

Harness Meet Here Opens Monday For Longest Meet

All systems are go for Monday's opening of Harrington Raceway. Trotters and pacers usher in 60 nights of pari-mutuel harness racing activity on that day, longest meet in the track's two-decade history.

Change is the keynote at Harrington this season. Heading the list of innovations to be unveiled is a spanking new track bed surface, constructed to accommodate eight horses abreast and bring the track into line with regulations established by the United States Trotting Association. The project was completed by Edgell Construction Co., Inc. of Dover at a cost of more than $190,000.

"We believe our racing strip to be one of the best in the country," claims General Manager George C. Simpson. "There wasn't a night during the recent rainy spell that we couldn't have run. We've had horses working out on it every day with nary a complaint."

William W. (Pete) Shaw, Harrington's director of racing, is equally optimistic.

"We feel our track is as fast, if not faster, than Brandywine's," he told a gathering of press officials. "If we could attract the same calibre of horses, the times would be just as good."

A new infield drainage pond and a bright yellow-covered backstretch fence add finishing touches to the track refurbishing.

Christmas Program Plans Under Way

The community's annual Christmas program, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, got under way Wednesday night at a meeting of the Christmas Committee at the Fire House.

Chaired by David Jones, it was pretty well decided what the program would call for, some duties were assigned, but details are still to be worked out.

While it is too early to decide definitely, the Harrington Jaycees has shown an interest in sponsoring the annual Christmas Parade and would schedule it for the usual time, the Saturday after Thanksgiving.

A problem to be solved is ascertaining a permanent location for the Christmas tree.

Also attending the meeting were William J. Wood, president of the Jaycees, Jackie Wyatt, of the Jaycees, Walter Lang, Carrington H. Burgess, Chamber of Commerce president; Joseph Madenspacher, chairman of the Christmas program last year; Samuel A. Short, Jr., chairman of the Retail Merchants Committee of the senior chamber.

The group will meet at the Fire House Wed., Sept. 13, when it is hoped officials of civic organizations, who will be invited, will attend.

Firemen Answer Two Alarms

Local firemen had little activity this week, answering but two alarms.

The firemen extinguished a fire in a bedroom early Wednesday evening at the residence of Mrs. Ruth Griffith, Delaware Avenue.

Harrington firemen assisted those of Farmington Sunday when a New York car was burnt near Salmons Furniture Store on U.S. 13 south of Harrington.

City Doesn't Want Rainwater In Sanitary Sewer System

Property owners who have devices which permit rainwater to enter the City's sanitary-sewer system can be fined if the violation is not remedied.

A legal notice, published elsewhere in this newspaper, states "ordinances of the City of Harrington forbid the connection of rainwater downspouts, tile drains, french drains, yard drains, floor drains, or any other fixture which will allow water other than that from the town's domestic water system to enter the sanitary sewer system."

"A large number of illegal connections now make it impossible for the city sanitary sewer system to handle peak flows during and immediately following peri-

Closed circuit television will be introduced for the first time. Eleven monitors will be strategically located in the track restaurant, mezzanine betting areas and under-grandstand sections.

Horses continue to arrive on the Harrington grounds daily. Shaw revealed that nearly 600 stall applications already have been allocated and that nearly 700 horses are expected to have checked in by opening night.

Weekend closings at Brandywine and Ocean City are expected to swell the total.

Another new Harrington feature this season will be exacta wagering, to be offered nightly on the sixth and ninth races. Bettors will be required to accurately select the one-two finish.

Daily double wagering will continue in effect on the first and second programs each night, with the wagering windows closing at 7:50.

Post time is again scheduled for 8 o'clock.

No Students To Be Registered First Day of School

No students will be registered in the Harrington Special School District Wednesday morning, the first day of school.

Children may be registered Wednesday afternoon until 3:30 p.m. or Thursday morning.

Laurel Ok's Dump Contract

Laurel Town Council has approved a contract for a new dump.

The council last week voted to transfer garbage operations Sept. 1 from the present burning dump to a sanitary landfill three miles north of Laurel between U. S. 13 and 13A.

It will be available to all residents within the Laurel Special School District, councilmen decided.

Laurel will share it with Seaford, which also has contracted to dump its district's garbage there.

According to agreement with the owners, George and Isaac Truitt, the one-year negotiable contract is for $200 a month.

Donald T. Anderson, Sr.

Funeral services for Donald T. Anderson Sr., victim of a traffic accident Thursday were held last Sunday at the Berry Funeral Home, Milford.

Police said his body was found in his submerged car in a branch of the Mispillion River early Thursday. Medical officials ruled the death a drowning, but police counted it a traffic fatality.

Officers said there were no witnesses, that the car apparently ran off a curve and struck the water bridge.

Mr. Anderson is survived by his widow, Mrs. Virginia M. Anderson of Milford; two sons, Donald Jr., 3, and Daniel 14 months; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Anderson of Lincoln; three brothers, John B., Edward and Richard, all of Lincoln, and seven sisters, Mrs. Theodore Booz, of Milford, Mrs. Joyce Ann McDaniel and Mrs. Frank Whisnant, both of Marian, N.C., Mrs. Rita Drake, of Milford, Mrs. Mary Rothemel, of Harrington, Miss Juanita Anderson of Milford, and Miss Charlene Anderson of Lincoln.

Susan Fair To Attend Wesley College

Susan McLain Fair has been accepted as a member of the freshman class at Wesley College, Dover, for September, according to an announcement by Joseph R. Slight, Jr., Director of Admission.

Susan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McLain Fair of Harrington.

The new freshman class at Wesley, numbering 480 in all, will report to the college for freshman orientation on Wednesday, Sept. 8.

Students returning to Wesley for their sophomore year are: Lydia Victoria Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Hill of Harrington; and Martha Jean Tribbett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Procko of Felton.

Milford's 180th Anniversary Party

Delawareans and visitors will have a once-in-five-years opportunity on Sept. 16 and 17 to discover the many small wonders of Wonderful Delaware at Milford. On those two days the historic community will be celebrating its 180th anniversary.

Milford was founded in 1787 when the Rev. Sydenham Thorne built a mill dam across the Mispillion River. The town became an important milling center, and since it was at the head of navigation on the Mispillion, a leading shipping port until the advent of the railroad. Until late in the 19th century, shipbuilding was an important industry, with at least six or seven vessels built each year. Milford has been the home of five governors of Delaware, and a sixth is buried there.

"Old Milford Days" is a chance to see the history of the town at first hand, as many of the old homes and public buildings will be opened for the occasion. Perhaps the most interesting is the Parson Thorne Mansion, now under the care of the Milford Historical Society. This house was the home of Milford's founder, and sits on a hill overlooking the vestiges of the original dam. The oldest wing of the house was built between 1730 and 1735. Restoration work by the Milford Historical Society has made the house a very attractive and interesting place to visit.

The Towers, now an art gallery for the works of Delaware artists and craftsmen, was originally built in 1783. It was once the home of John Lofland, "the Milford Bard" a poet who was a contemporary and rival of Edgar Allan Poe. In 1891 the house was remodeled, and is now an outstanding example of the "Steamboat Gothic" style of Victorian architecture.

Christ Church (Episcopal) was built in 1791 under Parson Thorne's leadership, but has since been remodeled.

Near Milford, overlooking McCauley's Pond, is a charming country home, Mordington, built around 1777. This is a fine example of Delaware Georgian architecture.

These are only a sample of the homes and buildings that will be open for Milford's birthday party. Other entertainment is planned as well.

