

LEGISLATURE OK'S HIGHER INTEREST

Both houses of the General Assembly Tuesday voted to raise Delaware's lawful mortgage interest rate from 6 to 8 per cent.

Builders, bankers and real estate brokers had campaigned strongly for the change, arguing that mortgages were becoming impossible to obtain in Delaware, which has one of the country's lowest usury limits.

The House added two amendments to H.B. 566 before passing it and sending it to the Senate Tuesday. One stipulates that the new rate applies only to real estate. The other attempts to prevent lending institutions from applying the new rate to existing mortgages.

Rep. W. Laird Stabler, R-Montchanin, the bill's sponsor, met with Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. on the bill and said both amendments had Terry's support.

The House firmly rejected another amendment, which would have eliminated the "point" system for all but FHA and VA mortgages. Opponents of the amendment said it would drive interest rates higher than they otherwise might settle.

Points are percentage amounts added to the cost of a mortgage and have been used to evade the 6-percent limit.

Stabler conceded that the amendment intended to protect existing mortgages did not expressly forbid increasing interest rates, but said he has received assurances that banks will not raise interest rates on existing loans or call back outstanding mortgages.

The bill says it is the intent of the legislature "that the lawful rate of interest provided for herein shall apply on or after the effective date of this act."

Only the amendment on the point system generated debate in the House. Leon N. Weiner, a Wilmington area builder, told the House the amendment would drive rates higher on conventional loans, and eventually on FHA and VA mortgages.

Rep. Raymond T. Evans, R-Wilmington, noted the large delegation of real estate brokers in the House chamber and "challenged" them to campaign for both the interest bill and an open-housing bill in the Senate. He said it is unfair to ask minority people to pay higher interest rates without offering them a choice of housing.

Only four representatives in the chamber failed to vote for the bill. Democrats Lewis B. Harrington of Milford, W. Harrington Phillips of Laurel, and Jacob W. Zimmerman, of Dover, and Republican George Edward Gray of Selbyville were recorded as not voting.

The Senate quickly suspended the rules and passed the bill when it came over from the House. The only negative vote came from Sen. Andy Foltz, R-Dover.

The senator from Dover is not going to crucify his constituents on the altar of high interest rates," he said.

Foltz maintained that his alternative to require financial institutions to invest more money in Delaware should have been given consideration before the interest rate increase bill was passed.

MRS. TILLIE KUKULKA RECEIVES HIGHEST CCD AWARD OF DIOCESE

The highest award of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine of the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington was presented last Saturday to Mrs. Tillie Kukulka of St. Bernadette's parish, Harrington, by Bishop Thomas Mardaga at an outdoor Eucharistic Celebration at the Ursuline Retreat on the Elk River.

The award is presented each year to a lay man and a lay woman who have made outstanding contributions to the CCD program. The other recipient this year was Jack Carney from Holy Rosary parish, Claymont.

The CCD offers a program of religious education for non-parochial school children and is currently caring for 10,000 children on the elementary school level and 3,000 on the high school level in Delaware. All CCD personnel are volunteers.

Mrs. Tillie Kukulka's service ante-dates the founding of her parish in 1952. When there was no church, she taught religion classes in a rented third-floor room in an old building. Since the founding of the parish, she has been teacher, chairman of teachers, chairman of helpers, and carried out other assignments.

Mrs. Kukulka is mother of five children, aged 9 to 18. She has been a teacher's aide in Harrington Public School, where she has also served as librarian. She has been a vital force in upgrading the total parish CCD program, which now has 75 students taught by eight teachers.

An additional 275 lay men and women from all parts of the Peninsula were honored during the ceremonies last Saturday.

Comprehensive Development Plan Ready for Publication on City

INSTALLMENT IX
Interpretive Soil Map
(Intensive Play Areas)

The second soil interpretation map depicts those areas suitable for Intensive Play Areas. Again, one can see that the most suitable soils for this purpose lie northeast and east of Harrington. Those soils evidencing only slight limitation for park use may be found along the highway that goes to Frederica. Several other areas exist which exhibit soils with slight limitations. These are situated north and northeast of Harrington and in an area west of the City. These areas, from a soils point of view, appear to have potential for intensive recreational uses. It is recommended that these areas be given careful consideration for such a use in the land use plan for Harrington and its environs.

Areas which exhibit moderate limitation of intensive park areas are predominately to Harrington's east. However, since these areas also have potential for trailers, campsites, and homesites, they should be developed in a more intensive manner rather than as park sites.

Interpretive Soil Map Suitability For Sewage Disposal
The bulk of the soils displaying only slight limitations are found northeast and east of Harrington. These soils appear to lend themselves to intensive uses, particularly residential development. For soils indicating severe limitations relative to on-site use of septic tanks, some precautionary measures will have to be exercised if residential development is contemplated in these areas. Minimum lot sizes for building purposes would have to be increased. The use of density zoning or cluster development may also be feasible in these areas. This technique would allow developers to build on smaller lot sizes and it would also require that they provide a sanitary sewer system to serve the development as well as provide suitable public open space for area residents.

Indicated Future Land Use Based On Soils Interpretation
Using the soil maps as a basis, it is possible to develop some very preliminary and general land use proposals for Harrington and its environs. The soils found east of Route 13 indicate that less problems would arise if these areas were developed as future living areas.

Throughout this residential area a network of linear parks and recreation areas could be developed. Several areas along numerous water courses could be impounded and used as public grounds for swimming, boating, and fishing. Camping and picnic sites might also be developed as an integrated use for the man-made ponds. An area in the vicinity of one of the impoundments might be set aside as a future school and recreation site to serve the future population of this area. In order to develop this land properly, a system of proposed collector and local streets will have to be devised. Interesting street patterns and subdivision lay-outs should be encouraged.

The quality of soils found west of Route 13 indicate that severe problems would be encountered if urban type uses were developed to any degree of intensity. As long as these soils continue to exhibit adverse drainage conditions, non-urban type uses should be encouraged. These uses include agricultural, conservation and perhaps very low density residential development. Higher residential densities might be feasible if a system of sanitary sewers is provided. Perhaps the use of density zoning or cluster development may be the manner in which higher residential

LEVY COURT DISAGREES ON TAX REDUCTION

Kent County Levy Court commissioners failed to reach agreement Tuesday on a Republican sponsored 10-cent property tax rate cut and a newly revised budget for the next fiscal year.

