

Car Tag Fee Bill Awaits Signing By Governor

Two legislators seeking a sliding scale of motor vehicle registration fees Wednesday night expressed the hope that Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. will sign their measure Thursday.

The pair, Reps. Joseph T. Cashman, R-New Castle, and Louis W. Burton, R-Georgetown, noted that Thursday is the last day the governor has to act on the bill to establish a sliding scale and reduce fees for smaller cars.

"Earlier in the session Gov. Terry vetoed a bill to establish such a system," Cashman and Burton said. "At the time he listed several objections. In this later bill his objections have been substantially met, and we therefore assume he will sign it into law."

"If he vetoes the second bill," the legislators said, "there will be no question but that he opposes the concept that owners of big cars should pay more than owners of small cars."

The bill would establish a scale of four weight categories and car owners would pay $12, $16, $20 or $24 depending on the weight of the car. Presently there is a $20 rate for all cars.

Plan Eyed For One-Party Leadership

Candidates for governor and lieutenant governor would run for election as a team under a proposal by House Speaker George C. Hering III, R-Wilmington.

Hering's plan would prevent the governor and lieutenant governor from coming from opposing parties.

"I fail to see any positive reason for saddling a governor with an opposition party lieutenant governor," Hering said.

Hering planned to introduce Wednesday a statute, which would become effective on enactment, and a constitutional amendment requiring favorable action by two successive General Assemblies.

He made a similar proposal earlier this year, Hering said, but it was tabled by the Senate.

Dump Aid Fund Raised in Sussex

Sussex County Levy Court Tuesday decided to hand out about $25,000 in subsidies to municipalities in the county operating and maintaining public dumping areas.

This is an increase of about $15,000 over the $10,000 divided annually among the towns in the past. Legislation was enacted several months ago to allow the county to spend more money for dumps.

In connection with a possible solution to the county's dump problems, the commissioners Tuesday received a letter from a consulting engineer studying the problems who said a possible site for the first county incinerator is available in the Rehoboth Beach area.

Last week, the Levy Court instructed Joseph E. Plotts Jr., an engineer with associated Delaware Engineers, Inc., of Wilmington, hired to draw up modified specifications for an open-pit type forced air incinerator, to meet with Rehoboth Beach and Seaford officials to discuss possible sites for such an incinerator.

In his letter, Plotts said that "a possible site had been located in the Lewes-Rehoboth Beach area." He said the tract, north-west of Rehoboth Beach on the west side of U.S. 14 between Five Points and Midway, includes 5 acres owned by the city of Rehoboth Beach and "unknown acreage" owned by the state on which there are at least three abandoned borrow pits.

"The combination of these two tracts may be large enough for the proposed incinerator site," Plotts added. He said the quantity of refuse available from this area was sufficient to perhaps warrant a double unit with around-the-clock operation during the peak summer months of the resort area.

Noting that they wanted to have an incinerator in operation as soon as possible, the commissioners ordered a letter be written to the State Highway Department asking if the borrow pits are available and if they could be leased on a long-term basis.

Plotts said in his letter that data on the total quantities of refuse available in the Rehoboth Beach area is being acquired, "and a final recommendation will (Continued on Page 8)

Senate Overrides Dual Job Bill Veto

Senate Republicans, with the help of two Democrats, Wednesday overrode the veto on a bill banning dual job-holding by legislators.

The vote came after charges of discrimination from Sen. Calvin R. McCullough, D-Holloway Terrace.

McCullough noted that three of the five Democrats who would be affected by the bill have made arrangements to by-pass its provisions.

"This will affect only two men," he said, "and neither of them is white. This is just a move to get these two men out of the legislature."

He referred to Sen. Herman M. Holloway Sr., D-Wilmington, who works for the State Tax Department and Rep. Oliver S. Fonville, D-Wilmington, who works for the State Highway Department.

Republicans did not answer McCullough's charge, nor debate the bill.

McCullough said that he, Sen. Allen J. Cook, D-Kenton, and Sen. Russell D. F. Dineen, D-Wilmington, will not be affected. He said he plans to retire from the highway department this summer and that Cook and Dineen have made arrangements to be paid directly by their employers, not through the state treasury.

Cook works for the Delaware Turnpike, Dineen is a Wilmington school teacher.

The bill would make it illegal to accept two checks from the treasury.

McCullough said that he, Cook and Dineen have had deductions made from their pay for the time they spend in the General (Continued on page 5)

Bill To Limit Gun Ownership Moves

A bill making it a crime for a convicted felon or a former mental patient to own a firearm was passed by the House of Representatives and sent to the Governor Tuesday.

The Bill, H.B. 316, provides a maximum penalty of a $2,000 fine and five years in jail.

The measure was passed after the House concurred in a Senate amendment that would allow a former mental patient to own a gun if he is certified by the State Department of Mental Health to be no longer suffering from mental disorder.

The bill prohibits the purchase, ownership or possession of any firearm capable of projecting a missile that could cause bodily harm.

The bill also prohibits gun ownership by anyone convicted of illegal possession or sale of a narcotic or non-narcotic drug.

The measure was sponsored by Rep. David S. Benson, R-Graylyn Crest.

In other action, the House approved a measure to provide tax deductions to help parents meet costs of higher education.

The bill, a Senate substitute for S.B. 176 and already approved by the Senate, would allow deductions from the state income tax for such college expenses as tuition, books, fees and equipment.

Rep. William F. Hart, R-Wilmington, who sponsored the measure in the House, said the deductions would cost the state an estimated $500,000 in taxes.

However, Hart said in urging passage, "we must do everything we can to educate our youth."

Hart also was successful in pushing two other Senate-passed bills which provided tax relief.

The first, a Senate substitute for S.B. 317, was designed to encourage certain persons to become gainfully employed. It would allow a $600 deduction for the care of a child outside the home, but not more than $900 for the expenses of caring for two or more children.

The tax department was not able to come up with cost figures in this bill, Hart said.

The second tax-relief measure, S.B. 173, will allow a $600 additional tax exemption for the totally disabled. Hart said the cost of this program would be nominal.

Executive Pay Bill Moved

Forty-one state executives would have their pay put on a sliding scale under a bill passed by the Senate Wednesday.

The bill (SB 339) would provide pay raises for many of the agency heads.

The measure, which passed on a 10 to 2 vote, represents a compromise between Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. and the Republican majority in the House of Representatives. Terry last year sent down a much more limited list, only to have Republicans expand it.

The compromise was worked out by Sen. Allen J. Cook, D-Kenton, and Sen. Dean C. Steele, R-Windsor Hills.

It would establish a pay range of $22,000 to $30,000 a year for 13 agency heads. An amendment struck the mental health commissioner from the bill because a recently enacted bill set his maximum pay at $35,000.

Included in the top range would be the highway director, the executive secretary of the Board of Health, superintendent of public instruction, budget director, corrections commissioner, medical examiner, Personnel Commission director, state planner, public welfare director, secretary of state, Water and Air Resources Commission executive director, Youth Services Commission executive director, and Employment Security Commission executive director.

The bill would provide three other wage scales. One ranges from $26,000 to $23,000, another from $12,000 to $17,000, and the third from $9,000 to $13,000.

In other action Wednesday, the Senate sent to Terry a bill (H.B. 533) to merge the Shell Fisheries Commission and the Game and Fish Commission.

The Senate earlier had balked at House insistence on including a $20,000 boat in the bill. An earlier Senate roll call gained only six votes for the bill, but Wednesday it received the necessary 10 votes.

The Harrington Public Library will be closed the Fourth of July.

Kent Rejects Bid To Raise Head Tax

Kent County Levy Court Commissioners Tuesday rejected two proposals to raise the county's $1.25 head tax and voted to maintain the tax at its present rate.

The two proposals were brought before the Levy Court last week by Levy Court President Glen A. Richter and commissioner William C. Holden. Holden asked for an increase to $5 in the head tax while Richter called for an increase to $2.

Both commissioners said last week that the capitation tax would have to be increased if it were to be collected. At present, only 75 per cent of the tax is collected.

The two commissioners added that an increase in the tax would help bolster the scant $3,000 projected budgetary surplus for the coming fiscal year.

Neither of the two commissioners, however, voted against maintaining the $1.25 rate Tuesday.

