

City Eyes Extension of Water Mains to Three Firms

The City Council Monday night instigated plans for extension of water mains to three firms on the northbound lane of U.S. 13.

The enterprises were Callis-Thompson, Inc., Ace Dress Company, Inc., and New Era Shirt Company. The garment factories are interested because of sprinkling systems. Mrs. Carl Pearson, manager of the dress company, attended Monday night's meeting. New Era is especially interested because it dedicated a warehouse of 30,000 square feet, adjacent to its cutting room, both on the highway.

Mayor Fulton J. Downing appointed a committee of City Manager Kathryn Derrickson, Dale Phillippi, superintendent of public works, and Dudley Willis, of Edward H. Richardson Associates, the city's consulting engineers, to do the following: 1. Get prices on extending the water mains to the three firms. 2. Look into the cost of standby use of water, such as that in sprinkling systems. 3. Get in touch with the three firms to see if they would pay entire cost.

The three firms are in an area in which voters recently voted for annexation. The territory will not be incorporated into the city, however, until the City accepts the results of the referendum. Just when this action takes place will depend on the decision of the city attorney since Nelson Rash, a resident in the area up for annexation, said some voting was illegal and he would oppose it in court.

The City, however, said if the annexation is accepted, the three firms would be reimbursed for construction costs of water mains.

In other business, the Council acted as follows: Deemed the improvement of the intersection of Center Street extended and Dixon Street expendable, thus reducing the cost of improving Center Street extended from some $10,700 to around $7500. The later figure will be reduced also to around $5000 when the property owner pays half of the curb cost of $6 per lineal foot.

That sidewalk be marked off in front of the J. & D Body Shop on Fleming Street.

Considered sidewalks for western side of West Street from Misspillon Street to Center Street. This was believed necessary because of children walking between West Harrington Elementary School, on West Street, and Harrington School on Dorman Street. Since West Street is a state-maintained road, the City will check with the State Highway Department. There is a possibility, however, special legislation will be required. This has been done in New Castle County near schools.

Gordon Dale, Sixth Ward councilman, said storm drains stank near Commerce Street and Reese Avenue. Dale Phillippi, SPW, said he had worked on the drains. He was advised to put lime in them. Phillippi was also requested to check drainage near the Peoples Service Station.

Telephone Co. Makes Addition To Felton Office

A $34,000 addition to Diamond State Telephone Company's dial equipment is now under way in the Felton Central Office which will make 205 more lines available to new customers and also provide additional switching facilities for speeding calls through the office, reports Charles Rambo, the company's local wire chief.

Work is expected to be completed by the end of October. "During 1968-1969, the telephone company plans to spend $163,000 for outside plant expenditures such as cable lines in the Felton area," he said.

This type of expansion is required to keep pace with communications requirements in the growing Felton area, Rambo added. The Felton Central Office now serves 1,600 telephones, compared with 750 telephones ten years ago.

The Harrington Lumber & Supply Company was broken into Thursday evening, Sept. 19, and $4 in change and a small radio were taken.

The same evening $22.50 was stolen from Ace Manufacturing Company on U. S. 13.

Memorial Service For Miss Markert

A private memorial service was held Wednesday morning at the Rogers Funeral Home, Milford, for Miss Irene Markert, 59, of Newark.

She drowned last Friday in the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal. The body of Miss Markert, a former school teacher, was found Sunday by firemen. Police said the woman leaped into the canal from Summit Bridge Friday. They said she was despondent because of a long illness.

She is survived by her mother, Mrs. L. G. Markert, of Milford; a sister, Mrs. Byron Gibson, also of Milford; a sister, Dorothy Markert, with whom she lived, in Newark, and a brother, L. George Markert, of Coinjock, N. C.

The Markert children attended Harrington schools and the family resided at 1 E. Center St.

Benjamin Hughes, Jr., was appointed director of The First National Bank of Harrington Wednesday. He fills the unexpired term of Theodore Harrington who has resigned.

ASC Committee Election Convention Set

The county convention where farmer-chosen delegates will elect farmers to fill vacancies on the Kent County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee will be held on Wednesday, October 2, at 1 p.m., at the Kent County ASCS Office, according to J. Heyman Roosa, chairman, ASC County Committee.

The convention will be open to the public, and any person interested in observing the voting procedure may attend. However, only farmer-delegates to the convention may participate in the election process. Election is by secret ballot.

County committeemen are elected for 3-year staggered terms and the service of each county committeeman is limited.

The guest speaker and installing officer will be Mrs. Ruth Moss Easterling of Charlotte, N. C.

3 Businesses Burglarized

Three local business firms were burglarized last week. The meager loot could have been larger but for the vigilance of an employee at one place.

John Galli, manager of the New Era Shirt Company's stitching plant, on Clark Street, who lives in a nearby trailer, saw a light in the plant shortly after 10:30 p.m., last Friday night. He called police when he saw someone in the plant, but the culprit had escaped when they arrived.

The burglar, who had gained entry by breaking a rear window, took change from a soft drink machine and a cookie vending machine. A possible stock loss awaits a check.

The same evening $22.50 was stolen from Ace Manufacturing Company on U. S. 13.

The Harrington Lumber & Supply Company was broken into Thursday evening, Sept. 19, and $4 in change and a small radio were taken.

Exacta Pays $1,222 at Harrington Track

Longshots Prudy's Last and Dailey Pick teamed for a whopping $1,222.60 fifth-race exacta payoff Thursday night, Sept. 19, at Harrington Raceway.

Five ticket-holders in the crowd of 2,008 had the winning 7-4 combination.

Prudy's Last, 4-year-old black mare owned by Lee Daniels Jr., of Clayton, left the No. 7 post as a decided 31-1 underdog in scoring her second win in eight season starts. Harold Stayton reined the Lanny Hanover product to a 2:10.3 new time lifetime mark, clipping nearly three full seconds off the old standard. She returned $62.90, $16.80 and $4.10.

Paul Myer, the top dash-win driver here, was in the sulky behind Dailey Pick, a 7-year-old gelding owned by the Triple Crown Stables of Darby, Pa. She paid $14.60 and $4.

The exacta was the second largest in the track's history, surpassed only by the $1,446.40 paid Sept. 26, 1967.

An additional exacta race was introduced Tuesday night.

Approval for the supplementary event was granted Monday by the Delaware Harness Racing Commission.