Following a 35-minute executive session Tuesday morning, commissioners agreed to act on the proposed tax cut and the proposed $1.1-million budget at their meeting next Tuesday when all five commissioners will be present.

Levy Court President Glenn A. Richter was in St. Louis, Mo., Tuesday attending graduation ceremonies for one of his children.

Following the meeting, acting president Isaac Thomas, a Republican, said that no action was taken Tuesday because Democratic commissioners William E. Spence and William C. Holden refused to support the two measures at this time.

Spence declined to comment on what action would be taken next week. "Ask Mr. Chairman," he said, apparently referring to Richter.

If the 10-cent tax is approved next week, the county property tax rate will drop to 40 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. Two years ago in another election year, county commissioners cut

James Lyons, 21, of Harrington, and Thomas O'Day, 21, Felton, were released after treatment for cuts at Kent General Hospital.

Lyons was charged with reckless driving and was fined $25 in Magistrate Court 7, Dover.

4 Injured In Felton Crash

Four East Orange, N. J., residents were injured in a one-car accident at the junction of U.S. 13 and Delaware 12 at Felton.

State police said that a car driven by Luther Sutton, 34, was forced off U.S. 13 by an unidentified vehicle and struck a traffic light at 10:55 p.m. Saturday. Sutton and a passenger, Deborah Milteen, 22, were treated at Kent General Hospital in Dover and released. Admitted to the hospital were Mrs. Kathleen Sutton, age unknown, wife of the driver, and Fred Walker, 28. Both received cuts and a broken leg. They were listed in good condition.

George B. Paskey Sr.

George B. Paskey Sr., 68, proprietor of the People's Service Station, here, died Sunday at Presbyterian Hospital, Philadelphia, after a short illness.

He was an honorary member of the Harrington Fire Company. Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Alice D. Paskey; a son, George B. Paskey Jr., Harrington; one sister, Mrs. Harold W. T. Purnell, Harrington; two brothers, William M. Paskey, Sr., Felton, and Walter J. Paskey Jr., Harrington, and a granddaughter.

A requiem mass was offered Wednesday morning at St. Bernadette's Catholic Church here, with burial in Hollywood Cemetery. The Rosary was recited at 9 Wednesday morning at the J. Millard Cooper Funeral Home.

the county tax rate 30 cents to 35 cents per $100 of valuation.

Anticipated revenues from the 40 cent tax rate would give the county a projected $3,112 surplus over the $1,125,700 budget proposed by the Republicans Tuesday. The slight surplus was projected on the assumption that 100 per cent of the taxes billed will be collected. Last year only 95 per cent of the taxes were collected.

The budget proposed Tuesday is $14,450 lower than the budget presented to the Levy Court last week by county auditor Harold E. Remley. The reduction was achieved by cutting the County Planning Commission's requested $83,000 budget by $10,000 and the engineer's office budget $4,450. Officials from both agencies said the proposed budget cuts would have little effect on the operation of their offices.

Last week, Remley told the Levy Court that a 10-cent cut would result in an estimated budgetary deficit of $80,956 at the end of the coming fiscal year. Tuesday, however, he said that his new projections of revenue for next year were $89,638 higher than his earlier estimates, largely because of anticipated increases in building permits and recording fees.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne Holberton
For the next month or so, no great changes are expected either up or down in supplies and prices of red meats.

Pork remains in ample supply. Marketings thus far have been larger than those of a year ago. However, due to the season, look for some increases in price as fewer hogs are marketed during hot weather.

When you cook pork, be sure to have your oven temperature at a low to moderate setting—325 degrees F is recommended.

If you have a meat thermometer, the internal temperature of fresh pork loins should be 170 degrees F.

Storage stock of potatoes are heavy and early new potatoes from Florida should be in peak supply now.

Strawberries continue to be the best buy at the fruit counter. More watermelon and cantaloupes are arriving locally and quality has improved.

Around Home

A good rainy-day chore during house cleaning season might be to spruce-up the fireplace. First, take the logs, grates, grill and debris out. Sweep away what's left—use a snow shovel if the job's too big for a fireplace tool.

FENCE TALK

Stewardship of our land and water resources is well established by the American farmer today. He has proved that full crop production also builds soil fertility with sound conservation practices.

But can his urban neighbor do the same? We foul up our streams with waste disposal, our air with noxious pollutants, our disturbed soils around new building developments erode away by wind or water action, and our trash or filth clutter up the landscape.

Our city cousins don't even seem to realize that open space uses of land can ease core city problems. The ghettos are not too much different from crowded jails.

Greater soybean profits come with good management all along the line Ed Schabinger, my counterpart in New Castle County, has just mailed a circular letter on the better soybean practices which his farm growers might use.

We're at planting time right now. We don't want 12345 OIN now. We don't like to see soybeans go into the ground before May 20 because of cool soil temperatures.

I hope our farmers are using soil tests as a means of liming and fertilizing the crop. Luxury levels of feeding waste money. A single soil test costs a buck.

Let's talk a bit about varieties. Our University Agronomists recommend Kent, Delmar, Bethel and Hood. The State Board of Agriculture needs a minimum of two weeks to run a free seed germination test.

Weed control starts with proper soil fitting. Most growers like to plow early enough for weed seeds to sprout. They can be disked under just prior to planting.

Contact us today or whenever you want fast, on-the-spot attention for any of your heating requirements.

HARRINGTON LUMBER & SUPPLY CO. HARRINGTON, DEL. WE GIVE S&H GREEN STAMPS

Chemical weed killers are also good tools—but not necessarily the only way or even the best way to keep weeds under control. We recommend Treflan, Vernam, Lorox, Randox, or Dinitro for specific problems.

Finally, farmers must decide whether to store or sell the crop at harvest. Eight years out of ten it pays to store. Lister Hall, Kent County ASCS office manager, says that we have another load of midwestern surplus storage bins on the way here.

Flaws in your fabric? Soiled streaks at the center? If you notice them before you cut out the garment, you may be able to cut around them.

Government specifications allow five flaws in every fifty yards of goods with no restriction on the size of the flaw.

If the fabric was sold as first quality and you find a major flaw after cutting, take the fabric back to the store.

Don't get too worked up about minor flaws. Some are so minute they will probably never be noticed by anyone but you.

