FELTON WOMAN CHARGED IN BOYFRIEND'S DEATH

A Felton area woman, estranged from her husband, has been charged with the slaying Saturday of her boyfriend.

State Police said the victim, A. L. Stephens Jr., 23, died from a bullet wound of the head. They reported she burned and buried the body in a trash pile behind the home of the accused.

Charged in the slaying is Mrs. Eleanor Mary Davidson, 35. She was ordered committed to the Kent County Correctional Institution without bail, by Magistrate William J. Cavanaugh in Magistrate Court 7, pending a preliminary hearing later this week.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Merrill C. Trader said Mrs. Davidson was separated from her husband, Gene W. Davidson. She had been living with Stephens in a house on Kent 241 west of Felton, he said.

Delaware State Police said the shooting occurred shortly after Stephens stomped out of the couple's second-story bedroom at 3 Saturday morning after a quarrel.

He descended the stairs from the bedroom and slammed a door at the bottom, police said. Mrs. Davidson then took a .22-caliber rifle, police said, and fired a round through the door, striking Stephens in the back of the head.

She waited a while, went downstairs and found Stephens on the floor, obviously dead; they continued, then she dragged his body outside near the trash burner and attempted to burn the body.

Later, police said, she dug a shallow grave near the trash burner and buried the body. Officers said Mrs. Davidson called the Dover state police barracks at 7:35 a.m. and told them of the shooting.

Stephens was pronounced dead at Kent General Hospital at 11:30 a.m. Kent County Coroner William C. Torbert Jr. said the body was charred but recognizable.

Road Unit Apportionment Passes 20 to 11 in House

The third effort this session to reapportion the state highway commission to give control to more populous areas was passed by the House Tuesday.

The bill (H.B. 562) would create a 14-member commission, with control in the hands of Wilmington and New Castle County. It was introduced by Rep. Clarence U. Heckert, R-Highland Woods.

Minority Whip Melvin A. Slawik, D-Strafford, who had criticized earlier efforts to reapportion the commission, called H.B. 562 "the best of the lot."

The vote was 20 to 11 in favor of the bill, with four members absent. With one exception, the vote was divided on an upstate-downstate basis. The exception was Rep. Fred Brown, R-Wilmington, who voted with the nays. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Under the measure, commission members would be selected by the governor to represent blocks of three representative districts each, thus giving Wilmington members would be selected by the governor to represent blocks of three representative districts each, thus giving Wilmington

House Approves Bill For Different-Colored License For Drivers Under 21

The House Tuesday passed a bill which would provide for a different colored operator's license for drivers under 21.

Rep. Mario A. Pagano, R-Delaware Manor, who sponsored the bill, said it would stop youngsters from altering licenses "for nefarious reasons." He said the measure had the support of the Motor Vehicle Department.

The bill now goes to the Senate.

The House also Tuesday refused to act on a bill which would impose a tax on new property owners in communities which have been paying for school improvements. The measure (H.B. 543) is sponsored by Rep. Everette Hale, R-Newark, the majority leader. It was tabled after debate.

Among measures passed by the House Tuesday was a bill to set up an educational aid program for the children of deceased armed forces veterans. It was sponsored by Rep. Herbert A. Leshner, R-Claymont.

Introduced in the House were bills to change the pay of substitute teachers, provide death benefits for the widows of Delaware National Guardsmen killed while on state duty and remove the control of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission over recreational devices in taverns.

The scholarship bill had no opposition but gave minority leader Jacob W. Zimmerman, D-Dover, the chance to mention the length of the deliberations on the budget bill by the Joint Finance Committee, which Leshner heads.

Zimmerman asked whether the addition of the money for the proposed new program would "cause them (the committee) next year to drag their feet any more than they have this year."

The substitute teacher bill replaces an earlier measure, scaling down the proposed new salaries. Rep. Clarence U. Heckert, R-Highland Woods, who sponsored both, said the original would have paid substitutes almost as much as regular teachers.

Comprehensive Development Plan Ready for Publication on City

It is apparent that Delaware Avenue and Center Street are adequate from a functional right-of-way and in many cases existing development precludes the chances for any significant widening. To increase traffic flow along these roads, left turning movements should be held to a minimum except at controlled intersections and on-street parking should be prohibited at critical areas. In addition, access on to the arterial or collector roads from local streets should be held to a minimum.

This is significant in that the streets classified as arterial are operating well under capacity. These figures however, represent average hourly traffic columns. Peak hour traffic counts might exceed the street's estimated capacity.

Traffic volumes within Harrington should continue to rise as the area further develops. In Kent County, for example, motor vehicle registrations increased more, percentage wise, than the population growth.

Motor vehicle registration for the County increased by almost 94%. On the other hand, population increases showed an increase of 73%. The numerical increases were greater for population than for vehicular registrations.

These statistics point out that traffic volumes will continue to increase, and roads which are presently adequate to handle traffic may in time prove inadequate. Harrington must look ahead to a circulation system capable of handling anticipated traffic volumes.

Other Transportation Deficiencies Sidewalks

Planning studies often neglect pedestrian movement as a form of transportation. Not everyone can afford to own a car and some for many reasons cannot obtain a driver's license. Sidewalks,

Fair Catalogs, Entry Blanks Sent to Exhibitors

If you are interested in competing for prize awards and glory at this year's Delaware State Fair, now is the time to do something about it.

Premium catalogs and entry blanks have been mailed to prospective exhibitors. Any prospective exhibitor wanting a copy may obtain it by writing or calling the fair office at Harrington.

The deadline for submitting entries in most categories is July 1. This year's fair, the 49th annual, will be held Friday, July 26, through Saturday, August 3.

General Manager George C. Simpson said this week that fair officials are anxious to have more residents of Delaware and the surrounding area display the results of their art and home-craft skills at the fair.

"While the state fair is traditionally an agricultural show", Simpson said, "with farm families exhibiting their farm products and prize livestock, it is fast becoming much more."

