

CITY HIRES TWO FULL-TIME POLICEMEN IN SHORT ORDER

Two full-time police officers were hired by the City Council Monday night to fill the vacancies caused by resignations. The men will start work immediately, Chief of Police Franklin Rogers said Tuesday.

The new patrolmen are Alexander Philip Sharon, of Bridgeville, and Frederick Taylor, of Blades. Both have had experience and both will start at $80 per week.

They replace Patrolmen George Collins and Robert Darling who resigned. Collins is working at General Foods at Dover.

Other action of the City Council Monday night was as follows:

Tabled a motion to appoint a street supervisor until applicants could be interviewed. The city is interested in an individual with mechanical ability, especially in plumbing.

Accepted a bid, the sole one tendered, of $10,944 from W. B. Mitten & Sons, Dover, to construct a dry pit adjacent to the Liberty Street sewage pumping station, but acceptance of the bid is based on approval of the city's consulting engineer, Dudley Willis.

Agreed to removal of flag pole by Harrington Fire Company to city hall lot. Agreed to ask Ted Dean, city hall janitor, to raise and lower the flag as he is always available.

Agreed to pick up option on land for expansion of sewage disposal plant.

Jester Is Named Personnel Chief

I. Donald Jester, a salesman and former funeral director was named Kent County personnel director Tuesday.

His appointment to the $4,800-a-year post was aimed at stemming the tide of county employees leaving their jobs because of dissatisfaction with pay.

Even before Jester's appointment, however, Glenn A. Richter, Kent County Levy Court president, said the appointment of a personnel director — plus the filling of two related posts and the payment of secretarial and clerical help — would take up all funds which may have been available to meet the dissatisfied employees' pay demands.

The 48-year-old Jester, who lives on Thompsonville Road between Milford and Frederica, is a graduate of the Eckels School of Mortuary Science in Philadelphia, and worked as a funeral director for 15 years. More recently he worked as a salesman for a Milford farm supplies company. He is a registered Republican.

He was appointed under the Kent County Home Rule Bill and is authorized to recommend means for classification of county employees and a uniform-pay plan to the personnel board, which will make the final decisions.

In addition to Jester's appointment, the Kent Levy Court appointed two members to the personnel board and five members to the Kent County Board of Adjustment, which will serve as an appeal board for decisions.

Schoolager Needs Study Space

The kitchen table is fine for eating, but your schoolagers need a better place to study. Students faced with heavy homework—and who isn't these days?—need a special study corner, according to Miss Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware.

Find the quietest and most useable space. It could be in the basement if it's adequately lighted; in the bedroom, if there is space; or in a corner of the dining room, if you can screen off a section for privacy. There's nothing wrong with using the kitchen or dining room table, but it runs second best to some other arrangement that offers privacy.

Choose a small desk for a study table at a comfortable height with plenty of leg room and desk top space. If the desk top is dark, add a light-colored blotter to cut down on glare. Adjacent walls should, if possible, be light-colored also. How about putting up a bulletin board if the walls are dark? It's handy for reminders as well as souvenirs.

Invest in the best study lamp you can get, preferably an upright lamp with a wide shade, inverted diffusion bulb and a three-way switch. Two wall lamps on either side of the desk will also provide good lighting. Don't spare the wattage on the bulbs; you want adequate lighting throughout the study area. According to Better Light, Better Sight Bureau, a minimum of 200 watts of light is recommended for studying.

A small file, even one improvised from a cardboard box, can help students keep important papers in one place. Manilla folders with a different colored tab for each subject aid in organization. Small boxes glued inside a larger shallow box can help separate paper clips, thumb tacks, erasers and pencils.

Add a straight, comfortable chair, suggests Miss Morris. Arrange bricks and boards for a bookcase or hanging shelves supported by brackets to store books, magazines and cherished possessions. In short, make the study corner a place your schoolager would like to use. Decorate with her favorite colors—even if it's just a bulletin board painted pink or a pink blotter. Add a personal touch—how about a picture of the Monkees on the wall?

Results of an autopsy by Dr. Judith Tobin, assistant state medical examiner, at Nanticoke Memorial Hospital were expected to be released Wednesday pending completion of an investigation by state police.

Ropke was not married and had been employed by the E. R. Trucking Co. of Milford about five years.

Frederica Trucker Killed In Kent Crash

A Frederica tractor-trailer driver was killed Monday night when his rig struck the rear of a truck at the entrance of Dover Air Force Base.

State police said Wilbur Ropke, 34, who lived with his parents in Frederica, died about 11:50 in the smashed cab of his truck.

Authorities said Ropke's vehicle crashed into the rear of a truck operated by Sherman Jackson, 35, of Ellendale, which was stopped for a traffic light on U.S. 113 at the entrance of the base.

Police said both trucks were loaded with dressed poultry and were en route to New York City from a Milford poultry firm. The trucks reportedly left the poultry firm together for the New York run.

Results of an autopsy by Dr. Judith Tobin, assistant state medical examiner, at Nanticoke Memorial Hospital were expected to be released Wednesday pending completion of an investigation by state police.

Christmas Parade Preparations Are Underway

This year's Christmas parade, sponsored by the Harrington Jaycees will be held December 2, at 1:30 p.m., with the rain date being Dec. 9.

The route of the parade will be: lining up on East Liberty Street, down Delaware Avenue to Center Street, then to Dorman Street, to Commerce Street; down Commerce Street to Clark Street, and ending at Quillens Shopping Center.

There will be commercial, and non-commercial floats, bands, horses, clowns, antique autos, marching teams and various other units in the parade for the enjoyment of the community.

