

Arson Suspected in 2 Early Morning Fires

Two unoccupied farm houses, near town, were destroyed by fire early this week, with arson suspected as a cause.

Harrington firemen answered an alarm at 1:20 a.m., Sunday and stayed at the scene until 2:30 a.m., at a house owned by John Abbott near Paradise Alley Road and east of U.S. 13. A barn was saved.

A house on the old Charlie Klecan property, adjacent to the property of Charles Hruspa, on Sugarstick Road, was burned Wednesday. Firemen answered the alarm at 1:20 a.m., and stayed at the scene until 2:30 a.m.

Special Service Academy Review Board Named

A special Service Academy Review Board has been set up by Congressman William V. Roth, Jr., to aid him in selecting the best qualified young men for appointment to Annapolis, West Point and the Air Force Academy.

The board consists of twelve members; including a chairman, two members from each Delaware county, two from Wilmington, and three of Delaware's liaison representatives to the service academies.

Chairman of the board is John F. Curran, chairman of counseling staff, Brandywine High School. Sussex county members are A. G. Brinsfield, retailer of Seaford, and Paul C. Stokes, realtor of Rehoboth Beach. Kent County members are Walslow Jones, retired military officer, and Mrs. Virginia Dennis, both of Dover. New Castle County members are J. Caleb Boggs, airline pilot and military reservist of Riverside Gardens, and Everette Hale, state legislator and military reservist of Newark. Wilmington members are Clarence A. Fuller, retired educator, and Bernard Ableman, businessman.

Delaware's liaison representatives to the three service academies are: (Air Force) George W. Collins, Frankford; (West Point) Dr. William H. Duncan, McDaniel Crest; (Navy) Ronald Baughman, Wilmington.

"In order to insure making the best possible nominations to the service academies," Roth said when announcing the new review board, "interested young men will be required to take a qualification test and then be interviewed by the members of this review board." Based on test scores and interviews, the board will make recommendations to Roth who will select the nominees.

List Of Delaware Servicemen In Viet Nam

Colonel Clifford E. Hall, State Director of Selective Service, said that he is very pleased at the response to the announcement that he is compiling a list of Delaware Servicemen in Viet Nam. This is the third year that his office has undertaken the compilation of such a list.

Provided the servicemen concerned will be serving in Viet Nam at Christmastime, relatives are invited to write to Colonel Hall giving name and address including rank, serial number, and unit. Colonel Hall's office is located at 3202 Kirkwood Highway, Wilmington, Del. 19808.

To insure sufficient time for mailing before Christmas, it is necessary that all information reach Colonel Hall's office no later than Nov. 2.

Upon completion of the list, it will be made available to churches and civic groups who have expressed a desire to send Christmas gifts or cards to Delawareans in Viet Nam.

Dept. of Measures And Weights Makes Arrests

Lorell D. Anderson of Baltimore, branch manager for Land O' Lakes Creameries, Inc., was arrested on Oct. 26, by the Department of Weights and Measures for offering for sale short-weight butter in the Food Fair Store, Rodney Village, Dover; Food Fair Store, Claymont; and the Acme Market, Bridgeville. Anderson pleaded guilty on three charges and was fined $10 plus costs for each charge by Magistrate W. Max Hollenbeck.

R. P. Warren To Give Readings At U. of D.

Robert Penn Warren, the only American with Pulitzer Prizes in both fiction and poetry, will give a reading of his poems at the University of Delaware on Friday, Nov. 10.

The reading is scheduled at 4:10 p.m. in Wolf Hall Auditorium and is open to the public without charge. Sponsored by the Department of English, Warren's appearance is part of the Sypher Memorial Lecture Series.

Author of eight novels including Pulitzer-winner "All the King's Men," Warren is one of the most distinguished American men of letters. "Promises, 1954-56," one of his seven poetry volumes, won the Pulitzer Prize.

Warren is a biographer, essayist, literary critic, and he has written two volumes on race in the U.S. — "Segregation" and "Who Speaks for the Negro?"

Last winter, he received the Bollingen Prize for Poetry, generally recognized as the most prestigious award in its field.

A teacher for more than 35 years, Warren is presently a professor at Yale University. His textbooks are credited with revolutionizing the study of poetry and fiction in college.

New Justice Bill Introduced Recently

A new bill creating a State Department of Justice was introduced in the House of Representatives this afternoon by Representative W. Laird Stabler, Jr. The Greenville Republican told his colleagues upon introducing the comprehensive measure that it is the result of deliberation of many persons who work and have worked in the Attorney General's Office. "Changes" he said, "resulted in part from a public hearing earlier this year."

"We have studied the comments and suggestions made on the previous bill," Stabler said, "and the system we have come up with, I feel, is a good sound approach."

I expect to place this bill before the House Judiciary Committee early next week and seek House passage at an early date." A Department of Justice would replace the existing system where State Boards and Agencies often employ private attorneys with a system where state attorneys handle all cases.

Attorney General David P. Buckson and several past Attorneys General have supported this concept and have predicted it would save Delaware money—while providing top-flight legal service.

Perhaps the major modification of the most recent bill is that it would require that the Chief Deputy, State Solicitor and State Prosecutor all serve on a full time basis. Other changes would require three years of service rather than 5 for an employee of the Department to receive tenure. Also, in cases where State Agencies request permission to employ private counsel, the concurrence of the Attorney General as well as of the Governor would be required.

Basically, changes in the new bill are designed to clarify language and concepts already present in the original measure," Stabler said.

"There are many advantages that would accrue to the State with the establishment of a Department of Justice," Stabler noted. "I have found wide-spread agreement on the need for such a step and hope that we will move promptly to enact this bill. The matter has been discussed for years. I hope this will be the session that turns a good idea into a reality."

Ed. Service To Be Conducted At Pilgrim Holiness

The Rev. Charles L. Felsburg, acting president of Eastern Pilgrim College, Allentown, Pa., and a student vocal group will conduct an educational service Sun., Nov. 5, at 7:30 p.m. in the Pilgrim Church, 240 Delaware Ave., Harrington.

The program will include sacred selections by the musical team, an outline of Eastern Pilgrim's academic offerings, and an address by the Rev. Felsburg. A special invitation is extended to junior and senior high school students to attend.

President Felsburg is a graduate of Frankfort Pilgrim College, Frankfort, Ind. An active churchman, he has enjoyed a wide and varied ministry on both the local and national levels. His pastoral ministry covered an 11 year period. For two years he and Mrs. Felsburg traveled in full-time evangelism.

In 1961 he was elected superintendent of the Western Ohio District of the Pilgrim Church where he served for three years. During this time he was also named chairman of the Frankfort College Board of Directors.

In 1966 he was appointed superintendent of the Capital District of the Pilgrim Church. The same year he was elected to the Eastern Pilgrim College board of trustees and in January of the following year named chairman.

In addition to district and college administrative duties, he engaged in extensive denominational fund raising and promotional programs. He was elected to the General Church Board as a representative of the northern Conference of the Pilgrim Holiness Church held at Winona Lake, Indiana.

In a special August, 1967 session of the college board of directors he was named acting president of Eastern Pilgrim College for the 1967-68 term. He is currently developing an accelerated program for attracting contributions to support the mounting costs of higher education and to strengthen the academic offerings.

The pastor, Wm. H. Miller, extends a cordial invitation to the public to hear the representatives from Eastern Pilgrim College.

HARRINGTON'S NEW SEWER PLAN OK'D

The Water and Air Resources Commission approved a new sewer construction schedule for Harrington Wed., Oct. 25, but the town's mayor got a scolding from the commission chairman.