Kiwanis Club of Greenwood
 Last Thursday, Kiwanians and guests totaling 28, were served a spaghetti dinner by the women of Tressler Mennonite Church, Mrs. Treva Zook, chairman. Guests of the club were Larry Peterman, George Roe, Jackie O'Bier, Raymond Baker and Paul Baker, who will be managing Little League teams this season. Immediately following the meeting, these men, with the officers and directors of the Kiwanis Club youth projects group, went into a work session, planning for the success of the Little League season opening in June. Due to this necessary meeting, no program was planned for the club.

Another guest was Scoutmaster James Moore, who briefly told of a new troop activity, which entailed getting out a monthly newsletter. He saw much benefit to the troop from this effort. Copies of the first newsletter were distributed among the members and their guests. Still another guest was Roger Perkins, 2nd vice president of the Nordonia Hills Kiwanis Club, of Northfield, Ohio. Roger is associated with the trucking firm that purchased the Lester Newton Trucking Company.

Inter-club chairman, Arthur Tatman, found there would be three, possibly four members attending the 45th anniversary and ladies night of the Seaford Club on the 29th of May.

President John Turner, ascertained, by membership voice, that a round table meeting would be substituted for a dinner meeting, Thurs., May 30. Bob Willey warned that there was much to do, to have the barbecue stand ready for the opening, May 30. The Bridgeville Kiwanis Club will operate the stand for the first two weekends. President Turner announced that next Thursday there would be no program, but members would come in work clothes, and assemble at the barbecue stand after the dinner hour, in an effort to complete all the things needed to be done. Kiwanian Stanley Cahall is in the midst of getting training he will need in his new work here in Delaware.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Baker, of

Boy Scout Troop 242 Letter
 This newsletter is an undertaking of the troop committee to first recognize each boy for his efforts and accomplishments in scouting, and secondly, to keep the parents and community abreast of what is happening in their troop. To the boys, it is a way of seeing how they are doing as a member of a group—both individually and as a member of a patrol.

New Leaders
 At our meeting of May 6 new leaders were appointed. Each boy was chosen for his rank and leadership ability.

Senior patrol leader, Warren Hamstead; assistant patrol leaders, Walter Chambers and Bruce Bowman; Eagles patrol leader, David Cannon, and assistant leader, David Bragg; Panthers patrol leader, John Mills, and assistant, Ormand Porter; Arrows patrol leader, Dicky Ivory, and assistant, Jackie Tucker.

The troop committee wishes to express their congratulations and best of luck to each boy as he endeavors to carry out the duties of his post.

Welcome
 We would like to welcome the boys that have joined our troop since we rechartered in February. They are Billy Ivory, Lomont Ross, Frankie Myer, Jonathan Smith and William Frisby. Happy Scouting!

Thanks
 The troop committee would like to thank Mrs. Pat Hatfield who will publish this letter in the column which she writes for three area newspapers. This is another way of recognizing our boys for their effort as the community will soon learn which boys in the community will be the leaders in its future.

Congratulations
 On May 13 we held a contest on the scouting knowledge listed in the Scout handbook. There were seven multiple choices, five completions and eight true or false. Following is a list of the top scores and the boys who received them.

Warren Hamstead, 19 right, 1 wrong; Walter Chambers and David Cannon, 18 right, two wrong; Ormand Porter, 16 right, four wrong; David Bragg, 15 right, five wrong.

The purpose of this letter is to recognize boys for their efforts in scouting, so we are proud to name the above boys who have applied themselves in learning to be better citizens in the future.

Board of Review
 We have scheduled another review for May 20. A board is composed of three or more men who sit in review of a boy who wishes to advance to the next rank in scouting. If they feel that the boy knows the requirements of this rank, he is then advanced. The committee would like to thank Roy Lloyd who in the past has devoted time and effort in organizing and heading up these reviews.

Spring Camporee
 A camporee is a weekend camping trip where all the troops of Sussex district meet in the brotherhood of scouting to fellowship, compete, and exchange ideas of scouting. We are proud to announce that the boys of Troop 242 received first place at the Fall Camporee, in skill, competition, scouting knowledge and campsite preparedness. At this Camporee, Troop 242 will be the Service Troop, whereby they will compete, as do all troops, plus perform any service needed by the camp staff. Even with the extra duty, Troop 242 is composed of the caliber of boy that will bring home first prize again. Good luck! The committee and boys would like to thank the V.F.W. for buying the food supply for the Camporee on May 24-26.

Point System
 Warren Hamstead has initiated a system whereby each patrol receives points for accomplishing or carrying out certain items. Each month we will publish the point standing of each patrol. It will be interesting to see which patrol wins, won't it? Will it be your boy's patrol? Watch and see!

Cumulative total of first two weeks—1st, Eagles, 91 points; 2nd, Panthers, 55 points; 3rd Arrows, 50 points.

Invitation
 The Committee chairman wishes to extend an invitation to any of the parents that wish to join us at our monthly meeting, being held the first Wednesday of each month. Our next meeting is June 5.

Mr. Shinn is a graduate of Philadelphia Bible College and is chairman of Child Evangelism in the state of Delaware. He is well known over the nation, the Gideons distribute Bible in motels, hotels, hospitals, and other such places. What is not known often is that they also distribute Bibles all over the world and in many foreign languages. For instance, millions of Bibles are needed right now to be distributed in India where it is no longer possible to send missionaries. Perhaps it is surprising to many readers that the people of India, many thousands of them, are clamoring for copies of the Bible in their own language. At the service Sunday, everyone will have an opportunity to contribute to this very worthy cause.

At the Memorial Day Service, which will be at Hollywood Cemetery this coming Thursday at 10 a.m., the guest speaker will

We wanted to say it first Members of Milford's police department, including "Canine Sergeant Gus," received awards and praise last week. Some say Gus is the smartest on the force. We're kidding, of course.

Our white tomcat, Jolson, is also smart. When Mrs. Carrington H. Burgess lost a wristwatch, Jolson found it. When Mrs. B. misplaced her glasses, Jolson found 'em. Now he has been appointed to find a missing ear-ring.

Civil demonstrators plead non-violence but know, full well, there will be violence. As in King's first demonstration in Memphis, "it was the people on the sidewalk" who caused the trouble. The "poor" people's march on Washington preaches non-violence, but one can bet one's bottom dollar there will be violence. Furthermore, who is going to pay for the mess these marchers will leave in Washington?