Four of the five judges have been chosen. There will be three judges from other communities and two from Harrington. They will view the parade from a point of Delaware Avenue and also on Clark Street. The criteria for judging has not yet been set.

The awards will be in the following categories:

Best float in parade—a trophy. This trophy is to be presented by last year's winner of the trophy.

Commercial float — 1st, $25; 2nd, $10; 3rd, $5.

Non-commercial float — 1st, $25; 2nd, $10; 3rd, $5.

Antique Auto — 1st, $25; 2nd, $10; 3rd, $5.

Best decorated car—1st, $10; 2nd, $5.

In addition to these prizes, plans are made to have honorable mention awards for public service to the community, and first, second and third place ribbons for the awards in other categories of the parade and in addition to the monetary awards.

It is not too late to enter a unit in the parade—just call Jack Wyatt, parade marshal, at 398-8307 or Phillip Price, co-parade marshal at 398-8497, after six in the evening.

Kent Planner Cost Listed $27,000

Asst. State Planner Joseph T. Paterno Tuesday night told the Kent County Planning Commission that at least $27,000 would be needed to assemble an adequate planning staff.

According to Paterno, salary for a director of planning with a master's degree and some experience in the field would range from $10,000 to $14,000 a year. The planning director would also need a draftsman and a secretary.

Salaries for a draftsman would range from $5,000 to $7,000 a year, he estimated, while a secretary's salary would be from $4,000 to $6,000.

"But these are only salaries," he said. "When you start supplanting them with equipment, it will cost an additional $1,000 per person."

Later in the meeting, Rudolph F. Jass, state planning director, said that two-third federal aid is "generally available" for county comprehensive planning.

Among the federal requirements, he mentioned were staff experience, and set time periods for planning projects.

The proposed hiring of a planning director comes at a time when Kent County is handicapped by a lack of funds.

Harold E. Remley, county auditor, recently projected a budgetary surplus of $31,000 for fiscal year from which the county is expected to furnish additional office space for a rash of appointments permitted under its county home rule bill.

James David Gaskins, 24, of Harrington has been charged with second-degree murder in the death of Clemmon Gaskins, 37, of Frankford.

Gaskins appeared in Magistrate Court 3 in Georgetown and is being held for Superior Court at Sussex Correctional Institution in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Police say the two began arguing inside the Double D Tavern on the Airport Road near Georgetown over the validity of each other's last name. The two went outside to settle it and Clemmon Gaskins took a 12-gauge shotgun from his car's trunk, according to police, while James Gaskins had a .38 caliber revolver on his person.

The victim, with two gunshot wounds, was taken by the Georgetown ambulance to Nanticoke Memorial Hospital in Seaford where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Pipeline Work Start Ordered

The Kent County Levy Court Tuesday answered International Latex Corp.'s recent demand for sewers by authorizing consulting engineers to begin work on the county sewage pipeline.

A week ago, Robert C. Gregory, manager of Latex Tylac division, warned that unless the county presented a timetable for county sewers, a proposed $5-million addition to the Tylac synthetic rubber plant in Cheswood would not be built, Levy Court President Glenn A. Richter said.

Accordingly, the Levy Court authorized consulting engineers O'Brien and Gere of Syracuse, N. Y., to begin design work on the Cheswood-to-Dover phase of the sewage pipeline.

The pipeline, which at first will carry secondary wastes from Cheswood to the St. Jones River near Dover, eventually will pick up wastes from Delaware State College, Latex, Dover Air Base and possibly the City of Dover, and carry them to the Murderkill River. There, they would receive treatment in a proposed lagoon system.

The estimated cost of the entire project is $4 million.

Attendance Down At Local Raceway

Handle and attendance at Harrington Raceway both show decreases over 1966 comparative total as the 60-night harness meeting heads into its second half.

Daily crowds are down nearly 400 nightly. A total of 50,549 have passed the turnstiles this season, compared to 59,539 last year.

Handle this meet totals $1,974,044, compared to $2,245,727 at a comparable period last fall—a decrease of $271,683.

Track officials have undertaken a number of projects to beef up both attendance and handle figures down the stretch. The under-grandstand area is being closed in to protect patrons from the weather elements. The back wall already has been completed. Work on the front facing the track is scheduled for completion with in the next week.

The front will feature glass running the entire length of the lower level.

Torrid battles still are in progress for driving laurels. Art Bier leads the pack in the race for Universal Driving Rating honors with a 433 percentage. Included in his total are ten wins.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

The job of keeping the cupboard full is a gigantic one and one that keeps thousands of people on the job constantly.

Take, for example, the scientists in agriculture. They work with nature itself: air, water, land, fibers, plants, and animals—everything that sustains life. Mostly they are concerned with producing enough food of the right kind—for now and for 25 or 50 years from now. We here in America enjoy the greatest volume and variety of good food of any people in the world. Agricultural scientists and informed farmers intend to keep it that way.

When a farm crop gets into trouble with insects, disease, or drought, the men in agriculture work together to solve the problem. If an agricultural product doesn't sell in the consumer market, the reason is found; then something is done about it. Remember when you wouldn't eat pork because it was too fat? It took nearly twenty years of selected breeding and experimentation to produce the meat-type hog; but today we have it. It's this type of hog that provides the lean bacon and choice ham we are enjoying.

Now, animal scientists are developing a new strain of sheep, appropriately named Morlam. Ewes of this strain produce an extra crop of lambs every two years—and more choice leg of lamb.

Another big success story in agriculture is that of chicken and turkey. These cost less per edible pound today than they did during the depression days of the 1920's. At this time poultry was marketed live. Many of us have conveniently forgotten those days. Our poultry now comes ready-to-cook, chilled or frozen, cut up or whole—just as we like it.