In other business, Cecil Watson, the president of the Kent-Sussex Constables Association, asked the court to support training programs for Kent County constables proposed by the association.

Watson said that at present, "99 per cent of the constables don't know anything about their duties."

"I don't blame the men," he added, "I blame the court."

Many of the 20 constables in the county carry guns, he said, "but 99 per cent don't know how to use them."

Richter told Watson that the court would be most receptive to any suggestions that his group might present.

Most of the 20 special constables in Kent County are hired by private businesses as guards and bouncers. Because they are commissioned by the Levy Court, they have many of the powers of state and local police officers.

Voting Age Roll Call Is Tabled

A bill to lower the voting age in Delaware failed to win House approval Monday after representatives tacked on an amendment to the Senate-passed measure.

The roll call on the bill (S.B. 12) was tabled so the measure could be brought up again later. The amended bill received only 12 votes. Eighteen are needed for passage.

The bill, as passed by the Senate, would have lowered the voting age to 18. House members voted to raise the age to 19 by approving an amendment offered by Rep. Robert W. Riddagh, R-Smyrna. The amendment passed by a 14-12 vote. A simple majority of those present is required for amendments.

Riddagh said he proposed the 19-year age to insure that the younger voters would at least be out of high school.

Sen. Margaret R. Manning, R-Marshallton, who appeared on the House floor to plead for the voting bill said, "I will accept gladly your amendment . . . if it must be."

Her primary reason for pushing the measure, she said, was economic. Eighteen-year-olds generally are working and not allowing them to vote is "three years of taxation without representation," she said.

The House did approve—with a dissenting vote— a measure to spell out the right of unions to bargain for state employees under the state merit system.

Also approved were two bills to ease some restrictions on drinking.

Rep. David S. Benson, R-Wilmington, read a letter from the State Personnel Commission stating that group had no objection to the passage of the merit system-collective bargaining bill.

Benson, cosponsor of the measure, H.B. 624, said the bill would not permit state employees to go on strike, since strikes by public employees were expressly prohibited by state law.

The formal policy of the State Personnel Commission specifically outlines certain areas which are "clearly within the scope of collective bargaining between organized groups of employees and their respective agency heads."

These would include certain promotions, probation regulations, inter-agency transfers where no classification change is involved, layoffs, grievances and complaints, work schedules and disciplinary measures.

Salaries would not be subject to collective bargaining since these are set by the merit system. (Continued on Page 4)

Felton Fire Guts Home; Man Flees

One dwelling was gutted and a second damaged early Wednesday in a blaze which threatened several nearby homes on Railroad Avenue at Felton.

Volunteers from four neighboring towns were summoned to aid the Felton Fire Company at the scene. Fire Chief William Sipple said an early inspection indicated faulty wiring was to blame.

John Dunning, 59, occupant of the gutted house, was aroused in time and groped his way through heavy smoke to flee through a rear door.

Intense heat generated by the blaze ignited the roof of a house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Lane and owned by James Cahall.

Sipple said Mrs. Lane was at home alone and her husband, a night attendant in a Felton service. (Continued on Page 5)

Senate Faces Backlog of Nominations

The Senate, attempting to finish its work this week, has a backlog of 29 gubernatorial nominations awaiting confirmation. The nominations cover five magistrates and 10 other agencies and go back as far as Dec. 28.

Perhaps the most important one pending is that of George E. Cunningham Jr. as the first state secretary of housing. Terry nominated him June 4 to head the cabinet-level agency.

The same day, Terry nominated Benjamin F. Shaw II of Rehoboth Beach to be a member of the Delaware River and Bay Authority.

Calvin Boggs of Cheswold was named a week later to fill a vacancy on the State Industrial Accident Board.

One nomination not expected to gain confirmation is that of Harry B. Roberts Jr. of Odessa to the Public Service Commission.

Magistrates up for consideration are Louis Levinson of Middletown, Emory B. Brittingham of Lewes, C. Linden McIlvain of Georgetown, Victor H. Murray of Selbyville and Eugene T. Reed Sr. of Claymont.

House Passes Budget Bill

The House Tuesday pushed through a $174,572,537 budget for next year that surpassed the recommendation of Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. by about $1.5 million.

Passage came over the objections of Democrats who said they needed more time to study the document. The bill was reported from the Joint Finance Committee earlier in the day.

The Senate was expected to act on the measure Wednesday or Thursday as the General Assembly strives to complete the bulk of its work this week.

The vote on the bill was 23 to 3 with Republican George R. Quillen of Harrington joining Democrats Jacob W. Zimmerman of Dover and Melvin A. Slawik of Stratford in opposition.

Democrats who voted for the measure included Rep. Mary Etta Gooding of Woodcrest and W. Harrison Phillips of Laurel, both members of the finance committee which drafted the measure.

Zimmerman, the Democratic leader, charged the Republicans were "frivolously" suspending rules to act on the bill.

Phillips told the GOP it was "not gaining one ounce of profit by forcing this down our throats."

Passage came only 12 days before the end of the fiscal year.

The bulk of the increases in the bill would go to education and to the state police.

The committee cut $144,652 from the budget recommendation, but arrived at the final total by adding about $1.69 million to the spending plan.

The committee chairman, Rep. Herbert A. Leshar, R-Claymont, said the committee's recommendation represents a 10-per-cent increase over the $149.5-million budget for the current year.

The proposed budget would reduce the state's cash surplus by about $20.5 million.

Meanwhile, members of the two houses Tuesday continued their efforts to wrap up their work by Wednesday night. They met Tuesday night for the second (Continued on Page 5)

GENERAL ASSEMBLY WORKS TO RECESS THIS WEEK

Possibilities of adjournment of the 124th General Assembly arose Monday as legislators worked into the night trying to wrap up the session.

Leaders of both houses said they hoped to complete the major part of the legislature's work Thursday and were willing to work both afternoons and nights to achieve the goal.

In late action Monday, Senate Democrats blocked Republican attempts to pass three constitutional amendments and the two houses failed to reach an agreement on the handling of the Shell Fisheries Commission.

Milfordite Wins Cooking Contest

The champion cook in a family of prizewinning cooks, Mrs. Lawson S. Sullivan, 44, Milford, won first prize Saturday in the range division of the National Chicken Cooking Contest. The contest is an annual feature of the Delmarva Chicken Festival, held this year in Onancock, Va.

The winning recipe, "Chicken With Crabmeat Stuffing" featured two Delmarva specialties, chicken and crabmeat. According to the panel of ten judges, "It tasted very, very good." Mrs. Sullivan won in competition with 37 women and six men from 44 states.

This is the second time Mrs. Sullivan has been in the winners circle of the National Chicken Cooking contest; she won third in 1956 and was a runnerup in the Delaware state contest last year. She says, "My win in 1956 was the most thrilling moment of my life—until now." Her two oldest children, Joe, 19, and Debbie, 17, also are frequent chicken contest winners. Her sister, Mrs. Charles Jones, Georgetown, is a former champion and her niece and two nephews all are previous junior cooking champions.

Seven spices, honey and orange juice are featured in the second place winners recipe, "Gourmet Chick." She is Mrs. Edward F. Smith, 723 Grove Ave., New Orleans, La. "Even a gourmet would like this different taste," she says. The judges agreed, terming it "A judicious use of seasonings."

Mrs. Smith was Louisiana's entry in the outdoor cooking division of the chicken contest in (Continued on Page 4)

2-Car Crash Kills Baby In Sussex

Tracy Jones, 2 months, was killed near here Friday in a two-car, head-on collision in which four others were injured, including his mother.

Mrs. Adele Jones, 27, of Harrington, was driving on County Route 113, according to state police, when the accident occurred at 8:30 p.m. 7 miles west of the town limit.

The Jones car, police said, was rounding the sharp curve on the wrong side of the road when it slammed into a vehicle operated by Ernest Voss, 63, also of Harrington.

Mrs. Jones and Voss, authorities said, were admitted to Milford Memorial Hospital. She was reported in fair condition with a broken leg and Voss was listed as satisfactory.

Two passengers in the Voss vehicle, Steven Voss, 20, and Larry Morris, 18, were admitted in satisfactory condition. Voss, police said, had a fractured lower jaw and Morris facial and scalp cuts.

