Christmas Party At Trinity

An evening of fellowship was enjoyed by members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Trinity Methodist Church and their families on Tuesday evening. Responsible for the Christmas buffet and covered dish supper were Mrs. Oris Hobbs, Mrs. Earl Sylvester and Mrs. Leila Hopkins.

A skit entitled "The Special Gift" was presented under the direction of Mrs. William Garrett. The inner meaning of the playlet was that the spirit of Christmas should not be limited each year to a few short days before December 25. We can make this our happiest Christmas ever by giving something of ourselves in each and every gift. The material value is of little consequence, for who can put a price tag on a pleasant smile, a friendly greeting, a visit to a shut-in, or the assistance needed when adversity presents itself. The more it requires of us personally, the greater will be our joy and peace of heart and mind.

Those participating in the skit were: Mrs. Tharp Harrington, Mrs. Richard Shultie, Rev. Garrett, Ellwood Gruwell, Robert Outten, Anne Gilstad and Mrs. Frank O'Neal. Devotions were led by Mrs. Gruwell.

Del. Highway Impact Study Report Published

The University of Delaware's Bureau of Economic and Business Research has published the second phase, covering the years of 1959 through 1963, of a Delaware Highway Impact Study. The study was made for the Delaware State Highway Department in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of Public Roads.

The study supervised and conducted by Blaine G. Schmidt, Ph. D. of the University Staff, analyzes the economic and social impact of highway improvements in the First State.

The study states in its summation of research findings, "The impact of a new highway upon an urban metropolitan city is different from that experienced in suburban or rural areas. Initially, construction activities tend to have a marked negative influence, i.e., a restriction of the flow of traffic, demolition of buildings and a generally pessimistic attitude among people adjacent to the new facility. However, looking at this transitory process objectively, one may readily observe that this temporary negative condition will be turned into a positive one via the upgrading of neighborhoods and the attraction of commercial enterprises within the immediate environment of the new facility."

The study further reports, "The condition in Wilmington, bisected by the interstate highway, falls in this situation. Even during the in-construction phase now in process in Wilmington, one finds evidence of upgrading of residences and announcements of new commercial establishments within the impact area of Wilmington."

In summary, the report states, "Finally, the results of this study indicates that the interstate system will have a significant impact upon its environment, the

Felton School Schedules Teacher, Parent Conference

Parents of pupils attending Felton Schools have received invitations to attend individual conference with teachers in an effort to improve pupil progress. Conferences are scheduled for the afternoons of December 11, 13 and 15 and an evening session on December 18. Classes in all grades will be dismissed at 1:30 p.m. on each of these four days. Lunch will be served as usual.

The time of these conferences comes at the end of the first third of the school year. It is hoped that plans can be formulated between parents and teachers to correct deficiencies and establish better lines of communication between the home and the classroom. The objective is increased interest on the part of the student and fewer failures at the end of the school year.

Parents of junior high and high school students may be scheduled for conferences either at their own request or by invitation of a teacher. Parents of high school students not scheduled by teachers may arrange for conferences by calling the school office.

The high school home economics classes and the Varsity Club will act as hostesses and will provide a babysitting service for small children of parents attending conferences.

Highway Dept. Responsible for All Roads, Streets

The State Highway Department is responsible for the maintenance, including snow and ice control, on all roads and streets in Delaware, except those in municipalities where, by agreement, the municipality removes snow and ice and maintains the storm drainage systems. Most suburban development's streets are a part of the Department's system. The total system is 4,325 miles.

When considering snow removal, it must be kept in mind the amount and duration of snow fall of an average storm. Over the years the department has determined the amount of equipment necessary to handle a so called average storm. The cost of purchasing, operating and maintaining equipment in excess of that required for an average snow storm, would be an unwarranted expenditure of public funds.

In order to provide for the unusual storms, provisions are made well in advance of the winter season to retain contractor's equipment, and operators at rates established under previously executed agreements.

At any time during the storm it is determined that the Department's equipment is unable to keep the roads open, authorization is given to the Division Engineer to call in contractors

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

An increase of two or three per cent in the retail cost of the market basket is in prospect for 1968. According to the 1968 outlook issue of USDA's "Marketing and Transportation Situation," this increase will come from higher prices for meat, chicken, eggs, and fruit.

This rise in 1968 is a far cry, however, from the five per cent increase that was expected in 1966. In fact, it appears to be a rather typical increment, for since 1957, price increases have averaged a bit under two per cent annually. As in the past, the higher prices will benefit farmers only slightly, if at all. Most of the gain will go for marketing and processing services.

In discussing the various factors involved in marketing costs, the report makes these remarks: "Operating costs of food marketing firms likely will rise in 1968. Hourly earnings and fringe benefits of food marketing employees are expected to continue rising, and the rise is not likely to be entirely offset by increases in output per man hour." However, "the farmer's share of the dollar consumers spend for foods in the market basket is expected to average about the same as the 33 cent share for 1967."

Here is a quick look at commodity outlook information. Fed beef supplies through March will be ample though not excessive. After that? Developments in the cattle market this summer and fall have generated some uneasiness about the total outlook for 1968. Earlier, most signs were pointing to stronger prices, but now the situation is less clear. Hog prices this winter will likely average around January and March 1967 prices. Prices for the second half of 1968 will depend on the number of hogs raised this winter and spring. Lamb supplies will continue small due to the continued decline in sheep numbers. Prices at retail will continue to rise. The outlook for broiler production is a continued increase in supplies, but not as much as in 1967. In a nutshell, the fruit supplies available for marketing from now until the 1968 harvest are much smaller than a year ago. Apples, pears, and grapes, stored for later marketing, are all in shorter supply than a year earlier.

Veteran's News

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—I wish to apply for a certificate of eligibility for a G.I. loan, but I lost my DD-124-Armed Forces Report of Transfer or Discharge. What should I do?

A—The Veterans Administration will accept a legible copy of an original discharge or release from active duty. If a copy is not available, application should be made for a replacement. Application forms are available at any VA office.

Q—A veteran desires to name his wife as beneficiary of his National Service Life Insurance policy to be paid over a period of 120 months. Can he include in his beneficiary designation a provision that the monthly payments to his wife be terminated if she remarries, and the remainder of the policy proceeds be paid to a contingent beneficiary?

