The Delaware State Highway Department announces the institution of Operation "HINT". "HINT" will be an effective medium for the Highway Department to keep the public informed of highway operations and conditions, particularly, during weather or other such emergencies.

The abbreviated code name "HINT" stands for Highway Information News Tapes. "HINT" consists of a mechanically answered telephone to be used by the press and radio for obtaining up-to-the-minute highway news bulletins.

The Highway Information Office will put the latest highway news on a recorder phone which will permit the news media to call for such information at any time during the day or night on a separate line. This frees the information office and their regular telephone lines to collect and release additional information.

The most effective use of "HINT" will be during a weather emergency when most of the highway lines are tied up with calls for highway condition information. This makes it difficult for the press and radio to obtain the information to turn pass on to the public-at-large.

James E. Crosby, Highway Public Information Officer, says, "HINT" should be very effective in getting instant mass dissemination of highway conditions bulletins."

Elections Board in Kent Seeks Home

The Kent County Board of Elections is looking for a new home to make room for the county planning commission. Levy Court attorney Roy S. Shiels wrote to the elections board earlier this week suggesting it move from a county-owned building on S. State Street. The county Board of Elections is a state agency.

Glenn A. Richter, Levy Court president, said the letter recommended the board move to the old capitol building. He termed the request unfortunate but said "if we don't get this (office) we're going to have to rent space for the planning commission."

"Talking Xmas Letters" Offered By Red Cross

"Talking Christmas Letters" will be recorded free of charge in New Castle, Kent, and Sussex Counties by the Delaware Chapter, American Red Cross, for families of servicemen and servicewomen who are overseas or stationed at distant points.

"A holiday message to your son or husband stationed in Viet Nam will be an ideal holiday remembrance this Christmas," said Lloyd R. Leslie, chairman of Red Cross service to military families. "This is the seventh consecutive year the Red Cross is providing this free service in Delaware.

"Loneliness in Viet Nam or elsewhere far from home can be forgotten in a few minutes by the sound of the voice of a loved one. ## Bicycle Theft Ring Uncovered

A stolen-bicycle ring, which has been peddling hot bikes at Milford for about six months, has been uncovered, local police say.

The ring, which police said involves juveniles, was discovered after police received a series of complaints about missing bicycles.

Police said after the bicycles were stolen, repainted and sometimes parts were switched, before they were sold to youngsters.

Within the last week, four bicycles have been reclaimed and police know the whereabouts of several more. Three boys are being interviewed about their involvement in the ring, according to police, but no arrests have been made.

Legion Auxiliary Requests Viet Nam Addresses

Mrs. William Outten, president of the Callaway-Kemp-Raughley-Tee American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 7 of Harrington this week requested the addresses of all servicemen from the Harrington mailing area who are serving in Viet Nam. It is the desire of the unit to remember those men and women during the Christmas season. Since the Christmas mailing date for Viet Nam is in early November Mrs. Outten would like to have the addresses as soon as possible. A phone call at her home or business address or a post card sent to her would be most helpful to make this project a success.

Kent OKs Planning Budget

The Kent County Levy Court Tuesday approved a $50,000 budget submitted by the County Planning Commission Monday. The budget which showed a $2,800 increase over a rough budget submitted last week, also includes expenses for the zoning commission, which will probably not meet until a master plan is submitted, and the County Board of Adjustment, which will serve as an appeal board to the two bodies.

Included in the $50,000 budget are $32,000 in salaries for a planning director, a planning aide, a draftsman, and a secretary. Expenses for the three groups were dropped $3,000 from the $3,000 originally proposed in the preliminary budget submitted earlier.

The reduction, however, was balanced by a $3,150 contingency fund not included in the earlier proposal.

The fifth annual state soil judging contest will be held at 10 a.m. Sat., Oct. 28, at the University of Delaware's Experiment Station Farm, Newark. Delaware Future Farmers of America and 4-H Club members are eligible to compete.

The contest is planned to provide learning experience for young people interested in soil and water conservation. Contestants must consider such factors as soil depth, texture, structure and color. Overall soil features including drainage, moisture holding capacity and the possibility of erosion are also important.

A training session for those interested in entering the judging event will be held at 10 a.m. Oct. 21, at Marvin Klair's farm, Lime-stone Road. The training meeting is sponsored by New Castle County 4-H Clubs.

The New Castle County soil and water conservation district will act as host for the contest; Wilmer Aist, New Castle County soil conservationist will be in charge of arrangements. ## Consumer Forums Feature Car Insurance

Good auto insurance coverage becomes even more vital for every driver as the number of accidents increase. But, coverage also becomes more expensive as accidents mount up.

If you're a driver, you need insurance, but how much can you afford? And, what kinds are best for you? What do medical payment, bodily injury liability, property damage liability or comprehensive physical damage insurance mean?

The eighth annual Consumer Forums being held this fall are planned to give Delawareans the information they need about auto insurance, according to Miss Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware. The forums are sponsored by the Home Economics Extension Service at the University.

Consumer Forums are going on closed circuit TV this year, Miss Morris reports. The November 8th programs will be held at 8 p.m. at Brandywine, Middletown, Selbyville and Milford High Schools. Six meetings are scheduled for November 9, at 8 p.m.; they will be held in Wilmington High School; Delaware Technical Community College, Georgetown; George Reed High School, New Castle; Thomas McKean High School, McKean Church Road, Wilmington; W. D. Simpson High School, Camden-Wyoming; and Central Junior High School, Newark.

Via TV, Robert Short, state insurance commissioner, will discuss auto insurance. Insurance consultants, home economists and extension specialists will be on hand at each location to answer audience questions.

According to Miss Morris, special invitations were issued to members of civic and service clubs throughout the state; however, the public is also invited to attend. Further information is available from home economics extension agents in Dover, Georgetown and Newark.

Tampering with railroad cars is a federal offense. Investigation has been turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, police said.

Delaware 4-H program is no longer a rural organization, organized for the sole benefit of rural youth, according to Baker. Now, both rural and urban young people between 9 and 19 years of age participate in projects, demonstrations and judging events. Projects include home economics, agronomy, entomology, dog care, horse, safety and leadership.

Leach To Address Teachers With 40 Years Service

John G. Leach, vice-president of the Goldey Beacom Junior College, will be the guest speaker at the American Education Week banquet honoring Kent County teachers who have served their profession for at least 40 years.

Mr. Leach, chosen as Delaware's outstanding citizens of the year in 1964, will address county educators as friends of education at a dinner meeting to be held in the Milford Junior High School at 6:15 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 8. Among the many honors he has received we note his being elected the first Delawarean to receive life membership in the PTA, centennial award winner of the NEA from the Delaware State Education Association and a former presidency of the University of Delaware Alumni Association. One of the greatest awards bestowed on this well known Delawarean came as a result of action by the State Board of Education in naming the John G. Leach School for Crippled Children in his honor.

