

Federal Grant Increased For City's Sewer Improvements

The Federal Water Pollution Control Administration has increased a grant to the City of Harrington for its improvements to its sanitary-sewer system.

City Manager Kathryn Derrickson read a letter from the agency Monday night, at a meeting of the City Council stating that, because of increased costs, the federal grant would be raised from $124,200 to $167,100, an increase of $42,900. The increase was granted because of a request from the City.

A bond issue for $385,000 was approved in a referendum in July, 1967, to improve the sewer system and to build a sewage-disposal plant, and two polishing ponds. Furthermore, the State Water and Air Resources Commission granted the City $100,000 on the project. Thus, with the increased federal grant, total comes to $642,100.

The improvements to the sewer system have been made. Work on the disposal plant and ponds is nearly complete. Dale Philippi, superintendent of public works, said the work would have been completed but for the rainy weather.

A water main will have to be laid from U.S. 13 to a chlorinator at the ponds. Plans will be formulated when a representative of the City's consulting engineers, Edward H. Richardson Associates, arrives here this week.

In the same vein, a recent referendum approved $100,000 for further improvements to the sanitary-sewer system and water mains. Sale of bonds awaits sanction of bond attorneys.

In other business Monday evening, the Council acted as follows:

Listened to a plea from Chief of Police Franklin Rogers for health and accident insurance for the police department. Outcome may be determined after a state agent calls on the City to explain how one million dollars, recently appropriated by the General Assembly for improvement of police agencies in the municipalities, may be used. The local department will have to make a report to the state by Oct. 1 to benefit. The legislation calls for the municipality to put up one dollar for every two dollars the state pays.

Approved erection of a streetlight in an alley back of Peoples Service Station.

Agreed to get in touch with contractor for hot-mix asphalt to get estimate on this type of improvement for Fleming Street; Commerce Street from Clark Street to Mechanic Street, and Mechanic Street from the Railroad to Fleming Street. If a contract is let, it would be paid from municipal aid fund granted by the state.

Motioned to pay Teal Construction Company, Dover, some $14,000, a final payment for its work on sewer improvements.

The City still owes Teal about $1100 for work on Reed Street and an alley running north from Clark Street. In the meanwhile, Mayor Burton Satterfield, Councilman Benjamin Hughes, Dudley Willis, the City's consulting engineer, and a Teal representative will check over some work the contractor did in Harrington Manor.

Motioned to see if City had plan for installing street vapor lights. If it hasn't, the Delmarva Power & Light Company will be asked cost, per light, of changing present lights to vapor lights.

Asked superintendent of public works to use slag to fill in hole in parking lot of New Era Manufacturing Company on U. S. 13. Hole was attributed to recently installed water main.

Agreed hookup for 8-inch main would be $400; for 6-inch main, $300. Cost for 2-inch main is $100.

Considered erection of radar signs on Commerce Street, at locations suggested by chief of police. State police are to be asked if they would operate radar equipment if called.

TAPPED FOR PSC POST—John S. Abbott Jr., of Harrington, who was named to fill a post Sept. 1 on the state Public Service Commission.

John F. Abbott Jr. Selected For PSC Post

Gov. Russel W. Peterson Tuesday announced his choice to succeed Vernon B. Derrickson on the Public Service Commission.

The governor sent the Senate the name of John F. Abbott Jr., of Harrington. Senators returned yesterday to Dover to act on this and other nominations.

Abbott, 52, is a Democrat—the required second minority representative on the newly organized five-member commission. His appointment would be effective Sept. 1 when Derrickson's term expires.

Abbott is a farmer and a wholesaler of fruits and vegetables. He was named to a five year term and will receive $4500 a year.

Peterson Names Harrington To Election Board

Governor Russell W. Peterson Monday nominated the new members of the bipartisan Kent and Sussex departments of elections required by the 1969 election reform law.

The State Senate will meet Thursday to consider the nominations, selected from among lists submitted by the chairmen of the two major political parties.

The four new members of the Kent County department—two members already serving—are:

—Mrs. Alta Harrington of Harrington and Robert Zook of Milford, both Republicans, for two year terms.

—Former Rep. H. Dawson Shulties of Willow Grove, and Joseph R. Slights, of Dover, both Democrats, for four year terms.

Felton Pilot's Plane Crashes

A motel guest was credited Saturday with saving the lives of a Felton pilot and his passenger after a rented plane crashed in a corn field near Delmar.

State police said Leroy Rawding, 32, the pilot, and Gloria J. Stone, 25, were admitted to Peninsula General Hospital, Salisbury, after the accident shortly before 8 p.m. Both are reported in satisfactory condition at the hospital Monday.

Rawding had internal injuries and cuts of the face, according to police. Miss Stone suffered a back injury and cuts.

Police said the 1965 Piper Big Six, valued at $20,000, was destroyed. It was owned by Delaware Air Park, Cheswold.

The plane crashed about 200 feet east of U.S. 13, across the highway from the State Line Motel. The engine caught fire on impact, and state police credited a motel guest, Herman Gehring, of Masury, O., with pulling the occupants from the plane.

The fire was extinguished by spectators and a Maryland state trooper, John W. Rupprecht.

The plane had taken off from Delmar airport, but quickly lost power. It cut through a wooded area before coming to rest in the cornfield.

Harrington Chm. Named For U.F. Campaign

Howard Wagner, of Peoples Bank of Harrington, has been appointed chairman of the 1969 Bi-County United Fund Campaign for the Harrington area, according to an announcement by Samuel Marshall, president of the fund. Mr. Wagner on assuming his responsibilities for the forthcoming campaign said, "I firmly believe in the United Fund with its one campaign which has replaced eleven separate campaigns of the 11 agencies which the Bi-County U.F. now supports. This eliminated costly individual campaigns and most important, the dollars contributed by our local people are controlled and distributed to these agencies by our local community leaders."

The Bi-County United Fund has been in existence since 1966 and includes the communities of Harrington, Greenwood, Houston, Ellendale, Lincoln and Milford. Its function is to conduct an annual campaign to raise money which is necessary for the 11 volunteer agencies to give our community their services for the succeeding year. In campaigning, it is important to remember that the U. F. depends heavily upon local industry and business and its employees. The UF campaign does not include a door to door solicitation. Mr. Wagner said he anticipates a successful campaign this year.

Bank to Offer Special Service to Customers

The First National Bank of Harrington will offer a special service to its customers beginning Fri., Aug. 15.

It will keep its drive-in window open every Friday from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. The new Friday evening hours of the bank in general are from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

The golden anniversary Delaware State Fair closed Saturday night without breaking any attendance records, but fair officials are blaming no one but the weatherman.

George C. Simpson, the fair's general manager, said the fair executive committee met Saturday night and decided to carry on this year's policy of searching out big-name entertainers.

"We think we're on the right track in entertainment," Simpson said. "I think you'll see them (the committee members) go out and spend a fair amount of money for what they want."

The fair was plagued with rain all week. The Monday night show was rained out completely, and trumpeter Al Hirt's show Friday night was delayed by showers. People stayed to watch Hirt's show despite the weather.

"If we'd had mediocre entertainment for Friday night, we'd have had no one here," Simpson said.

In addition to Hirt, singers Eddie Arnold and the Beach Boys drew good crowds for their appearances at the fair. Even in the rain, Hirt drew a bigger crowd than turned out to watch the show on the corresponding date in 1968, and the Beach Boys Saturday night brought in more people than the closing-day act of a year ago.