A—No. If the wife is named as beneficiary, the 120 monthly installments will be paid to her upon the death of the insured veteran. The Veterans Administration will not discontinue payments in cases where the beneficiary remarries again.

Q—Should a veteran return the VA income questionnaire even though his income for 1968 will be a bar to benefits?

A—Yes. The questionnaire should be returned. The Veterans Administration must have a report of a veteran's income for 1967. Otherwise, it will be necessary for VA to discontinue payments retroactively for the entire year. This action, of course, would create overpayment to the veteran that is subject to collection.

Some Dollar-Saving Tax Hints

Things to do now—before January 1, 1968:

1. Consider evening out your annual income. Tax rates increase as the taxable income increases. By doing certain things between now and the end of 1967, you may increase or decrease your taxable income for this year. It must be done before the end of 1967. Also consider changes next year that may affect your income tax in 1968, such as more or less dependents, anticipate substantial capital gains, possible change in the tax rate or major investments in depreciable capital items eligible for investment credit.

2. Ways taxable income can be reduced in 1968. (If you wish to build up the 1967 income, follow the reverse of this):

1. Pay up operating accounts and unpaid bills.

2. Buy and pay for some of next year's supplies. You do not have to take delivery now. Be sure tax savings are greater than interest and other costs of advance purchases.

3. Buy things that last more than one year but are not capital items—paint, small tools, building and machine repairs, etc.

4. Delay selling cash items until January 1968—crops, livestock, timber, capital items with large capital gains. Compare tax gains with possible price declines that might occur while holding off selling until 1968.

5. Pay children reasonable wages for farm work actually done by them. This should be an "arms length" actual transfer of payment in cash or in kind between the parents and the children.

6. Consider using rapid depreciation on machinery acquired this year. If you wish, you can switch to the straight line method next year on the remaining value.

Suggestions on preparing your tax report:

1. Take investment credit: This is not an option — you should claim it on all eligible property. It must be taken in the year the investment was made. This is a real bonanza as it is subtracted from the tax due. If credit is greater than the tax, it can be applied against tax paid in prior years or carried ahead.

2. Take depreciation on all eligible property: use rates that actually represent the useful life of the property. Continue to claim depreciation for the established life as long as you own the item, even though it is no longer in use.

3. Separate capital sales from ordinary income: report gains and losses from capital transactions on schedule D. Long term gains are 50 per cent taxable, losses are fully deductible from gains.

4. Claim children under 19 if you provide over one-half of their support, also, those over 19 if they are full time students (five months or more per year) and if you provide over one-half of their support. If a child earns over $600, he will file a report and claim himself as a dependent. The parent can claim these children as dependents, also.

5. Include all expenses and income. Include items such as business travel, professional journals, legal and accounting services, small purchases paid in cash, and the farm's share of taxes, insurance, and auto expenses. If getting this year's tax data together is a big job, start now to keep a good set of records for 1968.

6. If you sold real estate or are planning to sell, seek out good professional advice on how to handle the transaction. This is very important if a large capital gain is involved. Good tax advice is a good investment and its cost is deductible expense.

7. Get a copy of Farmer's Tax Guide from your county agent. It illustrates and answers almost all questions on farm tax regulations. When you are uncertain about correct procedure, use the services of a reputable tax accountant or ask the local office of the Internal Revenue Service.

FHA Loans Show Increase Notes State Director

Twenty-five per cent more loans have been approved by the Farmers Home Administration in Delaware, Maryland and New Jersey during the first three months of this fiscal year than during a similar period last year, Chester J. Tyson, Jr., State Director of the Farmers Home Administration told the State Committee at their recent meeting.

This was the first meeting of the Farmers Home Administration State Committee since the College Park, Md., and the Trenton, N. J. state offices were combined. Members of the State Committee are:

H. Julian Hill, Jr., Kennedyville, Md.; Samuel C. Linton, Sr., Nanjeomy, Md.; John L. Tarburton, Dover, Del.; Granville W. Shockley, Milford, Del.; Richard C. Ewan, Atco, N. J.; Daniel McE. Crabbe, Toms River, N. J.

Mr. Tyson said that the state offices of the FHA in College Park, Md., and Trenton, N. J., were combined last May 1st. At that time, a new state office serving the three states was established in Trenton. At the same time, district offices were established in College Park, Md.; Dover, Del., and Trenton, N. J.

The greatest activity in loans to rural families involve financing of housing for modest income rural people. Since July 1, 1967, 760 rural families have received loans to construct, purchase or improve their homes. During the same period last year, 458 loans were made for the same purpose. Every day, five rural families in this three-state area move from bad housing to their new homes, Tyson pointed out.

Tyson also told the State Committee that since the state office was established in Trenton, N. J., 20 rural communities in Maryland and New Jersey have received loans and grants for the installation of water and sewer systems. Ten of these are in Maryland and ten are in New Jersey. No loans as yet, have been approved in Delaware, though funding of one project is in process.

The State Committee serves in an advisory capacity to the State Director. In addition to advising on overall program administration, the committee assists the State Director in establishing priorities for loans for water and sewer systems, designation of counties for emergency loans and advises on specific problems in regard to financing farmers and other rural residents.

Asparagus Study Reported at Univ.

Irrigation makes little difference in the yield and weight of asparagus. According to research by University of Delaware horticulturists, irrigation doesn't make a significant yield difference unless there was a drought during growth the previous year. "Nutrition, Irrigation and Spacing of Asparagus Crowns," published by the Agricultural Experiment Station, reports on their work.

If rainfall is inadequate during July and August when the asparagus brush is growing, irrigation at this time will increase the number of marketable spears the following year. This happened only one season during the six year study, according to horticulturists Professor Eugene P. Brasher, Dr. Donald Fieldhouse, and Russell Boyce. They explain the asparagus roots go down six feet so they are not as dependent on surface moisture.

According to the fertilizer studies, application of 80, 160 and 240 pounds per acre of nitrogen, phosphorus pentoxide and potassium oxide, respectively, produced the highest average yield. Further fertilizer increases had no effect on the yield.

However, the phosphorus content of these soils was apparently already adequate without additional phosphorus fertilizer. No significant difference showed between plots fertilized at the 160 pound rate and those plots receiving no phosphorus. These results agreed with previous studies showing asparagus requires very little phosphorus.