The infant is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jones; his maternal grandfather, Loarn Callaway, of Harrington; his paternal grandfather, Charles Jones, of Norristown, Pa., and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Harry Hanson, of Harrington.

Services were held at J. Millard Cooper Funeral Home, Harrington, Wednesday morning. Interment was at Hollywood Cemetery.

Millers Visit West Virginia

Mr. and Mrs. W. Cliff Miller have been visiting their granddaughter, Frances Black, at Morgantown, W. Va.

At Cass, W. Va., they saw the Cass Scenic Railroad. Formerly a logging railroad, this mountain railroad has an average grade of 4 to 5 per cent with sections up to 10 per cent.

The Millers, who also visited relatives in Johnstown, Pa., expect to be home today.

The omnibus bond bill has not been reported out of committee and there were indications it may be broken up into six smaller bills.

Sen. Reynolds duPont, Republican president pro tem, offered the six bills Monday night. Since Republicans hold the balance of Senate power, indications were du Pont might have his way.

Even without a debate over breaking the omnibus bill down, a controversy over the West Dover Bypass probably will slow it. The $53 million bill contains provisions for the bypass, which is opposed by most farm organizations.

The Senate also remains stymied over the revisions of the criminal code (S.B. 331).

Sen. Allen J. Cook, the Democratic leader, earlier amended the bill to require insurance companies to pay off on home damage caused by surface water. Insurance company representatives have insisted the amendment would cause insurance rates to climb, but Cook has remained insistent on keeping the amendment in.

Sen. George F. Schlor, D-Wilmington, also promises to amend the bill to make it more difficult for insurance firms to cancel auto policies. He wants to make nonpayment of premiums or loss of driving privileges the only valid reasons for cancellation in mid-term.

A casualty of adjournment apparently will be the revision of the criminal code. Rep. W. Laird Stabler, Jr., a Montchanin Republican and chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, said the committee's redraft of the measure probably would not be ready for a month.

Legislative leaders said they plan to return for a brief session later to dispose of any possible vetoes that might come from Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr.

They also did not rule out the possibility of sessions next week, but said they hoped they would not be necessary.

Monday the Senate refused to go along with a House effort to merge the Shell Fisheries and Game and Fish Commissions and buy the combined agencies a $20,000 guard boat.

The Senate had knocked out the boat, but the House Monday night put it back in.

Constitutional amendments blocked by the Democrats would have extended the terms of the state auditor and treasurer, pro- (Continued on Page 8)

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne Holberton

If you have been discouraged by poor quality and sky high prices at the fresh fruit and vegetable counters lately, then here is good news. New items are arriving almost daily, and quality is definitely much better. Prices on many products are down. The sharpest decline in price appeared last week when a large volume of cantaloupes reached local markets. Prices tumbled as much as 23 cents on a cantaloupe. These melons are coming from Texas, Arizona and California. When you select cantaloupes, be sure to look carefully before buying a "bargain," for there are all kinds of quality to be found. Many times the lowest-priced melon may turn out to be the most expensive.

Peaches are another fruit that has dropped quite a number of pennies from its price. Sizes are still medium to small, but quality is very good. Both Georgia and the Carolinas are now shipping. Blueberries are arriving from the Carolinas also and soon they will be coming from nearby areas as well as from our own State. Lower Delaware grows delicious big juicy blueberries and they are a real treat to eat.

Other fruits to check are watermelons, bananas, Bing cherries, strawberries, avocados, pineapples and plums. Apples and pears are coming from storage and are quite good. Good quality citrus fruits are also available and prices are fairly reasonable.

Many fresh vegetables are dropping in price also. However, the decreases are not as sharp as those registered by fruit. Lower vegetable prices in most cases are a direct result of increasing supplies from nearby growers.

Lower price tags are evident on beets, loose tomatoes, cabbage, both white and yellow squash, celery, green peas, corn, new red potatoes, and green peppers. When you cook green peppers, brush them with olive oil before you stuff and bake them and they will retain their coloring longer. They will hold their shape better if they are baked in muffin tins.

The egg market has advanced as was expected. The medium-size egg will likely be the best egg value, since the wholesale price spread between medium and large sizes is as much as seven cents. When buying eggs remember the weight difference between large and medium sizes is only three ounces per dozen.

Frying chicken, steaming hens and turkeys have taken an upward trend in price. However, specials on these favorite meats will make them continue to be outstanding buys. This is especially true of frying chickens.

Friendly greetings this week will be Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Collins.

The Commission on Education will meet Monday evening at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Campbell and daughter, Nell, of New Castle; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Walton Sr. and son, Wynn, of North Hills, Pa.; and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Walton Jr. of Chestnut Hill, Pa., were guests last Saturday of Mrs. Earl Thomas and family, and Mrs. Frances Temple.

Mrs. Frances Temple entertained at a buffet dinner on Saturday for relatives and friends attending the DeLeo-Thomas wedding.

Major and Mrs. William M. Wix and family, of Fairfax, Va., spent several days last week with their parents here.

Master Thomas Wix, of Fairfax, Va., is spending some time with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wix and Mrs. Earl Thomas.

Spec. Spencer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spencer, Camden, is assigned to Headquarters Company, 1st Battalion of the 4th Infantry Division's 8th Infantry as a battalion intelligence clerk.

He entered on active duty in November 1966, completed basic training at Ft. Jackson, S. C., and was stationed at Ft. Carson, Colo., prior to his arrival in Vietnam last August.

Spec. Spencer, whose wife, Catherine, lives in Wyoming, is a 1963 graduate of Caesar Rodney High School in Camden.

Local Feline Receives Letter From Famous California Cat

Sir Jolson, white tomcat belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Carrington H. Burgess, 230 Delaware Ave., has received a letter from a world-famous Los Angeles cat, Room 8.

The letter read: "480 children at Elysian Heights Elementary School, . . . greeted Room 8, School Cat, as he returned to start his fifteenth straight year at school.

"Mrs. Anna Schultz . . . claims Room 8 was once her cat and he was born in 1947. He first arrived at school in 1952 and has been coming ever since. In the beginning he arrived in the morning and vanished when school was out for the day. Children said he went to the hills to sleep and spent his summers there, too. He adopted Room 8 as his daytime home, enjoyed sleeping on desks while children worked, and seemed happier when around children.

"Now he is treated as a celebrity by the community. He spends his nights and vacations with the George Nakano family . . . who treat him as a member of the family. During this summer (1967) he received visitors at their home and many letters which were answered by the Nakano children. He often visited the school library which was filled with children, according to Mrs. Cesar Gabonia, librarian, and Mr. Samuel Ross, school custodian, who escorted him back to the Nakano home from the library. He also had his pre-school physical examination and his teeth cleaned by Dr. Ted Haskell . . .

"His trophies, rosettes, and pictures adorn the office and his portrait painted by Miss Jan Claire hangs in the hall. His footprints are seen in the cement outside the school and the library has a portrait painted by a student. Mrs. Jean Baird, secretary, reports many phone inquiries about Room 8. Children from kindergarten through sixth grade answer his mail from 46 states, including over 200 elementary schools. Over 5000 letters were received from February to July this (1967) year. Mr. Charles Palmer, sixth grade teacher, says his class answered 105 letters in one day. Room 8 has six sixth grade secretaries who help answer mail and take visitors on a school tour. His book, "A Cat Called Room 8," (G. Putnam's Sons, New York), was published in braille by the Braille Institute of America . . . in 46 states and 4 countries."

ROOM 8 REPURTING

It seems impossible June is here. Soon school will be out. I will miss you! Many A's I have known since kindergarten and they have been faithful and worked hard answering my mail along with almost everyone in school. My thanks to my five regular secretaries, Doreen, Duane, Julie, Karen, and Maedon. It has been a fine year. Our children, parents and staff are the nicest. Mr. Ross takes good care of me during the day and Mrs. Baird has been patient with the many phone calls, visitors and mail.