Today our poultry is meatier, more compact and can be raised in much less time at lower cost. Advances in handling and marketing poultry have climaxed the

Low Back Pain Can Be Helped

Oh, my aching back! How often have you heard someone say that? Or said it yourself.

Backache is such a common ailment among civilized man that there are very few adults who haven't had a touch of it now and then.

Some physicians credit soft beds, soft chairs and other comforts of modern civilization with an increase in the number of persons who suffer from low back pain, says "Today's Health," the magazine of the American Medical Association.

Once called lumbago, back pain is often caused by poor posture, obesity, ill-fitting or inappropriate shoes, a sedentary life, overly strenuous work, or participating in sports. It may also be due to disease not directly relating to the back or to injury or strain.

Low back pain may occur at any age but it seems to bother middle-aged persons most. It occurs in both sexes and in all races, and is more common among people who do work that requires stooping or lifting.

Good posture of the entire body is important in preventing low back pain. Sit with the head, shoulders and trunk erect. When standing, the spine should be straight. Not the military "ramrod" position, but straight.

A soft, saggy bed and low, soft chairs contribute to backache. Chairs, ideally, should be firm, straight and have the contour of a normal back.

A low-heeled shoe is best for standing or walking. High-heeled shoes tend to throw the posture off balance and increase strain on the lower back. Loafers, ballet slippers and sneakers also may lead to backache if worn extensively.

In lifting heavy objects, keep the back straight and lift with knees and thigh muscles, rather than bending over and straining the spine.

Like many other ailments, backache may be aggravated by emotional tension or anxiety.

Treatment of backache varies with the cause. When it's due to strain, usually rest, heat and a pain reliever will help. Massage, used in moderation, may help relieve discomfort. Your doctor may also recommend exercise to strengthen the muscles of the back and to improve posture.

FENCE TALK with George K. Vapaa

"Now don't you come back with any big ideas from that beef tour." So spoke one of our farm wives to her husband as he left home. At least she recognized why county agents like to show a farmer what his neighbors are doing.

The beef enterprise is not a big one in Delaware in terms of number of farmers. But for those who are working with beef cattle, it is an important business.

Our tour last week was to three farms in Sussex County. The Howard Isaac's farms feature year round grazing on double cropped land using Angus cattle. The Carlton Draper farm has Santa Gertrudis cattle and features marshland pasture with cannery factory waste used as supplement feed.

The Wayne Rollins farm near Lewes has a purebred polled Hereford herd. Our group attempted to grade a dozen calves according to type and shape. This is a kind of beauty contest with the profit goal as the basis of selection. Carl Hobbs, the manager, also showed us the various age pens and explained the breeders standards.

Our day wound up with Myron D. Lacy as after-dinner speaker. He is livestock specialist at Cornell University in New York State. He feels that beef production is a profitable way to use roughage feeds that might otherwise go to waste. But he believes that zero pasture programs probably cannot pay for beef cattle. He suggests the beef enterprise fits well with other farm programs, and is especially suited for retirement farms, or for people whose main employment is off the farm.

I visited another beef farm near Omaha, Nebraska, several weeks ago. The farmer had 4000 head of fattening stock and used a dry lot feed program. Corn silage was his basic feed. But two other costs drew our attention. He pays $20 per acre and $6 per head as taxes each year. I thought I was home again when he said "Most of our taxes seem to go for downtown welfare."

All risk crop insurance is coming to Delaware in 1968. Three representatives of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, headed by J. B. Farrar, made a survey of the risks that our farmers face with corn, soybeans, and small grain.

I told them that our major risk most of the time is dry weather, followed next by hurricane winds. Of course outcrops were a major problem this year in May. I rather hope the August 3 and 4 rains, averaging perhaps 12 inches, occur only once in about 30 or 40 years.

Local sales agents will be tarried by FCIA during the winter. They prefer to use farmers who want a side line income. Let me know if you may be interested.

Crop insurance guarantees a 75 per cent cash return when premiums have been paid. Let's assume a normal yield of 60 bushels per acre over the past 10 years. A farmer can be paid for 45 bushels per acre at three levels of cost: 80 cents, $1 or $1.25 per bushel. This means a $45 per acre return at $1 per bushel and a premium cost of about $3.00 per acre. The premium cost works out to about 6% of the possible guarantee return. If an individual has few losses, then he can earn a lower premium rate.

Crop insurance can help a farmer get needed crop loans because the crop growing risk is lowered.

Swedish food handlers, 30 of them, are having a short course at the University of Delaware this week. Your county agent is helping with the program, the part which deals with visits to our food retailers and distributors.

The experiences should be of as much benefit to us as to our visitors. For the cooperative method of handling business is most strong in the Scandinavian countries. Their comparisons with our methods should be most interesting.

The Food Business Institute has grown out of our food distribution education program. Robert Bull, the director, now enjoys an international reputation in food marketing. His literature has been translated to several languages.

Delawareans should recognize the high status that this marketing program enjoys with the food trade. They support the work with grant funds aimed at reducing food handling costs. This has the effect of holding down the prices that consumers pay for food.

Farmers are glad to see someone else along the line of food from farm to home trying to cut costs. The farmer's share of the consumer food dollar is less than 40 cents. The rest goes for processing and retailing.