It is noteworthy that the county association has chosen to honor or those distinguished teachers who have served their state and nation in the field of education for at least 40 years. A glance at the roster of these dedicated people will answer the question of the theme for American Education Week "How Good are Your Schools?" So long as we have sincere, devoted professional people such as those to be honored at this public meeting we can rest assured that the schools of Kent County rank with the best in the profession.

Payment of $3,670,071.14 to Harris Structural Steel Company, Inc., New York, for East approach superstructure steel work for the Twin Delaware Memorial Bridge was also approved. This work was completed at a cost one percent below the original bid.

Del. RBA To Advertise For Bids On Con.

The Delaware River and Bay Authority said it is ready to advertise for bids on construction of ferries pending determination whether Federal aid may be available.

At its September meeting, Director William J. Miller, Jr., was authorized to seek such aid. An application was made to the Department of Housing and Urban Development, Urban Transportation Administration.

Miller told the Commissioners that the agency's director, Leo J. Cusick, had given a negative reply to the request since "new ferry vessels would not operate in urban mass transportation service."

Miller said the authority letter had tried to establish the fact that ferry service is an important Atlantic Coast transportation link which is heavily used during a large part of the year.

The Authority order that "every possible avenue" be explored in its effort to qualify for a Federal Grant. If this is accomplished there will be a call for bids to build the new vessels. Completed drawings for the new liners have been submitted by Kindlund and Drake, New York naval architects, and are being studied by consulting engineers.

In accordance with its Trust Agreement, the Authority approved a preliminary budget for 1968-69 totaling $10,459,000. It would provide $2,139,000 for operation of the Delaware Memorial Bridge; $2,195,000 for the Cape May-Lewes Ferry; $370,000 for Administration and a contingency of $300,000. The remainder is for payment of interest and bonds.

It was indicated that approval of the new budget would be requested at the Authority meeting on November 21, 1967.

Approval was given to payment of $217,900 to American Dredging Company, Philadelphia, for dredging work at the Cape May-Lewes Ferry. The original cost was set at $146,620 but extra dredging added $71,800 to the bill.

Payment of $3,670,071.14 to Harris Structural Steel Company, Inc., New York, for East approach superstructure steel work for the Twin Delaware Memorial Bridge was also approved. This work was completed at a cost one percent below the original bid.

Sussex Agent Receives Award

Miss Frances Shoffner, Sussex County home economics extension agent, has been selected to receive the Distinguished Service Award of the National Association of Extension Home Economists. The award will be presented October 27, during their annual meeting in Jackson, Miss.

In more than 11 years of service in Sussex County, Miss Shoffner has set up outstanding home economics programs for homemakers, according to Mrs. Alice King, State leader in home economics extension. Cooperating with other agencies and organizations in the county, she recently extended these programs to disadvantaged families.

She served as director of nutrition for five Head Start projects in the county and worked with cooks and helpers on meal planning, preparation and serving and on food storage and sanitation. She worked with a staff of 72 teachers, aides, nurses, social workers and cafeteria personnel in charge of 395 children enrolled.

Miss Shoffner also carried out county programs in civil defense and safety. Through her efforts 39 trained instructors are now able to teach medical self-help in the community.

Miss Shoffner developed and stocked a fallout shelter at county extension headquarters and then carried the civil defense program to all extension clubs in the county. As one result, two clubs received special recognition for educating the public in civil defense.

Miss Shoffner is a member of the National Association of Extension Home Economists and the American Home Economists Association. Before working in extension, she taught in the Rehoboth Special School District.

Miss M. Katherine Jones, Newark, retired New Castle County home economics agent, will accompany Miss Shoffner on her trip to Mississippi.

Common Problem Sometimes Serious

Hemorrhoids

Hemorrhoids, commonly known as piles, are one of the most common health problems encountered today.

Hemorrhoids are enlarged veins inside or just outside the rectum, somewhat like varicose veins in the legs. A frequent cause is constipation that results in straining, but there can be other causes as well. Anything that interferes with flow of blood through the rectal veins can cause hemorrhoids.

Hemorrhoids themselves seldom are dangerous to life, but the condition that causes them can be serious and should be corrected. They also can cause considerable discomfort, and even

Seasoning For Winter Windows

Try herbs for seasoning, herbs for scent, herbs for interest during dull winter months. A display of potted herbs at the Delaware State Flower Show showed the wide variety of herbs that can be grown indoors.

Members of the University of Delaware Horticulture Club who arranged the display point out many common herbs are easily grown in a sunny window. Every homemaker should add potted herbs to their list of house plants, says William Boytim, president of the Horticulture Club. Club members Nancy Newman, Joseph Demesse, Jr., Linda Wilson, Gerald Abrahms, Russell Hann, and Al Sonchen also took part in planning the project.

Parsley, peppermint, spearmint, sage, tarragon, lavender and thyme are easily grown indoors. You can even treat your cat to home grown catnip, according to Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University.

If you already have herbs growing outside, bring them indoors now. Set them in pots large enough for the roots, in the same type soil they grew in. Water well and set in shade outdoors for 10 days before bringing indoors.

Parsley is a biennial that can be grown from seed; it prefers a rich moist soil. Peppermint, a perennial, can be grown in practically any soil; but spearmint needs a fertile, moist soil. Use both the leaves and flowering tops.

Sage needs a rich clay with a good supply of nitrogen fertilizer; it can be started from seeds or stem cuttings. Sage leaves can be used green or dried, Stevens says. Tarragon is a perennial that is usually started from root or crown divisions; leaves and plant tops are used.

Thyme can be grown from seed or cuttings; it prefers a mellow soil but will grow on poor soil also. The blossoms are used for seasoning.

Lavender is used primarily for its scent; unfortunately, it may not flower for several years. It grows best in a light, well-drained, moderately rich, sandy soil. It can be started from seed or from root divisions.

Many herbs are available from local nurseries or seed stores; however, some must be ordered from more distant sources.

Swedish Retailers Meet at U. of D. Food Institute

Swedish homemakers are pampered consumers and the food stores intend to keep them that way. Thirty Swedish food store retailers taking a three-week study tour of the United States attended a week long seminar at the Food Business Institute of the University of Delaware. They noted Swedish consumers demand — and get — personal attention.

Although larger stores similar to American supermarkets are becoming more numerous in Swedish cities, most Swedish homemakers still shop in small stores. Wherever they shop, they get "kind attention" from the staff. Curt Hellstrand, owner of three stores in Stockholm, believes this personal relationship keeps consumers happy. "I don't think they'll ever go on a boycott."

pain. Hemorrhoids do not turn into cancer, but rectal symptoms that appear to be hemorrhoids may actually be caused by cancer.

Many cases can be relieved by medical treatment. Some require surgery. If hemorrhoids are caused by constipation, they can be made worse by self treatment, especially if laxatives are used regularly. Continued bleeding can cause anemia. If a blood clot forms in a protruding vein, piles can be extremely painful. If untreated, they can break and surgery, but the operation usually is not a serious one.

Hemorrhoids are common among women during pregnancy. Every expectant mother should see her doctor early in pregnancy. Prevention of hemorrhoids is one of the things he will discuss with her.