I'm proud our Cougars finished the year with first place in football, basketball and baseball. It is because our players and Coach Garcia work hard. The airport will be happy with the lovely mural by Miss O'Mara's children with the help of Mrs. Martin. Cookies were baked by Mrs. Ball's children and were they good! Room 2 has a new snake and he makes me nervous. I don't go in Room 16 for fear they will send me off in the moonship they built. Room 6's program made me feel I really was in Japan, and the mural in Mr. Enriquez' room is excellent. The PTA Luau had fantastic food and I gained a few pounds! If you want to read a real tribute, see the article by Mrs. Lytle about our newspaper in the "Christian Science Monitor," May 14.

I am glad the Kiwanis had a litter poster contest and hope everyone will work to keep our city clean. We're better citizens when we worry about litter.

Mrs. Arnett gave us her treasured doll and we're proud to have it. Mrs. Perry brought children from Zion Lutheran School. Mrs. Edwards brought Miss Andrews. Mrs. Alquist, along with Mrs. Spears, visited.

"Big Cats, Little Cats" was a success and the mail increased! The Post Office delivers mail addressed to "Room 8" or "The Cat, Los Angeles." One said, "The Cat That Lives in a School." Newspaper clippings from many states told about my life. I do want to say I no longer go off to the hills and am homeless as I have a fine place to stay with the Nakano's. I don't think Mike Jackson, "Herald - Examiner," would say I, "Just sat there snoozing" if he knew how hard I worked doing everything I had done for fifteen years in six hours of filtering.

I'm off to the Science Fair in Room 8, Talent Show, and the Cub Scout Pancake Breakfast. Den Mothers are great, Mr. Enriquez is a fine chairman, and Mr. Sonoda inspires everyone. Remember Father's Day. Since summer school will be here, I will be back to watch you work. Happy summer!

6 Earn State Honors In 4-H Foods Contest

Six Delaware 4-H club members received awards in the state 4-H Reddy Foods contest held at the State Fairgrounds, Harrington, recently (June 8). The 59 4-H'ers taking part were winners in three county Reddy Foods competitions.

Joy Gooden, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Gooden, Wyoming, won top honors in the senior division she received an electric pressure cooker. Thirteen-year-old Cathy Spence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Spence, Wilmington, was awarded the first prize of an electric slicing knife in the junior division. Miss Gooden prepared a coconut surprise cake and Miss Spence made sweet and sour chicken.

Second prize winners were Rose Pasqualini, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pasqualini, Newark, in the senior division and Joseph Gibson, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gibson, Woodside, in the junior division. Winning third place were Nancy Lee Rust, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Rust, Georgetown, senior, and Linda Roberts, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl D. Roberts, Bear, junior. The state winners all received electrical appliances.

The Reddy Foods contests are sponsored by the Delmarva Power and Light Company, the Delaware Electric Cooperative, Inc., and the Cooperative Extension Service at the University of Delaware. The junior division includes 4-H members from 9 to 13 years old; senior division entrants are 14 through 19 years of age.

Contestants are judged on the adequacy of the menu they plan, the appearance of the table setting and the creativity and quality of the food prepared. The 4-H'ers' appearance and work habits are also considered.

The program is designed to help 4-H club members improve their skills in food preparation and to help develop wholesome attitudes, character and personality traits. The contest recognizes 4-H members in food projects, creates interest in improving food standards and stresses the importance of adequate nutrition.

Choose 1968 Dairy Princess

A 14-year-old Farmington girl has been selected 1968 Dairy Princess at the annual Kent County 4-H Dairy Festival in Houston.

Becky Messick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Messick, received her crown from 1967 princess Beverly Luicks, Wyoming. Miss Messick is a member of the Peach Blossoms 4-H Club and has been active in 4-H work for six years.

As dairy princess, Miss Messick will lead the livestock parade at the 1968 Delaware State Fair next month and will be a guest at regional meetings of the Interstate Milk Producers Association and at local dairy events.

Members of Miss Messick's court include Joy Gooden, 16, of Wyoming and 15-year-old Nancy Webb of Goldsboro, Md. Miss Gooden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Gooden, is a member of the Fox Hall 4-H club. Miss Webb, a Westville 4-H club member, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Webb, Jr. Both girls have been in the 4-H program six years.

The 19 youngsters competing for the title were judged on poise, personality, ability to speak extemporaneously and ability to milk a cow. Judges were Gary Simpson; Lois Wiebel, summer assistant at the Kent County 4-H office; and former dairy princess Mrs. Connie Robbins.

The annual dairy festival is sponsored by the Interstate Milk Producers Association and the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Delaware.

Military Science Prof. Appointed At U. of D.

A veteran of service in both Korea and Vietnam has been appointed professor of military science at the University of Delaware.

He is Col. Frank J. Nemethy, who left the University of Southern California during World War II to enlist in the Army. His military career began with graduation from officer candidate school in 1943 and included service in both the Asiatic-Pacific and European theatres during World War II.

Col. Nemethy was integrated into the Regular Army in July 1946. His subsequent tours took him to the Advanced Infantry Officers course at Ft. Benning, Ga., to ROTC duty in Cheyenne, Wyo., and to the Army's Command and General Staff College. He served for two years with the General Intelligence Agency, had a tour as battalion commander with the 29th Infantry Regiment at Ft. Benning, and spent two years with the Tactical Department of the Staff and Faculty of the Infantry School there.

While continuing his diverse military assignments, Col. Nemethy completed work toward his bachelor's degree in education at the University of Georgia. In 1961 he graduated from the Army War College and one year later he received his aviator wings from the Army Aviation School at Camp Rucker, Ala. During this same period, he completed work on a master's degree in international affairs, receiving his degree from George Washington University in 1961.

His Vietnam service began in March 1964 and included posts as deputy senior advisor to the III Corps and senior advisor to the 7th Vietnamese Infantry Division.

In 1965, he became chief of the Southeast Asia Division and deputy director of development for Southeast Asia Matters for the Department of the Army, working in the office of the Chief of Research and Development.

A member of the Society of American Military Engineers, Col. Nemethy holds ratings as a senior parachutist and Army aviator. His awards include the Legion of Merit, the Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster, the Air Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters, and the Army Commendation Ribbon.

No stranger to Delaware, he traces his roots to grandparents who settled in New Castle at the turn of the century. He and his wife, the former June Faye Uffelman, are living at 700 Harvard La., Nottingham Green, Newark, with daughters Patricia Eileen, 19, and Terri Lynne, 14.

Miss Delaware Pageant June 22 At Rehoboth

From all indications the 1968 Miss Delaware Pageant at Rehoboth Beach on Saturday evening, June 22, will be an outstanding presentation.

That is the prediction of Miles L. Frederick, executive director, who had an opportunity to see 10 of the 12 contestants over the weekend, and after checking with Show Producer Harriett Jeglum, found that talent on the whole is above average.

"The average age of the girls is up somewhat over the two previous pageants," Frederick said, "and this means the contestants have more experience. Their talents are also varied—from a modern artist to an aspiring concert singer and a pianist." There are also a variety of dancers and a dramatic selection.

The average height of the young ladies is also taller than those of previous years, and their evening gown presentation should be most striking the official declared.

Mrs. Jeglum wrote many of the lyrics for the production to tunes from popular Broadway Shows, which is another 1968 innovation. The basic show is titled "It's Today", and while it will be modern in all respects there will be flash-backs to tie in the 95th anniversary celebration now in progress at the seashore resort.

The Chuck Laskin Orchestra will play background music while a Master and Mistress of Ceremonies will join in some of the songs and dances. These duties will be performed by Bill Glynn, well known Wilmington singer, and Miss Jackie Mayer, a former Miss Ohio, who became Miss America in 1963. She is now Mrs. John Townsend, of Washington, Pa.

Also returning to take part in the program will be Miss Roxanne Jones of Seaford, last year's runnerup; Miss Sharon Havill, 1967 Miss Leves, and Miss Mary Lee Manini, Miss Delaware of 1966.

A select group of judges will be kept busy Saturday, interviewing the young ladies individually; watching them for poise and beauty at a Saturday evening dinner, which will follow a short parade in 1968 Oldsmobiles.

The judges are: Nathan H. Zauber, executive director of the Miss New Jersey Pageant, Cherry Hill; Mrs. Charlotte Shedd, Wilmington radio commentator and vocalist; John L. Cassada, 1967 producer of the Miss New York State Pageant at Olean; Leonard J. Panaggio, director, tourist division, Rhode Island Development Council and former newspaper and public relations executive, and Sammy Ferro, well known Washington, D. C., society band leader, who has had long experience in the field and plays several instruments.

