Technical Services Director Outlines Scope of Functions

Lloyd E. Stiffler, director of technical services at the University of Delaware, outlined to newsmen this week the functions and scope of this recently developed, legislatively created service. Stiffler said, "This is a most important contribution from the state and federal governments to the technical and scientific community.

"As a nation we spend billions on scientific research. Heretofore, it was quite difficult for most to obtain the results of this research, even though some had been released for public use. These data are now available at the University of Delaware, from the referral center in the Morris Library.

"Unless all business, big and little, incorporates new developments into production economies and new developments, we can easily fall into a non-competitive slump. Research is vital to progress.

"A group of retired executives have volunteered their services. They disseminate referral data to Delaware industry, seasoned by their many years of practical experience and know-how. Their liaison of knowledge and information may help uncover new projects, up-grade old ones, and possibly create new industries," Stiffler said.

"Guidelines for these projects will be established. When professional consultants are indicated, the counselors refer the client to a competent firm. The same applies to the legal profession, patent attorneys and other professionals. Additionally educational courses, training of shop personnel by use of workshops and clinics are available or can be organized in the plant or at the university. Seminars will be suggested as well as all modern techniques of progressive industry and business to help small business.

"Projects requiring prolonged services of counselors, while searching for solutions outside the interests of professional consultants available, will be subject to moderate fees. These can be estimated in advance. This should not discourage the poor man with a sound idea. If the idea is sound, warranting development, and the individual or small business requires financial assistance, guidance may be developed. We expect all of this will lead to increased employment and general prosperity throughout Delaware."

Ferry, Bridge Traffic Sets Labor Day Record

The Lewes-Cape May Ferry and the Delaware Memorial Bridge, facilities operated by the Delaware River and Bay Authority, set Labor Day records as friendly weather set people in a travel mood.

Figures compiled by William J. Miller, Jr., Authority director, showed that for the four days started Friday, Sept. 1, the ferries carried 4,958 vehicles and 18,038 passengers, compared with 4,133 vehicles and 14,866 passengers a year ago.

The Memorial Bridge, starting on Thurs., Aug. 31 and continuing for the six-day Labor Day driving period, carried 358,829 vehicles, a gain of 16,197 compared with last year.

The ferry total is a record for the four-year history of this authority service for a Labor Day period, and the bridge figure sets a Labor Day mark for the 16-year old span.

Fire Hits House At Staytonville

Raceway Hearing Set For Buckson

Harrington Raceway judges will give Atty. Gen. David P. Buckson a hearing "sometime this week" on a racetrack incident, Presiding Judge John Ducharme said Tuesday.

The hearing stems from Buckson's failure to pass a Breathalyzer test before the seventh race last Friday night. Ducharme said over the phone from his Christiana, Pa., home. The test determines one's blood alcohol content.

Buckson was scheduled to drive Miss Becky Pick in the race. A driving change was made and Jack Matthews drive the 9-year-old pacing mare to an easy victory.

Ducharme emphasized that failure to pass the test doesn't mean one is intoxicated.

He said the maximum reading permitted a harness-racing driver is .05 per cent.

"Mr. Buckson was not in unfit condition," commented Ducharme. "On the highways the maximum reading is 1.5 per cent." "So our test is three times as severe. Ours wasn't a sobriety test, it's strictly for the immediate protection of everybody."

Ducharme said no definite date has been set for the hearing, only that it will be held "sometime this week. I suggested he drop in some evening this week. He isn't driving at all this week anyway. He always has been very cooperative."

Ducharme said the hearing would be closed to the press.

"These hearings are handled in a very standard way," he said. "We've had these hearings before and they drew no comment. On suspensions, we post the notices outside our office and if the publicity man wants it, it's there. We must treat everybody alike."

Among the things to be considered at the hearing is whether the Breathalyzer machine was faulty, Ducharme said.

Ducharme added that Buckson attended a meeting elsewhere earlier last Friday and had called the track and said he may not be on hand to drive.

Ducharme said that the attorney general was in the winner's circle for the trophy presentation.

Battle For Driving Honors On at Raceway

A red hot battle for driving honors is taking shape at Harrington Raceway as competition in the 60-night meet heads into its third big weekend.

Homebred Harringtonian J. D. Dennis is setting a blistering pace in the dash win department, having booted home six winners. He also boasts six seconds and a like number of thirds.

Dennis is being hard pressed for the dash lead by Bridgeville reinsman Paul Myer with five. Threatening with four each are Mehrlie Wachter, Vinyl Kirby, Ed Crowson, Abe Stoltzfus and Art Bier.

Kirby, veteran Milford campaigner, holds a comfortable lead in the Universal Ratings. He numbers eleven money finishes in 17 trips to the post for a .438 percentage. Stoltzfus is his No. 1 challenger with eight in-the-money races in 16 outings for a .375 mark.

Trailing the pacesetters are Charley Krause 352, Crowson at 320, Myer at 314, and Wachter at 304.

High winds and rain from Hurricane Doria washed out last Saturday night's twin feature, causing both events to be rescheduled. The Reese B. Harrington Memorial Pace will now unfold this Friday, with the Elwood Long Memorial Trot slated for Saturday night.