Even though you have no apparent symptoms of piles, your doctor will often make a rectal examination each time you report for a physical checkup. Only in this way can beginning cases of medical problems of the rectum be discovered early.

Swedish homemakers also attach a great deal of importance to spic-and-span stores with high quality merchandise. Since fewer consumers own cars than in the United States, they want home delivery. Although stores are smaller, many feature a luxury atmosphere with carpeting and what Hellstrand calls "newer frills." Some offer baby sitting and even a special corner for dogs.

Convenience foods are just beginning to enter Swedish stores, according to Jan Ejheden, store manager. Frozen foods, snacks and packaged foods such as cake mixes will be more popular in the future, he believes. Only a fifth of the Swedish homemakers work outside the home, but as that number increases convenience foods will be even more in demand. A growing teenage market will also increase the sale of snack items, Ejheden believes.

Ejheden and Hellstrand both agree Swedish markets are developing the same way as the U. S. industry. "We're just a year or two behind you," they say.

The Swedish retailers represent FAVOR, a voluntary retail group similar to IGA markets in the United States; the study tour was arranged by the National Cash Register of Sweden.

In their week long seminar with the Food Business Institute at the University of Delaware, they toured nine local supermarkets and convenience stores, had meetings with representatives of the American food industry and institute staff members, and visited food marketing facilities in Philadelphia. Dennis Hawkes, assistant professor at the Institute, and Carl Fuller, industry consultant, were in charge of the seminar.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holbert

Tender, tasty, and tempting! What better appeal can a food have! That's what broiler and fryer chickens are offering food shoppers in Delaware these days. The current large volume of these lightweight birds is good news since prices at retail are low, yet quality is high.

What is a broiler-fryer? It is a very young (under 16 weeks old) chicken of either sex. It has very tender meat and soft pliable skin. Ready-to-cook weight-per-bird is between 1 1/2 to 4 pounds. (Broilers are 1-2 pound birds—fryers are 2 to 4 pound birds). When selecting these delicious chickens, be sure to shop for ones that have short legs and a plump body—these are the signs of meatiness. A moderate fat covering will assure you that the meat is tender. The skin should be clean and free from pinfeathers, bruises, and discoloration.

As you select your chicken, check for the Federal inspection marks. They may appear on a paper wrap tag, or be printed on the over wrap or be on the wrap of the giblet. The official inspection mark is in the form of a circle and it means that the poultry truthfully labeled, and has been processed in a sanitary manner. Each bird is inspected by a technically trained USDA inspector. The inspection mark is an assurance of wholesomeness. It does not denote quality since the grade is designated by a mark in the form of a shield. Inside the shield the grade and the quality will be given (US Grade A, B, or C).

The amount of chicken to buy for frying, roasting, braising, or stewing is approximately 1/2 pound of ready-to-cook weight for each serving. For broiling, allow 1/4 to 1/2 bird per serving. No one red meat is spectacular as a special this week, though some pork and beef cuts were special price tags. Hog prices have been irregular, as receipts have dropped from a year ago and favorable weather has encouraged farmers to keep hogs on feed longer. Beef prices are up from a year ago and features are few and far between. Check, however, for a few sales on rib roast, some chuck cuts, and beef stew meat.

Fall vegetables are in good supply right now with cabbage, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, and hard-skinned squash being feature items. There are pumpkins galore and carrots are still a good buy. Sweet potato quality is improved, lettuce and celery also have improved as far as quality goes.

Apples are in the fruit headlines with plenty of excellent quality fruit available. Grapefruit has dropped a bit in price as supplies increase. However, the banana and lemon supply is still tight and high in price, and only light shipments of pineapple are appearing.

Lecture on Film At U. of D. Oct. 24

"The Experimental Film" will be the topic of a lecture Tues., Oct. 24, at 8 p.m. in Wolf Hall Auditorium on the University of Delaware campus.

The program, open to the public without charge, is the first in a three-part series sponsored by the University Cultural Affairs Committee. Featured speaker will be Jonas Mekas, film-maker, film critic for the "Village Voice," editor of "Film Culture," founder of Film-Makers' Cooperative and Film-Makers' Cinematheque. He will show a selection of important experimental films, including many of his own. Following the showing he will discuss the films and answer questions from the audience.

Mekas will visit several classes Wednesday. At 4:30 he will be joined by Kenneth H. Brown, author of "The Brig," for a panel discussion of the play which is being presented Wednesday thru Saturday, Oct. 25-28, by the E 52 University Theatre. Following the Wednesday evening performance, Mekas and Brown will join the audience for criticism and evaluation of the play. Also taking part in this discussion will be Richard Nusser, who played a major role in the original off-Broadway production at the Living Theatre.

The second and third lectures in the series will be devoted to experimental films on the East Coast, featuring a film by Andy Warhol, and work from the West Coast, primarily in Los Angeles and San Francisco. A discussion period will follow each lecture. Dates will be announced.

It will be interesting to note that among Father Hinks' other accomplishments over the years it was he who investigated this custom not only at St. Stephen's but at every one of the churches which he served.

Next Sunday morning at the 10:45 service, the Preston Trice Memorial window will be dedicated. Please circulate this news as many of his friends and acquaintances will want to honor him on this day which is one day before his birthday and three days before the celebration of All Saints' Day.

Dover aircrews are required to train under conditions similar to those that would exist in an airlift or a combat situation. The pilots must be able to fly in formation on a precise course and the navigators must be able to calculate exact positions. These flights will be for practice purposes to meet the wing combat readiness missions and be conducted only on days when there is a minimum cloud ceiling of 3000 feet and at least five miles visibility. Wherever possible the routes have been planned to avoid flying directly over populated areas.

Low Level Training Flights Conducted at DAB
 Low level tactical training flights are presently being conducted over some parts of Delaware and Maryland by C-141 aircraft based at Dover AFB, Del.
 These jet powered cargo aircraft will be flying at altitudes of 500 to 1500 feet, both singly and in formations of 3 to 6 aircraft. Dover aircrews are required to train under conditions similar to those that would exist in an airlift or a combat situation. The pilots must be able to fly in formation on a precise course and the navigators must be able to calculate exact positions. These flights will be for practice purposes to meet the wing combat readiness missions and be conducted only on days when there is a minimum cloud ceiling of 3000 feet and at least five miles visibility. Wherever possible the routes have been planned to avoid flying directly over populated areas.

THE TAXPAYER SHOULD KNOW THE COSTS OF PUBLIC DEFENDERS

Granted the impoverished should have the benefit of public defenders, that is, attorneys appointed by the State when the defendant does not have adequate legal fees.

Granted, also, the taxpayers should know how much of his or her money goes to support the system. For instance Rep. George H. Quillen said he would like to know the costs of defending one Parsons in a rape and murder case but has no success. Of course, he meant the costs to date as legal proceedings have been going on longer than we care to mention.

We are particularly interested in knowing the costs of court-appointed attorneys in fracas originating in the camps of migratory workers, or where these workers are involved outside of the camp. How much does the taxpayer have to pay to "protect" them, what are the welfare costs if they decide to winter here, and is their employment worth it.