Exacta wagering will now be offered on the fourth, sixth and ninth races week nights, and on the fourth, sixth, eighth and tenth events on Friday and Saturday.

GOVERNOR CUTS RIBBON AT NEW ERA'S WAREHOUSE

The New Era Shirt Company's warehouse was dedicated Thursday morning, Sept. 19, when Gov. Charles L. Terry cut the ribbon. The metal structure, encompassing 30,000 square feet, is adjacent to the company's cutting room on the northbound lane of U.S. 13.

Previously, the governor's party and other dignitaries had inspected the firm's warehouse, the size of a football field, is Milton Bland. The New Era Company's op-

Del. Women at International Conference

Four Delaware members of the Home Economics Extension clubs were delegates to the international meeting of the Associated Country Women of the World (ACWW). The 12th triennial conference was held recently at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Mrs. Wilmer Aist, Newark; Mrs. Helen Lynn, Milford; Mrs. William Money, Laurel, and Mrs. Earl White, Bridgeville, were the Delaware delegates. Nearly 2000 women at the meeting represented more than six million rural women from 200 societies in 50 countries.

Dedicated to improving living conditions throughout the world, the ACWW is a non-governmental organization which works closely with various agencies of the United Nations. It is especially active in developing countries.

Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, told delegates that there was enough food to feed all the people of the world today. "The problem lies in finding a way to communicate with each other," he praised the conference as a step in improving communications between nations.

Dr. Robert B. McGamby, Harvard School of Public Health, cited both undernutrition and over-nutrition as the two major food problems in the world. Protein calorie deficiency is the greatest single factor in infant malnutrition and mortality in underdeveloped countries, he said.

McGamby pointed out that over-nutrition in the more prosperous nations is a factor in strokes and heart attacks. He believes it causes a higher death rate for older people.

Member organizations of the ACWW in the U. S. are the National Extension Homemakers Council, the American Farm Bureau Federation Women's Committee, National Master Farm Homemakers Guild and the Women's National Farm and Garden Association, Inc.

Richard E. Fowler, 32, assumed the position of extension livestock specialist, effective September 15. Fowler, a native of Reading, Pa., received his undergraduate degree from Pennsylvania State University and earned his graduate degree at the University of Maryland.

Before coming to Delaware, Fowler served with the Pennsylvania Cooperative Extension Service and the University of Maryland. In his new position, Fowler will be responsible for teaching and research activities and will serve as extension specialist in beef, sheep and swine.

The University of Delaware Mathematics Department will present a series of six mathematics colloquia through the fall semester.

The first colloquium will be held Sept. 27, when the speaker will be Prof. Albert Wilansky, of Lehigh University, who will discuss, "Some Applications of Functional Analysis in Classical Analysis." All colloquia will be at 2:10 p.m. in Room 100, Sharp Laboratory, on the campus.

Other speakers in the series are Prof. Harvey S. Davis of Michigan State University, who will speak on Oct. 11; Prof. George Piranian, University of Michigan, Oct. 25; Prof. Joanne Elliott, Rutgers University, Nov. 8; Prof. A. Weinstein, Georgetown University, Nov. 22, and Prof. Russell Remage, Jr., chairman of the Mathematics Department at the University, Dec. 5.

Work Begins on Improvement Of Sanitary-Sewer System

Work began last week on the improvement and extension of Harrington's sanitary-sewer system.

In those phase of the operations, Teal Construction Company, of Dover, has started work on South Street (or Peck Avenue), Reed Street, and Harrington Street.

Dudley Willis, of Edward H. Richardson Associates, the City's consulting engineers, said the construction company was making unusually good time in trenching because of the deep water level caused by the drought. He believed there was a possibility the work could be completed in three months.

In the other phase of the work, that of building a sewage disposal plant with polishing ponds, Kuhn Construction Company, of Hockessin, has cleared the clearing for the ponds.

In connection with both projects, Dale Phillippi, superintendent of public works, was appointed inspector Monday night by the Council at a raise from $95 per week to $125 per week. Phillippi will continue to perform his normal duties. Mayor Fulton J. Downing said the appointment was made with the prospect of naming Phillippi to operator of the new sewage-disposal plant.

SAMUEL A. SHORT, JR. FETED AT TESTIMONIAL DINNER

A willing worker, a faithful servant of the public, a booster of the community summed up the kudos given Samuel A. Short, Jr., Wednesday night at a testimonial dinner in Collins Hall of Asbury United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Olin P. Shockley, former pastor, said: "He is one of the persons who could be counted on."

W. Cliff Miller commented: "I saw him in a play at the schoolhouse when I came here in 1946. Always was a handy man to have around on anything you put him on."

Joseph Madenspacher, president of the Chamber of Commerce, described Short's activities in that club.

The Rev. John Edward Jones, church pastor, praised Short's activities as head usher.

Mayor Fulton J. Downing read a letter from Rep. George Robert Quillen offering his congratulations.

Howard Wagner, Sunday School superintendent, said Short had not missed attending Sunday School in 38 years.

The Harrington grocer, songwriter, and poet retired recently but continues active in community affairs. At Wednesday's dinner, sponsored by the Methodist Men and Harrington Jaycees, Mrs. Jack Dill presented a guest book with signatures of persons attending the dinner.

Edgar Welch, president of Methodist Men, and Robert Taylor, standing in for Jack Wyatt, Jaycee president, presented Short with a television set.

Flowers were presented by the Harrington Chamber of Commerce and Mrs. Charles Peck and Mrs. Virginia Willey.

Mayor Fulton J. Downing was master of ceremonies; the invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. Jones.

David Jones, Jaycees and dinner cochairman, showed slides of Short's life.

Dinner was served by the Women's Society of Christian Service.

Clendennings Celebrate 35th Wedding Anniv.

On Saturday, September 21, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Clendening celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary beginning with the Order of Holy Communion at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. The Rev. Joseph S. Hinks and the Rev. Quay D. Rice officiated at this solemn service.

A reception followed at St. Bernadette's Parish Hall where some 175 guests were present to wish Mr. and Mrs. Clendening joy and happiness on this glorious occasion.

Members of the immediate family included Mrs. Nancy Bartow, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Subashi and children, Edward, Timothy and Andrea, and Miss Faye Austin. Included among other relatives and friends were the Rt. Rev. and Mrs. J. Brooke Mosley, Canon and Mrs. Victor Kusik, Mayor and Mrs. Fulton J. Downing, and Representative G. Robert Quillen.