While awards are still coming in, the top prize to the new Miss Delaware will be a $1000 Pepsi-

Cola Scholarship; a $500 check from the Toni Company toward her Miss America wardrobe and use of an Oldsmobile car for the year of her reign.

She will also be the beneficiary of the $1000 grant from the Delaware General Assembly, administered by the Delaware State Development Department, to further her preparation for the big week in Atlantic City in September.

The new Miss Delaware is assured of an additional $500 scholarship just for appearing at the Miss America Pageant, it was pointed out, plus the many paid assignments she will receive during her year's reign.

Frederick said ticket sales were going well, and he hopes for a sell-out by the 8 p.m. curtain time on June 22. Tickets may be secured at the Rehoboth Beach Chamber of Commerce office.

Contestants and their sponsors are: Carol Marie Gallagher, Miss Talleyville, sponsored by the Talleyville Jaycees; Lynn Marie Henderson, Miss University of Delaware, Class '71, sponsored by Freshman class, University of Delaware; Pamela Ann

COOKING CONTEST

1967. This year, however, it was her technique on the range that paid off. A part-time bookkeeper, she has three daughters, the youngest in kindergarten and the oldest married with one daughter.

This is the second winning chicken for Mrs. Otto E. Neyhouse, Oakland City, who placed third in the range division cook-off Saturday. Her pet rooster, live, won the state champion crowing contest in 1961 at the Indiana State Fair. Her recipe for "Chicken Sunstater" features Italian style salad dressing, peach butter and green pepper, seeds and all.

The only man in the charmed circle, Nicholas Siniak, Pawtucket, R. I., won eighth place with "Chicken Andria". His recipe was named for his niece Andria and uses potato chips and sesame seeds. "My niece has a mad passion for chips," he reported. "We had fun trying to coat the chicken—but she loves the results."

The remaining top ten winners all are experienced contest winners. Mrs. George N. Heaton, Deadwood, S. D., fourth, previously won a trip to Cuba, but this is her first winning cooking contest entry. Her recipe for "Topsy-Turvy Chicken Dinner" used sour cream and currant jelly on biscuit-covered chicken.

Fifth-place winner, Mrs. James B. Fuller, Emelle, Ala., included potato flakes and Parmesan cheese in her recipe for "Tater-Baked Chicken". The 26-year-old mother of two, she won a regional poultry cookoff in 1965.

Additional winners in the range division were sixth, Miss Georgia M. Dotson, Washington, D. C., with "Dilly Mustard Chicken"; seventh, Mrs. Vincent C. Gentilore, Bethlehem, Pa., with "Angelic Chicken". The ninth place winner was Mrs. Emil J. Mynek, Lincoln, Nebr., with "Fruit-Glazed Chicken Breasts"; tenth place went to Mrs. L. H. Gassaway, Tulsa, Okla., for "Dip-A-Dilly Chicken".

The judges, with Eleanor Ney, food editor of Westchester Publications, and Dora McCann, WOR, New York City, as co-chairmen, commented that the winning range recipes "all looked like chicken and, most important, tasted like chicken. The trend was to the use of peaches and there was a judicious use of powdered seasonings."

The first place winner in the range division received seven major appliances and 17 portable appliances. Second place winner earned her choice of 15 appliances. The remaining prizes ranged from appliances to $500 and $300 shopping spree in Onancock, Va. Tenth prize was two broiler-fryer chickens a week for a year.

Miss Jean Thomas Wed Saturday To Vincent J. DeLeo

Miss Frances Jean Thomas, daughter of Mrs. Wm. Earl Thomas and the late Mr. Wm. Earl Thomas, of Harrington, became the bride of Mr. Vincent J. DeLeo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent A. DeLeo, of St. Georges.

Their vows were solemnized at Asbury United Methodist Church, Harrington, with the Rev. John Edward Jones officiating at the candlelight service at 7 p.m., Sat., June 15.

A reception followed the ceremony in the Collins Hall of the church. The wedding and reception music was rendered by Mrs. Jessica Davidson, of Milford.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Major William M. Wix, wore a white Irish linen gown, trimmed with imported Italian lace, with a chapel length train. Her white tulle veil was held by a bow of imported Italian lace. She carried her white Bible covered with gardenias and ivy.

Mrs. William M. Wix, of Fairfax, Va., sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Mrs. James E. Crellin Jr., of Brandywood, Wilmington, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid.

The attendants wore identical gowns of lime green Irish linen, with matching white organdy bows as their head pieces, and they carried cascades of yellow gardenias.

Bill R. Anderson, of Wilmington, served as best man, James C. Temple, of Harrington, and Wynn S. Walton, of North Hills, Pa., cousins of the bride, and Tom DeCampli, of North East, Md., were ushers.

Wedding guests were recorded by Miss Carol Smith, friend of the bride, of New York City and Harrington.

The bride is a graduate of Harrington High School and the University of Delaware. She is a member of the faculty of Milford Jr. High School, Milford.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Wilmington High School and the University of Delaware. He has been a member of the faculty of Colywick Jr. High of Wilmington this past year and will attend the University of Pennsylvania this fall. He is the maternal grandson of Mrs. Charles Stigliano, of Wilmington.

The bride has recently been honored by a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Carol Ann Hagan, of Wilmington; a personal shower, given by Mrs. Kenneth McKnatt, of Harrington, and a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. James E. Crellin Jr., of Wilmington.

VOTING AGE

The personnel commission noted in its letter that the bill's provision for negotiations "in good faith" would not mean that agreement "must flow from such discussions."

The liquor bills passed by wide margins.

The first, already passed by the Senate, would allow guests at private clubs to buy their own drinks rather than forcing the members to foot the tab.

"This has created considerable hardships on many people... especially when (the member) takes a group of people to the club," Benson noted.

The measure, S.B. 384 passed by a margin of 28-2. Two members did not vote and three were absent.

The second Senate-passed liquor bill (S.B. 374) approved by the House would allow drinkers to stand at a bar to imbibe and would also permit one customer to buy another one a drink.

That measure passed 21-3, with four not voting and seven members absent.

Both the liquor bills now go to the governor for his signature. A measure to set up an agency, similar to the federal Small Business Administration, to provide loans for small businesses was sent back to committee.

loans. "I can visualize that in the first two weeks we'd be out of business," Leshner said.

The borrower, who would have to show proof that he had been turned down by banks or other loan agencies, would be given 10 years to repay the loan.

Leshner suggested that the proposed state agency might have to "await 10 years (after the initial flurry of loans) before it could take another application."

If only 33 loans were made, he said, it is conceivable that the staff in each of the four offices would only be servicing eight applicants.

Rep. Clarice U. Heckert, R-Wilmington, asked the bill's sponsor, Rep. Melvin A. Slawik, D-New Castle, whether the Finance Committee had approved the measure.

When Slawik said it had not, House Speaker George C. Hering III, R-Wilmington, referred the measure back to committee.

The House also passed H.B. 581, which would allow retired state policemen to hold state jobs without losing their pensions.

In other action, Mrs. Heckert introduced a bill that would prohibit loitering on school or college campuses.

The measure, H.B. 636, says that anyone not having specific business on campus who loiters around the buildings or grounds shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and liable to a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $200.

Any police officer, state official or employer, or owner or occupier of the school may arrest a loiterer under the bill.

Mrs. Heckert previously had introduced legislation that forbids disruption or interference with the activities of an educational institution.

Anyone found guilty of interfering with educational activities could be fined between $25 and $1,000 or imprisoned not more than six months or both.

Both measures were introduced after student demonstrations this spring at Delaware State College and the University of Delaware.

Around Home

It's a mistaken notion that salad is strictly a "women's" world. More and more men are ordering salad bowls and platters for their midday meal. So ladies, keep cool by serving a chilled salad as your main dish.

Parts of the salad that might require cooking can be prepared during the cooler hours of the day and stored in the refrigerator.

Try a "mix-your-own" salad. This is practically a meal in itself because it's made with strips of luncheon meat and cheese, hard cooked eggs, greens, carrots and radishes, green pepper and onion rings, and tomato slices. Arrange these foods, along with crisp rye wafers, on a tray and let the family help themselves.

