Lions Install New Officers Aboard Ferry

The Harrington Lions Club installed its new officers for the ensuing year aboard the S.S. Delaware of the Cape May-Lewes Ferry Monday evening in conjunction with the annual ladies night program.

Miles Frederick, public relations director of the Delaware River and Bay Authority, and Mrs. Frederick, accompanied the Lions and their ladies on the trip and after a delicious dinner in the ship's dining room, conducted a very interesting guided tour of the boat. Upon arriving in Cape May, we disembarked and boarded an old British diesel powered double-decker bus, owned by the Christian Admiral Hotel of Cape May and just recently acquired from the Metropolitan Transit Company of London, which took us to the hotel about five miles away. The manager of this beautiful old building, which was built in 1907, greeted us in the main lobby, and after relating some interesting and historical facts about the hotel, took the members and their ladies on a guided tour of this old structure of 330 rooms on six floors, and is situated approximately 150 feet from the waters-edge of the Delaware Bay.

District Governor Leonard E. Barnes, of Wilmington, was in charge of the installation ceremony. He and Mrs. Barnes were guests of the club. This was their first trip across the bay on the new ferry system as was the case with many of our members and their wives. It proved to be a most eventful and enjoyable evening despite the misty rain and heavy fog on the bay.

Felton Girl, 12 Struck by Car

A 12-year-old girl who police said was struck by a car on the Felton-Harrington Road Sunday was reported in satisfactory condition Monday in Milford Memorial Hospital.

Police said Kayla Ann Straw suffered internal injuries in the 4 p.m. accident when she apparently darted into the path of a car operated by Abner Dean Baird Jr., 24, of Baltimore. Scene of the accident was about two miles south of Felton.

The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Straw Sr. of near Felton, was walking along the road, also designated County Road 284, with three companions when she started across as the vehicle approached. The impact, police said, tossed the girl 61 feet. She was taken to the hospital in the Felton Fire Company ambulance.

Dawn Lea Hopkins Madison College Graduate

Dawn Lea Hopkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Norman Hopkins of 202 East Center Street, was graduated recently during commencement ceremonies held at Madison College in Harrisonburg, Va. Miss Hopkins was awarded the Bachelor of Science degree. She was a member of the yearbook staff, Concert Choir and was elected to the May Court.

Sen. Bookhammer Candidate For Lt.-Gov. Post

Citing his record of service to the state over the past six years, State Senator Eugene D. Bookhammer this week tossed his hat into the ring as a Republican candidate for the office of Lieutenant Governor.

Bookhammer, who resides near Lewes, says he wants to seek the office and be judged on his own merits. Confident that he can work for and represent all the people of Delaware, Bookhammer points out that he would "feel comfortable" running with either Russell W. Peterson of Wilmington or Robert Short of Georgetown, both of whom are announced gubernatorial candidates. (Continued on Page 4)

Comprehensive Development Plan Ready for Publication on City

INSTALLMENT XII (Continued from last week) Police and Fire

One of the paramount functions of municipal government is to provide for the safety of its residents. Thus, adequate police and fire protection should exist as well as sanitation, health and housing codes.

The volunteer fire station is adequate and is situated in close proximity to commercial property. It is also centrally located within the City.

Public Library Harrington has a small public library located on the first floor of the municipal building. This facility should be expanded and developed in conjunction with a new municipal or civic center.

Harrington was able to support a library in the teens, and there is no reason why the community cannot support one today, particularly when financial aid is available in the construction of such facilities. The City would be well advised to contact the State Librarian for more information on this.

Educational Facilities The quality of school is a key factor in a community's effort to retain and attract families, commerce and industry. Thus the ability to anticipate when new school facilities are needed is essential to any local planning program.

Harrington has two schools One houses the Junior and Senior High Schools plus elementary grades; the other is strictly an elementary school containing six first grade classes. Both are situated in the western section of Harrington, as can be seen on the Facilities and Services Map.

A review of the Capital Improvements Requests from the Harrington School District reveals the following new projects to be undertaken. Major repairs are to be made to the High School, costing around $40,000. This project is scheduled to be initiated in July of 1967. The School District also proposes alterations and additions to the West Harrington Elementary School located on West Street. An additional 24,000 square feet of school space is proposed and the total cost for undertaking these improvements will run in the vicinity of $550,000. This project is scheduled to commence in Fiscal Year 1968.

School Enrollment Trends The Harrington School District had a total enrollment in 1966 of 1,269 pupils. It is estimated that by 1975 this enrollment figure will increase to 1,723 students.

At present time the school district has sufficient classroom space to handle the present enrollment. However, anticipated enrollment will require that additional classrooms be provided. The school district anticipates providing 16 additional elementary classrooms to meet future demands.

Health Facilities The nearest hospital to Harrington is located in Milford, approximately 8 miles away. Kent General Hospital in Dover is located about 17 miles from Harrington.

Sanitary Sewers City officials retained the services of a consulting firm to study the matter of a sewer treatment and collection expansion plan. Several alternative plans have been submitted for approval to the City and the Water and Air Resources Commission by the Consulting Engineers. It appears that the City will develop a contact stabilization plant for mechanical secondary treatment along with oxidation or polishing ponds.

Fiscal Analysis As part of the planning program for Harrington, an analysis of the City's fiscal posture was undertaken. The purpose of this study was to gain a better understanding as to where public monies come from and where such funds are spent.

Also discussed in this report was the tax structure of the City and its debt posture. Both of these were important pieces of (Continued on Page 3)

Council Plans St. Improvements; Also Annexation Along Highway

The City Council Monday night made plans for street improvements in Harrington Manor and annexation of land along U.S. 13 south.

Mayor Fulton Downing, presiding at his first complete meeting since he suffered a heart ailment some weeks ago, told the Council he wanted to get bids out as soon as possible on street improvements in Harrington Manor.

Plans Completed For Street Fair At Felton

Plans are completed for the street fair at Felton tomorrow, June 15, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

The main attraction of the fair is the fried chicken dinner prepared by the Women's Society of Christian Service, which starts at 4 p.m. Plans have been made by the organizations of the community for the various booths that they will sponsor. The children are looking forward for rides on the fire engine and the usual fish pond with its variety of toys. Be sure to visit the quaint country store which sells a variety of articles, including homemade aprons. There will be homemade ice cream, candy, baked goods as well as a parcel post package booth. The M.Y.F. will sell hot dogs, French fries, etc.

The Felton School Band, under the direction of Ross Evans, school band director will be there to entertain you. Miss Felton and Little Miss Felton will be present to greet you. Come out tomorrow and meet your friends at the Felton Street Fair.

Greenwood Victim Listed As Poor

A Greenwood man, on parole in connection with a 1965 rape conviction, was listed in poor condition Wednesday night at Milford Memorial Hospital, the victim of a shooting incident.

Louis William Hinton, 29, according to state police, was shot in the right thigh about 7:30 p.m. Saturday when he became involved in an argument over borrowing a phonograph from another Greenwood resident.

Authorities did not release information on the shooting until Wednesday. Police said no charges have been lodged and the (Continued on Page 8)

Take Guesswork Out of Spraying

Guesswork is foolish when applying chemical controls for weeds, insects or diseases, says Frank E. Boys, agricultural chemical specialist at the University of Delaware.

Costs of improper pesticide application are much too high to risk on a guess. Even on an educated guess. But too many farmers who think they know exactly how much pesticide they are using are, in fact, only guessing.

Less than the recommended herbicide rate can result in less than satisfactory weed control, says Boys. And an overdose may kill or seriously injure an entire crop. Improper insecticide application can cause unlawful residue which will result in seizure of a crop by government inspectors.

Another important consideration in using pesticides is field size, he cautions. Estimating the acreage to be treated increases the chances of using improper spray rates.

To eliminate the guesswork from your spray program, calibrate spray equipment before applying pesticides, he advises. And measure fields and mark sizes down in a permanent place.

Prevent trouble before it begins. Know exactly how much material your equipment will deliver when properly calibrated and be sure to accurately measure the correct amount of pesticide and water before spraying. And always remember to read and follow label directions explicitly.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne Holberton

Not so many years ago, the American farmer was producing food primarily for active hard working people whose needs and tastes were all very similar. Today the food choices of the U.S. worker and their families have changed greatly.

Today's nomemaker chooses lighter foods for breakfast, and leaner meats for dinner. The effects of these changes, along with many others, have been felt at every stage of the production-consumption business, from farm to home freezer.