The approval was delayed by the commission at its meeting last month after the town failed to comply with a Sept. 1 deadline for submitting plans for a secondary sewage treatment facility.

Commission Chairman Loren H. Frye told Mayor Fulton J. Downing the commission was disturbed because no one commented on the plans until the town was in default. "I think that's a poor way to do things," Frye said.

"I agree with you," replied Downing, who said he understood Town Engineer Dudley L. Willis had informed the commission the deadline could not be met.

Willis took the responsibility for not notifying the commission at September's meeting. He said the delay was caused by his waiting for word on whether additional federal funds would be provided the town for a demonstration project in connection

Delaware Vets To Receive Extra $715,520

Viet Nam-era and older veterans and dependents in Delaware are expected to receive an increase of $715,520 in benefits from the VA during the next 12 months, Senator J. Caleb Boggs said today.

The added payments go to veterans and their widows and children in various benefits provided by the Veterans' Pension and Readjustment Assistance Act of 1967, recently signed by President Johnson. Senator Boggs was among the bill's cosponsors.

A major provision of the new G. I. bill was a cost-of-living pension increase, Boggs said. For an estimated 3,910 Delawareans, this will account for nearly $220,140 of the added benefits.

He estimated that additional readjustment assistance for approximately 175 eligible veterans will amount to about $40,660, while the increase in educational and training benefits for more than 1,763 eligible veterans and dependents will total approximately $454,720 in the first year of operation of the new G.I. bill.

These increased benefits went into effect October 1, 1967, Boggs said.

Other pension provisions of the new G.I. bill, he explained: —Create a new "household" rate of $100 a month, in lieu of basic pension rate, for certain veterans under the old pension law.

—Establish a new monthly allowance of $50 in addition to pension otherwise payable to widows of veterans of all wars if they are in need of regular aid and attendance.

—Presume permanent and total disability of veterans at age 65.

—Presume the need of regular aid and attendance for pensioners in nursing homes.

The new law also provides the range of benefits for veterans serving in the Armed Forces during the Vietnam era, beginning on August 5, 1964, which have previously been authorized for veterans of the Korean conflict.

Boggs said that veterans and their widows and children in Delaware may obtain detailed information on the benefits and services to which they may be entitled under the Veterans' Pension and Readjustment Assistance Act of 1967 from the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Elsmere.

Froehlich General Manager Of DST Co.

Hervey W. Froehlich has been appointed general manager of the Diamond State Telephone Company effective January 1, it was announced today.

He succeeds Myrddyn H. Evans who is retiring after serving as general manager in Delaware since 1963.

State's Growth Up 17.5 Per Cent; Breakdown Due Late in Month

Wilmington may lose two or three state representatives, according to the special census figures, and Sussex County may lose one.

The figures were released by the Legislative Council which commissioned the U.S. Bureau of the Census to do the population count as part of the court-ordered reapportionment of the General Assembly.

They show the state's population has gone up 17.5 per cent since the 1960 census to $524,421. The count in 1960 was 446,292.

The figure show Wilmington's population dropped 11 per cent to 85,158 from the 1960 figure of 95,827, which itself was a drop from 1950's 110,356.

The figures were preliminary and Brig. Gen. D. Preston Lee, census coordinator, said more refined information would be available during the third week in November.

The county also showed that Kent County has surpassed Sussex County in population. It recorded 81,500 residents of the middle county compared to 78,525 in the lower.

Seven years ago Sussex County had 73,195 residents to Kent County's 65,651.

The only city in the state other than Wilmington to lose population was Milford. That town, which straddles the Sussex-Kent County line, declined from 5,795 to 5,697.

The most dramatic growths shown by the figures came in Dover, which doubled its population from 7,250 to 14,812, and Newark, which climbed from 11,404 to 19,241.

New Castle County outside of Wilmington increased from 211,619 to 279,236.

The figures released Tuesday carried breakdowns only for the three counties, Wilmington, Newark, Dover, Milford, New Castle and Elsmere. Elsmere showed an increase from 7,319 to 7,748 and New Castle climbed from 4,469 to 4,683.

The final figures will include a block-by-block breakdown of Wilmington and an enumeration district breakdown for the rest of the state.

Work on reapportionment cannot start until after the more refined figures are available.

The General Assembly is under a federal court order to redistrict itself by Jan. 10. If it fails to do the job, the U.S. District Court has said the judges would do it.

Politicians in Dover Tuesday were unable to predict the effect the new population count will have on reapportionment, but it was evident that Wilmington and Sussex County would suffer.

If the state's population were divided by the 35 representative districts, the average district would have 15,269 residents. The court has said no district should vary more than 5 per cent from that figure.

Using that number as a base, Wilmington would be entitled to five or six representatives, compared to the eight it now has. Sussex County would drop from six to five.

Rural New Castle County would climb from 16 to 19 or 20 and Kent County would maintain its five representatives.

Two persons were killed near here early yesterday morning when a compact car ran into a tractor-trailer stopped at a railroad crossing.

The victims were George R. Keen, 33, of 2641 Arrowhead Dr., Langhorne, Pa., driver of a 1967 Volkswagen, and a passenger, Frederick S. Messick, 46, of 54 Lakeview Dr., Holland, Pa.

Both were taken to Milford Hospital, in the ambulance of the Harrington Fire Company, where they were pronounced dead at 1:10 a.m.

According to state police of Troop 5, Bridgeville, the tractor-trailer, driven by Beatrice Thomas Handy, 42, male, of Stockton, Md., was stopped on the northbound lane of U.S. 13 at a crossing of a branchline of the Pennsylvania Railroad when the Keen vehicle ran into the rear of the trailer.

Handy was uninjured. Damage to his vehicle was slight but heavy to the Volkswagen, state police said.

Houston Halloween Parade Big Success

The Houston Halloween parade was held on Monday with over 80 children participating. The parade was led by John Wesley Johnson in the Houston Police car followed by several Houston Fire Trucks. In the parade were several ponies and horses. Some of the drivers were Mr. and Mrs. James Minner with their racing ponies, Billy Slater riding Oscar Watkins' mule, and Burt Griffith's pinto pony.

Antique cars were driven by Bill Sapp, Henry Silbereisen and the Houston "Vintage" Model A Fire Truck. Mrs. Louis Stude drove a sport's convertible accompanied by their great dane, Dutchess.

The Houston 4-H had a walking float and Harris Kintz drove a float arranged by the chairmen of the Houston parade, Mrs. Nora Dufendach and Mrs. Jane Apte.

The parade ended at the fire hall and the masked participants assembled in the social hall. The judges, Mrs. Frances Jarvis, Mrs. Margaret Storus, Josiah Jarvis, and the Rev. Harry A. Bradford, awarded the following prize: 6-year-olds — funniest, Floyd Ellerbusch best dressed, Herbert Keston; 7-11-year-olds, funniest, Lu Ann Boone; best dressed, Susan Apte; 12-16-year-olds, funniest, Bobby Capehart; best dressed, Richard Rollison.

Most outstanding of all age groups was a three way tie with Rhonda Kenton, Marla Dufendach, and Patricia Myers. The prize money was donated by the Houston 4-H. Mark Dufendach, Thomas Apte, and Miss Rosanna Messick, who was dressed as Libera, assisted in the program. Refreshments of donuts and cider were served to all following the contest.

Sewing Contest Entries Due

Last-minute entries for Delaware's Make-It-Yourself-With-Wool contest are now due, according to Mrs. Bette D. Butler, Odessa, state contest director. The annual competition is open to all Delaware women and girls over 10 years of age.