Harrington Lions will be spotlighted on Monday night with a pace going as the featured seventh race.

Nine-race cards will continue to be offered nightly at the mid-Delaware oval, with ten-race programs prevailing on Fridays and Saturdays. Daily double windows close at 7:50. Exacta wagering is available on the sixth and ninth races nightly.

Physical Exam Is Important For Football

Football season is here again. All over the nation American males are tossing and kicking and running with footballs, all the way from eight-year-olds in the backyard to junior and senior high and college teams to the big bruisers of the professional leagues.

Football is a rough contact sport and inevitably will produce its full quota of bumps and bruises, strains and sprains, cuts and gashes. Most of these aren't serious and the lads concerned are back in the game shortly.

A thorough medical examination is highly important for boys preparing to go out for football to make certain that a lad has no physical conditions that should be noted before he begins the rigorous training and hard

This was one possibility suggested at a meeting arranged by Delaware's Congressional delegation for officials of the University and representatives of federal agencies involved in oceanography programs.

Dr. G. Franklin Daiber, acting director of the University's Marine Laboratories, commented on the many inquiries received this past summer from inland schools wanting to take advantage of Delaware's Marine Field Station at Lewes.

Stacey Hicks, chief of the Oceanography Division of the Environmental Science Services Administration, suggested that

List of Delaware Servicemen In Vietnam Prepared

Colonel Clifford E. Hall, state director of Selective Service, said this week that his office is once again compiling a list of Delaware servicemen in Viet Nam. This will be the third year that such a list has been prepared. Last year's list contained 123 names. Requests for the new list are already beginning to come in, Colonel Hall said.

The list is being compiled on the basis of information received from parents and wives of sons and husbands serving in Viet Nam.

Provided the servicemen concerned will be serving in Viet Nam at Christmastime, relatives are invited to write to Colonel Hall giving him the necessary particulars, which should include the servicemen's full name and address including rank, serial number and unit. Colonel Hall's office is located at 3202 Kirkwood Highway, Wilmington, Delaware 19808.

Upon completion of the list, it will be made available to churches and civic groups who have expressed a desire to send Christmas gifts or cards to Delawareans in Viet Nam.

Colonel Hall said requests for the list will be carefully screened to eliminate those of a commercial nature or those coming from persons wanting to press their own political views on the servicemen.

Exective Steering Committee Named For Democrats

Several prominent citizens of Kent County were appointed to the Executive Steering Committee of the Delaware Democratic party, state chairman Alexis I. duPont Bayard announced.

Maxson Terry, and State Representative Jacob W. Zimmerman, of near Dover. They will join thirteen other prominent Delaware Democrats to form this new committee.

Bayard called the group, "our party's guide for the future," and declared its purpose would be to "provide enlightened answers, in the form of party positions, on the issues facing Delawareans."

Bayard noted that the Executive Steering Committee will also make recommendations on the operations of the new headquarters for the Democratic Party at 913 N. Market Street in Wilmington. The former Lt. Governor also said:

"This new committee is the first of several committees which will implement the talents and insight of not only some of Delaware's leading Democrats, but also of our state's leading citizens. It is our hope that we can use the abilities of these dedicated citizens to help build a stronger Democratic party and a stronger Delaware."

Veterans News

Delaware veterans who have been accepted for college this fall should apply immediately to the Veterans Administration Regional Office at 1601 Kirkwood Highway, Wilmington, to make arrangements for benefits available to them under the GI Bill.

Leon Fields, manager of the Wilmington VA Regional Office, pointed out that veterans with more than 180 days of continuous military service, with any part of that time after January 31, 1955, were eligible for monthly allowances of $130 or more. Application forms should be obtained from and returned to the Wilmington, Delaware VA Regional Office along with a copy of the veteran's separation document, DD Form 214.

The VA Regional Office will then issue the qualified veteran a certificate of eligibility which he should submit to the school when he enrolls.

"While the VA has to wait until the college involved certifies that the veteran has enrolled before it can start sending VA allowance checks," Mr. Fields said, the VA has simplified the form the college must use, and students should receive checks shortly after the end of each month.

"However," Mr. Fields said, "it would be wise for students to be prepared to pay their own expenses for a short period of time to be sure they are not caught short of funds before legal requirements are met and VA can start the flow of checks. Once allowance checks start, they may be expected to continue without interruption for the enrollment period certified by the school."

"But a different procedure applies to a course which does not lead to a standard college course. The VA will make payments each month as soon as possible after the school and the student notify the VA that the applicant has been attending classes."

Under the new Vietnam GI Bill rates, effective Oct. 1, full-time veteran students are entitled to the following increased monthly payments: $130 without dependents; $155 with one dependent; $175 with two dependents and an extra $10 for each dependent in excess of two. Part-time students receive proportionately smaller amounts.

The amended Vietnam GI Bill authorizes full benefit payments "to educationally disadvantaged veterans" so they can complete high school or take certain required refresher courses without losing any VA eligibility for post-high school training.

