

Sewer Construction Foreseen As Government Approves Project

Construction of Harrington's long-awaited sanitary-sewer improvements was advanced a step when a federal board authorized the advertisement of bids for construction Wednesday morning.

The advertisement is being advertised in The Harrington Journal the next three weeks, with bids to be opened Thurs., Aug. 1.

Approval of the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration was necessary because of a federal grant of approximately 30 per cent of the cost of the project.

Approval of the State Water and Air Resources Commission was also necessary. Some $100,000 is anticipated from this body. Thus, approximately $600,000 will be expended on the project. The major part of the costs come from a $385,000-bond issue passed last July in a referendum.

The project calls for extension of sewers to all areas, seven, not presently served; sealing of storm sewers to prevent leakage into sanitary sewers; enlarging of sewage-disposal plant, and establishment of two polishing ponds near the plant for further refining of sewage effluent.

Dudley Willis, of Edward H. Richardson Associates, Inc., the City's consulting engineers, had told an impatient City Council Monday night he had been in touch with the FWPCA and had anticipated its approval in a few days.

The Council was also informed construction would get under way in the fall and be completed next summer.

In other business the Council acted as follows:

Motioned to permit City Manager Kathryn Derrickson to buy an air conditioner for the council room for no more than $200. Recommended a light on South Street.

Rejected a motion for a light on Dickerson Street.

Approved placing of a sign at Hanley Street and Reese Avenue telling motorists the latter thoroughfare is a dead-end street. It would be erected in time for the fair the last week of the month.

Candidate For Legislature Takes Issue With Republican Opponent

A candidate for the Democratic nomination for representative from the 31st Representative District, told a press conference Wednesday morning she took issue with her Republican opponent on his criticism of Gov. Terry's veto of Senate Substitute 1 for SB 176, the bill which would allow college education expenses to be deducted for income tax purposes.

Mrs. Rebecca Twilley, wife of Attorney Joshua M. Twilley, at the newly opened Democratic headquarters at 214 S. State St., Dover, issued a release reading: "I do not believe Mr. Moershell (the Republican candidate) could have studied thoroughly the bill or the veto message. In his veto message Governor Perry said, 'While I am in complete agreement with this bill's basic purpose—I do feel that more study of its effect is needed and would suggest that this might be part of the overall review of Delaware's financial situation...'"

Vanity Auto Tags Have Been Mailed

The first vanity auto license tags have been distributed to those who have ordered them, but the lettered plates still don't spell much MONEY for the State.

Russell W. Whitby, motor vehicle commissioner, said Tuesday the appearance of the first few hundred lettered tags hasn't spurred any wave of new orders.

The tags, which cost $25 a year on top of the usual $20 registration fee, contain the auto owner's choice of up to five letters.

Whitby said the latest count of tags sold is "about 650". By mid-June, 275 had been sold. Whitby said orders since then "have been going along just about the same."

The vanity tag idea was created as a money-making venture, and there were projections of $1 million income for the state with sales of 40,000 of the plates.

Whitby said the vanity tag mailings began July 1. Dr. C. Edward Graybeal of Milford got the first one — it is lettered FLYIN — presumably with a "g" understood.

Meanwhile, new plates have been prepared for members of the General Assembly and of the judiciary, who have had their initials in gold on blue plates all along.

These identifying plates will be replaced by gold tags with blue lettering. Whitby said the new tags for legislators and judges are being distributed.

Campers Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Jehu F. Camper, of Harrington, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Sun., July 7, with approximately 100 friends and relatives attending an open house in their honor.

Mrs. Camper wore a pale green silk suit with green lace overblouse and matching accessories. Her corsage was a gold-throated white orchid.

Mr. and Mrs. Camper are natives of Harrington where they operated a business for several years before their retirement. They are members of the Asbury Methodist Church.

Mr. Camper served one term in the House of Representatives and one term in the State Senate. He is vice president of the Peoples Bank of Harrington, a vice president of the Delaware State Fair, a past president of the Lions Club and a past president of the Harrington Fire Company.

Mrs. Camper, the former Lillian M. Short, was a school teacher before her marriage. She is a past president of the Home Demonstration Club, a member of the board of directors of the Milford Memorial Hospital, a member of the New Century Club, a member of the W.S.C.S. and Choir of the Asbury Methodist Church.

During the course of the afternoon punch, party sandwiches, petit fours, nuts, mints and wedding cake were served.

Mrs. Abner Hickman and Mrs. Stanley Cahall, sisters of Mrs. Camper, presided over the guest book and served as cohostesses.

School Board Reorganizes, Elects Officers

The Harrington Board of Education met Wednesday evening to reorganize for the coming year and to swear in Albert C. Price as its new member. Roland D. Hitchens was elected president; Robert A. Holloway, vice-president and Albert W. Adams, superintendent, as its secretary.

Dr. Kenneth Madden, state superintendent of Public Instruction, met with the board to explain the new consolidated school districts law and the State Board of Education position and duties in seeing that this law is carried out by July 1, 1969.

He informed the local board that no consolidated districts have been officially set as of this time; but the State Board is setting a target date by mid-October to complete this action.

In other business, the board appointed Steve Kliment, chief custodian, and Ernest Hammond, night supervisor upon the recommendation of Edgar Dill, superintendent of buildings and grounds.

Head Start Leaders Requested To Utilize Elderly

Dr. Hector J. LeMaire, executive director of the Delaware Commission for the Aging, in addressing the leaders of the local Head Start Program recently at the Harrington High School, told them that older persons could perform a valuable role in assisting them. Many children, he stated, will come to classes hungry for attention and affection. This is a need which cannot be completely filled by a busy teacher who has twenty or more other youngsters to consider. Foster grandparents, if they can be secured, are excellent persons to do so. They have the time, the interest, warmth, and the understanding to give children the love that they need.

Dr. Lemaire cited the Foster Grandparents program at Stockley as an outstanding example of the contribution older persons can make to the development of children. Youngsters who have never talked are starting to speak. Others who cannot tell time, yet know the moment their foster grandparent is due to arrive. These results are achieved because of the solid bonds of love established between the children and adults.

The experience also benefits the older persons. It gives them a sense of worth and the realization that there is a valuable function which they can perform. When they first assembled, the seniors were prone to discuss their own difficulties. In subsequent meetings, their chief topic of conversation was the welfare of the youngsters whom they were serving.

At the present time, there are no funds available to pay the foster grandparents serving in Head Start program. This is a situation which the Commission for the Aging hopes to correct by the use of Federal or State monies.

Twin Bridge Bids Sought By River, Bay Authority

The Delaware River and Bay Authority will receive bids for modification of its first structure to blend with the twin Delaware Memorial Bridge August 1 at 10:30 a.m.