Kent Action Gets Week OEO Cutoff

The U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity Monday ordered the operations of the Kent County Community Action Agency suspended for one week because of alleged unauthorized use of $25,000 in federal funds.

Delaware OEO Coordinator Daniel J. McKenney said Monday that the one-week suspension was ordered to permit federal auditors to check through the agency's books.

McKenney said the funds allegedly were taken from Head Start money for improvements to four buildings donated to the agency by International Latex Corp. Under federal regulations, he said, Head Start funds cannot be used for the improvements.

The suspension order requires a one-week cutoff of the agency's payroll, McKenney said.

The order comes a week after the agency's director, the Rev. Paul Settles, submitted his resignation to the agency's board of directors to take a job as a minister in Seaford.

The agency has five other employees.

At an Aug. 15 meeting, the board asked for Mr. Settles' resignation. Since then, however, the board has refused to consider its action binding because Mr. Settles was not properly notified of its action.

The board is in the process of finding a new director.

The chairman of the board, the Rev. Quay D. Rice Sr., Monday declined comment on the suspension.

Neither Mr. Settles nor the OEO's district supervisor, Richard E. Bowman, was available for comment.

Democrats To Hold Barbecue Monday

Democratic candidates will be at Farmington Fire House Monday evening where there will be a free barbecue at 7 p.m., rain or shine.

New Name Asked For Levy Court

George M. Records, who wants to be elected to Kent County Levy Court, would rather not serve on it—at least under that name.

Records said Monday morning that "as the very first thing if I'm elected," he would propose that Levy Court's title be changed to county commission or county council.

The name, he said, is at the root of what he sees as Levy Court's greatest problem: A difficulty in communications. "People think this is a judiciary type court," he said.

Records said he took a street poll and "75 per cent of the people have no idea what Levy Court is."

Records, a real estate man and former teacher, is the Democratic candidate for the at-large Levy Court seat. He is running county-wide against incumbent Isaac Thomas.

Although communications have been poor, he said, Records would eliminate the job of the court's public relations coordinator, whom he said gets $4,800 a year for working one day a week.

Records also, in an effort to cut the county budget, would eliminate the county personnel director's position "There's no need for a personnel director for 50 employees," he said in a press conference Monday morning.

"He's hiring and firing a minimum amount of people—maybe three or four a year," Records said that because the present Levy Court does not communicate, the people of the county do not understand planning and zoning regulations and "are scared to death" that the planned sewer system will cost them tax dollars.

He said information should be simplified and made readily available through the press and radio.

FENCE TALK

with George K. Vapaa

Save it or toss it? We all have this decision to make many times a day. If we are not certain, we tend to save, rather than throw away something "we may need".

Several weeks ago Dr. Samuel Gwinn, our Extension Service Director, offered more storage cabinets for our office. We were taking on a clutter from piles of bulletins, records and such.

Now in 16 years of county agent work the last unresolvable job has been to develop a good filing system. We have worked at it for years. The secret would seem to be to keep the stuff moving. Or if it must be dead filed, at least to keep that part separate.

Last Friday was moving day. Anything outmoded was taken out - a large wooden desk, a chair, an addressograph that had proved to be a dud, an old copier. Our working files are now centralized in the outer office. The subject matter reference files are in the agents' offices.

We put all of the storage items in one room. This gave us space in the secretaries' office for the file cabinets. You never saw the like of the charts, demonstration items, display materials and just plain junk. The longer you keep something, the easier is the decision to save or get rid of it.

We rescued a clothes closet for its original purpose. Someone had installed a storage rack in it years past. I phoned Russell Wilson, who was county agent about 30 years ago to ask how he ever got it in there. But he pleaded innocent, and of course we can't ask the man who followed him, Bill Tarbell. Anyway, Mrs. Marion MacDonald and I had to take it apart to move it out.

Mrs. Betty Rollison, one of our secretaries, said at the end of the day: "We did more moving today than seemed possible. There did not seem to be a place to put everything". We think that by this weekend everything will be done in an orderly fashion. Why don't you stop in and see us?

Farmers who diverted acreage under the 1968 annual feed grain program will be able to graze this acreage without losing program benefits, says J. Heyman Roosa, chairman, Kent County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. The starting date for such grazing is October 1, marking the end of the period during which the no-grazing provision was in effect. This provision does not apply to acreage diverted under long-term land utilization programs such as the Conservation Reserve and the Cropland Adjustment program.

Kent County farms participating in the 1968 commodity diversion program number about 390.

The corn variety demonstration on the John F. Tarburton farm has matured. We suggest that farmers may wish to visit it about two miles east of Dover on the North Little Creek Road. The plot is well marked with a large sign at the west end of the six acre plot. Each of the 44 different varieties is labelled on each of the four tiers.

We will not be happy with the yields because of the season. The ears look better on the edges of the plot where more sunlight and soil moisture were available. The 28 inch wide rows with a higher plant population do not look as good as the corn in 38 inch rows. This is understandable with the dry weather we have had in July and August.

Six of the last seven years have been "unusually" dry. So much so that we propose to try extra irrigation to insure a good crop. For water is our greatest limitation in crop production. It will take at least 50 extra bushels to pay for irrigation, but we think a 25 bushel bonus or 175 bushel per acre total yield is practical.

MONDAY— 12 noon Coffee hour. 4 - 6 p.m. Farewell tea and reception for Bishop and Mrs. Mosley.

TUESDAY— 7:30 p.m. Vestry meeting.

WEDNESDAY— 7:30 p.m. Healing service. 8:30 p.m. Choir rehearsal.

This Sunday is the day of the farewell tea and reception for Bishop and Mrs. Mosley, at the Cathedral Church of St. John in Wilmington. Those who are going are asked to let the vicar know so that those without rides will be taken care of. Surely everyone who is able bodied will be anxious to say "thanks" in this manner to those who have always been so gracious in every way.

The Broom St. Division of Ingleside, our diocesan home for the aging, is holding its bazaar on Sat., Oct. 5, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Hand craft items which were made in the handcraft program of Ingleside as well as baked goods, pantry shelf, and white elephant items will be on sale. There will be drawings for Handcraft prizes during the bazaar. The vicar urges members of St. Stephen's to go and become familiar with this splendid facility of our diocese and in addition, to offer encouragement to its patients.

