Lt. Barbara R. Brown, Army Nurse Corps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Brown, Harrington, is at Brooke Army Medical Hospital, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex.

Majestic Miss, the extreme outsider in the wagering department, upset the talent Thursday night, July 5, by notching a three-quarter length victory in the $700 Class B Pace, headliner of the harness racing program at Buffalo Raceway. The nine-year-old mare, owned by Carlton Goslin, of Harrington, and driven by Adrian Burgett, paced the mile in 2:11.

Editorial—By J. Harvey Burgess—If there's anything better than soft-shell crabs sizzled in butter, we do not know what it is. A soft crab, like a slice of good ham, seems just naturally suited to a sandwich. The crab, hot from the pan, carries its melted butter along with it and moistens the bread enough, but not too much. And what a flavor!

University of Del.'s College of Nursing Awarded Grant

The College of Nursing at the University of Delaware has been awarded a $45,471 grant by the National Institute of Mental Health.

Dean Mary K. Carl said the grant covers a three-year period and will be used for a pilot project in curriculum innovation and the enrichment of the role of the professional staff nurse in the community mental health center.

The project, first of its kind to be undertaken in the United States, will have as underdirector Mrs. Winnifred M. Biddlecome, instructor in psychiatric nursing and a Delaware faculty member since 1964. Dr. Mary Carl will be the principal investigator for the project.

Dr. Daniel Lieberman, commissioner, State Mental Health Authority, will serve as a consultant to the project and other resource persons in various mental health professions will be utilized.

According to Dean Carl, the scope of the project will include the role of the professional staff nurse in the promotion of mental health, prevention of prolonged mental illness, treatment and rehabilitation. The project is comparable to others being supported through the division of manpower and training program of the National Institute of Mental Health, and is a further effort of the University to work cooperatively with important service and educational agencies in the state.

The first year of the project will be an exploratory phase consisting of identifying and describing the content and clinical learning experiences which may be applicable to the preparation of the professional staff nurse in the community's mental health center. During this phase, consultation will be secured from the psychiatrists, nurses, and other members of the corp of mental health professions.

The second and third years will include the implementation phase during which enriched curricular offerings will be provided to the students in the College of Nursing on the basis of the first-year findings.

An intensive evaluation program will be included in the third year.

Mrs. Biddlecome received her nurse's training at Good Samaritan Hospital School of Nursing, Phoenix, Ariz., and earned her B.S. in Nursing in psychiatric nursing there. She has traveled widely in Europe and Southeast Asia and was supervisor of the Department of Psychiatry at Sibley Memorial Hospital in Washington, D. C., before joining the University faculty.

The College of Nursing, created in 1966 after having been a department of the College of Arts and Science, has exceeded all predictions in its enrollment growth and will soon move to new quarters in the Education Building now under construction at West Main St. and North College Ave., in Newark. About 225 majors will be enrolled in September.

College personnel work cooperatively with the Wilmington Medical Center, the Delaware State Board of Health and the Delaware State Department of Mental Health which provide clinical learning experiences for students in psychiatric nursing, medical-surgical nursing, maternal and child nursing and public health nursing.

TOURISM

budget. Some of the success stories cited by states are:

Florida—Joe Brown, director of the Tourist Division of the Florida Development Commission, reports that $4 billion was spent by travelers within the state in 1966, compared with less than $1.2 billion in 1958, the first year such figures were recorded. For its $4 billion return, the state invests an annual budget of $1,575,000 in the promotion of tourism, approximately $750,000 of which is plowed into an advertising program.

New York—The state, with the help of an investment of $690,000 in advertising and an over-all promotion budget of $1.2 billion, last year attracted $3.1 billion in travelers' dollars.

Texas—The Lone Star State has realized success in its tourism promotion efforts on an over-all budget of $550,000. The bulk of its $200,000 advertising budget is spent in magazine advertising. An estimated $1,080,000 was expended in 1966 by travelers in the state.

ETV Color Film-A School Bus Story

With a Mount Pleasant school bus driver hero, and two Dover school children heading the supporting cast, an all-color sound film, "Watch It, Johnny," produced by the Delaware ETV, will dramatize the safety story for elementary school children. It will be released for viewing in the schools next September.

