

Legion To Sponsor Matinee Races

Callaway-Kemp-Raughley-Tee Post No. 7, American Legion, will sponsor matinee harness racing at Harrington Raceway Sat., April 20, and Sat., April 27, it was decided Thursday night, March 21, at a meeting at the post home.

Eugene Anderson, chairman of the race committee, said prospects for horses this year was more inviting than ever before. He added a number of prominent horsemen, such as Paul Vinyard and Olin Davis, had horses they wished to qualify for Brandywine, Rosecroft, and Atlantic City.

These will be official qualifying races, quoted Anderson, who explained a starter, judges, and other officials were available. Horsemen wishing to qualify, must have their qualification papers in the racing office by noon the day before the race.

Others on the race committee are Jarvis Hurd, Bobby Jester, and Frank O'Neal. Other Legion members and members of the auxiliary will assist.

Herman Ryan, Benjamin Emory, and Leonard Horleman comprise the refreshment committee. In other business Thursday night, a motion was made thanking the auxiliary for its improvements of the kitchen and the coat room of the post home. They did a beautiful job.

Pre-Easter Services At Pilgrim Holiness

Evangelistic services at Harrington Pilgrim Church are scheduled to begin Wednesday evening, April 3, and continue through Sunday, April 7th. Services will be held each evening at 7:30.

The engaged speaker for the five nights will be John Revel, of near Millsboro. Mr. Revel is an outstanding gospel preacher and a dedicated Christian worker. He has held quite a number of meetings in the Kent-Sussex County area.

There will be special singing and music each night using singers from the local Pilgrim church and visiting singers from other churches in the area.

The Pilgrim Church extends a cordial invitation to all in the Harrington area to participate in the services.

Del. Health Legislation Gets $43,033

Awards totaling $686,596 have been made to four Eastern states to establish statewide comprehensive health planning programs, Dr. James R. Kimmey, regional health director, Public Health Service, U. S. Dept. of Health, Education, and Welfare, announced this week.

The awards—$361,100 to New York; $173,200 to New Jersey, $109,253 to Pennsylvania, and $43,033 to Delaware—are the first planning grants under the Partnership for Health legislation, PL 89-749, in Region II.

Dr. Kimmey described the region, which contains 20 per cent of the U.S. population and 19 of the nation's largest cities, as the "laboratory of the future in urban health planning."

"What plagues New York City and Philadelphia today will plague smaller cities in the nation in the next few years," said Dr. Kimmey, who is responsible for approving health planning grants in the four states.

The terms of the grant also call for the establishment of a state comprehensive health advisory committee, he said.

"In a major departure from the traditional approach to health advisory committees, a majority of this group must be drawn from consumers of health services." (Continued on Page 5)

Estridge III, In Hospital

Veteran Rep. Norman A. Estridge, of Seaford, was reported ill and a patient at Emily P. Bissell Hospital Wednesday.

Estridge, 66, suffers from arthritis and was reportedly Wednesday to also have emphysema.

The House passed a resolution to wish Estridge, a Democrat, a speedy recovery. The legislator entered the hospital Tuesday. His condition was listed as good by the hospital Wednesday night.

2 New Bills On Elections Introduced

The successors to two election bills vetoed by Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. were introduced in the General Assembly Wednesday.

One would appropriate $82,000 to the departments of Elections, which are attempting to revise their books to reflect the recent reapportionment. The other is a rewrite of the elections, reform bill.

Both new bills would remove provisions which were objectionable to Democrats.

The money bill was vetoed by Terry because it stipulated that the elections departments would have to equalize their employees politically, Terry said it discriminated against independents.

Republican leaders have said they will vote for a bill with "the political thing" removed and it was removed in the bill introduced by House minority leader Jacob W. Zimmerman, D-Dover, Wednesday.

The election reform bill vetoed by the Governor would have allowed Election Commissioner George W. Cripps, a Republican, to serve in that capacity through this year's elections. The new bill, introduced in the Senate by Sen. Herman M. Holloway Sr., D-Wilmington, would allow the Governor to appoint an interim election commissioner to serve through 1968.

Also introduced in the House Wednesday were bills which would have the state take over the cost of the State Home at Smyrna, create a recreation advisory council and alter a school tax on new residential construction.

The State Home Bill is a rewrite of a measure on which passage has been attempted unsuccessfully several times this session. Republicans have been (Continued on Page 5)

Killen to Become Chairman For Kennedy

Former Democratic State Auditor, Ernest E. Killen, of Harrington, will become vice-chairman of the Delaware Democrats for Kennedy, according to the organization's chairman, Ernest S. Wilson, Jr.

Killen was a delegate to the 1964 Democratic National Convention and was a contender for the 1964 Democratic gubernatorial nomination. He served three terms as State Auditor, from 1959 until 1965. A former mayor of Harrington, Killen is active in business affairs in Kent County and is president of his own grain company in Harrington.

Wilson said that Killen's "leadership and political acumen will be a definite contribution to the effort to put Delaware's delegation to the Democratic National Convention in the Kennedy column."

State Police Hiring Test Study Asked

The State Human Relations Commission has recommended that the Delaware State Police review its recruit testing procedures.

The recommendation is in a report made public Wednesday on a commission investigation of state police hiring practices.

The inquiry was made after the commission received complaints of discrimination against Negroes applying for membership on the force.

There has never been a Negro state policeman.

The commission report says no discrimination was found in the case of the unsuccessful Negro applicant who brought his case to the agency. It suggests however that the force's testing procedures might be re-examined with an eye toward establishing new ones.

The commission received the report at its March 14 meeting and passed two resolutions on it at that time. But the document was not made public or sent to state police until this week.

The report is based on a Feb. 22 interview of police officials by two commission members, Dr. Eugene McGowan Jr. and the Rev. George Goodley. Lamb was one of the officials with whom they met.

Code Bill Gets New Amendments

The criminal code bill gained several amendments and lost a sponsor Wednesday.

Rep. David S. Benson, R-Graylyn Crest, who had said he would introduce more than 100 amendments to the bill, sponsored only four Wednesday, but they would make hundreds of changes.

House minority leader Jacob W. Zimmerman, D-Dover, asked that his name be stricken as a cosponsor of H.B. 437. Zimmerman, who serves on the committee which held hearings on the bill, said he hadn't realized its changes were so far-reaching.

He said he is alarmed because the bill would reduce penalties and "make it more difficult for the police."

The sponsor of the bill is Rep. W. Laird Stabler, R-Montchanin, who introduced it at the request of Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. Rep. Michael N. Castle, R-Wilmington, remains a cosponsor.

Three of Benson's amendments Wednesday would increase the penalties for some misdemeanors, allow weapons to be carried to gun clubs or ranges, and remove a gun registration provision. The fourth amendment makes close to 300 changes in individual provisions of the bill.

Comprehensive Development Plan Ready for Publication on City

It is not sufficient to plan solely for the area where the City exercises governmental controls. There are forces outside of Harrington which influence its development.

Some of the forces include U. S. 13, the Fairgrounds and Harness Track, Wheeler's Park, the Penn-Central Railroad, the Marshy Hope and Murderkill Watershed projects, as well as other types of development such as residential and commercial uses which presently exist outside the City limits. Other factors which will influence the nature and extent of development will include the location of the elementary schools and the location of physically deteriorated areas.

All of these in some way will affect how the remaining vacant areas within and outside the City will develop.

A General Land Use Pattern May for Harrington and its surrounding area shows where the urban and open uses should be directed. This Map was prepared with three objectives in mind: To consider existing development, to take into account those forces working outside the City limits which will affect future development, and to consider the nature of the soils and the uses to which they can best be put.

Urban Uses Previous background studies indicated that future development is likely to open east and northeast of Harrington. These areas offer excellent sites for homes, as well as for supportive uses in the form of local shopping facilities, recreation, and public uses, such as schools.

The development scheme reflects the possibility of creating two ponds east of U.S. 13 with areas reserved around the ponds and along Brown's Branch for open space and residential development. The southernmost pond is likely to be developed in the form of polishing lagoons. These ponds would work in concert with the City's sewerage treatment plant. (Editorial Note: There will be two polishing ponds adjacent to the sewage disposal plant. These ponds also treat the sewage after it comes from the plant.)

the southeast corner of Harrington and along the railroad tracks west of the Fair grounds. Because these areas are in close proximity to the highway and the railroad tracks, they have been designated for manufacturing and warehousing type operations. Additional industrial areas should be directed east of Harrington, particularly in those areas which lie astride the railroad spur to Milford. While the Plan Map shows this area in open use, its potential for industrial development appears good. The eventual improvement of the sewerage treatment plant and polishing pond plus the area's close proximity to State Route 13, lends the area well for a more intensive use such as industry.