The address is 1010 North Broom St. in Wilmington.

Sunday visitors at the home of the Jacob Hatfields were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hatfield of Felton and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carter, of Wilmington.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Keith Carlisle who welcomed a son on Sept. 9, in Nanticoke Memorial Hospital. He weighed six pounds, five ounces and has been named Russell Keith.

Greenwood Kiwanis Club

Last Thursday evening, 20 Kiwanians and 10 Kiwanians joined in greeting six of the new teachers in the Greenwood School of the Woodbridge District. After enjoying a most satisfying dinner, served by the ladies of the Tressler Mennonite Church, Mrs. Mildred Benner, chairman, President John Turner introduced Louis Mills, program chairman for the evening, who, in turn, introduced a former member of the Greenwood Club and presently principal of the Greenwood School, Charles Davis.

Mr. Davis introduced his new teachers as follows: Mrs. Ellen Sirman and Mr. Sirman. Mr. and Mrs. Sirman live in Seaford and she is acting principal of the Greenwood Elementary School; Mrs. Joseph Williamson and Mr. Williamson. Mrs. Williamson teaches the third grade; Mrs. Henry Pineau and Mr. Pineau, presently living in Seaford; Mrs. Pineau teaches French. Miss Barbara Daisey from Claymont, who teaches 8th and 9th grade English and is in charge of dramatics. Peter MacLeod, social studies, and Arthur Cahall, 5th and 6th grades. Each teacher was given time to tell about where they were living, where they were from, their schooling, and the subject they were teaching here in Greenwood.

Mr. Davis followed with a short talk on the many problems facing the school district.

The ladies attending were Pearl Mills, Villa Ocheltree, Minnie Meredith, Nadine Fleischer, Ruth Ann Lloyd, Virginia Thompson, Esther Lyons, Mary Cahall, Mary Esther Mills and Florence Willey.

Winfield Scott was a visitor from the Seaford Club.

Veterans' News

Children of deceased servicemen may be eligible for Veterans Administration pensions even though their mothers are not.

This reminder was made by Leon Fields, manager of the Wilmington VA Regional Office. "First, the unmarried widow may be ineligible because income exceeds limits set by law.

"Second, when a widow receiving a pension for herself and her children remarries, she loses her personal eligibility for a pension based on her veteran husband's death."

Minor children, however, may continue to receive pension payments in either case, even though they live with their mother, Mr. Fields said. Their personal eligibility is limited only by their personal incomes.

If a child's income is greater than $1,800 per year, no pension will be paid, but the child's own earnings are not counted.

Mr. Fields stressed that a widow's personal ineligibility should not prevent her making application to any Veterans Administration Office.

"Unless an application is made, we have no way of knowing about children who might be eligible," he said.

Pensions may be paid to certain survivors of veterans of all wars, including the Korean Conflict and the Vietnam Era, who die of causes not related to their service. Eligibility and the amount of pension are determined by the survivor's income.

Compensation, on the other hand, is paid to the survivors of veterans who die of service-connected causes, and income of the survivor has no bearing on eligibility or amount paid. Remarriage of the widow receiving compensation makes her ineligible, but as in the case of pensions, the mother's remarriage does not affect the eligibility of her children.

Full details are available at any VA Office, Mr. Fields said. All applications should be accompanied by full identifying information on the veteran including, if possible, a VA Claim Number or Insurance Number.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

STAYING YOUNG

I can't imagine how the time
 Has slipped away so fast
 It seems it was just yesterday
 But almost a year has passed.

How often have we heard this said
 (And sometimes with a sigh)
 By friends and workers everywhere
 As years go slipping by.

If this is how it seems to you
 Be thankful for your lot;
 You're one of many fortunates
 Experience has taught.

For only really busy people
 Don't find time to count
 The days or months or year gone by
 As birthdays start to mount.

Of course as we grow older
 We are forced to change our ways
 But this should never mean;
 We can't have just as busy days.

Mother to 5-year-old son: "Johnny, it wasn't nice of you to ask the lady how old she was. It made her very angry."
 "Why did it, mamma?", asked Johnny, "she asked me first and I didn't get mad."

Sixteen Years Ago

ited to 3 consecutive terms. The present term of Russell C. Bowdle, of Harrington, expires on October 31, 1968. He is eligible to be nominated and elected again. He or the person elected will serve with J. Heyman Roosa, Milford, Community G, and E. T. Horsey, Smyrna, Community B. The convention will also elect a first and a second alternate committeeman, each for a 1-year term. After the county committeemen are elected, the delegates vote again to determine which of the regular committeemen will serve as chairman and vice chairman for the coming year. These positions are redetermined annually.

The delegates to the county convention and the communities they represent are:

Community A: Charles B. Ross, Alfred M. Moor, Jr., and Donald E. Dulin.

Community B: Clarence T. Scuse, Jr., Joseph P. Moore, and George E. Wilson, Jr.

Community C: John E. Gunter, Carlton A. Carter, and Steve Szelestel, Jr.

Community D: Archie Dill, Jack Webb and Paul W. Carter.

Community E: Samuel Webb, J. Derrickson Biggs, and James S. Metz.

Community F: Chalmers Hendricks, W. A. Stafford, and Harry A. Webb.

Community G: Robert H. Dean, Roland B. Starkey and Charles W. Cain.

ASC county and community committeemen are in charge of the local administration of such farm-action programs as the Agricultural Conservation Program, the Cropland Adjustment Program, the feed grain program, the wheat program, acreage allotments and marketing quotas, the national wool program, commodity price-support loans and storage facility loans. Funds disbursed in the county under the committee's supervision last year amounted to over $100,000 for ACP cost-sharing assistance—representing about half the practice cost—was responsible for a total conservation investment of about $250,000 to $300,000 on local farms. Mr. Roosa urged all ASC farmer-delegates to be sure to attend the county convention. These farmers were automatically chosen as convention delegates when they were elected recently by their farmer-neighbors to serve as ASC community committeemen for the coming year.

7 Youngsters To Represent Del. at Exposition

Seven Delaware youngsters will represent state 4-H clubs and the Delaware Association of Future Farmers of America in youth competition at the 31st annual exposition of the Northeastern Poultry Council in Harrisburg, Pa., early next month.

In 4-H competition, 14-year-old Sharon Feut, Middletown, will make a poultry foods presentation. Miss Feut, who has completed five years of 4-H work, has earned state and county awards in food and food judging and is a member of the Delaware 4-H poultry and egg judging team competing at the exposition.

