

Terry To Ask Legislature Today For Weapons Against Civil Disorder In Delaware

Reacting to outbreaks elsewhere and the threat of civil disorder, Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. this week asked the Legislature to return for a special session.

Both the Senate and the House will convene at 10 a.m., today at which time Gov. Terry will address them in joint session. The Governor seeks power for the following:

- Authority to declare a state of emergency.
- A measure outlawing mandatory three-year jail sentences without pardon or parole for those convicted of destruction of property during a state of emergency.
- Authority to declare a state of emergency throughout the entire state, or in a specific area of the state.

Rioting and looting is criminal behavior that cannot be tolerated, the Governor stated. He also said: "Wherever I go in Delaware, and in my conversations with decent and law-abiding citizens, regardless of color, I find a deep concern for the violence and lawlessness that have rocked some of our major cities in recent weeks and that we have experienced, to some degree, in Delaware."

He added current state laws, adequate to cope with insurrection and lawless behavior, do not exist.

Gov. Terry said he realized his suggestive measure were severe, but the state must be prepared to cope with all situations that might arise.

The Governor also said he would appoint a committee to look for job opportunities for "those who are down-trodden or underprivileged."

Music Student Returns From Tour

Daniel J. Smith, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Smith, Houston, a member of the senior class of June, 1967, of the Harrington high school, has just returned from a tour of European countries with the All-Student Band USA.

Danny played bass clarinet with the band which together with an orchestra and chorus, gave concerts throughout the continent. In Sneek, Holland, they were guests in homes of families of the Advento Marching Band and the Lord Mayor gave them a reception. At Innsbruck they played in the Royal Garden Pavilion where they were asked for encores.

Other visits and concerts were made in Edinburgh, Scotland, where they toured the castle and were given a tea by Mrs. McKinnon who is a member of the founding family of the company that manufactures a cordial.

In Heidelberg, Germany, they gave a concert in King's Hall of the Castle. In Florence, Italy, all the members were impressed with the sights of the recent flood damage. The concert in Florence was held at the Piazza della Signoria.

Paris was arrived on the 14th of July, France's day of independence, Bastille Day, and the concert that night was on French television. Another Paris concert was held at the Eiffel Tower.

In London at the Royal Academy of Music some of the musicians let the students play during a rehearsal.

The final concert was held in Washington, D.C.

Eleven students were in the group from Delaware, which was the largest group from any state. The band, of which Danny was a member, numbered 125 students from all over the country and each member was selected by audition.

The band traveled separately from the orchestra and chorus, but all groups played in the same cities but at different times. The tour was sponsored by the Shenandoah Conservatory of Music in Winchester, Va., and is conducted each year.

Danny told Mr. Brobst last week that it was an experience never to be forgotten and recommended to all students with the ability and desire for such a trip, to try and get selected. Danny is enrolled to enter Madison College next fall where he will major in music.

RUMORS, RAIN CUT FAIR CROWDS; 9,800 FEWER PEOPLE

The Delaware State Fair closed Saturday after a nine-day run plagued with attendance problems. Fair officials blamed on early week rumors of possible violence and weekend rain.

George C. Simpson, fair general manager, said 114,000 persons turned out for the fair, about 9,800 fewer than last year's total of 123,000.

"When you lose people you lose their money," Simpson said. "This won't be a real successful year. Since Thursday it's been drifting off with scares and then the weather."

There were no incidents at the fair.

Carnival people echoed Simpson's words. The side show fat man, relaxing before a show, said, "This bad publicity hasn't helped. It's bad on the fair, and it's bad for us carries. The best day was kid's day." Tuesday was children's day.

Even with attendance problems, this year's fair had the biggest day in the fair's 48-year history.

PRELIMINARY PLANS APPROVED BY STATE FOR FELTON SCHOOL

Preliminary plans for a junior-senior high school at Felton have been approved by the State Department of Public Instruction, and especially by the School Plant Planning Division.

Felton School District voters recently approved a $500,000 bond issue as their share of the $2,436,720 cost of constructing a structure at Killen's Pond adjacent to a state park. Building will house 700.

Dr. Howard Henry, superintendent of Felton School, said the next step would be for the architects to develop final plans, complete working drawings and specifications. These, he added, were scheduled for review by the State Department of Public Instruction in November.

Construction is scheduled to begin early next spring, with program to be completed in September, 1969.

Waits is accused of taking food, a butcher knife, and approximately $6 from Hi Grade Sanitary Dairy early in the morning of the day on which he was arrested.

Entry was gained by breaking a window.

Waits is also charged with using the motor vehicle of Gary Simpson who had reported it as stolen. The car was recovered by local police on Whitelysburg Road.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—I was in the Army for only 30 days after January 31, 1955, with no prior service. I had an honorable discharge. Am I eligible for treatment in a VA hospital for non-service connected disabilities?

A—You are eligible for treatment in a VA hospital, provided your disabilities are sufficiently severe to warrant hospitalization, if you had one or more days of active service after January 31, 1955, with an honorable discharge or separation and you state you are unable to pay necessary expenses of hospital treatment for which you are applying.

Greensboro Church To Observe First Homecoming Day

The Greensboro (Md.) Baptist Church will be observing their first homecoming day this Sunday. During the 11 morning worship service four of the church's former pastors will participate, and Rev. Richard Ledbetter of Baltimore will bring the message. Following the service, there will be a dinner on the grounds prepared by the ladies of the church. The early years of the church will be recalled through old photographs which will be on display. A special afternoon service will be held at 2:30. This will be an informal service of hymn singing and greetings. Everyone is welcome to attend any or all of these services and activities, and former members and friends of the church are urged to be present.