Filming starts in mid-July. The scenes are laid at the Allen Frear Elementary School, Caesar Rodney District, in Camden-Wyoming and in the White Oaks and Towne Point development areas, Dover.

Children from the summer school program at Frear Elementary School will play minor roles and appear in crowd scenes in realistic school and bus settings. David O. Olson, producer-director, will coordinate the project for ETV. The script is written by Rebecca Scott, ETV producer-writer.

William A. Biesinger, supervisor of school bus drivers at Mount Pleasant Special School District, plays the role of the bus driver who heads the cast. The leading child actors are Edward Scotton of 501 Nimitz Road, Dover, son of Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Scotton, and Michael Sponaugle, 1331 Garfield Drive, Dover, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Troy Sponaugle.

Eddie is nine and Mike eleven. They attend Towne Point Elementary School and will be going to Dover Middle School.

The story which shows the day-by-day hazards and joys of riding in the school bus, puts safety in the school child's language. It is the second color picture to be made by the Delaware Network. Color is being used because of its value in showing traffic signals and the new amber warning lights now required on school buses.

Although the state network is equipped to transmit only in black and white, the color film may later be broadcast for a nationwide audience. Need for a dramatized lesson on school bus safety has been expressed in many areas, and the film will have national implications.

Horse Benefits From Federal Funds

Cinder, a three-quarter horse, is reaping the benefits of a summer work-study program now operating in the Dover Special School District. Although horses do not normally qualify for the program, this one has a close friend working for her. In fact, the friend, sixteen-year-old Dorothea Thornton of Hartly, is doing all the work.

Every morning around six o'clock Cinder awakens her mistress and sends her off to work at William Henry Middle School. Dorothea catches a ride with her father as far as the National Cup Corporation, where he works, and then hops on her bicycle to travel the remaining two miles to school. Here she helps the regular office staff with filing, typing and other general clerical duties.

Now you might expect a young lady in her eleventh year of school to be concerned about buying clothes with her summer earnings; but not Dorothea. Without hesitation she will tell you, "I wanted to get a job so I could feed my horse."

It seems that horse feed is not the only thing Dorothea has in mind for Cinder's welfare. She also plans to buy the mare a new saddle, halter, blanket and anything else she can afford. "I will not put any of the money on myself," Dorothea says. For some time now Dorothea has been putting her money on Cinder. It started this past spring when earnings from baby-sitting and boarding a pony, plus a few gifts of money, were used to purchase the horse. Dorothea and her parents had agreed that all expenses for the mare would be her responsibility. Although she has gone in debt along the way, Dorothea claims that her first pay check will clear all accounts.

For Dorothea Thornton, the work-study program, a federal project which operates locally under the Division of Vocational-Technical Education of the State Department of Public Instruction, is providing not only money to keep her favorite horse, but also valuable clerical experience for the future. (And that ain't hay!)

Federal Funds Report

A new Title VI of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act was just added to the roster of federally-funded education programs, which will bring special educational assistance to handicapped children in Delaware schools. Planning activities are to start immediately under a $20,000 allotment, and further funds will be available if a state plan is developed and submitted by September 1st to the U.S. Office of Education. John S. Charlton, State Director of Pupil Personnel Services, is charged with the responsibility for the project.

ESEA, Title I funds for the education of handicapped children in state institutions in Delaware were $135,407 in the fiscal year 1967; $13,907 for juvenile delinquent in state institutions; and $36,565 for children of migrant workers. The local school districts received $1,884,356 for the education of educationally disadvantaged children from low-income families.

Delaware library resources under ESEA, Title II had a federal allotment of $263,823. All local school districts received basic and special purpose grants to upgrade their libraries.

Ten local district projects received $521,739 under ESEA, Title III for supplementary centers and services. These are for programs of an innovative nature, for use in the individual districts.

Only one Delaware school district applied for funds for local research purposes. A grant came to Alfred I. duPont School District for $7,449 to develop instructional materials for a fused chemistry and physics course under ESEA, Title VI.

BBB Offers New Fact Book

Should imitation suede be dry cleaned? Should Persian Lamb? Do you know what to watch for on clothing labels?