Mrs. Nelson's class went on a field trip to South Bowers last Friday, and visited the site where excavation is underway to uncover Indian artifacts. Following is a report from various students of that trip:

Indian Relics Our class went to South Bowers on a field trip. There I saw Indian skeletons. The bones were in many different positions. Some other things we saw were stone and clay pipes, corn grinders, arrow heads, and a spear. I enjoyed this trip—Diane Coates

Our Field Trip Mrs. Nelson's class went on a trip to South Bowers Beach, Fri., Oct. 6th. We went on a bus. Our chaperones were Mrs. Robert Smith and Mark Smith.

We saw Indian skeletons. The Indians came from New York about one thousand years ago. They came here for conch shells.

Mr. Thomas, the State Archeologist, and Mrs. Lewis showed us around. We saw arrow heads, a bone harpoon, a beaver's teeth, and a skull dish. —Robin Outten

Indians From New York The Indians we saw at South Bowers Beach came to Delaware from New York to get shells. They buried their dead people in dumps. They burned a few of the Indians and put their things that they owned with them. The skeletons were scary looking!

—Kathleen Harrington

Indian Bodies Mrs. Nelson's class went to South Bowers Beach to see the Indian bodies. They went Friday, October 6th. They went at 12:45 and came back at 2:45. The bus driver was Mr. Dill. Mrs. Lewis showed them around. Mr. Thomas was the State Archeologist. They had a very, very nice time. —Selena Mertz

Indian Skeletons Friday, Oct. 6th at 12:45 we went to South Bowers Beach. When we got there we saw many skeletons. We also saw some other things too. Mrs. Lewis explained to us about the skeletons. The skeletons are believed to be 1,000 years old. We had a lot of fun! —Neal Smith

Indians We went to see some Indian bones that were there for a thousand years. The Indians came here to Delaware because they wanted some conch shells. Up in New York there were no conch shells. The Indians believed in heaven so when an Indian died they would bury paints or arrow heads with him to use in heaven. —Margaret Kinney

Indians at South Bowers Our class went to South Bowers Beach on Friday, October 6, 1967. We left at 12:45 and got back at 2:45. Mrs. Lewis said the Indians showed the white people how to plant gardens and tobacco. The class saw the skeletons. I saw a skull dish. We sang on the bus. I liked our trip very much. —Paula Clendaniel

Our Trip Our class went on a field trip. We went to South Bowers. We saw the Indians' bodies that were buried. The guide told us the Indians came from New York to get sea shells. We saw some of the things that were buried with the bodies.

—Dolores Kukulka

Our Trip Our class went to South Bowers. We left at 12:45 and came back at 2:45. We saw lots of Indian bones. The Indians came about 1,000 years ago from New York.

The Indians were the first ones to learn to smoke tobacco in pipes. Indians were sometimes burned before they were put in their graves. When the Indians died they were buried like they slept. Indians smoked out of a pipe that looked like a candle holder.

We saw the Indian skull dish. There were Indian women and children's teeth. We had lots of fun and enjoyed the trip.

—Cheryl Short

Our Trip We went on a trip. We had lots of fun! We saw lots of things. We saw a harpoon, a skull, skeletons, and a beaver's teeth. A thousand years ago these Indians lived in New York. They came to Delaware to get conch shells. The Indians were very poor and some died. When they buried them, they didn't put them in boxes. They just put them in the ground. —Stephanie D. Powell

All About the Indians The Indians made arrowheads out of flint. The Indians used arrowheads and spears buried with their dead. When they buried their dead, they were curled up just like when they sleep. Sometimes they were buried close together.

They used shells for their money. They used big shells for bowls. Most of the teeth of the dead were thin and some were worn down to the root. They used pipes to smoke. The Indians gave tobacco to the white men.

The Indians at South Bowers came there for shells. They would use a tomahawk to cut corn stalks down. They had deer antlers and used it for hammers.

After heavy shelling by large United States naval forces the allies moved on to Okinawa and the very threshold of Japan. New Staff at U. of D. To Work On Poultry Disease

Three staff members added to the department of animal sciences and agricultural biochemistry at the University of Delaware will work on poultry condemnation research. The appointments of Dr. William C. Krauss, associate professor and poultry pathologist; Dr. Thomas C. Maddux, research associate; and Mrs. Barbara Garritt, research technician were announced by Dr. William Benton, department chairman.

Krauss will lead projects aimed at reducing the overall poultry condemnation rate suffered by Delmarva's poultry industry; Maddux and Mrs. Garritt will assist in this program. They will investigate poultry diseases, including avian leucosis and respiratory diseases. Leucosis is one of the most important causes of condemnation in Delaware. Dr. Krauss will also teach in the colleges' pre-veterinary program.

Poultry is federally inspected at processing plants and not released for sale if there is any evidence of disease. Because of such inspections the consumer can be certain she is buying wholesome birds at the supermarket.

However, the poultry industry loses income whenever birds are condemned. Also, by reducing condemnation losses, the Delaware poultry industry would be able to greatly enhance its competitive position with other regions. Poultry industry in Delaware is increasingly concerned with the growing rate of condemnations which are up from 2.19 per cent in July, 1963, to 4.55 per cent in July, 1967. This compares with the rate of condemnation in Maine which has gone from 1.73 per cent to 3.01 per cent in the same period.

Krauss received a master of science degree from the University of Delaware and a doctor of veterinary medicine degree from Ohio State University, Columbus. Previously on the university staff as research associate from 1960 to 1964, Krauss also spent three years in industry with E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co.

Maddux holds the doctor of veterinary medicine degree from Auburn University, Auburn, Ala. He was field technical representative for a commercial pharmaceutical firm. Mrs. Garritt, who majored in animal science, is a 1967 graduate from the College of Agricultural Sciences at the University of Delaware.