Other team members are 17-year-old Margaret Thomas, Marydel, and Lee Mesibov, 17, Houston. Miss Thomas has been active in 4-H work for seven years. She has won county awards in poultry, state Reddy Foods awards in poultry preparation and has participated in the Junior Broiler program. Mesibov has carried poultry projects each of four years in 4-H, has won county demonstration awards in poultry and is competing for a county poultry medal this year.

Ray Lloyd, extension poultryman at the University of Delaware, will accompany the 4-H group to the three-day conference. The Middletown FFA poultry and egg judging team will represent Delaware in FFA competition. Team members include Larry Pleasanton, 15; Ron Sawyer, 15; and Joe Jones, 17, all of Middletown. Pleasanton is a second year FFA member, has participated in the Junior Broiler contest and is treasurer of the Middletown chapter. Sawyer is also a second year member. Jones is a four year FFA member, has participated in three Junior Broiler contests and raises poultry at his farm home. Vocational agriculture instructor Thomas Currey is the team coach.

 Seventeen-year-old John Brown, a student at Harrington High School, will represent Delaware in competition for the title of Star Poultry Farmer of the Northeast. Brown earned the right to compete for the title through his outstanding poultry production record and by winning the state proficiency award in poultry.

Also featured at the NEPPCO conference and exposition are educational sessions, special events and commercial displays of advanced developments in poultry production and management. More than 5,000 people from the 14-state northeastern area are expected to visit the event in the Farm Show Building at Harrisburg.

Discover Wonderful Del.

Wilmington's Old Town Hall reopened this week, Sept. 23. Described as "the most beautiful public building of the Federal period," the Old Town Hall has been completely restored, inside and out, by the Historical Society of Delaware. The location, on Market Street just below Sixth Street, makes it by far the most accessible of Wilmington's historic buildings, and it is now ready for rediscovery as one of the outstanding wonders of Wonderful Delaware.

The building has a long history. It was built in 1798, and the elegance and austerity of its Federal lines could be said to be typical of the gay French emigres and solid Quaker millers who made up Wilmington's society in those days. For a long time—until the middle of the 19th century—the Town Hall was the center of community life in Wilmington, and therefore in the State. Every President from Adams to Buchanan was entertained in its beautiful halls. Here the people of Wilmington gathered for every sort of public entertainment—concerts, plays, political gatherings. Lafayette spoke here in 1824; the body of Henry Clay lay in state here in 1852. The city council met here, court sat here, and the practical Quakers, wasting no space, used the basement as the town jail. The city government used the building until 1912, and in 1928, when it was scheduled to be torn down, the Historical Society acquired it and has used it as museum and headquarters since then.

The restoration, preceded by a tremendous amount of research, has given Wilmington an outstanding museum of its history, and of the history of Delaware. The entire building is now air-conditioned and heated by electricity to preserve its precious contents. Woodwork and walls have been repainted in their original colors, and even the fireplace hearths have been redone in the original kind of brick.

The museum's first floor, which was the courtroom, is lighted from its display cases in a manner so subtle and original that museum directors from other parts of the country, and even from the Smithsonian, have been inquiring about the "Historical Society of Delaware cases."

Visitors will be greeted here by a larger-than-life statue of George Washington, made in about 1792 to replace a statue of George III that stood in Bowling Green in New York City. Upstairs, the lovely long room which served as the council chamber now contains the Historical Society's collection of old furniture made in Delaware or used by famous Delawareans. The room is now lighted by three silver chandeliers, two made in 1750, one in 1805. The mayor's and clerk's offices have been redone, one as a children's museum to contain the famous doll house (also all restored), and one for temporary exhibits—at present paintings connected with Delaware's history.

In the basement is a room once used by the Delaware Historical Society, and it is planned to duplicate some of the early electrical experiments.

The prison cells have been restored, without losing much of their horrid gloom, and have typical cots, straw on the floor, manacles, and chairs.

The Old Town Hall can be visited on Mondays from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m., and from Tuesday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. For the time being, it will be closed on Saturdays and Sundays.

Peach Blossom 4-H Club News

By Rita Messick

The September meeting of the club was held on the 18th in the conference room at the Farmington Fire Hall. Welcomed as new members were the following: Susan, Emily, Maria, Alison, Elizabeth, and Deborah Lambert, Karen Jerread, Marilyn Harcum, Barbara Moulton, Wanda Venable, Pat Rust, Mark Calvert and Donald Hopkins.

Robin Hill led the pledges and devotions. Mike Baker reported on our part in the church service at the Church of the Brethren on August 18. About 50 members and parents attended. We will conduct services at Salem Methodist Church on October 20.

Plans were made for window display in Andrew's Store in Farmington before October 5.

On October 12 we will take part in the National 4-H week parade in Milford.

Campers told of their good times at Camp Barnes. Officers for the coming year were elected and will be installed at the October meeting.

Refreshments were served by Cindy, Chris, and Donna Rust.

We seem to know that fall is really here when as riding down the highways we see pumpkins in the fields and large quantities of them in all shapes and sizes in our roadside markets.

Homemakers, perhaps you would like to try pumpkin bread. It will offer a nice change to serve for a "morning coffee" or a "snack" when the hungry ones arrive home from school.

PUMPKIN BREAD-1 loaf
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup shortening
2 eggs
1 cup cooked pumpkin
2 cups enriched flour
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon ginger

Cream sugar and shortening, add eggs one at a time and beat well. Add pumpkin. Sift flour, soda, salt, nutmeg, and ginger. Add to creamed ingredients. Pour into greased loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1 hour.

Children's Bureau Open On Full Time Basis

The Milford office of the Children's Bureau of Delaware is now open on a full time basis, Miss Elizabeth S. Townsend announced this week. Services for parents needing to plan permanently for their children and for families wanting to adopt have been available to residents in this area on a part time basis since January, 1967.

In announcing the shift to full time operation in Milford, Miss Townsend commented, "We are delighted that families in Kent and Sussex Counties have seemed eager to use our help and that we could make it available for them." The growing use of the agency's services warranted the Monday through Friday schedule.

Jack Hearn, of Georgetown, has been appointed supervisor of the Milford office and will begin his duties in Milford on Mon., Oct. 7. Mr. Hearn has been Supervisor of Child Welfare Services in the Sussex County office of the State Department of Public Welfare. A graduate of Southwestern College, Winfield, Kan., Mr. Hearn has a master's degree in social work from Florida State University.

