

Harrington Gate, Handle Shows Drop

Harrington Raceway concluded the longest meeting in its two-decade history Saturday night with the average nightly attendance and handle down decidedly over a year ago.

Despite a drop of 9.5 per cent in the average turnout, Director of Racing William W. (Pete) Shaw pointed out Harrington fared considerably better than the other harness tracks of similar size on the Delaware-Maryland circuit.

Ocean Downs reported a 22 per cent drop in its handle this year, Laurel was down 20 per cent, and the play at Rosecroft dropped 16 per cent on the average.

Harrington's total attendance for the 55-night meeting just completed was 113,321, an average of 2,060 fans nightly, and the total handle was $4,683,112, an average of $85,147.

The attendance and handle were all-time highs for Harrington, which had never run for more than 40 nights before.

The state take from Harrington's handle and admission taxes was $214,536.25—also an all-time high.

Delaware's earnings from its four tracks — Delaware Park, Brandywine, Georgetown and Harrington — amounted to $6,400,640.30 for the 1967 calendar year, including a month and a half of racing at Georgetown, beginning in November of 1966.

Delaware Park contributed $3,428,871, the state's take at Brandywine was $2,470,668.05 and $296,515 came from Georgetown.

Harrington paid out a record total of $277,600 in purses, amounting to 45.3 per cent of the total handle.

J. D. Dennis of Harrington repeated as the dashes-won champion with 29 while Art Bier of Monticello, N. Y., won the UDR driving-average title with 438, based on 23 wins in 87 starts.

The 12-horse Lineweaver Stable from Maurertown, Va., was the top money-winning stable with $7,541.

The best times of the year—2:04 4-5 by pacers Lil's Ace, E. de P. and Talent Show and 2:05 4-5 by trotter Miss Becky Pick—are track records for the new $190,000 surface, which was used for the first time this meeting.

Truck Kills Milford Boy On Bike

An eighth grade student at Milford Junior High School was struck and killed by a pickup truck Saturday night as he was riding his bicycle on a Kent County road.

Dead is Donald R. Butler, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Butler, of near Milford.

The Butler youngster, according to state police, was riding his bike on County Road 19, about 4 miles north of Milford, when the accident occurred about 6:30 p.m.

Novie Lynch, 43, of Pultsboro, N. J., was driving a pickup truck northbound when he was temporarily blinded by the high beams of an approaching car, state police said.

Police said Lynch's vehicle struck the Butler youngster's bicycle from behind, knocking him to the ground. The boy suffered a fractured skull.

Police said the boy had no lights on his bike.

In addition to his parents he is survived by two brothers, Robert of Milford and Daniel of Georgetown, and four sisters, Mrs. Thelma Jane Ford, Wyoming, Mrs. Nora Ann Robinson, Laurel, Mrs. Ethel Mae Breasure, Georgetown, and Miss Irene Marie Butler of Milford.

Services were held Wednesday afternoon at the McKnatt Funeral Home, Harrington. Interment was in Hopkins Cemetery near Felton.

Salaries Favorable For U. of D. Ag. Science Graduate

Starting salaries for college graduates in agricultural sciences are continually increasing, according to Dr. William E. McDaniel, dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences at the University of Delaware.

June, 1967 agricultural graduates with a bachelor's degree were offered salaries ranging from $417 to $700 a month with an average starting salary of $549.

Agricultural graduates with a master's degree received salaries of $600 to $750 with an average of $688.

According to McDaniel, a good indication of the success of any college curricula is the number of potential employees interviewing the graduates. By that criteria, it is obvious that industry recognizes that College of Agricultural Sciences graduates have the knowledge and skills needed today in the expanding agri-industries.

Nearly 50 percent of the 1967 four-year graduates went directly into agri-business oriented careers in industry, education or government; 35 percent of the graduates with a master's degree entered the same fields. More than 30 percent of the four-year graduates went on to graduate school, and 55 percent of those with a master's degree went on for further graduate work.

Enrollment at the university's College of Agricultural Sciences continues to grow; this year 424 are majoring in agriculture compared to 230 five years ago. This increase in enrollment is occurring even though the number of farms in Delaware decreased more than 15 percent in the five years between the last two census periods.

The cost of beginning in farming drastically increased; today, therefore it is virtually impossible for a young man to start farming unless he goes in partnership with his father or has substantial backing. The major employment opportunities for the graduates are with companies and corporations which process and market agricultural products or manufacture and sell supplies and equipment to agricultural producers.

156 H. S. Students Attend Careers Day

Technology, including better management, is making the average farm in Delaware larger and more productive. However, continued improvement of this technology demands more agriculturally trained people in research, education and agri-business. The College of Agricultural Sciences at the University of Delaware provides this specialized training.

The best employment opportunities for young people today are in fields closely related to agriculture, according to Dr. Donald F. Crossan, assistant dean. He told 156 high school students attending the university's Career's Day, Nov. 4, that graduates are in demand for teaching, research, production agriculture and the many phases of agribusiness. The students represented 22 Delaware schools throughout the state.

According to Crossan, teaching and research in agriculture makes use of many different tools and techniques. Careers Day exhibits were an example of the diversity of these techniques and of the many career opportunities open.

Exhibits included various communication media used to tell the story of agriculture and advanced instruments used in agricultural engineering research and development. The chemical control of plant growth was demonstrated and the use of microscopes for plant disease identification was featured. A trip to the university's computer center was offered.

Crossan told the students that curricula within the departments of the College allow a student to find a program that meets his own capabilities and desires. A student can obtain a liberal education including an understanding of animal and plant science in addition to business and economics. On the other hand, students interested in research can take a program highly specialized in chemistry, mathematics and agricultural biological sciences.