We must believe the Communists have a part in some television programs. Never do we hear a white man condemning Negroes on these so-called programs, but we do hear Negroes condemning the whites and complaining about racism. One received an Emmy award the other night and used the occasion on how ill-treated were the Negroes. According to the Saturday Evening Post, this character receives at least $50,000 a week. Seven years ago he was a resident of Philadelphia. On the other side of the coin are two Negro veterinarians, in the Wilmington suburbs, who are considered experts in their field.

PENN-CENTRAL PRESIDENT VISITS HARRINGTON

Last Monday A. E. Perlman, president of the recently merged Penn-Central system, together with top officials of the Eastern Region, traveling in rail-highway cars, stopped in Harrington a few minutes for a coffee-break and brief inspection of the local offices.

The trip was made in this manner to acquaint Mr. Perlman with the Eastern Shore Railroad and at the same time afford his subordinates a detailed view of the road-bed and right-of-way.

Train movement on the main track was suspended briefly to permit safe operation of the five-car caravan which left Edgemoor at 8 a. m., arriving at Cape Charles at 3:30 p. m., where they retraced their rail-wheels and continued on to Norfolk via the bridge-tunnel highway.

The party then flew back to Philadelphia. P. S. "In an airplane."

"SAM'S PLACE"

As time approaches that memorable day When the doors will close, and Sam will say Thank you Ethel, for setting the pace For that's how it is at SAM'S PLACE.

I seem to see her hustling down the street Early in the morning, so clean and neat As though she is in some big race But she is part of SAM'S PLACE.

I look back to childhood days And remember their love, expressed in many ways If funds were low, as oft be the case We could "charge it" at SAM'S PLACE.

The community will mis "ye ole store," in town Where friends and neighbors were oft to be found Talking of old times, buy satin and lace Food, hoes, rakes, poems, songs, all at SAM'S PLACE.

As you travel around the world, in work or play And see God's great handy work on display It will seem everything you seem to face Will always remind you of SAM'S PLACE.

Delaware Farm Labor News

STATE SUMMARY

Cool weather continues to retard asparagus growth throughout the area resulting in under-employment of the nearly 1,700 asparagus cutters. Reports from Florida indicate that they have recruited crews for all the orders we sent them, but apparently many of these crews have not contacted the employer. Efforts are being made to have the crew leaders do so immediately.

WILMINGTON AREA (Lower New Castle County)

Cold weather continues to retard the growth of asparagus. This is causing further under-employment for approximately 850 workers. Despite showers the last few days, the rainfall this year is still 4 1/2 inches below normal. Nursery is employing 55 Puerto Ricans. Preparation of ground and corn planting continues. Strawberries should be ready the end of this week and the pea harvest is expected to start in the next ten days.

DOVER AREA (Kent County)

The asparagus crop has been greatly reduced because of the cool weather. As a result there is much under-employment for the 600 Puerto Ricans and Tex-Mexican workers. Rains were beneficial to crops but more is needed. There was some irrigation of tomatoes and peas this past week. The pea harvest will get started within the next ten days, but there is no anticipated labor problem as this crop is mechanically harvested. Potato growers are spraying and cultivating potatoes.

GEORGETOWN AREA (Sussex County)

Rain over entire county this weekend beneficial to all crops. Laurel Auction Block opened for sale of strawberries. Reports indicate a good crop is expected due to mild spring. Expect 400 to 700 crates of berries for sale daily for next 3 weeks. Approximately 245 Puerto Rican contract workers cutting asparagus for processing in local area. Peas expected to be ready for harvest by end of May. JOB OPENINGS: Poultry plant workers, male or female, $1.60-$1.71 per hour, Milford area - poultry catcher, male, $1.71 per hour, Milford area. Laborers, shellfish-processing, male or female, $1.60 per hour. Laborers, processing vegetable, male or female, $1.60 per hour. WAGE SURVEY Wage Survey Area-New Castle, nursery labor, $1.50 per hour.

Letter to the Editor

Harrington, Delaware P. O. Box 115 May 17, 1968

The Honorable William Roth House of Representatives Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

There are several thoughts I would like to communicate to you. Actually, this correspondence is an elaboration on the recent questionnaire you so thoughtfully mailed to your constituents.

As you know so well, our Country is witnessing dramatic and rapid changes — both domestically and internationally. Recent developments are threatening our whole concept of American Democracy and Free Enterprise. We cannot stand idly by while a particular segment of our population attempts to sabotage those freedoms that we cherish. The United States has a history filled with problems and appropriate solutions. We also have a history of blunders.

We cannot afford to make a mistake at the present time. There is too, too much to lose. We must grant equal opportunity to all Americans — black, white, red and yellow. However, we must not grant economic equality to any group of Americans or to Americans as a whole.

Each individual in our society must lift himself up. That's the American Way... and it's the only way if we are to survive as a truly free society.

Intense pressure and the threat of violence (or violence) must be met with law and order — the result of anything else is CHAOS. Wholesale looting must be prevented, not sanctioned. Socialist demands for "guaranteed minimum wage" should be met with an emphatic "NO".

At the same time we should not take an idealist approach to our problems and solutions. This is a time for PRAGMATIC CONSERVATION.

Our experiences in foreign aid have proved conclusively that money doesn't buy friends. I submit that money doesn't buy freedom and social justice either.

Any day now, I expect to have my taxes increased. Why? The answer I get is because of inflation. Who caused this inflationary spiral? It wasn't me, that's for sure. Government spending has caused it. Until we, as Americans, realize that big government is a threat to liberty we will be traveling a mighty rough and dangerous road.

I submit to you, Mr. Roth, that Americans want their government back. It is ours — isn't it? We do not want giveaway programs. However, we do want to spend the money the way we see fit.

We do want to alleviate the social injustices that plague our Nation. This will not be done by bowing to intensive pressure on Washington... nor by constructing sewage facilities and providing electrical facilities, thereby sanctioning the activities of a particular group. IS THIS ANY WAY TO RUN A COUNTRY?

The right to petition the government should end when there is a decisive threat to our nation's capitol. Changes are provided for by way of the ballot box. If this is no longer true then Washington faces the possibility of becoming the target for every segment and group that disagrees with our democratic processes.

I, for one, could organize an Advertising People's March on Washington to protest the way our group is being treated.