"We no longer just invite city and suburban residents to come and see what their farm neighbors are doing. We encourage them to participate in the state fair, too, by entering their art, photography, flower arrangements and other activities."

All interested persons are urged to exhibit their skills as well as enjoying the many programs offered", Simpson said.

Senators OK Reading Aid

The Senate Tuesday passed bills to provide more state aid to schools with any poor readers and to create state-supported kindergartens.

The kindergarten bill (S.B. 383) carries no appropriation and would not initiate a kindergarten program until one is included in the general funds budget.

The reading improvement bill, sponsored by Sen. Russell D. F. Dineen, D-Wilmington, would give added state money to school districts in which tests show that 25 per cent or more of the students read at two years below their potential.

The bill would give extra unit allotments to the districts with poor readers. The state now pays specified amounts to districts, one allotment for each unit of 25 elementary students and one for each unit of 20 secondary students.

The bill would decrease the size of the units to 20 students in elementary grades and 14 in secondary, and appropriates $500,000 for that purpose.

Sen. J. Donald Isaacs, R-Townsend, sponsor of the measure, estimated it would cost up to

ANOTHER ROLLBACK OK'D ON CAR FEES

The House passed an auto fee rollback bill for the second time Tuesday, but the bill still must stand a second trial in the Senate.

The measure (H. B. 281) would set up a sliding scale ranging from $12 to $24 in annual fees for auto registration. The amount paid would be in relation to the weight of the car.

The bill was amended in the Senate after the House first passed it. Tuesday, the House tacked on still another amendment.

Tuesday's change deletes proposed changes in truck and farm vehicle registration fees. The bill's sponsor, Rep. Joseph T. Cashman, R-Stockton, said the amendment "meets the last of the Governor's objections."

Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. vetoed an auto fee rollback measure last year on several grounds. Since that time, several alternatives have been before the General Assembly.

The bill received 22 favorable votes Tuesday. All but two of those who voted no or not voting were Democrats.

Under the bill's provisions, motor vehicles weighing less than 3,000 pounds would be assessed $12; those from 3,001 to 3,800 pounds $16; those from 3,801 to 4,500, $20, and those over 4,500 pounds $24.

The new rates would take effect July 1.

Tips on Planters

Add a pleasant accent to your patio or porch. Plant a planter. For thriving plants, be sure the planter has good drainage.

Most plants will not grow in waterlogged soil, according to Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

Start with a soil mixture that will provide good drainage—one part good garden soil, one part peat moss and one part sand.

If your planter doesn't have a bottom drain, put three or four inches of pea gravel at the bottom of a foot-deep planter. To prevent mixing the gravel and soil, cover the gravel with a layer of fiberglass insulation similar to the kind used in house construction. Take the paper off the insulation and use just the fiberglass.

Select the right plants; don't try to grow small shrubs unless the planter is at least two feet deep and two feet wide on the inside. If it's smaller than this, grow annuals.

The amount of sun the planter will get should determine the annual to plant. Marigolds, ageratum, petunias and many other annuals need full sun to grow properly. Geraniums, tuberous begonias, impatiens, browallia, nasturtiums, verbena, ivy and pansies will tolerate shade.

Water the plants thoroughly and then don't water again until the soil surface is dry. This method of watering encourages roots to develop throughout the entire planter. Don't forget to water planters because they're out of sight on the patio or back terrace. Perhaps one potted plant on your doorstep would serve as a watering reminder—and add a decorative touch to the doorstep, too.

Stevens recommends fertilizing each time you water the planter. Use commercially prepared fertilizer containing one part nitrogen to two parts each phosphorus and potassium. Mix with water according to directions on the package.

Hoeing Contest, New Research Field Day Features

A comparison of the newest and oldest methods of weed control in field crops will be displayed at the University of Delaware's Farm & Home Field Day. The annual event is scheduled for August 14 at the Georgetown Substation.

The most modern weed control techniques, including a wide range of chemical weed killers, will be shown. In contrast will be an exhibition of an early mechanical weed control technique—hand hoeing.

The hoeing activity will take the form of an old-fashioned hoeing contest with separate divisions for men, women and teenagers.

Other features of the 1968 Field Day include an exhibit on food fads and quackery, a turf care demonstration, a sick plant clinic and a taste evaluation of horticultural crops being developed on the experimental farm.

Corn and soybean research will again be displayed at the day-long event. Since more than 300,000 acres of Delaware farmland are planted to these two crops, a sizeable part of the substation research is devoted to them.

New soybean varieties are being developed and tested, particularly for resistance to disease and drought. Research is concentrated on developing varieties resistant to the nematode causing root rot and to fungi causing pod and stem blight, purple stain, root rot and downy mildew. More than 300 lines are being tested for drought tolerance.

Sub-irrigation research on corn, soybeans and strawberries has been underway at the substation for three years. Results of the tests are again expected to draw many interested crop producers who are looking for an effective, economical irrigation system.

A wax-oil emulsion for reducing water loss in plants will also be on display. The emulsion, a combination of orchard spray oil and a paraffin-like wax, will protect plants from excessive water loss from drying winds or extended dry spells. It has been tested on more than 100,000 pepper and tomato plants in Delaware and Maryland.

An expanded sick plant clinic at Field Day will feature a display of poisonous plants. Visitors can bring specimens of ailing plants for diagnosis by University experts in entomology, horticulture, agronomy and plant pathology.

Field Day will have many additional highlights — educational exhibits, a homemaker's program, and a chicken dinner which this year will include an edible soybean developed at the University of Delaware. Bus tours of the research plots will begin at 10 a.m. for Field Day visitors. The event ends at 3:30. More than 1000 farmers, agricultural businessmen and other are expected to attend.