The church was organized under the leadership of Rev. Melvin Morris in 1920. At the church's first baptismal service (held at a nearby ice pond) 2,500 were present. It is now the only Baptist church in Caroline County with a full church program and is still continuing to grow. The church's present pastor, Richard L. Markley, states that its continued growth has been due to God's blessing and the church's faithful adherence to the Bible as the word of God.

Harrington Raceway Wednesday awarded the Paul L. Scott Construction Company of Dover a contract to erect an $800,000 clubhouse adjacent to its present grandstand.

J. Gordon Smith, president of Harrington Raceway, announced that the new facility would accommodate 450 persons in the dining area and 300 in the reserved seat section. Fully air conditioned and heated, the clubhouse is scheduled to be completed June 1, 1968.

Smith also announced that remodeling of the present grandstand already has begun. A new admissions entrance, escalators to the dining area and the closing in of the ground floor will be completed by September 4, when the raceway opens its 60-night stand.

The racing oval has been resurfaced and widened to permit eight horses to fan across the track. The new all-weather surface is composed of stone and dust.

NATIONAL CASH REGISTERS BUYS DENNIS MITCHELL PLANT

National Cash Register Co. has relieved Delaware of a $3 million liability by buying the vacant Dennis Mitchell, Inc., plant at Millsboro.

Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr., said Wednesday that National Cash Register and the Delaware Industrial Building Commission have completed a transaction "which results in no loss to the state."

He said all documents for the sale have been executed. The terms include National Cash's million liability.

The sale ends a year-long search by the commission for a company to take over the plant.

Ernest S. Wilson Jr., attorney for the commission, said title to the plant will be turned over to National Cash immediately. It would be returned to the commission in the event of a default in payment of the bonds by the company, Wilson said.

Dennis Mitchell abandoned the plant last August and has begun bankruptcy proceedings in a Philadelphia court. The company had planned to make children's furniture at the plant.

The commission brought Dennis Mitchell to Delaware by guaranteeing state support for the $3 million in bonds issued for con-

Summer Music Classes End

The annual summer music classes sponsored by the Harrington Special School District came to a close last week with a total enrollment of 140 students, of which 52 were beginners. These totals registered the largest group ever enlisted for these classes. Instruction was given in all of the band instruments.

The three bands of the district rehearsed each Thursday during the period which comprised the Elementary, Junior and Senior Bands.

On Friday night, July 14, the annual outdoor concert by the bands was held on the grounds in front of the main entrance to the high school, and on Thursday July 20, the annual trip to Hershey, Pa., was made with 80 children together with their chaperones making the trip in two air-conditioned coaches. The morning was spent at the Hershey Chocolate factory, and the afternoon at the Park where a number of the children went swimming in the large pool and spent some time on the rides.

Instruction of the music classes was done by the school's music director, Mr. Melvin L. Brobst of the local school faculty.

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa

Highways and farm silos are often concrete monuments to short range goals. Kent County has its share of both.

Early roads tended to follow cow paths we're told. This is one explanation for the meandering of Broadway, in New York City.

By the same token early farmers with small dairy herds put up small silos to store their green feed. But when the herd grew in size, a larger second silo, or even a third and fourth were added to the farmstead. There is one farm in this county with seven silos and no cows today.

The proposed West Dover Bypass reminds me of the silo monuments. The dual road to the East was built in the last 20 years as a bypass and has become a city street. If memory serves, State Street used to be the Main north-south artery through town. Governors Avenue was improved and some of the traffic shifted there. All have become outmoded as traffic grew. U.S. 13, or the DuPont highway, was conceived years ago as a dual highway all the way up and down the state. It has filled this need admirably to date. But highway planners infer that it may be hopeless to make it limited access.

Some local farmers are taking unwarranted criticism "for selfish interests at the expense of the majority by blocking West Dover By Pass proposals", to quote a local columnist.

These individuals have spent time, energy and considerable personal funds to use every legal means at their command to protect their livelihood. We should admire their spunk and sense of purpose for the use of their lands.

The time has come for designing a second major north-south road to fit our atomic age. There is not even a good secondary north-south road between Smyrna and north of Blackbird, where 896 comes into U.S. 13.

Those of us interested in farming as a growth industry for Delaware, see a limited access road staying west of the railroad to 301 west of Middletown as a logical solution. The section west of Dover might be a mile or so beyond what is presently proposed. This would use lower grade crop land and pass through more woodland. Most of this woodland is low grade cut over hardwoods.

The argument is presented that land between the two main roads would go out of agriculture more quickly than if the road were kept closer to town. It might, unless we can install planning and zoning or other land use controls within a ten-year period. A farmer in his productive work years is not likely to sell for development. But if incentives are built to encourage farm land uses for the open space, our urban friends profess to need, they may continue.

A farm economy is strongest on prime land. Good land is limited. Let's shift intensive development when we can to less valuable cropland or to cull wood lots.

Second rate cropland or cull woodland in Kent County is equally as good for intensive development. The one possible problem may be drainage. But the route we're suggesting will follow the crown of the watershed between the bays. It will also be shorter because it is more direct.

This is not written as a criticism of any person or agency. It is simply a call for logical long range goals. Productive farms are getting larger, and so are dairy silos. Modern dairy farms start from scratch and design for a complete system. The days of tacking on are ended.

Should we expect any less of our new roads?

I'm reminded of a suggestion made by a land use planner with tongue in cheek. He thought we ought to put our graveyards along the right of way for roads. Both are so hard to move once they are established. Of course he thought that people might be encouraged to use more care in driving too.

Use migrant help to improve your woodlot while they are waiting crops to mature. They can use the cash, and you can build the value of your trees. Bill Parker of Burrsville has come up with this splendid idea and we pass it on to you.

Bill was speaking about the fine work of a local pulp wood company in his neighborhood. They have been girdling cull trees with an axe and treating the cuts with brush killer. This leaves more sunlight, moisture, and plant food for their growing timber crop.