Bids were received on this work a month ago, but the Authority rejected them on the grounds that quoted prices were too far above consulting engineers' estimates. Contractors countered that because of the time element, overtime pay would hike the costs.

A compromise was reached, whereby the contractors will have until September 15, 1969, to finish the project, rather than the original July 1, 1969, completion date. The Authority also allows contractors this time to bid for both east and west approach projects as individual contracts or as a package deal.

Work entailed under the arrangement will be removal of the median strip of the original span, then resurface and reconstruct to conform with the architects and engineers' specifications for four lane traffic.

The twin bridge will be dedicated on September 12, after which the original span will be closed at the end of the summer season and conversion work will begin.

The successful bidder will have the job of disposing of 4,350 cu

City to Hold Referendum to Enlarge Its Boundaries

The City Council Monday night passed a resolution to hold a referendum to annex territory to, and adjoining, the eastern portion of the municipality.

The concerned properties are as follows: Running south from Delaware 14, all private property between the northbound and southbound lanes of U.S. 13. This would end with the property of Chauncey Messick. The remaining property, up for annexation, is as follows: East of the northbound lane of U.S. 13 and running south from Porter Street to property of Pat Hubbard.

The last-mentioned plot extends back to woods and a sewage-disposal plant owned by the City.

The referendum will be held Sat., Aug. 24, and will be advertised in The Harrington Journal Aug. 9, 16, 23.

Annexation of the land to be voted on would also extend the eastern city limits to some 80 acres purchased by the city last year. This tract, some of which was needed for polishing ponds for sewerage treatment, runs along a prong of Brown's Branch and includes some arable land on Delaware 14 nearly in front of Hollywood Cemetery. This land could be annexed by resolution of the Council with a successful election in August.

Dover Sewerage Deadline in Dec.

Dover will have six months to decide whether it will join the county sewage system, Glenn A. Richter, Kent County Levy Court president, said Tuesday.

Richter said that after six months' preliminary design work on the project, which was approved tentatively Monday by the State Water and Air Resources commission, would be completed and that it would be difficult to redesign the system.

Meanwhile, City Manager Francis P. Neylan said that the city's consulting engineers, Al-bright and Friel of Philadelphia, were preparing a report which would compare the costs of the city building its own system to the costs of joining the county system. State commission water quality standards require that Dover upgrade its sewage treatment by 1972.

Neylan said the decision on which way the city will go would be based largely on this report.

He said the federal Water Pollution Control Administration is granting aid only to sewage facilities what offer regional solutions to pollution problems, which apparently prevents the city from getting federal aid.

Federal aid to communities building sewage facilities usually amounts to 30 per cent of the total project cost. The federal agency has tentatively granted the county 30 per cent aid for its proposed $7.2 million project.

The county sewage system approved by the state Water and Air Resources Commission begins at Smyrna with a pipeline running south along U.S. 13 to a point near Star Hill, then along U.S. 113A and 113 to near Frederica, where primary, secondary and tertiary treatment plants will be built.

A second leg of the pipeline which runs north from Milford to the treatment plant along U.S. 113 is expected to serve the Standard Brands Inc. chemical plant at Cheswold, Delaware State College, the Dover Air Force Base, and Milford.

Walter L. Fritz Jr., county engineer, said Tuesday the county's consulting engineers, O'Brien and Gere of Syracuse, N. Y., are drawing the boundaries for this area, the county's first sewer district.

Fritz said that a referendum and public hearing on the formation of the district will probably be held sometime in the early fall. Work on the first leg of the sewage system—a pipeline carrying secondary treated wastes from Cheswold to the St. Jones River—will probably begin sometime in the late fall.

In other business Tuesday, the Levy Court authorized the retaining of Dudley L. Willis as consulting engineer to do a feasibility study of the proposed St. Jones River recreation area. The proposal, originally submitted by Willis, calls for the construction of a water impoundment near the mouth of the river to create a large lake.

Willis' fee for the project will be $3,000.

Appointed Tuesday by the court to serve on the Parks Commission's advisory committee was Hector D. LeMaire, the executive director of the State Commission for the Aging.

The committee, created by H. B. 483, will assist the commission in the planning of parks' facilities. Richter said Tuesday he asked that LeMaire be appointed to the nine-member board to represent the state's elderly in park planning.

DEMOCRATIC OFFICIAL RAPS REPUBLICAN 'BOSSISM'

Schweidel Named Director of Mental Health Program

Appointment of Sheldon Schweidel, A.C.S.W., to the post of director of community planning, program development and training has been announced by Dr. Albert L. Ingram, Jr., Delaware's new mental health commissioner.

In his new assignment, Mr. Schweidel, who came to the state's mental health system in 1960 as chief psychiatric social worker at the mental hygiene

The Rev. Green, Former Local Cleric, Dies

The Rev. Robert E. Green, of 329 Camden Road, Salisbury, died last Friday at Beebe Hospital in Lewes, after a short illness.

His age was not available.

Mr. Green, a Methodist minister 40 years, was the husband of Cora McWhorters Green. He retired from Asbury Methodist Church, Crisfield, in May. He had served churches in Chestertown and Fairlee in Maryland, and in Lewes, Milford, Smyrna, Harrington, Magnolia and Greenwald in Delaware.

He attended Wesley College in Dover, Washington College in Chestertown, and the Boston University School of Theology.

Surviving, in addition to his widow are one son, Maj. Robert E. Jr., of Alexandria, Va.; two daughters, Mrs. Jerome Weidner, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Mrs. Thomas Wells, of Salisbury; one brother, Paul E., of North Hills, Del.; two sisters, Mrs. Clyde Hayman, of Fairfax, Del., and Miss Laura Green of Pittman, N. J., and 5 grandchildren.

Services were held Monday morning at the First Methodist Church, Chestertown. Interment was in Chestertown.

An official of the Kent County Democratic Executive Committee said Wednesday the Republicans had no primary contests, and that Herman C. Brown, chairman of the Kent County Republican Committee, picked the candidates.

N. Maxson Terry, Jr., secretary of the executive committee, told a press conference Democratic candidates were chosen by the people and the Democratic party is found on people power and not on "peanut" power, the slogan of Russell Peterson, a Republican candidate for governor.

The Democrats have two primary contests. Mrs. Joshua M. Twilley and E. Tudor seek the Democratic nomination for representative from the 31st Representative District, while Joseph Rawlins and William Cunningham have the same aspirations in the Thirty-second Representative District.

The press conference was held at the executive committee's headquarters at 214 S. State St., Dover.