Once upon a time chicken was a Sunday dinner specialty—today it's every day if we choose. Here's an indication of our poultry abundance: In 1967, poultry growers raised some 2.5 billion broilers. Per person consumption of chicken and turkey (in ready-to-cook weights) shows a tripling from 15.7 pounds in 1909 to 46 pounds in 1967.

Eggs, however, have not fared so well. In 1940 we were consuming 380 to 400 eggs per person. In 1967 we ate 324. There may be an upswing this year as a result of the larger-than-average total egg production.

Another change in our eating habits has been in the quantity of pork consumed. In 1900, people consumed 72 pounds each; in 1964 the consumption had dropped to 64 pounds. During this time the pig itself has changed because we refused to buy pork fat. As a result, a much leaner pig has been bred and the pork we buy today reflects this change.

On the other hand, beef consumption continues to climb. In 1900 a person consumed 72.3 pounds compared to 106.3 pounds consumed by each individual in 1967. Total cattle numbers in 109 were 60.7 million; on January 1, 1968, they totaled 108.3 million. Total cattle numbers have steadily increased. However, there has been a decline in milk cows but it has been offset by a gain in beef cattle.

Another significant example of change is the distinct difference in the form in which food reaches our dinner table today.

At the beginning of this century most food was used in the fresh or relatively unprocessed form; apples for home canning, smoked bacon for the slab or uncooked beans for baking. Today much work has been eliminated for the homemaker as many foods are now made in ready-to-serve forms, precooked, or are in instant form. No longer is loaf bread made by necessity, or orange juice squeezed from the orange. No longer does it take an average of 3 1/3 hours to prepare a single meal. Today a nutritionally balanced meal can be prepared in 20 minutes—tomorrow with the use of electronics and the like it may take only 2 seconds.

Whatever sport Dad enjoys, a gift to increase his enjoyment is available. If he prefers spectator sports, give him a ticket to see his favorite team or a new radio or portable television to tune in the action.

The man who likes to work with wood may already have a workshop full of power tools, but he can always use another small hand tool. Get only the best quality tool, advises Mrs. Keller. Why not surprise him with a piece or two of fine wood?

For the man who reads, there is always a new and exciting book; for the man who enjoys music, a new recording or tape. As an extra touch, make sure he has the time to use his gift.

The easiest men to buy for are fathers and grandfathers who collect; simply add to the collection whether it's stamps, coins, guns or antiques.

If he appreciates or needs new clothes, these, too, can be an appreciated gift on Father's Day. Naturally, new clothing must suit his likes and dislikes. If you don't know the exact size, ties, stretch hose, jewelry, leather goods or toiletries make size unimportant, Mrs. Keller points out.

Father's Day Coming Up

Looking for a special gift for your own special father or grandfather? This Father's Day, June 16, surprise him with a gift that's really "just what I always wanted."

Dads come in all kinds of packages—ranch or round, calm or quick-tempered, earthy or ivory-towerish. But there's a gift to fit each, according to Mrs. Mary Keller, extension home economics agent for New Castle County.

Increase his enjoyment of his own personal hobby—whatever it is. The gift needn't be a budget-buster; the affection behind the gift counts most anyway.

Give the gardener a new gadget or a new book on the propagation and care of his favorite plant. Give him the plant itself in a new-to-him variety. Or, promise him several companionable hours of help with the weeding, but be sure you can tell the flowers from the weeds, suggests Mrs. Keller.

You don't necessarily need to give Dad an expensive new camera to keep him happy if he's a camera-bug. Take your cue from the camera gadget he's been admiring lately—it could be a new lens, a flash attachment or a new projector. Even an ample supply of film is a welcome gift. Or, make room for a home darkroom if he'd like to develop his own film.

Whatever sport Dad enjoys, a gift to increase his enjoyment is available. If he prefers spectator sports, give him a ticket to see his favorite team or a new radio or portable television to tune in the action.

Calibrate Sprayer For Proper Pesticide Use

To assure proper application of pesticides, spray equipment should be properly calibrated to determine the exact amount of liquid applied per acre, according to Thomas H. Williams, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Delaware.

Before calibrating your sprayer, make sure all nozzles are discharging at a uniform rate, says Williams. Clean each nozzle thoroughly, then run the sprayer in a stationary position with clear water at normal spraying pressure.

Place quart jars under nozzles to catch the discharge from each one, he adds. Water level in all jars should rise at the same rate. Replace any nozzle that has a discharge rate different than the others.

To calibrate your sprayer, begin with a full tank of clean water. Adjust spraying pressure to that normally used in the field. Now drive exactly one-tenth of an acre at normal field speed, then refill the tank, carefully measuring the amount of water required. Finally, multiply the number of gallons required to refill the sprayer by 10 to determine the amount of spray in gallons per acre and mix active ingredients in the same proportion.

Always spray at the same speed, pressure and nozzle opening used when calibrating, cautions Williams. Changing any of these will alter the rate of application. It is wise to mark the notch the throttle is in when calibrating and keep it in that notch when spraying.

The application rate of any sprayer is also affected by vibration, pump wear, corrosion, partial clogging of nozzles and strainers and changes in field conditions, he adds. And abrasive wettable powder sprays eventually change application rate by causing wear in nozzle openings.

It is most important to remember that sprayer calibration is good only for conditions under which calibration is made, says Williams. Recalibration is necessary if conditions change.

Get Beautiful Summer Blooms

For beautiful blooms this summer, give your flowers good care during their first few weeks in the garden, says Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

Unless your soil is very rich, most annual flowers will need extra fertilizer after they begin active growth. Sprinkle 5-10-10 fertilizer evenly along both sides of each row and work it into the top inch of soil. For quick action, dissolve the garden thoroughly to dissolve nitrogen and move it down into the root zone.

Low, compact flowering plants are more attractive in a flower bed or border than most taller plants, says Stevens. And all plants may be broken during wind or rain storms.

To develop low, bushy plants that will produce a large number of flowers, wait until plants are five or six inches tall, then pinch about one inch off the main stem. Several side branches will then develop. These may be pinched off when they are about four inches long.

Pinching is a particularly useful practice for limiting growth in the taller varieties of snapdragon and zinnia, he adds.

If you prefer a smaller number of large flowers over the mass of blooms of the double-petalled compact plant, pinch only once and allow four stems to develop on each plant. As the stems grow taller, remove side buds which develop in the angles of leaves. This will allow the top flower bud to grow large and have a long straight stem. Remove old flowers to allow continuous flowering.

Disbudding is an easy and fairly common technique for producing fine specimen blooms for flower shows and exhibits. Inspect plants every few days and remove side buds as soon as they are a half inch long. Buds will break off easily if they are pulled sideways on the stem. As stems grow taller, stake them for support.

Care Prevents Farm Accidents

Long hours spent on farm machinery during the summer months greatly increase the possibility of disabling accidents, according to Thomas H. Williams, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Delaware. Most accidents are the result of small mistakes, says Williams. Small mistakes that turn to tragedy. These include a little too much speed; a slight error in judgment; a lost or broken shield; an improperly adjusted hitch.

When operating machinery in the field, watch for open ditch banks and hidden rocks and stumps, he advises. And avoid climbing steep banks. Always hitch loads to the drawbar, never to the tractor axle. Know what to expect from your equipment. A tractor pulling a heavy load may handle quite differently than the same tractor without a load.

About one-third of all fatal tractor accidents occur on highways. If you operate a tractor on the highway, keep as far right as safety permits. Use warning flags that are clearly visible during daylight hours and be sure that machinery is properly lit after dusk.

For added safety, use slow moving vehicle emblems to warn traffic that you are operating a vehicle at less than 25 miles an hour, says Williams. And be sure to give proper signals and obey all traffic laws.

Never operate machinery when you are extremely tired, worried or in a hurry, he adds. This is when most accidents occur. Keep children away from farm machinery, and never allow extra riders.

If you are working alone, arrange for someone to check with you frequently. Many farm accidents happen in back field where a lone operator may be pinned in or under a machine for hours before he is found. Many of these accidents would be less serious if help were available immediately following the accident.

Comprehensive Plan

financial information in that they provided a means to project future income and the potential borrowing capacity of Harrington.

Projected Income and Expenditures

Since there are many variables which affect municipal income and expenditures, it is difficult to make any definite projections relative to them. However, it is important to look ahead in order to come up with a reasonable estimate of future governmental income and expenditures. This will enable the City of Harrington to have some idea of its future fiscal potential or limitations which it can expect in the next 10-20 years.