Veterans News

Although nearly two million living veterans and widows and children of deceased veterans received automatic pension increases Oct. 1, under the new Public Law 90-77, the Veterans Administration estimates that there are more than 14,000 veterans and widows who cannot receive increased payment until they apply for them.

Until the VA is contacted by or on behalf of these veterans and widows scattered throughout the nation, it has no way of knowing who or where they are, according to Leon Fields, manager of the Wilmington VA Regional Office.

Included in this group are certain veterans who have been receiving pensions because they

CITY BUY OF TRUCK HELPS TRASH PROBLEM

We think the City Council went a long way toward solving the City's problem of trash collection and disposal Monday evening when it agreed to lease a packed-type truck.

It made an additional step Wednesday when it agreed to buy the truck for $6500, a reduction of $350 from the lease price, not to mention savings in interest.

The packed-type truck will benefit the city in many ways. For example, trash cannot be blown from the truck onto the street. The vehicle can haul the trash for 500 families in one load. Trash can be picked up easier.

While the dump, northwest of Harrington, will be used for the present, we hope the City will use a commercial landfill where the truck can be emptied for $3.60. This would eliminate cost of maintaining the present dump which is also used by nonresidents of Harrington.

THE SCREWBALLS

The HIPPIES, the LSD crowd and the other groups of teen-age weirdies have received such outstanding publicity during the past year or two that they must be pretty proud of themselves. Perhaps their biggest moment was when the Senior Editor of Look magazine went on an LSD "trip" in order to tell his millions of readers what it was like.

I'm getting pretty fed up with the all-out publicity given to this idiot-fringe of the younger generation. Having a group of screw-balls in our midst is nothing new. Every generation has had them in various forms. But in the past they performed their antics in their dens and cellars and nobody paid much attention. Now they are constantly in the limelight because editors have found that stories about them make hot copy for selling magazines and newspapers.

The thing that bothers me about it is that the attention given to the small minority group reflects on teenagers as a whole and gives many adults the impression that the youngsters of today are a lost generation. Actually, from my observations, the majority of the current crop of teen-agers constitutes a thoughtful, intelligent group which may be able to solve some of the world problems which previous generations have been unable to handle.

But I think it would help if publications would tell more about some of the outstanding achievements of young people and stop encouraging the mentally unbalanced by giving them all the limelight.

Publicity has always encouraged exhibitionists. It would be a good tonic for the morale of all of us if newspapers and magazines would search out true-life stories of real inspiration to substitute for the tales of the downbeat group which are featured so predominately today.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

IT'S A MIGHTY GOOD WORLD AFTER ALL
 (Because our Saviour was born here)

Into the life of every human being must come a time of crisis, and that crisis stamps him either a hero or a coward.

When twilight fades and the golden glow
 Is sinking fast toward the west,
 A solace comes when it's time to go
 If you know you have done your best.

There will be no need for a sad farewell
 When you answer the final call,
 For the part you played will always tell
 It's a mighty good world after all!

As an ardent admirer of the late Adlai Stevenson, whose sudden departure so well bespeak this thought, we quote the following from Newsweek Dec. 26, 1966:

(From 26 Dec. 66, Newsweek) Excerpt from "Silent Night, Uneasy Night" by Emmet John Hughes—

The beautiful world. There were no cards last Christmas from Adlai Stevenson to his friends, of course, since he had died the previous summer. But he had told a few friends, only days before his death, that he had found the text for his greetings on the Christmas to come. It was entitled "Desiderata", and while its cadence sounded centuries old, it was the work of a poet of the 1920s, Max Ehrmann, from Stevenson's own Midwest. And to Stevenson, its exhortation seemed as apt for nations as for men . . .

Go placidly amid the noise and the haste, and remember what peace there may be in silence. As far as possible without surrender, be on good terms with all persons. Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others, even the dull and ignorant; they too have their story.

Avoid loud and aggressive persons; they are vexations to the spirit. If you compare yourself with others, you may become vain and bitter; for always there will be greater and lesser persons than yourself . . .

Be yourself. Especially do not feign affection. Neither be cynical about love; for in the face of all aridity and disenchantment, it is as perennial as the grass . . . Nurture strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune. But do not distress yourself with imaginings . . .

Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself. You are a child of the universe no less than the trees and the stars; you have a right to be here. And whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should. Therefore be at peace with God, whatever you conceive Him to be . . . With all its shams, drudgery and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world. Be careful. Strive to be happy.

Around Home

Do you pack lunch for your school child?

For school children, the packed lunch program—o' the school lunch program—2 ounces meat, fish, poultry, cheese, or 1/2 cup dried beans or peas, or 4 tablespoons peanut butter; 6 ounces or 3/4 cup raw, cooked or processed vegetable or fruit; 1 serving of bread; 2 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine; pint whole milk.

1. Select a lunch box that is easy to clean, attractive and durable, roomy enough to include a vacuum bottle. (A wide mouth vacuum bottle permits more variety in your carried lunch.) Let the youngsters choose their own lunch boxes. Available lunch carriers include:

2. Keep lunch box clean. Wash and air lunchbox, wash vacuum bottle thoroughly (soda water will sweeten it), wash cork thoroughly—boil in soda water—if it absorbs odors. Try adjustable rubber stoppers.

3. Wrap each food separately in moisture-proof, vapor-proof paper; plastic or aluminum foil.

4. Double wrap or wrap in foil any foods that are highly seasoned or have strong odors.

5. Pack heavy foods in bottom of bag or lunchbox and foods that crush easily on top of the other lunch foods.

Plan variety in the lunch boxes. For a variety in sandwiches, vary the fillings, vary the bread and the way you cut the sandwich.