Two types of residential development are recommended in this broad area-wide plan. A medium density, with four to six families to the acre, is suggested for those areas lying west of the railroad tracks in Harrington. Development in this area is primarily on small lots and it would not be desirable to continue this pattern. Lot sizes should be increased in areas presently vacant. The present 3,000 square feet minimum lot size in the R-2 area should be increased.

The other residential pattern is shown in the northeast corner of Harrington and in areas east of U.S. 13. These areas should be developed and designed for low density residential uses consisting of one to three families to the acre.

Commercial areas are shown along U.S. 13 and in several locations within Harrington. Strip commercial development along U.S. 13 should not be permitted. Frontage or reverse frontage roads should be recommended and access to the highway should be restricted to controlled points. Curb cuts onto the highway should not be permitted.

Open Uses Agricultural and open space uses are included in this category. Most of the area to the west, north and southeast of Harrington is designated for agricultural purposes. Drainage in these areas will be improved through the creation of sub-watershed drainage channels and main drainage channels in the Marshy Hope Watershed Area. This area lies west and southwest of Harrington. Improve (Continued on Page 8)

Kent Ok's Rules For Landfills

The Kent County Levy Court Tuesday unanimously approved regulations and fees for use of sanitary landfills in the county.

The regulations closely paralleled those set by the state Water and Air Resources Commission, County Engineer Walter J. Fritz, said. Like the state regulations, the county rules will be effective July 1, he added.

The major reason for the regulations is to insure county control over the operation of landfills, Fritz said. They also will permit the county to benefit from revenues raised by the licensing of trash collectors.

Under the regulations, refuse in landfills or dumps in the county will be required to be covered with at least 6 inches of dirt every day. Landfills that do not meet specifications may be closed.

Collectors will have to be licensed under the new regulations. The cost of the licenses will be $100 a year for the first truck and $15 a year for each additional truck.

To be licensed, garbage trucks must have sound bottoms, tops and sides. After 1970, all garbage trucks in the county must pack and eject trash automatically.

The last truck regulation apparently was passed in expectation of the day when the county assumes most of the trash disposal work in the county.

Rates for the disposal of garbage in the county landfill between Harrington and Frederica will be $5 a truckload for collectors and $6 a load for other commercial or industrial firms.

The same rates will apply to other landfills the county may establish.

In other business, County Planner Robert W. O'Brien said a public hearing on the county's proposed subdivision regulations would be conducted by the county planning commission in mid-April.

Until these regulations are established, the commission has little legal control over construction in the county.

Levy Court President Glenn A. Richter told the Levy Court that at a recent meeting between Milford City Councilmen and county officials the majority of the Milford councilmen favored tying into the proposed county sewage system.

He said that a second meeting will be held April 15 in Syracuse, N. Y., at that time, he said, participants in the discussion will be Milford's engineers, Gilbert Associates of Reading, Pa., and the county's consultants, O'Brien and Gere, of Syracuse.

The commissioners also heard County Auditor Harold E. Remley report that New Castle County will have to pay the largest share of supplemental welfare appropriations billed to the counties.

Kent County's share of fiscal 1968 welfare expenses will be $542,000 or $16,846 more than originally requested by the State Department of Welfare. Those figures include the supplemental appropriation still before the Legislature, however, Remley said.

The $542,000 is nearly half of the county's $1.1 million budget for fiscal 1968.

"Day in Oxford" To Be Held Sat., April 20th

The traditional "Day in Oxford" in this colonial waterfront village on Maryland's Eastern Shore will be held on Sat., April 20, with a dozen attractions open for the 10th annual house and garden tour.

In addition to the famed waterside Wintersell Gardens, expected to be at the peak of spring bloom, the tour will include five homes never before open to the public.

An outstanding first-timer will be the beautifully restored academy House, which served as the 1848 officers' quarters of the Maryland Naval and Military Academy and is now surrounded by great century-old boxwoods. Another is the unique colonial farmhouse of Anderton, with the original portion dating from 1660 and having the smallest exterior doorway in Maryland. Antique furnishings and noteworthy redecorating are additional points of interest in several homes open this year for the first time.

No Oxford Day would be complete without another viewing of Barnaby, the early sea captain's home noted for its pine paneling, corner fireplaces, and litch carvings. Last year this 17th century house, along with other antiquarian and floral attractions of this 1665 Talbot (Continued on Page 5)

National Legion Commander Says We Must Continue In Vietnam

"If we withdraw (our troops from South Vietnam), it (the war) will continue elsewhere. And if we pull out, we can see how easy it will be for country after country to fall. We, at home, must support the boys over there," said the American Legion's national commander here Friday night at a dinner at Delaware State Fair grounds.

William E. Galbraith, of Beecher, Neb., told the Delaware's Legionnaires and prominent local and state officials we must roll up our sleeves and be the kind of America we have been 192 years. "We are winning the war in Vietnam despite the enemy at home," he said. His visit, sponsored by Callaway-Kemp-Raughley-Tee Post 7, American Legion, was the first in which a national commander had been entertained here.

HANOI'S TERMS Continuing, the handsome Nebraskaan, emphasized "too many think we can set down with North Vietnam and pull our troops out and get peace."

Hanoi calls for these stipulations: 1. Stop bombing 2. Withdraw our troops 3. Make the Viet Cong (the National Liberation Front) part of the government of South Vietnam.

Bishop Mosely to Leave Diocese For New Post

The Rt. Rev. J. Brooke Mosely, bishop of the Diocese of Delaware, is resigning to become a deputy to the presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church.

Bishop Mosely said his resignation will become effective "forward the latter part of this year — I want to vote in Delaware in November."

He has been named one of two deputies to Bishop John E. Hines. Bishop Mosely's work will be deputy for overseas relations. The other is the Rt. Rev. Stephen E. Bayne Jr. of New York, named deputy of program. Bishop Mosely said his resignation is subject to the House of Bishop's approval.

The Delaware bishop Monday night posted letters to the clergy and others close to the Diocese of Delaware announcing his resignation. He expressed enthusiasm for his new assignment, but mixed feelings about leaving "this garden of Eden" — as he referred to the Diocese of Delaware.

"His new post will include 'concern and care for overseas jurisdictions of the Episcopal Church and for relations Episcopalian have with other churches overseas.'"

He also will be sharing in leadership on a national level with Bishop Hines.

"To keep his hand in as pastor," he said, he will be "bishop-in-charge" of American churches of the Episcopal Church in Europe. There are seven such congregations: Geneva, Switzerland; Florence and Rome, Italy; Paris, France; and Mun-Bing "pastor" to the churches being and Frankfurt, Germany. Being "pastor" to the churches will involve at least one official visit per year to officiate at confirmations.

The new post will also involve travel to many parts of the world where there are installations of the Episcopal Church: the Philippines, Taiwan, Guam, Okinawa, Mexico, the Panama Canal Zone, Columbia, Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Liberia.

There will be various ecumenical aspects to the work, Bishop Mosely said, for in many of the areas Episcopalian are working with indigenous churches and with the Anglican Church.

Danny Leon Hicks Joins Marine Corps

Danny Leon Hicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Frederic Hicks, of 126 Mechanic Street, this city, joined the Marine Corps March 22, under two guaranteed enlistment programs.

According to his recruiter, SSGT. Peak, of 237 W. Lockerman St., Dover, he will be assigned to a Marine aviation school on completion of boot camp and advanced infantry training.

He also joined under the 120 day delay program which permits him to postpone his departure for boot camp at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C., up to four months. On May 9, he will begin his active duty.

The 120 day delay program has an added financial benefit because a serviceman's first pay raise begins four months from the day he is enlisted. This time continues to count for longevity pay purposes and towards the completion of his total military obligation.

Private Hicks, who attended Harrington High School prior to his enlistment, can expect to be home on leave about 12 weeks from the day he leaves for Parris Island.