Mr. Donald Turner of the Anti-trust Division (Justice Department) has suggested advertising creates a monopoly. His solution: "It may be perfectly appropriate in a remedial decree to impose limitation on advertising expenditures for a period of time in order to help dissipate the monopoly position." He insists that advertising increases the cost of products and services. THIS IS FALSE!

Advertising makes products cost less. The more units of a product we can sell (through customer awareness and understanding — namely, advertising), the more of our investment is returned to us. This greater return permits us to employ more people; buy more and better machinery; produce more goods at lower costs; and to develop new and better products.

Advertising is one of the big reasons this country has achieved greatness: by raising people's sights; and telling them what's available; and by making products available at lower and lower cost.

For proof of this all one has to do is read "Advertising and Competition" by Dr. Jules Backman of New York University.

I'd say that advertising people have a good reason for petitioning the government. We do have pressure groups in Washington to inform our Members of Congress.

Let's not yield to the unrealistic and socialistic demands for a guaranteed income. Let's create opportunities for all. People who have jobs don't have the time or the need for such demonstrations.

Create jobs by offering tax incentives to business. Get those people capable of working off the welfare rolls and into jobs — by withdrawing welfare payments, if necessary. Employed people are taxpayers. Let them shoulder some of the burden. In the long run, they'll become stronger and happier. In the long run, they'll become freer and our society will become better. This is not idealistic — it is common horse sense. That's what we need more of these days in Washington.

You, Mr. Roth, can help Congress understand this fact. Keep up the good work.

Concerned, Robert E. Perry

Townsend Man Charged With ICC Violations

The United States Attorney on Tues., May 21, filed a criminal information against Howard G. Slaughter, of Townsend, charging nine counts of granting rate concessions in violation of Interstate Commerce Commission authorizations.

Under Interstate Commerce Commission regulations, a common carrier files with the Commission its rate for transporting property. Charging amounts under the amounts filed in the tariff constitutes a violation of the laws.

The criminal information charging Howard G. Slaughter, doing business as Slaughter Beverage Transport, a common carrier by motor vehicle, with receiving compensation from Terminal Distributor Company, Inc. for the transportation of a shipment of Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer aggregating 1,170 cases each containing 24-12 ounce returnable bottles weighing a total of 46,508 pounds on nine separate dates in August, September, October and November of 1967. The shipments took place between Newark, N. J. and Baltimore, Md. The information alleges that the compensation should have been $190.68 per trip, although the actual amount charged was $153.48.

The Interstate Commerce Commission Act provides for a minimum fine of $200 for each violation.

Peninsula Annual Conference Meets, Votes on Merger

At the first session of the Peninsula Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church, delegates voted 331 to 24 for final merger of the formerly racially separated Delaware and Peninsula Conferences. It was reported to the members of the Conference that the Trustees representing both groups had voted unanimously in favor of the merger. The report of the Merger Committee was presented by the Rev. Richard Stazesky, of Wilmington, who acted as chairman of the group ending the racial division of the church.

During a discussion of the report presented by the Peninsula Methodist Homes and Hospitals, Inc., which operate the Methodist Country House in Wilmington and the Manor House in Seaford, it was revealed that the entrance fee for either of the two retirement homes is $7500 per person. The Rev. Wayne Cuff, of Cambridge, Md. stated that the homes should "integrate their facilities" if the Conference expected the Negroes in the church to financially support the merger. Regarding a discussion of the operating cost of the institutions, another delegate, the Rev. Clayton Hammond of Dover, suggested that since "other agencies can take care of this need cheaper", that the Peninsula Conference might abandon this type of program.

Upon the motion of the Rev. Jervis Cooke, of Newark, the Conference ruled that in the future, Peninsula Methodist Homes and Hospitals, Inc., cannot contract for or construct any new facility until it is reviewed and approved by the Commission on World Service and Finance; the Conference Council, and the body of the Annual Conference. Dr. George Pigueron, executive director of the homes reported that the institutions receive no federal aide nor have they ever requested it. He stated further that the debt on the Country House in Wilmington has been paid in full and the amount due on the Manor House is in the neighborhood of 2 1/2 million dollars. Dr. Pigueron pointed out that it costs the State of Delaware more to keep an individual in the State Poor House for two years, than the church agency charges for its entrance fee; and further, that the homes will accept any one the Conference might care to recommend, so long as they provide the necessary funds to support their entrance.

A discussion followed the report of Christian Social Concerns regarding Vietnam and "conscientious objectors". It was brought to the attention of the delegates that the recent General Conference held in Dallas had ruled that the minister and laity should be equipped to inform those and "render assistance to the individual who conscientiously objects to service in the military forces."

Another delegate reopened discussion on the report concerning alcohol problems by condemning a Wilmington newspaper for the manner in which they reported the General Conference change in the United Methodist Discipline regarding the deletion of the reference to abstinence from alcohol and tobacco. The afternoon session was adjourned in the midst of this emotional discussion.

BURN 'N SERVE Picnic on the Green! That's what Herman might have called it. His less imaginative Levy Courtmen label it, "Proposed Budget 1968-69." It's a beaut! Against $1,200,000 last year, the new figure is pegged at $1,140,000 — and then only because the Boys have left out altogether the $325,000 budgeted last year for the Welfare Home (the State now pays that bill). Other Welfare costs are up $55,000 over 1966. But they've taken $7,000 from the Courtroom budget, and have saved another $3,000 in the request of Democrat Dorsey Torbert for the tax receiver's office. The picnic line forms elsewhere. Assessment costs, for instance — up $8,000 over 1966. Short-term debt costs — $3900 two years ago — now stand over $12,000. Printing, stationery, and supplies averaged $20,000; would you believe $34,000 in the new budget? Personal bonds for employees totalled $380 when the offices handled them separately; the GOP Commissioners are asking $1500. (Maybe nobody trusts the people down there anymore.) An after-hours doorman adds $5,000 to the budget. Planning's costing almost $77,000. County engineering — with one trash dump and no sewer in the ground: $64,000. Looking after 50 workers adds another $6,000. The cost of legal advice — $4800 with previous Democrats — now comes at $6600. And that's without "legislative liaison" — another $2400. Even a 2nd-story office on the Green soaks up $300/month. Quite a picnic on the Green for Herman's Boys — and all at your expense. But cheer up. November's not too far away; and you can end that picnic with a Democratic vote.

densities could be achieved. Several areas west of Route 13 appear to be suitable for park and recreation purposes.

