

City Dump Problem More Obnoxious With Closing of Highway Pits

The municipal dump, northwest of town, faces a sharp increase of refuse from nonresidents, it was revealed Monday night at a meeting of the City Council.

Pointing to the closing, by the State Highway Department, of borrow pits near Felton and Frederica, used as dumps, councilmen believed the local dump "was in for it". In fact, one councilman said parts of automobiles were being deposited here at citizens' expense.

Consequently, Mayor Fulton J. Downing and Councilmen Burton Satterfield and John Satterfield plan to visit the dump Wednesday with Kent Meredith & Son, local contractors. Using the trash for a roadbed, Meredith will do trial building of an elevated road into the dump.

If the plan proves practical, a gate might be erected to prevent entrance to the road inside the dump.

In other business, the Council acted as follows: Heard the city manager say 60 signs for a snow route had been ordered.

Authorized Mrs. Kathryn Derickson, acting city manager, to get in touch with Albert C. Adams and the Board of Education about deputizing school maintenance men as crossing watchmen. Police are not always available since they are sometimes in court.

Voted against installing municipal gas tanks and pumps because City does not use enough gasoline.

Announced appointment of Charles Stump, Dover, as part-time patrolman.

A Bumper Crop Of Food Fantasies

Naturally, the interest of all of us in food gives rise to numerous food superstitions and misconceptions. Here are a few of the more common fallacies.

If a few vitamins are good, more must be better. (Not correct.)

Never give milk to a patient with fever. (The milk won't affect the fever at all.)

Parsnips should be eaten often to cleanse the kidneys. (They don't.)

Beets build blood. Wine makes blood. (They don't.)

Pork is indigestible. (It is no more indigestible than other meats.)

Sour foods, such as lemon juice or sauerkraut, can cure diabetes. (They can't.)

Grape juice, honey, dried poka grape juice, honey dried poka berries, carrot juice and tomatoes are helpful. (They're not.)

Cooked cereals heat the blood. (They don't.)

Warm bread may cause a stroke. (It won't.)

Putting cream in coffee makes the coffee more harmful. (No.)

Ice water causes heart trouble. (It doesn't.)

Raw vegetable juice contains life-giving properties, but cooked foods are "dead". (Not so.)

Olives, oysters and raw eggs increase sexual potency. (They don't.)

White sugar is not good for the health. (No true.)

White bread is poisonous. (It isn't.)

If the expectant mother holds her weight down, the size of the baby will be reduced. (Not a fact.)

Calories don't count. (They do.)

Never eat rabbits because they are all disease carriers. (No.)

Yogurt and brewer's yeast are dietary requirements. (They aren't.)

Milk should not be taken at the same time as sour fruits. (Not so.)

Proteins and carbohydrates should not be eaten at the same meal. (Incorrect.)

Food kept in an open tin can is necessarily poisonous. (Not if properly refrigerated.)

Fried and highly seasoned foods are harmful. (Not in moderation.)

As these superstitions and misconceptions fade away, no doubt a whole new crop will evolve. However, all these covered today are erroneous.

New Film From Board of Health Now Available

The Immunization Activities of the Delaware State Board of Health announces the acquisition of the new immunization film, "Spot Prevention." This is a 16 mm animated sound production in color, with a showing time of 13½ minutes.

This fast moving humorous cartoon treats a very serious subject—the danger of the measles—and how to avoid catching this disease. The film shows the chase and capture of the "germ" and its conversion to a protective vaccine. The fictional tale is climaxed by the triumph of the "good guys" over "the bad guys" and is aimed at an audience from the pre-school level through the first and second grades. Parents, however, should enjoy it as much as their children; take the message to heart, and have their children receive the protective vaccination against measles.

Anyone interested in using this film can make arrangements by contacting: Immunization Activities, State Board of Health, Health Building, Dover, Del.

Harrington Man Hurt in Crash

A 25-year-old Harrington truck driver was admitted to Cambridge (Md.) Hospital Tuesday after his tractor trailer touched off a 4-vehicle accident.

Admitted to the hospital for observation of possible back injuries was William E. Moore. He was reported in fair condition Wednesday.

Police said Moore was southbound on Maryland 16 when he lost control of his truck on a sharp right turn. The vehicle skidded off the road, struck a parked car, turned over and landed on top of another car, police said.

The first car hit by the truck struck another car, which, in turn, struck a fourth vehicle.

Wishes To Spend Two Weeks In Hawaii

Wise will leave Dec. 5, for a two-week trip to Hawaii and be the guest of Duke Kahanoku, former Olympic swimming champion and grand old man of surfing for the Invitational Surfing Contest. Transportation is being provided by Hobie Alter, surf board dealer, of California, and others.

Wise sold surf boards here for Hobie Alter.

Bill said, "he is sitting on top of the world. I always wanted to go to Hawaii."

ACCEPT OUR THANKS

Kent and Sussex Levy Court members failed to come up with answers Tuesday when they met jointly to discuss garbage disposal and other problems both boards face.

Kent County Levy Court members Glenn A. Richter and Isaac Thomas visited their Sussex County counterparts primarily to view the Sussex County telephone and fire call board system. They said they are considering installing a county telephone system.

The commissioners also discussed their mutual problems in trying to provide sites for public dumps. They said it would be ideal for both counties if the State Highway Department would keep open public dumps they are closing in Kent and open similar ones in Sussex.

Both Levy Courts in recent weeks have been discussing how they can start their own county-wide systems. The Sussex County Levy Court's attorney has been working on proposed legislation that would enable it to spend more money to find a solution. The Kent County representatives said they have been thinking about starting county landfill operations and charging those who use them.

Sussex County Commissioner R. Glen Mears Sr. said he did not think persons would use county dumps if a fee were charged. He said the amount of dumping in the woods and along roads has increased greatly since Seaford and Laurel contracted with a private dump which charges fees to all but residents of those towns.

Richter, president of Kent County Levy Court, said the only answer would be to have dumps available at a small charge and impose still fines against those who do not use the dumps. He said the Kent County engineer would study their problem.

Richter and Thomas also mentioned the problem in Kent County of providing ambulance service since a private ambulance operator wants to discontinue his service. The Sussex commissioners said this was a problem coming to a head in their county too because volunteer drivers were complaining about nonemergency "taxi" runs.

Anniversary and Dedication Slated For Trinity Church

Trinity Methodist Church at Commerce and Mispillion Streets in Harrington will observe the 87th anniversary on Sunday, Dec. 3.

The church was first organized in 1880 and was formerly known as the Methodist Protestant Church of Harrington. The present name "Trinity Methodist Church" was given to the church after the three major bodies of Methodism united in the year 1939, becoming The Methodist Church. The first services of the original church were held in what was then called "the old school house", located on the southeast corner of Dorman and Mechanic Streets. The Rev. J. E. Nicholson was the first pastor.

The first church building was dedicated on August 19, 1881. The building was erected on the site where the Fire House now stands.

The cornerstone of the present church building was laid on Dec. 4, 1904, at which time the Rev. N. O. Gilson was pastor.

The interior of the present sanctuary was badly damaged by fire on Sun., March 14, 1926. The damage was repaired during the year, also an annex was built known as the Sapp Memorial Building. The annex was a gift of the late Mrs. Elva Sapp, in memory of her husband, Ora C. Sapp, and their sons, Oland C. and R. Leonard Sapp.