Four divisions will compete at the state level. Adults over 21 years old, seniors from 17 to 21 and juniors from 14 to 17 may enter dresses, suits, or coats; sub-debs, girls from 10 to 13, may enter skirts or jumpers.

District judging will take place November 11 for Kent and Sussex Counties; New Castle County judging will be held November 18. State competition is scheduled November 25 at the University of Delaware's Agricultural Hall auditorium.

State winners in the junior and senior divisions will compete in New York City with representatives of 15 other states; the area winner will take part in the national contest in Dallas, Texas. First prize winners in the adult and sub-deb categories will receive $25 U. S. savings bonds. Prizes for runners-up in all divisions will include lengths of wool and sewing equipment.

Contest information and entry blanks are available from Mrs. Bette D. Butler, Box 107, Odessa, Delaware 19730.

Sponsored nationally by the American Wool Council and the Women's Auxiliary to the National Wool Growers Association, the contest is sponsored in Delaware by the Delaware Sheep and Wool Association.

Measles - - - You Can Be Protected

There are two kinds of measles.

Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association, reports that the kind of measles against which the vaccines protect is known as rubella, "common measles," or the "seven-day" or "10-day" measles, or the "red" measles.

In rubella, there is a pronounced, long-lasting rash, usually associated with symptoms of illness for three or four days before the rash appears, such as fever and coughing.

The other kind of measles, rubella, is known as "German measles" or "three-day" measles. Rubella's rash is less pronounced, and there are few pre-rash symptoms. However, if a woman contracts rubella during the first three months of pregnancy, it can affect the fetus and result in birth defects.

An effective and safe vaccine is now available for rubella or red measles. It produces only a few minor reactions, but in turn provides almost complete protection which may last a lifetime. If all children between ages of 1 to 9 who have not already had measles or a dose of live virus measles vaccine could be immunized, measles could be eradicated from the United States. Vaccine can be administered by your doctor in his office or during measles vaccination campaigns.

The vaccine against German measles is not yet ready for general use. An effective one appears to have been developed but research must still solve the problem of making it in sufficient quantity to meet present needs. It should be available in another year or two.

G, and in addition, it has an abundant content of iron, phosphorous, and other minerals. With all of these good reasons to use potatoes, it is no wonder that this vegetable rates tops in popularity. In fact, consumers buy enough to supply 5 to 6 medium-size potatoes each week to every man, woman, and child in this country.

Many people ask about the "greening" on the surface of the skin of a potato what causes it and whether it is harmful. This "greening" is a result of the development of chlorophyll in the potato that has been exposed to either sunlight or artificial light. While most people believe this green area is a result of something that happened in the field, generally speaking it is the result of overhead lights in the display areas at the retail store.

When storing potatoes at home, it is best to store them in a cool, dry, dark area, as greening takes place more rapidly at room temperatures than in a cool area. The affected potatoes have a bitter taste and are better not used because of this. Other vegetables in good supply now are cabbage (crops are now above last year's), celery, lettuce, carrots, and dry onions. Supplies are on the increase for broccoli, cauliflower, turnips, Brussels sprouts, and rutabagas.

Don't be surprised to find that frozen concentrated orange juice may be a few pennies higher. It seems the predictions for the coming crop are much smaller than was first thought. The apple harvest is in full swing and there are lots of crisp, juicy apples available. New crop grapefruit and oranges improve in flavor and size with each shipment, and more fresh cranberries are coming to market now. Bananas have dropped a wee bit in price, as have fresh coconuts and avocados. All are good fruit choices this week.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

A great many people are misinformed about white or Irish potatoes on at least two counts. First, they are not native to Ireland, but to South America; and they were not introduced to the Irish until 1585. Second, weight watchers can indulge in potatoes too. Actually, they are no higher in calories than many foods generally regarded as non-fattening. For example, a medium-size potato that's been boiled, pressure-cooked, or baked will provide only about 100 calories, about the same number as a large apple or orange or half of a large grapefruit. It's the added gravies and fats that make potatoes a dieter's nightmare, not the potato itself.

Furthermore, the potato is a fair source of Vitamins B, C, and

Felton

Mrs. Walter H. Moore
October 29th was Reformation Sunday. Viola and Manship joined with the Felton Methodist Church for a United Worship Service. District Superintendent, the Rev. Hartwell F. Chandler, brought the morning message, "The Way of Faith". The Rev. Chandler also baptized, Charles Michael Moyer, the baby son of our pastor and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. Charles M. Moyer. Rev. Moyer then baptized Wayne Francis Hammond, the baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hammond, of Canterbury. The Junior Choir sang "Guarded Messages". A special anthem by the Senior Choir was "Art Thou Weary, Art Thou Troubled?" Mrs. George Harrington and Mrs. Pearl De-long were the Sunday morning friendly greeters.
Sunday, Nov. 5 will be reception of members at the Felton Church. If you are not a member of our church and do not have a church home you are invited to join with us. Please call or visit the pastor.

Asphalt Barrier Increases Yields
Yields of all but one vegetable crop increased significantly when planted over an underground asphalt barrier in southern Delaware this year. The asphalt was put down in April, 1967, on part of a six acre test plot on the J. L. Hastings farm near Laurel as a research project of the University of Delaware and the American Oil Co.
According to E. N. Scarborough, agricultural engineer at the university, the 1967 growing season was one of the wettest in fifty years. In spite of this, every crop showed an increase in yield when planted over the barrier. Increases ranged from six per cent per acre on tomatoes to 107 per cent per acre for snapbeans. The cucumber yield increased 35 per cent per acre, and potatoes showed a 27 per cent increase. The average increase for all crops was approximately 37 per cent per acre.
Although the annual rainfall in Delaware is sufficient for crop production, it is limited by the low water holding capacity of the sandy soil and frequent periods of drought. The asphalt barrier saves moisture by keeping the water from draining away from plant roots. The process, developed at Michigan State University, shows promise of increasing production wherever sandy soils are farmed.
To study the technique on Delaware's sandy coastal soil, a one-eighth inch thick layer of asphalt was applied two feet underground in three one-acre plots near Laurel. Six vegetable crops were planted on the asphalt and adjacent non-asphalt plots. One half of all plots received irrigation.
This is only the first year of the barrier research on Delaware soils; researchers hope to answer many questions with further research. For instance, fertilizer recommendations may need to be changed. Also, the effect of winter rains on the water-holding capacity of the barrier and the texture of the soil will be studied.
Research has just begun, but the asphalt barrier technique shows promise of increasing yields in millions of acres of sandy soil around the world as well as in Delaware, according to Scarborough.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

Back in 1931 while we were preparing to energize the new catering system over the railroad through Jersey City, I was assigned to an FBI delegation making a detailed survey of possible vandalism that might result from mischievous boys living so close to the elevated right-of-way. I accompanied two of these men on the track level over the main street for a distance of two miles while two more patrolled each side of the street below us. While eating lunch at Canton-Garden, a Chinese restaurant at Journal Square, they went over their notes together. They had every house number diagnosed in detail; boys' ages, school activities, parents' environments, whether there were flowers or bird cages in the windows. They claimed this latter detail goes a long way toward a settled home from which least suspicion might be expected. Another was whether the boy had a dog, and the name of the animal. My experience on this trip prompts:

WILD OATS

I remembered him in his boyhood days,
 That never a law he'd keep.
 And many another's mother thought,
 How his poor old Dad must weep.

As wayward a lad as ever was born,
 So the neighbors could only name,
 But trouble and crime along his path,
 To an end in disgrace and shame.