Mr. Fields said that veterans applying for allowances for dependents should furnish the VA a certified copy of their marriage and birth certificates.

He urged veterans to contact the Wilmington VA Regional Office if they need additional information about the education program. The phone number is 994-2511, extension 280; the mailing address is 1601 Kirkwood Highway, Wilmington, Del. 19805.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—I was in service from October 1953 to September 1957. I plan to purchase a home with a GI loan. I have heard something about a funding fee. What is this?

A—This applies only to veterans who have eligibility for GI loan arising out of military service performed since January 31, 1955. These veterans must pay a fee of one-half of one per cent of the amount of the loan to the lender. The lender then submits it to the VA. Since you had service during the Korean Conflict period, you will not be required to pay this fee.

Q—My husband, a World War II veteran, died recently. I applied for the proceeds of his National Service Life Insurance, only to be informed by the Veterans Administration that I was not the beneficiary. I need this money badly as I have three children to support and educate. Is this money lost to me?

A—Yes. Her eligibility is based on the fact that her parent died from service-connected causes. Subsequent adoption does not affect this original eligibility.

Q—I am receiving a pension as a widow of a veteran, and for our two children. I am considering marrying again and I would like to know if this would result in the loss of this pension?

A—Only that portion that is payable as your benefit would be stopped. Benefits would continue to be paid to you on behalf of your children. Children do not lose their rights to pension when the widow remarries or dies. They will continue to receive pension until age 18 or if attending a VA-approved school, until age 23.

Q—I presently have a loan on my 30-Pay Life National Service Life Insurance policy. Is it possible to make an additional loan on this policy?

A—It may be. The VA must pay the proceeds of NSLI policies to the beneficiary last designated by the insured, even when this results in an obvious inequity. It is sad but true that many veterans neglect to keep this beneficiary designation up to date. In your case the situation can be resolved in your favor only if the named beneficiary recognizes the unfairness and can be persuaded to assign all or part of the proceeds to you.

Q—I have been hospitalized in a VA hospital for more than 21 days for treatment of a service-connected disability. I have been granted two 30 day leave periods with 24 hour hospitalization between periods of leave. I am to be readmitted to the hospital after completion of the second 30 day leave. Will my temporary total rating continue?

A—No. A second pass or authorized leave of 30 days will be regarded as the equivalent of hospital discharge and will interrupt hospitalization effective on the last day of the month in which the 30th day of such absence occurred.

Q—I am enrolled at the University of Arkansas under the GI bill for the 1966-67 term. I plan to attend the University of Missouri for the 1967 summer session. What must I do to obtain VA educational assistance for the summer session?

A—Submit a request to the VA Regional Office for a change of program or school. This should be done early enough to permit the issuance of a Certificate of Eligibility prior to your enrollment in the new school.

Q—I live in a small community and have been unable to find a lending agency which will grant me a loan to purchase a home. How may I obtain a GI loan?

A—Get in touch with your nearest VA Regional Office to see if your country is on the approved list for VA direct loans. If it is, you may be able to obtain a VA direct loan for home purchase.

Q—I have National Service Life Insurance and it has been in force on the ordinary life plan since 1945. My children are now grown and self-sustaining and I have been giving some thought to discontinuing the payment of premiums and take a paid-up policy. If I do, will my dividends be discontinued?

A—No, but they will not be as large as on your existing policy. If you take a paid-up policy, the amount of insurance in force will be less than the present face value of your policy. The dividends will be computed on this reduced insurance coverage.

Q—My husband still has his $10,000 National Service Life Insurance. I know that he has not changed the beneficiary since our marriage. He tells me that it is not necessary to change the beneficiary because the insurance is automatically paid to the wife of the veteran.

A—Your husband is badly misinformed. The Veterans Administration must pay the designated beneficiary of record, even though it is evident that this will result in an inequity. If he desires that you receive the proceeds of his NSLI policy, he must name you as the beneficiary.

Around Home

With Jean Cranston

With grapes and apples plentiful now, many homemakers are planning to make jelly. For those with a member of the family on a sugar-free diet, we prepared the following directions and recipes.

In making sugar-free jellies and preserves it is necessary to change two basic jelly ingredients. Use gelatin instead of pectin and use artificial sweetener instead of sugar.

In canning such jellies and preserves it is important that they are tightly sealed to prevent spoilage. Use regular canning lids rather than paraffin topping usually used in jelly making.

These jellies and preserves must be placed in the refrigerator several hours before use to make sure they will be firm for serving. (You cannot get as firm a gel as with sugar and pectin.)

Grape Jelly

4 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
½ cup water

1½ cups unsweetened grape juice
2 tablespoons Sucaryl solution

Wash and rinse 2 half-pint jars and lids; drain on towel. To make jelly, soften gelatin in water. Bring grape juice to a boil; remove from heat. Add softened gelatin, stirring to dissolve. Add Sucaryl. Bring to a full rolling boil. Fill jars to within 1/8-inch of top. Place lids on jars and screw bands tight. Keep in refrigerator.

Makes 2 half-pint jars, each tablespoon 9 calories. (With sugar 33 calories.)