To check on the best spacing for asparagus beds, crowns were set in rows five feet apart with spacing of 6, 12 and 18 inches in the rows. The six-inch crown spacing produced the largest yield of marketable spears during the first five seasons. However, in the sixth harvest season the yield from the 12-inch spacing equaled that from the narrower spacing. The yields from the 18-inch spacing were less than from the other spacing.

treatments throughout the six years. However, the widest spacing produced largest spears all the time.

Copies of the bulletin, "Nutrition, Irrigation and Spacing of Asparagus Crowns," are available from the Mailing Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Del. 19711.

Holly Lovely Year Around

Delaware's state tree, American holly, is inescapably associated with Christmas. But this native plant is beautiful year-around as a hedge or specimen plant, according to Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

Holly can take the shearing necessary for a well-kept hedge; if you do the pruning now, you'll have a supply of holly for Christmas decorations. Although hollies prefer rich, moist, well-drained soil, it will grow in less desirable ground, also, and will withstand considerable shade.

Take your pick of more than 200 named varieties of American holly; each differs in leaf color and shape or in berry color. Leaf color may be deep-green or variegated with golden or silver-white margins. American hollies may grow 45 feet high in a narrow pyramid shape. Small white flowers are most numerous on male plants, but the red berries are borne on female plants only.

The named varieties available from a nursery are usually superior to seedlings growing wild in the woods, Stevens advises. He recommends Old Heavy Berry, which bears many small berries; Coonenburg, with better foliage; Merry Christmas, with larger berries; Arden, with large berries and good foliage; and Miss Helen, a heavy bearer with large berries and excellent foliage.

American holly is only one of the many holly species which grow in varying sizes and shapes, some with red berries, some with black or yellow. Many are hardy outdoors in Delaware, but not all. Even the holly leaf varies; there are several species with small, oblong leaves similar to boxwood. Not all species are evergreen either, Stevens points out.

For instance, inkberry is a common deciduous holly with black berries.

That's the wonderful world of holly.

Delaware Must Have a Meat Inspection Law

Legislation to inspect slaughtering plants in Delaware, doing intrastate business only, has not gotten very far in the General Assembly, but we predict it will.

And, it will be better if Delaware does it rather than wait for the federal government to do it.

The U. S. House of Representatives has a bill which would establish a program of matching federal grants to help states bring their inspection programs for intrastate plants up to the federal level.

A Senate-approved measure added to this a two-year deadline for doing so, with the federal government to take jurisdiction of intrastate plants if the deadline wasn't met. In states where progress was being made, the deadline could be extended for one year.

The Senate version would authorize governors to waive the two-year race period. It would also direct the Agriculture Department to move immediately if a state ignored warnings specified plants were producing adulterated meats.

The State Board of Agriculture has looked with an approving eye on similar legislation for years on the intrastate plants here. Dr. Robert L. Ricker, of Harrington, formerly a veterinarian with the state board, sought such legislation when he worked for the state.

We predict state legislation will require inspection of livestock before and after slaughter, as well as inspection of plants processing meat only for state use. Furthermore, the plants, themselves, will have to be sanitary.

We believe such legislation will help the intrastate plants, as well as the consumer.

Such laws will not affect the farmer who slaughters his own stock and sells an occasional ham or piece of beef. Aside from a purchase from a farmer, we favor the purchases of federally inspected and graded meat.

For many years we were employed as a market expert in the National Stock Yards, near East St. Louis, Ill. The federal inspectors checked livestock before sale. Across the tracks, Armour, Swift and Hunter Packing Companies had their meat inspected and graded.

How to Get Publicity in the Newspaper

Before we start enumerating the ways of getting publicity into a newspaper, permit us to define the word, "release." We define it "as an article someone wants published in a newspaper." These releases are, for the most part, sent in by various firms and industries, always from a distance; federal and state agencies; churches, schools and civic bodies, usually from a distance. Some ways to get the release into print are as follows:

1. Do not subscribe to the newspaper to which you send the release. The editor will not know whether or not you are a subscriber.

2. To save paper, write on both sides of the sheet. Also, do not write "Over" at the bottom of the first page.

3. Be sure to write in longhand. If you must use a typewriter, single space your lines. If you double-space your lines, the editor might make some correction between them.

4. Do not give the newspaper any advertising. After all, if he is foolish enough to run the release, it will not be necessary to advertise.

5. Be sure the release is written by the janitor or office boy of the firm. If you have an expert, in a particular field, in the firm, let him write the release. After all, it is not necessary to have newspaper training or to waste your time going to a journalism school to be able to write releases.

6. Be sure to send your releases to the daily newspapers first. The weekly newspapers will not mind running it, if it happens to be valuable, five or six days later.

7. If your release pertains to some shindig you are giving, with an admission fee, charge the editor for admission; do not give him a complimentary ticket. Furthermore, if you have tickets, programs and posters printed, be sure to have the work done somewhere else. After all, the printers in the newspaper plants do not mind a breather now and then. As to how the publishers will get the money to pay the printers is his lookout.

8. When mailing releases, be sure to use a 1 1/2 cent stamp. It is cheaper than a 3c stamp.

9. Do not send the editor what he wants in the paper. After all, you are doing the work. Send him what you want.

10. Send the editor the release from your company and send the advertising elsewhere. In this way, you get better coverage.

11. If you have some news that should be of special value to the editor, withhold it. Just send him your regular release.

12. Be sure to tell the editor you want the release on the front page. While you are giving advice on how to run the business, you might tell the grocer to put his meat counter up front.

13. Do not use the local angle. This would mean including the names of persons and places with which the community is familiar. It would take too much time to dig up the material. Just write a release that could be used by all newspapers, such as, "Now is the time to white-wash the barn, yak, yak, yak."

14. Be sure to make your release long. By that, we mean two or three typewritten pages. The editor has difficulty in "finding something with which to fill up the paper," and he will appreciate it.

15. If your release has already appeared in a newspaper, say, your local paper for example, just send the editor's clippings.

16. Don't worry about your spelling and punctuation. Just leave it to the editor to make the corrections.

17. After you mail the release, ask the editor to send you four or five copies at his expense.

18. If you have reason to believe the editor might not run the release, give it to some citizen of the town in which the newspaper is published. He is sure to apply pressure on the editor to get it printed.

19. If the editor hesitates about publishing it, tell him it is news and the Podunk Bugle is using it. This is sure to make a hit, as the editor does not know the definition of news. Furthermore, he does not wish for a competitive newspaper to get ahead of him.