Introduction

Community planning represents a process for improving man's physical, social, and economic environment. Thus, planning to be effective must be "people" oriented. It is for this reason that a population study was prepared for Harrington.

Population

Much of the new growth which has occurred in Kent County has largely taken place in its unincorporated areas. For example, the U.S. Bureau of Census reported Kent County's 1960 population at 65,651 persons. This was an increase of 27,781 persons over the 1950 population enumeration.

It is evident from the land use map prepared for the City that some growth is occurring just outside the City limits of Harrington. This development is not as extensive as that occurring around other incorporated areas.

Population Trends in Harrington

The population count within the City ranges from a low of 2,580 persons to a high of 2,667 persons. For planning purposes, a figure of 2,600 persons will be used.

At the present rate of growth, Harrington could anticipate a 1970 population of 2,745 persons and by 1980 around 3,020 persons.

With a present population estimated at roughly 2,600 persons, the net residential density for the City is calculated to be approximately 11 persons per acre. Thus, if all the undeveloped areas, which comprise around 238 acres, were to be used for residential purposes an additional 2,860 persons could be accommodated within the City.

Holding Capacity of Residential Zoned Land

If population increases are related to the City's present zoning ordinance, the following increases may be anticipated. In the R-1 residential zone, a total of 273 families or approximately 819 persons could be accommodated, based on a minimum lot requirement of 6,000 square feet.

In the R-2 residential zone, which permits development to take place on minimum lots of 3,000 square feet, the total number of families that could be housed in this zone is approximately 602 or 1,806 persons.

In combining the potential population for the R-1 and R-2 areas, the City could expect a new population increment of 2,625 persons. Adding this figure to the City's approximate population of 2,600 persons, an ultimate population based on zoning considerations might reach 5,225 persons.

For planning purposes, it is reasonable to assume that the present growth rate within the City limits will continue. Thus, a 1980 population forecast of 2,020 persons will be used as a basis for planning future facilities within the City.

Growth Trends in the Greater Harrington Area

Growth can be expected to continue in the City's fringe areas. At the present time, the population of Harrington, plus the immediate fringe areas is approximately 3,300 persons. At the present time, approximately 1% of the county's population of 56,651 resides outside the immediate area of Harrington.

The median age of the non-white community is much younger than that which characterized the community as a whole. When this statistic is coupled with the fact that the non-white segment of the City is growing at a much faster rate than the rest of the City, certain kinds of planning considerations emerge.

In terms of age characteristics, we find certain age groups increasing compared to their 1950 level. The 0-4 and 5-14 age-group presented a sizeable increase over the 1950 population count. Increases were also noted in the 65 plus age category. These statistics have relevance in regards to meeting future school needs and providing jobs for those who will soon be entering the local labor force.

The City should make an effort to retain these people; otherwise a severe imbalance in population might occur. Improving the opportunities for employment, housing, and education will go a long way in retaining these age groups.

Introduction

It is important as part of the Comprehensive Planning Program to know the character and quality of existing housing within the city. Such information provides a basis for determining future housing requirements within Harrington. It indicates present and future blighted areas, as well as those environmental conditions which contribute to blight.

Census Data on Housing Quality

The 1960 U.S. Census of Housing revealed that there were 904 dwelling units within the corporate limits. Of these 728 or 81% were classified as sound 148 or 16% were characterized as deteriorating, and 23 or 3% were designated as dilapidated.

It is evident that Harrington compared favorably with the quality conditions that existed in the lower two counties. It must be remembered, however, that these statistics were gathered more than six years ago and many of the buildings in Harrington which were characterized as deteriorating are probably now dilapidated.

A field survey conducted in the summer of 1964 and soon checked in the summer of 1965 revealed the location of structures which were classified as unsound. These locations may be found on the accompanying map.

Several of these areas contain enough unsound structures to warrant major redevelopment. These include the area between the Railroad and East Street south of the Shopping Center. Another area lies east of the West Harrington Elementary School along Mud Road.

The old shopping core area offers opportunities to eliminate non-residential structures, many of which have fallen into a state of disrepair, and will continue to be neglected because they are vacant. In those areas not designated as having unsound structures, measures should be taken to insure that they remain sound for years to come.

Blight can be caused by many factors. Mixed land use, overcrowding, heavy traffic congestion, poor construction codes, lack of proper government facilities, and financial difficulties represent contribution factors to blight. All of these should be watched closely in order to guard against the future deterioration of Harrington.

Neighborhood Analysis

For planning and urban renewal purposes there is no need to divide the community into planning units or neighborhoods. The city is small enough that a separate study relative to neighborhood analysis is not justified. Without undertaking a special door to door survey of those families affected by substandard housing, it is clear that many of the non-white residents of the community reside in these structures.

The problem of housing in Harrington, however, goes beyond meeting the needs of the low income families. Additional housing or all income levels is required within the City. Older homes need to be brought up to modern day standards in terms of electrical, plumbing and heating facilities.

Enacting local ordinances to improve housing quality through rehabilitation will increase the present available supply. New housing of medium and high quality, however, is needed in Harrington. The Planning Commission, City Fathers, and the Chamber of Commerce should organize a seminar which would focus specifically on increasing the housing supply in Harrington for all income levels.

Guards Attending AFT Course

Annual field training (AFT) for the 261st Artillery Brigade, Delaware Army National Guard, moved into high gear Monday with emphasis on marksmanship and rifle range procedures.

The 261st, commanded by Brig. Gen. Albert W. Adams, of Harrington, began their two weeks of AFT last Saturday. They will remain in a training statue until June 1.

A major portion of the unit is stationed at the State Rifle Range, New Castle, while its other members will train at the armories in Dover and Wilmington.

Highlighting Monday's activities was the maintenance of weapons, a review of rifle range safety procedures, and lessons in firing techniques. In addition, the men were given a special class on the proper care and use of searchlights and other signal equipment. This material was presented by representatives of the Army's Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

During this past weekend, the Guardsmen completed setting up their temporary living quarters and received a class on legal procedures from the Delaware State Police.

The Dover-based 261st is composed of men from the New Castle and Kent County areas.

Help Prevent Pesticide Mishaps

Pesticide accidents don't just happen. They are caused by people who fail to use chemicals properly, says Frank Boys, agricultural chemicals specialist at the University of Delaware. To prevent pesticide accidents, you need only follow a few simple rules.