Among the candidates present were William Berry, Milford funeral director, seeking the nomination for coroner, and Harold Powell out for Levy Court commissioner from the 28th Levy Court District.

Cut Electric Rate, Milford Schools Ask

Claude L. Tease, Milford school board president, Tuesday night called for the Milford City Council to substantially reduce the school's electrical rate.

Tease said that nearly 10 per cent — $25,964 — of the school's $280,000 operating budget went to pay city power bills.

He also pointed out that the school district's budget is tight. "We sweat to find $100 — we work so tightly," he said.

About 65 per cent of the town's revenues are raised through the electrical system. City officials, however, say their rates compare with those of commercial electric companies.

In other business, Mayor G. Brainerd Poore objected to recently passed legislation which allows the State Board of Health to require cities to install fluoridation equipment for their municipal water systems.

"I don't think the state or federal government has any right to tell us what to put in the water we drink," he said. "The way things are going, you'll have to get permission to go to the dinner table to eat."

City Manager George Russell told the council that the cost of installing the fluoridation equipment would be about $55,000.

Also approved Tuesday night was a $5-a-week across-the-board pay increase for town employees. The police chief's salary was increased from $7,540 a year to $8,000, the city manager's from $9,250 to $10,000.

The council also authorized the hiring of a police lieutenant at $6,500 a year. A police official said the man to fill the job has not yet been found.

Discover Wonderful Del.

Of all the historic churches in wonderful Delaware—and there are many—Old St. Anne's Episcopal Church near Middletown ranks among the oldest and most interesting.

Named in honor of Queen Anne of England, it enjoyed her patronage in its earliest days as a distant mission station. The parish's first simple wooden chapel was built "on the left hand of the Queen's Road below the Appoquinimink Creek" in 1705. It fronts on present Delaware Route 71 where it joins Route 896, about 1 mile south of Middletown.

As observed in a bicentennial service on June 16, the present building was erected in 1768 in faultless Colonial architecture, of English brick with walls two feet thick and heavy roof timbers cut from the virgin forest nearby.

Today, visitors come from far and near to appreciate Old St. Anne's architectural perfection and drink in its atmosphere of quiet, dignified reverence. Thanks to an extensive renovation program, completed in time for the parish's 250th anniversary in 1955, the church is now restored to its original beauty. Its most striking features are the large Palladian window in the East wall, the high pulpit topped with a panelled sounding board, the clerk's stall, and the slave balcony.

Among the parish treasures is part of an altar cloth given by Queen Anne and said to have been embroidered by her own hands. Still used in services are a silver chalice and paten dating from 1759, and a silver beaker made before 1723 by Johannes Nys, a Delaware silversmith.

Surrounded by a peaceful country churchyard, fragrant with boxwood brought from England in the early days of the church, the building is of sturdy, foreshore construction. A huge, spreading oak tree, known to have been standing when William Penn landed in Delaware, shades the cemetery to the east of the church. This famous tree, over three centuries old, is still growing. In 1932 its girth was recorded as 14 feet; in 1967 it measured 16 feet. One of the low branches is so heavy it is now supported by an upright post to prevent its breaking off its own weight.

Inside Old St. Anne's, the original wide floor boards remain; their markings indicated the authentic placement of pews during the renovation process. Removal of paint from some of the pew panels revealed interesting "doodling" in the form of initials and dates written, presumably, by inattentive worshippers. These panels were left unpainted and can be appreciated under a clear glass covering.

Although a larger church, built in Middletown in 1872, is now the principal house of worship for the parish, services are held at Old St. Anne's at 8 and 10 a.m. each summer Sunday, this year through September 8.

For over two centuries St. Anne's has been closely identified with Delaware history. Richard Cantwell, presumably of the Cantwell's Bridge (Odessa) family, was among inhabitants of the Appoquinimink Creek area who petitioned for a convenient piece of ground for erecting a Church of England chapel in 1703. Concern was forthcoming from the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, an English missionary organization, which supplied a series of hardworking pastors.

Early St. Anne's ministers preached also on occasion at Duck Creek (Smyma), St. George's Chapel (present St. Georges), as well as in some remote "bye corners" of the state. During the 30-year pastorate of Rev. Philip Reading the present church was built on the site of the original chapel. Rev. Reading's ministry ended in 1776 when the church was closed for the duration of the war. Rev. Reading felt obliged by his ordination vows as a Church of England minister to include prayers for the reigning monarch, but his attitude of "passive obedience and non-resistance" found little sympathy among his Revolutionary parishioners.

St. Anne's was at its lowest ebb in the early 1830's, when only twelve communicants were on the roll. However, about the middle of the 19th century a committee was appointed to oversee proposed changes in the church's interior, and the sum of $405 was subscribed for this purpose. The handsome Palladian window was reframed, the pulpit moved to the East end, pews rearranged, a south vestibule and two chimneys were added—all changes which were corrected in the renovation of 1955.

In 1882, ten years after the modern St. Anne's church was built in Middletown, it was destroyed by fire. It was rebuilt within the year, however, and remains the main church of St. Anne's parish today.

The church has been closely associated with nearby St. Andrew's School for Boys since its founding in 1929. For a number of years the students commuted to St. Anne's for Sunday worship services.

U. of D. Names Department Chairman

The University of Delaware's College of Agricultural Sciences has established a separate department of agricultural engineering effective July 1, according to Dean William E. McDaniel.

Chairman of the new department is Professor Ernest N. Scarborough, an Iowa State University graduate. Scarborough, who has been at the University since 1955, has written 19 agricultural engineering publications and received the Lindbach Foundation award for distinguished teaching in 1964. He is a member of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers; Alpha Zeta, national agriculture honorary; Epsilon Sigma Phi, national extension fraternity; and the Sigma Xi honorary.

Before coming to Delaware, Scarborough served as assistant professor of agricultural engineering at North Carolina State University, associate professor at Tennessee Polytechnic Institute and product engineer at Thompson Products, Cleveland.

Agricultural engineering is one of the fastest growing programs in the College of Agricultural Sciences, says Scarborough. In short, we deal with the engineering problems involved with the production, processing and handling of food and fiber. These, of course, include agricultural machinery, processing, design and function of buildings and soil conservation.

In his new position, Scarborough will be responsible for the teaching, research and extension activities of the agricultural engineering department.

Cheese to The Rescue

Company coming? Cupboards bare? Why not keep a variety of cheese on hand for unexpected guests and spontaneous parties this summer?

"Cheese is great for quick snacks and last minute appetizers," says Marguerite Krackhardt, extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware. "It's easy to store, easy to garnish and refreshing to eat."