A variety of vegetables and cottage cheese makes an interesting selection for a Make-Your-Own salad.

The cottage cheese may be served plain or mixed with other ingredients. Chopped chives, grated carrots, minced celery, and chopped onion are all pleasing additions to dress-up the flavor of the cheese.

Dover Will Have Fireworks July 4

For the first time in many years there will be a fireworks display locally. The greater Dover Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the City of Dover has contracted with a professional fireworks exhibitor to supply a complete display of ground and aerial fireworks starting about 8:45 p.m. on July 4th at Dover Downs, just north of Dover on U.S. 13. There will be an admission charge and any and all profits will go into the City's playground and recreation improvement program.

This display will be unique and attractive and will last about one hour. With a site as large and as convenient as Dover Downs there will be no need for anyone traveling to heavily populated areas to enjoy fireworks. Dover Downs has been made available to the city and the Chamber through the cooperation of David P. Buckson.

the state proceed as soon as possible to build the central plant so that buildings under construction may be incorporated into the central system.

The study on heating considered present and future heating demands for the capitol complex, with costs estimates for various methods of meeting the demands—including individual building units as compared with a central hot water heating system.

Jass said the study concluded that heating loads at the capitol complex will almost double within the next 10 years. He said it was found it is economically feasible to provide central hot water to all existing buildings and to expand the system later to include proposed buildings.

A tentative site for the heating plant has been selected about 300 feet southeast of Legislative Hall, along St. Jones River. It would be hidden by trees.

BURN 'N SERVE

Imagine this greeting from your wife some night: "Honey, I'm saving lots of money in the household budget by letting you pay the rent out of car payments. You'll get half of what I save, and I'm spending the rest on clothes."

Pretty silly? No more so than the line we're hearing from Kent Republicans these days. They have you paying Welfare Home costs from your own pocket, then claim to give you half of what you "save", And even that may have to be paid back next year.

What they haven't said is this:

Kent County spending this year is up more than 25%.

$325,000 transferred on the Welfare Home; and yet the budget total is within $50,000 of last year's figure.

Herman's Boys haven't explained it.

They talk of records open to the public, but don't mention their closed session before the budget vote.

Who really calls the shots?

The GOP Three were ready to vote before they ever reached the Courthouse that morning. Democratic questions were brushed aside; and Boss Brown's Boys haven't answered questions yet.

Did you notice one of the Three took 7 column-inches in the DSN to defend those shenanigans, but failed to dispute the first of our figures in pleading his case? You can spare us your compliments, Ike. We'll settle for the facts.

The facts will generate some people power to vote Democratic this fall.

A PAID POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE KENT COUNTY DEMOCRATIC PARTY

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa
Cattfish farming. Might this become another enterprise for Delaware to work along with broilers?

Your county agent caught a Soil Conservation Service training session on the management of farm ponds at Fred Mott's office.

I was first drawn to the meeting by the promise of seeing a "fish shocker" in operation. This is a humane device to stun, but not kill fish, so that they may be identified as to species and counted. Norman Wilder and Charles Lesser of the Delaware Game and Fish Commission use the tool to help decide how many and what kinds of fish to restock a stream or pond with.

Ike Thomas of Maryland and I feel that Delaware farmers can develop put and take game fishing as a source of income. But my ears pick up when Phillip Allen, SCS wildlife biologist, said that a fish processing plant is being built in Texas or Louisiana. It seems that those fish farmers harvested 16 million pounds of catfish last year.

I also find that catfish have better meat qualities than bass or trout. Use of the tumble pool at Moore's Lake south of Dover is testimony enough that catfish are fun to catch. Under controlled growing conditions, one five-acre pond produced 7450 pounds of meat which sold for 40 cents per pound. Feed conversion was 1.87 to 1, which is better than for broilers. Net return per acre was $106.00.

Let your mind wander a bit with me. We have many ponds for irrigation. We talk about more to store and hold water for dry periods. Can we do anything with some of the large ditch systems being designed for land drainage? How about the use of dairy lagoons as fish growth chambers? Can catfish meal be produced cheaply enough for use in broiler rations?

Norman Wilder notes that Kent County has 5000 acres of salt water impounded now. Could we grow mullet or rockfish?

The Australians, Japanese, and some people in the Carolinas produce shrimp under cultural conditions.

Why not us?

Don't be surprised if some of your trees around the house soon appear to be dying. The heavy rains at the end of May, coupled with the strong winds, may have severely damaged some tree roots.

I visited a homeowner the other day who has a beautiful Golden Chain Tree. It is about 20 feet tall and has a trunk perhaps 8 or 10 inches in diameter at the ground line. But you can push the trunk back and forth with your hand, a sure sign that many of the roots have been ripped loose.

The owner is reluctant to top it back severely. Yet he has agreed to brace it with guy wires. If the tree is not topped, then it may well die because of too much shoot area in relation to the roots. Hot, dry weather this summer may create too much demand for soil moisture that the damaged roots cannot supply.

Yes, you can already see some windstorm damage if you look closely. Unprotected dogwood in particular has taken a beating. The leaves on whole branches are dying back. You may as well prune them back now.

Offers Tips For Hurricane Safety

Hurricanes are rare in Delaware, according to Thomas H. Williams, rural civil defense specialist at the University of Delaware. But they can and do happen on occasion. Many Delawareans remember the heavy hurricane damage of 1954 and the torrential rains of 1960.

The weather bureau keeps a close watch on the location and intensity of tropical cyclones, explains Williams. And hurricane advisories are issued to local newspapers, radio and television stations every six hours. When an area is threatened by a hurricane, a "hurricane watch" is issued. If a hurricane is imminent, a "hurricane warning" is posted and residents are advised to take all precautions.

Hurricanes are characterized by winds of 75 miles an hour or greater, heavy rains, high tides and flooding, he adds.

To protect your family from the dangers of a hurricane, stay tuned to local radio or television stations for the latest advisories, advises Williams. And have a battery powered radio available in case of power failure.

Secure or remove loose objects such as garbage cans, toys, tools and lawn furniture. These can become deadly debris in high winds. Close doors and shutters or board up windows and turn off all gas and fuel lines.

Fill bottles, utensils and sinks with drinking water and have an adequate supply of canned foods on hand, he adds. Turn refrigerators and freezers to their coldest settings to preserve food longer in case of power failure.

Keep a flashlight, first aid kit and fire extinguisher nearby and stay away from downed power lines. Report all downed lines and broken sewer or water mains to the authorities as soon as possible. Do not use telephones unless necessary; you may be blocking emergency calls.

Fill your car's gas tank and, if evacuation is necessary, don't delay. Leave immediately and follow instructions. If you live in a low area or near a beach endangered by flooding or high tides, go to higher ground. Drive only when necessary and beware of debris and highway washouts.

Finally, don't be deceived by the calm if the eye of the hurricane passes over your area, cautions Williams. Winds will resume when the eye has passed.

Leather - High Fashion This Fall

A look ahead to the fall fashion scene shows leather will be a style leader, according to Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing and textiles specialist at the University of Delaware.

Although featured for fall, leather fashions are already on sale in many stores. And not just leather coats and accessories—leather skirts, vests and dresses are on the racks. Retailers say they expect a demand for almost any garment made or trimmed with leather or suede.

Suede will again be prominent in colors as well as newer, darker shades. But natural or grain leather complete with all the scratches and marks that show up once the hair is removed from the hide is causing the most interest. "Cuir Sauvage"—leather made to look antique—is also big news.

Before you join the fashion swing to leather, be sure you've considered the extra cost of caring for these garments, advises Miss Reed. They need careful treatment for cleaning and storage that may add hidden costs to the purchase price.

Genuine leather needs a special cleaning process and not all dry cleaners offer this service. Check on the availability and cost of dry cleaning leather in your area. Synthetic leathers require a different cleaning process so be sure you know which you're buying.

For emergency spot or stain removal, use a soft bristle brush or damp sponge. Don't use cleaning fluids or rough wire brushes; they'll cause white or light spots.

Leather and suede garments need special storage care this summer, too. They require good air circulation in a cool spot to prevent mildew. Don't store them in plastic bags; they may become hard and dry.