Read and understand everything on the label and follow instructions carefully. If you have a question, consult your dealer or your county agent. And remember to make sure that anyone helping with pesticides also understands and follows label instructions.

Take special care to keep children and animals away from mixing, dusting and spraying areas, says Boys. And apply pesticides carefully for correct coverage and minimum drift. Use any recommended protective clothing or mechanical devices. Wash and change clothing when the job is done.

In storing chemicals, Boys recommends that they be locked in a cabinet, room or building. Keep pesticides in original labeled containers—never in pop bottles, cider jugs or other unlabeled containers, particularly those associated with food and drink. Children have been accidentally poisoned this way. And be sure to put chemicals away after mixing, he adds.

Dispose of empty or unused pesticide containers as soon as possible, but don't toss them in garbage cans or dumps where children and animals might find them. Burn paper bags and fiber drums, but take care to avoid smoke fumes—they may be poisonous. Rinse, crush, break and bury any cans or jugs that contained liquid chemicals.

Art History Curriculum At U. of D. Revised

Dr. William I. Homer, chairman of the Department of Art History at the University of Delaware, has announced major changes in the art history curriculum.

Changes include a new seminar and an independent study program for undergraduates.

Students will be able to elect courses from the new curriculum during advanced registration for the fall semester. Newly-added courses include American art, Neo-Classicism, Romanticism and Realism, Impressionism to the present, a museum seminar, history of landscape architecture, The Gothic Cathedral, Eighteenth century art, and American architecture from 1830-1915.

The new seminar for upper-class majors is titled "Literature, Theory and Methods of Art History." Various faculty members will address the students, introducing major theories of art history and aesthetics. Six courses previously offered have been dropped from the curriculum.

The newly-instituted program of independent study will allow qualified undergraduates to supplement their regular programs with independent research projects. Dr. Wayne Craven Henry Francis duPont Associate Professor of Art History, is coordinator of the independent project program.

Students will be encouraged to prepare papers and reports, with close faculty guidance, on selected topics in the history of art and architecture. Case studies on problems ranging from museum exhibitions to architectural restoration projects will be acceptable. It is hoped that the pro-

Increase 1968 Soybean Acreage

Farmers in Delaware and across the nation have indicated that they intend to plant more soybeans this year, according to W. T. McAllister, extension farm management specialist at the University of Delaware.

Delaware farmers report that they plan to plant five percent more land in soybeans than in 1967, says McAllister. This will be an increase of 7,000 acres over the 149,000 acres planted last year. However, this is still 6,000 acres less than the 1962-66 five year average of 162,000 acres.

On a nationwide basis, soybean acreage will increase by a million acres, he adds. And with an average yield of 25 bushels per acre, the crop in 1968 would exceed one billion bushels. Added to this is a record 150 million bushel carryover from the 1967 crop.

The price fortunes of soybeans are closely tied to the foreign demand for soybeans, says McAllister. Export sales take about one third of the U.S. crop each year. Overseas shipments of soybeans will be up again in 1968, but considerably less than anticipated.

World supplies of oil and soybean crops are increasing and are creating tough competition for the American soybean, he explains. Sunflower seed from Russia and eastern Europe and larger quantities of Peruvian fish meal have combined to hold export demand for soybeans at low levels in spite of lower prices than in recent years.

If farmers carry out their intentions, prices of soybeans at harvest and during the marketing year of 1969 will stay close to the $2.50 per bushel support level, assuming that weather remains normal during the growing season and that world supplies of vegetable oil and protein continue to be large, he concludes.

In reality, however, drainage and pesticides are only segments of a fully integrated mosquito control program here in Delaware. High bank impoundments, pioneered by University of Delaware research entomologists, are an important part of this program and are instrumental in attracting wildlife to certain areas of the state.

When most Delawareans think of mosquito control, they see large-scale drainage projects or airplane sprayers laying a cloud of chemicals across the land.

In addition to financing construction of impoundments, the Mosquito Control Division is largely responsible for maintenance costs including power and building costs and repairs. Impoundments are managed in close cooperation with the Board of Game and Fish Commission.

When the high marsh is covered by the lunar tides, which occur twice monthly, eggs hatch. As the tide recedes, larvae are swept into small puddle-like water pools. And after eight or nine days, the adult mosquito emerges.

To prevent salt marsh mosquitoes from breeding, University entomologists, working under a grant from the Mosquito Control Division of the Delaware State Highway Department, have developed a series of diked impoundments. Dikes keep the high marshes covered with water throughout the year thus eliminating the mosquitoes' breeding ground.

In addition, large bodies of impounded water are very attractive to migratory waterfowl. Duck and geese find these sites ideal resting and feeding sites as they migrate along the Atlantic coast.

To date, 3,130 acres of marshland have been impounded by the Highway Department's Mosquito Control Division at a cost of $354,104. Size of the impoundments ranges from 950 acres at Kitts Hummock to 35 acres at Assawoman.

A majority of Delaware's mosquitoes, especially in Kent and Sussex Counties, breed in the damp regions of the high salt marshes, explains University entomologist Robert Lake. Unlike many species, however, salt marsh mosquitoes lay their eggs in the mud of the high marsh rather than on the water's surface.

Felton Bids For Unbeaten Season At Harrington

This afternoon (Thursday) at Harrington, Joe Kern and his Felton High Devils will try to get past Bob Young's Harrington High baseball Lions. If they succeed an unbeaten season will be in the bag to go along with the Henlopen Conference Championship already wrapped up by Felton.

Thirty years ago, Harrington High had won a dozen or so games in a row. As the season approached its close, H.H.S. went to Felton to play a team it had beaten 25-2 here. The local coach decided to start a second-string pitcher in order to give him experience for the 1939 season. He reasoned that if the reserve hurler got in trouble, Harrington's big bats would bail him out. The locals had only one starter batting under .300.

Felton scored three times in the first inning. A Harrington mound ace then took over the hurling chores and didn't allow another hit. Meanwhile, Jim Bohannon, who had been clobbered at Harrington in the earlier rout, scattered six hits and won the game 3-2. Harrington's long winning streak was over. In baseball you get a big lead, then you bring in the substitute pitcher, not before.