These are a few of the questions about dry cleaning that are answered in a new publication prepared by the Better Business Bureau of Delaware, Inc., called "Question and Answers on Dry Cleaning and Laundering."

According to Leonard L. Sanders, Executive Director of the Better Business Bureau, the booklet is intended to clear up confusion about fabrics, dyes, cleaning instructions, and other matters that can affect clothing and other items such as draperies and slip covers.

"There are now several hundred fibers and mixed fibers on the market," Mr. Sanders pointed out, "and there are vast differences in the durability and color fastness of various fabrics."

He noted that synthetic fibers have increased the variety, color range, and design possibilities of clothing and decorator fabrics.

"On the other hand, they make it necessary for a shopper to pay close attention to labels and to be aware of the pitfalls—the problem fabrics," he added. "We hope our new booklet will help."

The booklet also suggests various types of information that customers should pass on to their dry cleaner to aid in good cleaning service; for example, the location of a stain and the substance that caused it, or special cleaning instructions that are not listed on the garment's label.

For a free copy of "Questions and Answers on Dry Cleaning and Laundering," simply send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Better Business Bureau of Delaware, Inc., 1609 Delaware Avenue, Wilmington, Del. 19806.

Telephone Co. To Have Tent At State Fair

The Diamond State Telephone Company invites residents to visit the telephone company tent at the State Fair at Harrington, July 22, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28 and 29.

Exhibits include rescue breathing, telephones for the handicapped and also historical telephones and present-day communications techniques. Visitors will have an opportunity to connect telephones themselves to see how a cable splicer actually joins wires. Films and lectures will also be presented.

The telephone tent is air conditioned so stop in, cool off and enjoy yourselves.

Special Service Program for Elderly Organized

A special service program for older persons in the private nursing and convalescent homes in Kent and Sussex Counties is now being organized and developed. The program is sponsored by the Catholic Social Services, a United Fund Agency, with funds made available by the Commission for the Aging, on a non-sectarian basis to the private licensed nursing homes.

The services that will be specific craft projects, games, group singing and entertainment, under the direction of Mrs. Carolyn De Zwart, of Dover, newly appointed director of the Nursing Home project.

It is hoped that the various talents and assets, to be found in the respective communities can be drawn upon to make the program function.

Greenwood Mennonite News

Eli and Amelia Swartzentruber celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Mon., July 3. Open house was held in the evening.

Brother Eli served as minister of the Greenwood Church for 40 years. He also served as chairman of the conference mission board, during which time he was sent abroad twice, his wife accompanying him once. She was chairman of the local sewing circle for many years and has also served the church in teaching and counseling. Their home, built next to the church at the time of their retirement, has been generously open to the church, which is just one indication of their continued active interest in God's work. Each of their nine children has contributed significantly to the life and work of the church and church school.

Lucy Schrock was honored as the first graduate of the school at the graduation exercises of Milford Memorial Hospital, June 30. Her unselfish service through the years is even a greater reason why she so rightly was asked to lead the class of graduation on Friday evening.

Congratulations also to Martha Geiser, who was a member of this graduating class. Five men and nine women recently went to Ephrata, Pa., to pack Christmas bundles.

There will be Prophecy meetings held at Greenwood Mennonite Church on July 16, 23, and 30. The speaker will be M. S. Stoltzfus, Gap, Pa.

The Owen Guengerich family, who recently served the pastorate of this church are spending two weeks here.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Meredith and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Meredith attended the funeral of their cousin, Alphonso Nelson, in Westfield, N. J., Friday.

The Nelson Merediths enjoyed Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lynch and family in Fenwick Island.

Sympathy of the community is extended to the surviving three nieces of Mrs. Sam Satterfield, who passed away on Thurs., July 6, in the Country Rest Home. The Rev. Miss Muriel C. Smith, a former pastor here, conducted the services.

On last Wednesday, Mrs. Anne Hawk was the guest of Mrs. Robert Algier, who took her to spend the day in Frederick, Md., visiting Fran's mother and sisters.