His Dad would smile in a kindly way,
 And thought of his future too;
 For he felt, that under his waywardness,
 His heart was good and true.

"He can't go very far wrong," he said,
 Though his actions seem all agog,
 For I saw him feeding some birds today,
 And he shared his bread with his dog.

Time proved his dad had spoken true,
 To manhood he has grown,
 It seemed that only good had come
 From the boyhood mischief sown.

So whenever I see a wayward boy,
 Who treats his hound-dog well,
 And shares his bread with little birds,
 In the end will turn out well.

Technical-trained people with a two year applied science degree are needed in agriscience in addition to the four-year college graduates.
 The S. Hallock duPont School of Applied Agricultural Science was organized at the University of Delaware to meet this ever increasing demand for people with agricultural skills and ability, according to Dr. Ralph Barwick, associate professor of agricultural education at the University and advisor to the duPont School.
 The instructional programs of the duPont School are part of the College of Agricultural Sciences' over all resident instruction program. The school offers two year programs in food business, landscape horticulture, agricultural mechanization and animal and plant science. Upon successful completion of the program, the graduate will have earned an associate degree in Applied Science.
 The school is housed on the university's 440 acre experimental station in Newark. The nutrition laboratory contains facilities for metabolism studies and nutritional research. Facilities also include biochemistry laboratories.

greenhouses, fruit plantings, flower gardens, turf plots, cold storage rooms and a deep-freeze unit. Extensive use is also made of the facilities in nearby Longwood Gardens.
 A brochure describing the S. Hallock duPont School of Applied Science contains information on admission requirements and courses offered. This publication is available from Mailing Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware 19711.

U. of D. Careers Day Set For November 4

Science is the doorway to agriscience careers of the future. College programs are designed to give student a broad understanding of the many areas of agriscience and specific training in a selected field, according to Dr. William E. McDaniel, dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences at the University of Delaware.
 Careers Day (Saturday, Nov. 4) is planned by the college to advise high school students on a variety of agriscience careers. It will be held in Agricultural Hall on the university campus, beginning at 9:15 a.m. To carry out the theme, "Science-The Doorway to Life", demonstrations are planned in plant and animal science, economics, engineering and communications.
 Dr. Donald Fieldhouse, associate professor of horticulture, will demonstrate the chemical control of plant growth; Dr. Vernon J. Fischer, associate professor of horticulture, will discuss plant identification. Leo Cotnoir, agronomist, will demonstrate automated equipment used in the university's soil testing laboratory.

A trip to the university's computer center to learn about the use of computers, will be offered selected students. Equipment used in agricultural communications including a closed circuit television, camera, microphones and tape recorders will be demonstrated.
 A laboratory demonstration by the department of plant pathology will feature the use of microscopes for identification of plant diseases. The agricultural engineering department will feature instruments used in agricultural research, including a machine to determine noise level. Dr. Jack Treece, assistant professor of animal science, will describe basic studies on the composition of milk.

The Careers Day program is aimed especially at high school juniors and seniors, but other high school students are also welcome. Parents, high school administrators, counselors, science and vocational agriculture teachers are urged to attend.
 Visitors will have the opportunity to tour college facilities and students will be able to talk with university staff members about admission, courses and programs. Employment opportunities and other career considerations. All inquiries should be sent to Dr. Ralph Barwick, College of Agricultural Sciences, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware 19711.

Plan Apartment Furniture Carefully

One pet peeve all apartment-dwellers have in common is not enough room. Storage space is usually limited and rooms are often on a small scale. It's a real challenge to combine eating, sleeping, working and entertaining in the small amount of space available and still have an attractive, comfortable home.

Meeting that challenge successfully takes planning, emphasizes Miss Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware. For instance, rooms with low ceilings look larger if you use light colors in your decorating plan and if you use a minimum of furniture. Solve your lighting problems with ceiling or wall hung lamps instead of using precious space for floor lamps or bulky table lamps.

Furniture should be small-scaled; bulky or over-stuffed pieces quickly give an over-crowded look. Pick furniture that can do double-duty; lightweight pull-up chairs can serve both in dining and living areas. A convertible sofa offers comfortable seating and extra sleeping space when it's needed. Portable accent tables are easily shifted from place to place.

A complete dining room suite is usually too much for most apartments, Miss Morris points out. A drop-leaf table that opens up when needed for family or company meals occupies the least possible space. Use inconspicuous built-in storage for dishes and linen—and don't collect unnecessary items.

Room for sleeping is a must, but a good mattress and springs don't require a bulky bedstead. Rather than buy a whole suite of bedroom furniture, pick units that offer flexible arrangements and built-in storage space. Since you will need less furniture in an apartment, each piece becomes more important to the over-all decorating scheme. Plan before you buy so you'll have comfortable, attractive apartment living, suggests Miss Morris.

Odd Fellows Arrange Two Dates

On Saturday, November 4th, the Grand Lodge of Delaware, Independent Order of Odd Fellows will conduct a Degree Rally, with two (2) degrees being conferred. This will be held in the Odd Fellows Temple, 33001 Market Street, Wilmington, with the Second Degree being conferred by Delaware Lodge No. 1, beginning at 4 p. m. The Third Degree will be conferred by Eden Lodge No. 34 at 8 p. m. At 6 p. m., a turkey dinner will be served by Doris Rebekah Lodge No. 9 for those in attendance. Eden Lodge No. 34 will confer the First Degree, of the Degree of Friendship on Thursday, November 2nd, in Eden Hall, 208 W. 10th Street, Wilmington.

On Saturday, November 11th, the Grand Lodge of Delaware, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will convene in the One Hundred and Thirty Third (133d) Annual Session, at 10 a. m. in the Felton High School with Grand Master Horace T. Woodward presiding. Routine matters will be presented. The nomination and election of officers will be held, with Deputy Grand Master, William A. (Dicky) Robinson being slated for advancement to the office of Grand Master. Mr. Robinson is a member of Felton Lodge No. 30, in Felton.

Among the distinguished guests expected at this election will be Deputy Sovereign Grand Master Chester J. Hunnicutt, of Powell, Wyoming. At 6 p. m. a fried oyster dinner will be served by members of the Felton Fire Company Auxiliary. At 8 p. m. a public installation of officers will be conducted by an installing staff under the direction and leadership of Past Grand Master, R. Alvin Wiebel. The public is, of course, invited to attend this installation.

Regular Army Opportunities

The regular Army offers opportunities that you cannot get by way of the draft. If you are drafted, the Army does everything it can to assure that you are suited for the job to which you will be assigned, but it cannot be guaranteed, the needs of the Army, in the National interest must come first.
 How to get the training you want? Only through enlistment in the Regular Army can you be assured of getting the training you want.
 Also by enlisting in the Regular Army, there is no ready reserve requirement after your active duty, just standby. That means you won't have to attend weekly drills or summer training. For more information contact your local Army Recruiter at 218 S. Governor's Ave., Dover, Del., or call 736-6937 or 674-1360.

Chris Wetherhold Is Second In State Harrier Meet

Harrington High's sensational freshman cross-country runner, Chris Wetherhold, finished second in the State Group II cross-country championship run held at Rockford Park, Wilmington, on Wednesday afternoon. Wetherhold's swift 11:40 clocking is astounding, when one considers that former Harrington great, Harry Knotts, won the state championship from 118 rivals in 1960 with a 11:35. Knotts, a senior, received two or three athletic scholarship offers after his feat.

for Cy, but he's making plans.