At the present time the City has a per capita tax income (real estate and capitation) of roughly $20. Assuming this per capita figure remains the same, the additional population expected by 1980 should increase the total tax income from $50,856.00 to $80,400.00, a rise of $9,544.00. If we assume that total tax income will continue to represent 64% of total municipal income, then total income from all sources should reach $94,375.00 by 1980.

A second way in which to forecast future income for Harrington is to make some assumptions regarding total taxable assessments. For example at the present time residential taxable assessments total $4,278,315. The assessment should increase as new dwelling units are added to the City to meet population gains.

It is assumed that 160 dwelling units will be required to house 420 persons by 1980, residential taxable assessments should rise by more than a million dollars, depending upon the value of new dwelling units. Thus, residential assessments should reach at least $5,300,000 by 1980. If residential assessment continues to represent 85% of total taxable assessments, total taxable assessments should reach $6,235,294. Should the same local tax rate of 80 cents prevail, real estate income could reach $49,882.00 annually. Assuming that revenue derived from the real estate tax alone represents 49% of total income, then total municipal revenues should approximate $101,800.00.

In summary, the estimated range of municipal income for Harrington is from a low of $94,375.00 to a high of $101,800.00 by 1980. These figures, however, are based on the assumption that the present tax rate will remain the same.

Per capita expenditures for Harrington are approximately $30.40. If the population is expected to reach 2,020 persons by 1980, municipal expenditure figures will change. It is highly probable that it will rise and in fact perhaps double by 1980. As an illustration, the Town of Laurel has a total population of around 2,800 persons and a per capita expenditure of $62.00. Inflation, higher salaries, provision of more services and capital facilities, will in all likelihood cause Harrington's expenditures to rise. Should this occur local taxes will have to be raised to meet new municipal requirements. The alternatives lie in raising existing taxes, in developing new sources of revenue, or increasing the non-residential tax base in Harrington. Annexing properties along the highway and the Fairgrounds south of Harrington would increase assessments considerably.

Future Debt Limit
It is estimated that total taxable assessments should reach 6.2 million dollars by 1980. If this figure is reached the City will be able to incur debt of up to $935,294.

Downing Victim's Services Slated

Services were held Tuesday afternoon for a Milford man whose body was recovered Saturday from the Delaware Bay.

The man, Harold Preston Shockley, 25, of Lovers Lane, Milford, had been missing since Monday when he apparently tried to swim ashore after a 16-foot fishing boat in which he and a companion were floating capsized in a violent wind and rain storm. Mr. Shockley first tried to replace a damaged propeller, then attempted to swim to shore.

His companion, Russell L. Wright, Jr., 23, of Milford, clung to the overturned boat and was rescued by a Coast Guard boat out of Cape May, N. J., that night.

Mr. Shockley's body was seen floating in the bay around 11 Saturday morning by persons in two small boats. The Coast Guard at Indian River Inlet was notified and pulled the body from the bay near the Mispillion Light, 5 1/2 miles east of Milford. Death was attributed to drowning.

Surviving Mr. Shockley are his widow, Mrs. Shirley Mae Shockley, of Milford; a daughter, Mary Christina, and a son, Harold D., both at home; his father, Harold P., of Bowers Beach; his mother, Mrs. Alice Black, of Milford; three brothers, David and Richard, both of Milford, and Philip, in the Navy in California; four half-brothers, Harold, Edward, Kenneth and Bruce Shockley, all of Bowers Beach, and a half-sister, Mable Ann Shockley, of Bowers Beach.

Services were Tuesday afternoon in the Berry Funeral Home, Milford. Interment was in Odd Fellows Cemetery, Milford.

Public Alerted For Hurricane Season

State of Delaware Department of Civil Defense this week issued a list of precautionary measures to be taken during the hurricane season, which is regarded generally as from June to October.

The director, J. Arnold Sullivan outlined recommendations for householders, vacationists, and small craft owners to protect themselves against storms, torrential rains and floods that normally occur during the hurricane season.

"Public awareness of the dangers to be expected is the greatest safeguard against natural disasters," the Director's warning stated. "Individuals who take precautionary measures in advance can substantially reduce injuries and the loss of life and property."

The local civil defense directors in the State of Delaware are prepared to have their forces perform emergency duties should a natural disaster strike. When storm warnings go up, civil defense workers stand ready to work with State and local agencies, the Delaware Chapter American Red Cross and other non-governmental relief agencies. The local weather bureau, utilizing the facilities of the Delaware State Defense Radio Network, will keep the public informed by radio and TV with current weather bulletins.

General precautions for the householder: —Make sure that battery-powered radios are in good working order.

—Stay tuned to radio and TV stations for storm warnings.

—Use battery-powered radio or car radio in event of power failure.

—Keep your car in top condition with battery, lights, etc., in good working order and with the gas tank at least three-quarters full.

—As a safeguard against damage from flooded cellars, check cellar windows and move valuable material to a safe place.

—Store canned goods, drinking water, canned heat, can openers, and paper dishes in a safe place.

—Check rain gutters to be sure they are not clogged.

—Move furniture and other movable objects from porches and lawns to safe locations.

Special precautions before the storm: —When the storm warning is given, these precautions should be taken at once.

—Board up windows or leave storm shutters in place.

—Use strong lumber for all bracing.

—Sterilize the bath tub, jugs, bottles, etc., and fill with drinking water. (Wash with soap and water, rinse with household bleach and boiling water for such sterilization.)

—Put car in garage or park away from trees and poles.

—Close house and garage windows and doors.

—At the first warning of danger, turn freezer setting up so that, if power fails, food may stay frozen for a longer period.

—Stay away from windows during the storm.

—If out-of-doors, take refuge in a ditch or ravine.

—Avoid all loose wires—they may be "live."

If the center or "eye" of the storm passes over your area, there will be a temporary lull, lasting from a few minutes to a half-hour or more. Then the wind will resume with comparable violence from the opposite direction. You should not, therefore, leave your protected area until you hear an official announcement on radio or TV that the storm is over.

Special warning for vacationists: —Because the hurricane months are also popular vacation months, the following safety measures apply particularly to vacationists and boat owners:

—Follow storm warning carefully.

—Tune in frequently on radio or TV before starting on a fishing trip or cruise.

—Secure pleasure craft when official storm warnings are issued by the Weather Bureau.

—Haul boats to safe locations upon receiving storm notices.

—Give craft at anchor plenty of slack in moorings to avoid swamping.

U. of D. Business Students Honored

Three seniors in the College of Business and Economics at the University of Delaware were recognized recently for outstanding achievement and performance.

Gary L. Clinton of 1231 Lakewood Dr., Wilmington, was awarded a $100 Savings Bond by Carter Carburetor Division of the American Car and Foundry Industries.

The Delaware Chapter of the National Association of Accountants presented William C. Shaffer, Main St., Hartly, and Craig B. Bailey, 1907 Dorset Rd., Wilmington, with certificates for outstanding academic performance and leadership qualities in the field of accounting.

Clinton received the savings bond for a national study he conducted on "The Changing Distribution Channels of Speed Equipment Outlets." Henry Wehr of the Petersen Publishing Co., publisher of Motor Trend and Hot Rod, served as technical advisor for the paper. Dr. Blaine G. Schmidt, chairman of business administration, supervised the research.

Carter Carburetor Division is a major manufacturer of high performance carburetors and fuel pumps.

The Delaware Chapter of NAA noted that both Shaffer and Bailey have exceptional career potentials and exemplify the highest caliber of the profession.

SERMON AFTER DEATH OF SENATOR ROBERT F. KENNEDY
 By the Rev. James T. Hammel
 St. Bernadette's Church - Sun., June 9

After this week of tragedy we begin by quoting from the third chapter of the Book of Ecclesiastes—"Everything must be done by turns; no activity, here beneath the heavens, but has its allotted time for beginning and come to an end. Men are born only to die, plant trees only to displant them. Now we take life, now we save it: Now we are destroying, now building. Weep first, then laugh, mourn we and dance; the stones we have scattered we must bring together anew; court we first and then shun the embrace. Today's gain, tomorrow's loss; what once we treasured, soon throw away; the garment rent, the garment mended; silence kept, and silence ended; love alternating with hatred, war with peace. For all this toiling of his, how is man richer? Pitiable indeed I found it, this task God has given to mankind; and He, meanwhile, has made the world, in all its reasonable beauty, and given us the contemplation of it, yet of His own dealings with us, first and last, never should man gain comprehension. To enjoy his life, to make the best of it, beyond this is man's highest employment; that gift at least God has granted him, to eat and drink and see his toil rewarded. But be sure all God has made will remain for ever as He made it; there is no adding to it, no taking away from it; so He will command our reverence. Nothing that has been, but lasts on still; nothing that will be, but has been already; He is ever repeating the history of the past.