We have suggested to Rep. Quillen he stand up on the floor of the General Assembly and demand an answer to these questions.

BUCKSON IS RIGHT

Attorney General David P. Buckson, speaking at a Republican women's conference in Massachusetts, recommended legislation to allow the state to appeal criminal cases. We are "fer" it.

Too many cases are lost on legal technicalities, to the detriment of the long-suffering public.

A murderer of five members of his own family in New York was freed on a legal technicality.

A Delawarean, charged with murder, was freed because a policeman misspelled his name on the docket. A misplaced comma, the use of a non-restrictive clause in the place of a restrictive one, or vice versa, in the charge, and so on may grant the defendant his or her freedom.

We would like to see the law changed to permit the prosecution to appeal. Such a change may make the public believe once more the courts are on its side.

The razing of Reese Theatre has opened up a nice rear view of some dilapidated buildings on Commerce Street and Gains (originally Cain's) Alley.

"WHERE SHALL I WORK TODAY?"

It has been gratifying to learn THAT so many of our young men and women in the service and away at colleges, look forward to our home news. They are going to get a shock, however, when they see the vacancy left by the removal of Reese Theatre. The loss of this building and the Wonder "R" restaurant is more than offset by reconstruction at the race track and fair grounds in general.

We feel sure it would be of interest to you (away from-homers) to know that our population did not change much when you left for school as the parimutuel boys moved in about the same time for a 90-day meet. By the time it ends you'll be coming back for the holidays. May you always hold dear, the good little town that made you, where the following lines appeared in our church bulletin on the eve of Vincent Piel's visit among us.

Master, where shall I work today?
 And my blood flowed warm and free
 As He pointed to a tiny spot
 And said: "tend that spot for me!"

But I answered quickly, "Oh, not there,
 Where nobody else can see,
 No matter how well my task is done,
 Not that little place for me!"

His voice, when he spoke was not stern
 As He quietly said to me:
 "Disciple, search that heart of thine.
 Are you working for them or Me?"
 Nazareth was only a little place,
 And so was Galilee!"

C.-K.-R.-T Auxiliary News

The October meeting of the C.-K.-R.-T. American Legion Auxiliary, on Tuesday evening, was opened by the president, Mrs. William Outten, followed by the regular order of business.

Plans were made for the Executive Committee meeting of the Department of Delaware, American Legion Auxiliary to be held at the Post Home on November 18th. The members of Unit 7 will serve luncheon.

The annual Veteran's Day Ceremony has been scheduled for Sun., Nov. 12th at 2 p.m. at the Memorial Plaza of the Delaware Memorial Bridge.

On Friday evening, Oct. 27, at 7 o'clock, a dinner honoring the National Vice-President of the Eastern Division of the American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. John Powell, Jr. will be held at Kent Manor Inn, Wilmington. Mrs. Outten has the reservation form for anyone wishing to attend. Tickets are $5.

The Home Economics Extension Staff of the University of Delaware has invited members of the unit to attend Delaware's Consumer Forum on the topic "What You Should Know About Automobile Insurance". Meetings of the forum will be held in this vicinity on November 8 at the Milford High School, Lakeview Ave., Milford, and on November 9 at the William B. Simpson Elementary School, in Camden-Wyoming.

A donation of $5 was made to project Sunrise of the Chapel of the Four Chaplains. This year the project will be the presentation of "The Saga of the Four Chaplains" by Margaret Sangster to schools throughout the country.

Donations were also made to cover the cost of transportation and costs of a dance party at Perry Point Hospital, and for a Bingo party to be held at Brack-Ex Veterans Hospital at Elsmere. Auxiliary members of units in the northern part of the state regularly take parties to each of these hospitals. Since distance usually prevents the down-state units from participating in the parties the expenses of at least one party a year paid by a down-state unit helps to continue the program.

The November meeting will be held on Tuesday, the 21st. Guests for the evening will be the representatives from Harrington and Greenwood High Schools who attended Girl's State last June. Mrs. Clyde Tucker, Girl's State chairman will make arrangements. All members are especially invited to be present to hear the girls' reports on this most interesting part of the American Legion Auxiliary program.

John W. Sheldrake, 95, the city's oldest resident, died after a short illness. He was born in Phoenixville, Pa., Sept. 4, 1856, and moved with his parents to Farmington in 1865. He came to Harrington in 1877 and worked in the spoke family of James Hanley & Son and later founded a canning company.

Mr. and Mrs. William Clarkson and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lore and son were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Clarkson, of Greenwood.

Miss Christine Powell, of New York City, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Powell.

Mrs. J. R. Eggert, of Montclair, N. J., was a recent guest of Miss Elizabeth Shaw.

Harrington defeated Farmington at baseball Sunday, 9-1, to tie the series in the Mid-Del League playoff.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Short, Jr., spent Sunday with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zimmerman, of Magnolia.

Mrs. H. Clyde Miller has returned from a visit to her old home in southern West Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Longfellow entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rothell and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Messick and son, of Queen Anne, Md., and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Reed, of Clayton.

Mrs. Jack Pitlick and Mrs. William Shaw were in Philadelphia Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Killen, of Dover, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Massey.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Layton were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Layton Washington, D. C., Miss Edna Lankford, of Georgia, and Mrs. Nora Coulbourne and son, Martin, of near Harrington.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Kemp celebrated their 29th wedding anniversary Sunday. All their children were home.

John G. Parks, Ralph Coulbourne, of Felton Walter Carey, of Laurel, and Edmund Harrington, of Felton, attended a rodeo in Madison Square Garden, New York City, Wednesday.

Hobb's Newsstand and Acme battled it out Tuesday evening with neither team getting any advantage over the other as they split four games down the middle. It looks as though some teams higher up are taking the lower teams too lightly as the results of Tuesday night's bowling will show. The only reason these lower teams didn't take over new positions is that they had lost so many games before to make much difference in their standings. But, by acting as spoilers the rest of this third, they can really put a dent in anyone's hopes of ever catching the leader. It's probably too late already, as the third is just about over.

A. Hickman also had a very fine 210 game this week. This is the first time we've seen this name in the high game column. Let's hope we see this name, and many more new names, in the weeks to come.

This means that eligible civilian construction men can start right out at pay levels that have taken Navy men as long as seven years or more to reach.

In a similar program last year, the Navy obtained 5,000 petty officers in a six-month recruitment drive. This new program offers an outstanding opportunity for skilled men to fulfill their military obligation while gaining increased experience in their trade and drawing higher pay. Volunteers sign up at any Navy recruiting office and can select service in the Seabees for a 30-month duty tour. At this time they are given petty officer ratings according to their qualifications.

The need for skilled construction volunteers, particularly first class petty officers, has resulted from the build-up of Seabee forces to meet requirements in Southeast Asia. The Seabees are playing an essential part in the construction effort there.

The volunteer for the Seabee program does not go to the boot camp that faces other Navy recruits. Instead, he goes immediately to Gulfport, Miss., to a special school where he learns about the Navy and the responsibilities of a Navy petty officer.