Saturday's attendance was 23,119 which brought the total attendance for this year up to 123,964. This figure falls below last year's total attendance, which set the record fair officials had hoped to break this year, of 130,681.

Monday DP&L announced it was offering a $2,000 reward leading to conviction of the person or persons responsible for these or any additional acts of sabotage against the company.

Friday morning, when two Penn Central railroad employees entered the Indian River yard to remove empty cars, strikers swarmed over the cars, entered the cab and threatened the life of the train operators, according to a company spokesman.

Pickets at Indian River were also accused by the company of spreading roofing nails across the road leading to the plant, in hope of puncturing (Continued on Page 8)

School Board Adds Employees And Okays Improvements

Building improvements bids for work including establishment of new heating controls and heat units for the 1928 building, and retubing of boilers at a cost of approximately $35,000, of which the State Department of Public Instruction will pay 60 percent.

It was also agreed Lake Forest North Elementary School, Felton, have an intercommunication system installed to cost approximately $7000.

The board also approved placement of a recently purchased greenhouse on the Lake Forest High School grounds and the Building Commission and teachers of agriculture were to decide the location.

The employment of personnel also occupied a prominent part in the board's meeting. Wilson Wamsley was appointed maintenance man and general troubleshooter for the entire school district, while Ernie Dill was named chief custodian for Lake Forest High School, with Samuel Krouse as custodian, employment beginning as soon as the men were available.

Continuing on personnel, the board authorized Supt. Albert W. Adams to hire two secretaries from local funds for two months because of additional work involved in the consolidation of Felton, Frederica, and Harrington school districts.

In other business, the board acted as follows: Approved raising the wages of Byron Kemp, chief custodian of Lake Forest North Elementary School by $500 per year from local funds.

Virgil Jarrell, sworn in as a member of the board at the July meeting, reported a librarian had not been hired for Lake Forest High School and suggested a teacher of English be hired from local funds to assist in ordering books. Mrs. Floyd Nasser was mentioned as a candidate if she would be interested. Melvin Luff, administrative assistant, is to make recommendations.

Board voted to continue meeting on the third Monday of the month, but the time would be changed from 8 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

A letter was read stating the State Highway Department would erect school signs on U.S. 13 and County Route 384 as soon as they could be made. The high school is under construction on the latter road.

Agreed pupils in the 10th, 11th, and 12 grades next school year at Caesar Rodney be permitted to remain and the Lake Forest School District would pay the tuition charges. Pupils must furnish their own transportation. The motion (Continued on Page 8)

Fire Razes Feather Plant In Sussex

A fire early Sunday destroyed the East Coast Feather Corp. at Greenwood causing damage estimated by the owner at $1.25 million.

Firemen from Greenwood were called to the scene at 12:27 a.m. and with the help of volunteers from Bridgeville, Seaford and Farmington Fire Companies spent nearly four hours ringing the blaze under control.

The last firemen did not leave the scene until 5 p.m., 16½ hours after the fire was reported.

Firemen blamed the fire on lightning.

Vincent Lobo Sr., president of the firm, said that no one was in the factory when the fire started. He said he was at home in Greenwood when the blaze began, and "people nearby told me that it looked like a bolt of fire hit the company."

Lobo estimated the value of the 250-foot-by-60-foot, two-story, concrete-block structure at "over $1 million." He said that the value of contents, including feathers and machinery, was about $250,000.

Lester L. Craft, the Greenwood fire chief, led about 60 men in the attempt to save the building. Craft said the building was a total loss but declined to give his estimate of the value.

Lobo, who was at the scene most of Sunday, said he expected to rebuild the plant but he did not know when.

The factory was used to process and bale feathers.

Jester Begins Training For Racing Post

Andy B. Clements has resigned as executive secretary of the Delaware Harness Racing Commission effective Oct. 1.

Clements' successor to the $12,500-a-year job will be Donald C. Jester of Harrington. Jester, who was recommended by Gov. Russel W. Peterson, began training under Clements last Friday to take over the post, according to Joseph R. Pittard, commission chairman.

Pittard said Clements, a Democrat, told him he intended to resign before a bill was introduced in the Senate this spring to increase membership in the commission from three to five, thereby allowing the Republicans to take control.

The understood purpose of the measure was to gain power to fire Clements and hire Republican circles.

Clements conceded last Friday he was aware of the political implications but said he resigned because "I'm old enough." He will be 70 next month.

"I think he has done a fine job," Pittard said of Clements. "He is a conscientious, dedicated man. I think Jester will also do a fine job."

Republican Club To Meet Aug. 18

The Kent County Republican Women's Club will hold its monthly meeting August 18 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Charles Engle, 330 Lake Drive Circle, Smyrna.

The guest speaker will be Robert W. O'Brien, Kent County Planning director.

Wet Weather Doesn't Dampen Hirt's Spirits

By Betty Burgess

"Mr. Hirt, I know that you are quite tired and hot; and if you wish, will you feel free to take off your toga." He took off his double-light-weight chain with medallion, with "you are both gracious and charming". We sat side-by-side on the small sofa in the very tiny trailer-provided dressing room.

I asked him to talk. He asked me "Bettie, you ask?" I asked "Do you like to fish; to cook?" He replied, "I like to fish, I like to cook". And oh, the warm, yet pretty, smile within his beard.

He said that he feels fortunate in being and doing a business he likes, that he never tires doing the same thing over and over.

He said jazz is our own American music, and that he is gratefully happy to be a part of it. He and his group play jazz and the blues like—positively wonderful!

He gives foremost spotlight frequently during each show to each of his band group—with very special introductions, solos, and build-up.

The pianist, clarinetist, saxophonist are all also from New Orleans, and the organist is also from Louisiana. What more congeniality, how much more is there for humans to endure and enjoy together.

Each of them are very special and splendid, indeed!

Hirt had arrived from Canada the night before. He provided a joyous uplift and pleasure for us, despite the humidity and inclement weather. How very marvelous is human talent.

An almost continuous, pouring-down rain much of the day, soggy, sloppy, muddy, dismal, wretched day-weather wise . . . FOOD FACTS GIVEN HEAD STARTERS—Facts about what foods do for growing boys and girls are being included in the planned activities for the 800 children enrolled in Kent and Sussex County Head Start Programs. As one part of the Foods and Nutrition Program, the importance of basic foods such as milk and orange juice in the daily diet is being taught in Kent County by Miss Doreen LaFontaine, Milford, working under the direction of Mrs. Jean H. Cranston, Extension Home Economist, University of Delaware, who is serving as the County Nutrition Director for the programs. Miss LaFontaine is pictured above with one of the Head Start classes. In Sussex County, Miss Frances Shoffner, Sussex Extension Home Economist, and County Nutrition Director, and her assistant, Miss Carolyn Hudson, Selbyville, are conducting a similar program.

Senior Center News

Help? or Help! When help is needed you can always depend on the senior citizens. Members of the center were very much in evidence at the fair last week as aides, as exhibitors, as prize winners, and as visitors. Lending a hand in the needlework department were Arta Masten and Edith McKnatt; in the children's department, Lelia Hopkins was superintendent; in flowers were Eva Raughley, superintendent, and Gladys Hill; W. C.T.U. booth was tended by Mrs. Oscar Gillette; the Heart Association booth and the display of the Senior Citizen's Centers of Delaware were cared for by Ruth Vincent, Ethel Bull, Pearl Derrickson, Katie Austin, Emma Denney, Helen Collins, Ida Vanderborght, and Essie Redden.