Crossan noted that experience shows more than one third of the graduates of the agricultural college find excellent employment opportunities with major chemical, food and machine industries in the United States. Similarly a large proportion of students are qualified and prepared for advance studies and future employment in industrial and college research.

Vandals Start Early on City's New Christmas Decorations

Teenage vandals have made an early start desecrating the new Christmas decorations in stables in the community's business district.

A youth was observed, Sunday night, cutting a garland from a light standard in front of the Sport Shop on Commerce Street. He was observed by a member of the Chamber of Commerce, passing in an automobile. Local police have been given clues on the perpetrator, a member of a group of teenagers.

The Chamber of Commerce's Christmas Committee, of which David Jones is chairman, has been working several weeks on the program. Sunday afternoon, Jones, with several members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and Smokey White, had wrapped the garlands around the pole.

After Jones had appeared before the City Council Monday evening, the group passed a motion authorizing the acting city manager, Mrs. Kathryn E. Derrickson, to tell Chief of Police Franklin Rogers to see the decorations were not destroyed.

Previously, a frame for Christmas lights was stolen by a teenager when the decorations were being installed a previous Sunday.

Vandalism of Christmas decorations has not been new here.

The City of Harrington has underwritten a loan of $2000 to install the decorations, the first new ones the community has had in many years.

Jones' appearance before the City Council Monday night was to give that group a progress report. The City, which pays for the current and makes an appropriation for putting up the lights, had wanted to make sure the job was done in time.

Jones said the work on 25 standards was mostly completed and lights would be turned on the Saturday after Thanksgiving.

In other business Monday night, the Council acted as follows:

Tabled an application for a part-time policeman until the next meeting, Mon., Nov. 27.

Mayor Fulton J. Downing appointed Councilman Burton Satterfield, Third Ward, a committee of one to investigate the feasibility of installing a gasoline tank for the City.

The Council set a record Monday night: it adjourned before 9 p.m.

Car Insurance Topic Consumer Forums

Driving without auto insurance can cost you dearly, according to Robert A. Short, Delaware state insurance commissioner. Insurance guards against personal losses and lawsuits that could wipe out your savings and mortgage future income.

Don't depend on the insurance required when you finance your car, Short warned at the annual Consumer Forums held November 8 and 9. These are physical damage policies that only protect the car—not you.

Two forms of physical damage coverage are usually included in auto policies. The comprehensive physical damage insurance protects you from financial loss if your car is stolen or damaged by fire, storms, vandalism, riots or similar causes. Of course, engine failure, normal wear and tear or mechanical difficulties are not covered.

Collision insurance is the second form of physical damage auto insurance; it covers damage to your car—and only your car. The insurance company pays whether you are at fault or not. Generally sold on a $50 or $100 deductible basis, the insurance covers damage only in excess of this amount. The higher the amount of the deductible, the lower the cost of the insurance since the company pays for less repairs.

These types of car insurance are important to all drivers, but they don't give full coverage, you still need insurance that protects you from personal injury losses.

Bodily injury liability insurance applies whenever your car injures another person whether it's a pedestrian, a guest in your car or people riding in another car. The policy-holder's injuries are not covered in this type policy. Liability insurance provides for the legal costs of protecting your interests and pays whatever damages may be assessed against you within the limits set by your policy.

Damages awarded for car-inflicted injuries are getting higher every year. For this reason, it's a good idea to have above-minimum amounts of liability insurance. It costs very little; five times greater coverage may be only two to four dollars more per year.

Medical payments insurance takes care of medical bills resulting from accidental injury to anyone in the policyholder's car—including the policyholder. It also covers injuries you receive while riding in someone else's car or while you're walking. Payment is made no matter who is at fault, and even when no one is to blame.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SEEKS COST OF XMAS DECORATIONS

The Christmas Committee of the Chamber of Commerce has thus far done a fine job on decorating for Christmas. David Jones, chairman of this year's project, reports the new decorations have been installed as of this date most of the wiring and electrical connections have been completed.

All other decorations will be finished this weekend. The rest of the program is up to the public. Contributions are needed in order to pay the bill for the new decorations. Jones is asking for donations from any citizen who is interested in the Christmas program. There is no doubt that many hours of planning and labor have gone into this year's project, and it shows that many people have pride in Harrington.

A fund drive is now being made and anyone who is interested enough and proud enough of the program to donate a few dollars may do so by mailing or leaving their donations with Arnold Gilstad at the Raughley Insurance Service, Harrington.

It is hoped $3,000 can be raised to fully pay for this year's Christmas program. Anyone with questions or suggestions regarding the program is asked to call David Jones at 398-3111.

Milford, Houston Ok Merger Plans

The Milford and Houston School Boards Monday night voted to petition the State Board of Education for a referendum date for consolidation of the two school districts.

In the identical motions passed by each board, the groups agreed to assume the indebtedness of each district and to use the Milford tax rate. That rate is 41 cents per $100 assessed valuation of real estate and $18 capitation tax.

Chester T. Dickerson, Milford's superintendent of schools, agreed to contact the state board Tuesday about considering the requests at its meeting Thursday. Hopefully the referendum will be set for Jan. 6.

Houston members were concerned about how soon after the referendum the districts would be united, because sometime next spring Milford will be voting on a building referendum to add to its new junior high school.

John C. Eisenbrey of the Houston board said that since Houston residents would be helping pay for the new building, they should have a vote in the referendum, Milford board members agreed.

Dr. John L. Glenn, president of the Milford board, said he wanted a member of the Houston board appointed as an associate on the Milford school board until the Milford school board election.

The Houston school district presently has one elementary school, High school students attend the Milford High School.

