John S. Harrington, world traveler and retired cinema mogul, writes from Helsinki, Finland, and tells of an Independence Day disturbance at the American Embassy in Stockholm.

Harrington, who lived here as a youth, writes:

July 9th, 1968
Dear Carrington:—
Last Thursday I was invited to an Independence Day celebration by the Honorable Wm. Heath, U.S. Ambassador to Sweden, given at the American Embassy in Stockholm. Sweden's Governor of Immigration gave a wonderful speech and I thought you would like a copy of it, you being a good Democrat, so enclosed same.

When I arrived at the Embassy there were dozens of policemen all around the grounds in their police cars and I wondered why. Soon I found out. After the entertainment was over, which was put on by natives in beautiful costumes, Ambassador Heath came to the microphone to speak and present the flags of our 2 nations then to sing the national anthems of Sweden and United States. Mr. Heath hadn't said a half dozen words when about 14 hippies rushed in and sat down in the middle between the 2 flags and started to shout "Stop the war in Vietnam". Of course the police broke it up without any trouble and the celebration went on as planned.

The paper that evening said there were some American defectors in the group. I spoke to a couple of them but they had accents.

In case you didn't know, I am on a trip around the world. Have been to World War I battle fields in France then on to Belgium, Netherlands, Denmark, Norway, Sweden and now here. Leave tomorrow for Leningrad, Moscow, Warsaw, Prague, Budapest, Belgrade, Athens, Istanbul, Cairo, Nicosia, Televiv, Teheran, Karachi, New Delhi, Agra, Benares, Calcutta, Rangoon, Bangkok, Hong Kong, Tai Pei, Tokyo, Manila, Sydney, Cambera, Melbourne, Auckland, Nandi, Pago Pago, Papeete, Honolulu then home to L. A. about the middle of October. The only thing that bothers me is the change of time and diet. There was 8 hours difference when I was in Sweden, 9 hours here in Helsinki and it will be 11 hours in Moscow when I get there July 12 to 16th. Give my love to "Miss Olive" Sharp, Alta, Lillie and Elva as well of you and yours and all those good Harringtonians.

kindest regards,
John S. Harrington

Auto Demolition Derby Opening Event at Fair

A giant auto demolition derby will be the opening event of the 1968 Delaware State Fair next Friday night at the fairgrounds in Harrington.

A number of local drivers will compete with veterans of the destruction derby circuit for honors and over $500 in prize money.

Fair officials said this week that there is still time for local drivers to enter the event. Information and entry blanks can be obtained by contacting George C. Simpson, fair general manager, at the Harrington fairgrounds.

The derby will consist of four preliminary heats with a purse of $25 each and a grand finale. Competing in the finale for the purse of $400 will be the four winners of the earlier heats and four other drivers selected by the crowd for their aggressiveness.

"This is the third year that we have opened our fair with a demolition derby", Simpson said, "because we have found that the crowd loves it. There is something about cars smashing into each other at full speed until only one is left running that the fans really enjoy."

"Strategy plays a secondary role to nerve and aggressiveness in a demolition derby", Simpson said, "as each driver tries to demolish every other car that moves."

Simpson pointed out that there are some safety rules pertaining to the competing cars, such as the removal of all glass and other items. In order to be sure that their cars are acceptable, local drivers wishing to participate are advised to contact fair officials right away.

Band Concert Tonight at School

The annual outdoor summer band concert by the bands of the Harrington Special School District will be held tonight, Friday, on the lawn in front of the high school on Center Street beginning at 7 p.m. The public is cordially invited to attend and are reminded to bring chairs.

The program, under the direction of Melvin Brobst, the district's music instructor, will open with selections by the Senior Band, and be followed by the Elementary Band and the Junior Band.

The concert is part of the summer music program sponsored by the school district which is being attended by over 150 youngsters who are either beginning band instrument instruction or are continuing their training through six weeks of the summer. This program provides most of them an opportunity of being presented in public performance.

In case of rain, the concert will be given in the school cafeteria at the same time.

Miss Rose Handloser

Missionary Featured at Church Of the Nazarene

Miss Rose Handloser, missionary to the Republic of South Africa, is on furlough, holding services among Churches of the Nazarene. This is her second furlough since being assigned to Africa in 1962.

Miss Handloser has spent her full term at the Arthurseat Mission in the Republic of South Africa. In addition to her language study of the Sepedi dialect she has also taught in the Bible College and pastored some of the outstation churches for two years. She has been zone director of Vacation Bible Schools and in charge of the children's work and Sunday School work on the zone for two years.

The missionary service will feature the work of the Church of the Nazarene in Africa. There will be an inspirational missionary message followed by colored slides wherever desired.

Mrs. Minner Leaves the Senior Center

Mrs. Mildred Minner retired as the executive director of the Harrington Senior Center last week after leaving a very successful and productive year. Members of the center, relatives, and members of the Board of Directors attended a dinner held in her honor on Wednesday evening at the Bridle Bit. On behalf of the membership, Mrs. Gladys Hill, president of the members of the center, presented Mrs. Minner with a lovely orchid corsage, a ceramic pitcher, and a huge, beautifully-decorated cake.

During Mrs. Minner's year as executive director of the Senior Center the membership rose to 77, and over 2,050 members and 444 guests have attended the activities of the Center. These activities have been for pleasure, education, helping others, and making useful articles for home, friends, and for sale. The members themselves have been aided with their tax reports, with personal and employment problems, and in securing Medicare and Blue Cross benefits. Members have assisted with the U.N.I.C.E. F. drive, with the fair at the school to secure funds to support the foreign exchange student, with the Easter Seal drive, and made clothing for the mentally retarded at Stockley. A very successful bazaar was held, the receipts from which may serve as the basis for a building fund.

Mrs. Minner was in constant touch with those who were ill and shut-in, visiting and sending cards. This personal touch has meant much to each and every member of the center. Her energy, untiring efforts, and devotion to the project has given it a sturdy foundation from which to build in the future.

Terry Taps 10 For State Agencies

Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. last Friday made 10 appointments, including the reappointment of two members of the State Board of Correction.

Named to new five-year terms on that board were Frank S. Parker of Millsboro and C. Arthur Taylor of Harrington.

Parker is seeking election as a Democrat to the state Senate from southeastern Sussex County.

Budget Director F. Earl McGinnis also was reappointed to a three-year term on the state distribution agency, and William B. Davis, of Dover and Warren L. Allen of Seaford to new four year terms as trustees of the State Home at Smyrna.

C. Richard George of Westminister was named to a seven-year term on the board of the New Castle County Vocational-Technical School. He replaces Mrs. Martha Bachman whose term expired.

Also re-appointed or replaced was the entire Board of Examiners of Psychologists.

All will serve three-year terms. Dr. Sarah R. Jastak of Wilmington was named to replace her husband, Dr. Joseph F. Jastak. Cono A. Galliano of Wilmington replaced Dr. Irwin G. Weintraub; Miss Mary Crossan, Wilmington, replaced Dr. Eugene McGowan Jr., and Donald P. Whitely of Wilmington replaces board president Wilson R. G. Bender.

Only Halsey M. MacPhee of Newark was re-appointed.

Telephone Co. To Be One of Major Exhibitors at Fair

The Diamond State Telephone Company will be one of the major exhibitors at the Delaware State Fair at Harrington, July 26 through August 3, reports H. W. Froehlich, the company's general manager.

"The telephone company's exhibit center will be completely air conditioned and admission is free," Froehlich said.

Mrs. and Mr. HERMAN MINNER of Delaware Avenue shown with the gift from the Senior Center in appreciation of the service they have rendered during the past year.

Planning Commission Plans Report To City Council

The Harrington Planning Commission Tuesday night agreed on a report to be made to the City Council at its meeting Monday night.

Meeting with Joseph Paterno, assistant planner of the State

Short Opens Sussex County Headquarters

Robert A. Short, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination yesterday opened his Sussex County campaign headquarters on a note of solidarity within his home county.