I hope Walter Gabel, the service forester in the State Forestry Department, continues his demonstration at the Substation farm at Georgetown. You can see this work on Farm Field Day, Wed., August 9.

Everyone is invited to the annual field day program. Most Kent County families take the whole day to visit the plots on the Substation Farm and to visit with friends in the cool grove of trees.

It takes about an hour to drive around the research plots for a quick once over on the guided bus tours. Or, if you wish, you can get off the bus and talk to the specialist in detail about his work.

The white plant studies are among the more interesting this year. A mixture of lime and wax is sprayed on peppers to reflect light and to slow up plant transpiration or sweating. During extremely hot weather, these cooler plants grow better and yield more fruit.

Kaffeeklatch

with Eleanor K. Vosnell

Are you sure of your food facts or can you be tricked? Many notions and absurdities are being accepted by persons who have not had the opportunity nor taken the trouble to earn enough so their ideas will be kept straight.

The claim that you can eat your way into arthritis, for example, and eat your way out again is ridiculous. Extensive research has failed to show that the absence or presence of any food or vitamin will either cause or cure any form of arthritis. Careful medical examination of people who claim they have been helped with trick diets would show that most of them are self diagnosed arthritides.

Raw foods are among the dearest loves of the food faddist. He would like to convert the human being, dietetically speaking, into a grazing animal. He forgets that grazers have different digestive equipment from the human.

A certain percentage of raw foods, especially fruits and vegetables, is desirable in our diet. But most of our common foods which are usually served cooked not only taste better that way but are more easily digested.

It is a mistaken notion that a pregnant woman must eat for two. Her need for calories increase only about 10% in the second three months and another 10% in the last three months. She may find she has to cut down on many high calorie foods in favor of those that offer a greater supply of proteins, minerals, and vitamins she needs for herself and the developing fetus.

Why are the American Medical Association and the Food and Drug Administration continually concerned about food fads and fallacies? There are a number of dangers:

1. Essential nutrients may be lacking from the fad diet. Malnutrition could result.
2. Children following a fad may not get the nutrients they need for proper growth and development.
3. Medical attention to a serious ailment may be delayed while a food quack or faddist attempts to treat the condition.
4. Faddish foods and treatment are invariably expensive.

Big Field Crop Harvest Predicted

The July 1 crop reports indicate that a bumper crop harvest for 1967 is taking shape, according to W. T. McAllister, extension farm management specialist at the University of Delaware. This is true both for Delaware and the nation as a whole.

Crops appear to be one to two weeks behind schedule, but good weather conditions are promoting rapid growth. For Delaware, a 13.3 million bushel corn crop is expected from 211,000 acres with an average yield of 63 bushels per acre. This compares with 7.9 million bushels last year when dry weather cut the yield to only 38 bushels an acre. For the U. S. a 4.5 billion bushel corn crop, 10 per cent more than last year's record crop, is in the making.

Soybeans have not advanced to a stage where estimated yields can be predicted. In Delaware, 3,000 fewer acres have been planted to soybeans; for the U.S., the average is up about 10 per cent over last year.

If U.S. yields are similar to last year's, the first billion bushel soybean crop on record will be harvested. All other field crops—wheat, oats, barley, rye, and hay—show favorable yield expectations and near record crops.

Big yields are money makers for farmers, but they often result in glutted markets and excessively low prices at harvest time. While the crop is still growing, it would be a good idea to make plans now to market the crop without losing much of the profit from big yields to low seasonal prices, McAllister points out.

Del. Flower Show Judged Best In Nation

For the second consecutive year the Delaware Flower Show was named outstanding state flower show in the nation for 1966 by the National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc. A gold ribbon award was officially presented to Mrs. Roland Campbell, Wilmington, president of the Delaware Federation of Garden Clubs, at a recent state meeting.

Mrs. Stephen Barczewski, Newark, was chairman of the winning flower show.

The only statewide flower show in Delaware, the annual event is sponsored by the University of Delaware and the Delaware Federation of Garden Clubs in cooperation with Delaware nurseries.

The Delaware show was selected for the award by a panel of three judges on the basis of a report submitted by the Delaware Federation. The quality of the show, staging, educational value, participation of youth and additional criteria were considered in the judging.

The two-day 1967 Delaware Flower Show will be held October 7 and 8 in the new University of Delaware Field House, Newark. This year's show will be the largest ever held—more than twice the size of the 1966 show—according to Mrs. Norris E. Rockman, Wilmington, chairman of the 1967 event.

A diorama of Delaware's state parks, tourist attractions and other features will be one of the highlights of the flower show. Also, a fashion show will be presented daily at an indoor pool. A Garden of Light and exhibits of exotic Indian plants, holly, wild flowers, sand gardens, dried flowers and African violets will also be among the features.

The 17 classes for floral arrangements will carry out the theme of the 1967 show, "Autumn Revue." A limited number of entries will be accepted until September 29; no entry fees are charged.

In the horticultural division there are classes for specimens of Chrysanthemums, roses, dahlias and African violets. A wide variety of perennials, biennials and annuals, as well as house plants, terrariums, espalier, topiary and bonsai are included.

A junior division will include flower judging and arranging contests, a plant and garden insect identification contest and educational exhibits, as well as horticulture and arrangement classes for high school and grade school children.

In addition to the individual entries, floral displays will be provided by garden clubs, nurserymen and similar organizations. More than 1000 individual entries are expected.

The Delaware State Flower Show is designed to interest more people in all phases of gardening, encourage enthusiasm for community beautification and give youth groups an opportunity to share their interest in growing plants.

College Graduates In Engineering Highly Sought

College graduates in engineering, the physical sciences, business administration and teaching were highly sought in the job market this year, Mrs. Geraldine M. Wyatt, University of Delaware placement director, said today.