THE HOME FRONT

Turning to the home front, the tall Nebraskaan commented on what the future can hold for us in Southeast Asia and other parts of the world. "The American Legion has never been doves or hawks, but one darn thing sure—we've never been chickens," he roared.

Harkening on apathy at home he said we had stood idly by and let the extreme left and the extreme right unite against this nation and this people. It is time, he said, we who are a part of the silent center in this country, speak out, because a handful of extremists in this country can lead us to chaos.

'THE SILENT CENTER'

Turning to the "silent center", Galbraith cited an example of disinterest in the activities of Congress. In a poll of the United States Chamber of Commerce, only 50 per cent of the interviewees knew the name of their congressman, and only 18 per cent knew how their congressmen voted on key issue.

"We elect representatives and then fail to help them to be an influential part of the nation. It is time to keep some individuals right, when they are right, and set them right when they are wrong," said an Indiana legislator," quoted the former Nebraska schoolteacher.

Referring to a Nebraska state committee on education, of which he was a member, said: "The study of history seems wrong. Now it seems to be wrong to teach about patriotism. We should go back to teach it again and only then can we eliminate the long-hairs who are floundering about and trying to confuse us. Schools are not teaching enough Americanism."

Turning to religion, Galbraith believed "the thing that has made America great has been the church. Yet, in many places, the church is being left out. It is time to go back to it, and to respect our parents and elders, to respect our churches and homes."

In other activity at the dinner: The Department of Delaware, American Legion, presented the national commander with a silver tray on which was engraved the state seal.

Lt. Gov. Sherman Tribbitt, in lieu of Gov. Terry, made the commander an honorary citizen of Delaware.

Galbraith presented a gold, lifetime membership card to Jules Alpern, Post 1, Wilmington.

The commander presented to District Commander Garrett Steele, Post 29, Stanton, an award for increased membership. Mrs. Steele accepted the award for her husband who was unable to attend because of illness.

Commander Edward Knight was master of ceremony. The Rev. Lee Wyatt, department chaplain, gave the invocation and benediction.

Department Commander Garland Bloodsworth was at the speaker's table. A cocktail party preceded the dinner, at the Legion Home. The same site was the scene of a dance after the dinner.

A breakfast was held at Hub Restaurant, Dover, Saturday morning, for the national commander's party.

Commander Galbraith met Gov. Terry Friday in Dover before the local reception.

Earlier Friday, the commander addressed the Masonic Club of Delaware at its weekly luncheon in the Hotel duPont, Wilmington.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne Holberton

"April prepares her green traffic light and the world things go," said a famous author. So enjoy this delightful season by spending as much time on the go as possible. When mealtime arrives, let the plentiful foods assist you in preparing a meal that matches the season: bright - cheery - and refreshing.

Turkey in the springtime is the big news for menu planners. Lots of lighter weight birds as well as ample supplies of those over 16 pounds is the prediction for all of April. With supplies so abundant, turkey makes a natural choice for Easter dinner or for the Passover feast. Should there be leftovers, encore dishes can be quite attractive—especially salads, casseroles, croquettes and a la king.

For those of you who prefer pork for Easter dinner, there's welcome news. Supplies are to continue plentiful. Serve a sumptuous ham or roast for an impressive meal and include other pork cuts for the lesser meals of the month.

Beef supplies should continue to be liberal and possibly slightly above those of last year. The greater percentage of beef available on our local markets will be from the type of cattle that produce the best broiling and roasting beef.

Halibut steaks make an excellent main dish for lunch or for dinner. North Pacific halibut steaks are expected to be unusually good buys, because stocks on hand are up a third or more and prices have declined drastically.

Supplies of poultry and poultry products will be very liberal this April. Egg production is near the annual peak and prices will continue to be economical with the large-size egg being the better buy.

Fresh vegetable supplies during April will be less than last year. Unfavorable weather has destroyed or retarded vegetable growth. But a number of processed vegetables are in good supply and will help bridge the gap. Canned beets, corn, lima beans, peas, green beans, tomatoes and tomato products are all in ample supply.

Most frozen vegetables, except French fries, are more abundant than a year ago. Specials should be prevalent on many of these processed vegetables.

Fresh fruit supplies will also be on the short side. Fewer apples remain in storage as well as less citrus fruit. Processed fruit supplies will be less than last spring, too. Stocks of canned peaches, pears, fruit cocktail, apricots, olives and figs are all below a year ago, in some cases, far below. With the exception of blueberries and peaches, all frozen fruits are in smaller supply than last year.

Veterans' News

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—The pension I receive from my former employer is to be increased $15 per month. If this increase in income makes me ineligible to receive my veterans pension, may I refuse the increase in order to remain on the VA pension rolls?

A—No. Your refusal to accept the monthly increase in your pension from the former employer would constitute a waiver. Since such a waiver is not authorized, the additional $15 you will receive must be reported as income. However, the law provides that 10 per cent of all retirement income is not counted as income for VA pension purposes.

Q—How long will the VA pay training assistance allowance to a veteran who is in a four-year apprenticeship program?

A—Training assistance allowance will be paid for 36 months or to the expiration of the veteran's entitlement. The amount of the allowance is reduced at the end of each of the first three six-month periods.

Q—Is a veteran required to occupy his home the residential unit he purchases with a G.I. loan?

A—The law requires that in order for a veteran to obtain a G.I. loan for the purchase or construction of a home, he must certify that he intends to occupy the property as his home. If the G.I. loan is for alterations, repair or a home or improvements, the veteran must certify that he is the owner and occupant of the house. This certification is required when the veteran applies for the loan and when the loan is closed. False certification is subject to possible criminal prosecution.

This coming Sunday it will be the pleasure of the vicar to administer the Sacrament of Baptism to little Edward Smith Ford III, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith Ford, Jr., of Jacksonville, Fla. Little Edward's mother is the former Cheryl Smith of Farmington who was married to Edward Smith Ford, Jr., on December 8, 1966. Godparents for little Edward are Leslie Ann Smith of Farmington, his paternal grandfather, Edward S. Ford, Sr., Salisbury, Md., and his maternal grandfather, Wallace H. Smith, of Farmington. The church family are delighted to receive little Edward into their membership. Each member prays for him a long and useful life and rejoices with him, his parents, Godparents and grandparents on this happy occasion.

It will be noticed this coming Sunday that the crosses are draped with violet veil for the first time during this Lent. This is in keeping with the tradition that on Passion Sunday which is the first Sunday on which the gospel makes reference to an attempt at our Blessed Lord's life, the crosses will be draped. They will remain draped in this manner until Maundy Thursday at which time the altar hangings are changed to white to celebrate the institution of the Lord's Supper. On Good Friday they will be draped with a black veil and will continue so until late Easter Eve at which time the altar hangings will again be changed to white to celebrate our Lord's resurrection.

Holy Week begins with Palm Sunday, which is on April 7. During that week good churchmen who can, have an opportunity to review all the events leading up to the Last Supper; the betrayal, trial, crucifixion and burial of our Blessed Lord. Each morning Monday through Wednesday we shall have a Service of Holy Communion at 7 a.m. On Thursday at 7:30 p.m. there will be the traditional Maundy Thursday celebration of the institution of the Holy Communion by our Lord. On Good Friday at 10 a.m. and at 5:30 p.m. there will be a Service of Ante-Communion. St. Stephen's will also participate in the three hour service which takes place at Trinity Methodist Church beginning at 12 p.m. The vicar will preach on the second word spoken from the cross. All of these services will constitute splendid preparation for those who wish to celebrate the resurrection of our Lord in an appropriate way on Easter Sunday.

Those who desire to contribute to the Easter memorial flowers may do so by filling out one of the blanks on the rear table. Congratulations go to two students from St. Stephen's Gene Price and Patsy Hubbard, who will be spending their spring vacation which begins for them this coming Thursday, April 4, and will continue for ten days, on a "Paris Adventure" tour. Gene and Patsy are the only two students from Harrington and will be a part of 150 who go from Delaware on an organized tour sponsored by Alliance Francaise, in Philadelphia. Gene and Patsy go as French students of Harrington High School and will spend one day in England and the remainder in France. Palm Sunday will find them at Notre Dame Cathedral. Other items of interest of the tour will be a visit to the opera, the Louvre, a boat ride down the Seine River, extensive tours of Paris, the Chateaux country, the Eiffel Tower and Napoleon's Tomb. St. Stephen's is proud to be represented by Gene and Patsy.