Sunday, Mrs. Robert Algier and Mrs. Anne Hawk motored to Towson, Md., to visit Mrs. Hawk's daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mervine, who have moved from Baltimore into a newly-purchased home in Towson. They brought back with them, Debbie Hawk and Susan Algier who have been spending a week with the Mervines and left Carolyn Hawk for a visit. While they were in Towson, they had such an interesting visit to the Clover Farm Dairy. They were so impressed with all the modern methods of sanitation. Each individual cow knows its own place and after she is milked, everything is hosed down again. They saw the milk enter the tubes directly from the cow and flow along until it enters a large tank in a glassed-in room. The young folk enjoyed playing with the small calves.

Friday evening guests of the Jacob Hatfields were Mr. and Mrs. David Keith and children and Miss Sandra Keith of New Castle.

Miss Florence Long left on Wednesday for a visit with her niece and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Boop, of Bloomsburg, Pa. Miss Grace Porter has returned home after attending the graduation exercises of her nephew, Thomas Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Addison Porter, in Potomac, Md. Grace remained for a week's visit with the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Draper and Cynthia have returned home after a lovely trip to Boston, Mass., to attend Lester's Army reunion. There were so many impressive things to visit also, Marie says that their motel faced an inspiring sight, the First Church of Christian Science, established by Mary Baker Eddy. One of the most fabulous things they visited was the Credential Center, opened to the public in 1965. It is 52 stories high and covers 31 acres. In it are office buildings, shopping centers, an ice skating ring and many, many more things to see.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Veasey and children and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lofland, of Wilmington, spent Sunday with Mrs. Oscar Lofland and visited their grandfather, Oscar, in Nanticoke Hospital. Mr. Lofland is reported doing nicely and is expected home this week.

Veterans News

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—It has been several years since I have had a complete physical examination, and I feel that I need one. How do I apply to VA for this?

A—The VA does not give physical examinations or "check-up" as such. You can get an examination at VA only in connection with some veterans benefit, or if you or your private physician feel you are in need of hospitalization. If for some benefit, such as disability compensation or pension, apply at your nearest VA regional office. If for hospitalization or medical treatment, apply at your nearest VA hospital.

Q—I am receiving disability compensation for a 100 per cent service-connected disability. I have an unmarried 20 year old daughter who has decided to return to school. She desires to become a teacher. Will she be considered my dependent for compensation purposes?

A—Yes. As a veteran with the disability you describe, you would be eligible for additional compensation for this daughter. The Veterans Administration considers children over 18 years of age but not 23 years to be dependent, if that child remains in school. The school must certify to VA that the child is in school on VA Form 21-674, "Request for Approval of School Attendance." Your daughter may also be eligible for educational benefits as a child of a totally disabled veteran. I suggest that you contact the VA regional office nearest you for further information.

Q—I have arranged to have the proceeds of my National Service Life Insurance paid to my wife under option one in a lump sum. In a discussion of this matter the other night the question arose as to what would happen if my wife and I were killed in an automobile accident?

A—In the event both the insured and the beneficiary were killed in a common disaster, a determination would have to be made as to who died first. If this cannot be determined, it is assumed that the insured died first. In this case the proceeds would be paid to the estate of the principal beneficiary. It is possible to avoid this kind of situation by providing in the designation of beneficiary the requirement that he or she survive the insured by a specific number of days, not to exceed 30. If the principal beneficiary does not survive the insured by the number of days indicated, the proceeds of the policy will be paid to the contingent beneficiary or the state of the insured.

Larry Garey Makes Dean's List

A higher than usual number achieved the Dean's List for the spring semester of 1967, according to information released this week by Mrs. Isabel Vick, registrar. To attain the Dean's List, a student must earn a grade point average of 3.25 or better while carrying a normal load of at least 15 semester hours of regular college work. Since UNDEB is now operating on a 4-point grade system where 4.00 equals "A", the 3.25 average amounts to a B-plus or better. Achieving the Dean's List was Larry Garey, Felton.

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa
The Culbreth Marsh Tax Ditch Company vote comes up on Tues., July 18 at 8 p.m. The location for the public hearing and referendum will be Union Church, a mile east of Hazlettville on the road to Wyoming.

Some 213 landowners affected by the proposal have all been notified by mail. The project involves drainage of 11,700 acres or 18 square miles of land stretching from Mud Mill Pond at the Maryland line and swinging east as far as Hazlettville.