Short, who was credited with 35 probable delegate votes in Sussex in a newspaper poll last week, said today that he and fellow Sussex Countian Eugene Bookhammer have reached a formal agreement to avoid any rift in party ranks within the county. Bookhammer, a state senator from Lewes, earlier announced his candidacy for the party's lieutenant governor nomination.

Speaking at a press conference at the County Republican Headquarters in Georgetown, also the site of his campaign headquarters, Short said that the realities of politics make it unlikely that candidates for governor and lieutenant governor from the same county would be nominated. He said that both he and Bookhammer "denounce and disown any personal attacks made by our supporters against the person or campaign of the other."

"Our close personal friendship and the many years we have been strong political allies indicate that Senator Bookhammer and I should take this joint position," Short said. "Because of the improbability of our both being nominated, many Sussex Countians who support the candidacy of one of us have felt it necessary to actively oppose the candidacy of the other."

"As a result, the Republican Party in this county is faced with the possibility of a bitter split which could jeopardize the chances of either candidate who might be nominated, thereby also threatening our chances in the numerous county and local elections this November," he continued. "Such intra-party bickering should not and cannot be tolerated. It is the purpose of a formal agreement between Eugene Bookhammer and myself to put an end to it once and for all."

Short said that support of Bookhammer's candidacy does not signify opposition to his campaign for the gubernatorial nomination, and vice versa. He suggested that most Sussex Countians will wish to support both candidates and added, "each of us welcome such support."

"It is a Republican victory in the contest for governor and lieutenant governor and in all state and county offices that all Republicans should be working for," Short continued. "While campaigns for statewide nominations will naturally lead to healthy discussions, such campaigns must be waged in a manner which leaves no bitterness and allows us to face our common foes in November with a strong and united front. We hope that each of our supporters and all Republicans will keep this in mind during the coming months."

RAILROAD HAS WEATHER IN 'VANE'

The Penn Central has erected a weather vane atop a telephone pole across from the railroad station.

4 Cars Damaged In Crash Here

Four automobiles were damaged early Tuesday morning on Commerce Street, near Brown Street, when one crashed into three parked vehicles.

Harrington police said an automobile, driven by Edward E. Ellingsworth, Rd 1, Laurel, was going south on Commerce Street and crashed into the following parked vehicles: 1. Station wagon, owned by Chester Short, total loss; 2. Car of Linda Lou Stoton, badly damaged, and 3. car of Irvin R. Hopkins, badly damaged.

The Ellingsworth car, police said, was a total loss.

Ellingsworth and a passenger, Lester D. Phillips, Rd 1, Felton, were treated at Milford Memorial Hospital for cuts and bruises and released.

Ellingsworth will appear this evening in Court 6 on a charge of reckless driving.

Evangelistic Team At Nazarene Church Tuesday

The Crusaders Evangelistic Team from Eastern Nazarene College, Quincy, Mass., will present the Christian gospel in song and message at the Harrington Church of the Nazarene on Tuesday, July 23, at 8 p.m.

The members of the team are all students at Eastern Nazarene College, a four-year liberal arts college. Paul Johnson, a member of the senior class, is from Liverpool, N. Y. He preaches and sings tenor. Dave Sparks, a senior, from Pawling, N. Y., is a preacher and trumpeter and sings bass. Dave Borden is a freshman from Fayette, Ohio. He sings lead and is group guitarist. Pianist for the group is Larry Thompson of Beckley, W. Va., a sophomore.

The Crusaders are engaged in an extensive summer tour of services in five states. After the service the members of the team will be prepared to interview prospective students and their parents concerning the opportunities of education at Eastern Nazarene College.

Postmaster's Son, Goldey Beacom Graduate, Joins U.S. Air Force

William Lynn Dill, son of Postmaster and Mrs. Howard Dill, of 121 Fleming St., Harrington, was graduated June 28, from Goldey Beacom Junior College, Wilmington, with a degree in general business administration.

William is a member of the W.G. Ott Law Association.

William has joined the regular reserve of the United States Air Force for a two-term hitch. Airman Dill will report to Alexandria, Va. Air Force Base on Oct. 13, and will receive his travel orders to Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., where he will start his training. He has been assigned to the Continental Air Command, Denver, Colo., and will be trained in computer electronics for which he has qualified.

William is spending the summer at the White House Beach, on the Indian River, under the 120-day delay in enlistment program of the Air Force, with his parents at their summer home.

Papers Tell of Deaf-Mute Taught at Gallaudet School

A Kent woman has given over documents telling of her grandfather who studied at a pioneer school for deaf-mutes in the United States and became a businessman in Camden.

Mrs. Henry Goggin of Camden donated letters, diaries, and pictures on the life of her grandfather, Thomas H. Howell, to the Historical Society of Delaware.

Howell lived to be 84 and was a merchant and miller. He was among the first pupils at the Hartford, Conn., school established in the 1820s by Thomas H. Gallaudet for the handicapped.

Mrs. Goggin, who has been active in welfare work and historical research, lives in the colonial home of the Howells.

CITY TO RECEIVE $35,746.39 FOR MUNICIPAL STREET AID

CANDIDATE FOR HOUSE

—Joe Rawlins, of Frederica, candidate for representative in the General Assembly, subject to the outcome of the Democratic primary in the 32nd representative district. Rawlins is former director of civil defense for Kent County and a former secretary of the Senate.

Joe L. Rawlins Seeks Nomination For Representative

Joe L. Rawlins of near Bowers last week announced his candidacy for the 32nd Representative District's Democratic nomination for the State House of Representatives, with the full support of his party committee.

A retired farmer, Rawlins stated he will have full time to devote to his duties as a Representative, which he feels will be beneficial to the citizens of his area.

He is not a newcomer to the political world - Rawlins' past is marked by significant political achievements. He formerly served as Civil Defense Director for Kent County and in State Legislature as bill clerk and assistant secretary of the Senate.

Mr. Rawlins is a member of the Methodist Church in Frederica, and has served on its Official Board. He is a member of Temple Lodge No. 9 AF and AM, in Milford, the Nur Temple Shrine and Delaware Consistory of the Scottish Rite. Having been active in many local civic organizations in the Frederica area, he is especially interested in maintaining law and order and supports Governor Terry's stand in this regard. One of his special aims is to work towards developing the Delaware Bay area for the purpose and benefit of attracting fishermen, hunters and sportsmen.

He is a member of the Bowers Fire Company and hopes to be able to work for legislation which would enhance the development of Delaware's volunteer fire company program, as well as for the betterment and improvement of the community in general.

Mr. Rawlins is married to the former Mary Williams of Frederica.

The City of Harrington will receive $35,746.39 in municipal street aid from the State of Delaware, says a release from the State Highway Department.

The amount each community receives depends on the mileage of streets not maintained by the state. The money comes from the gasoline taxes paid to the state.

At least 60 per cent of the funds must be used to improve municipal streets. The remainder can be used on streets or for police and lighting.

Funds allocated for other nearby municipalities is as follows: Farmington, $992.89; Felton, $7408.50; Houston, $5993.83; Milford, $84,173.45; Greenwood, $13,488.69, and Frederica, $8424.14.

The Highway Department has forwarded to the State Treasurer its annual certification of the sum of money due each municipality from the State Municipal Street Aid Fund. The certification as required by the Delaware Code was forwarded under a covering letter dated July 1, to Daniel J. Ross, State Treasurer, from Ernest A. Davidson, director of operations of the Delaware State Highway Department.

The certification lists the exact amount of street aid to be received by each municipality. The amount is based on affidavits submitted by the municipalities, or, in the absence of affidavits, from the most recent, accurate and acceptable figures available to the State Highway Department.

Population figures were taken from the Official Reapportionment Census of 1967 with the exception of four which were changed by an affidavit signed by the mayor, city manager, or president of the council of the municipality setting forth a newer population figure.

Each year the department receives requests from towns to transfer state maintained streets to municipal control. Beginning this year, the State Highway Department states, "We are asking that towns submit these requests early in the fiscal year so that, if approved, the towns may be reimbursed for the entire fiscal year."