I marked, too, how wrong was done instead of right, injustice instead of justice, there under the sun's eye; and I told myself that God would give judgment one day between the just and the sinners, and all things would reach their appointed end then. I told myself that God's purpose with the sons of men was to test them."

God this week again tested an American family, the family of Senator Robert Francis Kennedy. But God has again tested America.

Violence has again raised its ugly head in this land of the free and the home of the brave. Last Wednesday morning Americans all asked the same question — What is wrong with the country? Americans felt ashamed—which is good—for if one is ashamed he has pride in what is temporarily lost. Our President told the nation during the week that 200 million Americans did not fire the shot in the Ambassador Hotel, but it was one man. Americans therefore must not lose faith in themselves as Americans.

But we cannot dismiss the fact that it was another in a series of acts of violence against individuals and groups in our recent past. Could we all be somewhat to blame for this rise in violence? Do we tolerate the manufacture of toy guns for our children, so that the gun becomes their major toy? Do we tolerate the indiscriminate sale of real guns? People are shown subject to all kinds of violence. Do we tolerate the same violence on television? Do we tolerate a lessening of our nation's morals? Do we tolerate a breakdown of justice in punishing the guilty which is even sanctioned by our highest court? Do we tolerate a total disregard for lawful police authority?

We have almost accepted the fact that our President can no longer travel freely among his people. We have accepted the fact that we can no longer freely walk the streets of our cities at night.

This is a time to examine our consciences. We must not lose faith in ourselves nor our country. We must believe that the United States came into existence to secure the blessings of freedom, security and equality for all. Unity must be maintained.

Robert Kennedy dreamed of an America, purged of prejudice — a land of equal opportunity.

Toward the end of his victory speech last Tuesday, a few moments before his voice was silenced, he spoke of his desire for love, wisdom and compassion for one another.

If we each in our own hearts try to have this love, wisdom and compassion for one another we can again have a country free of violence of which we can be proud.

Let us pray that love, wisdom and compassion will rise in this country.

May he rest in peace. AMEN

FATHER'S DAY

Last Sunday was Children's Day and next Sunday (June 16) is Father's Day. This latter date is usually looked forward to by us oldsters with mixed anxiety and fond remembrances.

Come to think there's such a thing,
 As cryin' just because you're glad,
 So I just let the tear drops fall,
 You'll understand, if you're a Dad.

The situation referred to, was brought about when I found the following lines at my dinner plate from my immediate offspring:

A dad is a family's strength and guide,
 A source of hope and light,
 The one his family looks up to,
 Because he always makes things right.

A dad is a companion,
 Whose loyalty has no end,
 For he's more than just a father,
 He's the finest kind of friend.

A dad will hold his family close
 And keep watch over all,
 And he's the one the family knows
 Will answer when they call.

And though he never seems to get
 The praises that he's due —
 The world's a better, happier place
 Because of dads — like you.

MR. AND MRS. RAYMOND MICHAEL LOPEZ, JR. — who were married here Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Lopez is the former Joyce Ann Downing, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Fulton J. Downing, Parsons Studio.

Miss Joyce Ann Downing Becomes Bride of Raymond M. Lopez, Jr.

Miss Joyce Ann Downing and Mr. Raymond Michael Lopez, Jr. were married in Asbury Methodist Church, Harrington, Saturday at 2 p.m. The Rev. John Edwards Jones performed the wedding ceremony which was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mayor and Mrs. Fulton J. Downing, 71 Clark Street, Harrington.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lopez, of Newark, N. J.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over slipper satin and was laced with a fitted bodice which had a Sabina neckline and long tapering sleeves. The bouffant skirt featured a cascade of ruffles in the back which ended in a chapel sweep train. Her finger-tip veil of imported illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls. She carried a cascade of white orchids and stephanotis with ivy.

Sixteen Years Ago
JOURNAL FILES
FRI., JUNE 13, 1952

A cyclone, with driving rain, cut a swath thru Caroline County, Md., and crossed a corner of Sussex County into Kent County late Monday afternoon, doing extensive damage, especially in the Adamsville sector. Poultry houses were demolished and trees uprooted or snapped in two as the storm exerted its main force on the farms of Emory Williams, John A. Williams, and Joe Dennis. A freak storm staged a repeat in the Adamsville sector Tuesday afternoon.

"How firm a foundation is faith" could well be the philosophy of Mrs. Annie E. Smith who, despite her 87 years and crutches, still tends to her home and attractive garden at 308 Second Ave., Harrington.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Collins and daughter spent Sunday at Lewes Beach.

Mrs. Ruth Thompson has returned to her home in Ashland, Ky., after a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tee.

Pvt. Ralph Smith leaves tomorrow for Camp Hood, Tex., after spending ten days with his wife who will accompany him to stay for a while. Pvt. Smith is a son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Brown Smith, of Harrington.

The community of Vernon was saddened by the sudden death of Mrs. Mary Lynn Tritt at the Odd Fellows Home, Middletown, Pa. She was 67.

Harrington youngsters now have the opportunity to play baseball in league competition following the organization of a pony league under sponsorship of the Lions Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Larosch and grandson, John, of Wilmington, and Mrs. G. Clinton Shockey, of Chester, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Adkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Richards and daughter, Betty, of Dover, spent Sunday with Richards' parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Richards. Fulton Downing is acting as a delegate to the jurisdictional Methodist Conference this week in Harrisburg, Pa.

Mrs. Florence Nelson, of Wilmington, is visiting her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nelson.

Girls' State
 Begins June 24

The American Legion Auxiliary's annual School in Government, known as "Girls' State" will be held from Monday, June 24, to Friday, June 28, at Wesley Junior College, and Legislative Hall, Dover, under the direction of Mrs. David Freeman, Department Girls' State chairman of Bellefonte, Wilmington.

This year's program was planned by Mrs. Freeman and the following committee: Mrs. George W. Ayars, Miss Helen L. Jones and Mrs. George M. Hess, of Dover; Mrs. William M. Cann, Mrs. John Powell, Jr., Mrs. Park W. Huntington, Sr., Mrs. Margaret Alfele, secretary and treasurer, Mrs. George F. Foster, Mrs. Garrett Steele, of Wilmington; Mrs. Francis O'Neill, and Mrs. Clay Bailey, of Smyrna; Mrs. Everett F. Argo, of Milton, and Mrs. Ruth B. Egan, of Fairfax; Mrs. William Lloyd, of Bethel; and Mrs. Henry Orkin, of Milford.

Counselors will consist of the following: Mrs. Argo, Mrs. Egan, Mrs. Huntington, Mrs. Hess (who will serve as publicity chairman for Girls' State during the week it is held); Mrs. Henry Orkin, of Milford; Mrs. Donald Webster, Department president and Miss M. Elizabeth Bane, co-chairman and nurse.

The opening ceremonies, Mon., June 24, will be conducted with the Pledge of Allegiance given by Mrs. Archie Daniels, Department Americanism chairman; Mrs. Gertrude Scout will lead the singing as music chairman; invocation by Mrs. Huntington, chaplain for Girls' State.

Mrs. Webster, department president will welcome the girls, telling them the Poppy and American Legion Auxiliary stories.

Another part of the program for Monday will be instructing the girls in City and County Government by Mrs. Francis O'Neill, Senator Louise Conner "Women in Government", C. Douglas Buck, Jr., "County Government", Mr. Rudy Williams, former senator, "Party Organization".

About 87 girls will attend, they are selected from the juniors in each high school throughout the state having certain qualifications.

Miss Alice Fields, of Seaford, and Miss Cheryl Pameroy, Brandywine, Wilmington, the 1967 Girls' Nation representatives from Delaware, will be there to tell the girls of their experiences in Washington, D. C.

The election of officers of Girls' State will take place Wednesday afternoon, with the inauguration ceremonies at 8 p.m. in Little Theatre, Slaybaugh Hall, at the Wesley Junior College.

A banquet will be held Thursday evening, June 27, at 7 o'clock, at which Mrs. John Powell, Wilmington, Eastern Division vice president of the American Legion Auxiliary, will be toastmistress. The banquet speaker will be former state senator James D. McGinnis, of Kent County. The girls will do the entertaining.

Fri., June 28 will be graduation day and Mrs. Clay Bailey, National Executive Committee Woman from Delaware will conduct these ceremonies.