Working in his civilian construction specialty, he gets 30 days paid leave each year and the opportunity to earn a promotion.

Further information about this program may be obtained from your Navy Recruiter, Chief Sanders, at the U.S. Navy Recruiting Branch Station, Keith Building, Dover, or call 734-7319.

DSTC Holds Chairman's Night Program

The Diamond State Telephone Company held a "Program Chairman's Night" for various organizations and clubs in the Dover area Tuesday evening at the Holiday Inn, Dover.

Excerpts from various telephone company lectures and films were presented to the club representatives.

The purpose of the "Chairmen's Night" was to explain the free telephone company programs available to civic, church and social organizations.

Harrington Bowling League

Kent Gas seems to be moving like a big steam roller, crushing everything in its path. Penn R.R. was the victim this week, as they were handed a four game loss. No wonder Kent Gas is on top. Who can compete with bowling scores that K. Layton keeps racking up. He finally broke that magic 600 mark and compiled a very grand 623 series that still has the other bowlers shaking their heads about. With games like 223 and 202 in one night, who can lose!

McKnatt Funeral Home, somehow, managed to hang on to eke out the second place spot, though winning only one game. Wally's Garage was the villain in this contest, even though taking three of four games didn't get them from the cellar position.

Hamilton Fund and Taylor & Messick battled it out this week, with Taylor & Messick hitting Hamilton Fund for three games. Joe Bogden's fine showing for Hamilton Fund kept Taylor & Messick from making a complete rout of this contest. With a fine 526 series, including a 207 game, it is safe to assume that Hamilton Fund would win one game anyway.

Robbins Hardware, who incidentally held the second place spot last week, was thrown into a three way tie of third place, even though Jarrell Fuel handed them a four game loss. I suspect D. Hayman was mainly responsible for this fine effort by Jarrell Fuel. He too, has been very consistent in his bowling, getting above average series almost every week. With Hayman's fine 561 series, including a good 207 game and a lot of help from M. Jarrell, with a grand 546 series, it's no wonder Jarrell Fuel made a clean sweep this week.

Hobb's Newsstand and Acme battled it out Tuesday evening with neither team getting any advantage over the other as they split four games down the middle. It looks as though some teams higher up are taking the lower teams too lightly as the results of Tuesday night's bowling will show. The only reason these lower teams didn't take over new positions is that they had lost so many games before to make much difference in their standings. But, by acting as spoilers the rest of this third, they can really put a dent in anyone's hopes of ever catching the leader. It's probably too late already, as the third is just about over.

A. Hickman also had a very fine 210 game this week. This is the first time we've seen this name in the high game column. Let's hope we see this name, and many more new names, in the weeks to come.

This means that eligible civilian construction men can start right out at pay levels that have taken Navy men as long as seven years or more to reach.

In a similar program last year, the Navy obtained 5,000 petty officers in a six-month recruitment drive. This new program offers an outstanding opportunity for skilled men to fulfill their military obligation while gaining increased experience in their trade and drawing higher pay. Volunteers sign up at any Navy recruiting office and can select service in the Seabees for a 30-month duty tour. At this time they are given petty officer ratings according to their qualifications.

The need for skilled construction volunteers, particularly first class petty officers, has resulted from the build-up of Seabee forces to meet requirements in Southeast Asia. The Seabees are playing an essential part in the construction effort there.

The volunteer for the Seabee program does not go to the boot camp that faces other Navy recruits. Instead, he goes immediately to Gulfport, Miss., to a special school where he learns about the Navy and the responsibilities of a Navy petty officer.

Working in his civilian construction specialty, he gets 30 days paid leave each year and the opportunity to earn a promotion.

Further information about this program may be obtained from your Navy Recruiter, Chief Sanders, at the U.S. Navy Recruiting Branch Station, Keith Building, Dover, or call 734-7319.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR LIMING TO CHANGE OCT. 16

The soil testing laboratory at the University of Delaware changed the method of making liming recommendations to farmers on October 16, according to Leo J. Cotnoir, Jr., agronomist at the University. These changes apply only to farmers; recommendations for home gardens and lawns will remain unchanged.

All lime recommendations will now be made in pounds of total oxide content of calcium oxide plus magnesium oxide instead of pounds of limestone. Since state law requires that all liming materials have the total oxide content listed on the label, farmers can now easily determine the amount they need of whatever liming material they prefer. The soil test report includes a table to use to calculate the amount needed for liming materials containing from 30 to 95 per cent total oxides.

The recommendations don't assign a greater value for the theoretically higher neutralizing value of magnesium oxide, if liming materials containing both magnesium and calcium oxides are used. According to Cotnoir, research evidence shows that the slower reaction rate of magnesium oxide evens out the theoretical advantage. Magnesium recommendations are given separately from those of lime, Cotnoir points out. An instruction sheet will be supplied which gives necessary information to calculate the amount of magnesium needed either as dolomitic limestone or as a more soluble magnesium source. Which material should be used depends on the particular crop grown and the soil situation.

Soil and Water Conservation District supervisors develop programs to save our natural resources. Four of them are elected to serve four-year terms in Kent County, with one elected each year.

Each supervisor represents the landowners in his District. The term of Charles C. Blendt of Smyrna, representing the north-east quadrant of Kent County, expires this December.

Any farmer resident in this section is eligible for nomination as supervisor. He can be nominated by petition of 10 landowners in Kent County.

The northeast section is bounded on the west by the dual highway, U. S. 13, and on the south by Delaware Route 10, to Rising Sun, and then the road to Lebanon and the St. Jones River.

The petition should be presented to the Kent Soil and Water Conservation District office by Friday, November 10. The election will follow in a matter of a couple of weeks by the landowners in this northeast section.

Supervisors serve without pay, and normally meet on the second or third Monday of each month. They serve more than 1000 farmers cooperators in the county. The District operates heavy land moving equipment mostly for land drainage work and for farm ponds.

Mr. Blendt is presently serving as vice chairman of the Board of Supervisors. He operates a large dairy farm east of Smyrna on the road to Leipsic. He has served as president of the State Association of the SCD Supervisors as well as the Delaware Crop Improvement Association.

Swedish food retailers, thirty-two of them, held a seminar at the University of Delaware last week. Your county agent was grateful for the chance to help explain American methods of food merchandising.

We were rather surprised that only about a third of our visitors spoke any English. But they explained that young Swedes in school today are required to study one or more foreign languages.

Simultaneous translation ear-phones were set up at the University. An interpreter kept up with the speakers so that little time was lost there. But we had to move more slowly in the stores.

These people were all members of FAVOR, a brokerage cooperative for their small grocery stores. In one discussion I heard one Swede ask: "Why do you not have the same sort of cooperatives here?" The answer was a classic one: "The margin of profit at the wholesale level is so small that it is not worthwhile in the U.S. We depend on high volume of stock turnover on a very small margin. There probably would be very few profits to return as a patronage refund to the members."