This year's certification list shows a total municipal population based on $800,000 divided by the population resulting in a figure of $4,359,435.4 per capita.

The total municipally maintained mileage of 501.72 was divided into the distribution by mileage factor of $1,200,000 which equals $2,391,777,230 per mile.

The total funds available for distribution is $2,000,000.

Mrs. Ida M. Latchum Dies at 68

Mrs. Ida Mae Latchum, 68, Milford, the mother of James L. Latchum, Wilmington attorney and chairman of the Constitutional Revision Commission, died Wed., July 10, in Memorial Division, Wilmington.

Mrs. Latchum of 801 N. Walnut St., Milford, was the widow of former state Sen. James H. Latchum, who died in 1964.

She was born at Law's Church and was a lifelong resident of the Milford area. Mrs. Latchum was a member of the First Presbyterian Church and its affiliates, Milford.

Her death came after an illness of about a year. She had been a patient in the Wilmington hospital for two weeks.

Besides her son in Wilmington, she is survived by another son, Joseph Henry Latchum, of Newport News, Va.; two sisters, Mrs. George F. Hopkins of Dover and Mrs. Raymond Shockley of Frederica; three brothers, J. Everett Robbins, Thomas C. Robbins and Reynolds Robbins, all of Frederica; five grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Services were held last Friday morning at the Lofland Funeral Home, 219 S. Walnut St., Milford. Interment was in the Odd Fellows Cemetery, Milford.

17-Pound Flounder Sets Record

Postmaster Howard M. Dill said Monday a flounder, weighing 17 pounds, 1 ounce, was caught at Massey's Landing, Indian River, recently.

The fish was caught on a minnow Sun., July 7, and tops the state record of 16 pounds, 10 ounces, explained Dill who has a summer place near the landing. The flat fish was caught by a neighbor whose name Dill did not recall.

ASCS To Begin Wheat Payments

Certificate payments to farmers participating in the 1968 wheat program will begin about July 15 from ASCS county offices, according to Paul B. Hastings, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Delaware Committee. Farmers participating in both the wheat and feed grain programs will receive payments later.

Payments will be based on the projected production of 40 per cent of the farm's planted acreage within the 1968 wheat allotment, says Hastings. About 60 per cent of the Delaware wheat allotment is on participating farms.

Wheat certificate payments to farmers participating in the 1968 wheat program will be valued at $1.38 per bushel, compared to $1.36 per bushel in 1967. Payments are based on the difference between the July 1, 1968 wheat parity price of $2.63 per bushel and the 1968 crop national average loan rate of $1.25 per bushel.

Wheat marketing certificates are authorized by the two price provisions of the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965 guaranteeing participating farmers 100 per cent of parity price for their share of the wheat used in domestic food. This bolsters farm income for wheat substantially and permits support of market prices through loans at levels more competitive in world trade channels.

Nationally, certificate payments to about 837,000 participating farmers will total about $730 million for the 1968 wheat crop. About 85 per cent of the national allotment is on participating farms.

Related to total production on the 49.2 million acres of allotment on participating farms, these payments represent additional income at an average of 55 cents on each bushel produced by participants. Total average return per bushel will depend on prices farmers receive in the market from the 1968 wheat crop.

Trinity United Methodist Church News

Church School at Trinity United Methodist Church will be held this Sunday at 10 a.m.

Morning worship will be conducted by the pastor, William J. G. Garrett, at 11 o'clock. The sermon topic, as announced by the pastor is "Search for Truth". Melvin Brobst, organist, will play "Lieber Jesu" as the prelude and "A Prayer for Peace" by Southbridge as the postlude music. The anthem, entitled, "Whispering Hope" by Hawthorne is to be sung by the Methodist Youth Choir. Richard Shultie, Jr. is to be acolyte. Flowers will be provided by members of the Loyal Workers Class.

The church sanctuary has been air conditioned for the comfort of the worshippers. You may now attend services during the hot summer days without fear of the intense heat.

Shy Mackes has been active in leadership capacities in CFO for many years and is a well known and loved speaker at retreats and school of prayer over a wide area. Also has worked in behalf of Dr. Frank Laubach in the Delaware area.

It Seams To Me

By Janet C. Reed

One "method" of sewing is not necessarily better than another "method". Fabric and garment style must be considered together to determine which of several techniques would be suitable. It's the effect of your work on the outside appearance that counts. Use the easiest technique to give a neat, smooth exterior finish.

Take hems, for example. If the hem is obvious from the right side of the garment, something is wrong. The hem may be too deep for the fabric, or the stitches may be too close together or pulled too tightly. The weight of a deep hem in heavy fabric causes the stitches to pull and show the hem line.

Skirt styles with more flare call for a narrower hem than a straight skirt so there won't be as much excess fabric to "ease in." If you're working with a stiff, creas-resistant fabric and there is too much hem for a flat appearance, reshape the seam lines within the hem.

If your fabric does not ravel and the garment will be dry cleaned, the hem will be flatter with no tape on the raw edge. Pink the edge and make a tailor's hem. This is a hem with a loose running stitch between the wrong side of the hem and the wrong side of the dress.

A knit or stretch fabric should not be restricted by a firm hem tape. Use stretch tape or lace—or no tape at all, and a very loose stitch.

How close should you make the stitches? Usually about 1/2 to 5/8 of an inch apart - picking up a single thread of the outer fabric. Stitches should be loose enough to leave no indentation marks where you took a stitch.

Press the hem lightly. Current fashion is for a more rolled line instead of a sharp crease. And shine can develop from too much pressing on some fabrics.

Fabric and style determine sewing techniques. Know what you are trying to achieve and use a liberal dose of common sense. This will help you far more than a knowledge of someone's "Sewing method."

your grocer's freezer department. Simply buy the parts you prefer and place them (completely thawed) on the grill directly over the coals and baste often while they are cooking.

Many vegetable prices have gone up a bit this week as supplies continue to fluctuate. Those higher are green beans, sweet corn, cucumbers, Iceberg lettuce, green onions, peas, baking potatoes, and spinach. Carrots, cauliflower, celery and squash are all a penny or so lower in cost.

Blueberries are an excellent buy at the fruit department, and watermelons remain plentiful. Plums and peaches are beginning to come in in heavier supply, and prices are beginning to fall. Honeydew melons are cheaper this week also.

Felton

Mrs. Walter Moore

The Rev. Charles M. Moyer's Sunday morning sermon at the Felton United Methodist Church was "The Foolishness of God." For special music the Rev. Moyer played hymns on the piano. The church school picnic was held at Camp Pecometh and a worship service was also held at the camp.

The Viola Church will hold a Street Fair this Sat., July 20. They will serve a platter for supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Ingwald Saboe, whose home west of Felton was recently destroyed by lightning have been staying at Poynter's Motel. On July 17th they will move into a trailer at the location of their home.

Grover Dill is still a patient in the Milford Memorial Hospital. Mr. Dill has a broken hip.

Mrs. Lillie Kirkendall is home from Milford Memorial Hospital Milford, where she was a patient last week.

Walter Moore, Jr. has also returned from Milford Memorial Hospital, Milford.

Walter Moore Sr. who was a patient in the Delaware Hospital, Wilmington, last week returned home Friday evening.

Mrs. Spencer Failing Jr. is a patient in the Kent General Hospital, Dover.

The Rev. and Mrs. Charles M. Moyer and son, Michael have returned from a vacation in Illinois with friends. They visited Lincoln's land. Before returning home they visited the Rev. Moyer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Moyer in Lansdale, Pa.

Mrs. J. W. Alcorn, of Cedar Crest, Wilmington, spent Friday and Saturday with her mother, Mrs. Lillie Blades.

Mrs. Phyllis Davis, of Millsboro, was Thursday evening dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shultie.

Russell Rash, of Roosevelt Raceway, N. Y., spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Rash.

Lee Hughes, of Kirkwood Gardens, Wilmington, has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Hughes.

Edwin Gruwell, of near Wilmington, called on his aunt, Mrs. A. C. Dill, on Sunday.