During the pastorate of the Rev. Nelson B. Benjamin an Educational Building was erected. This building includes several Sunday School rooms, a Fellowship Hall and a modern kitchen. The Consecration Service was held on Sun., February 4, 1962. The building, now free of indebtedness, will be formally dedicated this Sunday, following the anniversary service at 11 a.m. in the sanctuary. The Rev. Benjamin, pastor of the Still Pond, Md., Methodist Charge, will be the guest speaker at the service, and will also assist the pastor in the dedication service.

Extensive improvements have been recently completed on the exterior of the church buildings. The Rev. William J. Garrett is the present pastor.

An invitation is extended to members and friends to attend the anniversary service and dedication, this Sunday. A fellowship hour will follow the dedication.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

December is a month of happy anticipation, of rustling tissue paper, bits of tinsel, mixing bowls filled with butter-rich dough, and the pantry stacked with all kinds of delicious food. December means caroling and Christmas morning, New Year's Eve and Old Lang Syne — the whole of December is filled with memories past and joyful hopes for the future.

To help make this a December to long remember, there are many foods which are in ample and abundant supply. This last month of the year is certainly filled with good eating. In feature place on the USDA's plentiful foods list are turkeys, as supplies continue to be bountiful. Marketings of this bird during December are expected to run about 4 per cent above a year ago, and in addition, storage stocks are up substantially from last year.

Be sure not to overlook those delicious broiler fryers. They are expected to remain an economical meat choice throughout the month. As for red meat supplies, they will probably be a little smaller than those of last year. The forecast is for slightly more fed beef (the kind that provides the higher grades) and about the same amount of pork, but less of lower quality beef, veal, and lamb.

Another good orange season is in prospect, although not quite as lavish as last season's. Grapefruit production is down, yet it is a good sized crop; so by all means put grapefruit on your shopping list frequently in the weeks ahead.

Plan on cabbage dishes galore for December. Fall production for fresh markets and kraut is likely to come to 96 million pounds. The other vegetables in good supply in these parts are potatoes. This year's crop is reported to be of fine quality and low prices, a combination that's hard to beat. Other seasonal fresh vegetable choices will include Brussels sprouts, dry onions, sweet potatoes, turnips, rutabagas, and winter squash. As far as canned vegetables are concerned, the outlook is good; so check for any number of good buys in canned vegetables.

In general, there is a slightly larger supply of tree nuts this year than average, but the different kinds vary greatly in supply. The most plentiful are the pecans, up about a third over last season. The supply of almonds is down some; the supply of walnuts and filberts is down sharply. Other plentiful foods during December will be medium to small size shrimp, eggs, and grape juice.

There will be a Christmas service held at Grace Church on December 10 at 2 p.m.

The Cabbage Hand-Bell Ringers of Wesley Methodist Church, Dover, will be a part of the service. Highlighting the many accomplishments of this group of young people was a twelve-day tour of the southern states this past summer, including performances at the National Festival of the American Guild of English Bell Ringers, in Dallas, Texas.

Born in Havana, Cuba, one of a family of twenty children, he came to this country at the age of 12. A lady tourist accosted him on the street one day and inquired if he would like to come to this country.

Like many other foreign youths, this had been his fond dream, and the invitation was accepted. With proper papers filled out, he came to America, attended school, and was graduated from Smyrna public school in 1961. After his conversion, he enrolled in Belhaven College, Jackson, Miss., from which he was graduated in 1965, in preparation for the ministry. Come out and hear more about this on Sun., Dec. 3.

The Mennonite Choir will also be an important part of the service.

Don't forget the bake and bazaar sponsored by St. Johnstown W.S.C.S. to be held in the fire hall, Dec. 2, beginning at 10 a.m. The members of St. Johnstown Church, who have been selling Stanley bubble bath will continue to take orders until the last of December.

ed social on the evening of the 23rd. Old-fashioned dress was called for, and the winner for the girls was Dorothy Shirk, and for the fellows, Eldon Miller.

Effective U. of D. Research Shows Subirrigation

Eight hours of subirrigation increased corn yields by 16 bushels per acre this year. During one of the wettest growing seasons in 50 years, irrigation was needed only once at University of Delaware Georgetown substation plots. But those few hours made the difference, according to Dr. William Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware.

In three years research with subirrigation at the substation, the system gave an appreciable yield increase each year. In 1965 with adequate rainfall, irrigating resulted in 40 bushels per acre more corn. In the 1966 drought, subirrigating corn meant a yield of 165 bushels compared to a mere 7 bushels per acre without water. "It proves subirrigation is an effective way to supply moisture to row crops," Mitchell says.

In greenhouse studies, under conditions that encouraged far more concentrated root growth than under field conditions, plugging took place the first one or two times the irrigation system was used. Mitchell found that briefly increasing pressure to five pounds unplugged the system, restoring as much as 95 per cent. The brief pressure increase could be used in the field to reduce plugging, Mitchell believes.

Research also shows that the crop being irrigated makes a difference in the amount of plugging. Corn roots, for instance, cause less plugging than alfalfa. One reason may be that small cavities form outside the pipe holes more readily with corn. When such spaces are present, finer soil particles and roots may be less likely to enter the holes and cause plugging.

Although plugging is a problem in subirrigation, it doesn't seem to be a great limitation on the effectiveness of the system. Research will provide the answers, Mitchell believes. Many improvements have been made since the subirrigation system was put down in the Georgetown substation. Yet even that system resulted in an average increase of 71 bushels per acre of corn over a three year period.

Mental Health Ass'n. Seeking New Commissioner

The Mental Health Association of Delaware, a voluntary citizens organization deeply concerned with care and treatment of Delaware's mentally ill, recognizes its responsibility in relation to the current search for a commissioner to replace Dr. Daniel Lieberman, whose resignation becomes effective December 9.

At the November meeting of the Board of Directors, the issue of qualifications and salary for the new commissioner was a major topic. According to recent news coverage, Governor Terry is reported to be in favor of a substantial increase in salary for the next commissioner for the purpose of attracting a qualified person of high calibre.

Because of the Association's concern with the commissioner's position of considerable responsibility, the Board of Directors had adapted a resolution with recommendations to the Board of Trustees of the State Dept. of Mental Health and other authorities, regarding current efforts to employ a commissioner of Mental Health.

H. Ingersoll Brown, Jr., president of the Board of Directors of the Mental Health Association announced the following resolution:

RESOLVED: That with respect to engaging the services of an individual qualified to meet the requirements of the Delaware Statute, the Board of Directors of the Mental Health Association of Delaware strongly recommends that the Board of Trustees of the State Department of Mental Health give serious consideration to the following in connection with the current efforts to employ a commissioner of Mental Health: 1. A salary sufficient to attract an outstanding psychiatrist. 2. That the appointee be forbidden to engage in the private practice of psychiatry while holding office of the commissioner.

AND, BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That the Governor, the General Assembly and all other proper authorities be urged to give full support to whatever the Board of Trustees may determine in this connection.

The National Cemetery System

A constructive first step toward solving the Nation's National Cemetery dilemma was taken by the House of Representatives on October 20 when it unanimously approved a change in its rules to give legislative jurisdiction of National Cemeteries to the House Committee on Veteran's Affairs.

The only exception is the 13 cemeteries administered by the Secretary of the Interior as a part of the National Park System. These cemeteries, seven of which are closed, remain under the jurisdiction of the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs.

Administration of these cemeteries by the several Federal agencies, is not affected by the change in Legislative jurisdiction. However, the next logical step would be to consolidate their administration under one Federal agency, namely the Veteran's Administration. A bill (H.R. 12801) has been introduced for the American Legion by the chairman of the House Committee on Veteran's Affairs, Congressman Olin E. Teague, for this purpose.