Things will begin on Friday evening, Sept. 15, with the showing of old Milford movies, most of them taken between 1932 and 1939, at Christ Church parish house. This will be particularly entertaining for the many former Milford residents who are planning to return for the celebration.

On Saturday, Sept. 16, there will be an antique car parade at 10:30 a.m. The historic houses will be open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., with costumed hostesses on hand to point out details of particular interest. Luncheon on Saturday will be served by the ladies of Avenue Methodist Church.

On Sunday the homes will be open from 1 to 5 p.m., and there will be a special crafts exhibit and demonstration, including quilting, china painting and crewel work, at the Milford New Century Clubhouse. Tea will be served at the clubhouse.

Tour tickets admitting to all the open houses and buildings can be bought at Milford City Hall and at Mordington.

All proceeds from the tours will be used by the Milford Historical Society to continue the restoration of the Parson Thorne Mansion and other landmarks.

The Historical Society plans to hold similar observances of "Old Milford Days" on five-year anniversaries in the future, which makes September 16 and 17, 1967, important days for discovering wonders of Wonderful Delaware.

GEORGE C. PRICE TRADES DUST CLOTH FOR WRIST WATCH UPON RETIREMENT—George's congenial smile and friendly morning greeting will be missed by his fellow employees and patrons of the Harrington Post Office upon his retirement after 30-years' service.

He began his postal career as custodian Aug. 20, 1937, upon official opening of the present Post Office Building. Postmaster Howard W. Dill is shown presenting him with the Post Office Department Honorary Recognition Certificate, for 30-years' faithful and dedicated service, issued by Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien, and a gold wrist watch, appropriately engraved, from his fellow employees. Jarvis Hurd, maintenance man at Harrington School, has replaced Price. — Price photo

Georgetown Eyes Sewer And Water System Extension

Sewer and water systems extensions and revamping of the existing sewage treatment plant were the principal subjects of discussion at last week's Georgetown Council meeting.

Charles Fridy, representative of Fridy, Gauker and Friday, Philadelphia, engineering firm, hired by the town to make a survey of the two systems and the plant, told the councilmen that the report had also been shown to the State Health Department and the Water and Air Resources Commission.

It will not be practical to extend the present sewer line in the central and southeast parts of the town because of the elevation of the land in those areas. Fridy told the council. If it is extended, at least two more pumping stations will have to be added, he said.

The best type of pumping station to get would be an underground one, he said. Furthermore, he said, the cost of between $8,000 and $12,000 is considerably less than aboveground concrete stations.

The existing water lines should not only be extended, said Fridy, but also interconnected and strengthened in several areas to allow for better flow.

Del. Safety Council Warns Traffic On Labor Day

At 6 p.m. Friday, Sept. 1, streets and highways will start to fill as nearly every automobile in the nation takes to the road.

"Traffic will be much heavier than normal during the 78 hours of the Labor Day weekend," according to J. James Ashton, manager of the Delaware Safety Council.

"During this time many families are returning from their summer vacations," he said. "Others take advantage of the long weekend to try to crowd long trips into the three days. Still more will take shorter trips to favorite beaches, swimming and boating areas, camp grounds and picnic sites."

Mr. Ashton emphasized that the increased traffic requires all motorists to be more cautious and to drive defensively, thoughtfully and courteously.

CITY CONTINUES STUDY ON DRAINAGE PROBLEM

The City Council Monday night voted to ask authorities on drainage to attend its meeting of Mon., Sept. 11, to help the community solve its flooding problem.

The officials are Pete Talbert, state drainage engineer, and Fred Mott, of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

Some nine inches of rain here Aug. 3 and 4, with frequent rainfall since has flooded the community and highlighted the need for drainage.

The September meeting was suggested by Dudley Willis, of Edward H. Richardson Associates, the City's consulting engineers.

Willis pointed out improvements, which could be made to alleviate flooding, and these suggestions will be brought up at the meeting next month. These were as follows:

1. The Marshy Hope Drainage Project opened bids Monday on 4.8 miles of ditching. Willis thought the project might be designed to help waters on West Street to go to Marshy Hope instead of a prong of Brown's Branch. Lower stretches of the School To Open Wednesday With Complete Faculty

The 1967-68 school year will find the Harrington Special School District starting with a full faculty of qualified teachers. Only six new teachers were needed to replace those who had resigned or to take care of increased growth.

New members of the faculty are Thomas Muehleisen, a graduate of Millersville State College, Millersville, Pa., who will teach science in place of his brother, William Muehleisen, who has taken over as director of guidance; Mrs. Sandra Parker, a graduate of the University of Delaware, who will teach a section of the first grade; Mrs. Dorothy Gibson, a graduate of Delaware State College, with several years experience in the Seaford District, will teach a section of the fourth grade; Ronald Gummenny, a graduate of The Pennsylvania State University of University Park, Pa., who will replace J. D. Fitch, Jr. in the field of social studies; Michael Inasmuch as he has not yet been drafted; Gary Rogers, a graduate of Glenville State College, Glenville, W. Va., who will teach driver's education in the Harrington and Greenwood Districts.

The district is also welcoming the return of Mrs. Sandra Phillips as librarian who was absent on maternity leave, and Mrs. Marie Giltenboth, the elementary music teacher, who sustained an injury early last year and was forced to remain out of school for the balance of the year.

Members of the faculty of the district will report for a general meeting at 10 a. m., Tues., Sept. 5. This general meeting will be followed by departmental meetings during which the teachers will prepare for the opening of school. School will open for all boys and girls on Wed., Sept. 6, at 8:30 a.m. Dismissal on this first day will be at 12:30 p.m. On this first day the cafeteria will not be open. Regular full day sessions will start Thurs., Sept. 7. Cafeteria operations in the district will begin operation on Thursday. The school day will be from 8:30 a.m. until 3:14 p.m.

Buses are supposed to arrive at the school between 8:20 and 8:30 a.m. They will depart from the school nine minutes after the final bell at 3:14 p.m.

PLANNING COMMISSION TO MEET

The City Planning Commission will meet at 7:30 p.m., Thurs., Sept. 7 in the City Hall.

Bids to Be Let For Improvements on Pumping Station

Possibly the first tangible step in improving Harrington's sanitary sewer system, supported by a referendum for a bond issue recently, was the decision of the City Council to advertise for bids to improve the Liberty Street pumping station.

Monday night, the Council motioned to seek bids to build a concrete pit, adjoining and south of the present pit. The new pit would house the pumps. Renovation of pumps and pipe work will be under another contract.

Also pertaining to the sanitary sewer system, the Council motioned to pay off sewer bonds, authorized in the referendum, in 25 years. Payments would be $15,000 annually for 24 years, and $20,000 for the final year. Bonds would be for $5000 each.

The next move, said Grover C. Brown, city solicitor, would be to send a resolution to bond attorneys, and then issue a prospectus for the sale of bonds.

Construction bids are to be sought in the winter, with work scheduled to start in the spring and be completed in 1969. The main part of the improvements call for a new sewage disposal plant.

In other business, the Council acted as follows: Refused to make a bid on three houses on Railroad Avenue, immediately south of Liberty Street. Purchase of the structures would enable the straightening of Railroad Avenue but this would also entail purchase of part of the former Holland property.

Suggested Councilman John Satterfield, Fifth Ward, ask present tenant of former Holland property to remove corner bush obstructing view of traffic. Suggested Councilman Grace Wanda Quillen, Fourth Ward, ask tenant to remove bush, for the same reason, at Railroad Avenue and Center Street.

Authorized advertisement of ordinance banning tap-ins of conductors of storm water to the sanitary sewer system.

