Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton

Milk, centuries-old food, has been described and praised by hundreds of writers almost since the beginning of man. It kind of leaves you with the feeling of "What more can one say?" Well, we can add this. Never in the history of the United States have its citizens enjoyed a better quality product. And milk is a cool, cool refresher. This combination is certainly hard to beat.

All during June the dairy industry will be celebrating June Dairy Month. This is no surprise since June has been designated as Dairy Month for many years but it does make many of us stop and think.

Why has so much been said about milk? Milk has played a prominent role in the diets of people since primitive man. At first, milk was important probably because it was a filling and available food. Then too, many societies attached mystical and magical powers to milk.

Today milk still plays a prominent role but for a very different reason. Sound nutritional research has established milk as a valuable food. This food furnishes about 100 different nutrients — a long list of vitamins, minerals, fats, sugar and high quality proteins. Most of these nutrients are in such favorable proportions that they can readily join into efficient work teams for the body's nutrition—the way that nutrients must combine to do many important tasks for the body's growth if you are young and for continuous repair at all ages.

Everyone needs milk or its equivalent, so make sure you include dairy products of sufficient amounts in your daily diet. Just in case you have forgotten what is recommended, here is a rundown. (all are in terms of 8 oz. glasses)

Children need three or more glasses.

Adults need two or more glasses.

Teenagers need four or more glasses.

If you do not get the milk, then use cheese, ice cream, and all the other wonderful dairy products that are now available.

Looking at the other foods available in good supply, strawberries once again stand out. This is the time for local berries so use them often. Ground beef is an economy red meat and broiler-fryers continue to be both economical and versatile. Eggs are an excellent protein buy also, so buy an extra dozen or so to devil, pickle and use in pies.

cakes, and the like. Other good buys are cabbage, corn, yellow onions, and radishes. New round white or red red potatoes are recommended for potato salad because they hold their shape and do not get mealy. Other good fruit buys are bananas, watermelons, oranges and rhubarb.

The following is a poem sent by Jerry Hayman who is serving in the Army, and is stationed in Vietnam, and was written by himself and members of his division.

SOLDIER'S THOUGHTS

Take a man and put him alone,
 Put him 12,000 miles away from home;
 Empty his heart of all but the blood,
 Make him live in sweat and mud.

This is the life I have to live,
 And why my soul to the devil I give;
 You peace boys rant from your easy chair,
 But you don't know what it's like over here.

You have a ball without even trying,
 While over here boys are dying;
 You burn your draft card, and march at dawn,
 Plant your sign on the White House lawn.

You all want to ban the bomb,
 There's no war in Vietnam.
 You use your drug and have your fun
 And then refuse to use a gun.
 There is nothing else for you to do,
 And I am supposed to die for you.

I'll hate you till the day I die,
 You made me hear my buddy cry;
 I saw his arm, a bloody shred;
 I heard them say, "this one is dead."

It's a high price to pay,
 Not to live another day;
 He had the guts to fight and die,
 He paid the price, but what did he buy?

He bought your life by losing his
 But who gives a ——— what a service man gives?

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

SIGHT AND SOUNDS AGONE

The sights and sounds of other days,
 When youth and spring held sway;
 Are seen and heard no more, alas!
 Along our "Main Street" way.

"Kettles to Mend," and "Scissors to Grind,"
 Were old familiar sounds;
 The "Rag Man," too, would lend his cry,
 and weekly made his rounds.

The clang of hammer on the iron,
 From out the blacksmith shop;
 Would lend the cheery anvil song,
 From morn till work would stop.

And so the old familiar sounds,
 Have gone for e'er it seems;
 But always in the afterwhiles,
 I'll hear them in my dreams.