Apple Jelly

4 teaspoons unflavored gelatin

YOUR PEACE OF MIND and HEART
OUR FIRST CONSIDERATION

NAVY AND YOU

Commodore Matthew C. Perry was best known for having established good relations with Japan. His success can be attributed to his mastery in combining diplomacy with dignity and a bold display of impressive force. On July 8, 1853, he unexpectedly appeared in Tokyo Bay with a letter from President Fillmore. He refused to go through diplomatic channels and insisted upon presenting the message to a high official. This was reluctantly agreed to and the commodore presented his documents very formally to the Princes Idzu and Iwami. Perry sailed away leaving word that he would return for an answer. When he returned with a much more powerful squadron his reception was most cordial and a treaty was negotiated, opening two ports to American commerce.

Peach Blossom 4 - H Club Restores Cemetery

A much needed community beautification program has been carried out by the Peach Blossom 4-H Club of Farmington in the renovation of Salem Cemetery just outside the community.

The majority group activity was to use a tractor to pull out larger trees, with bush-ax work on the smaller ones. Other work included raking, planting flowers, painting of the surrounding iron fence, cleaning tombstones, righting fallen stones, and painting salvaged flowers to decorate graves.

If possible, the club will try to control weeds with weed killer, cultivate the flowers, and cut the grass.

Salem Methodist Church was built nearby in 1816 on land conveyed by Thomas Davis May 21, 1817. The site was on Old Kingshighway one-quarter mile south of the road to Williamsville.

Just when the cemetery was started has not been ascertained, but the oldest grave is that of George Powell who died July 31, 1851. The grave of another prominent Farmington resident, James B. R. Powell, is shown in an adjoining picture. He was the father of Dr. J. B. R. Powell, late of Harrington and Farmington.

When the nearby church was abandoned has not been learned, but Robert J. Hill donated a lot, 65 feet by 120 feet, in Farmington Jan. 12, 1872, and a church there was dedicated June 1, 1873.

A part of the old church was built into the new church. Salem Methodist Church was burned in the big Farmington fire of May 27, 1914, and the present structure built soon after with proceeds, $2300 of which were furnished by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The leaders of the Peach Blossom 4-H Club are Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Messick, Rd, Greenwood, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Mesibov, Rd, Houston, and Mrs. Barbara Baker, Greenwood.

At upper right club members are shown painting the iron fence. At lower right, members rake in front of the tombstone of James B. R. Powell, 1822-1878, and wife. The Powell family included, in later years, a doctor, a Delaware judge, and Harold Powell once an owner of the St. Louis Daily Live Stock Reporter, a member of the Corn Belt Farm Dailies.

Editorial Note: It is a wonderful thing the Peach Blossom Club has done. There are too many neglected cemeteries. When they are neglected, we lost an important part of history. The 4-H Club has received a number of letters of commendation from persons whose relatives are buried in the Salem Cemetery.

Office of Publication, 1 Commerce Street, Harrington, Delaware
 Entered as second-class matter August 16, 1946, at the Post Office at Harrington, Delaware, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

The office of the Comptroller of Sussex County has a most peculiar way of making public its annual report to the people.

Here's how it works:
 The Comptroller asks every newspaper in the county how much it would cost to publish the report. It must be published in at least two papers.

The newspapers then submit their bids based generally on their advertising rates.

Advertising rates are based on circulation. The result is that the job of publishing the Comptroller's Report usually falls to the newspapers with the lowest advertising rates, hence the two with lower circulations.

The purpose here is not to begrudge the work that these papers receive. It's fair enough under the law.

But, take this year for example. Our fellow publishers in Selbyville and Georgetown received the job.

This means that only those citizens who subscribe to those papers will be able to read the report.

People in Milford, Seaford and Laurel which are served by papers with much larger circulations will not be able to see the report in their newspapers simply because their papers have higher rates.

This is unfair. It is a report dealing with how the public's money was spent over the year and the people have a right to know. It would be simple if there were one paper with a countywide circulation. There is not.

Therefore, the Comptroller's Office would do well to examine the possibility of revising the policy so that all people of Sussex County would have the opportunity to read in their newspapers what is happening to their tax dollars.
 —Seaford Leader

We suggest the new regime in the Kent County Court House do something its predecessors have neglected—to publish the county's annual financial report in the county's three newspapers.

There is no law requiring this and we have asked our representative, Robert H. Quillen, to introduce one. The law does require the comptroller to publish one in pamphlet form, but we haven't seen one in years. Now's the time "to get with it" and publish it in the county's newspapers.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller
THE BURDEN

I saw a man with a burden large,
 Almost too heavy to carry.
 His features taut, with wrinkled brow,
 Too anxious to rest or tarry.

He finally came to a resting place,
 The burden laid down for a while;
 His face relaxed, the tired look,
 Gave way to a pleasant smile.

So I come to think of a burden we bear,
 A burden we cannot see,
 But it wears us down with worry and woe
 'Till we find the way to be free.

And there is a way to get rid of a load
 When it gets too heavy to bear.
 Let's tell it to the ONE who understands,
 And your burden no longer is there.