He is married and the father of two young children.

Mrs. Robert Catts, of Milford has been named as secretary-receptionist.

The Children's Bureau serves families wanting to adopt children as well as natural parents who need help in making a permanent plan for a child. Its program for foster family care, much of which is focused on preparing children for adoption is largely centered in Wilmington and New Castle County, where the Bureau's main office is located. The agency is financed chiefly through united community fund support throughout the state.

Miss Townsend spoke of the warmth and generous acceptance the agency's branch office has received. She expressed the hope that financial support thru the community funds of central and southern Delaware will make it possible for the agency to offer its services wherever they are needed.

The Bi-County United Fund helps support the services of the Children's Bureau. Mrs. Jackson W. Raysor is a member of the Bureau's Board of Directors.

Dr. Craven to Open Ocean Engineering Lectures at U. of D.

Dr. John P. Craven, chief scientist for the Navy's Deep Submergence Systems Project, will deliver the first of a series of seven lectures on ocean engineering Sept. 23 at the University of Delaware. The subject of Dr. Craven's talk is, "Technical Feasibility of New Ocean Systems - Problems and Promise."

All of the lectures will begin at 8 p.m. in the Ewing Room of the University Student Center. The lectures are free and open to anyone interested in undersea research. The program is under the auspices of the University's Department of Civil Engineering.

Dr. Craven, who also serves as chairman of the Government's Interagency Committee on Oceanography, was the first director of the Deep Submergence Systems Project, responsible for coordinating research and development in ocean engineering within the Defense Department. Under his leadership, the program was established as a separate facility and field activity in Chevy Chase, Md.

Another of Dr. Craven's major assignments is as chief scientist of the Navy's Polaris program, this nation's first submarine missile system. He has served as senior research hydrodynamicist at the David Taylor Model Basin and chairman of the Underwater Technology Division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. He has also participated in the Navy's Advanced Sea-Based Deterrent Program.

The next lecture in the series will be on Oct. 21, when Dr. James H. Wakelin, Jr., chief scientist, Ryan Aeronautical Corporation, will speak on, "Opportunities in Oceanography."

Dr. Keesey Invites Inquiries on Danforth Graduate Fellowships

Dr. Ray E. Keesey, Associate Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, University of Delaware, has invited inquiries about the Danforth Graduate Fellowships.

Potential candidates may make appointments to see Dean Keesey in his office at 123 Memorial Hall. Dean Keesey pointed out that interested persons must take the Graduate Record Examination to be considered as candidates for a fellowship nomination. Special Danforth application forms for permission to take the Graduate Record Examination are available from Dean Keesey.

The applications must be submitted to the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, N. J., by Oct. 8. The Graduate Record Exam will be given at the University on Oct. 26.

The foundation does not accept direct applications for the fellowships. Candidates must be nominated by liaison officers of their undergraduate institutions by Nov. 1.

The fellowships are open to men and women who are seniors or recent graduates of accredited colleges in the United States, who have serious interest in college teaching as a career, and who plan to study for a Ph.D. in a field common to the undergraduate college. Applications may be single or married, must be less than thirty years of age at the time of application, and may not have undertaken any graduate or professional study beyond the baccalaureate.

Danforth Graduate Fellows are eligible for four years of financial assistance, with a maximum annual living stipend of $2400 for single fellows and $2950 for married fellows, plus tuition and fees. Dependency allowances are available. Financial need is not a condition for consideration. Danforth Fellows may hold other fellowships, such as Ford, Fulbright, National Science, Rhodes, Woodrow Wilson, concurrently, and will be Danforth Fellows without stipend until the other awards lapse.

The Danforth Foundation, which offers the fellowships, was created in 1927 by the late Mr. and Mrs. William H. Danforth of St. Louis as a philanthropy devoted to giving aid and encouragement to persons, to emphasizing the humane values that come from a religious and democratic heritage, and to strengthening the essential quality of education.

Judging Team In Regional FFA Judging Contest

A first year judging team from the Middletown Chapter, Future Farmers of America, has taken top livestock judging honors in the 12 state regional FFA judging contest at Springfield, Mass., according to Dr. Ralph P. Barwick, associate professor of agricultural education at the University of Delaware.

Team members, coached by vocational agriculture instructor Thomas Currey, include Bart Shetzler, 18, and Eugene Thompson, 18, both of Middletown and 15-year-old Ralph Jones, Townsend.

Shetzler is the New Castle County vice president of the Delaware FFA, serves as chapter vice president and has worked with livestock for several years. Thompson, reporter for the Middletown Chapter, has also worked with livestock for a number of years. Jones, whose parents own one of the largest herds of registered Hampshire hogs on the east coast, has shown livestock throughout the country. This was the first year of competitive judging for all three.

In addition to placing first in team judging, Jones was named top individual livestock judge and placed first in the swine division and fourth in beef judging. Thompson finished third in individual livestock judging and placed first in beef, third in swine and eighth in sheep. Shetzler placed tenth in individual judging, third in beef and fourth in sheep.

The team returned to Middletown with 26 award ribbons—15 first place ribbons, six third place awards, two fourth place ribbons and one ribbon each for eighth, ninth and tenth place finishes.

In other regional judging events, the Harrington FFA poultry judging team placed fifth in team competition. Team members include Walter Bradley, 15; Robert Liles, 15; and Frank Hrupa, 18, all of Harrington. Hrupa also placed eighth in individual competition. Harrington FFA advisors are John Curtis and Neil Brusare.

The Caesar Rodney dairy judging team, coached by Horace Short, also participated in the regional event. Team members were Carl Donophan, 17; Eric Tarburton, 16, and James Harrison, 15.

Phil Hudson, 17, a senior at Laurel High School placed seventh in the regional FFA tractor driving contest. Hudson, president of the Laurel FFA chapter, was coached by vocational agriculture instructor Willis Kirk.

Asbury W.S.C.S. News

Historic events will be taking place throughout the entire membership bodies of the Woman's Societies of Christian Service as they prepare to celebrate the Charter Meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service and Wesleyan Service Guild during October 1968. At Asbury United Methodist Church the service will be held at the regularly scheduled meeting of the Society on Tuesday evening, Oct. 1, at 7:30 in Collins Hall.