"I think we are making progress for the good of the children and I think we ought to keep going," Dickerson said.

Francis G. Simpson, past chairman of the Houston board, said the consolidation will help Houston students in their preparation for high school.

To pass, the referendum must be approved by voters of both districts.

The meeting was held in the Milford school board room.

The Wolcott Report recommended that Milford, Houston, Lincoln and Ellendale consolidate. Lincoln has expressed interest according to Glenn, but is having building problems right now. Glenn said that when they get out of their building jam they will be welcome in the district.

Whooping Cough---

Whooping Cough Vaccine Is Available

Whooping cough is an acute infectious communicable disease which involves the respiratory tract.

The characteristic cough accompanied by a whooping sound is almost diagnostic.

The American Medical Association's fact sheet on whooping cough reports that the disease was known as early as 1578 and occurred in epidemic form in England in the 17th century.

The organism responsible is a rod-shaped bacterium known as Haemophilus pertussis which is found in the discharge coughed from the respiratory passages by a victim of the disease. The organism does not survive for any length of time outside the body and is quickly destroyed by drying and exposure to heat and sunlight.

The disease may occur at any season but is most common in late winter, spring and summer. Most cases appear at ages under five years. One attack usually produces immunity. Vaccination against whooping cough is effective. Many school districts require vaccination against whooping cough and several other childhood diseases before children may enroll in school.

Symptoms include inflammation of the respiratory tract and much secretion of mucus, which becomes quite thick and sticky as the disease progresses. Coughing may be prolonged and violent and accompanied by a whooping sound. Sometimes the child may vomit after a coughing spell.

Convalescence usually begins after four weeks. Very young children are most seriously affected.

Medical care, isolation and good nursing care are essential.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

Why not buy a big turkey this Thanksgiving? A big turkey looks elegant on the dinner table and when dinner is over, there's lots of tasty turkey left to use in many interesting and delicious ways.

Big turkeys are good buys, particularly now, since the large birds are selling for a few pennies less per pound than the smaller ones. Another reason for buying a large turkey is that you are getting more for your money, since there is a larger proportion of meat to bone. So you are getting a real bargain two ways.

It's not too soon to make the decision and to place your order for your Thanksgiving bird, or to buy it and place it in your freezer. The size you will buy giblets from the neck and body servings you wish to have and what leftovers are intended. For generous servings allow about 3/4 to 1 pound ready-to-cook weight for birds weighing less than 12 pounds. For birds weighing 12 pounds or more, allow 1/2 to 3/4 pounds per serving.

If your turkey is frozen, be sure to remember this fact well in advance of Thanksgiving Day and plan for it. Frozen ready-to-stuff turkey needs to be thawed in order to remove the neck and giblets from the neck and body cavities of the bird. There are several ways to thaw turkeys. One way is to thaw the bird in the original moisture-proof wrapping in the bottom of your refrigerator. This requires two to three days for a 12 to 20 pound bird. Or you can thaw the wrapped bird in a pan of lukewarm water in six to eight hours. If you like, you may use a combination of the two ways. Leave the turkey in the refrigerator for one day and then completely thaw it in water. After thawing, wash the inside and outside of the turkey in cold running water and then pat dry. Be sure to stuff the bird just before roasting (not the day before), and allow 3/4 cup of stuffing per pound of bird. Pack the stuffing loosely in the cavity for it will swell during roasting.

As for the way to roast the turkey, there must be a hundred or more ways. The important thing to remember is that less shrinkage occurs when the meat is cooked at a low temperature—325 degrees F.

Be sure to allow the turkey to stand about 20 minutes before serving. This makes the job of carving much easier, and the meat is not torn to pieces but sliced in smooth even slices.

Do plan ahead and make this Thanksgiving dinner one you will long remember as a meal you enjoyed.

Communicants of St. Stephen's are reminded that there will be a Thanksgiving Service of Holy Communion at 11 a.m. on Thanksgiving Day.

As it looks at the time that this bulletin is prepared, the annual meeting will be on the evening of Thurs., Nov. 30, instead of the 28th as announced earlier. David & Goliath Story This Week

A young businessman from tiny Dover, Delaware is recreating the famed David and Goliath story this week as he tackles candidates from the big states in his drive for the presidency of Young Democrats of America. The YDA National Convention starts Tuesday in Miami, Fla.

Matthews Mitten, 35, says flatly, "I'm not just a favorite son candidate; I'm in this for keeps." The father of four is running on a platform of strong support for President Johnson's Vietnam war effort.

Mitten says in a campaign brochure, "We should reaffirm our commitment in Vietnam and support our President in his continuing quest for peace in the world." The Delawarean believes that a whole, share this belief, and that Young Democrats should be more vocal in their backing of the President.

Mitten is taking on a number of serious and not so serious candidates for the YDA presidency because, he says, "there's a lot that a strong Young Democratic organization can be doing to tell our party's story to the American people. I want to lead that drive to let them know the facts."

Despite his youth, Mitten has long been active in Democratic affairs in Delaware. He was, for two terms, YDA president of the state, was vice-president of the Democratic Federation of Clubs, and, in 1966, finance chairman for the Democratic State Committee.

Mitten's candidacy has the endorsement of top Delaware political leaders including Governor Charles L. Terry, Jr., state chairman Alexis I. duPont Bayard, and others.

During the day, Mitten put in long hours as the head of a highly successful Dover building contracting firm.

CAR INSURANCE

Auto insurance is also available to protect you against drivers who aren't insured; it applies to injuries for which an uninsured driver or a hit-and-run driver are legally liable. You, your family and your guests are protected if injured riding in your car; you and your family alone are covered while riding in another car or walking. The cost for this type of insurance is extremely low.