The Culbreth Marsh Tax Ditch Company is one of the few which has been operating with its original charter. However, in order to qualify for state and federal cost sharing, it seems desirable to reorganize under the Uniform Drainage Law passed by the state legislature in 1955.

A qualified technician will be at Union Church from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on July 12, 13, 14, 17, 18 to show interested landowners how they will be affected by these proposals.

The first project proposal is for 7.1 miles of outlet channels to the ten sub-watersheds or prongs. About 48 more miles of prong ditch work is scheduled to follow once the main is completed. Each landowner will have an outlet for excess drainage water on his property. Each prong will be organized as a separate ditch company to retain local control within each subwatershed.

The Culbreth Marsh Tax Ditch is only one of several large drainage areas that form the Upper Choptank River Watershed. Some are in Maryland. The Cow Marsh Ditch, which is still organized under its old charter but is inactive, drains an area to the south of Culbreth Marsh. The Tappahanna Ditch to the north, has been inactive if it ever was organized.

Tax ditch companies are unique. They were started by neighbors years ago, some even in colonial days. Ditches were originally dug by hand shovel, often with slave labor. Farmers could pay their ditch tax by contributing their labor during the winter month when field work was at a standstill.

The drainage of excess water in Delaware benefits everyone. It makes cropland more usable, and therefore more valuable. Some towns depend on these outlets for their drainage systems. Highway beds become more stable and less expensive to maintain as standing water is led off the land.

The National Arboretum in northeast Washington, D. C. is one place that every tree lover should visit. It occupies 415 acres on the Bladensburg Road at the intersection with the Baltimore Parkway. This is where the Crops Research Division of the United States Department of Agriculture does its work with trees and shrubs.

The arboretum is open every day, except on government holidays. From Monday to Friday, the hours are 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday opening hours start at 10 a.m. The nine miles of roadways are well kept, and there are many special gardens where one can wander at will. One of the more interesting to me last week was the Gotelli conifer collection which features ground covers.

There is a great deal of variety in the plantings because of the variation in settings. Plants are grouped together in their best growth habitat. These include azaleas, rhododendrons, crab apples, magnolias, mountain laurel, ferns, camellias, shade trees, conifers, and hollies to mention just a few. I doubt if you can find a greater variety in any other single place in all of the United States.

If I sound enthusiastic, believe me, I am. National garden groups sponsor certain areas in which they have a particular interest.

Gum Chewing Mice In Double Bubble Trouble

Save that good cheese for yourself and put chewing gum instead in the mouse trap. Gum makes good mouse-bait, according to Frank Boys, agricultural chemicals specialist at the University of Delaware. And, turn the fan on if you're bothered by buzzing house flies; flies can't fly in winds of more than four miles per hour.

Researchers are currently experimenting with several off-beat ideas in pest control, according to Boys. Many of these controls were discovered accidentally, he points out. For instance, two acrylic auto paints attract large numbers of a destructive sap beetle and may be useful in insect traps.

A large outbreak of sap beetles in 1966 led to the accidental discovery of the paint's potential use. The beetles were so strong attracted to automobiles on which rust spots had recently been painted over with the acrylic paint that painting had to be stopped. In four days of testing an average of more than 2,000 beetles were drawn to traps containing the two most promising paints. Early tests show that other various species of flies are attracted to the paint, so it may be useful in trapping other insects also.

At the University of Delaware several areas of biological control are being explored, Boys says. Releasing predatory mites that are native to Chile may show promise in controlling several species of leaf feeding mites that attack greenhouse plants. Usually, within a week after the release of the Chilean mites complete control of the destructive mites is possible.

Delaware entomologists are also working with parasitic nematodes to control the larva of striped cucumber beetles, an insect of economic importance on cucumber crops in Delaware. Nematodes are more widely known as root-infesting pests of many crops; the parasitic nematodes are a different variety.

Beltsville, Md., scientists found out recently that insects have their own built-in biological clock which aids scientists, farmers and homemakers in controlling the pests. More houseflies and cockroaches died after they were sprayed late in the afternoon than at any other time, scientists discovered.