Farmers Face Bright Future

Economic opportunities appear excellent in the next five years for those farmers who can gain control of an adequate size operation and who can exercise reasonable managerial ability, says Professor J. Carroll Bottum, assistant head, department of agricultural economics, Purdue University.

Speaking at the university of Delaware's annual Bankers Agricultural Forum, Bottum said that farmers who operate less than adequate size units will have to gain satisfaction in other ways. These may include some off-the-farm work, the satisfactions of farm life and the opportunity to live where they like and farm as they like.

If a young farmer is going to make a living like other businessmen, he's going to have to think in per man production terms of 400 to 600 acres of cropland, 600 to 800 hogs marketed annually plus production of their feed, 40 to 50 dairy cows plus feed or 20,000 to 30,000 hens per year with feed purchased. Operating the most economically sized unit, however, may mean two or three times this size with two or three men involved.

The average farmer must increase his output about six percent per year if he's going to hold his own, said Bottum. Increased yields and efficiency can achieve half this amount; the rest must come from expansion. However, the large commercial family farm will not be able to generate internally the amount of capital required to maintain the rate of expansion needed to keep the farm competitive.

It will require more attention to farm financing. Individual loans will be fewer, but much larger. Most capital will be assembled from borrowing and from renting land. Farm indebtedness will rise. The period ahead will be a tremendous opportunity and challenge to the farm credit suppliers and may even challenge the lending capacity of many banks.

With larger amounts of capital invested and narrow per unit profits, producers will be encouraged to find additional ways to minimize risk, said Bottum. Farmers are already selling their crops before they are planted or harvested and many are selling their hogs and cattle before they are fed out. This practice will continue to increase. More arrangements will develop so that producers can do forward selling at local markets or through local associations.

Records, cash flows, financial management, quality controls

Those teachers admissible to the University's graduate school will receive graduate credit upon successful completion of the program. Teachers will also receive stipends in addition to allowances for dependents.

The research participation program will run from June 17 through August 9. Teachers interested in the program must apply to Dr. Crossan before April 26.

Teachers selected to participate in an eight-week research participation program financed through a grant from S. Hallock duPont will work with researchers in animal science, soil science, entomology, plant pathology and horticulture. Research projects will include studies of insect biology; weed taxonomy; nutrition and management of American holly; radioactive fungicides; lily histogenesis; chemical control of horticultural plants and protein systems in cow's blood and milk.

Murphy, who has been at the University since 1963, is the first Delawarean to hold office in the organization in recent years. His duties will include coordinating Association activities in Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, Washington D. C., Kentucky, North Carolina, Tennessee and West Virginia.

Murphy will begin his two-year term at the group's annual meeting in New Orleans, April 8.

Each youngster taking part in the program will purchase, feed and care for two 30-45 pound pigs until the end of July. Participants who are unable to purchase pigs may borrow funds from the Delaware Pork Producers association and repay the loan when the pigs are sold.

Pigs will be shown and judged at the feeder pig round-up at the Delaware State Fair and will then be sold to the highest bidder. Prizes and ribbons will be presented to winners at the close of the project.

The 4-H Feeder Pig program is conducted annually to help 4-H'ers learn the principles of hog production including selection, care, feeding, management, fitting, showing, marketing and record keeping. The project is sponsored by the Delaware Pork Producers Association and the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

"In spring a young man's fancy turns to love." But we oldsters who were fortunate enough to be reared on a farm, get a lot of satisfaction basking in: SPRING MEMORIES

Perhaps 'tis that Spring is here That truant fancy strays, And wanders back through yesteryears, To Spring of other days.

And visions crowd my waking hours As dreams come in the night, Of boyhood days back on the farm. Make present cares take flight.

The old hay field, the clover patch, The sunny pasture field, And even chores that then seemed hard, A thousand pleasures yield.

Again I hear the plodding hoofs, And lowing of the kine, As Rover brings the cattle in, And know it's milking time.

I see the mellow friendly lights, That in the kitchen glow, And even scent the "goodies", That only farm boys know.

I wish that I could dream right on, But telephones will ring, And city life crowds in again— I guess it's just the Spring.

Keep Books With ELFAC

After six years of tests and development, the farm management specialists of the northeast states have perfected the computer system of keeping farm accounts, says W. T. McAllister, extension farm management specialist at the University of Delaware.

Development of the system, known as ELFAC, followed three basic requirements that farmers said would be necessary before they would be interested. ELFAC is easy to use and understand, low in cost, and it's a complete system suitable for both income tax accounting and business analysis.

With the ELFAC system, the farmer's record keeping job has been reduced to writing down business transactions and assigning a code number to each. This information is sent to a data processing center where it is transferred to punch cards. Cards are fed into the computer which does all the bookkeeping, adds each entry to the totals of the previous month and prints out a monthly statement.

At the end of the year, all transactions for the year are available under their proper headings with totals. It becomes an easy matter to transfer these totals to a tax report or to compare them with last year's records to measure financial progress and profit leaks in the business.

In addition to getting an accounting of cash income and expenses, ELFAC will provide a series of optional reports at no additional cost. These include a complete depreciation record with annual depreciation calculated for each item, investment credit claimed on each item, a record of capital purchases and sales for completing Schedule D of the federal income tax and a record of each credit and loan account. Separate labor and social security records, complete household and business records, cash flow and pay-budget analysis and a financial analysis of each farm business, compared with the total of other similar businesses, are also provided.

Cost of using the system is amazingly small in relation to the data made available, says McAllister. There is a basic annual charge of $25 plus a fee for each unit. For example, a dairy farmer with 50 cows could have all of the records mentioned for an annual cost of $75. A farmer with 500 acres of corn and soybeans may find that the cost is only $60 to $70 a year. Fees are paid to a non-profit corporation established to operate the record service for all farmers in the participating northeast states.

Farmers interested in learning more about the ELFAC record system may call the county agent's office in Newark, Dover or Georgetown or may contact W. T. McAllister at the College of Agricultural Sciences, University of Delaware, Newark, Del. 19711.

Veterans' News

Approximately 260,000 pieces of mail flow through the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Wilmington each year and far too many cannot be properly identified, Leon Fields, manager of the Regional Office said this week.

"Too many veterans and their beneficiaries only sign their names to correspondence," Mr. Fields said, "and names are not enough."

Almost all of the 30 million names in Washington's VA Master index file are duplicated. For instance there are 305,000 Smiths on file and 9,000 of those are John Smith. The Johnsons number 204,000 and, contrary to popular belief, the Williamses with 151,000 outnumber both the Browns, 145,000 and the Joneses 143,000.

Each veteran who applies for VA benefits is assigned a file number. This file number and the number assigned to a veteran's insurance policy are never duplicated.

When these numbers are included in correspondence, Mr. Fields said, prompt and efficient service is almost certain.

When either of the numbers is included in a letter, the VA often must respond with a form letter requesting further identifying information from the correspondent.

Mr. Fields advised those who might write to VA: "If you don't know your claim number or insurance policy number, include as much identifying information as possible. Then VA will be able to give the prompt service you like and we like to give."

Mr. Fields added that veterans should write to their local VA Office; for Delaware it is 1601 Kirkwood Highway, Wilmington, Del. 19805; not to the VA Central Office in Washington, D. C.

Weevil Control Methods

A new bulletin outlining 1968 recommendations for alfalfa weevil control has been released by the University of Delaware's department of entomology and applied ecology.

The alfalfa weevil is a major problem in alfalfa production, explains extension entomologist Donald MacCreary. Severe weevil damage can result in almost total loss of an alfalfa crop. With proper use of recommended insecticides, however, the alfalfa weevil can be safely controlled.

Do not depend upon recommendations or labels on insecticide containers that are several years old, says MacCreary. There may have been restrictive changes since they were printed. Insecticide recommendations for 1968 have been based on the safety and effectiveness of properly used chemicals.

It is particularly important for farmers to observe the minimum interval between treatment and harvest because the recommended chemicals are highly toxic, he adds. It is the grower's responsibility to avoid unlawful residues in the harvested crop.

Copies of "Alfa Weevil Control" are available from extension offices in Newark, Dover and Georgetown and from the Mail Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Del. 19711.

pushing for the state to take over the entire financial burden for the home, which is now half supported by the counties.