You might slip a salad in a sandwich. Make any type of meat sandwich. In another sandwich bag, arrange one of the following combinations, with salad filling between the lettuce leaves. Slip this into the sandwich at mealtime.

2 lettuce leaves, washed and drained, 2 thin slices well-drained canned pineapple; 2 lettuce leaves, washed and drained, 3 paper-thin slice onion, 3 or 4 thin slices well-drained beet pickles; 2 leaves lettuce, washed and drained, 3 thin tomato slices; 2 lettuce leaves and cabbage slaw made with very small amount of mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Add crunchy finger foods for the lunch box—celery, radishes, a crisp carrot, a wedge of cabbage, pepper, cauliflower, unpeeled cucumber slices. Try an apple slice or celery stuffed with cheese.

For dessert use cupcakes, fruit turnovers and tarts, fruit gelatin custards varied with coconut, fruit, chocolate or butterscotch sauce in the bottom of the custard cup for a surprise. Use prepared pie filling in a cup topped with a slice of baked pastry or pound cake.

Sandwiches may be made ahead and frozen. Most sandwiches freeze well, but don't freeze sandwiches with jelly, lettuce or other raw vegetables, or cooked eggwhites. Use salad dressing in place of mayonnaise in sandwiches fillings since mayonnaise separates when frozen.

Wrap sandwiches in moisture-proof plastic and seal with freezer tape, or place sandwiches in freezer bags and close tightly. Quantities of sandwiches can be placed in a box together to keep from being crushed.

Do not place wrapped sandwiches directly on the freezer plates of the freezer; bread sometimes becomes soggy, even though well wrapped.

Keep the lunch box in mind when planning the night before. Pack lunches—and refrigerate—in the evenings to avoid a morn-

Century Club News

The guest speaker was Mrs. Henry Tracy, of Dover, Kent County Vice President of the Delaware State Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Tracy has a naturally charming personality and gave a very informal, interesting and instructive address on the work of women's clubs showing the relation in pattern of the General Federation, the State Federation and the local club. She stressed the importance of good programs and reports. She congratulated this club on the work that had been done in Community Improvement Projects of which Mrs. J. Millard Cooper is chairman. She also paid a special compliment on the program presented here last March 28 when this club entertained the clubs of Kent County on Reciprocity Day and Mrs. Floyd Nasser presented a wedding gown revue.

Mrs. Moore presided at a short business meeting at the conclusion of the address. Mrs. Fair announced the next program to be October 24 when a show "Wigs by Rosalie" will be presented by Rosalie and Bill Wise. This will be an open meeting and members and guests are asked to bring a sandwich at 12:30 p.m. coffee and dessert will be served by the committee, in charge of which Mrs. Arthur Hoffman is chairman. Others on her committee are Mrs. A. B. Parsons, Mrs. C. F. Wilson, Mrs. Horace Johnson, Mrs. Reese Harrington, and Mrs. Leon Kukulka.

Storage, Drying Equipment Loans Available

Farmers short of storage space for their bumper corn and soybean crops should get in touch with their ASCS county office.

Paul B. Hastings, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Delaware Committee, points out that orderly marketing to protect farm prices—particularly at harvest time—requires sufficient cribs and bins. Farmers need adequate facilities so they can store crops instead of rushing them off to market as soon as harvested.

Although commodity loans on stored crops can furnish immediate money and help farmers keep crops off temporarily depressed markets, this program also depends on plenty of storage space. If a crop is high in moisture, conditioning before storage or marketing may be necessary.

However, many farmers do not have facilities to store and condition crops. To help these corn and soybean growers, loans for drying equipment and for building on-farm storage facilities are available to eligible farmers at ASCS county offices. Used storage structures no longer needed by the Government are being sold at public auction in Delaware; these may also be financed by facility loans provided the purchaser meets all the regular program eligibility requirements.

Hastings explains that the loan program for storage facilities and conditioning equipment has been liberalized this year. In some cases, farmers not eligible for such loans previously may now be able to get one. Ask the ASCS office for full and up-to-date information, he suggests.

According to the chairman, "cooperation" is the key word in solving potential problems of flooded markets and depressed prices. All corn and soybean growers stand to benefit if they all work together in marketing sound crops in amounts that the market can take.

Farmers throughout the country helped raise or maintain farm income during the last fiscal year by taking out loans totaling $12,766,000 to construct on-farm storage with a capacity of $30,400,000 bushels; drying equipment loans totaled $2,150,000. More than two million price-support loans on various commodities for the crop year 1966-67 totaled more than one and a third billion dollars.

Agronomists Attend Agronomy Meeting

Two University of Delaware agronomists will present papers at the annual American Society of Agronomy meetings, Nov. 5-10, Washington, D. C. Dr. William Mitchell, extension agronomist will discuss soil-irrigation and Dr. Noble Usherwood, former assistant professor in agronomy, will describe proper plant nutrition.

Outstanding government and university administrators will analyze the theme "Food for Billions" at the meeting. Speaking on the program are Dr. Ivan L. Bennett, Jr., deputy director of the White House Office of Science and Technology, Dr. George L. Mehren, assistant secretary of agriculture, and Dr. Daniel G. Aldrich, Jr., chancellor of the Irvine campus of the University of California. They will discuss the research and education needed to maintain food production in the face of a rapidly multiplying population.

Special symposia will also be presented involving the application of soil mineralogy in soil science and engineering, instrumentation in measuring the environment of agronomic crops, fertilizer use in developing countries, and the economics of forage crop production. Nearly 3000 people are expected to attend the four day meetings during which 700 research reports will be presented.