"I'd like to buy a couple of good horses when that time comes," he says. "I'd train them myself and find a good young driver to handle them. I'd hope to gross from $10-15,000 from them. That would give me a good living, along with social security."

Girl Scouts Have Opportunity To Go Camping

From the first crocus to the last rose of summer, camping is a blooming business for the Girl Scouts. But today's campers, trimly outfitted in bermuda shorts, have come a long way from those early camp bloomers of 1912, which was when the whole business began.

This year, some 180,000 Girl Scouts will spend at least two weeks at 548 established camps owned and operated by the Girl Scout Councils throughout the United States. Another 473,000 will go to 3,517 day camps, located in almost any area where girls can enjoy the out-of-doors in safety and comfort.

Increased interest in day camping here in Delaware-Maryland-Virginia showed up in one part of this Chesapeake Bay Girl Scout Council. Registration for day camping at Country Center (close to Wilmington) jumped from 584 Girl Scouts to 624.

Other big increases in attendance were counted at Remington Farms, which more than doubled last year's 24 to 61; Nassawang, 52 to 80; and Camp Todd in Denton, Md., from 37 to 119 campers for the summer.

Camping means many things to Girl Scouts of all sizes. To a Brownie (ages 7-8), it may be her first cookout, complete with toasted taffy apples.

A Junior Girl Scout (ages 9-11) may have her first encounter with a tent and the excitement of sleeping out-of-doors.

A Cadette (ages 12-14) may learn the satisfaction of being able to provide her own food, shelter and amusement.

A Senior Girl Scout (ages 15-17) may discover the adventure and reward of being at home in the wilderness, in and around water, boating, mountains and sea.

Camping is good, clean fun for all Girl Scouts everywhere.

FENCE TALK
with George K. Vapaa

Harvest yields are excellent for corn and soybeans this fall. The huge supply of corn on the Delmarva Peninsula has brought the price down below Chicago quotations. Usually the price is the same plus a ten cent freight differential.

I spent an afternoon last week with Ben Rowehl of Rd 4, Dover, checking the soybean yield on a plot treated with a chemical weed killer. The reason it took so long was that we measured off a 5 to 6 acre block, ran the combine into the field, and then weighed the beans from this area.

Ben and I had a chance to talk about weed control while the combine was harvesting. He uses several different chemicals, and just as in our plots at the University of Delaware Substation, we find differences in weed control. A farmer must know the kinds of weeds giving trouble, and then treat for these. No one chemical gives complete control of all weeds.

Ben pulled up a Jimson weed. We noted that the plants which were shaded did not set as many bean pods. Velvet leaf or button-wood also seemed to be more of a problem than one would suspect. Top yields require a uniformly solid stand of plants to develop fully. Weeds of course also compete for the available plant food and soil moisture.

A salute to our 600 4-H members and 85 volunteer leaders in Kent County for very fine achievements in 1967. Mrs. Marion MacDonald says it best: "The enthusiasm of each individual inspires us towards a better life, community, country and world."

Oops! I made an error in Fence Talk while trying to figure dry yields on wet corn. Ed Ralph, my Sussex counterpart, called attention to this important point.

The easiest way to figure shrinkage in shelled corn is to use specific tables made up for the purpose. W. T. McAllister, our farm management specialist at the University of Delaware, has prepared such material. Call 736-1448 for a free copy, or either Ed or Mac.

Now to give an example. Put 1000 bushels of corn at 26% moisture into a dryer. Reduce the moisture to 15.5c and you will be left with 871 bushels of dried grain. So says the table. At $1.05 per bushel it is worth $914.55. On the other hand, the 1000 bushels of wet corn would be discounted by a dealer at 3 cents per point (or percent) of moisture above 15.5%. That's 10.5 points times 3 cents equals 31.5 cents. Subtract this 31.5 cents from $1.05 equals 73.5 cents times 1000 bushels equals $735.00. This is a difference of $179.55 in favor of the dried grain.

The whole point is whether a person can dry corn for less than 3 cents per point. Some farmers can if they can spread the cost of a dryer over enough acres.

It is possible that Delmarva farmers might be money ahead with a corn picker and crib operation—at least for part of their crop. Most growers still have their crib storages anyway. The drying operation is what limits the harvest in most cases. Cribbed corn can be stored at higher moisture levels.

The two-year associate degree in applied science at the University of Delaware trains technically trained people for our agricultural industry. Dean William E. McDaniel has prepared an attractive brochure for students which explains the program. Call 736-1448 for a free copy.

There are four choices of programs: 1) agricultural mechanization, 2) animal and plant science, 3) food business, and 4) landscape horticulture.

Auto insurance. How well are you protected? Come to one of the Consumers Forums next week. For Kent County people, we suggest the sessions at Middletown or Milford High Schools on Wednesday, November 8, or the Wm. B. Simpson School at Camden Wyoming on November 9.

All sessions start at 8 p.m. Closed circuit TV is being used for this annual consumer forum for the first time. A panel of resource people from our University of Delaware Extension specialists and insurance representatives will handle questions at each meeting. Admission is free and everyone is welcome.

If you drive, you need insurance. How much do you need or can afford? What kinds are best? Learn what is covered by medical payments, bodily injury liability, property damage liability and comprehensive coverage.

Discover Wonderful Del.

Hunting, be it deer, migratory wild fowl or whatever, continues to be a great wonder of wonderful Delaware and this year looks to be the most wonderful so far.

For geese in particular, it has gotten so that Delaware usually leads the country in goose hunting. In 1964 the average take was 2.8 geese per hunter. In 1965 drought conditions brought Delaware down to third but the hunting last year was nothing short of phenomenal and the way things look this year, Delaware should have more geese per hunter than ever before.

The season starts November 3, half an hour before sunrise and continues, except for November 25 through November 28, until sunset on January 13, 1968.

The best area for geese is within a 10 mile radius of Bombay Hook Wildlife Refuge. The southern part of the refuge itself is open for hunting in season.

This is also a good area for ducks, particularly black ducks. The state wildlife areas at Woodland Beach and at Little Creek almost always offer good duck hunting. Duck season this year also begins on November 3, runs until November 25 and then from December 15 to January 6, 1968.

Brant may be hunted during the same season as geese. Probably the best place to find them is during November around Indian River Bay or at Assawoman Wildlife area near Dagsboro.

When it comes to upland game, one thinks first of deer. Delaware's deer herd, non-existent not so many years ago, is now big enough to offer good hunting. Best places are in Sussex County, including Ellendale State Forest and Redden State Forest between Milford and Georgetown. There are deer in New Castle County along the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal, but New Castle County has become too populated to provide good hunting. Deer season: New Castle County - Nov. 10 and Nov. 11; Kent County - Nov. 10 through Nov. 15; Sussex County - Nov. 10 through Nov. 16.

The rabbit season runs from Nov. 17 through Jan. 6, 1968, and the most likely spots are nowadays along the edges of the marshes in Kent and Sussex Counties.

This same area between farmland and marshes is the best place to hunt pheasant. Pheasant season runs this year from Nov. 17 through January 6, 1968. Quail may be hunted from Nov. 17 through February 17, 1968. The Game and Fish Commission's policy of establishing feed and cover strips on private farms as well as on its own land has led to a great increase in quail population, particularly in the western part of Kent and Sussex County.

The following Delaware Wildlife areas are open for hunting: Canal Wildlife Area; Reedy Island - Delaware River near Port Penn; Appoquinimink Wildlife Area - near Blackiston; Little Creek Wildlife Area - near Dover; Petersburg Wildlife Area and Lodge - near Felton; Milford Neck Wildlife Area - near Milford; Primehook Wildlife Area - near Milton; Gordon Pond Wildlife Area - near Rehoboth; and Assawoman Wildlife Area - near Dagsboro. Permission to hunt on public lands can usually be easily obtained in the less congested areas.