Nearly all of these men were from the Stockholm area of Sweden. I talked at length with Curt Hellstrand. He owns three stores and hires 12 employees. He said his net profits are taxed at 70% of the total, mostly because of their extreme social welfare programs. We talked about unions, corporations, cartels, wages and bonus incentives, refrigeration equipment, shelf space, health regulations, food additions, credit policies, trading stamps, to mention just a few things.

Our visitors regarded the large chain stores as "fabulous" — if impractical in their own situation. One machine attracted a great deal of attention, the tray pack machine for meat which wraps, weighs and automatically stamps the weight and sales price on the package. One American host remarked: "The Swedes are just like our own retailers. Show them a fancy store with wonderful fruit and vegetable displays, a variety of dairy products, ready to use foods, etc.—and where do they all want to go? To the meat counter!"

The small, convenient, neighborhood stores seemed to have great appeal. It seems that Europeans do not have the wide range of ready to use foods found here. The European housewife shops more often, and spends more time preparing meals.

World market prices more and more affect our crops. Soybeans are the latest. Historically declining cotton sales show the pattern. I don't want to get into a discussion of high government price supports, except to say that our relatively high domestic prices do not compete very well on the export market.

The Soybean Council of America suggests more research to boost soybean yields so that farmers can make money on volume. An increase in bushels of yield per acre may still permit a profit even at a lower price.

For our Kent County farmer, the problem boils down to this. The man who gets high yields makes the most profit. His costs are usually very little more than for the average or the marginal grower. Prices at any given time are just about the same for all. So, produce more bushels, reduce your cost per bushel, and earn more profit.

Discover Wonderful Del.

In Sussex County are three small wonders of wonderful Delaware often forgotten when the famous churches of Delaware are listed. These are Prince George's Chapel at Dagsboro, Christ Church at Broad Creek near Laurel, and Blackwater Presbyterian Church near Clarksville.

The three could not be more unlike in appearance or similar in their backgrounds. These are Delaware properties but they were erected as Maryland churches — not in today's Maryland, but on land in dispute even then for a century or more until in 1764 Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon confirmed the line due west of Fenwick Island to the center of the Peninsula before turning northward 100 miles to the circle around New Castle.

The three churches then left their Maryland status behind and became centers of Delaware affection. They remain so today. Prince George's Chapel at Dagsboro had its beginning in 1717, built on land that became a fragment of Dagworthy's Conquest, a 20,000 acre grant from Maryland to Revolutionary Army General after whom Dagsboro is named — John Dagworthy. He is buried, at his own request, under the chancel of the church. By 1757 the original chapel had been replaced by the present building. Except for doors and window sash the church has never been painted, inside or out.

The rich golden patina of its interior speaks well for the Maryland-Delaware heart pine used throughout in its construction. The chapel is east of Main Street in Dagsboro, on Rte. 26, "Ocean View Road". Near Laurel, charming old Christ Church stands by Broad Creek, a mile off busy Route 13 but well designated by historical markers for the benefit of tourists. Christ Church is also pre-Revolutionary, built as a chapel of ease of Maryland's Stepeny parish in 1772. This, too, scarcely knew a paint brush until recent years. Heart pine was the secret at Christ Church, too. For the most part, the building is kept locked and shuttered, zealously maintained by St. Philip's Episcopal Church in Laurel.

A few miles east of Dagsboro, near what is now Clarksville, beside the road to Frankford a third relic from a two hundred year old Maryland past stands in its grove of trees. This, too, is frame. Old Blackwater Presbyterian Church built first in 1767 has a considerable history of its own to match the others and its unusually generous ceiling height and sprightly gray and green paint give a somewhat newer appearance than its two hundred-plus years might lead one to expect. Half of its modest cemetery is given over to graves of the Tunnell family and there is a cenotaph honoring the founder of this great Delaware family.

All three of these are heritages from Maryland. Each has another point in common: regular services have not been held in any of them for many years. Blackwater discontinued the practice early in this century—about 1907. Prince George's Chapel, has not known regular communicants since 1870. Christ Church has been without regular services since 1850. Christ Church is opened for services once a year, usually on Whitsunday, late in May. An annual service has been held at Prince George's Chapel on the first Sunday in October.

These three rather touching small wonders of Wonderful Delaware can be visited in a short trip of discovery across lower Sussex County. And even though they're not open to the public, just the sight of them can awaken dreams of years gone by—the christenings, the weddings, the funerals of the founders of Delaware seem less remote.

With Jean Cranston

Feeding little folks can be fun if we know what to expect in children.

We have learned what foods were good for growth and health. We measured how much of each food children should have. We expected them to eat that food. We didn't take into consideration that no two children are exactly alike.

Children differ in body build. Whether your child will be the short stocky type, a tall string-bean, or some type in between depends upon his inheritance.

Lack of proper food could prevent him from gaining his full stature but stuffing him with food won't change him from one type to another.

Children grow at different rates. Each child may go through period when growth spurts and then slows down. In a "spurt" he eats more food because he needs it, when growth slows down he eats less.

Children react differently to food. Some seem to care less for a variety in their food and some show stronger feelings than others about what and how they want to eat.

All children grow through similar stages of development, however, each needs to grow on his own time and his own way.

We are interested then in "How to Bring Children and Foods Together Happily".

Because children's minds and emotions are developing too, we need to try to avoid severe conflicts over food. We do this because young children show such strong feelings of frustration or satisfaction about eating. A child's feelings about his feeding experiences may affect the way he is able to meet other situations in life. When we bring children and food together happily, the children's emotional satisfaction helps build mental health. Pleasant feeding experiences are as important as proper food.

Finally for a happy mealtime a child needs:

1. Play, rest, sleep, and that "clean feeling".
2. Attractive food.
3. Small servings.
4. Some freedom to choose his own food.
5. Some freedom to eat in his own way.
6. Relaxed parents.

Chicken Inspected For Their Wholesomeness

"Homemakers can buy broilers with complete confidence since these chickens are inspected for wholesomeness and processed under rigid sanitary conditions," Dr. John C. Hammond, chairman of the Delaware State Poultry Commission said during a recent meeting in Dover.

Hammond explained that, in Delaware's poultry plants, each chicken is individually inspected by U. S. government inspectors to be certain that the meat is wholesome and suitable for human consumption. Veterinarians employed by the inspection service division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture supervise the program.

This important step in marketing chickens is considered a public protection service; therefore the cost of providing trained and licensed inspectors is paid by the federal government.

Currently, chickens are in abundant supply and the quality has never been better, Hammond stressed. Some six million are marketed each week from the tri-state area of the Delmarva Peninsula which includes Delaware and eastern shore Maryland and Virginia.

Hammond paid tribute to the poultry processors of Delaware by pointing out the tremendous strides in poultry processing methods in recent years.

"In spite of rising costs for labor and materials our processors have, through mechanization and management, been able to reduce processing costs and at the same time provide consumers with ready-to-cook chicken, which are delivered to eastern markets daily and guaranteed to be wholesome," concluded Dr. Hammond.

Broiler Price Spread Means Reasonable Profit

Nobody's making an excessive profit on broilers. The spread between the price the poultry industry receives for live chickens and the price paid at the supermarket represents only a reasonable profit to those performing marketing services, but the poultry contractor may be losing money at current prices.