AIC Delegates Selected

Ten Delaware 4-H and FFA youths and a young farm couple have been named delegates to the American Institute of Cooperation, the national educational organization for farmers cooperatives according to Ray Lloyd, Delaware Council of Farm Cooperatives youth committee chairman.

Gary Drummond, 15, Greenwood; Susan Feucht, 16, Middletown; Janice Harrison, 17, Goldsboro, Md.; Steve Henry, 18, Laurel; Beverly Lucks, 18, Wyoming; Margaret Thomas, 16, Maryland; Daniel Vanderwende, 16, Bridgeville; John Vincent, 15, Milton; John I. Webb, 16, Ellendale, and M. J. Webb III, 16, Greenwood, will represent Delaware youth at the conference.

A young farm couple, Mr. and Mrs. William Vanderwende, Bridgeville, will also serve as delegates. Vanderwende was Delaware's Outstanding Young Farmer for 1968.

Accompanying the group are Alan Slobojan, vocational agricultural instructor at Newark High School, and Mr. and Mrs. David Elliott, Laurel. Elliott is president of the Delaware Council of Farm Cooperatives, sponsor of the delegation.

Delegates will participate in leadership training meetings and discussion sessions, visit outstanding farms and cooperatives and meet business cooperative leader from the U.S. and other countries.

The meetings offer young people a unique opportunity to learn more about farm business organizations and the latest developments offered by cooperatives, explains Lloyd. In preparation for the conference, delegates toured six Delaware farm cooperatives offering marketing, production and credit services.

More than 1,000 rural youngsters and young farmers are expected to attend the August 8-11 session at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va.

Is Botulism In Your Pantry?

Home canning can be economical and fun. But don't let your delicious meats and vegetables turn into deadly poison.

Botulism is a food poison, explains Miss Marguerite E. Krackhardt, extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware; it can usually be traced to underprocessed, home canned foods.

How, when, why does it occur? The Botulinum bacterium grows only in the absence of air. Since home canned foods contain no air, they must be properly heated to avoid Botulinum growth. Improperly processed canned goods provide the perfect environment for this dangerous organism.

Botulism bacteria won't grow in canned foods that are acid. Therefore, it's safe to process fruits and tomatoes in water bath canners. Low acid foods—meats and vegetables—are very susceptible to botulism and must be processed in a pressure cooker.

A temperature of 240 degrees F. for 10-15 minutes is required to destroy botulism. Since cold-pack and open kettle methods get no hotter than 212 degrees F., a pressure canner is the only safe choice.

There is no easy way to detect food contaminated by botulism. Off odors may be present but these are difficult to detect and vary with different foods.

When in doubt—throw it out, says Miss Krackhardt. Never taste suspect food. Only about 50 per cent of botulism victims have lived to describe a "suspicious odor." Follow directions carefully and periodically check your canning methods for safety.

For further information call or write the University of Delaware extension service and request Home and Garden Bulletin No. 8, "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables."

Canning publications can also be obtained from the Office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., 20250.

Philadelphia Woodwind Quintet In Concert

The second major summer session concert at the University of Delaware will feature the Philadelphia Woodwind Quintet on Sunday, July 21, at 8:15 p.m. in the Rodney Room of the Student Center.

The renowned quintet includes Mason Jones, horn; Murray W. Panitz, flute; John de Lancie, oboe; Anthony M. Gigliotti, clarinet, and Bernard H. Garfield, bassoon.

Included in the program will be "Quintet in E flat" by Francesco Antonio Rosetti, "Parfita" by Irving Fine, "Moments Musicaux" by Adelbert Markovic and "Quintet Op. 43" by Carl Nielsen.

The concert is open to the public without charge. Early arrival is advisable due to limited seating.

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa

Grow grass on concrete? Why surely! Your county agent saw it at Marysville, Ohio, where the Scott Seed Company has two such spectacular demonstrations.

I came away convinced that a good lawn needs plant food, water, careful mowing—which adds up to work, and the best type of management.

These two lawns were started with sod placed on the concrete. The sod had been grown on peat, so very little or no soil was present. Watering must be done every other day. I would like to see Dr. William Mitchell's subsurface irrigation used on such a project.

Now we're not suggesting that you try this - the Bill and I may attempt it as a demonstration.

Take heart. You can have a good lawn if you are willing to work for it. Many of you are doing so and our Extension Service would like to give recognition for the best lawn in Kent County.

We are very much encouraged by the large number of nominations for the best vegetable garden being selected this month. We've had so much rain this year that good lawns are all about us. It's results that count.

How about submitting your nomination by August 1st? Just call our Extension Service office 736-1448.

The Japanese beetle is more numerous this year, and probably will be so next year. The reason? Plenty of soil moisture, so the grubs or larvae are surviving over the winter.

Controls are simple. Carbaryl (or Sevin) will do the job on the beetles. Grub proofing the lawn with an insecticide such as chlordane or heptachlor will reduce the adult population for several years.

Most farm ponds are overstocked with fish and should be fished more often. So says Henry Cofer, of the Delaware Game and Fish Commission.

Pointers in management were given at our twilight demonstration last Tuesday on the Cliff Miller farm near Pelton. This covered fish stocking, fertilization, pond safety and a demonstration of fly-casting.

Fred Mott, soil conservationist, showed how a long pole, a tube and a rope can be placed near the pond to help a person in distress. Henry Aiken and John Bister, both of Georgetown, gave the casting demonstrations for accuracy. Aiken is the world's champion. He is the only man to hurl a baseball out of Yankee Stadium in New York City from home plate.

"Beautification," says Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, is far more than a matter of cosmetics. To me, it describes the whole effort to bring the man-made world into harmony; to bring order, usefulness, and delight to our whole environment. And that, of course, only begins with trees and flowers and landscaping." She spoke to the American Institute of Architects' at Portland, Ore.

"Too often, we have sacrificed human values to commercial values—under the bright guise of 'progress'. And in our unconcern, we have let a crisis gather which threatens health—and even life itself."

"Today, environmental questions are matters for architects and lawmen alike. They are questions, literally, of life and death."

"The answer cannot be found in piecemeal reform. The job requires really thoughtful inter-relationship of the whole environment; not only in buildings, but parks; not only parks, but highways; not only highways, but open spaces and green belts."

"Three essential ingredients," according to Mrs. Johnson, "are concern for the whole environment; attention to the human scale—and finally, a new emphasis upon areas of natural beauty, both inside the city and beyond its borders."

My own appendix - it is hard to beat even the factory farm on all of these counts - beyond the city borders.

A recent survey of 523 consumers in Michigan compared roadside markets and supermarkets. Several characteristics were weighed. Shoppers preferred roadside markets for freshness, quality, appearance of products, prices and selection. Supermarkets rated higher on cleanliness. They both rated about the same for friendliness, with a slight edge toward the roadside market.

The Food Business Institute of the University of Delaware has prepared a manual for operators of roadside markets. It summarizes a national survey that suggests how to be successful in dealing directly with the consumer.

Don't be a spectator, join in the fun on the Midway of the Cetlin Wilson Shows at the Delaware State Fair, featuring "the top in entertainment". Waiting for you will be new rides, games of fortune, thrilling rides and sensational shows when the gate opens on Friday, July 26.

Science Students Work at Delaware

Eight high school seniors from throughout the nation are participating in a six week University of Delaware summer research program financed through a grant from the National Science Foundation, according to Dr. William E. McDaniel, dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences.

Participants in the program include Allan R. Baldwin, Lock Haven, Pa.; Mary E. Johnston, Media, Pa.; Linda M. Savage, Wilmington; John G. Papovich, Westville, N. J.; Donna Lynn Ellis, Woodbury, N. J.; Edward P. Nathan, Rockville Centre, N. Y.; Meredith Stimm, Racine, Wis., and Heather Whitney, Wilmington.

Baldwin is studying ladybird beetles as a biological control of mites on roses; Miss Johnston is researching the distribution, prevalence and habits of box turtles in urban woodlots. Both students are working with staff members of the department of entomology and applied ecology.