Remove Clippings to Improve Lawn

Give your lawn a healthy, well groomed look this summer by removing grass clippings immediately after mowing, says Dr. William H. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware. Contrary to popular belief, clippings do not make a lawn green and fertile, he explains. In fact, they may actually harm the grass. Clippings left on the lawn may add to the accumulation of thatch, the dead material around grass roots. This, in turn, interferes with air and water movement and encourages disease. A thick layer of thatch may prevent rain or irrigation water from reaching the soil, says Mitchell. Under these conditions, grass will grow poorly and will probably become brown and unattractive by midsummer. Clippings may be particularly serious early in the season when grass is making active growth. If the grass is unusually tall before mowing and if clippings are overly thick, they may even smother the grass. To prevent an over accumulation of thatch, attach a tray or bag to your lawn mower to catch clippings, advises Mitchell. If grass is exceptionally tall and the bag fills rapidly, it may be easier to rake the lawn after mowing. Use clippings as a mulch in your flower or vegetable garden and around ornamentals, he adds. This will conserve soil moisture and help promote vigorous growth. Spread clippings evenly, taking care not to apply a heavy layer that might prevent water from reaching the soil.

If your lawn has already developed a dense layer of thatch, remove it immediately. In most areas, thatch removal tools may be rented at a nearby hardware or garden center. This implement has vertical cutting blades which move thatch to the surface where it may be raked and removed. Thatch, like clippings, may be used as a mulch. Thatch removal should be done when grass is growing vigorously, says Mitchell. For bluegrass and fescue lawns, the best time is in the spring or late summer. In bermuda and zoysia, thatch should be removed in early or midsummer.

Delmarva Peninsula sheep growers will be happy to know the annual wool pool will be held on Saturday, June 14 at Harrington. The location will be the Delaware State Fairgrounds and the receiving hours from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. according to Earl Rambo, of Houston, pool manager.

The biggest advantage of pooling wool is that it can usually bring a premium of at least 25 cents per pound above ungraded wool. Dr. Emory Loeffel of the University of Maryland will again do the grading. Graded fleeces assembled in quantity attract factory buyers at premium prices.

Fleeces should be tied with paper twine to ease handling. Do not use baler twine. The pool charges a discount of two cents per pound for untied wool. Most established sheep farmers who have been pooling have a supply of paper twine on hand.

The event should be of interest to anyone who would just like to see it in operation. Costs to the farmer are held low because about 22 people are needed for a smooth flowing production line that may collect, be graded, and be loaded onto tractor trailer trucks. From 10 to 25 tons of wool have been handled in past years.

The Delaware Sheep and Wool Association is also providing an added feature for the Golden Anniversary of the Delaware State Fair. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Conklin will demonstrate the spinning of wool. It is a declining art of course. Maybe you would like to try your hand at it? I see a lot of antique spinning wheels in our homes as ornaments. Would it not be more interesting to be able to make them work? Nor is hand knitting a lost art. Isn't it curious that crafts which once were a necessity are now forms of recreation?

Delaware will host the annual meeting of the Northeast Area Soil and Water Conservation Districts, says Isaac Thomas of Maryland, state president. The dates are August 3 to 6 and the location will be Wesley Junior College at Dover.

Our Delaware supervisors look for 400 registrants from the 12 northeastern states. We expect family groups to come not only for the conference, but remain for an added vacation along the beach areas.

The area meeting is one of five held over the country to debate regional issues relating to soil and water conservation. Urban issues are of special interest in this region.

Local leaders are planning two conservation tours. One will touch on the effects of urban growth in magnifying drainage problems. The Kent County tour will reveal how housing in the Towne Point section east of Dover shows the need for improved land drainage.

A surprising amount of the Northeast is woodland. Currently high timber prices offer a good market for landowners blessed with woodlands. Bill Taber, our state forester, has long complained that our woods have reverted to illegal dumps, at least along our highways.

The Japanese beetle is one of the most colorful and destructive insects to householders' gardens and lawns. You will find the beetle most commonly on rose bushes if you give the beetle a choice. However, the white grub stage is never seen unless you dig up the soil. It feeds on the roots of plants, especially grass.

This is just to remind you that we have a colorful leaflet too that tells you how to keep the beetles and the grub under control. Call 736-1448 for your copy.

It Seams To Me

By Janet C. Reed

Do the clothes you make have a "home-made" look? Or, do your clothes say "hand-made" rather than "home-made"? Hand-made implies a professional appearance with a "styled to you" perfection. The home-made look tells the world you tried but missed at some point along the way.