SNOW, THE BEAUTIFUL SNOW — The children at Harrington Schools enjoyed the beautiful snow of Thurs., Nov. 30. Some 6 inches of the wet stuff fell here, but Monday most of it had melted because of warmer weather and a heavy Saturday night rain. Price photo

20. If you are doing business with the editor, tell him you "will take your business elsewhere," if he does not publish your article or release.

21. Be sure to include a photo with the picture. If it is a poor one out of focus, so much the better. If it shows up badly in the paper, you can tell your friends it is the fault of the newspaper's mechanical department. Be sure to ask the newspaper to pay for the engraving; it will only cost four or five dollars.

22. If you are sending mats (a cardboard from which illustrations are made), be sure to have them made where you can have the work done at the "cheapest" price. After all, the newspaper will not mind going to a lot of trouble to make an acceptable picture from it.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

Last Sunday morning the Methodist Men's Club of Asbury Church entertained as guest speakers for their monthly breakfast, Alvin and Hannah Lane from Easton, Md., who had a wonderful story to tell on the astounding power of faith; prompting Helen Sherwood's:

FAITH IN A STORM

The winds are weird and fierce of gale
And seem to howl a ghostly tale
Of how the waves and tempest thrash
Upon the shores and in anger crash.

The night is dark the clouds hang low
Only dancing shadows from candle's glow
Light the way to the tiny beds
And to God's little fevered heads.

Many the ships who have lost their course
And the captains pray to a mightier source
For mercy and guidance to find the way
For the tempest to cease and dawn of day.

In Bible times the storms did rage
Folk had faith and to God they prayed
He answered prayer and brought them peace
Calmed their fears and bade the tempest cease.

He hasn't changed from those old days
He still can help to find the ways
The sick he healed and can do still
If we have faith and is his will.

Dear God you know the way gets rough
It seems the chores are mighty tough
But help us see the brightest side
Give us courage our fears to hide.

These service men we pray to bless
These ailing babies and all the rest
And if it not too much to ask
Give us knowledge to do our task.

And help us Lord to understand
The why and how of each command
And those who are weary give them rest
Help us not to criticize the one knowing best.

Tonight upon or'r all this earth thy vigil tend
In Jesus name we ask it all Amen.

Remember, the toy is for your youngster—not you. While you may have loved to play with dolls, your daughter might prefer trains or cowboy guns. Boys don't necessarily want elaborate electric trains; some even like to play with dolls.
While you're shopping for that perfect toy, keep safety in mind, too. Playthings for babies and toddlers should be too large to put in mouth, nose or ears. For this age group, tops should be simple, soft and washable. No sharp edges, no small pieces that come off easily, nothing that will splinter or shatter. They should be unbreakable—Johnny will undoubtedly break it eventually anyway, but a good toy will take quite a bit of punishment first.
The right toy will depend on your child's age and overall development, Mrs. Keller points out. Pre-schoolers need toys they can use in many ways such as blocks. Baby dolls, large crayons, puzzles with large pieces, sturdy trucks are excellent.
Fashion dolls are not for pre-schoolers; either are over-automated toys. Toys should not be so battery-powered that the only activity left for the child is pushing a button; probably he'll soon be bored and throw the toy away or take it apart.
The older child between 7 and 15 often enjoys these more automated toys. Also, toys that help him explore and experiment with sum total of that impact will be positive, thus the net effect will be an enhancement of general economic activity within the State and for the majority, an appreciation of land values, intensification of land use and in the long run, a stronger and more lucrative tax base."

Ernest A. Davidson stated, "If one will travel Adams Street between Fourth and Delaware Avenue, he can begin to get the feeling of neighborhood improvement this phase of I-95 has already affected. Additional proof is in evidence by the general cleaning-up and fixing up of the private properties along this route."

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa
Bondage, determination, exploration, comfort, complacency, apathy, dependency, and back to bondage. These are the stages in the life of men and nations according to Arnold Toynbee, the historian.

A county agent attends many meetings and hears a lot of speeches. The statement above was made at Omaha, Nebraska, by a keynoter at our national county agents association meeting.

The speaker also referred to a John Steinbeck article in the July 2, 1966, issue of the Saturday Evening Post. Steinbeck is the author of Grapes of Wrath, or Mice and Men, and similar works that have become classics. I recommend that you search out a copy at the local library. Here is a direct quote that should serve as bait to tempt you:

"For a million years we had a purpose - simple survival - the finding, planting, gathering or killing of food to keep us alive, the building or discovery of shelter to prevent our freezing. Add to it defense against all kinds of enemies and you have our species' history."

"But now we have food and shelter and transportation and the more terrible hazard of leisure. I strongly suspect that our moral and spiritual disintegration grows out of our lack of experience with plenty."

"But we are also poisoned with things — too many things."

There are two more quotes that bear on our social scene. The first by the Reverend Samuel Snyder, who serves as secretary of our Delaware State Council of Churches. The discussion was Vietnam and Sam was offering a pacifist position: "War is sinful because it uses people as things—as pawns in a struggle for power."

The final quote was by a friend in a neighboring state. We were talking about who should be responsible for taking care of migrant housing facilities once they have been repaired and meet state standards for health, safety, and comfort. This man's position was: "We should take care of our migrant camps just as we take care of our tractors. It is an owner responsibility to keep things cleaned up and charged off as with any other expense." I hasten to point out that my friends was equating the actions of people with things.

Back to Sam. We also talk about migrant labor conditions in Delaware and I posed this question: "Let's assume that a migrant camp has passed the initial seasonal inspection. Should a screen which becomes damaged be replaced? If so, who should do the work, and more important, who should pay for it."

We agreed that there might be a sharing of the replacement costs, and at this point it was time to get back to the meeting of our Alternative Choices in Vietnam.

The whole point is, there is more confusion than ever regarding the use and acceptance of responsibility today. Somehow we must instill a sense of purpose in our affluent society—both as individuals and as nations. Democracies can wither—if too few care enough to want the best for our families and our culture.

Our state veterinarian, Dr. E. L. Symington, passes on this information regarding inactivated hog cholera vaccines.

"All licensees are hereby notified that, on or before November 1, 1967, labeling for all inactivated hog cholera vaccines shall make unqualified recommendations for two doses, 30 days apart, for primary immunization. Package circulars should recommend a booster dose not more than one year after the second dose."