Volunteer 4-H leaders in Kent County represent 398 years service. Seventy-two adults are serving our 4-H youth. Eight adults are joining us this year, they are Mr. James Risser, Magnolia; Mrs. Marian Sheppard, Dover; Mrs. Vivian Newnom, Farmington; William Siebert, Farmington; Mrs. Ethel Duke, Hartly; Mrs. Mollie Cahall, Hartly; Mrs. Richard Downie, Milford; and Mrs. Hilda Maloney, Milford.

Mrs. Edward Gibbs, Woodside Silverleaf, has completed 31 years to 4-H youth. Leaders with 15 years service are Mr. and Mrs. Francis Thomas, Marydel. Ten year service pins were presented recently to Mrs. Margaret Bowers, and Edward Gibbs, Jr., Woodside Silverleaf; and Mrs. Nellie Tyler, Harrington Busy Hands. Serving youth is a vital need today. In our fast moving world our youth must learn to get along with others, and to serve their communities as responsible citizens. Our urban youths are being guided through the 4-H program.

Many hands were responsible for the recent County Achievement Banquet. Working together to create the decorations were Joy Gooden, Janice Harrison, Susan Comegys, Nancy Webb, Dana Gooden, Becky Messick, and Patti Stites. Adult help was also given by Janet Clenanial, Becky Nickerson, Betty Lou Rollison, Bill Williams and Delores Tinley. The flag salutes were led by Eleanor Hertz while Gary Simpson gave the invocation. Bill Hufnal, past president Kent County Links, was the Master of Ceremonies. Organ music was provided by Everett Bennett, Sussex County Link member.

Anyone interested in becoming a part of this active program can contact a 4-H member in your community or the 4-H club office - 736-1448.

When you buy instant nonfat dry milk, make sure you are getting a quality product and one that is truly wholesome. How? Buy only the product that has the USDA grade shield on the label.

This grade mark on the label which has been seen only since September 1 on a nationwide basis, is a reliable quality guide in buying instant milk. It guarantees that the milk is of high quality, is a safe and wholesome product, and has been processed and packaged in sanitary plants.

Instant nonfat dry milk is not only nutritious but also is an economical food. It contains all nutritive elements of fluid milk except Vitamins A and D.

Weight watchers can use instant nonfat milk to advantage too—it contains only half the calories of fresh, whole milk.

Some other advantages of instant nonfat milk are:

- 1) needs no refrigeration in dry form
- 2) easily stored to assure adequate supply
- 3) prevents waste
- 4) requires small storage space
- 5) can be used at home, on picnics, or on camping trips
- 6) mixes and measures easily
- 7) is high in protein and low in fat.

To store instant nonfat dry milk:

1. Keep in a cool, dry place. Unopened packages of the milk can be kept for several months without refrigeration. However, some flavor change may occur

Instant nonfat dry milk can be added to dry ingredients in a recipe. The powder may be sifted with dry ingredients for cakes and breads—stirred into flour for gravy or sauce—mixed with cornstarch and sugar for puddings. Then add water for the required amount of liquid.

To whip nonfat dry milk, beat equal amounts of the powder and ice water into stiff peaks. This can be used for fruit toppings, frozen and ciffon desserts, and salad with fluffy fruit dressings. Or instant nonfat dry milk can be sprinkled over partially set gelatin and this mixture can then be whipped together into stiff peaks. The nonfat dry milk can also be whipped separately and then folded into partially set gelatin.

More Research Needed To Control Poultry Disease

The federal government was blamed for its lack of support for poultry disease research at the annual National Meeting on Poultry Condemnations, Salisbury, Md., October 24, 25. Avian leukosis alone costs the poultry industry $150 million a year; more research supported with larger funds from USDA and industry is the only answer to its control, according to poultry experts.

According to Dr. Martin Sevoian, department of veterinary and animal science, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, the poultry industry has also been apathetic in using its influence with the government to get financial support for the needed research. "Now we can only give aids to help control leukosis; satisfactory controls depend on research."

Dr. Roy E. Luginbuhl, department of animal diseases, University of Connecticut, Storrs, pointed up the seriousness of the leukosis problem. "While the number of chickens slaughtered for market has increased 50 per cent since 1962, the frequency of Marek's disease—the most prevalent form of leukosis—has increased more than 100 per cent."

Luginbuhl believed progress is being made, however. "An important recent discovery was that Leukosis was really two separate diseases, Marek's disease and lymphoid leukosis. The latter can already be controlled although it is expensive and complicated."

Poultry researchers have identified the virus causing Marek's disease—the first step in any control program, according to Luginbuhl. "Now we have to figure out how the highly contagious virus moves from bird to bird and poultry house to poultry house. Then we will be able to give a better answer on controls. But it will take research and that requires money, Luginbuhl stated.

Marek's disease control recommendations are inadequate today, complained Herbert Murphy, A. W. Perdue & Son Co., Salisbury. Leukosis is causing more condemnations and losing more money for poultrymen even when they follow directions, Murphy said.

It's the same situation in other broiler-growing areas. Despite using all recommended leukosis controls, condemnation rates tripled in the past two years, according to Jack Mullen, J. K. Sutherland Poultry Co., Batesville, Ala. "The poultry industry must get behind research and make more funds available," he recommended.

More than 280 poultrymen from 28 states attended the second annual meeting on poultry condemnation, sponsored by Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. in cooperation with the Universities of Maryland and Delaware.

Control Rodents Now

Rats and mice move indoors as soon as weather gets cool; get rid of them before they settle down on your farm or in your home, advises Frank Boys, agricultural chemicals extension specialist at the University of Delaware. Rat-proof buildings, starve them out, poison them or remove their shelter as much as possible.

rats or mice might live, breed and raise their young.

Don't give a rat a free meal, Boys cautions. In your home, keep food covered and properly stored; use tightly-covered metal cans for garbage disposal. Be careful in the farmyard too; get rid of waste grain and other potential food from barnlots and farm buildings.

Try to keep rodents outside buildings; close as many small openings into the building as you can. Unfortunately, rats can squeeze through half-inch holes and mice can make it through quarter-inch holes. Cover surfaces that rodents could gnaw through, such as window frames and the bottoms of doors, with metal flashings or hardware cloth.

Unscreened basement floor drains are an open invitation to sewer-traveling rats and so are open spaces around pipe entrances into buildings.

Poisoning is an excellent control method, but be sure you keep poisoned bait away from other animals, especially children, Boys warns. Anticoagulants such as diphacin, fumarin, pival, and warfarin are effective poisons. Since this type of poison seldom kills with a single dose, keep plenty of bait available for 10 to 14 days.

Dig Glads Now

Yellowed leaves signal the beginning of fall; if they're yellowed gladiolus leaves, the signal means the bulbs are ready to be dug up. Gladiolus leaves usually yellow four to six weeks after the flowers bloom, according to Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

To dig the plants, loosen the roots with a spading fork after cutting off the leaves close to the corms or bulblike, underground stems.

Put them—stalk, corm and all—in a warm, dry, airy place such as a garage or shed for several weeks to cure or mature. After three or four weeks, remove leaf stalks, old corms and roots. Put corms and cormlets in paper bags for storage. If you wish, store the cormlets separately since they will not bloom for a year or two. Label all the bags with the glad variety or color of the blooms.