J. Frank Gordy, director of the substation, is chairman of Farm & Home Field Day.

Del. 4-H'ers At West Va. Camp

Two Delaware 4-H'ers will attend the West Virginia State 4-H Older Youth Camp at Jackson's Mill, July 1-6. Miss Joy Gooden, Wyoming, and Philip Mesibov, Houston, are the Delaware delegates, according to James O. Baker, state 4-H leader.

The 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Gooden has been active in 4-H work for six years. She has served as a local club officer and was named to the 1967 Honor Court in the State Dress Revue. Mesibov, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Mesibov, has been active in 4-H work for five years and is taking entomology, safety, auto and garden projects.

Jackson's Mill is the boyhood home of General Stonewall Jackson. While at the camp, 4-H'ers will take part in discussion groups and in music and leadership training courses. Baker points out that the Delaware delegates will return better trained to act as junior leaders in local 4-H clubs, in community activities and county 4-H activities.

Borers Attack Del. Birches, Spray Now, U. of D. Says

To protect your birch trees, spray now. Bronze birch borers are beginning to emerge in northern Delaware, according to Donald MacCreary, extension entomologist at the University of Delaware.

The borers, olive-bronze beetles one-half to three-fourths inch long, attack white, gray and European birches in this area. You can't tell by looking at the tree that the insect is present. The first sign of injury is dying back at the tree top; generally, it's too late then to save the tree.

To avoid borer attacks, a preventive spray schedule is necessary, according to MacCreary. Spray the trunk and larger branches with DDT or lindane immediately and repeat the spray in 10 days. This spray should be a routine control measure for your birch trees every year at this time, he stresses.

Farm Products Help Balance Of Payments

America's modern, highly efficient agriculture can help balance U. S. imports and exports, according to W. T. McAllister, extension farm management specialist at the University of Delaware. For many years the government and private citizens have spent more money in foreign countries than those countries have spent in the U. S.

To balance our international accounts, some nations have requested payment in gold, so U.S. gold stocks were reduced. Other nations have accepted U.S. dollars, but these dollars can be converted to gold if the nation requests it. The imbalance in trade and the demands on our reserve gold supply are main factors in the gold crisis.

Agriculture can increase U. S. exports and thus help correct the trade imbalance. Rising income levels in emerging nations are creating a growing export market for American-produced food and feed-stuffs. McAllister points out. Approximately one-third of our soybean crop is exported each year and large quantities of corn, wheat, fruits, vegetables, eggs and poultry are sold to foreign nations.

Agricultural industries and organizations in the U.S. are working with the Foreign Agricultural Service to open even larger overseas markets for farm products. Every major U.S. agricultural product was represented in the recent American Festival in Japan.

The American Soybean Association spearheaded the soybean promotion; the Institute of American Poultry Industries promoted the sale of broilers and turkeys. Wheat Associates, U.S.A., demonstrated the numerous ways what could add to the attractiveness of the Japanese diet. Potentially large markets for rice, raisins, fruits, vegetables, corn, food processing equipment and animal feeds were developed by this effort to sell U.S. farm products.

The American soybean stole the show in Japan, McAllister says. Japanese people were introduced to salad dressings made from soybean oil; they raved over soybean oil margarine as an improvement over the whale or fish oil or beef tallow margarines common in Japan. Japanese children were enthusiastic over soft ice cream, popcorn buttered with soybean oil products and doughnuts and corn sticks cooked in vegetable oils.

The Japanese exhibition is a good example of the way farmers and industry organizations can join forces with the Federal government to enlarge the market and improve the balance of payment position, McAllister concludes.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne Hoberton

Summer officially begins on June 21, 3:13 a.m. Eastern Standard Time, but who watches the calendar when there's an urge for carefree summer eating?

If the craving for outdoor dining hasn't hit by now it surely will soon. June 16th is Father's Day so if you haven't moved outside for some meals by then, this will be the day. Steak for Father's Day is a delightful tradition to observe, especially with this year's plentiful beef. Estimates are that June's supplies may be a little more than last year's—that is good news. The most attractive buys will remain those that require long cooking like chuck and rump roast, but many of these cuts can well be suited for the rotisserie.

Nothing could be better than barbecued chicken. How good it smells as it cooks, especially when it's done outside. Prices on broiler fryers are holding steady and continue to offer economical buys. However, don't be surprised when you see prices edging up a bit. The number of broilers to be marketed is off slightly from a year ago. Turkeys are still plentiful and can be found in many different forms. Turkeys in cold storage are 30 per cent greater than a year ago. Prices should continue low, making this meat an excellent buy.

Seasonally, June is the top month of receipts of fish. When shopping be sure to check such fish as bluefish, cod, cod and flounder fillets, halibut, mackerel, porgie, whiting and sea bass. The more plentiful shellfish are hard and soft clams, hard and soft crabs, mussels, scallops, and shrimp.

It seems that fresh fruits as a whole will continue to be on the scarce side this month. The one fruit in plentiful supply will be watermelons. Strawberries are still in season and prices are fairly reasonable. The blueberry season starts during the months but reaches its peak in late July. More cantaloupes are arriving at local markets, but quality is a bit off this week. Other fruits to select from are bananas, apples, pineapples, cherries, oranges, and grapefruit.

Sweet corn rates near the top of the vegetable list this week—quality is good to excellent, and prices are quite reasonable. Cucumbers are in much better supply, as are carrots and onions. There's been an improvement in the supplies of green beans, cabbage, peppers, squash, and zucchini. And don't forget most of the salad bowl vegetables are in good supply with prices fairly low.

Twin Span To Be Dedicated Sept. 12

The twin span to Delaware Memorial Bridge, connecting New Jersey and Delaware, will be dedicated Thurs., Sept. 12, the Delaware River and Bay Authority announced this week.

Commissioners authorized Director William J. Miller, Jr., to prepare appropriate ceremonies for the occasion, when traffic will be able to use the newly created facility for the first time. National dignitaries along with officials from New Jersey, Delaware and adjacent states are expected to be invited to the celebration, Miller said.