Nathan's research deals with electrophoresis separation of milk protein for genetic typing while Miss Ellis is studying the determination of retinoic acid in biological materials. Miss Whitney is studying CMC-ase activity in rumen fluid and Miss Stimm is researching chick embryo propagation of Marek's disease agent. All are in the department of animal science and agricultural biochemistry.

Papovich and Miss Savage are working in the department of plant science. Papovich is studying the determination of manganese in soils and helping develop a procedure to anticipate manganese deficiency in plants. Miss Savage is studying flower formation on tomatoes as related to nutrition and light intensity.

Aim of the summer research program is to stimulate and encourage students toward careers in science through basic experimental work under the supervision of recognized researchers. Field trips, seminars and an introductory computer course supplement research work.

Students participating in the program have had at least two years of physical science, three years of mathematics and are in the upper 10 per cent of their class. All have the full endorsement of their high school principal or guidance counselor and have been recommended by their science teacher.

Each student will write a detailed research report approved by his faculty advisor at the conclusion of the program. These reports will be sent to the National Science Foundation at the end of the summer.

Students participating in the program are living in University dormitories and may use all of the University's summer facilities. These include recreational and cultural activities, lectures and special events.

Benton New Department Chairman

A long-time University of Delaware faculty member has been named chairman of the College of Agricultural Sciences' department of animal science and agricultural biochemistry, according to Dean William E. McDaniel.

Dr. William J. Benton, 35, assumed his new position effective July 1. Benton, a native of Franklin, Va., did undergraduate work at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and received his Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree from the University of Georgia. He earned his masters degree and his doctorate at the University of Delaware.

Since coming to Delaware in 1956, Benton has served as a research associate and as an assistant professor. He has been acting chairman of the department since mid-1967.

Benton has done extensive research on poultry diseases. His research includes studies of infectious synovitis; infectious laryngotracheitis; infectious bursal disease; and avian leucosis complex. All are major problems in the poultry industry.

Benton is secretary-treasurer of the Delaware Veterinary Medical Association; membership committee chairman of the American Association of Avian Pathologists; and a member of the American Veterinary Medical Association, and Sigma Xi honorary fraternity.

The department of animal science and agricultural biochemistry is responsible for teaching, research and extension activities in a variety of areas including dairy, poultry and other livestock. It is also deeply involved in disease and nutritional research in poultry.

Current department projects include research of Marek's disease in poultry; research of respiratory diseases in poultry; rumen physiology; heat stress physiology; typing of cattle blood and milk; vitamin deficiency studies, and poultry nutrition research.

Extension Catalogs Available

Extension catalogs containing courses scheduled in the associate and baccalaureate degree programs and for continuing education programs are now available from the University of Delaware's Extension Division.

Courses will be offered on the Newark campus of the university, at P. S. duPont High School, Dover Air Force Base High School and at the Delaware Technical and Community College in Georgetown.

The extension division urges interested students to register by mail to avoid congestion at registration or inclement weather

Delaware Needs Bob Short as Governor

When Robert A. Short first ran for Insurance Commissioner, his name was virtually unknown. His successful campaign and first term of office—during which he saved the state one million dollars—brought the Short name to the attention of every Delawarean.

When Bob Short ran for a second term as Insurance Commissioner in 1966, this rising political star received more votes than any other candidate on either ticket—an outstanding endorsement of outstanding performance in office.

This year Bob Short is seeking the Republican nomination for governor of Delaware. And this year, more than ever before, Delaware needs Bob Short. Specifically, every Delaware citizen needs Bob Short!

The dominant campaign issue, as Bob Short sees it, is safety of the individual citizen—control of the lawlessness that confronts our state—protection of the individual so that he may walk down the street, work in a place of business and enjoy his home and family without fear of physical violence.

Lawlessness will not be tolerated by Short. He will exercise the firmness to control violence and the wisdom to erase the causes of it. Given the nomination of the Republican Party and the support of the voters, this man has the courage, conviction and ability.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

Back in my early life I learned a little poem;

"How much, a man is like old shoes".
When shoes get old they are mended new.
When man get old they are men-dead too.

However, after getting old, I learn from Modern Maturity that:

Men are more like trees, in a crude sort of way;
Some are always unhappy; while others are gay.
Some stand up real high while others just grow
Where they feel they'll be safe when hurricanes blow.

Some men are courageous like a mighty oak;
While others hide by a stream in dampness and soak;
These are the willow trees all covered with fluff;
They drink all day long but can't get enough.

Some men are like poplar trees graceful and clean,
Proud of their stature and like to be seen,
Lifting their heads and looking around,
To see what is going on down on the ground.

Some are like pine trees, handsome and tall,
Bestowing their cones and needles to all;
Each likes to be known as a wonderful chap,
But when he is punctured, yields nothing but sap.

There are trees, without number, just as there are men;
They furnish us lumber and start growing again;
They worship, they sing exhalations to God,
And when life is over, seek peace in His sod.

Senior Center News

A farewell dinner was given to Mrs. Mildred Minner, director of the Senior Center, Wednesday night at the Bridle Bit. There were 42 guests. It was a very nice dinner and was enjoyed by everyone. We are sorry to have to lose her. She will be missed by all the Senior Citizens and the Aide.

The center will be directed by Mrs. James Moore for the remainder of this month. At present it is planned to close the center during the first two full weeks of August.

The members of the center will be working on their projects and preparing exhibits for the fair the next two weeks. All materials to be exhibited should be brought to the center by July 22. It is hoped that all members will cooperate to make the booth a success. Harrington Senior Center will be in charge of the fair booth on Thurs., Aug. 1, Senior Citizens Day. Stop by and see the projects that have been completed.

Senior Center Directors Elected

The new directors of the Senior Center, Inc., were elected at a meeting of directors last Thursday. Also elected were new officers for the 1968-69 year.

Directors elected to serve one year term are: Mrs. J. Millard Cooper; Mrs. Leah Coleman, Mr. Samuel A. Short, Jr., Donald Garey, and Mrs. Charles Hatfield; two years: Ernest Gleason, Cliff Miller, Rev. John Edward Jones, Miss Jennie Morris, Miss Gladys Hill, Mrs. E. Lelia Hopkins; three years: Mrs. James Moore, William Humes, Burton Satterfield, Mrs. Frank O'Neal, Jr., Mrs. James Neeman, Herman Ryan, and Miss Anna Lee Derrickson.

Officers elected are as follows: Samuel A. Short, Jr., president; the Rev. John Edward Jones, vice president; Mrs. James D. Moore, general fund treasurer; Mrs. Harriett O'Neal, recording secretary; Mrs. Bertha Belle Neeman, corresponding secretary.

MORE INJURIES

category of farm home accidents are falls, and that they can be prevented by correcting dangerous conditions — such as loose throw rugs at the top and bottom of stairways, slippery shower stall floors and make-shift ladders.

Tacking down stairway carpeting and repairing shaky stair rails, he adds, also will help reduce the accident toll.

Many falls, Dr. Worrilow says, are caused by littered stairways. Such litter should be cleared away and children instructed in the importance of keeping toys in areas where they will not be stepped on or tripped over.

The majority of burns and fires, the farm safety expert claims, can be prevented through a program of caution and care.

Dr. Worrilow advises that you turn the handles of cooking utensils to the back of the range, out of reach of children, and keep matches and cigarette lighters where they can't get at them.

Children aren't the only ones who get burned.

"Careless storage and handling of flammable fluids cause thousands of injuries and deaths each year," Dr. Worrilow says. "Such injuries can be prevented by storing flammable liquids in galvanized steel fuel cans that are equipped with vapor-sealing caps. Keep all fuel cans in the garage or tool shed — out of the house and out of the reach of small fry."

Many home fires are caused by overloaded electrical circuits and faulty wiring. Another cause of home fires is heating equipment that is in disrepair.

Poor housekeeping in the basement and attic also contributes to the mounting fire toll.

Your Police Record

Jones, a peaceful and respected young family man, took a taxi home one evening after working late. Once home, he tried to pay his $2 taxi fare with a $20 bill. Saving no change, the angry driver demanded that Jones go some blocks away with him to a store for change.