To keep in perfect condition, keep it airtight and keep it refrigerated. Uncovered cheese has the tendency to dry out, mold and absorb odors. Original cheese coverings should be used when possible. However, tightly covered refrigerator dishes of plastic or glass make excellent keepers.

If the original wrapper or storage dish is not available, Miss Krackhardt suggests placing cheese in a plastic bag. Press the bag snugly to force out air; secure with a rubber band or paper covered wire. Cheese can also be wrapped in aluminum foil—pressed tightly to exclude air.

Inspect abused cheese before throwing it out. Slight mold doesn't affect the flavor or quality of cheese. Just cut or scrape off the moldy portion and it's ready to eat. Dried out cheese is still excellent for cooking.

Brick, Cheddar, Mozzarella, Edam, Gouda, Muenster, Port du Salut, Swiss, Provolone and Camembert can all be frozen indefinitely. Miss Krackhardt has found that pieces cut in half pound sizes—not more than an inch thick, freeze the best. Retain a smooth texture by freezing cheese quickly and thawing it slowly in the original wrapper.

Process cheese, cheese foods and spreads should be refrigerated once they've been opened. Soft cheeses such as cream or cottage should be kept in the coldest part of the refrigerator and used within three to five days. Opened grated cheese like Parmesan and Romano keep longer when refrigerated.

Remember room temperature cheese has the best flavor. Remove the amount you'll need from the refrigerator an hour or so before serving.

The viewing was held at the Hinman & Webster Funeral Home in Crisfield; interment was in Chestertown, Md.

Mennonite news:

A Bible Conference was held over the weekend with Elmer Maust from Accident, Md., as the guest speaker. Brother Maust's background as a science teacher in the public school system of Pennsylvania made him a very interesting speaker on "The Attributes of God".

Milt Swartzentruber was hospitalized on a recent Monday because of a problem with high blood pressure. Last Friday he was transferred from Milford to Wilmington for further tests. He and his family appreciate your continued prayer support. Address him: Delaware Hospital, Room 415, 14th & Washington Sts., Wilmington.

Lucy Shrock has re-entered the hospital for further surgery. Address her: Wills Eye Hospital, Spring Garden, Philadelphia, Pa. 19122.

The Claude Indian family plans to give a program at the Greenwood High School, Mon., July 15.

Alvin and Cora Mast, Mark Yoder, Glenda and Fern Swartzentruber have spent two weeks in Talbert, Ky., helping in the Bible School work there.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Workman attended the viewing for the Rev. Robert E. Green at the Hinman & Webster Funeral Home in Crisfield.

Mrs. Hazel Zych has returned home after spending a month in California with her daughter, Pat, and her husband.

Mrs. Harold Isaacs and children are visiting her relatives in Wilmington.

Mrs. Anna Isaacs is visiting her son and family, the Rev. and Mrs. Everett Isaacs, in Bennett, Iowa, for two weeks.

Greenwood Lions Club News
The summer barbecue is in full swing and hot barbecued chicken will be available each Saturday and Sunday until including Labor Day.

The Club held its ladies night and installation of officers last Wednesday evening at the Bridle Bit in Harrington. At the same time, Lion Carl Baker was inducted into the club and welcomed by the members.

The Club is donating a $10 trophy to the 4-H Club's horse show in Lewes.

Kiwanis Notes:
Due to the holiday, no dinner meeting was held July 4. On June 27, past Lt. Gov. Ebe Reynolds, Sr., presented as the guest speaker. Chaplain William Rhodes, assigned to the Dover Air Base. The Chaplain had recently returned from South East Asia, and gave the group a highly informative talk on conditions in that area. He showed slides taken in Thailand giving an excellent picture of that country, and telling of the many things our men are doing, in their spare time, and in some cases, using their own money, to make life a little better for the Thai people. He spoke highly of the men fighting in Vietnam, their valor and their dedication to the job that was theirs to do.

Visiting members from the Seaford Club were Dave Webb, Ed Elliott, Walt Bell, George Higgins, and Dave Smith.

Our Club was represented at the Kiwanis International Convention in Toronto by Lt. Gov. of the 11th Division and Doris. Carol and Cindy Mills traveled with their aunt and uncle on the trip.

Congratulations to the Kiwanians who have accepted positions of importance: Alvin Mills as a member of the five-man Board of Adjustment, to hear appeals resulting from the adoption of the proposed interim zoning ordinance for all of Sussex County; Stanley Cahall, appointed state meat inspector, to assist in fulfilling the mandates of the new State Meat Inspection Law which went into effect July 1.

Bill and Nadine Fleischauer have returned from a two weeks' trip to the south which included a visit to the HemisFair in San Antonio, Tex.

Roy and Ruth Ann Lloyd are on an extended trip to the West Coast.

Program chairman for the July 13 meeting is Willard Thomson.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne Holberton

There's lots of action going on in grocery stores all over the Nation as we enter the second half of 1968. Prices have been fluctuating up and down, but the indications are it will be more up than down from now on.

Why? All along the line food industry costs are going up at a rate that will have to be passed on to the consumer. Strong cost pressures are building up in such areas as transportation, equipment and packaging. However, the most troublesome of all is the pressure stemming from labor costs in food marketing.

The cost of labor has risen at a 7-9 per cent rate over the past two years, while annual gains in labor output have held at two percent. To put it in plain language, the higher wages go the less work each individual does, the higher food prices will go—it's all a vicious circle, but one that is as old as time.

Most meat prices continue to show little or no change. As far as beef is concerned, the fore-quarter cuts offer the best buys with such items as corned beef, hamburger, chuck steaks and roast being feature meats. Look for fairly good buys on rolled rump, round steak, and rib steak. Be sure to compare prices and cost per servings because as much as 20 cents a pound saving may be obtained on these items.

Here is something that is most interesting. The once humble hot dog is being transformed by meat packers into a top quality high-priced meat. This meat was formerly a catchall for cattle and hog "by-products" such as kidneys, hearts, cheeks and head meats. Not so today! The modern hot dog now contains only meat that could be sold also as steaks, chops and roasts. One large mid-west packer explained the reason. "The younger generation just doesn't seem willing to buy much meat that has such things as lungs, udders and stomachs in it. Why? I don't know. Maybe they're educated to read labels better. Maybe generally higher incomes result in choosing better quality foods all around."

Other meats to check are broiler-fryers, turkeys and such pork cuts as spareribs, loin chops and hams.

Many vegetable prices have edged up, while a few are down a bit. Quality should be checked carefully before buying, and remember when you are handling fresh produce to do it carefully so you will not add to the problem by helping create further poor quality.

Fresh fruits continue to be in adequate supply and quality looks good to very good. Be sure to use blueberries often as the season is not a long one. Watermelons, cantaloupes, apples and limes are all good buys.