Congressman Seymour Halpern of New York said, "This is a first step, leading to an essential second step, the establishment of a national veteran's cemetery system."

These efforts are of particular importance to the veterans of this area who desire burial in a National Cemetery. There has been a "freeze" on veteran burials in Arlington Cemetery. Now, the closest one is in New Jersey and that is fast filling all available space.

Congressman Teague in his remarks stated that, "As I understand the present situation, the executive branch wants to close out the cemeteries and do away with them."

All veterans and their families who are interested in the continuance of the National Cemetery System are advised to write to Congressman Olin E. Teague, chairman of the Committee on Veteran's Affairs, House of Representatives, H.O.B., Washington, D. C. 20515. Also, to the Honorable William Roth, Delaware's own Congressman, at the same address, indicating your support of bill H.R. 12801, and requesting favorable consideration of it by Congress.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

"THANKSGIVING"

Harrington took on a real holiday homecoming atmosphere during last weekend with so many students home from college for Thanksgiving.

We enjoyed every minute of their short visit with us, and, needless to say, they did too, due largely to constructive thinking on the part of Donald Wells and Sheryl Satterfield who got out invitations for a "get together" evening at the Wells' home on Delaware Avenue where his old time song might apply:

"Just A Little Street Where Old Friends Meet And Greet You In The Same Old Way."

Those in attendance were Sheryl Satterfield, Judy Burgess, Bill Knox, John Greenhaugh, Ellis Myers, Donald Wells, Joan Smith, Sue Perry, Libby Trotta, Vickie Hill, Susie Fair, Marianne Clarke, Nancy Taylor, Kitty Louise Burgess.

Several others invited had previous commitments. Looking in on this gathering and noting their happy and timely comments to each other, it is hard to realize how rapidly they are maturing. Yesterday, they were ninth graders, today they are adults with amplified perceptives.

Part of the thrill of going away and coming home is seeing old school friends and appreciating the ways they are handling themselves, respecting them for their increased charm and poise, and being able to exchange tales of daring-do — and advice. Brotherly love would describe it best.

The added blessing is the increased respect and admiration one's parents seem to have for these old friends.

It's great to have them home!
 And it's just three weeks 'til Christmas vacation.
 Safe journey!

Prevention rather than weight reduction is perhaps the best weapon against obesity. Childhood obesity is the most frequent form of nutritional disorder in economically advanced countries. The two main causes of obesity are overeating and lack of exercise. Once obesity has been established, a vicious cycle begins, for the child may not be able or willing to diet or exercise enough to reduce his weight. It has often been shown that the obesity of childhood and adolescence is not just a passing phenomenon. Most obese children will grow into obese adults who will remain overweight for the rest of their lives. Because of the physical and possible psychological dangers of obesity, the medical emphasis is the prevention of obesity rather than its cure. For best results, preventive action should be taken as soon as a significant deviation from the weight pattern occurs, even if it is in infancy. Parents must be educated not to give their children fattening snacks between meals, and to encourage their children to stop spending their money on sweets and other snacks. Treatment of established obesity is considerably more difficult, not because diets cannot produce the desired results, but because they are exceedingly hard to enforce. For success with the child's reducing efforts, the parents must cooperate enthusiastically by setting a good example themselves. The physician should treat not only the child but the family as a whole.

Blue Cross, Blue Shield To Go Up

The long-expected boost in Blue Cross and Blue Shield rates will probably be announced next month.

Monday at the meeting of the board of trustees of Blue Cross and Blue Shield, it was decided to hold a special meeting December 11 to consider new rates and changes in benefits.

A rate change has been under consideration for more than a year. While an eventual adjustment could not be avoided because of two rounds of hospital rate increases, Blue Cross and Blue Shield has been holding off as long as possible, Maybee said.

Proposed new rates of the Blue Cross, Blue Shield, and Extended Benefits certificates are still being studied, he said.

Maybee added that one of the changes approved by the board is discontinuation of the "Plan A" hospital coverage. This coverage leaves too large a gap between benefits paid and current hospital rates. It has become outmoded," he said. Only 1,257 contracts remain in the Plan A hospital program; subscribers have been converting to standard semi-private hospital coverage. With board approval, this Plan A hospital coverage will be eliminated in Standard groups.

There are only 19,573 contracts in the Plan A surgical program. These, too, will gradually be converted, Maybee said.

Those members with either of the two Plan A coverages are a very small portion of the total Blue Cross and Blue Shield membership which is growing. Hospital plan membership at the end of October was 357,962 - a gain of over 2,000 from the August total.

LONG MAY SHE WAVE — Old Glory, in front of the Harrington Fire Company, will be illuminated until the conflict in Vietnam has finished. The company is sparking a campaign to increase display of, and respect for, the flag. The Lions Club and Callaway-Kemp-Raughley-Tee Post No. 7, American Legion, will participate in the campaign. The latter organization, will also display an illuminated flag and will promote the sale of and display of the national emblem.

Century Club News

Mrs. James Fair, vice-president of the Harrington Century Club, presided at the meeting on Tuesday afternoon.

The club is sending a gift to the Hospital for Mentally Retarded at Stockley for Christmas. If anyone desires to give an individual gift, please take it to Mrs. Fred S. Bailey, 209 East Center St., before Dec. 8.

Mrs. Gayle B. Smith offered to provide an automobile and driver to represent the club in the Christmas parade next Saturday.

Mrs. J. Millard Cooper, chairman of the Committee on Community Improvement Projects, presented a fine program that showed many things that had been done this year. In opening the program, she read from the Bible the value, necessity, and power of faith which had been used in the achievements of her work this year. She named some and was assisted by others of her committee, as follows: Illumination (by reflector) at the junction of Delaware Avenue and U.S. Route 13 to avoid a dangerous hazard. This was done by the State Highway Department at the request of the Committee; plans are in the making to landscape the triangular plot of land at Commerce and Dorman Streets; classes of young people to learn dancing, cooperation of the club in the American Field Service to bring a foreign student to our high school for the past three years—one from Iceland, one from Bolivia and one from Switzerland. Then Mrs. Cooper introduced Mrs. Herman Minner who told in detail of the success of the Senior Citizens Center; this is in co-operation of the State and Federal Government. She expressed appreciation to the club for the use of the building for the meetings, and of the improvements that had been done to make the building safer.

Mrs. W. Carroll Welch told of the calls made to welcome new residents to Harrington and to assist them in becoming adjusted.

Mrs. William Jester told of her work in bringing cheer to people who are confined to their homes because of poor health.

Mrs. Gayle Smith reported that the Town Council has provided a room in the Town Hall for a public lending library, and the committee is working through the state Library Commission to have it fitted for that purpose.

Mrs. George Mahoney told of the help the club has given to the Future Nurses Club in our High School. We plan to have a rummage sale to assist this project.

Many members of the Club expressed appreciation of the accomplishments that have been made in the name of the Century Club by this C.I.P. Committee.

The next meeting will be on December 12 when a Christmas program will be presented by Mrs. Arnold Gilstad and her committee: Mrs. Mark Willey, Mrs. Frank Derricksion, Mrs. Fred Greenly, Mrs. Howard Sipple, Mrs. Ridgely W. Vane.

Atherosclerosis, Hardening of The Arteries

Atherosclerosis is a form of arteriosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries.