Happy birthday to the following members who celebrate their birthday this month: Clarence Kemp, whose day was Mon., Aug. 4; Arta Masten, who claims Aug. 7; Katherine Monroe was one year older Aug. 1; Samuel Short, Aug. 16; Edith McKnatt, Aug. 17; Viola Warren, Aug. 13; Annabel Morrow, Aug. 17; Vera Bush, Aug. 19; Anna Moore, Aug. 10, and Christine Clymer, Aug. 15. May you all have a pleasant day and a very good year.

The center will be closed until Mon., Aug. 18. On that date, come bring some sewing, knitting, embroidery, or what have you, and enjoy getting together again.

For those members who are spending the week of August 25 at the Geriatrics Home in Rehoboth, a bus will leave the Center for Rehoboth at 1:45 p.m. on Sun., Aug. 24. Anyone needing transportation to the center on that date should notify the office by Thurs., Aug. 21.

Helen Graisbury, who has been a patient in the Memorial Division, is improving nicely. She expects to return home sometime this week.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne Holberton
"Training is everything. The peach was once a bitter almond..." wrote Mark Twain in "Pudd'nhead Wilson", "Training" of peaches, the development of good-quality varieties, has been a systematic activity of government experiment stations, both state and federal, within the past 70 years. The present-day peach is far different from its ancestor cultivated in China more than 4,000 years ago.

This delectable fruit is now in abundance. Quality is high and prices are very reasonable. But before purchasing in volume, here are a few things you should know. There is no set of easy rules for use in selecting peaches. However, here is a don't: Don't let the pretty blush on the peach fool you. The blush makes peaches look attractive; but it is no assurance of ripeness or sweetness. Look at the background color for this key. It should be a creamy yellow color. Avoid hard peaches with green background color; they are immature, lack flavor, and will never ripen properly.

Avoid damaged or over-ripened fruit that will result in excessive waste. The waste usually offsets any savings. Peaches bruise easily, therefore, they should be handled with care. Sort peaches after you have purchased them. Refrigerate the ripe ones until you are ready to use them. If firm-ripe, peaches can be kept in the refrigerator in good condition for seven to ten days. Regardless of where you store, it's best to place peaches one layer deep; when they are piled up the bottom layer is often bruised.

When deciding how many peaches to buy, you will find that in one pound there are about three medium-sized peaches. This is equal to two cups of sliced peaches. For an eight-or-nine-inch pie you will need two pounds of fresh peaches.

If you are interested in canning or freezing, it is important to have an idea of quantity. One bushel (about 48 pounds) gives 34 to 48 pints of canned or frozen peaches. This wide variance is because much depends on quality and size of peaches, whether they are halved or sliced, and on how closely they are packed. The varieties recommended for freezing are Redhaven, Triogem, Seinhgh, Halehaven, Redskin, J. H. Hale, Rio Oso Gem and Elberta.

An Uneasy Thought

Yes, we are in a heck of a shape. Inflation saps the pocketbook, the Vietnam war seems endless, Lester Maddox is governor of Georgia, nobody's figured out what to do about hippies, it costs six cents to mail a letter now, and new and worse racial riots are predicted for major cities next summer.

Yet the uneasy thought persists that in a few years we may look back on 1967 and 1968 and call them "The good old days."—Macon (Ga.) News

Farm and Home Field Day Poultry Display

Although no formal poultry program has been scheduled for the University of Delaware's 1969 Farm and Home Field Day, visitors to the August 13 event will have an opportunity to discuss current poultry research efforts with University personnel.

Among the projects underway at the Georgetown facility are caged broiler studies; litter treatment research; and efforts aimed at controlling Marek's disease.

Caged broiler studies, under supervision of poultry researchers George Chaloupka and Ray Lloyd, are designed to evaluate various types of cages and equipment in producing high quality, economically acceptable broilers.

Experimental data includes mortality and cause factors; feed efficiency; average weight at weekly intervals; breast blister and leg weakness incidence and market grade and condemnation rate.

A second study under Chaloupka's supervision is aimed at determining the effects of litter treatment on broiler performance.

Broilers are raised on new, reused and composted litter and are checked for mortality and cause, weight and feed conversion and carcass grading and condemnations.

Preliminary results of the study indicate that both used and composted litter are more effective than new litter in reducing condemnations at processing.

A final project, one of particular significance to Delaware poultry growers, is an effort to control leukosis through controlled exposure of day-old chicks to a Marek's disease agent.

Project leaders will be available to discuss preliminary experimental results and to answer questions throughout the Field Day program.

Methodist Men's News

By Sam Short

The Methodist Men met Sunday morning at Asbury Church at 8 a.m. with Vice President, Norman Toadvine, opening the meeting in the absence of the president, Carl Hill, with 23 members present.

Speakers were Art Hoffman and Nicky Morris, delegates, who had been sent to a national meeting of Methodist Men at Purdue University at Lafayette, Ind.

Making their report they stated there were 25,000 men at the meeting and they made mention of harmony regardless of color or creed and the love each one showed for the other.

It was a worthwhile meeting with so many in one place for Christianity, they said.

Several new committees were then appointed as follows:

Membership and Attendance: George Tatman, chairman, Cliff Miller, Edgar Welch; Program: John Harry Dill, chairman, J. Millard Cooper; Project and Spiritual Life: Marion Brown, chairman, J. Edward Taylor, David Welch, and Howard Wagner; Sunshine: the Rev. John Edward Jones, chairman, Samuel Short, Jr.; Publicity, Samuel A. Short, chairman.

The vice president then, in takes the part of Antoinette, a French maid. Others in the cast are Jay Mahanna as the butler Etienne, J. William Rayne as Doctor Finache, Neena Davidoff as Lucinne De Histangua, Judy Mingus as Raymonde, and John Mingus as Tournel.

Also Sami Bandak as Ferrailon, Janet Herron as Mrs. Ferrailon; Michael Walls as Homenides De Histangua, Val Nardo as Albicocco, E. C. Mahanna as Baptistin, and Susan Watson as Eugenie.

AUGUST - SEPTEMBER PEAK HURRICANE SEASON

State of Delaware Department of Civil Defense this week issued a list of precautionary measures to be taken during the hurricane season, which normally reaches its peak during August and September.

Director Harry E. Derrickson, urges all personnel to take appropriate advance action to safeguard lives and possessions. It is of primary importance to keep your radio or television on and listen to the latest weather bureau or civil defense advisory. For simplicity, the actions that should be taken are grouped into three general areas - before, during and after the storm. These suggested items to be accomplished are:

Before the Storm

Automobile — fill the gasoline tank and check the tires and battery.

Food — have a supply of drinking water, and foods that do not need refrigeration.

Emergency Accessories — have a flashlight and radio with good batteries; first aid kit and fire extinguishers.

Preparation of House and Yard — store all objects such as awnings, toys, tools, trash cans, etc. and tape or board up all windows.

For coastal residents — prepare to evacuate low areas that may be swept by storm tides. Proper authorities will assist in directing traffic flow and selection of recommended evacuation sites.