According to W. T. McAllister, extension farm management specialist at the University of Delaware, the difference between the 11 cents a pound received for live birds and the 29 cents a pound paid in the supermarket is easily explained. In the first place, 11 cents a pound refers to live weight; over one quarter of the live weight is waste, so the ready-to-cook weight cost is 15 cents.

All the services performed by the processing plant from pick-up at the farm to delivery of ice-packed, ready-to-cook chicken at the wholesale market cost approximately 6.5 cents a pound. That broiler in the wholesale market is now worth 21.5 cents a pound. Delivery to the retailer plus a normal mark-up of 30 per cent brings the final price up to 28 or 29 cents a pound.

Unfortunately, a live-bird price of 11 cents a pound is well below the total cost of raising the broilers — approximately 15 cents a pound. Since, on Delmarva, 99 per cent of the broiler growers are under contract, they aren't directly affected by the low price, McAllister notes.

Growers receive a payment agreed upon at the time the chicks are started from the contractor who supplies the chicks. This contract payment is not directly dependent on the current market price.

Who is losing the most at current broiler prices? According to Ray Lloyd, extension poultryman at the University of Delaware's Georgetown Substation, the biggest losers are the feed companies which contract with the growers and do not have their own processing plants. These companies have higher production costs and then must sell at the current low market prices.

Mrs. Anne Holberton, consumer marketing specialist at the University of Delaware, insists the one who is really making the biggest profit is the consumer. "Chicken is far less expensive than other meats especially if you compare the cost of the meat that is actually edible."

For instance, if chuck roast sold at 59 cents a pound—a price much lower than now found in stores — it would actually cost $1.51 per pound of edible meat, discarding bone, fat and gristle. Broilers at 29 cents a pound actually cost only 58 cents for a pound of edible meat. According to Mrs. Holberton, broilers will continue to be a better buy since all other meats will stay high priced.

Harrington Scares Unbeaten Millsboro; Lose 7-6

Bill Muehlisen's football Lions own a record of two wins and three defeats after a heart-breaking 7-6 defeat at the hands of unbeaten Millsboro, Friday night, here.

The Lions had the Blue Devils on the ropes, for the last three periods, but could not land the knockout punch. On two occasions, Harrington was stopped inside the visitor's two-yard line.

Harrington's defense blunted numerous Millsboro threats. The Sussex Countians bubble should burst when they tangle with the legitimate powerhouses, Delmar and Bridgeville.

Millsboro threatened to waltz to victory when the opening kickoff ended up on their 45 and a wide left sweep reached the Lion 30. A charge to the 21 followed as Millsboro fumbled and recovered. A one yard gain was followed by two pass attempts. One was dropped by a butter-fingered visitor. Fullback Morris, the Devils big ground-gainer, gained eight yards to just miss the first down.

The Lions moved from the 12 to 17 on a penalty, but soon had a pass tried at the 20.

Two tries at the left side of the Lion forward wall netted a first down, nine yards out. At the five yard line with third and goal coming up, a pitchout lost four yards. Fourth down gained only a useless 36 inches.

Harrington netted only three yards in three tries. Millsboro took a short kick and marched steadily into the end zone.

Harrington speedster 2 Jerry Cagle returned the kickoff to his own 43 and nearly went all the way. The home team dominated a scoreless second period.

Jack Redden's pass over the middle to Steve Welch was good for 27 yards to the Millsboro 30. Bill Moore grabbed another for 11 yards. Here the aerial attack went awry as one toss missed, another was intercepted, but was jarred loose by a hard Lion tackle and a third was intercepted by Morris on the 12.

A fumble to the Lions didn't help. H.H.S. lost yardage and kicked to the Millsboro 25. Two plays gained eight yards, but a third lost five.

Steve Welch brought the kick back into Millsboro territory near midfield. Redden threw a 24-yarder to Welch. The next pass was intercepted on the eight, as the first half ended.

The record-breaking track star, Jerry Cagle, took the kickoff, burst through the first line of tacklers, outsped all pursuit, in an electrifying 90-yard touch-down jaunt. A run for the tying extra point failed.

Morris returned the kickoff to the Millsboro, 35. Bob Thompson recovered a fumble on the 37. Visiting Coach Graham Dill, shirt-sleeved despite the bitter cold, began to pace on the sidelines as Harrington started to move.

Welch gained eight yards, Jim Harris added four for a first down at the 25. Millsboro stiffened and a punt was over the goal for a touchback.

The Blue Devils started a march but soon kicked out to the Lion 40. Harris added six yards in two thrusts. A pass over the middle to Moore was good to the enemy 44. Harris went to the 36 on a quick opener. Welch went left and was pushed out at the 28.

Steve then tried the right side and recorded a first down at the 18, then hit the middle to the 15. A quarterback keeper and two errant tosses ended the surge.

Millsboro gained only one yard in three plays before kicking out to their 39.

Harris cracked center for four. Redden faked neatly to the first man coming through, then handed to Welch for a first down at the 29. The Blue Devils halted the proceedings on the 24.

Hall of the visitors took a pitchout for ten yards, before two 15 yard penalties in a row were levied. Gary Minner broke up a long pass play in the nick of time. Bill Moore then grabbed another and returned it all the way to the Millsboro nine-yard stripe.

Welch blasted to the four, Harris no gain, Welch to the one-yard line. A fourth down pass was no good.

The aroused Lions held the Devils right there for two downs. A third down punt took a Millsboro roll to the 44, quite a punt in any league.

A Lion toss was intercepted, but a flag was dropped, and Millsboro lost the ball and was fined 15 yards for unnecessary roughness.

Welch, on a reverse, moved the leather 12 yards to the 15-yard line. He added six more through the line.

A first down pass dropped. A penalty nullified a near first down gain at the five. Redden faked, handed off to Cagle to add nine yards to the five-yard line. Welch was stopped short of the necessary yardage for a first down.

Millsboro moved out 19 yards to the 26 in 6 plays then punted.

Harrington's last ditch effort ended with a final pass interception.

The Lions travel to Dover Air, this week for a Saturday afternoon contest. Dover Air lost to Millsboro, 11-6 in their opener, but are undefeated since. It will take another good defensive effort plus an improved offense if Harrington is to annex win No. 4.

Lions Trip Warriors, Pirates At Milton

Columbus Day 1967. Many of the elements present on the day Christopher Columbus discovered America were on hand in the old shipbuilding town of Milton last week.

There were Indians (Milton Warriors), seafarers (Lewes Pirates), wild animals (Harrington's Lions) and a peerless leader named Christopher (Wetherhold). A lot of discoveries were made. The two chief revelations were that Lewes' Barry Lambertson is not invincible and that Coach McDonald's young Lions are capable of losing a key man (No. 2 harrier Ron Morris) and can still rise to the occasion.