The premium you pay for car insurance is based primarily on the number of dollars insurance companies must spend to pay claims resulting from car accidents. As those payments go up, insurance premiums go up.

Of course, it's not quite that simple; other factors also affect the cost. Where you live is important; insurance companies have statistics on the claims in each rating territory; insurance costs vary according to the number and kind of claims.

However, people living in the same rating territory may pay different prices for insurance. Obviously, people carry various amounts of coverage; the greater the protection, the higher the cost. But, the major reason for Drivers are classified — and premium costs are based — according to age, the purpose for which they use their car, their occupation and their driving record. Safe drivers without accident and law violation records get a discount; drivers responsible for serious accidents or with a record of violations are penalized with higher premiums.

Highest premiums are paid by young, unmarried male drivers simply because they have a higher accident record than others. However, young men and women under 21 who have successfully completed a driver education course are eligible for a discount. Also, a majority of insurance companies have added a good student discount of 25 per cent.

Swinging Son of Sunny California Is National March of Dimes Child

Timothy Faas, a 4-year-old California swinger who likes his music loud and fast, has been chosen as the 1968 National March of Dimes Child for the 30th Anniversary campaign.

Despite a leg-paralyzing birth defect, Timmy thrives on the up-tempo California living. A problem he still must solve is finding the hours for all he wants to do. There are games to be played outdoors and books to be colored inside, visits to Sunday School and Disneyland, Beale records for dancing and favorite television programs to watch.

Put Timmy's mental gears is sometimes slowed down by his physical handicaps. His active routine must stop every day for physical therapy at home as well as regular visits to a March of Dimes Birth Defects Treatment Center in Los Angeles.

Timmy, who has been an outpatient at Orthopaedic Hospital since infancy, represents the quarter of a million children born every year in this country with a birth defect. The March of Dimes supports nearly 100 research and treatment centers in its campaign to overcome the tragedies of birth defects.

The handsome, outgoing little boy has never known a world without doctors, hospital waiting rooms and heavy leg braces. Timmy was born with club-foot and open spine, a spinal disorder which caused paralysis of his legs. Hydrocephalus, "water on the brain," developed later but was arrested spontaneously.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael F. Faas of Whittier, began bringing Timmy to the March of Dimes Center at Orthopaedic Hospital when he was two months old. They were living in Miami, Fla., when he was born, but returned to southern California to be near their family.

Timmy's early leg surgery was a successful one, but doctors in Florida advised that he would never walk and leave him a paraplegic, confined to a wheelchair.

Timmy's parents of his condition. Timmy walks with the help of a pair of wooden crutches and a body corset with a back brace extension. At night he must wear a spread-a-bar on his feet, although casts have helped the clubfoot condition.

His favorite foods include hot dogs, chocolate milk, tacos and anything sweet.

Timmy enjoys announcing experience to his role as Poster Child for the coming year. In 1967 he was named Poster Boy for Los Angeles County and learned to shake famous hands with ease.

When the March of Dimes campaign opens in January, Timmy hopes to visit the White House and meet President Lyndon B. Johnson as part of a month-long tour of cities around the country.

The tour will emphasize the continuous work carried on by the March of Dimes to rid society of birth defects—the Great Destroyer. The voluntary health organization has devoted its resources and energy to this fight since the polio vaccine halted the menace of infantile paralysis. Its national program provides for medical care, research and education to combat the hundreds of kinds of birth defects.

Discover Wonderful Del.

The Revolutionary War Forum of Delaware, quite a small wonder in itself, is planning what will be a real wonder of wonderful Delaware: an historic trail connecting sites relating to the battle of Cooch's Bridge—the only Battle of the Revolution fought on Delaware soil.

Visiting these sites today is a nice way to spend an afternoon of discovery, and a chance to get a sort of preview of historic wonders to come, since several of the houses are in the process of restoration, and others are yet to be restored.

A good place to start is at Stanton, on Delaware Rte. 7. Just south of Stanton, on the banks of White Clay Creek, is the Hale-Byrnes House, now being restored by the "Delaware Society for the Preservation of Antiquities".

It was here that General Washington and his officers met on September 6, 1777, after their retreat from Cooch's Bridge. The brick miller's house was built in two sections, the earliest by Samuel Hale in 1750. It is interesting to note that the house was built in accordance with William Penn's "Quaker Plan". The second section of the house was added in 1770 by Daniel Byrnes. It is said that on the day when the officers gathered here, there was cannon around the house "wheel to wheel".

From the Hale-Byrnes house, follow Rte. 7 about two miles to Christiana, once an important shipping point at the head of navigation on the Christina River. At the crossroads, where Rte. 7 turns left, are two hotel-taverns of the time of the Revolution—the Shannon Hotel, to the left, and the Christiana Tavern (now a general store) cater-corner across the way. Continue on Rte. 7. Just before the bridge across the Christina is the Read House, where Lafayette is said to have stayed on his return visit to Delaware after the Revolution. Across the creek is the Lewden House, built in 1770.

Continue down Rte. 7 to its intersection with Rte. 7-301 at Red Lion, and take 301 to the right, through Kirkwood and two miles beyond to the Samuel Davies House on the right. This house was recently acquired by the State, and it is planned to restore it. It was the birthplace of Samuel Davies, who organized the Presbyterian Church in Virginia, and was one of the founders, and subsequently president, of Princeton University. In September, 1777, the house served as headquarters for Lord Grey, one of the generals of the British Army at the battle of Cooch's bridge.