Most heart attacks can be traced to atherosclerosis of the coronary arteries, through which travels the blood which nourishes the heart muscle. Atherosclerosis in the arteries that deliver blood to the brain causes most strokes.

In atherosclerosis, the inner walls of the arteries are gradually thickened and roughened by deposits of fatty material. As more layers of deposits are formed, they narrow the channel through the artery, hindering the flow of blood. When the artery wall is considerably roughened, blood clots may form on the roughened areas and block circulation at that point.

Research scientists are seeking the causes of atherosclerosis and ways to prevent and cure it. Changing the fat content of our diet may be one approach, and long-range studies are underway to discover whether a modified fat diet will help prevent heart attacks and strokes. Other factors being investigated include the role of exercise or its lack, emotional stress, heredity, excessive smoking and sex hormones.

Excessive smoking, especially of cigarettes, is thought by some scientists to be related to heart and blood vessel diseases, because of the constricting effect of smoking on the smaller arteries.

Usually a heart attack is caused by a sudden blocking of one of the arteries that supply the heart muscle with blood. A clogged artery may be closed by a blood clot (thrombus), and the part of the heart muscle fed by that artery may deteriorate or die from lack of blood.

In such cases, healing begins almost immediately and scar tissue begins to form in the damaged area of the heart. Treatment and rest give the heart time to heal itself. For some patients, doctors prescribe drugs to prevent new clots from forming.

Heart attack symptoms vary greatly and are not easy to identify. However, when the following symptoms occur, a doctor should be called at once:

- Moderate or severe pain or an uncomfortable sensation of pressure in the front of the chest. This sometimes spreads to the arms, throat or back, and sometimes spreads to the arms, throat or back, and sometimes is accompanied by sweating, shortness of breath, weakness or loss of consciousness.
- Nausea and vomiting. These symptoms can be mistaken for acute indigestion; only a physician can tell the difference.

Until the doctor takes charge, the patient should be placed in a position most comfortable for him, either lying or sitting. Tight clothing should be loosened. The patient should be kept from chilling, but should not be made to perspire by use of too many blankets. He should not be lifted or carried without the doctor's supervision, or given anything to drink without the doctor's advice.

Boils and Their Treatment

Boils have been with man since antiquity. Their swelling, redness, great tenderness, and localized "hotness" give a miniature picture of what infection is. The redness is caused by an increased blood supply to the infected area, and the local "hotness" results from the additional blood close to the surface producing an increase in temperature.

Boils often develop at the base of hair follicles, along the back of the neck, for instance. Another frequent site of boils is any area where there is friction.

A boil usually results from an infection caused by staphylococci bacteria. It is a boil when it is on the surface of the skin; when deep tissue is involved, it is an abscess. A carbuncle is a cluster of boils. A special type of boil affecting the thick tissues on the pad of a fingertip is called a felon.

Professional treatment of a boil involves sterile surgical removal and drainage of the infection. A physician must decide which antibiotic is the suitable one to fight the staphylococci infection. Other antibiotics might be selected if the infection derived from streptococci, so lab tests may be necessary to determine the type of infection.

Two good home treatments are soaking in hot water and using a salve to soften the skin. Both allow the boil to drain earlier.

Important rules to remember:

- (1) Don't squeeze. Squeezing can lead to deep abscesses or the spread of boils to other areas.
- (2) Don't try your own surgery.
- (3) Keeping the skin clean and avoiding friction or irritation on skin surfaces are good preventive measures.

Boils are especially serious to diabetics and those suffering from vascular disease, Buerger's disease, and hardening of the arteries.

FENCE TALK with George K. Vapaa

Ninety Franklin (a township in New Jersey) farmers got bad news Tuesday night from the County Board of Taxation. It ruled against giving them a tax relief roll back under farmland assessment provisions.

The farmers had appealed when a reassessment this year jumped their land values to the dizzy heights paid by speculators for commercial tracts and potential residential lots. Increases on the 1967 bill are five to fifteen times what they paid the previous year.

New Jersey law provides partial tax relief (more in line with the demand that the land creates for public services) on cropland, if the farmer applies by October 1, and if he renews the application each year.

The former assessor had followed the old county rule of looking at a farm as a farm, and not so much as raw building land. Farmers felt little need to seek the special farmland assessment. Hence, they were caught without warning.

It was probably only a matter of time before this kind of a situation developed. And like the threat of the West Dover By-Pass in our own county, the farmers are stirred to take action.

Historically, especially in the latter stages of a life, farmers have been land speculators themselves. Very few now sell off building lots along the main road. Good replacement farms are harder to find.

We are now in a situation in Kent County where we ought to encourage the retention of good cropland as farms for very sound economic and social reasons.

Now that county planning is underway we should develop ways to make farming more attractive to landowners. New Jersey and Maryland have farmland assessment laws. Connecticut has a very fine Open Space Law which encourages farming, private parks, and timber production. The California Voluntary Agricultural Preserve is nicknamed the "Put Up or Shut Up" law. There, the landowners and local government agree to keep certain lands in agricultural production for a minimum of ten years, in return for a lower assessment more in line with the demand for public services.

Delaware land taxes average 10 percent of what they are in New Jersey. We do have laws regarding the assessment of farm lands within incorporated towns. Conceivably, a proposed county sewer tax might apply to the total county, in spite of the fact that only a portion of the county would be served directly.

Intensive uses of land are not necessarily better than open space uses, even for urban residents. The highest and best use of land is not necessarily that which pays the most taxes. Subtract the cost of added public services in cities and you begin to understand why intensive development creates greater problems today.

Land use planning, and the conditions that make for healthy living, must be designed on a human scale. Some say we are late getting started in Kent County, but not so late to my mind that we can develop a truly favorable living environment.

The golden anniversary of Interstate Milk Producers Cooperative was celebrated at Philadelphia last week. Our Kent County Dairy Princess, Beverly Lucks, of R.D., Wyoming, represented our 4-H groups, along with Mrs. Marion MacDonald, our county club agent. Ellwood Gruwell, of Felton, serves as the director of District 12, one of 26 districts in the Cooperative. His family has held continuous membership since 1921.

I was interested in the resolutions considered by our delegates from Kent and Sussex Counties. One asked for a cost study of fringe benefits for labor on dairy farms to include group programs for retirement, insurance and hospitalization (that latter now handled in Delaware by Blue Cross thru the Delaware Farm Bureau).

Another resolution dear to my heart called for opposing the use of good farm land for roads and recreation when poorer crop land may be available that fills the same needs. A third resolution asks that milk substitutes using powdered milk in the imitation product, be priced as class I instead of Class II. In this same resolution, that every effort be made to use a positive approach in advertising programs to explain the logic of these actions.

Another resolution suggests a mandatory one-cent deduction (per hundred weight) from all producers under federal orders to be spent only on fluid milk merchandising.

Dean Earl L. Butz of Purdue University gave a rousing address to the 800 members and guests. He said that "The real value of Interstate Milk Producers and other cooperatives over the years has been the manner in which badly needed, informed, local leadership has been developed in rural areas. Farmers coming together to solve their problems as cooperative groups have changed people and given a sense of greater self-reliance and confidence."

He continued: "Don't ever say again, 'I'm just a farmer.' America's great strength has been the capacity to increase farm output with a million less farmers in the last 10 years, and we will lose another million farmers in the next 10. Let's talk about milk prices. Twenty years ago milk cost perhaps 10 cents per quart. Now it is 25 cents or a little better. But measured in terms of productivity, a man used to work 15 minutes to earn that quart of milk. Now it is about eight minutes."