Completion of the second span will come 17 years after dedication of the original Delaware Memorial Bridge on August 16, 1951. More than 177,000,000 vehicles have crossed the bridge since that date.

Miller pointed out that the world's only twin single suspension structures will continue to be known as Delaware Memorial Bridge. The first span was dedicated to deceased members of the Armed Forces of New Jersey and Delaware who participated in World War II and Korea.

The Authority also officially welcomed new Commissioner James Julian, of Wilmington, recently appointed by Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr., and approved by the General Assembly as successor to the late Commissioner James T. Ferri, of Wilmington. Julian, a general contractor, has long been active in Delaware affairs. He is the perennial chairman for State Highway Day observance; a former president of the Associated General Contractors of Delaware and has been active with the Delaware Safety Council.

tors of Delaware and has been active with the Delaware Safety Council.

Tribute was also paid to late Commissioner Howard S. Abbott, Georgetown, who died May 11, following an operation. Abbott was an original appointee to the Authority in 1963 and was serving his second term.

After hearing a report that Cape May-Lewes Ferry traffic is increasing this year over 1967, the Commissioners approved a contract for $505,000 for maintenance dredging of Crow Shoal in Delaware Bay. The award went to the American Dredging Company.

Another contract for pile replacement at Cape May, N. J., and Lewes, Del., ferry terminals was awarded the low bidder, Foundations and Structures, Inc., Tuckahoe, N. J., for $89,650.

The next meeting of the Authority will be on June 25.

NEW LAW PUT U.S. ON SIDE OF OVER-40 JOB SEEKERS

Too old at 40 to get a job? Starting next week it will be against federal law for most employers, labor unions or employment agencies to tell you that.

For years The Journal has advocated this legislation. If an individual can do the job properly, he or she should not be limited by age which, after all, is a relative thing up to a point.

The law is designed to promote the employment of older workers based on their ability and to prohibit arbitrary age discrimination in employment.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller JUNE IS HERE

Which brings to mind the lady, after dialing a long distant number asked, "is June there?." A heavy male voice replied, "I don't know where you are, lady, but April is still here."

Time, however, seems to have wrought great changes in what June really stands for. Maybe it is because of advance age that the change is so pronounced.

Joe McGinnis's column "The Passing Scene" for yesterday's Inquirer covers it, thus:—"June demands attention but the more Junes we see the less able we are to give it."

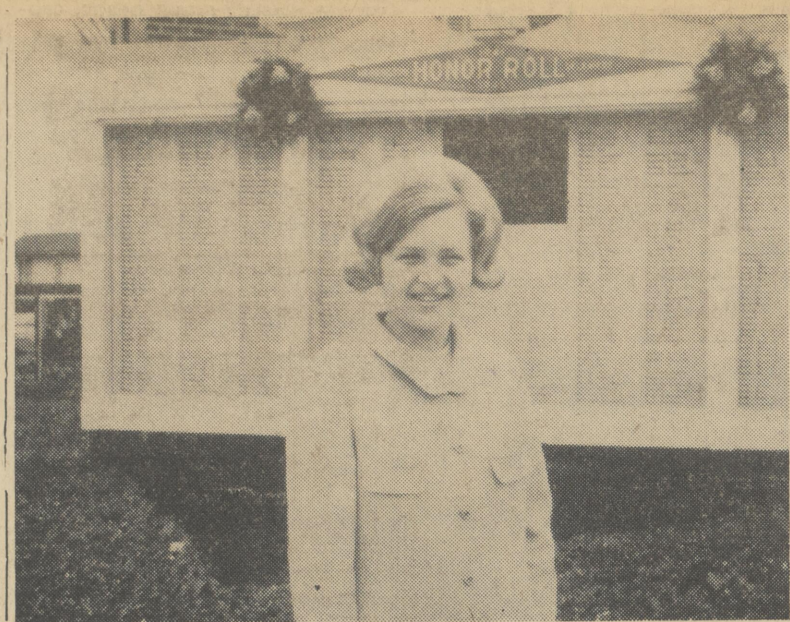

One thing we are sure of though, the dreary winter and damp chill rains of spring are gone and "June is here".

be getting out of service and have been told that I can enter apprenticeship training and receive G.I. Bill benefits. What's the story?

A—The story is that both your buddy and you are eligible for G.I. Bill education and training benefits, including apprenticeship training. What undoubtedly happened is that your friend applied for apprenticeship training benefits before the new law authorizing this type of training was signed by the President last Aug. 31. Since Oct. 1, 1967, when the new or expanded education and training benefits provided by this law went into effect, apprenticeship training has been authorized for veterans who served after Jan. 31, 1955.

Your buddy may be already aware of this fact. If he isn't, however, tell him to get in touch with his nearest VA office and reapply for apprenticeship training approval and benefits from VA.

Q—I recently completed three years service in the Army. If I go back to school under the G.I. Bill, will I be permitted to work and still be eligible for the educational assistance allowance from the Veterans Administration?

A—Yes. The amount of G.I. Bill educational assistance allowance paid by VA is determined by the amount of schooling or training a veteran receives (full time courses, half-time, quarter-time) and his number of dependents. Whether he works or has other income has no effect on this allowance.

Of course, the veteran's school schedule, that is whether he can carry full-time courses, may be affected by an outside job.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—When I got out of service the first of this year I applied for and received from the Veterans Administration a certificate of entitlement to G.I. Bill education and training benefits. However, circumstances prevented me from entering school this spring. I intend to enter in the fall and pursue the field of study for which I originally applied. Must I apply for another certificate from VA?

A—No. As long as you do not change schools or the course of study for which you originally applied, the certificate of entitlement which you received from VA is valid.

Q—I was recently discharged from service. While I was still in Vietnam a representative of the Veterans Administration talked to a group of us about our veteran benefits when we got home. I don't remember him saying anything about G.I. business loans. Am I entitled to a business loan?