Mrs. Wyatt and her staff have completed an unprecedented year in handling requests from prospective employers, student interviews and alumni and student registrants for the varied services provided by the placement office.

The number of potential employers—industries, organizations and schools—who reserved dates to interview interested and qualified seniors on the campus was 40% greater than last year's previous high. Interviews with interested seniors increased by more than 26%.

Of the 922 graduating seniors, 71% registered to take advantage of the services offered by the placement office, an increase of 30% over 1965-66.

Alumni also showed greater interest than in previous years with a registration total 28% greater than last year.

Other statistics compiled for the annual report of the placement office show that 62% of all engineering students found permanent positions with the aid of the placement office staff, although only 81% of those qualified registered with the office. Prospective teachers, 95% of whom registered, were even more fortunate. Seventy-six per cent already have been placed and 11% are awaiting firm offers. Among those for whom positions are pending are students with offers who have not yet reached a decision, some who plan to be married, those who expect to move to new locations, and a few who have just recently sought assistance.

The Du Pont Company heads the list of employers with 29 Delaware graduates already hired, primarily in the fields of engineering, business and mechanics. International Business Machines has employed seven graduates and Atlas Chemical Industries and Armstrong Cork Company each have taken five.

Salary offers are extremely favorable for starting positions. The average monthly wage offered to engineering graduates was $701, while Delaware teachers received an average offer of $560 a month for ten months. Elementary teachers are in greatest demand, while secondary teachers are most desired in mathematics, English and Science.

As the placement director, Mrs. Wyatt serves as a liaison between seniors, graduate students, alumni and prospective employers. She has been with the University's placement office since 1948 and was named its director in 1952.

Dairymen Tour Pennsylvania Farms

Area dairymen will have the opportunity to visit a modern dairy farm in Delaware and farms in Pennsylvania as part of the three-day annual Dairy Tour, August 15, 16 and 17. The tour, sponsored by the Delaware Dairy Herd Improvement Association and the Agricultural Extension Service at the University of Delaware, is designed to help dairymen keep up with competition.

Tour leader, Dr. W. R. Hessel-tine, extension dairyman at the University of Delaware, says the trip gives dairymen an opportunity to gain first-hand information about up-to-date management of dairy herds in other states.

The group will tour a new production unit at the Levis Phipps farm in Centerville and 12 farms in southeastern Pennsylvania. They will visit Turkey Hill Farm one of the biggest dairies in Pennsylvania, and the farm of Sam and Tom Williams, Harrisburg; Tom Williams was chosen 1967 Master Farmer for Pennsylvania. Dairymen on the tour will also visit the Hershey Chocolate Corporation.

The tour members will be looking for ways to increase production efficiency and output per worker, according to Hessel-tine. Most of the farms they visit will be outstanding family farms noted for their excellent management. It is this aspect that should prove most valuable and interesting to Delawareans, Hessel-tine points out.

Buses will leave the Board of Agriculture Building, Dover, at 7 a.m. and Agricultural Hall, Newark, at 8 a.m., Tuesday, August 15. They will return to the same locations Thursday evening August 17. Reservations for the tour should be made with Dr. Hessel-tine, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware 19711.

Del. Girls Win 4-H Feeder Pig Contest

Girls almost took a clean sweep of first place honors in the 4-H Feeder Pig Roundup held during the Delaware State Fair. Twelve-year-old Donna Pentony, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pentony, Seaford, raised the grand champion heavyweight hog.

Reserve champion feeder hog, which also took second place in the heavyweight division, was raised by Mary Crisco, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Crisco, Bridgeville.

The only boy to win first place honors was David Morgan, Laurel. The 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Hill received an award for fitting and showmanship. Elizabeth Roach, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Roach, Townsend, placed second; Robert Horsey, Laurel, was third and Regina Baumann, Smyrna, was fourth. Miss Baumann also won third place in the medium weight division.

In the lightweight division, first place went to Debbie Hearn, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hearn, Georgetown. Her sister, Linda Hearn, 11, won first place honors in the medium weight division.

Receiving second place award in the lightweight division was Jimmy Higdon, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Higdon, Townsend. His sister, Brenda Higdon, was third; Phil Gordy, Laurel, won fourth and Lloyd Bullock, Georgetown, was fifth.

Glenn Wright, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wright, Wyoming was second place winner in the medium weight division and third place winner in the heavyweight class, Jim Pentoney, Seaford, took fourth place and Robert Smith, Lewes, won fifth in the medium weight class.

In the heavyweight division, Miss Pentoney won first and Miss Crisco took second place honors. Bonnie Bullock, Georgetown, was fourth place winner and Mike Webb, Greenwood, fifth.

The 4-H members in the feeder pig project each started with two 30- to 45-pound hogs the first week in April; they raised them until the hogs were sold after the roundup at state fair. Lightweight hogs ranged in weight from 130 to 180; pounds, medium weight hogs were 185 to 200 pounds and heavyweights were 205 to 240 pounds.

Miss Pentoney's grand champion hog brought $40 a hundredweight, while Miss Crisco's reserve champion sold for $30. Other hogs ranged in price from $21.75 to $23.50.

New Pimento Pepper Announced By U. of D.

Ten years of plant breeding resulted in a new pimento pepper resistant to tobacco mosaic virus. Dr. Donald Crossan, professor of plant pathology at the University of Delaware, and Charles Jackson, field manager, H. P. Cannon Co., Bridgeville developed the new pepper for processing.

A bulletin, "Pimento Belle Pepper," published by Delaware Agriculture Experiment Station, University of Delaware, describes the pepper as a pimento-type with large fruit and acceptable yield.

Breeding the new pepper began in 1957 when a single plant of the tobacco mosaic resistant bell-type line Caldwell and the pimento variety Truhart Pimento were self-pollinated and the seed saved. In 1958 the Caldwell and Truhart were cross-pollinated, self-pollination cross-pollination and selection continued until 1965.