Miss M. Elizabeth Bane, will be on Women in the News program on WDEL on Mon., June 17 to tell about Girls' State, having served as chairman for six years. She will tell about her experiences and the program.

Youth Canteen
 Dances Begin
 Tomorrow Night

A dance is scheduled for this Saturday night, June 15th at St. Stephen's Parish Hall. Starting on Tues., June 25th dances are planned weekly on Tuesday nights during summer vacation. In order to continue this planned program we must have better co-operation from interested parents to chaperone at these dances. It seems the burden has fallen on too few of the faithful, while others have not been available when called upon to serve.

Interested parents are urged to attend a meeting at St. Stephen's Church on Thurs., June 20th, at 7:30 p.m. At this meeting, a schedule for chaperones must be arranged.

The committees cannot function without help from other parents and interested persons. Please plan to attend and help make it possible for the youth of our community to continue to enjoy these dances.

Of Local Interest

Mrs. William E. Jester attended the graduation exercises at Caesar Rodney School Tuesday, where her grandson, Clay T. Jester, was a graduate.

Mrs. Bertha Dean, Mrs. Pearl Derrickson and Mrs. William E. Jester attended an auxiliary meeting of World War I members at Rehoboth Friday night and also had dinner at the Avenue Restaurant.

BURN 'N SERVE

WHAT ARE THEY HIDING?
 Kent County's Republican Levy Courtmen will be spending more than 1.1 million of your dollars this coming year. They claim they're saving you money. But they have yet to talk about the facts:

Why are we being billed $24,000 in short-term interest?
 (Two years ago the cost was only $4,000; this year it's $12,000).

Why does it cost over $34,000 for stationery, printing, and office supplies?
 (Herman's Boys set up a central system to "save us money." When each office bought its own supplies, the County was billed only $20,000 or so.)

How much are county workers collecting in overtime payments?
 (GOP-run offices have more people doing less in more time; or so it seems on the face of it. Where will it end?)

How many more working days will the County take off this year?
 (A wave of the chairman's hand dismissed County workers for the day after Memorial Day; next it'll be the 5th of July. The law won't allow it; but among Herman's Boys, who cares?)

Is this any way to run a County? Not in our book, it's not.
 Maybe you'll read the record to this fall, and join us in voting Democratic.

ASSEMBLY ASKED TO PROBE DIBC
Delaware's General Assembly has been asked to look into the possibility that the Delaware Industrial Building Commission may have neglected "good business ethics" and selected "questionable projects" for its backing.

State Auditor George W. Cripps Wednesday sent to the legislature a recently completed audit questioning these aspects of the commission's operation and others.

Cripps told the General Assembly, "Records indicate a questionable selection of projects for aid by full-faith-and-credit, state-guaranteed bonds; a lack of examining the progress of new industrial projects; neglect of good business ethics in allowing possible conflicts of interest, and failure to establish and maintain a complete record and review of all financial transactions until a project is fully terminated."

William A. Carter, acting DIB chairman, said he would have no comment on Cripps' report.

Cripps asked the legislature to study the report, then consider changing the laws to clarify some of the commission's authority. Particularly in question, he said, is the commission's right to authorize the issue of revenue bonds.

The Delaware Industrial Building Commission was created by the General Assembly in 1962 to lure industries to Delaware by arranging low-cost financial backing through issue of state-backed industrial bonds.

According to Cripps' audit, the commission has pledged state backing to slightly more than $10 million in faith and credit bonds, and approved the issue of another $65 million in revenue bonds to be paid off by the industries benefiting from them.

Cripps maintains the commission has no authority for revenue bonds. The commission disagrees.

The audit report also: —Questions the commission's authority to issue bonds itself without going through local development corporations.

—Points a bleak picture of the financial stability of the firms backed by the commission.

—Says auditors had found four instances of possible conflicts of interest in DIBC operations.

Cripps told the legislators his report was curtailed because an attorney general's opinion said he could not make public financial information about the commission.

He said the commission has no authority to issue bonds, only to guarantee them. But, he said, the audit turned up two occasions when the DIBC itself issued bonds.

"From an audit standpoint this is absolutely unacceptable," he said. "From the DIBC position this is a procedural refinement. But what is the intent of the General Assembly?"

Some companies in the state were in "very weak cash and working capital positions" at the time of the audit. Three had current assets pledged as security to factors and banks and one had all its assets, current and fixed, pledged or mortgaged.

Earnings statements, Cripps said, "indicate that only one project is making a fair profit." Four others "reflect poor operating results, just getting over the break-even point or in one case resulting in loss," he added.

He also said that only three projects submitted financial statements certified by a certified public accountant.

He said the files on one project, Dependable Electronics, Inc., were unavailable because of a pending lawsuit in Philadelphia.

Dependable defaulted in April 1965 without going into production, leaving the DIBC responsible for $113,025 payable to the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., Cripps said.

At the time, he said, the DIBC had about $80,000 available and it borrowed $33,000 from the Farmers Bank of the State of Delaware to pay off the Dependable debt.

He said a fee payment from Phoenix Steel, Inc., was used to repay the Farmers Bank, but that the transaction was never recorded in state records.

The commission, according to the audit, received $46,200 from Phoenix and used $32,984 to pay the bank. But the Phoenix fee was reported to the state treasurer and budget director as $13,216. "The official state records, therefore, do not reflect the full fee from Phoenix Steel, nor the transaction with the Farmers Bank," he said.

The audit also suggested the DIBC should pay $9,900 in debts remaining from the failure of Dennis Mitchell, Inc., in Millsboro.

The DIBC backed a $3-million factory construction project for the Philadelphia manufacturer of children's furniture, only to have the firm file for reorganization under bankruptcy law. The DIBC was left with a large plant and no occupant.

Eleven months ago, the National Cash Register Co. agreed to take up the Dennis Mitchell obligation and moved into the plant.

The audit said the commission paid $92,402 in mechanics' liens in order to clear the title of the plant so it could be turned over to National Cash Register. Remaining unpaid was $9,900 in debts to local businessmen who did not file liens.

Cripps noted the Dennis Mitchell and Dependable Electronics cases and surveyed the financial condition of the other state-backed firms, then said it was his opinion that the commission did not always comply with the law requiring the commission to limit its aid "to financially responsible persons or corporations."

Cripps said he had found "four cases that suggest possible conflicts of interest." He said he could not be more specific because of the ban on disclosure of financial conditions.

He also criticized the commission and the local development corporations for faulty bookkeeping and suggested the commission establish a permanent office. Normally, the local development corporations develop projects, then apply to the DIBC for state backing.

The audit revealed the commission has a cash balance of $55,626, derived from fees charged the firms with which the commission deals.

Except for the dealing with Dennis Mitchell, the largest item of expenditure during the nearly five years covered by the audit was the $78,119 for legal counsel. Ernest S. Wilson Jr. of Wilmington is the lawyer for the commission.

Cripps emphasized that, while he quarreled with much of the DIBC operation, he held not brief against commission members: "Members of the commission are dedicated citizens who served several years with little or no compensation. They operate an agency without benefit of appropriated funds. They sought to get industry into the state with subsequent job opportunities and to this extent they have had some success. The nature of their necessarily confidential operations and the absence of a formal examination into their activities in past years have contributed to their situation."

"Nevertheless," he said, "in view of the considerable amount of monies involved, because of the vast amount of both good and harm that the DIBC can render to the state and because of our audit-disclosed areas of weak business practices and possible transgression of authority . . . we believe the interests of the people of our state can best be served by submitting this special report to the 124th General Assembly."

Accompanying the report was a list of recommendations to the commission suggesting:

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa

Potato and vegetable farmers will have a tour of crop research plots on June 27, with June 28 as a rain date. Visits will be made to the Georgetown Substation of the University of Delaware at 10:30 A.M., lunch in Laurel or Seaford at noon, a look at the asphalt barrier trials at Laurel at 1 P.M., and a final stop at the Salisbury Substation of the University of Maryland at 2:30 p.m.

We will look at potato and vegetable variety trials, subsurface irrigation, the asphalt barrier work, nematode studies, and many other things. You need never get out of your car because much of the explanation will be reported over your car radio. We have arranged with radio station WTHD at Milford (930 on your dial) to make a direct hookup with Ed Ralph's car radio-telephone.

So even if you don't make the tour, pick up the dialogue on your tractor radio or other source. We would prefer to see you farmers on the tour and this is the reason June 27 or 28 was set. We think field work may be slack then. Past experience has shown that our regular Farm Field Day on August 14 comes in the flush of harvest for potatoes and tomatoes.