First Graders Need TLC

Getting a first grader ready for school is more than buying a new wardrobe and a box of pencils. The first year in school is more than buying a new wardrobe and a box of pencils. The first year in school means new children, new adults, new places, new things to do, new rules and new rewards.

As a parent, it's your job to help your youngster get ready for school, according to Mrs. Betty Keller extension home economics agent for New Castle County. Your first grader will probably be having his first experience of independence from his family and you can help by letting him know what to expect. A happy child will do his best at whatever job is put in front of him.

Fod plays a part; a well-fed child grows strong, has lots of energy and feels well cared for. A good school day starts with good breakfast, including foods such as fruit juices, bacon, cereals, milk or hot chocolate.

It is important enough for your six-year-old to get enough sleep. Most first graders need ten to twelve hours of sleep every night to do well in school the next day.

Be sure he knows how to dress himself, tie his shoes and go to the bathroom alone. If he knows how to put on his own boots, the teacher will give a heartfelt sign of gratitude on the first rainy day.

If your child will walk to school, be sure he knows the shortest and safest route. Does he know how to cross streets—looking both ways and crossing only at corners, never between parked cars?

One of the most important aspects of first grade is learning to get along with his classmates; your youngster should already

Patty Cannon House Put Up For Sale

The famous and historic Patty Cannon house at Reliance, Md., is being put up for public sale Sat., Sept. 16, at 11 a.m. Announcement has been made by Attorney's Porter, Cullen and Clark of Salisbury, in behalf of the ancillary administrators of the estate of A. Hill Smith, who with his family resided in the house for 70 years and who passed away May 23, 1967.

The ancillary administrators are children of A. Hill Smith, who are Harold H. Smith of Aberdeen, Md., and Clara Grace Smith of Seaford. A third child is the Rev. William Smith, pastor of the North Broadway Methodist Church of Columbus, O. A. Hill Smith was aged 84 when he passed away in the Methodist Manor House in Seaford.

4-Lane Hiway From New York To Bay Bridge

Construction is now underway on the final ten-mile phase of dual four-lane highway for U. S. 13 on the Virginia Eastern Shore. This new divided highway will give the Ocean Hiway main route a fast and scenic highway of four or more lanes all the way from New York City to the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel. More than 320 miles are covered in this multi-lane section that spans portions of five different states.

The new ten-mile dual U. S. 13 project extends from north of Exmore, Va., to the end of the Completed bypass of Onley, Tasley and Accomac.

Each month, new four-lane projects and other improvements are being opened to motorists along the 998-mile Ocean Hiway that follows the Coast from New York to Florida. As new construction programs proceed at a rapid pace, the highway re-partments are taking special efforts to maintain a smooth and uninterrupted flow of traffic on the existing roads.

Brittinghams Think Fast At Fire

Quick thinking on the part of a Vernon resident, was credited with the saving of a house in a fire early yesterday morning.

When a fire, attributed to faulty wiring, started, Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Brittingham fought the blaze with a garden hose, putting it through a hole in a window and keeping the doors closed.

Harrington firemen reached the scene at 12:15 a. m., and remained an hour. They had the fire contained, said one fireman, when we arrived. Had they opened he doors to get rid of the smoke . . .

Loss on building was estimated at $1000, and on contents, $500.

School Board Places Ban on Beards, and Miniskirts

The Smyrna School Board last week banned "unshaven faces," for boys and miniskirts for girls as it adopted a high school dress code.

District Supt. Charles V. Williams said there had been no formal code there and high school officials had requested one to back up their positions on dress and neatness.

Board member George D. Wright opposed the code, saying neither students nor parents would accept many of the provisions. It carried, however, by a 3-1 vote.

For boys, the code bans dungarees and soiled trousers, T-shirts, sweatshirts, motorcycle boots, long hair and unshaven faces.

Items prohibited for girls are V-neck sweaters, without blouses, bermuda shorts, kilts, slacks, miniskirts, ornate jewelry, excessive makeup and dirty footwear.

Williams told the board that fallout shelter protection would not be included in the proposed $4-million Smyrna High School.

Under a State Board of Public Instruction resolution, all schools built in the 1968 fiscal year must include the protection at their own expense, which in some cases costs as much as an additional $5 a square foot.

According to Williams, however, the school was bonded under the 1967 rather than the 1968 fiscal year and thus can escape the state board resolution.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

Get set for September with new ideas for breakfast for the back-to-schoolers. A good way to help these folks out of bed and to the table is the wonderful aroma of meat cooking. Many a breakfast skipper has been coaxed into the good habit of a hearty breakfast to start the day. There's such a variety of delicious foods to choose from—ham, bacon, cubbed steak, hamburger, dried beef, corned beef hash you can go on and on. True, some of these meats have very expensive price tags, but in many instances a little can go a long way. Since September is Better Breakfast Month, do try to start the new school year right by seeing that breakfast is a regular meal that the whole family will eat.

During the month of September a colorful array of fresh vegetables will be abundant, with cabbage, sweet corn, cucumbers, carrots, green peppers and potatoes being the better buys.

Other foods on the plentiful list issued by the U.S.D.A. are such holdovers as turkey, orange juice, peanuts, and peanut products. All of these are in excellent supply and prices should be quite reasonable.

As far as this week's shopping is concerned, many picnic items are featured for the last big weekend of the summer season, Labor Day. Ham is an excellent buy and certainly a handy meat to have on hand—once it's cooked it is easy to serve in a wide variety of interesting ways. Don't overlook frankfurters and hamburgers; both are being featured in a number of stores. Also have some cold cuts on hand for quick sandwiches.

Home-grown tomatoes are down in price, and quality has greatly improved. Do enjoy this delicious vegetable now since the season is not a long one this year, and it will end all too soon for many of us. Cabbage, squash, zucchini, sweet corn, peppers and potatoes are all reasonable now. Lettuce and celery supplies are increasing and quality improving.

California is now sending in a peak production of excellent quality cantaloupes and more honeydew melons are appearing. Both fruits are priced to sell. Bartlett pears have increased considerably in supply this week and prices are down. Peaches and nectarines are in only moderate supply and bananas are taking a

NAVY AND YOU

In the early stages of the Civil War President Lincoln realized that to completely defeat the Confederacy their supply lines with Europe must be severed. A total blockade of the South was not achieved until 1864, when the North seized the ports of New Orleans and Port Royal. The capture of Mobile Bay by the "Yankees" marked the end of the Confederate Navy and erased any chance of their getting supplies from European Countries. The South, without ports and virtually no warships, was soon forced to surrender.

Your Child's Health

The fundamentals of child health are simple—diet, rest, exercise, immunization against communicable diseases, and regular trips to the doctor and the dentist for checkups.

Nutrition is esdom a problem if meals are planned to include something from each of the four basic food groups — milk and dairy products; meats, including eggs and poultry; vegetables and fruits, bread and cereals. Many children are inclined to be choosy about foods, to establish violent prejudices aganst certain basic edibles. As long as something from each of the four groups is consumed, the food prejudices usually aren't serious and often are forgotten as the child grows older.

The growing child burns up much more energy than most adults and regular rest is important to allow the body to recoup. The battle over nap time that coes on every afternoon in hundreds of homes usually is unnecessary. Insist on a period of rest for small children. They will sleep if they need it. Early bedtime at night, despite the attractions of television, also is important to good health.

Exercise usually isn't a problem for the active small child. He gets plenty of it. If a child as he grows older tends to become sedentary and avoid physical sports and games, this also isn't too serious. Parents can often encourage participation by making a game of physical activity, by playing catch or going swimming with the child. No amount of parental urging can alter the fact that some boys and girls are good athletes while others aren't.