Terry has said a revenue bill must accompany the measure before he will sign it.

The recreation bill would create a fund and an advisory council under the state parks commission. Terry said last week he would have such legislation introduced at the behest of the community services council.

Dr. Kimmey pointed out that the various parts of the Partnership for Health legislation emphasize state and local initiative in health activities and stress the importance of the effect of the programs on the individual.

The scope of planning covers personal health services, health facilities, environmental health, and various social and economic factors that affect the health of man.

Dr. Kimmey said, "The awards are an important step toward President Johnson's goal of dealing with the soaring cost of medical care and assuring the most efficient use of our health resources."

He noted, "The President's recent Health Message called for the development of 'bold new health strategies,' and these grants will support state efforts to identify their health problems and seek creative solutions to them."

He said the grants provide full support to each state for the establishment of a state health planning agency, and for the conduct of planning efforts in the broad field of health.

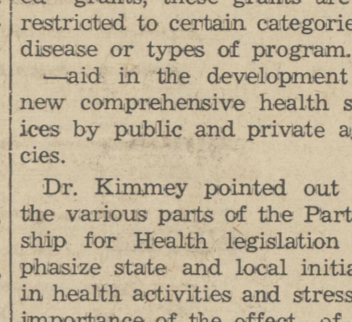

"Everybody assumes we have planned in the health field for years," Dr. Kimmey said, "but the planning efforts have been fragmented and often short-sighted. One result: today's skyrocketing cost of health care."

The Partnership for Health legislation, passed by the 89th Congress, embodied new and revolutionary concepts in Federal grants to states and communities, Dr. Kimmey said.

In addition to calling upon each state to designate a single agency to conduct comprehensive health planning, it authorized grants to:

—promote health planning in metropolitan and rural areas.
—train health planners, and so relieve the serious shortage in this relatively new field.
—provide health services to states. In contrast to the tradi-

FENCE TALK with George K. Vapaa

A speakout on parks and recreation is to be held at the same time as our 3rd Delaware State Planning Conference on Sat., March 30. Your county agent would like to attend both, but is pledged to be at the Delaware State College science hall from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Both meetings look promising. But since the first is up in New York State, I hope that our people will respond to the local one with me.

The speakout is a twist from the usual planning conference. The audience tells the planners what they think should be included in plans for parks or recreation. Then the planners react to the suggestions. Can you imagine what might have developed had such a speakout been held on the proposed West Dover By Pass before plans moved so far along?

It probably makes little difference really when ideas are expressed. The important point is to get "feedback", a term used by pollsters to measure opinions. Our state planners are to be commended for explaining what is on the drawing boards. Such problems as local plants, waste disposal and the uses of soil surveys will be examined in depth. For those with specific problems, the conference will feature a battery of consultants.

It is significant that any land use plan must fill a public need and gain public acceptance if it is to be considered successful. The Kennedy Turnpike seems to have resolved many more problems than it created in New Castle County. So most say it is good.

Expertise is fine for the long look ahead and for elements of design. However those of us who work with people have great faith in an informed public. "Common sense" is the term we use to weigh an idea and to decide if it is workable. It may be a mis-nomer, for common is equated as ordinary. Rather, it should be considered as a simple, clear, answer to the problems in question.

My interest in land use planning centers on the use of open space as a part of our living environment. Planners have yet to come up with answers to this problem. The ghettoes of our large cities present serious problems.

Relax the crowded tensions and people become more rational. Adjacent to urban cities, productive farmland can give the open space benefits of parks and still remain on the tax rolls. That is my interest in land use planning. What is yours? Come help us "Put the Plans to Work" on Saturday.

Purple Martins and mosquito control seem to be magic words to you readers. The telephone response to an earlier Fence Talk item has been so strong that we are organizing a bird session for Mon., April 22, at the new Dover YMCA on South State Street.

Many of you seem to want more information on building purple martin houses. We will have plans for you then and we will have a discussion on the proper use and care of such houses. It seems there is more management needed than one might think.

Dr. Dale Bray of our University of Delaware staff has agreed to help present the program. He suggests that we broaden the topic a bit to include other birds. He has in mind suggesting projects that can be of interest to everyone in the family.

Along these lines, I have asked Norman Holgerson to give a slide talk on the Bombay Hook Wildlife Refuge. He serves as wildlife biologist and is in the best position to talk about water fowl in the area.

We are open to other program ideas but the total meeting will be limited to an hour and a half. Probably 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Call 736-1448 with your request. Yes, the meeting is to be free and everyone is welcome. Bill Georges, YMCA executive secretary, is anxious that you see the brand new building. So you may want to come a bit earlier for a tour.

The impact of water control could not have been presented better than at our Kent County Watershed Tour. It was the kind of a tour day that county agents pray for. The ground was too wet for farmers to work at home, the skies were clear and sunny, and the temperatures were pleasant.

You might say the tour was scheduled backwards. We looked at the completed projects first, then a job under construction, and another project prior to actual planning.

Oscar Draper and Timothy Schlabach of Greenwood explained the Whitmarsh and Beaverdam maintenance programs. Rights of way are kept moved to control vegetative growth. Both men serve as local managers for their tax ditch organizations.

hawk Bridge to Vernon. The pilot channel has lowered the standing water. A new bridge should eliminate recurrent flooding at Vernon.

The city of Harrington and farmers to the north of town are looking forward to construction of the Brown's Branch Tax Ditch.

Isaac Thomas and the supervisors of the Kent Soil and Water Conservation District had made plans for a simple inspection tour. We were pleased to have Glenn Richter, Levy Court President, and Walter Fritz, county engineer, along with us.

Fred Mott and I still have some tour guide sheets left. We will be glad to provide a marked map and guide sheet to anyone who wants to make the tour himself. You can cover the 30 miles easily within two hours, and you will be on hard roads most of the way. Fred's telephone number is 697-3376 and mine is 736-1448.

Discover Wonderful Del.

If you're a young 40 or 50 or so, there's a real discovery in nostalgia awaiting you in Wonderful Delaware at the State Museum in Dover.

The Eldridge Reeves Johnson Memorial Building, dedicated last December and now open to the public, will remind you of happy times and at the same time show you how far we've come, how fast, into the middle of the 20th century.

It was in 1898 that a young mechanic in Camden, N. J., took on a 50 cent job to repair an inventor's model that wouldn't "turn round". The model was a prototype "talking machine" invented by Emil Berliner. Repairing it gave the young mechanic an idea. He saw the possibilities of a "talking machine," and the improvements this one needed. This is how the "Victor" talking machine was developed.

The young mechanic was Eldridge R. Johnson, a Dover boy, son of Asa Johnson, a local contractor and home builder. Eldridge R. Johnson became the founder of the Victor Talking Machine Company of Camden, N. J. — and you know what that became.

His accomplishment was well described by his son at the dedication of the Johnson building, "by his inventive and business genius (he) made it possible for the first time in the world's history for good music to be heard in even the most humble homes."

The Johnson Building was presented to the State of Delaware by Eldridge R. Johnson's heirs, to house the family's collections of old phonographs and records and other more personal mementos.

The Main room is a replica of an early record shop, complete with the sound-proof listening booth (remember how we used to have to check the quality of the individual record?) and old wind-up "Victrolas". You'll see the original "morning-glory" speakers, some later very elegant parlor models, and even what must be just about the Fish will spoil very quickly if not handled correctly. When fish is bought from the market it should be wrapped in moisture-proof paper or placed in a tightly covered, dish and stored immediately in the refrigerator. Don't hold fresh fish longer than a day or two before cooking.

clone spreader to apply both fertilizer and lime. In using a regular spreader, however, take care not to overlap fertilized areas and avoid leaving unfertilized strips between spreader passes.

Next, rake the lawn with a heavy steel garden rake. This will help incorporate lime and fertilizer into the soil and will remove dead leaves and grass which may smother new growth.

Removal of this so-called thatch will also reveal any winter injury to grass and will enable you to locate any bare spots that may need reseeding.

In reseeding these spots, use the same seed mixture used on the rest of the lawn. This will eliminate any off-color patches resulting from a variety of grasses. After the lawn is reseeded, rake again lightly, this time with a grass rake. Raking will help cover the seed and work it into the soil resulting in faster germination.