A—Post-Korean veterans (with military service after Jan. 31, 1955), and Vietnam era veterans (with military service after Aug. 4, 1964) are not eligible for business loans under either the "Veterans' Readjustment Benefits Act of 1966" — popularly known as the Post-Korean or third generation G.I. Bill M or the "Veterans' Pension and Readjustment Assistance Act of 1967." They are entitled to home and farm loans.

However, the Small Business Administration may make business loans to veterans. You can obtain information about these loans from your nearest U.S. Veterans Assistance Center or Small Business Administration office.

Q—By certified mail I recently received a follow-up questionnaire from the Census Bureau relating to my service-connected disability. Must I respond to this questionnaire? Will my VA disability compensation, which I have been receiving since 1946, be reduced or discontinued?

A—The answer to both of your questions is NO. You are not obligated to return the questionnaire and a disability, such as yours, rated service-connected for 20 years or more, is considered permanent and cannot be reduced or terminated.

However, your response will be of great value to the Veterans Administration in achieving the purpose of this survey—to determine, from a selected sample of veterans, whether the present VA disability rating schedule is just and equitable. Furthermore, your answers will be kept confidential.

VA will give statistical data only without identification of an individual.

Nearly 400,000 veterans have already replied to the questionnaire knowing that their answers will contribute to the validity and effectiveness of the survey and to the future improvement of VA's service-connected disability compensation program.

So return your questionnaire. It won't hurt you and it can be of great help to service-disabled veterans in the future.

Q—I am a World War II veteran with a 20-year G.I. insurance endowment policy that will mature in a few months. Do I have to take the face value of the policy or can I convert this to another type of insurance?

A—You may exchange it for a policy of lesser cash value if you present evidence of good health. However, this must be done before the policy matures.

Q—I was recently separated from service. During service I was treated for a condition that has now flared up again. Can I get treatment from VA?

A—No, but they will not be as large as on your existing policy. If you take a paid-up policy, the amount of insurance in force will be less than the present face value of your policy.

The dividends will be computed on this reduced insurance coverage.

Q—My daughter is receiving a monthly pension of $40 from the Veterans Administration because of the death of her father, a World War II veteran. She is a student in college. She plans to work this summer and her earnings, plus her Social Security, will exceed $1,800. Will this bar her from receiving the VA pension?

A—No. In the case of a child receiving a pension, earned income is not considered for income limitation purposes. Since her income, less her earned income, will be under $1,800, her pension will not be affected.

Last Tuesday we chartered a bus to take us to Dover for an all-day celebration of Senior Citizen's Month. Then the rains came, but 28 stout-hearted senior citizens made the trip. We were greeted by Mayor Crawford Carroll and later by Gov. Charles L. Terry, Jr. as well as being entertained by Miss Delaware. The rain prevented the tours that had been scheduled but more than 300 senior citizens enjoyed a box lunch with free refreshments furnished by the Commission of the Aging. The Military Field Band from Washington, D. C., was well worth the trip and no one noticed the weather until it was again time to make bus connections.

Thursday was a very busy day with 20 members working on their antique pitchers. These should be completed this week and we will be ready to start something new. Be sure to be in on the next project and the surprise we have in store for you.

Monday was devoted to putting our embroidered bags together and this project will be continued again on Tuesday.

The birthday party scheduled for Tues., June 11th has been re-scheduled for Mon., June 10 at 1 p.m. We will be celebrating the birthdays of Gladys Hill and Emma Denney. These two girls have faithfully attended and helped with everyone's birthday. Let's show them how much we appreciate their loyalty. The time is 1 p.m.

Tuesday we plan a day at Rehoboth Beach. Members who are able to drive or requested to furnish their cars and each passenger is asked to make a 50¢ contribution to help cover the cost of gas. If you would like to join us let your director know at once so sufficient transportation can be arranged.

We are sorry to announce that Frances Harrington has been admitted to Milford Memorial Hospital. Do drop in to see her or send a card. Mrs. Eva Raughley is not up to par and Mrs. Edith Shockley is not improving, but Mrs. Ethel Stubbs has been moved home which is encouraging. Do drop in to see these girls, give them a call or send them a card to help them over this trying period.

Labor Dept. to Help Unions With Money Report

Frank P. Willette, area director for the U.S. Department of Labor's Office of Labor-Management and Welfare-Pension Reports (LMWP), in Philadelphia, announced that a clinic on the preparation of union financial reports will be held in Wilmington Wed., June 12.

The two-hour session which will begin at 7 p.m. will be held in Room 315 of the U.S. Post Office Building, 11th and Market Streets.

According to Willette, the clinic is being held to assist union officials in the State of Delaware in the preparation of the LM-3 financial report required by the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959. Unions with less than $30,000 in gross annual income are required by the law to file this one-page form annually with the Labor Department in Washington.

D. C. A staff member of the LMWP Philadelphia area office will begin the clinic with a general talk on the labor law, specifically the filing of union financial reports, and this will be followed by a question-and-answer session. There is no registration or admission fee. Invited are treasurers, secretary-treasurers, financial secretaries, and other officers of union organizations charged with responsibilities of filing out financial reports.

It Seams To Me

By Janet C. Reed

In every fashion cycle, there are becoming styles for every figure. The important thing is—know your own figure. Few of us see ourselves as we really are, yet this is one of the most elusive and important elements of selecting becoming, as well as good fitting, styles.
Mainly, it's a matter of proportion of shoulder width to hip width; the proportion from neck to waist, from waist to knee, and to the total height. Once you know how your proportions compare to a standard, you can create optical illusions to give you the appearance of a perfect figure.