The most common reasons for the "home-made" look are: poor fabric choice for the style, poor sewing and pressing techniques, unbecoming choices in style and fabric and poor fit.

Most pattern envelopes suggest appropriate fabrics for the style. The more experience you gain, the better you can judge this for yourself.

In general, a good guide is to choose a soft, drapable fabric for a soft style. For more crisp and tailored lines, choose a fabric with more body and stiffness.

A pattern with many seams or intricate detail appears to best advantage with a plain-colored fabric. Prints show off better with a pattern of few seam lines.

Polish up on sewing techniques for a professional appearance. Factory techniques are taught in most sewing classes today. If you haven't had a recent sewing course, why not enroll to learn some of the newer methods? Or, examine ready-to-wear to see the techniques being used by industry.

Try to assemble a garment as quickly as possible so it won't have that worn-out look before you wear it. Press as you sew. You'll end up with a better looking garment and won't be faced with the difficult press job after the final stitching.

It's difficult to see ourselves as we really are. The more you learn to analyze your own figure in terms of average proportions (whatever they are) the easier it will be for you to determine garment proportions most becoming to you. If you have worn certain styles that seemed to be becoming, look for similar styles in patterns.

Wild prints are extremely difficult to visualize on the figure, and even slight variations of pattern placement can make the difference between success and disaster. If you have a dress form, put the print on it—before you cut—to get an idea how it might look on your figure. Or hold it up to yourself in front of a full length mirror.

Don't be afraid to try something new. But, do try on a few ready-to-wear dresses in similar style and fabric to get an idea if it does anything for your figure before you go to the time and effort of making something you won't wear.

If you can just cut out a pattern, sew it up and get a good fit, you're a lucky soul. Most of us have to make some fitting adjustments. To perfect the fit is difficult to do on yourself. Maybe you and a sewing friend can trade fittings. Learn the styles which fit you best and which provide seam lines for easy alterations.

One final point. Keep up to date on style trends. Fashions change rapidly these days. Even if you do a fine job of putting the garment together, you might as well have the latest style rather than one which looked good on you several seasons ago.

Mrs. Madeline M. Hughes, 74, of 4548 Clearwater Harbor Drive, Harbor Hills, died on Wed., May 21 at Sun Coast Hospital, less than three months after her husband, Alexander Hughes, was lost on a fish trip in the Gulf of Mexico.

A memorial service for Mr. Hughes, also 74, was held with the funeral services for Mrs. Hughes, on May 23 at the Anona United Methodist Church in Florida. Burial was held in Philadelphia last Monday with graveside services.

Mr. Hughes and two companions left Clearwater Marina in the morning of March 1 to fish in the Gulf in Hughes' 19 foot outboard, but failed to return. A search conducted by the Coast Guard did not find the missing men, but their empty and abandoned boat was found March 20 off Egmont Key.

Mr. Hughes was born in the vicinity of Harrington and attended the Harrington Public School. He lived in Philadelphia from 1913 to 1963 when he retired. He was a member of Anona United Methodist Church, a Mason and a Shriner. He has two sisters, Mrs. William G. Stokes and Mrs. John F. Abbott, Sr., both of Harrington.

Other survivors include two sons, Alexander W., Jr., of Minneapolis, Minn., and Dr. Jay M., of Bolton, Conn., and six grandchildren.

Attendance awards were presented to Mrs. J. Louis Hopkins, co-leader of Mary Circle for having the greatest number of members present during the year, 134. Mrs. Fred B. Greenly and Mrs. George B. Mahoney received the second highest attendance award for Martha Circle with 84 present. The circle with the most new members for the past year, 4, was given to Mary Circle, also, with Mrs. Carroll Welch, co-leader, accepting the award.

A letter from Mrs. Charles Dukes, Dover District president, reminded the members of the School of Missions this summer at Dover. A week school and a weekend school are planned. Any member wishing to attend should let Mrs. Earle Nelson know by July 4th, so that reservations can be made. Mrs. Guy Winebrenner led the devotions for the evening, reading selected scripture passages on "Faith Building". A moment of silent prayer was held in memory of Mrs. Elmer Smith, a member of Esther Circle, who passed away in the last month. Several committees of the Society will function during the summer.