This is also an ideal time to eliminate unwanted garlic and onion from the lawn, notes Mitchell. An application of 2, 4-D should rid lawns of these undesirable weeds for the rest of the season.

When applying 2, 4-D with a hand sprayer or a hose proportioner, be careful not to allow the spray to drift onto nearby shrubs. This herbicide can cause a great deal of damage to most ornamental plantings.

A good way to apply 2, 4-D is with a chemically treated wax bar, says Mitchell. Simply drag the bar over the infested areas of the lawn. This will allow you to work near shrubbery and other ornamentals with no fear of unwanted damage to these plants.

Begin by liming and fertilizing the lawn, advises Mitchell. Applying 50 pounds of ground limestone and 12 to 15 pounds of complete fertilizer per thousand square feet of lawn should get grass off to a fast start. Use a regular lawn spreader or a cyclone spreader to apply both fertilizer and lime. In using a regular spreader, however, take care not to overlap fertilized areas and avoid leaving unfertilized strips between spreader passes.

In reseeding these spots, use the same seed mixture used on the rest of the lawn. This will eliminate any off-color patches resulting from a variety of grasses. After the lawn is reseeded, rake again lightly, this time with a grass rake. Raking will help cover the seed and work it into the soil resulting in faster germination.

This is also an ideal time to eliminate unwanted garlic and onion from the lawn, notes Mitchell. An application of 2, 4-D should rid lawns of these undesirable weeds for the rest of the season.

When applying 2, 4-D with a hand sprayer or a hose proportioner, be careful not to allow the spray to drift onto nearby shrubs. This herbicide can cause a great deal of damage to most ornamental plantings.

A good way to apply 2, 4-D is with a chemically treated wax bar, says Mitchell. Simply drag the bar over the infested areas of the lawn. This will allow you to work near shrubbery and other ornamentals with no fear of unwanted damage to these plants.

Begin by liming and fertilizing the lawn, advises Mitchell. Applying 50 pounds of ground limestone and 12 to 15 pounds of complete fertilizer per thousand square feet of lawn should get grass off to a fast start. Use a regular lawn spreader or a cy-

Greenwood Kiwanis Club News

Last Thursday evening the Club had as their guests five members of the Rehoboth Beach Club and Harry Banning from the Bridgeville Club. All twenty-seven present enjoyed the ham supper, prepared by the Firemen's Auxiliary, Nadine Fleischer, chairman. Invocation by Charles Conaway and group singing was led by Immediate Past President of the Rehoboth Beach Club, Richard Hackett. Other members from Rehoboth were Henry Walls, Ernest Knobelspiesse, Ralph O'Bier and Eris Schuler.

President John Turner announced a change of plans for next week. The Boy Scouts and their leaders will be guests of the club a later date. Past Lt. Governor, Ebe Reynolds will bring the program this Thursday evening, the 28th.

Immediate Past President, Roy Lloyd was presented and he gave the Club the Achievement Report for 1967, which was well received, and we believe deserves reading by the community. It follows in total:

Achievement Report for 1967
There were no outstanding projects during the past year, but all committees were active in various phases of community service. Our main objective in 1967 was to create better relations with the community and Kiwanis, and I feel that much progress has been made. The five selected committees for this report are Agricultural and Conservation, Boys' and Girls' Work, International Relations, Public and Business Affairs, and Vocational Guidance.

1. Agriculture and Conservation—During the past year, this Committee presented three programs to the Club covering farm safety and other subjects of interest to our local farmers. In March, we had our annual farmers' nite with 17 farmers as guests of members. The Committee supported the local F.F.A. Chapter and the Harrisburg Farm Implementation Show. In May, the Club assisted the F.F.A. with a horse show and donated $20 for trophies. The Club visited the Georgetown Agriculture Substation for their annual Field Day.

2. Boys' and Girls' Work—As in the past, this was our most active committee. The local Boy Scout Troop was sponsored by this committee with Club members serving as Board of Review and Scout Representative. The Club purchased four new tents at a cost of $150 and financed two under-privileged Scouts to summer camp (cost to Club $60). The committee furnished facilities at the ball park for the Scout Troop to operate a refreshment stand during the ball season.

A basketball school was conducted every Saturday in January and February by members of this Committee for boys and girls in Grades 5 through 8. During the months of May, June, and July, the Committee provided and supervised umpires, coaches, and park patrols for four Little League, two Minor League, and two Pony League teams. The Club provided the ball park and equipment at a cost of $400. All participating players and coaches were invited to a Baltimore Orioles ball game on Kids' Day; 86 attended at a cost of $200. Approximately 500 man-hours were expended in this activity.

This Committee presented three interesting youth programs to the club during the year and provided eye glass for the five needy children. The Committee participated in the annual Christmas Tree Party which is sponsored by all service clubs in Greenwood. Candy and oranges were passed out by Santa Claus to all the children in the area and patients at the Country Rest Home for the Aged. Parents were also taken to the Home for the Mentally Retarded at Stockley.

3. International Relations—This Committee presented six outstanding programs to the Club throughout the year. Past Lt. Governor Avery Ellis brought two very interesting programs to the Club with his colorful slides of two trips to Europe. An exchange student from Bolivia showed slides and a large assortment of gay clothing from her country which was enjoyed especially by our Ki-Wives. A local doctor presented an informative program on his medical experiences and living conditions in Ethiopia. A speaker from Dover Air Force Base described living conditions in Europe and what the Air Force is doing to assist them. Another outstanding program on religious and living conditions in Africa was brought to us by a local girl who is now a missionary there. In February, this Committee arranged for one of our members to visit the San Juan Club in Puerto Rico.

4. Public and Business Affairs—Hospital beds, wheel chairs, and crutches were provided again this year by this Committee as well as fuel oil and other aids for the unfortunate in the community. The Committee brought three very appropriate programs to the Club. Two from our local business men and one from the Social Security and Medicare. The public was invited. Arrangements were made for the Club to visit the Delaware Electric Co-operative for an expertly guided tour of their facilities. The Committee was also responsible for publishing the weekly bulletin for the club. At Christmas, over 40 gifts were collected from members and delivered to the Home for the Mentally Retarded at Stockley.

5. Vocational Guidance—The Committee was very active with the Boy Scout Troop in providing counsel and merit badge pamphlets. They provided bus service for the Scouts to camp at a cost of $50. The Scouts and their leaders were guests of the club on Boy Scout Week. Three programs of interest were presented to the club concerning our local school district. The program included the subjects of school growth, accreditation, and a proposed consolidation referendum. A plastic model show was sponsored for the students of Greenwood High School and trophies were presented for outstanding models. A $50 Kiwanis Citizenship Award was presented to the outstanding Greenwood Senior at the June graduation exercises. The Committee welcomed the new school teachers to the community by having them as guests to the club in September.

Check Bonded Fabrics

Bonded fabrics can make home sewing a breeze. Linings are unnecessary, sewing is quick and alterations are easy. They resist wrinkles and hold their shape; linings don't fray or ride up.

However, only high quality fabrics have these advantages, warns Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing and textile specialist at the University of Delaware. It's easy to buy inferior bonded products because disadvantages don't show up until the garment is cleaned or pressed.

Check performance standards and special instructions on hang-tags or manufacturer's labels. If the tags are missing, you're probably getting a cheap product. Don't buy a bonded fabric without a manufacturer's guarantee. Bonded fabrics are made by attaching two fabrics with either adhesive or a heated urethane foam. Two inferior fabrics will not make a good material. There's no bargain in buying something fastened together that you wouldn't buy separately, Miss Reed points out.

Three problems with bonded fabrics are shrinkage, separation and stiffening. Most bonded fabrics are backed with a lightweight synthetic called acetate tricot. Flimsy tricot can't keep a heavy fabric from shrinking nor a thin fabric from stretching. Preshrunk and quality knit and woven face fabrics are essential for smart looking, long-wearing outfits.

Some adhesives dissolve when they're drycleaned; the garments become stiff and starchy as they rehard. Dissolving adhesives may also leave permanent spots. It's impossible for the buyer to judge the quality of bonding agent, so—again—look for labels, Miss Reed stresses.

Reputable companies are concerned with the bad reputation cheap bonded fabrics are giving their products. A few, such as Coin International, Shawnit, Celanese, J. P. Stevens and Collins Aikman, are fighting back by guaranteeing their bonded fabrics against shrinkage, separation and stiffening. Consumers' insistence on fine quality will help manufacturers improve their products. So be insistent.