How can you compare your body proportions to a standard? One clue is the way a misses ready-to-wear dress fits you. Does the skirt always need shortening but the waistline seem to be in the right place? This tells you that your body proportions from waist to knee are shorter than average. So, look for high waisted styles to give the illusion of better proportion.
Skirt always needs to be let out at the hipline? You know the problem here. Look for styles that create an illusion of width at shoulder to balance that hip width. Or if you can't wear the line formed by a shoulder yoke or other widening detail because it shortens your figure, look for styles with eye catching interest at the neckline. Stay away from details that call attention to the hipline, such as large hip pockets and long, full sleeves.
Are you short waisted? Maybe the lowered belt line is for you—if your hip line is slender.
Waistline too thick? Look for dress lines that come in from a wide shoulder to a narrow line at waistline and out again at hipline. Some princess styles have this line.
Each of us is different; no set of rules will be right for everyone. You must know and accept your own figure. If you don't have a full length mirror—buy one. It can tell you what is becoming—if you let yourself be objective and see yourself as you really are, not as you wish you were, or as you were twenty pounds ago.

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa

Artist or butcher? The home gardener can be either as he prunes and trims his trees and shrubs. Your county agent has been attending some of the plant seminars at Longwood Gardens which are in cooperation with the University of Delaware.
The last session was on pruning woody plants. This is man's way:
1. To preserve natural growth by taking out dead and diseased parts.
2. To improve natural beauty by guiding growth.
3. To restrain the height or width of plants.
4. To capitalize on the irregular character of plants.
5. To mold plants in the form of hedges or topiary work.
6. To flatten plants along walls as espaliers or by pleaching.
7. To pollard, or cut back plant tops and create dense new growth.
8. To dwarf plants, as in the Japanese Bonbai technique.
Prune with judgment. Practice will soon give you skill and make you an artist as was Topus, the ancient Roman gardener for whom topiary work is named. He trimmed and tied up shrubs to create animal forms that are features in many formal gardens.
Use good quality tools. They last longer and will hold a sharp edge. The old fashioned side cutting hand shears are still good. The newer anvil type hand shears may be easier to use for some jobs. Lopping shears are for heavier work. Draw cut hand saws with seven points to the inch are best for homeowners.
Always cut above the bud. Do not leave stubs that died and become a source of infection. Learn to know the differences between terminal buds, lateral buds, and fruit buds. There is a fourth kind called adventitious buds, which cannot be seen when pruning, but which may develop if a plant is pruned severely.
Prune regularly. Topiary work may have to be done at least once a month. Some plants require only annual treatment. It is a matter of knowing your plants.
Call our Extension Service office, 736-1448, if you want more pruning information. We have fact sheets for pruning woody plants, evergreens and flowering shrubs. If you yearn to be a skilled plant artist, a pruning text book will tell you how to make espaliers, do pleaching, pollarding or dwarfing.

A farmer was sending up clouds of dust as he double disc'd a field prior to planting. Sam Dixon, Jr. of Clayton was riding along the field at Sugarstick Road with me.
Sam said: "People can complain about farming being dusty work. But a man is like a king as he sits on the seat of a big tractor getting a job done."
Sam is right. He enjoys the way he works and lives. Sadly enough, a farmer hopes he earns

$1.25 per hour operating his tractor. For that is just about the wage that the market will support.
Isaac Thomas of Marydel agrees, but he says that the tractor seat is where he does his thinking and planning work. In which case of course, the driver is worth more.

Some jobs on the farm become routine after awhile. A man's thoughts will wander a bit, though not enough to cause an accident.
It reminds me of some stories my vo-agg students used to tell. They might wind up in a head row because they fell asleep while cultivating. But if they were using a horse or mule driven riding cultivator, the animal had sense enough to stop, and would begin to feed on the young green corn.

Rehebooth's First Camp Meeting Being Re-enacted
After Saturday night's successful re-enactment of the first camp meeting held in Rehoboth Beach 95 years ago, the community looks forward to the second phase of its month-long celebration this coming Saturday, June 8.
With the Epworth Methodist Church choir appearing in 1873 costumes and a "brimstone and fire" sermon delivered by the Rev. Charles E. Covington, of Epworth Church, more than 300 people attended the opening event in a specially built tabernacle on Rehoboth Avenue.
Dr. John M. Lank, retired Methodist minister and general chairman for the observance paying tribute to his denomination's activity in launching Rehoboth Beach as a resort area, said his "dream" had been fulfilled by those who served him on a host of committees.

The positions are teacher's aides, a cook's aide, and a custodian's aide.

Strawberries will soon be at their peak in Kent County. If you plan to stash some away as "fresh-frozen" fruit, choose top quality. If you want to freeze some as whole berries, choose them firm and ripe and with a slightly tart flavor. Use average size berries for freezing whole. The large berries are better sliced or crushed. Sort the berries and wash them in cold water and drain before removing the hulls. Next the decision—whether a syrup pack, a sugar pack, or an unsweetened pack is best. Usually the sugar or syrup pack make better quality frozen strawberries than berries packed without sweetening.

Strawberries will soon be at their peak in Kent County. If you plan to stash some away as "fresh-frozen" fruit, choose top quality. If you want to freeze some as whole berries, choose them firm and ripe and with a slightly tart flavor. Use average size berries for freezing whole. The large berries are better sliced or crushed. Sort the berries and wash them in cold water and drain before removing the hulls. Next the decision—whether a syrup pack, a sugar pack, or an unsweetened pack is best. Usually the sugar or syrup pack make better quality frozen strawberries than berries packed without sweetening.

Syrup Pack—Put berries into containers and cover with a cold 50 per cent syrup, leaving head space. To make 50 per cent syrup dissolve 4 3/4 cups of sugar in 4 cups of water. With this liquid pack you would allow 1/2 inch head space for wide top pints and 1-inch head space for wide top quarts. Allow a little more if containers have narrow tops. Seal and freeze.
Sugar pack — Add 3/4 cup sugar to 1 quart strawberries and mix thoroughly. Put into containers leaving head space. With a dry pack 1/2-inch head space is usually sufficient for any container. Seal and freeze.
Unsweetened Pack - Pack into containers, leaving head space. For better color, cover with water containing 1 teaspoon ascorbic acid to each quart of water. Seal and freeze. (Ascorbic acid is available where freezer supplies are sold.)
If you plan to freeze the berries sliced or crushed, prepare them as you would for whole strawberries, then slice or crush partially or completely. To 1 quart of berries add 3/4 cup sugar; mix thoroughly. Pack into containers leaving head space. Seal and freeze.