Around Home With Jean Cranston

Making your own bread or rolls can be a rewarding experience. The aroma of baking bread is inviting to family and friends alike.

The New Cool Rise method is a new concept in home-baked yeast bread.

Refrigerator Rising Bread (Makes 2 loaves)

- 5 1/2 to 6 1/2 cups Flour (Regular or Instant Blending)
2 packages or cakes yeast (active dry or compressed)
1/2 cup warm water (105°-115° F)
1 1/2 cup warm milk (105°-115° F)

- 2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon salt
3 tablespoons margarine, shortening or cooking oil

Spoon—or pour flour into dry measuring cup. Level off and pour measured flour onto wax paper.

Sprinkle—or crumble yeast into 1/2 cup warm water in large warm bowl. Stir until dissolved.

Add—warm milk, sugar, salt and shortening.

Stir in—2 cups flour. Beat mixture with rotary beater until smooth (about 1 minute).

Add—1 cup more flour. Beat vigorously with wooden spoon until smooth (150 strokes). Scrape sides of bowl occasionally.

Stir in—2 1/2 to 3 cups of remaining flour gradually. Use enough flour to make a soft dough which leaves sides of bowl, adding more if necessary. Turn out onto floured board. Round up into a ball.

Knead—5-10 minutes or until dough is smooth, elastic and no longer sticky.

Cover—with plastic wrap, then a towel.

Let Rest—for 20 minutes on board. Punch down.

Divide—dough into two equal portions.

Shape—each portion into a loaf using the following "rolled dough" method:

Step 1—Place dough, smooth-side down, on lightly floured board. Roll into an 8x12 inch rectangle of uniform thickness. Roll out all bubbles in outer edges of dough.

Step 2—Roll dough toward you beginning with upper 8-inch edge. Seal dough with heel of hand or thumbs after each complete turn. The final seam should be well sealed.

Step 3—Seal ends of loaf by pressing firmly with side of hand to make a thin, sealed strip. Be careful not to tear the dough.

Step 4—Fold sealed ends neatly under loaf.

Step 5—Place shaped loaf, seam-side down in center of greased 8 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 2 1/2 inch loaf pan.

Brush—surface of dough with oil. Cover pans loosely with oiled, wax paper and plastic wrap.

Place—pans of dough in refrigerator at moderately cold setting. Refrigerate 2 to 48 hours. (NOTE—Volume decreases slightly as refrigeration time increases beyond 24 hours, however, texture and eating quality remain acceptable up to 48 hours.)

Remove from refrigerator. Uncover

Let Stand—for 10 minutes (while preheating the oven)

Puncture—any surface bubbles which may have formed on dough during refrigeration. Use a greased toothpick.

Bake—at 400° for 30-40 minutes or until done. Bake on a lower oven rack position for best results.

Remove—from pans immediately. Brush top with butter or margarine. Cool on racks.

For Best Results—No matter what you bake, you should always use a reliable recipe and follow instructions carefully. Do not substitute ingredients or baking utensils or change the baking times or temperatures unless you understand how these changes will affect the finished product.

Peach Blossom 4-H News

On November 15, twenty-eight members met at the Farmington Fire Hall. Pledges were led by G. B. Langford. Mrs. Messick congratulated the club for receiving the county beautification award and runner-up to the silver cup award. We also received honorary mention in the window display contest. Thirteen members received scholarships to next year's camp or conference. We were especially proud of Linda Newnom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Newnom, who won the trophy for outstanding first year member in Kent County. Previous winners of this award from our club have been Rita Messick, Debbie Salmons, and Mark Williams.

Following the business meeting, we enjoyed our guest, Mrs. Richard Hynson, teacher and part-time model, of Dover. Mrs. Hynson demonstrated modeling, showing hints on posture, walking, turning, and very important smiling. She then called on the girls to try these things and embarrassed the boys of the club by having them serve as escorts. This practice should be helpful to all in latter dress revues or style shows.

Refreshments were by Ronnie Bramble, Terry and Cliff Bowman.

4-H Club News With Marion MacDonald

Parent banquets are being held these days throughout the state. Four Kent County Clubs held them this past weekend. Woodside Emeralds program was planned under the chairmanship of Diane Koble. Entertainment was Kreer, Chicopee Falls, Mass., provided by the Woodside Singers—Cheryl Warren, Nancy Waldbusser, Diane Rigby and Joan Fogwell. Cheryl and Nancy each spoke on Citizenship. A dress revue was presented by Pat Hockersmith, Pat Buie, Diane Rigby, Kathy Koble, Debbie Grier and Diane Koble. Marjorie Hudson, Paradise 4-H'er, presented a slide talk on her trip to Canada with the 4-H Teen Caravan. Leaders, Mrs. Dan Koble, Mrs. Gooden Warren and Mrs. Arthur Waldbusser could be proud of the program presented to their parents.

Both Houston Cardinals and Double T held their parent nights on Saturday evening with Marjorie Hudson a guest at the Double T. Whiteoaks President, Linda Metheny, chaired their evening. The officers were installed by leader, Mrs. Fred Wiebel. Allen Metheny, one of the charter members of the club gave an inspirational talk encouraging the twelve new members to participate to reap the full benefit of 4-H. The program was closed with candlelighting ceremony. Each local club shares their past years accomplishments with their parents on these special evenings. All 4-H'ers who have completed the project records receive a member completion pin provided our Kent County 4-H'ers by the Farmer's Bank of Delaware.

As we move into the Holiday Season many 4-H'ers will begin planning their talks for our public speaking contest in January. Many speeches will deal with Patriotism and Citizenship this year as our 4-H'ers desire to show others that youth does care and believe in America. 4-H Clubs are working hard to encourage its members to be good citizens in their daily lives.

Build Farms To Stop Fires Farmers can prevent much of the tragedy and material loss from fires; give more thought to proper spacing and construction details of homes and farm buildings, a new U.S. Department of Agriculture publication advises.

"Fire Resistant Construction" (FB 2227), was prepared by architect Merrill S. Timmins, Jr., of USDA's Agricultural Research Service. It explains that using fire-resistant materials in constructing farm buildings cuts down the chance of a fire starting. It also slows the spread of fires that do get started. Proper spacing between buildings slows spread of fire from one building to another.

The illustrated, 18-page publication recommends that major farm buildings be spaced 100 feet apart to give adequate protection. Poultry brooder houses, heated-air drying of grain or hay should be 100 to 150 feet from the house and other buildings. Spacing buildings properly around a hard surface court makes for efficient use of labor and for easy movement of tractors, trucks, and if needed, firefighting equipment.

Also discussed in the publication are basements, walls, stairways, chimneys, roofing, radio, and television antennas, electrical and fuel-burning equipment, and lightning-protection systems—all items involved in igniting fires or promoting their spread.

FB 2227, "Fire Resistant Construction," is available from E. W. Walpole, Ext. Agricultural Engineer, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware, 19711.

Del. Farmer's Income Down $7 Million in '66

Delaware farmer's net income went down $7 million in 1966 from 1965. Average farm income after expenses in Delaware was $6,653 in 1966, down nearly 12 per cent from 1965, according to Dr. Raymond Smith, chairman of the department of agricultural and food economics at the University of Delaware. Smith describes the income and expenses of Delaware farmers in a new publication, "Delaware's Farm Income."

Despite a drought-ridden year, cash receipts from crops and livestock increased more than $2 million in 1966 over 1965. However, higher farm expenses and smaller inventories offset this increase causing the decline in net income.