You can help our plans if you tell us whether or not you plan to go. Want more details? Phone our Kent County Extension Service at 736-1448, or Ed Ralph, associate county agent at Georgetown, 856-2553. The only cost will be your lunch and everyone is welcome.

It's no simple trick to put the Registered Holstein Cattle Sale together for August 3rd at the Delaware State Fair. Grayson Bowers, who is the breed fieldman, Sam Dixon, Jr. of Clayton and I spent a day recently looking for animals.

The purpose of such a sale of course is to encourage dairymen to buy pure bred cattle with established pedigrees. Our efforts show that most breeders would like to buy more animals themselves to enlarge their herds for greater efficiency. For the trend is to bigger herds.

Delbert Cain of Harrington puts the matter as well as anyone: "I don't want to offer anything that I wouldn't be proud to keep in my own herd."

Or as Ellwood Gruwel and his son, Owain, admit: "We want to cooperate as breeders. We just wish we had more animals to offer that will be fresh about that time. We need all the milk we can get to establish our base and we expect to be buying at the sale."

Farmers should find some good buys at the sale. I am amazed at the care used by the selection committee to include only top quality animals with good performance records or prospects. The quality is reflected in the higher prices that these animals usually bring.

Dutch elm disease signs are now showing. The branch terminals may be yellowing and wilting. Infected trees should be cut down and the wood burned to destroy the bark beetle, which carries the fungal spores.

Check arborvitae and juniper for the tiny whitish spots of juniper scales. The crawlers are active and can be controlled with DDT or malathion. Repeat in 10 days. Thrips on roses often prevent the buds from opening. These are very tiny black or yellow insects that can be controlled with malathion or DDT.

Schreck - Lewis Exchange Vows

Miss Donna Marie Schreck, daughter of Mrs. Audrey W. Schreck became the bride of William A. Lewis, Friday evening at 8 o'clock in Barratt's Chapel.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Lewis, Harrington. The Rev. Paul E. Reynolds officiated at the double-ring candlelight ceremony which was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's mother.

Mrs. Douglas Morgan was pianist and her daughter, Miss Nora Morgan, sang, "O' Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer." The bride wore an empire style gown of chantilly lace over white satin and carried a white Bible and a nosegay of white carnations.

Miss Wanda Faye Garey, maid of honor, wore a yellow lace gown and carried a nosegay of yellow and white carnations. Best man for his brother was John Lewis and usher was Keith Carey.

The mother of the bride wore a parakeet green A-line dress with white accessories and the mother of the bridegroom was attired in light blue with white accessories.

After a wedding trip the couple will live in Harrington.

U. of D. Moves Admissions Deadline to Aug.

In an effort to provide better advisement for students, the Admissions Office at the University of Delaware has announced a procedural change in handling applications.

Dr. Robert W. Mayer, director of admissions and records, has advised all high school counselors in the state that the deadline for applications from Delaware residents for admission in September 1968 will be Aug. 15.

Previously, the university accepted resident students up to registration day in September. The application date for non-resident students has always been earlier in the year and presently is Feb. 15.

Mayer said that experience has shown that students who delay applying until the last possible moment frequently experience advisement and orientation difficulties. Missing or inaccurate data usually contributes to these problems. These findings indicate that both the student and university personnel need to know his status and requirements well in advance of his arrival on the campus.

In some instances, the enrollment of unexpected numbers of students at the last moment has created crowding in basic classes or staffing problems for departments with large freshman enrollments in addition to individual student problems, Mayer said.

Students seeking admission to the university for the second semester of the 1968-69 academic year must apply by Dec. 15, 1968. This date will apply both to resident and out-of-state applicants. Former students applying for readmission, including those dropped, suspended or who for other reasons have interrupted their undergraduate work, must apply at least two weeks before the opening of the semester in which they plan to re-enroll.

Despite enrollment predictions that September's entering class would be about the same size as last year's, because the number of Delaware high school graduates is not substantially larger, the volume of applications received is larger than on the corresponding date in 1967, Mayer noted.

As of June 3, 1,888 students have been admitted and have paid their deposit, compared with 1,778 last year. This number includes 1,316 in-state and 572 out-of-state applicants. More than 240 applications are pending.

Mayer said the Admissions staff already has processed 5,298 applications this year compared to 4,802 last year. This number includes 2,930 out-of-state applicants and 2,368 requests from Delaware residents.

It Seams To Me

By Janet C. Reed

The idea behind the creation of any garment is making a flat surface fit a curved object—you. Flat fabric is darted or seamed so it will fit your particular curves.

Darts in fabric are made to throw fullness where it's needed. If the dart is in the wrong position, it can create a puff of fabric where there is no need for it, or make the dress seem skimp where you need the extra fullness. This is commonly seen at the bustline when the dart is too high for the figure.

In ready-to-wear, it may be possible to lower the dart if the manufacturer hasn't slashed the fabric or punched holes in the material to mark the stitching lines. Before you change the dart, though, try shortening your bra straps or wearing a bra with more uplift.

If you're sewing, simply lower the dart line on the pattern. To make a dart one inch lower, mark the new point of the dart one inch below the original. Then, draw new stitching lines parallel to the old but one inch lower. Draw new side seam lines by connecting the underarm seam to the center fold line of the new dart with a line. Draw a line from the center fold of the new dart to the waistline.

Another common fitting problem easily controlled by darts is the fit at the hipline. A straight hip figure does not need all the fullness provided by the pattern. Make the darts smaller, releasing less fabric fullness. This will make the skirt too large at the waistline as well as the hipline, so trim off the excess amount for the entire length of the side seam.

Darts can be easily moved from one part of a pattern to another. This may be necessary in a plaid fabric to avoid distorting the lines of the plaid.

Or, you may simply wish to change the design lines of the pattern. For example, you might want to remove an underarm dart and add the fabric fullness to the waistline dart. Fold the underarm dart and pin the pattern together on the stitching lines. Next, slash the pattern through the existing waistline dart from waistline to bust point. Allow the pattern to spread apart flat. You can see that the waistline dart is now much larger. You have transferred the underarm dart to the waistline dart. Darts can be changed to any position, in this way. Just be sure the point of the dart is at the place where you want the fullness released.

Darts are for fitting purposes. Don't be afraid to change them from the pattern. Make darts do what you want—for your figure.

Drug, Law Enforcement Experts to Meet

Experts in the fields of drugs and law enforcement will gather at the Civic Center in Rehoboth Beach, Mon., June 17, to present a Symposium on Drug Abuse.

Sponsored by the Delaware Pharmaceutical Society as part of its annual convention, the Symposium will delve into the tragic problem of drug addiction as seen through the eyes of a community pharmacist, local and national police authorities, a psychologist and former addicts. Leading citizens from throughout Delaware have been invited to attend the meeting, including key members of PTAs, youth groups, the clergy, law enforcement agencies and the medical professions.

William E. Merritt, Society President, stated, "A deep interest in the problem of drug abuse has stimulated the Society to assume responsibility in bringing a program of confrontation with a serious social illness to the leadership of Delaware communities."

"It is our aim," he said, "to arm those in attendance with useful information that they may take back to their organizations in order to combat this predicament."

The program will begin at 11 a.m. with five films, featuring the perils of drug abuse. Irving Rubin, editor of American Professional Pharmacist, will be master of ceremonies.

At 1 p.m. Mr. Merritt will introduce Dr. Richard P. Penna, secretary of the Academy of General Practice of Pharmacy, American Pharmaceutical Association, who will deliver the main address.

George B. Griffenhagen, executive secretary, National Council of Drug Abuse Education and Information, will speak on "What Are We Doing About Drug Abuse Education?"

A law enforcement officer's look at the drug abuse problem will be offered by Edward Kelly, Mr. Kelly presently serves as the director, New York Field Office, Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, Department of Justice.

His speech will be followed by a panel discussion. Panel members are Lt. Angelo T. Citro, Delaware State Police; William J. Bowen, a community pharmacist in Titusville, Pa.; Dr. Irwin W. Weintraub, psychologist and educator, and Mr. Kelly.

After the formal discussion, questions will be entertained from the floor.

Final portion of the program will be conducted by Encounter, a group of former drug users. They will present, in vivid terms, the drug abuse problem, and the even greater problem of returning the socially ill to responsible society.

Senate Youth Program Names Boggs to Board

Senator J. Caleb Boggs has accepted a two-year appointment as a member of the Advisory Board of the Senate Youth Program.

Under this program two outstanding high school students from each state are elected annually for a week-long series of seminars in Washington designed to provide a deeper insight concerning the functions of the federal government. Beginning this year the students also receive a $1,000 scholarship.