ASCS Announce 1969 Wheat Provisions

Several provisions of the recently announced 1969 wheat program differ from 1968 program provisions, according to Paul B. Hastings, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Delaware Committee.

These include a smaller national allotment and the offering of payments to all participating farmers for diverting additional acreage below the allotment. In addition, domestic marketing certificates will be issued on 43 per cent of projected production of the participating farm's acreage allotment compared to 40 per cent in 1968.

In announcing the 1969 wheat program, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said that the reduced national acreage allotment of 51.6 million acres should make it possible to strengthen farm prices and to reduce carryover by about 100 million bushels. With normal yields, production from the 1969 allotment, 13 per cent below the 1968 allotment, should total about 1.3 billion bushels compared with about 1.55 billion bushels expected from the 1968 crop.

Farmers signing up in the voluntary wheat program can qualify for price support loans and purchases, domestic marketing certificates, payments for diverting acreage below their allotments and alternative cropping options.

Diversion payments at the maximum rate authorized by law will be offered to farmers under the 1969 wheat program for planting less than their acreage allotment and diverting this land to conserving uses. The farmer may divert up to one-half of his farm's wheat acreage allotment and diversion payments, based on projected yield of the allotment acres diverted, will be at the rate of 50 percent of the county loan rate. Other features of the 1969 wheat program will be much the same as those for the 1966 crop. Basic program participation plus acreage diversion for payment below allotments are key factors of the 1969 wheat program, says Hastings. The total acreage reduction target, including diversions, is about 18 per cent. Wheat growers themselves will take these actions if they want to be fully successful in reducing stocks and strengthening market prices for the 1969 wheat crop.

TERRY WAS RIGHT, OF COURSE

Firemen were bombed with bottles, early on the morning of the Fourth, when they went to fight a suspicious fire at the Amalgamated Leather Company building in Wilmington. The National Guard stood by.

The tossing of bottles, from behind nearby billboards, justifies Terry's continuing of the guard in Wilmington to prevent riots. The governor stated he had been tipped off there would be disturbances in Wilmington in support of his argument for keeping the guard there.

He failed to remove the guard at the request of several prominent persons of the Wilmington area, including the Speaker of the House and President Protem of the Senate.
 Had he removed the guard, and law and order were not maintained in Wilmington, what would have happened when the governor campaigned for re-election. The truth is — the greater part of the public is law-abiding and wishes no part in the rioting which is caused by a distinct minority.

Incidentally, a civil-rights group, the day before the fire, had criticized the governor for continuing the guard in Wilmington.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

I have always envied the artists who can portray scenes by wielding brushes and a selection of paints, some of which they mix to suit their own fancies. And some day, soon, when the foliage around Paradise Pastures turns to gold, I hope to have one of these locally gifted artists do a job for me and posterity, entitled:

THE MAGIC PICTURE

Would that I could paint a scene,
 And wield a magic brush,
 To paint the open field and woods,
 And horses as they rush.

Not a picture just to view,
 But one that had a heart,
 That carried all the natural truths.
 As each one played its part.

And let the picture be so true,
 I'd hear the roundelay,
 Of feathered songsters in the trees,
 Above the wooded ways.

I know the picture can be made,
 And if it could, would talk,
 For all this panorama's yours,
 If through the woods you'll walk.

Arts Festival's
 First Outdoor Event Sunday

The Milford Summer Arts Festival will present its first outdoor event at 4 p.m. on Sunday, July 14th on the grounds of the Parson Thorne Mansion on N. W. Front Street. The Cubbage English Handbell Ringers of the Wesley Methodist Church in Dover will play music ranging from a Minuet to "When the Saints Go Marching In." A clothesline art exhibit will also be on display.

The Cubbage Ringers group is comprised of fourteen high school students. They recently returned from a 10 day performing tour through Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, New York, and Ontario, Canada. Last year's tour took them to thirteen states including Texas where they played in the National Festival of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers.

Their repertoire includes both sacred and secular music, and they have cut a record "Bell Potpourri." The group has been invited to perform in the 1968 pageant of peace at the White House in December.

At Wesley Methodist Church
 the bell group rings for the regularly scheduled hours of worship, where they share the ministry of music with nine other choirs, all under the direction of Thomas C. Flynn. Mr. Flynn, who is a graduate of Westminster Choir College, Princeton, N. J., also serves as church organist and conductor of the Kent Community Orchestra.

Artists from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Virginia have been invited to join local talent in the clothesline exhibit.
 There will be cash awards to first, second and third place winners in the show, and ribbons in the usual categories. Works produced in the sculpture, ceramics, watercolor, and oil painting classes of the Milford Adult Education program will also be on display. Any artist who has not received an invitation and is interested in exhibiting may contact Catherine Acko, Evergreen Lane, Milford or 422-9265.

The Parson Thorne Mansion,
 one of Milford's oldest buildings,
 is being restored by the Milford Historical Society. The audience will sit on the grass of the spacious lawn in front of the house.
 This program will be held in the air conditioned Milford Junior High School on Walnut and N. E. 10th Streets if it is raining at 4 p.m.

This event is open to the public without charge, and parents are encouraged to bring their children.

The Milford Summer Arts Festival is being presented as a gift to the community by the Milford Adult Education Association with the cooperation of the Milford School Board. There will be free entertainment at 4 p.m. every Sunday during July and August. This is the first time such a program has been offered in Delaware—don't miss it!

T. Ralph Snowberger, 45, a former teacher of agriculture at Milford High School, was found dead of a shotgun wound in the head at his home at Milford

A party of Pennsylvanians, who visited Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Miller on Delaware Avenue recently, returned home quite enthusiastic about Delaware after they had good luck fishing and clamming. The party caught 192 trout off Bowers Beach and were successful in their first experi-

U. of D. Librarian Attends Institute

Clifton F. Giles, assistant to the director of libraries at the University of Delaware, is attending a Library Automation Institute in the new School of Library and Informational Science at the University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo.

The institute, the first of two planned in library automation, is to train librarians in directing automation in their libraries.

Beginning July 1 and running to August 2, the session will include lectures by two outstanding computer directors, a guest instructor and observation of the UMC Medical Center computer which is programmed for medical projects.

Directing individual sessions of the institute will be Frederick Kilgour, director of the Ohio
 College Library Center; Joseph Becker, director of information science for the Educational Communications Network; and Thomas Song, research associate at Yale University Library.

Trips are scheduled to the Springfield, Ill., State Library and to libraries at Washington and St. Louis universities and the Monsanto Chemical Co., all of St. Louis.