"All right," said Jones, "but I won't pay for the extra trip." The driver added the trip to Jones' bill anyhow, and Jones stood firm.

The driver made a "citizen's arrest" on the spot. He then called the police. Police fingerprinted, photographed and placed Jones' name on the arrest blotter, charging him with the minor crime of refusing to pay his fare. At trial the cab driver failed to appear, and the judge tossed the case out. In his turn Jones sued the driver and his cab company and won a small award for false imprisonment.

But Jones still had a grievance: Each time he seeks a job, puts in for a promotion or fills out some questionnaire, somebody asks: "Have you ever been arrested?" And Jones has to explain.

So Jones asked the police to take his name out of the department file and remove his record. When the police refused to do so, he sued. But the court held that the police could keep such records. An accused person's fingerprints and photographs are a proper way to identify him, and need not be returned to the accused, however innocent.

However, it may be unwise to seek to have records of an arrest destroyed. Employment and other similar questionnaires will always ask the question in such a way that the question must be answered "yes" even though the arrest records have subsequently been destroyed. The lack of records may create doubt as to how serious the encounter with the officials was. Full and accurate reporting, on the other hand, does give to the innocent person a basis for explaining the circumstances of the arrest, and the official record will verify the fact that no prosecution or conviction followed.—State Bar of Wisconsin.

Under the formula in the proposed code, any land along a road with more than 30 per cent commercial or residential use will be classified accordingly.

County planning director Robert W. O'Brien said Monday night that the proposed code would divide the county's land into three classifications: commercial, residential and agricultural.

Once land is zoned, he said, owners seeking changes in their classifications will have to turn to the zoning commission for approval.

O'Brien said that the zoning classifications will be largely based on the existing uses of land.

He recommended minimum lot sizes be changed from 6,500 square feet to 5,000 square feet where public sewers are available and from 12,500 to 10,000 square feet for on site systems.

Commission chairman Howard W. Papen said after the hearing Monday night that the proposed code should be ready for Levy Court action by mid-September. The zoning commission is expected to act on the code some time next week.

Under the Kent County home rule law, the Levy Court must hold a hearing on the ordinance before deciding whether to approve it.

Nehemiah Clendaniel, 76, died Monday at his home near Ellendale. His family said he suffered a heart attack.

A lifelong resident of Sussex County, Mr. Clendaniel was a retired farmer.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Minnie Clendaniel; three sisters, Mrs. Mary E. Truitt of Bridgeville, Mrs. Ida E. Sheppard of Milford and Mrs. Susie B. Smith of Ellendale.

Services were held yesterday afternoon at the J. Millard Cooper Funeral Home, 110 E. Center St., Harrington. Interment was in the Odd Fellows Cemetery, Milford.

Still Some Differences

It's getting hard to tell the men from the women, but here are some suggestions that might be helpful:

If it smiles when you address it as 'ma'am,' it is feminine. If it grunts and growls, it is masculine.

If it strikes a kitchen match on the seat of its trousers, it's a him. If it waits for you to light its cigarette, it's a her.

If it takes off its shoes at the movies, it's a woman. If it gets down on its hands and knees and starts looking for the shoes, it's a man.

Does it do its fair share of pushing while going through a revolving door? It's a gentleman for sure. Does it leap in front of you and grab the taxi you just flagged down? It's a lady—every time.

If it brags about the speaks it cooked in the backyard, it's a man. If it dimples when you praise the roast it cooks indoors, it's a woman.

If it wears a red ribbon in its hair, it's a lass. If it combs its hair down over its eyes—well, there you've got me.

If it says it has given you the best years of its life — "and for what, I ask you?" — it's a wife. If it asks for lunch money before going to work, it's a husband.

If two go to the supermarket the one that pushes the loaded cart is the mister. The missus is the one that holds up the line at the checkout counter as she fumbles through the wilderness of her purse.

If it likes to dine by candlelight because this is romantic, it's the mamma bear. If it grumbles, "I can't see what I'm eating," it's the papa bear.

If you open the door to it and

Arts Festival To Present Another Musical Event

The Milford Summer Arts Festival will present another outdoor musical event at 4 p.m. on Sun., July 28th on the grounds of the Parson Thorne Mansion on N. W. Front Street. "Junior Wilson and the Flat Mountain Boys" will play authentic Bluegrass music in a two hour concert.

Bluegrass is a style of folk music originated in the South and currently popular in the themes of "The Beverly Hillbillies" and "Bonnie and Clyde". It is named for Bill Monroe's group, "The Bluegrass Boys", who popularized this sound.

The Bluegrass sound differs from other folk music by using the five string banjo as the main lead instrument. The other instruments used are flat-tops (guitar), violin, mandolin, dobro guitar, and the acoustic bass—all non-electric.

Lester Platt, Earl Scruggs, and the Foggy Mountain Boys have brought Bluegrass music to New York's Carnegie Hall, the Avalon Ballroom in California, and college campuses throughout the country.

Junior Wilson of Milford, who plays the banjo in this quintet, is joined by Eddie Hoover, Hubert Leach, and Mike O'Rourke of Dover, and Red Britton from Pennsylvania.

The Parson Thorne Mansion, one of Milford's oldest buildings, is being restored by the Milford Historical Society. The audience will sit on the grass of the spacious lawn in front of the house. This program will be held in the air conditioned Milford Junior High School on Walnut and N. E. 10th Streets if it is raining at 4 p.m.

This event is open to the public without charge, and parents are encouraged to bring their children.

The Milford Summer Arts Festival will present free entertainment at 4 p.m. every Sunday during July and August. Don't miss the surprise film festival on July 28th and August 4th.

Mrs. Clifford Scruggs

Mrs. Louise A. Scruggs, 50, of Seaford, died Tuesday at her home after a long illness.

Mrs. Scruggs, a native of the Chestnut Grove, Md., area, was a registered nurse having graduated from Easton (Md.) Memorial Hospital. She had lived in Seaford for the past 15 years and was a member of Union Methodist Church, Federalsburg, Md.

She is survived by her husband, Clifford T. Scruggs; two daughters, Mrs. Nancy K. Slatcher of Laurel and Mrs. Janice L. Short, of Seaford; her mother, Mrs. Ruth Smith Collins, a guest at the Country Rest Home at Greenwood and a brother, Orville Smith of Harrington.

Services were held yesterday afternoon in the Williamson Funeral Home, Federalsburg. Interment was in Concord Cemetery near Federalsburg.

Delaware Farm Labor News

State Summary

Potato crews are arriving on schedule for most growers. Harvesting of this crop has begun and will increase very rapidly. Harvesting of cucumbers is the other major activity of seasonal labor at the present time. Pre-harvest activity of high school youth at the Laurel Auction Block is showing an increase over previous years. Recruitment of day haul workers for New Jersey growers in the Wilmington area was very active for the month of June. The supply and demand of seasonal labor is in reasonable balance at the present time and we are still receiving contacts from crew leaders seeking employment.

Wilmington Area

Only several potato crews had arrived in the area as of the end of last week; however more were scheduled in over the weekend. There was practically no potato harvest activity as of last week. Some growers are to get started this week. Approximately 70 Puerto Ricans are picking cucumbers. Sugar corn processing should start this week. This creates no labor problem as it is mechanically harvested. Field corn and soybean crops are looking very good.

Dover Area

The potato harvest got off to an early start last week even though the market was slow. Practically all potato crews should be here by the end of this week. Approximately 60-70 migrants are picking snap beans

U. of D. Receives Grant to Train Nurse Specialists

A $196,745 grant to prepare psychiatric-mental health nurse specialists has been awarded to the College of Nursing at the University of Delaware by the National Institute of Mental Health.

Dean Mary K. Carl said the grant covers a five-year period and will support the graduate study program leading to the master of science degree which was approved in June by the University's Board of Trustees. It is the first graduate program offered by the College of Nursing, the university's newest undergraduate college.

Associate Professor Marguerite Termini, a nationally recognized psychiatric nurse specialist, will be senior professor and coordinator of the new program.