Christopher "Columbus" Wetherhold led his H.H.S. Lions to a victory over Lewes and Milton, that looked almost out of reach only hours earlier. Lambertson, second in the state cross-country title test last fall, untouchable down state and unbeaten in 1967, was beaten by an incredible 27 seconds, by Harrington's finely-tuned freshman. Chris had planned to deny the Pirate the huge lead he almost always attains, stick within 20 or 30 yards, then attempt to outkick the 18-year-old senior in the stretch. Wetherhold found that a year's growth and intensive training had made it possible to catch Lambertson much earlier than the original plan. The pair were side by side for almost a mile. Then the Lion moved steadily away to victory on the second 1 1/4 miles laps.

With Ron Morris out, Milton had loomed as a threat to foil Harrington's bid for its 29th straight victory and its 58th win in 59 starts. But two of Milton's best, Argo and Gooner, did not run. This removed the Warriors chances, but made Lewes doubly dangerous. The Pirates' Lambertson and Martin, are a powerful duo. Each Lion knew he had to turn in a peak performance or else.

Nick Morris and Danny Hitchens beat everyone they were supposed to beat in finishing fifth and sixth. H.H.S. now was in a good spot, but had to see another two wearers of the Blue and Gold, but quick. These had to come from a quintet composed of Roger Jarrell, Bob Smith, Richard Benson, Bob Rash and Jack Warrington. It became apparent early, that all five were pushing hard. Jarrell, 14, and Smith, 13, came in tenth and eleventh to sew up the victory. Only 16 seconds later, Benson, Rash and Warrington were across the finish line, in a great team effort by the first eight locals.

Lewes' all-senior squad was outthrust by a Lion first five averaging only 14 1/2 years old. Nick Morris was the only Lion older than 14.

The squad wishes to thank the cheerleaders for decorating the bus with blue and gold streamers and inspirational signs. These girls are: Sharon Motter, Charlyn Hoffman, Diane Carroll, Donna Wetherhold, Karen Minner, Ruth Ann Moore, Kay Raughley, Gail Melvin.

J. D. Parker, 12, Wins Third Straight Run

Jackie D. Parker, a rising young running star, won his third reserve cross-country race, in as many tries, at Milton Thursday. Competing against runners up to and including grade eleven, he ran away from everyone except another 12-year-old Harringtonian, Wardell Davis. Davis was only nine seconds back in his best effort yet.

A perfect score in cross-country is achieved if the first five boys to finish are from the same team. H.H.S. had the first eleven finishers, as Milton could only get one lad in the top 20. That is an amazing performance.

Leonard Palmer (fourth), and Tommy Clarke (eighth) were other seventh-graders in the top eight runners, as Coach McDonald's farm system continues to function on all twelve cylinders.

Steve Gannon a 12-year-old eighth grader and John Shulties (third) also in grade eight are doing very well in their first cross-country seasons. Sophomores Chuck Hurd and Charley Brown turned in their best 1967 performances.

Several adults standing near the finish line were shaking their heads in admiration, as practically every Lion reserve, broke into a sprint in the homestretch, whether there was anyone ahead to catch or not. That's the mark of a champion, it says here.

Wetherhold Leads Lions At Wash. College

Harrington's undefeated freshman, Chris Wetherhold, led Coach Harold McDonald's Lions to their 30th consecutive cross-country victory at Chestertown, Md., on Tuesday afternoon. H.H.S. has only one regular-season loss in the last 60 starts, dating back to 1963.

The Lions' test with North Carolina High School of Denton, Md., was run over a 3.2 miles slice of the Washington College 4.2 miles cross-country course.

North Carolina's 14 man squad was composed of juniors and seniors. Senior Nick Morris is the only Lion starter above sophomore level.

To save time the varsity and reserve races were run simultaneously. H.H.S. won both easily.

Forty-five starters toed the mark in the combined races with Wetherhold taking an early lead and Bulldogs in the next seven or eight spots.

Captain Nick Morris and Danny Hitchens were moving up slowly as the runners passed from view at 1.1 miles. Jackie D. Parker, the No. 1 reserve all season, was back in 20th position at that point.

Several minutes later Wetherhold hove into view after completing a hilly mile loop. Morris next rounded the corner followed by Hitchens. The race was over for North Carolina with a mile to go, unless a Bulldog could catch one of the fast-stepping trio. Parker soon came in sight in the first twelve runners. He had first place in the reserve section of the event all sewed up, but he doesn't quit if anyone is still ahead of him, friend or foe.

Watching the race unfold a mile away, with the aid of our binoculars, we became fascinated by the progress of the two tow-heads, Hitchens and Parker. Each is around 4 feet, 7 inches tall, and their combined weight of 135 pounds is still not enough to make a football coach drool.

Danny had outdistanced all Maryland opposition and was methodically closing the gap between third and second place. The 12-year-old Parker was mowing down the Bulldog six footers and some older Harrington runners, too. The two cotton bolls bobbed up and down and electrified the incredulous Washington College runners, who were watching with their steady progress.

At the finish, Wetherhold had a tremendous 17.02. Hitchens logged his best varsity finish, a second place, with Morris third. Don Chatellier, the personable

Lion Jr. High Gridders Stun Caesar Rod'y, 13-7

Harrington's junior high eleven, coached by Jim Hawpe and Charley Miller, evened their record at 1-1, after upsetting big school Caesar Rodney, 13-7, at Caesar Rodney. As one was stated to this writer, with five football coaches at Harrington for our two teams, we are going to have some vacancies, wait and see. Even Milford doesn't have that many.

We don't know, or care how many coaches Milford has, but we feel that anytime Harrington beats Caesar Rodney in football, at any level, that someone deserves some kudos. So we say to Hawpe and Miller, "well done."

In the first quarter, Dale Motter ran 35 yards to give H.H.S. the lead. Rich Welch ran for the extra point.

In the third period the Riders knotted the count, but Jim Depuy raced 20 yards to give the Lions the triumph.

Mike Derrickson, Dennis Layton, Mickey Chaffinch and Dwight Ross were stellar performers in the Lion forward wall.

Washington College coach, was excitedly watching Parker. The frail-appearing young local had beaten 12 of the 14 North Carolina juniors and seniors and was calling on the last two in the homestretch. He missed them by only one and two seconds, respectively, despite the four to seven years he was giving away to each Bulldog.

Bob Rash and Jack Warrington again ran very well. With sickness and injury plaguing the Lions, this pair can mean the difference between victory and defeat next week against toughies, Seaford and Lewes. Their recent good efforts are very encouraging.

No. 2 runner Ron Morris is still at home with bronchitis. The Lions' further success this year depends very much on his quick recovery.

Bob Smith, another great prospect, broke a collar bone Sunday playing football, and Roger Jarrell is nursing a sore leg suffered in an accident in school. Illness kept Charley Brown home, Tuesday.

It will take another inspired performance, such as last week's triangular win at Milton, to see the Lions get through next week unscathed.

Other Lions to run well at Washington College include: Wardell Davis, Bill Stubbs, Chuck Hurd, Brad Morris, Leonard Palmer, Steve Gannon, Bill Walls, Joe Gray, Tommy Clarke, Brinley Brode, Charles Baynard.