The institute is offered to help meet the demand for personnel to plan, design and manage projects for computer-based library systems. The participants must be qualified librarians with technical experience and basic knowledge of computer programming and be employed in a data processing program of a university, public or research library.

Giles received his bachelor's degree from the University of Massachusetts and his master's degree in library science from the University of Illinois.

Farm Safety Week July 21-27

President Johnson has proclaimed the week of July 21-27
 as National Farm Safety Week, according to Thomas H. Williams, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Delaware.

In 1967, farm accidents accounted for 2,900 deaths and almost a quarter million injuries, says Williams. In fact, the farm industry death rate is surpassed only by the construction and mining industry's accidental death rate.

The major cause of farm accidents is carelessness, he adds.
 Too many farmers are in too big a hurry to be concerned about the possibility of accidents—until one occurs.

Farm tractors are involved in at least 1,000 fatal accidents each year. And about 60 per cent of these involve tractor upset. Power take-off shafts are also a major cause of farm accidents. In over two-thirds of the PTO accidents reported, manufacturer's shields had been discarded. Farmers wearing heavy clothing which does not yield upon PTO entanglement usually suffer more serious injuries than those wearing lighter clothing that rips easily.

National Farm Safety Week
 will emphasize care, says Williams. Care in the field, care on the highway and care around the farm home. Other areas of emphasis will include farm machinery safety, pesticide and chemical safety and recreation safety.

 pital, will be responsible for planning community mental health programs and services.

Mr. Schweidel will also coordinate departmental services with those of other agencies and he will assist, Dr. Ingram said, in establishing training programs in concert with the University of Delaware, Delaware State College and other resources. He will also be involved in the development of community health centers, now one of the principal thrusts of federal mental health programming.

In March, Mr. Schweidel was honored by the Delaware Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers when he was named Social Worker of the Year.

Mr. Schweidel, who served in the Air Force from 1943 to 1946, is a graduate of Brooklyn College, Brooklyn, N. Y., and of Washington University, St. Louis, Mo., where he obtained his degree as Master of Social Work in 1950. In 1954 he worked in the advanced curriculum at the New York School of Social Work.

Before coming with the State Hospital in 1960 Mr. Schweidel had been special assistant to the director of the Mental Health Association of Delaware. Earlier he had served as assistant director of the Jewish Federation of Delaware, directing welfare services.

Mr. Schweidel's social work experience also includes case work with the Child Guidance Clinic at St. Louis and supervision of case work students at the Mental Hygiene Clinic, Veterans Administration, Newark, N. J.

Careers In Agri-Business

Careers in agriculture are unlimited. Recent estimates show that it takes over 30 people to supply the needs and services of one full-time farmer.

Population trends indicate that the need for food in the future will continue to grow. One population expert predicts that a baby born today and living to the age of 70 years will be rubbing elbows with 500 million other people in the U.S.

Presently there are four million farmers—but we get most of our food and fiber from two million. These national figures compare favorably with the Missouri picture where 48,147 of over 147,315 work more than 100 days per year off the farm. In the not too distant future, we may need only one million farmers to feed the nation—but these farm businesses will need an even greater number of people to serve and service them.

Today's jet aircraft may be compared with the business of farming. It takes a small crew to fly a jet bomber or a space craft, but it takes dozens of specialists and mechanics and hundreds of factory workers to make the flight and the mission complete.

The same is true today for the farmer operating in the big field of agriculture. Ground crews of the airways may be compared to the ground crews in agriculture—they are a "must" for the success of the mission. Skills are also a "must" for these ground crews if the job of food production is to keep up with a projected 500 million population explosion.

Modern agriculture lists career opportunities under eight major fields. It takes all the sciences of food production to round out this complicated food production process. Although all farm youth cannot farm, there is ample room for employment in agricultural related fields. The sciences of agriculture business, supply, equipment, credit, and management are among the eight fields in agri-business of special appeal to farm youth with a desire to remain in the field of agriculture.

Expanding opportunities in agriculture make America the best fed and best clothed nation in the world. Forty per cent of our workers are employed in agriculture and allied businesses. We will continue to hold our high standard of living just as long as we meet the opportunities with trained minds and skills.

High school graduates, technically trained people, and college graduates are needed in the agri-business fields. There is a real shortage of farm oriented personnel who wish to train and remain close to the farm. Farming and agri-business offer youth a promising future. — Boonville

Laurel Raceway
 News

Cardigan Bay, striving to become harness racing's first million dollar winner, will test Laurel Raceway's lightning-fast Tartan track this Saturday, July 13, when he faces a select field of Atlantic Seaboard Circuit Pacers.

Dick Hutchison, Jr., Laurel's President and general manager, the man who pioneered harness racing in Maryland, is anxious to give Baltimore-Washington fans a chance to see the sport's top money-winner.

It was Hutchison who brought some of the top free-for-allers here in the early '50's, including Solicitor, Hillstote, Irish Hal, Dudley Hanover, Adios Harry and Hi Lo's Forbes, who was the first harness horse in Maryland to break the magic two-minute mark.

Cardigan Bay has earned $977,821 during his brilliant career, still $22,179 short of the million dollar mark and retirement.

Stanley Dancer, Cardigan Bay's trainer and driver, purchased the Hal Tryax-Colwyn Bay offspring for $100,000 in March 1964 for the Cardigan Stable and I. W.
 Berkemeyer on the understanding that Cardy would be returned to his original owner when he was through racing.

Dancer already has announced he will retire the seemingly indestructible 12-year-old gelding once he reaches the million dollar plateau.

The grand old warrior passed the sensational Bret Hanover in earnings earlier this season. He set New York fans a-buzzing back on May 25 when he paced a snappy 1:50.4 mile to beat True Duane and Overcall.

His 1:50.4 clocking is a season's record for an aged gelding on a half-mile track which Cardigan Bay now shares with W.
 W. Smith.

In 1964, Cardy set a world record for an aged pacer on a one-half mile track when he stopped the clock in 1:58.1. He also was the season's leading money-winning aged pacer that year.

Cardigan Bay set a world record of 1:57.2 over a mile track in 1965 and he also finished as the second leading money-winning aged pacer of '65.

Feelers are being sent out to such outstanding contenders as Nob Hill, C. K. Adios and Danny Row Gil, and other classy A.S.C. pacers to furnish Cardigan Bay some opposition in Saturday's feature.

Nob Hill is one of the top three-year-old pacers in the country and Billy Haughton just missed shading two-minutes with the youngster at Rosecroft earlier this season. Nob Hill won the $50,000 New Hampshire Sweepstakes at Rockingham this spring.
 C. K. Adios sizzled to a 1:59.2 clocking here last week, and Danny Row Gil went the distance in 1:59.4 on the same night.