During the Storm

Stay indoors. If the "eye" passes directly over, there may be a short period of calm before the winds resume with equal ferocity from the opposite direction.

Listen to your radio or television for information from weather bureau, civil defense, Red Cross or other authorities.

After the Storm

Do not drive unless it is an absolute necessity. Look out for downed electric power lines and undermined pavement.

Report downed power lines, broken water or sewer lines, etc.

Use caution to prevent injuries from falling objects or outbreak of fire.

Do not use the telephone except for bonafide emergencies. Jammed switchboards prevent completion of emergency calls.

Above all, remember that your ability to meet emergencies will help and inspire others.

For further information contact your Local Civil Defense Director.

Particularly to vacationists and boat owners: Follow storm warnings carefully.

Tune in frequently on radio or TV before starting on a fishing trip or cruise.

Secure pleasure craft when official storm warnings are issued by the weather bureau.

Haul small boats to safe locations upon receiving storm notices.

Give anchor plenty of slack in moorings to avoid swamping.

TODAY

To be alive in such an age!
 With every year a lightning page
 Turned in the world's great wonder book
 Whereon the leaning nations look.

When men speak strong for brotherhood,
 For peace and universal good,
 When miracles are everywhere,
 And every inch of common air—

Throbs a tremendous prophecy
 Of greater marvels yet to be.
 O-thrilling age
 O-willing age.

We would like to turn back a few brief pages to cite the relative merits of God-fearing, versus, non-fearing nations in space advances: After the first Russian cosmonaut orbited the earth he was asked if he found God out there, replied that he did not. When John Glenn, who had been first to orbit the earth was asked the same question, replied: he didn't need to go out there to find God, as he had found Him many years before, "right here".

Columnist, Max Lerner's story on the Apollo 8 flight says: "the high moment, to me, was when all three astronauts read from the Book of Genesis starting with "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth ending with His naming it 'Earth' and how he saw that it was good.

1919 FORD—Edward Paskey and family and the driver's mother, Mrs. Walter K. Paskey, of Santa Monica, Calif., in car which was driven in a 4th of July Parade at Pacific Palisades. The Paskeys, former local residents, tell of restoring the Ford in an accompanying letter.

Letter From Paskeys In California

July 30, 1969

Dear Carrington:

I enclosed a picture of our recently restored 1919 Model T Ford which Edward drove in the 4th of July parade in the Pacific Palisades. We purchased it in January of 1964 completely demolished, and have been this long in doing it. Still have the top to have finished. It have been quite a project to get the missing parts and wheels etc. Many trips back East Walt has mailed home parts, such as extra wheels and radiator. Recently got two tires from Reno, Nevada, so as you see it's been a project.

Several of our Delaware friends and relatives had seen it in our back patio and I'm sure they never thought it would look so beautiful, so to them we say, yes, we made it.

The parade was over 3 miles long and is one of Southern California's largest one.

In case you wonder where Walt is in the picture of the Ford, this was in the Sciot Drum Corp. This is the 4th year he's marched in the parade there.

It was a thrill for all of us to be in it, for so many of our friends and customers there had seen it put together bolt by bolt and they too said, Hey, you made it.

Yes, time marches on for all of us, sure has been lots of changes since May of 1952 when we left Harrington. Hope this finds you and your family well.

Sincerely,
 Virginia and Walter Paskey

Specialist Issues Vapona Strip Warning

Vapona insecticide strips, a popular means of controlling small flying insects, should not be used in rooms occupied by infants or by ill and aged adults, warns John S. McDaniel, agricultural chemical specialist at the University of Delaware.

To provide greater protection for consumers, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service requires inclusion of the following statement on labels of Vapona strips marketed after February of this year: "Do not use in nurseries or rooms where infants, ill or aged persons are confined."

Unfortunately, the USDA has learned that a substantial number of vapona strips, marketed before February, but still on dealer shelves, do not carry the caution statement.

Major pesticide strip manufacturers have been notified to halt distribution of strips not carrying the caution statement and to bring products now in distribution, including those in retail outlets, into compliance.

The manufacturers, in turn, have notified USDA that a stop shipment order has been issued to their warehouse and to warehouses of their customers.

U. of D. Offers Program In Plastics Study

The Division of University Extension at the University of Delaware is offering a certificate program in plastics technology in cooperation with the Philadelphia section of The Society of Plastics Engineers and the University's Division of Technical Services. The program is directed to operators, superintendents, analysts, technicians, foremen, sales and technical personnel who wish to broaden their knowledge in the technology of plastics.

Courses in the program provide an understanding of the nature and application of various plastics materials and the processing methods used in the manufacture of quality plastics products.

Certificates are awarded upon completion of four required courses and at least three elective courses. The program may be completed in two years.

All classes will meet in Newark from 7 to 9 p.m. Registration forms for individual courses should be sent to the cashier's office at the University of Delaware. Further information may be secured from the Division of University Extension.

Happiness Is... Good Meat On An Open Fire

The weather's beautiful — why not spend time cooking outdoors, not over a hot stove in the kitchen?

Grilling meat outdoors doesn't require any particular knack, according to Miss Marguerite Krackhardt, extension foods and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware. The secret of tasty, juicy meat is primarily in the cut.

Steaks should be cut at least one inch thick. Thick cuts will be juicier and more flavorful than thin cuts which usually dry out too fast over charcoal heat. Instead of individual thin steaks for each member of the family, choose fewer thick ones that you can carve to feed two, three or four people.

Porterhouse, T-bone, club, sirloin, rib and rib eye steaks are perfect for a cookout. Top round in USDA Prime can be broiled or grilled, but lower grades should be marinated for several hours or overnight before cooking.

If you're a little afraid to try charcoal roasting, what may disturb you is the dry, tough and charred roast that occasionally comes off the grill. Well, you can relax, says Miss Krackhardt. The most common reason for such a disappointing result is that someone tried to have money at the wrong time.

There are many good inexpensive meat dishes that can be cooked over an open fire. But if you want best results with a roast on the rotisserie, then don't use the lowest-priced cuts.

Start with high-quality meat; your best guides are the USDA grades. USDA Prime assures you of the ultimate in tenderness, juiciness and flavor, but you may not find it in your supermarket. USDA Choice beef and lamb are also high quality—very suitable for backyard cookouts.

In choosing your beef roast, though, consider the cut as well as the grade. In beef, particularly, some cuts are naturally more tender than others. The less tender cuts, such as the shoulder arm and heel of round, are not suitable for the rotisserie, regardless of the quality grade, warns Miss Krackhardt.

Choice grade pot roasts at least one and a half inches thick can be cooked successfully on an outdoor grill. Marinate the roast or use a meat tenderizer and cook the meat over low to medium heat. Slice the meat very thin and use in sandwiches. Because it is juicier, rare or medium-rare roast seems more tender than one cooked to the well-done stage.

The rib roast is the most tender of the beef roasts; rump and sirloin tip roasts are only moderately tender, but USDA Prime or Choice grades are suitable for grilling. Any of these cuts should be boned and rolled for convenience in cooking as well as in carving and serving. This is true also for lamb and pork roasts.

Since both lamb and pork come from young animals, most cuts are fairly tender. Lamb is graded for quality, so you can be sure of getting juicy, flavorful roasts by choosing meat with the USDA Prime or Choice grade shield.