Just beyond the Davies house, the Buck Tavern is in the process of reconstruction. It stood originally a few miles away, in the vicinity of what is now Summit Bridge, and when the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal was widened, the old tavern, mentioned by Washington as early as 1773 as a stopping-off place, was taken down, brick by brick, for reconstruction. At the time of the battle of Cooch's Bridge, Buck Tavern was General Knyphausen's headquarters.

Continue along Rte. 896 and bear right on Rte. 896 through Glasgow, known in Revolutionary days as "Aiken's Tavern". There is no Aiken's Tavern today, and only one house in Glasgow, just across 896 from the church, that may have been standing on September 3, 1777, when the British marched past. If, after Glasgow, you bear right on the first road (at Coleman's garage) you will be following the same route the British took, and it was from behind stone walls along here that the Americans began their ambush efforts to delay the march. On the left is the Armstrong House, standing at the time, although then its brick had not been covered with stucco.

At Old Baltimore Pike, and turn right, over the Delaware Turnpike, toward Newark. Just beyond the turnpike, turn left on Welsh Tract Road to the old Welsh Tract Baptist Church, built by the Welsh miners who emigrated to America in 1703. The present building was erected in 1746, replacing a log structure of 1706. It was here that the retreating Americans made a stand, behind the stone wall of the churchyard, and both side walls of the church bear the scar of a British cannonball that passed right through.

The church is still in use, and the graveyard is worth inspecting, as it contains stones as early as 1722. Rising above and behind the church is "Iron Hill", the site of iron mines that were worked until late in the 19th century. The top of the hill, now completely wooded, is pitted with the old diggings, and bits of iron ore may be picked up from the ground.

Iron Hill Road turns off Old Baltimore Pike about a half-mile west of 896. From the church it may be reached by continuing on Welsh Tract Rd. just under a mile to Whitaker Rd., turn left on Whitaker Rd. to Old Baltimore Pike, and left on Old Baltimore Pike. The last part of the road to the top of Iron Hill is dirt, but passable at slow speed.

Not one of the stops on this tour is a present anything but a very small wonder of wonderful Delaware, but if the Revolutionary War Forum, the Society for the Preservation of Antiquities, and the Delaware State Archives Commission, and other interested Delawareans are successful, the historic trail can well be one of the greatest wonders wonderful Delaware has.

Around Home With Jean Cranston

Since 90 percent of the Thanksgiving turkeys will be purchased frozen this year, again the problem of thawing them comes up. Thanks to a new research on timing and safety—the results are released in a useful, when-do-you-want-to-cook-it manner.

To cook Turkey Immediately
1. Remove wrap from frozen turkey. Place turkey on rack in shallow roasting pan.

2. Cook for 1 hour in preheated 325°F oven.

3. Remove turkey from oven; remove neck and giblets from body cavity and wishbone area.
4. Immediately return turkey to oven and cook until done, according to package directions or to 180°F on roast meat thermometer.

To Cook Turkey Later Today

1. Leave in original wrap.
2. Thaw in running water or water that is changed frequently. Thawing Time—5-9 pounds, 3-4 hours; over 9 pounds 4-7 hours.
3. Cook or refrigerate thawed turkey immediately.

To Cook Turkey Tomorrow

1. Leave in original wrap.
2. Place frozen turkey in brown paper bag or wrap in two or three layers of newspaper. Thaw at room temperature. Thawing Time—under 12 pounds, 10-18 hours; over 12 pounds, 18-30 hours.
3. Check turkey often during last hours of thawing and refrigerate immediately if completely thawed.

To Cook Turkey Day After Tomorrow

Leave in original wrap and place on tray or drip pan. Thaw in refrigerator (Turkey over 12 pounds may take up to three days).

Do Not
1. Allow thawed bird to stand at room temperature. Refrigerate thawed turkey or cook immediately.
2. Stuff bird until ready or cook.
3. Thaw commercially stuffed birds.

Outdoors USA is the title of the newly issued Yearbook of Agriculture, prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture. It is bound to be a best seller and is offered by the Superintendent of Documents at the Government Printing Office in Washington, D. C. The cost is $2.75 per copy, just in case your Congressman may have already given away his limited free supply of copies.

This is a hand book of resource conservation, a guide to the American outdoors, and a primer of natural beauty. It is designed for all Americans, such as hunters, fishermen, family campers, small fry eager to learn about the outdoors, farmers and rural developers.

There are 119 highly readable features. Here are a few titles: "How Not to Get Lost in the Big Woods"; "But If You Do Get Lost"; "How to Select a Christmas Tree"; "A Drink From the Desert"; (tells how to make a solar still); "Roads That Fit our Environment"; (Safety designs, vistas, watershed protection); "Container Gardening" (for city scapes); "Reserving Open Space So Cities Can Breathe"; "County Planning Counts When You Buy a Home"; "Pine Trees and Profits on the Farm".

A nice Sunday drive? Pop on over to the Washington area and look at the newly emerging cities. I go about every six months to see how Columbia and Reston are changing the landscape.

Columbia has 14,500 acres between Washington and Baltimore on route 29 and is scheduled to have 120,000 residents within 10 years. Reston is smaller at 7,500 acres and is located near the Dulles airport (a sight in itself) over in Virginia. Both cities stress homes with an open space setting and downtown services and activities.

My neighbor, Sud Emerson, and I took our wives over last weekend. We also visited the Sewell Orchards, soon to be surrounded by Columbia. Mr. Sewell enjoys a fine reputation for quality fruit production and marketing at the farm. He welcomes the growth of the new city, even tho most of his neighbors sold out for rather fancy prices.

I am much impressed by the orderly transition from farm to city at Columbia. Too often farm land moves too soon into speculative non-uses. This is sheer waste.

An interesting sidelight. Columbia uses a minibus shuttle service that might well be considered within Kent County. The Sunday bus drivers appeared to be college students working part time.