Information about the annual meeting is available from the American Society of Agronomy headquarters at 667 South Segoe Road, Madison, Wis. 53711.

Empty Pesticide Containers Still Dangerous

Even though they seem empty, used pesticide containers can be dangerous. Rinsing may remove 98 percent of the pesticide, but the remaining two per cent can contaminate feed, water and animals, warns Frank Boys, extension agricultural chemicals specialist at the University of Delaware.

For this reason, such containers should never be made into livestock feed troughs, water storage tanks or raft floats. Make them unuseable by crushing, burying or burning.

However, before you burn a so-called empty pesticide container, remember the smoke can be hazardous, too. For example, parathion was found in smoke from burning paper bags that had contaminated the pesticide. The amount of parathion found in the smoke was greater than that found in air samples taken while the chemical was being sprayed. Parathion can be a deadly poison as recent tragedies in Mexico prove.

Boys also cautions against burning containers which have held weed killers such as 2-4-D. When these herbicides are burned, the vapor can damage nearby plants, crops or shrubbery. Be particularly careful not to burn herbicides or defoliants containing chlorates; they may explode when heated.

Large metal drums can be safely disposed of by returning to the supplier or by selling to a company equipped to recondition drums. You can also dispose of containers locally at public dumps, incinerators or private disposal sites. Breaking or puncturing the containers will make sure they can't be used again. However, be certain the operator of the dump knows how to dispose of pesticide containers properly—and does so.

If public disposal facilities aren't available, Boys suggests using an isolated site on the farm just for pesticide disposal. The site should be away from homes, wells, streams, crops and livestock. Level ground is best because it will let the residue absorb through the soil and lessen the chance of contamination.

Since that time benefit to all has been in terms of opportunity increase, community growth and the opening of many doors not even known to exist in 1928.

First Vice President Elva M. ## Harriers Down Caesar Rodney And Milton

Harrington High's cross-country Lions, coached by Harold McDonald, now own a win streak of twenty-eight straight victories and have won 57 out of 58 starts in a period stretching back four or five years, after defeating Caesar Rodney and Milton in a triangular meet at Killen's Pond on Friday. The score was H.H.S. 24, Milton 39, and Caesar Rodney 57.

Chris Wetherhold finished first and set a new course record, as he has done in all four meets this fall. His time of 13:07 for the rugged 2.4 miles layout, was followed by a 13:18 effort by teammate Ronald Morris in second place.

Nick Morris, Danny Hitchens and Roger Jarrell ran excellent races to finish 5th, 6th and 10th to account for Harrington's winning low total of 24 points. Milton was second with 39 and C. R. trailed with 57.

Jarrell attended Caesar Rodney last year but couldn't make the team there. He worked out all summer, lost some weight and beat the entire Rider squad except for Shockey. His former teammates said "He sure looks different and he sure runs different."

When Danny Hitchens approached the starting line, some of the opposition remarked, "Hey, Look at the little guy." A teammate volunteered, "He may be little but he can really haul!" and he did, slicing 41 seconds off his best previous effort.

One of the reasons why this Harrington team is hard to beat year after year is the way the Lions get "up" for a meet. In the Friday varsity test all nine locals set new personal marks with Nick Morris, Ron Morris and Joe Gannon cutting off more than a minute each. Jack Warrington was down 42 seconds and is getting closer to the first five.

Lion Gridders Romp At Rehoboth

It's been feast or famine thus far this autumn for Coach Bill Muehleisen's Harrington High football Lions. After two opening losses to Henlopen undefeated powerhouses, Delmar and Bridgeville, the Lions got on the victory path Friday night at Rehoboth. Did anyone hear a concert of screaming about 10:45? That was the victory roar of the heretofore ravenous Lions returning and licking their chops, after a 38-6 feast at Rehoboth High.

Since Lord Baltimore abandoned the pigskin sport after a rash of injuries, the Lions picked up a forfeit victory from the Eagles and now boast a very satisfying 2-2 record.

Steve Welch got the Lions on the scoreboard in the first quarter with a two yard run. Later in the period, Welch scored from the eight. Jim Harris kicked the extra point for a 13-0 Harrington first period lead.

Steven powered over from the eight yard line in the third period to give the locals a 19-0 halftime bulge.

Harris tallied from the six after intermission. Jerry Cagle got behind the Seahawk defense and gathered in a scoring strike from Jack Redden. The play covered 35 yards and was the only touchdown of the night to cover more than a few yards.

Harris plunged over from the four yard line for Harrington's sixth touchdown. Since only one point after touchdown had been booted between the uprights in five tries, the Lions tried the ground route. Oscar Matthews, back in action after an injury in the Bridgeville game, ran into the end zone for the 38th point. Two other Lions scores were called back.

John Coveleski, son of former Rehoboth coaching great Frank Coveleski, averted a shutout for the home team, by tallying from two yards out.

Millsboro's unbeaten Blue Devils under new Coach Graham Dill, have won three games after only one entry in the win column in 1966. Dill, with the retirement of Coveleski, has probably been coaching football longer than any other mentor in the Henlopen Conference. His team, on the basis of its record so far, must be rated as favorites over the Lions. However, some local observers, after viewing the Lions' impressive win at Rehoboth, feel that Muehleisen's stalwarts have a good chance to snap the invaders' win string.

If the Lions can come up with a big effort and put out the Blue Devils' fire, they could then have a chance to compile a highly creditable record, since Dover Air is regarded as the best team left on the schedule and the Falcons had their feathers singed by the Blue Devils earlier this fall.