USDA grades for pork, however, do not carry through to the retail level. For best quality, look for pork that is grayish pink, with at least a small amount of marbling and that is firm to the touch. Boneless loin roasts—blade, center, or loin end — fresh ham, picnic shoulder and Boston butt roasts are good choices for the rotisserie.

But, Miss Krackhardt points out, even an excellent piece of meat isn't very tasty with a burnt charcoal surface and under-done interior. Here the fault must rest with the cook.

For best results, cook meat with low heat. That means charcoal roasting requires careful fire building. Start your fire 30 to 45 minutes before you plan to use the rotisserie, banking the briquettes at least two or three deep in the rear of the grill so the coal will ignite more quickly.

You can start roasting when gray ash covers the briquettes. To prevent flareup, put a pan under the meat to catch the fat drippings.

Days Of Our Years

Ten Years Ago Twenty Years Ago

Fri., Aug. 7, 1959

The 1959 Kent & Sussex Fair was the best, in all aspects, which includes attendance and quantity and quality of exhibits, in ten years, said T. Brinton Holloway, secretary and general manager of the exhibition. A conservative estimate of the attendance of the fair, which closed Saturday, was 100,000, about 10 per cent over that of 1958. Saturday's attendance was 20,188 paid admissions.

The ice cream parlor of Penn Dairies was entered yesterday morning and an undisclosed amount of money taken from a vending machine for cigarettes. Manager John Phillips said it was not known if any smokes were taken.

Miss Patricia Minner, daughter of Mrs. Ethel Minner and the late George Minner, became the bride of Russell McCready, son of Etzel McCready, Saturday at Trinity Methodist Church.

Miss Nancy Lynn Torbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Russell Torbert, of Felton, became the bride of John Charles Davidson, Wilmington, at a double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Hugh Johnson in Felton Methodist Church, Sat., Aug. 1.

Funeral services were held Tuesday for Joshua Ellegood Bullock Sr., who died Saturday after an illness of several months. Services were in charge of the Rev. Richard S. Gibson, Asbury Methodist Church. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Cahall Bullock, and a son, Joshua Bullock Jr., of Pittsburgh.

Howard Duca, of Philadelphia, spent the week with his father, Nathan Duca.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Townsend and children, of Springfield, O., are visiting Mrs. Townsend's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abner Hickman.

Armed Forces News

Army Private First Class Lionel C. Hinton, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Hinton, Route 1, Elledale, was assigned July 13 to the 25th Infantry Division in Vietnam. His wife, Bernice, lives on Route 4, Georgetown.

She is survived by one son, James H. of Wyoming; two daughters, Mrs. Evelyn Chambers of Felton and Mrs. Doris Clough, of Wyoming; one brother, Thomas Edge, of Burlington, N. J.; one sister, Mrs. Blanche Smith, of Wilmington; six grandchildren, and nine great-grandchildren.

Services were held at the Berry Funeral Home in Felton yesterday afternoon with interment at Odd Fellows Cemetery, Camden.

Fri., Aug. 5, 1949

Frank Langrell, former merchant and miller, died Thursday night, July 28, at his home of complications of diseases after an illness of three years.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Short, Jr., announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty Ann, to Joseph Zimmerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Zimmerman, of near Dover.

The Kent & Sussex Racing Association will hold a fall meet 20 nights, beginning Oct. 1, T. Brinton Holloway, general manager of the Kent & Sussex Fair grounds, announced Wednesday.

With tighter money and record-breaking heat, the Kent & Sussex Fair last week could not be called the most successful from the standpoint of money spent. The fourth annual Firemen's Day was held Tuesday with 45 volunteer fire companies parading.

The wedding of Miss Florence Outten, daughter of Arley Outten, of Wilmington, and the former Mrs. Mary Outten, of Harrington, to William H. Schweitzer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schweitzer, of Hartly, took place July 22 at Bridgeville. Ceremony was performed by the Rev. L. E. Wimbrow.

It was mighty nice of the Pennsylvania Railroad to run some diesel engines down here a few months ago to show us how nice they were—and then take the engines back to Wilmington and uncouple the trains from them. Quite a few years ago many of the inhabitants of the branch road were accused of coming over to Harrington just to see the trains go by on the main line. From present indications, pretty soon they can come over here and we'll all go to Wilmington to see the trains.

Mrs. James A. Voshell

Mrs. Maude E. Voshell, 79, died Monday at Milford Memorial Hospital following a short illness.

Her husband, James A. Voshell, died in 1958. A native of Maryland, Mrs. Voshell had been a long-time resident of the Felton area.

She is survived by one son, James H. of Wyoming; two daughters, Mrs. Evelyn Chambers of Felton and Mrs. Doris Clough, of Wyoming; one brother, Thomas Edge, of Burlington, N. J.; one sister, Mrs. Blanche Smith, of Wilmington; six grandchildren, and nine great-grandchildren.

Services were held at the Berry Funeral Home in Felton yesterday afternoon with interment at Odd Fellows Cemetery, Camden.

Kent County Family Court

Judge Kelsey presiding
July 21 thru August 1

15 juveniles appeared before the court on 19 Motor Vehicle Violations. Each juvenile was ordered to pay fines and costs with the exception of one whose charge was dismissed for failure of the arresting officer to appear and prosecute the case.

Two juveniles appeared charged with burglary at the Loumar Company on the North duPont Highway. Each was ordered to pay fines and costs and was placed on probation, one for a minimal period of one year the other for a minimal period of six months.

Seven custody petitions were before the court involving 21 minor children. After hearing the evidence and it appearing to be in the best interest of the children, custody of nine children was awarded unto their mothers, four unto their fathers, one unto the Department of Public Welfare, five unto their maternal grandmother, and two unto their maternal uncle.

One man from Clayton appeared before the court charged with three charges of indecent exposure involving three minor females, 11, 9 and 8 years of age. After hearing the evidence presented, the court found him not guilty as charged.

Three juveniles appeared charged with shoplifting at the Woolco Department Store, Blue Hen Mall. The charges were dismissed against each of the said juveniles for failure of the arresting officer or a representative from Woolco to appear and prosecute the case.

Two juveniles were before the court charged with three charges of burglary, this being their first offense. Each was ordered to pay fines and costs, given a suspended sentence to Woodshaven School, and placed on probation for one year.

Nine juveniles appeared for detention hearings to see whether they could be released from detention pending a hearing later in this court. After considering prior records and hearing all the testimony from the parents and juveniles, the Court ordered that four be released and five remain detained pending hearings at a later date. One juvenile appeared before the court for possible extradition to the State of Virginia where he is being charged with statutory burglary. After hearing an explanation of his rights the juvenile waived all extradition proceedings and was detained for the Virginia authorities to be returned to Virginia.

Nine men appeared before the court charged with non-support of their families. Order of support were placed in eight cases and one charge was withdrawn by the wife upon reconciliation of the family.

One petition for visitation rights was before the court and after hearing the preference and request of each party and after hearing the evidence in each case specific periods of visitation were set up by the court.

One juvenile, 13, was before the court charged with burglary. After considering his prior record before the court and hearing the evidence, the court ordered that he be committed to the jurisdiction of the Youth Services Commission for a second placement in Ferris School for a period of not less than one year.

One juvenile was before the court charged with grand larceny. After reviewing the record in that he had never been before any court in the State of Delaware and in that his school record was above average, the charge was amended to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. The court ordered that he pay fines and costs and he was placed on probation to the court for a period of not less than six months.