Moths are no problems with leather, but if the garment has fur trim, moths may be attracted to the fur. Either remove the fur trim and store separately or let your dry cleaner or furrier take care of storage.

When fall leather fashions tempt you while you're doing your summer shopping, remember the extra cost of caring for leather. If you decide to buy, learn how to care for the clothes properly and be sure you know whether it's genuine or imitation leather.

Pesticides For Home Gardener

Garden pesticides are expected to produce effective control of weeds, insects and diseases at an economical cost and with reasonable safety, according to Frank E. Boys, agricultural chemicals specialist at the University of Delaware.

Observe the type of injury, insect habits and the degree of infestation before you invest in a pesticide, says Boys. A thorough understanding of the program will help you gain more effective control.

Effective control is achieved when 90 per cent of an insect population is killed with two or three applications of the pesticide, he adds. Total insect kill is difficult to accomplish, but a reduction of 85 per cent will significantly improve plant production in most instances.

First pesticide application should be made when the trouble develops and when weather conditions are favorable for spraying. Repeat applications at regular intervals until control is achieved.

Plants should be thoroughly covered with the pesticide, says Boys. Direct spray upward to cover the underside of leaves and stems. If a rain of more than half an inch occurs within three to six hours after spraying, repeat the application.

Use of insecticides on fruit and vegetables is much more restricted than on ornamentals, he adds. No chemical should be used on food producing plants unless its use is specifically recommended on the pesticide label. And be sure to follow directions for time lapse between application and harvest.

Insect injuries result from egg laying and feeding activities, he explains. Some insects pierce and suck plant parts, others chew or bore into the plant; a third insect type causes plants to produce abnormal growths called galls.

Control piercing and sucking insects with contact poisons such as malathion, lindane, chlordane, sevin or DDT. Apply these as leaf sprays, dusts or systemic insecticides.

Control boring, chewing and biting insects with malathion, Sevin, dieldrin, toxaphene or DDT. A residual coating of these insecticides on plant surfaces will be eaten and will act as a stomach poison as insects feed.

It Seems To Me

By Janet C. Reed

The days of hand sewing may seem numbered. New sewing machines can do almost any stitching we used to do by hand. "Iron-on" tapes and other fabric adhesives are on the market; predictions are that in the future we may use adhesives instead of sewing a garment together.

But we haven't quite reached that stage yet and most of us occasionally have some hand sewing to do. You may reach for needle and thread without much thought, but the right thread and the right needle can help do a better job.

Hand stitching should be neat and inconspicuous and this means using a needle as small as possible for the thread you are using. If you don't like using a small needle because you have difficulty threading the eye, choose a small crewel needle—the long eyed type; or even a small self-threading needle.

And did you know that the eye will thread easier if you thread the end that comes from the spool, rather than the end you just cut off? It's the twist of the thread that makes the difference.

Thread should be compatible with the fabric you are using. If you're sewing synthetics try Dacron polyester thread. This has a core of Dacron covered with cotton for easy handling.

Dacron polyester thread is also useful where sunlight deterioration can be a problem. Some dressmakers prefer silk thread for sewing silks and fine woolsens. It's more elastic than cotton thread and may require a loosened machine tension on some machines. For decorative top stitching use the heavier silk thread, buttonhole twist.

It is possible to buy white cotton thread as fine as size 150 (mercerized thread is number 50) and black cotton thread in size 100. These threads are used for mending and sewing fine fabrics.

Mercerized cotton thread is acceptable for most sewing and is available in a wide range of colors in both regular and heavy-duty sizes. The mercerization process makes cotton appear more lustrous and adds strength. Choose thread slightly darker than your fabric. It will work into the material somewhat lighter than it appears on the spool.

Needle, thread and fabric should be suitable for each other. Fine fabric requires fine thread and a small needle for either hand or machine sewing. Sturdier needles and heavier thread are used on coarse fabrics.

Elementary? Yes, but it's easy to overlook or forget these basics of sewing.

Mushroom Flies Plague Area

Many Delawareans, particularly those in the northwest corner of the state, are being plagued by mushroom flies, according to Dr. Dale F. Bray, chairman of the department of entomology and applied ecology at the University of Delaware.

Mushroom flies, no bigger than the head of a pin, breed by the millions in mushroom soil and in mushroom houses, explains Bray. Growers control these pests with insecticides and management practices in mushroom houses during the time that mushrooms are growing.

After mushrooms are harvested, houses are left idle for a short time and the flies continue to breed. After a while, swarms of the tiny flies leave the mushroom houses and invade homes and offices.

Mushroom flies come right through ordinary screens, says Bray. And they can become so thick and annoying that it is almost impossible to even read a newspaper. The flies don't carry any disease, however, and they don't bite humans.

Generally speaking, mushroom flies can't breed in large numbers outside mushroom soil, although small numbers may breed in clogged drains or sink overflows. For some unknown reason, the flies seem to seek out individual buildings. For instance two or three homes in a single development may be bothered by flies while other homes are left alone.

"We've received as many as 10 calls a day about this insect," says Bray. "Any people with problems may be miles from the nearest mushroom house. Evidently these insects are capable of flying great distances or some one nearby may be using large amounts of mushroom soil in the garden or as a mulch."

About the only control for homeowners faced with mushroom flies are vapona insecticide strips hung at the rate of one per 1,000 cubic feet of space. Painting screens with DDT may also help.

We think that if growers would steam their mushroom houses after harvesting the crop, it would kill most of these troublesome little flies and help eliminate the problem, says Bray.

Locals Win Five Events In State Jaycee Track Meet

Two weeks ago, when Harrington thimclads won five events in the Delaware State Junior Olympic Track Championships, we wrote of the fine performances turned in by new discoveries John Curtis, Mike Davis and George Turner, in addition to fine work done by known quantities Chris Wetherhold, John Shulties, Don Parker, etc.

This past weekend saw Harrington lads make another great showing, winning five more events and shattering a meet record in the annual Delaware State Junior Champ meet, sponsored by the Delaware Jaycees and contested at Wilmington's Baynard Stadium.

Another unknown Harrington athlete showed great promise. Tony Smith, age 11, swept the 100 and 220 yard dashes in the Midget (10-11) class. Tony didn't know how to use the starting blocks but won a semi-final heat in 13.3 (100 yard dash) before capturing the final in 13.5, after trailing all the way because of a poor start. Smith ran a swift 30.8 seconds 220 to win easily. Despite his inexperience he missed both records by only two-tenths of a second. Mrs. Mary E. Nelson, an elementary school teacher, is the track talent scout who alerted Coach Harold McDonald to Smith's track potential. In a few days he has moved from anonymity into the limelight as future sprinting prospect at H.S. and has two handsome gold medals and an engraved certificate to show for his first outing. Mike Smith, a tiny ten year old brother of Tony is another youngster who can move out.

Danny Porter, a terrific long-distance runner for the last two years, is only 11 years old and tried the shorter events in the absence of any long races. He didn't win any medals this time but was second in his heats of the 100 and 220 and fourth in the long jump. Harrington sprinters made an excellent showing in the Junior Division (12-13) 100 yard dash. Tommy Clarke's 13 flat century was his best such clocking. Don Parker, who still holds two Midget records set in 1966, won his hundred heat in 12.2, while Mike Davis was first in his group in 12.4. Donald Bryant came in second in 12.6. This resulted in Harrington qualifying three in the final of 6 contestants. For our little town to have half of the finalists in a statewide event is remarkable. Mike Davis came from behind in the final to nip a Wilmington runner in 21.1 seconds.

In the 220 yard dash, Davis and John Curtis were second in their heats. Curtis clocked 28.1 for the silver medal with Davis third in 28.5. Big John Shulties, the 13-year-old, 6 feet, 1 1/2 inch giant, ran off and hid from all competition in the 440 yard run. Unpressed, he clocked a swift 58.2 seconds, erasing the old standard of 60.7 set by Ron Hawkins of Wilmington. Shulties had his breath back when his rivals started coming in some ten seconds later. Curtis could have finished second in the 440 but didn't run because it was held too close to the 220.