Immunization against disease probably will be handled routinely by the family physician, but the parent should make sure that none of the important shots are overlooked, smallpox, whooping cough, diptheria, tetanus, polio. See your physician for guidance on the proper age for the shots. Don't put them off.

A physical exam by your doctor and your dentist in the fall and again in he spring is highly important to your child's health. Ask he doctor to check sight on each visit. Ask the dentist to clean the teeth and fill the small cavities. Make a habit of the regular check-up and many potentially serious problems can be corrected early.

Veneral Disease

The initials V.D. stand for veneral disease. The word veneral comes to us from the Latin goddess Venus, who was the goddess of beauty and who protected gardens, and who also was the goddess of love. Veneral diseases are those diseases which are contracted from someone else during sexual intercourse. They have nothing whatsoever to do with gardening.

Several diseases are classified as veneral diseases, but two are of prime importance because of their relatively common occurrence. These two diseases are syphilis and gonorrhea.

All veneral disease is infectious and there are very few exceptions to the rule that veneral disease is always contracted from another individual who is already suffering from a veneral disease. It is highly doubtful whether anyone has ever contracted gonorrhea or syphilis from a drinking glass, eating utensil or a toilet seat. Syphilis however may be passed from the mother to her unborn child in which situation the child is born with congenital syphilis. At one time, gonorrhea was not uncommonly passed from the mother to the eyes of her baby during the process of labor and delivery. Fortunately, this serious eye disease has been almost entirely eliminated by the practice of instilling various antibacterial medications into the eyes of the newborn infants.

Most syphilis and gonorrhea are curable if treated early, and although they may not be truly curable if treated late, the progress of the disease can be stopped and the degree on infectiousness overcome even if treatment is started late.

There isno vaccine which immunizes against veneral diseases, and even though we have remarkable means of treatment, the incidence of veneral disease has increased rather than decreased in the last decade. The best known method for decreasing the incidence of veneral disease in the population at large is first, to find the patient with the disease; second, to treat the disease, rendering the patient non-infectious; and third, to find the individual from whom the patient contracted the disease and treat that individual.

If you have reason to believe that you have contracted V.D., be sure to contact your physician immediately.

Seaman Recruit Charles Robert Hays, US... 19, son of Mr. William Earl Hays of Rt. 2, Felton, was graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

His training was highlighted by participating in mid-America's "Salute to the Flag" ceremonies held at Soldier Field in Chicago. He was one of the more than 10,000 Navy men who formed a human "Living Flag" in honor of all men and women who are, or have been, in the U.S. Armed Forces.

During his training he studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first duty station. He also received instruction in seamanship, survival techniques, military drill and other related subjects.

John O. Pratt, 20, son of Mrs. Doris V. Pratt, Woodside, was promoted to Army rank of specialist four Aug. 11 at Ft. Hood, Tex., where he is serving with the 2nd Armored Division.

Spec. Pratt, a mechanic, is assigned to Company of the Division's 124th Maintenance Battalion. He entered the Army in September 1966 and received his basic training at Ft. Jackson, S. C. He is a 1965 graduate of Cessair Rodney High School at Camden.

Foot Care

"My corns are killing me," How many times have you heard someone voice this complaint? How many times have you voiced it yourself? But, painful feet, from a wide variety of causes, rank close to the common cold as one of America's health problems.

Your feet take a lot of punishment in a lifetime of bearing your weight around every day, mostly on sidewalks, hard floors and pavements. In fact, it's a tribute to the anatomical structure of the foot and ankle that this part of the body doesn't cause even more trouble.

An important factor in foot health is properly fitted shoes. Corns and bunions often are caused by undue pressure of shoes on localized spots on the feet or toes.

Children's shoes present their own special fitting problems. The youngster's feet are growing rapidly and shoes must be changed frequently.

There are many foot troubles with a definite physiological basis that require professional attention by your physician.

Some are birth problems, such as club foot or other malformations. There are circulatory problems such as inflammation and narrowing of the arteries of the legs, nutritional diseases such as rickets, metabolic problems such as diabetes or gout, and fungus infections, such as athlete's foot.

Don't neglect your feet. Minor aches and pains may develop into more serious problems if ignored.

TERRY'S STOCK RISES

It would be premature to speculate on whether Gov. Terry will run for re-election but, as one courthouse employe phrased it: "His stock has gone up 50 per cent in the past year."

We believe his "stock" has advanced farther. Though the executive and legislative branches have been at cross purposes many times during this session, they proved how well they could respond to any emergency with the anti-riot acts. It was amazing to read of the Wilmington police making arrests after Governor Terry's stirring appeal to the joint session asking for these three laws. It must be a record of some sort to have a law proposed, passed, signed, and enforced so swiftly.

The three bills, all from the Senate, were as follows: 1. To impose minimum 3-year prison sentences without probation or parole on those convicted of rioting. 2. To outlaw Molotov cocktails and other explosive devices. 3. To give Governor authority to declare emergencies, impose curfews and to provide minimum 3-year prison terms for destruction of property during state of emergency.

PEOPLE WHO JUST FILL A SEAT

People who just fill a seat. The implication is that filling a seat is all the people do. On second thought, however, these persons are quite valuable and their absence would detract considerably from the success of any enterprise.

Take the average choir, for example. Few are the trained singers, but the remainder add volume and enhance the appearance of the organization considerably.

Consider sports. Where would the team be without adequate reserves, those on the bench, who "just fill a seat"?

The bulk of the members of most civic groups fall in this category. A handful will do most of the work, you can count on that, but the majority will aid in enumerable ways though it may seldom attend a meeting.

Some of us are active in some civic enterprises, and "just fill a seat" in others, but we are necessary.

One could safely say that most of us "just fill a seat" at one time or another.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

RAIN RAIN GO AWAY COME BACK SOME OTHER DAY

Now, that's a lot of poetry. Yes, and we had a lot of rain. Which reminds us of a railroad story about an engineer who was being questioned by the road-foreman for letting the water get low in his engine and having to "draw the fire."

Foreman: "How much water had you in the tank?" Eng.: "Only two ft. and was afraid to try to make the eight miles to the next water tub."

Foreman: "You should have taken a chance, Columbus."

Engr.: "Yes but he had a h--- of a lot more water to take a chance on than I did."

Had that steam engine been operating on the Delmarva Peninsula on the 15th or 16th of this month they might have filled the tank by just leaving the lids open to the continuous down pour we experienced.

This also brings up another very pertinent angle worth mention: Three months ago Jeane Dixon, the noted Extra-Sensory Preception Seer, predicted on TV that the Delmarva Peninsula would be completely submerged on August 15th. Thank that one over.

We were not quite complete submerged but well on the way and the fact that she was right on the button on the date seems ample proof there is a definite connection put as possible today as thousands of years ago.

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE

by Sam A. Short

Couldn't say that I'm sorry Nor that I'm at all so glad. Must keep my mind on my tomorrows, To keep the good from the bad.

Must be on my guard always, What I'm to do from day to day. So that I may know the difference To keep from going astray.

The ages of time are going fast, I'll never forget they'll never leave me. I will remember them until the last, But I'm not sorry, that! I can see.

Fondly are the Memories I still bestow, Of the days when I was young and gay, In keeping with the times where I'd go, In my travels those memories will always stay.

Nights alone I've watched the red sun-set, Casting it's rays far in the west, I've heard the call of the robin red breast, They were the days I loved the best.

Why shouldn't I say there is a difference, Let others think what they may, Than the battle of life will be easier, In flowery paths like a song to light the way.