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa
Any one aspect of community planning must be related to all others. We are still in the process of learning to plan our communities. The time has come to deal with our growth problems because of conflicting uses and declining resources. Experience shows that state government (the legislature) must be involved with planning to the maximum extent possible.

These were the summary remarks of Robert H. Doyle at a land use conference in Atlanta, Ga. Your county agent here made a whirlwind one-day tour to cover one portion of the conference dealing with land use and agricultural development.

This was a fruitful meeting, Georgia farm leaders are looking at the changing needs of their agriculture and working towards some answers. I hope we are too.

Pessimists tend to look at farming as a declining industry because of fewer jobs. But most who know better look at the tremendous productivity generated by the substitution of machines and capital for the displaced labor. Farm operations have increased also in unit size and have become more specialized.

Prime crop soils are the basis for a strong competitive agriculture. These also seem to be the best soils for more intensive urban development. In Delaware, our poorer crop soils (class III land) makes up roughly a third of our land. In most cases, this poor crop land is equally as good for intensive urban development. We have less than three per cent of the five poorest classes of soils.

Some prime crop land, because of location in relation to other development, cannot be reserved for agriculture. But why not try to consciously save and develop some of our best land as a competitive farm unit with other areas? For after all, we do enjoy a big advantage over other competing areas. We are sitting close to the big markets.

I am sure the effort will take more than zoning as a tool. This is where our professional planners can help rural people make farming a more attractive open space use for land.

Somehow we must develop a "human scale" to our land use planning. I'll say flatly that many of our cities are too big for best living. And some towns are too small for the public amenities that people feel they are entitled to.

Our opportunities for sound economic growth are probably better on Delmarva than in most areas. Our problems have not smothered us, but they will if we continue to do little or nothing about them. Let us be good stewards of our heritage.

Your countyagent is on vacation this week. But it is a busman's holiday. Ed Schabinger and I are in Omaha, Neb., for the annual meeting of our National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

By the time you read this, we will have heard the USDA Secretary, Orville Freeman and several other national farm leaders. We have seen the world's largest livestock yards. We had a steak fry at the Ak-Sar-Ben (spell it backwards) SAC Air Base put on by the Nebraska agents. We have seen "Boys' Town."

Alvy Moore, the Green Acres county agent, was here Thursday. Some of us are not very happy about the image he projects of us on television. But I'll tell you how he explains it after I get home.

About 600 of us attend these national meetings each year. We usually have a total of 1500 to 2200 people in attendance. It is a good chance to trade ideas with agents from all over the country. We probably wouldn't make these trips at all if it were not for seeing these folks once a year.

I have yet to return from these meetings wishing that I could be working somewhere else. The grass may be greener in other places (tho usually not, but Kent County, Delaware, still offers the best challenges for me.

A farm fire safety check-up is a seasonal job—due now. And for this purpose our fire warden's office has given us a supply of inspection blanks. Some 75 points of possible fire hazards are noted. Here as just six of them selected at random:

- 1. Are wires leading to remote buildings of sufficient size to reduce the possibility of a drop in voltage?
2. Have you removed all extension cords from over hooks, nails, or beams, or stretched through doors?
3. Are greases, oils, and flammable liquids stored in an oil house located away from other buildings?
4. Have your stoves, heating boiler, or furnace been kept in good condition and cleaned within the past year?
5. Are all buildings on your farm accessible to fire trucks at all times?

6. Are light fixtures, fuse boxes, and switches kept free of dirt, dust and chaff?

We suggest that you want the complete inspection blank. Much of the information will apply to the urban homestead as well. Just give our Extension Service office a call - 736-1448.

General Banks embarked on the Red River campaign in mid-April, 1864, accompanied by part of the Union's Mississippi fleet. The first engagement of any significance came when Gen. Banks chose to leave his Naval escort and travel overland toward his objective, Shreveport, Louisiana. Banks was enticed into a dense forest and defeated at the hands of General Taylor at Savine Cross Roads. Taylor, believing the Northern force had been greatly weakened, again made contact but was decisively defeated at Pleasant Hill. Banks, however, gave up his advantage by retreating. This enabled Gen. Taylor to regroup his forces and to shell the Union fleet from Grand Ecore back to Alexandria where Gen. A. J. Smith repelled the "Rebs."

Enthusiasm Shown To Log Contest Plans for 1968

Power squadron members have responded with enthusiasm to plans for a Delmarva Cup predicted log contest around the Peninsula next summer, reports Charles Saunders, chairman of the Planning Committee.

Mr. Saunders, who is manager of the Delmarva Power and Light office in Laurel, and an experienced boatman, made his report at the regular meeting of Delmarva Hospitality Incorporated on Sept. 11 at the offices of the Delmarva Advisory Council in Salisbury.

He is now recruiting Delmarvians active in boating to serve on the five committees which will set up and run the contest. These committees will lay out the course and check points of the contest, line up the backing and welcome at check-point communities, arrange for awards and trophies, take care of sanctions, rules and judging, and arrange publicity through national boating magazines and boat shows this winter.