Stevens recommends treating the gladiolus corms with five per cent DDT dust; a teaspoon in each paper bag is sufficient. Store the bagged corms in well-

Put corms and cormlets in paper bags for storage. If you wish, store the cormlets separately since they will not bloom for a year or two. Label all the bags with the glad variety or color of the blooms.

Stevens recommends treating the gladiolus corms with five per cent DDT dust; a teaspoon in each paper bag is sufficient. Store the bagged corms in wellrats or mice might live, breed and raise their young.

Don't give a rat a free meal, Boys cautions. In your home, keep food covered and properly stored; use tightly-covered metal cans for garbage disposal. Be careful in the farmyard too; get rid of waste grain and other potential food from barnlots and farm buildings.

Try to keep rodents outside buildings; close as many small openings into the building as you can. Unfortunately, rats can squeeze through half-inch holes and mice can make it through quarter-inch holes. Cover surfaces that rodents could gnaw through, such as window frames and the bottoms of doors, with metal flashings or hardware cloth.

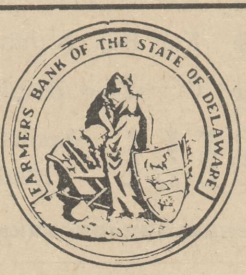

Unscreened basement floor drains are an open invitation to sewer-traveling rats and so are open spaces around pipe entrances into buildings.

Poisoning is an excellent control method, but be sure you keep poisoned bait away from other animals, especially children, Boys warns. Anticoagulants such as diphacin, fumarin, pival, and warfarin are effective poisons. Since this type of poison seldom kills with a single dose, keep plenty of bait available for 10 to 14 days.

NAVY AND YOU

On August 7, 1942, the United States Navy landed the Marines on four islands in the Solomons-Guadalcanal, Tulagi, Gavutu, and Tanambonga. With the support of the Pacific fleet's big guns and aircraft, they captured an important airstrip on Guadalcanal and quickly wiped out the enemy garrisons on the other three isles. Then the Japanese struck back, cutting the supply lines and practically retaking the islands. At this critical moment the U. S. warships broke the enemy blockade, bringing fresh troops who went on to win the campaign.

VETERANS DAY 1967

Saluting a New Generation of American Veterans

Today, gallant young Americans are meeting the highest obligation of citizenship, serving their country during a period of armed hostilities. Their service is adding another inspiring chapter to those already written by the men and women of World War I, World War II, and the Korean War in their quest dedicated to the preservation of freedom and individual dignity.

On this Veterans Day, November 11, 1967, we salute this new generation of American veterans and all who have served our country with honor and distinction in the past.

Mrs. Leon Kukulka is in charge of this meeting and has worked diligently, but with very little response. The purpose of the meetings is to help the lay-people of Harrington to grow more aware of physical and spiritual needs of others in the community and therefore to meet these needs. The first three sessions have been stimulating and interesting. All persons of concern of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths owe it to themselves and the God they worship, if it is humanly possible to go to this last meeting. Then as a culmination of all these meetings there will be a Delaware Conference on Families in Need at Delaware State College at 2 p.m., November 19.
Attention: "Canteen Parents" and other interested persons: The meeting for canteen parents and other interested persons will be held on Mon., Nov. 20, at 7:30 p.m.

KEITH S. BURGESS — Sports Editor

Harriers Edged By Lewes, Trip Millsboro

Harrington High's cross-country Lions were dealt a narrow 27-29 defeat at Lewes on Wednesday afternoon. Seaford had edged the Lions by that same score, here on Monday.

Thus, the Lions lost a dual meet to a Delaware school for the first time, in the tenth year of cross-country at H.H.S. It was only the second time, in that span, that Coach Harold McDonald had suffered back-to-back defeats. In 1961, North Carolina and Easton, both of Maryland, beat the Lions in successive starts.

The remaining dual meet losses could be counted on the fingers of one hand and that hand could belong to a baseball Hall-of-Famer, Mordecai "Three-Finger" Brown, North Carolina, under Byers King, nipped the Lions once each in 1959 and 1962. Easton, coached by Jim Lohr, gave the Lions their only setback in 1965.

So after a decade, the orphan sport at H.H.S., still reigns supreme percentage-wise, with a total of only seven defeats. The years of 1958, 1960, 1963, 1964 and 1966 saw unbeaten seasons. The 1963 and 19 years won state championships. In 1960 Harry Knotts beat 117 rivals to give Harrington the only state individual champion, who did not come from Wilmington. The little-known triad sport, we predict, will continue to attract little guys in large numbers. Further, we expect H.H.S. teams to be feared and respected in the area from Cambridge to Wilmington, as heretofore.

After the history-making loss to Seaford, the defeat at Lewes was practically painless. Both coaches were very gracious in victory and Lion fans were thrilled to witness 14-year-old local freshman Chris Wetherhold, trounce three tough seniors in Parker and Jacobs of Seaford and Lewes' ace, Barry Lambertson.

At Lewes, Lambertson took an early lead. Chris moved up even after a mile and the pair climbed the hill together leading to the radar installations in Henlopen State Park. The bright blue Delaware Bay formed a backdrop with New Jersey's shore visible in the distance, as the duo descended a hard-packed beach road to the finish. Wetherhold set a new course record of 12 minutes and 5 seconds with Barry 10 seconds further back. The personable Pirate was undefeated downstate in 1966 and finished second in the state meet, despite his unfamiliarity with the Rockford Park terrain. His only losses this season were to Harrington's unbeaten freshman.

Nick Morris and freshman Danny Hitchens came in fourth and fifth for H.H.S. Sophomore Jack Warrington flashed his best form of the season. He passed two Pirates in the homstretch and just missed catching one more, which would have given his team a tie.

Future hope Jackie D. Parker turned in another terrific race. Bill Stubbs and Brad Morris continued their steady improvement.

John Shulties, Wardell Davis and Steve Gannon, three junior high harriers, beat six of Lewes' varsity in addition to numerous teammates. Late reporter Chuck Hurd has qualified for a state meet berth, a feat harder to achieve at H.H.S., than at any lower Delaware school because of the large number of candidates, here, annually.

Other locals to do well at Lewes were Charles Baynard and Kim Hitchens.

Monday afternoon at Killen's Pond, the Lions started a new winning streak with a near-perfect effort against Millsboro. Chris Wetherhold won his tenth race in as many starts, coasting to a 13:22 clocking on the rugged 2.4 miles course. Captain Nick Morris was second, Danny Hitchens was third and sophomore Roger Jarrell was fourth. Millsboro's first man, Bunting, was fifth.

Bob Rash, Jack Warrington, Jackie D. Parker, Bob Smith, Bill Stubbs, Brad Morris, Chuck Hurd and John Shulties, all of Harrington, crossed the finish line before Millsboro's No. 2 runner.

19 Lions recorded their fastest clockings ever on the local layout. Only seven locals did not make this select category.

Billy Walls, Steve Gannon, Leonard Palmer and Charles Baynard, a quartet of young lightweights, showed drastic improvement. Walls, a freshman, is the oldest of this group and ran a minute faster on this year's new course, as he and Gannon earned berths in the state meet, November 1st.

Lions Drub Rebels, 31-0

Harrington's football Lions, coached by Bill Muehleisen, virtually assured themselves of a .500 or better season by blanking Selbyville's Rebels here on Friday night. The visitors were fresh off an upset triumph over Milton and have one of the best records in their grid history. They have never beaten H.H.S. in football and may have thought that this would be the year to break the ice. It wasn't.