NSF Sea Grant
 Project to Begin
 At U. of D.

Revival of the state's shellfish industry is a major goal of a two-year Sea Grant Project which will be undertaken by the University of Delaware beginning Sept. 1.

Support for the work, involving scientists and engineers from several university departments, is being provided by a $310,600 National Science Foundation grant. Matching funds in the amount of $164,300 will be made available from university sur-cees.

The multidisciplinary investigation, under project director Dr.
 Franklin C. Daiber, is planned to define practical procedures for shellfish breeding and culture. It will include environmental control and culture in natural waters, harvesting methods and processing techniques.
 Extension work, research and development will be integral parts of the program and an evaluation of the climatic water balance in the Delaware River Valley, which affects the marine environment important to shellfish and the general ecology of the area, is planned. Strengthening of faculty and curricula in marine science and engineering is also involved.

Research previously conducted at the university's marine laboratories in Lewes has pointed the way toward systems-engineered techniques for artificial shellfish culture, which includes means of holding brood stock, spawning them on command, rearing larvae and cultivating the progeny in the field. Command spawning of shellfish well outside their normal spawning season is considered of great practical importance.

The Sea Grant Project will enable the research team to capitalize on these findings. The expanded work also will involve interaction with commercial groups and appropriate state agencies to make the results of the project available to the public as promptly as possible.

Dr. Daiber, director of marine laboratories at the university, will coordinate the work of specialists from several departments in the Colleges of Engineering and Agriculture as well as geographers and biologists from the College of Arts and Science. Administrative work, including the preparation of reports, recommendations and planning, and coordination with governmental agencies will be carried out by the Division of Technical Services in cooperation with the project director.

Tentative assignments for the various academic units already have been made.

The College of Engineering will undertake the systems engineering analysis of current laboratory techniques and provide consultation and preliminary experimentation in areas requiring engineering and technical background.

The department of agricultural engineering will focus on controlled environments to expedite the biological studies of oyster culture and to ascertain the optimum conditions for the various stages of oyster culture. Various devices and energy forms also will be explored in an effort to develop an effective mechanical oyster shucker. Extension personnel and the department of agricultural and food economics will initiate training and extension services aimed at the rehabilitation of the shellfish industry.

The biology department will continue and expand its studies of the biology of oyster culture, including the biology of spawning, larval growth, setting of shellfish larvae and the growing of shellfish to harvestable size under economical and disease-resistant conditions.

Livestock project members will participate in a judging contest on July 16th starting at the University of Delaware Beef Farm at 10 a.m. 4-H'ers will then proceed to other farms to judge sheep and swine in county competition for a place on the judging team. The top eight judges from Kent County will compete against New Castle and Sussex 4-H'ers at the State Fair on July 29th.

Demonstration Day will find Kent County 4-H'ers at the Delmarva Power and Light Company in Harrington on July 18. Kent County 4-H'ers will enter some 17 divisions. Members will demonstrate some technique or skill related to their project areas. Judges will select the best individual and best team in each division to participate in the State Contest on Fri., Aug. 2, at the Delaware State Fairgrounds. Members are judged on the organization, visuals and skill.

Although the State Fair officially opens on July 26th for 4-H members activities begin on the 23rd, when all non-perishable 4-H exhibits are due. These are the exhibits listed under the 4-H Department in the premium list. Perishable exhibits such as foods and vegetables are entered on July 26th. All members will assist in tagging exhibits when they arrive and arranging the attractive display.

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa

A garden where people grow. This is Columbia, Maryland, according to John C. Nuttle, project manager for the Roose Company. He speaks with enthusiasm of the new city where the guiding philosophy is to build what works best for people.

Your county agent returned for a visit once again to see the work in progress. This, with a group of 75 county agents from the northeast urbanizing area of the U. S.

An interesting new development to me is the news that Columbia will build in "low income housing"—but at a figure of about $13,500 per unit to rent from $65 to $85 per month. I can't square up the cost/rental rates except that a group of Baltimore churches is subsidizing a portion of the cost, with the rest to come from Federal sources. The objective is to house unskilled service employees closer to their jobs within Columbia.

Columbia has four basic guidelines: 1. It shall be a self contained, complete city and not a bedroom community. 2. It shall retain and enhance the natural beauty—at least 23 per cent of the land being set aside for open space uses. 3. It be the best possible environment for people. 4. Most commendably, it makes a profit.

The message for Kent County, Delaware, is clear. If you want to keep a healthy, pleasant, safe community, then everyone must help to keep it so.

It Seems To Me

By Janet C. Reed

"I made it myself!" We hope you can say it with pride and not with apology.

Those who sew seem to fall into three classes: those who are satisfied with anything because they made it; those who never do well enough to suit them; and those who fall somewhere in between.

Many women who sew feel guilty about the slightest deviation from perfection and imagine that everyone else notices it too.

Important as perfection is, we should not be slaves to it. Ripping and stitching, ripping and stitching can give a garment a tired, worn out look before you wear it for the first time. Often you are the only one who notices that the stitching line is a eighth of an inch off, unless you tell everyone.

Have you ever bought a dress, and after wearing and enjoying it noticed some slight error in stitching or construction that escaped your eye at first? If you had sewn it that way you would be full of apology. Instead you enjoyed the style, or color or fabric—whatever attracted you to the dress in the first place.

When buying inexpensive ready-to-wear, construction of the garment will assume less importance than fabric, style and fit. It's easy to make slight construction changes, such as restitching seams, changing buttons, removing the excess trimming. But if the dress isn't becoming or the fabric requires constant care you may end up with a "dud".

If you are not confident of your ability to sew well, choose printed designs and textured fabrics, where stitching imperfections are less obvious. Plain colored, flat textured materials such as linen and flannel will show off errors.

Top stitching to outline seams or other details should be as perfect as possible to avoid the "home-made" look. If you have difficulty with this, omit the top stitching.

Choose pattern and fabric to suit your sewing ability. Correct any large mistakes, and resolve to do better next time on the little ones. And don't apologize. Be proud of your sewing ability!

Local operations and services will be discussed by Charles L. Peck, Jr. manager of Peck Brothers Farm Supply. He will also show a number of color slides taken on patrons farms, showing some of their operations.

The Tail's Wagging the Dog

Education is that students go to school to learn, the necessary inference, of course, is that they do not know it all, already, and that their teachers, presumably, have useful knowledge to give them.

Even in a situation where students undertake to teach each other, or help each other learn, as sometimes happens in an emergency, or during cram-time at exam-time, the idea is that those who know more teach those who know less.