Costs of feed, livestock, fertilizer and lime set new high records in 1966—up a total of $6.3 million in one year. Costs have increased steadily since 1961; farmers pay $18.8 million more for these farm expenses than they did five years earlier, according to Smith.

Cash receipts from corn in 1966 increased by a million dollars despite the drought. Income from broilers, cattle and hogs was up $5.4 million. However, poor soybean and vegetable crops accounted for $3 million less income than in 1965.

The price of most farm products was higher in 1966 than in 1965; only potatoes and peaches showed no improvement. Broilers, sheep and lambs were the only important livestock products that did not have increased prices.

Delaware farmers are switching to the most profitable crops. The acreage of corn continued to increase in 1966. Because of the dry conditions, corn yields were low, averaging 38 bushels per acre. Corn prices, however, were favorable. Smith expects farmers will continue to plant corn instead of soybeans in 1967, with corn acreage going up to 211,000 acres and soybeans declining still further to 139,000 acres. The trend to vegetable production is expected to continue in 1967, with an increase of 10,600 acres.

The number of cattle, calves and turkeys went down substantially between 1966 and 1967, according to the new publication. Broilers production went up appreciably—nearly eight per cent—in the same period. Milk production per cow rose, but the number of cows decreased resulting in a decrease in total milk production.

Copies of the pamphlet, "Delaware's Farm Income," published by the Agricultural Experiment Station, are available from the Mailing Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware 19711.

Plan Taxes To Save Money

Tax planning can save you dollars—legally. It's good farm management to even out your income from year to year, according to W. T. McAllister, farm management specialist at the University of Delaware.

By now, you should have an accurate estimate of your taxable income for 1967. If it is substantially higher or lower than you expected, it may be to your advantage to make some last minute adjustments. Now is the time—any steps you take to change the 1967 income must be taken before the end of this year.

Assuming your 1967 income is above normal, you can even it out by putting off sales of crops, lumber and animals. Also, pay all current farm business bills before January 1.

Buy ahead; before December 31, contract and pay for a specified amount of next year's feed, fertilizer or other necessary supplies. In addition, buy those things which last more than one year but are deductible in the year of purchase—paint or painting, small shop tools, building repairs and fencing materials.

Of course, if your income is below expectations, follow the reverse procedure. Put off paying bills and sell crops and livestock before the end of 1967.

There are several other ways to reduce your tax bill, according to McAllister. All of them are perfectly legal, he emphasizes. Pay your children reasonable wages for farm work actually done by them.

A child under 19—or over 19 if he is regularly enrolled in a school or college—can earn over $600 and still be claimed as an exemption when his parents provide over half the support.

Claim investment credit. This is not an option; investment credit is a real tax bonanza. You should claim it on all eligible property as you get it. You may be able to pick up amounts unused in previous years. Take all the depreciation allowable. Depreciation is lost if not taken.

Be careful to get all your business expenses listed. Don't overlook such items as business trips, professional journals, legal fees and capital gains and losses, McAllister cautions.

Sew-Your-Own Holiday Glitter

This will be a glittering holiday season, if fashion has its way. Sequins, beading and metallic braid are party fashion headlines for this year, according to Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing and textile specialist at the University of Delaware. Make your own holiday special dress—designed by you, for you. Don't overdo, warns Miss Reed. A little trim gives an elegant look; too much can look cheap and in poor taste. Also, some trimmings are very expensive—another reason to be conservative. The glittery trim calls attention to the part of the dress where it is used. Just one point of emphasis is usually best. Consider the accessories you'll be wearing with the dress, too. With too much glitter, you may outshine the Christmas tree.

Beaded trimming can easily be attached to dresses or blouses by tacking on the gauze backing. To attach loose beads by hand, mark the fabric with the beading design or stamp the design on the backing fabric. Attach beads with a fine beading needle and silk thread—embroidery hoops will help keep the work flat.

If you're using braid or embroidery trimming, test it for flexibility before you try to fit it to a curved design. Some braids will take a curve—others will not. Straight, non-flexible trim with firmly woven edges cannot be shaped to fit a curve, but it can be neatly mitered to turn a sharp corner.

Steam press braid trim before you apply it; most ribbons and braids have a tendency to shrink, warns Miss Reed.

For sequined fabrics, select a simple pattern with few seams. Forget details such as set-in sleeves, gathers, pleats or buttonholes. If buttons are part of the design, substitute snaps and sew buttons on the outside or use a zipper.

Sequins will dull scissors; use your oldest pair. Custom-made sequin dresses are hand sewn, but you can machine stitch sequin fabric with mercerized thread and a long machine stitch. Have extra needles on hand; they can easily break on the sequins. Of course, sequins may also break when stitched, but it will not be obvious if the pattern has few seam lines. Underline sequin fabrics with soft silk or rayon sheath lining, Miss Reed suggests. To eliminate the need for facings, sew the lining into a separate garment joined to the sequin dress only at armholes and neckline. If you do need facing, use the lining material.

Pressing may present a problem; moisture or steam pressing may curl sequins and make them lose their sheen. Press on the wrong side with a dry iron set on the lowest synthetic setting—experiment on a fabric scrap for the best setting. Press only when the dress fits perfectly, cautions Miss Reed.

Lions End With 5 Straight Wins; Trip Greenwood

Harrington High's varsity football team, coached by Bill Muehleisen, Tom Muehleisen and Albert Wood, finished what is believed to be the second best season in local history, by blanking Greenwood's first varsity team 39-0, here last Wednesday evening.

The Lions won six games in nine starts, including the last five outings. Add to that a forfeit victory over Lord Baltimore, which dropped the rugged sport after 14 boys were on the injury list, after the Eagles first two contests.

Harrington tied with Millsboro for third place in the Henlopen Conference. However, Delmar, which finished second may have to forfeit its first five games, if one of their players is ineligible as alleged. The ruling on this case is scheduled to be made on December 1st. Delmar beat both Millsboro and Harrington, handily, but these two teams will move into a second-place tie, if the Wildcats do forfeit their first five outings.

Be that as it may, the Lions' 6-3 record in actual competition is very gratifying. After bowing 49-0 to Bridgeville and 39-6 to Delmar in the first two games, hopes for a good season were dim. Yet, a "new" or second season started at that point with the Lions down, with an 0-2 log.

Rehoboth, the weak sister of the Henlopen Conference, then appeared at an opportune moment on the H.H.S. schedule. Harrington, which may have been a bit awed by the display of power put on by Bridgeville and Delmar, knew they were now facing a team, which had been clobbered three times. The Seahawks had scored one lonely touchdown and had given up 116 points.

The Lions strafed the Beachboys 38-6. Undefeated Millsboro then came to Harrington. The visitors had a 7-6 lead after one period. The Blue-and-Gold slammed the Blue Devils from pillar to post for three quarters, but could not deliver the knockout punch.

After that heartbreaker, the rest of the season was all gravy, although there were a few anxious moments in the Dover Air, John M. Clayton and Milton set-tos.

Surprisingly enough, some of the Harrington coaching brass spent an anxious ten days or so worrying about the fledgling Greenwood team. The Sussex Countians have done very well for a first year team, but it would have taken a miracle or an epidemic, to have enabled them to upset a really good Lion eleven. We knew this weeks ago but didn't forecast a Harrington romp because the coaches feel it makes the home team complacent and the visitors more determined.