In 1965 and 1966 large acreages of selected peppers were planted in a commercial sized planting. Continued selection of plants maintained the thick-walled, red-colored fruit of the pimento parent, combined with the large fruit and mosaic resistance of the bell parent.

The new variety, 2 Pimento Belle, is a productive, compact plant, 18 to 24 inches high. The leaves are large and provide excellent shading against sunscald. The plant has a tendency to seed four or five fruit at the same time with the fruit maturing at the same time in approximately 110 days.

Fields were harvested twice in both 1965 and 1966, with an average yield of 5.71 tons per acre in 1965 and 4.1 tons in 1966. This compares favorably with the yield of 5.2 tons per acre in 1965 and 4.8 tons in 1966 from California bell-type pepper under the same conditions.

According to the bulletin authors, the large fruit size combined with pimento characteristics resistance to mosaic uniformity of ripening time and the acceptable yield make Pimento Belle suitable for canning use.

Copies of the bulletin "Pimento Belle Pepper" are available from the Mailing Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware 19711.

U. of D. Food Expert Talks Turkey

The world race against starvation concerns better food marketing as much as increased food production. Robert L. Bull, director of the Food Business Institute at the University of Delaware, recently spent five weeks in Turkey discussing the establishment of an efficient food distribution system to help fight the hunger pangs of the average Turkish family.

Bull traveled to Turkey with two marketing specialists. The team was selected by the Agency for International Development in the U.S. State Department to conduct seminars on food marketing and to advise individual agricultural and business leaders.

Turkish people mainly lack knowhow, Bull states. "They have an abundance of the finest fruits and vegetables at harvest time, but there is no efficient way to rush them to consumers in the cities. Two months later the produce is gone, and very little of it ever reached the average Turkish family."

"Our seminars and discussions began with the problem of the Turkish family," Bull states. The typical working-class family in Turkey must spend 60 percent of their income for the barest essentials of food. The other 40 percent of their income must go for basic clothing, transportation, school fees and medical bills.

"Nothing is left over, there's no way for the people to raise their living standards. Reducing food costs is the easiest and fastest way to create new consumer purchasing power which will help the Turkish economy grow," Bull points out.

During the tour, the marketing specialists and Turkish businessmen planned a new wholesale food distribution center and arranged financing. Packages and labels were re-designed, new pricing techniques were adapted, and a voluntary group of independent retailers formed.

Bull returned from his five-week assignment impressed with the intelligence and hospitality of the Turkish people. He describes their economic problems as complex. "Certainly the social system in some parts of Turkey contributes to the problem."

"For instance, in Eastern Turkey, agriculture is still primitive with low yields common. Traditionally the men do not work; women till the land with ancient tools, harvest the crops, raise the children, make all the clothing, prepare the food and maintain the house. Meanwhile the men drink tea, period!"

With Turkey's tremendous natural resources and magnificent climate, modern agriculture and marketing could rapidly raise living standards and encourage economic growth, Bull believes. He was well pleased with the result of his tour. "I firmly believe our team helped show the way to begin solving Turkey's food distribution problem."

Corn, Soybean Research Feature At Field Day

More than 300,000 acres of Delaware farmland are planted in corn and soybeans. Because they are so important to the economy of the state, corn and soybean research is stressed at the University of Delaware's Georgetown Substation.

Again this year the annual Farm and Home Field Day, Aug. 9, at the substation, will feature the results of such corn and soybean research. Approximately 3000 plots are devoted to soybeans alone.

New soybean varieties are being developed and tested, particularly for resistance to disease and drought. Greatest efforts are concentrated on developing varieties resistant to the nematode causing root rot and to fungi causing pod and stem blight, purple stain, root rot and downy mildew. One very promising variety shows resistance to disease and matures in 140-150 days. In addition, more than 300 lines are being tested for drought tolerance.

Weed control is essential for a high-yielding soybean or corn crop. Therefore, a number of research plots at the substation are set aside for tests of various herbicides and their persistence.

Is sub-irrigation practical for soybeans? University scientists are studying sub-irrigated soybeans again this year. They are also measuring the effectiveness of fertilizing with potassium through the sub-irrigation system as compared with other methods.

Corn yields averaged 173 bushels per acre with sub-irrigation and 73 bushels without it during the past two years. With sub-irrigation tests underway for the third year at the substation, the short range potential of sub-irrigation on coastal plain soils looks favorable. These plots will be on display during Field Day.

Field Day will have many highlights — educational exhibits, sick plant clinic, homemaker's program, nitrogen application demonstration and a chicken dinner—but, as always the main feature will be a review of the research projects underway and a first-hand report from the scientists about their work. Bus tours will begin at 10 a.m. for Field Day visitors.

More than 1000 farmers, and agricultural businessmen are expected to attend, according to J. Frank Gordy, director of the Georgetown Substation and chairman of Field Day.

USDA Protects Wheat Prices

Farmers who do not have storage for their wheat this year should discuss their situation with the committeemen or office manager of the ASCS county office, Paul B. Hastings, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Delaware Committee said today.

If the market price offered for wheat is below the local loan rate and growers participating in the wheat program have not been able to take out price-support loans because storage space for wheat is not available, farmers may immediately deliver their wheat crop for purchase by the ASCS county office. This eliminates the storage requirement.

The office will purchase the wheat from farmers at the local loan rate subject to premiums and discounts for quality minus normal storage charges to maturity date. The wheat delivered will be moved to available storage at other points and added to CCC stock.

This is an emergency purchase measure to assure price-support program protection to eligible farmers. It isn't considered preferable to the normal price-support loan in which farmers retain marketing control of their wheat.