Local Scouts Return From World Jamboree

"A fun-filled lesson in international understanding" is the description of the XII World Jamboree given by 26 Scouts and Leaders of the Del-Mar-Va Council, Boy Scouts of America, upon their arrival home.

Volunteer leaders of the local contingent told of the many activities that the Scouts had to get better acquainted with other Scouts from 100 countries. Exchange meals, evening campfires, a Wide Game, and earning of the Adventure Award, provided many opportunities for Scouts to practice brotherhood and friendship, according to M. R. Disborough, Scout Executive, who served as Assistant Chief for Sub-Camp Ermelunden.

Those earning the coveted Adventure Award, which included requirements related to bringing Scouts together from different countries, are Samuel Venuti, Edward H. Preisendanz, Vincent Meconi, William Hutchinson, James Hood, Jeffrey M. Bowen, Roger K. Bowman, Richard G. Duffy, Thomas G. Edwards, Charles A. Egan, all of Wilmington; John B. Frick, Hockessin; Walter J. Call, Newark; Robert Z. Cameron, Smyrna; John Russell, Dover; Bernard Murphy, Delmar, Md.; Nolan S. Pase, Jr., Seaford; Douglas Lasher, Millsboro; S. Norman Holland, III, Salisbury, Md.; James Dubsky, Salisbury, Md.; Michael L. Kirkpatrick, Easton, Md.; William T. Sterling, Crisfield, Md.; and Adult Leader, James Pizzadili, of Felton—100% of the group attending.

This World Jamboree was the first to be hosted by the Boy Scouts of America and brought together 13,200 Scouts. It was held at Farragut State Park, Idaho, from August 1st to 9th.

Scouts from here who attended the World Jamboree, Mr. Disborough said, are available to tell of their experiences before any community group. Requests may be made by calling the Scout Service Center at 302-652-3741, or writing to Scout Service Center, 100 East 10th Street, Wilmington, Del., 19899.

As part of the trip, the Scouts also visited Yellowstone National Park, Mt. Rainier and Grand Coulee Dam.

Laughery Reunion Held Aug. 20

A buffet style dinner Reunion was held in the Farmington Fire Hall by the descendants of David Leander and Martha Jane Leander on August 20, 1967.

This reunion is usually held at the homeplace, but this year, because of the scattered showers it was held inside. However, a good time was enjoyed by all that attended.

A business meeting was held and officers were elected as: President, Robert H. Vincent; Vice-President, Jack Wilkerson; Secretary, Mrs. Harry Winard; Treasurer, Mrs. Era Laughery; Entertainment, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Thompson; menu, Mrs. Willis Laughery, Mrs. Jack Wilkerson and Mrs. Ralph Wilkerson.

A display of family pictures brought back many fond memories as stories were retold about each picture.

Games were played by both young and old and after a dinner to please everyone, a lovely reunion three-tier anniversary cake was cut.

The following attended: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vincent, Debbie and Linda; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Laughery, Wendy and Lisa; Mrs. Clyton Downes, Kim and Julie; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Laughery; Mr. and Mrs. William C. Wilkerson; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilkerson, Linda and John; Mrs. Ralph Wilkerson; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Woehlke and Beverly; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Thompson, JoAnn, Jerry, Susan, Barry, Bobby; Miss Mary Sue Wilson; Mr. vice-President, Jack Wilkerson; secretary, Mrs. Harry Winard; treasurer, Mrs. Era Laughery; entertainment, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Thompson; menu, Mrs. Willis Laughery, Mrs. Jack Wilkerson and Mrs. Ralph Wilkerson.

The cake was made by Mrs. Ralph Wilkerson. Each layer was a different flavor (chocolate, banana and plain yellow) and very beautifully decorated.

NOTICE
To All
Owners of Downspouts and Floor Drains

Ordinances of the City of Harrington forbid the connection of rainwater downspouts, tile drains, french drains, yard drains, floor drains, or any other type fixture which will allow water other than that from the Town's domestic water system to enter the sanitary sewer system. A large number of illegal connections now make it impossible for the city sanitary sewer system to handle peak flows during and immediately following periods of rainfall. They also add substantially to the cost of sewage collection, pumping and sewage treatment.

As a part of the new sewage treatment construction program, the town will make smoke bomb tests to locate illegal connections, and offenders will be fined adequately to pay for the cost of the program as well as being required to take corrective action.

It is anticipated that the quantity of work required will impose a heavy load upon the local plumbers, and there may be some delay in getting the necessary corrections made.
Those persons who submit an account of their violations and the proposed schedule of correction will not be fined so long as the proposed schedule is considered to be a reasonable one.

Del. Census
To Be Conducted
Next Month

Delaware's special census, which will be conducted next month at a cost to the State of $150,000.00 may produce a return of ten times that much in one year.

The estimate came from Brig.
General D. Preston Lee, state coordinator for the census who serves as the state's link between the Legislative Council of the General Assembly and the U. S. Bureau of the Census which will do the actual count.

General Lee based his estimate on the Census Bureau's recent announcement that the 1960 federal census may have missed as many as 10 per cent of the people in the country, with the shortage occurring mostly in urban areas.

Delaware receives Federal grants of about $15 million per year under programs that divide up the funds among the states on the basis of population, Lee said.

If 10 per cent of Delawareans were missed in the last census, a new and accurate count could have the effect of bringing Delaware an additional $1,500,000.00 per year under existing programs that allocate funds in proportion to state population, he estimated.

Hey Mom— We Saw A Cow

Your first grader would know a lion if he saw one—he's seen a lion on TV. He'd probably recognize an elephant too—maybe, even a giraffe—but does he know a cow when he sees one? Or a pig? Or a sheep?

And, where does that carton of white stuff you buy at the store come from? It may surprise you, but many youngsters don't know. They answer that question daily at the University of Delaware's Newark research farm during the annual farm tour.

Each year the University of Delaware invites school children and kindergarten youngsters to tour the farm. Children have a chance to watch cows being milked and farm animals being fed. They see chickens, cattle, horses, pigs, sheep and other farm animals as well as farm machinery and vegetable and field crops. Many suburban and city children see for the very first time what farmers do; they discover for themselves where their food and clothing come from.

Tours by elementary school classes are scheduled during October with kindergarten invited to visit the farms September 25 to 29. The tours, each lasting about an hour, are conducted Monday through Friday, from 10 a. m. through 3 p. m.

More than 45,000 children have visited the farms since the tours began in 1957, according to Edward H. Schabinger, New Castle County agricultural agent. In 1966 alone, approximately 7,000 school and kindergarten children came for the tour.

Teachers wishing to have their classes tour the university research farm may schedule visits by telephoning Schabinger at the University of Delaware, 738-2506. Calls should be made as soon as possible after September 4, Schabinger says, since the number of tours is limited.

Gardener's Course At U. of D. Substation

The home gardeners short course, a series of six two-hour lessons on practical gardening, will be offered beginning at 7:30 p. m., September 20, at the University of Delaware's Georgetown Substation. Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the university will be in charge, assisted by other university staff members.

Open to all adults, the lessons will stress how-to-do-it methods with demonstrations and classroom practice. The September 20th session will cover the propagation of house plants, trees, shrubs and flowers by various methods. Subsequent sessions every third Wednesday night from October to April will cover lawn and ground covers, house plants, flowering bulbs, basic landscape design and vegetables and fruits for the home garden.

It is necessary to register for the course by September 10, according to Stevens. An enrollment fee of five dollars will include the cost of cuttings, plants, seeds and other materials that will be distributed during the course.