Boggs will be one of ten Senators on the Advisory Board.

Summer Music Classes to Begin

The annual summer music class program sponsored by the Harrington Special School District will begin next Monday morning, June 17, and continue for six weeks, according to an announcement made today by Mr. J. Albert Adams, Superintendent.

The program, under the direction of Melvin L. Brobst, local school instrumental instructor, will include classes for beginners, intermediate students, and advanced players in the Harrington School District, in all band instruments.

The class of beginners is the largest ever to enroll in these classes, and numbers 55 students, with the remainder of the 135 young musicians enrolled being players who have been enjoying these music lessons for the past few years.

The three school bands - Elementary, Junior, and Senior Bands - will also continue rehearsals on Thursday afternoon and evenings, with a concert by all three groups scheduled for Friday evening, July 19, on the lawn in front of the main entrance to the high school on Center Street.

Legion Sanctions Blood Bank

Callaway-Kemp-Raughley-Tee Post No. 7, American Legion, recommends everyone join a blood bank.

Meeting Thursday night, June 6, the recommendation was made after a plea for a blood donor.

In explaining the working of the bank, it was revealed initiation fee was $2, with $1 annual dues per family. It was added blood bank members are expected to provide a pint of blood, if called on, or can pay for the blood. Some Legion members of the bank said they had been called to donate blood only once in many years.

In other business last week, the Legion voted as follows: To ask Harrington churches to ring their bells July 4 in a project known as "Bells For Freedom." Commander Jarvis Hurd will see the church.

Fly the Post flag at half-mast until Monday because of the murder of U.S. Sen. Robert Kennedy.

Jelly, jam, conserve, marmalade, preserves — any of these fruit products can add zest to meals. Most of them also provide a good way to use fruit not at its best for canning or freezing—the largest or smallest fruit and berries and those that are irregularly shaped.

Strawberries are now still available in Kent County. Why not try preserving them?

Following is a recipe from United States Department of Agriculture — Home and Garden Bulletin No. 56. If you are interested in a copy of this bulletin, call the Extension Office at 736-1448.

Strawberry Preserves

6 cups prepared strawberries (takes about 2 quart boxes berries)

4½ cups sugar.

To prepare fruit—Select large, firm, tart strawberries. Wash and drain berries; remove caps.

To make preserves—Combine prepared fruit and sugar in alternate layers and let stand for 8 to 10 hours or overnight in the refrigerator or other cool place.

Heat the fruit mixture to boiling, stirring gently. Boil rapidly, stirring as needed to prevent sticking.

Cook to 9 degrees F above the boiling point of water, or until the syrup is somewhat thick (about 15 or 20 minutes). Remove from heat; skim. Fill and seal containers. Makes about 4 half-pint jars.

It was in the spring of 1768 that American Colonist James Green began 'the sale of lands at and near Duck Creek Cross Roads,' thus furnishing the basis for this year's week-long (June 15-22) Bicentennial celebration in present day Smyrna.

Already the ghost of Smyrna past stalks the streets of the upper Kent County town. Policemen, gas station attendants, druggists, all sport old fashioned beards. Main Street clerks are dressed in charming Colonial costumes; store windows feature historical displays. It's all in anticipation of the upcoming gala Bicentennial observance this month, when each day will offer new excitement for Smyrna residents and visitors.

From its beginnings in pre-Revolutionary times, the tiny settlement at Duck Creek Landing grew into a thriving grain shipping center, thanks to its location on a navigable river. In 1792, its name officially became "Smyrna", and in the early 19th century it ranked second only to Wilmington in importance as a Delaware port. The later growth of railroads as means of transportation contributed to the decline of Smyrna's shipping business.

For the historically minded sightseer, a number of interesting buildings remain as tangible evidence of Smyrna's flourishing past; for instance, the Spruance house at 17-21 Commerce Street, the Cummins house at 112-116 Main Street, the Lindens at Duck Creek Crossroads, and Belmont Hall, one half mile south of Smyrna on Route 13.

Central to Smyrna's Bicentennial celebration is a spectacular 90-minute historical pageant, which will be shown at the high school athletic stadium every evening, Monday through Saturday, during the celebration. Produced on a 300-foot stage with professional lighting and sound and a cast including 400 local residents, "Smyrna 200" will include music, dancing and comedy in its portrayal of the town's development from pre-Revolutionary times to the present.

Following is the complete Bicentennial Ball in the Armory, at which the Smyrna Bicentennial Queen will be chosen from seven local finalists and crowned by Miss Delaware. Also this evening a teenage dance will be held in the high school gymnasium.

Sunday, June 16, 7 p.m.—An outdoor community religious service in the high school stadium, with Donald Barnhouse, prominent Philadelphian, as guest speaker.

June 17 — Senior Citizens Day, beginning at 11 a.m. on the grounds of the Delaware Welfare Home. Old-fashioned recreation is planned — croquet, darts, checkers, cards, horseshoes, and an old-timers baseball game. There will be prizes for the oldest lady present, the oldest gentleman, and the oldest couple.

June 18 — Sports Day, starting at 10 a.m., will include such events as a Little League baseball game and swimming at Lake Como.

June 19—Open house and tour of six local industrial firms, 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. Participating companies include W. L. Wheatley Co., Leeds Travel Wear, Tyler Refrigeration Corp., General Metallcraft, General Clothing, and Litton Industries.

June 20 — Ladies Day, 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. at the high school. A flower show, cake decorating and flower arranging contests are scheduled.

June 21 - Youth Day all day long, beginning with a children's parade in the morning (pets welcomed!) to an evening battle of the bands and teenage dance at Smyrna Beach, Lake Como.

June 22 - Grand Bicentennial Parade at 4 p.m. down Main Street, featuring bands, marching units, the Bicentennial Queen and her court, floats representing various community organizations. Also at this time the final judging of beards will take place and prizes will be awarded.

Veterans' News

The Post-Korean, or third generation, GI Bill education and training program will begin its third year of operation on June 1, 1968.

During the past two years, more than 1,254 veterans and 125 servicemen entered training in Delaware under the Veterans' Readjustment Benefits Act of 1966, Leon Fields, manager of the Wilmington Veterans Administration Regional Office, said this week.

Nationally, more than 732,000 veterans and an additional 43,000 servicemen entered education and training in the first two years of the current GI Bill, Mr. Fields said.

The Veterans' Readjustment Benefits Act of 1966, or Post-Korean GI Bill, grants VA educational assistance of one month, up to a maximum of 36 months (four school years), for each month of service.

Eligible for assistance are veterans who served on active duty at least 180 days, part of which was after January 31, 1955, and servicemen with at least two consecutive years of active duty.

Of the 1,379 veterans and servicemen in Delaware who have taken advantage of Post-Korean GI Bill education and training benefits, more than 944 entered institutions of higher learning, Mrs. Fields explained.

Nearly two-third of all Post-Korean GI Bill students have entered college level training. By comparison, Mr. Fields said, only about half of the veterans who went to school under the Korean Conflict GI Bill entered institutions of higher learning. Less than one-third of the World War I veterans took college level training, he noted.

Since June 1, 1966, more than 428 veterans and servicemen entered schools in Delaware below the college level. Of these, all but 89 were veterans, the Wilmington VA Regional Office Manager said.

Mr. Fields explained that only veterans are eligible under the present GI Bill for on-the-job training benefits. And these have only been available to Post-Korean veterans since last October 1. Since then, 7 veterans entered on-the-job training in Delaware, Mr. Fields pointed out.

In these totals, Mr. Fields explained, are veterans and servicemen currently entered in training in Delaware. A breakdown shows 571 veterans and 13 servicemen now entered in institutions of higher learning. Enrolled currently in Delaware schools below the college level are 266 veterans and 82 service men, Mr. Fields said.

Taking on-the-job training in Delaware are 7 veterans, the Wilmington VA Regional Office Manager disclosed.

Mr. Fields explained that veterans have eight years from the date of their discharge from active duty to use their Post-Korean GI Bill education and training benefits. However, veterans released from active duty between January 31, 1955 and June 1, 1966 have until May 31, 1974 to use these benefits.

VA educational assistance available under this program ranges from a monthly allowance of $130 or more (depending upon the number of dependents) for full-time institutional training to payment of only the actual cost of correspondence courses, Mr. Fields said.

Mr. Fields urged all Post-Korean veterans interested in the two-year-old Post Korean GI Bill education and training program to contact the Wilmington Veterans Administration Regional Office or their nearest United States Veterans Assistance Center for personalized information and assistance.