We don't look for Joe Kern to start a substitute against H.H.S. It looks like Red Dill or Chris Moore will get the nod. Harrington's Lions with only two hits and one run in its last two starts, doesn't appear to have much of a chance, to score an upset, as did that Felton team of three decades ago.

The Green Devils' latest two victories, running their seasonal mark to 10-0 were both shut-outs. Dill stifled Selbyville's Rebels on three hits. Moore blanked Lord Baltimore's winless Eagles on two baseknocks. The Eagles are slated to combine with John M. Clayton and participate in sports under the name of Indian River High School. They appear to have given up the ghost. Against Greenwood, Harrington and Felton the Eagles totalled only four hits and no runs.

Against Selbyville, Felton banged out 13 hits, with Dill getting 3-for-3 and a trio of RBIs. As we have penned several times, Henlopen Conference rivals are getting mighty sick of that Viola Carrottop and will be tickled to death when he gets his sheepskin next month. Barrett Quail, Moore and Mike Fisher hit safely twice each, as Felton scored in every at bat but one.

Chaffinch's No-Hitter Wins Senior League Tilt

Mickey Chaffinch, a giant, fast-balling righthander, pitched a no-hit, no-run game at the Moose diamond on Tuesday night. Porter's Hardware, managed by Chester Short, took a 1-0 verdict over Ted Layton's First National Bank nine, in the extra-inning battle.

Mike Trotta started for the losers and pitched two innings before retiring with a pulled muscle. He gave up one hit, a drive off the center field wall by Steve Smith, which went for one base. Bob Smith relieved and pitched very well. In fact, it took a near-perfect game to beat him.

Chaffinch walked two, hit one and whiffed thirteen batsmen. His mates were perfect afield except for one throwing error. Norman Short, who led the victors with two doubles in three trips, walked in the eighth frame, stole second and came home on Rick Porter's single.

Forresters Split Two Games

Greenwood High stopped Rehoboth 7-4, then dropped at 15-1 decision to a strong Milton aggregation.

Rehoboth led 1-0 and 4-3 before Greenwood salted away the victory with a three-run outburst in the fourth inning.

The winners outthit the losers 11-9 with Zoroles, Robin Breeding, Steve Willey, and pitcher Scott Baker getting two each. Willey batted in three runs.

Lions Still Hold 7 of 13 Henlopen Track Records

Harrington High like many other high schools these days, is bursting at the seams. Fortunately, however, the local school is not bulging with pupils, which would mean a building program.

The overcrowded area is the trophy case, outside the high school principal's office. Coach Harold McDonald's cross-country and track teams have accounted for 90 per cent or more of the athletic trophies, therein. Each time the galloping Lions bring another home, the cry goes up "Where on earth will we put it?"

After the Lions edged Milton in the Henlopen Conference meet at John M. Clayton's fine track last week, room will have to be made for the handsome league championship trophy brought home by H.H.S.

Indicative of the rising calibre of track competition in the Henlopen Conference, was the fact that in thirteen events, six new loop marks were set. H.H.S. had three of these, host John M. Clayton set a pair of new standards and Milton captured the other. Harrington, with seven Henlopen records, owns one more than the other eleven schools combined.

Jim Schiff (159) H.H.S. sprinter owns the oldest mark of all. Barry Fry lost his 1963 440 loop best, when Wayne McCabe of J. M. Clayton just nipped Lions Ron Morris and John Swain in a 53.7 quarter mile. Chris Wetherold was coasting in the mile run saving his energy for a more competitive half mile later, but still wiped out the 4:48.8 set by another Harringtonian, Harry Knotts in 1960. Chris ran 4:46.3.

Lion Dennis Rogers (1965) 880 league mark went by the boards when Wetherold was officially clocked in 2:04.2, compared to Rogers' 2:06.9. Three other watches caught the freshman flyer in the 2.03 neighborhood.

Harrington's other record effort shattered Bridgeville's 1966 time of 3:44.1. The locals John Swain, Jerry Cagle, Tolbert Harris and 13-year-old, eighth grader, John Shulties (56.1) weren't pressed but clipped off almost four seconds, stopping the watch at 3:40.4.

Cagle, Ken Tribbett, Harris and R. Morris neared the loop standard of last year (1:36) in the 880 relay, coming home, unpushed, in 1:36.5. Cagle, Tribbett, Dan Hicks and Jim White set the old best.

Jerry Garey's two mile record was eclipsed by freshman Emory Howell, of Milton. Howell ran 10:46.2. He was fresh as a daisy, smiling and waving at friends, enroute to an easy victory.

Monroe Hitchens of Milton jumped 20 feet, six inches to tie the Henlopen record set by Harrington's George Pfeiffer in 1961.

Frank Cain's vault of 10 feet 11 inches is the final league standard owned by the Lions.

Ken Tribbett's 8 1/2 point contribution was an important contribution since H.H.S. won by only four points. The sophomore dashman anchored the 880 relay team, placed third in the 220 and second in the 100 yard dash.

Harrington's two mile contingent made an impression, as all three locals ran well. Roger Jarrell sprinted on the outside for 220 yards to nip two Bridgeville runners at the finish, to get second place in 11:09. Freshman Danny Hitchens just missed the two, red-clad Sussex Countians as he improved his best time ever from 11:18 to 11:12. John Brown was next in 11:20, 10 seconds faster than his previous best.

Louis Kemp ran a good 2:22.9

There will be an open meeting of the Harrington Little League, Sunday evening at 6 o'clock in the local armory.

The meeting, to which all the public is invited, is to give the general public an inside view of the work of this organization, which without public interest, participation, and backing cannot function properly.

So, we'll see you, the public, at the armory, 6 o'clock sharp, Sunday.

Harrington Nine Drops Two Games

Harrington High's baseball Lions have a record of three victories and seven defeats, after losing 9-1 and 4-0 against Milton and Selbyville, respectively. The locals, close out the campaign today (Thursday) against undefeated Felton.

Silent bats did the Lions in, as Milton's Luke Harris doled out two hits and Rebel, Brasure Lynch hurled a no-hitter.

Harris also had a no-hitter going until his freshman mound rival, Dave Newnom got a bingle in the sixth. John Winkler singled in the seventh and eventually scored Harrington's lone tally.

Harrington's pitching at Selbyville was adequate enough to win many high school games, but if you don't score you don't win. Howard Brown was the Lion hurler.

Righthander, Dave Newnom, was rocked for 16 Milton hits, including two lusty home runs.