The Delmarva Cup is planned as a continuing, annual sporting event through which the Peninsula should become a familiar geographic shape, well and widely known for its harbors, beaches and unique scenic and recreational attractions.

Members of Delmarva Hospitality Incorporated also discussed at the meeting ways to step up regional pride through the increased sale of Delmarva Ambassador tags. Wayne Browning of Tasley, a vice president of the organization for Virginia, hopes that classes in high schools in his state will be selling them as a money making project this fall.

Mrs. Eleanor Stagg, a Maryland vice president, reported on the excellent support the group has received from merchants and businessmen who purchased space in the brochure for the antique Flea Market and chicken barbecue to be held on the grounds of the Greenway Inn on Sun., Sept. 17, from noon to 8 p.m.

A report from John Cooper of the advertising department of Delmarva Power and Light in Wilmington outlined the thinking of his committee on a visitors guide book to Delmarva which the group hopes eventually to finance and publish.

Roy C. Tolbert, executive secretary, reported on visits to the Peninsula of Donald Y. McCoy, director of the national Discover America program, Ken Scott of ABC News, Callender of the AAA American Motorist Magazine, John W. Lindeman of the National Association of Travel Organizations, Inc. and the Committee on Tourism of the Maryland Legislative Council.

Next Sunday, Oct. 1, at 8 a.m. the Methodist Men will meet. There will be a worldwide communion service at 11 a.m.

4-H'er to Compete in Regional Tractor Event

Seventeen-year-old Henry Retz, Middletown, will compete with tractor-driving contest winners from 22 states at the Eastern U. S. 4-H Tractor Operators' contest. The 17th annual competition will be held September 26, during the Virginia State Fair, Richmond, Va.

Retz earned the right to compete by winning the Delaware state 4-H tractor driving contest. A senior and honor student in Middletown High School, he has been active in 4-H for four years. He is president of the Ever Ready 4-H club led by Mrs. Clara V. Feucht and LeRoy Collins. He was a member of the New Castle County soil judging team that won in state competition and also won honors at the annual Delaware Crop Show for his corn entry.

Retz has had a great deal of experience driving a tractor on his parents' 360-acre grain farm near Middletown. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Retz gave him definite responsibilities for farm equipment maintenance at home, and this summer he worked on a neighbor's dairy farm mowing, chopping ensilage, cultivating, plowing and discing. "The 4-H tractor program has helped me learn to use and service many different farm implements so that I can operate them safely," Retz points out.

Tom Williams, agricultural engineer at the University of Delaware, will accompany Retz to the regional event and serve as his coach. Contestants will arrive in Richmond Sun., Sept. 24, to participate in a get-acquainted banquet and tour colonial Williamsburg, Jamestown and Yorktown.

Designed to give 4-H'ers an opportunity to demonstrate their knowledge of tractor maintenance and their skill in operation, the regional contest will include a written exam on maintenance and safe operation and a practical exam on maintenance. The driving part of the competition includes handling a tractor and wagon through a course set up to represent a farm-lot situation.

The nation's oldest tractor contest, the regional meeting is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of all participating states including University of Delaware and Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg.

Broiler Housing Seminar To Show New Fan System

An entirely new automatic method of controlling ventilation in broiler houses will be an added feature of the sixth annual Broiler Housing Seminar. The meeting is scheduled for September 27 at the University of Delaware's Georgetown Substation.

Harry W. Prosser, manager of agricultural engineering, Woods Fan Co., Colchester, Great Britain, will describe the fan control system. Used extensively in England, the system uses solid state circuits to provide infinitely variable fan speed control. According to Prosser, "It gives the most accurate and sophisticated temperature control for a livestock house at an economical price."

The seminar will emphasize windowless housing research and include discussions of financing and flooring. Dr. David Sainsbury, veterinarian, Cambridge, England, will describe housing in Britain and the environmental needs of broilers.

University of Delaware poultry research associate, George Chaloupka, will outline the results of a year's study on windowless housing. Additional University staff members taking part in the program include E. W. Walpole, agricultural engineer, and W. T. McAllister, extension economist.

Poultrymen planning to attend the seminar must register by September 20, according to Ray Lloyd, extension poultryman at the substation. Last year, poultry industry leaders from more than a dozen states attended the event. According to Lloyd, it is the only seminar devoted exclusively to broiler housing held anywhere in the country.

The annual meeting is sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Services of Delaware, Maryland and Virginia, the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association and Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc.

Beef Producers To Tour Sussex County Farms

Dr. Myron D. Lacy, Cornell University, New York, will be the featured speaker at the dinner meeting following the Delaware State beef producers tour of Sussex County beef farms on October 3. Lacy, extension beef specialist, will discuss successful beef production. An authority on beef cattle feeding, breeding and management, Lacy was presented the 1966 American Society of Animal Science Extension Award and the Swift and Company Award for outstanding contributions to the beef cattle industry in New York State. He is the author of more than 250 articles covering every phase of beef cattle production.

The beef tour will visit three Sussex County farms used for cow-calf operations. It offers an opportunity for producers to evaluate beef cattle operations and discuss their management, according to Dr. George Morrow, extension livestock specialist at the University of Delaware. More than 40 beef producers from Delaware and Maryland are expected to attend.