The insects' vulnerability changes because their daily activity varies in a 24-hour cycle, called circadian rhythm. The flies and roaches start their most active period in late afternoon, and this is their most vulnerable period. Spraying at this time produces a greater kill with less insecticide.

Boys points out that researchers are continuing to develop new insecticides to deal with insect problems; however, at the same time biological controls are receiving careful attention.

City kids and farm kids get a lot of enjoyment out of 4-H photography projects. Many of them never owned or operated a camera before. And they don't run around taking pictures any old way.

More than 70,000 4-H boys and girls nationwide enrolled in photography projects learn step-by-step methods of good picture taking. The 4-H photography program has been carefully planned by specialist of the Cooperative Extension Service.

Both club leaders and members use a series of photography guide books written and illustrated by professionals. Each unit should be completed before starting the next. The youngsters learn "first things first," like how does a camera work; how is film loaded and removed; when should flash be used. Then they study composition, use of color film, slides and special lighting.

Advanced members learn to operate movie cameras, take news photos and photos for other 4-H activities. Pictures also are used to supplement school studies. Skills learned in the project have enabled scores of high school students to obtain part-time jobs as free-lance photographers, dark room assistants and salespeople.

Sponsor of this popular program is Eastman Kodak Company. Each year recognition is given to 4-H'ers for notable progress.

For the first time, state winners will receive a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress. Previously the state award was a $50 U.S. savings bonds, and congress trips were offered to only 18 sectional winners.

Up to four medals will be presented to county champions. From state winners, four will be chosen to receive $500 educational scholarships. All award recipients are named by the Extension Service which supervises 4-H work.

More information about the photography program and how to enroll or be a club leader can be obtained by contacting your 4-H Club agent at 736-1448.

When you reach your vacation spot will you be able to find things in your suitcase? After another day or two?

A good rule to follow is: pack in layers and avoid holes. Make the first layer of odd shaped and heavy things. Place the heaviest items in first and to the back. This is an important rule to remember as it puts the heavy things on the very bottom when the suitcase is picked up and slide. This layer might include shoes, umbrella, travel alarm clock, cosmetic case, jewelry case, handbag, etc. You might pack the handbag with lingerie to help keep it in shape. Try to arrange a fairly even layer without holes.

Next add a divider. A plastic cleaner bag will do the job. Let the ends of the bag hang over the suitcase until you finish packing. Placing a divider between different layers allows you to pick each layer up by the corners and remove it intact.

The second layer is usually made of soft items: undies, sweaters, gloves, shorts, bathing suit, etc. It's quite possible that this layer might be combined with the first layer and some of the soft items might be used to cushion folds in the next layer. If you make a separate layer add another divider on top.

The next layer is made of dresses, suits, and blouses. To pack these have buttons buttoned and zippers zipped. Fold dresses along the waistline. Turn sleeves in. Where you must make folds, try to place them where the body would normally bend and make a bit of a crease anyway.

Always cover as much area of the suitcase as possible. Add another divider.

If you are spending a night along the way before unpacking you'll want to place night clothing, robe, slippers, and cosmetic bag on the top layer for easy reach.

Avoid overloading. It will cause a big pressing job. But, do pack firmly enough to avoid the shifting and sliding around that also causes wrinkles.

With this system of packing and today's wrinkle free clothes you should be able to leave the travel iron at home.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q-If a married veteran attending school under PL358 has a child, what should he do to obtain increased training allowance from the date of the child's birth?

A-The effective date of increased benefits for dependents is the date of request for the benefits if later substantiated with a copy of the child's birth certificate within one year.

Q-If a veteran who served during and after the Korean period of hostilities and subsequently applied for and successfully negotiated a G.I. loan prior to the date of enactment of PL358 sells his home, will he be entitled to another G.I. loan because of his service?

A-Yes, subject to any claim arising out of the sale of the first loan if it was not refinanced.

Q-In the service medical report that I received it stated that I had a stomach hernia that I received while in the service. Is it too late to file for a disability pension from the VA?

A-There is no time limit as to when a veteran may file claim for disease or injury he feels was obtained while serving in the Armed Forces.