H.H.S. received a short kickoff to start the game. The Lions then marched 59 yards in 6 plays to get all the points they were to need.

Steven Welch took a pitchout for an eight yard gain to near midfield. Two plays later, Jim Harris ran to Greenwood's 44 for a first down. Welch tried the right side for 14 yards. Harris went left for 17 more. Welch started wide to the right, then cut back in hard to score on a 13 yard burst. Bill Webb, the Lion's late-season placekicking discovery, toed the leather through the uprights, to make the score 7-0.

On the ensuing kickoff, H.H.S. tried an inside kick. The ball eventually ended up on the Harrington 39, one yard in back of the original starting point. If we are correct, Greenwood could have taken over at that point only 39 yards from paydirt. If they could have, they should have, for Jim Harris really put the foot to the next one, driving it past the Green-and-Mustard. Otto Retzlaff did a good job in getting back to his own 19 yard line.

The visitors then put on their longest march of the night, going 72 yards to the H.H.S. 9.

Two plays picked up 17 yards. Retzlaff speared a 23 yard aerial on the Lion 41. Larry Hughes got 4 yards in two tries. A pass upfield was accurately thrown but misjudged by the intended receiver. The Ram leaped high but the ball went below him. Retzlaff on fourth down, darted through a hole for 12 yards to the 22.

The Rams were penalized five yards. Larry Hughes, attempting an end run, evaded one tackler, but was downed by a diving Jack Redden for a loss. Hughes caught a 14 yarder to miss a first down by three yards at the 12. A completed pass on fourth down gained very little, ending the threat. Jerry Cagle and Steve Welch carried twice each to gain 42 yards. Welch then broke into the clear for 39 yards before being caught from behind on Greenwood's three yard line.

Greenwood stopped this threat largely because of Harrington's lack of imagination. Welch had carried twice in succession and three times in four plays. The Rams may have keyed on Steve for in two tries from the three he gained only a yard. Steve tried again, didn't gain and the Lions drew a five yard penalty. Yet again the ball was handed to the Harrington workhorse. He lost ground but the Greenies accepted another five yarder.

The Lions went to the air but two pass tries fell incomplete. Harrington's four starting backs have scored at least three touchdowns each, but here one over-worked performer is given the ball six straight times and seven plays out of eight. This is a case of going to the Well-ch too often.

Greenwood soon after couldn't get a fourth down kick away as a result of a bad pass from center. The Lions got the ball on the ten yard line. A penalty moved it to the five. A jump pass went straight at a surprised defender who dropped it. Harris swept left end for the tally.

After the point try misfired, H.H.S. was in the scoring column in two plays. Wayne Melvin recovered an onside kick at midfield. Speedster Cagle on a counter play sped down the left side to score untouched. The pass from center, on the kick try, was high so quarterback Redden casually looped a pass into the end zone to Oscar Matthews.

Trailing 20-0, Greenwood started another march. Hughes brought the kickoff out to the 37. An aerial over the middle was caught by a leaping Larry Wyatt for a nine yard pickup. Hughes went through the line for 11 yards. Otto Retzlaff hit the forward wall four times and added 23 yards to get to Harrington's 22. Greenwood penetrated to the 19 before running out of petrol.

Welch reached the 36 in two carries. Matthews caught a pass to midfield. Cagle got behind everyone, then dropped a sure touchdown bomb. Aided by a penalty and a fumble the Rams took over but Bill "The Interceptor" Moore lived up to the nickname and got to Greenwood's 45. Cagle got a block and gained 20 yards at the half.

The visitors took the second half kickoff, were stalled and punted out only to their own 40. After a ten yard pickup by Harris, Steve Welch scored in three carries from the 28, falling into the end zone after being hit at the two. The point failed. Hughes later caught a nine yard pass to get his team in Lion land. Retzlaff was at the 24 in three thrusts. Hughes broke two or three tackles to the 20 but after a penalty, the ball was set down at the 41. Gary Minner intercepted a pass at the 25.

Cagle turned the left corner for 20. A 15 yard penalty set the losers back to their 34 before they picked off an aerial. A penalty helped the Lions keep the Rams in check. For the second time in the contest, a Ram punter received a ground ball from center, couldn't kick and set up a Lion score.

Starting at Greenwood's 34 yard line, Harris picked up four yards. Welch racked up a first down at the 22, hit to the 17, then added another first down at the ten. Jack Redden, on a quarterback rollout, went to the right and won the footrace to the end zone flag. Bill Moore, a real lonesome end, caught the extra point throw for H.H.S. point 33.

After the kick, Hughes ran for Greenwood's 29 to it's 42. Retzlaff burst through the line for 18 yards. Hughes reached the H.H.S. 33 but the Lions dug in there.

Gary Minner, seldom used as a receiver, took a throw and fought for 25 yards. Bill Moore fielded an aerial. One striped shirt says good catch, one says no catch. The "no's" have it. Harris, on a draw play bulled 13 yards up the middle. Welch got to the five but his team was flagged back to the 24.

A great fake and a beautiful handoff to Cagle on a reverse saw Jerry speed to the left corner of the end zone. Greenwood's greatest scoring threat just missed. Larry Hughes passed to Harrington's 47. Hughes caught a throw and hit to the 24. Two downs later, Scott Baker threaded the needle between two Lions, with Hughes catching the throw inside the five yard line. Baker drive to the one on the game's last play.

Steve Willey, of Greenwood, had to hitch a ride off the field as he was hurt during the game. The Ram quarterback showed up the next day at the Delmar-Bridgeville clash on crutches. You can't keep a good man down.

A rebuilding job will have to be done at H.H.S. in 1968. Key men not returning are: leading scorer, Steve Welch; Jim Harris, quarterback Jack Redden; Bill Webb, Howard Brown, Boz Donovan, Wayne Melvin, Gary Minner, and Bill Moore.

Harrington Bowling League

Wally's Garage, the team that spent most of the first third in the cellar, is not taking any chances on a repeat performance in this third. Tuesday night they took three more games to retain the league lead. Their record to date is seven wins, one loss.

Right up on top, in the thick of things, Robbins Hardware is not letting up the pressure either. They, too, won three games and hold an identical standing record as Wally's Garage, and a share of the league lead.

McKnat's Funeral Home, the first third winner, is not coasting and after two weeks of bowling in the second third, hold down the number three spot. Perhaps their fine performance Tuesday night was due in part to H. Brode's grand 220 game.

There seems to be a three-way tie for fourth place between Hamilton Fund, Acme and Jarrell Fuel. Hamilton Fund could only come up with one game Tuesday night to remain in the same place as last week. Acme dropped from a tie of first place, losing all four games. Jarrell Fuel did real well, winning all four games, evening up their record and vacating the cellar position.

D. Hayman was a reason for the fine showing with a good 547 series, including a great 215 game. With an assist like that, who can lose. Taylor & Messick came up with three games to pick up to their credit though as on a seventh spot. They have one thing to their credit though as on a good night they amassed a grand 951 series to lead the league in that department.

Kent Gas and Penn. R. R. are fighting it out for the eighth and ninth place. Kent Gas, who led the league most of the first third, have gotten into a slump and for the past three or four weeks can't seem to get going. This is a new low for them. K. Layton rolled a fine 562 series as Kent Gas could still only manage to pick up one game. Penn. R.R. lost three Tuesday night to drop down a couple notches. Both teams are going to have to do some bowling next week if they do not wish to occupy the cellar, as only one game separates them from the cellar position.