Wondering out loud. Did you see the picture of the folding house for migrant farm workers in a popular magazine? The shell is waterproof, lightweight, fire resistant, self-insulated and perfectly rigid. It sounds like an answer for our farmers if the replacement cost is cheap enough. Disposable paper towels, paper dresses, and now it appears, cardboard houses. Our extension service engineer at the University of Delaware, Ernest Walpole, is looking into the matter further.

Ginseng is an odd-ball crop that people ask us about from time to time. It is a fleshy rooted herb native to cool and shady forests in the eastern half of the United States. Some Chinese and Koreans believe the dried root has stimulant properties, altho there is no scientific evidence to support the belief. About 95 percent of our production is exported to the Orient.

Yields of the dried root average 1 ton per acre, but 100 to 200 acres can easily supply the world market for 1 year. There are many cultural problems regarding shade, mulching, protection from moles and rodents, diseases and nematodes. It takes 5 to 7 years for the crop to mature, and the roots must be carefully dug and dried.

Still interested? We can get you a copy of the new USDA Farmers Bulletin 2201 on Growing Ginseng.

Some Shuman quotes at the State Farm Bureau meeting (Charles B. Shuman, president of American Farm Bureau Federation):

Regarding government controls: "No man living can decide six or eight months ahead of time what should be produced at any given price and be right."

"Why does the government support cheap food policies? It requires no magic for a politician to recognize that 94 percent of our voters are consumers while only 6 per cent are farmers."

"The fault of mismanagement in agriculture is ours because we turn to government to solve our problems for us. We should do it ourselves."

Alexis I. du Pont Bayard Withdraws From Committee of 39

Democratic State Chairman Alexis I. duPont Bayard has withdrawn his name as a sponsor of the Committee of 39. In a statement, Bayard lashed out at Republican control of the organization, saying "If non-partisan means control of the committee by those actively engaged in advancing the cause of the Republican party, then indeed it is non-partisan." But Bayard went on to urge the GOP-oriented organization to bar "those in active control" of '39' from any connection with either political party.

Bayard had been, in recent years, a sponsor for fund raising purposes of the Committee of 39. His statement came on the heels of a documented report from the Democratic Forum last week, condemning Republican control of the organization.

The text of Bayard's statement follows: "Although I certainly back the principle on which the Committee of 39 was founded, the controlling forces of the Committee today—Delawareans actively engaged in Republican politics and policy making—compel me to withdraw by name from sponsorship of this organization for fund raising purposes. It was stated as recently as last Thursday night that the committee is a non-partisan body. If non-partisan means control of the committee by those actively engaged in advancing the cause of the Republican party, then indeed it is non-partisan. But until proper criteria are established so that those in active control of the committee are barred from serving upon any political committee of either party, I feel that the Committee of 39 is not fulfilling its proper purpose, and is non-partisan only in the unbiased opinion from the Republican point of view."

Dr. Robert Kase Honored At Del. Conference

A portrait of Dr. C. Robert Kase, founder and longtime chairman of the department of dramatic arts and speech at the University of Delaware, was presented during the opening session of the 28th Delaware Dramatics Conference on Friday.

In a moment that provided drama of its own, Dr. Thomas Watson, Dr. Kase's colleague and successor as department chairman, invited him to come forward from the audience and unveil his own portrait before about 500 Delaware high school students and teachers.

The portrait was commissioned by former members of the E 52 University Theatre, alumni and friends who wanted to ensure that a lasting recognition would be given to Dr. Kase's pioneering work in educational and community theatre on the local, regional and national levels.

It was Dr. Kase who founded the E 52 players, now widely known and respected as the E 52 University Theatre. How his English course in dramatic literature evolved into a producing company and, eventually, into a full-fledged academic department is one of the colorful stories in the University's history.

For many years, Dr. Kase has fostered and encouraged creative drama through the Delaware Dramatic Center, an organization he created to aid high school, church and community theatres. Especially interested in theatre for children, he and his wife conceived and planned the first children's theatre tour of the state in 1948 which takes plays to school children in communities throughout Delaware and neighboring areas. In 1958 Dr. Kase became first chairman of the American Educational Theatre Association Overseas Touring Committee which annually chooses college theatrical companies to tour overseas military bases under the auspices of the U.S.O. and the Defense Department.

The E 52 University Theatre was an early participant and has taken three touring troupes abroad. In 1964, Prof. Kase received a service award from the Delaware State Education Association in recognition of his work in the development of educational television in Delaware. His portrait, to be hung on the left side of Mitchell Hall lobby, is a special tribute to his continuing interest in and support of theatre in all its forms and for audiences of all ages.

These are a few of the Fire Prevention Essays written by Mrs. Brobst's sixth grade English pupils:

FIRE PREVENTION ESSAY by Gerry Steerman

Fire prevention should be in every citizen's mind. There are many forest fires, house fires, and explosions every year, that cost millions of lives. We shouldn't relax our thought for a minute in considering fires.

Fires happen at any time of the year for many different reasons. For an example we can start with winter time. It's the time of year when every one goes inside to get warm by his own choice of fires. This is one way to join in fire prevention: by having your heaters, stoves, and chimneys cleaned and checked before it is time to turn on the heat for the winter.

Never play with matches even if you think you're big enough, because once a fire is started, it's hard to put out. Keep children away from cook stoves. Put out all camp fires, no matter how little they are.

If we learn about ways to prevent fires while we are little, we can grow up to be a better citizen. We should help our town and country where we live.

FOREST - FIRE! by Donna Chalmers

It was blazing hot out and there hadn't been any rain for weeks. There were two boys playing in the forest with matches!