Two juveniles were before the court for disposition on a charge of toyng with a female minor which had been heard previously. After careful consideration of the circumstances involved, the court ordered that each pay the court costs and a fine of $100, and be placed on probation for a period of not less than one year with very strict conditions of probation imposed.

15 Juveniles appeared before the court with their probation officer recommending that each be released from any further probation having completed the necessary requirements for said release. After hearing the recommendation in each case and statements from each juvenile, the court ordered that each be released from probation.

One juvenile from Smyrna appeared before the court charged with violation of probation. Upon entry of a plea of guilty and after hearing the testimony from her probation officer, her mother, and the juvenile, the court ordered that she be committed to the jurisdiction of the Youth Services Commission for placement in Woodshaven School for an indefinite period of time.

Diabetes Can Be Controlled

If no one in your family has diabetes, chances are you don't think diabetes is important.

Neither do hundreds of other people who have the disease but don't know it.

About 3 million Americans have diabetes, but only half have been diagnosed. The rest remain untreated, endangering their health and lives. In Delaware, diabetes ranks fifth as cause of death, and third as cause of blindness.

Diabetes can be controlled, and diabetics can lead a normal life — if they know they have the disease.

The Delaware State Board of Health, in cooperation with the Delaware Diabetes Association, sponsors weekly free tests for diabetes in 11 locations throughout the State. Anyone wishing to take the diabetes detection test should go to one of the following locations on Wednesday:

In Wilmington - Wilmington Medical Center, 1501 Van Buren Street; Naaman's Professional Laboratory, 2055 Limestone Road; Brandywine Laboratory, 1806 N. Van Buren Street, and Professional Clinical Laboratory, "H" Building, Augustine Cut-Off.

In New Castle County - New Castle Physicians Laboratory, 702 Delaware Avenue, New Castle; Newark Medical Laboratory, 327 E. Main Street, Newark.

In Kent County - Kent General Hospital, S. State Street, Dover; Milford Memorial Hospital, Milford.

In Sussex County - Beebe Hospital, Savannah Road, Lewes; Nanticoke Memorial Hospital, Seaford.

Persons taking the test are requested to eat a meal about 1 1/2 hours before the test.

According to medical experts, you are a greater diabetic risk if you are:

1. A relative of a diabetic. Diabetes occurs five times as often among relatives of diabetics.
2. Overweight. Four of every five diabetics are overweight before developing the disease.
3. Over 40. Diabetes is most common among persons in the over-40 age group. However, it is more serious in childhood.
4. The mother of a baby who weighed more than nine pounds at birth.

But remember: anyone can have diabetes.

Copies of the catalogue listing extension courses offered during the fall semester at the University of Delaware are available at schools, libraries and industries throughout the state.

Copies may also be secured from the Division of University Extension, 79 Amstel Ave., Newark, Del.

Course listings this fall include several noncredit courses, special programs and cultural activities offered in the University's continuing education program. Under study will be a broad spectrum of subjects ranging from the stock market to autumn and migratory birds.

A lecture series on international monetary systems will bring experts from the world of finance to the campus to explore the problem of developing a stable and workable international monetary system.

The population explosion, use of the earth's resources, and the quality of human life will be analyzed in a series of lectures on population problems. The series will continue into the spring semester.

Individuals interested in extension offerings are urged to register by mail prior to the mailing deadline of Aug.

26. Extension courses will be held in Wilmington, Newark, Dover and Georgetown beginning Sept. 15. Additional information is available from the Division of University Extension.

Program In Correctional Service Offered

The Extension Division of the University of Delaware will offer a certificate program in correctional service this fall for regularly employed institutional personnel in the Delaware Department of Correction and the Delaware Youth Services Commission.

The objective of the program is to encourage institutional correctional workers to improve their knowledge and capabilities in practices relating to the custody and treatment of adult and juvenile offenders.

The certificate program will consist of five required courses, three electives and four workshops to be presented during the fall and spring semesters.

The program is conducted without charge through the auspices of the U.S. Office of Law Enforcement Assistance and the E. Paul du Pont Endowment for the Study of Crime, Delinquency, and Corrections.

Baker-Coffman Wedding
 On Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, a beautiful wedding took place in the Greenwood United Methodist Church when Miss Jean Baker, daughter of Mrs. Leroy W. Baker and the late Mr. Baker, and J. Bernard Coffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Coffman, of Mountville, W. Va., were united in marriage. The officiating ministers were the Rev. Charles Waltz and the Rev. Haig Medzarentz.
 The bride wore a floor-length empire gown of silk organza with an attached, tiered cathedral train of chantilly lace with lace and seed pearls with a bouffant illusion veil. She carried a white Bible fashioned in lace with white rosebuds and baby's breath, carnations and ivy. For something old she carried her great-grandmother's white lace handkerchief with hand-made tatting.
 Mrs. Eva Dixon of Wyoming, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a turquoise crepe floor length empire gown with matching headpiece. She carried a nosegay of white carnations with turquoise trim. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Nancy Baker, sister-in-law of the bride, wearing pink with nosegay of white carnations, and Miss Cynde Andrews wearing an identical gown. The little flower girl was Miss Marsha Dixon, niece of the bride, who wore a floor length gown of white organza and carried white carnations. The ring bearer was Master Richard Baker, nephew of the bride.
 Charles Coffman, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. The ushers were William Fentzloff, of Seaford and Gary Miller, of Suitland, Md.
 The bride's mother wore an aqua silk gown with lace coat and corsage of white carnations, and the bridegroom's mother chose a gown of green silk with white carnation corsage. Mrs. Paul Baker, sister-in-law of the bride, took care of the guest book.
 Mrs. Elnora Anthony played the wedding music and the Rev. Everett Isaacs sang "Because", and "The Lord's Prayer".
 After a wedding trip to Nova Scotia, the couple will reside in Greenwood.
Greenwood Kiwanis Club
 Last Thursday, July 31, the Kiwanis Club held another of its 5th Thursday's covered dish supper and ladies' night. Miss Grace Porter played the piano and stayed for the later meeting.
 The following heard Sgt. Paul Hudson of the Delaware State Police, Youth Division, dramatically tell of the abuse of drugs in our state, county and towns; the alarming increase use of drugs by our young people in our high schools and colleges; the damage that results from the use of drugs, and sounded the alarm for our society if steps are not taken to break the drug traffic. Sgt. Hudson had with him an outstanding display of drugs, catalogued in their several categories. He deserves much credit for knowing the problem so completely, his tireless efforts in presenting the subject so well to school children and adults who are fortunate enough to hear him. Present were: Fred Graef and Emerson Keim, members of the Greenwood Lions Club, Mrs. Jeanette Sadowski, Mrs. Miriam Lord and Mrs. Delema Smith, President John Turner, 1st vice president Henry Peters, Laird Kratz, Arthur Tatman, Ebe Reynolds, Sr., John Dorfee, Jr., Walter and Pearl Miller, Nelson and Minnie Meredith, Alvin and Doris Mills, Willard and Virginia Thompson, Roy and Ruth Ann Lloyd, William and Nadine Fleischauer, Louis and Mary Esther Mills, Stanley and Mary Cahall, Charles and Virginia Conaway, Robert and Florence Willey, Leon and Betty Rust, Charles Elliott and Lawrence Meredith.
 Sgt. Hudson was presented by William Fleischauer in behalf of the program chairman, Stanley Cahall. All agreed that a splendid program had been presented. Those attending for the public part of the program were Mrs. Shirley Hamstead, her brother-in-law, John Bjork of North Dakota, and Miss Mabel Conaway.
 President John Turner announced that next week there would be a Director's meeting at 7 p.m., without a dinner. Everyone be sure to attend.
 Some 15 club member and wives said they would meet with the Georgetown Club at their field day inter-club at the sub-station Tues., Aug. 12.