Secretary Freeman has emphasized that the recent price drops are not warranted on the basis of the supply and prospective demand for wheat indicated for the marketing year. He has urged all wheat farmers to engage in sound and orderly marketing practices and not let their wheat go at a sacrifice price.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

What is a sandwich? According to Webster, a sandwich consists of "two or more slices of bread with other food, such as meat, cheese or a savory mixture spread between them." However, in popular usage, sandwiches include fillings spread on a slice of bread and served, open faced, and buns served with a filling.

Since bread is the most important part of a sandwich, let's take a look at today's loaf of bread. Bread has been a basic food for a very long time, as well as an economical energy-yielding food. When buying bread, be sure to read the label, for it tells the story. Never be fooled by a big bouncy loaf or a lot of slices, for bread is sold by weight, clearly marked on the label. Read it so you will know what you are paying for.

Don't squeeze the bread to see if it is fresh. Varieties of breads differ in firmness, even when freshly baked. There's seldom any need to squeeze the loaf, for many bakers indicate freshness by dating each loaf on an end seal.

Many people take it for granted that all bread is enriched, yet this is not so. About 30 states require enrichment. Most bakers in the remaining states now voluntarily buy flour that is enriched so their breads are just as nutritionally rich without adding extra cost or calories. Enrichment of flour, bread, macaroni, rice, corn meal, and other foods in simple terms means that valuable protein, minerals and B vitamins taken out of the wheat when it's milled into white flour are put back in. You can't taste or see these vitamins and minerals. They don't change the color or flavor of the food. Yet these ingredients in the enrichment formula have improved the health of America.

During these periods of high humidity and heat it is important to check the bread, rolls, etc., you choose before buying for signs of mold. If it is wrapped before it is cold the condensation can and often does start mold. It is also just as important to store your bread properly when you get it home and to check it often. Right now, store bread in the refrigerator if you are planning to keep it more than a day or so. Usually a ventilated box is sufficient. However, during this period of very high humidity more protection is needed.

4-H Club News

With Marion MacDonald

S. A. Halgren, vice president of the Carnation Company, and a director of National 4-H Service Committee, gets fan mail year round from 4-H girls who think he is the "greatest."

His fans are Carnation-sponsored delegates to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. They have won top awards in the national 4-H Dairy Pops program sponsored by the company for 20 years.

Mr. Halgren has personally welcomed hundreds of teenagers to the Congress. He said that for five or six years after the trip winners return home, he receives letters of appreciation for the encouragement and generosity extended them. Besides providing the all-expense educational Congress trips, Carnation gives annual scholarships.

"I always feel a renewed confidence in the future of our country with such outstanding youngsters growing into adulthood," Halgren observed. "I have a real sense of pride and satisfaction in having contributed in a small way to the development of these fine young Americans."

The dairy foods program teaches the value of dairy products in the daily diet and how to make and serve appetizing dairy dishes. It encourages the scientific study of milk, and gives pointers on how to demonstrate making favorite recipes.

The Cooperative Extension Service means the county, state and national award winners. From across the nation, 18 girls will get the good news that they have won an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Club Congress held in November. These 18 sectional contestants will compete for six national $500 scholarships.

The state winner will receive a wrist watch, appropriately engraved. An estimated 3,700 girls from coast to coast will merit gold-filled county dairy food medals.

Q—I converted my "V" NSLI term policy to the Modified Life plan in July 11965. I received dividends each year on the term policy but failed to receive a dividend payment this year on the modified life policy. Why?

A—The modified life policy with a V prefixed number is a participating policy, however, no dividends have been declared and it is expected that any dividends in the future will be small.

Q—If my death compensation benefits as a dependent parent are discontinued on account of the amount of my savings account is it possible to obtain re-estatement of benefit's at a future date?
A—Yes. If the value of your estate or amount of living expenses or income is substantially changed at any time in the future, you may apply to the VA for reconsideration of your claim.

Q—The Veterans Administration denied my claim for disability pension a few years ago. Now I am more disabled and am getting worse. How do I get VA to reconsider my claim?
A—Get a statement from your doctor as to the nature and severity of your disability and take or send it to the VA regional office that studied your first claim. That office will give you further instruction.

WHO WILL BELL THE CAT?

We favor, and predict, the General Assembly will give Gov. Terry the four pieces of legislation he so justly deserves to combat civil disorder which is nothing more than anarchy.

But there was also an announcement the Governor would appoint a committee to look for job opportunities for "those who are downtrodden or underprivileged."

There is a pronounced labor shortage in Delaware. What if "the downtrodden and underprivileged" refuse to work but prefer to stay on welfare? What then?

One might hasten to defend certain welfare recipients, not all of them by any means, by saying they have no trade. Look in the classified advertisement sections of the Wilmington newspapers and see how many columns of advertisements seek employes in all categories, unskilled as well as skilled. Now, see how many "Situations Wanted" advertisements one will find in the entire newspaper: two or three, no more.

The truth is many persons will not work as long as they can get welfare. They will not try to learn a trade as long as they are on welfare. There are opportunities in graphic arts which includes printing.

There is a vocational school at Woodside which can adults at night. The printing department is closed because teach graphic arts: high-school students in the daytime; there are not enough applicants, old or young. When it was operating, those instructed had no difficulty finding jobs.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

(Thursday morning as usual, with everything ready to go) in comes an article which we appreciate, so much that we try to get it in. However, Tuesday would be a much better time because sometime we have to throw away other type in order to get this particular article in. It is better late than never, even to one's own six-by-six.

Last Saturday evening at 7 p. m. the peaceful surroundings at Paradise Pastures were suddenly turned into a holocaust when a northbound auto cut across the medial strip, carshing headon into a southbound car and bursting into flames causing two deaths and two serious injuries.