Selbyville mounted a brief march after returning the opening kickoff to their 33. A Rebel tried to turn left end but Jerry Cagle cut him down for a five yard loss. A penalty against Harrington and an eight yard run was not enough for the first down. A low snap from center resulted in a short punt but a Lion hit the kicker and another penalty kept S.H.S. alive. After a three yard run to the Lion 40, Wayne Melvin intercepted a pass and returned it to the Rebel 34.

Steve Welch looked like an All-Starter in this contest. He hit the left side of the Rebel forward wall, bounced off and went outside to the one yard line. Jack Redden sneaked over for the winning score.

Seven plays later Jerry Cagle, the track speedster, raced down the left sideline with a Rebel in hot pursuit. Announcer Harold McDonald, Cagle's track coach, accurately called the turn when the Lion hit the 50. "He's gone". The Sussex Countian was only a couple of yards back at that point but didn't threaten as Cagle registered a 65 yard scamper. Jerry was back in the spotlight on the next series of downs. He caught the quarterback for a seven yard loss on an attempted end sweep. A pass was completed upheld but was nullified by a penalty.

The Lions roared back with Jim Harris "The Bull of Sockem" picking up 25 yards in a run to Selbyville's 39. A pass interference penalty gave H.H.S. a first down at the 21. Welch reached the 16. Harris took a pitchback and recorded another first down. Jack Redden passed to Oscar Matthews in the end zone but a red flag said "no." 2nd down and goal to go at the nine.

Harris started left, slipped a tackle, straight-armed a Rebel and danced the tightrope into the end zone. The Lions had failed twice to kick an extra point. Lining up for another kick try, the Lions lulled the visitors into a sense of false security. After the snap Redden wound up with the ball and passed to Bill Moore, all alone and lonely, for the only good extra point try of the evening. Selbyville's first scrimmage play saw rough Bill Webb jar the ball loose with a crunching tackle. Opportunist Wayne Melvin fell on it for the Lions at Selbyville's 39. All four Lion backs gained several yards to total eighteen before a mixup in the backfield halted the drive. The Rebels couldn't move, as Webb got in their backfield again for a loss of three. Starting at their own 35 after a punt, H.H.S. almost racked up another score before time ran out.

Welch ran over people in picking up 15 to midfield. Two plays later Harris carried a pitchout to the Selbyville 29. Welch took a pass to the 13, then ran again to the 7, as the clock rescued the beleaguered and bewildered Rebels.

Harrington took the second half kickoff and moved 33 yards to Selbyville's 41, with a Redden-Welch toss eating up most of the distance. Welch added four yards but two throws went awry. Wayne Melvin expertly fielded a low pass from center on one hop and punted to the 15. A Rebel pass receiver caught a pass but dropped it to give H.H.S. the oval at the 18. Welch dragged tacklers to the 11. Oscar Matthews III nabbed a touchdown pass. Score Harrington 25, Selbyville 0.

Smith took the Lion kickoff to the H.H.S. 49. A pass reached the 40 but a fumble gave the ball over, one play later.

With the third quarter almost over, the Rebels kicked to the H.H.S. 40 yard line. Cagle was hit two or three times but spun like the whirling dervishes to gain six yards. Welch got the first down at midfield. A pass to Welch in the left flat was good for 27 yards. Harris raced wide to the right before being pushed out at the eight yard line. Welch hurdled a tackler to the three, went to the one then crashed over right tackle to register his team's last six points.

Selbyville, at midfield, went to the air but a fierce pass rush forced an errant throw, which was picked off by Redden. The latter had a convoy of blockers, was headed for a T.D. before a big-footed Lion tripped him up accidentally, only 25 yards out. H.H.S. got to the nine yard line before losing possession.

The visitors moved from their 14 to the Lion 20 with a string of passes, but Gary Minner intercepted at the goal line and brought it out to the 25. Selbyville then intercepted with Welch throwing the thief out of bounds at the H.H.S. 13. Oscar Matthews then stole a Rebel aerial at game's end.

Harrington travels to John M. Clayton to play the up-and-down Bears. J.M.C. bowed to mighty Bridgeville by one point, then could beat Greenwood by only one touchdown. Who can figure them? At any rate H.H.S. (4-3) can notch a winning season by winning two of the next three starts. We think they can win all three and wind up with a good 7-3 log.

Harrington Bowling League

Holy mackerel! The first three race was left wide open Tuesday night when Kent Gas was practically knocked from their perch by Wally's Garage. Losing all four games Tuesday night left Kent Gas just one game in the lead, with McKnatt Funeral Home, Robbins Hardware and Taylor & Messick breathing down their necks. They are going to have to do some mighty fine bowling the next two weeks, like taking all the rest of the games if they wish to eke out a narrow win. Unless they round out into their usual shape, a loss in the next two weeks could be a costly one. They found out the hard way not to take a lower place team for granted.

McKnatt Funeral Home and Acme met head on in a dual that saw McKnatt overwhelm the Acme team, taking three games from them to stay within one game of the leader in second place.

Robbins Hardware made their move at the right time and find themselves in a good position to take all the marbles this third. Penn. R. R. was their luckless victims this week losing all four games. Robbins Hardware got a good effort from J. Forbes, who came up with a fine 536 series.

Taylor & Messick and Jarrell Fuel battled it out, with Jarrell Fuel coming out on top, winning three games. This fine effort moved them right behind Taylor & Messick in fifth place. Good assists from M. Jarrell with a grand 559 series, including a 202 game; R. Jarrell with a good 535 series, and D. Hayman with a fine 210 game, was the reason for this fine showing.

Hamilton Fund and Hobbs Newsstand find themselves close together as Hobbs Newsstand tabbed Hamilton Fund for three games. With the race this tight, it is going to be interesting to see what happens in the next two weeks. The pressure is really mounting for the top four teams. Also in the high series column was G. Collins with a good 523 series. High individual games were also recorded by D. Garey, who was top man with a grand 213 game and P. Baker, with a 202 game.

Husband-Wife Team Unique at Hgton. Raceway

Husband-wife teams are rather unique in sport circles.

Harrington Raceway counts one in Cy and Berna Perkins, a transplanted Pennsylvania couple who keep the track's racing secretary office humming like clock work.

Cy is no stranger to the Harrington scene. He's been a fixture here for eight years, the last three of which he's doubled as racing secretary and track announcer. Berna, his diminutive spouse, is here for the first time, serving as Cy's assistant and general Girl Friday. They like the arrangement, and so does the track.

"Berna's been helping me out some off and on for the last four years," explained Cy, chomping down on his ever-present cigar. "But this is her first season at Harrington. She picked it up for something to do and to keep track of me as I traveled around the country. The children were raised and she just got tired sitting around home by herself. She's also worked at Hinesdale (N. H.) and Georgetown."

Cy and Berna met as high school sweethearts and have now been married for 32 years. They have two children and a pair of grandsons.

Cy comes by his association with harness racing naturally. He worked and trained horses as a youngster and has served in practically every phase of the sulky sport pari-mutuel operation during his 20 years in the business.

"I've been a starter, judge, announcer, clerk of the course, and racing secretary," says Cy. "I've been connected with everything but program, and my wife has done that. I even gave driving a whirl back in my younger days. You didn't need a license then. You just slipped $5 to the presiding judge and climbed into the bike."

Cy, now 54 and balding, comes from a family deeply interested in harness racing. His three brothers all are involved in the sport. His older brother, Dr. W. J. Perkins, owns and operates the Cold Spring Farm outside of Honesdale, Pa., where he breeds and sells standardbreds. Another