Local 440 Relay Unit Smashes Record in Wilmington

Running prospects continue to pop up in Harrington just like mushrooms in Kennett Square. After the discovery of a couple of new sprinters, George Turner and Mike Davis, in the May Day running events at H.H.S., efforts were made to give these boys a quick baptism under fire. The tests have been given. Turner, Davis and another new prospect, John Curtis, passed with flying colors.

Eight Harrington boys in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades were entered in the Junior Division (ages 12 and 13) in the Junior Olympic track meet held at Baynard Stadium, Wilmington, on Saturday. This octet did a magnificent job, winning two events and setting a new record in one of them.

John Shulties, at 6 feet 1 1/2 inches, had everyone agog, fans, competitors and officials alike, as they wondered how anyone could grow that tall in only 13 years. John won the long jump at 16 feet, 6 1/2 inches and missed the record by only three inches.

Ten teams, two from here, were entered in the 440 relay. Harrington A was placed in the first lane, which was badly chewed up by the afternoon's heavy traffic. Nevertheless, Donald Parker, Olin "Mike" Davis, George Turner and Shulties raced to a 51.9 clocking.

This race-winning effort broke the old mark of 52.5 set by St. Hedwigs of Wilmington last year. Wm. Henry Middle School of Dover was second. Running in the same heat was Harrington B, which came in third in 56.3. This unit was made up of Bryant, Clarke, Parker and Curtis.

Davis and Turner of the winning quartet had only five days to get ready for the race. Parker and Shulties were on the Harrington High track team this spring. The addition of the two newcomers created a strong unit. This 51.9 clocking compares favorably with the 49.6 winning time in the 15-year-old group, one week earlier.

The previous Saturday, this community also had two winners. Tolbert Harris, captured the Senior (16-17) 220 yard dash and Chris Wetherhold won the Intermediate (14-15) 880 yard run.

On June 22, at West Chester, Pa., the Middle Atlantic AAU regional finals will be held. Winners at Wilmington qualified for this competition. Thus, Harrington will be represented in four events, Harris (Sr. 220), Wetherhold (Intermediate 880), Shulties (Junior, long jump), and the Harrington A 440 relay team.

Winners at West Chester, go to Meadville, Pa. to compete in the Eastern Regional Meet. Winners there go to the national finals at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville.

Wetherhold Trails Ex-College Aces In Open Two Mile

Chris Wetherhold, Harrington's 15-year-old distance running prospect, was competing in select company at the annual State Open Two Mile Run, at Baynard Stadium, Wilmington, last Thursday night.

This event is open to any Delaware resident, or to anyone who attends school or college in this state.

Brian Harrington, the race winner, holds the University of Delaware two-mile record. Wes Stack, the runnerup, is a well-known amateur runner, who raced with success all over the East. Stack, a Seaford native, is a former University of Delaware track and cross-country captain. Wetherhold was running only his second two mile run and had trouble figuring out the correct pace. After a 5.14 first mile he picked up the tempo and covered the second mile in five minutes, three seconds for a very creditable 10.17 clocking and a third place finish. Experienced trackmen figure Chris can break 10 minutes when he learns to pace himself properly. At any rate, Harrington sports fans can be proud that the local freshman was good enough to finish third, against much older competition, as only two all-time U. of D. greats beat him.

SCHOOL BOARD

This was his final meeting as a member of the board.

Supt. Albert W. Adams informed the board that Governor Terry has signed into law the Educational Advancement Act. This means that Harrington will be forced into consolidation with another district, however, it was too early to know just which schools would be placed into what district. He further stated that Dr. Madden, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, remarked to him that any consolidation that meets the proposed standards of 2200 pupils in grades one through twelve would be given careful consideration under this new law. A meeting of all Delaware schools officials is scheduled in Newark later this month, he said, which would be devoted to formulating proposed new school districts. He would have a more complete report for them after this meeting, he commented.

William G. Stokes

William G. Stokes, 72, of 341 Weiner Ave., died Tuesday in Millford Memorial Hospital after suffering a heart attack at his home.

Mr. Stokes retired in 1960 from the U. S. Department of Agriculture after more than 25 years of service. He had been stationed at Dover. He was a member of the Asbury Methodist Church, Harrington, and its official board, and was an honorary member of the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company.

His widow, Nellie Hughes Stokes, is his only immediate survivor.

Services will be Saturday afternoon at 2 in Asbury Methodist Church, Harrington. Interment will be in Hollywood Cemetery in Harrington. Friends may call at the church on Saturday afternoon.

The Berry Funeral Home, Millford, is handling the arrangements.

Liberalized Divorce Bill Becomes Law

Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. has signed a bill which liberalizes Delaware's divorce laws.

The bill, H.B. 396, adds incompatibility as a ground for divorce, and reduces the waiting time necessary after separation or desertion.

Under the new law, the waiting period after involuntary separation or desertion, is reduced from two years to one. The waiting period after voluntary separation is reduced from three years to 18 months.

"Incompatibility" in a marriage is defined as "characterized by rift or discord produced by reciprocal conflict of personalities existing for two consecutive years".

The divorce law was one of seven laws signed Tuesday by Terry.

Another (S.B. 322) would provide authority for the state to turn over a tract of land to the town of Bethany Beach for a sewer project. The land is part of the parcel used by the Delaware National Guard.

Terry also signed a resolution (HCR 30) which would establish a committee to draw a code of ethics for lawyer members of the General Assembly.

Other bills signed include S. B. 289 which gives magistrates credit toward county pensions, S.B. 341 which simplifies some book-keeping procedures for the schools, and two house bills (H. B. 360 and H. B. 361) which make technical changes in laws on inheritance taxes.

Greenwood Victim

Investigation is continuing pending the outcome of Hinton's treatment at the hospital.

Police gave this account of the occurrence at the home of Willie Lee Walker, 36, just north of Greenwood's corporate limits.

Hinton went to Walker's home intent on borrowing a record player. He was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Luvinia Hinton, 46.

Outside Walker's house, Walker ordered Hinton to leave his property.

Hinton then allegedly struck Walker several times whereupon Walker went to his house and returned with a double-barreled 12-gauge shotgun loaded with buckshot and fired at Hinton.

His mother then drove Hinton to the hospital, where police said his condition has alternated between critical and poor. There was extensive damage to the leg, police added, and doctors said he would lose the use of his right foot.

In July 1965, Hinton was found guilty by a Superior Court jury of raping a 32-year-old mother of four children. The attack occurred in June, police said. The suspect was flushed out of a field by K-9 dogs while trying to avoid capture.

Del. Tech. and Com. College Board Meeting

A full written report is expected soon from the HEW team invited by the Delaware Technical and Community College to review with college administrators the hiring practices at the Southern Branch in Georgetown. It was announced at a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees.

In the meantime, general verbal approval of the racial balance was reported by Negro Board Member Charles L. Simms. The two HEW representatives, Harry L. Wright and Thomas J. Collins, said copies of their report would be forwarded to the Board in the near future, and that they would also make a personal visit to discuss their findings.

Student admissions for the Fall Quarter at both Wilmington and Georgetown Branches compare favorably with the projected figures, running a great deal ahead of last year's Southern Branch early enrollment.

Paul K. Weatherly, Executive Director, reported that he expected approximately 400 freshmen and 200 second year students and he anticipates 450 daytime enrollees for the first year in the Northern Branch. "These are conservative estimates," he said. "We are expecting the usual rush in the last 60 days."

Equipment purchase orders amounting to $161,000 were reported for the Georgetown campus. The Board authorized the acceptance of bids totalling $77,607.07 for equipment for the Northern Branch.

Personnel changes included the appointment of William Richardson, retired Army lieutenant Colonel, as Fiscal Director for the college. He holds an MBA degree from the University of Florida and has had military experience in purchasing and budget management. Ray L. Schweet, present College Fiscal Manager, will be transferred to the Northern Branch as Director of the Business Administration Department.

ASSEMBLY ASKED

—That the commission "devise a means of evaluating properly the financial condition and potential of project applicants."

—That the commission and local development corporations "make their selection of project personnel so as to avoid conflicts of interest."

—That more detailed information be submitted to the budget director.

—That the faith and credit of the state be limited to land and buildings, not machinery or equipment.

Cripps' staff spent about 14 months on the audit, delving into the records of each firm as well as those of the commission and the local development corporations.

Cripps later sent a 12-part request for opinions to the attorney general's office. For the most part, the attorney general held that the law was not clear and that the General Assembly should be asked for clarification.