In that low, low spot sits Hobb's Newsstand, who lost three games Tuesday night. We predict though, that it won't be long before this position is held by another team. Rolling real fine games Tuesday night other than those previously mentioned were: K. Outten, with a grand 570 series, including a very fine 213 game; C. Gallo, who led the team high with a great 572 series and a grand 210 game, and B. Collins, with a good 208 game.

Open X-Country Race Held Here

The Delaware Track and Field Club, recognizing that there is more cross-country interest in Harrington on a per capita basis, than anywhere else in Delaware, held a 4.6 mile race at Killen's Pond last Sunday afternoon. This is twice the high school distance. Local runners were not notified of the event until Friday and had no chance to train for it. Other Harrington athletes were out of town because of the Thanksgiving weekend.

Nevertheless, six of the sixteen entrants were locals, with Chris Wetherhold winning one of the four high school trophies. The competitors ranged in age from 12 to 50 with everyone going the full distance, except 12-year-old Jackie D. Parker, who was not an entrant in the 4.6 miles event, but wanted to get a good clocking for 2 3/4 miles. The youngster was ahead of ten other runners when he reached the end of his allotted stint. His time indicated that he could have gone 3 miles even, in 16 minutes and 50 seconds over the rough, hilly terrain. Just another great performance by a very young runner, who had run two miles in 11.56, one day earlier, on a track buffeted by winds from ten to fifteen miles an hour.

Brian Harrington, son of Harrington native Charles Harrington, was an easy winner in 24.45. Brian is a senior at the University of Delaware and this fall ran on the best Blue Hen cross-country team in history. Runner-up Bob Woerner was a member of that team, too. Vince McCorkle and Terry Pierce of Salesianum High School, Wilmington, were third and fourth. Fifth place went to Ken Williamson, varsity coach of cross-country at Christiana High School, Newark. Bob Miegall of Archmere Academy, Claymont was sixth with Harrington's Wetherhold next, one place ahead of veteran Delaware Track and Field Club performer, Nick Caporelli.

With a little advance notice, Wetherhold could have moved up at least two notches. Harrington runner Roger Jarrell ran well, also, in his first race longer, than 3.2 miles.

Brad Morris and Brinley Brode, Harrington High freshmen and seventh grader Tommie Clarke proved that they could handle the college distance, which is twice the length of high school races. Their clockings were good and gives them a goal to aim at in the next race at Killen's Pond on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 10. Any Delaware resident interested in competing should appear at the parking lot, Killen's Pond State Park, 1:30 p.m. Sun., Dec. 10. Have courage, will travel. That's you.

Delaware State Planning News

A study designed to determine the quantity and distribution of mobile homes in Kent County and to ascertain the socio-economic characteristics of families who reside in mobile home parks was recently released by the Delaware State Planning Office. This nineteen-page report also contains information relative to the quality of the various mobile home parks surveyed in terms of the public facilities and services they provide.

The benefits to be derived from this survey are many. Chief among them includes a current knowledge of the number and location of mobile homes within the County which will prove invaluable to the County Board of Assessors, the Dover Air Force Base, the Kent County Planning and Zoning Commission, and the local governing bodies and planning commission. The survey was designed to further acquaint the public at large as to the characteristics of mobile home parks and relevant information regarding those who occupy mobile homes.

This initial attempt at analyzing the impact of mobile homes in Kent County represents a pilot project to determine the usefulness of conducting similar studies in the remaining two counties.

National statistics reveal that in 1960 mobile homes accounted for 7 per cent of new dwelling units constructed. In 1965 one out of six new dwelling units were mobile homes. Recent estimates show that approximately 2 per cent of the nation's population live in mobile homes.

The State Planning Office survey revealed a total of 3,345 mobile homes in Kent County. With an average household size of 3.2 persons living in mobile homes, it is estimated that the mobile home population in Kent County is approximately 10,700 persons. If we compare this figure to the recent 1967 special population census count for Kent County, which was found to be 81,500 persons, mobile home dwellers represent 13 per cent of the County's population. This figure is well above the national average.

The mobile home study report, which contains several maps and tables on the various findings of the survey, may be obtained, without charge, by writing to the director of the Delaware State Planning Office, at 530 S. DuPont Highway, Thomas Collins Building, Dover, Del. 19901. A limited supply of this report is available for general distribution.

TRASH

At a brief meeting in Dover, the Kent County Levy Court landfill problems and ambulance service problems. Richter told the Kent County governing body, "If the county doesn't do something pretty soon about the dump problem, the dump business is going to become a monopoly and the prices will become exorbitant."

The State Highway Department has closed all but two of its dumps in the county within the past year, these two will be closed in nine months, highway officials said.

Many of the former dump users have now turned to the commercial Wildcat Landfill Inc., near Lebanon for disposal of their waste. The Wildcat Landfill is the only landfill in the county.

The Levy Court men agreed to have a representative from the highway department at Tuesday's meeting to see if the highway department would keep some of its dumps.

On a motion by commissioner William C. Holden, the Levy Court agreed to table action on subsidizing ambulance service in the county for six months.

Nearly a month ago, the Levy Court was promised by Dover ambulance service operator William C. Torbert Jr. that he would extend his Oct. 31 deadline for discontinuing the service if the Levy Court would attempt to provide an alternative service.

Tuesday, the Levy Court decided to ask Torbert to wait six more months.

Its reasoning was expressed by Holden: "Torbert wants a $9,000-a-year subsidy to continue his service. The city of Dover has already paid (its) proportionate share ($4,500)."

"In my opinion that gives Torbert six more months to operate his service."

In the meantime, he said, "He's not going to cut us off."

Torbert told newsmen, "I'd better talk to him (Holden) about that."

"That $4,500 from the city has already hired one full-time driver for the city," he explained.

U. of D. Theatre Production Set For Dec. 6-9

Musical direction for the E 52 University Theatre production of "The Streets of New York" is in capable hands.

Mary Woodmansee, of 159 Haines St., Newark, a senior music major, has been selected to direct all musical aspects of up-coming production scheduled Dec. 6-9 in Mitchell Hall. She has served in a similar capacity for several other productions recently seen in the area.

In 1965 Miss Woodmansee was principal accompanist and touring musical director for the E 52 University Theatre production of "Kiss Me Kate". This musical version of "The Taming of the Shrew" toured Germany for the USO and the Department of Defense. During the spring of 1966 she was musical director of "Oh What a Lovely War!" for the Group Downstairs. She has also served as musical director and orchestra leader for the E 52 production of the off-Broadway musical, "The Fantasticks."

Miss Woodmansee's assistant pianist for "The Streets of New York" is Maurice Steinberg of 823 Kenyon Lane, Newark, also a senior music major. Joining the two pianists will be Paul Hess, string bass, and Theodore Jones, Jr., percussion. Hess and Jones played in the small orchestra used in "The Fantasticks" last year.

Both Miss Woodmansee and Steinberg plan to take graduate work following June graduations.

Delaware Day Proclamation

Gov. Charles L. Terry, Jr., this week urged schools, churches, civic and fraternal organizations to participate, on December 7th, in ceremonies marking the 180th anniversary of Delaware's ratification of the Federal Constitution.

In a proclamation calling for the annual observance of Delaware Day, Gov. Terry noted that ten delegates from each of the state's three counties unanimously ratified the Constitution on December 7, 1787. It was this "brave and foresighted action" which gave Delaware the title of the "First State".

The chief executive directed that our national and state flags be flown from all public buildings and urged that citizens join in this display of the colors.