Until very recently, the notion was regarded as preposterous that students should run their schools. In the never-never land of today, however, we not only are astonished by the spectacle of students demanding a voice in administration of their educational institutions, but taking control of huge universities, if not by force of violence, by force of brazen usurpation of authority.

The "occupation" of classroom building, the "siege" of libraries and offices and the disruption of classes, schedules and course programs, reverses the logical relationship between students and those from whom they are expected to learn the reservoir of common knowledge.

Here we have another case of a mindless minority, living in a never-never land, robbing the majority of its right to be undisturbed and unimpeded in following normal routines in the world of reality.—Lock Haven (Pa.) Express

U. of D. Announces Extension Personnel Changes

The University of Delaware's Cooperative Extension Service has announced two staff changes effective July 1, according to Extension Director Dr. Samuel M. Gwinn.

Frank E. Boys, former agricultural chemicals specialist, will assume the duties of extension entomologist Donald MacCreary, who retired June 30. Boys, who has been at the University since 1964, will help farm and home owners with insect control and conduct research in biological insect control.

Replacing Boys as agricultural chemicals specialist is 43-year-old John S. McDaniel, an Easton, Md., native. McDaniel received his degree from the University of Maryland and has served in the agribusiness community since 1950.

In his new position, McDaniel will be responsible for development and maintenance of a pesticide information and reference center; for keeping extension, experiment station and University personnel informed on chemical development and regulation; for coordinating extension activities relating to pesticides; and for educating landowners and professional and commercial people in the regulations governing pesticides and proper pesticide use.

Ronald F. Hughes Makes Dean's List

Ronald F. Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hughes, has made the dean's list at the University of Delaware. Hughes, who will be a senior in the fall, is majoring in agricultural economics. He is now at R.O.T.C. camp at Indiantown Gap, Pa.

Bill Johnson Wins Shawnee Invitational

Shawnee Country Club men's champion Bill Johnson shot a 27-hole total of 107 over the weekend to win the Hammond Invitational Golf Tournament at Shawnee.

Johnson, the event's medalist Saturday with a 2-under-par 33, came back to card 39-35 Sunday. A 41-year-old resident of Harrington, Johnson also won the Maple Dale Invitational earlier this year.

Bob Hoch of Shawnee was the runner-up with 110 strokes. Cecil Sturgeon of Seaford C. C. finished third at 114. Hoch and Cy Nurgon of Seaford C. C. teamed to take the better-ball of partners event with 33-36-69.

Morris Bradford of Maple Dale C. C. was the First Flight victor with a score of 113. Bradford and Joe Morgan of Rehoboth Beach C. C. won the flight's partner's competition.

Ben Wethington of Shawnee took top individual honors in the Second Flight with Arnold Gilstad and Paul Cosden, both of Shawnee, the partner winners. Paul Gardner of Sussex Pines and Bill Luks of Garrisons Lake were the Third and Fourth Flight individual winners respectively.

Delaware Park Raceway News

Delaware Park's newest stakes race—the $25,000 added Rosemont—comes up for its inaugural running this Saturday (July 13) and is believed to be the only race of its kind in the world.

The mile and a sixteenth attraction is unique for two reasons: 1, it is for 3-year-olds which have never won an open stake at a mile or over, and 2, any winner of such a race after nominations closed on June 15, thus becoming ineligible, will have the $50 nomination fee refunded.

The idea for a stake like the Rosemont was conceived by Delaware Park's racing secretary, Allan W. (Doc) Lavin, who says: "It was designed to provide an excellent opportunity for horses of stakes caliber who were not quite up to such tough assignments as the Triple Crown and other distance specials. In other words, horses in the Rosemont won't have to tackle such as Forward Pass, Stage Door Johnny and the like, simply because those colts won't be eligible. Because of this, we feel that the Rosemont will attract many owners and trainers of above-average 3-year-olds and thus provide a good-sized, highly competitive field."

The Rosemont is named for the famed racehorse of the 1930s who was bred and raced by the late William duPont, Jr.'s Foxcatcher Farms. Rosemont's most notable performance was a victory over the renowned Seabiscuit in the 1937 Santa Anita Handicap.

Among the best-known Rosemont nominees still eligible for the race as this was written are Iron Ruler, Clever Foot, Eastern Affair, What A Pleasure, Ringmaster, Directive, Call A. Cop, Terrible Tiger, Pamir, Martins Jig, Champion, Jig Time, Royal Exchange, Three Carrswold and the exceptionally fast filly, Silly Squaw.

The first horse to race himself right out of the Rosemont was Baulstrade. He eliminated himself by winning Delaware Park's rich Leonard Richards Stakes, a mile and one-eighth event open to all 3-year-olds.

Mid-Del Archery Club To Hold Tourney Sunday

Mid-Del Archery Club is holding a tournament Sun., July 14, to raise funds for the National Field Archery Association (NFAA) College Scholarship.

Now in its second year, the scholarship program enables college-bound archers to meet the growing cost of higher education. Field Archery clubs throughout the country are joining in the effort to build a sizeable pool of scholarship funds.

Participating clubs sponsor special tournaments, furnishing all the necessary course equipment such as target faces. Each archer donates a shooting fee to be forwarded to the NFAA Scholarship Fund. Certificates are supplied by the NFAA to all archers participating in the special shoots. Bowmen placing in the events are awarded certificates with ribbons attached.

Last year, the program was able to grant only one cash award for academic excellence and financial need. Each year, the national scholarship committee plans to increase the number of grants as funds grow.

The association believes that youth are our nation's most important resource. Education of young people is the most important and rewarding investment Americans can make. Support the college or university of your choice.

Officers and members of the Mid-Del Archery Club are proud of their two-star, NFAA sanctioned course. The public is invited to come out and watch the field tournament. Shooting starts at 1:30, Range located Milford-Canterbury Road, Coursey Pond.

Fish & Game News

An evaluation of the role of salt marshes as producers of food for marine fish life is one of the main goals of a five-year research program announced this week by the Delaware Game and Fish Commission. The work will be contracted to the University of Delaware as part of a continuing series of marsh studies carried out since 1961.

One phase of this research will trace by radioactive isotopes the transfer of phosphorous and nitrogen through the varied and complex marsh plants and animals. Ultimately it is hoped to relate these studies to production of game and food fish in the Delaware estuary.

In announcing this program, the Commission stated that salt marshes, one of the most productive regions of the world, have received little attention in terms of quantitative measurements of their importance in relation to fish and wildlife, industrial developments and open spaces for people to enjoy.

The program will be planned and supervised by Dr. Franklin Daiber, director of the University Marine Laboratories. Work will be performed by staff members of the University and graduate students.

The project will cost an estimated $132,000. Funds will be provided from Federal excise taxes supplemented by state appropriations.