Q-I am a veteran's widow and received a check from the Veteran's Administration of $50.40 a month up until the time of my remarriage. My second husband died shortly after our marriage and I would like to know if I am entitled to my first husband's Veterans Administration pension, since I am no longer married? A-Remarriage following the death of the veteran makes the widow permanently ineligible for a pension based on the death of that veteran, unless the purported marriage is void or has been annulled.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

Do you want to be a celebrated cook? It's easier than you think, since all you have to do is apply a few basic principles in selecting and cooking meat and add originality to sauces and seasonings. The reputations of many famous chefs rest on how they cook meat.

Clues as to the best way to cook a particular cut are: the amount of fat in the lean portion, the connective tissue, and the shape of the bone.

First let's consider the flecks of fat in the lean. Heat causes toughening of muscle fibers and toughening is less noticeable when the meat is well marbled (flecks of fat throughout the lean).

Next look at the cut of meat and check the connective tissue. These tissues bind together muscle fibers in the lean meat and they increase in amount with the age of the animal and exercise of the muscle. Cuts containing large amounts of connective tissue are less tender and require slow cooking with moisture in order to soften this tissue.

The T-bone, rib and wedge bones appear in the more tender cuts, which include muscles along the backbone which receive little exercise.

The round bone in the leg (round cuts) and the round and blade bones of the shoulder (chuck cuts) are signs of the less tender cuts. Many cuts containing round bones may be roasted or pan fried if they come from prime or choice beef or very young pork, lamb and veal. However, the less tender cuts from the parts of the body that are exercised the most often are better when they are braised or cooked with liquid, and the meat is surrounded by steam or the hot liquid.

You have to know more about the cuts and grades of beef than you do about veal, pork or lamb because beef comes from older animals, there are more cuts of beef, and more ways to serve them, and the ranges in quality and price are wider.

Remember that if you try to speed the cooking of meat you are almost sure to end up with tough, dry meat. So choose meat that you can prepare properly in the time you have allotted for the job.

Use low to moderate temperatures for cooking all meats. This basic principle can be the difference between a dry product and a tender, juicy one. Too much heat can make even the tenderest meat tough.

Ocean Downs Raceway Meet Opens Tonight

Everything is in readiness for the opening of the 19th season of harness racing Friday night at Ocean Downs Raceway near Ocean City, Md.

Over 600 horses will be competing for approximately $250,000 in purses, the largest amount ever awarded to horse owners at the Downs.

The meet will run through September 2-4 nights in all, and subject to the approval of the Maryland Racing Commission, the track will not operate Wed., July 26, in deference to the Delaware State Fair and on Thurs., Aug. 24.

The track has made several improvements in the grandstand for the comfort of the race fans and the stables have been repainted, this time white with blue trim.

A new caterer will be in charge of the food in the Club Terrace and will operate the concession stands. The Berlo Company of Philadelphia, food purveyors at many tracks from coast to coast, have signed a long-time contract with Ocean Downs.

It will be Ladies Night again every Tuesday and the fair sex will be admitted for the state tax of 15 cents each.

Ocean Downs will offer the customary Daily Double but not the Quinella, a form of wagering where the bettor has to pick two horses in one race to finish, 1-2, or 2-1.

Cash awards to drivers amounting to over $3,700 will be made during the course of the meet and at the conclusion. Each week $250 will be awarded to the top three drivers and at the end of the top five drivers with the highest in-the-money percentage will get checks for $1,000, $600, $250, $100 and $50.

Johnny Amato, Rodney Warden and Roscoe Rodgers took the top three awards last year and each is ready to go after the cash awards this week.

Track officials are anticipating another successful season even though some tracks this year are down in the wagering.

Strangely, it has been the larger tracks that have tended to be off in the wagering department, but the smaller tracks have shown a remarkable increase.

Chairman of the board J. C. Robinson last week said, "We have raised the minimum purse from $500 to $550. We are the only trotting track in Maryland to raise its smallest purse. We have plenty of horses and our aim is to produce close, interesting races so that everyone will get a good run for his money."

The Del-Mar-Va stakes for 2-year-olds and 3-year-olds will be raced the first full week in August. The number of colts still eligible is large than in any previous year, indicating substantially higher purses and a better grade of horses.