Youngster-Proof Your Vacation

Vacation time coming up soon? Traveling with young children needn't be wearing on your patience if you're prepared to entertain them.
Let your youngsters help you get ready for the trip by packing a traveling "playcase," suggests Mrs. Mary Keller, extension home economics agent for New Castle County. It can be a doll suitcase, zipper tote bag, beach bag or just a cardboard box. Or, pack the pockets of a closet shoe holder and fasten it to the back of the front seat. Toys are readily available and still easy to clean up.
For the playcase, select several favorite small toys; let them pick the truck, car, stuffed animals or doll they prefer. To help while away the miles, add some favorite books and creative materials such as a pack of scrap paper, a jar of paste, a pair of blunt-end scissors and a box of crayons. Don't forget a litter bag for the scraps.
A pack of children's card games, a batch of colored pipe cleaners, and puppets of all kinds are good mind-occupiers, too.
For a trip that takes several days, wrap surprise packages for the children to open, suggests Mrs. Keller. The surprises needn't be expensive—just fun. And they'll break up a back seat argument or boredom like magic.
Brush up on your songs and add storytelling to your list of activities. Start an exciting story, stop at a suspenseful point and let each child, in turn, add to the story; it's an old idea that still keeps everyone interested. Guessing games and searching games will relieve the monotony, also.
Older children will enjoy watching for road signs and following your progress on the road map; it's good practice for future drivers, Mrs. Keller points out. Plan for frequent picture-taking stops; even young children can

Chris Wins Jr. Olympic 880, Breaks Bob Smith's Record

Chris Wetherhold captured the Junior Olympic half mile in 2:05.1 at Baynard Stadium, Wilmington, on Saturday afternoon. The race was open to all boys, fourteen and fifteen years old, who reside or go to school in Delaware.

The Harrington High School freshman broke the meet record of 2:07.3 set by another Harringtonian, Bob Smith, in 1963. Smith went on to win the Middle Atlantic championship in Philadelphia, clocking 2:07 flat. In that test he defeated other Junior Olympic champions from Philadelphia, western New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania. This qualified him for the national championship race, which was held in Chicago that year. He didn't get to compete for the U.S. crown because the Middle Atlantic A.A.U. didn't have the money to send its athletes.

If Wetherhold can duplicate

Smith's feat and win the Middle Atlantic title, at West Chester State College on June 22, he will gain the right to vie for the national crown at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville. Expenses for this trip will be paid by the Quaker Oats people.

At Baynard Stadium, Chris was nursing a cold and competing on a track made heavy by several days of rain. Also he had no competition whatsoever. We feel that he is capable of breaking two minutes in the half mile if conditions are right. With average racing luck, he should definitely be a threat for top honors on West Chester's composition, all-weather track.

Harrington High had another Junior Olympic champ in the Senior Division (16 and 17). Tolbert Harris, 17, a key performer on Coach Harold McDonald's state champion mile relay quartet won the 220 yard dash in 24.6 seconds after a mixup caused the race to be run a second time. Harris also qualified for the regional meet at West Chester.

Ken Tribbett, 16, ran the 100 yard dash in 10.5 seconds to finish second behind Ward of P. S. duPont High.

Wetherhold, Harris and Tribbett won medals for their efforts. Each boy is amassing a growing hoard of medals, trophies, ribbons, plaques and other awards for track excellence.

Minor League Baseball News

The Harrington Minor League season got underway Saturday morning, June 1st, at the local Moose Home.

The Minor League consist of three teams which are as follows:

Orioles — Harold Brown, manager — players: Hal Brown, Lee Henry, Donald Bullock, Jamie Simpson, Keith Jester, Jimmie Carroll, Clinton Graham, Donald Baynard, Richard Shultie, Allen Phillippi, George Legates, Darrell Wayne Benton, and Terry Wheatly.

Yankees — Morris Willey, manager — players: Morris Willey, Ricky Mertz, Darrell Jester, Michael Wix, Doug Vincent, William Moore, Chris Wyatt, Arthur Mintz, Darrell Porter, William Smith, John Short, and Terry Stewart.

Tigers — LeRoy Wheeler, manager — players: Dennis Wheeler, Ronnie Motter, Michael Price, Michael Clough, Calvin Pritchett, Blake Bartly, Bryan Pearson, William Leonard, Rocky Kessler, Bruce Klapp, John Morris and Matt Burgess.

The Orioles met the Tigers Saturday in the season's opener and came out on the short end of a 13-4 verdict.

The game was not without a little extra excitement as an unwanted participant persisted in being a tenth player on the field. Mr. King Snake planted himself at third base and refused to budge. After a bit of not too friendly persuasion, the unwanted mentor took to the sidelines.

Tuesday evening saw the Tigers go against the Yankees at the school diamond. Superb pitching was the keynote in this setto as the Tigers blanked the Yankees 9-0 to take the early lead in the league standings.

Thursday evening will see a rematch between the Tigers and Yankees at the school diamond. Game time is 6:15 p.m.

Local support has been fairly good so far this year and the hope is that it will continue. Of course, it cannot be guaranteed to provide the extra excitement like the first game, but who ever heard of a snake playing ball?

Bill Johnson Wins Maple Dale Golf Tournament

The Maple Dale Invitational Golf Tournament title went to Bill Johnson of Shawnee Country Club Sunday as he withstood a late bid by Garrisons Lake's Dick Ward, the defending champ. Johnson shot consistent rounds of 73-76 over the wet Maple Dale course for a 149 total, seven strokes ahead of Ward. The runner-up opened with an 80 on Saturday, but came back with a 76 Sunday. George Hall of Garrisons Lake was third.