Dean Carl said that U.S. Public Health Service Traineeships are available to qualified applicants who wish to enroll for the 1968-69 academic year. The traineeships include a yearly stipend and tuition.

The master of science program requires two years of clinical study beyond the baccalaureate degree. It will prepare the graduate to function as a psychiatric-mental health nurse therapist, as a teacher or as a supervisor of psychiatric-mental health nursing.

Requests for additional information should be directed to the College of Nursing at the University.

A PAID POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE KENT COUNTY DEMOCRATIC PARTY

Bridge Traffic Count Shows Increase

Delaware Memorial Bridge traffic in June, 1968, increased by 4.8 per cent over the same month a year earlier.

Bridge traffic this June was 1,515,241 vehicles compared to 1,445,828 for the same month a year earlier, according to General Manager Theodore C. Bright. The increase of 69,413 vehicles represents a rise of 4.8 per cent.

Revenues from Bridge tolls for June, 1968, were $916,618 compared with $879,379 in 1967, an increase of $37,239 or 4.2 per cent.

For the 12-month period ended June 30, 1968, vehicular traffic on the Bridge totaled 15,489,149 compared to 14,999,926 for the 12-month period ended June 30, 1967. This is an increase of 489,223 or 3.3 per cent.

Revenue from Bridge tolls for 12 months ended June 30, 1968 was $9,506,009 compared with $9,120,109 for the comparable previous 12-month period. The increase was $385,900 or 4.2 per cent.

Ferry Boats Increase Crossings

For the third time since the start of the 1968 summer schedule, the Cape May-Lewes Ferry is increasing the number of boats crossing Delaware Bay each day, announced General Manager Theodore C. Bright last Thursday afternoon.

Two extra round trips begun two weeks ago on just Saturdays and Sundays will now run seven days a week starting as of July 12 and will continue to operate until further notice. The new schedule calls for a bayliner to leave the Cape May terminal daily at 8 a.m. and return from the Lewes terminal at 9:30 a.m.

In addition a third ferry will be put into service on weekends starting July 13. The extra bayliner will leave the Cape May terminal at 10:15 a.m. and 1:15 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. It will make return trips from the Lewes terminal at 11:45 a.m. and 2:45 p.m.

The Delaware River and Bay Authority, operators of the Cape May-Lewes Ferry, will schedule additional crossings as traffic requires, said Bright in his announcement.

"Present indications are that traffic on the Cape May-Lewes Ferry will hit a new summer season high this year. The renovation of the bayliners as well as their improved dependability in adhering to the printed timetables have made them increasingly popular with the motoring public," explained Bright.

The new schedule calls for a minimum of ten crossings each way Monday through Friday and 12 round trips on weekends. Over 1,500 vehicles and 15,000 people can now be handled on peak days.

Daily departures from Cape May now are at 6:30, 8, 9:30, 10:15 (weekends), and 11 a.m. Also at 12:30, 1:15 (weekend), 2, 3:30, 5, 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. Daily departures from Lewes are at 8, 9:30, 11 and 11:45 (weekend) a.m. Also at 12:30, 2, 2:45 (weekends), 3:30, 5, 6:30, 8 and 11 p.m.

Agribusiness Important In Delaware

Delaware agribusiness is a multi-million dollar industry which constitutes an important part of the state's industrial and commercial economy, says Gerald F. Vaughn, extension coordinator of community and resource development at the University of Delaware.

In fact, agribusiness accounts for almost 23 per cent of Delaware's total output, excluding service industries, and comprises over 30 per cent of the state's wholesale and retail sales.

The roots of agribusiness in Delaware have been developing for several decades, says Vaughn. The general migration of people to cities and suburbs has increased their distance from production areas and necessitated increased emphasis on assembly, storage, transportation and other handling of farm products between the producer and the consumer.

Development of Delaware agribusiness has also been influenced by the introduction of vertical integration in which a single person or firm has control of several steps his products must take in the agribusiness process. For example the integrator may own a processing firm and, through contracts, work out a unified arrangement with farmers and retailers to carry production and marketing of a product from start to finish.

Urbanization has been a favorable influence on the existence and development of agribusiness, says Vaughn. And future development will intensify people's needs for the services of agribusiness.

At the same time, however, urbanization may also seriously impair Delaware's agribusiness capacity. Impairment may occur directly through the conversion of agricultural land to non-agricultural use and indirectly through higher agricultural land costs and higher property taxes. The vital open space that agricultural land provides may also be lost unless effective land use planning is implemented at state and local levels.

The potential for future growth and service by Delaware's agribusiness industry is increasing with the continued population growth of the state and nation. Demand for agricultural products has increased almost without interruption and is made even more effective by the rising population and purchasing power of newly developing nations.

Like other businesses, however, Delaware agribusiness faces a variety of emerging problems that will require added attention in the coming years. Increased efficiency in terms of higher yields and better quality farm products greater labor productivity and mechanization both on and off the farm; more effective off-farm promotion and advertising; and further streamlining of off-farm marketing channels will be essential to maintaining the competitive position of Delaware agribusiness.

Increased specialization in some enterprises and increased diversification of others both on and off the farm may also be of major importance in agribusiness development. For more information on Delaware agribusiness, write for the newly published bulletin "Agribusiness in Delaware's Economy." ### Animal Insemination Short Course at U. of D.

The University of Delaware's department of animal science and agricultural biochemistry and the American Breeders Service will hold an animal insemination short course August 19-23 on the University's Newark campus, according to extension dairyman W. R. Hesseltine.

The purpose of this course is to train people to breed cows artificially, says Hesseltine. Instructors will be American Breeders Service staff members. All classes will meet in Agricultural Hall and at the University Research Barn. Tuition for the week-long course, which will be limited to 15 students, is $100 plus personal living expenses. Completion of the course involves no obligation to purchase either equipment or semen.

We will also need cows for practice insemination, he adds. And we'll probably pay a few cents higher than beef price to get them. Approximately two and a half cows per student or a total of 37 cows will be needed for the course.

Prospective students and dairymen within 50 miles of Newark who wish to sell cows may contact Dr. W. R. Hesseltine, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark 19711 or call 738-2423 for further information.

Discover Wonderful Del.

Nestled on an 800-acre site in rural Sussex County may be found the Hospital for the Mentally Retarded—the only state institution in Delaware providing for residential care, treatment, and training for the retarded.

Founded in 1921, the Hospital for the Mentally Retarded currently has 600 residents, ages 3 to 80. Located at Stockley, east of Rt. 113, approximately eight miles south of Georgetown, this institution which started with only a few buildings has grown to become almost a city within itself.

On a drive around the grounds one can find an administration building, medical center, maintenance shop, central kitchen, disposal plant, educational and vocational building, swimming pool, rehabilitation center, laundry, residences, cemetery and recreation areas. Soon to be dedicated are six new cottages, a cafeteria, and the All-Faith Chapel—the latter a gift of the people of the State of Delaware through their voluntary donations.

The M. A. Tarumianz Medical Center — modern and well-equipped in every respect — can boast of having the first Cytogenetic Laboratory on the Delaware Peninsula. The Center also includes a pharmacy, morgue, laundry, dining hall, numerous diagnostic and evaluation rooms, a psychological suite, dental clinic, and shortly there will be an eye clinic, fitted with all the latest equipment.

Bright, cheerful rooms are the highlight of each of the four self-contained "units" (modern name for wards) in the Medical Center. Mobiles abound in the pediatric unit—to increase the interest of the children; to stimulate them to do more than just sit—and it works!

Built with the proceeds from the All-Star Football Game through the Delaware Foundation for Retarded Children, the All-Star Rehabilitation Center was dedicated in 1963. In this building is the auditorium which is in almost continual use for various activities. Here, too, are the Home Economics Center, Arts and Crafts rooms, and a large, modern shop. The articles produced in these rooms, which are not put directly to use at HMR, are displayed at the Delaware State Fair. The distaff residents may get that "vital-to-every woman" lift of having their hair done at the Center's Cosmetology Shop.