Mrs. Audrey Schreck, president of the local Women's Society of Christian Service has issued a special invitation for all members to be present on Tuesday evening to sign the Charter Membership Roll. A special invitation is also extended to every woman in Asbury Church to become a member of the society at this time of the Charter meeting.

The Rebekah Circle, with Mrs. Charles Greenhaugh and Mrs. Hayward Quillen, will be in charge of the program.

It Seems To Me

By Janet C. Reed

Sewing for money is an excellent part time, at-home job. People are looking for your services; however, you'll probably never get rich. If you have time on your hands and can sew quickly and well, you might enjoy picking up a little spending money.

What should a customer expect from you? You should be able to fit a garment well. You should be able to achieve professional sewing and pressing results.

Each fabric responds somewhat differently; you should know how to handle it and what linings and interfacings do the jobs you want. You should be able to master the most intricate patterns without too much struggle. In other words, you should be an expert dressmaker to ask top prices.

If you are not as experienced as you would like, start out by doing minor alterations and hems. Every sewing problem is different and you can never get enough experience.

On the other hand, what should you expect from a customer? She should expect to pay well for high quality work. Many customers are shocked to discover the actual cost of having a dress made for them.

Somehow they expect it to be cheaper than a ready made without realizing this is a custom service for one individual, not a mass produced product. After all, when you sew for yourself, you rarely count the cost of your labor when figuring how much you save. But it's the labor cost that's expensive.

Your charges might begin with a minimum hourly wage; see if this seems too high. You should be well organized and sew quickly to justify charging by the hour. Don't overlook the cost of electricity for your iron, sewing machine and good light, as well as possible depreciation of your sewing equipment.

A clear understanding is necessary between customer and dressmaker of exactly what the customer expects and the approximate dressmaker charge. If the dressmaker is expected to supply interfacings, linings, fasteners and thread, this must all be itemized and figured in the total cost.

Some dressmakers calculate charges so they approximately equal the customer's cash outlay for all fabric, pattern and supplies necessary to complete the garment.

Clothing specialists at Penn State University have developed a list of suggested charges which dressmakers can adapt to their situation. Copies are available from my office at the University of Delaware.

4-H Club Talk

with Marion MacDonald

National 4-H Club Week will open October 7th with window displays throughout Kent County. Houston Cardinals will display in Milford, Leggett's Department Store; Honey Bees, Burrsville in Hopkins General Store; Fox Hall, Dover in the Blue Door; Kent County Klubbers, Dover at Pick 'N Pay; Westville, Maryland at Harmon's; Woodside Silverleaf, at Star Hill Community Hall; St. Joseph's, in Clayton at Clements Supply; Peach Blossoms, in Farmington; Whiteoaks in Hartly at Viridians Store. Other clubs will announce locations later.

Land judging contest to be held for Kent County on October 26 at the Francis Bergold Farm. The contest is being held cooperatively through the Soil Conservation Service, Cooperative Extension 4-H, Future Farmers of America and Boy Scouts. Each group will send members to compete within their organization for ribbon awards. Each organization will then select 8 members to enter the State Land Judging contest on Nov. 9 in Sussex County. Learning to judge soil provides the opportunity for our youth to better understand soil. It is as valuable to the urban member to carry Conservation Projects as it is to the farm member.

The 4-H Achievement Banquet is scheduled for Thursday evening, Oct. 24th, at the Caesar Rodney High School.

Chevrolet introduces 1969.

Caprice. Match this, you other 69's!

There is no joy in the land of our competitors today. But let us ask you this. Should we have made Caprice shorter instead of the longest Chevrolet ever built? Or adorned it with flashy nicknacks to make it look less expensive? Just because competition doesn't, should we not have offered you washers to clean your headlights, new variable-ratio power steering, liquid tire chain you can apply to your rear wheels at the touch of a button? Should we have given you less power, instead of the largest standard V8 in its field? Some people think so. Our competitors.

'69 Caprice Coupe

Camaro. Who needs to say "announcing" or "new". The Huger. And just look how it all hangs together. No gingerbread anywhere. We've improved the interior, too. Quieted the ride. Made the Astro Ventilation ventilate better. The power range is very impressive.

Standard V8 is 210 hp. SS engines available up to 325 hp. For added SS appeal: sport striping; power disc brakes; wide oval, road-hugging tires. Your Chevrolet dealer offers this advice: Go on, you other sportsters. Gnash your gears and look tough. Maybe it will help. Putting you first. Keeps us first.

Lions Cool the Rebels, 19-6

Bill Muehleisen's Harrington High football Lions refused to knuckle under the steady pressure applied by Selbyville's Rebels and evened their record at 1-1, by rallying to defeat the Rebels 19-6 at Selbyville on Friday night.

The home team has never beaten Harrington in football and with consolidation in the offing, it looks like they never will. The Rebels had their best record in history last fall and had lost only three starters from that team. They may have figured that this was to be their year, especially when Tony Brinkley, the great basketball star, caught a 43 yard pass to put the Rebels ahead 6-0.

Ken Tribbett, the Lions' sprint star, is probably the second fastest griddier in the Henlopen Conference, ranking behind Milton's Monroe Hitchens. Last week against Bridgeville he almost tore loose for a long, scoring run with a kickoff. He needed one or two more blocks and didn't get them. Immediately after Brinkley's T.D. the situation arose again. This time Tribbett got those blocks and broke off an 81 yard touchdown run. Mike Adams' pass to Bill Halliburton for the extra point gave H.H.S. a 7-6 halftime bulge.

Selbyville's bulky gridders pushed the lighter Lions around somewhat but could not regain the lead, as penalties and the Lion defense stymied every bid. Oscar Matthews tallied from the one in the third period and Jerry Cagle dashed into the end zone from eight yards out in the final stanza to put the icing on the cake.

Lion supporters felt that faulty officiating denied the Lions a fourth touchdown.

Harrington has had considerable support from various sources as the second-best team in the Henlopen Conference, behind Bridgeville. Looking over the rest of the schedule, it would seem that any bid for runnerup honors may be decided on successive weekends, November 1st and November 8th, when Millsboro is entertained here and Indian River is met at Dagsboro-Frankford. The Lions have the personnel to handle all the other rivals left on the schedule, barring a letdown.