The boys were afraid and ran home to their mother—too scared to tell anyone about it. The fire blazed on and on. All the animals ran with outrageous terror.

A mother squirrel was rounding up her children patiently. When all noses were counted they fled. After they were finally safe, the mother counted noses again.

A mother robin and her young were in great danger. The fire was getting closer every minute and the young ones could not fly yet.

Forest fires are very dangerous things and should be prevented at all times. They destroy beauty and wild life of America.

THE BIG FIRE by Joyce Gustafson

It was a beautiful day in August when all of a sudden a forest fire started. We saw two boys running away after they had set the fire.

pened if the two boys hadn't been careless when playing with matches. The beautiful forest would have been here. The smell of honey suckle would still be filling the air.

Last night I saw a big shadow. My hair jumped and my eyes bucked. I started to run fast and faster. My heart jumped and my legs twitched.

Last night I saw something weird. It was very big and white. It had big teeth, and a very large head. It made a strange noise.

Last night a big shadow fell in front of me. I was so scared I fainted. When I got up it was gone.

Last night a big shadow fell in front of me. I was smaller than it was. It was about one-half inch taller. It had a fairly good figure.

Last night a big shadow fell in front of me. I was smaller than it was. It was about one-half inch taller. It had a fairly good figure.

One night I woke up from a deep sleep. All of a sudden I heard something. It moved very slowly. First it went into Mother's bedroom.

I had just heard a spine-tingling story. I was walking home when I heard something. I screamed and ran and ran.

The Kent County 4-H team and the Future Farmers of America team from Laurel High School won top honors in the Delaware state soil judging contest.

The program aims to divert about 30 million acres from production—10 million more than were diverted in 1967—to reduce feed grain stocks and get stronger prices.

According to Hastings, the key provisions of the 1968 feed grain program include diversion of 20 per cent of the base acreage of corn and sorghums to conserving uses to qualify for price-support loans and payments.

Farmers may divert additional acreage up to a total of 50 per cent of the base or 25 acres, whichever is larger.

As in 1967, producers with corn-sorghum base acreages up to 125 acres will have an option. They may temporarily reduce this base to 25 acres and

New Feed Grain Program Encourages Diverted Acres

The 1968 feed grain program, announced recently by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, acts to reduce total supplies to strengthen prices.

The program aims to divert about 30 million acres from production—10 million more than were diverted in 1967—to reduce feed grain stocks and get stronger prices.

According to Hastings, the key provisions of the 1968 feed grain program include diversion of 20 per cent of the base acreage of corn and sorghums to conserving uses to qualify for price-support loans and payments.

Farmers may divert additional acreage up to a total of 50 per cent of the base or 25 acres, whichever is larger.

still be eligible for the small-farm provision. This is provided that no corn or grain sorghum is planted for harvest on the farm and the 25 acres are diverted to a conserving use.

Price-support loan levels under the 1968 program will be the same as in 1967. Loans for corn average $1.05 per bushel nationally; for sorghum there is a national average of $1.61 per hundredweight.

100 K. C. Teachers Attend Dinners

As a feature of American Education Week approximately 100 Kent County teachers and leaders attended a dinner meeting at the Milford Junior High to honor twenty-two teachers in the county who had served the profession for at least 40 years.

John G. Leach, vice-president of the Goldie-Beacom Junior College, addressed the group and stressed the part teachers have played in moulding this nation.

Chairman Hastings said that further program details will be announced before the time to sign up. Questions still unanswered include the availability of advance payments, producing substitute crops on diverted acreages, and the possibility of planting soybeans on corn-sorghum acreage in 1968 without losing feed grain price-support payments.

Farmers may sign up to participate in the 1968 feed grain, wheat, and cotton programs during February and March 1968.

Lions Nip Milton Despite Sloppy Play

Harrington High's football Lions blanked Milton 7-0 here Friday night to run their season's record to six wins and three defeats. The locals have one game left to play, a contest with Greenwood here on Wednesday night.

Assuming the Lions can get by winless Greenwood, a first-year varsity team, we feel sure that the resulting 7-3 log, would be the second-best showing in Harrington High grid history.

Friday night's contest was one of those situations, which prompts people to say "It was not which team was the best, but rather, which team was the worst."

Both sides played poorly, with Harrington's tally a direct result of a very clumsy error by a careless Warrior.

Milton took the opening kickoff back to their 30 yard line. The first three thrusts gained 18 yards, but workhorse Price then lost nine yards trying to sweep left end. Price gained 11 yards to midfield but was far short of a first down.

Steve Welch, currently one of Harrington's better-known athletes returned Millman's kick to the H.H.S. 18. The Lions immediately lost 13 yards when a pitchout went awry. Two Lions jumped too soon penalizing their team back near the goal line. Jerry Cagle darted 20 yards down the left side, but one play later, the home team drew another offside penalty.

Harrington's punt took a Milton bounce to the Lion 43. Price hit to the 39 but the Warrior attack was stalled.

Welch gained eight yards. The locals jumped too quick for the third time in the first period but made out fine ultimately, as Jim Harris caught a pass, was hit, but struggled for a first down at the Lions 44. Welch tacked on 10 more yards in two attempts.

The Lions jumped offside for the fourth time to open the second period. Then came the break that won the game. Jack Redden's pass went straight into a Warrior's arms, with a chance of a long return. But amazingly, the interceptor somehow deflected the ball into Cagle's arms on the Milton 25.

Given a lift, Welch dragged tacklers for 7, then carried four straight times to score. The hard-running Lion averaged five yards per carry in this scoring series.

Bill Webb booted the extra point through the uprights, a feat not often seen here this campaign.