We feel it particularly important that you are aware of this change as you may be dealing with vaccines that were packaged prior to the change in label recommendations.

Results of recent potency tests on inactivated hog cholera virus vaccines by the Veterinary Biologics Division has caused them to require manufacturers of these vaccines to change their label recommendations.

More Dean Butz quotes from the Interstate Milk meeting: How come the Great American Dream happened here?

1. Our system of universal education helped.

2. Our philosophy of political and economic freedom says: Government exists to serve you, not the other way around.

3. The profit motive is the fuel that makes the more go. A carrot rather than a stick is the best incentive to get men to work.

It seems that the expression of civil rights leads to civil riots.

We enjoy the land of the free only because it has been the home of the brave.

Two visitors to England were watching a military drill.

Said one: "I didn't know they had women here in the Army." Said the other: "Oh those are men in Scotch kilts, but I'll go and check for sure."

Returning: "We're both wrong. They are the Middlesex Regiment."

During this season of the year the homemaker is usually faced with "left over turkey". Some have "freezer space", some have "family recipe favorites", others are seeking "new ways" to use this turkey.

Why not try Turkey-Kidney Bean Salad.

Use chilled ingredients, mix quickly and it's ready to serve after chilling about one hour to blend flavors.

Serve with carrot sticks, tomato wedges, and potato chips. Have tapioca pudding for dessert. This makes a balanced meal which is easy to prepare.

4-H Club News

With Marion MacDonald

Four exhausted but exhilarated Kent County 4-H'ers have returned from National 4-H Club Congress. Delores Tinley, Dover, was selected to give the opening invocation before some 3,000 4-H'ers. For each of these 4-H'ers the trip will hold many different meanings. The members will have shared project experiences with members from different states. Susan Comegys, Hartly, will have shared Agricultural Development while Eleanor Hertz, Wyoming, will have talked Horses and Janice Harrison, Goldsboro area, is bread baking. But much more important than the project area is the fellowship experiences and the feeling of belonging to a great youth organization and great nation. 4-H leaders will hear from this foursome at their Christmas party later this month.

National 4-H News has some excellent articles for 4-H'ers. Home Improvement project members should note the idea of creating a room scene. This could be worked into a window display and for a fair exhibit. All junior leaders receive this magazine. New Junior Leaders are urged to borrow from their leader until their subscription starts this spring.

Project work should be under way. Many areas can include some extra work over the Christmas holidays. Clothing members should make at least one gift for mother, sisters or friends. Food girls should bake a batch of cookies, always a welcome gift. Woodworking members can get busy and make a shoe-rack, bookends of similar items for parents or relatives. Doing for others is a real part of 4-H.

"The Color of Health" is an eleven minute film in color—presenting proper nutrition on the basis of the four basic groups. It is designed to teach the importance of eating a balanced diet, and the subject is covered effectively.

"Toward the Victory of Health," a 15 minute color film, was recently added to the Film Library. It highlights historical facts about the science of nutrition and serves to alert the public to the work done by dietitians and nutritionists today.

3500 Sussex Youth In 4-H TV Action Club

One Saturday morning television show is sure of a high audience rating every week. And it's not a cartoon show, either.

More than 3500 Sussex County youngsters in grades three and above are enrolled in the current 4-H TV Action Club program. The series of ten 30-minute programs dealing with emergency preparedness are broadcast over WBOC-TV, Salisbury, Md. Youngsters in Wicomico, Dorchester, Worcester and Somerset counties in Maryland are also taking part.

Each of the programs, a part of the station's regular Saturday schedule, studies different aspects of emergency preparedness. This includes fires, floods, earthquakes, radiation and extreme cold or heat. Club members receive a booklet containing 4-H emergency preparedness projects relating to the TV series.

More than one and a half million Action Club members are enrolled in the 4-H TV series across the United States, according to Tom Williams, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Delaware and coordinator for the Action Club in this state. The series received the 1966 American Society of Agriculture Engineers' Blue Ribbon award as an outstanding entry in educational competition for TV films.

State 4-H leader James O. Baker points out that 4-H clubs conducted via television make it possible for many city and suburban youngsters to get the benefit of 4-H instruction. While 4-H club originally served rural youth with emphasis on agricultural projects, today 4-H serves young people in all areas. The program includes projects such as automotive, entomology, dog care, and citizenship, among others. The TV Action Club dealing with emergencies in today's world is an example of this expansion, Williams points out.

Ideas For A Happy Christmas

By Coral K. Morris

Christmas should be a happy time for everyone, but each year accidents mar the holiday for hundreds of families. You can avoid most Christmas accidents, and especially fire, by taking certain basic precautions.

How to Select the Tree

Pick as fresh a tree as possible. It is less likely to catch fire and especially less likely to flare up rapidly if it does catch fire. You can check for freshness by pulling lightly on some of the needles; they should be tightly attached to the twig. Shake the tree or bounce the butt on the ground. A fresh tree will take this rough treatment without dropping any needles. The tree should have a fresh green color; this may be misleading, however, as some trees are artificially colored.

How to Care for the Tree

Keep the tree as moist and fresh as possible. While a dry tree can be flame resistant, it is not as safe as an untreated fresh tree.

When you get your fresh tree home, cut the butt as a slant one inch above the original cut. Bore a hole four inches deep in the end of the stem and pack the hole with cotton. Place the butt of the tree in a bucket of water and store it in a cool, moist place until ready to set it up.

An unheated basement room is an ideal storage space. An enclosed porch may be next best. Don't expose the tree to extreme temperature changes. Sprinkle it each day it is in storage.

How to Make the Tree Fire Resistant

The best way to fireproof a Christmas tree is to keep it moist. However, drug stores sell materials that can be used to make trees fire resistant. One good formula is:

Borax, 9 ounces; boric acid powder, 4 ounces; water, 1 gallon (warm)

Spray or sprinkle this material on the tree. Get good coverage. The fire proofing material may be applied with a tank garden sprayer or a sprinkling bottle used for dampening clothes.

Or the tree may be set in a large pan and the solution poured over the branches. The large pan will catch the material that runs off so it won't be wasted. Do not expect the tree to be completely fireproof. If it gets hot enough it can still burn.

How to Mount and Place the Tree Stand the tree in a container of water, wet sand or earth. There are several good commercial holders. Homemade stands also are satisfactory as long as the butt of the tree is in water.