The home gardeners short course is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service at the University of Delaware.

U. of D. Has Film On War on Pests

The American supermarket is just around the corner, filled the year around with the abundance of a wide variety of foods. A river of food flows without interruption from farm to supermarket to dinner table.

What produces this miracle of abundance—food enough for ourselves and hungry millions abroad as well? Modern science and technology applied to agriculture has produced a twentieth century revolution. One of the most important parts of this revolution is the winning of the battle against ravaging plant and animal pests.

A film from the USDA "Pests or Plenty," tells the story of the never ending war on agricultural pests. The 13-minute movie explains modern pest control techniques that keep supermarkets filled with food.

Where once insects, weeds, diseases, and other pests destroyed a large part of crops grown for food, today we are able to protect both crops and livestock with modern pest control techniques, these techniques—chemical, biological, cultural, mechanical—were developed through years of research and experimentation. According to the film, the farmer has been given the means to fight back effectively and produce a large supply of good things to eat.

Of particular interest to women's clubs, church and civic organizations and extension clubs, "Pests or Plenty" is the Agricultural Editor's Office,

FENCE TALK with George K. Vapaa

NEW SOIL SURVEY
A new soil survey has just been completed for Kent County, the result of 22 years of field work by the Soil Conservation Service. Fred Mott, our local conservationist, has loaned me a draft copy of the final manuscript. After final editing it should be published within the year.

Farmers will have suggestions on how to best use and manage their soils. Foresters, wildlife interests, community planners, engineers and builders, scientists, students and teachers will also find the data helpful.

Fred points out that this is not a "windshield survey". Every acre in the county has been accurately plotted with standard descriptive names and using soil sampling techniques—one reason why 22 years was needed. A New Jersey farmer with Woodstown sandy loam soil at home would recognize and handle the similar Kent County soil in exactly the same way. Basically, we have about 40 different named soils in the county.

A major use for soil survey maps is to pinpoint likely trouble spots for homes or other buildings. The two major problems here are flood plains or impervious soils that create sewage or drainage problems. We don't have to worry about rocky land or steep slopes.

Several of us, including Isaac Thomas, chairman of our Kent Soil and Water Conservation District, would like to see the public better informed about home sites. We are puzzled that people will buy a so-called cheap homesite, on a dirt road, perhaps ten miles from town. Their bargain priced land is usually a wet spot, fit only for trees, if that.

I am afraid that real estate salesmen begrudge our frankness. We tell a potential buyer about his proposed dream site which seems to be such a bargain. Frankly, I hope that county land-use planning will prohibit home sites in poorly drained areas. For there are many other home locations.

We have several general bulletins which can serve as a guide for land buyers. One is "Know Your Soil"; another "Know the Soil You Build On." Call us at 736-1448 if you want a free copy.

CONTROL OF WEEDS

The control of weeds is needed for high yields of crops. This has meant row culture combined with cultivation for many vegetable crops. But chemical herbicides are changing the picture.

Herbert Richardson of Magnolia has just shown me the proceedings of the International Horticultural Congress, which was held at the University of Maryland last year. I've been reviewing some of the sessions I attended, as well as some others held at the same time.

The session on non-cultivation is memorable because of a lively Irishman and an equally enthusiastic English horticulturist. They both work in damp, humid climates that provide ideal conditions for weed growth. Both use herbicides and close plant spacings to achieve greater yields per acre.

The Irishman, Dr. D. W. Robinson of Dublin, works with small fruits. Non-cultivation, with effective weed control, provides better working conditions for workers and machinery in wet weather.

The Englishman, Dr. J. K. A. Bleasdale of the National Vegetable Research Station, is a prolific writer. He points out that row culture has been a necessary evil when we had to stir the soil for weed control. But chemicals reduce this need and make closer row spacing possible. He found he could achieve carrot yields up to 40 long tons per acre with his bedding system. I think our potato growers will welcome news of similar experiments with potatoes recently started.

One Congress talk still eludes me. It had a nice simple title: "Crop Prediction Without Weather Forecasting." But the speaker, Dr. J. Y. Wong of San Jose, Calif., dealt in crop phenology, in computer systems, in biostatistics and in agrometeorology. I am still confused. About all I got out of it is this. A weather forecast is only accurate for five days ahead at best. The effect of weather at different stages of plant growth predetermines final yields and quality from two to six weeks prior to actual harvest. Such information can help farmers and food processors to plan their schedules and labor use better.

International meetings widen our horizons. Here is a case where the climate demands new approaches for farmers. When the basic studies are further along, chances are we will be adopting some of these ideas.

The United States has moved rapidly toward a mechanized agriculture. But in the process we grasp at foreign innovations. The herringbone milking parlor, for example, was developed in New Zealand. The use of free stalls and mechanized feeding have cut barn labor requirements by half.

Yes, the world is getting smaller. Trading information like this will help speed food quality and sufficiency.

SURPLUS GRAIN STORAGE BINS

Those ten surplus grain storage bins at the Kent ASCS office averaged $577 in price at auction last Thursday. The first one brought $635 and the lowest price was $540. Ten more bins will be coming into Kent County shortly, as well as ten to each of the other counties.

Paul Hastings, ASCS state chairman, points out that this is a good buy for those farmers who have the time to assemble the bins.

Kent ASCS Notes

WHEAT MAY SUBSTITUTE FOR BARLEY

A farmer who would rather grow wheat instead of barley for 1968 harvest may substitute wheat for barley within the barley base acreage established for his farm, J. Heyman Roosa, Chairman, Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, said today, at Dover. In effect, this makes it possible for a wheat grower to qualify for wheat program payments even though he plants wheat on the farm barley base in addition to his wheat allotment acres.

The barley provisions have been made known at this time so winter wheat producers can have ample time to make cropping plans. About half of the U.S. barley acreage is fall seeded.

Producers wanted to grow wheat on barley acreage should request the establishment of a barley base for their farms for this purpose. No diversion from the barley base acreage will be necessary, so the whole base may be planted to wheat. If only a part of the base is devoted to wheat, the balance of the barley base may be planted to barley. Barley will not be in the feed grain diversion program for 1968. However, price support will be available for the barley crop grown regardless of how much acreage is planted to barley.

If his farm has a corn or grain sorghum base, the producer who requests establishment of a barley base (or an oats-rye base) would need to sign up in the 1968 Feed Grain Program as well as in the Wheat Program. This means that he would need to reduce his corn acreage by at least the minimum amount necessary and meet other Feed Grain Program provisions.

Contact the County Office at Dover for further details: Phone 697-3601.

While there will be no wheat diversion in 1968 the wheat program is still a compact government and farmers with each participating farmer doing certain things to qualify for wheat marketing certificates and price-support loans, J. Heyman Roosa, Chairman Kent Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, pointed out today at Dover.

He explained that the producers' aid of the bargain in the 1968 wheat program includes doing these things:

1. Sign up as a program participant at the appropriate time. In 1967, program signups for wheat and feed grains were held in the ASCS County Office in February-March.
2. Stay within the participating farm's wheat allotment (unless the substitution provisions is used.) Under the substitution provision, growers taking part in both the wheat and feed grain programs may substitute one for the other.
3. Meet the conserving base established for the farm. (The 1968 conserving bases will be increased by the same amount they were decreased when the last 15% increase in acreage allotments was made for 1967.)
4. Stay within any wheat allotment, substitution provisions, or excess wheat option for other farms in which the producer has an interest.