St. Stephen's Episcopal Church News

Calendar for Aug. 8-14
 Friday - 7 p.m. Wedding rehearsal.
 Saturday - 4 p.m. Wedding.
 Sunday - 9 a.m. Holy Communion.
 Tuesday - 6:30 p.m. Boy Scouts.
 Wednesday - 7:30 p.m. Healing service.
 This coming Sunday morning it will be the pleasure of St. Stephen's to have her old friend the Rev. John Rhein to celebrate Holy Communion and to preach. Mr. Rhein's subject will concern Migrant work in Delaware and the loose offering will go toward that work. Father Rhein is head of this phase of the work of the Diocese of Delaware.
 St. Stephen's is happy to have two of her young men to go to Camp Arrowhead this coming week where they will remain until Sunday, Aug. 24. Chris and Ricky Mertz are the lucky young men. St. Stephen's is proud of you Chris and Ricky, and will miss you while you are gone and will look forward to your return.
 This being the vicar's vacation month, the people of St. Stephen's will have the privilege of hearing another outstanding Episcopalian on next Sunday, Aug. 17, at the 9 a.m. service. He is St. Thomas Pippin who, incidentally, is an honorary member of St. Stephen's. This honorary membership harks back to the days when St. Stephen's was one of the smallest missions of the diocese and was struggling to obtain a new building. Mr. Pippin was the head of the Board of Missions in the diocese of Delaware at that time and was a champion of St. Stephen's cause. At present he is the head of all lay readers of the diocese. Surely everyone will want to come to greet this old friend.
 During August, while the vicar is on vacation, St. Stephen's is fortunate to have her own licensed Lay Reader, Clyde Perry, to conduct evening prayer at the usual 7:30 Wednesday evening healing service.

It is interesting to note that President Nixon's plurality was 502,478 votes. This fact, coupled with the fact that the members of the Democratic party control both houses of the congress, indicates Mr. Nixon must develop a bi-partisan program if he is to unite the people of a nation that for too long has been divided, that for too long has been unable to unite on policies and programs that will bring peace and purpose and prosperity to all the people.—The Sharon (Wis.) Reporter.

It Seems To Me

By Janet C. Reed
 Quilted fabrics are back on the fashion scene. Coordinated with the same fabric, not quilted, they offer many design possibilities for the creative seamstress.
 Quilted fabrics will appeal to the young gal with a thin figure. They have a quality of youth and they can add the appearance of extra pounds.
 Many of the quilted fabrics are designed to be used in skirts which need the extra body that the quilting provides. The lightweight companion fabric is used for the bodice. If you do not want to use that large amount of the heavier fabric, try it for collars and cuffs, for decorative panels on sleeves or down the front of a dress. The quilting can provide a touch of texture contrast.
 It's fun to make your own quilted fabric on the sewing machine. You can buy a quilting attachment which is really a guide to help you keep the stitching lines even. Use a layer of cotton flannel (pre-shrunk) between two pieces of your fabric. Smooth the three fabrics together and baste. Then stitch your quilting design through the three layers, always stitching in the same direction.
 Use a matching or a contrasting thread on plain fabric. Contrasting thread will show off the stitching design as well as your stitching skill, while the matching thread provides a more subtle trim. This quilted fabric can be used for decorative areas such as collars, cuffs, pockets or trim.
 Do quilted fabrics require special finishing techniques? That depends on the backing fabric and on what has been used for filling. Check these when you buy. The backing fabric should be firmly woven. A thin cheesecloth fabric may require additional lining.
 Even though the filling material probably will not pull out, you may want to bind the seams for a neat appearance and for extra year. This is important for an unlined jacket which is likely to be seen on the wrong side. A bias tape is easier to use than straight tape when you're binding seams.
 In areas where you wish to remove some of the bulk, such as a lapped seam, the quilting stitching can be released and the filling cut away.
 Facings are best cut from lighter weight material. Some of the companion fabric can be used, or try a contrasting fabric.

The ray edge of a hem can be bound with bias tape, then hemmed to the skirt by hand.
 The success of a garment using quilted fabric depends on careful choice of style. A simple design will show off the fabric to advantage and give fewer construction problems.

Weather Endangers Del. Crops

Unusually heavy July rains have left many Kent and Sussex County crops particularly vulnerable to damage, reports University of Delaware plant pathologist R. Walker Miller.
 Excessive moisture and warm, humid weather during the past two weeks have produced an environment that is exceptionally conducive to fungus development, he explains.
 A major threat to the state's bean, tomato and watermelon crop is anthracnose, a disease that thrives in warm, moist weather.
 Snap beans, lima beans, cucumbers, tomatoes and cantaloupes will also be susceptible to a variety of fungus-caused root, stem and fruit rots.

Compounding the disease problem in many crops is a nutritional deficiency caused by a general leaching of sandy soils. Again, heavy rain is a major cause.
 In addition, Delaware farmers harvesting sweet corn, potatoes and other crops have been driven from their fields by standing water. Machinery is simply inoperable in excess standing water.
 Generally speaking, Delaware crops have not suffered any serious or wide-spread damage at this point, says Miller. But a potential danger certainly exists.
 Farmers who have followed a judicious spray program prior to the recent storms, however, probably will be spared serious crop damage.

Cereal Leaf Beetle May Hit Delaware

Delaware farms may soon be plagued by another insect pest — the cereal leaf beetle, according to Frank E. Boys, extension entomologist at the University of Delaware.
 The cereal leaf beetle — a relative newcomer to the United States — originated in Europe and Asia and was first observed in North America during the late 1950's. Since that time, however, the pest has become common throughout the midwest and has spread to Canada, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.
 The adult beetle, less than a quarter inch long, has a metallic blue-black body with reddish-brown neck and legs. The larval stage, however, is slightly longer than the adult beetle and resembles a slug with brownish-black head and legs.
 Overwintering beetles emerge from winter quarters, such as old leaves, straw and corn fodder, in the early spring and feed on a variety of wild grasses.
 As winter and spring grains appear, beetles infest the plants where feeding and mating occur. Beetle larvae appear during May and June and may cause heavy grain losses.
 Although the cereal leaf beetle feeds on a variety of grain and grasses including wheat, barley, rye corn, quack grass, ryegrass and orchardgrass, oats are by far the favorite host. Economic losses, however, occur only in those grains in the grass family; legumes are seldom damaged.
 Although larvae and adult beetles feed on corn plants, feeding does not reduce corn yields.
 While the cereal leaf beetle has not yet been observed in Delaware, we can assume with reasonable certainty that it is only a matter of time until the unwelcome pest arrives, says Boys. Meanwhile, reports from neighboring states and regular insect studies conducted by the University will inform us of the beetle's progress.

Local Thinclads Gleam At Wm. Penn High

Five Harrington track and field performers journeyed to Wm. Penn High School, New Castle last Thursday evening and earned a total of 12 awards.