Do not set up the tree near hot areas such as the fireplace, television set, radiator, electric bulbs, stoves, etc. The tree should not block exits, walkways or stairs.

How to Decorate the Tree Use only electric lights, never candles. Make sure that the lights and cord you use have the safety seal of Underwriter Laboratories.

Never decorate with untreated paper ornaments or untreated cotton batting or gauze. These materials can be made safer by treating them with this mixture:

Borax, 9 ounces
Boric acid powder, 3 ounces
Water (warm), 2 quarts

Immerse the materials in the solution or sprinkle it on.

Remember, you are not flameproofing the tree or decorative material. You are only treating it to resist flame. Only asbestos or glass fabrics are truly fireproof. Fireproofing usually will keep a material from bursting into flame; however, the material may still become hot enough to glow. Don't expose the fireproofed material to weather or the productive chemicals may wash out.

Tinsel should be kept away from electric lights, since it could possibly touch a light bulb receptacle and short it.

How to Select Lights Do not get sentimental over Christmas tree lights. You may have some that have been in the family for years. If they are broken or the insulation cracked, get rid of them and buy new ones. Buy parallel circuit strings using 110-volt bulbs. The advantage of the parallel circuit is that the rest of the string will stay lit when one bulb burns out. Buy lights and cord that carry the safety seal of the Underwriters Laboratory. Lights that do not have this seal may be dangerous.

How many sets of lights are safe on a circuit? Usually, your home outlet is rated to handle 1500 watts. This will safely handle 6 to 8 strings of 25 lamps each, as long as no other equipment is drawing power from the same circuit. Use a 15 amp fuse. If it blows, you are overloading the circuit. Do not use a multiple plug in the outlet. This is dangerous.

Be extra cautious of the lights you buy. The metal part of the bulb socket on some may stick out far enough to come in contact with the tinsel on the tree and shock persons touching the

Asbury Methodist Men's News

By Sam Short Jr.

In the absence of the president of the Methodist Men's Club, Don Garey, the vice president, David Welch, conducted the meeting Sunday morning at the Asbury Church.

Carl Hill, secretary, gave his report of the last meeting. He stated that the tables that had been ordered by the club had been received and were now available to be used by the church. The treasurer gave his report and it was announced by the preacher that the Senior M.Y.F. was holding a pancake supper this coming Saturday at 4 o'clock at the church hall.

Sam Short then introduced the speaker of the morning, Alvin Lane, a member of the Church of God of Easton, Md., who gave a very interesting talk on healing by faith. He gave himself as a living example and his wife also gave her testimony on healing by faith in God.

Charles Peck Jr. had charge of the breakfast of pancakes and sausage with Ed Graef as the chef.

Next month's meeting (January) will be in charge of Horace Johnson.

SPORTS

KEITH S. BURGESS — Sports Editor

Basketball Interest High at H.H.S.

A flood of basketball candidates probably both delighted and dismayed Harrington High's four basketball coaches. Lots of aspirants means that many more chances to discover talented individuals, but it also involves the unpleasant task of cutting the squad down to a workable number. Boys will roll! In fact, many already have.

Jim Hawpe's varsity Lions are down to an even dozen. One or two more may depart. Still alive, at this writing, are: Nick Morris, John Winkler, Bill Moore, Jerry Cagle, John Swain, Jack Redden, Paul Marshall, John Christopher, Chester Scott, Ken Tribbett, Harold Jump and Bob Thompson. The first five boys named are returnees.

John Phillips' junior varsity roster still contains sixteen names. Phillips would like to keep all of these but may have to drop at least one more. He has already pruned some 25 lads. Still in the running are: Jack Warrington, Doug Wilson, Roger Hicks, Dave Newnom, Dale Motter, Mickey Chaffinch, Durand Dennis, Dwight Moore, Tony Burton, Dave Halliburton, Ron Rapp, Brinley Brode, Olin "Mike" Davis, Frankie Daniels, John Shulties and Mike Trotta. Trotta, Newnom and Chaffinch are sons of former Greenwood basketball standouts.

Violet Testerman's girls' varsity has seventeen candidates. These are: Cindy Kohel, Debbie Aiken, Debbie Reed, Doris Wallard, Beth Amsler, Andrea Wally, Judy Davis, Hope Torbert, Virginia Dean, Faye Austin, Bea White, Juanita Garey, Debbie Chaffinch, Diane Smith, Susan Welch, Jackie Deputy, Shirley Larrimore. Managers, Terry Carroll and Carol Gannon.

Dave Adams will coach the girls' junior varsity this season. Candidates are: Thea Quillen, Renee Quillen, Diane Carroll, Terry Dixon, Peggy Tibbitt, Karen Minner, Ruth Ann Moore, Jo Ann Short, Karen Dixon, Emily McKnatt, Bonnie Kukulka, Donna Welch, Linda Jester, Sue Knapp, Ginny Jo Richardson, Joanne Quillen, Joan White, Beth Graham. Managers, Kathy Miller and Cheryl Lekites.

Lions Had Balanced Attack This Season

Steve Welch racked up eleven touchdowns and one extra point for a total of 67 points to lead a balanced attack at Harrington High this fall. Steve's effort was one of the top performances in Lion grid history.

Keeping the defense honest were Steve's backfield mates, Jack Redden, Jim Harris and Jerry Cagle notched five touchdowns each.

Buckson Gives Up Trot Posts

The duties of the attorney general's office and the time-consuming involvement with Dover Downs were the reasons given last week by Dave Buckson for his resigning as president of two harness racing associations.

Buckson confirmed he will step down from the presidency of the Cloverleaf Standardbred Owners Association effective Saturday, the night of that group's annual dinner meeting at Rehoboth Beach. And he said, he will terminate his leadership of Harness Horsemen International in February at the organization's annual meeting in Florida.

"In both instances I'm leaving before my term expires, but both organizations have been given ample notice of my intent," Buckson said. As a matter of fact, in Harness Horsemen International you are elected for two-terms. I told them at the time I probably wouldn't be able to fulfill the second year, but they elected me anyway.

"And in Cloverleaf, I have been president for the past seven or eight years and saying each year that this will be the last. It finally came to that. Beside, it reaches a point where you go about as far as you can go with these organizations."

With Dover Downs, the new $3 million thoroughbred track he is building just north of Dover occupying his major interest in sports, Buckson's only remaining ties with harness racing are expected to be as an owner and occasional driver.