All of this happening at the peak of shore travel and only a couple of hours after another fatal crash one mile north of Bridgeville, kept highway police, wrecking crews, ambulance and fire companies going in all directions and recalled to the writer some of the activities common to the Pennsylvania Turnpike which operated its first couple of years without a speed limit.

Living at Harrisburg (east end of the turnpike) at the time, gave us an opportunity to evaluate the merits of controlled versus uncontrolled speeds.

It also prompted my practical minded neighbor Marty Foster, who refrained from owning a car for safety reasons, to pen the following:

THE TURNPIKE

'Tis a long unbroken ribbon
Reaching miles across the State,
No crossroads to deter your pace,
No signs your speed to rate.

Over hills and under tunnels,
Like a mighty serpent spread;
White lights and concrete's all you see,
And blue sky overhead.

You push it up to sixty,
Maybe eighty for a thrill;
Then along comes some speed demon,
And you think you're standing still.

And so the race goes onward
And the miles you leave behind,
'Til you reach the final toll-gate,
Thanking God you have your mind.

I prefer the days back yonder
With old "Dobbin" and the Shay",
When you drove along more slowly,
But alive at close of day.

 Herrman Cabbage Brown is not legally a member of the Board of Education of Harrington Special School District, and the term of his predecessor, Ellwood B. Gruwell, will continue until July 1, 1953. The move was made when it was discovered Gruwell, elected in 1945 for a four-year term, was not supposed to be a candidate in 1950. Since he did not resign, he automatically began a four-year term in 1949 when no one filed for the office. Consequently, there was only one vacant post in the election of May, 1950, and this went to Hayward Quillen since he received the highest number of votes, 312.
 Governor Carvel made two appearances here Governor's Day, asking for sacrifice at home to watch the performance of our troops in Korea, and for an immediate response to the Red Cross request for funds to aid flood victims in the Middle West.

St. Stephen's Episcopal Church Notes

Calendar of the week of Aug. 4 to Aug. 10 Sunday, 9:30 a.m. Church school for pre-school children; 9:30 a.m. holy communion and sermon, combined with healing service; 10:45 a.m. coffee hour. Monday 10 a.m. Interdenominational prayer group; 7 p.m. meeting of canteen executive committee with four regional representatives and with the vestry team. Tuesday, 12:30 p.m. Prayers for peace; 6:30 p.m. Boy Scout Troop No. 79 meeting; 8 p.m.-11:30 p.m. EYC canteen. Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., Healing service in lounge; 8:30 p.m. meeting of church school teachers. Thursday, 7:30 p.m. Kent County Community Action meeting in Dover. It will be a pleasure for the vicar and his family to return this coming Monday from Camp Arrowhead where Mr. Rice has been chaplain. It will be remembered that earlier in the summer the vicar's family enjoyed two weeks of vacation. The Bishop of Delaware has urged that the congregation realize that two weeks as chaplain at a summer camp cannot in anyway be regarded as rest or vacation. It is work. Therefore, at some time later the vicar will probably take his other two weeks of vacation. Plans are indefinite at this time. Mr. Rice wishes to thank everyone who has helped to carry on during his absence and to ask the continued cooperation of all in the congregation to continue to do at least try in the very best way to carry on God's work in this part of his world. As life grows more complicated in this twentieth century, the work of the church must extend more and more out in the community, state, nation and world. Our Christianity is effective only as it extends beyond the walls of the church. It is with this purpose in mind that such things as the canteen dances, community action agency, and others are carried on. Surely everything that we can do for the betterment of mankind in our corner of the world is "applied Christianity."

High School Seniors Plan Ahead Now

Although it is presently only midsummer, for many students their senior year of high school is fast approaching. College plans have already been established by some of these students, but many others remain undecided about their pursuits upon graduation. College plans should begin early, and no male high school senior should overlook consideration of one of the Navy's finest college training officers candidate programs—the regular naval reserve officers training corps (NROTC)—in deciding upon his college plans. The regular NROTC is a program designed to train career officers for the Navy and Marine corps. The program includes payment by the Navy of tuition, educational fees, textbooks, uniforms, and provides a $50 monthly subsistence allowance to its members for four years. Selected candidates are enlisted in the U.S. Naval Reserve and are appointed midshipman upon enrollment in college. The college majors which a candidate may undertake are many, and only a few non-technical professional majors are prohibited. During the summers between college years, midshipmen participate in at-sea training periods which provide practical experience in naval operations and from which they receive many varied and rewarding experiences. Upon graduation midshipmen may be commissioned as ensigns in the U.S. Navy, or as second lieutenants in the U.S. Marine Corps. Investigate this program now by requesting a 1968 regular NROTC bulletin of information from Chief Sanders, Navy Recruiter, Keith building, Dover, or from the chief of naval personnel, Pers-B6411, Department of the Navy, Washington, D.C. 20370. Chief Sanders phone number is 734-7319.

Harrington Loses 4-0 In Little League Tourney

After downing Milford 4-0 in Little League tournament play, Harrington bowed to Dover by the same score, Saturday afternoon at Dover.

Pitching dominated the tight struggle, as Dover's Jack Stant and Harrington's Olin "Mike" Davis hooked up in a mound duel. Stant's superior control was the difference, as he didn't issue a walk. Davis walked six, hit two and saw three of his tosses get by his catcher.

Stant hit one batter, fanned eight, and gave up four hits. Davis yielded six hits but whipped eleven batters, including the side in the first inning.

Dover's Naftzinger walked to start the second frame and stole second base. Stant fanned. Bok singled to center but a good throw by John Shultie kept the runner at third. Cufe kept the first of his three straight strikeouts with two away. Esham singled to right, scoring two runs.

Stant gave up singles to Larry Stubbs and Mike Trotta in Harrington's half of the same frame but recorded three strikeouts to get out of trouble.

Johnson of Dover doubled to right field in the third inning. With two away Stant hit one over the right field fence to complete the scoring.