The meet held on Wm. Penn's all-weather track was conducted by the Delaware Track and Field Club.

John Shulties, 14, was a double winner in the 13-15 division. Shulties coasted to a '61 second victory in the 440 yard run. Bob Smith and Don Bryant were second and third to give Harrington a sweep. The locals had another sweep in the bag in the 100 yard dash but Smith in second place was disqualified for finishing in the wrong lane. Bryant was then moved up to second behind Shulties, who ran a fine 11.2 in his first ever 100 yard dash.

Mickey Chaffinch, 15, tossed the eight-pound shot 43 feet, 7 inches to win the shot put. Shulties threw 42 feet, 3 inches for second place.

Chaffinch then moved up to the 16-18 division and finished third against the older boys.

Fred White, 16, was persuaded to enter the 100 yard dash in the 16-18 group. White, a fine 440 man, ran 11.2 for second place behind the winner's 11.1. A good 56 second 440 gained Fred a third place finish. Bob Smith entered the broad jump, a new event for him and leaped 16 feet, 3 1/2 inches. The winning jump was 16 feet, 8 inches. Smith fouled by an inch or two on a jump that would have been 17 1/2 feet. Don Bryant was third in the jump for his third award of the meet.

The performances of White, Shulties and Smith in unfamiliar events were especially good. Many times in track and field new stars are discovered simply by persuading boys to try new events or by coaxing onlookers to attempt one or more of the many track and field skills.

Mrs. Clayton H. Calhoun

Mrs. Cora Elizabeth Calhoun, 92, died at the home of her son, Medford Calhoun at Greenwood, Tuesday after a long illness.

She was the widow of Clayton Howard Calhoun, who died several years ago.

Mrs. Calhoun was a lifelong resident of Delaware and had been very active in church work at Greenwood Methodist Church at Greenwood until a couple of years ago.

Besides her son, she is survived by another son, David H. of Newark; a daughter, Mrs. Doris E. Hudson, of Greenwood; three grandchildren; and 12 great-grandchildren.

Services will be Saturday afternoon at 2 at Fleischauer Funeral Home, Greenwood, where friends may call from 1 until service time. Interment will be in Bridgeville Cemetery.

away without such assistance. This enabled marvelous empathy and continuity.

The stage was so wet, that admirable capability was evident in the maneuvering of piano, organ, placement of the saxophones, amplification microphones, strategem for fullest presentation of the show to the audience.

This interviewer checked through the channels and was in every instance granted gracious and protective assistance.

The marvelous and superb Al Hirt was all of that, tremendously.

He didn't merely grant permission for this singular interview, he lovingly welcomed me . . . (and in my belief, that's something of 'what it's all about'). To converse with him is a delight. Al related that he is gregarious, and he and I like people.

I wanted to say nothing, just listen, no staid press copy. I said thusly: "It is a pleasure and a real honor to listen, not to in any way inquire about your filial, marital, or brand of toothpaste or breakfast food, or 'your life'."

Jim Dill May Be Lake Forest Baseball Great

Jim Dill, of Viola, may be one of the new Lake Forest High School's first baseball stars. Consider these credentials:

At age 13, this eighth grader was starting second baseman on a good Felton High nine. He compiled a respectable batting average, had at least one hit in most of the games played and fanned only six times all season.

As a member of Dover's Pony League Delaware State champion team, he hit a home run in the first inning as Dover edged favored Martinsburg, W. Va., 1-0. Jim pitched the last two innings and fanned six batters to preserve the win.

Later, he drove in the winning run in the regional tournament final and pitched three scoreless innings to secure that triumph.

As this is being written Dill is in Camden, S. C. There, Dover will meet the winner of the North Carolina - South Carolina Pony League tilt.

Jim is 5 feet, 5 inches tall and weighs 110 pounds. He will be a freshman at Lake Forest. His father, W. Edgar Dill is superintendent of buildings and grounds in Harrington schools.

Three brothers are starring in the horsehide pastime. "Butch" Dill, a University of Delaware baseball player, was batting near 400 in the tough Wilmington Semi-Pro League the last time the averages were published. He just missed "Rookie of the Year" honors in that loop in 1968.

Bob "Red" Dill attend college in West Virginia. He is having a fine year with the Newark Mets in the Wilmington Semi-Pro loop.

Russell Dill, 12, pitched for Felton against Dover's Little League All-Stars. Although losing 2-1, he gave up only two hits and one of these was questionable.

All-Star Football Tickets At Peck Brothers

The 14th annual Blue-Gold All-Star football game will be played in University of Delaware Stadium, Newark on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 23. The game, as usual, will again benefit the Delaware Foundation for Retarded Children.

Local ticket outlet is Peck Brothers Southern States store on Harrington Avenue.

the tires of the cars crossing the union lines.

Soon after the injunction was served last Friday an important 69,000 volt transmission line between Harrington and Viola was shot down.

The company spokesman said the company has an eyewitness account of that act.

"Two men were seen to get out of an automobile, go over and stand under the transmission line. Then the witness heard a loud cracking sound, like a rifle shot and the light went out," the spokesman explained.

Delaware State Police are investigating the varied acts of sabotage. Edmund S. Mortimer, president of DP&L, and Edmond L. Phillips, president of Local 1307 agree negotiations will probably not get underway again until the middle of the week when federal and state labor mediators are due to be available again.

Delmarva Power & Light Co. Monday reported additional acts of sabotage which occurred over the weekend.

At 1:15 a.m. Sunday, near Clarksville, two guy wires which supported an electric pole were cut with bolt cutters causing the pole to lean so that one conductor dropped down on the neutral wire.

When the two met, service to some 200 customers east of Dagsboro was immediately lost. The repairs took two hours.

In the early hours Monday a man was discovered in the Indian River pump yard, but escaped into a maze of coal cars according to a company guard on duty at the yard.

Toby Tobias Takes Race

Toby Tobias of Lebanon, Pa., drove his sprint car to victory in the 25-lap Delaware Sweepstakes, which highlighted the final day's program at the Delaware State Fair Saturday.

Tom Price of Wilmington finished second in the feature over the half-mile clay track while Bryant Ingalls of Binghamton, N. Y., came in third.

Eight-lap preliminary races were won by Bill Peters of Flemington, N. J.; Dan Shelbo of Bethlehem, Pa., and Earl Halaquist, of Sidney, N. Y.

Lou Johnson of Chadds Ford, Pa., suffered burns on his hands when his car hit a wall in the feature race and caught on fire. He was treated at the track infirmary and released.

20 Years Past Due . . .

Inflation touches and tarnishes nearly everything calculable in monetary values. But as one of our readers points out, rather grumpily, there is one place where it has no effect whatever—in the standard deduction allowed the taxpayer in computing his return. Here the allowance for a dependent remains at $600, exactly where it has remained for many years.

Why there should be any deduction is, perhaps, debatable. Indeed, as public policy, it might be better to tax dependency than to allow for it—as a brake of sorts on the "population explosion" and those who sire more children than they can support.

But if the idea is to recognize and credit a man for taking care of his own with the though being that these are the first obligation upon his income, the $600 exemption is at least 20 years out of date. It has been at least that long since $600 approximated the fixed costs of dependency. Twelve hundred dollars would be more like it today. And by the difference the income tax is an unrealistic and unjust burden upon the provident. — Charleston (W. Va.) Daily News