James D. McGinnis, of Dover, executive vice president of the Cloverleaf organization, said Harry Kelley of Ocean City, Md., the vice president, will move up to replace Buckson. Cloverleaf is composed of owners from Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, North Carolina and the District of Columbia.

Four Lions Make All-Henlopen Team

Harrington High's football Lions placed four gridders on the Henlopen Conference all-star football team.

Steve Welch, the conference's fourth highest scorer; Howard Brown and Bob Donovan made the offensive unit. Jerry Cagle was picked on the defensive squad, at linebacker. Cagle, one of the loop's fastest performers, undoubtedly got the nod because of his ability to turn in attempted end sweeps, often making the tackle, also.

Greenwood's Larry Wyatt was chosen at end on the offensive unit. Honorable mention was given to Bill Moore and Louis Kemp of Harrington and Larry Hughes and Bruce Morris of Greenwood.

Henlopen Football Rated Low By Figure Filbert

Bill D'onofrio, Delaware's Dick Dunkel, has rated the state's 44 high school teams and as might be expected, has assigned most of the low notches on the totem pole, to Henlopen Conference teams. Most football observers would agree, that the poorest football in Delaware is played in the Henlopen loop, for two reasons.

First, the Henlopen schools are the smallest in the state. Second, on the average, they have been playing football for a lot less years. Bridgeville and Delmar, the best Henlopen teams this year and most years, have been playing football for many years. Rehoboth started in the early forties. The rest are comparative Johnny-come-latelies.

D'onofrio's ratings are 90 percent correct in terms of results of games played between teams listed. Using the ratings he had compiled over the first two months of the season, he predicted the outcome of November's games and was 80 per cent right, to better the prognostications of both of the News-Journal's pro forecasters.

Bridgeville's undefeated Henlopen Champions are rated five notches below second-place Delmar because the Mustangs had 3 one-point wins, including their victory over Delmar, while the Wildcats trounced the same opposition. Both Henlopen schools trailed Mt. Pleasant, a non-winner in the powerful, Blue Hen Conference.

The ratings show Harrington in 35th place with Millsboro in 38th. Both schools had identical 7-3 records.

The last ten spots in the 44 school list are peopled exclusively by Henlopen teams, except for Milford's winless Buccaneers.

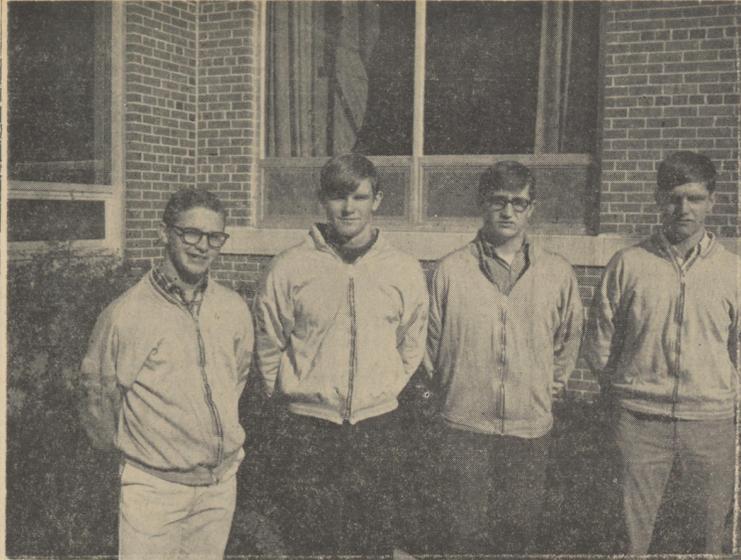

Henlopen positions: Delmar, 23; Bridgeville, 28; Harrington, 35; Millsboro, 36; Dover Air, 37; J. M. Clayton, 38; Milford (Diamond State), 39; Milton, 40; Selbyville, 41; Greenwood, 42; Lord Baltimore, 43; Rehoboth, 44.

Lord Baltimore played only two games but wound up with a better record than did Rehoboth.

Henlopen teams probably should be thankful that they have each other to play. Nevertheless, the games are fun to watch and some explosive football often results. And we would travel 100 miles to see Mt. Pleasant tangle with Delmar or Bridgeville. It just might be that Burt Culver or Francis Johnson, the State's No. 1 and No. 3 scorers would surprise the upstate Green Knights.

This looks like a good spot to mention Bill Muehleisen's accomplishments, as a wrestling coach, now that he has turned over the mat reins to brother Tom Muehleisen. Bill has two straight winning seasons in his role of head football coach against Henlopen Conference opposition. But in wrestling he has racked up three straight above .500 logs, while taking on Dover, Smyrna, Caesar Rodney, Milford, Easton, Wicomico, of Salisbury, Md., Delmar, Dover Air, James M. Bennett, of Salisbury, and Millsboro. Only three of these schools, Delmar, Dover Air and Millsboro are near our enrollment. In effect, the Lion grapplers are wrestling out of their class. This could be compared with a Triple A baseball team playing a full National League schedule. The wrestlers are in exactly the same boat as are Harold McDonald's cross-country harriers. With only one-third of the Henlopen schools fielding wrestling teams and one-fourth running cross-country, these two Lion squads have to take on much larger schools. But they have shown they can do this and still win.

Harrington Bowling League

My, my, my. Things really are getting tough in the Harrington Bowling League as more names are appearing each week in the high game section. New names, new highs appeared on the score sheets this past Tuesday night, after just three weeks of bowling in the second third. The lanes must have really been working good for such a long list of games rolled over the 200 mark. It's very seldom that we see two 600 or better series in one night, either, as was done this week. For those of you who haven't made that selective list yet, patience, there is still plenty of time.

Robbins Hardware is leaving no doubt in anyone's mind about what strength they possess, as they trounced Wally's Garage Tuesday night to the tune of four games. Going into the fracas with identical standings, Robbins Hardware soon let them know they were there to bowl. J. Green led the attack with a good 540 series, including a great 224 game and got a good assist from D. Pearson with a fine 221 game. With their fine performance Robbins Hardware took a commanding four game lead over the league and forced Wally's Garage to drop down to second place.

Sharing the second place spot are Hamilton Fund and McKnatt Funeral Home. Hamilton Fund won three games on a good effort by J. Bogden with a grand 578 series and a great 223 game.