Bob Hake and Sam Cronis of the host club teamed to take top honors in the better-ball-of-partners event. The tandem carded a net 69.

Bob Naftzinger of Maple Dale won the First Flight title with 166. Dayton Pater and Dave Reid, also of Maple Dale, took the Flight's partner crown.

John Gettings of Garrisons Lake, and Bill Schaefer and Harry Jackson were the Second Flight individual and team winners respectively. Jim Ware of Garrisons Lake won the third Flight, and Sam Kendall topped the Fourth Flight entries.

H.H.S. Track Team Had Record-Breaking Year

Coach Harold McDonald's 1968 Harrington High track team set more school records, than any previous Lion track team. The stop watch and the tape measure tell the story of the constant and steady improvement shown by Harrington High's thinclads, since McDonald took the helm, as the fifth track coach here.

A grand total of ten new school records were established, two more were tied and another standard, the mile run, barely stood the test by 1.2 seconds.

Three Henlopen Conference marks were broken by H.H.S. and one state record now belongs to the local flyers.

The first outing of 1968 was a narrow decision over Lewes, with Rehoboth a distant third. The 14-year-old Chris Wetherhold was a double winner in the 880 and mile.

The next start was a victory over John M. Clayton and Selbyville. The record-setting spree finally got started in the Seaford Invitational when Wetherhold ran two miles in 10:15.3. This great effort cut half a minute off the best clocking in previous invitational at Seaford, sliced a whopping 35 seconds off Jerry Garey's H.H.E. mark and was almost 10 seconds better than the best winning state meet time in Section II.

On April 26, a fired-up Earl Nichols cleared 5 feet, 10 inches in the high jump, beating a 5-9 done by George Pfeiffer, several years ago.

May 1st saw Wetherhold at it again. He raced away from Henlopen champion, Gutekunst of Dover Air, stopped the watch in 2:04.6 for 880 yards, bested Dennis Rogers' three-year-old time of 2:06.3. The same day, Bill Webb threw the 12-pound shot 44 feet, 9 inches to excel Joe Taylor's 44-7 and Ken Tribbett was credited with ten seconds flat for 100 yards, tying Frank White (1966) and Jim Schiff (1959).

Six days later Ronald Morris blazed 440 yards to win the Milford Invitational 440 in 52.9, breaking Jim Schiff's 1959 school record of 53.7. Morris then teamed with Jerry Cagle, Tolbert Harris and John Swain to nip Dover in the thrilling mile relay event in 3:36.3, slicing two tenths off the time recorded in the 1967 state meet.

May 15 at the Henlopen Conference meet held at John M. Clayton in the Dagsboro-Frankford area, H.H.S. erased three league marks and one school mark from the record books.

Wetherhold raced to easy triumphs in his events, setting school and league standards in the 880. Dennis Rogers, his neighbor across Route 13 from Harrington Manor, owned the old bests set three years back. Chris beat Harry Knotts' Henlopen standard in the mile and did it eased up.

The mile relay event at John M. Clayton was featured by a terrific 56.1 opening quarter mile leg by 13-year-old John Shulties, an eighth grader. Jerry Cagle, Tolbert Harris and John Swain then relayed the baton across the finish in 3:40+, eclipsing a Bridgeville mark of 1966 by four seconds and giving Harrington the Henlopen Conference championship.

On May 24th at the University of Delaware in the state championship meet, John Swain became the H.H.S. record-holder in the 440, clocking 52.8. Ronald Morris, whose 52.9 was erased from the record book, came back on Saturday with another 52.8, to become a co-holder with Swain.

This pair then teamed with Jerry Cagle and Tolbert Harris to win the mile relay in 3:33.2. Harrington had never before been state champions in any track event. The quartet set a Group II state record and lowered the old H.H.S. mark set in the Milford Invitational by more than three seconds.

Earlier in the campaign, Harrington attended the Bridgeton, N. J. Relays for the first time and brought home a new medley record of 8:05+. Wetherhold ran the mile portion, Ronald Morris the 880, Ken Tribbett the 200 leg and John Swain handled the 440 stint.

Some of the lads are sharpening their talents in summer competition. Look for more superlative efforts in 1969 in this greatest of all sports.

$1.5 million plus construction costs if all school districts were to operate kindergartens.

Only Democrats Allen J. Cook of Kenton and George A. Robbins, of Milford, voted against the bill.

"If you have money to spend on education, you should spend it on grades one through 12 where there is a lot to be desired," Cook said. "I don't believe we're getting what we pay for now."

ington, Kent County and Sussex County two members each and rural New Castle County, with 21 house members next term, seven members.

The 14th commission member, who would serve as chairman, would be selected by the governor and could come from anywhere in the state.

The current 11-member commission has one member from Wilmington, three from rural New Castle County, three from Kent County and four from Sussex.

Mr. Heckert said the bill was intended to provide adequate representation on the commission for the most populous parts of the state.

Upstate legislators have criticized the State Highway Department for ignoring their needs, but Mrs. Heckert said Tuesday her bill should not be interpreted as "criticism of any individual who is a member of the highway department."

She added that there is no way the General Assembly can guarantee that the governor will appoint "able and farsighted" persons to the commission.

Kent and Sussex House members insisted that the bill is unfair.

Rep. George Edward Gray, R-Selbyville, said half the road mileage in the state is in Sussex County, and that that should be taken into account in apportioning the commission.

The bill would take effect next February 1. The governor would immediately appoint three members to the commission from areas not currently represented.

Additional new members would be appointed as the terms of the incumbents expired. No more than eight of the 14 members could belong to one political party.

There are 12 Wilmington and

New Castle County senators. Ten votes would be needed for the bill to pass the Senate.