Domestic marketing certificates for the 1968 wheat crop will be valued at the difference between full wheat parity, and the national average $1.25 price-support loan value. (The value of 1967-crop certificates is $1.36 per bushel.) The 1968 certificates will be issued on the projected production of 40c of the farm allotment; the loans will be available on all the wheat produced on a participating farm.

Soybean Survey Taken by University

Soybean growers have many production problems, according to a survey conducted by three University of Delaware agriculturalists.

Dr. Richard Cole, acting chairman of the department of agronomy, Dr. Walter Connell, associate professor of entomology, and Dr. William H. Crittenden, associate professor of plant pathology, made a random survey of the state's soybean acreage, August 17.

Soybean yields should definitely be above the average of the last five years, according to Cole. The yield prospect is fair in New Castle and Kent Counties, good in eastern Sussex county and very good in western Sussex County.

Some soybean fields were still standing in water in Kent County and some fields in Sussex County were already too dry, the surveyors found. The moisture supply will be a critical factor in the soybean yield until October, so prospects could still change, Cole pointed out.

The number of growers using varieties best suited for this area increased again this year. More than 90 percent of the 41 fields checked were planted with early maturing varieties. These are the varieties that have consistently given a high yield with a good oil and protein content.

Reversing a trend of recent years, 44 percent of the fields were planted with rows wider than 36 inches. Cole points out using this row width will not be a large factor in yield this year because the soybeans have a heavy vegetation growth due to the high moisture level in July and August.

Surprisingly enough, the weed problem was less than expected. According to Cole, the weed problem was extremely severe in only a fifth of the fields. Cole believes this is probably due to the rapid growth of the soybeans which competed favorably with the weed growth. However, the number of fields sprayed with herbicides was less than in the past.

The major weed problem was primarily due to annual broadleaf weeds which are deep-seeded. Such weeds as morning glory and jimson weed were the greatest problem.

Nutritional deficiencies were evident on 15 percent of the fields. Cole said the deficiencies were primarily due to a lack of manganese and potassium. Connell reported that although many insects were found, including some never before seen on the soybeans, they were not a severe problem. This is probably because excellent growing conditions and rapid growth of soybeans have kept the problem to a minimum, thus far.

According to Crittenden, disease inoculation is present to a significant degree. If environmental conditions such as high moisture are favorable to disease growth, the quality of soybeans may be affected.

Overweight Children

Faulty eating habits started in early childhood often are the cause of overweight adults in later life. All too many mothers, with the best of intentions, nag and wheedle their small fry into eating more than they want to eat. The healthy, fat baby who remains chubby as he grows into pre-school and first grade years become less attractive as an individual. And the habit of eating more calories than necessary is likely to remain the rest of his life.

The parent should not be the one to decide whether the child should lose weight, how he should lose it, or whether he should continue to remain "pleasingly plump." The doctor should be consulted.

Plenty of physical activity is needed for the child to burn up the calories and it often is found that the overweight youngster plays less and walks less than the lean one.

If it fits your doctor's counsel, here are some tips to help your youngster loose weight.

1. Weigh once a week and keep track of the weight. Use the same scale and wear approximately the same clothing.

2. It isn't necessary to cut out all desserts and snacks as long as their calorie count is included in the daily total. Fresh fruits are good for snacks.

3. Keep a supply of raw carrots, radishes, celery sticks and pickles for more snacking. Tomato juice or clear bouillon can serve for drinks.

4. Use smaller plate in serving meals, so that the portions will look larger. Encourage the family to eat slowly and really taste the food.

5. Trim fat from meat, take it easy on the butter and substitute skim milk for whole milk. Be sure to get sufficient vitamin A from fruits and vegetables.

The most important factor in helping the obese child to reduce pounds is to handle it naturally. Don't make a point of telling the child he is on a reducing diet. Just serve the meats naturally and as a matter of course. Avoid nagging the child about his diet. It will only make him more rebellious and more inclined to snack on the sly.

Kaffeeklatch

with Eleanor K. Voshell

Breakfast skipping is not a clever way to do well at school or work. When breakfast is skipped, your work output is less, mental reactions are slower, and muscular fatigue increases.

With September set aside as Better Breakfast Month, now is a smart time to check your family's breakfast habits.

Teenage boys and girls are usually the quickest to claim they don't have time to eat on an average weekday morning. If you have a teen-age breakfast skipper be ready to give him breakfast "on the run." Whirl 2 cups milk, 2 cups canned apricots with juice and 1/2 pint vanilla ice cream in a blender or mixer. Hand him a serving of this along with a muffin just before he dashes out. If you can get him to stop for a quick bowl of ready-to-eat cereal, he will have a speedy, modern version of a basic breakfast pattern of fruit, cereal, milk, bread, and spread to meet the nutritional requirements of active teenagers.

When the dieting teen-age daughter comes up with the argument that she cannot eat breakfast because she is too fat, it is time for mother to come up with a few facts. It has been demonstrated that there is less temptation to overeat at the other two meals or to resort to between-meal snacks when each day starts with a good breakfast. A breakfast of one-quarter of the day's food is recommended even on a weight reduction program. A basic breakfast of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and spread need not detract from any weight loss plans. For most persons, average servings of these foods do supply one-fourth of the day's needs. For the dieter, smaller quantities of food should be served and skim milk may be used.

Medical and nutrition leaders have one piece of sound advice about breakfast. Eat it! Research has shown that there is no good substitute for an adequate breakfast.

Wayne R. Paul, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Paul, Rt. 3, Dover, was promoted to Army private pay grade E-2 upon completion of basic combat training at Ft. Bragg, N.C., Aug. 15.

The promotion was awarded two months earlier than is customary under an Army policy providing incentive for outstanding trainees.

As many as half the trainees in each training cycle are eligible for the early promotion, based on scores attained during range firing, high score on the physical combat proficiency test, military bearing and leadership potential.

During advanced individual training, also of eight weeks duration, those who received early advancement to E-2 may be eligible for another "accelerated" promotion, to E-3 (private first class).

Fall Scout Roundup Theme Announced

"Scouting rounds a guy out" will be the theme for the 1967 annual fall roundup, the membership campaign of the Del-Mar-Va Council, Boy Scouts of America, as boys from 8 through 17 are recruited by Cub Scout Packs, Boy Scout Troops, and Explorer Posts in this area.

"Scouting is fun and adventure for boys," John Oliver, Organization and Extension Chairman, explained, "but the extra values of Scouting of special interest to parents include character development, citizenship training, and physical and mental fitness."

The Del-Mar-Va Council has scheduled meetings with Scout unit leaders in each of the council's 13 districts to explain this year's roundup.

"Boys who want to become Scouts in September may also get information about the nearest Scout unit by contacting the Scout Service Center, 100 E. 10th Street, Wilmington, Del., phone 302-652-3741," Oliver said.

Boys who are 8, 9, and 10 may become Cub Scouts, while boys who are 11 or older are eligible to become Boy Scouts, and high school boys may become Explorer

The Del-Mar-Va Council also has special-interest Explorer Posts for high school boys who are interested in the fields of engineering, aviation, medicine, banking, professional Scouting, seamanship and others.

The fall roundup will be held between September 11 and December 15, and it is expected that over 3,000 new Scouts will be enrolled during the membership campaign.

SPORTS

KEITH S. BURGESS — Sports Editor

Ray Gannon, 8, Runs 2 1/4 Miles In 17 Minutes

Through the years in local sports, good runners have quite often seemed to come in bunches, family bunches. Several of Judy Jarrell's sons were fleet of foot, as were most of Odoth Brown's male offspring. The Hurrying Hacketts (Dwight and Clarence) were two of Delaware's best distance runners and practically all of the Gareys of Masten's Corner could really pick 'em up and lay 'em down. The Bonniwells (George, Buddy, Larry) were hard to beat in a footrace. Numerous other family groups in this area proved that heredity is often a potent factor in the world of track and cross-country, as well as in other sports.