Unbeaten Millsboro had more trouble with Selbyville, than did Harrington. Indian River is coached by the veteran Graham Dill, one of the Henlopen Conference's most successful coaches. The Indians haven't been extended, as yet, and will be the last strong team on the H.H.S. slate.

Delmar comes here tonight (Fri., Sept. 27). The Wildcats are not the ferocious maneuverers of yore, having lost the entire backfield and part of the line from last year's powerhouse. Their opening game victory at Dover Air was an uninspired performance and was thoroughly scouted by the locals. H.H.S. should get by the visitors and should have smooth sailing, at least until November first.

Felton's Gridders Lose at Bridgeville

The bubble burst for coach Art Refosco's Felton High football Green Devils, at Bridgeville on Friday night, as the Mustangs galloped 53-0 to their 21st victory in a row. Felton had downed Dover Air, a week earlier, in their varsity debut, while Bridgeville had sputtered to a slim victory over Harrington.

The Mustangs were anxious to atone for their opening-game jitters and were entirely too much for an inexperienced team like Felton. Also the Red and White may have been motivated by the memories of all those lacings they had absorbed from past Felton baseball and basketball teams. We don't think Felton is that bad of Bridgeville is that good. But football is essentially a game of morale. Let a team, even a good one, get a couple of touchdowns behind and sometimes the panic button is pushed. The team that's behind subconsciously lets down and the rout is on. Pretty soon the losers may be taking a physical and mental beating in addition to the one they are getting on the scoreboard.

For example, Detroit's Lions in the NFL took a 46 point shellacking one week from Dallas, then clubbed Chicago's Bears almost as bad the very next week.

Felton's at Delmar next week. The Wildcats are tamer this time. Felton should do much better.

Junior High Grid Lions Open Oct. 9

Jim Hawpe's Junior High grid Lions open a brief schedule on October 9th, visiting Riverview Junior High, Denton, Md.

Ninth graders will do most of the playing on this team with 20 freshmen on the squad and only eight or so seventh and eighth graders in uniform.

Seventh graders are Chris Mertz and James Moore. Eighth graders are: Russell Kessler, Frank O'Neal, Gary Harrington, Neal Travis, John Knapp, Rick Wheatley, Lawrence Sorden and Robin Callahan.

Efforts are underway to schedule a game with Bridgeville for next week.

Wetherhold Wins 11th Straight Run At Middletown

Lion sophomore Chris Wetherhold captured his 11th straight dual meet cross-country win at Middletown on Tuesday afternoon, as Coach Harold McDonald's Harrington High team opened their 11th and last season with an easy 20-41 triumph. The Lions sport an 81-7 won-loss record since 1958 and have had several impressive win streaks.

However, at present, they have a modest string of three straight victories.

Cavalier Coach Dick Green is a former University of Delaware cross-country champion and has laid out a hilly, challenging 2 1/4 miles course. Wetherhold breezed over it in course record time of 12:08.2.

Middletown's McKinney, a 10.45 two-miler in track barely nosed out Harrington's Danny Hitchens for runnerup honors. Comebacking Ronald "The Champ" Morris was next followed by Roger Jarrell, who was in contention for second place until slowed by blisters. Brad Morris completed the victory for H.H.S. by being the fifth Lion across the finish. Barefoot Billy Stubbs, a strong runner, was eighth followed by surprising Leonard Palmer. Palmer is a wiry, compact, little guy, who ran well last fall, but didn't give a hint that he would be varsity material as early as 1968.

He didn't report for cross-country this year but lurked on the fringes of football practice, though he isn't nearly heavy enough for football. Finally, he did run in one cross-country workout, then beat 28 runners at Middletown. This 14-year-old, eighth grader is now rated as a fine prospect.

Two more eighth graders, both 13, were 10th and 11th. But, Jackie D. Parker and Tommy Clarke are proven performers and their fine efforts came as no surprise.

Newcomers, Bell and Jackson also ran well for Harrington and need only perseverance to become fine harriers.

Glenn Wilson, age 12, beat six of Middletown's ten runners. The Cavaliers' squad appeared to be made up of sophomore, juniors and seniors. The youthful Wilson did a good job in the hot sun, which slowed some of the younger lads.

Harrington Bowling League

The Gallos teamed up Tuesday night and put Wally's Garage out in front by rolling their highest individual series this season to-date. Their fine efforts saw Wally's Garage move up from last week's third place position to eke out a berth on top. Peoples Restaurant was no match for them and dropped three games to fall to third place in the standings. C. Gallo led his team with a very nice 541 series, with E. Gallo right behind with a 531 series. J. Gallo hit his first 500 plus series this season with a nice 505 series. Peoples' R. Gray continues to bowl well and led his team with a very good 550 game, including a fine 203 game.

Gerardi Bros. held last week's top position by total pins only and saw themselves ousted in the same manner. Tuesday night as they must be content to hold down second place, even though they have the same won and loss record as Wally's Garage. Butler's Fuel is proving to be tougher than their showing indicates in the standings as Gerardi Bros. was forced to split four games with them. Even with two more games to their credit, Butler's Fuel was forced to remain in tenth place for another week.

Penn Central remains in fourth place, and their opponents in this week's fray, Hamilton Fund, also could not move out of their ninth place position, although they put on a real fine effort to do so, winning two and a half games from the railroad boys. H. Daufendach aided Hamilton Fund with a fine 201 game.

Quillen's Market is on the move and it shouldn't be too long before they start breathing down the neck of the top teams as each week sees them move up a little higher on the ladder. If they can maintain their momentum for a couple of weeks, we may be seeing a new team leading the pack. McKnatt's Funeral seems to be having their troubles early in the season, as they lost three games Tuesday night and traded places with Quillen's Market in the standings, dropping down to sixth place. B. Johnson was the key figure for Quillen's with a grand 561 series, including a great 216 game. J. Winkler also lent a helping hand to their move to fifth place with a real nice 516 series. Not to be out done though, H. Brode really took command of things for McKnatt's and contributed a superb 570 series, including a fine 211 game to lead in the series department for the week.

strength when the going gets tough. J. Forbes rolled a fine 525 series to help Robbins' Hardware to split their games with The Spoilers. Helping to counterbalance this effort, L. Outten rolled a real fine 543 series for The Spoilers. Both teams maintained their same positions in the standings as last week with Robbins' eighth and The Spoilers at the bottom of the heap.

This week saw quite a change from last week's unusually low scores. There were some replacements made in the high series and high game departments for both team and individual categories.