To avoid disappointment keep in mind the limitations of bonded fabrics. Lightweight bonded may need an additional lining to avoid clinging; jackets and coats should have another lining to give them a finished, professional look. Also, extra thickness may make garments bulky at the neckline, so choose simple styles. Always use a dry iron, advises Miss Reed. Steam tends to shrink and separate bonded fabrics.

Chamber of Com. Gets New Industry For Wilmington

The Delaware State Chamber of Commerce announced the acquisition of a new industry for Wilmington, to be located at 110 "A" Street, in what is now the Conors Supply Building.

The new production facility will be the first of several locations in Delaware of the Bata Shoe Company, Inc., a world wide corporation with plants in major countries throughout several continents. The nearest location to Delaware is at Belcamp, Md.

Frank Novak, Industrial Relations Manager of the Belcamp plant, said, "We will begin operations as soon as the premises is vacated, which should be within two weeks. In the meantime, we will begin interviewing prospective employees by Tuesday or Wednesday of next week."

The Wilmington plant of Bata Shoe is expected to employ between 50 and 70 local people after a short training period. "If things go as well as we expect, we probably will expand to larger quarters in the near future," said Mr. Novak. The Belcamp, Md., plant employs 3,000 persons.

Michael Holowka, of the Delaware State Chamber, who has been working with Mr. Novak for the past two months, also revealed that Bata Shoe is in the process of acquiring another plant in Delaware. The location has not as yet been determined.

Bata Shoe Company, Inc. has been manufacturing leather, canvas, vinyl and rubber footwear for more than 60 years. The company has just recently opened a branch operation in Baltimore, which will eventually provide employment for more than 400 employees.

The Wilmington operation will be similar to the one opened in Baltimore. It will house a sewing operation, with the final product to be assembled in the Belcamp plant.

Mr. Novak said Delaware's favorable industrial climate, including taxes, available labor supply, labor costs and accessible transportation, prompted selection of the Wilmington area.

Harry Tingle, of Patterson-Schwartz, is arranging the leasing.

Symphony Announces Cal. For Next Season

Internationally known pianist Eugene List heads the lineup of guest artists to appear with the Wilmington Symphony Orchestra next season. Soloists will be featured at each of the five regular subscription concerts, according to music director Van Lier Laning, and a sixth performance, a mid-winter pops concert, is also being planned.

Season tickets are now on sale at low pre-season rates. Subscribers have the added opportunity to purchase pops tickets at bargain prices.

List, the "Potsdam Pianist" who rose to fame after performing for Churchill, Stalin and Truman at their 1946 conference, has appeared with over 150 orchestras and hold a fantastic record of 35 performances with the New York Philharmonic. Once a judge at the famed Tchaikovsky Competition in Moscow, he played six encores when he first appeared with the Moscow Symphony in 1964. He is a well-known recording artist and the first Ed Sullivan Show was one of a long line of television appearances.

The 1968-69 season schedule is: October 10, Eugene List, pianist; November 14, Takako Nishizaki, violinist; February 13, Jeffrey Siegel, pianist; March 18, Elsa Hilger, cellist; April 15, Beethoven Triple Concerto with Leo Ahrmajian, violinist, Deborah Reeder, cellist, and Frances Fanelli, pianist. The mid-winter pops concert is planned for January 21.

Nishizaki and Siegel are winners of the Leventritt International Competition and were selected by a judging board that included Leonard Bernstein, George Szell, Isaac Stern, Rudolf Serkin, Lukas Foss and 21 other renowned artists. Elsa Hilger is first stand cellist with the Philadelphia Orchestra and a well-known soloist. Leo Ahrmajian is concertmaster of the Wilmington Symphony and Deborah Reeder is first cellist; Frances Fanelli is on the faculty of the Wilmington Music School.

Season ticket prices during the advance sale are $13.50, $12.00 and $9. After May 1 they will be $15, $13.50 and $10, respectively. Student tickets are only $6. All seats are reserved. Checks may be sent to the Wilmington Symphony Orchestra, P.O. Box 1870, Wilmington, Del. 19899, or write or call Mrs. Thomas Beulkelman, 1110 Faun Road, Graylyn Crest (19803) or Mrs. John E. BOUND and DETERMINED

How would you summon aid if a Bonnie-and-Clyde type left you tied hand and foot? A service station operator in this dilemma used his tongue to dial for help. And a woman theater manager managed to dial with her nose. The odds are heavily against you ever having to resort to extremes like these, but the incidents do point up how important your telephone can be in an emergency. Or, for that matter, your nose.

KEEPS UP POSTED—Planning to move? Tell us where early...even though you know only the approximate date. If we have your new address, we're a giant step along the way toward making certain you'll have the phone service you need. And when teenage daughters are involved, this is particularly important. Because—everyone who has one knows—teenage daughters and their telephones are as easily separated as Linus and his blanket. Bless 'em all.

THE MAN OF THE HOUSE—Though it's true that most credit for telephoning usually goes to teenagers and their mothers, Dad should not be ignored. It's estimated that the typical businessman spends some 9,000 hours on the phone—the equivalent of a full year—during his career. That's using your phone for all it's worth.

HEY, MR. CONSTRUCTION MAN—please look before you dig big. Because if you don't, a lot of us... your friends and neighbors... may be in for big trouble. There could be a phone cable directly beneath where you're getting ready to bury that shovel, a cable vital to the community. Hospitals, fire departments, things like that. It happens. KEITH S. BURGESS — Sports Editor

Sports Odds And Ends

Much has been written recently about the value of running or jogging as an aid to physical fitness.

The NASA astronauts use several methods of keeping fit, since it's each man's responsibility to do so.

A training specialist, who helps them set up individual programs states "They know that just plain old running does as much for the stomach as anything. Some of these guys can run for miles without tiring."

Major Kenneth H. Cooper, M.D., of the U.S. Air Force has been exercising vigorously and studying exercise physiology for many years. He has written a book titled "Aerobics" that teaches one how to get in top shape without diets or calisthenics. Basically it involves systematic mixtures of a person's favorite sports.

Major Cooper tested and studied 5,000 Air Force and Aerospace program men and women for four years to assess the material used in the book, which is selling like hot cakes.

Dr. Cooper has devised a point system for various exercises. Set up on a basis of 30 points a week, it is designed to put most people in fine fettle in 10 to 16 weeks. Running is listed as the ideal exercise. A mile in eight minutes, six days a week would rack up the 30 points, at five points 12 1/2 minutes is also worth five, per stint. Stationary running for swimming 600 yards in 15 minutes, cycling 5 miles in 20 minutes or 35 minutes of handball are other 5-point efforts. The cycling sounds like the easiest of all to us.

The 30 point weekly total can be acquired in other sports but it takes much longer. A half hour of football or skiing nets 3 points as does 18 holes of golf.

"Running exercises the arms and legs toughens the muscle groups throughout the body, notably the stomach," says the star athlete - researcher - doctor - author. Swimming is a close second. Cycling is third.

Follow the thirty-point program and many wonderful changes will take place in your body. Benefits are: A stronger heart, increase in size of blood vessels, improvement in muscle tone, lower blood pressure. Sounds good. We might give it a try.

Duke Kahanamoku, Olympic swimming champion and to many a symbol of Hawaii, died recently at 77.

He had an unusually long career as a champion swimmer. He competed in the 1912, 1920, 1924, and 1928 Olympic Games. In 1932 he missed qualifying for the Olympic team by a fraction of a second, at the age of 42.

Shortly before his death Duke entertained Harrington's Bill Wise in Honolulu.

Charles Wingate, a harness horseman wintering in Harrington, went to high school here. He played in a baseball game around 1935, that featured one of the greatest rallies ever by a Harrington High School team.

Beacom College, of Wilmington, had a nine that was, naturally, older than the local high schoolers. Late in the game, the next-to-the-last inning, if memory is correct, the Wilmington school led 8-1. Harrington came to life and scored 10 runs with Charley Morris, Albert Simpson, Wright Phillips etc., showing the way. Johnny Naylor, Beacom's coach was fit to be tied.

In the last inning Beacom got a runner on and Bill Stickle's Delaware City boomed out a long triple, then scored when the throw from the outfield got by the third baseman.