Stant fanned the side in Harrington's third inning just as he had done in the second stanza.

Frank "Skipper" O'Neal, in a pinch-hitting role singled to center with two out in Harrington's fifth. Speedy Tommy Clarke ran for him, stole second base but was tagged out after over-running the bag.

Gary Harrington singled to start the locals' last chance. One out later, Stant hit Davis to put two men on. Stant ended the contest on a ground ball force play and a strikeout.

Despite the defeat, Harrington's finest were not disgraced and impressed their conquerors. This has to be one of the most well-balanced all-star squads to be fielded here.

Ocean Downs Raceway News

Ocean Downs Raceway presents its rich Del-Mar-Va stakes for 2-and 3-year-olds at both gaits this week.

Purses for the four stakes events will run to about $16,000, depending on how many are declared in to start, and many of the faster colts in the East will be participating.

Seven 2-year-old trotters will go in the third race Wednesday for a purse of $3,600. The headliners are the Mad Rush Stable's Blythe Henriette and Johnny U. Each of these baby trotters won dashes last week at the Delaware State Fair, Harrington.

Blythe Henriette will be driven by Sanders Russell, who drove A. C.'s Viking to victory in the 1962 Hambletonian stake. Bill Fleming, one-time driver of Billy Direct, pacer that held the world record for pacers until Adios Butler came along, will be up behind the Sea Horse Stud's Johnny U. The colt was named for Johnny Unitas, famous Colts' quarterback, and he has won over $4,200 this year.

Bobby Cherrix, one of the nations top drivers, will drive Dillard Diamond in the 2-year-old event and Dillard in Wednesday's 3-year-old trot.

Four 3-year-olds were named to start and the race will be contested at 8 p.m. as a nonwagering event. The purse is $1,732.

The pacers go into action Friday and Saturday nights.

The 3-year-olds go Friday for an estimated purse of $3,200.

The Del-Mar-Va drew entries for Parson Hanover, Paul T. Ace, Oregon's Plyboy, Joey Que and others. Parson Hanover has a mark made this year of 2:01.4 at Saratoga Raceway. He is owned by Guy Lockerman, Middletown, Del.

The J. M. Davis Estate's Paul T. Ace, a 2:04.4 winner at Brandywine Raceway, will be driven by Olin Davis.

Bonneville and Duncan's Oregon's Plyboy, a winner at the Delaware State Fair last week, is a highly regarded starter and will be driven by the noted Austin Thomas, Temperanceville, Va.

Joey Que, owned by Charles and Frances Quimby, Chestertown, has two wins this year, the fastest winning mile being 2:05.3, and will be piloted by Pat Hubbard.

Race secretary Jerry Monahan expects about 16 2-year-old pacers will be named for Saturday. If 13 or more are declared in, the event will be split into two divisions, each division going one dash. The total purse will run over $6,000.

Monahan already has entries on Miracle Maker, winner of both dashes of the Cloverleaf Stakes at the Delaware State Fair, Miracle Maker will be driven by Bobby Cherrix for owner Harry W. Kelly, Ocean City.

Already entered is Chief Butler, a son of the noted Adios Butler who winter-trained here for three seasons. Chief Butler is owned by Ferner Perry, Suffolk, Va., and he will be driven by Jimmie Arthur, who won with the colt in 2:02.1 a few weeks ago.

Racing at Ocean Downs will continue through September 2.

history with 32,000 persons going through the gates that day.

There were overflow crowds at the demolition derby on opening night and the auto thrill show.

Although crowds were expected for the Four Seasons on Friday and the Young Rascals Saturday, attendance was hampered by rain.

"But it's surprising how many did come, in spite of this kind of weather," Simpson said. "We counted 13,834 persons through the gates Saturday."

struction of the plant. When Dennis Mitchell went out of business, the state held the responsibility for paying off the bonds.

The sale follows a series of negotiations in which the commission thought it had at least two buyers.

The first, Philco-Ford Corp., a subsidiary of Ford Motor Co., dropped out of the bidding when it said the plant did not fit its development plans.

Terry said today that National fall announced that Mohawk Rubber Co. would buy the plant. That sale fell through.

The trouble over the plant brought legislative disapproval on the commission and the threat from both sides of the political aisle of an investigation. No probe has been started, however.

Terry came to the defense of the commission in February, charging criticism was hindering its efforts to find a company for the plant.

Terry said today that National Cash will employ 1,500 persons in Delaware.

"An important factor in the selection of the Millsboro site by National Cash Register Co. was the Delaware Technical and Community College opening in September," he said.

The college, located at Georgetown, will train high school graduates for technical jobs.

National Cash had a net worth at the end of 1966 of $291 million. It is the largest manufacturer of cash registers in the world and one of the leading manufacturers of electro-mechanical and electronic accounting machines.

The company is also working on electronic data processing for commercial application.

It was not immediately known what the company will do there.

Q—I wish to apply for training under the new G.I. Bill. Do I have to wait until I am ready to start to apply to the Veterans Administration?

A—No. The earlier you can apply and give us the name of the school and course the better the VA can serve you by having your approval granted well before you start. This will hasten receipt of the first training allowance check also.

Q—My father was a World War II veteran who died as the result of a non-service connected disability. He had no service-connected disability. I am 19 years of age and am attending college. Am I eligible for War Orphans' educational benefits?

A—No, but you may be eligible for death pension until age 23.

Q—I am receiving military retired pay for disability. I would be entitled to receive disability compensation from the VA if I waived my retired pay. I do not desire to authorize such a waiver. I would like to pursue a program of education as a disabled veteran through the VA. Am I eligible?

A—You certainly may be eligible. It is not necessary that you waive your retired pay to qualify for VA vocational rehabilitation. We would recommend that you make application to VA.