John M. Clayton and Milton are rated about even, especially after their scoreless tie. Selbyville should be a step slower and Greenwood, in its first year of varsity football, could be hard-pressed to win at all, despite its narrow 7-6 loss to Milton, in its first vrsity encounter. Most first-year teams don't hit the win column. You can't buy experience.

Millsboro comes here tonight with a chance of being rusty since they missed two straight weeks of action. They had a bye one week and were slated to play Lord Baltimore the other.

Let's hope the Lions draw first blood and keep the Devils hopping off balance all night.

Harrington Bowling League

Kent Gas was "up" for Tuesday night's bowling and steam-rolled over McKnatt Funeral Home, the second place team, to stretch their lead margin to four games. Going into Tuesday night's fray, Kent Gas had only a one game lead over McKnatt's.

Ken Layton proved to be the big man for Kent Gas as he turned in some fine bowling with a 200 and a 225 game to near that magic 600 mark with a grand 594 series. McKnatt it seems was fighting right to the finish and managed to eke out a tied game. By doing this, McKnatt's are just barely in second place by a half game. P. Fallon also aided the leaders with a fine 209 game. Robbins Hardware, surprisingly enough, are right in the thick of things this first third, and are probably going to cause some concern to the other two teams ahead of them if they can keep up their bowling strength. Absenteeism in last year's bowling hurt this team tremendously, and often as not they were seen occupying the cellar position from time to time. See what a team effort can do boys. They have served notice that they are out to take this third and are eyeing the leader like a hungry dog would a big juicy bone.

J. D. Parker Leads Lion Reserves To Two Wins

Hamilton Fund made their move Tuesday night and came up from the fifth spot to take over fourth place. They won all four of their games, but the top teams held their own real well and kept Hamilton Fund from gaining much ground. This team, too, has surprising strength and can, if some teams aren't careful, wallop the daylight out of them.

Penn R. R. traded places with Hamilton Fund to take over the fifth place position. They are becoming like a yo-yo, bouncing from one position to another.

Taylor and Messick made a good showing and moved up a notch to sixth place. They managed to make a clean sweep of all four games Tuesday night. Hobbs Newsstand took possession of seventh place, though they won three games. G. Hobbs came up with a fine 207 game effort to aid his team, although they could gain no ground. G. Hobbs seems to be getting a little more consistent in his bowling as we see his name more often this season in the high game column.

Jarrell Fuel took quite a tumble, from sixth to eighth place, losing all of their four games. It doesn't hardly seem possible, though, as D. Hayman came up with a very fine 202 game and a great 566 series for the night.

Acme and Wally's Garage are still in their same positions, with Acme splitting four with Robbins Hardware and Wally's Garage losing three to Hobb's Newsstand to stay in the cellar position. Maybe Wally's Garage is just waiting for the second third to show their stuff.

Besides the previously named bowlers were: E. Gallo with a great 223 game, and G. Collins with a 205 game and a grand 557 series. It seems the score column wouldn't be complete without a Collins in the list, and G. Collins is improving all the time.

Lions Win 27th Run In Row At Milford

Chris Wetherhold set a new course record at Milford on October 3rd, to pace H.H.S. to its 27th straight victory. The Lions have only one loss in the last 57 starts, under Coach Harold McDonald.

Wetherhold, a 14-year-old freshman, remained unbeaten in three starts, as he flashed over the 2.45 miles course in a swift 12:55.5. Chris set new course records in all three outings, thus far this season.

Ronald Morris and Danny Hitchens were second and third to assure Harrington of victory.

Captain Nicky Morris and Roger Jarrell completed the scoring for Harrington with improving sophomore, Jack Warrington, finishing just after Jarrell. Joe Gannon was the next Lion to cross the finish line.

J. D. Parker Leads Lion Reserves To Two Wins

Another frail-appearing but tough-fibered little guy, has appeared on the local foot-racing scene and is being constantly underestimated by the opposition, just as Danny Hitchens has been for the last three years.

Jackie D. Parker is 12-years-old, several inches under five feet tall and weighs 65 pounds soaking wet. He has been beating kids his age for six months or so in track meets, including four very fine efforts in Penns Grove and Pennsville, N. J.

He won't be eligible for varsity cross-country until next season, but he is already beating most of the Lion varsity in practice.

Last Friday, at Milford, Jackie won a 2.45 miles race, in a glittering 14 minutes and 36 seconds. A Milford freshman was six seconds back. Bill Stubbs, of Harrington, was third in 15:23. Only four harriers in a field of 27 finishers could get within a minute of the flying toehold. Some of these boys were sophomores and juniors. But the real proof of Parker's prowess came when the varsity race was run. Only five runners in the big race had a better time than 13:46. Three of these were from Harrington and two were from Milford.

The following day at Killen's Pond, the youthful Lion won another cantor. He led 37 reserves from Harrington, Caesar Rodney and Milton, across the finish line in 14:58. His best previous time here was 16:07. With fine young runners like Chris Wetherhold, Roger Jarrell and Danny Hitchens, all 14 and a 12-13 group composed of Bob Smith, Jackie D. Parker, Tommie Clarke, John Shulties, Wardell Davis, Steve Gannon, Leonard Palmer etc. plus a group of 8 and 9 year-olds, who are already doing well in track meets, it appears that H.H.S. may be strong for years to come. They will taste defeat, now and then, but this should be a rare happening.

Big John Shulties, a long-striding newcomer, was seventh at Milford, but moved up to third at Killen's Pond.

Wardell Davis, sixth at Milford, was fourth in the triangular test.

John Kinney, another good young hope, was fifth at Milford. Tomie Clarke missed the Lions first three meets, but still ran very well in Friday's race. Barring further illness, he has the ability to rank as one of the top reserves.