The nine-race card each night will start at the usual 8:30 post time for the first race and the daily double will close at 8:20.

Delaware Park News

The 13th running of the $30,000 added New Castle Stakes come up for decision at Delaware Park Saturday and with it comes a big question:

Is there a filly or mare capable of making a sweep of the New Castle and the $100,000 added Delaware Handicap, the mile and a quarter classic to be decided closing day, Sat., July 29?

Such feat has been accomplished only four times, and it took a champion to do it on each occasion. Last year it was the so-called gray ghost, Open Fire, from Delaware Park President Donald P. Ross' barn, who turned the trick. The others were Hugh A. Grant's Airmans Guide in 1961, Reginald N. Webster's Quill (1960), and Calumet Farm's Princess Turia (1957).

The task looms even larger this season. There is no outstanding favorite in view among the 55 eligibles for the two stakes. In fact, this could attract the most wide-open fields in years.

Candidates were made eligible for both events via the dual nomination blanks at a single fee. The New Castle, run at the shorter mile and a sixteenth distance, serves as a major prep for the longer and richer Delaware.

Rated the most formidable prospects are such topnotchers as Straight Deal, Mac's Sparkler, Miss Spin, Summer Scandal, Triple Brook, Swinging Mood, Politely, Reluctant Pearl, Indian Sunlite, Justakiss and Lady Diplomat. These alone would provide a brilliant line-up, but numerous other highly regarded nominees may also have to be considered.

The result of the New Castle should offer a better idea of what to expect in the Delaware 'Cap. Some no doubt will eliminate themselves from consideration for the "big one." Others could pop up with surprising new prestige and earn the chance to appear in the 17th and final stakes event of the 55-day meeting.

Brandywine Raceway News

Expo '67 may be the theme for Canada this year, but Brandywine Raceway drivers Herve Filion and Jimmy Larente are conducting their own Expo '67 right here in the Delaware Valley.

Filion, one of eight in a family of harness racing drivers, is making a shambles of the dash-winning title he won with a record flourish a year ago, while Larente is equally as impressive in the Universal Driver Ratings with a 421 percentage.

The South of the Border call has been so successful for both Filion and Larente that their American compatriots now talk of the luck of the Maple Leaf with utter abandon for the Irish. Few, if any driving accomplishments, have escaped Filion and Larente as they have campaigned through all classifications with such ease and success they are completely overshadowing American drivers.

While ice hockey remains as the National pastime in Canada, harness racing drivers Filion and Larente are contributing their share to raising standardbred racing to a level equivalent to the ice sport.

There seems to be no braking Herve Filion in the defense of the driving title he won a year ago. Now fourth in the track's Universal Driver Rating System, Filion has compiled a record of 36 money appearances in 175 starts. He has had one quadruple, four triples and six doubles enroute to his 36 wins this season here. His quadruple came on June 20 when he frequented the winners circle with Zombie's Colonel, Leader Pick, Winning Ace and Silk Lady.

Although Larente's record isn't as gaudy as Filion's it shows such a marked consistency that he is Brandywine's leading percentage driver. Larente has one triple to his credit along with three doubles and his most significant win came behind Critics Choice in the $10,000 Sharply Trot on May 26, as the gelded son of Rodney was enroute to seven consecutive wins.

Both Filion and Larente are natives of Quebec and both are adept at handling stables that range the spectrum in ability. Horsemen agree that it's the "touch" that marks greatness in a driver and these same horsemen are in accord that Filion and Larente have the hands that bring out the finest in the horses that they handle.

closely woven, over-edged or hemmed selvage will give satisfactory service. Also hems should be neatly turned back and secured with small stitches of strong, fine thread. Backstitching at the corners will keep stitches from pulling out.

Sizing, such as starch, is often used to hold the yarn in place during weaving. The filling is usually removed before the turkish toweling is sold for lower quality towels. If sizing is added after the fabric is woven, it will come out during laundering, leaving a thin, limp fabric.

Of course, all towels shrink slightly during laundering, Miss Reed points out. Therefore, the border selvage and main section of the towel should be woven with the same tension to prevent puckering; check the evenness of the tension by pulling and feeling the different towel sections. Also, the label may tell if the towel has been made to shrink uniformly.