H. H. S. still led 11-10. With two down and at least one runner in scoring position, the batter lofted a short fly over second base. We thought "Oh, oh, there goes the game". But Charley Wingate had moved in close, with a right handed hitter up, and made the catch, that saved the game for H.H.S.

Five years later, this writer, made a shoe string catch, off the bat of Smyrna's Joe Parker, to help Roland Hitchens get a one-run victory over Beacom. Parker played for Harrington's town team that summer.

The next year, Lyman Price, now an Air Force officer, raced a single to center and raced around to break up a tie ball game, when the Beacom outfielder let it get through.

Johnny Naylor and Beacom fared well with larger high schools around Wilmington, but Naylor got to the point, where he hated to come here. Victories were too scarce.

Larry Pratt, a track and cross-country coach at the University of Delaware, has been an outspoken admirer of Harrington's Chris Wetherhold, 14, for three years. Pratt hopes to see Chris in Delaware livery some day. Wetherhold finished seventh in the U.S., in a postal two-mile run, in which all but one of the first six finishers logged their times in California's ideal weather. The Harrington lad ran alone, in November, on a frozen track in Milford and still managed a great effort.

Ironically, Pratt's old junior high school in Concord, Calif., had the winning team in the competition. It's a small world, after all.

"Teak" Gottorf, a former Caesar Rodney athlete, played some baseball, a while back for Felton's town team. He has recently formed a business partnership with a man named Teak. Teak and Teak, how does that grab you?

P. S. duPont had Delaware's 1968 state champion basketball team. A sportswriter felt that their two 5 feet 9 inch guards were probably Delaware's smallest. He did not know about Harrington's Nick Morris and Gerry Cagle, who average about 5 3/4 or 5-5.

We often kid Christopher Wetherhold about having a monkey too long to fit handily in a headline. Sometimes we merely use his nickname "Chris" there, instead. Wesley College had a basketball player this season named Jim Au. No problem, there. But, Al Au, would have been better, yet.

Harrington High's away game at Dover Air was postponed three times before it was finally played. Weather was the culprit each time. Once, all the other teams in the Henlopen Conference played that same night and the H.H.S. wrestlers tied at Seaford. One of the Air Base administrators, in a jocular vein, remarked after the second postponement, "If it's cloudy, Harrington won't come."

Quirk Hired To Sparkplug Standardbreds

Paul A. Quirk, of Dover, last week was hired as the executive secretary of the new Delaware Standardbred Development Fund.

Quirk, who presently serves as the $12,000-a-year executive secretary of the Delaware Harness Racing Commission, was selected by the fund's board of trustees at a meeting in the Blue Coat Inn in Dover.

Quirk said he will submit his resignation to the Harness Racing Commission in the near future, effective about May 1.

He said his first job will be to prepare a budget for State Budget Director F. Earl McGinness and hire a secretary.

The fund, designed to pump about $300,000 a year into special race purses to encourage the Delaware harness horse breeding industry, was set up last year by the legislature.

Under the new law, administrative costs are limited to 10 per cent of the annual income to the fund. Quirk's salary will be $12,000 a year.

The law also allows 10 per cent to be spent for advertising the special stake races. Quirk will arrange for the advertising.

Quirk said he agreed to change jobs because of the "great challenge" offered by the legislation to pump life into the breeding industry.

He was picked by a three-man subcommittee of the seven-member board of trustees. The full board then accepted the recommendation of the sub-committee.

Track Shoes Needed

Your writer has a track program each summer which involves transporting local lads to Milford, Wilmington, Penns Grove, N. J.; Pennsville, N. J., or any place where there is a track meet, they can enter.

We have several pairs of track spikes and cross-country shoes but need some more. We don't want new ones but would like persons to donate old shoes once used by former runners. This week we received spikes used by ex-H.H.S. stars, Wayne Carson, and Dr. James Schiff. If you have something of this type gathering dust around the house call Keith S. Burgess 398-8838. We'll gladly pick them up.

Harrington Bowling League

Some fine bowling was done by the Harrington Bowling League Tuesday night as seven teams of the ten team league were represented in either the high individual or the high series departments.

Wow! Things really were turned around as last week's standing were almost reversed. Sharing the top spots are McKnatt Funeral Home and Kent Gas, first and second third winners, respectively.

Kent Gas swamped last week's league-leading Hamilton Fund team to send them tumbling way down to sixth place. Though Tuesday night proved to be disastrous for Hamilton Fund, they still are in a position to make a good come-back and take all the marbles.

Some real fine bowling was turned in by K. Layton, with a real fine 213 game, and H. Wheeler who rolled 201 and 200 games, amassing a very fine 565 series, enabling Kent Gas to displace the leader.

McKnatt Funeral Home received a real good assist from H. Jack, who rolled a fine 203 game, in their setto with Penn. R. R. Either McKnatt's, as a whole, had a pretty rough night, or Penn. R. R. was up for the contest, as McKnatt's could do no better than split with them. It goes to show that you cannot take a lower place team too lightly.

Acme really made their move Tuesday night as R. Gray led the team to a four game victory over Taylor & Messick. Amassing a superb 570 series, Gray also had real fine 201 and 200 games to give Acme a chance for the last third title. G. Collins contributed a fine 200 game effort for Taylor & Messick in a losing cause.

Actually, Acme must be considered the league leader at this point as both teams on top have already won a third and are eliminated as far as this third is concerned.

Breathing down the neck of Acme is Wally's Garage, who split with Jarrell Fuel. J. Jones led Wally's Garage with a real fine 547 series, to put them a half game off the pace. D. Hayman continues to improve, as he bettered his real fine effort of last week by 15 pins, amassing a superb 588 series with games of 215 and 210 included. Even though with Hayman's help, Jarrell Fuel made a fine showing against a strong team, they could not move much in the standings.

Robbins Hardware, still in the thick of things, picked up three games off the Spoilers, to stay a half game away from Wally's Garage. G. Hobbs assisted the Spoilers with a fine 203 game Tuesday night, but they still continue to occupy the cellar position.

With three more weeks to go, things are really getting rough as only a half game or a game at the most, separate the first nine teams. All the teams had better be on their toes if they wish to win this third as time is fading fast.

R. Finkbinder bowled Tuesday night, coming back after a long absence and although he did not make his way into the scoring departments for this week we could easily understand the reason. It seems he was still suffering from a nervous condition, brought on by awaiting the birth of a fine baby girl, born March 15. Congratulations to the proud mamma and pappu.

Baseball League Registrations Off To Good Start

In the neighborhood of 100 boys registered for a berth on either the Minor, Little or Senior Leagues Wednesday evening at the Fire Hall. Although it was considered a good turnout, more boys are still needed to enable the Little and Senior Leagues to field four teams.

The first tryout will be held Saturday for the Little League boys at 10 a.m. at the school. At 1 p.m. the Senior League boys will have their tryouts at the school. Remember, April 24th is the deadline for registering for these two leagues.

Another Minor League registration will be held Sat., April 6, with tryouts also to be held. Place will be at the school grounds at 10 a.m.

ments in the Murderkill Watershed Area should help drainage conditions to the east of Harrington.

Areas shown as agricultural are basically holding areas. Should other uses desire to locate in these areas, they should be considered. Prior to permitting a new use in the area, the contemplated use should be viewed in terms of the effect it will have on the City and its surrounding area.

Conclusions
This Area-wide Development Plan should be considered as a guide to future growth. It is not a rigid map to be followed in a precise manner. Its purpose is to provoke thought as to what is the most appropriate in terms of land use for the Greater Wilmington Area. Land use designations and their locations can be changed if required. This General Plan is based upon the thinking of the Planning Commission as well as the findings contained in background planning studies.

Comprehensive Development Plan

Comprehensive Planning has been defined in many ways, but it is generally defined as providing the community with reasonable recommendations for its future development. A plan represents a document containing the analysis of data, along with assumptions, inferences, and proposals.

The Comprehensive Development Plan prepared for Harrington represents the culmination of over two years of study of those aspects of the City which will influence its growth. It is an accumulation of knowledge about Harrington, and it reflects the goals and desires of the City relative to its future development.

The map is illustrative of the land use, transportation, and public facilities requirements for Harrington by 1980. The proposals which have been advanced are based upon the planning goals already outlined in this report.