The latest family group to hit the thirteenth scene at H.H.S. are the three Gannon brothers of near Andrewsville. Joe, 15; Steve, 12 and Ray, 8, have demonstrated above average ability and could keep their family name in front of track and cross-country fans for the next eight years. A fourth brother, younger than Ray, might extend the budding dynasty past the decade mark.

Joe Gannon did well as a high school miler last season, as a sophomore out for track for the first time.

Steve showed promise as a junior high half miler, did well in a couple of New Jersey independent meets and is improving rapidly in cross-country.

Ray ran in New Jersey in a 9 and under meet and in Milford in a 12 and under test.

When a group of local cross-country runners started practice, on their own, for the up-coming harrier season, Steve joined them and Ray wanted to come along, too.

The first few nights saw the group trotting two miles per workout, with the eight-year-old running a mile. Ray soon wanted to run all the way. One night, near dark, running on "The Haunted Road", which goes from south Felton to north Masten's Corner, the gritty elementary pupil dogged a quartet of junior high runners for a mile and a quarter. Two freshmen, going into their third season in cross-country, picked up side pains and had to let the little guy go. Two other newcomers, 15 and 13, also went on with the erstwhile third grader. At the finish the younger Gannon had beaten the 15-year-old decisively, in addition to the two freshmen and had clocked a marvelous 17 minutes for 2 1/4 miles.

Danny Porter, a classmate of Ray's demonstrated last fall that he too could run the cross-country distance and beat much older runners. Other fourth graders who show very fine ability, are Howard Parker and Mark Krouse. It is possible that this quartet could take over, as soon as the present H.H.S. state champs graduate in 1971.

Local J. C's Victor At D.S.T. Softball Championship

The Delaware State Jaycee Softball Championship was held at the Hospital for the Mentally Retarded at Stockley, on Sun., Aug. 27, Harrington Jaycees being the host to the Millcreek Chapter. These two teams were the semi-finalist in the state elimination play-offs held at the DuPont experimental station in Wilmington.

Millcreek Jaycees had hot bats and scored three quick runs before they could be stopped. Harrington, with plenty of fight rallied for three runs in the bottom of the first inning, then both teams settled down to good defensive ball attested to by having no runs cross home plate for the next five innings. Trouble erupted for Harrington in the 7th inning due to the first three Millcreek players filling the bases, but Harrington quickly eliminated that threat with good infield plays at third base. Harrington exploded then for five runs in the last inning to virtually end the game. The last out was a routine fly ball and with it was the final score of 8 to 4 and the Delaware State Jaycee Championship for Harrington.

Those who participated were: Mgr. D. Jones, Coach J. Wyatt, B. Wood, A. Wood, W. Morris, D. Gary, K. Gary, W. Muelheisen, W. Porter, R. Porter, Bader, F. Mertz, T. Hyson, L. Calhoun, and R. McCready.

Ed Wheatley Plays Well in Blue-Gold Game

"Big Ed" Wheatley, Harrington High's contribution to the Gold squad, was probably the Lions' best all-star performer yet, in the annual Blue-Gold All-Star game, played last Saturday at Delaware Stadium, Newark.

Harrington's previous picks never saw much action even when Harrington coaches were at the helm, in the yearly extravaganza, played for the benefit of Delaware's retarded children. On Saturday, the Blues were running roughshod over one of the Gold's better-known ends. Wheatley was substituted in an effort to plug the gap. The Blues put two men on the 215 pound Lion but he managed to make several tackles anyway. Nice going Ed!

Wheatley has been accepted at Lees-McRae College in North Carolina and may be the first college football player from Harrington, since the Lions started the sport in 1957. Several others tried but couldn't stand the gaff.

of the remodeling, and no traces of the dire deeds have been in evidence.

The place is located at the junction of Routes 577 and 392, four miles from Seaford and about six miles from Federalsburg, Md. It is in the northeast corner of Dorchester County, Md., about a hundred feet from the Delaware State line in Sussex County.

When Patty Cannon was arrested in April, 1829, on a charge of murder, she was taken across the state line, imprisoned in jail in Georgetown, and died in jail May 11, 1829. Her death for years was assumed to be by suicide but the accepted story today is that she was murdered by persons who had access to her cell, and who did not want her brought to trial through fear of their own complication.

The house is a nine room frame on a bout two and half acres of land. It will be open for inspection from 9 A.M. on the day of the sale.

know how to share and play fair. His teacher will appreciate respect and common courtesy shown by saying "Please" and "Thank You."

Mrs. Keller suggests you explain to your child that he may ask the teacher for help if he needs it. For example, one mother told her child, "The teacher will be a lot like me, only she has many children."

Because first experiences are long remembered and affect later school adjustment, try to make first grade a satisfying, happy experience. Make the day school doors swing open exciting and happy, suggests Mrs. Keller. Let your child know you want to hear all about his new adventure.

ing, attract more boys and hold them for three years, and encourage them to enter Boy Scouting at 11 years of age.

Now a boy 8 years of age or in third grade may become a Cub Scout. At 10, he may join a Webelos Den and become a Webelos Scout. This phases out Lion rank by September 1, 1968. A Den Leader coach will train and assist Den Mothers.

Since Cub Scouting began in 1930, there has been a membership gain yearly. At present, there are 2,125,394 Cub Scouts in 56,436 Cub Scout Packs. Locally, 6,876 boys are Cub Scouts in 235 Packs.

posed improved program was shared with leaders in 68 meetings across the nation.

Program changes seek to improve the appeal of Cub Scout. Nationwide there were 636 traffic deaths, 88 drownings and 54 accidental deaths from other causes during the Labor Day holiday last year. Delaware contributed three of the traffic deaths during that period. "This year's holiday in Delaware should not be one marked by tragedy," Mr. Ashton said. "We must work together to make the 1967 Labor Day holiday the safest on record."

Mr. Ashton asked everyone planning trips to be sure to follow these tips:

1. Give yourself plenty of time for the journey—with time out for frequent rest stops.
2. Keep alert for poor drivers in order to protect yourself.
3. Don't drive after drinking.
4. Be sure you buckle your seat belt at all times.

As a final reminder, Mr. Ashton said, "Wherever you go—COME BACK ALIVE."

way main route follows the New Jersey Turnpike to the Delaware Memorial Bridge and U.S. 13. A seaward alternate is via the Garden State Parkway and other New Jersey routes leading to the Cape May-Lewes Ferry, with southward connections to U.S. 13 in Delaware and Maryland. The route is U.S. 13 through Tidewater Virginia. Then the Ocean Hiway follows U.S. 17 all the way to Florida.

The recent dedication of a $4,769,380 bridge project on U.S. 17 at Georgetown, S.C., completes a 45-mile continuous stretch of four-lane highway through the Grand Strand area of South Carolina. The South Carolina Highway Department also opened another new bypass and divided four-lane highway from north of Mount Pleasant to Charleston.

Scheduled for opening in June, 1968 is the $70,000,000 twin span of the Delaware Memorial Bridge, the Ocean Hiway main route link between New Jersey and Delaware. The new bridge will provide four lanes of traffic for southbound motorists. The existing span, which now serves motorists in both directions, will be used as a four-lane route for northbound travelers.

Many U.S. 17 four-laning and improvements now under construction in North Carolina is a new four-lane bridge and approach roads for U.S. 17 at Wilmington, N. C.