McKnatt Funeral Home and Taylor & Messick battled it out Tuesday night with Taylor & Messick coming out on top, winning three games, moving themselves up the ladder a couple notches. McKnatt's remained in the second place position they held a week ago.

Acme lost ground Tuesday night dropping down a little as they lost three games. They are currently occupying the sixth place position.

Jarrell Fuel and Kent Gas came to blows and when the dust had settled new highs had been achieved by members of both teams, with Kent Gas winning three games. H. Wheeler led all bowlers Tuesday night in the series department, including a great 232 game and a 201 game to amass a grand 612 series. Right in the thick of things, also, was K. Layton, for Kent Gas, who led the individual scoring with a grand 234 game. Not to be outdone, however, was Jarrell Fuel's D. Hayman with a fine 224 game and a great 607 series, and M. Jarrell's great effort of 202 and 211 games, which just missed the magic 600 mark by seven pins, ending up with a grand 593 series.

Hobbs Newsstand came up out of the cellar, winning three games to take over ninth place. They traded places with Penn. R.R. who could only come up with two games to their credit to drop down a notch.

Local X-Country Race Postponed

Last week's snow caused a postponement of Sunday's scheduled 4 1/2 mile race at Brookside Park near Newark. The second race of the Delaware Track and Field Club's five meet series had been held at Killen's Pond on November 26, with the fourth race slated at Killen's on December 10th.

Senior Center News

Mrs. Geraldine McCormick, of the Diamond State Telephone Company will present a very amusing program on "Weathery Witchery" at the Center on Monday, Dec. 11, at 1 p.m. We are interested in securing a large attendance for this show in order that similar programs may be presented. This show is open to the public regardless of age. Do join us for an afternoon of fun.

In spite of the season's first blizzard our bazaar was a success. Sales exceeded $150. The support of the community was greatly appreciated. Some Christmas decorations and stocking stuffers are still available. Drop in and make your selection before they are exhausted.

We enjoyed participating in the Christmas parade and delighted with the prize captured. Our appreciation to our summer secretary, Miss Becky Moore, on the art work. Becky became Mrs. Terry Johnson Saturday evening and had the misfortune to be involved in a car accident Sunday while on her honeymoon. We at the Center wish Becky and Terry speedy recoveries and hope they will soon be settled in their new home.

Don't forget our Christmas party is scheduled for Dec. 21. All citizens over 60 are invited. Do call if you plan to attend.

In January we will be making bibs and shifts for Stockley. If you can sew or want to learn why not come down to the Center and help in this worthy cause. Not interested in sewing? Why not come down and watch and help serve refreshments to the workers.

For a busy friendly winter join us at the Center.

frequent parking of cars on the streets. It is difficult to maneuver a plow through them, and plowing often results in the parked cars and driveways being "plowed in" and causing less satisfactory conditions than if the streets had not been plowed originally.

In any event, there are some 450 miles of streets in New Castle County alone, which makes it impractical regardless of the amount of equipment available, to reach them all for several days following the storm. Generally the department must use contractor's assistance on this work while its equipment is employed in "Clean up" on the main roads or preparing for another possible storm. It is only natural that equipment operators who are not employees of the Department are less familiar with the developments and the streets involved, and therefore, require considerable supervision. It can easily happen that operators will miss streets which should have been plowed. The level of service provided to any development must take into consideration the available equipment, available personnel and the scheduling problems involved in clearing hundreds of miles of suburban streets in addition to the normal highway system.

If after a reasonable period of time any development streets have not been cleared, it is recommended that the residents contact the Division Office and equipment will be dispatched as soon as possible. Remember, the Delaware State Highway Department operates on your money to better serve you. All of their thoughts and actions are always based on this premise.

Toastmistress Club Holds Meeting

Sussex Toastmistress Club met at the substitution of the University of Delaware, near Georgetown on Monday night, Miss Anna Lee Derrickson, Harrington, presided. Invocation was given by Mrs. Beryle Crowe, Seaford.

A letter from Margaret Cunningham Toastmistress Club, Philadelphia, was read inviting Sussex members to attend a meeting of Colonial Region Council I in Philadelphia on Jan. 13. A request was made that one of the local members give the invocation and Pledge of Allegiance, Mrs. Drugash, Seaford, was appointed to this honor.

The Club voted to dispense with both December meetings, the next meeting to be January 8 at Seaford Inn.

Program chairman, Miss Frances Shoffner, Georgetown, announced the Executive Board had decided that a speech contest be conducted on the local level. Each member will prepare a five minute talk on impersonal subjects which the Board has compiled. Each contestant will be given three subjects a week prior to delivery date using the subject of their choice. Mrs. Ruby Wheatley, Delmar; Mrs. Patty Johnson, Seaford, and Mrs. Laura Blizzards, Georgetown, will be speakers for the January 8 meeting. Invocation, Mrs. Drugash; table topics, Miss Shoffner; toastmistress, Mrs. Billy James, Seaford; Mrs. Nettie Ziegler, Bridgeville, general evaluator will be assisted by evaluators, Mrs. Ann Spicer, and Mrs. Beryle Crowe, both of Seaford and Miss Marge Lloyd, Bethel. "Timing" will be done by Mrs. Jean Cranston, Seaford and Miss Derrickson. Serving a toastmistress of the evening, Mrs. Lloyd introduced speakers. Mrs. Mary Argo, Milton, spoke eight minutes on "Air Pollution, What Price Progress?". Mrs. Spicer spoke seven minutes on "Cost of Credit". Both subjects were timely and well delivered. Mrs. Blizzard and Mrs. Wheatley were timers. Miss Shoffner held a short workshop using tape recorders permitting speakers to hear their own voices, recognizing any mistakes. Hostesses Mrs. Lloyd and Miss Shoffner served cake and coffee.

EARL QUILLEN, JR. SAYS: DID YOU KNOW

A Dentist says it takes over 50 lbs. of pressure to chew a steak. All I want to know is where he buys his steak!!!

A penny saved — is — a penny taxed.

Things have almost reached the point where if a person takes a day off, he falls behind in his income tax payments.

The country is really in bad shape when you think that 160,000,000 people wake up every morning with halitosis, B.O., or athletes foot.

FINALLY — There seems to be a juvenile problem of children running away from home. — It is entirely possible they may be looking for their parents.