"Wonders never cease" may be a trite expression, but applied to HMR it is manifested in its truest sense. For here one finds wonders at every turn, in every room—the wonder of children singing "Billy Boy", children who once could not talk; the wonder of children who now feed and dress themselves, who are aware of themselves and their environment, whose vocabulary is enlarged and who can respond easily to simple commands—children who once did no more than just lie on the floor, depending on others to do for them.

The heart of HMR is the staff — both full-time and volunteer. Capable, tireless, enthusiastic, and dedicated are but a few of the adjectives which describe these workers, all of whom receive in-service training, funded by a federal grant. Adopted for both comfort and convenience, a uniform of blouse and culottes, to which the residents respond more readily, has replaced the traditional stiff white nurses' uniform. Members of the Youth Corps and many teenage volunteers are trained by and work in all the various departments.

Of great value to HMR is the

The Education Program has as its goals to include as many residents in education and training programs as possible according to benefits they can derive, and to take each child to the highest possible level he can attain according to his own capabilities.

The Hospital Improvement Program (HIP), operating under a federal grant, provides intensified education or 109 residents. Divided into 17 classes, these residents get individual help to aid in combating their deficiencies.

Veterans' News

Veterans who intend to enter school this fall should apply now for their Veterans Administration Certificate of Eligibility and avoid the rush, Leon Fields, manager of the Wilmington VA Regional Office advised this week.

Veterans already in training under the GI Bill who plan to change programs or schools this fall must obtain new Certificates of Eligibility from the VA.

The principal advantage to the veteran of heading advice to apply now is that he can be certain that his GI Bill education allowance will be dated from the day school begins. If he fails to apply for the certificate until after school has started there may be a delay in payment of his allowance, according to Mr. Fields.

To obtain a Certificate of Eligibility, a veteran planning to enter school or training for the first time under the GI Bill should get in touch with his nearest Veterans Administration Office.

A veteran who requires another certificate because of a change in program or school should contact the VA Regional Office which maintains his records on file.

A veteran who is not changing programs or schools need not obtain another Certificate.

Around Home

with Jean H. Cranston

For many people in our area going crabbing is a popular family sport.

Crabs are one of our popular shellfish because of their tender meat and distinctive flavor. The familiar Blue Crab weighs from 1/4 to 1 pound. At different seasons, this is the eastern "hard-shell crab" and the "soft-shell crab".

Hard shell crabs may be served in many ways, however, a "favorite" seems to be:

Chesapeake Bay Crab Cakes
1 pound blue crab meat
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or other fat, melted
1 egg, beaten
1/2 teaspoon powdered mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
dash pepper
dash cayenne pepper
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
Remove any shell or cartilage from crab meat. Cook onion in butter until tender. Combine all ingredients except crumbs. Shape into six cakes and roll in crumbs. Place cakes in a heavy frying pan which contains about 1/8-inch of fat, hot but not smoking. Fry at moderate heat. When cakes are brown on one side, turn carefully and brown the other side. Cooking time approximately 5 to 8 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper. Serves 6.

Mike Davis Is Runnerup In Wilmington Sprints

Olin "Mike" Davis was nipped at the tape in the finals of two sprints at Wilmington's Baynard Stadium last Thursday night. Davis is probably better at the middle distance, 440 and 880, but these events are usually not contested in the 12 and 13-year-old age division, so the blonde flyer entered the 50 and 220 yard dashes.

He surprised himself by clocking 6.5 seconds in a heat of the 50 yard dash, then lowered this to 6.3 seconds in narrowly losing the final. Harrington had two of the six finalists, as Tommy Clarke also qualified by finishing second in a trial heat. Davis was runnerup by one-tenth of a second in the 220. He probably would have been the winner but, "the luck of the draw", gave him the worst lane, the inside one. This lane is chewed up from the heavy traffic and also contains excess cinders piled up against the inner rail.

Defying astronomical odds, local runners drew this lane in the next two events. Tony Smith and Danny Porter, ages 11, followed this rough inside lane for 440 yards. Each clocked an excellent 75 seconds to narrowly miss getting in the award circle. With good lanes one of these would have won a plaque and possibly both could have done so.

Smith had earlier captured an award by finishing second in the 10-11 50 yard dash in 7.1, after winning a heat in the same time. The inexperienced Harringtonian gets a bad start but has good speed which brings him back in contention. In the Junior Champ meet held in Wilmington last month, Smith captured both the 100 and 220 in his age group.

Harrington runners are reaping a large harvest of medals, plaques, etc. from these Wilmington outings and are gaining valuable competitive experience. But there is another benefit which they greatly enjoy. This is the fact that these meets feature many events for girls. There are many attractive young ladies around, but no less than six of the local athletes have flipped for the same one.

Andrea Pollari, a Finnish-Italian sprint star, has won their collective hearts completely, at least for the time being. This winsome, sun-tanned, long-haired blonde wins most of her races and can beat most of this sex-set in the 50 yard dash. The boys, aged 13, 14 and 15, have formed the Harrington Chapter of the Andrea Pollari Fan Club and vociferously cheer the slightly embarrassed object of their affections, whenever she is competing. Thursday night four of them persuaded her to autograph their track shoes. This is akin to a knight of old going into battle or a joust wearing the scarf of his lady love. Ironically, the little lady is left-handed and so were three of the four autograph-seekers.

Andrea's father, O. Wayne Pollari is a former legislator at Dover and once coached football at Mt. Pleasant High, Wilmington.

Delaware Park Raceway News

The next three Saturdays at Delaware Park will find fillies and mares with the spotlight all to themselves.

It starts this coming weekend (July 20) with the 14th running of the $30,000 added New Castle Stakes, a test of a mile and a sixteenth for the 3-year-olds and upward division. The following Saturday brings the 30th Delaware Oaks, a $50,000 added, mile and one-eighth special restricted to 3-year-old fillies. Then comes the "big one" for the distaff stars age three and upward — the $100,000 added, mile and a quarter Delaware Handicap's 31st running on August 3.

The New Castle always serves as a major forerunner to the richer and longer Delaware Handicap classic, while the Oaks offers the younger fillies an opportunity to show whether they merit a starting chance against the older members of their sex, one week later.

Since a filly or mare older than three is not eligible for the Oaks, only a 3-year-old has a possible chance to make a sweep of the three stakes—a feat which never has been accomplished and which is considered a virtually insurmountable task within the space of three weeks.

However, the distinction of winning both the New Castle and the Delaware Handicap has been earned four times. The last one to turn the trick the same year was the "gray ghost," Open Fire, in 1966. Before that, those scoring such a "double" were Airmans Guide, 1961; Quill, 1960, and Princess Turia, 1957. All of them were national champions of their year.

Sixty-one horses were nominated May 15 for both the New Castle and the Delaware 'Cap at a single fee. By the time these events come up for decision, many will have dropped out of the picture through the process of elimination, but plenty remain to battle it out for the gold and glory.

Among the top eligibles are Politely, Straight Deal, Treacherous, Miss Spin, Just Kidding, Plucky Pan, Lady Diplomat, Lewiston, Muse, Amerigo Lady, Prides Profile, Serene Queen, Quillo Queen and, of course, the 3-year-old sensation Dark Mirage. The last-named, however, is expected to make her next start in the Delaware Oaks.

Chase Nets Alleged Abductor

A 21-year-old Camden man abducted a girl from her Felton home and led police on a 10-mile high-speed chase to Dover Wednesday night, state police report.

Police say they finally stopped the car, driven by William Wigggett of near Camden by shooting out the tires on U.S. 13 at Woodside, about a mile from Dover.

Police are withholding the girl's name and age, but said she was taken from her home at knife-point by Wigggett, who was first spotted by a state police car north of Felton on U.S. 13 near Canterbury.

Police signaled Wigggett to stop, they said, but he sped away, leading them on a chase that hit speeds of 100 mph. before he was stopped at Woodside. The girl was not injured.

Wigggett forced several cars off the road, among them the Camden-Wyoming police car, police said.

He was arrested on numerous charges and taken to Magistrate Court 7 in Dover.