Chris Wetherhold is only 15 but easily captured the Senior Mile Run, which was open to 18-year-olds. His clocking was a fine 4:47.9, one-half second off the record. Chris led all the way and coasted in to win. After a very brief rest, Wetherhold finished third in the half mile with a nice finishing kick, that caught two rivals. Both the first and second place entries were fresh, having sat out the mile run. Shulties fouled by one-half inch on a long jump effort of 17 1/2 inches. His best legal jump of 16 feet even was three or four inches behind the winning try. Tolbert Harris was runnerup in the Senior 440 and was clocked in 56.8 seconds. Danny Hitchens and Brad Morris were fifth and sixth behind Wetherhold in the Senior Mile Run.

The Harrington contingent came home with ten medals with Smith, Shulties, Davis and Wetherhold getting two each. Henry "Smoky" White, Ray Wetherhold and Keith S. Burgess were the drivers as 17 local lads made the trip.

In a few days he has moved from anonymity into the limelight as future sprinting prospect at H.S. and has two handsome gold medals and an engraved certificate to show for his first outing. Mike Smith, a tiny ten year old brother of Tony is another youngster who can move out.

Danny Porter, a terrific long-distance runner for the last two years, is only 11 years old and tried the shorter events in the absence of any long races. He didn't win any medals this time but was second in his heats of the 100 and 220 and fourth in the long jump. Harrington sprinters made an excellent showing in the Junior Division (12-13) 100 yard dash. Tommy Clarke's 13 flat century was his best such clocking. Don Parker, who still holds two Midget records set in 1966, won his hundred heat in 12.2, while Mike Davis was first in his group in 12.4. Donald Bryant came in second in 12.6. This resulted in Harrington qualifying three in the final of 6 contestants. For our little town to have half of the finalists in a statewide event is remarkable. Mike Davis came from behind in the final to nip a Wilmington runner in 21.1 seconds.

Kent and Sussex Big League Opens Seasons

The Kent-Sussex Big League, a branch of the Little League program for players 16 to 18, opened its 12-game schedule Tuesday night at Laurel High, with Georgetown beating Laurel 1-0.

Other members of the five-team league are Harrington, Seaford and Smyrna-Clayton. This is the Big League's inaugural campaign nationwide, and Delaware was selected as one of the pilot states. The program will be evaluated at the season's end and presented to the district administrators at the next International Little League Congress. If approved, the program will be incorporated into the Little League structure.

Only teams having a Little League (8-12) and Senior League currently are eligible for the Big League program, which is operated on a district basis. Each league in District 1 of Delaware (south of the Delaware-Chesapeake Canal) may enter teams in the Kent-Sussex Big League.

Mark Berryman of Seaford is the Big League president with Pat Knight of Dover as Secretary.

The Delaware champions will meet their New Jersey counterparts in the Eastern Region semifinals. The winner will play the New England champ for the eastern title. The Big League World Series will be played at Winston-Salem, N. C., on August 5th. Harrington's entry will be coached by Henry "Smoky" White, who is also on the loop's board of directors.

Uniforms were donated by Taylor's Hardware, Earl Quillen's Dairy Market, and Gerardi Brothers Furniture.

Fish & Game News

Large bluefish, 8-12 pounds, are being taken in good numbers northeast of the Delaware Lightship. Bottom fishermen are bringing in bass and ling. Along the beaches and in Indian River Inlet, 2-4 pound kingfish, rock and summer flounder are being taken. Some winter flounder are still present. Blowfish are plentiful and can be good eating if prepared with knowhow. Snapper blues are reported to be moving into the inland bays.

Moving up the Delaware Bay, summer flounder and small blues are being caught at Lewes. Small trout are now abundant off Fowlers Beach on the coral beds. Rock fish and white perch are biting along the Augustine Beach area.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY

vided for succession of a disabled governor and increased the state's debt limit.

All three measures needed 12 votes for passage, but received only 10 as Democrats withheld their support. Only Sen. Anthony C. Moore, D-Woodland Heights, went along with the GOP.

One of the measures (H.B. 113) would give the auditor and treasurer four-year terms. They now are elected every two years. Election would come in the non-presidential general election.

Another (H.B. 440) would provide procedures for the lieutenant governor to replace the governor in the event of a disability suffered by the chief executive. The chief justice of the Supreme Court, the president of the Delaware Medical Society and the mental health commissioner would decide on the governor's ability to continue his duties.

The final amendment (H.B. 153) would limit the state's debt to 3.4 times the general fund revenues of the preceding year. Debt now is limited to 3.2 times the revenue.

Sen. Reynolds du Pont, R-Greenville, said the state's bonded debt of about $385 million does not approach the current limit or the one proposed by the amendment.

The disability bill and the one for the auditor and treasurer are on the first leg of their enactment journey, requiring passage by the Senate this year and by both houses again in the 125th be presented as soon as possible". He said data of the same nature has been asked of Seaford and other principal population areas in the county.

General Assembly. The debt limitation, however, requires only Senate enactment this year to become part of the constitution.

DUMP AID

In deciding to increase the subsidies to the towns, the Levy Court—rather than dividing the money equally as in the past—allocated it according to the population in the area served and the need as expressed by the towns.

Last year, 13 communities received about $769 each for maintaining public dumps. Many have complained that this was not enough.

Martin W. Johnson Jr., president of the Levy Court, said Tuesday that all but two of the towns—Laurel and Seaford—had indicated they would be satisfied with the increase proposed and would continue to operate free dumping areas for the general public.

Officials in Laurel and Seaford plan to meet within the next week or so to discuss the Levy Court's offer to them. The commissioners are not optimistic that the two towns will agree to resume cooperating in the operation of free dumping areas.

Last fall, both Seaford and Laurel, abandoned their own dumps for a private landfill operation midway between them.

The contracts with the private operator provide for free dumping for the towns' taxpaying residents. Others must pay a fee, which residents who live near the town resent.

Receiving many complaints about the new arrangement and noting that trash now is being dumped in wooded areas and along the roads, the commissioners said they would not subdize the two towns unless their dump was opened free to all county residents.

When the Laurel and Seaford officials balked, saying they could not justify using town taxes to help the county provide dumping areas for everybody, the county began its search for a solution which led to the idea of a county-wide incinerator system.

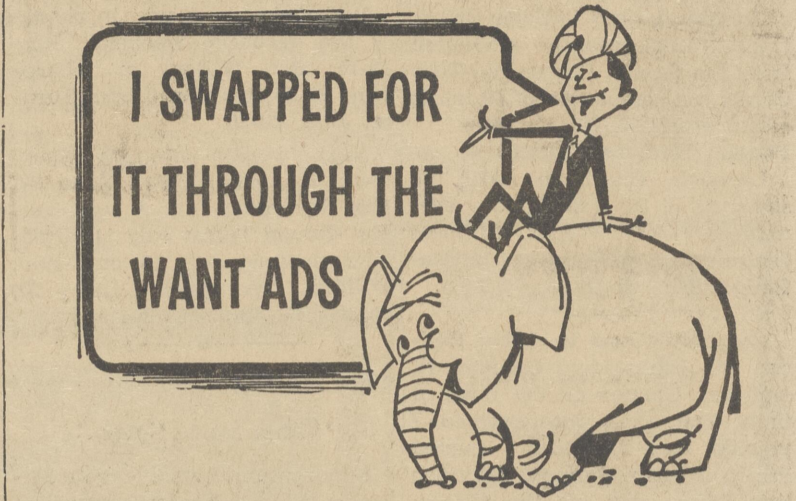

The contracts both towns have with George and Isaac Truitt, operators of the private dump, will be terminated at the end of August unless new ones are negotiated.

In a letter to Seaford City Council, the Truitts said the reason for terminating the present contracts is they do not provide enough money to operate the landfill within state rules and regulations.

In March, the Truitts submitted a bid of $1,480 a month to the Levy Court as the cost of opening their lump on a free basis to all county residents. Another bid of $995 a month was submitted by Earthmover, Inc., of near Seaford, but the commissioners decided both were too high and the idea of providing a landfill dump for county residents in the Seaford-Laurel area was dropped.

The commissioners said they hope Laurel and Seaford will reconsider and cooperate with the county in operating a free dump for all area residents until the proposed incinerator system is in operation. The Levy Court has indicated that the Rehoboth Beach and Seaford areas are the two in most need of incinerators.