Beginning at 1 p.m., the tour will visit the J. Howard Isaacs farm, Milford, to see the herd of 200 Angus; the cow-calf operation features year-round pasture feeding with a minimum of labor and equipment. During the stop at the Carlton Draper farm, Milton, the producers will observe a herd of 350 Santa Gertrudis. James Bounds, farm manager, will discuss the cow-calf operation which uses extensive marshland pasture again with a minimum of labor and equipment.

The tour will also include the purebred Polled Herford herd at the Wayne Rollins farm, Lewes. Curl Hobbs, manager, will discuss management practices and demonstrate performance testing.

Beef producers interested in the tour should make reservations by September 29 with Dr. George Morrow, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, or with county agents in Newark, Dover and Georgetown.

Registration on Careers Day will begin at 9:15 a.m. Visitors will have the opportunity to tour the college facilities; during an informal lunch hour students can talk with university staff members about admission, courses and financing.

Send any inquiry to Dr. William E. McDaniel, dean, College of Agricultural Sciences, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware 19711.

Careers Day In Ag. Sciences Set

"Science—A Doorway to Life" will be the theme of a Careers Day planned by the College of Agricultural Sciences at the University of Delaware. It will be held Saturday, Nov. 4, in Agricultural Hall on the university campus starting at 9:15 a.m.

In announcing the event, Dr. William E. McDaniel, dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences, said the program is designed to supply information to high school students. Careers Day will provide information on college programs in plant and animal sciences, high school and college teaching, agricultural engineering and management aspects of food and fiber production, processing and marketing.

The program is aimed especially at high school juniors and seniors, but other high school students are also welcome. Parents, high school administrators, counselors and vocational agriculture and science teachers are urged to attend.

The 350 students who started school fall into three major divisions of the college: Occupational-technical, College Parallel, and General Studies. An additional 350 students are expected to be registered in time to start evening classes on October 2.

Bivens, who is the former chief state planning officer, emphasized the school's "open door policy" by saying that the basic philosophy of the college is to offer a practical education to anyone who's 18 years or older who may or may not be a high school graduate, as long as he or she has the desire and interest to further their education.

The new school is located in the facilities formerly occupied by the William Jason High School in Georgetown, and is undergoing physical alterations, including complete air-conditioning, concurrent with present school operations. It is governed by a board of trustees appointed by Governor Terry and chaired by E. Hall Downes of Dover. Paul K. Weatherly serves as executive director of the college system. Weatherly, a veteran in the field of two-year technical and community colleges, comes to the state from a similar post in South Carolina.

In addressing the faculty and staff of the college several days ago, Governor Terry re-emphasized his personal interest and pride in the school's beginning and asked the staff to make it "the best college of its type in the entire United States."

Harriers Seek To Pad Long Win Streak at Seaford

Harold McDonald's state champion Harrington High cross-country Lions open another tough schedule at Seaford on Tuesday afternoon.

The Lions have dropped only one race in over fifty starts and have a current win skein near thirty. The locals will be striving to protect their record of never having lost a meet to a Kent or Sussex County team. This is Harrington's tenth year in the hill-and-dale sport with lower Delaware pioneer Coach McDonald. The Lions have never had a losing season.

Of 1966's perfect-record team only team captain Danny Hicks was graduated. However, Allen Parker, a sensational 13-year-old, doesn't plan to run at the ripe old age of 14. Parker was No. 5 behind Hicks in No. 4.

With two of the first seven harriers of 1966 not coming back, H.H.S. now will pin its hopes on newcomer Roger Jarrell, Bob Rash No. 7 last fall and Gary Simpson and Jack Warrington. Simpson and Warrington were terrific runners in 1965 but sat out last year. These two six-footers can really move out! But this pair and Rash reported late and are a long way from top shape. At their peak this trio can make Harrington much stronger than last year's all-winning team. Simpson has already moved into No. 6, with Warrington in No. 7 and Rash in No. 9 after only two workouts. Coach McDonald knows that he can depend on Chris Wetherhold, Ron Morris, Nick Morris, Danny Hitchens and Roger Jarrell. Thus, the key men, who can make the difference between a good team and another great one are Simpson, Warrington and Rash.

12-Year-old Jackie D. Parker has surprised a lot of people, as he broke his record three straight times and now boasts a glittering 16.07 for 2.4 rugged miles and a No. 8 ranking.

Brad Morris has to work harder than most to get results but is the most improved Lion with four straight new personal marks. He ran faster each time. Tommy Clarke is another 12-year-old with great promise. He and Jackie D. should be varsity performers as freshmen if not sooner.

Eighth-graders John Shultie and Steve Gannon are doing very well as first-year runners.

A quartet of fourth graders ride out to Killen's Pond once in a while with this writer and run the course while he hold the stop watch. We have included their clockings with the high school team, for the purpose of comparison, although they are not eligible to join the team or compete for several years yet. But what competitors they will make at that time, if we can keep their interest up! A couple of these boys could possibly represent their country in the Olympic Games.