Harrington was in trouble quickly. An inside kick gave the ball to Milton at the 50. A nice run by Charley Price, with 15 more yards tacked on for unnecessary roughness, put the Warriors 21 yards away from paydirt. The visitors then got too rough also, and picked up 15 bad ones.

Bill Moore, a pass pilferer all fall, speared one at the 19 to stop the Maroon and Gold.

A 24 yard pass reception by Oscar Matthews was followed by a fumble to Milton on the next down.

A Warrior dropped a perfect pitch but Jerry Cagle didn't when one came his way. Speedy Jerry then hit off right tackle for 10 yards. The Lions were assessed a fifth time for offsidess before Welch toted a swing pass to Milton's 31.

A Warrior was near a wobbly long aerial and held on to it this time. Charley Price, trying to turn the flank, was knocked down on a fine, diving tackle by Welch. Steve brought a punt back to midfield but Milton then captured another loose ball. Warrior end Dick Johnson, then did his bit for the Lions by dropping a strike from Bud Hitchens.

Good Warrior kicking kept H.H.S. bottled up throughout the third period. Twice punts rolled dead at the Harrington eleven yard line. The locals couldn't gain and avoided trouble on one occasion when John Swain got off a 44 yard kick from his own goal line.

The Warriors' deepest penetration was still 22 yards shy as two aerials misfired on the last two downs.

Oscar Matthews caught a 11 yard throw to the H.H.S. 33 on the last play of the quarter. Jim Harris rambled for 24 yards in two carries before the home team caught another 5 yard penalty. Jack Redden lost 7 yards. Welch nabbed a swing pass for eight but needed twenty. Price made a nifty return on a punt runback. The last Lion turned him in and made the stop averting a possible stalemate. His effort carried into Lion territory at the 45. He then reached the 32. Hitchens ran left

Football Game Nov. 22 to Start Later; 8:45 p.m.

Lion Harriers Were On WTHD Last Saturday

The new Milford radio station WTHD appears to be staffed by young, sports-minded people. We keep our dial tuned to their wave length all morning while working and so far we have heard Scott Sipple, a former star half miler for Milford High School; Sports Director, Larry Sharp, who was a state champion pole vaulter. Co-owner Tom Draper was an All American in lacrosse at Brown University. There may be others there with a sports background unknown to us. We have read about and witnessed personally some of the accomplishments of the above trio.

Last Saturday a program on "A Decade of Cross-Country at Harrington High" was aired on the morning sports broadcast. H.H.S. had a ten minute segment of the program. People fairly close to cross-country here learned something new, according to reports we have since received.

Chris Wetherhold, Danny Hitchens, Jackie D. Parker, this writer and Larry Sharp were the participants.

We read a chronological survey of cross-country here starting with Dwight Hackett running alone in the state meet of 1957 and doing very well. In 1958, Harold McDonald, became the first Delaware harrier coach south of Newark.

The statement then told of each year's record up to the present, mentioning such Lion harrier greats as state champion Harry Knotts, Dwight Hackett, Clarence Hackett, Buddy Bonniwell, George Bonniwell, Dennis Rogers, Wayne Carson, Gerry Garey.

Other fine runners were Marshall Hatfield, Ellis Myer, Bob Smith, Roger Redden, George Pfeiffer, David Hitchens, Randy Knox, Roger Betts, etc. Sharpe then interviewed Wetherhold, Hitchens, and Parker, a trio of junior high runner who have been trouncing juniors and seniors all season at ages of 14, 14, and 12 respectively. These boys have helped put Harrington on the map, athletically speaking. All three have enough talent and courage, especially the latter, to spread the name of this tiny city across this nation, someday. College coaches are already noticing these boys and the sweet talk has begun. Now, if we can persuade them to keep good study habits at H.H.S., athletic scholarships are a distinct possibility, in the future.

Harrington Bowling League

Congratulations, McKnatt Funeral Home, on winning the first third of the Bowling League. McKnatt's finished the third in grand style taking four games from Robbins Hardware. This loss put Robbins Hardware in a tie for fifth place, a somewhat better standing record than they maintained last year. With McKnatt's winning the first third, they can afford to coast until the title contest comes up. Course, it's always wise to keep up the averages, if they want to stand a chance against the other two third winners.

Taylor & Messick got a real good assist from G. Collins (201-542) and S. Collins (534) to take three games from Kent Gas. This fine effort put them in second place and pushed the once untouchable Kent Gas team in third place. In the past couple weeks, Kent Gas blew a good seven game lead and must do some bowling in the next third if they want another chance at the title. A good effort by H. Wheeler (539) for the losing team wasn't enough to offset a more balanced attack by Taylor & Messick. R. Finkbiner also tried to assist Kent Gas with a nice 197 game.

Hamilton Fund really put on a fine showing in the past two weeks, moving up from seventh place to end up in the fourth place position. This week they overtook Wally's Garage for four games, getting a 198 game effort from J. Bodgen. This Hamilton Fund team will be one of the teams to watch in this second third if they can maintain their balanced attack as they have in the past two weeks. Wally's Garage, it seems, never had a chance to vacate the cellar, once they got there, but once or twice this third managed to take the leading teams down a notch or two. This team usually puts on a better showing later in the season, and should be met with caution.

Jarrell Fuel and Hobbs Newsstand clashed Tuesday night, with Jarrell Fuel coming out on top with three games to their credit.

Penn. R. R. and Acme battled it out for the eighth and ninth place positions with Penn. R.R. coming out on top, exchanging places with Acme in the standings.

With the competition as keen as it was Tuesday night, it seems a real high game was hard to come by with only one person breaking over 200 in a league of 50 bowlers. Looks as though the high games were bowled at the start of the season.