Danny Porter, 10, in only one workout is in 16th place of 40 harriers. Mark Krouse, 9, is 18th, 23 seconds behind Porter. Ray Gannon, eight years-old, has done 18.43. Howard Parker, 8, in his only effort did a fine 20 minutes and 10 seconds. Anyone for Little League Cross-country?

Injury Ridden Lions Bow 49-0 To Bridgeville

Harrington High School's battered Lions were routed 49-0 by a potent Bridgeville eleven on Friday night, in the curtain-raiser for both schools.

The visiting Mustangs were on the scoreboard in four plays despite kicking off to H.H.S. Gordon Jarrell, a lightweight senior out for football for the first time, took the kickoff but fumbled after being hit by a burly, red-and-white clad visitor. Bridgeville recovered on the seven yard line. Two runs netted a yard each before Earl Harrington circled right end for a touchdown.

Jarrell again received the kickoff but was downed after two or three steps. Oscar Matthews was hurt, one play later and was unavailable for an indefinite period. Bob Donovan was also injured and left for good, early in the going. With three or four other Lions on the sidelines, two because of an auto accident, Harrington was unable to make a fight of it.

Steve Welch tried two passes which fell incomplete and was downed by Jefferson of the Mustangs on third down, for a ten-yard loss back to the 2. Wayne Melvin kicked out to the 24. Francis Johnson hit the line for eight yards. Ed Parker picked up a couple. Al Horne got 5 and Gary Pusey passed to Jeff James for nine yards and a second tally.

The Mustangs' third touchdown saw Johnson gain 13 yards and then hit paydirt on a 40 yard scamper. He set up the fourth goal of the quarter with a run of 25 yards to the 10. Horne was over in two tries.

Bridgeville added two touchdowns in the second quarter and single tallies in each of the final two periods. After seven straight extra point tries failed, Jefferson finally booted one over the crossbar.

Harrington's bright spots were few in number. If the locals got a first down, we didn't see it. Wayne Melvin got off a 40 yard kick and later made a good run-back against Bridgeville's second team. Steve Welch gained nine yards on a running play. Finally, Bill Moore intercepted a Mustang aerial and ran it back 40 yards as the game ended. He threatened to go all the way. Shortly before, a Bridgeville player suffered a knee-cap injury and had to be removed by the Harrington Fire Department rescue wagon, as had Matthews earlier.

Delmar comes here Friday night fresh off a 40-6 lacing of Rehoboth. The Wildcats are led by rough Burt Culver. Culver weighs around 205 pounds and led the Henlopen Conference in scoring last year despite missing the first three games. At Rehoboth he was supposed to have been hampered somewhat by a strep throat but tallied 16 points. He and Bridgeville's Johnson may be in the thick of the fight for the state scoring crown.

Harrington coach Bill Muehleisen is hoping to have some of his regulars back off the injury list. This would enable the Lions to make a better showing against another tough opponent.

26 Lads Out For Jr. High Football

Jim Hawpe and his assistant, Charley Miller, are drilling 26 aspirants for berths on the Lion junior high football team. As might be expected most of these are freshmen with only a half dozen seventh or eighth graders.

At present games have been lined up with Riverview Junior High of Caroline County, Md., Caesar Rodney and Delmar. A full schedule will appear in the Journal at a later date.

The purpose of junior high football is to develop material for the varsity squad. Some of last year's best junior high players did not report to the varsity this autumn. We are sure that football fans in this community, who help pay the cost of Little League football and junior high football are disappointed, when a kid with as much as six years of such preparation behind him does not play varsity football. But as anyone who works with kids can tell you, some of them will stick by you and some will let you down with a resounding crash. Loyalty and gratitude are words not to be found in many youthful vocabularies.

Harrington Bowling League

By Leah Wheeler

Joe Bogden, with a fine third game effort, bowling a grand 242 game, enabled Hamilton Fund to split four games with league leader Kent Gas. Though Kent Gas lost two games they still retained their two game lead they held from the previous week.

Hamilton Fund finds itself still in second place, tho tied with McKnatt Funeral Home and Robbins Hardware. McKnatt Funeral Home and Robbins Hardware each won all four of their games to move into position to overtake the leader, should they falter.

Taylor & Messick moved up from the seventh spot to take command of the fifth place position, winning all four games.

Jarrell Fuel and Penn. R.R. find themselves tied for the sixth place spot this week; Jarrell Fuel coming all the way from cellar position, winning all four games. Doing just the opposite, Penn. R.R. surrendered all four of their games to drop down from the third place spot.

Hobbs Newsstand, fourth last week, finds itself tied for the eighth spot with Wally's Garage, both teams losing all four games in Tuesday night's bowling.

Acme dropped down a notch by losing three of four games, and faces a tough climb back out of the cellar position.

Dallas Hayman had a very good night, rolling a fine 213 game and a great 584 series. He is the top man to beat now for a fine series. Marion Brown had a fine 542 series. Joe Bogden, along with his very good high game, rolled a good 526 series. Robert Jarrell distributed his strikes and spares fairly even as he came up with a good 514 series.
